GENEVA, April 12 (UPI)—The Soviet Union offers today to refrain from further nuclear testing during the present 17-nation disarmament talks if the United States and Britain would do the same.

But the Russians made no mention of international controls as demanded by the west, and the proposal was rejected by the American and British delegates who said a Russian promise could not be taken at face value.

"I say this with regret, but we do not have any confidence in a Soviet pledge," Chief American Delegate Arthur H. Dean told the conference.

British Minister of State Joseph Godebski said "United Kingdom could not take up a Soviet offer which gives us no security at all."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valentin Zorin pleaded that "dear's answer was inconclusive, so the American tried again."

"I thought I made it abundantly clear," Dean said, "that the United States would find any unilateral moratorium unacceptable."

Dean reminded Zorin that the Soviet Union had declared during three years of earlier negotiations on a test ban agreement that it would not test nuclear weapons. Yet it broke that promise, making preparations in 1952 and setting off a nuclear test series last fall.

"There is no sound basis for an agreement based on a pledge," Dean said. "Agreements must provide for international control. Past experience has not been helpful."

The Soviet call for a new-unilateral moratorium in nuclear testing came as the deadline for the resumption of American negotiations over the Pacific approached.

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan warned, in a joint appeal to Moscow earlier this week, that unless Russia accepts the principle of the need for international verification of a nuclear test ban, U. S. testing will take place by the end of this month.

AFTER THREE DECADES, Joe Valdes, 50, was caught Thursday by Los Angeles police. He was shuffling along sidewalk early Thursday when through habit he glanced over his shoulder at a passing police car. The officers became suspicious and took him to headquarters for questioning. There his fingerprints betrayed him. A dusty "wanted" sheet showed Valdes was a man sought since 1932. He recalled for the officers his daring daylight escape 30 years ago while he was being transported to the San Quentin prison where he was to serve 20 years for robbery. (AP wirephoto)

Reserves, Guardsmen Release Slated No Later Than August

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—More than 145,000 national guardsmen and reservists will go marching home from the cold war in August unless the communists raise a new hot war threat. This will clip as much as two months from the year they could have been kept in uniform under a special act authorizing their call to duty at the height of the Berlin crisis last fall. But President Kennedy, in announcing plans for the August release, stressed Wednesday that these army, navy and air force units "will remain available in a new and heightened state of combat readiness; if a new crisis should arise."

The decision to demobilize the guard and reserve does not stem from any marked change in the international situation which continues to have many dangers and tensions, Kennedy said at his news conference.

Because of heavy draft calls and units' readiness for regular armed forces will total 2,000,000 next September after the guard and reserves return home from their about 20,000 more than last June 30, before the Berlin crisis mobilization began.

The army, which has 1,000,000 of the guardsmen and reservists under arms, informed congress it plans to move major units to their home stations during the first 10 days of August. All units, it said, will be released before Sept. 1.

2 Accidents Boost State Death Tolls

By United Press International

A single car accident near American Falls and a child's death on the wheels of a county road grader near Boise killed two more persons today, boosting the state's traffic toll.

The toll thus was three greater than it is this year ago.

Latest victims were Robert R. Clark, 21, Spokane, Wash., a student at Colorado State University, and Cole, and Nella Louise Matravera, 4, Boise.

Clark was fatally hurt when the car he was driving overturned after veering off the side of Highway 30 north near American Falls. Clark tried to get out of the car but was killed by the overturned car.

He died a few hours later in an American Falls hospital.

The second fatality, Mrs. J. R. Cole, 30, Spokane, a passenger in the car, escaped serious injury.

Water Pact Is OK'd by House Unit

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—A bill to authorize an amendment of a contract between the government and two irrigation districts in Idaho was approved Wednesday by the house interior committee.

Under the proposal, relating to Burley and Minidoka districts, the Burley unit would give up its present interest in power revenues from the Minidoka power plant.

In return, the district would be assured of power to meet pumping requirements under a 40-year contract at 7 1/2¢ of a mill per kilowatt-hour reduction.

Rep. Walter Rogers, D. Tex., subcommittee chairman, said in explaining the bill to the full committee:

"Both the government and districts profit from this amended contract."

Angry Kennedy Charges Major Steel Companies Disregard U. S. Public

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—For the first time in his administration President Kennedy is engaged in furious battle with a major segment of U. S. industry. He threw himself into the fight with a charge that steel companies have shown a "total disregard of the public by raising prices. Kennedy launched the attack Wednesday at a news conference in which he denounced U. S. Steel corporation and fellow steel price hikers with the strongest language he has leveled at anyone or anything since becoming President.

"I have been looking for emphasis, Kennedy said steel price boosters had displayed "utter contempt for the interests of the American people." He said their "pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility."

Kennedy said the United Steelworkers Union, which signed a contract that would hold prices steady, "has no responsibility." "And this government also has responsibilities which we intend to meet," he added.

In view of the speed with which other steel manufacturers fell in line behind U. S. Steel, he said, the Justice department and federal trade commission "will determine whether any laws have been broken. He obviously had at least the antitrust laws in mind.

Congressional committees will inquire into the need for new laws, he said.

Throughout the steel negotiations, Kennedy said, his administration sought no commitments from the companies or union-life and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, he insisted, emphasized—the government's only interest was obtaining an agreement that would not precipitate a price increase.

Not only is there no justification for an increase, Kennedy added, but labor would be hurt if steel can be expected to decline in the next year. Industry earnings have been high, he said, yet the government has decided to increase prices in ruthless disregard of their public interest.

Troops—He has asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to cut 1.1 billion dollars from the present $10.5 billion order for new tanks, tanks and bases abroad. He said this would help balance the flow of dollars out of the country.

Very sympathetic with the desire of OIs to have their families with them, he said, the administration is studying the possibility of the raising of pay for the service of the OIs.

Justice Department Lawyers Consider Steel Trust Action

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Justice department lawyers were reported considering today possible antitrust action aimed at breaking up the powerful U. S. Steel company, which has been under attack since the administration acknowledged that as an angered administrator held top level White House conference on the increase. There was no sign of immediate action from that meeting.

President Kennedy, who had already delivered a hot blast at the industry's action, said in the White House session for a time.

"Big Steel" started the round of price rises Tuesday night with a 10 percent hike in the price of other big producers quickly fell in line.

Informed sources said antitrust action aimed at the industry's action was one of the "central" avenues of action to which Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy referred last night.

But they emphasized that studies of what action the department might take were still in the early stages.

The attorney general, in an interview, had said the department was "already taking action" but declined to discuss details.

Asked whether court suits actually were in preparation, a well-placed source said today: "We are very active, but it would be a little premature to disclose what action we might take."

It was understood that government attorneys were considering suits against U. S. Steel under section 1 or section 2 of the Sherman antitrust act. Section 1 prohibits price fixing and section 2 is aimed at monopoly control.

"In this case, there are overtones of both," said one government lawyer.

The attorney general indicated Wednesday night his department was looking at the steel price increase situation in at least three ways: under section 1, section 2 and section 3 of the Sherman antitrust act. Section 3 prohibits unfair pricing practices. The firms consented to refrain from engaging in such practices in the future, although they did not "take" the "binding" in them in the past.

Special Interests

An election story out of Boise the other day should be of extreme interest to every voter. The key to the whole story was, "Large numbers of special interest groups are making a greater than usual effort this year for control of the state of Idaho and Idaho taxpayers. It makes no difference what particular pet project the candidate has in mind, whether it's gambling, taxation, trade agreements or rights to work."

Every voter should keep the possibility in mind. Any candidate sponsored by a special interest or who has some ulterior purpose for desiring election can't be expected to serve the best interests of the state of Idaho and Idaho taxpayers. It makes no difference what particular pet project the candidate has in mind, whether it's gambling, taxation, trade agreements or rights to work.

The procedure of the candidate seeking election for the particular purpose of furthering his own pet program is all wrong. It's fine for candidates to outline their beliefs and political philosophy, but so far as legislation is concerned, they should determine the will of the people and consider it a mandate.

Perhaps that's expressing an ideal that isn't entirely feasible, yet it's a matter of principle. The legislator is elected as a representative of the people. He should determine as near as possible what the majority of citizens favor and then do everything in his power to accomplish the wishes of the majority.

Far too often, candidates depart from this guiding principle. There are all sorts of flowery promises during the campaign, many of which are impossible for the candidate to deliver. And then the usual procedure is to forget the pledges they made during the campaign talk, once the winner takes office. To compound the felony, the officeholder frequently decides he knows what is best for his constituents and disregards any suggestions.

It should be emphasized that the shortcoming isn't particularly confined to state legislators. It's a common failing of candidates at the municipal level to the federal level, with the latter probably qualifying as the worst offenders.

Another failure along the line contributes to the breakdown in the principle of representative government. Voters themselves are not entirely blameless, and again the situation applies all the way from the municipal to the federal level. The duly elected representatives of the people cannot know what is expected of them unless citizens speak up and express their wishes. Here is another danger, in that a loud minority often gains its goals in the face of a softspoken or silent majority. Just as it's an official's duty to represent the people, so it is the duty of those people to make their opinions known in no uncertain terms.

When it voters become convinced their wishes aren't being carried out by elected officials or legislators, they can take the appropriate action at the next election. Any official who is most interested in representing himself or selfish special interests deserves defeat at the polls.

ROLES APART

Concerning matters of a political nature, it seems unavoidable that those who either favor or oppose take their stands at the extremes. Furthermore, both extremes are loath to admit any merit to the opposing view and are likely to condemn the opposition as comprised of shortsighted persons or consider nothing but their own selfish purposes.

Go down the list of controversial items involved in congressional action, for instance, and see how many fit the description. There's federal aid, and you can just about pick the category whether it's foreign, agriculture, education or what have you. The potato program offers another fair example.

Then there's the wilderness bill. Those who favor the measure have lambasted the bill's opponents with a good deal of frequency and the opponents keep shouting about "locking up resources." Neither side is likely to admit any merit from the other extreme.

The opposite extremes can be particularly apt apart of measures such as the wilderness bill where sentiment and emotion can play a large part in molding opinions. There can be no meeting of the minds and it's quite impossible to assume a quiet, rational attitude. An the gag goes, why mind's made up; not both sides with facts of the matter. The one who can happen if medical science devised a drug to completely freeze the emotions to permit the mind to concentrate on a calculated objective, rational analysis of all the facts involved. There's only one drawback to such a possibility. The end result would not be a peace. Besides, the results would be obtained by feeding data into a computer.

So folks will go right on taking their extreme stands, throwing reason to the winds. Perhaps it's better that way; it's certainly more entertaining to the few left on the sidelines.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, April 12—The first cabinet feud in the Kennedy administration has developed between Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture and former governor of Minnesota. As expected, the feud concerns the farmer's price support program. Although the clash involves the highly controversial non-legal question of cotton, the controversy of agriculture affects so many Democratic interests in the South, the Southwest and California, it has become a national issue.

Freeman's position is one of its most difficult political and economic quarrels. Growers complain because an eight-cent subsidy permits foreign competition to buy at lower prices than American processors have to pay. For the same reason, textile manufacturers demand protection from imports of low-cost fabricated products from Japan and Hong Kong.

Apparently dissatisfied with Secretary Freeman's approach to the problem, Attorney General Kennedy called in from Memphis a newspaperman regarded as a specialist in all phases of the cotton industry. Secretary Freeman was notified or consulted about this intervention.

SPILLS THE BEANS—On arriving here, the Memphis writer found the attorney general to be at his wits' end. On returning to Memphis, the reporter made the mistake of writing an amusing article about the Kennedy homestead, including the lively antics of the children.

This was Secretary Freeman's first inkling of the attorney general's interest in his affairs. And when he visited the President in Florida, he commented about the news that would result from this outside interference.

A few weeks ago, the Memphis adviser was summoned to Washington again by Attorney General Kennedy. He was warned not to reveal his presence by writing another story about the AG's family lest it upset the secretary of agriculture.

DISAGREES OVER FARM MONOPOLIES—It is understood, however, that the cotton bill now in preparation as agriculture secretary, which the attorney general obtained from his newspaper adviser. They will provide for lower prices supports but the farmer will be limited to 300 acres. It is felt that these changes will enable our growers to compete on better terms with foreign growers. Freeman is expected to approve these changes.

The Kennedy-Freeman rift began last year when they differed over the secretary's recommendations for inclusion in the omnibus farm bill. Freeman urged that farm cooperatives be allowed to merge so as to form more powerful organizations.

Attorney General Kennedy, whose anti-trust program has been one of his major initiatives, opposed the merger provision as a violation of the laws against monopoly. He did not believe that agriculture should be granted the same special treatment as banks, etc. His ideas prevailed at the White House.

OPPOSITION GIVES STAGE—The administration's new farm program is not meeting the Capitol Hill approval anticipated by President Kennedy and Secretary Freeman. An unhappy group of Republicans and Democrats on the House Agriculture Committee are expected to offer amendments to the bill.

It went to the unusual lengths of setting aside a month to hear the views of the House Farm Bureau. This organization has fought every Democratic farm program since the days of Henry Agard Wallace. It is so conservative that it has even opposed the annex of the Republican party. It is credited with the defeat of the administration's omnibus farm bill.

Nobody can recall when the admittedly bitter opposition to a politically important measure has been called in to air its views by a committee supposedly friendly to the bill. The House is expected to do this in the future.

Members attributed this hostile behavior to congressional irritation over the slow progress of the administration's 1962 farm plans, and to the belief that the administration's agriculture which are considered to be extreme and too comprehensive.

LIVING IT UP

Expense accounts for congressmen and senators who traveled about the world last year are being examined by the House. It was reported by the House that the congressman's office says he spent $1,000 of the congressmen's money in addition to the government expense account.

Lately the administration has been concerned about the deficit in balance of payments. Besides foreign aid, the principal reason for the imbalance is the money Americans spend in foreign countries. It is estimated that Americans spend in excess of what foreigners spend in this country. About $2 billion a year is spent in the Lankford fashion. If he did, the deficit would be three times as great.

Of course, ordinary American tourists cannot afford to average $26 a night for lodging and $10 for each meal, including breakfast. Their taxes are too high for that. They have to pay for luncheon for congressmen, some of whom seem to have little regard for the dollar, and not only when traveling.—The Oregonian

FOOD SUPPLY

The American food supply is inadequate to meet the needs of the population. This is due to a variety of factors, including a decline in the number of farmers, a shift in crop production, and a growing dependence on imported foodstuffs.

The so-called protective foods (fruits, vegetables, and dairy products) have become a vital part of the national diet. These foods are rich in vitamins and minerals, and they play a crucial role in maintaining good health. However, many Americans are not consuming enough of these foods, leading to various health problems.

It is essential for the American food supply to be diversified and to include a wide variety of protective foods. This will help to ensure that the population has access to the nutrients they need for a healthy life.

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 12 (NEA)—Attacking the Latin-American Alliance for Progress is currently a leading indoor international sport. Most of the criticism comes from those who do not like what it is trying to do and as a result of their dislike of doing it.

The alliance being criticized is the United States and another boon being called the Latin American boom.

In Latin America, says Dr. Jorge Sol Castellanos of El Salvador, director of the organization of American states department of social affairs, the alliance is being attacked politically by both the extreme right and left.

Dr. Sol, 46, has a master's degree in public administration from Harvard and has served as ambassador to El Salvador and as executive director of the international monetary fund for Central America and the Caribbean. He was one of the organizers of the so-called central American common market.

Communist and ultracommunist have been stirring political passions before Dr. Sol's charges. But today the communists are charging that the Alliance for Progress Charter is just a lot of lies—Yankee imperialist projects which conceal the continued efforts of American capitalists to exploit Latin America.

Admittedly, that information about the alliance is inadequate in both North and South America. Dr. Sol's charges have been to try to sell this as something made in U.S.A., and delivered by Latin Americans. Under the conditions that his governments may need, reforms can be made. When a friend recently told me that he had seen Dr. Sol's charges, I said, "I've never been enchanted with it. There is nothing magical about it. It cannot be achieved by waving a wand. It will take patience and persistence to get the Latin countries to make their own economic plans, mobilize their resources and pool them with the outside help now being made available through the alliance as an incentive.

It took four years for the Marshall Plan to show results in the reconstruction of Europe after the war. Dr. Sol's charges that Latin America, which does not have the resources of an skilled manpower, should begin to show results in less than five years is unrealistic.

Eventually, predicts Theodore Moscoso of Puerto Rico, now U.S. AID administrator for the alliance, the Latin countries will be redeveloped in Europe will operate even more powerfully in Latin America, unending the dynamic of new forces now in the Common Market after 14 years of unity. This is the long view.

The problem of unemployment is not a new one. Despite the claims of improvement emanating from the New Frontier, the jobs rate is still at its lowest since the average level of 1960. And the unemployment rate is at its highest peak in over 20 years.

In its persistence, this grave problem is rapidly presenting itself as one of the most serious economic problems of our time. It is not clear that the administration's economic program is doing much to help.

Today's problem is aggravated by what Senator Bush has called "deep-seated and massive economic changes" in the structure of the nation. He listed among these changes automation, the migration of industry, and the use of our resources, new patterns of consumer demand, a change in the composition of our workforce, and high costs which impair our competitive position both at home and abroad.

Again this backdrop, the need for a more active role for the federal government in the economic field is becoming more and more apparent. It is not clear that the administration's economic program is doing much to help.

Repair Work From Floods Is Completed

RUPERT, April 12—Irrigation officials reported this week that all of the major damage caused by the floods had been repaired and that the water would be turned into the canals within the next two or three weeks, depending on the weather.

William Creason, manager of the 37th-division district, stated that the water would be turned into the canals on the old project about April 20, and Terrence Gully of the bureau of reclamation reported that some of the pumps on the Northside project would be turned on around April 20-25, depending on weather conditions.

Considerable damage occurred to bridges and ditches during the recent spring runoff floods, Creason reported, but it was mostly in the form of silt and washed out flumes.

A number of drainage wells were clogged and had to be cleaned out, he said, but the work is practically completed now. A crew of more than 30 men have been employed getting the ditches ready.

Damage was widespread rather than serious, Creason remarked. Gully reported that a few pumps remained to be put back, but that the Northside project system is nearly ready for the 100 pumps to go into operation. All of the relict pumps are ready to operate, he said, with only a number of minor repairs remaining to be done.

Irrigation wells in Rupert have been in operation for the past week, city officials report.

Qualification Is Explained by Candidate

Keith Schofield, Rupert, a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress from the second district, said Wednesday that Twin Falls has two unique qualifications of interest to district voters.

Schofield paid his first campaign visit to the city after returning from service in South America with the foreign service about two weeks ago.

Schofield said, "I can offer a close knowledge of and experience in foreign affairs. I have seen what I consider to be some of the most remarkable failures in our foreign policy and would like to be in congress to try to do my part to influence toward more realistic policies."

Schofield said his other qualification was that he had knowledge of the operation of the communist conspiracy gained from close observation and study of how it operates in Latin America.

"Both of these qualifications are based on my eight years experience in Latin America, recently, as a foreign service officer with the state department."

He left Twin Falls Wednesday afternoon and plans to be in the vicinity again next week.

Flooding in Camas Area Not Serious

FAIRFIELD, April 12—Below freezing temperatures at night have kept runoff waters from causing any serious flooding in Camas prairie. The snow has been melting slowly and the peak coming in the late afternoon.

William Sweet, who has a farm on highway 46 with pasture land along Camas creek, says that a lot of his pasture under water today.

The snow has just started to melt the last few days in the west end of the valley and the peak of the snow is expected in the next few days if the weather continues to be warm.

Deep-draw water flows down the main street of Fairfield in the afternoon from melting snow in the field and Soldier but this is a normal condition each year as the snow melts.

Hundreds of waterfowl, wild ducks predominating, have been attracted by the numerous temporary ponds that have been made up of runoff water from the melting snow and runoff water.

No definite estimate has been made of how much water is running into Magio reservoir from Camas prairie but it is expected that there will be ample water for irrigation this year.

Scotland Yard Investigates Peckham's Poltergeist Case

LONDON, April 17 (AP)—Scotland Yard was investigating today the case of the Peckham poltergeist, a ghostly pyromaniac that—says objects on fire in the home of Graham Stringer every year about this time.

The yard was called in by firemen a week ago after Mrs. Stringer reported that furniture on the first floor of a two-family house had spontaneously erupted into flame in a matter of seconds from no visible cause.

In three of the last four years mysterious fires have broken out in Stringer's home in the Peckham district, always just before Easter but usually after the appearance of the "ghost"—a greyish, fluorescent column of vibrating light about the height of a man.

"We had no fires last year," said Stringer, a freelance photographer, "maybe because we had a Roman Catholic priest read the rite of exorcism. But now it looks like Larry is back, though we haven't seen him yet."

Larry?

Stringer explained somewhat diffidently that he and his wife had to give the "ghost" a name because their 4-year-old son, Steven, kept pointing to the column of light and asking, "Who's that, mummy?"

Now the child, according to Stringer, will occasionally say: "There's Larry" when nothing is visible to his parents.

Stringer said the occurrences started in 1958, a month before Easter, when he went downstairs to check the time and found a pile of his wife's toys on fire. On Good Friday he left a room for a few seconds, smelled smoke and rushed back to find a hole burned as though with a blowtorch through the center of a pile of the baby's clothes.

"Yet a pair of ringtones on the bottom of the pile was untouched—and you know how inflammable they are."

Stringer called in experts from the college of police to find a 1955 wheel a pair of shoes was

Roman Designer Is Successful Career Woman

NEW YORK, April 12—For a woman who once didn't know there was such a thing as a career girl, Simonetta of Italy has succeeded—handsomely—in the business and fashion world. "Now," said the designer from Rome, "I advise Italian women to work. When I started designing right after the war, all I knew was that I liked to sew a lot of clothes and I would have to work to get them. I didn't know anything about career women."

Today, Simonetta is a leading name in the western fashion world. Her husband, Fabiano, is one of her top competitors, heading a couture establishment which his family started 50 years ago. Mrs. Fabiani, or Simonetta as she is known in business, does sportswear collections for sale in the United States and abroad, and a two-year private collection twice a year to retail stores or manufacturers for reproduction. Her volume her firm, most recently has turned to shoe design. Simonetta didn't wish to discuss the dollar volume her firm does annually. She smiled that "with taxes what they are, Italians are always going broke... always on the edge of bankruptcy."

The designer is a dark-eyed and slim beauty, with one of her firm's best clothes hound, dozen gold bracelets jangled on one arm as she talked of how she became a designer. She was born the Duchess Simonetta Colonna di Cesarò. She opened business in 1940 in the Roman "Palazzo" which had been her home as a child.

Her first sportswear collection was fashioned from (dist-towel) linen, woven string and ribbon, from butlers' jackets, and gardeners' aprons, about the only materials available to her after World War II.

Today, individual clients include Doris Duke, Audrey Hepburn, Mrs. Spyro Kouras, wife of the motion picture tycoon, Lauren Bacall, and Mrs. Henry Ford II.

Simonetta recently signed with an American firm—(B. F. Goodrich and Hood)—to design casual footwear. Her first collection features chisel-shaped toes (pointed toes are out, she said) and a few flat heel shaped like a miniature barrel.

Simonetta, during a business trip to the United States, talked of how she and her husband remain happily married while competing with each other in business.

"Certainly, we discuss shop at home," she said. "But my husband's whole approach to design is different from mine. He is an expert at cutting fabric. I'm not. His collection is almost always last minute... done in 15 to 30 days. I start with an idea, sketches, toiles (the pattern made up in muslin), and then with fabrics. My collection takes me at least three months."

"We attend each other's general rehearsal... before press and buyers are in. I don't think there is any problem with our collections competing."

"Good taste has nothing to do with sex. My husband is more of a classical designer. I tend to be extreme."

Simonetta and Fabiano both lowered hemlines in their fall and winter custom collections. "I think fashion has had too much of the knee," she said. "When the short hemlines caught on with the big public, they had to change. But I don't think we'll ever have extremely long hemlines. They'd be absurd in our age."

District Athletes Slate Action in BJC Carnival; T.F. Enters Full Squad

A "spoiler" Twin Falls track team and outstanding half-miler, Glenn Church; runner and sprinter, broad jumper Terry Holwich; Glenn Perry, will highlight the fourth district's entries in the Boise Junior college track invitational Saturday. The Bruins will be the only school carrying a full squad to the first big test of the year. While they don't figure to have the depth for overall standings, they should help decide the team champion. The size and class of the field places emphasis on individual performances more than team showing.

"We are strong enough in just enough events to break up the three-way battle between Borah, Boise and Caldwell," says coach Jerry Kleinkopf. "We consider ourselves quite strong in five events and if those should happen to pick points of one or two of the third district teams, it should let the other one slip in for the title."

Among the Twin Falls entries is defending shotput champion Curtis Eaton, a sophomore, who will face his closest competitor from the third district weightlifter, Joe McCollum, a junior, warmed up in the low hurdles with a 20.4 clocking Tuesday and jumping junior Doug Schow, 6 feet, 2 inches and 190 pounds, hit the 100-yard dash in 10.2 and the 200-yard dash in 22.2 Wednesday.

"Our relay teams will be largely representative as we're looking for comparison right now," Kleinkopf says. "We are at least one move on each relay team that will strengthen it."

Church, a classy little 5 foot, 8 inch senior footer, has won all triple basketball tournament guard, has hit 2.94 in the half-mile despite only two weeks of practice in the placed second in the 880-yard open last year.

The Boise area schools, with three track meets under their belts, have this area bettered in almost every event. Boise has almost won to regain its old championship style, defeating Borah and Caldwell last week-end in the Nampa relays.

On the basis of times, the Bruins will be struggling for thirds and fourth at BJC, although both are based on meets strictly run in relays. Changes will help the Bruins to lead the quartet as the coaches spread their sprinters across the open events.

Twin Falls had its best times in the 400- and 880-yard and mile relays last week but the winner at Nampa was ahead in all three events. The Nampa relays time in the 400-yard was six-tenths of a second better than Twin Falls' 1:20.80. In the 880, Twin Falls was 1:33 against 1:33 for Borah and Borah had nine seconds to spare over the Bruins' mile relay time of 1:42.

In the individual events, Eaton will run into trouble on the 400. He must team with Ray McDonald, Caldwell, and Woods, Boise, both of whom have hurtled the 400 over 32 feet and former, Eaton, after hitting 50 and 31 feet consistently in practice had a 42-foot inches in the Hank Powers relays.

Twin Falls will place a lot on the shoulders of McCollum, who will run in the 100-yard dash, low hurdles and anchor the 400-yard relay. In addition, the Bruins may spring McCollum in the broad jump this week in a new event to the junior-riser, McCollum, who has been having trouble with his legs, has been over 21 feet in practice.

He also will be running into his old rival Dave Arnold, Borah, who topped him by 1/8ths of an inch in the 100-yard dash last year.

Red Sox Nip Indians 4-0 in 12th Inning

By The Associated Press
Carroll Hardy broke up a magnificent pitching duel with a grand slam homerun in the 12th inning Wednesday for a 4-0 Boston Red Sox victory over the Cleveland Indians. Hardy, who battled his way into a starting outfield berth this spring, hit rookie Ron Taylor's first pitch into the left field screen with none out in the third extra inning.

222,675 See Second-Day Loop Openers

By The Associated Press
Almost a quarter of a million fans turned out Tuesday at major league baseball's 1962 campaign rolling into high gear with eight second-day "openers" drawn from 222,675 through the turnstiles.

The largest crowd was on hand at Los Angeles, where 22,654 saw the Dodgers open in a double ball park. The biggest American league turnout was 22,978 at New York for the Yankees' curtain-raiser. The NL drew 145,626 to 76,850 for the AL.

The season officially began Monday when 44,383 witnessed the presidential opener at Washington and 28,586 were at Cincinnati for the traditional NL opener.

Last year, for the nine openers, the attendance was 154,300 in the NL and 130,604 in the AL for a total of 284,904. The total of 267,725 for the presidential opener day before the other teams got under way.

Cards Spoil Mets Debut by Score of 11-4

By The Associated Press
St. Louis paced a heavy-hitting Cardinal attack with three hits and tied Mel Ott's National league record for runs scored Wednesday night as the Redbirds made a disaster of the New York Mets' National league debut, defeating them 11-4.

Right-hander Larry Jackson went all the way for the Redbirds giving up eight hits, including homers to Gil Hodges and Stan Musial. Jackson got more than adequate support from Cardinal batsmen, who hit four doubles and three triples across 11 runs. One of the 11 runs was Musial's 1,820th, tying Ott's record.

The Redbirds scored two runs in the first inning. Musial singled in Julian Javier. Bill White crossed the plate with the second run as Dan Zimmerman threw out Ken Boyer.

The Mets tied it up momentarily in the second with Neil Singling home Elzie Absher, who singled and moved up a walk to Felix Mantilla, who later scored on a sacrifice fly by Frank Thomas.

Pat Smith's two-run single in the first inning made the difference as the Houston Colts blanked the Chicago Cubs behind the pitching of Hal Woodeshick and Dick Farrell.

Parrel came in to net the last three outs after the Cubs, beaten in Houston's National league debut Tuesday 11-2, had put two on base in the ninth with none out. Farrell got pinch-hitter Bob Will to tap into a double play, then fanned another pinch hitter, Danny Murphy, after Bannery Taylor had walked.

Al Spangler singled and Norm Larker and Jim Penitenton walked, loading the bases in the first, before Spangler's sacrifice single set off for both Houston runs.

Left-hander Sandy Koufax, usually a bust in April, pitched four-hit and secured his earliest victory ever as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 6-2.

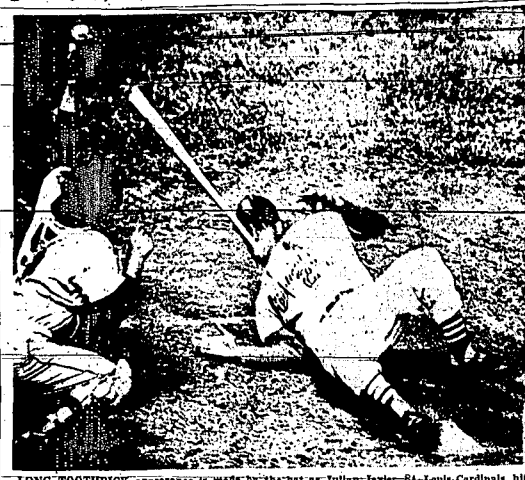

Bill O'Reilly's four-hit pitching and Willie May's two-run homer carried San Francisco past Milwaukee Wednesday night for the Giants' second straight win over the Braves.

Ex-Champ's Jaw Hurts Boy's Fist

STREATHAM, England, April 12 (AP)—Freddie Mills, former world light heavyweight champion, presented his rock-like jaw to 15-year-old John Block and said: "Go on. Hit me as hard as you like."

John—following the example of illustrious predecessors like Gus Leonard and Joey Maxim—collied.

Instead of the ex-champ sagging to the canvas, John's own vigor was so great that he somewhat imply from the writ.

A quick trip to the hospital confirmed that bones were broken.

Freddie, who had been distributing prizes at a Streatam youth center, could not have been more upset.

"I do feel a bit of a bully," he said. "Fancy my chin—going."

Meeting for Camera Uses Set April 30

FILED—April 12.—Florence Schultz, home agent, announced a leader training workshop on "using and understanding your camera" will be held April 30 when the Pler 4-H council met this week.

Home demonstration and 4-H leaders are invited to the workshop which will be held at the extension office meeting room.

Olen Genn, 4-H county agent, announced that application forms for scholarships to Camp Alpine, the University of Idaho's conservation camp, are available to boys whose parents belong to the 4-H organization.

Applications for Camp Alpine must be in at the county office by May 1.

4-H scholarship applications to either summer camp or club congress also are available with a May 15 deadline. Enrollment forms for 4-H members are due May 15, Genn added.

The council voted to determine 4-H members by their age at the time of the county fair as they have been some controversy over this in the past. Members 14 years of age at fair time would compete in senior divisions.

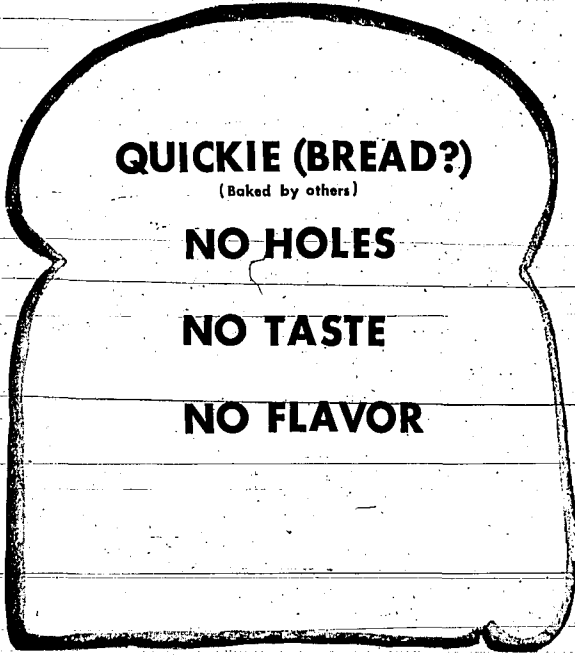

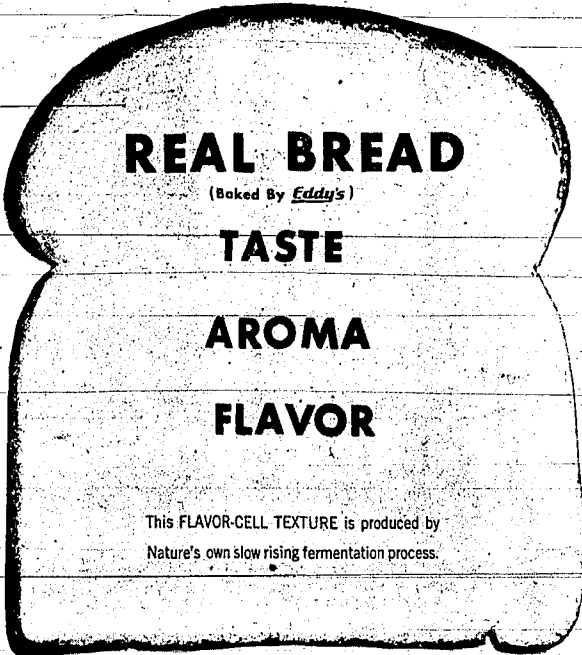

The group also went on record as favoring points for fitting and showing of swine, sheep, beef and dairy to be the same. They voted to have points as well as ribbons awarded to those giving demonstrations.

Junior leaders wishing to help at summer camp must submit written letters to the county office, stated Genn, telling which jobs they prefer and giving first, second and third choices.

The group made plans for a special program to honor Betty Carey, International Farm Youth exchange student from Kimberly, who recently returned from Uruguay. All leaders, junior leaders, 4-H members and parents are urged to attend the next meeting to hear Miss Carey tell of her experiences in Uruguay.

Candidate Talks To Rupert Lions

Discussing the public's complacency concerning politics, Hawley stated his concern about the controls the present federal government is seeking, compared to state and local controls. He urged more participation by individuals in government.

Dr. E. C. Phillips won the attendance prize for the meeting. Final reports on the Miss Rupert pageant were heard.

Cheers were directed toward Neil Newhouse, Boise, campaign manager for Hawley.

Grange to Send Notes to Solons

Letter forms, which will be sent to both senators and secretary of agriculture, were discussed at a meeting of the Knoll Grange Tuesday night at the Grange hall. The letter forms were prepared by Elizabeth Hill, Leale Jones and Olen Dosselt.

Dosselt urged all members to send letters to Sen. Henry Dworshak and Sen. Frank Church. It was announced during the meeting that each member would furnish two pies for the Roy Blakeslee sale which will be held at 10:30 a.m. April 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Platt served refreshments.

Walcott Boaters Choose Officers

RUPERT, April 12.—Officers were elected when the Lake Walcott Boat club met Monday at Curt and Marge's cafe in Rupert.

Mrs. Wayne Wilko was chosen commodore; Fred Bloom, vice commodore; Mrs. Fred Bloom, secretary-treasurer; and Wayne Wilko, Leo Carney, Charles Parker, Newton Dickson and Dr. Roy Lemoine, directors. Gene Potter was named program chairman.

An invitation was extended to anyone interested in boating to attend the meetings of the club which are held the second Friday each month at Curt and Marge's cafe.

Broker Chief Speaks Here For Meeting

Chet Jamison, Nampa, president of the Idaho Brokers board, was featured speaker Tuesday evening during a joint meeting of the Twin Falls brokers board and the Twin Falls multiple listing board in the Blue Lakea Club. Jamison was on the first leg of a tour through the state asking the cooperation of boards to organize a training session to be held next February in Boise. The "president's training council" will be for presidents of local boards and councils to help them "arrange activities for 1963." Jamison recently returned from a two-week meeting of the National Association of Realtors and Brokers in Washington, D. C. "Marian Voorhes, state executive secretary of the Idaho Brokers board, announced that the Rev. Eugene Snow, pastor of the college church, Northwest Nazarene college, Nampa, will be main speaker for a Twin Falls realtors' "spring clinic" April 25 at the Turf club. ### Outing Planned By Better Bees

KING HILL, April 11—A picnic and hike were planned by the Better Bees 4-H club when they met this week at the home of their leader, Mrs. W. W. Knox. Members are to meet at 11 a. m. Saturday at the King Hill creek for the outing. Joan Barnes, recreation chairman, will plan games and Mrs. Knox will judge the picnic lunches brought by members. Mrs. Knox demonstrated how to hem a dish cloth. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Neal Miller.

Schofield Hitting Hard on Communism Home Apathy

BY RICHARD CHARMOOK of conservative. He doesn't like federal power where the main purpose is electric power rather than reclamation or flood control. But he feels there are "some" flood control projects which would be warranted federal jobs in Idaho and which would "not at all be feasible for private interests to handle."

The political newcomer, he's never been active in domestic politics before. He is anxious for Uncle Sam to get out of agriculture. He feels the present administration is "trying to blackmail the farmers by giving them a choice between various stiff controls."

While he has some basic political views about domestic economy and the federal government's role in it, foreign policy seems to be Schofield's long suit. And when it comes to present Kennedy's foreign policy he has some very definite views. He's spent eight years in Latin America, three as a missionary for the Latter-day Saints church in Argentina, another as a student at La Plata university and about four years with the foreign service in World War II. He served in the European theater as a second lieutenant. Frankly, he said, he'd like to see a more aggressive foreign policy. The Kennedy administration, he believes, is taking the wrong tack in South America. "We should, Schofield said, step up our propaganda activities in South America. We should use our foreign aid dollars in a way that the people of South America can best understand—a way that will help them get the television sets, cars, refrigerators and other material wealth their northern neighbors have. Up to now, he said, he disagrees with the way money has been spent under the alliance for progress program. And if it is not spent in a "very hard-nosed fashion" in the future, Schofield said, "our 20 million dollars can go down the drain."

Local 4-H Club Elects Officers

Officers of the Buttons and Bows 4-H club were elected at a meeting in the Valley Christian church. They are Jean Littlefield, president; Cathy Berglund, vice president; Linda Scherupp, secretary; Barbara Edwards, treasurer; Debbie Thompson and Elizabeth Porter, reporters; Kathy Anderson, pianist; Kay Thier, program chairman, and Stephanie Emberton, recreation chairman. Demonstrations were given by Barbara Edwards, Linda Scherupp and Elizabeth Porter. Refreshments were served by Miss Scherupp and Miss Emberton.

DOWN TO SEA IN SEDANS might be the logical statement at this point. That's what, one of the more interesting of Doctor's North Shore, has a new addition to the landscape.
