BURLEY, Jan. 13—A Burley man was killed and another injured when their car ran off highway 30 four miles east of here Friday night. Killed was Wendell LeRoy Hansen, 29, son of Mrs. Meta Hansen, Burley, when the 1953 Chevrolet he was driving plunged over a steep embankment, rolled over, flipped end over end and came to rest in high rocks lining the banks of Snake river. State Patrolman Brody Harding said both men were thrown from the vehicle and were found on the ground about 60 feet from the car. Hansen was dead when Harding arrived on the scene. Brody said the investigation here was Cassia county Sheriff H. W. H. Warren and Police Magistrate, Idaho state police.

Draw ASHTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—A big black mouse fought a draw with an iron horse today, then was smothered by the safety of timber. The train was chugging through a snow-covered canyon in eastern Idaho when the engineer, appropriately named H. D. D., spotted the mouse. It was standing in the middle of the track between tanks of a diesel engine. The train braked to a stop. The mouse immediately charged the diesel engine. The engine's front wheels skated with its front wheels. Then it backed off and pulled the chugging machine several blocks. The mouse ended the match by lumbering away.

CRUMPLED RUINS are all that remain of the 1953 Chevrolet which went over a 100-foot embankment Friday night four miles east of Burley on highway 30. The driver, Wendell Hansen, 29, was killed and his passenger, Marvin Campbell, also Burley, hospitalized with broken vertebrae. Average Annual Pay Governs All Benefits

The basic factor in determining all social security benefits is the average annual pay of the insured worker. Anyone who has worked under social security for at least one and one-half years after 1950 may use Jan. 1, 1951, as a starting date in figuring average annual earnings. In some cases, it would be of greater benefit to go back to 1954. It is a matter of choice. The higher the earnings now or in the future will receive higher benefits by using the later date of Jan. 1, 1954. Those persons who have not worked for at least one and one-half years after 1950 must use the date 1957, as a starting date. List earnings by years starting with 1951 to the present and list expected earnings from now until you reach age 62. If a woman also has additional years of insured work.

Details

Detailed instructions on how to figure average annual earnings are given in "Your New Social Security." You can pick up a copy at the Social Security office, or charge at the Times-News or a copy will be mailed if you send $1.00 to cover cost of mailing and handling. If you plan to continue working past that age, for purposes of social security benefits, don't list more than $3,000 a year from 1951 to 1954, $4,000 a year from 1955 to 1958 and $4,500 from 1959 and later. Count the number of years on the list from the starting date up to the first of the year you reach retirement age. Subtract five from the number and the result is the number of years to use. Now select earnings for the same number of years. Maximum annual earnings limit for 1962 is $4,800. Maximum benefits for families of insured workers ranges up to $295 based on average yearly earnings of $4,800 per month. None of the benefits is paid automatically. Anyone receiving a social security check must file for it. First steps should be taken about individual cases that are answered by personnel at the district social security office located at 136 Second avenue west.

LOST DOG REUNITED with his owners, left to right, Mrs. Raymond McHaffey, Michael McHaffey, and McHaffey. The dog was picked up Saturday morning at the Twin Falls Veterinary hospital by the McHaffeyes who had driven more than 500 miles to get him. The pet, named Koko, was lost Dec. 13 when the McHaffeyes passed through Twin Falls on their way to Colorado for the Christmas holidays. Michael seemed more attracted to the colling. Everybody's Happy—Koko And Family Are Reunited Koko, a black and tan shepherd dog who went AWOL in Twin Falls Dec. 23, was picked up Saturday by his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McHaffey, Jr., Prineville, Ore. — The McHaffeyes and their 2-year-old son, Michael, drove from Oregon late Friday evening and arrived in Twin Falls Saturday morning. They drove more than 500 miles to be reunited with the pet that had caused an all-out search by elthens, police officers and the Twin Falls dog catcher.

The dog was found Tuesday by William Dye, city dog catcher, wandering near the new post-office building. He had been homeless for almost two weeks and when found had a hunched leg and a hungry look.

McHaffey, who works for the forest service, said the dog was missed very much and the family, especially their son who had grown very fond of the pet, was "very glad" to have him back.

The family plans to visit friends in Twin Falls and return to Oregon Monday.

Need for Culture Stimulates 20th Century Club in 1906

There is a real need for culture in this community, the women in the class deserve the opportunity to become acquainted with opera, music, the fine arts, so Mrs. H. W. Clouchek, resident of Twin Falls, Idaho, who has been a member of the club since it was organized in 1906. Mrs. Clouchek's strong ideas about culture prompted her and Mrs. Kennedy Packard to form what was then called the "Young Social Club" in 1906. This small club later was to be known as the Twentieth Century club, the second largest federated-women's club in Idaho.

The belief that there is a place for every member, an activity for every woman helped to attract a program for culture within the club. Originally, these departments in drama and literature, music and garden and fine arts, provided enough varied projects for every member could develop and expand her own interests.

In order to satisfy the varied cultural interests of members, a varied program was needed. The fine arts department, which was called "Art and Craft" in the beginning, included painting, sculpture and pottery. The literature department provided a wide range of books to read and discuss. The drama department provided a stage for the members to act out plays and operas.

The literature department was in essence, a proving ground for poetry and speech techniques. In the fine arts vein, extensive work was done in painting, pottery and sculpture. Members expressed interest in classical opera and scenes from such works as "The Barber of Seville" and others were special features of the department.

Early "Victrola" recordings from Beethoven to Caruso were often brought to the meetings for listening and discussion. A good deal of interest was sparked in the area of travel experiences. Culture of other people was stressed and the club usually obtained lecturers with first-hand travel knowledge.

One early lecture was given by Mrs. Lloyd Oakes who had been a guest, along with her husband, Dr. Oakes, and other travelers, at a reception given by the club. Of course, "this or where" to find the best bargains overseas were an essential part of most lectures.

The home and garden department program featured lectures on garden landscaping by horticulture experts and special work shops and films pertaining to individual decorating problems and types of flowers.

Children's lectures were not excluded from the club's agenda. Special round table and panel discussions on such questions as juvenile delinquency, in a health, democracy, foreign policy—these subjects served to broaden knowledge of current affairs and provided possible solutions to personal problems.

High school students were frequently asked to participate in the discussions. Guest speakers often included Dr. J. C. Brownell, then medical director at state hospital, and Fred M. Owl, then Post Hall.

Indian school agent, scientist employed at the NRTS atomic reactor station at Arco; experts on development plans for potato processing in Idaho; public welfare department; health and college professors.

At a 1940 club meeting, the following about-the-life-in-1906 were explicated.

"The home of 1904 was a place of conservatism. There was a household of that year on a winter's day wearing stockings of wool and dress of glass and she stands in her kitchen. The windows are open, the temperature inside is 50 degrees, but she is comfortable as she cooks her water-farm m'ango tomatoes (fourth crop since April) with infro-warm."

"Holiday" events included (and in some cases still do) Easter hat parades, May breakfasts and Christmas fashion shows. Basic interests of the club were in art, drama, music, literature and community affairs and the cultural education of its members. Emphasis on "community affairs" had grown steadily with Twin Falls. In 1916, the Twentieth Century club made possible the drinking fountain in the city park and the park's walking pool in 1922. In the 20's, the club made a substantial contribution toward the building of the Harmon park swimming pool.

In 1922, the group purchased the lot on Second street, between the water-farm and the city hall. An ever-growing fund for a club building was started at that time.

Panhellenic Unit Is 50 Years Old

Mrs. Cecil Jones gave a history of the Panhellenic organization at a meeting at the Turf club in observance of the group's 50th anniversary in Twin Falls.

Mrs. Jones stated that in 1912, four young matrons met at the home of Mrs. A. J. Peavey, Delta Gamma, to make plans for a Panhellenic society in the Twin Falls tract.

Present at the first meeting were Mrs. T. C. Bacon, Alpha Chi Omega, Kansas; Mrs. Pike, Gamma Phi, Colorado; and Mrs. Boyd Hulles.

City necessarily promoted the growth of community service in the club, and a portion of the program for "individual development" has been deemphasized for projects of a larger size.

The club-sponsored art exhibits, lectures and programs of true cultural enlightenment in an area without easy access to museums and concert halls, have performed a greater community service than can be easily recognized.

The original group of 10 members has expanded to one of approximately 250. Charter members are Anna H. Hayes, Nellie E. Williams, Grace E. Weaver, Mrs. M. J. Sweeney, Estel C. Eastman, Anna E. Aiken, Mabel Francisco and Miss Helen Hain.

Two club members were state federated club presidents, Mrs. P. B. Wilson and Mrs. H. L. Hovde.

Although all departments of the club have been discontinued, the group still maintains varied programs in addition to welfare work. However, the growth of the club has been discontinued.

"Camelot" Scene Given for 20th Century Society

The "Camelot" Broadway musical was the program given by Mrs. Kurt Moss for the Twentieth Century club meeting at the Turf club.

Mrs. Moss was assisted by her daughter, Renee, who danced in several of the musical's scenes. They were introduced by Mrs. Paul Beck, program chairman.

Mrs. Ted Scott reported on Christmas baskets and food donated to the children's home in Boise. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Dorothy Lee.

Proposed changes and amendments to the club's bylaws were read by Mrs. Dorothy Lee. Mrs. Dorothy Lee also presented a concert at the Turf club on the Junior high school auditorium. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Donald Youtz.

The next meeting will be held at 7 p.m. February 13, instead of Feb. 6. Mrs. Sterling Vaughn will present a book review.

Tables were decorated with miniature opera hats, gloves and glasses. They were arranged by Mrs. Robert Soran.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Roy Palmer, Mrs. P. H. Adams, Mrs. A. J. Peavey and Mrs. L. E. Salladay, club president.

Hornet Victory Ruins Spartans' League Opener

RUPERT, Jan. 13—The Oakley Hornets stunned the Minico Spartans 40-30 last night, serving notice the Big Seven conference race may become the biggest dog fight in recent years. The Hornets, getting a 17-point effort from Don Franks, led throughout the game except for the opening minutes. The results left every team in the conference with at least one loss after only three games.

The Spartans, flustered to be in the thick of the pennant fight, failed to come out scoring at all as the Hornets ran their fast break and harassing defensive tactics. They held Bill Manning, the district's AAA leading scorer, to just two points—a field goal in the second half. The Hornets never led by as much during the game but had things well in control when they stretched their margin to seven points at the end of the third quarter.

Weed School Is Reported For Gooding

GOODING, Jan. 13 — The Gooding weed control planning committee will sponsor a weed control school Monday and Tuesday at the Gooding Grange hall according to Ed Koester, county agent. The school was planned at a meeting of the committee at the county agent's office.

Instructions for the school will be given by University of Idaho extension agronomist, Jim Terrell, research agronomist, Pamela experiment station, Koester and Walter Higgins, county weed supervisor.

Registration will be from 9 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Monday. The first day the school will cover basic topics as nature of weeds, such principles of weed control by Robert Higgins and "how chemicals kill weeds."

The second day topic will include old and new weed problems, specific weeds and how to control them in a planned program, recognition of weed plants and seeds.

At 12:30 p.m. Tuesday the school will view equipment for weed control.

All Gooding County farmers and landowners are invited to attend, reports Ray Harding, committee chairman.

"Various weed problems were discussed at the planning session. It was noted that the spread of the Canadian thistle is a serious threat in the county. Higgins reported nearly 114,000.00 was spent for chemicals the past year. Colored slides were shown of weed control plots established by the county agent and the county weed supervisor.

Jerome Students Work to Finance Exchange Pupil

SCHOOL SUPPLY MACHINES located in the hallway at Jerome high school will help pay the way for a foreign exchange student next year. This is just one of the money-making projects the high school students have developed to help finance the money-making project. Judy Helfman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Helfman, student body secretary, places supplies in the machine. (Staff photo-engraving)

JEROME, Jan. 13—Students at Jerome high school are working on the only all-school, non-athletic project currently under way—a project to raise enough funds for the school to have a foreign exchange student next year. They now have $300 and must raise $400 more by the end of the school year.

The project was initiated formally in October by the student council. Council members immediately set to work to devise methods of raising the money.

Two weeks ago the students took over the old school-book store, near the cafeteria, and turned it into a snack bar. They repainted it, installed a counter and shelves, a soft drink fountain and a deep-freezer. They stocked an array of candies, soft drinks, pastries and ice cream.

Members of the student council operate the snack bar which is open one hour a day, during the noon hour. A schedule has been devised and members of the council take turns operating the snack bar.

Profits from the operation will be added to the foreign exchange student fund.

The council members also will have their turn at operating the snack bar during three basketball games and the dances that follow.

The students also contracted with a private company to install school supply machines in the main line building. Council members maintain the machines, keep them full of supplies and share the profits.

Joe Keck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Keck, student body president, and Mark Tilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tilley, chairman of the foreign-exchange student committee, note that money for the fund has come from other sources too.

The Honor society and the Biology club have donated a total of $75 to the fund. Keck says if the fund falls short of the $500 mark by the end of the year, they probably will not be able to get a student.

Donations from the student body and local service clubs. But both students think their money-raising ventures will be sufficient.

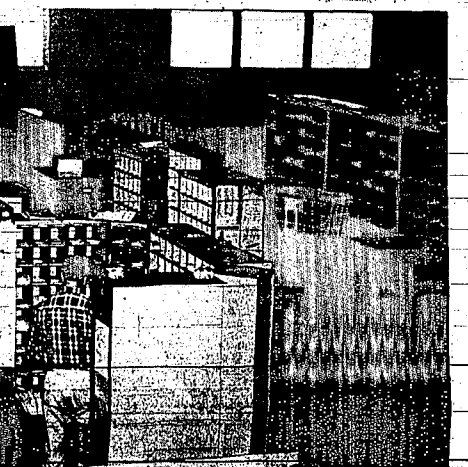

Besides raising the money, the students and adults in the community have been busy organizing an American Field service chapter. It is necessary to have a local chapter before a student can be sponsored. The AFSS organization. It is through the AFSS.

PLENTY OF ROOM is just one of the features that the new Twin Falls postoffice building, 253 Second avenue west, boasts. This photograph was taken from behind the counter, looking to the back of the building. The doors at back lead to the large loading dock behind the building. The loading dock of the new building has 2,300 square feet of space. The men in the foreground are moving the large tubs of mail about in the large open area. In the old building the postmen seldom had enough storage space for mail and equipment. (Staff photo-engraving)

Search for Antique Cars Just Like Treasure Hunt

JEROME, Jan. 13—Kennedy Stuart, Jerome, compares the search for old cars parts to a treasure hunt. But a person must be a craftsman and mechanic as well as a searcher to be successful in the hobby of restoring old cars to mint condition.

Stuart is just one of many persons who delight in this hobby. He has only worked at the hobby for about five years, but he is already has an impressive collection of old cars.

The project started when he wanted a model A Ford. He looked at one that was for sale and bought it.

But Stuart, who had worked with model A's and T's as a mechanic, figured it would be a real job to take it apart and completely recondition it. After this job was done, Mrs. Stuart took an interest and wanted to get a model T. The Stuarts have been collecting and reconditioning old cars since then.

Doing a good job of reconditioning isn't a matter of a paint job and smoothing out a few bumps. It demands miles of traveling and a trained eye that can spot a needed bumper or radiator in a farmer's junk pile.

Stuart is a beekeeper. He travels all over the state during the summer months, taking care of his bees. During the course of his travels he finds the parts he needs to do a good job of restoration. His job takes him off the beaten track and into the farmers' back fields. Parts for the old cars are found everywhere.

Stuart, speaking of a model T that he is about to complete, says, "This car is a 1915 model T roadster we found south of Twin Falls. The radiator came from Grangeville, the hood from Blaine, the carburetor came from Wyoming and the rest of the parts from all over Magic Valley."

Stuart starts his work by stripping the car down to the smallest components. He finds out what is missing and starts looking for the parts. The remainder of the car gets a thorough overhaul.

The parts are cleaned and painted or oiled, and the motor completely overhauled.

Although Stuart says he does about 90 per cent of the restoration, it is mostly hand work. Some of the mechanical work he has done for him. After the entire car has been gone over, it

CAREFULLY PLANNED, so that mail has a logical flow through the building, the new postoffice is designed around the building, as in the old building. The new building has 17,000 square feet of space, compared to 5,200 square feet in the old building. (Staff photo-engraving)

COMPLETE OVERHAUL is the only way to begin when restoring an old car, according to Kennedy Stuart, Jerome. Stuart is stripping the car and then puts it back together after cleaning, oiling and painting all the parts. (Staff photo-engraving)

Twin Falls Area Citizens Soon Will Be Using New Postoffice

On Jan. 24, if all goes well, Twin Falls will be using the new postoffice and greet the new building has been completed for several weeks, but complete transfer of the business of the postoffice has been delayed because certain special equipment hasn't arrived.

Patrons and postoffice employees will note the contrast of the new building has a total of 17,000 square feet of working space; the old building was 5,200 square feet. The loading dock area on the old building is about the size of the average backyard patio; the new building has 2,300 square feet of loading dock area, and about 35,000 square feet of maneuvering area for trucks and patron parking.

The large maneuvering area was needed by the postoffice because all the mail in and out of Twin Falls is transported by truck.

Completion of the new building ends a 10-year project. The plans for a new building, which was outgrown over 10 years ago, were started in 1950. But the

First Year Gave Kennedy Much Experience in Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The United States suffered one severe defeat in foreign affairs and took a variety of jarring jolts and shocks during the first year of President Kennedy's administration.

Then came an stunning surprise to the men who jived confidently into control of the government last Jan. 20.

As the first year draws to an end, however, it appears that no exceptional territory or cold-war advantage was permanently lost. Even the costly Cuban invasion disaster proved bearable—a bitter lesson, though it is the men of the new frontier.

The Western world was confronted by a whole series of communist challenges in the months after Kennedy became President. Under his urging they also served as prompts to start the United States and its allies on extensive new military preparations and fresh efforts toward cooperation with anti-communists.

At vital points, including Berlin, Soviet Premier Khrushchev's unbacked threats were contained for the time being, but not really blunted or turned aside. New crises occurred in Kennedy's first year may be fairly summarized by saying that served mainly to the attack on the job training. Foreign like the Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, 86 of West Germany voted time to adjust to the advent in Washington of a new generation, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan paced a steady succession of foreign visitors to the White House, beginning almost before Kennedy had learned his way around that historic mansion—certainly before he knew his own mind on foreign policy.

Kennedy and Khrushchev needed opportunities to take each other's measure. This they did at Vienna in June. Kennedy, astonished at Khrushchev's attitude of brilliant confidence, told the nation he had found it a somber experience.

He evolved some new plans, but never really got the time he required. The chess played around the world by his 1960 campaign promises a "let America move again," Kennedy needed time to develop programs that would fulfill his pledge.

Out of his handling of this crisis of problems emerged the image of a man sober and hardened by experience. Government leaders described him as less blantly confident in his handling of foreign affairs than when he was inaugurated. They found him at the end of the year "a real challenge" to the president's leadership abilities began early in the war with a building had to be used for post-office supplies, halted the office operations. When the building is emptied, it will be turned back to the general services administration, the organization that handles all government buildings. There are no plans for the building at this time.

The new building was started May 9, 1961. It is privately owned and is leased to the government. Much of work on the building, completed by J. B. Starnes, Charles de Gaulle, his closest ally, strongly opposed such action.

In the end, even though the situation grew extremely critical, Kennedy decided against sending U. S. troops into Laos. His own advisors were split. De Gaulle, Macmillan, and French President Charles de Gaulle, his closest ally, strongly opposed such action.

Apart from the Laos situation itself, his reluctance to use force there, brought into question his willingness to take force elsewhere. Such a question must have come up in the mind of Khrushchev in his efforts to get his way over Berlin.

The issue was posed even more sharply by the Cuban fiasco. On April 17 a relatively small band of Cuban refugees in 8-armed and financed through the central intelligence agency and having the military equipment, sent the Cubans in an effort to overthrow the communist-aligned government of Fidel Castro.

It was an ill-considered, badly planned and poorly executed. Within 48 hours the whole thing became a disaster.

Kennedy took full blame for the failure and said the important thing was to draw from it.

Distilling of Ocean Water Is Reported

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 13.—Ultra-pure "water" has been "distilled" from the Pacific ocean at a million-gallon-day rate during the course of a new treatise water factory near here, it was disclosed today.
Ben R. Scarborough, project engineer of a water treating plant Westinghouse Electric corporation built at nearby Point Loma, announced successful completion of the "water" project during a series of shakedown runs which are continuing.
"Early this year, the plant's million gallon a day output will be pumped into the regular water system serving San Diego homes and industries. In simplest terms, the plant produces vapor from sea water and then condenses the vapor into fresh water."
The project, estimated at $500,000, will include refitting the front of the building from the ground up, installation of a new heating plant and new electrical wiring throughout.
Bids will be in the amount of $35,000 and $100,000 and will offer five per cent interest rates, according to Al Buttance, building committee chairman.
The building was constructed prior to 1911, and has housed a number of "business" in its downstairs area, including the postoffice, Buttecan, and it is occupied now by Ho's Bargain store and The Book store.

the power of the gospel like leaven or yeast or like the fertile soil. The dough must not be kneaded until the yeast before the rest can do its work. It is the same with seed sown in fertile soil—it takes root and grows. It is the same with the gospel. When we believe and submit to it, it becomes the power of God in our lives. Saul the great apostle was at one time Saul the arch-persecutor of the early church, consenting to murder Christians. He was hunting them down as though they were criminals. On the Damascus road, looking for more Christians to persecute, the Lord struck him down and right there he believed and submitted to Jesus. This great seed of the gospel, immediately becomes active in his life. The power of God makes a new man out of the old persecutor. Saul, the persecutor, ceased to exist and a new man in Christ came on the scene.

This is the kind of power needed today. Unless the lives of our people are changed, America is headed for catastrophe. The only thing that can save us now and for eternity is the power of most all who come unto God by Him because He ever liveth to make intercession for us.

"We may be important in our community, in our country or in the business, yet in the eyes of God we are just plain sinners in need of salvation until the power of the gospel has become a reality in our lives.
Jesus when incarnated in the flesh and living among men, even the worst of sinners. Think of Mary Magdalene, an unclean and profigate woman out of whom Jesus cast seven devils. He saved the filthy, depraved wretch of the gobs and restored him to his own right mind and set him home to his loved ones.
He saved Zacchaeus, the shrewd despised tax collector. He saved the unclean woman taken in the very act of her lust. Yes, he ever-people—people—the young child on the cross. So anxious is Christ to save that this unusual invitation is given in Matt. 22:10: "And, the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And he who ever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

During the past 15 years, Mrs. Edwyna Dunbar, BURLEY, has been collecting old and unusual pieces of silverware as a hobby. She now has more than 150 fascinating pieces in her collection which include teaspoons, cocktail forks, demitasse spoons, preserve spoons, souvenir spoons and various types of serving pieces. Mrs. Dunbar's brother, R. M. Stringfield, spent more than a year in Peru and sent her 18 demitasse spoons and cocktail forks of Peruvian silver. Each one is decorated with a Peruvian symbol. Some have a miniature llama designed on the handle with birds, figures of people and Anding designs on others.

An interesting Oriental spoon from "Nepal" was given to her some years ago by the late Mrs. Lillian Wheeler. The handle of this spoon is in the design of a serpent with the head coiled to form a loop at the end of the handle. Following the death of Mrs. Wheeler during this past year, she was given a number of other antique pieces by a member of the family.

Some of these pieces belonged to Mrs. William's mother and are very old. One piece particularly interesting is a very ornate preserve spoon.

A novelty baby spoon was presented to Mrs. Dunbar by her brother's store in Burley at the birth of her son, Edward, in 1946 and shows the home and date of his birth; a very old and interesting sterling teaspoon once belonged to Dunbar's great-grandmother.

Mrs. Fred Stringfield, Mrs. Dunbar's mother, who lives in Parma, has given her daughter a number of antique pieces, including three long 10 c. cream spoons with twisted handles. A number of antique pieces were obtained from a collection which belonged to the late Mrs. Bert Sloan, Parma.

A spoon dated 1905 from the Portland, Ore., exposition has a figure of Lewis and Clark embossed on it. Two spoons dated 1784 are from Pillsbury, Pa., showing Ft. Pitt and the Allegheny river engraved on the handle.

One spoon dated 1893 was from a world's fair exposition. From this collection she also received a small spoon advertising Towles' Log Cabin syrup.

A number of souvenir spoons were given her by friends who brought them from various states and countries they had visited, including Canada, Mexico, Italy, New Amsterdam and the Orient. She has four spoon racks displaying these spoons on her dining room wall. One of the spoon racks was made and given her by Carl McClartin, a Burley high school student, who made the rack in his shop class.

Mrs. Baker read an invitation from the Twin Falls Toastmasters club to participate in a speech contest to be held Jan. 20 at Twin Falls.

The nominating committee reported a slate of officers which will be voted on at the next meeting.

Nominations are Mrs. Rubin Stokor, president; Mrs. Funk, vice president; Mrs. Wayne Woodland, secretary, and Mrs. A. J. Mortenson, treasurer.

Winner of the traveling pencil for table topics was Mrs. A. H. Stevenson. Mrs. John Pynes was chairman of table topics. Mrs. Charles Davis was general spokesman.

AUTOMATIC FEATURE of the new scales in the new postoffice is demonstrated by W. W. Frantz, Twin Falls postmaster. There are two scales built into the counter in the new building. By simply flicking the lever, that applies to the postal zone where a package is being sent, the scales automatically will compute the regular or air-mail rates. Frantz explains that this type of equipment will speed service, especially during rush hours. (Staff photo-enshraving)

BOX SERVICE will be increased in the new building. Frantz stands by a line of new postoffice boxes in the lobby of the building. The old building had 718 boxes, the new one 1,623. Another feature of the building, that will appeal to both patrons and employees, is that it is air-conditioned. (Staff photo-enshraving) open for the Christmas season. On Dec. 4 some of the operation of the postoffice was transferred to the new building, according to W. W. Frantz, postmaster. In the meantime, the operation has gradually been switched to the new building. The added room in the new building aided in distribution of Christmas packages and kept the employees from hurrying into each other's constant problem areas during normal times in the old building. The old building was too small in 1950, but the growth of business in the past 10 years requires another building. According to D. V. Chas, assistant postmaster, the office had 60 employees in 1950, now there are 40. Gross postal receipts in 1950 were $108,000. In 1961 they totaled $354,502. Post-office business grew, but the building didn't. Business procedure and the movement of mail through the office had to conform to the building. But the new building is different. It is spacious and the flow of mail through the building is elaborately planned. The building fits the mail flow rather than the mail flow fitting the building. Frantz will lead the citizens in their work and to notice to the patrons during such rush-times as Christmas. Automatic scales at the counter will weigh and endorse the postal price by merely flicking a lever, speeding window service. The box service will be increased. The old building has 718 boxes; the new one 1,623. And congestion in the outer lobby will be lessened by the larger lobby in the new building. And the postoffice building will offer welcome relief to patrons in the summer. It is air-conditioned. The temperature in the old building often reached 90 degrees during the heat of the summer, according to Chas.

 world into bowing to his demands. Although Kennedy was not a novice in foreign policy, the Cuban setback was one of the most difficult suffered by the United States in many years. One factor had the effect of softening his damage so far as Kennedy was concerned. The operation was originally planned under the Eisenhower administration. Although Kennedy made the final decision and was responsible for changes which may have not in fatal weaknesses. It was not a Kennedy project from start to finish. The Berlin crisis, beginning to build up after the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting, produced extremes of tension with war rumors as great as any since the outbreak of fighting in Korea in 1950. Both the United States and the Soviet Union announced substantial armed forces expansions though neither went in for anything like full mobilization. Kennedy was convinced Khrushchev would not deliberately start a war over Berlin and this remains his conviction. But the President fears the possibility of a conflict by misjudgment. The Berlin dispute reached a peak in mid-August when East German authorities sealed off the East Berlin border to halt a flow of refugees which had risen to 2,500 a day. Immediately by the reds began to make the seal permanent by building a wall on the border. Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, with other aide leaders, decided that the wall was not an issue to go to war over since the reds had ruled East Berlin for more than a dozen years. The Western attitude, however, badly shook the confidence of West Berliners and West Germans in U. S. pledges of support. On April 12, the Soviet Union scored a space triumph with the first orbital flight by Yuri Gagarin. A second followed Aug. 7 when Gherman Titov circled the earth 17 times. As Khrushchev often boasts, rockets capable of such performance obviously have enormous military value. On Sept. 1 Khrushchev dealt a violent blow to world disarmament hopes and peace dreams by resuming test explosions of nuclear weapons. He claimed ability to explode a single bomb with the force of 100 million tons of TNT and did explode a weapon more than half of that size with much larger than anything reported to be in the U. S. arsenal. The official line in Washington was that such weapons are too big and destructive to be practical. But no one denied that the Soviet leader was doing everything he could to frighten

Members of the Twin Falls community Farm Bureau, voted to reject the state control of potatoes during a meeting Wednesday night in the new Farm Bureau building. The action was taken during a discussion concerning government control. It was announced the government is already planning turkey control. Donald Hine, new county Farm Bureau chairman, announced a badly training school will be held Feb. 6-8 in the new office. Mrs. Chester Nelson outlined plans for a county-wide potato dinner to be held later in the month. Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. H. Stammerjohn.

WHO SAID CHALLENGE IS LEAVING TWIN FALLS?

The producer of Challenge Dairy Foods, the Jerome Co-op Creamery, is now engaged in an expansion and new building program. The purpose of this enlargement is to provide a more efficient operation which will better serve the people of Magic Valley. It is a consolidation move designed to help us continue to bring you the finest dairy products at the lowest possible prices.

As a result of this program, and especially because of the new plant now being built in Jerome, some people have the mistaken impression that Challenge is leaving Twin Falls.

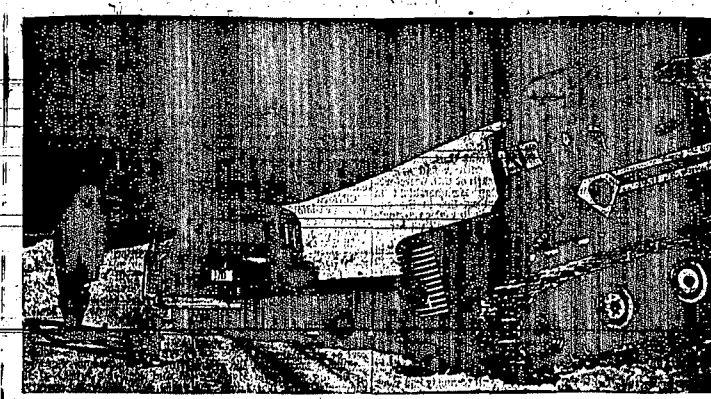

Nothing could be further from the truth!

In fact, nothing about our Twin Falls customer service will change (except that we anticipate future growth to enlarge our services to our customers and patrons). We are not moving our office or distribution center away from Twin Falls. Service to our retail, wholesale and home-delivery customers will remain the same. Our present 3rd Street plant will continue to be the serving center for all of Twin Falls county.

We're grateful for your interest in Challenge, and for your purchases of Challenge dairy foods. We feel we have an obligation to present you with the facts about our growth, both present and future, and to clear up any misunderstanding about our leaving Twin Falls. Next time someone tells you Challenge is leaving Twin Falls you can say . . .

"Leaving Twin Falls? . . . of course they're not."

RACING FOR LIFE is the fish and game department snow tractor which may be used when in the areas where lost or otherwise distressed hunters and fishermen are believed to be in need of help. Department fieldmen also do what they can, drawing upon detailed knowledge of country topography, radio-telephone communication facilities and wide variety of skills and life-saving techniques. They cooperate with other state agencies, state and county police, public and private firms and individuals on search and rescue operations. (Staff engraving)

Mountain Search, Rescue Unit Means Extra Safety Margin for Lost Hunters

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish and Game Dept.
Whether it's a solitary hunter or several hundred persons who are lost, hurt, sick or otherwise temporarily disoriented in the state's vast wilderness, help is as close as the nearest telephone—at no cost to the individuals concerned.

That adequate facilities exist to help a multitude of stranded men, women and children was demonstrated recently in the Albion and south hills areas of Cadesia county. Hundreds of persons were trapped in a blizzard, and the end of their season by the violence of a sudden blizzard, who were located by a search and rescue unit, fish and game department workers, sheriff and state police officials.

1962 Budget Is Approved At Shoshone

SHOSHONE, Jan. 13.—The 1962 budget and committees for the Chamber of Commerce were listed by directors after the Tuesday noon meeting at the Manhattan clearing house of information and activity.

For example, when the department of cooperation last fall with the bureau of land management and Owyhee county, improved a four-mile stretch of the Mud Flat-Jumper Mountain road, this was not continued as a project.

That adequate facilities exist to help a multitude of stranded men, women and children was demonstrated recently in the Albion and south hills areas of Cadesia county. Hundreds of persons were trapped in a blizzard, and the end of their season by the violence of a sudden blizzard, who were located by a search and rescue unit, fish and game department workers, sheriff and state police officials.

Searching for one individual in rough back country terrain involves different problems in the areas of those listed above, for example, some of the forces mobilized to find a lost hunter or fisherman last July, reported missing for several days in the Meadow creek-North fork of the Snake river sector. Includes a copier and ground crew from the Mountain Home air force base. U. S. forest service, state and county police, and the Idaho mountain search and rescue unit.

Except for IMSRU, which was formed entirely of volunteers more than a year ago and incorporated a non-profit organization to aid persons in distress in remote and rugged areas. The services have been available, but tended to go their separate ways when emergency arose. Thus the Idaho mountain search and rescue unit, coordinated by Fred H. Weber of the state highway department, and the information clearing house and dispatcher for the several other agencies, organizations, and volunteer groups.

The IMSRU has six units, forming several teams ready to go into action on short notice. Its facilities include a radio-equipped jeep, stationed at the state highway department in Boise. The members are ready to go into action anytime, anywhere within 45 minutes. They have a collection of more than 400 hours, without any additional support if necessary. They are trained in first aid, rope work, rock education, map and compass, survival, ground and aerial search, and rescue operation by the unit is an all-out effort. Supply teams furnish food, clothing, and rescue teams provide manpower, other groups handle problems in communications, aerial photo interpretation, and other agencies and cargo packing and rigging. In the nearest town a doctor and medical supplies are available immediately. Base camps are set up. Conservation officer Maxey Adams is liaison between the fish and game department.

The unit is an officially recognized and authorized organization that cooperates with all agencies concerned, including the air force, Idaho national guard, U. S. forest service, Idaho state police, fish and game department, civil air patrol, Idaho department of transportation, defense, amateur radio organizations, sheriff's office, soil conservation service, snow survey, public utilities, and other individuals.

How does it work? This is the time to remember in all events involving distressed hunters and fishermen far from civilization is to contact immediately the local sheriff's office, the nearest office of the Idaho state police, or a representative of the fish and game department.

Members of the fish and game department have outstanding knowledge skills and modern equipment for search and rescue work. Their detailed knowledge of the topography of the state to which they work (no matter how rugged it may be) their radio-telephone communications skills as licensed operators, their heavy-duty snow equipment, among other assets, make their contributions extremely effective.

But both state and federal laws specifically prohibit the diversion of these resources to the use of hunters and fishermen for any purpose other than the administration of the wildlife management program. Therefore, state is requesting dedicated funds govern some of the other departments and agencies. The state is requesting under state laws of a non-profit search and rescue unit was desirable to act as a coordinating

ARTHUR KLEINKOPF

In 1933 the lure of the fine school at Artesian City drew them there. They taught there until 1938 and then taught at Pleasant Valley, south of Kimberly. It was an eight-grade, two-teacher school. Jerry Kleinkopf, now a physical education teacher in Twin Falls high school, started his schooling there.

During the time they were teaching in the country schools in the area, they continued their education by attending summer sessions at Albion.

In 1940 they decided to move to Moscow. While Mrs. Kleinkopf taught in a school seven miles east of Moscow, Kleinkopf finished his B.S. in education at the University of Idaho.

After he received his degree, he got a fellowship in the department of education and continued his education. He received his M.S. in education in the spring of 1942.

Jerome's Students Work for Money To Finance Foreign Pupil Programs

(Continued From Page 15) The student body expressed an interest in getting a student at Jerome next year, and the project would help contribute to school spirit by giving the entire student body something to work for. August Hein, principal, says the project has set a goal for many of the students in the high school and given them something to work for. He adds that it gives them a greater pride in their school and is a good way to see them working together. He believes the students could benefit from knowing a student from another country. And, he points out that the seniors are working on the project just as hard as the younger students, yet they will have been graduated by the time the program is started next fall. Hein notes the school probably will request a Spanish-speaking foreign language teacher for the school. There are 90 students from all three grades enrolled in the language classes.

Famed Promoter Did His Work Well, And Sun Valley "Opened With Bang"

By ROBERT F. McKINE
SUN VALLEY, Jan. 13 (AP)—Olive him a rood respectable sand dune like Miami Beach—and the late publisher Steve Hannagan would sprinkle it with love and wait for the crowd to arrive. But show him a quiet southern who talks sweetly with his drop nose and all the waves he'd like to see, and he'd be a different man. Hannagan could think of was heat. This included terror where the skiing, bathing, golfing, heated-pool wealthy come to stay, and where the almost wealthy come at cut rates to see how the tenth leech, celebrates its 25th season now—a testimonial that the publicity line and past year could do his work well.
