BOISE, April 3 (AP)—Intensive cross examination marked the public utilities commission hearing today on the request by Idaho Power company for higher electric rates. Although the commission ruled that cross-questioning could be for the purpose only of clarification, company witnesses were queried at length. Asking the questions were state Rep. C. H. Higer, Emmett attorney and a Democratic candidate for a governor, who said he represents a number of opponents to the rate increase; Francis Marshall, attorney for Food-Machinery corp., Pocatello, which is embroiled in a pending suit with Idaho Power, and Wallace Brand, Washington, D. C. attorney for the federal general services administration. Brand asked for details on the company's tax bill and on its accrued amortization of debt. Marshall asked a number of questions regarding the company's financial operations. Higer noted that the company contends its rate is 32 per cent less than the national average. He wanted specific comparisons between the Idaho Power company and other public utilities operating in the Pacific Northwest.

The company, in presenting its request for a rate increase, said more income is needed to keep up with the "higher cost of living." The company is faced with a higher cost of living, but the same as every other business, every farm and every individual, said general counsel A. C. Timman. Idaho Power's rate of return increases averaging 13.6 per cent. The boost is needed, he said, to permit it to keep pace with the increasing demand for electricity.

Bulk Manure Is Important Aid for Crop

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, April 3.—A bulletin recently released by the university extension service points out that farmers can do two things to increase the value of barnyard manure. They can save manure from their own farms, spreading the manure also on the soil.

The reason for proper care and handling is to save the liquid portion and to spread the manure to a minimum until the manure is mixed into the soil. In fact, even a good loading such as straw, old hay, wood shavings or corn cobs hold the liquids. The ability to hold the liquid is the key to a finer material the greater the capacity and the less needed.

Tracy Coker Makes Quick Survey Trip

Track Coker, Twin Falls junior high school teacher and candidate for representative from the second congressional district, spent the week-end campaigning and gathering signatures on his petition for candidacy.

He visited communities in Cassia, Minidoka, Power, Blaine, Blinghram, Boiseville, Madison, Jefferson and Butte counties.

Coker says, "As a full-time teacher I do not have adequate time to do even a small fraction of the campaigning I wish to do. Neither do I have the money that present-day conditions seem to require for the campaign I would like to make."

"Therefore, I shall have to depend on a large measure for my campaign upon my like-minded fellow citizens—those who agree with me that honesty and conservative policy must be restored to the public life, that local self-determination must replace long distant control from Washington, that individual enterprise must be safe-guarded against the encroachment of bureaucracy, that waste and mismanagement must be replaced in government by thrift and sanity, that farmers and small business enterprises must be given opportunity to solve their problems instead of being choked to death in the strait jackets of federal control."

"I think we can not afford to have our potato industry, our wheat industry, our lumber industry, our mineral industry and so on destroyed just because some bureaucratic theorists in Washington want to try out their experiments."

"The rights and international communism are my reasons for being in this congressional race."

Revolution in Old Blighty; Toffs, Dockers Play Bridge

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Eight dock workers from the tough Thames district marched up to the Stankly millionaire Crookford club in elegant St. James' street.

They rapped on the door. The doorman did not show them away even though they were obviously not members of the world famous club.

Instead he bade them welcome and a few minutes later the dock workers were playing bridge in the chandeliered, deep leather plush cushioned atmosphere.

The "social revolution," as a London newspaper called it, came about when Crookford club members heard about the dock workers who had taken up bridge during their lunch hour.

The club members invited Fred Hart, Jim Kemp, Bill Thurkett and other members of the dockers team up to Crookford for cocktails, dinner and a few boards of bridge last night.

The dockers and the tycoons wound up playing 30 boards. The Crookford team that included former world champion bridge players Kenneth Konstam and Terence Hesse and had a dozen international bridge players to do it.

Hart then invited the new millionaire class friends over to their club hard by the docks for a return bridge game.

"We'll be delighted," said Konstam.

SUCCESSOR CONGRATULATED BY BYRON R. WHITE, left, who has been named an associate judge of the supreme court. He congratulates his successor as deputy attorney general, Nicholas Katzenbach, after President Kennedy named him to the justice department post. (AP wirephoto)

Law Teacher Set For Post By Kennedy

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Stepping into Byron R. White's shoes as No. 2 man in the justice department is Nicholas de Borchese Katzenbach, an ex-law professor who honed up on his studies while a prisoner of war.

White has been named to the supreme court. Both nominations must be confirmed by the senate. Attorney Gen. Robert R. Kennedy said Katzenbach's "initiative, judgment and ability have been invaluable in the last 12 months."

Like White, Katzenbach, 40, was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford and studied law at Yale and the University of Chicago. His judicial department biography laconically breezes over one chapter in his life with the notation: "Also was in U. S. air force from 1942 to 1945."

EX-CLAMP PARET LOSES BATTLE FOR LIFE

Injuries in Title Bout Are Fatal For Cuban Boxer

NEW YORK, April 3 (UPI) — Benny (Kid) Paret, after waging the toughest fight of his career, died today (1:55 a.m. EST) of a brain injury sustained in his savage welterweight title fight with Emilio Griffith March 24. The 24-year-old Cuban succumbed at Roosevelt hospital. He was the first champion in boxing history to die of injuries received in a title bout.

Paret had been in a coma ever since he was punched senseless by the hammering fist of Griffith in the 12th round of the grudge fight at Madison-Square Garden.

Paret was removed from the garden on a stretcher and taken to Roosevelt hospital, where he underwent a three-hour operation to relieve pressure on his brain caused by two massive blood clots.

"I've rallied slightly last Tuesday when doctors noted his reflexes had become somewhat stronger," thus providing a ray of hope for relatives and friends who had been praying for the recovery of the former champion.

A headliner when he was joined by four officers from the 16th precinct—said Paret's brother Antonio and a Roman Catholic priest also arrived at the boxer's bedside shortly before he died.

Newsweek was detained in an anteroom, the officer said, because they would "disrupt hospital procedures."

"The mother is screaming," he said. "They're all crying. You don't want to see anyone. You know how it is."

The night-admitting officer said Paret's body would be removed to Bellevue hospital for an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

Mrs. Paret had watched the last two fights, one at the Flamingo in Miami, Fla. She flew to New York the following day with the couple's 21-year-old son, Benny Jr. She had maintained an almost constant vigil at her husband's bedside, leaving him only to nap on a cot in the adjoining room in the second floor of the hospital.

Mrs. Crespo was flown to his home in Cuba after the fight cleared to get her a traveling visa out of Cuba.

Faces' tragic injuries produced the first fatalities throughout the world in box boxing.

Ruby Goldstein, who refereed the fight, said he had not stepped in many quarters for not stopping the bout sooner. However, he was held blameless by the New York State Athletic Commission in a post-fight report requested by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The commission report said that Goldstein "acted in good judgment in stopping this contest of head football coach and Edward Olson, Jr. He plans to start work on his Masters degree this summer."

Retirement Likely For Eddie Arcaro

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Eddie Arcaro, the top money-winning jockey in the history of racing, is nearing retirement and a final decision on whether to quit the saddle immediately or ease from the saddle gradually is expected to be made Tuesday. Now 46, the winner of more rich stakes races than any other jockey, hasn't ridden in this country since last November at Aqueduct.

In true Broadway fashion, Arcaro has sent out telegrams in which friends are summoned to a midtown restaurant late Tuesday afternoon. The reason for the get-together wasn't announced.

Arcaro, a former Cincinnati taxicab driver, won his first race on Eagle Bird at Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 14, 1932.

He has won the Kentucky Derby five times, more than any other jockey. Six Freshness and six Belmont stakes winners have put him ahead of any rival in that department.

Ten years ago at Arlington park, Chicago, Arcaro became the first American-born jockey to win 3,000 races, and remarked: "I'm just going to keep on riding until I get tired and then I'll quit, whether it's 4,000 or 5,000 or what."

Arcaro's horses have won approximately 20 million dollars in the last 30 years. But he has been tapering off gradually, especially since he took a bad spill aboard Black Hills during the running of the 1959 Belmont Stakes.

In 1961, Arcaro was the third-most winning jockey with $1,006,707, which at the usual 10 per cent gave him a salary of $100,000.

Arcaro scoffed at retirement reports a year ago, but he accepted only 75 mounts all season.

Pender Seeking to Regain Lost Title

BOSTON, April 3 (AP)—The middleweight title bout Saturday night at Boston Garden could boil down to a cockney "hooper" and a former fireman's age. The 15-rounder for a claim to the disputed crown pits champion Terry Downs of London, England, against former titlist Paul Pender of suburban Brookline. Both had pre-battle concerns Monday.

Downs' chief worry could be a combination of Pender's taloned left hooks and right hand and Terry's nose—or "hooper," as the Brits call it—Downs is considered stronger and has a six-year advantage.

Pender, 31, an ex-freeman in Brookline, lashed the Downs twice for 14 stitches and plastic surgery in their first fight, winning on a seventh-round TKO in January, 1961. Downs needed 16 stitches for nose repairs after a 10th fight with Cowboy McCormack.

However, the Downs camp says it's not a bit worried about his nose for the third time in six weeks. "He's got a nose like a pig," said Pender, claiming to be weakened by virus, retired in the eighth round of the second fight, held in London.

"Pender, a 9-5 favorite for the rubber match, says he will fight six or eight weeks in New England. An excellent boxer, Paul plans to hook and jab and move away, probably going for a decision."

Briber Enters Guilty Plea

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Philip La Cort, 38, pleaded guilty Monday to bribing a college basketball player to "shave points." He was sentenced to 180 days in jail and fined $1,000. He was charged with bribing a player to cover up a foul during a game at Yeshiva University.

The master is a great deal like horse racing," Saraceno said. "From master to job, a year ago played and Palmer came up for this one running a one-way money winning. That's the way they run it here."

YOU CAN SAVE UP TO 400 MILES OF ENGINE WEAR EVERY 1000 MILES YOU DRIVE!

World-famous York Research Corporation proves in exhaustive six-month test that adding BARDHAHL to regular motor oil can reduce engine wear by 10 to 40 per cent—and, give you a smoother, sweeter-running engine.

Frankly, gentlemen, we didn't believe Bardahl could make that difference! Those were the opening words of the famous York research engineers when they finished testing the country's best-known motor oil additive. For 180 days engineers put BARDHAHL to the most exacting laboratory test. On a delicate jeweler's lathe, the researchers mounted two finely honed engine valves facing each other. By rotating one valve and pressing the two metal surfaces together, they simulated a friction condition that occurs thousands of times each minute in today's automobile engine.

Day after day, hour after hour, tiny drops of oil—premium grade oil, low grade oil, contaminated oil, and oil samples with BARDHAHL added—were placed between the two rubbing valves. Thousands of test runs were recorded.

The valves were cleaned and re-cleaned. The instruments checked. The results were uncontestable:

When added to regular crankcase oil, Bardahl will reduce wear 10 to 40 per cent. (Research technicians say the average motorist, taking normal care of his car, should expect at least a 20 per cent saving.)

Does This Mean a Substantial Savings in Dollars and Cents?

Yes. When you put BARDHAHL in your crankcase, you put dollars back in your pocket. These are dollars you would otherwise pay out for more frequent repairs and overhauls. Let's assume you buy a new car and begin adding BARDHAHL to your oil with every oil change. If you travel 10,000 miles each year for the next four years, your speedometer may read 40,000 miles, but, thanks to BARDHAHL, the actual wear age of your engine may be only 30,000 miles.

Your car will also be peppier, run smoother, be free of many irritating engine noises, BARDHAHL helps remove sludge and gum which foul up valves and by drafile lifters, and make your engine sluggish. You'll feel more power and get more mileage.

There is nothing so magical about the idea that new chemical compounds can improve ordinary hydrocarbon oils taken from the earth. BARDHAHL happens to be an unusual blend of such chemicals and fine oil. It carries an S.A.E. viscosity rating and you could use it "straight" in your crankcase. Fortunately you need only a 20% mixture, or one quart of BARDHAHL with each four quarts of your normal oil.

So, if you're one of the millions of motorists who still treasure a finely tuned engine—who still winoe at the thought of unnecessary wear—one answer is BARDHAHL. Add one quart of BARDHAHL to your crankcase with each oil change. And don't forget to add BARDHAHL top oil to your gas tank with each 10 gallons of gas. BARDHAHL TOP OIL lubricates the oil-starved upper cylinders, reduces carbon deposits, and frees sticky valves.

Play at the Twin Falls municipal golf course is exceeding any previous year this far and announced Cliff Whittle, municipal golf pro.

Fernandez Signs To Meet Giambra

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 3 (AP)—Florentino Fernandez, a Cuban now living in Miami, and the veteran Tony Giambra, of Los Angeles will fight here April 28, promoter Chris Dundee announced Monday.

The winner could get a chance at Gene Palmer for the middleweight title. It will be Fernandez's first fight since he was broken in a bout with Dick Tiger last January.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—The real cost of the steel labor peace is measured in surges in profits and pressure on prices to up today-for-sharp declines.

The Kennedy administration halted the pay—50 cent hourly boost in fringe benefits with an immediate wage hike—a non-inflationary. The ministers to the steel companies can absorb the increase in labor costs, smallest, says Dawson in eight years, without raising prices. Gains in productivity and tax savings on equipment of recently installed production are expected to provide the shrewdness.

Labor also holds that the fringe-benefit payments are covered by past price hikes and by increased productivity—that is, the ability each year to turn out the same steel tonnage with fewer man hours of labor.

Steel management contends this isn't so. It holds that prices should have gone up last fall, and it says the new costs will exceed any expected gain in productivity. The companies fear that profits already are squeezed and will be lowered further unless prices rise.

But most steel company officials know they face three obstacles to raising prices now—domestic competition is keen and excess production is feared; that some other company could produce more—and undersell them, should they raise their price lists; foreign steel at lower prices would be available to renegade consumers, and steel's own steel mills are producing other metals, plastics and other materials promises still more new products or increasing price attractiveness.

Just how much of an increase in costs is involved in the new pact being hammered out for July 1 depends on who is doing the figuring.

Steel executives say that labor costs will go up 25 per cent under the new pact. This is close to the percentage figure that the administration and the labor unions use in figuring the increase in output per man hour.

But steel management contends this, it holds that the average annual increase in productivity is closer to 1 1/2 per cent.

The gap between this output gain and the increase in labor costs, in the view of the steel companies, will have to be filled either by raising steel prices again or by increasing a further drop in profit margins.

The dispute illustrates the larger one over just how productivity gains are to be measured. Labor stresses that fewer men are needed now to put out as much goods as in the past because of great strides in mechanization and in production methods. It measures productivity in jobs and hours worked.

Management adds other factors to this. It stresses the cost of the new plants and new machinery and the great cost of the automatic devices. It holds that part of the productivity gains should go toward paying such costs and also toward increasing profits out of which still newer devices can be bought, and which might be bought if individual companies are to stay competitive.

NASA Slates Giant Rocket Testing Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., April 3 (AP)—After months of frustrating delays, the initial test flight of the high-energy Centaur space rocket will set for Friday.

The national aeronautics and space administration said that a two-stage rocket will be launched on an intended ballistic trajectory during the initial test flight of the Atlas-Agena B, which should reach an altitude of 300 miles before plunging back into the Atlantic ocean, 1,175 miles from the starting point. No payload will be carried.

The test will provide the first flight data on how powerful liquid hydrogen will behave in space. This supercooled fuel, which must be kept at a temperature of 52 degrees below zero, provides 40 per cent better performance than chemical fuels employed in present U.S. rocket engines.

Two liquid hydrogen engines with total thrust of 20,000 pounds will fire the second stage of the Atlas-Agena B. The first stage is a modified Atlas missile with 97,200 pounds of thrust. This combination is capable of placing 8,500-pound satellites into earth orbit, landing 2,000 pounds on the moon or hurling 1,000 pounds to Mars or Venus.

These weights are considerably greater than the capability of this nation's biggest present space booster the Atlas-Agena B. Centaur is expected to fill a gap between Agena B and the more powerful Saturn class of boosters being developed.

Problems encountered in developing liquid hydrogen as a propellant delayed the launching nearly a year. NASA feels the troubles have been licked, but officials do not expect a perfect flight on the first try.

Postal Rate Boost Draws Added Fight

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—The Magazine Publishers Association told congress today that postal increases of 98 per cent since 1950 have outstripped other major costs of magazine publishing.

John K. Herbert, president of the association, told the senate postal committee that "these increases are far more drastic than those in any other area of the economy."

In opposing postal rate increases before the committee, Herbert said magazines pay 100 million dollars a year in postal charges.

"Our magazines not only enter every state, they also carry the true picture of American culture to most other nations," he said.

"A postal rate increase that impedes or ends the editorial and advertising selling function of magazines can indeed be a mortal blow to the goose that lays the golden eggs of our national prosperity."

An accountant appearing for the association said the proposed increase would make the total second-class postage hikes since 1950 close to 200 per cent.

Romney, Foe Spurn 'Help' By Teamster

DETROIT, April 3 (AP)—Michigan's democratic Gov. John B. Swainson and George Romney, the governor's likely Republican opponent this fall, have found common ground—neither wants the political support of Teamster boss James R. Hoffa.

Hoffa would become the most nettlesome issue of the campaign as far as Swainson and Romney are concerned.

The peppery Teamster's leader has not flinched endorsed either man but he said "right now" Swainson is his personal choice.

The governor, seeking his second term, shuddered at the prospect of having Hoffa on his side. Romney, a newcomer to politics, said Hoffa is unwelcome in his camp.

Hoffa touched off formal disavowals of his support by both men after a Detroit speech to the Teamster's political arm, DRIVE SUNDAY.

West Troops Begin Games In Germany

BERLIN, April 3 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France today held their biggest joint military exercise in West Berlin since World War II.

At the same time, the East German ministry of defense announced completion of large-scale maneuvers by the East German army.

The big three western allies alerted their 32,000-man Berlin garrison for a 48-hour operation readiness test and sent about 10,000 troops onto the city's streets. Some West Berlin police units also were alerted for the biggest test yet of western-allied defense plans.

Defense sources, meanwhile, reported that Russians were stopping up their dangerous game of harassment in the 20-mile-wide Berlin air corridor without anything the flights at the four-power Berlin air safety center.

The sources said Russian jet fighters and military transporters were flying along and across the corridors and taking off and landing in three to four minutes unannounced flights of even more dangerous in western corridors and military aircraft using the airbase.
