Counselor at Oakley Talks On Guidance

OAKLEY, March 17 — Robert Francis, guidance counselor for the Cassia county schools, was the guest speaker at the Oakley PTA meeting Wednesday night.

He pointed out that the basic concepts of the guidance program includes trying to see pupils as individuals and not just as numbers. He helps the student to understand and adjust himself to his surroundings and to make the best of himself.

National figures were quoted by Francis and from ninth to 12th grade last year, 25 million students dropped out.

Pupils are encouraged to choose from the 8,000 jobs instead of one or two and to choose one that will best suit him. Francis feels there will be no place for unskilled laborers in 1970.

He encouraged the use of the three trade schools in Idaho, pointing out that many students coming from this type of school are making higher wages than four-year college graduates.

Karen Woodhouse and Cheryl Pehlman sang a duet accompanied by Mrs. Thomas Clark.

Mrs. Milford Bergener, president, announced a special clinic for children with speech defects will be held in Burley in April under the direction of the Idaho State college.

A motion was made to reimburse the county for each child if it was needed. Five school children also will be accepted.

Mrs. Bergener also reported screens for the assembly room of the grade school have been purchased and put on the windows in order to let the children play outside during winter.

Cheryl Woodhouse was appointed to get the school board approval to make a display of band and sports trophies in the main hall of the school.

The PTA executive committee appointed Mrs. Fred Becke to serve on the nominating committee for new officers to be chosen next year. Mrs. Miles Tracy were nominated by the main body to serve under her.

Expansion of Crop Sign-up Is Explained

SHOSHONE, March 17—Since farmers in Lincoln county produce both winter and spring wheat, the 1962 wheat stabilization—stump—period has been opened to all producers, according to Eugene Alexander, Lincoln county agricultural stabilizer and conservation committee chairman.

Wheat growers divert part of their acreage of wheat to the stabilization area and thus become eligible for stabilization payments. A 10 per cent mandatory diversion is required for participation with provision for an additional voluntary diversion by the producer.

In addition to eligibility for price support, acreage diverted from wheat and used for conservation practices is eligible for a stabilization payment. The payment is based on the normal yield of wheat for the farm and the county price support rate of approximately $1.80 a bushel. To get the payment, a wheat producer must sign before declaring his intention to take part in the program and carry out the provisions of the program.

In addition to wheat, wheat growers may voluntarily divert additional acreage from wheat production to other uses for conservation. This additional acreage is eligible for payment at a higher rate than the normal wheat acreage allotment.

Writer Deplores Federal Control Of U.S. People

Editor, Times-News:—
 Shall our country be administered by a central government? The time has come when the people of our country shall not be governed by our local government.
 If we do not preserve our local self-government, we shall hardly escape federal tyranny. If that day shall ever arrive when the people of the different parts of our country shall allow their local affairs to be administered by a central government, the political career of the American people will have been robbed of its value as a Republic. And the usefulness of this nation will be impaired.

 If we do not preserve our local self-government, we shall hardly escape federal tyranny. If that day shall ever arrive when the people of the different parts of our country shall allow their local affairs to be administered by a central government, the political career of the American people will have been robbed of its value as a Republic. And the usefulness of this nation will be impaired.

Hayden Lake Resident Says Farm Controls Sap Freedom

Editor, Times-News:—
 A big decision will be made soon by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and the department of agriculture. Their decision will have an effect on us in Idaho. The decision is (1) to have more controls and rules and regulations enforced upon the farmers and the farm industry, or (2) to have no more controls and to gradually do away with the controls and rules and regulations which are already imposed on farmers and the farming industry.
 On March 1, 1962, the secretary wrote me a letter in which he said most farmers want federal farm programs and that farmers have shown an inability to adjust their own farm to market needs. I do not believe this.
 Here is the letter I received from Secretary Freeman: "March 1, 1962, Dear Mrs. Burnham: This is in reply to your letter of Dec. 15 in which you express the opinion that the law of supply and demand would adequately take care of farm income. If this position were generally shared among farmers we would never have had the farm programs that have been developed over the past 30 years.
 "The need for farm programs arises out of rapid increases in production that were made possible by improved technology; a less rapid increase in consumption; and the demonstrated inability of farmers individually to adjust their production to market needs. . . . We share your interest in seeing farmers retain as much freedom of decision making as possible, but we do not feel that this attitude should be so wide as to maintain a chronic state of over production and depressed incomes for the agriculture history.
 "Please be assured that we are always glad to receive suggestions concerning farm programs from farmers and interested citizens. Sincerely yours, Orville L. Freeman, Secretary."
 We the people of Idaho—not just the farmers, but each one of us—have a decision to make. If you agree with Secretary Freeman and want more controls your decision is easy, just do nothing. If you disagree, if you want no more controls and want

High School Band Policies Criticized by Serviceman

Editor, Times-News:—
 What kind of people do we have in our schools today? What kind of people run our schools? These questions should be looked into, if letters I recently read in the Public Forum are any indication of the trend in our educational system.
 What kind of school would expel a student from a pep band because he attended a science trip? This is the most absurd thing I ever heard of. Don't the school officials know that science is far more important than a pep band?
 Best Officer stated the pep band was a highly selective organization—it is nowhere near as selective as a scientific group.
 The members of the band who didn't attend the science trip are the ones who should be expelled. They didn't let just their group

Man Asks Questions, Wants Answer Concerning Airlines

Editor, Times-News:—
 There is an item that has been a problem in my mind for many years. I have asked several people in other locations for an answer and as yet have not received one that is satisfactory to me.
 My question is this: Why should the various cities and/or counties of many states have to furnish facilities for airlines? This seems to me to present a very unfair and one-sided picture as related to other public utilities. If I grant that there are certain various newspapers that consider-able subsidies have been granted to different truck, rail, bus and air lines under the guise that they were indispensable to the public interest.
 As yet I have not seen or heard of any, excepting the airlines, that local facilities were furnished by the city or county. Truck, rail and bus companies own their terminals and pay taxes—and maintain them, while as I understand the TV

Scouts Entering Cars for Derby

HATLEY, March 17 — An estimated 150 Cub Scouts and Scouts of Blaine county are expected to enter cars in the "Pinewood Derby" at 7 p.m. March 24 at the LDS church.
 Special electronically-controlled equipment is being brought from Twin Falls for the event. The top three winners in each Cub Scout pack of Carey, Bellevue and Hatley and winners from Boy Scout troops No. 6 and 101 will be eligible to advance into the finals.
 "Please be assured that we are always glad to receive suggestions concerning farm programs from farmers and interested citizens. Sincerely yours, Orville L. Freeman, Secretary."
 We the people of Idaho—not just the farmers, but each one of us—have a decision to make. If you agree with Secretary Freeman and want more controls your decision is easy, just do nothing. If you disagree, if you want no more controls and want

Jerome Man Says Americans Must Live With War Threat

Editor, Times-News:—
 It has become a disconcerting fact that the atomic age has made America vulnerable to direct attack. This means we must learn to live under the threat of atomic war. We must learn to live with the threat of atomic war. We must learn to live with the threat of atomic war.
 A strong nation containing zealous and courageous citizens is seldom attacked. Through physical, moral, and religious strength we can live in peaceful coexistence. This is the only hope of our society. If we do not, the next decade, for a major war will certainly destroy the societies of all participating nations.
 This does not mean we should live in apprehension and fear. In fact these weaknesses, ignorance, selfishness and unreasoning fear are among our greatest dangers. The person's fallow shelter approach should not be so highly considered. Authoritative sources show that fallout radiation danger has become

Student Who Values Classes Praised by Former Resident

Editor, Times-News:—
 I have just read a letter to your February 25 edition submitted by Mrs. H. H. Thilens and also the reply on March 10. Mr. Thilens' letter concerns a student who chose to further his education over attending the beginning of a basketball game. Having attended a similar experience over eleven years ago at Twin Falls High, I must say I agree whole-heartedly with Mrs. Thilens. Not only is the consideration of the student furthering his education involved, but the cost of the entertainment. Granted the student was only in the pep band and I assume is still eligible for regular band classes in my case I was out completely.
 If Mr. Closter holds his organization in such high regard, then surely the absence of one instrument could never make

Area Motorists Criticized Over Driving Tactics

Editor, Times-News:—
 I think I'll mention the disrespect people show for funeral processions.
 Is our world moving so fast that people can't stop for a very few minutes in due respect?
 Everyday I see cars who do not stop, stop quite a while. They even pass some of the cars in a funeral procession.
 You thoughtless people, if you are in such a hurry why do you choose another route of travel?

Wendell Sets
May 1 Voting
For Trustees

WENDELL, March 17—Trustee election for school district No. 222 will be May 1, it was decided at a meeting of the school board held this week at the office of Suppl. Warner Bass. This election will be held in the hallway of the high school between 2 and 7 p.m. All five of the trustees will be up for re-election.

Trustee zone No. 1, now represented by Richard Haereman, will be for a three year term. Zone No. 2, now represented by Arnold Runyon, two-year term. Zone No. 3, now represented by Oliver Phillips, one-year term. Zone No. 4, now represented by John Emery, two-year term, and zone No. 5, now represented by Frank Orth, three-year term.

Residents are advised to find out the boundaries of their respective trustee zones so they can vote accurately. Residents are allowed to vote only for the trustee representing their particular trustee zone.

The election date for the two-mill farm labor camp election was set for April 3, and will be held in the hallway of the high school building from 2 to 7 p.m. Need for this money in the budget for capital was discussed. It was pointed out money would be used for purchasing new seating at the grade school, and other apparatus that will be needed to improve the instructional program.

The board felt that voters should be informed that even though the board is asking for a two-mill levy they will drop the bond levy two mills and also the school farm labor camp levy by one mill.

If the two-mill levy is approved in the April 3 election, the school district will operate for $30,422.00 less next year than it has during the past year. The two mill additional levy on the farm labor camp will bring in approximately $10,000.

A bulletin from the commissioner of law enforcement and the state supervisor of driver training was discussed. This bulletin advised that a $3 recusal fee above the cost of the driver permit would be charged to all students participating in the driver training program. The cost of the car insurance for the summer driving program was discussed and it was decided to cooperate with the state reconnaissance concerning insurance on driver training automobiles.

The new high school accreditation standards were discussed. Information will be released to the public at a later date.

Howard Powell was hired as janitor to replace the late Jack Stouler. Powell starts work Sunday, March 18, 1962.

March 21, following his farm sale, the board gave their permission for Roy Irons, FFA chapter instructor, to attend the FFA state convention in Burley, March 29-30, with several FFA members.

Labor Department Reports Bright Employment Picture

BY JACK LEFFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK, March 17 (U) — The employment picture brightened during the week—a period in which major governmental attention was focused on the work-er.

Factory jobs, hours and pay rose in February, a month in which they usually decline, the labor department reported.

Employment in industry posted a slight rise to 53,747,000, a record for February.

The factory worker earned an average of $92.20 a week, a little bit more than in January and almost 48 above the level of a year ago. His work week stretched to 40 hours from 39.7 in January.

A weapon against unemployment became effective with President Kennedy's signing of legislation allowing training of up to one million idle workers in new skills.

Cost of the three-year program is estimated at $33 million dollars.

It is aimed at assisting both those who lose their jobs through automation and those whose skills limit them to low-paying jobs.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and other leaders of the organization cheered with the President about the economic situation with particular emphasis on unemployment. Last month they had criticized the President for being "lovely timid" in pushing programs to lessen unemployment.

Coming out of the meeting, they indicated an impression that the President would act quickly if unemployment doesn't start going down soon.

Valley Churches Set Discussions

HAILEY, March 17—Community churches of Carey, Hailey and Ketchum, with Rev. R. J. Kennedy as pastor, will discuss "What Protestants believe."

The meetings will be held at 7 p.m. each Sunday at the Larkin Memorial community Presbyterian church in Carey preceding the evening worship service at 8 p.m.

At the Community Presbyterian church in Ketchum the meetings will be held at 8 p.m., March 21, and April 4 and 18.

At the Community-Baptist church in Hailey they will be held at 8 p.m. March 14 and 28, and April 11.

The personal income of Americans jumped 2.7 billion dollars in February to a record annual rate of 42.8 billion dollars. It had declined by 1.3 billion dollars in January.

Of the total February increase, 2.8 billion dollars was in wage and salary payments.

President Kennedy came to the aid of the consumer by sending a bundle of progressive proposals to congress.

A commerce department survey indicated sales of manufacturers will attain a record of 67.2 billion dollars in April and 68.3 billion dollars by June.

Stock sales during the week totaled 16,465,469 shares compared with 15,232,797 the previous week and 26,461,491 for the comparable week of last year. Bond sales amounted to $28,879,000 compared with $46,117,000—the previous week and $39,944,000 for the comparable 1951 period.

Veterans Can Convert Term Policies Now

BOISE, March 17 (Special)—World War II veterans who have not converted their term insurance to permanent plan policies may use an easy-stage method of making the change. Loryn E. Kopan, director of the Boise Veterans administration center, pointed out today.

Both the law and VA regulations permit term policyholders to convert as little as $1,000 to a plan with fixed premium amounts, in order to avoid the periodic increase in the cost of term insurance.

By converting $1,000 a year for the next ten years, the full amount of a $10,000 policy will be in permanent plan insurance within a decade, Kopan stated.

Kopan pointed out that annual dividends may be used in the process to reduce the cash outlay.

Permanent plan policies available to World War II term policyholders are ordinary life, 90-payment life, 20-year endowment, endowment at 60 and endowment at 65. Kopan said.

Permanent plans have certain values which term policies do not have, including an increased insurance value and an extended surrender value, Kopan added.

Ballet Offers Confidence, Discipline to Young Pupils

By CAROL ORRIN
Times-News-Special Editor

At one time or another, nearly every parent has considered sending his child to dancing school. The reasons for such training vary with the individual parent but usually this is because the other mothers on the block are sending their children because an eminent child psychologist has recommended dancing for good mental and bodily coordination.

Whatever the reasons, the fact remains that dancing schools flourish in the United States and throughout the world. We asked a Twin Falls dancing teacher, Donna Mauldin, about the world of ballet, especially for younger children.

She informed us that pre-school children are not introduced to formal ballet.

"Not only are their bones and muscles not adequately developed, but their minds are not ready for the understanding of ballet technique."

They cannot comprehend the importance of correct placement, and to practice ballet incorrectly at any age does more harm than good. This does not mean that pre-school children cannot learn other types of dancing.

They are by no means too young to learn to take directions, to concentrate their attention, to use their creative and reasoning abilities or to speak and perform without evidence of shyness, Mrs. Mauldin notes.

They are capable of hearing musical accents and rhythms and can coordinate bodily movements with them. They learn rapidly to cooperate willingly in group situations.

There are a few advantages a pre-school child gains from lessons in pre-ballet, tap dancing, creative and other types of "play activity" offered to the child before he is physically and mentally ready for formal ballet.

These are a few advantages a child gains by the age of 8, a child is ready to begin the more disciplined study of ballet. Any previous training is a distinct advantage to the child.

Mrs. Mauldin stated that progress in ballet is not so readily apparent as in other dance forms.

"Not only does the child have to perfect ballet technique, he also must construct an instrument with which to perform this technique. The musician plays upon an instrument already built for him; a dancer must also build and form his body into the instrument of his art," she said.

Exercises practiced at the barre shape and strengthen the legs, feet and back, making them capable of performing the difficult technical tasks required of them. A dancer should have good "line," or a sense of the design his body makes in style, grace and elegance.

Mrs. Mauldin remarked that there is a need for tremendous drive and a desire to strive for perfection on the part of the student in order to achieve successful execution of steps and movements.

"Not all children will become great ballet dancers, but most children, even those who lack real aptitude and physical attributes for dancing, develop love and enthusiasm for their lessons."

"This is probably due to the challenge that good training presents to them and the feeling of achievement when they master a step," she added.

Mrs. Mauldin noted the tendency today to make everything "easy" for the child is not always to his benefit. The habit of concentration, perseverance and the ability to face challenging situations must be formed in childhood. The child learns to discipline both mind and body; this he must do if he is to perform.

Mrs. Mauldin offered a few hints to the parent considering ballet training for his child.

—Show your confidence in that teacher through cooperation and acceptance of her decisions.

—Plan to have the child attend classes regularly. No teacher can hope to instruct a child if he does not attend classes.

—Be patient! Don't expect to push a ballet student into being a ballerina in a hurry. This takes several years and even then, certain feats must be perfected first. Try to realize that the progress of all children is not exactly the same.

—Encourage the student by showing your approval of his accomplishments.

Mrs. Mauldin first began dancing in Twin Falls with Mrs. Harvey Pierce. After some six years here, she taught in Idaho three years and studied in Los Angeles with Harriet and Al DeRac. DeRac is a former partner of Gene Kelly.

She also studied with Ernest Belcher, Margo Champion's father, and the Caninos, Rita Hayworth's family.

Mrs. Mauldin taught in Reno, Nev., for four years and studied there under Daphne Glantz, who was formerly with the New York City Ballet. Mrs. Mauldin taught in Twin Falls since 1958.

She has been a member of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists for seven years and has taught at several chapter meetings in Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

She plans a recital of her students sometime in May and stated that proceeds from the event will be donated to the Idaho Crippled Children's Society and the Lions Eyeight Conservation fund.

Proceeds from all her recitals have been donated to charity.

She expressed her appreciation of the Community Concert association and the Dilettante group for bringing faceted dancing to the attention of Magic Valley residents.

The art of ballet is one of the most difficult in the world of dancing, but it can be mastered if the student begins training early enough and if he has a real determination to perfect the techniques of his chosen art.

FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOWE
This falls in the category of sports walk in where angels fear to tread.

It hasn't been known generally, but in the past two years athletic relations between Twin Falls and Burley high schools have been strained. The reasons are many, but the two schools seem to have jumped back into a regular relationship Wednesday night.

The matter is partly personal and a joint feeling of "we was ahead."

It began two years ago in a sophomore football game in Twin Falls. Burley charged into the Twin Falls officials, members of the Burley coaching staff to keep officiating cost down and allegedly to help the officials during the daytime, were giving instructions to Twin Falls boys during the game.

This led to an exchange following the ball game in which both sides were uncompromising.

The following year, two of these Burley sophomores were injured, not seriously, and the feeling was Twin Falls was trying intentionally to injure the other side.

At the next year there was no game between the schools. For a while, it appeared as if the basketball ball floor and then only when the district rankings threw them together. Burley beat a district with a minor instead of attending the Hank Powers relay.

This receipt it and neither side was exactly belligerent at the spring district meeting, Paul Oatyn, Twin Falls, and Chris Cugel and Buel, Burley, were not together and after a few warm words to each other, quickly overcame the feeling of resentment.

The net result was retention of the sophomore football ball game, which was increased underclassmen battles of the year—and complete accord on scheduling of sports for the coming year.

We just forgot for a while these that we should act like that, said coach Oatyn. "I know I said some things that were hurtful and I was hurt by a couple of things they said. Instead of getting together right away we were getting it out of our hands. Personally, I'm very pleased we have it out of the way. The competition between the schools is too keen to give up."

"Paul told me he was sorry for the things he said and I told him about the same things," said Cugel. "Everything is ironed out now and I don't expect any more trouble."

To which might be added, the fourth district all largely in the middle between a couple of vote-getting and mutually strong combines. Rapport is a definite need in this district. The attention paid to the same thing, and may indicate a little more growth for the area athletic-wise.

Of interest to track fans, the Hank Powers relay, named for the former athletic director at Twin Falls high school, will be enlarged to a full-scale meet this year for the first time.

This will mean addition of women relay—composed of four half-mile legs—plus relays in the thousand yard high jump. It will eliminate the one mile race.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 17 (AP)—Senior Dick Talley made two free throws and junior Ed Pfeiffer dropped another in an overtime period to give Mount St. Mary's of Emmitsburg, Md., a 58-57 victory over Sacramento State for the NCAA college division basketball championship.

The Mountaineers staked out the final minute and a half waiting for a shot which John O'Reilly missed as regular time ran out.

In the cautious five-minute extra period, Talley dropped the two free tosses with 2:11 remaining and Pfeiffer made his with a minute left, giving the Mountaineers a 58-57 edge. Then O'Reilly missed a layup with 30 seconds left.

In consolation game, Southern Illinois led all the way to beat Nebraska Wesleyan, 98-81 to win third place in the tournament.

WESTMINSTER, Mont., March 17 (AP)—A pair of New England skiers won the giant slalom on the big mountain today and led the U. S. Eastern Amateur ski association capture the team trophy in the junior national alpine ski championship.

The giant slalom victories of Roger Buchika, 17, Haverhill, Mass., and Sandra Bower, 19, Auburn, Me., were major factors in pushing the Eastern association ahead of the Pacific National Ski association, which had led in the team standing until today's event.

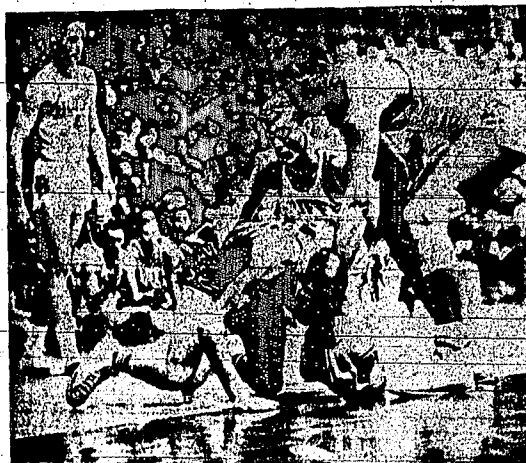

The Eastern team won the Ketchikan ski club traveling trophy with seven points, computed on an international system in which the smallest number of points is the best.

The Pacific association, encompassing northwest states, had 11.02 points, followed by the Far West association with 22.82. Southern Rocky Mountain 28.80, Intermountain 104.74, Northern Rocky Mountain 142.74, and Central 174.84.

Buchika raced down the wintering, bumpy, 4,000 foot boys' course in 2:01.0 to edge by 2 of a second and a fellow member of the eastern team Norman Linnan, Pound Ridge, New York.

Miss Bower added the giant slalom championship to her second place Thursday in the down-hill event when she completed the 2,500 foot girls' course in 1:51.1, beating defending champion Ingrid Simonson, 15, Yakima, Wash., by more than three seconds. Miss Simonson's time was 1:54.7.

A flurry of excitement erupted during the race when it was announced that Mike Oberuga of Ketchikan, Idaho, had run a mile course in 1:57.4, which would have made him an upset winner. However, when it was reported he fell twice during the race, the timers checked their watches and determined that they should Race officials declined to name overall individual champions on the basis of performances in the three races. Unofficially, the best overall boys' skier appears to be Dave Engell, 17, McCall, who won the slalom, placed second in downhill and 12th in giant slalom.

Liston Sure He's Better Than Anyone

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—I don't think there's nobody in the world as good as myself.

Charles (Toony) Liston, despite had that comment on the fight he will have next summer with champion Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight title.

They signed the contracts yesterday for the fight, which could be the richest of all time. The promoter, Tom Bolan, predicted a gross of at least six million dollars. There will be no live television.

Bolan said six cities, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Washington and Seattle were under consideration as the slum, placed third in slalom and fifth in downhill.

The champion will also pick the date and announce 16 within a month. It will be not earlier than June 18 nor later than Sept. 30.

"Seattle has offered us a million dollar guarantee to hold the World's Fair," Bolan said. "We will explore all possibilities and take the one giving us the best deal."

Liston made it clear at the signing ceremonies that he thinks he is getting a bad deal. He signed for 12 1/2 per cent of the live gate, and 55 per cent of the other rights, plus the right to date time, place and promoter for a return match at Liston wins.

Liston already has listed a 7-5 favorite.

Patterson said that didn't bother him. "The odds were 2-1 against me in the second Johnnie 'Slight' fight, the champion said. I hope to make the experts look bad again."

Liston said he planned to change the champion's mind about that about the fourth round.

Rodriguez FTKs Ricardo Falech

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 17 (AP)—Julio Rodriguez of Columbia, Cuba, thrashed U.S. waterweight, scored a third round TKO over Ricardo Falech of Argentina tonight in a scheduled 10-round fight in Miami Beach auditorium.

Falech, reputedly a tireless Windmill puncher, never got started as Rodriguez turned on a flailing attack that felled the Argentine once in the second round and three times in the third round before Referee Billy Regan halted the bout.

The Argentine landed no blows that had any noticeable effect on Rodriguez's attack.

Valley high school reported at the district meeting the school definitely will be triple in classification in 1963. It currently is considering petitioning the state activities association to allow it to take the big step next year although present enrollment indicates a level of about 270 students. Chaining approval of that petition may prove difficult in the absence of a strong school football team.

Coach Oatyn made the understatement of the year on the matter. "I just hope hell fall he can't make our football team—no matter."

What coach wouldn't? Levens is 6 feet, 3 inches, weighs 200 pounds and runs sprints in track. If he couldn't make it, look out school football team from Idaho!

Junior High Janitor Sits One Out Following 19 Years Labor

Jasper James Stewart, first janitor at the junior high school here, worked in that capacity for 19 years and 10 working days missed a working day because of illness.

BROWSING through his scrapbook is James Jasper Stewart, a local junior high school janitor who has set some kind of a record by never missing a day of work in more than 19 years.

Then, as he puts it, the roof fell on him and in a sense he did not work until 10 p.m. He had just reached home after work when the attack came.

Naturally he wants to get back to work as soon as possible but whether he can work again remains to be seen.

Not Forgotten. Meanwhile he was not forgotten. Just last Washington's birthday he received a call from school officials asking him to drop down to the school en route to or from the doctor's office and have a cup of coffee.

So he went, intending to have a cup with the teachers. What he received almost swept him off his feet. It was a grocery shower and now the shelves in his kitchen are piled high with canned and packaged goods of all descriptions.

Hundreds of youngsters have passed through the junior high and have learned to know Stew since he started 19 years ago. And what is the biggest impression they leave with him?

It is their feet in the spring thaw weather, he said. "Brother, that is when you get a work-out keeping the halls clean! Even now it is not as bad as mud. You take all the youngsters in the school and double them, because they all have two feet, and you end up with a lot of mud. The mud you mix on the first time around turns to dust later, so you are licked anyway you look at it."

Working at 14. Stewart is 59 years old and was born at Pueblo, Colo. He came to Twin Falls in 1917 as a lad of 14 years.

"I hardly remember my folks," he recalls. "They broke up and I had to get out. I cannot remember just why I came to Twin Falls but although I was only 14 years old I got a job on a heavy construction crew a d that made a man of me in a big hurry."

After entering the school system he was engaged in city recreation work for seven years.

"Never was much for sitting. Some people have said I've retired. That is not too true. To tell the truth I consider it a leave of absence without pay. I'm looking forward to returning to the school system. They are a great bunch down there at the school."

ALL PEOPLE have worries, such as trying to make ends meet and get all the bills paid, but Thomas L. Dittler was introduced to these worries earlier than most. With his two brothers in college, Tom, a senior at Twin Falls high school, has been in charge of this and much more since his father died in 1959 and his mother in 1961.

High School Youth Continues Normal Life Residing Alone

BY O. A. (GUS) KELKER, Feature Editor

Thomas L. Dittler—known more informally as "Tommy" at Twin Falls high school—is learning about life the hard way and is doing a good job in the process.

Like most boys his life during the "growing up" years was much like that of other youngsters. He had a good home, two brothers and his father and mother. He still lives in the home and he still has the two brothers, although they are in college. But his father and mother are gone.

It was in July, 1959, that Lester Dittler, Tommy's father and owner of the Dittler Shoe store, died.

In April, 1961, Tommy's mother, Angela, died. Right then Tommy and his brother became "orphans" as far as the law is concerned.

He Had Experience. Tommy had some experience in the shoe business, picking it up through association with his father. So he, assisted by his brother, Bernard, who now is a junior at Idaho State college, planned to continue the shoe business after the death of Mr. Dittler. However, after a family consultation, it was decided to close the store, and this was done.

Bernard stayed out-of-college a semester to work and Tommy continued school and worked nights.

Then the young high school student landed a job at the Hudson shoe store and, when that firm opened a store in the Lyndwood shopping center, he was moved there as a shoe clerk.

After the death of the mother, the three boys decided Bernard would return to Idaho State and the other brother, Robert, would continue his schooling and enter Boise Junior college.

They Will Sell Home. "The family will remain in the home," Tommy says. "After the death of the mother, the three boys decided Bernard would return to Idaho State and the other brother, Robert, would continue his schooling and enter Boise Junior college."

As he has lived alone since the death of his mother, he does not have, like most boys, some one to "hold the club" when they come home.

He set up a schedule for himself and he tries to keep it. "Sometimes I make a mess of it," he told me, "but at least I'm trying."

FOUL OF WASHINGTON are realized even when you have only your own clothes to wash. Tommy Dittler is the "maid of all trades" at his home in Twin Falls where he lives alone.

which gave him the will to continue in school rather than panic and quit for a steady job.

First, was his religion. He is a Catholic. His faith, he declared, is steadfast and has stirred his spirit when he needed it most.

Next is his interest in athletics. He played junior high athletics and then continued his interest in high school. He injured his ankle in junior varsity football when he played the end position and so had to give up that sport. However, he has lettered twice in varsity tennis and expects to get his third this season.

Then there was basketball. It was determined to make the varsity and letter, at least, in his senior year. The varsity season has just concluded and when the award assembly rolls around Tommy will be among the boys gaining the coveted basketball "T."

There were two big things

Survey Finds Trees Suffer Over Nation

WASHINGTON, March 16.—In a quiet room in a building on Washington's Independence avenue a man fingers a tiny vial that contains a little dust in his hollow.

The dust is a virus and the man gives you directions for its use. Mix a pinch of it in a gallon of water and you have a deadly spray.

In another room a man sits and thinks a wooden sidewalk one mile wide, stretching from New York to San Francisco. It may sound peculiar, but this is the agriculture department, and these men are general in the war to save America's trees from disease and insects.

Situation Critical. On some fronts the situation is now growing critical. Such magnificent trees as the elms and the sugar maple are in trouble.

The man with the vial is Dr. James A. Beal, director of forest insect research of the U. S. forest service. The virus kills the European pine sawfly, a devastating pest of pines in the United States and Canada.

The man "dressing" of the cross-country research. He doesn't want to build a boardwalk to the Golden Gate. It's just his way of visualizing all that lumber, 20 billion board feet of it, being wasted every year by diseases that kill, stunt or rot trees. If you add the waste due to insect damage, the total is 40 billion board feet; you could build another half-mile wide sidewalk from New York to Miami.

The elm is dying in some 60 million or so cities, the most infamous being a killer called the Dutch elm disease. Spores of this fungus become attached to an insect called the smaller European elm-bark beetle. The insect carries the fungus into the tree and the spores brush off the beetle into the tree wound.

No cure is known. The only way to take care of them is to take care of the tree. This can be a big, expensive job if you are trying, as you must, to cover every inch of bark on a

Few Die From Rattlesnake Bites But Some Cures Are Dangerous

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 17.—Laurence Klauber begins his book in this way:

"My subject really isn't very important because so few people die of snake bites. But the folklore of snake bites, that's something else."

Klauber, 78, is the retired president of the San Diego Gas and Electric company. He is regarded as the world's foremost authorities on rattlesnakes and is honorary curator of reptiles of the San Diego zoo. The most definite work ever written on the subject is Klauber's weighty two-volume, "Rattlesnakes. Their Habits, Life History and Influence on Man." Klauber has been studying and collecting rattlesnakes—and being bitten by them—since he was a boy. Once he had hundreds preserved in jars in his basement and always a few dozen live ones, too.

The mortality rate from rattlesnake bites is very low. "Only about 20 people die from snake bites each year, fewer than from bee stings," he says. The total is about one-anth-half per cent of those bitten. It is very likely that more people have died of snake bite cures than of snake bites.

Klauber says some cures call for the application of minerals, plants and parts of wounded mammals on the bite. Some people use onions, garlic, radishes, lobsters, olive oil, lard, butter or iodine.

"These are as harmless as they are helpless to the individual," says Klauber.

Perhaps the most widely known folk cure in America for snake bite is alcohol. "Never was there a more pleasant remedy for so dire an affliction. Some thought it would seek out and neutralize the venom. This theory, quite innocent at first, led to some unusual concoctions: as long as a man showed snake bite symptoms he had not had enough alcohol; and if he became inebriated the venom was powerless to injure him."

But, in truth, Klauber advises that the use of alcohol is dangerous. It speeds the circulation

VERY CONFUSING. In a new bride is the fact she has just married a man who has an identical twin. Mrs. Todd Kingland, the former Mrs. Fowler, Twin Falls, found herself in such a predicament after her wedding at the Twin Falls Presbyterian church Sunday. Her husband's best man was his twin brother, Kingsland, Long Beach, Calif. The bride and bridegroom will reside in Portland, Ore., while Terry makes his home in Whitler, Calif. He is also married. The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fowler, Twin Falls, is a local high school graduate and attended Lewis and Clark College at Portland, Ore. (Times-News photo by Gus Kelker)

"The Love of Life"

BY THE REV. LEE CARNEY
 Pastor, Church of God
 "Yes, all that a man hath will be given for his life." Job 2:4
 The love of life is universal. Doubtless there are individuals who live where it is lost; we have our suicides in every country. And doubtless, too, there are hours in every life when we are hail in love with life itself. But these things are abnormal—they are the exceptions that help to prove the rule; they only bring into relief the love of life is a universal instinct.

Is it a product of our civilization? The savage fights like a tiger against death. Is it the outcome of happiness and luxury? The beggar in the street clings to life as grimly as the lord of twenty thousand acres. It is an elementary passion of the heart. It is a universal instinct of the race.

And I want you to note, for that this love of life is not a passion-for-life-in-the-abstract. It is a passion for your own individual being. That is important. There are dreamers of dreams, seers of visions among us. The beggar in the street clings to life that his instinct craves. And it is not for a life in other states, and realms that there is a deep-down passion in my soul. My love of life is for my own strange life. It is for the life that I have known and lived, with all its limitations and with all its poverty. With all its failure and all its pain, it is for this life that a man hath will be given. And so by the road of nature do I reach the truth, that the life that God has given me is good. I know that I am a fallen man. I am corrupt and marred. I am out of gear and out of harmony. But I cannot believe that universal instinct should hunger and thirst for what is evil.

God put that instinct here just for the preservation of his gift. For the truth is that unless we loved life so, I hardly know how we should live at all. There are some few for whom life is very sweet. It is a banquet, it is a joy, it is a song. And the music of life's ill-so-takes, they hear that they could sit and listen forever to it.

But is your life like this? Is there no weariness, no fever, no fret? Is there no dull monotony, no daily cross to bear? Until you cry, perhaps, is life worth living? But behind that there is another question, is life worth knowing? — and the Creator has answered that himself, and put in the love of life within us, and we must love it whether we will or no.

— Jesus, who himself was crucified, said and still says, I came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. I want to ask, then, how it was possible for Jesus to say this? How could He justify the love of life, knowing as He did the pain and sin of life? The answer lies in Jesus' view of life. Christ took our human life and poured a flood of unexpected ra-diance on it. He flashed new light on it, discovered hidden riches, made it a new and diviner thing. And when once it became by what Jesus meant the love of it becomes a holy passion.

For Jesus, life meant character, not eating, drinking, New Testament man's life consists in the abundance of things—that he possesses. But to grow tender, merciful, true, trustful, that is life; and to grow hard, unclean, unkindly, that is death. And there is no place for pain in such a life? And have not trials and suffering been God's ministrations to awaken, to deepen, to purify, to bless?

If life is a playground, I am a pessimist. If life is a school, then I desire to live. And my love of life is God's encouragement to me to rise, to play the man, to overcome, until I reach the likeness of my Lord.

And then, for Jesus, life was fellowship with God, and God is a sharer in the agony and in the joy of things. There is no God in any living soul for any pessimist. For Jesus, God was Father, God was friend, living in the love of life within us, and we must love it whether we will or no.

— Jesus, who himself was crucified, said and still says, I came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. I want to ask, then, how it was possible for Jesus to say this? How could He justify the love of life, knowing as He did the pain and sin of life? The answer lies in Jesus' view of life. Christ took our human life and poured a flood of unexpected ra-

NEITHER RAIN OR SNOW can stop William Dye, Twin Falls city dogcatcher, from making his catch. Here Dye has caught a dog and is chatting with the school children. He visits the schools as part of his daily rounds. Dye has been a dogcatcher for 23 years and has turned in at the city pound a total of 71,250 dogs. Dye came to Twin Falls in 1933 and worked as a powder man. Almost everyday children who see the dogcatcher coming yell to their dogs to go home. Sometimes when there is a bad dog on the school road, the children help Dye in catching it. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Who has handled the most dogs in the past 20 years? Undoubtedly Bill Dye, TWIN FALLS dogcatcher the last 23 years. A recent check at the city pound showed 71,250 canines turned in during that time. Being a dog catcher presents both the good and bad sides of people, Dye believes. "I believe especially in the children are extremely grateful when he is able to return their dog. Then there was the man in the northwest part of town about 15 years ago who accused Dye of taking his dog and took a swing at him. Dye says he talked him "with a left" and the man crawled off on his hands and knees muttering, "You can keep the blasted dog."

The average dog owner is a good fellow, Dye believes, but there are always some who fail to get a license or keep their animal at home. These are the dogs which wind up in the dog pound—and occasionally cause owners to threaten to "knock my block off," Dye comments.

If a stray dog has to license, Dye makes every effort to contain the owner.

One of his more pleasant tasks is to make the rounds of the five area schools in Twin Falls, keeping check on any stray dogs. "The children all follow me and want me to take the other dogs but always promise to take their dog home," Dye chuckles.

In his work, the dogcatcher often stumbles into all sorts of human drama. Once when a little boy was badly burned, Dye saw that the license fee was paid for his dog. A fund from the policeman's fund is set aside for this purpose whenever the dogcatcher thinks a situation merits it.

What does all this mean in the meaty kind of dog (no dachshund) to owners of these breeds? A police dog or "mean old collie," Dye believes.

An early career on the Twin Falls tract, Dye was born in Kingman, Kans., and came here in 1913 working summers as a powder man, dynamiting holes for construction from the Milner to the Gooding canal.

He also recalls grubbing 100 acres on the Salmon tract with a grubbing hoe. He has sowed potato, 100 sacks per hour, for an impressive total of 1,000 acres in a 10-hour day.

The dogcatcher also remembers sowing grain sacks for the now outmoded steam-powered reaping machine. He has helped put in "about every acorn" on the area, and also helped build the Idaho power dam at Twin Falls.

Recalling the time when a man was killed during the construction work, Dye says he never could stand the sight of human blood in his mind. He was employed as a scaler and would hang by a rope 100 feet in the air, clearing away also rock from the construction area.

Dye was involved in a minor auto accident here in Jan. 1957 and was hospitalized for a while but has been back at work for some time.

for four years in FILER. This is her seventh year in the Dietrich school system.

During the years her family was young, Mrs. O'Donnell did not teach. Her husband died in 1949 and she was married to Ashton O'Donnell in 1955. He, too, died in 1959.

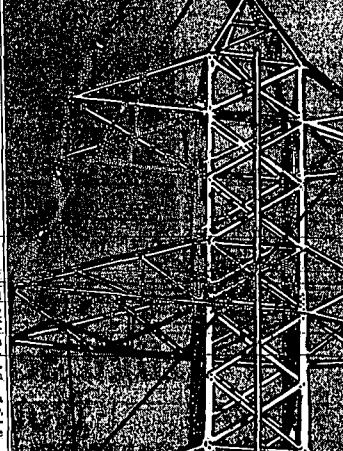

Her children are Dr. Samuel Winn, Boise, and Mrs. Anne Jeanette Albrechtson, Grand Junction, Colo. The daughter was on the Olympia ski team in 1948 and was national champion that year in Sun Valley.

Decision to be a school teacher for Mrs. McKendrick came as result of her experiences as a Sunday school teacher in the 1908 church. She taught Sunday school from the time she was 22 years old until she graduated from high school in her home in HEYBURN.

She was born in Warm Creek, the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. W. W. Wagoner.

Mrs. McKendrick was married in 1937 to M. E. McKendrick, having taught school at Mink Creek and BURLEY prior to her marriage. She taught two years in KIMBERLY prior to the family moving to Shoshone in 1947. Mrs. McKendrick has taught in Shoshone since 1950.

She has one son, Jay Dee, a senior at the University of Idaho, majoring in agronomy and forestry. McKendrick operates the family farm north of Shoshone.

MORE Than Power

COMES FROM THESE LINES

Snake River Valley Progress Is their Principal Product

Jobs, payrolls, industries, construction, agricultural processing, reclamation of new lands by pumping, better living in new homes — all these have come about with the vital assistance of abundant electric power.

The surge of economic activity in the Snake River Valley is indicated by growth in the use of electric power from Idaho Power Company lines, a growth of 149 per cent, nearly 2 1/2 times in the past 10 years. Evidence of this growth abound across southern Idaho and eastern Oregon.

Idaho Power Company, with its 1,200 employees and its $9,000,000 annual payroll, is a proud participant in the area's progress. To spark that progress by providing a most essential ingredient — abundant electric energy — Idaho Power has invested $207,000,000 since 1932 in generating, transmission and distribution facilities. These new investor dollars have strongly bolstered the area's economy by their expenditure and because they are tax-paying dollars.

At the Boardman and Orow projects alone, construction and operating payrolls have created the area's growth by nearly $44,000,000, contributing to the vigor of every segment of the economy. Another $4,000,000 went into local channels of commerce by area purchases of materials and equipment during construction of these two projects.

TAXES DOUBLE IN 10 YEARS

Tax payments by Idaho Power Company to federal, state and local governments have amounted to $45,500,000 in the past 10 years — another by-product of investor-owned enterprise that helps provide needed public services and supports the area's economic activity. The Company's 1961 tax bill of $12,200,000 was twice the amount of 10 years ago.

State taxes and other local taxing for 1961 totaled $4,800,000, of which nearly $2,200,000 goes directly for the benefit of public schools. Idaho Power Company is the state's largest taxpayer.

POWER EXPANSION CONTINUES

Idaho Power has scheduled $100,000,000 of new construction for the next 10 years. This expenditure will further strengthen the economy of the Snake River Valley by creating more jobs and industries, by local purchases and dollars in circulation, and by added tax revenues, as well as providing for all future electrical requirements of the area.

More than power is delivered by your investor-owned electric company—Snake River Valley Progress Is its Principal Product.

Did You Know?

There are 4,237 Idaho owners of Idaho Power Company, and they hold corporate voting power exceeding that of Company shareholders in any other state.

Few other business enterprises approach the widespread local ownership Idaho people have in Idaho Power Company. In addition to the more than 4,000 direct owners, there are the thousands of indirect owners represented by insurance company policies, employee pension trust funds and other institutional investments.

Direct or indirectly, you and your family are likely to be part owners of Idaho Power Company.

HAM RADIO proved to be beneficial to a Jerome woman recently when a Shoshone businessman relayed a message from her son in Korea. The businessman was E. I. ### Realtors for District Meet At Hagerman

SHOSHONE, March 17—The difference between a real estate agent and realtor was emphasized at the North Side Board of Realtors meeting Wednesday evening at the Hagerman Inn dining hall. Speakers on the subject were vice president of the district board of realtors, George Hancey, Jr., Twin Falls, and Karl Freeman, membership chairman for the region. Freeman pointed out that 61,000 men now belong to the National Board of Realtors and are working together to uphold the ethics and standards of the professional business man. "The term realtor distinguishes you as something more than a real estate agent," Freeman said, "and in working together, we are promoting the American way of life, protection for the real estate business and to land holders of the country." Hancey announced a three-day seminar to be held in Twin Falls April 5-7, where advertising and salesmanship will be stressed. He also announced an educational clinic to be held in late April. On appealing to the realtors to uphold their ethical standards, Hancey warned against infringements upon the law business and protection of their own rights. Another speaker was Robert Voss, Portland, who briefly told of his work in that state and emphasized the value of organization. James H. Muffley, Gooding,

Shoshone Ham Relays Message From Boy in Korea to Mother in Jerome

JEROME, March 17—A woman from Jerome recently wrote the Times-News Post Shola column and asked that a rather unusual note be printed. The note said "I don't know just who I should address this letter to, but whoever it is I will know if they read it. I am certainly grateful for a job well done and I wish you would contact me so I can deliver my thanks in person. "But then, I guess it would be pretty near impossible to reach all who are involved. The person I am writing is the ham radio operator in Shoshone who so kindly relayed the message of my son-in-law to my daughter-in-law to give to me. "Also, all the other operators between here and Korea who so kindly sent the message on its way. For just one tiny moment, was like having him standing in my living room once again. "The meeting was held at 7:30 p.m. April 11 at Jerome.

I am sure that other mothers with boys in the service overseas must have experienced the same mixed feelings of joy, feelings of happiness and gratitude to a person unknown. "This is one of those rare moments when I am almost overwhelmed with the goodness and kindness of people of the world over. People who, generally speaking, are considered virtual strangers are yet bound together by feelings of mutual kindness and consideration for others. Whoever you are, thank you from the bottom of my heart, and I hope you will contact me so I can thank you in person." The Times-News did a little shopping around and found out that the ham operator was E. I. Shaw, Shoshone, a long-time ham operator. Shaw, who has operated a shortwave set for about 10 years, has belonged to a group of volunteer operators throughout the world who relay the messages sent by members of the United States Armed Forces. Most of the service centers at large military posts have short wave facilities, which can be used to send messages home. The messages are initiated by the servicemen on the military installation and then relayed throughout the group of volunteer operators. Shaw explains that each Wednesday night he monitors a certain frequency and occasionally picks up a message intended for someone in this area. He will then either mail or call the message to the family. Most of the time the messages sent from military installations are delivered within 24 hours.

Vote Results Tabulated by School Board

SHOSHONE, March 17—The levy election vote was canvassed and other business considered at a meeting of the school board this week. Votes cast were unofficially reported, 140 cast, 118 for and 22 against the levy. Following an explanation by teacher, Vern R. Thomas, regarding a future business leaders of America meeting to be held in Nampa March 29-31, the board agreed to allow use of a school bus for transportation, providing 20 pupils attend. The only bid for a 48-passenger school bus was accepted, from the Williamson Body and Equipment company, Pocatello, in amount of $2,850 fee. Supt. John Severson was re-elected last month. It was noted other teachers will be offered contracts in the near future. There was discussion regarding the addition to the hot lunch room at the Lincoln school, for storage, cooler and freezer. An extra day was granted to the senior class for their trip this year as they will make a trip to the World's fair. The budget was considered, but not adopted until the next meeting.

Survey Finds Trees Suffer Over Nation

(Continued From Page 21) 100-foot tree with DDT or methoxychlor. 2. Sullatation. The beetles like to establish their broods of young in dead or dying elm trees, storm-broken limbs, firewood or any recently cut elm wood, so burn or otherwise destroy likely breeding places. Since beetles won't breed in bark-free wood, the trick can be done by removing and burning all bark or spraying it with DDT, the agriculture department says. Another gammar tree, the sugar maple, is being struck by a mysterious blight. A considerable number of these trees from Vermont to Pennsylvania are reported dying. Experts do not know the cause yet. It could be a combination of causes, including pruning of roadside trees by plows and tractors, soil compaction by traffic and the loss of forest trees to some unknown organisms plus bad weather. But the experts don't despair of holding the problem. As far ahead as can be foreseen, the old sap bucket will be hung on the trees at "sugarin' off" time. The use of the glamor trees on roadides, in parks and village squares catch the public fancy. But economically speaking, the loss of forest trees are vastly more important.

Girl From Spain Is Working Hard to Graduate From Local High School

Many persons have worked for their high school education, but few persons have worked so hard as Jesse Alabo is working for. Miss Alabo is a junior at Twin Falls high school, and she has been a student at the school since September. She hopes to graduate in the spring of 1963. A citizen of Spain, she originally came from the Basque province of Vizcaya, in the northern part of the country. Miss Alabo came to the United States five years ago. She came on a tourist's visit and visited a sister, who now lives in Elko. Miss Alabo decided to further her education while she was in Elko and started to public school there. She had finished the equivalent of a high school education in Spain, but spoke no English. So she entered high school with the determination to get her degree. She attended school in Elko for three years and then moved to Twin Falls last summer. She is living with the A. Bengoechea family in Twin Falls. Her uncle, Fred Acaturri, Casper, is a friend of the Bengoechea family. At Twin Falls high school she is taking world history, world problems, mathematics and English. She notes she lacks essential credits and won't be able to graduate until she has fulfilled the requirements next year.

FIGH AND GAME department spokesmen say big Kamloops rainbow trout like this one win awards, but four anglers in five on Lake Pend Oreille in north Idaho are fishing for kokanee or blueback salmon. The big Kamloops rainbow trout above weighs 34 1/2 pounds and is second largest specimen of this species ever taken. The lucky anglers are Cecil Hulbert, right, who pulled it out of Pend Oreille in 1959, and Howard Latta, both Spokane. The world's record Kamloops trout weighed 37 pounds and was caught in Lake Pend Oreille in 1941. Nothing since has equaled it. Fish and game photo.

Priest and Pend Oreille Lakes Turn Out Three Fishing Contest Winners

BY JIM HUMBERT
Idaho Fish-Games Department

Even without counting the big ones entered in the rainbow trout division, north Idaho's two world-renowned lakes—Pend Oreille and Lake Pend Oreille—turned out three winners in the national fishing contest for 1961 sponsored by the magazine "Field" and Bream. Other junkies from the Panhandle unquestionably will figure in the standings as soon as they are announced.

One that didn't get away, a 51-pound, 2-ounce mackinaw—largest ever taken at Priest Lake—placed third in the lake trout division. It was boated by Ken Hunter, a 49-pounder hooked by Elmo McKay ranked first among the honorable mentions in the division. The winner was a 57-pound, 2-ounce monster from a lake in Canada.

A 19-pound, 1-ounce brown trout caught by W. R. Williams at Lake Pend Oreille was fourth largest on the continent for brownies.

But the really noteworthy thing in these listings is the absence so far of northwesterners in the rainbow trout division. That excludes Pend Oreille, where the world's record Kamloops rainbow trout was given up in 1947, and the runner-up two years ago.

Word that winners from northwest waters in the rainbow trout division will be published in an early issue comes from Ted Trumblood of Nampa. He is an associate editor of the magazine and state chairman this year of the annual observance of National Wildlife week, March 18 to 24. He says several people were shaken a bit and phoned him when they noted the absence of northwest waters in the rainbow trout division.

Another easily-explained oddity is the fact that the magazine considers everything east of Idaho, in the eastern division of the fishing contest. For example, Montana's Duck Lake boasts big rainbow—16-pound, 9 1/2-ounce specimen—taken last year.

The reason for this, according to Trumblood, is that the continental divide is used as the boundary between the eastern and western divisions for rainbow trout. One effect is to exclude steelhead, the big ocean-going rainbow trout, from consideration in the eastern division.

If 1961 entries run true to form, Kamloops rainbow trout from Lake Pend Oreille again will outweigh and outmeasure the world's best in this division. They have, almost every year since 1945, and the all-time record 37-pounder is rivaled by the second largest Kamloops ever recorded anywhere: just eight ounces above of the "champion" best weight, this fish was pulled out of PEND OREILLE on November 29, 1959—the day before the season ended—by Cecil Hulbert of Spokane.

Talk about the big ones often brushes aside the fact that Idaho's best known lake will yield 125 miles of rugged shoreline also produces nearly a million kokanee or blueback salmon annually.

First there was the Rocky Mountain whitefish fishing which began along about the turn of the century and continued year after year until 1937.

When whitefish population decreased for some unknown reason to the point where they could not support a commercial fishery, millions of the little kokanees—spikes of fresh water salmon then new to the state and sometimes called blueback or silvers, mysteriously made their appearance.

Biologists contend that the most likely explanation is that the kokanee entered the waters

Street Repairs Are Undertaken

Street repair is now under way, reports Paul Newton, city engineer. Two asphalt trucks patched chuckholes on the heavily traveled streets Friday.

Newton says the street department plans to seal the cracks in most of the streets Monday in the wake of the rain. The trucks are grading gravel streets and alleys.

Until the weather clears, the major part of the remaining job will have to wait. He adds that many streets must be torn up back to back because a firm base is lacking.

of Pend Oreille from the Clark Fork river, having come downstream from the Flathead lake in Montana. By 1941 Pend Oreille was teeming with a myriad blueback salmon. Because of the second era of commercial fishing began.

During 1961, four fishermen out of five are angled for kokanee and the estimated catch totaled $62,000. This is near the 19-year average of $72,000. Because kokanee ran somewhat larger than usual, going almost a foot apiece, the harvest last year amounted to about 40 tons. A figure that is well above normal for the lake. The average hourly rate of catch for kokanee during the 1961 season was a total of three-quarters of a pound. This is considered phenomenal for hook and line fishing on any lake.

James C. Shupson, chief of fisheries, explains that age and growth characteristics are based on several thousand scale reads each year. About 82 per cent of the kokanee caught in 1961 were between 10 and 12 years of age. In their fourth year, and 7 per cent in their third year.

Kokanee are plankton feeders. During the spring when this minute plant-and-animal aquatic growth is in short supply as fish forage, kokanee enter shallow waters and feed on insects, water filices and freshwater shrimp. Plankton sampling in open water shows concentrations of feed in limited areas to be the probable cause of kokanee schooling.

What is the outlook for kokanee fishing on Lake Pend Oreille this year?

"Not in the million-fish class some people have come to expect," says Paul Shupson, area fisheries biologist. "Probably it will be low about 750,000 fish and the average length about 9 1/2 inches."

He adds that anglers, both pole and hand-liners, should be more sanguine than the figures forecast, however, because even in the poorer years, Lake Pend Oreille fishing is terrific.

Cecil Hulbert reflects the same thing. They show that during 1961 there were 81,447 fishing days on Pend Oreille—a five per cent increase over the previous season and the 10-year average.

Few Persons Die of Rattlesnake Bites But Some of Cures Can Be Dangerous

Citing medical journals, he says records show that one snake bite victim was given two quarts of corn whiskey in 12 hours, a young girl was given one and one-half quarts of whiskey, and another victim gulped down seven quarts of whisky and brandy in four days.

"And these," says this expert, "are from printed case reports of physicians. Imagine the doses applied by enthusiastic rural amateurs."

Klauber has found that most of the American folkore remedies came out of the dim past—some from pre-Columbian days in Europe, some from Indian lore. But, whatever the source, they are hazardous.

"The best thing to do if bitten by a rattlesnake, says Klauber, is to see a doctor. If no doctor is available, a victim should apply a tourniquet between the bite and the heart and loosen it for 60 seconds every 15 minutes. Then a slit should be cut just above the bite and suction

GETTING THE FEEL after about a dozen years out of the game, W. H. (Bill) Jenkins (left), holder of the world's record for sheepshearing, demonstrates to Robert F. Blalock, Jr. how it was done. Jenkins, who lives in Twin Falls, visited Blalock at the latter's ranch near Filer. The two first met when Blalock was "just a kid," Jenkins recalls. (Times-News photo)

World's Champion Sheepshearer Has Held Record for More Than 50 Years

Not many records stand for 51 years without being bettered, but W. H. (Bill) Jenkins has held the world's champion sheepshearer title just that long ago and it still tops.

The record, which probably will never be surpassed because sheep are a little bigger these days, was set by Jenkins in 1911 at a place called Tuluca siding, some 40 miles from Billings, Mont.

Business was good again, until some years later groups of shearers from New Mexico and Arizona invaded the section with portable rigs.

"After they got started, my business was ruined again and I had to give up the pens, in fact some pens were torn down by people who wanted the lumber even before I made up my mind to quit," Jenkins says.

Returning to Burley, he purchased a portable rig and operated it until 1926, following the sheep instead of the sheep following him. He moved to Twin Falls in 1922 and has resided here since that time, presently in his home at 321 Filer avenue. He continues shearing, but now operates a bus-body shop, now operated by his son, Lartied.

In addition to Lartied, other children include Bob Jenkins, Pocatello; Del Jenkins, Twin Falls; Mrs. Hazel Hardwick, and Mrs. Eugena Hart, both California; and Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, Twin Falls.

"My wife and I often wonder where we would have been today had I accepted an offer made when I set that world's record in sheepshearing," Jenkins said.

He recalled that the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, the concern manufacturing shears he used, offered to hire him and move him, his wife and three children to South America to set

At the time the record was set he was working for the Ray Brothers meat company, an outfit owning 40,000 head.

"Setting that record was a thrill, but so was the lunch they gave me. They would not even let me eat with the other contestants because of that 'rib' big steak they put before me during the brief lunch break we just what I needed to really get down to business," he recalled.

"The meat must have agreed with him because his record
