Steelworkers Hammer Out New Contract

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 17 (AP)—Top-echelon bargaining teams held unusual conferences today in continuing efforts to hammer out a new contract for basic steelworkers.
 Formal week-end talks are unusual at this early stage of negotiations. The present agreements don't run out until June 30—19 weeks away.

Following the sessions, President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers union and R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for "11 minor" steel companies, announced jointly: "We are driving ahead in an earnest attempt to reach an early settlement." They declined to elaborate.

The high-level talks started last Thursday. McDonald and Cooper, with their top aides, have met twice daily since.

Each side will meet separately Sunday, presumably to review the results of the three days of conferences. Formal talks will resume Monday.
 The USW already has indicated it will seek improvements in job security and unemployment benefits along with wage increases.

400 Quit Work At Missile Site

MOSES LAKE, Wash., Feb. 17 (AP)—More than 400 members of mine craft unions stayed away from their jobs at a Titan missile site near Odessa today in what an official described as an open defiance of their own leaders.

The 412 laborers out of 650 employed at the site at Odessa in eastern Washington quit work Thursday afternoon after a dispute over work assignments and the so-called "joint occupancy" of the Herford range bull sale set for Monday.

"We thought we had this settled at 4 p.m. Friday and that the men would start returning to their jobs," said Carl Clafin, labor relations manager of the Air Force's 816 activation task force. "But the workers are defying their own leaders at the membership level."

Sailors Plan 2-Week Stay In Shelters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—A hundred sailors went underground today to endure two weeks of boredom and assorted discomforts so the navy can learn something about the effects of prolonged stays in fallout shelters.

This first mass experiment with living as it might be in a nuclear war is being carried out as a strictly military affair by a volunteer group of 98 enlisted men and two officers. But the results are certain to be studied carefully by civil defense authorities who have no real data on how large numbers of people react to sealed-in shelter living.

The pioneering band moved from bright sunshine through a tunnel into a 25-by-48 foot shelter built into a hillside on the grounds of the naval medical center in Bethesda, Md.

Inside, they found themselves in a $70,000 concrete, steel and wood shelter where they are to remain isolated for two weeks—constantly under the eye of a television monitoring camera which will enable officers outside to study their reactions. Those inside will have no communications outward.

Twice a day, two of their number will pop out briefly to make a Geiger counter tests of simulated radiation. Hurrying back into a tiny anteroom, they will toss their "contaminated" clothing into a recirculating shower and rejoin their companions.

Officially the sailors — 80 of whom came from the Great

Lake naval training station near Chicago—but no knowledge of how long they would be underground. Unofficially, it seemed to newsmen, they had a pretty good idea.

Here's what QUALITY has done
At last count there were 1,499,927 Chevrolet trucks over 10 years old still working—424,381 more than any other make.

1962 CHEVROLET JOBBMASTER TRUCKS

built better...work longer!

When Chevrolet builds a truck, it builds a quality truck. This policy makes sense. Chevrolet trucks work a long time... cost less than many other makes to operate and maintain over the years... consistently bring a higher trade-in price... and, as a result, are bought by more people.

We invite you to come in and examine this quality closely and to take a 1962 demonstrator out for a good long test drive. Note the cab comfort, the good visibility, the smooth ride, the solid feel of its quality. Compare Chevrolet truck features with those of other makes. Then decide which are your wisest investment. We're sure it will be Chevrolet's.

- 1. Chevrolet's "roll-over" protection system (ROPS) is made of two sheets of metal, instead of one, with a layer of urethane in between to insulate against cold, heat and noise.
- 2. A Chevrolet truck battery is a standard because it has double-well construction and a built-in safety chain in tough places to support it.
- 3. Quality independent front suspension lights road shock more effectively than other types—provides more protection for the truck, load and driver.
- 4. The standard 235-cu.-in. 6-cylinder Chevrolet truck engine has 100-horsepower and more torque than any other. There are nine more engines to choose from.

See your Chevrolet Dealer for trucks that keep running and running!

Library Adds New Books to T. F. Shelves

Twenty-one new books have been added to the collection at the Twin Falls public library, according to Arthur L. DeVolder, director.

A new non-fiction offering is "A Crew of Two," by Beth Eberhart, the story of a sea adventure; "Bluma and Suburbs," by James S. Conant, a commentary on schools in metropolitan areas; and "Black Like Me," by John Howard Griffin, the true story of what a white man learns about the life of a Negro by becoming one.

Other interesting non-fiction works are "Sling Along with Alice," a family song book; "Horizon, January 1962," and "Spanish, a Basco Course," a two-volume set prepared by the department of state for training foreign institute personnel.

Another volume of "Men of Space" is now available. It includes astronaut Shepard and Gagarin.

Two fiction entries are "A God for Tomorrow," a novel of frontier intrigue by Martin Dibner, and "Chick Mc," a novel by Roger G. Hargrave and the motion picture industry by Patrick Dennis-Danner, who also wrote "Auntie Mame."

Reference items include "The Fur Hunters of the Far West," by Alexander Ross; "Gold Strikes and Chickadee," edited by Lawrence Webb; "Historical Non-Fiction," by Hannah Loggass; and "World Almanac, 1962."

Recent gifts to the library are "The Autobiography of Cecil B. DeMille," donated by the DeMille Trust; and four donations of art and maps: "High Grounds Around the Universe," by Dale Caraglio; "The Great Ideas," by Henry Hazlitt; "Seven Story Mountain," by Thomas Merton; and "Ottos of the Plains," by Marcel Prost.

"Let the Crabgrass Grow," by E. (Al) Smith; and "Best Carrots of 1960," edited by Lawrence Larlar, were donated by Mrs. Sterling Vaughn, who also donated the original cast record of "My Fair Lady."

Twin Falls Becomes First City in Idaho to Use DDD

Twin Falls became the first city in Idaho to change over to direct distant dialing Sunday, announced W. W. Clark, district manager for Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The changeover was effected at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. City residents on one and two party lines now can dial long distance numbers direct.

City Manager H. L. Derrick was given the honor of dialing the first DDD number from Twin Falls. The call was made from special phone set up so Derrick could view the complicated equipment at work while he dialed his number. Derrick called a sister in Bend, Ore., with little difficulty.

Clark said that this honor is usually held for mayors and city managers.

Clark also noted that the telephone company has spent considerable time and money in forming the public on how to use DDD. "We have trained the area with information," he said.

Clark said that any difficulty with DDD can be solved by dialing the figure "0" and getting the operator. All subscribers in Twin Falls have been contacted by telephone personnel and briefed on use of DDD, Clark added.

Clark noted that calls from pay stations and person to person calls will still be handled by a long distance operator.

Capacity Audience Listens To Talk by Boxing Champ

A capacity crowd estimated between 1,300 and 1,400 people packed the recreation hall and chapel of the Twin Falls LDS stakes tabernacle Friday evening to hear National Boxing Association middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, youths from three Magic Valley LDS stakes attended the meeting.

Fullmer, West Jordan, Utah, an elder in the LDS church, spoke first on what he considered success. He pointed out that because he is a world champion "I'm not a success."

The boxing champion referred briefly to his high school training and trainer, Mary Jensen, whom Fullmer said was the first person to point out to him that youth needs to have a goal to strive for in order to attain a certain height of honor.

Fullmer commented on the principals of clean living that he had learned through his church training, pointing out that they had helped him to achieve the championship. He said, "Without them I couldn't have done it."

Speaking directly to the young people in the audience, he told them that it was necessary for them to keep themselves morally clean because some were reaching the age when they would be thinking of marriage and that they would "all want to be husbands."

President Donald C. Wood, Portland, Ore., president of the LDS church's Northwest area mission, a district of the church missionary program, talked after Fullmer.

Clayton Hamilton, counselor of Twin Falls stake President Joel Tate, conducted the meeting and introduced Fullmer. The stake's 68-voice youth chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas McVey, sang two selections.

A dance was held in the recreation hall after the meeting, with introduction entertainment by "The Three D's," a trio of BYU students.

Aide Asserts Reds Against China in U.N.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Feb. 17 (AP) — The Soviet Union does not lead communist China in the United Nations, in the opinion of Adlai E. Stevenson.

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, here for the marriage of his son, said in an interview today.

"It became apparent during that fall's negotiations that next to the United States, the people who want communist China in the U.N. are the Soviets," Stevenson said. "In the opinion of the United Nations, the communist world would be 'diluted,' Stevenson said. If the Red Chinese are not in the halls of the United Nations.

"We won handily," in keeping the multilateral Chinese government out of the United Nations last fall, Stevenson noted, by changing our tactics and agreeing to discuss their membership on its own terms.

John Pell Stevenson, the ambassador's 25-year-old son, was married today to Natalie Owens, daughter of Nathaniel Alexander Owens, a prominent West coast architect.

Military Plan To Cope With Reds Is Told

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara spelled out tonight military moves the United States would use to cope with communist war of different kinds in different areas.

The possibilities he posed ranged from a single, massive attack in nuclear retaliation to operations by small units of U.S. guerrilla snipers. In between, he sketched such things as strikes at enemy bases and air force forces to halt war with threat of further attacks.

Signaling, he said in discussing nuclear, that the United States was not committed in advance "with respect to atomic or large scale."

McNamara put his views into what the Pentagon regards as a major speech, prepared for an American Bar association dinner here.

10 Cardinals Are Selected By Catholics

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 17 (AP)—Pope John XXIII appointed 10 new cardinals today, including the college to a high of 87 princes of the Roman Catholic church.

The college was depleted to 77 from the previous high of 85 by three recent deaths. The pontiff is believed to have enlarged the college to strengthen it for the heavy burden of work ahead, including the Ecumenical council opening Oct. 11.

Three of the new cardinals are Italians, and two are Irish-Americans. The others were Spanish, Portuguese, Belgian and Syrian.

Eight of them will receive the red biretta, their papal rank, from Pope John in a secret consistory March 10, feast of St. Joseph. Two in Italy and Portugal are expected to receive their biretta from the heads of state of those two countries, according to ancient custom.

Former Shoshone Resident Has Hand In History as Commander for Base

By The Associated Press

Brig. Gen. E. B. (Ben) LeBally, former resident of Idaho, has a hand in developments in which he is linked the Azores, crocodors of the Atlantic, to the problems of Portugal's African territories.

(The former Idahoan is the son of a Union Pacific railroad engineer who lived at Shoshone, Idaho, long ago. The latter also served in the Idaho house of representatives before the family moved to Pocatello, Idaho, where General LeBally finished school before going into the service.)

Both Portuguese and American officers staffing this strategic base in mid-Atlantic with extending U.S.-Portuguese agreements which let American planes and men use the Azores as a stepping stone to and from Europe.

The flight of large numbers of American military planes through the long ago, the importance of Lajes field in American peacetime military activities. In event of hostilities this base with its nearly 11,000-foot runway and its communications facilities could be invaluable to the United States and its allies.

Portuguese officials have indicated that Washington's refusal to support fully the Portuguese position in Africa might cause trouble when base agreements expiring at the end of 1963 come up for renegotiation. Directly concerned are 5,000 American military personnel and dependents who call Lajes their home. Equally concerned would be hundreds of other U.S. installations in Europe.

Less noticeable but not less impressive is Lajes' location as a vital military communications center, helping to link headquarters of various services in the United States with farflung outposts abroad.

General LeBally, former air force public relations officer, was the big ace as commander of U.S. forces in the Azores.

A strategic air command detachment operates SCOT Lajes planes on rotational duty to refuel flights of SAC nuclear bombers traveling to and from Europe.

The tactical air command includes Mrs. Dorothy G. Hickey, Webber, University of Idaho library, president; Alice McClain, Idaho State college library, vice president; Edith Lancaster, Northwest Nazarene college library, Nampa, treasurer and secretary; Willis L. Griffin, Phillips Petroleum company, Idaho Falls.

PNLA representative is Charles P. Miller, University of Idaho library; ALA representative, Lee Zimmerman, University of Idaho library, while committee chairmen include Mrs. Helen T. Smith, Pocatello, legislative; Mervin Bingham, Boise, library development chairman; Mrs. Devolder, Twin Falls public library, public relations; Idaho library history chairman is Walter Botoford, Pocatello, and library education committees chairman is Eli Oboler, Idaho State college, Pocatello.

Girls Taken Into Custody Over Slaying

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo, Feb. 17 (AP)—The girl friend of a slain assistant U.S. military aviator was taken to a Malindi prison today to await further questioning about the killing. A community aide she is in protective custody.

Elizabeth Thring, 21, Washington, D.C., told Congolese investigators she was about with the pilot, Pocatello, Idaho, Brogner in a bedroom at his home when a bullet crashed through a window and killed him Wednesday night.

Congolese officials refused to say Miss Thring was under arrest, saying no charges had been filed against her. They said confinement implied a close connection with further inquiries. Her detention was ordered by a Congo court.

"The placing of Miss Thring in protective custody," said a spokesman for the Congolese security office, "will insure that duty will be carried out." A U.S. embassy spokesman and Brogner's housemate also have been taken into custody by police for questioning. Both are Congolese.

Shoshone Is Seeking Two For Schools

SHOSHONE, Feb. 17 — Present enrollment figures at the Shoshone school system indicate the need for at least two more teachers next year, one in elementary and one in junior high school, according to Sup. John Sever. His report to the school board was made this week.

Other items discussed by the board included hot lunch storage facilities, bus bids, repairs to the high school building roof, replacement furniture, use of school facilities and activities.

The need for storage facilities at the hot lunch room were reviewed and an estimate of the cost was made. The superintendent will meet with the city council to begin negotiations for the permission to build at the north end of the Lincoln school building through the old street right-of-way.

Bids for a 48-passenger bus body will be opened March 12. The roof of the high school building is being repaired. Friday night, water leaked into six classrooms, and sewage entered into the basement rooms. Temporary roof repairs are being made.

Need was noted for replacing some desks, but estimates were delayed until the budget is set. The plan is to replace desks in one or two rooms each year.

Also considered was use of school facilities by non-school organizations. It was pointed out there is a definite shortage of some facilities in the community, so the school should be available.

Organizations desiring the use of the school facilities must apply in advance so that the board can approve such use at the regular meetings, the second Monday of each month.

The sponsoring organization then will be held responsible for maintaining order at each function, restoring the building to proper condition and pooling the building and grounds of the school any kind on the morning following.

This action regarding use of the building came after a discussion of the building during dances, especially in recent years. It was decided to have a levy election on March 12 on the question of raising the plant facilities fund. Levy from the present tax rate is four mills. The fund has been used to pay for the construction of the shop and to help pay for one school bus body each year.

The funds can be used only for purposes specified by law, such as the purchase of buses, equipment of a permanent nature, construction, remodeling or major repair of buildings. The board hopes the additional levy will relieve sufficient pressure from the maintenance and operating budget to make it possible to hire the additional teachers needed.

Activities in the school building approved include: Thursday-Saturday, Olan-AA district basketball tournament at the high school building; Friday-Saturday, Olan-AA district basketball tournament at Lincoln school; Feb. 27, chorus concert at Lincoln school; Feb. 28, March 1-2, AA district small tournament at the high school gymnasium; March 10, chorus concert at high school gymnasium; March 12, band concert at high school; March 20, Chamber of Commerce farmers' night banquet at Lincoln school.

$606,720 for T. F. Pension Funds Listed

Bears' Roebuck and company employees in Twin Falls have profit sharing pension fund. The figure was disclosed by A. E. Vaughan, manager of the Bears store here, at a meeting for employees-members of the fund. Vaughan presented a statement showing how they shared in Bears profits last year and the value of their individual accounts. The 13 local fund members had 5369 shares of Bears stock and other securities amounting to $606,720 credited to their accounts as of Dec. 31, Vaughan said.

Vaughan pointed out that the value of the accounts of individual employees showed a marked increase in 1961. He also noted that the total assets of the fund at market value rose over 75 million dollars for a total of approximately two billion, 100 million dollars as of Dec. 31, the end of the funding year.

The gain was the result of a larger company contribution from 1961's profits, increased investment income and appreciation in the value of the fund's stock holdings.

The employer fund is Bears' largest. At the end of 1961, the fund held 20 percent of the company's outstanding stock. In addition, the fund's assets also include a 10 percent stock of more than 130 companies and in other types of securities.

Created in 1916, the fund is designed to encourage regular savings, enable Bears employees to share in company profits, and aid them in their financial planning for retirement. All regular employees of the company who have completed one year of service are eligible to join the fund.

Employees members of the fund deposit five per cent of their wages and salaries up to a maximum of $300 each year. The company contributes a portion of its net income before deductions for federal income taxes and dividends. The company's contribution is credited to members' accounts in a mutual fund based on their age, length of service and deposits.

Free Throws Let Jerome Beat Gooding

JEROME, Feb. 17—The Jerome Tigers hit well from the free-throw line last night and turned that performance into a 60-50 victory over Gooding's Senators. The game proved crisp and clean with both teams playing and hitting well. The Tigers hit 70 per cent of their free throw attempts to convert to Gooding 60 to 50 points. The Senators hit 65 per cent from the line but picked up only 10 points there and that was the difference.

Jerome's sophomores continued a solid year with a 58-23 win in the first game.

Hayes Equals World Record With 9.2 Dash

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17 (AP)—Robert Hayes, who said he was out of shape, ran the 100-yard dash in 9.2 seconds today, tying the world record set last June. "I wasn't in shape today," the 19-year-old Florida "A" and "B" runner, an athlete, sophomore, said. "I sure didn't feel sharp."

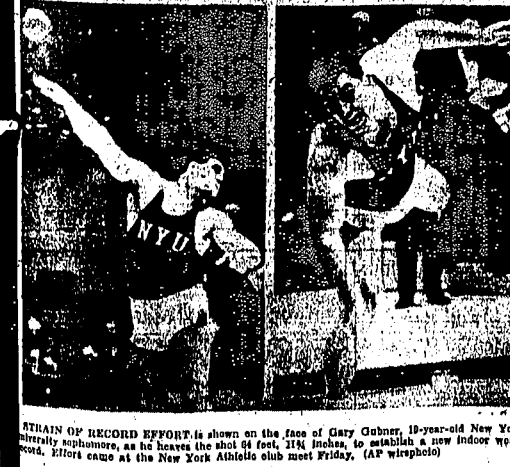

Hayes tied the record set by Frank Burt, Villanova, at the National Amateur Athletic Union track meet in New York June 24, 1961.

"There's no doubt of Hayes' record's validity," said Vince Kelly, head of the Florida Athletic club, sponsor of the invitational track and field meet at the University of Miami.

"This is an AATU-sanctioned meet. The track meets all specifications and the gauge recorded 45-mile per hour wind against Hayes at 9.2 and wind clocked him at 9.1."

In an interview later, Hayes was measured.

"I think I will get 9 seconds within two years; but I to get in shape first."

Freeman's Field Goal in Last 10 Seconds Lets MVCC Nip NCC

NAMPA, Feb. 17 (AP)—Darrell Freeman sent a fielder in from the corner with ten seconds left tonight to give Magic Valley Christian college a 77-76 basketball victory over Northwest Nazarene. It was Magic Valley's first triumph in four games with the Crusaders this year. NCC is 10-14 for the season. The Crusaders grabbed the first solid and built-up a 49-40 margin by the half. But the visitors pecked away steadily in the second half to cut the gap to 70-67 with 11 minutes remaining.

NCC was still ahead 73-71 with five minutes to go, but Magic Valley managed to knot the score at 73 and 75 in the next four minutes. Doug Halsted had put the Crusaders in front by two at 75 with two free throws, but Merrill Anderson sent a rebound back in to tie it up again and set the stage for Freeman's clincher.

Tom Lewis led all scorers with 23 and Gary Locke, who has 501 for the season, topped NCC with 18.

In Twin Falls Friday night, the Panthers seemed to have victory in hand until 8-foot, 4-inch Tom Lewis fouled out with seven minutes remaining in the game. The break allowed NCC to gain control of both boards and the Crusaders came from behind in the last three minutes to win 71-66.

Lewis played smart ball throughout the night, grabbing off more than his share of the rebounds and passing off sharply to Darrell Freeman to make the Magic Valley Christian high-low post attack work.

NCC, after a see-saw first-10 minutes, jumped into a seven-point lead at 23-23 with five minutes left in the first half. Then Freeman picked up two quick buckets and the whole MVCC line poured one after the Panthers stormed in front 35-20. The Panthers held a two to five point edge after that until Lewis fouled out. It took three minutes for the Crusaders to catch up but they were miles away at the end of the game as Halsted gave them control of the boards.

Scheel Shoots Idaho Past ISC by 70-68

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—Idaho renewed basketball rivalry with Idaho State college after 11 years last night by taking a hair-raising 70-68 decision on Jim Scheel's two free throws.

Frank Swopes drove in for the tying lay-up at 08-08. But he was freed for charging. Scheel, Wendell, stepped to the free throw line and sank both tosses for the victory.

Robinson Is Deecided By Moyer

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Young Denny Moyer, Portland, Ore., gained revenge on Sumner Robinson tonight by hamstringing out a decisive 10-round decision over the former welterweight and middleweight champion at Madison Square garden.

The 22-year-old Moyer, who was just an infant when the 41-year-old Robinson turned pro 22 years ago, won the unanimous decision almost as he pleased. Referee Art Mercante scored it 7-2 and one even for Moyer.

Although blood trickled from his nose from the first round on the stocky Oregonian went after Robinson like a tiger. He pounded the veteran with hooks to the body and right hand leads to the head.

The right hand lead is a sucker punch. Anyone who dared to try that against Robinson in the old days would have heard the birds sing. But Saturday night Robinson was just a shadow of his self.

Beatty Predicts Win Over Delany

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Jim Beatty predicted today that he'll show his best in Ron Delany in the "mile of the year" next Saturday in the national (AAU) indoor championships.

Beatty, who won the Baxter Mile in the New York Athletic Club meet in 4:09.9 Friday night in Madison Square garden, was clocked in 3:59.9 just a week ago in the Los Angeles Times meet.

So within the space of six days, he chopped Delany's indoor mile record of 4:01.4 to pieces twice. Delany watched him from the sidelines and observed: "I think I can beat him, if he goes all out, I'll stay right with him."

Coyotes and Mountain Lions Serve Purpose, Says Writer

Editor, Times-News: I would like to comment on what I would call the senseless slaughter of this nation's big cats. If it continues, the only place we will see one, is in the museum.

This country can well afford them in the wild. If we were a poor nation I could see a point of argument, but we are probably the richest nation on earth. The cost to maintain, say 100 cougars, wouldn't bankrupt us.

There are probably millions of acres in national parks, forest and public domain. Why couldn't some of these places be managed to suit the needs of the animals, and let them eat deer meat, too. Why shouldn't they?

The deer and cougar lived together for thousands of years. That is before man decided that the helpless deer needed protection.

Think of the part the cats played in developing the deer in to the thing of beauty it is now. The cougar helped give the deer its very characteristics that make a deer a deer and not a cow, making for us a very desirable recreational game animal.

I also know this, that in places where the menace of mountain lions, and other predators have been removed, the only difference between a deer and cow is the hair.

It's been known that coyotes have starved to death among herds of bison and deer, yet the state can brag on the killing of 600 of these animals.

The wildlife service, etc., spends a large amount on coyote eradication, and then turns right around and spends even more to hold down the rabbit and rodent population.

The coyote is a carrion eater, thus classed as a scavenger. Can we kill them all off to leave our ranges and land stinking of dead animals?

Like Durward Allen said in his book "Our Wildlife Legacy": "If ever we are to achieve a reasonable concord with earth, it will be through our willingness to recognize, tolerate and employ the biological forces and relationships, both in our own numbers and in living things about us."

GLENN E. ANDERSON (Butte)

Writer Charges Annual Affair Hurt Response

Editor, Times-News: It has always been my impression that the Chamber of Commerce is composed of a group of citizens, merchants, professional men, and other businessmen who are interested in encouraging the growth of Twin Falls and Magic Valley, culturally as well as financially. How many times a year do they send out brochures and letters describing the life of Twin Falls and Magic Valley, and include in these facts that Magic Valley supports and encourages a symphony orchestra, a Messiah presentation at Christmas time, a Dilettante group which produces a musical once a year, and a city band that plays each Thursday night throughout the summer months.

Yet, on the same night as the second symphony orchestra concert, a date that was announced early last fall with excellent publicity in the Times-News, the Chamber of Commerce holds its annual dinner with a guest speaker that is undoubtedly a very good drawing card.

Is this any way for a civic organization such as the Chamber of Commerce to back a cultural civic organization such as the Twin Falls Civic Symphony orchestra? Is this any way to say thank you to Richard Smith, who has directed the symphony, or to the many players who have practiced at least once a week for months, to bring an excellent concert to the people of Magic Valley?

MRS. OLENN Q. VOYLES (Twin Falls)

Warning Issued Of Dangers of "Welfare State"

Editor, Times-News: The President of these United States has recently started quite a campaign against so-called extremists of the country, calling them super patriots and stating that they are doing more harm than good.

Granted, they are thwarting his bid for supreme power and control of the people.

This issue brings to mind the stories I once read in some of the history books of our country. The English called George Washington a rebel and rabble rouser and the original sons of liberty were called traitors and extremists much the same as we are today called by these names.

The issue then was the same as it is now, control by excessive taxation and pacifying the people by keeping their minds on issues other than the ones at issue.

Mr. Kennedy is asking for more and more power without having to consult congress for the bidding of the people. He is obtaining this power with very little opposition except from the extremists. His propaganda is spreading into our advanced school system so that almost any college student is of the opinion that the country cannot exist except by socialism. He is advancing the handout system to the extent that the general public expects more and more federal assistance.

The farmer is controlled by federal power now to the extent that he is no longer a free man but working under the direct control of the federal government.

The federal farm program dictates what to raise and how much of it is to be raised. They also control the pricing of farm commodities to the extent that most of the small farmers of today cannot exist without subsidies. This is an advance toward socialized farming.

How long will it be before our

Fish and Game Association Lauds Paper for Editorial

Editor, Times-News: The Southern Idaho Fish and Game association wishes to commend the Times-News for a recent editorial pointing out the need for public concern over the deplorable situation of pollution of Snake river.

However, let me point out that our organization as well as other sportsmen's clubs throughout Magic Valley and Idaho are much concerned with this problem. At state and state meetings resolutions have been passed asking the state board of health to take measures to correct the situation.

Now that most of the towns and cities along the Snake river have or will have sewage treatment plants, the real problem is the control of industrial waste. There shops and stores are under this same control?

Mr. Kennedy will continue to ask for more and more power and receive it. He will run for one more term to gain more power. Brother Robert will be the Democratic nominee for president in the election after next and will gain absolute power and dictatorship unless we can stop this trend before it gets too big a start.

Proofs of these issues are in your newspaper every day but are spread out so that they have difficulty putting them together.

RAY CRANDALL (Twin Falls)

are some industries which are voluntarily treating their waste to eliminate pollution. But many are still dragging their heels.

In order to call attention to this problem which concerns the health and well being of every citizen, the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association will show a film called "Water Famine" at the city hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

We are inviting every organization to send representatives and any person interested to view the film produced by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company. The film will then be available for showing at any group through courtesy of the local telephone company.

Public concern will have to be aroused before enough pressure is put on the state health department to enforce existing laws and regulations. The pollution of Snake river not only is a menace to public health but a serious deterrent to recreation uses and scenic beauty.

Again, I would like to thank the Times-News and its managing editor for pointing up this pollution problem.

There is a saying, "A man is without honor in his own country." Is that the way it is with Oakley? At least the headlines could have given credit where credit was due.

According to your article in the issue of Feb. 8, "Oakley Area Donors Miss Blood Quota," we sent 76 blood donors and received only 66 pints of blood, is one out of every 10 residents a good percentage? Maybe you don't know that Oakley has a lot of people living here who could not donate blood according to the rules and regulations, as they are not between 18 and 60 years of age.

Let us look at the article on

Local Resident Says Litter Around School Disgraceful

Editor, Times-News: On a recent trip around the world, I saw many schools of all kinds, some in prosperous countries and some in the lower undeveloped countries. In all cases the areas surrounding these schools were very neat and clean.

In traveling over many highways within the United States, I noted signs, requesting motorists not to throw trash along the highway and calling attention to trash cans at various locations to be used for the disposal of trash. The slogan among the nation is "Keep America clean and beautiful."

It is therefore with a great deal of disappointment that I must state that right here in the heart of the city of Twin Falls is an area that would be a disgrace even to a low class country. This area surrounds the junior high school and the city court house.

Students from the Junior High school, during the noon break rush to the grocery store and drugstore, purchase candy bars, boxes of cookies, cans and bottles of soft drinks, etc. for their lunches. Then the wrappers, cans and bottles are scattered all over the area. This has been going on for a long time and each year appears to be getting worse.

Don't you think that it is a disgrace for the school, city and county officials to take no action to clean up this littering menace?

H. G. LAUTERBACH (Twin Falls)

On the other side of the page, "Donor Top Blood Quota for Rupert." They did real well, and should receive a lot of praise. But according to my record there are only 2,100 people living in Rupert. So if we figured on the same scale as you did on Oakley's donation, Rupert only saves blood for one out of every 10 people. So it looks as though the little town of Oakley doubled that of a larger town.

This is a wonderful thing to be able to donate a life saving element, and I am sure more people would like to do so if their health permitted it.

So let's give honor and credit where it is due.

READING CIRCLE in a classroom in Gooding elementary school is presided over by a student teacher from Gooding high school. The student teacher is Suzanne Dickerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dickerson. The duties of the student teacher range from preparing teaching materials for upcoming classes to tutoring students in their studies. The program is designed as a student teacher can get practical experience in the teaching profession. (Staff photo-entouraging)

Gooding High School Students Take Part in Unusual Program

GOODING, Feb. 17 — Seventeen Gooding high school juniors and seniors are taking part in a novel, non-solid elective course the student teaching program. This is the second year the program has been in operation. The course offers students who are members of the Future Teachers of America, planning a career, a chance to enter the classrooms of the Gooding schools and work as student teachers.

CLASS MATERIALS are turned out by Donna Rowe, senior daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rowe. She is just one of 17 students enrolled in the student teacher's program at Gooding high school. One of the duties of a student teacher is to help teachers prepare class materials for future classes. (Staff photo-entouraging)

They aren't teachers in the sense that they actually teach. Rather, they aid the regular teacher in many ways and are given the opportunity to study and observe an accomplished teacher at work.

All students in the program are members of the Future Teachers club and are honor-roll students. Obviously, not all students can qualify for the course. The purpose of the program is to create an interest in teaching by providing three things—an opportunity to participate and observe classroom activities, an opportunity to observe mechanics of classroom teaching and an opportunity to lend assistance to the teacher.

This year the 17 student-teachers are assigned to 10 schools, but the majority teach in the elementary school. Two are student teachers in the junior high school English classes and two are in the high school physical education classes. School administrators feel the purpose of the class can be achieved by providing the following experiences—counseling the student teacher, observation of the student, permitting the student to direct a class or group under teacher's supervision, preparing teaching materials, encouraging students to develop an interest in the children, using teaching tools and, by example, instilling an appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of a teacher as the student teaches. The duties of the student teachers are manifold. Wednesday, Feb. 14, was a typical class day at the elementary school.

Eugene Gibbons, principal of the elementary school, prepared a list of the duties that the 10 students in his school did that day. The list demonstrates how widely their duties varied. One student ran off ditto work for the teacher, listened to a reading class and checked library books out to the students, while another student helped in another classroom to teach the class "Washington" by operating a tape recorder, as the teacher taught the words and action.

Another student helped an elementary school student with his workbook lesson and the directions and assignment made by the classroom teacher. Another student helped young-student with mathematics seatwork. Art work in preparation for a Valentine's day party, was the job of another student teacher. In another room, the student teacher observed the regular classroom teacher present a reading lesson and helped slow students with reading lesson.

The work is varied and consists mostly of observing how a seasoned teacher goes about the art of teaching youngsters. This prepares the student teacher for college by giving her a first-hand observation of the actual classroom problems. Gibbons notes the program is somewhat new in the old one-room schools, where the teacher often would use one of the older students to help her teach the young ones. "We hope it gives the better student a better understanding of teaching. If just a few of these good students eventually become teachers, the program will be worthwhile." So far, the program has been popular and successful. "The younger students respond to the teachers and the student teacher's good approval of the course. The purpose mustn't be misunderstood," Gibbons notes. "The student teachers are mostly observers. The burden of the teaching and the responsibility of

"Kiss Me Kate" Costume Duties Would Swamp Any Seamstress

The woman who shudders when she thinks of making a shirt for her husband would collapse if she tackled the job recently undertaken by Frances Bliesner. Bliesner, a professional costumer who recently moved to Magic Valley, has designed and is making all costumes for the Dilettante group production, "Kiss Me Kate."

It is no small chore, for the mustn't production deals with a troupe of players putting on a revived production of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

Working with her assistant, Pauline Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Booth, Twin Falls, a senior in Twin Falls high school, Miss Bliesner is designing and making nearly 50 costumes for the production. Nearly 600 yards of material will be used, enough material to keep the average housewife busy the rest of her life.

Making costumes is a specialized talent, requiring the use of specialized methods, but Miss Bliesner has had ample training and experience to prepare her for the task. She is originally from Eden, she graduated from high school in 1949 and then entered Idaho State college, where she earned a degree in the theater, majoring in English, speech and theater. It was there she got her first introduction to the art of costuming. She says, "I originally went there to major in chemistry, but I had always had an interest in the theater. I was looking for a job and was offered a job in the costume department at the college. I've been at it since then."

After working in the theater department at the college, she attended the University of Denver, where she served as "mistress" of the theater, with special work in costuming. While there she worked with summer stock theaters in the area, just as she had done when she attended ISU. She spent two summers as an undergraduate working with the Virginia City Players, Virginia City, Mont. Her last year at Denver she worked as a graduate assistant at the university, and did costume designing for various children's plays, local pageants and all the university plays. She purchased the materials, designed the costumes and then went to work on her sewing machine and made them.

After she received her degree,

GAUDY COSTUME for Roger Vincent, Elmer, who will play the role of Petruchio in the Shakespeare scenes in "Kiss Me Kate," is admired by Mrs. Vincent. The costumes for the upcoming show of the Dilettante group of Magic Valley have been designed by Frances (Frankie) Bliesner, Jerome, who has had much experience in costume design and construction. (Staff photo-entouraging) she joined the staff at the Pasadena Playhouse. Pasadena, Calif. There she taught costume classes and did all the costume designing and fabricating for the five theaters associated with the school. She also had supervision of the playhouse wardrobe, which is one of the largest collections in the country, and is worth about $100,000.

She worked with such stars as Reginald Gardiner, Imogene Coca, Edna Wilson, Larry Parks, Lisa Kirk (a member of the original cast of "Kiss Me Kate"), Orson Bean and Johnny Desmond. After she left the Pasadena Playhouse in 1950, she free lanced as a costume designer in the Los Angeles and Hollywood area. She designed and made costumes for several theaters in the area, and

Tariff Is Back; Haunts Congress

BY TOM HENSHAW Associated Press Writer It's enough to send shivers of uneasiness up and down the nation when President Kennedy has to haul the tariff back to haunt the halls of congress again, in these many years. The tariff issue, once the hottest thing on the hustings, has been treated so generously for 50 years that people could not be blamed for thinking it dead. Yet when President Kennedy proposed a new approach to the tariff—more subject in his state of the union message to congress, there was the tariff, knocking in the spotlight and scarcely letting us be the first time in this century, the United States is faced with an economically unified Europe with the potential for American products from Europe.

pen markets and challenges them successfully around the world. Kennedy wants congress to relinquish to him more power than any other president has ever had to justify tariff rates as a bargaining point in getting tariff concessions abroad. That's where politics comes in. Usually the tariff as a political issue hasn't changed very much since the glamorous days when it helped lose a president his job, prompted a vice president to resign and brought recession to a head before the Civil war. It's still "free trade vs. protection." Free trade, whose proponents wrote the first U. S. tariff law in 1789, means that the tariff will be used simply for revenue and

Science Students From 13 Area Schools See Atomic Energy Site

Science students from 13 schools, Activities of Twin Falls and Jerome students were representative of the tour. A total of 45 students from Twin Falls and 25 students from Jerome were taken to the site for a guided tour of the installation. Students started from Twin Falls on the sixth annual science youth day at the installation, and this year it celebrated the 45th birthday anniversary of Thomas A. Edison.

Twin Falls students, all A and B at the installation late in the morning, they ate lunch and then spent the rest of the afternoon touring the facilities. The Jerome group left at 8 a.m., arrived in the mid-morning and left in the early afternoon. Jerome students were accompanied by Carl Worthington, physics and elementary teacher, and Leo Polt, junior high school principal. Piko explains that the tour is held each year for students in regional high schools and colleges. He says there were students at the station from as far as Burns, Oregon, and there were several hundreds of students from northern Utah. He says the basic idea of the tour is to give the students some idea of what is being done in the area of atomic energy research, and to stimulate the interest of the students in the work. In the hope they might eventually enter that branch of science. Piko notes that many of the students were impressed with the work and later expressed a great deal of interest in eventually entering the atomic energy field. He adds that the tours serve an important purpose in teaching, for the science is changing so rapidly that it is seldom dealt with in texts and that tours are one of the best ways students can

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

Mrs. Harold Henderson Has Devoted Spare Time to Mental Health Work

GOODING, Feb. 17—Since the summer of 1959, Mrs. Harold Henderson has served as president of the Idaho Mental Health Association and has devoted much of her time to the expansion of the association's program.

The association originated in Boise in 1950 and now has six chapters in the state, with a combined membership of 200 persons.

The purpose of the organization is to make the public more aware of mental illness, mental health and to distinguish between the two conditions—resulting in a better understanding of the mentally ill so they may be accepted in society without the unreasonable stigma sometimes attached to them.

It has been Mrs. Henderson's job for the past few years to see that the needed information is given to laymen's groups in the state that want to form a chapter of the association.

Eventually the association would like to see community service centers established where those who need help can receive it without waiting until their illness reaches an advanced stage.

"When you wait too long to help a mental patient, the time involved in curing him is longer and the cost is higher. It is cheaper to help them when they first experience trouble," she says.

Mrs. Henderson and the association she heads advocate creating the centers in major communities throughout the state. They would provide a needed service, also.

"I've had doctors tell me that if there was one in this area they could refer 50 cases to a center within a week for help in all kinds of matters—marriage problems, youth mental problems and even financial problems."

She points out that mental illness presents itself in many ways, ranging from the simple nervous condition, such as brain damage, to the psychotic who needs training and help. And, even the patient might suffer mental illness as a result of a physical condition, such as brain damage.

She says doctors, ministers and educators could refer potential patients to the proposed centers, where the individual just couldn't be kept in stock. So it was decided to form another company, buy the location in the bulk and package them. The Paces rented a building on Dec. 3, at 427 Kimberly road, and set up their packing operation.

Foss says that most of the goods are being sold through grocery stores retail outlets throughout southern Idaho. About 85 per cent of the sale are to grocery stores.

The company is installing new packaging machines to keep up with the number of buyers in the area who want to "go light."

MRS. HAROLD HENDERSON

—a person who would have escaped a brush with the law if mental therapy had been applied at an earlier age.

And, she adds, as a full-time teacher a few years ago, and as a substitute teacher in recent years, she constantly sees children who suffer from mental pressures brought on in school and at home.

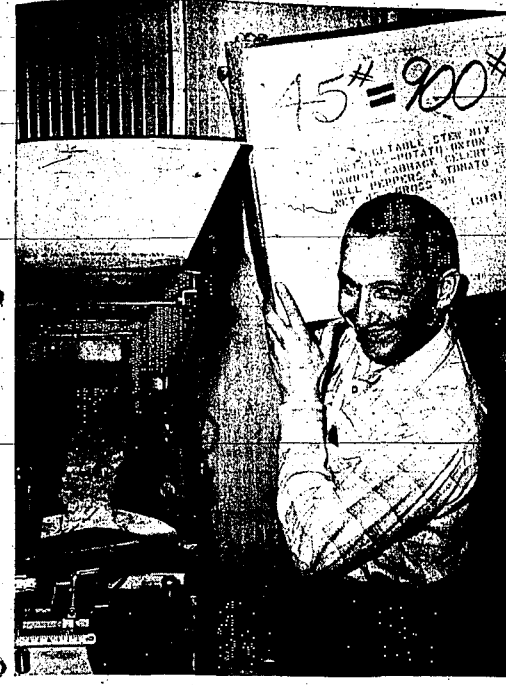

"Such children could be helped by the proposed service centers," she says.

Mrs. Henderson, born in Pocatello, attended the University of Idaho southern branch and got her teaching certificate. She taught in St. Anthony, Teton and Jerome public schools.

She married Harold Henderson after she moved to Jerome. They have two children—Trusty Lynn and David. They live on a farm northwest of Gooding.

Mrs. Henderson is active in the Gooding ward of the LDS church. She is a charter member and has served as a Sunday school teacher. She currently is taking extension courses in education from Idaho State college and expects to get her degree next year. She is a member of the Gooding 20th Century Country club, a social organization, and has been an active member and officer in the Gooding PTA.

In March Mrs. Henderson will travel to Washington, D.C., for a leadership conference of the "two chapters" association for mental health.

LIGHTWEIGHT FOODS are displayed by Martin Foss. The foods in the box, if in their natural form, would weigh 900 pounds. Dehydrated they weigh 27 1/2 pounds. Dehydrated foods are popular with hunters and persons stocking fallout shelters. To keep pace with the new demand a new company has been started, the Serve-A-Pack company. (Staff photo-engraving)

Special Foods Popular With Area Residents Because of Cost, Weight

The American people are going through a mild revolution. The trend toward miniaturization, especially in electronics, is making many things smaller. And, recently, there has been a great demand for light, compact, inexpensive, dehydrated foods.

These features appeal to hunters, persons equipping a fallout shelter and the budget-conscious housewife. To keep pace with the times, a new business has been started in Twin Falls—the Serve-A-Pack company, a company that packages the dehydrated foods for consumer sales.

The company was started, mostly by accident, last fall in the showroom of Foss manufacturing company, and already employs five persons. Last summer Martin Foss and some of the employees there decided to purchase some dehydrated foods to equip fallout shelters. The food they purchased was displayed in the office area. Customers saw the food and asked if it was for sale.

The food wasn't for sale, but Martin Foss notes the inquiries

Tariff Issue Returns to Haunt Halls Of Congress After 30-Year Absence

Protection, whose godfather was Alexander Hamilton, means that the tariff is used to raise the price of imports to the point where domestic industry can successfully compete against them. Greatly simplified, it works like this:

Suppose an American shoe factory pays 40 cents for material, 40 cents for labor and 20 cents profit—20 cents on each pair of shoes that it sells for one dollar.

Suppose a foreign shoe firm pays 30 cents for material, 20 cents for labor, 10 cents for profit—60 cents on each pair of shoes that it sells for one dollar.

If the quality of the shoes is comparable, every economically-minded American probably would hustle off to the corner shoe store and buy foreign-made shoes while the American product rotted on the shelf.

But the government places a 25 percent—20-cent tariff on foreign-made shoes. They rise in price to a dollar and the American-made shoes are back on equal footing in the marketplace.

Pretty soon, of course, someone asks the inevitable question: Why should I pay a dollar for an 80-cent pair of shoes just to keep a shoemaker in business and perhaps growing rich on his profits?

And perhaps the shoemaker figures: If I can get the government to raise the tariff on shoes to 25 cents, I could undercut the foreigner, capture the whole market and sell shoes like crazy.

And the foreign government, at the urging of its own shoemakers, promptly ships a retaliatory tariff on some American product, which didn't even figure in the original transaction.

Behold! The tariff issue is born!

The United States started out as a free trade nation. The second law passed by the first U. S. congress in 1789 set a 5 to 15 percent tariff on more than 8000 different kinds of goods. It was so successful as a revenue-producer that, for two centuries, every dollar received by the U. S. treasury came from its customs collectors, who were regarded as holding down very good jobs indeed.

In fact, tariff collections accounted for more than half of the treasury's revenues until the limitless possibilities of the income tax were discovered shortly before World War I.

It was Alexander Hamilton who laid down the first protection laws. They can be traced to the United States becoming an industrial nation and a world power unless its infant industries are protected from cheap foreign imports.

The idea didn't really catch on until 1816 when, in a fit of newborn nationalism, congress passed the first protective tariff. It was the "American System" and it set an average duty rate of 20 percent.

Rep. Henry Clay of Kentucky created a market for food from the West and cotton from the South. Tariff money would build roads and canals for the benefit of all.

The theory was working out fine until it dawned on the "farmers' friends" that "protection" farmers were paying more for food, clothing and equipment while under the same law, foreign factory owners were getting rich.

Southern congressmen knew they lacked the power to lower rates so they thoughtfully amended the tariff act of 1816, slipping duties on almost everything, except sugar, including raw materials needed by Northern factories.

No one liked the act, not even the congressmen who voted for it. It was called the "Tariff of Abominations" and South Carolina refused to sign it. As soon as voters could legally get to the polls, they voted to secede.

But a new tariff act, passed in 1832, proved equally unacceptable. South Carolina declared the act "null and void" and threatened to secede for the second time.

When President John C. Calhoun, a South Carolinian, resigned as vice president and was sent to the senate to fight for his cherished doctrine of state's rights, Calhoun headed prevailed, however, and a compromise tariff passed in 1833, gradually lowering duty rates and ignoring the state's rights issue, thus allowing both sides to claim victory.

Since 1816, the United States has had some form of protective tariff, although the degree of protection has varied widely, usually depending upon which political party controls the government.

Right now, calculated on a ratio between collections and total income, it is about as low as it ever has been. In 1860, the last year for which figures are available, it stood at 19.2 percent.

Republicans have been known as the party of high protection while Democrats have favored low tariff rates. But it hasn't always worked out that way.

It was during tariff debates of 1860 that "reciprocity" entered the lexicon. Between nations it means: If you lower your tariffs to my goods, I'll lower my tariffs later at the polls.

Reciprocity was firmly established as the American policy in 1894, which all but extinguished tariff as a burning political issue.

But it was resurrected by the President to negotiate trade agreements or boosts with tariff reductions or consent, without the advice and consent of the senate. It has been renewed periodically, the last time in 1958, it expires next June 30.

The coming tariff "bill" introduced some new features.

For the first time, a major tariff change is being prompted by an external source—the European economic community, a 16-nation economic bloc composed of 160 million potential consumers.

The common market was set up in 1957 by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, who agreed to cut tariffs between each other whenever feasible until they are none by 1970, while adopting a common tariff barrier against outsiders.

Economic integration of some major market members has proceeded so satisfactorily that some non-members, notably the United Kingdom with its population of more than 50 million, are asking to join.

By 1970, the common market may well become a powerful economic unit, on equal footing with the two great economic blocs of today, the United States and the communist world.

Will the United States be its partner (but not a member) or its competitor?

"Our decision," says President Kennedy, "could well affect the unity of the West, the course of the cold war and the economic growth of our nation for a generation to come."

Former Secretary of state Christian A. Herter, testifying before a senate-house committee, added: "If we go in one direction and Europe goes in another, we will inevitably find trade barriers growing. Inevitably there will be a slowing down in trade. Inevitably we will see the political rifts growing."

Kennedy wants the power to eliminate gradually tariff barriers between the United States and the common market "as those items in which we together supply 80 percent of the world's needs" and reduce by up to 50 percent duties on other goods.

How would accomplish this by making across-the-board tariff cuts on broad categories of products instead of the current item-by-item negotiations. This is a new concept in American foreign trade policy.

Opposition comes from both industry and labor.

"We can only wail and weep because if you lower your tariffs to my goods, I'll lower my tariffs later at the polls."

acquainted themselves with the science.

File laughs and says the students were so interested in the tour and the many reactors they visited that he didn't think he was ever going to get them back on the bus. They asked so many questions and were so interested in the work," he says, "that we didn't leave the site until 7 p.m."

Following lunch the Twin Falls group attended an educational motion picture that described the facilities, the purpose of atomic energy research and the general characteristics of the different types of reactors.

After the motion picture, students were taken on a long tour of the installation. Five reactors were visited. One of them was in operation and much of the students had their first opportunity to see one in operation.

The first unit they visited was the M-1, a portable electric power unit, intended to supply power to military units in the field. The M-1-2 was next, an experimental reactor that is testing new core combinations, utilizing U-235.

At other reactors the students were told how the scientists are learning how to develop safe design standards and how they are determining the operational limits of reactors. At one reactor they were told how the scientists separated the components of the reactor cores so they can be used again and so they can determine what elements are created within the core when it is in use.

Government's Stock Market Study Opens

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The government has opened a study of the New York Stock Exchange and other securities markets for the exchange of 350 stock specialists.

In the inquiry forms, distinguished securities analysts and stock market specialists are distributing answers to three broad questions:

—How do specialists handle orders in more than 100 selected stocks that represent a cross section of big board securities?

—Do some specialists have contacts of interest that might compromise their position as servants of the investing public?

—Are certain large investors, such as the mutual funds, given favored treatment by specialists?

SEC officials said they had no preconceived ideas regarding the study, but they are interested in the questionnaires. They said they were simply trying to find out how the specialists are doing and if technicians who conduct the daily stock options, actually, operate in a different manner.

The SEC recently completed an investigation of the agency's public report last month that was particularly critical of American stock market specialists in the direction of congress, the SEC is conducting a year-long study of the industry, including the operations of the 14 registered stock exchanges.

SEC officials said they had no preconceived ideas regarding the study, but they are interested in the questionnaires. They said they were simply trying to find out how the specialists are doing and if technicians who conduct the daily stock options, actually, operate in a different manner.

British Worry About TV, Teen-Agers and Mansfield

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP) — So what are your phlegmatic cousins, the British, worrying about these days? To judge by the columns of letters to the editor, they are worrying mainly about the behavior of teen-agers, the quality of TV shows and about all those Americans, including Jayne Mansfield, in the Daily Mirror, a correspondent signing herself Mrs. V. R. of Kingston, Surrey, demanded: "So, Jayne's suffering from exposure after being 'lost' at sea? What's new in that? She's been suffering from it for years."

Plans Noted For 12 Area C. of I. Pupils

COLLEGE OF IDAHO, Caldwell, Feb. 17 — Campus activities for 12 Magic Valley students at College of Idaho are reported by college officials.

Jon Shurtliff, Twin Falls, a freshman, has been elected secretary of his dormitory, Anderson hall, for the second semester. Marvin McCall, Decio, is freshman class vice president.

Dean Barnhouse, senior biology major, Twin Falls, is one of six students working on research this year on an Idaho Heart Association research grant. Barnhouse received an undergraduate research grant last summer from the University of Oregon medical school.

Janet Hall, Jerome, has been elected a member of the college of Idaho Inter-Sorority council, representing Sigma Xi.

And finally, a salute to the kiddies from Mrs. Elizabeth Howley of Wirral in the Shetlands. "It is the English idea of jokes between friends. It is an unfortunate misconception of friendship."

He asked in the sketch: "Why do teen-agers like old clips of the bread-slices and cigarettes? No wonder they look cold, feel the cold, and suffer from coughs and chills."

And finally, a salute to the kiddies from Mrs. Elizabeth Howley of Wirral in the Shetlands. "It is the English idea of jokes between friends. It is an unfortunate misconception of friendship."

There are 44 plots to be appraised, before the next step in the highway construction can be taken.

Lewis was the recipient of a National Science foundation summer institute assistantship this past year at Oregon State University. He is chairman of the resident assistants on campus, a dormitory governing group.

Lynn Wiley, senior art major, Twin Falls, was elected snow queen attendant. Homecoming queen in 1959, she is serving her second term as class representative on the student body council.

This year, she was elected to "Whole Who in American Colleges and Universities" for the second consecutive year.

Elected secretary of the sophomore class is Cecile Williams, sociology major, Piler. She also is vice president and the Women's recreation association.

Roger Detweller, Twin Falls, vice president of the International Relations club at the college, was a member of the planning committee for the Orientation in politics conference Feb. 9-10 at the college.

Detweller was featured as an organ soloist at the Elmiplot dinner.
