Grain Future List Irregular During Week

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP) Grain futures were active and irregular this week on the Chicago board of trade. Compared with last Friday, wheat was off 1/4 to 1/8, corn off 1/4 to 1/8, oats up 1/4 to 1/8, soybeans up 1/4 to 1/8 and drummed large lot 13 to 20 cents. Evening up to March 24, 1962, futures and a government report on farmer planting intentions as of March 1 dominated the market.

March deliveries expired in a flurry of trading Wednesday. Price changes were small except in soy, where a large open interest caused a burst of last-minute selling. March soy would slip 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 cents lower on the day.

The planting report indicated farmers intended to reduce acreage of wheat, oats and barley this year. A planned 3 1/2 per cent boost in corn acreage caused a drop of 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 cents in the corn pit. Prices lost over a cent before falling.

Dealers were confused by the corn report, but some pointed out that farmers had until March 30 to sign up for the small excess grain program. Oats plantings, delayed by recent poor weather, were also expected to fall below the March 1 forecast.

While corn futures were very active, deliveries against the March were readily taken and the price ended firm. Dealers said many grain men apparently chose to hold their corn for higher prices.

Wheat futures were relatively slow. Export and commercial buying absorbed most of the day's sales, although prices weakened in a late sell-off on Friday. The planting report indicated a 16 per cent drop in spring wheat acreage.

Further large loadings and encouraging reports on soybean plantings and processor stocks distracted buying to bean futures. Active meal deliveries rose to new highs for the season early in the week.

Trading for Stocks Light In Past Week

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP) - Neither buyers nor short sellers made much money on the stock market this week as most issues held to a narrow range in a relatively light trading.

In the popular averages the market had three moderate declines—then stopped in the final two sessions with buyers taking a little profit in the final hour of trading.

The early selling pressure reflected some further "spicy" speculation. "Bull" money again raised doubts that the national economic recovery was getting back to normal, as was generally believed a week earlier.

Perhaps the most distressing economic statistic of the week was a fourth consecutive decline in construction activity during February to a 13-month low. This put building material shares in a black-out from the important steel-union negotiations in Pittsburgh.

Auto output was scheduled this week at a two-month high and a record.

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP) (USDA) - Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week ending March 24, 1962.

Consumer to Decide if '62 To Be Good Business Year

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP) - The consumer holds the answer to whether 1962 is going to be a moderately good business year, good or excellent.

This became apparent during the week as the first quarter of the year ended with the economic scales still teetering. Business didn't live up to expectations in January and February.

The big question is whether the man in the street will translate this mood into action and open his pocketbook.

Some findings suggest caution in appraising the prospects for further increases in the rate of spending but there are no findings that would point to a pending downturn, the center said.

The survey indicated that more consumers intend to buy new automobiles than a year ago.

That many already have turned their attention to purchases is reflected by the good rate of automobile sales so far this year.

A previous strike tied up a big shipment of Pacific coast shipbuilding. The labor department said the strike's impact has hurt the general electric company, Westinghouse Electric corporation said it would be curtailed for 14 days.

Citizen Unit Is Formed to Aid Library

An organizational meeting for a citizens library committee was held Friday in the Twin Falls public library by a group of women interested in the growth of library services.

Arthur DeVolder, city librarian, gave a resume of library operations and expenses for the past five years. This indicated growth of the library collection and services has been retarded by lack of adequate funds to pay for additional books and sufficient salaries to retain professional help.

The questions asked whether voluntary labor would aid some of the problems. DeVolder said some volunteers would aid in routine tasks, but that regular hours of service and attention for certain types of research work required persons who could be regularly scheduled and would be familiar with library procedures.

DeVolder outlined the need for library shelving to keep up with book additions as well as the need for building expansion. The library which was built in 1954 is now nearly bound and beyond expansion.

The group decided it would set up organization procedures and meet at 10 a.m. April 13, during National Library Week. They will then appoint officers, approve by-laws and set up committees.

Many members stressed the importance of the library as a training agency, a place where supplementary education aids are available when schools close at 3:30 p.m., and the help children receive in studies during summer months.

During the meeting, the need for a children's library was stressed in orientation of elementary classes and coordination between the library and schools.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Anna Paul Olson, Mrs. Ruth Mrs. Joseph Salisbury, Mrs. Eugene Sturall, Mrs. Orlin Trail, Mrs. E. J. Swanson, Mrs. M. H. Herlinger, Mrs. Kenneth Siew, Mrs. Marion Taylor, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. John Williamson, Mrs. Dennis Lovo and Mrs. Bernice Felt.

Warren J. Murphy, Twin Falls president of the Oval Hansen for congress committee during an organizational meeting Sunday.

Murphy said Saturday, "We know Hansen is dedicated to the principle that we need a positive foreign policy which will not surrender to such a policy as we will, and at the same time give us the initiative in the world-wide struggle against communism."

He added that the committee believes "the government policy should encourage self-help and individual initiative and recognize the right of our citizens to earn a profit and the fruits of their labor. We feel that the state should have a right to manage their affairs in the manner that they are willing and able to do so with a minimum of interference from Washington."

Murphy declared, "Our organization feels that the place of state and local government in the United States must be preserved."

He added that the committee has found a man who has a proven record as both a leader and a legislator in his position as a newly elected in the Idaho house of representatives.

Tariffs Blamed For Mine Slump

KELLOGG, March 24 (AP)—Jack Hawley, Republican candidate for the U.S. senate, told mine workers today that the cause of the desperate condition of Idaho's mining industry is a result of the national administration's tariff policy.

"Congress spends billions on military aid to help our foreign competitors put you out of business while the administration promotes lower tariffs," Hawley said.

Philip Struck By Tomatoes During Tour

BUENOS AIRES, March 24 (AP)—A nationalist teen-ager splattered the light gray suit of Prince Philip of England with two eggs and several tomatoes today as he neared the closing stages of an otherwise serene South American tour.

"What a disgrace," exclaimed one policeman, caught by surprise by the barrage.

Philip, also caught by surprise, was shouting "no" as he fled. He seemed unharmed, but he was splattered with tomato juice. Police immediately ringed the husband of Queen Elizabeth II and arrested five youths. They were identified as teen-age members of an ultra-nationalist youth club called Tacuara which has been causing trouble recently.

The duke started a 60-day tour early in February and until Friday had encountered no unpleasant incidents.

Democratic Chieftains Set Large Boise Rally Monday

BOISE, March 24 (AP)—Democratic experts in the art of winning elections came to Idaho Monday to discuss strategy with leaders of a party which believes 1962 is its year for big victory.

The delegation of national committee workers will be headed by John Bailey, outspoken national chairman.

There are some party leaders, however, who have said privately that this enthusiasm, so important in winning elections, may also wreck the democratic campaign.

They say that the key to democratic success is a party which is willing to stand behind the nominees picked in the June 5 primary election.

A party official, who declined to give his name, said he is convinced it will be a real struggle to pull the party together before any one candidate for governor after the primary.

He blamed lack of unity among the Democrats for their defeat in the "God of Robert McLaughlin, the party's nominee for United States senator. And he warned of the possibility of similar troubles this year.

Conducting a vigorous campaign based on personal contact with the voters, McLaughlin won the nomination by upsetting veteran state legislator Craig Peterson of American Falls in a runoff.

Two Negroes Assured Spot For Alabama

BERMINGHAM, Ala., March 24 (AP)—Two Negroes appear headed for automatic election to the governing body of the county by democratic party here.

They would be the first of their race to hold a party post in Birmingham in many years and perhaps the first ever.

The two, unopposed in their precincts, were among 10 Negroes accepted as candidates in the May primaries for positions on the 114-member Jefferson county Birmingham democratic executive committee.

The agreement to let the Negroes run — and virtually assure the election of two of them — was disclosed today.

Foreign Fund Hoard Found

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Congressional investigators say they have uncovered a multi-million-dollar hoard of foreign aid funds.

A report issued today by the house foreign affairs committee said there were "hidden reserves" of 17 million dollars in Korea. Aid officials have reportedly reported those funds "publicly," but they have not been committed at all, much less spent, the report said.

Investigation on spot checks in only three countries, Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey, committee investigators suggested the existence of "substantial hidden reserves available in all countries" receiving American aid.

The committee said this "hoard" could well run much higher because bookkeeping entries made toward the end of each government fiscal year allow vastly larger amounts committed than are actually obligated or made available to finance economic imports.

Alaskan Hunters Arouse Russians

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—A flight of Alaskan bush pilots that flew over Kamchatka, the Soviet Union, last week, has aroused the interest of Russian officials. The flight was made by a group of hunters from the federal aviation agency said today.

At least one U.S. military plane was put up to counter the Soviet action, an FAA spokesman said, but the Russian planes had turned back by the time. The activity was over in a few minutes.

Travel Talk Featured at Burley Meet

BURLEY, March 24 — Philip Geary, master adventurer, today set out on a "hitherto unexplored corner of the world," was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Knite and Fork club Thursday night at the Elks club in Burley.

The audience was asked by Geary to join him and board a jet plane, which he referred to as a "Flying Torch" and places many of the countries and places many of the countries and places which he has traveled.

The first trip was to South America, to Colombia and down the Caribbean on a journey for a hidden village. During this trip, Betty Owens, the finest archaeologist in Colombia, accompanied Geary through storms and many difficult encounters before reaching the village of Cogotas, the lost Colombia Tyrone civilization. The strange people only came to the village, when summoned by their priest, for fiestas. The priest was the "Mona Lisa" of the village. Geary tried some spontaneity tests and by being friendly and interested in these people, was able to find out the priest's name. He was taken to the "Takemo," the holy temple and was allowed to take pictures of the "Mona Lisa," a mask clipped from black wood, that had been excavated from a grave of the lost civilization.

This mask was a religious one, with no holes for eyes, ears or mouth. When Geary asked why this mask had been left in the temple, he was told that once a year the people went to the holy temple and the priest danced the mask around them. He represented the great one.

This primitive tribe, in his search for religious art, added up to a saying of the great Carl Sandburg, "Only one man represents all men." Geary represented all women and only one child represents all children.

Before leaving the village, Geary and Betty Owens were able to gain translation of one of the stones. These people lived on the roots of the earth. Geary created the earth.

Next on the tour was a trip to the holy city of Ethiopia, to visit the "Interior of the mountain," "Lullibela." In this mountain 11 churches were loved out, roots of the earth, 150 feet long. The chief priest, a man of an years of age, greeted Geary as he entered the cavern church, where the Easter services were being held. During this service one word was spoken, "Hallelujah" and the priest tolled the bells all a gesture of friendship and faith.

As a finale, Geary went to Daromatis, India on a goodwill trip to see the Dulliaman. He took a gift from Bishop Honnema, who is over some 50,000 Buddhists in America today.

Geary recounted how India has purchased 17 million dollars worth of grain from the United States, which will be a shipment to them every day for four years. India paid for this in rice, which is not negotiable, so the United States has left the money over there and it is to be used for the various expenses of the U. S. in India. This gesture, he said, on the part of the United States, has done much to build up confidence among the two nations.

India is the largest democracy, population wise, of the world and will bear watching as it could become a burden on our own doorstep. Geary urged "that we keep the lights of freedom burning to this same day, all citizens will enjoy our four great freedoms."

Following the talk Geary answered questions.

Geary is a native Pennsylvanian and attended Gordon college in Boston, Mass. He started touring the countries of the world in the year of 1940. His wife, Jean, traveled in Russia before they were married and has written several books. The Gearys have a 2-year-old daughter, also named Jean.

The next meeting of the Knite and Fork club will be on May 4 at the Biggley Elks club and the speaker will be Paul Whitcomb.

100 Builders Attend Road Parley Here

Hazards of using high alkali cement and resulting damages in road construction were discussed by about 100 contractors from the Idaho branch of Associated General Contractors and representatives of the state highway board during a one-day meeting Friday in the city hall.

G. Bryce Bennett, Boise, state highway engineer, and other officials from the highway department and AGC conferred during the meeting on highway construction problems.

"Contractors and highway engineers reviewed the entire highway program in a common effort to build better highways for less money," said John E. Mallory, Twin Falls, executive secretary of the Idaho AGC branch.

Other topics discussed during the two sessions included the 1951 pneumatic rolling specifications, specifications for graded prices on extra work, attitudes of highway department personnel and proper submission of claims.

The contractors also reviewed specifications on highway construction and their proper application. Officials at the meeting included Clifford R. Sien, Boise, division engineer for the bureau of public roads; A. D. Stanley,

Haitians Release American Doctor

PORT AU PRINCE, Haïti, March 24 (AP) — Dr. Manfred von Linds sailed from Haïti today aboard the luxury liner Homeatic bound for Nassau and New York.

The 38-year-old New York plastic surgeon boarded the ship shortly after midnight. The Home Lines vessel was due in New York in the middle of next week.

Von Linds was accompanied by New York attorney Gerald Barandus.

Von Linds had been held five days without charge while Haitian authorities investigated the death of his wife, the former Jeanette Rogers. She died on their honeymoon March 14 in their hotel room at Cap Haïtien, 200 miles from here. She was a New York and Kansas City socialite.

Von Linds' other attorney, Charles Emmett, Jr., said the surgeon had been cleared completely in the investigation.

Solon Claims Respect Lost Among Latins

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Republican of Maine, today said the United States has lost the respect and support of most Latin Americans by what she called its failure to give up its "old-fashioned" communist control of Cuba by Fidel Castro.

In a senate speech, Mrs. Smith forecast a possible agreement of communism throughout Latin America, "with Castro as the dictator," in that part of the hemisphere.

She also predicted the "multi-billion dollar Alliance for Progress program by President Kennedy, will fail unless it is drastically reshaped."

Most of her comments, she said, were based upon personal conversations with Latin American leaders and people during a recent trip down to the Caribbean. She said she had met with five other members of the senate—appropriations committee.

"Those with whom I talked, she said, agreed there would have been some criticism of any U.S. intervention against Castro but noted that Castro had won wide following and support because he was a young man and light and we would not."

She said many Latin Americans regarded the Alliance for Progress program as a "democratic attempt to buy their friendship."

The chief executive drove the four miles to Eisenhower's California style stone and wood residence from his week-end retreat, Singer Bill Crosby's home in the Silver Spur Ranch area.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger reported afternoon that Kennedy and Eisenhower engaged in "a general discussion of the situation around the world." Kennedy, he added, had brought Eisenhower "up to date on a number of matters."

Salinger did not indicate exactly how long the talks continued, but said on an international affairs.

Walters Says Power Firms Water Tangle

BOISE, March 24 (AP)—State Commissioner John G. Walters, a Democratic candidate for governor, asserted today that argument over public and private development of power "gets tangled up in the matter of Idaho's water rights."

"There is no basic conflict," he said, "between the principle of public power and the retention by Idaho of its valuable water rights."

"But, similarly, there is no assurance that just because a hydroelectric project is developed by privately owned utilities that it is not a threat to those water rights."

"Opponents of the public power groups argue that to authorize the public development of the power means to deliver a death blow to future upstream development of water storage projects which would serve Idaho."

"But they forget to tell us that, similarly, private development of those sites poses exactly the same threat to Idaho."

"What Idaho must do is be certain that no matter what utility or group is given the right to build Snake River power dams, this state's rights as Snake River water upstream are fully protected by law and contract."

"We must never give away those rights simply to benefit down-river power development. But now that downstream development is carried out is something entirely different."

Jobless Rolls Dip Reported For February

BOISE, March 24 (AP)—Total unemployment in Idaho declined during February but a reduction in the work force left the number and slightly below that a month earlier, the employment security agency reported today.

"Weather conditions strongly affected employment levels in February," the agency said. "Cold weather at the beginning and end of the month sandwiched around a relatively mild spell during mid-February resulted in a considerable amount of labor turnover."

"The labor force continued to contract as part time workers withdrew from the labor market. An increase in job opportunities and incoming season migrant workers should boost labor force totals in March."

The agency listed total employment in February as 228,700 compared with 230,000 in January and 217,000 in February last year. The civilian labor force was listed as 209,900 in February, 217,500 in January and 251,900 in February last year.

"Total unemployment was 21,800 in February, 12,500 in January and 15,100 in February last year."

"Employment in the potato processing industry climbed to the highest level this season," the agency said. "This winter's processing run is expected to taper off somewhat sooner than usual."

"Nearly all major industries reported employment gains compared with a year ago. Largest gains were in construction and in educational establishments. Substantial gains were also reported in lumber trade and miscellaneous manufacturing groups."

Agricultural employment in February was listed as 44,400 compared with 45,100 in January and 49,200 in February, 1961.

DAYTON WINS INVITATION CHAMPIONSHIP

Flyers Drop St. John's 73-67 to Collect First Title in Twelve Attempts

NEW YORK, March 24 (UPI)—Big Bill Chmielewski, who nearly quit school earlier this season, led Dayton to a 73-67 victory over St. John's in the final of the National Invitation basketball tournament and 12 years of frustration for coach Tom Blackburn. A crowd of 16,337 at Madison Square garden, including a delicious delegation of nearly 3,500 Dayton students and townsfolk, watched the towering Flyers from Ohio win their coveted championship for the first time in 10 tries.

SKI CHAMPION Jim Gaddis, University of Utah, displays the form that let him win the NCAA alpine championship yesterday and place second in the downhill Saturday. (AP wire photo)

Of the nine previous teams which Blackburn had brought to the NIT since 1951, five had reached the finals only to lose out.

However, the rugged, 6-foot, 10-inch Chmielewski, a sophomore from Detroit, made this the best team Blackburn ever has brought to this tournament. He scored 24 points and made the battle with his rival 6-foot, 10-inch center, Lesley Ellis, strictly "no contest." Chmielewski held Ellis to five field goals and a consistently outbounced his 6-foot-7 center.

Because of his superior play during four tournament games in which he scored a total of 107 points, Chmielewski was voted the NIT most valuable player award.

There was a time back in early February, however, when Blackburn feared he might lose his young center, perhaps for good. As that time, Chmielewski, homesick and discouraged because his father was out of work in Detroit, announced that he was leaving school. He went home for one day and then decided to return to Dayton.

The Dayton victory ruined St. John's bid for an unprecedented fourth NIT championship. Teams coached by Joe Lapchick have won this tournament in 1943, 1944, and 1955.

For the first nine minutes of the game, it appeared that St. John's might attain its goal. Ellis scored his first two field goals and Kevin Loughery added six points to send the Redmen into a 10-0 lead.

Then Chmielewski took command. He ran off seven of Dayton's next nine points to put the Flyers ahead 20-10. The teams battled through three more ties before two field goals each by Chmielewski and Loughery, plus a hook shot by Chmielewski, gave the Flyers a 35-29 bulge at halftime.

Loughery's rock-socket play during the second half allowed Dayton's lead to 50-26, but St. John's never was 40 come that close again for the remainder of the game.

Loughery's six field goals and Ellis' 13-for-13 free throw shooting, however, prevented Dayton from pulling away to a commanding lead during the second half.

Although virtually muffled from the floor, during the vital stages of the game, Ellis scored his first two field goals and a total of 69 for three games. Loughery was high scorer for St. John's today with 26 points.

In the third-place consolation game, which preceded the final, Loyola defeated Eugene 55-54. John Egan, Jerry Harkness, and Ron Miller each scored 20 points for Loyola.

At the finish today better than 60 miles an hour.

Gaddis on the other hand, was disgraced with his finish. He fell off to a flying start, but the wax he used did not help out at the sticky finish.

"I just didn't make a good run," he said as he threw his gloves on the ground before hearing that he had been clocked in a speed 1:44.5. Then he shrugged his shoulders in disbelief at his fine performance.

John Southard, Colorado, came in third with a clocking of 1:45.5.

The final event in this ninth annual NCAA competition, the cross country, will be run Sunday.

CHMIELEWSKI SCORES one of his 24 points in leading the Dayton Flyers past St. John's in the final of the National Invitation basketball tournament in New York Saturday. Trying to defend are Lesley Ellis (25) and Willie Hall (20). Dayton won 73-67. (AP wirephoto)

Pioneer League Teams Report Into Southern Training Camps This Week

BY THE Associated Press
The annual jockeying for players for the "big club" starts in earnest for six Pioneer League managers next week in baseball training camps from Waycross, Ga., to Homestead, Fla.

Friday was the formal start of spring drills for the Idaho Falls-Russell, Ft. Haines City, Fla., and Monday is the formal opening date for billings at the Pioneer and Magic Valley at Leesburg, Fla.

The others have already started—Bolsa at Waycross, Great Falls at Vero Beach and Knoxville at Ocean Fla.

Actually, most of the players who will be with Pioneer clubs this season have been in the southlands since February, but the start of the formal training camps for each club marks the start of the personnel shakeup by the parent teams.

The decision on what farmhands go where will not be made until shortly, before the major leaguers break camp next month.

The Pioneer league season opens in roughly a month, previous to the personnel shakeups to select and audit their material.

All six leagues have good potential to draw on with strong working agreements. Manager Al Unser of Boise has the Milwaukee Braves organization, Al Roming of Great Falls the Los Angeles Dodgers, Bill Slack of Pocatello the Boston Red Sox, George Basinger of Billings the St. Louis Cardinals, Jack Phillips of Magic Valley, the Philadelphia Phillies, and George Bonak of Rockford, Ill. Don Grant of Killebrew, Mont., and Bill Clark of Columbia, Mo.

"Planning... and... accomplishments to date are far ahead of normal and ahead of any league I've seen yet."

Meanwhile back home, President Claude Engberg said at Salt Lake City advance ticket sales are "up over last year in all six league cities."

He also announced the signing of a whole new slate of six umpires for 1962. They are George Bonak of Pittsburgh, Jim Duncan of Dumas, Fla., Robert Thompson of Pawaukee, Wis., Joe David of Rockford, Ill., Don Grant of Killebrew, Mont., and Bill Clark of Columbia, Mo.

"I'm pleased to say that the Pioneer, with all its size and stability, can count on getting a good share of youngsters who have a future in the game."

Robert Freitas, a field man for the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, made a tour of the Pioneer this winter and reported to President George Trautman:

"Oregon Thinclads Coast to Victory"
BERKELEY, Calif.—March 24 (AP)—Dwight Jackson and Jerry Carr led the University of Oregon to easy triangular and dual meet victories over San Jose State and the University of California today.

Durston covered the 800 in 1:42 to erase an Oregon record by a half second, and the fleet-footed Carr captured both hurdles to top all Oregon performers for 100 and 200.

In the triangular meet, Oregon finished with 81 points to San Jose's 62 and California's 148. Oregon defeated San Jose 75-50 and California 90-22 in dual meet competition, and San Jose routed 27-0, 20-0.

The Ducks' Pete Foreman also ran a spectacular 9:01.7 two-mile race.

California's Gene Johnson delivered the biggest upset in the field events, topping Ben Jones' Venice Barons in the high jump. Johnson cleared 6-foot, 10-inches while the best that the favored Venice was able to do was a 6-foot, 6-inch performance.

It was the second time in two weeks that Iana had been timed in 2:05 over the Occidental track, and the second time that his lane length was shorter than the required 220 yards.

Officials immediately measured the distance after Iana finished to his victory during today's Occidental-Oregon State dual meet and ruled it to be 220 yards. But a second check after the meet was over indicated the length of Iana's lane was 5 feet, 9 1/4 inches shorter.

Last week his lane was almost five yards short.

The exact situation happened here last year when University of Southern California's Bruce Mann appeared to have set a 220-yard record, and the distance was several yards short of 220 yards.

Utah's Gaddis Wins NCAA Alpine Crown

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif., March 24 (AP)—Slalom champion Jim Gaddis of Utah shook his flu attack enough to win the alpine combined title and Norwegian dominated the jumping today at the NCAA alpine championship. Two Denver skiers, Mike Baur and Oyvind Floydstad, won the day's two single events to give their school a commanding, but not runaway, lead in the team race.

Baur, a 19-year-old who was skiing since he was 3, whipped through the 30-gate 1 1/2 mile downhill course in 1:44.8 to slip Gaddis by a tenth of a second.

But the runner-up spot gave Gaddis the alpine title, based on finishes in slalom and downhill. He won the slalom Friday.

Floydstad, though he didn't have the day's longest effort, won the quarter jumping with 22 1/2 points, a bare four-tenths ahead of Washington's Torbjorn Egge.

Oris Selbeck, Denver, the defending champion, leaped 222 feet on his final effort. But he ranked only fourth in points, which are based in part on style.

Arminet Frilling of the University of Idaho was 13th in jumping with 182.1 points.

Jon Inada of Idaho was 24th with 102.3 points.

Today's downhill event was staged in warm, sunny weather. The run started at the 8,000-foot level and finished at the 6,200-foot mark making a vertical descent of 1,800 feet through 20 markers over a course a mile and a quarter long.

Baur, of Austrian descent, is from Aspen, Colo., and has been skiing since he was three years old.

Beaten Paret Fights for Life in Operating Room Of New York Hospital

NEW YORK (Sunday) March 25 (UP)—Stricken former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret underwent delicate brain surgery early this morning, less than two hours after he was beaten to a helpless hulk by Emilio Grifflth in their title bout last night at Madison Square Garden. Paret, who had been unconscious ever since the scheduled 15-round bout was stopped at 2:09 of the 12th round, went on the operating table at approximately 3 a. m. (EST). He was rushed to Roosevelt hospital by ambulance in "serious condition" after he was carried out of the Garden at 11 p. m.

A priest administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church before Paret left the Garden and Dr. Harry Kleiman of the New York State athletic commission testified that the Cuban fighter's condition as "serious."

Dr. Alexander Schick of the New York State athletic commission performed the operation at Roosevelt hospital.

Dr. Lawrence Schick, a brain surgeon at the hospital, said the 25-year-old Paret of Santa Clara, Cuba, had suffered a cerebral concussion and that the

Blue Lakes to Host Pro-Am Golf Tourney

The first pro-am golf tournament of the season will be conducted Monday at the Blue Lakes Country Club course.

Home pro Dave Killen said most of the professionals in southern Idaho are expected to attend the meet if weather permits. He noted that 25 professionals are now in the Idaho chapter of the PGA.

The entire field will tee-off tomorrow.

Killen also said the chapter will conduct a business meeting Sunday evening at the home of Cliff Whittle, Twin Falls amateur pro. The meet will line out details for the tournament season.

In the pro-am, each professional will be teamed with four amateurs. He will play partners with each and the two-man teams will be awarded the best ball score on each hole. Amateurs are allowed part of their handicap.

The Blue Lakes meet will be the first of 17 staged in southern Idaho this year.

Why I Am Excited about The Wall Street Journal

Not long ago I picked up my first copy of The Wall Street Journal. I expected full read; big, lugubrious surprise when I found some of the best articles I'd ever read.

I read for a Trial Subscription. For the first time in my life I began to understand why some men get ahead while others stay behind. I read about new inventions, new industries and new ways of doing business that are helping ambitious men to live more luxuriously.

Also I got some good ideas on what to do to reduce living expenses and taxes.

I am an average hundred-dollar-a-week man. I am excited about The Wall Street Journal.

The Journal is typical. The Journal is a wonderful aid to successful men making $7,000 to $30,000 a year. It is valuable to thousands of small investors. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men who want to earn more money.

The Journal's content is the complete business DAILY. It has the latest news on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. It costs $2 a year but you can get a Trial Subscription for five months for $5. Just fill out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail it up to Bill Young.

WALTER BURNETT FRANCE CALLED BY WALES, March 24 (UP)—Wales defeated defending champion France 3-0 today in the five-nation rugby union tournament. It was the biggest upset of this season's competition.

DeWitt Awaits Formality of Buying Reds

CINCINNATI, March 24 (UP)—Only formalities remain before William O. DeWitt owns the Cincinnati Reds.

A final agreement yesterday between DeWitt and the Crosley foundation, holder of 90 per cent of the stock of the baseball club, announced DeWitt had offered $1,625,000 for the club and the foundation had agreed to sell the stock.

DeWitt said he would be president and sole stockholder. He admitted he had partners but declined to identify them, saying only that all money involved was "local."

Ferrari Team Wins 12-Hour Sebring Race

SEBRING, Fla., March 24 (UP)—Jonkin Bonnier, Sweden, and Lucien Bianchi, Belgium, given a break when Stirling Moss and James Ireland were disqualified from the 12-hour endurance sports car race Saturday.

The Swedish-Belgian team, which had been leading the race, was forced to retire because of a broken clutch in the eighth hour.

When the winning car got the checkered flag, it was Bianchi at the wheel. He was mobbed in "victory lane."

Coming home third overall in the 12-hour race was another Ferrari, but this was a slower Grand Touring car, masterfully driven by world champion Grand Prix driver Phil Hill, San Jose, Calif., and Olivier Gendebien, Brussels, Belgium.

It was the fifth time a Ferrari was victorious at Sebring. No other manufacturer has won more than once.

And this race turned out to be a Ferrari show. One Ferrari or another was in the lead almost constantly. But those that led earlier did not finish.

English ace Moss, a perennial favorite here who is usually plagued with Sebring misfortune, had more of the same today.

His co-driver, Ireland of Scotland, made a pit stop and engine trouble did not complete the required 20 laps before taking on fuel. Ireland protested that the pit steward broke the seal on his gas tank without instructions. The pit steward told a different story and Ireland and Ireland were disqualified.

The Rodriguez brothers, Ricardo and Pedro of Mexico City, led the race in their 2.5 liter Ferrari for most of the morning and much of the afternoon, but their engine failed in the sixth hour.

Grifflth Regains Welterweight Title

Grifflth, stalling away at the champion both to the head and body, remained control of the fight in the seventh round and he had Benny bleeding early in the 12th after an exchange on the floor like a rag doll.

Then he suddenly caught Paret with a right to the jaw and the champion sagged back against the ropes in a neutral position. Grifflth was on him like a tiger and brought right upper cut after right upper cut to Paret's undefended jaw. Paret sagged back against the corner and his head went through the ropes as Grifflth continued his attack.

Then Goldstein intervened and Paret went down to the floor like a rag doll.

Grifflth, who lost the title to Paret on a disputed decision at St. Louis Sept. 30, took command of the fight from the opening bell. He scored with hard rights in both the first and second rounds, opened a cut under Paret's right eye in the third round and continued the bombardment through the fourth and fifth rounds.

It was still all Grifflth's way in the sixth until Paret suddenly landed a terrific left hook with his second left in the round.

Grifflth went down on the seat of his pants, but three dazed for a full five seconds, then came slowly to his feet and completed the round without further trouble.

Paret's chance was gone, however, because Grifflth came out fresh for the seventh round and continued to dominate the fight with his sharp and slashing exchanges. Paret, knocked out by NTA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer last Dec. 9, looked slow and tentative and repeatedly missed with his punches.

The fight was a close one until Grifflth landed on a round in the eighth, 8-2-1 after 11 rounds.

A crowd of 2,000 paid a gross take of $27,000. Grifflth fought for $100,000 plus 20 per cent of the gate while Paret defended for $50,000 or 30 per cent of the gate whichever was higher.

CINCINNATI REPEATS AS NCAA CHAMPION

Hogue Stars as Bearcats Dump Ohio State 71-59; Wake Forest Takes Third

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 24 (UPI)—Cincinnati's Bearcats, fueled by a season of excitement and powered by big Paul Hogue, rolled over Ohio State 71-59 tonight to replay of last year's NCAA championship game and became the fourth team to win the national title in two consecutive seasons. Seething all year long at what they felt was a lack of proper recognition for the 70-65 overtime victory over

THINGS WERE BETTER for Ohio State when John Havlicek led his driving shot against Wake Forest Friday night to send the Buckeyes into a futile attempt at knocking off Cincinnati in the NCAA final. Bearcats Feel They've Made Their Point

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 24.—"We showed them tonight we're the nation's No. 1 college basketball team," said Cincinnati coach Ed Jucker after his Bearcats routed Ohio State 71-59 in their second straight national championship basketball game. "This is a real great satisfaction to me and the boys," he said tonight. "Everyone thought it was a fluke when we beat Ohio State last year for the title. We had a point to prove tonight, and we proved it."

River Drops At Pocatello

POCATELLO, March 24 (AP)—The Pocatello river dropped today under Friday's rain but it is expected to rise again by Tuesday.

The weather bureau reported the river depth in Pocatello today at 5.87 feet, or 13 of a foot under flood stage. This compares with 6.10 feet Friday and 6.18 feet Thursday. Critical flood stage on the river is 6.5 feet.

The weather bureau here reported that the river forecast center in Portland predicts that within two days the area will see precipitation in the form of rain up to 5.00 feet will maintain all local streams at their present levels today and cause them to rise Sunday and Monday.

The Pocatello weather bureau says the river is expected to rise from data gathered here and channeled through the Boise weather bureau office in Boise.

Meanwhile, there was some minor flooding south of the city caused by a break in the Fort-mend river bank.

State High Court to Hear Legislature Case Tuesday

BOISE, March 24 (AP)—The Idaho supreme court hears arguments Tuesday in a case which not only will determine how many representatives are chosen for the 1963 legislature but is important in the underlying struggle that is behind the legal action.

The court will hear arguments to bring the suit up for hearing only two weeks after it got the case. It has indicated it will make its decision by the end of the week to permit Secretary of State Arnold Williams to make a final deadline for certifying house membership to the counties.

As issue before the court is whether a 1933 formula should be used in determining the number of representatives to be chosen by each county in this year's election—whether a 1951 law should remain in force or whether the 1933 formula should be used.

Behind the action is the perennial struggle between rural and urban districts. Between residents of areas of expanding population and those which are standing still or declining.

The pending case is important because the court's decision will help one side or the other in that struggle.

If the court sustains the third district court and rules that the 1933 formula should be used, counties which have expanding populations will get 16 more seats in the next legislature than they would have if the court reverses that decision.

Those 16 seats—and votes—could be important in the almost certain effort to reappportion the house membership.

The problem of reapportionment results from the understandable reluctance of many counties to give up their representation if it already has.

Yet, unless the size of the house is permitted to increase after each census, an equitable plan of reapportionment cannot be devised without taking away representation from areas which fail to grow at a rate equal to the average for the state.

Every Idaho county now gets one representative, regardless of its population—and two counties have total population of less than 1,000 each.

On the opposite extreme, Ada county, with more than 20,000 population, now has four representatives. Under provisions of the 1933 formula it would have 11—approximately one-for-each 10,000. Thus, even if the district court's ruling is upheld,

Forest Service Studying Plans

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The U.S. forest service has announced it is studying plans by which the competitive position of the lumber industry might be improved, Sen. Henry Dworkin, D., Va., said today.

He said he questioned U.S. forest chief Richard McArdie during a recent senate appropriations subcommittee hearing. Dworkin said he was told that legislation would be needed to remove present handicaps for American producers in competition with Canada's mills. He said legislative changes also would be necessary to remove the present requirement that timber sales must be at fair market value.

THE BIG POOL below Shoshone falls stands out in stark realism in this aerial photograph taken before the present runoff of the Snake river started. There are many who say the hole someday will be entirely dry the year round. Taking a tip from these persons, the local Chamber of Commerce plans...

to play up the former "thundering cataract" as a dry fall featuring sheer, water-smoothed cliffs and a wondrous view of the canyon itself. Thus, famous Shoshone seems doomed to join another, but now dry, fall below the present Miller dam. (Times-News photo)

Shoshone Falls' Fame Might Be Saved by Promoting Water Lack

the area, at Rock Creek and, as far as Fort Boise, all mentioned the "big falls." Most of it turned out to be one of the highest in the United States.
But curiously enough, the first expedition of white men to journey down the river never mentioned either of the two falls which we now know as Shoshone and Twin falls.

This expedition, led by Wilson Price Hunt, came through this area in 1811 and lost many supplies and a boat as they struck a rock in the river near where Miller dam now stands. They walked from that point on, and so either went south along the foothills or thought the wonder...

SHOSHONE FALLS looked like this in 1934 when snapped by the camera of the late W. A. Flower, pioneer Twin Falls photographer. The volume of water shown here probably never will be reached again and the falls is now "dry" more than it is "wet."

After First Year Peace Corps Critics Disappear

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—A year ago, when he was selling congress on the peace corps, Shriver admits, however, that such apparent success defies the law of averages. With his fingers crossed, he is making an effort to restrain the youthful exuberance of his fast-growing infant—born by presidential order March 1, 1961.
Peace corps volunteers receive no pay, only living expenses and a monthly allowance pay when they quit. They're not even drafted, and they work directly under supervisors appointed by the local governments, although a peace corps plan for the peace corps country and the U. S. ambassador has over-all control of the volunteers.
There are 123 volunteers in training for projects in Brazil, the Philippines, El Salvador and Colombia. It is a total of 5,100 volunteers to be either overseas or in training by the end of August, 1962. The planned budget for next year is $3.7 million dollars, more than double the current $2 million dollars.
After he was elected, President Kennedy called on Shriver to draft plans for the peace corps. Shriver says a new employee suggested there should be some machinery to handle employe grievances and was promptly urged to find another job.
"We're a volunteer outfit," he says. "Anybody who doesn't like it here, doesn't belong here."
The developing nations of the world are enthusiastic. Total requests from some 40 nations number 50,000 volunteers. The new budget calls for all major doubling activities but falls far short of this demand.
"I'm sorry," he says, "but we can't try to fill all requests immediately," says Shriver. "If we tried to, we'd lose the spirit, the dedication and quality that we now have. This is not a mass production operation."

Editor-Ends Reign Over 'Blue Book'
By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON, March 24 (AP)—For 40 years Cyril Francis James Hankinson has spent his life awaiting front tree-toe in the lush jungles of British Guiana.
Now he is retiring as editor of Debut's, a crimson and gold directory of titled folk in the United Kingdom. It is a book that weighs seven and one-half pounds and costs $25.
Over the years, Hankinson has spent a great deal of time pulling answering an unending stream of letters and unsolicited letters from people all over the world.
A woman in New Zealand wrote, "My doctor has told me that I have blue blood in my veins and I think I must therefore come from the nobility. I am willing to risk if you can find any record."
Numerous women write seeking a husband with a title. A Canadian bridegroom wanted a list of suitable brides; husbands and wives try to settle arguments as to who is the more aristocratic.
Hankinson has tried to answer every inquiry.
Many others write in or come to see him hoping to keep things out of Debut's.
He has learned that most women...

Fund-Raising Pancake Suppers Fill Coffers of Many Area Groups

This is the season of the year when flipping is in vogue. The purpose, of course, is to raise money.
And what is flipping? It is the art of throwing a circle of half-cooked dough first into the air and catching it to come down on its uncooked side at a point where it is supposed to come down.
In other words it is the pancake frolic season. It also goes under various other names including pancake supper.
In the Magic Valley the sponsors of these "eat all you want for a buck" marathons come in various sizes and purposes. They are all non-profit and the money goes just for the good of the cause.
But let us get back to the start of this miracle of fund raising. It is a miracle because thousands eat hundreds even if they never eat them at any other time.
Group Is Needed—First you need a group of people with one purpose in mind. The church, school, scout troop, the school, a new lot of the school a new piece of playground equipment. So the die is cast.
Committees are named. No experience is really needed, of course; because after all it's all for "charity" and what is the difference if the taste is a little off or the cake a little too dense? These come in a little number, then go to work. Just how big a setup should be made? Best thing should be served! Should something else be fed in?
When these things first started most of the food was donated. But when they caught on and scores of them are scheduled every spring it became apparent that the supplies would have to be purchased. In some cases the pancake flour still is donated although any advertising value thus gained by the donor is questionable.
Scrambled Eggs—Scrambled eggs, of course, are always on the menu. Practically anyone can scramble an egg. Most places offer some sausage...

CIOW LINE usually runs along one wall. Here the men who force their wives to do the cooking all year long suddenly become experts like the Rev. Eugene Thork, left, who just missed a throw toward the overstreached plate of John B. Winters. Dr. H. W. Rank gets set to turn a hot cake while U. J. Simmons pours some more. This palatial method of raising money is flooding Magic Valley. (Times-News photo)

And some even a little salad. Butter comes in pils and syrup by the gallon. And, oh yes, in out to be just a simple pancake many instances you can get fruit juice in case you do not go for coffee or milk.
All in all, it proves to be a pretty well-rounded meal. You get full and so does the sponsoring group's treasury.

And now comes the payoff. Remember that this all started with school supper in Twin Falls plunk down your buck, eat all you want and go your way. Things are different here. Now a few extras have been thrown in. All destined to raise a little more money, of course.

There are games of various types where for a dime you can win something you no way want and of a value approximating about five cents. The women bake cakes like mad and these are donated to the organization so you can buy them. Sometimes they are auctioned off. Down the line.

WIFE TEND UP is the cry of the season as citizens of all levels give their aid in the mushrooming fund raising grape known as pancake supper. Typical of the hundreds who donate their labor for the good of a cause are, from left, Mrs. Joe Ryan, Mrs. Frances Hamby, Dale House, Joe Ryan and Larry Arpa. They aided at a recent Washington in Twin Falls. In many cases there is usually one worker who "knows the ropes." (Times-News photo)

Spring Stirring in South Hills; Melting Snow Begins Its Jaunt

LONG SHADOWS of a melting sun on Rock creek bring out the texture of the snow as it slowly melts away as spring starts in the high hills. The age old story of snow, to creek, to river to ocean this unfolds as a favored ski area starts the transformation which spring alone can bring. (Times-News photo)

Spring has started in the higher reaches of Rock creek. The snow, which has been hard pressed for so long a time, has started to melt off as it slowly melts away. Resulted for the first time since almost the earliest snowfall of last winter, are the struggling willows.
The mantle still clings to the creek banks and to the rocks jutting out in the stream. Actually the stream is only a trickle but it is gaining momentum with every daylight hour.
Earth Signs
Once again the Earth is starting to stir in the blanket of snow is pulled away.
The bubbling brook—if it might be called that—is a wake and starting the run to the valley of the Snake river.
In the early days it maintained its delightful gurgles throughout the full length of the journey. Once the mighty salmon, swimming up from the far off Pacific ocean, fought up Rock creek to the spawning beds which had been used by predecessors for ages untold.
Different Now
But that was another spring. This spring will thus be different. The newness of the water and the creek will be maintained but it's more different.
Soon the caving banks of the lowlands will dissolve the water and refuse from farms will join in the death knell.
Now, as it nears and people...

"Think and Plan How to Practice Good Deeds"

BY THE REV. ERNEST HANSEL, Pastor, First Baptist Church. Paul is writing to Titus and includes this very dynamic plan: "All of us will recognize that faith in God must think and plan how to practice fine deeds."

Those who have put their faith in God must think and plan how to practice fine deeds. It is not enough to be a good person; we must think and plan how to practice good deeds. This is the beautiful in terms of good deeds. There must also be thought and plan as to how to practice good deeds, to make them a well-defined, purposeful part of life.

For example, there is reason for concern about certain behavior patterns of a few of our youth. We know their problems include only a very small percentage of youth yet it does spill over to a large number of people who are richly, or several families, to be our child that is caught up in the problem.

Could it be avoided if parents began at the birth of a child to think and plan and practice the good deeds? The child, when at home, to prepare for the Christian nurture of a child, that such behavior would never become his outlet for hostility, or an expression of lack of love and attention? We plan for a child's education, for his health, even for his employment. But do we really think and plan how to practice good deeds toward each other, like the people who say "I love you" really mean "I love me." Love becomes a method of loving, thinking and planning and practicing the worst kind of self interest and self concern. Could there be anything but healthy happiness between a couple who think and plan how to practice good deeds toward each other?

Let me give you a hint: A Canadian chaplain of a prison equivalent to our Alcatraz said "the knowledge in prison who had gone to Sunday School, others had been brought by their mothers, or sent by the parents, but never had he met a prisoner whose father had gone with the boy to Sunday School."

There is another serious problem in our society: it is very likely the rate could be cut down to a fraction of what it is if a couple would begin from the outset to think and plan how to practice good deeds toward each other. Like the people who say "I love you" really mean "I love me." Love becomes a method of loving, thinking and planning and practicing the worst kind of self interest and self concern. Could there be anything but healthy happiness between a couple who think and plan how to practice good deeds toward each other?

I am convinced this principle could be avoided if parents began at the birth of a child to think and plan and practice the good deeds. The child, when at home, to prepare for the Christian nurture of a child, that such behavior would never become his outlet for hostility, or an expression of lack of love and attention? We plan for a child's education, for his health, even for his employment. But do we really think and plan how to practice good deeds toward each other, like the people who say "I love you" really mean "I love me." Love becomes a method of loving, thinking and planning and practicing the worst kind of self interest and self concern. Could there be anything but healthy happiness between a couple who think and plan how to practice good deeds toward each other?

SHOSHONE, March 24 — Boyd King, 18, Richfield, waived preliminary hearing before Probate Judge C. M. Wilson Thursday when he was arraigned on burglary. He was bound over to district court in an sheriff's custody in lieu of $4,000 bond. A complaint has been signed against Lonnie Lottin, 17, Richfield, who is serving a 30-day jail sentence for petty larceny. He is being held in Twin Falls juvenile jail-quarters because of lack of facilities in Lincoln county.

King Involved in Same Petty Larceny Case

King was involved in the same petty larceny case but he was handled as an adult and has concluded serving his sentence. The two are suspected of burglarizing the home and out-buildings of Robert Bailey in the Richfield area. Sheriff Thomas Conner said a large truck would have to be used to haul away all the items taken from the Bailey ranch. The Baileys had moved to Clearfield, Utah, but left their buildings locked. Entry was gained by knocking in the side of the garage. The house was entered by breaking in a basement door. Among the items taken were tools and meat from the deep freeze. Sheriff Conner said he has posted part of the stolen items on a ranch northwest of Richfield. Some were hidden in a granary, some in the attic and others hidden around the farm where parents of one of the boys investigated is continuing by the sheriff's office to try to find the other missing items.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Becoming quite a tourist attraction, the "old pillar" of ice on SHOSHONE courthouse lawn, conducted delicate colors of crystal white and pastel blue as a temptation to the artistic eye. The ice began building up more than a month ago and in spite of a few warm days which a little of it melted, the nights have kept it standing, and seemingly going higher and higher. Many of the people who stop to look at the ice inquire where it comes from. For others it is melted back a mile, they see a spray from a broken water pipe on the lawn, and the entire pillar has built up from that tiny spray.

A most treasured keepsake of Richard Johnson, Buhl, is a 28-caliber Colt. Although in appearance this gun looks no different than other guns, the difference is in its interesting and fascinating history. The gun originally belonged to the famous outlaw bandit Jesse James and was handed down to Johnson by his grandfather, the late Col. Edward E. Johnson.

Colonel Johnson, a cavalry officer in his own right, was the first detective on the Des Moines, Iowa, police department, and conducted a one-man detective force for some five years in the early 1900's and also was a personal friend of Frank James, brother of Jesse James. To establish the authenticity of the gun, Colonel Johnson was interviewed by the Times-News which he came to own the gun.

According to accounts of the shooting, Jesse James was visiting a relative, Bob Ford, in May, 1881. A reward of $1,000 had been offered to anyone bringing in either of the James boys. Evidently attracted by the big reward Ford seized an opportunity when Jesse laid aside his gun because of the excessive heat and shot him in the hand.

In accordance with the prevailing practice at that time the coroner took charge of the personal effects of the deceased and later the two guns were turned over to the sheriff at Dr. Joseph No.

The story goes that Billy Allen, a saloonkeeper and personal friend of the sheriff, obtained the guns during an epidemic of holera in the city. Later Allen moved to the state where he became acquainted with Colonel Johnson to whom he finally gave the guns.

To further check the authenticity of the gun, Colonel Johnson sent the gun into the factory for reconditioning and requested the company information on its history. It was discovered by the company the gun was one of six sold to a dealer in Independence, Mo., near the James boys' home. Colonel Johnson became acquainted with Frank James who, the outlaw reformed and took

DRY FALLS near Milner, formerly listed on state roadmaps as a tourist attraction but now practically forgotten, possibly could be joined by Shoshone falls in the not too distant future. B. Seymour, superintendent of Milner dam, stands on the brink in this photograph. The well-worn rocks show the water of the Snake ran this way for possibly hundreds of years before erosion or an earthquake changed the course. Next for the water in a growing economy, of course, is what would "dry up" Shoshone falls. The dry falls area is located upstream from Shoshone falls. (Times-News photo)

Fame for Shoshone Falls Might Be Saved by Promoting Lack of Water

Dry and barren it perhaps will be a tourist attraction. But, in any event, it will be an honest attraction and not one that will be a disappointment because it "just ain't so."

Shoshone falls thus will join another somewhat famous "dry falls" which is found a short distance below Milner and the Milne dam. This particular dry falls formerly was listed on travel maps as an attraction, but somewhere along the line it just

Rupert Asks For Bidding On New Well

RUPERT, March 24—A call for bids for a new city well was issued this week by the Rupert city council. The well is needed because of a lowered water table in the existing wells, officials say. The 1962 budget also was approved at the Tuesday meeting of the council.

The new well will be located on Eleventh street near the present site of the veterans' housing units which are being moved out soon. The decision to locate the well there, rather than in the Grandview addition, was made because of the savings on the cost of laying pipe lines, Mayor Clover Acock explained. To cross the canal on the north part of town would raise the cost of the line to around $25,000, he said.

Land for the well had been offered to the city free of charge in both the Grandview addition and on the Carl Williams property north of the city on 11th street, the mayor said.

Officials reported the new well will be drilled probably as deep as 450 feet to insure an adequate flow of water.

An ordinance amending a raise in water rates was approved by the council, with the base rate on the first 3,000 gallons being raised from 30 to 50 cents for both commercial and residential users, with a sliding rate reduction for additional amounts in the commercial brackets. This adjustment in the water rates will bring in more than $4,000 additional revenue, according to Mrs. Charles Klingenberg, city clerk.

A previous notice on bids for the housing units comprising the veterans project on Eleventh street was changed by the council in calling for bids on the entire remaining units, including the units that bids may be submitted on units of two.

Terms also call for five percent at the time of the bid, with the purchaser required to move the units within 15 days after purchase. Another stipulation is that the units may not be relocated within two miles of the city limits of Rupert.

Also approved by the council were $10 monthly rates for all city employees in the electrical, water, garbage and street departments and for the office staff. A $25 monthly rate was approved for the city attorney.

Permission was granted by the council to representatives of the City-Kart association to stage another race in Rupert during the summer months, and approval was given for Elmer Schenk, city electrician, to attend the convention of the Northwest Power Association at Victoria, B. C., in April.

Mayor Acock announced that work would start soon on lowering and widening the central bridge on Eighth street near the hospital. Recommendation was made for the project by city engineers earlier, Acock said, since the crossing is too high to allow good water circulation, procuring traffic from either side.

Ice Still There

An inspection of the area the other day revealed the former falls were still there, says water. But the rocks are smooth and the sand at the base is deep, proving years and years of water coverage before it went dry.

As a matter of record, it was not the dry years or lack of water that "killed" the Milner—Shoshone falls. The river just shifted to a

Children to Get Benefits If Qualified

BOISE, March 24—The eligibility of children of deceased veterans for benefits under the war orphans education assistance act is not affected by subsequent adoption, according to Loryn E. Kopan, director of the veterans administration center, Boise.

They remain "children" as far as this benefit is concerned even if they marry, and "orphans" even if one parent is still living.

If the remarriage of the surviving parent results in their legal adoption, Kopan said.

Eligible ages are between 18 and 22 years but in certain cases earlier or later use of the benefit.

Students approved for training may receive $110 a month for as long as 36 months.

Guardians of prospective students meeting these requirements and the children themselves are urged to arrange for vocational counseling at the nearest VA regional office in order to select the proper course of training and make the necessary application for enrollment.

The high school music department boasts ownership of a band instrument believed to be the only one of its type in any school in the state.

Technically it is known as a Sousaphone but it can also be called a base horn or a marching tuba. These other names are used depending on just where the instrument is at the time it is being used according to Del Slaughter, director.

Slaughter points out there are several things about the new horn which sets it apart from others of like nature. First, and probably the most important, as far as the player is concerned, is the weight.

"The average Sousaphone weighs about 40 pounds, while this one comes in at a mere 18 pounds. The secret is that the new horn is constructed mostly of fiberglass. The other horns are of metal, usually brass."

"The fiberglass does not dent and because it is so light and conspicuous because it is white. Another feature of this instrument is that it doesn't 'bleat' but has a more mellow tone. It is manufactured by the Conn people and we believe it's the only one in the state," Slaughter says.

He points out that the music department has two other instruments which are rare to high schools. One is a contra alto clarinet, which is the only one in Idaho, and the other is a tuba band clarinet, one of two in the state.

The director says many students own their own instruments but that the school is owner of many of the larger ones which are used for the regular and "pop" bands. The latter organization, which is practically hand-picked from among the best musicians, teaches hundreds of miles each year in support of the football and basketball teams.

Balloting on Spud, Onion Board Near

Balloting for three Idaho potato and onion commission members will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday in Kimberly, Fossil and Blackfoot.

Nominations for a slapper will be held at 7 p. m. Wednesday in the Banquet room at the Snake River High school in Blackfoot.

The commission consists of nine members, with three new members being elected every year for a term of three years. This allows six experienced members to sit on the board at all times.

According to law each group will nominate three candidates to fill a vacancy in each one of the three groups—growers, shippers and processors—with the group making the final selection as to who will serve on the commission.

The department purchased a television set and it occupies one corner of the room. The building is heated by a coal stove. One of Glad Browning's chores is to build a fire each day in the building. Browning supervises the program for the children.

According to Browning, the children pretty well occupy themselves and their behavior is excellent. They lose track of time fairly easy and that is the reason the building closes at five. This enables them to get home in time for supper.

Interest in ping-pong is quite high and the department is planning a tournament soon. About 20 youths have signed up for tournament play. Almost as many girls as boys will participate.

The light recreation program was started March 5 and exceeds expectations. Ernest Crager, superintendent of parks and recreation, says the program is highly successful. The response of the youngsters points out the need that existed. The department is happy with the program," he says.

Other than the ping-pong contest the department is planning a kite flying contest for Saturday, March 31.

City Youngsters Spend Many Hours at Recreation Center

Twin Falls youngsters seem to be enjoying the new light recreation program set up by the city parks and recreation department. Between 4 and 5 p.m. youths show up every day at the Harmon park recreation building to participate in some phase of the program.

The boys and girls play ping-pong, jacks, pick-up sticks, work puzzles and watch television from 4 to 5 p.m. The recreation building is reopened from 6 to 7:30 p.m. for adults and older youths.

The parks and recreation department decided that something was needed for children between the close of the basketball season and the beginning of the baseball season. So the department came up with the light recreation idea. Considerable work had to be done to the Harmon park building to get the program underway.

An equipment room and a storage room were renovated on the west side of the building. A "dutch door" was made so that recreation equipment could be distributed. The large recreation room was cleaned and painted. Various individuals donated the couches and chairs that line the room. The city repaired and covered two tables for ping-pong and another table is used for puzzles.

The department purchased a television set and it occupies one corner of the room. The building is heated by a coal stove. One of Glad Browning's chores is to build a fire each day in the building. Browning supervises the program for the children.

AREA ROCKHOUNDS Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kilborn, Kimberly, are shown here with some of the many unusual rock specimens they have collected in the years they have been active with their hobby. The Kilborns will celebrate their 58th wedding anniversary this summer. Other hobbies they enjoy are collecting desert glass, Chinese relics and old guns. (Times-News photo).

Rock Collection Provides Couple Communication With Outdoor Life

BY GALE CHAMBERS
 Chances are Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kilborn, Kimberly, will observe their 58th wedding anniversary this summer out on some hill looking for rocks to add to their growing collection.—Mrs. Kilborn is 76 and Mr. Kilborn is 85.

Rock collecting is only one of the many hobbies the Kilborns enjoy. They collect anything of interest. They have a collection of desert glass, Chinese relics and several old guns.

In addition to the other hobbies, the Kilborns collect books. Over 700 people have signed the Kilborns' guest book. However, they leave a true indication of how many visitors the Kilborns have hosted. Many times people forget to sign the book, and for a number of years the Kilborns didn't have a guest book. It's not unusual for a stranger to show up and want to talk rocks. Many are greeted by locals and many have heard about the collection from other "rockhounds."

When asked what first interested her in rocks and collecting, Mrs. Kilborn replied she "was a born rockhound and collector." She qualifies that statement by saying her mother and grandmother were rockhounds. In addition, her two sons, Forrest and Donald, are rockhounds.

Evidence of the Kilborns' hobby is noticeable even to the passerby. Rock monuments and display troughs full of rocks are arranged around the Kilborn house southwest of Kimberly. A sign saying "Visitors Welcome" is on the front lawn.

According to Mrs. Kilborn, rock collecting was slim picking back in Nebraska where she came from, but it picked up after they moved to Idaho in 1912.

Aside from the rocks, probably the most interesting collection at the Kilborns is the desert glass. Most of this glassware was gathered when the Kilborns were on a rock-hounding trip to the old abandoned town of Tuzacora, Nev.

Desert glass is commercial glassware that has been left in the open exposed to the sun and weather. Gradually this action by nature changes the color of the glass. Most of the time the glass takes on a bluish color, but sometimes and water it can be other colors. Old beer glasses, wine bottles, and even a lens out of a model T take on a bluish appearance after being exposed.

It was on this trip to Tuzacora that the Kilborns started their collection of Chinese relics.

Many of the early day mining camps had Chinese citizens. As a result the Kilborns have several shelves full of Oriental relics including opium pipes, opium boxes and figures.

In addition the Kilborns were able to add to their collection of firearms and pioneer relics. They found the key to the section are Confederate prisoners during the Civil War. Mrs. Kilborn's grandfather, who took the prisoner, told the boy that if he would promise to take care of Mrs. Kilborn's grandfather's family then the prisoner could have his freedom. This the boy did, and according to Mrs. Kilborn he stayed and became one of the town's finest citizens.

Rock collecting is the main love and hobby of the Kilborns and even that is broken down into several categories. For instance, there are over 1,000 pieces in the Indian arrowhead collection. Included in this section are Indian relics such as hide scrapers and rock melting pots.

Forrest, one of the sons, has three rock saws and equipment to manufacture rock jewelry. This is a separate section of the Kilborn collection.

Then they have their prize species such as a petrified camels foot, polished pieces of Sun Valley agate, and an unusual agate which the Kilborns found and named.

Most of the rocks in the collection were gathered within a 200-mile radius of the Kilborn home.

Looking back over the years Mrs. Kilborn said her collections have given her a great deal of satisfaction.

It puts one in closer communication with nature and nature's things," she said.

"There is still plenty of rock to be found in the area," Kilborn said.

"The beginning collector is going to have to travel into the mountains to find it. Most of the land where we found our arrowheads is now under cultivation."

The Kilborns are looking forward to seeing many rockhounds during the Northwest convention of Rock Hounds on Labor day, 1963, when Twin Falls will host the convention.

"We expect quite a few visitors," said Mrs. Kilborn, "and are looking forward to greeting them."

Beauty Salon Brings 'Chic' To Budapest

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 24 (AP)—That centrifugal device, the beauty parlor, is bringing chic back to Budapest and promoting the ruling party's program to convince the people that communism can deliver the goods.

For the equivalent of 75 cents a girl can get a shampoo and set. For $2.40, a hair tint job. For $1.20, a facial.

The day is gone when makeup was sinful and nail polish considered decadent. Beauty parlors are popping up throughout Budapest. The government says this city of a million by 1963 will have 454 hairdressing and beauty salons.

It takes more than a facial to put a new look on a country, of course.

A cartoon in the humor magazine Ludas Matyi gives an insight into the Hungarian situation.

It depicts the staff of a Budapest beauty parlor. One is wearing a Halloween mask. All, that is, except one man. His face is bare and downcast.

"Gosh, the happy looks are becoming an accusing finger at me," says the man. "Why can't you be happy like the rest?"

The cartoon's publication in a communist-controlled organ is a sign that the party has the authority to force the happy looks are sometimes bogus. That so far their ideology has failed to capture the soul of the nation.

The attempt to win the allegiance of the proud and independent Hungarians is a masterpiece by the party chief and prime minister, János Kadar, who ruled to power as Soviet tanks crushed the 1956 revolt.

"The happy warriors evidently believe that ultimate victory will be theirs if they can simply things the people want—and if they can sell themselves as wish-come-true, not big-dog, the population."

The party has been busy trying to win its own mistakes in the controlled press. It seems to have clipped the wings of the secret police.

Happy's standard of living is now second, only to Czechoslovakia's among satellite states.

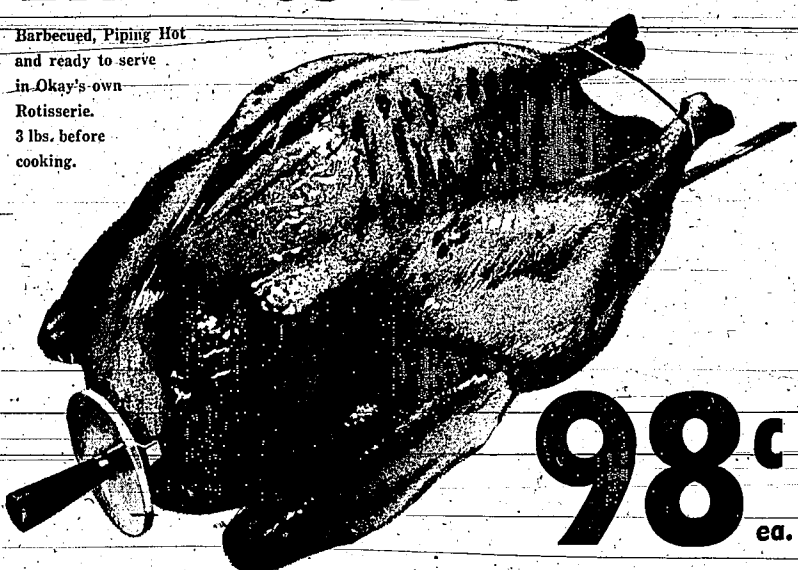

The signs, many seem to offer good quality footstuffs and rather inferior clothes.

Translated into dollars at the current rate of exchange—slightly the official rate—the average industrial wage is $55 a month. By the party's figures, costs are 22 cents—butter, 1.12, cheese, 30 cents; sugar, 25 cents and brown bread, 8 cents.

DAUGHTER, Mrs. H. H. Kilborn, March 24—Mrs. Deaver Allred went to Dolan Tuesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Healy, who is ill in St. Luke's hospital.
