

Twitter Gets Blame After Plane Crash

NORMAN, Okla., April 30 (AP)— A high-pitched twitter, comparable to the sound of crickets in late summer, has been blamed for the 1960 crash of an airliner in Boston.

The federal aviation agency's civil aeronautics research institute here has reached that conclusion after a two-year study of the apparent affinity between starlings and Lockheed Electra aircraft.

The crash Oct. 4, 1960 killed 62 persons—starlings—small birds that fly in flocks and feed on crickets—were found in the Electra's turbo-prop engines.

It wasn't the first time Electras had been bothered by starlings, the institute said. Several times before the Boston crash, Electras were forced to abort flights because of flocks of the birds.

After the Boston crash, institute researchers began to think there was something in the aircraft engines attracting the starlings, said Dr. Stanley Moler, director, and researcher John Swauger, in their report.

The noise produced by the aircraft's engines contains a high-pitched twitter that sounds like a swarm of crickets, the investigators said.

Shoshone Has Music Clinic Performances

SHOSHONE, April 30—Mrs. Allen has done a remarkable job here in this community. Never in all my experience have I had a group better trained. This is a comment by Norman Logan, a member of the University of Idaho music department, who has directed the clinic concert at 8 p.m. Saturday night at the Lincoln school auditorium.

Mr. Logan made the statement during the performance of the high school chorus concert.

This was the last high school chorus concert under the direction of Mrs. Velma Allen, who is leaving Shoshone after 11 years as a music teacher.

She has signed a contract to teach at Gooding next year.

During the day Mr. Logan received the various groups in the clinic.

The concert featured the Medford singing "Eyes of My Beloved" by El Lasso; "So Well I Know Who's Right" by Vecell, and "The Silver Swan" by Gilbert.

Freshmen and sophomore girls sang "I'd Enter Your Garden," "The Fiddler" and "How Sweet Flows the Stream," all Brahms.

A trio from Dietrich and Mr. Logan were guest singers. Mr. Logan sang "Bourne" and "The Dodger" by Copland. Deloris Cheslick was his accompanist.

Tenettes sang "Love is a Many Splendored Thing" and "Tonight."

The boys' chorus sang spirituals "De Animals Am Comin'" by Bartholomew, and "Pocahontas" by Holman.

The teens sang "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and concluding the program were members of the large mixed chorus, singing "Bless ye the Lord," by Ivanoff; "Fireflies" by Russian folk song; "Kum Ba Ya," by Gardner; "Come Out of the Valley," by Goodwin; "Bijah Rock," by Hairston; "White River" by Wright, and "Russian Picnic" by Ender.

Receiving special congratulations from Mr. Logan was Karen Dille, who accompanied most of the numbers.

Solo parts were sung by Robert Tanaka, Jeff Rapp, David Harris and David Thomas. Louise LaFare accompanied some of the numbers.

Gifts of appreciation were presented Mr. Logan and Mrs. Allen, by Jonathan Mohr and Carol Coffman on behalf of the chorus.

Irish Oppose Land Purchasers

CORK, Ireland, April 30 (AP)—Bishop Cornelius Lucey said yesterday that Ireland welcomes foreigners as tourists or workers but not "when they come to take over our Irish land."

The criticism followed a protest last week by the Skibbereen urban council that German and Dutch settlers were buying up large amounts of land for themselves.

It said they were "creating for themselves paradises adjacent to the popular beaches and depriving the Irish people of amenities they have enjoyed for generations."

Alaska Checking On Jap Flotilla

NOME, Alaska, April 30 (AP)—A state fish and game protection boat left Cordova, Alaska, today to check a report that a Japanese fishing fleet has moved into Alaska-claimed waters near Montague Island.

The fleet is the same one involved in an incident two weeks ago over fishing rights in the Bering Strait.

Gov. William A. Egan said he had an unofficial report that one of the fleet's catcher boats was seen on the Bering Sea near Montague Island near Montague Strait.

Egan said as soon as all the facts are available he plans to ask the U. S. State Department to convey his protest to Japanese officials that it appears the fishing fleet is deliberately attempting to provoke incidents between American and Alaskan waters.

He did not say whether he might seize any of the vessels as the state did two weeks ago.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, April 30—A proposed real estate development on the beautiful Virginia hills overlooking the Washington skyline has attracted the attention of the city and the capital has aroused protests and charges of political influence because the land has been offered to the promoters of a small-sized city by Hugh D. Auchincloss, stepfather of the late President John F. Kennedy. His offer is a backstab on the magnificent estate, known as Merrywood.

The word "backstab" is one of the most charming residential sections on the outskirts of Washington. It is the site of numerous luxury homes. Former cabinet members and outstanding diplomats have lived there. Among its current residents are Interior Secretary Harold E. Ickes, a former radio commentator, and Walter Ruder of the newspaper chain. Mr. Morgan is a leader of the 46-acre, Auchincloss plot has been optioned to the developers for $850,000. With unusual and unnecessary speed, so angry members of the Metropolitan Citizens' Association and the Committee for Preserving the Potomac charge, the county supervisors approved the change in the zoning laws which would allow the erection of three 11-story apartment buildings and 50 town houses. The limit on height of buildings in Washington is 10 stories.

PROFIT FOR THE SHERIFF—The real estate dealer who handled the transaction in John Deane's name privately said that the county. It is expected that his fee will approach $100,000.

The residents of McLean, a small village west of Washington, have demanded his resignation on the ground of a "conflict of interest." He scoffs at the charges, and says that he will seek reelection in the fall. He also denies that any undue pressure was exerted on him to obtain the supervisors' approval.

Mr. Morgan's stepfather is Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. He occupies the residence formerly owned by the late supreme court Justice Robert H. Jackson, an early colonial court judge.

If the scheduled building program goes through, and there has been talk of action, there will be a new suburb in the Washington area. With Chevy Chase, Md., it is unique in that respect.

BETTER ROAD REQUIRED—Although the complaining citizens center their fire on Sheriff Taylor, many charge privately that the county supervisors, who have charge for months over zoning laws, would not have approved construction of the apartment houses so close to the city if the road had not been built. Mrs. Kennedy's stepfather. They do not imply that any of the Kennedys intervened, however.

The opposition is especially aroused because it is a road to the question of possible pressure, because of the usual difficulties which the influx of new people into this hitherto unpopulated area peaceful landscape.

The only road from Washington, which runs along the Chesapeake and Ohio canal that has been built privately that the county supervisors planned section of Washington, also forms a traffic bottleneck.

The road is a main artery on both sides of the bridge. Outraged with the cars of amateur fishermen catching herring, and trout during their spring runs. All of these roads and the bridge will have to be widened, straightened and repaved at considerable expense to the taxpayers.

LUXURY HOMES FOR 4,000—There also will be the need for expansion of existing facilities—schools, sewerage, sanitary service, road maintenance, greater police and fire protection. It is expected that the tax base of the county will have to be increased when the new population, larger than McLean's total of less than 2,500, moves in.

The promoters' plans provide for 1,500 luxury apartments and 50 town houses. Figuring an average of $10,000 per unit, the total value would amount to more than 4,000 people.

Finally, and many Washingtonians not immediately affected agree, it is pointed out that the three 11-story apartment buildings will mar the majestic skyline which now borders the nation's capital.

The city officials deny that they were subjected to "more than the usual pressure" when zoning changes are proposed. But one Washingtonian, who represents McLean, says that he received 300 letters, and all were in opposition to the proposed development.

REVOLUTIONARY CONTROL—The resolution opposing federal aid to education adopted here Friday by the Montana County Board of Education is in line with the growing trend in many states to give the governing body the right to control the school system. It is a move that federal aid means federal control. The key statement of the resolution reads: "We believe that the federal government is not the proper authority to control the school system."

The proposition that more federal aid means more control over the school system is a familiar one. It has become a major issue in the minds of many parents and educators.

Don't Be Lulled

The department of agriculture's decision to ask the national potato advisory committee to reconsider its recommendations on potato controls should not be misconstrued by Idaho potato growers. That's just about what it amounts to and no one should interpret the action as more than a temporary victory.

In order to keep the record straight, the national potato advisory committee was appointed by the department of agriculture, to all intents and purposes. It was a handy device to keep the department's skirts clean in case potato control plans backfire. And they did backfire. There was more outspoken opposition in the series of hearings than the department ever imagined would develop.

Consider the protests in the light of the off-year elections being held around the nation during 1962 and it doesn't take any mental giant to figure out why the department of agriculture is being driven away from the hot potato at this stage.

So Governor Smylie is just a bit premature in his statement that "I'm also deeply gratified that Idaho potato growers, who fought alone for several months, have won the fight." The more cautious joint statement of Sen. Frank Church and Rep. Ralph Harclay would be closer to the truth. They said, "It appears as though we might have won the second round in Idaho's fight against volume controls on potato marketing."

That's about as far as Idaho's growers and shippers should go; at most it's a second-round victory. Opponents of potato controls should not relax in the belief that no more will be said about potato acreage and marketing controls. Idaho has won a breather, nothing more.

Right now it would be a good guess that little or nothing will be heard about potato controls until after the general elections around the nation "next November." Then they should expect to see the drive through its advisory committees or even directly.

USDA must have had pressure from all sides in the last few weeks in the wake of each new session of hearings around the nation. News service reports indicated that the department was hot and heavy and developed even where no press had been expected. As the hearings wore on, it became apparent that time was running out and it would be virtually impossible to impose any sort of controls in time to be effective with the 1962 crop.

By sidestepping talk of potato controls until after November elections, the administration avoids the chance of embarrassing any Democratic congressmen, or even jeopardizing their reelection. Then after the elections, potato controls can be switched back to the main line and accomplished before the opposition can be reformed. No further hearings would be necessary and the department of agriculture would have around four months to complete control plans in time for the 1963 crop.

HOT PROPOSAL

Any suggestion of curbing national guard and reserve forces has all ways been met with immediate and torrid protests. As a result any change in guard or reserve status has been difficult to attain, if not impossible.

The most powerful argument advanced in favor of the troops, particularly the national guard, is that guardsmen provide the most ready-made force for immediate use in case of all sorts of emergencies and particularly in case of national emergency. On the other side of the coin, those who would reduce or eliminate guard units and reserve organizations assert that guardmen and reservists invariably have to be trained further before being ready for combat.

There are valid points in both arguments and countless illustrations for both sides. Factious that would reduce or eliminate the citizen-soldiers also are prone to point out that guard and reserve units seldom are called upon to see combat. In reducing their usefulness, the national guard are faced with proposed elimination. The units in question are stationed in north Idaho and Governor Smylie has registered protests and asked for congressional intervention to prevent the reduction. That's the usual procedure in such cases.

But there's a good chance of bringing the entire question into sharp focus. Guard and reserve units are "inspected" regularly and are required to participate in field exercises every summer. Minimum requirements can be set and enforced, and everything from membership to proficiency. Those units that fail to meet the minimum requirements should be disbanded immediately. Such procedure would eliminate under-manned and under-trained units at once.

Then, if it becomes a question of whether guard or reserve units should exist at all, congress should decide.

POT SHOTS

LIVE, LET LIVE
Dear Pot Shots:
I can't understand the current fuss about dogs. I don't own one myself, but I firmly believe that a happy dog is a dog that is allowed to run at large, following down the neighbor's flowers and making a general nuisance of himself to everyone but his owner.

I find it very stimulating to crawl out of bed at 2 a.m. and go outside to have a look at the doghouse. I forget our laws and regulations, but I have a better opportunity to breathe really good, clean, fresh air.

And during the summer, while working in my flowers, I chance to wade into a pile of dog manure, do I complain? Perish the thought! I rejoice, knowing that my roses will have superior bloom because of that high grade fertilizer.

Come on, folks; let's not be narrow-minded. Let's pension the doghouse and let the dogs out. They will be happy and we will have a city of happy dogs.

IDEA ANYWAY
Dear Sir:
Over the weekend, we took a drive out to Shoshone Falls and were impressed by the water that's going over the falls and then being blown high into the air.

If you have a sign along main highways from which approachers connect with the falls to indicate the flow of water over the brink? It wouldn't be too much of a chore to change it frequently.

REVERSE PSYCHOLOGY
Sir:
Other parents may be able to use the device we stumbled across the other night at the dinner table. All mothers are well aware of the sort of reception they can expect for a new dish, so they understand.

We had a new dish, which I well must mention, was served instead. It consisted of a child, then told the children they would not like it, passing the dish to me. I took a small helping and agreed with them, saying, "I wouldn't have it on my plate, all the time I'm eating it."

Well, you can give a prayerful and affirmative answer to their questions, how about celebrating a few birthdays prematurely this year? And every year?

More specifically, how about supporting the National and American Crippled Children's Association? It is a wonderful organization that has helped more than a quarter-million handicapped children without regard to religion, national background, economic status or ability for the existing disability?

BETTER THAN DOLL
Dear Pot Shots:
Only children and grandmothers are the only people who are not making a million more by making a million friends. Just might make someone happy.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S VIEW

Having conquered the steel industry, which represents the savings of millions of working class people, President Kennedy's objective probably will be the great industrial unions of the CIO. His own interest plainly requires that he establish a high-backed command over this mighty force that he has established over capital (or industry) and congress.

Westway Press seems to me that he will arouse less indignation and opposition in moving to break the monopolistic power of unions because their behavior has been so successful and often insurrectionary over the years. Roosevelt introduced John L. Lewis' audacious scheme to force all labor into one colossal mass of workers.

"Labor" is the only power in the nation which the President does not command by law and which, in the eyes of the vast majority of the workers, has been disappointed by years of frustration and last-minute disappointments.

In the steel control, the administration protected, in fact, the power of the United Steel Workers, which was followed by the President's show of "cold feet" as the papers described it. Wilson had no tummy, but his anger at Henry Cabot Lodge in the League of Nations brawl was not forgotten, even after his death.

Mr. Kennedy had shown the same cold fury against Castro in the Bay of Pigs. He might have a good point to remember for the next occasion.

Actually, the executives, the management of big steel companies are not very sensitive to the desires of their shareholders. They are more interested in their own profits and in running their own companies with proxies every clip, and they want a box of paper clips, and the cumulative effect of their habit of authority is a relation pretty much the same as that of the union bosses of their subjects.

The corporation executives get away with a great deal of money through pensions and bonuses. They are not out and out for "consultation" after retirement. This is a case where the union and the purpose is to relieve the high-saluted men of the great burden of high-bracketed income and their incumbency.

Other high-income people have to pay such taxes and the great deal of money that they get out of their hands for themselves at the stockholders' expense is not even denied. But nobody who is clever enough to get the most out of the union has ever used it to justify many of their own general fund "benefits." The company executives have not had the nerve to do the similarity of the union's benefits. Shareholders are blighted both ways.

You might say the government is chiseled, too, not that anyone takes a loss for the treasury. But now that Kennedy is the strongest man who ever occupied the White House, he would be clever in his own interest to claim a vast success on the basis of the only great power left unshackled. The armed forces, of course, never see a power, but they are not the most powerful groups of generals were thinking of mischief although some such idea was launched by General Eisenhower on the 24th division. The generals, are, in fact, too keen and queasy for their own good to see a power.

Congress would be delighted to pass a Sherman act for labor, meaning the union politicians and their shareholders. They have more votes in unions than share holders in steel. And the steel industry is the most powerful industry in the nation. It would give the steel industry a very strong voice in the nation.

In that case, Mr. Kennedy might turn out to be a very satisfactory president.

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 30 (NEA)—Democratic Party strategists do not anticipate that foreign policy will be much of an issue in the coming congressional election campaign.

Replican strategists have other ideas on this point, with every intention of making Kennedy a defeatist. Kennedy's admission that the United States is in a "foreign crisis" is a subject for lively debate.

Kenney foreign policy programs now before congress include a new expansion legislation, United Nations peace corps enlargement, the $4 billion dollar foreign aid bill including the Alliance for Progress in Latin America.

Several sections of the new legislation are in the process of offering incentives for overseas investment and closing loopholes which give some American tax breaks to foreign investors.

Only the trade expansion program has political implications. Everybody is in favor of free trade as a general principle. But there are 48 states and congressional districts which are in competition with each other.

This can cause the Kennedy administration trouble in securing passage of the legislation now before congress. It can also cause congressional candidates to defend the administration program and vote for it.

On the Democratic political side, the administration is expected to be a major issue in the coming campaign. The administration is expected to be a major issue in the coming campaign.

Deluge Put Out Woods Fire That Destroyed Homes

TWIN FALLS, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—Rain fell heavily Sunday night and extinguished the dying sparks of a fire that swept through parched woods and brush to destroy 18 homes just north of here.

About 35 persons were injured. Most of them were among the more than 2,000 firemen and volunteers who battled the wind-driven flames Saturday.

The fire made a black wasteland of about 400 acres, rangers said. Only the foundations remained of the 18 small homes that lay in the path of the inferno.

Leslie Hills, Warren county fire coordinator, said the cause of the fire had not been determined.

Jordan Claims Palestine Plan

AMMAN, Jordan, April 30 (AP)—The Jordanian government has an overall plan for the Palestine problem that avoids "no-nonsense and long speeches" in favor of "practical solutions and studied actions," Premier Wasfi At-Tal said yesterday.

He said a ministerial delegation would discuss the plan with other Arab countries as soon as it is completed and approved by parliament.

The Burns Creek dam proposal has long been a political controversy in southern Idaho. Conley Ward, Maring, a Democratic candidate for governor, was under opposition who withdrew a state sales tax bill, denouncing it would "take from the poor and give to the rich."

"The sales tax advocates of both parties are not interested in new revenue," he said. "They plan to shift the tax burden to those with the least ability to pay."

Conservative Group Fights Governor

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Some Republicans believe Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller may be facing a bigger reelection threat from party conservatives in New York than he seems willing to admit.

This is one of the bright spots Democrats have been able to field out of a week-end which brought the announcement of Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City that he will not seek his party's nomination to oppose Rockefeller's reelection.

The Conservative Party, Inc. announced last week that it will oppose Rockefeller and Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, who is up for reelection, at the GOP convention in September.

While Rockefeller and Javits seem assured of getting their party's nominations, the conservatives hope to demonstrate some significant dissent, which might be telling in the November results and thus affect Rockefeller's reelection.

Associates say that both Rockefeller and Javits minimize this movement, which started earlier in the year among Republican conservatives who don't like what they regard as the liberal viewpoint of the two.

They said a ministerial delegation would discuss the plan with other Arab countries as soon as it is completed and approved by parliament.

Civil Rights Debate Holds Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, April 30 (UP)—The house knicks debate to work today after a 10-day Easter vacation, while the senate plods along with its debate over a bill to prevent racial discrimination through literacy tests.

No major bills were ticketed for immediate consideration in the house, but before the end of the week leaders hope to bring up a bill urged by President Kennedy to set up a private communications satellite system.

Before the week ends senate leaders reportedly plan to initiate a move to clamp a time limit on the debate that began last Wednesday on the voter literacy bill.

The bill, strongly opposed by the Southern bloc, would exempt anyone with a sixth-grade education from having to take a state literacy test to qualify as a voter in presidential and congressional elections.

It's No Bull; Comely Cow's In Spotlight

EL CAJON, Calif., April 30 (UP)—A comely cow, wooed and won by a prizefighter, is the spotlight in court tomorrow in the case of two lady farmers whose custody battle over the bovine champion almost started a range war.

The "custody battle" ended with the two women, Mrs. H. H. Chickering, Mrs. Antonia Chickering — each charging the other with assault and battery.

A subpoena ordering the court opened up the unusual case. Herford describes her as "a white-faced Hereford cow" with bright red around her eyes, white markings down the back of her hind, white spots on back legs and forelegs and all white underparts.

But she was not always such a model pasture pin-up.

An attorney said several weeks ago the cow, unwrapped, emaciated and apparently lost, wandered onto his client's ranch. He said Mrs. Chickering nursed her back to health and claimed her.

Then, as he would have it, Mrs. Copeland's bull took a fancy to this now well-groomed bill of beef and apparently he crossed the boundary line to Mrs. Copeland's property.

Thoroughly smitten by her new housekeeping in Mrs. Copeland's meadow.

The affair erupted when the two women met to discuss the cow. The conference quickly turned into an exchange of blows that smacked of the old West when arguments were settled by a swift punch to the nose.

Charges and countercharges were filed and the court—thinking of the welfare of the cow—ordered her impounded.

Friend-bull is now alone in his pasture—he was not subpoenaed.

Wagner Will Not Run for Top N.Y. Job

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—Mayor John A. Wagner renounced himself today as a candidate for the governorship this fall against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Reports had persisted that President Kennedy might induce Wagner, the state's strongest Democrat, to try to upset Rockefeller, a potential Republican nominee for President in 1964.

Wagner told a news conference he had discussed the matter with Kennedy but that he was "never under pressure" and that the President "knew how I felt."

The mayor, elected a third four-year term last fall, said he could not "walk away" from his city duty.

He added, in effect, that there was no need for him to run for governor — that there are "a number of outstanding Democrats who running on a liberal forward-looking platform, can take the measure of Gov. Rockefeller."

Smylie Glad Walters Ended Resources 'Obstructionism'

By The Associated Press

Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today that he is glad State Land Commissioner John C. Walters "has ceased his obstructionism" in the field of natural resources development.

The governor replied to a statement by Walters endorsing Smylie's appointment of a natural resources commission but charging him with "political gimmickry" in his timings.

Walters and Kellough today on the first leg of a four-day northern trip through northern Idaho.

Smylie said, "It would have been better if he (Walters) had been in it in 1959 when it was first proposed. But it is not too late now. We can still get the problem solved if he will agree to it on the basis of a non-partisan such as proposed."

Walters said in Idaho Falls Saturday that "Mr. Smylie now is controllable further, does what should have been done all along, obviously hoping for political advantage by his timing. If this is not political gimmickry, what is it?"

GOP Chairman J. O. McDermott said that Walters and another Democrat had "played propaganda games with the truth."

He said Walters asked for state funds for repairs at the Idaho Soldiers Home in Boise to take advantage of Federal money funds. But McDermott said no funds are available.

He said Sen. Henry Dwershak, Idaho, asked federal agencies about funds in January and was told there were none.

McDermott also said that Ray McNichols, Orofino, co-chairman of a committee for reelection of Sen. Frank Church, D, Idaho, had made an error in a statement about the Bruce Eddy project.

Annual Clothes Drive Set by T.F. Women

Twin Falls United Church Women are making their annual appeal for used clothing and blankets for needy families overseas.

Especially needed are men's and boys' clothing and used summer clothing. Donated clothing should be in good condition, clean, and needed: warmth and serviceability, not style, are important.

An estimated one million pounds of blankets are needed by war victims in Algeria, Chilean earthquake victims and landless villagers in a war-torn area.

Those donating are asked to bring clothing and blankets to church Sunday, where they will be packed and shipped to Modesto, Calif. The world service center there will send the clothing overseas.

Both the truck which will be used to transport the clothing to California, and the world service center are operated by volunteer workers of the Church of the Brethren.

Clothing also may be taken to the May fellowship luncheon of United Church Women at 1 p.m. Friday at the First Methodist church.

Women in the area are urged to attend this meeting which concerns the migrant military program in Twin Falls.
