BOISE, April 7 (AP)—A former north Idaho legislator says Gov. Robert E. Smylie will be "dodging his duty" if he does not call a special session of the legislature to consider the reapportionment question. Glenn Bendelin, Sandpoint attorney and former state senator from Bonner county, lent his voice to elements calling for action to give cities a bigger voice in the Idaho house of representatives. Governor Smylie has declined to say if he would call a special session if it is requested. But he has been reluctant to do so when asked for other reasons in the past.

Advocates of reapportionment to increase city representation are hoping that the Idaho supreme court will act favorably on a petition for a hearing on its decision upholding a 1951 reapportionment formula.

Attorney H. E. Boese, Boise, says he will file the motion for a rehearing Monday. The court (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

Cuba Releases 7 Shipwrecked Men Held in Custody

HAVANA, April 7 (AP)—Seven American treasure hunters shipwrecked off Cuba's coast have been released from technical custody by the Castro government and will return to the United States early next week, the Swiss embassy said today. Swiss Ambassador Emil Stadelhofer told reporters the seven men were lodged in a residence in Havana placed at their disposal by the Cuban government. They had been asked not to leave the house, but no guards have been placed over them, he said.

The Swiss embassy was asked by the U.S. government Friday to seek the release of the men after the Cuban broad aereo announced that seven "foreigners" had been taken in custody to eastern Cuba.

The Coast guard started a search for the men last Wednesday when trace was lost of their skimming expedition in the windward passage between eastern Cuba and Haiti. They were en route to Jamaican waters to recover old stolen Spanish treasure ships.

They carried some dynamite to blast coral off sunken ships, a two-man submarine for explorations, a pistol and a rifle, and apparently some electronic equipment first seized by the Cuban authorities.

Members of the crew are Gordon S. Patton, 22, Ocean City, Md., the skipper; Fred Dickson, 32, formerly of Ocean City, N.J.; Mike Freeman, 37, Washington, D.C., underwater photographer; John Sherry, 20, Brewster, N.Y.; John Sherry, 20, Brewster, N.Y.; Campbell, 20, Washington, D.C.; and Bernie Nisard, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Their boat, left Pompano Beach, Fla., last Saturday and was blown off course by a storm. Ambassador Stadelhofer, who has handled American interests here since Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba and the U.S. government broke diplomatic relations, said he visited the Americans and found them "in good health and spirits."

Cuban authorities had treated them well, he reported, supplying them with clothing to replace what they lost in the shipwreck and even placing three screws at their disposal.

He said he had been told the men were being held in a rooming house in Havana, near the 160-foot Pisco, sank in heavy seas near Pompano, near Cuba's easternmost tip.

Freeman telephoned his wife in Washington that the Pisco sank within 10 minutes. He said they got to shore in a rubber raft and were rescued by the U.S. Navy. He said the Cubans offered to help salvage equipment lost in the sinking.

Freeman telephoned his father at Pompano Beach, Fla., that the men were being held in a rooming house in Havana, near the 160-foot Pisco, sank in heavy seas near Pompano, near Cuba's easternmost tip.

Youth Legislature Rejects Sales Tax

BOISE, April 7 (AP)—Senate opponents turned back by two votes a proposal for a 3 per cent Idaho sales and use tax today in the closing minutes of the 1962 Idaho YMCA youth legislature. The vote came after a hot debate in which one senator charged that the youth governor had brought pressure to get him to withdraw opposition to the bill.

Earlier the governor, Charles Hays, Pierce, made an unusual appearance on the house floor to argue for the sales tax. It passed there by eight votes. Passed by both houses and signed by governor were bills calling for a comparative evaluation of teachers certified to teach in the public schools, sponsored by Caldwell students, and a water pollution control bill introduced by Twin Falls legislators.

He also gave approval to resolutions calling for an annual essay and a government award for teachers certified to teach in the public schools, sponsored by Caldwell students, and a water pollution control bill introduced by Twin Falls legislators.

State Leader Holds Mental Health Office

He introduced the morning speaker, Robert T. Hewitt, director of the western council on mental health training and research, Boulder, Colo.

Hewitt spoke on "The western interagency commission for health education and its relationship to Idaho." He explained that the main purpose of the commission is to increase educational opportunities for western youth and to help colleges and universities improve their health and illness study programs. He also noted there was a greater need for encouraging youth to enter the mental health field.

At the noon luncheon, Dr. T. C. Carver, administrator of the Idaho department of health, Boise, spoke on planning for mental health. He stressed the need for better education there must be a plan to build from, and also expressed hope for continuing the mental health program in Idaho.

After Dr. Carver spoke, a panel on community care for the mentally ill was held. The panel was headed by Dr. E. B. Bolser, chief clinical social worker for the Ada county medical center, acting as moderator. Serving on the panel were Dr. E. R. Carlson, Nampa state school; Dr. Wayne Smith, superintendent of the Idaho State Psychiatric Hospital; Dr. J. M. Blackfoot, and Dr. Myrick Pullen, superintendent of the state hospital north, Orofino.

Each doctor talked about his own institution and what it was doing for the mental patient. It was the general opinion among the hospital officials that mental health could best be served on a community level.

Dr. Bolser summed it up by saying, "The first step toward helping people is to get them to the hospital. If they need to be there the hospital is available to help them but the trend is to get the person concerned in the community before he can be helped at home."
He added, "The patient sometimes may adjust better because he escapes the problems he encountered at home, therefore, it is hoped that the community can be educated to help the mentally retarded, mentally ill and alcoholics."
Mrs. Henderson also presented awards to Mrs. Beth Palmer, Blackfoot, and Mrs. Julian Dahl, Orofino, for their work in the two state hospitals.

Reds Handed Severe Blow

AN HOA, South Viet Nam, April 7 (AP)—Government forces tipped off by spies in the communist Viet Cong, crushed an ambush attack on 1,200 marines in this district in a four-hour battle, South Vietnamese claimed today.

"A few more wins like this in the area will be broken," said one American military adviser.

The communist guerrillas left behind 45 dead in the action. Government losses were listed as 10 dead, 33 wounded.

About four guerrilla battalions launched the biggest red offensive in months against this town. Tra Bong and other outposts in the Tra Bong district, 30 miles northeast of Saigon at about 1 a.m. Friday.

An Ho bore the brunt of the attack in which artillery shells were fired pointblank into the guerrillas.

The communists broke off the attack and fled to the hills about 5 a.m. and T28 and A29 fighter planes of the Vietnamese air force went in pursuit after daylight. Some of the guerrillas still were scattered in nearby hills.

Government forces captured two American-made recoilless rifles, and a variety of heavy machine guns, and captured a number of guerrillas.

Helicopters manned by American forces went in pursuit after the ambush and reinforcements to an Ho and Tra Bong and carrying back wounded.

Senator Says Disarming of U.S. Planned

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7 (AP)—Sen. James H. Eastland, D-Miss., said today that the Kennedy administration has suggested a plan to demilitarize the United States in nine stages.

"I say that because I am a member of the 'new frontier' don't you know about it, or won't admit it."

"Some will tell you this will not come about unless the other side complies," Eastland said. "I say that because I am a member of the 'new frontier' don't you know about it, or won't admit it."

A bill introduced by Parma students calling for luminous license plates passed and the governor in time for his consideration.

The session closed after a round of tributes by the student leaders and by Judge Henry P. McQuade of the Idaho supreme court in his address to the state government conference.

Judge McQuade praised the new legislators.

"You give us and to your advisers who are with you the tremendous impact of knowledge that you are going to take the lead in this state," he said.

"And we know you will do so far more ably than we could expect," he said.

"I will not stand aside if you want you will have to take your own stand, but you want you to do so."

Judge McQuade said the basic principle of the session is that the individual is the primary concern of democratic society.

"The Arizona senator, a conservative spokesman, said the plan was contained in a 'state demilitarization' plan and that it was not sure exactly to whom it was suggested first.

He did not mention the other side of the coin.

HEYBURN, April 7.—Mrs. Mary Ellen Carlson presented a letter that had been received from the state PTA president announcing that a new ballot would be issued on federal tax-education because of the very strong objections that were evidenced on the original ballot.

The membership voted to pay for the general fund-the difference in the money raised from a special program presented by the Idaho State College and the $25 plebiscite that was assigned to each PTA for the annual scholarship fund.

Hansen Plays Underdog for Senate's Race

BOISE, April 7 (AP)—George Hansen, the boyish-looking mayor of Atlanta, is playing the underdog role to the hilt in his enthusiastic drive for the public nomination for United States senator from Idaho.

Advocating what he describes as "positive conservatism" concerning a campaign which emphasizes personal contact with the voters.

In this way, Hansen believes he can overcome the well-organized effort of his Republican opponent, John T. Hawley, of Elmer.

Both men have shown they are eager for the chance to tackle Democratic Sen. Frank Church in the actual election.

"If I can beat Hawley, and I can," Hansen said, "I will beat Church as well."

Most Republican leaders believe Hawley has a clear lead over Hansen and will be the party's nominee. They point to Hawley's organization, his well-known name and status.

But Hansen will not be counted out without a strong fight.

He is quick to say that he lacks adequate financing to conduct a full-scale campaign and argues that this is a point in his favor.

"Nobody has any string attached to my name," Hansen said, "and I have no contributions or anything else." Hansen said, "I am running for this office because I believe Idaho needs stronger representation in the senate. I believe I can provide that representation."

Hansen contends that both Hawley and Church are too extreme in their views. Hawley is a conservative and Church is a liberal.

"The people want positive conservatism," Hansen said. "They don't want negativity. The people want to move forward and they want to be able to see that they are moving."

"This can be done with a positive conservative program. I can't win any way with 30 votes on every single issue so some have tried to do it. But neither can a responsible, responsible person spend money to get elected. I need a reasonable approach to all of our problems, both domestic and foreign and we need someone to take the approach unfettered by obligations to the special interests at either extreme."

This is the approach Hansen takes as he travels around the state in quest of votes.

Campaign stops this have succeeded before, and perhaps Hansen will win despite the doubts of the party professionals.

System of Patient Records Outlined at Hospital Meet

Seven members of the Magic Valley Memorial hospital staff listened to Dr. Virgil Stee, Ann Arbor, Mich., explain a system of electrical accounting on more than two million patients each year, at a dinner meeting Friday night at the hospital.

Dr. Stee, who heads a non-profit organization known as the Commission of Professional and Hospital Activities, said the service is an IBM system which takes clinical information furnished by 235 hospitals in the United States and Canada and makes a permanent punch card record of it.

"The information gathered is furnished to doctors and hospitalists to evaluate a certain trend and make comparisons with other hospitals in order to render the best medical service to the patient."

According to Dr. Stee there are about 30 million patients admitted to hospitals in the U.S. and Canada each year, and about two million patients are now being treated in this new medical service. He added that the system is also known as the professional activities study and that at present there are 70 employees working in Ann Arbor to operate the machines and evaluate the information.

Attending the dinner meeting in the hospital were Mrs. Irene E. Oliver, administrator; Dr. D. Carver, hospital chief-of-staff; Dr. Fred T. Kolouch, Dr. Ellwood T. Rees, Dr. Wayne F. Schow, Dr. E. M. Wright and Loretta Lutz, record librarian in the hospital.

Allowance Is Under Attack Before Solon

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The long-debated oil and gas depletion allowance has come under attack again in the senate finance committee but there appears to be no prospect that it will be reduced this year.

Senators' long contention that the allowance is overgenerous have seized the hearings now under way on a President Kennedy's tax revision bill as an opportunity to renew their attack.

A check of the 12-member committee today showed that they could hope for no more than four or five votes to reduce the benefit.

Their prospects might be somewhat better on the floor but senate votes in recent years show that their forces seeking to cut back the allowance are short of a majority.

The allowance permits an oil and gas producer to deduct 27 1/2 per cent of his gross income from this source in figuring his income tax, up to a maximum of 50 per cent of his net income.

Supporters of the provision contend it is proper since oil and gas are a wasting asset that is used up as consumed. They also argue that it is essential to encourage continued exploration to keep American reserves at a high level.

Advocates of a reduction have been hoping for some backing from the Kennedy administration and received an indication at the committee hearings this week they may get it later. Kennedy as a senator voted to cut the allowance in 1958 and 1960.

Atom Mishap At GE Plant Strikes Four

RICHLAND, Wash., April 7 (AP)—Four men were hospitalized for observation after what the General Electric company called a "critically incident" at the Hanford atomic works today. The company said there was no explosion or fire.

GE, which operates the plant for the atomic energy commission, said a "critical incident" involves an overconcentration of fissionable material, resulting in a sudden excessive release of radioactivity.

Hal Lindberg, a spokesman for GE, said the facility involved was processing aqueous waste in tanks. He said the critical mass of fissionable material was confined to one tank. No equipment damage was observed.

Other facilities in the immediate area were evacuated as a precautionary measure, Lindberg said.

Farmers and ranchers interested in controlling gophers will be invited to a demonstration of a machine called the Pocket Gopher burrow builder this week, announces Donald "Youte" Owen, county agent.

Demonstrations will be held near Hollister, Hazelton, and half mile west of Hazelton, and the Oakley demonstration will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the William Mays ranch.

Owen Ellis, mammal control supervisor of the fish and wildlife service, Twin Falls, will be in charge of the demonstration. The machine, attached to a farm tractor by a three-point hitch, makes an artificial burrow eight to ten inches below the surface of the ground, while simultaneously distributing poison grain into the newly made burrow.

The new burrow builder has been proven successful in many areas where serious infestation of the pocket gopher has occurred.

Youte said further information about the equipment, and the demonstrations, can be obtained from Magpie Valley county agent. All interested persons are invited to attend the demonstrations.

Burton, Wife Dine in Paris; Liz Stays in Roman Mansion

PARIS, April 7 (AP)—Richard Burton, a dinner date at Maxim's with his wife tonight while Elizabeth Taylor spent a quiet evening at her villa in Rome. "Affable and smiling, Burton flew in from Rome to do some scenes Sunday for 'The Longest Day,' a film based on the D-day landings. The meeting with his wife was in flat contradiction of a statement by the members of his Rome entourage that such a get-together was impossible. Mrs. Burton has been staying in England while her husband and Miss Taylor have been making the movie "Cleopatra" in Rome. Miss Taylor announced last Tuesday that she intends to divorce singer Eddie Fisher. She has been seeing a lot of Burton, and they might clubbed together in Rome until the early hours this morning. Arriving in Paris, Burton said: "There is no question of Elizabeth Taylor meeting me here. He then hurried off from Oly airport to meet his wife, Mrs. Burton had arrived earlier from London at Paris' other major airport, Le Bourget. The Burtons were smiling and chatting as they left their hotel for Maxim's through a cluster of photographers and newsmen waiting on the sidewalk. Burton in a dark suit and tie, and Mrs. Burton, wearing a fur coat, stopped at the curb and posed for pictures when asked by the waiting photographers. A table for three was reserved at Maxim's by Darryl Zanuck, producer of "The Longest Day." Burton appears before the cameras Sunday as an RAF pilot and then plans to fly back to Rome. Zanuck said he planned to drop in on the couple for coffee at Maxim's after the Burtons dined. "I want to talk over his role tomorrow," Zanuck said. "But I thought they might have something to talk over beforehand—so I won't join them for dining." The Burtons are registered at the same fashionable Paris hotel where Liz and Eddie stopped on their frequent Paris visits.

Concert Set

The concert will include soloists, small ensemble, chorus and band. Musical numbers will be performed. Louise Tompson, Sylvia Verburg, Emma Wendell, Shirley Williams, Bill Young and Twila Young.

Manuscripts Still Needed For History

Although manuscripts are coming in "very well" for printing in the proposed new history of Twin Falls county, more stories about early times are still needed, says Mrs. John E. Hayes, chairman of the county centennial committee.

At the same time the county leader said next meeting of the committee would be held at the second floor auditorium in the Twin Falls city hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

A report on progress of the county history book will be given by Mrs. Otto Fowler, Kimbrey, chairman. Assisting on the book committee are Mrs. Hugh O. Boone, Mrs. Donald Lambert and Mrs. Arthur Kitchcock, all Twin Falls.

"Most of the stories turned in to date have come from the central portion of the county," Mrs. Hayes stated. "We need more stories or anecdotes from the east and west portions. We have many stories about early settlers but would very much like to get more of pioneers who came after the tract started."

The book is planned as the official centennial year publication for the county. It will be printed and available by county fair time this fall. The centennial year is 1923. Community centennial chairman are Walter Rees, Castleford; J. W. Hart, Buhl, William Moore, Hansen-Rock Creek; Carl Hiteaway, Kimbrey, and Thomas Utterback, Murtaugh.

MYRNA WILLIS... a freshman at University of Idaho from Twin Falls, was recently crowned 1962 Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. She is a member of Alpha Phi sorority and was selected from five finalists. Miss Willis is majoring in physical education. The contest is a gala two-week event, climaxed by a dance and coronation.

Spud Control Criticized by Club Speaker

BURLEY, April 7—Proposed potato marketing controls were questioned by the president of Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., Nephil Grigg, Ontario, Ore., when he spoke to members of the Burley Kiwanis club, Wednesday at... National hotel.

Grigg said that "a good basic and profitable contract on what the grower raises would be better," Grigg stated. "Some protection to the grower is well and good. The government should enter in when there is a disaster, or crop failure, or when we are switching to a war economy."

Grigg stated that "we should stand up for our rights and principles." He contended that people should have the right to work and should have the courage to stand up for what they believe.

He noted that the potato industry is turning toward frozen products because the American public now looks for convenience items.

Grigg said that the white potato is the number one food in the American diet and comprises 20 per cent of the vegetables eaten daily. He said that in 1959 the consumption of potatoes a year per person was 100 pounds.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie will be the guest speaker at the Kiwanis club next Wednesday.

Guests at the meeting were Sen. K. C. Barlow, Henry Chase, Irvin Reese, Ted Kelsoy, Fred Union and W. C. Anderson.

Ross Corlies was elected as a new member by Dick Brown, past lieutenant governor.

School Fund Gets Nod by Valley Board

EDEN-HAZELTON, April 7—Budget of $315,170 for the 1962-63 school year was accepted at a meeting of the trustees of Class A School district No. 2 this week. The budget is increased approximately $9,000 over last year.

Breakdown of the budget shows $146,000 for administration; $183,000, instructional—expenses; $28,500, operation of physical plant; $2,500, maintenance of plant; $34,000 auxiliary agencies; $4,000 fixed charges; $18,000, capital outlay; $297,000 total.

The board reduced the bond interest and redemption levy from .008 mills to .006 mills, relying on the surplus in this fund to carry payment until complete in 1969.

Two additional teachers will be hired in the district because of increased enrollments, one additional for the high school and one for the Hazelton elementary school.

Term of the trustees from trustee district No. 5 will expire this spring.

Albert Bruns filled the vacancy early this year when Frank Hohnhorst moved from this trustee zone. Election date will be set at the May board meeting.

Report on use of commodities in the lunch program was presented. This survey was made from the state department of education lunch division on a state-wide basis. The information gives each program an idea how they compare in use of government commodities in their individual program.

Work was started last year, and can only be done before water is turned into the canals. He said: "Each well is 10 feet deep, with the core being removed by a hydraulic drill."

City League Asks Bigger Tax Portion

IDAHO FALLS, April 7 (U.S.)—Delegates at a district meeting of the Idaho Municipal League today night vigorously demanded larger slices of revenue to keep pace with increasing city demands.

Some 40 mayors and other municipal officials of the upper Snake river valley from Blackfoot north expressed the almost unanimous opinion that cities must get increased revenue if they are to survive.

They reaffirmed a stand for reappointment of representatives in the state legislature for five cities a greater voice, asserting a "supremacy court" hearing should be held on Blackfoot.

"The cities in the state don't have a fair representation," said Robert W. Smith, Welder, league manager director.

The delegates also reaffirmed their stand on proposing a sales tax, as long as the cities get what they called an equitable share.

In connection with this, this said legislation must be enacted to eliminate the inventory tax, which they asserted is keeping business away from Blackfoot.

They said sales tax should be accompanied by a reduction in the property tax.

The league also asked to get a share of the airport revenue, noting this money now goes to the state aeronautics department.

They also asked for legislation providing for police and fire department personnel to be placed on federal social security rolls; favoring state enabling legislation to permit cities to participate in the urban renewal fund; asking alteration of the law to get more than the present 27 per cent of the highway funds; and asking for permissive legislation for city sinking or special building funds.

The delegates also favored legislation that will permit city police in hot pursuit of offenders to continue the chase in the state instead of being limited by county lines as they now are.

Dworshak said that because of floods this year, renewed interest has been voiced in southeastern Idaho flood control projects. He said Lapsley replied that about one-third of the money from the project could be called for in July, this year.

Britons Face New Capital Gains Levies

LONDON, April 7 (U.S.)—Treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd won cabinet approval today for a budget expected to hit property and stock market speculators with a new capital gains tax.

The government, led by the chancellor of the exchequer's annual budgeting, is to be presented to the house of commons Monday, may also hold the already high tax on tobacco.

This would be a way of checking the nation's smoking habit. The government, led by the chancellor of the exchequer's annual budgeting, is to be presented to the house of commons Monday, may also hold the already high tax on tobacco.

Generally, the state of Britain's economy makes it pretty sure Lloyd will stick to his old philosophy. He has been fighting for wage and profit restraint, higher output, more exports. Anything with a flavor of inflation or an easy money policy would undermine his own set of commandments.

Nonetheless, Britain's middle-class taxpayers would not be surprised, perhaps would be flattered, if the chancellor were to bow in their direction with a concession or two. The middle classes have been chiding Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and his Conservatives lately with their voting performance in by-elections. A distinct swing from the Tories has become evident. Democratic governments can ignore these danger signals only at their peril.

But any real cut available almost certainly will have to be kept for 1963, when a general election will be around the corner. Few prime ministers or chancellors can resist the temptation of brightening the national budget to improve their election chances.

Studies Show That Talk Is Factor in Marital Bliss

NEW YORK, April 7 (UPI)—Conversation smoothes the course of true love, a new study of marital happiness concludes.

The study also showed that it is the woman who usually starts the conversation.

"The level of marital satisfaction appears to be related to the amount of time each day which a couple spends talking together," said Dr. Harold Feldman, associate professor of child development and family relationships at the New York State college of home economics, Cornell University.

"Both men and women said they felt closer to their mates after a conversation," the study concluded. "But women had the feeling to a more intense degree."

"At least one traditional concept was supported by the research," the study continued. "Both men and women agreed that the women started the conversations more often than the men. No data were gathered on who ends the conversations."

Feldman and his colleagues found the amount of time a couple spent talking each day averaged 1 1/2 hours. Couples of child-bearing age, but without children, spent three hours; elderly couples, almost that much time.

"Pre-occupation with children seems to lower the conversation frequency," said the researcher. "What do married couples talk about?"

They listed first their work, then the news, then children's accomplishments, problems and discipline, shared interests and mutual friends. Least discussed were the "dream house," party planning, sex, religion, sports and housekeeping.

Feldman's study, which aimed to find how marital attitudes are changing included questioning of "several hundred" couples in Syracuse, N. Y. A grant from the National Institutes of Health and Welfare financed the project, in which couples ranging from newlyweds to elderly were queried.

Conversation was only one facet of the study, which Feldman said now should be broadened to other parts of the country.

In general, the researchers found that the institution of marriage is in better shape than a lot of people think it is.

"Going well most of the time" was the questionnaire category most often checked by husbands and wives.

Feldman concluded that the most satisfying years of marriage were at the beginning and the end—among the honeymooners and the couples—within the common—slipping the better half.

Men valued an orderly home as much as women did, and women financial security as much as the men.

There were no differing opinions between the partners on the importance of sex to a happy marriage, contrary to a common belief—the stereotype that "man is supposed to be more concerned with sex than women."

Men attach less importance to good food than women do, as opposed to the popular belief that men are the gourmets in the family.

Most couples agreed on whose job it was to make certain decisions. The husband's domain included sex and money matters, the wife's the children, entertaining, religion and visiting relatives.

BRUINS WIN HANK POWERS RELAY TITLE

Eleven Records Fall in Meet; Burley's Church Shows Class in Half Mile

Eleven records fell and the Twin Falls Bruins showed off their expected power in the annual Hank Powers relay carnival Friday afternoon. The Bruins wiped out the old record of the books and accounted for 10 of the new records while Burley's medley relay team, based on the halfmile of Glenn Church, broke the 11th. Twin Falls won the

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY TROYE
Among the things you learn about the big boys' Roger Maris, the homerun king of the New York Yankees, is definitely a "hotdog" in the parlance of the professional baseball world.

Stendman, Baltimore, at the National Sports writers and Sportsmen's awards banquet, related a number of incidents with reporters and other baseball players. He said that theory, a fairly good basis.

Interesting results were found in the New York Times last Sunday morning. It could stand as a test for area golfers to see how many dedicated they are to the game.

The six New York City municipal courses opened Saturday morning. Lines began forming in front of the clubhouse at 3 a.m. and greens fees were put on sale at 5 a.m. All the courses had long waiting lines.

To top things off, it rained off and on during the entire morning.

One thing about it, though, it kinda takes the sting out of walking on the first tee for 30 to 45 minutes at the Magic Valley courses.

Eddie Lyons, who managed Billings in the Pioneer League for two seasons and now is a scout in the southern states, attended the meeting. He was morning in Idaho and eastern Montana to another member of commerce.

"Frank is the best country in the world," stated Lyons to several football coaches and scribbles arising from the hotel lobby one day night. "I've seen it all. The Caribbean, East, West, North and South and there's nothing to compare with it."

Lyons, who may be somewhat of a since Billings gave him a new car and 1,000 silver dollars in 1958, has four southern states and all the countries and islands in the Caribbean within his scouting area now.

Lindsay Nelson, national sports caster of the year and voice of the New York Mets, has a hatful of Casey Stengel stories despite the fact he's been around the "perferer" only a few weeks. One of his favorites concerns him.

"Stengel is very absent-minded about names," says Nelson, laying a basis for his story. "The Mets have a young pitcher named Mike who was slated to pitch. A new man came up to me and said 'I understand you're going today.' I asked him what the job was and he said Stengel had told the press corps that Lindsay Nelson would be pitching that day."

"A couple of days later, the same new man told me you must have been pretty good this morning because you're going again tomorrow!"

"I asked Casey about it after the game," Lindsay continues. "Casey knows he has trouble remembering names and he's a little touchy about it."

"Listen," he said, "I might not remember names so good but I know all the his and out of baseball. In fact, I know the game so good that when I say Nelson is going for us, my coaches know who's going to pitch."

Tigers Sweep Twin Bill From Bruins

MOUNTAIN HOME, April 7 (AP) — The Mountain Home Tigers hosted their baseball record to 10-1 today as they took a doubleheader from the Twin Falls Bruins 7-6 and 3-0. The action was the first for Twin Falls this year.

The Tigers had to come from far behind to pull out the first game in extra innings as Junior Kendall Kinghorn unlimbered a powerful bat to shove Twin Falls to an early 4-1 lead.

Kinghorn tripled with two men on base in the first inning and followed up by hammering a two-run homer on a changeup pitch in the second.

In the second game, Mountain Home jumped on reliever John Bull for three runs in the fourth inning to nail down the shutout.

Jaipur Splashes Through Mud, Wins Gotham Stakes

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP) — George B. Widener's favored Jaipur, only colt in a field of eight 2-year-olds, not nominated for the Kentucky derby, romped through the mud and slop today for a convincing victory in the $50,000 Gotham stakes at Aqueduct.

It was the first start of the season for Jaipur, one of the top 2-year-olds of 1961 who is being reserved for the other two elections of the triple crown, the Preakness and the Belmont stakes.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who piloted Jaipur when Eddie Arca retired Tuesday, brought the colt home 1 1/2 lengths ahead of Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County.

Sunrise County, disqualified in the $100,000 Flamingo at Hialeah March 3 after finishing first, took second money by 2 1/2 lengths over Marian R. Frankel's Sidlock. It was two more lengths back to the Golden Triangle stable's Mister Phil, who set the early pace but folded in the stretch.

Vern Winchell's California-bred colt Donut King, who beat Jaipur in their last meeting here in the $30,000 Champagne stakes last October proved that he doesn't like the sloppy going and finished last. Donut King was the second choice at 7-2.

The crowd, reduced to 43,200 by the foul going, watched with rain-swept eyes from the Atlantic seaboard as Jaipur, who had no trouble declining on Jaipur as the favorite. He paid $4.30, $2.00 and $2.00 and carried 122 pounds. Sunrise County, ridden by Bobby Ussery and with 118, returned $4.70 and $3.50, sidlock, piloted by John Ratz, had 114 and was $5.10 to show.

Jaipur, a dark bay son of Nasrullah-Race Perfume by Eight Thumbs, was caught in a good 1:27 flat for a mile on the track which resembled a muddy lake after day long rains.

SHOSHONE, April 7—After April 15, owners of all dogs in the city without licenses will be fined a minimum of $5, city councilmen report.

There will be no house-to-house check made by the city police chief this year, they announce. Licenses are for sale at the city hall, $5 for unspayed females and $3 each for spayed females and males. City ordinance controlling this action will be strictly enforced, the officials say.

Only 31 dog licenses have been sold. Mrs. Hazel Haddock, city clerk, reported to the city council meeting this week.

The weed control fence along the west edge of town will be rebuilt.

Four new drain holes will be drilled and three present ones re-drilled, as needed about town. The new ones will be at the corners of the Stanley Larson place, Will Parsons, Mrs. Leola Maltby, Martin Motor and re-drilling will be done at the Ward Rawson garage corner, Lincoln County Journal and Hansen's department store corners.

Reservoir Is 27 Per Cent Filled

SHOSHONE, April 7—Most of the reservoir contained 52,800 acre feet of water Wednesday morning, which is 27 per cent of capacity, according to Leon Grive, manager of Big Wood Canal.

Both Big Wood Canal company and the American-Salt

47,000 acre feet for last year on this date.

The warning trend of the last few days has helped the flow into the reservoir, Grive said. About 3,400 acre feet a day has entered during the last three days. This is not a large amount and is much more than was flowing during the cold weather previously, he noted.

Both Big Wood Canal company and the American-Salt

reservoir district number two boards of directors recommended starting the American Falls water sometime between April 15 and 20.

There is considerable repair work to do on the whole system and it is a little doubtful whether it will be ready by April 15, Grive said. If at all possible, water will be turned on at Miller

Gives Class D 6's a scare in Mobil Economy Run

(Class D—luxury compact cars with automatic transmission)

BUICK SPECIAL ALUMINUM V-8 BEATS ALL COMPACT AND FULL-SIZE V-8'S

Can a V-8 give straight 6's a run for the money? Yes, indeed — if it's the Aluminum V-8 in a Buick Special. In this year's Mobil Economy Run, a finely tuned Buick Special finished just an eyelash behind the two 6's among luxury compacts. The winning mileage in Class D was 24.85 MPG. The Special V-8 racked up a whopping 23.68 with regular gas. Close? You bet.

This figure means that now you can buy a V-8 for economy, too, and get fast-stepping zip as a bonus with Buick.

In the Mobil Run all cars are driven by trained drivers so you can't normally expect as good mileage. But — whether you're a pro or not, the V-8 Special's combination of high performance and economy is sure to prove a mighty pleasant surprise.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By plugging up both ends of a culvert, one end with his jacket and the other with a sack he was carrying in the car, Mr. M. W. Mrs. Ervina Braun, northwest SHOZONE, were able to pen-in three raccoons late one night recently. Raccoons are considered a menace to farmers, and the three pairs of bright eyes shining out of the darkness, suspecting they were raccoons, they got out of the car and chased the animals into a culvert under the road. Then they began the plugging-up job. From there the Braun family went to the house where he heard the roar of the oncoming snow, ran to the end of the dump and pulled out the avalanche by 12 feet. Emmett Russell, who had a two-week lay-off, had his things packed to come to town the next morning. He was almost 'blee' dead.

The body of Sam LaBerge was lying standing in the doorway of the compressor room, with his pipe in one hand and his car-side lamp in the other. E. G. Jones, a stranger here, came up from the snow, when raccoons uncovered him, singing "Crazy Town." He had good reasons.

Many of the men were found lying in the snow as if asleep, with not a mark on their bodies. The men who slept on the ground floor of the large bunk house were killed. Those who had gone upstairs to the upper floor were saved. Many friends and relatives of the families of the men who were killed were in the North Star snowslide still reside in the Wood river valley.

Of the 85 men who were working at the North Star mine that year, some were "old timers." These men were nervous. They knew it was a matter of time. Several quit work and came to HALLEY.

Phil Welch and Johnny Fleming were young men, but they had grown up in Halley and had heard stories of slides roaring into the narrow North Star canyon from the steep mountains to the north. On the night of Feb. 24, 1957, they were sleeping in a bunk on that side of the gulch. A little after midnight they took their blankets and crossed the canyon to the bunk house on the other side, where they felt safe.

At 3:31 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 25, that Abner Donnelly, who was sleeping in the boarding house, heard the unmistakable rumble of a snowslide. Quickly he called to Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Powers, the cooks, to run to the cellar. Open the front door to see the mountain of snow as it swept by the building, taking the steps with it and shaking the structure as it had the ague.

He heard the crashing timber of the two story bunkhouse, the room, the storeroom, the changing room and the compressor room were smashed to bits and scattered down the gulch to the mill to get help. The men sank to their waists in snow as every one.

Dr. Robert E. Wright (who still practices medicine here) and Dr. W. Edelman, Halley, together with Dr. A. G. Byrd and Dr. H. Dutton, BELLEVUE, arrived at the scene about 8 a.m. Dr. J. Plummer, who was in Halley to care for the relatives of the men who were in the slide.

His head, arms and legs protruded from the snow, broken timbers and other debris. By 2 p.m. 100 men had arrived at the scene to help. By 2 p.m. the bodies of nine men had been recovered. Among them were those of the two young men who had moved across the canyon for safety. The bunkhouse they had been in was left behind. At 2:30 p.m., although many of the men had not been found, the general manager of the mine ordered the men to leave the area, since snow on the west side of the canyon was threatening. Thomas Jay, 50-year-old, was caught between two timbers, which gave him air and saved his life. He had been sleeping in his own house on the west side of the gulch, but during the heavy snow fall of the week before had moved to the office for safety.

Moffat, William Erwin, William Thompson, James Ford, M. Sterling, John F. Boyce, Isaac J. Lewis, Albert Griffith, John H. Lewis, Charles Swain, A. R. French, X. R. R. Corbett and Miss Mourning. William H. Greenway came on the fourth.

Assay Tent
On May 15 Lewis put up his assay tent and was ready to go to work "in a day or two." As soon as he had time he used his instruments to lay out the streets and blocks of Ketchum. He added that "people flocked in by the hundreds" and although it was the middle of May, "men had to sleep out for a place to commence building."

He relates in the diary that in the summer of 1881, with the assistance of George F. Hodson, he continued the survey of the town. "We made plans," he wrote in the diary, "had them certified by the local town trustee and acknowledged before the clerk of the district court. Forwarded one copy to the general land office at Washington, one copy to the district office at Boise City, and one copy to the county recorder's office at Rocky Bar, making application under the United States law for right of pre-emption by the settlers, under the act, giving each bona fide settler the right to preempt two lots. On December 3, 1881, a number of citizens including myself filed our declaratory statements for pre-emption and obtained titles before the end of the month. "Ketchum was the first town to be laid out on Wood river and the first to obtain a plat. It was for 100 lots or lots in the Wood river country. The town of Halley at the mouth of Cro's gulch, Horace Lewis and others. This town was a long time, some two years or more, before they obtained government title."

Freight Line
"The diary also included a listing of property and mines which Lewis obtained. The Lewis family, the son of Isaac, who came to Ketchum shortly after his father and who established the famous Lewis East Freight Line. Five of the original wagon lines were owned by Mrs. Horace Lewis, sister of Mrs. Horace Lewis, and are now featured in the annual Wagon Days celebration at Ketchum. The Lewis family in the former Horace Lewis home on the Sun Valley road.

So Ketchum has passed the Lewis family to the city of silver mines and then into the prosperity of the sheepmen. And now it backs in the property of the pioneering life he had lived. He wrote: "I know that I could find no healthier climate. Then I like the mountains, the pure water from the mountain springs, the beautiful valleys, the many pretty flowers, the fish and the game. I have too much at stake here to think of starting it for a country that might not suit me as well. "I have virtually made the town. At least I have expended more money than any other men of the country all put together. It is home, and there is no place like home. "As far as I am concerned we have as comfortable a one as any man elsewhere. It is not cost by a hundred thousand dollar home would not make one live any longer or enjoy his freedom better. Contentment makes a happy home. "Depriving one self of the comforts of life to lay up the almighty dollar for the sake only of being rich, breeds discontent, selfish and misery habits and in the end misery. "The happiest days of my life were when I ran as a unrequited and barefooted boy. The happiest days of my married life have been when I had nothing but a few hundred dollars in my pocket—no money, books and working for wages. "We had no property to quarrel over and had no money to spend in the vain attempt to find happiness. By chasing after it it is always a little further on. In some other place and when we get there, we find it has

Winthrop Rockefeller Is Force to Reckon With in State of Arkansas

WINROCK FARM, Morrilton, Ark., April 7 (AP)—Nine years ago Winthrop Rockefeller decided to forsake New York, for better or worse. A wartime friend talked him into taking a look at the quiet hills of Arkansas. Rockefeller liked what he saw. Today he feels he has found in rural, underdeveloped Arkansas the new, challenging life he wants to approach. "It is a basic philosophy—the impossible takes only a little longer to achieve. "He told him he couldn't raise prize cattle on a mountain top. Today his model farm has 1,000 head of purebred Santa Gertrudis stock. "He told him Arkansas could not be industrialized. But last year—only six years after he took chairmanship of the fledgling Arkansas industrial development commission—"Ark" —the state's manufacturing payoffs passed a program.

Political experts told him emphatically he was wasting his time on the Republican party in Arkansas, which has been declared Democratic since Reconstruction. Veteran Democrats laughed at his early efforts. Now they're taking it far more seriously. Rockefeller is 6 feet 3 inches tall; 235 pounds of nervous energy. As he nears his 50th birthday, he looks more like a former athlete than a Standard Oil heir. In cowboy boots and Western tie—his personal trademark—the looms as large physically as he does financially. While he sits as chairman of many public and private agencies, Winrock farm, his home and headquarters on Petit Jean mountain, 40 miles northwest of Little Rock, is closest to his heart.

Here he is not Mr. Rockefeller, the multimillionaire, but Win of Mr. R. to the men who are at once his employees and friends.

(Continued From Page 23) patriotism. "It's great to be an American," he said, "it's great to be home." How a man becomes this way, how a man develops the supreme self-confidence that enables him to be completely himself even before a million eyes is difficult to explain. He has less inner uncertainty than anyone I've ever seen. One of the doctors who has worked with the astronauts for three years has recorded a note that says Glenn is a man who excels with a record of excellent and the result is tremendous confidence.

Growing up he evidently had a very stable home life in a small, friendly community, the doctor said. He felt confident of his sense of security. He grew up with a very solid sense of his own identity and he was and is completely comfortable with that identity.

The result was a man who was free to deal with a given problem rather than a fear of how he would look if he failed. He was a hero who could accept his country's highest ceremonial honor and be moved and awed but not overawed.

A man less confident of his image would not have dared to stand before his family and his friends in the congress of the United States or make jokes about Caroline Kennedy and the monkey.

Springtime Is Good Time for Young Ornithologists to Learn Bird Types

In the spring a young drake's fancy turns to ducks, the feathers of the species. His brilliant plumage contrasts sharply with the drab appearance of his somber inconspicuousness. It's good time for budding ornithologists, bird watchers and off-season waterfowl hunters to learn species identification.

One ability to tell one kind of duck from another, especially on the wing, takes practiced eye and some basic knowledge. Sex differences are easy enough to spot at this time of year when the males are bright in their pre-nuptial best. While this is a useful breakdown, it is not species identification. Not mentally sorting the pintail from the buffhead, scup from baldpate—and canvasbacks and redheads from all the others.

But it is a beginning, this relatively simple segregation in the springtime between drakes and ducks merge in appearance into the drab summer eclipse moult. However, the plumage is altering constantly during this period of two distinct changes of feathers and the ability to give an individual waterfowl its correct name, sex and age is not always easy.

Some of the complicating factors, for example, occur during the fall hunting season when the male males are emerging from the summer eclipse moult, and the young birds of the year are coming into their first winter plumage.

These are precise terms but not hard to understand. Drakes lose all their bright winter coloring as soon as their mating chores are over and the ducks begin their incubation duties. Replacement feathers are much the same as the female dress—drab, somber and inconspicuous.

This is the time when the male's plumage and the drake mallard, for instance, no longer is wearing the green on his head, the chestnut chest and the buff feathers. All bright hues are exchanged for the nondescript drabness of the female.

Waterfowl management workers of the Idaho fish and game department take advantage of the flightless time when the feathers are gone to find and band the birds as part of international biological studies. The feathers are gone for about three weeks, unchanged in color or form—the only drake feature that does not resemble the female during the eclipse moult.

The second moult begins as soon as the drake is again usually about Labor day, and the eclipse feathers gradually are replaced with varicolored winter plumage. This is the reason adult males rarely are seen in full winter plumage by waterfowlers during the early part of the hunting season. Instead, they are bagged along with the females in various stages of the moult leading to the resplendent drake colors.

Oddly enough, the eclipse moult is found only in ducks, geese and swans, and only in waterfowl of the northern hemisphere. Even in southern hemisphere lands where the climate is similar to the same species of ducks are found— cinnamon teal, for example—drakes always are males down to the last feather, and females are the dandy sex.

Even so, the growing conservation idea called "species identification," first noted in this country with the all-out drive to save the canvasback and redhead ducks from the guns of the hunting hunters, someday soon may demand that waterfowlers the world around must know the flightless differences among all kinds of waterfowl.

The canvasback and redhead are two of 30 species of ducks found in America. Four other kinds of ducks also are familiar to Idaho duck hunters.

Cities and Country Cousins Battle Over Inequities in Representation

ponents contend a principle is involved in the question which the summer will want to identify in the autumn may be any one of several. It is the question of identifying the plumage, during its autumn moult, or in its full winter plumage, (b) an adult female in its fall winter plumage, or emerging from its slightly modified summer plumage, (c) a young male of the year in its juvenile plumage, during its autumn moult, or its first winter plumage, or (d) a young female of the year in its first winter plumage.

per pupil in state aid for education. Shelby got $111.31 per pupil in 1951. The state aid for education is more than just between the city and rural voters. It also involves parliam politics. Here, too, Tennessee can be used as an illustration.

Although Tennessee has voted Republican in the three straight presidential elections, the one normally runs 60-40 in favor of the Democrats. Yet in the legislative elections, the state normally runs 40-60 in favor of the Republicans.

This cast Tennessee Republicans sparked the reapportionment fight, though several Democrats later joined in.
