Mythology of Politics Draws Premier's Ire

LUTON HO, England, June 22 (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan today attacked the "political myths" that related the economic progress of the country to the success of the Conservative party, saying that such "political mythology is a great enemy of progress in a world which demands as a policy a more realistic and efficient, there is no use for an intellectual lumber."

Macmillan attacked one specific myth concerning the role of government in society and business.

The old antagonism between government and private enterprise... is played out in the modern society... government has to appear as the partner of industry, which shares its profits and is dependent on the success of its production, as the champion of the consumer, as the director of administrative action... as the initiator of new policies, as the creator of a spirit of confidence in the future.

Orval Hansen Optimistic on Victory Prospect Tuesday

State Rep. Orval Hansen expects to win Tuesday's election by defeating blank check over his prospects for victory in Tuesday's run-off election.

"Based on the vote in the primary I am confident that I can go on to win in November," he said.

"The vicious campaign for this office has underscored the vitality of the Republican party and the unity of the Republican caucus—the best way to promote human progress and freedom. We must protect the rights of our citizens to retain a good share of the fruits of their labors to own and manage private property, to earn a profit and spend their money as they wish."

"During the campaign I have refused to engage in name-calling, the use of deceptive labels, or other tactics which can only weaken and divide the Republican party. I have tried to conduct my campaign in a manner which will emphasize my own and my party's capacity for positive leadership."

"The Republican party stands for free enterprise. All of us, the wage-earner, the businessman, the farmer, and others, have a stake in making our system of free enterprise a success. I have avoided appeals to prejudice which create needless conflicts among groups in our society and have stressed our common purpose. None of us will prosper or be free unless our nation remains free and prosperous."

"I conclude my campaign with no regrets. To build the moral and material strength our nation must have to make a better life at home and to preserve all we have grown and cared for from the threat from abroad, we need the kind of leadership that will strengthen and unify. That is the kind of leadership I expect to bring to the office I am seeking."

"Sandy Summers demonstrated how to brush hair, followed by 'Red Zink' demonstrating how to make apple crisp. Pessy Davis showed how to prepare vanilla pudding with marshmallows and Dennis Shew illustrated how to make no-bake cookies."

"DEBBIE MATHESON" was introduced as a new member.

Among other amendments adopted was one by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R. N.Y., to amend the act to give the secretary of defense authority of export controls a felony. All such violations are now subject to a maximum of 10 years imprisonment, and a $20,000 fine.

Marines Are Irritated About Attention to Guerrilla Work

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—The Marines unmasked today in a letter to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, expressing their irritation over the attention given to the army's glomeration of anti-guerrilla warfare. Counter-guerrilla operations are neither new nor seasonal to marines—and I think the general public would be well advised to know that, said Lt. Gen. J. C. Munn, assistant commandant of the Corps.

Munn declared that "probably no force in the world today is better equipped, experienced and more ready for counter-guerrilla operations than the United States marine corps."

For Munn chose for these pointed remarks was a banquet of the Marine Corps Combat Correspondents Association in Allentown, Pa.

He did not mention the specifics of guerrilla work, but Munn's anger was clearly apparent in the anti-guerrilla specialists of the army. The army declined any official comment.

In his prepared remarks, Munn appeared to take a dig at the army on another score. "The Marine Corps is a permanent structure," said the supporting corps' second in command. "More of our over-all strength can be devoted to offensive anti-guerrilla tasks instead of being used to protect a complex network of supply lines and base installations."

Stendman indicated radio telephone calls from the vessel would be used to keep the world informed of the vessel's progress along the test zone perimeter.

Yesterday, Federal District Judge Justice Martin France ruled the voyagers must stay out of the danger area but that they were not to draw "anywhere in" the Pacific.

Stendman said while they were at sea their mainland contacts would be by radio. He would appeal the federal court ruling to the ninth circuit court of appeals.

Senate May Vote Soon on Health Plan

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield announced today there is a "strong possibility" the senate will get a chance to consider work on a revised version of President Kennedy's health plan for the aged.

The Montana Democrat told the senate at an unusual session today that amendments to Kennedy's proposal to provide medical insurance under social security are being prepared by a group of Democrats and Republicans.

He said it was the "precondition of the leadership" to offer the health package towards the end of next week as an amendment to a pending bill.

The vehicle he said, may well be the pending measure to extend social security benefits to assist welfare programs. It is one of several pending bills which have special urgency because they are needed to extend programs scheduled to expire at midnight next Friday.

Tying to clean up some of its large list of unfinished business, the senate voted today primarily to extend permanently the law controlling export of strategic materials. The chamber approved two amendments designed to strengthen the measure.

In a letter to Gerald A. Geiss, who was named chairman of the committee, Kennedy praised the progress made in combating racial discrimination since the end of World War II.

Although a provision of the recently passed house sugar bill would authorize the payment to the Dominican Republic and American sugar companies there, the justice department is presently concluding it in the U.S. court of claims.

Businessmen Are Needed By President

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 23 (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R., Ariz., suggested today President Kennedy "get some good" independent businessmen in the White House" to help him cure the nation's economic ills.

"This would help him more than anything else," Goldwater said. He also accused the President of having an "inextinguishable desire for power" and of including himself with "professors" who were misguiding him.

"The President needs a man who has had payroll, paid taxes, built a business and knows the problems of making a dollar," Goldwater said. "So far he has relied on men who learned about economics from textbooks."

Goldwater, here in address a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner tonight that grossed more than a quarter-million dollars for the Wisconsin Republican party, said it was not good for the country for Kennedy to have on his staff a "dominate number of 'minds.'"

Ex-Algerian Chief Trying To Save Life

PARIS, June 23 (AP)—Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan's appeal to the secret army organization to make peace with the Moslems in Algeria may have been an attempt to save his own life, informed sources said today.

The former chief of the secret army in Algeria now is under a life sentence for treason and terrorism. The failure of a special court to give him the death sentence angered President Charles de Gaulle.

Now Salan's case may be reopened on new grounds. The prosecution has asked for a review on the basis that Salan had committed further acts of treason after his imprisonment.

Salan had written letters to confidants from prison giving instructions on the use of secret arms and other matters relating to the terrorist organization and his own defense.

Should a review result in a retrial, some sources feel, Salan's former public relations campaign might be an item of mitigation against the earlier letters sent to the secret army.

Salan's motives are known only to himself, but it was recalled that he has never repudiated an appeal from his lieutenant, ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud. It has never been made public whether Jouhaud, condemned to death while his chief escaped with life imprisonment, wrote an impassioned letter to Salan recently urging him to join in calling for the secret army to end its terrorism.

Appeal Made For Demo Bid By Ribicoff

HARTFORD, Conn., June 23 (AP)—Welfare Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff, in a direct appeal to the delegates to next month's Democratic state convention, said today he wants their support for his party's nomination to the U.S. senate.

The former Connecticut governor said in a letter to the delegates: "I would like to be the Democratic candidate for the United States senate and I ask for your support."

Ribicoff has frequently told local Democratic groups that he would be happy or honored to be the party's senate nominee, but has declined to make a categorical statement of candidacy.

"There is nothing I would consider a greater privilege than to represent the people of Connecticut in the senate of the United States," Ribicoff said in his letter.

"I would like to have a vote as well as a voice in President Kennedy's programs and to be able to serve in a position where I can get things done for the people of our state."

He also said Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D., Conn., would place his name in nomination at the convention.

Ribicoff's direct appeal to the delegates appeared to be in response to the intensified campaign by Rep. Frank Rowland for the senate nomination.

60 Witnesses To Appear on Estes Probe

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Senate subcommittee members said they will quit 60 witnesses at hearings starting Wednesday on governmental operations in the Billie Sol Estes case.

The Estes case, in which John McClellan, D., Ark., and his Senate investigators are probing promises to lead from Texas to places high on the Washington scene. The Senate subcommittee is a focal point, but informants said officials of other agencies are being investigated.

The subcommittee announced only that it has received testimony of Estes' get-rich-quick manipulation of federal cotton contracts and his operations board for an investigation expected to run well into the fall or winter.

McClellan and his five subcommittee colleagues have designed publicly it will be a fair, thorough investigation designed to produce the facts no matter whose political interests are hurt or helped, and in which they will select no partisan criteria.

Their selection of Estes' amazing success in getting extra and highly profitable cotton acreage allotments for himself keeps the inquiry out of the field in which a house settlement of the Senate subcommittee already has moved.

The house group has been receiving some public testimony about Estes' huge grain-storage deals.

The house subcommittee, headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D., N. C., plans to question James A. McConnell, former head of the agriculture department's surplus grain program in the Eisenhower administration, at hearings Monday. He resigned this post to become a director and consultant of the Commercial Solvents corporation, which has been named with Estes in an antitrust action charging false marketing of liquid fertilizer business in parts of Texas. Estes also is under fraud indictments.

Guardsmen's Off-Duty Project Pays Cash, Dividend to National Guard

GOWEN FIELD, June 23 (AP)—An off-duty endeavor by three members of a Twin Falls national guard troop during training at Gowen field proved a profitable experience for them and paid an extra dividend for the Idaho national guard.

Three cooks from headquarters and headquarters troop, 116th armored cavalry regiment, spent off-duty hours trimming hedges, pruning trees and doing yard work in Boise. They not only made some extra spending money but the venture proved a boost for the national guard.

The three cooks who did the work are 8/Sgt. Henry Glens, Kimberly, and Spec. 5/cpl. Jerry Willoughby, Twin Falls.

"Cooks of all units of the regiment while in garrison are on duty 24 hours and off duty 24 hours. This is made possible by having two or more units eating in a single mess hall. The Twin Falls troops shared the mess hall during the first week with aviation company, Boise. During the second week in the field the cooks were on duty each day, with little time off.

The idea of the three Twin Falls unit members was hatched some time before summer field training and was promoted particularly by Wright, who with his father Lloyd Wright, owns the Kimberly Nurseries.

"It looked like a good opportunity to pick up some extra cash in our off-duty time," Wright said. Wright did most of the special work while Glens and Willoughby assisted with various tasks.

It was no easy task getting streets bending on doors to get the work. They ended the first week with three working days and about 20 jobs. "Enough to keep us busy from dawn to dark," Wright said. They knocked on about 60 doors to get the work.

One of the dividends of the venture appeared to be that Boise residents were impressed

Mums Available
BURLY, June 23—Four new varieties of chrysanthemum mums suitable to Idaho are on the way, reports County Agent Glenn Boddy.

Cuttings were made available to nurserymen this spring and gardeners can probably get them next year.

Four varieties are Big Horn, Old Choice, Shoshone and Red Warrior, all developed at the horticultural field station of the agricultural research service at Cheney, Wyo. All four have proved ability to survive severe winters of the high plains without protection.

Big Horn has much pink bloom and flowers fade to silvery pink in hot weather. They reach full bloom late in August.

Old Choice, golden pumpkin and yellow, with the yellow on the inside third of the bloom.

Shoshone is a bright sulphur yellow, putting on its best show from Sept. 1 to 10. Red Warrior is a wild strawberry red. They reach full bloom early in September.

A sugar coated shell for your sunny hours is SUGAR DAISY. Discreetly scooped in front, delightfully scooped in back... it owes its carefree optimism to the shapely Sea Shell bow. Sizes 10 to 16, 17.95

Just another lovely style from our large selection of Marino swim suits.

Shoppers Are Injured From Flying Glass

DENVER, June 23 (AP)—Scores of downtown Denver shoppers were injured by flying glass and debris today when an oxygen tank exploded in the middle of a burning building.

Two persons—a fireman and a woman shopper—were injured seriously. Many others were knocked down by the explosion or cut by glass, and were treated at local hospitals.

The fire broke out in a building being razed by a wrecking firm to make way for a parking garage. An employee of Barnett Wrecking company, Cip Montoya, 56, Denver, said sparks from a cutting torch he was using ignited insulation in the building.

"He told me I have first degree burns on my arm, but I didn't want to go to the hospital," Montoya said. After the fire was controlled, he helped other workers and firemen clear the shattered glass off the streets.

A column of flames rose from the building when the insulation caught fire, and the blaze threatened two nearby movie theaters. "Within a few minutes after the fire started, the oxygen tank, used with welding equipment, blew up."

The blast shattered windows for several blocks around, but the fire stopped right after the explosion.

"It happened so fast I didn't know what was happening," said Mrs. Ruby Erickson, 47, Denver. She was knocked to the sidewalk when the explosion blew out the window of a flower shop across the street from the fire.

Another passerby, Mrs. Eleanor Dulaney, 46, Denver, received a cut artery, and was reported in serious condition. Fireman Robert Crumb, 34, received a possible leg fracture when a portion of the burning roof fell in.

The explosion caught spectators of guard. Thousands of them, downtown for Saturday afternoon shopping, had gathered to see the fire.

A policeman who was posted in the alley behind the building told a United Press International reporter, "Those people came out of that alley just like they were shot out of a cannon."

Ike Suggests Defense Cut At GOP Rally

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—A suggestion by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower that U.S. defense spending should be reduced has stirred surprise, plus some dissent and some support, on Capitol Hill.

Speaking at a Republican fund-raising rally last night, Eisenhower caught his fellow party members off guard when he said defense spending reflects unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts.

The surprise was deepened when he went on to say he believes "the defense budget should be substantially reduced." He did not elaborate on his reference to unjustified fears and outmoded concepts Friday night.

Nor would he do so for newsmen today at a breakfast given by Rep. Perkins Bass, R., Miss., for him and Republican congressional aides.

Military spending, now running at $60-billion-dollars-a-year, has been about the only money subject that has not stirred partisan controversy under President Kennedy. In fact, Republicans and Democrats consistently have joined in voting more funds than asked by the administration, under Kennedy as they frequently did under Eisenhower.

that had never been used," adds possible explosion caused by a Mrs. Kenneth Poe, Grange member assisting with the project. "A small bump can cause a gauge to give the 'wrong reading,' she said.

"The service is available to anyone desiring to have a cooker checked to insure it is in proper working order," Mrs. Glick said. She warned that a malfunctioning gauge could cause serious injury either through spoiled food not properly cooked or a plugged petcock.

"A small bump can cause a gauge to give the 'wrong reading,' she said.

Assisting Tuesday will be Mrs. I. T. Creed, Mrs. Noah Olliver, Mrs. Charles Stepienoch, Mrs. Terry Sullivan, Mrs. Lynn Boppewell, Mrs. Warren Daleh, Mrs. Glick and Mrs. Poe.

4 Lutheran Bodies to Form American Lutheran Church

DETROIT, June 23 (AP)—A large altar at one end of the American Lutheran church history will be made here next week. Four bodies of the church, including the two and one-half million-member United Lutheran Church of America, will merge to form the new Lutheran Church in America.

The merger, to be carried out as a constituting convention, will create a single church of an estimated 32 million members, or about one-third of the nation's Lutherans.

Joining together in the climax to six years of merger discussions will be the United Lutheran church, American Evangelical Lutheran church, Augustana Lutheran church, and Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church—Bismarck synod.

Merger will be effected over a period from Thursday through next Sunday in ceremonies at Cobo hall following the closing convocations of the four groups. The convocations start Monday.

A thousand official delegates and several thousands visitors are expected.

Cobo hall's big arena is to be turned into a sanctuary for communion service. There will be a

Tommy Davis, the biggest run producer in the majors, drove in five runs with a triple and three singles as the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers flattened Cincinnati 14-3 before 47,150.

FOUR MEN CRACK 4 MINUTES IN AAU MILE

Beatty Wins in 3:57.9; Photo Is Needed to Pick Second Place in 3:58.1

WALNUT, Calif., June 23 (UPI)—Little Jim Beatty, fighting his way out of trouble time and again, won one of the greatest mile races in history tonight in the 74th annual AAU meet when he was clocked in 3:57.9—in a race in which four men cracked the one-time formidable four-minute barrier. So tight was the finish that it took a photo to separate second place finisher Jim Grelle and third-placer Gary Weisiger. Each was timed in 3:58.1. Bill Danson of Kansas came in fourth at 3:58.3, followed by John Davies of New Zealand who was timed in four minutes flat.

MOVING INTO THE LEAD, Bruce Kidd, Canada, laps an unidentified runner at the start of the last lap in the AAU three-mile run. The 18-year-old schoolboy ran the distance in 28:23.4 to better the American record of 28:55.8 set by Al Lawrence in 1920. (AP wirephoto)

A sixth man, Bobby Seaman, came close at 4:00.5. Beatty, who had been trained for and was shooting for a 3:55 mile tonight, was boxed in all of the first lap.

"On that first lap I was boxed in—but good," said Beatty after the race. "I shouted for Bobby Seaman and Jim Grelle (both Los Angeles track club teammates) to move out to give me running room."

"But I guess I just didn't have it. Let's face it, I just was not fresh."

Slender Ron Morris of the Southern California striders became the fourth man to clear the 16-foot height in the pole vault as he went 16 feet 1 inch. He barely missed a world mark of 16 feet, 3 inches on his final vault of the evening.

Jerry Terry, the powerful Oregon finisher, was the meet's only double winner with a 134 high hurdle victory last night and a 22.6 victory in the 220-lows tonight.

Terry, a powerful runner, was left at the post in the lows and was running in last place after the first hurdle. But he finished with his usual burst of speed to catch Scott Tyler of Miami University of Ohio and won handily by five yards.

Paul Drayton, pinch-hitter for his injured teammate Frank Budd, tied the world record in the 220-yard dash around a curve in 30.5 seconds. His Villanova companion, Budd, came up lame in the finals of the 100-yard dash and was scratched from competition today.

Husky Al Oerter, the two-time Olympic champion, tossed the discus 202 feet, 2 inches to exceed the recognized world discus mark but missed the pending record by one-half inch. Russian Vladimir Trunov tied the platter 202 feet, 2 1/2 inches earlier this month.

Bill Williams of the Southern California striders, a 19-year-old Arizona state university freshman, won the 40-yard finals in .88, equalling the four-year-old meet record set by Texas' Eddie Southern. His time was only 1/10 of a second off the world record.

All Hall of the New York athletic club upset favorite Hal Connolly in the hammer throw with a winning toss of 219 feet, 3 inches. Connolly was tying his eighth consecutive AAU title but fell into a series of puts and got only three fair throws. His best came on his final toss, 215 feet, 11 inches.

Murray Halberg of New Zealand won the three-mile race with a stretch run and caught America's little Max Truex as was Canada's Bruce Kidd—the pre-race favorite.

Dwyl Burleson, the United States premier miler, quit the long race going into the eighth lap.

"I was pressured into coming down here to run," said Burleson in an obvious reference to a dispute between the AAU and collegiate track and field coaches. "And I ran the mile. I had to run in this meet. If I wanted to go to New Zealand this winter."

INJURED SPINSTER Frank Budd, Villanova, center, grimaces as he is helped from the track by Halph Boston, left, and an unidentified man after Budd pulled up with a pulled leg muscle in the 108-yard dash at the national AAU track and field meet. Budd, who holds the world record at 82 seconds, had a lead of inches over Bob Hayes, Florida A and M, when Budd suddenly fell back and was helped from the track. (AP wirephoto)

Cicada Is Upset By Braamed in Triple Crown Bid

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Darby Dan farm's Braamea pulled a major upset today when she beat the heavily favored Cicada by one-half length in the $125,000 Coach Club American Oaks at Belmont park. The surprising win took place before 38,122 fans thirteenth of the triple crown bid of Cicada.

The queen of the 3-year-old fillies, who had reigned supreme over horses of her own sex for a year and a half, Cicada, from C. T. Cheney's Meadow stable, was a 9-to-10 favorite to add the 1 1/2-mile Oaks to victories in the Acorn and the Mother Goose stakes which made up the first two parts of the rich filly triple.

Cicada, the greatest money winning filly in racing history, had all the could do, in fact, to save second money by a nose over E. Barry Ryan's Firm Policy in the field of nine sophomore misses. E. F. Taylor's Denting Page, who won the Queen's Plate, who won the Queen's Plate last Saturday at Woodbine in Canada, finished fourth, two lengths behind Firm Policy.

Bobby Ussery rode Braamea, a daughter of Nashua-Earlicy by Lee Lea and the Darby Dan heavy fought with Flaming Page for the first mile, as Cicada stayed close up in third place.

At the head of the stretch with about one-quarter of a mile to go, Braamea, Cicada and Firm Policy, who had come up from fifth, were spread across the track and Flaming Page was still in the thick of the battle. Although Page suddenly found the going too tough and began dropping out of it while Braamea on the full and Cicada closed. Although she fought it out head and head, it appeared with an eighth of a mile to travel that Cicada was going to pull through for her backers. However, Braamea slipped by a head and outgained her own 3-year-old champion in the furious drive to the wire.

Braamea returned $30, the biggest winning club payoff since Cheery's Williamette scored a similar upset in 1957 over Bayou and returned $49.20. Braamea paid $20 to place and $3.00 to show. Cicada returned $2.40 and $2.20 Firm Policy. Braamea's rival, Cicada, was $2.00 to show. Cicada was ridden by Willie Shoemaker and Flaming Page by Manuel Yezzi.

When a good back like Dan takes the ball, you have to be moving and trading as well as you can. Oaken continued to can get more defensive people at this point of the race, he know. So if the defense is playing good football, it has the edge in matchups.

However, Oaken conceded the simplified formula for stopping Davis and Ferguson with his apparent success.

"If you concentrate your man power on around and over, so, he threw up his hands and shrugging. Assistant Coach Murray of Duke voiced agreement with Olsen's observation. "We've got a 225-pound guard (Tommy Gabriel), a 222-pound Carolina State), a 222-pound North Carolina State), a 222-pound fullback (Ferguson). These boys are big enough and strong enough to be an asset for anybody to bring em consistently. And don't forget that quarterback can really throw."

Detroit, New York Split Doubleheader

The New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers took turns bombing each other with big innings and homers Saturday and divided a day-night doubleheader.

The Yankees, ignited by Yogi Berra's grand slam homer in the first inning, exploded for two four-run rallies and won the afternoon game 8-4 despite four solo Extralays homering.

The Tigers started a five-run rally with two bunt singles in the fourth and won the night game 4-1 although Clells Borer and Mickey Manille homered for the Yankees.

Shortstop Luis Aparicio extended his hitting streak to 10 games and knocked out five straight hits as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Kansas City Athletics 6-1.

It was the sixth successive loss for Kansas City and the fourth victory in a row for the surging White Sox.

Dave Stenhouse pitched last-place Washington to a 5-0 victory over league-leading Cleveland, limiting the Indians to six hits, including a two-run homer by John Romano in the last inning.

The rookie right-hander had pitched a pitch-out to Alvin Williams Kirkland singled with one out just before Romano closed the 12th inning. Stenhouse walked Wood Helle, and with the tying run at the plate, Tom BOE FINE, June 23—Idaho hunk and game department reports that the spawning grounds are arriving at Deger Falls, at the entrance to Bear valley.

There's no indication yet as to how heavy the salmon run will be, the department estimates. It is a popular fishing spot when the big fish reach the area in their quest for a place to spawn.

Iverson Claims Chipping Win
Larry Iverson defeated Randy Jones in a pitch-out to win a hole-in-one tournament, which was part of the city recreation sponsored junior golf clinic Friday.

Iverson was five feet from the pin from 100 yards out. In third place was Scott Standley with seven feet.

Sandy Whitte pulled the girls' state championship last night in six feet. Milles Watson was second, 15 feet away.

The clinics, hosted by professional Cliff Whitte and Gary Tawzer, are held each Tuesday and Friday.

SPORTS RECORD IN BURLEY TOURNEY

Parma Man Beats Par by 9 Strokes For Early Lead

BURLEY, June 23—Mike Sweet, Parma, blazed red-hot with every stick in his bag today as he toured the early municipal golf course in a record-breaking style. Sweet seized the first day in the Burley amateur golf tournament. Sweet, seldom missing a green and putting extremely well, carved out a nine-under par score of 63 for 18 holes every one in the field but one. Just two strokes back was Champ Pison, former University of Idaho golfer, who went seven strokes under the course standard.

"We've never had golf played on this course like it was today," remarked course manager and pro Bruhn Bucek as he pointed out nice men, three in the first flight, bettered him.

Joining in the par-breaking were Mac Newbauer, Burley's top amateur, who carded a solid 70; Ted Eastman, Burley Dr. John S. Church, Gooding, a runner-up in this event two years ago, and Bob McVeety, Burley, another member of the University of Idaho golf team, all came in with the 70's.

Competition was as sticky in the first flight when Tom Fankhauser, Boise, went two under par to seize a one-stroke lead over two other men. Just one stroke back were John Payne, Burley, and Doug Bent, Blaine. Clint Shaw, Gooding; Bill Cook, Twin Falls, and Elwood Masquer, Twin Falls, all checked in at 73.

In the second flight, Mike Harper, Twin Falls, scored a 78 to land on every other hole in the field, and Tom Balkans, Twin Falls, both of whom had 79, did complete about half.

Chiff Smith, Twin Falls, also had a slight lead in the third flight. He turned in a 62 which Lee Lasowak, McCall, had at 65. Denekied in third spot with 71 were Bob Deimers, Burley, and Dr. Donald Sotius, Twin Falls.

In the good old days—five or six ago—things were quite different for a high school sports fan. He could sit in the bleachers and watch the game, and he would be becoming more and more toward the front row.

But now it's different. The sports fan has to be a professional. He has to be a collector of facts and figures. He has to be a statistician. He has to be a sports writer.

Elorde Given Split Decision In Title Bout

MANILA, June 23 (AP)—Flash Elorde of the Philippines split decision over Auburn Copeland, Tex. in a world junior bantamweight crown tonight in a close, puzzling fight.

Elorde scored 120 points and Copeland, who came out in front for the title bid, checked in with 125.

The 23-year-old American, effective especially in the close exchanges, put up a stone battle. There was such a small difference between the two fighters that the verdict probably was decided by a quick knockdown in the ninth round.

After a flurry of punches, Elorde caught the American on the head with a left-hand blow. Copeland fell against the ropes, then staggered to the canvas but bounced up unscathed within a count.

The Philippine boxer maintained a narrow margin until the end of the 15-round bout.

Referee Felipe Hernandez scored it 7-6 in Elorde's favor, but the American judges were split. Judge Alvarado scored it 10-9 for Elorde while Judge Wenceslau Trillanes had it a 6-9-9 draw.

The AP also scored the fight even, 7-7.

It was the fourth successful defense of his title for Elorde, and easily his toughest. He received $25,000 and Copeland got $10,000 for the bout.

MAN WITH APPLE ON HIS HEAD is probably all that is needed to make the scene have a "real meaning." Actually the boys are lingering up for an archery course in connection with the

lined up for the program, it is also open to adults. Supervisor Watts points out. Lack of shower facilities has deterred adults. (Times-News photo)

Bows, Arrows Get Study in Course

Scores of youngsters are taking part in the annual summer activity program of the Twin Falls YMCA and at least a dozen or more are enrolled to study correct use of bow and arrow. Jack Watts, program supervisor, says adults are not signing up for the various courses offered because of lack of shower facilities. All courses are staged on the grounds of the Morningside school. "Scores of youngsters have turned out," Watts said, "and we hope that next year some sort of shower arrangements can be made so adults will participate." The supervisor points out the program is designed as a six-

Mexico Plans Big Welcome For Kennedy

MEXICO CITY, June 23 (AP)—When President Kennedy arrives here next Friday for a 48-hour visit, Mexicans hope he will get the message: "Mexicans are definitely friendly but definitely independent neighbors." They plan to give the President the greatest welcome ever received by any foreign dignitary. But with all the cheers, flowers, confetti and music, Mexicans want Kennedy to understand that Mexico cannot be counted in anybody's pocket; that Mexico is fiercely jealous of its right to manage its own affairs as it sees best—even if this occasionally ruffles feelings in Washington. "There is no reason why this attitude should prevent friendly relations with their neighbors," Kennedy will have two to three hours of private talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. Officials are hopeful they will help clarify differing views between the two neighbors. "One difference caused a delay in the Kennedy visit originally planned for early this year. Last December Mexico was the only Latin American nation to vote with communist-ruled Cuba against a meeting of the Organization of American States-OAS—to deal with the problem of Castroism."

Fate Smiled, so Boy Has Arm After Mishap

BY SID MOODY
and JAMES CALOGERO
BOSTON, June 23 (AP)—Down near the tracks a factory worker was laughing in a doorway catching a quick smoke. Shortly before, a freight train had rattled through on its way out of Boston. There usually was one about that time, a little before 2:30 in the afternoon when the kids got out of school. In fact the cop had been having their troubles keeping kids from hopping rides on the cars. "There came one of the youngsters now, walking up the street. But the way he was coming brought the worker alert. The boy was crying and holding his old looking right arm with his left. Blood had turned the sleeve of his shirt a deep red. "It was in an accident," sobbed the boy. "Please help me." "This did Everett Knowles, Jr., 12, enter the annals of medicine. His right arm had been severed from his body just below the shoulder by a wheel of the freight train. "I wanted to hop a train, just once," said Everett, "but see it had been cut off I tried to make a tourniquet." But she couldn't. There wasn't enough of a stump. Luck had played its first card. Had there been enough of the shoulder to twist a tourniquet around, doubling back, it might have damaged irrevocably the tissues later joined. Mrs. Chmielewski nudged up the rag and held them against the bleeding shoulder. Just what the doctor would have ordered. "He was weak but never lost consciousness. I kept talking to him like a mother. I was thinking of him like a mother." "Three minutes later the fire squad ambulance pulled up. "They brought out a stretcher and lifted the boy onto it," said Mrs. Chmielewski. "They put the arm in beside him, with still a small part of it inside the sleeve. "I got in the ambulance with him with one of the firemen. I kept talking to the boy and holding the rag in place. I kept his view blocked so he wouldn't see seals and arteries of animals. Dr. Ronald A. Malt, just completing his residency in surgery, also has done extensive work on reconstructing tissues. But three young doctors in the emergency ward were the first to see that Everett Knowles might be more than just another amputee case. It struck them when they cut away the boy's shirt sleeve, which remarkably had not been severed with the arm, that the arm might be restored. Chance was working for Everett Knowles. The sharp flange of the train wheel had made a very clean cut. The boy had the resiliency of youth. Within experimentation with blood res-

Much Travel Ends With House Getting New Home

HOUSE WITH NEW HOME might be the description of this structure being used as living quarters by the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Eaton. (Times-News photo)

When a house gets another home, this news—especially when the home is more than 50 miles away from the old one and the house in question is big. Moving a large house is no small task and officials of the Ralph R. Modlin house moving firm of Twin Falls said the 50-mile move was the longest they had made. The house was prepared for the long journey. The peaked roof had to be removed and a new roof installed on the outside of one along state and federal highway also was removed. For the most part, however, the house traveled just about intact. The route from Illas to the new site on property owned by Curtis Eaton, southeast of Twin Falls, was all by paved road and over the Perrine Memorial bridge. The trip took just over 10 days, averaging around five miles a day. Special permits were required to take the structure into a new home. Because of its height, it will dominate the skyline in the area.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

John R. Olmstead, MURTAGH, challenges anyone in the county to match his family's record for longevity. He and five brothers and a sister have lived a combined total of 606 years and 84 days.

His brothers are Manning Olmstead, 94; Cimmaron, Kan., 92; Marshall, Okla., 88; Wellington, Kan., 87; Olmstead, 86; Glendale, Ariz., 78. His sister is Mrs. Rosalind Olmstead, 78. By adding the additional months each sibling has lived beyond his or her birthday anniversary, the total comes to 606 years, 84 days and 12 hours.

Olmstead, a Civil War veteran, lived to the age of 91, but his mother died at the age of 48 years. A sister, Mrs. Edwin (Ed) Brown, died at the age of 84.

Two brothers and a sister are former Magic Valley residents. Benson Olmstead resided for 20 years in Okemah and Benson Olmstead lived at the now extinct, Artesian City and Mrs. M. R. Olmstead, Duffell and Murtugah.

John Olmstead came to Murtugah June 9, 1910, from Conway, Okla., where he was employed by the late William Morrison, father of F. W. Morrison, Murtugah. Olmstead lived in Artesian City to homestead a dryfarm with Ezra and Will Morrison. He later moved to present home southwest of Murtugah near the north shore of Murtugah lake, in 1919. He raised horses and his grand-children, Oscar Olmstead, came to Olmstead in 1920 and since the death of Grandpa Olmstead in 1922, Mrs. Ed has lived here with her Uncle John.

The recent electrical storms saw a number of FILER residents without electricity for several days. The power lines were down for several months ago when a severe wind and electrical storm struck transformers and downed several electric lines.

Both times it happened overnight. The first time many people were forced to lunch on cold foods or drive to town to buy groceries.

Things like this never bother one forgotten Filer ranch hand, Ed Baker. His home has always come in a pleasant warm house and a good hot supper, with electricity or without. Mrs. Baker has kept her old-time wood and coal stove just for emergencies like this, and she merely gets in a supply of wood

Opposition to Farm Controls Outlined by Bureau Aide

Opposition to the farm controls bill just defeated by Congress was voiced at a meeting of the Twin Falls Farm Bureau office Wednesday night. As a result, night letters were written to the House and Senate urging him to vote against the measure, but he voted for it.

Mrs. Baker would part with her cookstove for anything, she says. Besides supplying heat for the house, she says there is no electrical power, and it has served many a lamb from dying during the winter. The Bakers are sheep raisers and during a severe winter last year, many of the born-born lambs would have frozen to death if they hadn't been brought into the house and warmed by the stove. The warmth radiating from the stove has saved many of the small lambs that are put in a box behind the stove until they are strong enough to be returned to the lambing shed.

Mrs. Baker has been amused a number of times at cutlets from large cities who walk into her home, spot her white coal range and perplexedly inquire, "What is that thing for?" She replies it had never seen one before.

Although most Magic Valley farmers are acquainted with the stove, few still have one in the kitchen.

There always was something strangely satisfying about an old-fashioned range with a few gleaming pots hanging away and room on top of the range to cook any number of good things. It seemed to give one the feeling that some friendly friend.

From only four original plants, Mrs. James Tewa, DIERICH, now has 200 popples and 100 cosmos.

Several years ago she ordered two red poppy plants from a place in the East. Each year since then, she has divided the stock and now she has the plants in bloom.

The flowers have been in bloom about 10 days now and she expects they will last another week. They are now from pink to orange-red.

With two long rows of the flowers, it is quite an attraction at her place and the motorists drive by, many stop to look at them.

Mrs. Tewa also has other flowers in her garden and is looking forward to her Madonna lilies blooming soon.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Real Christians Love Church"

present Him as One committed and devoted to God, the Will, Word and Way of the Eternal. He loved the church and gave Himself for it.

It is evident throughout the Gospels that Jesus recognized the existing fellowship of the faith of His people as a spiritual bond, and that it was His will that it should be holy and without blemish.

Real Christians love the church, labor, watch and pray that she may become the better, the finer, more effective and glorious. They are faithful even unto death; faithful if it kills them.

They finally selected Him and brought out of His death by crucifixion. The Gospel stories in the New Testament present One who loved the church, and gave Himself for it. How much He gave can only be appreciated in part by those who follow Him in faith and fellowship, in service and sacrifice, in suffering, peace, joy and love, radiant glory.

The church we love is the one to which we give ourselves without reservation. Nothing can produce the deep, sincere love for the church except the Spirit of God within moving the mind, the heart, the will to commitment, participation, dedication, and consecration. Obedience to the guidance of the Spirit, exertion of the unity the fellowship of faith; sharing the intense longings, hopes, and passions of the mind and heart of Christ; these will beget in you Christian love for the church.

One who loves the church and gives oneself to her is not blind to her limitations, immaturities, imperfections, faults and failures. We know the church is not a showcase full of perfect specimens. She is a family of God's children, a school of Christ, in whom the Spirit of God is at work in the process of growing, maturing and ascending the gospel.

From the presentation in the temple, the experiences at the age of 12; the baptism in Jordan; throughout His sharing, teaching, serving ministry; the trial, condemnation, crucifixion, death, entombment; resurrection ministry and ascension the gospels.

The church is of God, and the churches are among us because He so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ. This Jesus Christ also loved the church and gave himself for it, Jesus was a life and eternally long devotee of the church.

The new president will represent the group at the December meeting to be held in Minnesota.

Blaine Board Closes School At Bellevue

HAILEY, June 23 — Paul Dempsey, superintendent of many of the schools in the Blaine district, closed school today that school district has decided to close Blaine high school for the next school year.

At the last board meeting much discussion was held on the overcrowded condition of the elementary classrooms of the school. The opinion was expressed that the enrollment in that grade continues to increase so that the closing of the county may be necessary, Dempsey said.

Wares Vickers, CPA who recently audited student activities funds of the different schools of the district reported that the action with the school treasurer kept by the principals and the district committee. The district had been asked to discuss transportation problems for next year.

Fates Combined Happily in Miracle Of Massachusetts to Save Boy's Arm

Continued From Page 23 minutes he had reached an skilled medical care as the car spun around and the doctors long had been talking and working toward such operation.

"The only new thing in this case was the fact that we put together many ingredients that have been handled separately before."

Dr. Edmunds and two other doctors decided a reimplantation was the best. The operation is done in the hospital. Dr. John Herrmann, first assistant surgical resident, put the arm in sterile bandages and led to the operating room. He rushed it up stairs to an operating room. It was held in a sterile bag for only five minutes. It was held in a sterile bag for only five minutes. It was held in a sterile bag for only five minutes.

The main veins separating the arm were separated and connected to their counterparts in the severed limb, much as a telephone cable is spliced. Then came the crucial step—the lifeline that carries blood to the arm from the heart region.

When this was done the clamps that had controlled bleeding at that point were taken off.

Over their marks the doctors eyes looked intently at the white and cold arm. It became pink with life. There was a pulse.

Next the severed bone of the upper arm. After clearing a gap of splintered ribs shoring the arm an inch, a stainless steel rod was "driven" into the two parts of bone and they were drawn together.

The nerves remained. If they could be joined successfully it meant Everett would regain the use of the muscles in the arm as well as the sense of feel.

Everett was shifted to another operating room where other surgeons grafted skin from his right foot onto the damaged fingers. Dead tissue was cut away from the shoulder, bandaged and cast applied. The last operation was over five hours after the first began.

There have been few tears from Everett's knees. Five days after his first operation, he underwent surgery again for a second time on his shoulder. The graft took, there was pain.

The prognosis for the future is uncertain. Some time in the next several months Everett will return for the all-important nerve reattachment. If the nerves are relatively undamaged, surgeons will try to reconnect them. If they are badly damaged, operation to make certain the right nerve is mated to its counterpart in the arm. There may be muscle transplants and a bone graft. In all it will be the most complex of all the cases of Dr. Everett Knowles can be closed.

Church Work Most Important Part of Life Activity, Businessman Believes

Even with the stress of modern day living and business, and the requirements, sometimes, put on the available time for each individual, time for church work is still the most important time one should find.

That is the opinion of Elvis V. Cain, a Twin Falls businessman for more than 17 years and a member and worker in the First Christian church. He should know about church work because he has held just about every office a layman can hold in his church. In addition, he is a member of the church choir and chairman of the Boy Scout Explorer committee.

Although intensely interested in community activities which tend to better the individual and business, he still is able to find much time for his church work.

"Perhaps in fact, everything but a portion of his early employment was in the widely known Golden Rule stores. Today he declares the golden rule concept is important in business more so than in the past.

"The Golden Rule should stand out in every business, and any business should be built on such a structure," he said.

Cain was born at Bison, S. D. in a sod house.

"Historically," Cain smiles, "a sod house is on just about the same platform as a log house."

His parents were pioneers in the Dakota area and his hours were common. The hours are especially warm in winter and cold in summer.

Cain recalls his parents really met each other when very young. They met in northern Missouri, where they originated, their parents lived only about a mile from each other and were good friends. When they were such friends that Cain's parents-to-be then had babies, were often put in the same cradle.

From such a beginning they passed through childhood into adulthood and were married.

When Cain was 3-years-old his parents moved back to Missouri and continued farming for another 10 years. When he was 9, the family went West to seek a new life.

That move, Cain remembers, was something.

"I took with us all our farm machinery, all our cattle, all the house and, in fact, everything but the house in which we lived. The trip was made with wagon and we ended up in southeast Colorado about 50 miles from Colorado Springs.

"We lived there only four years. Two of those years he finally destroyed our crops. The third year a drought killed my wheat and in the fourth year the wheat was poor. This caused my father and some other men to go further west in search of a better place. They could make a more sure living."

The trip took the father around a lot of country but he finally decided that the area around Nampa in Idaho was what he was looking for. When he was 13, the family moved into this state. He has maintained his residence here since.

"My father rented a dairy farm with 24 head of cows about three miles north of Nampa.

"I went through high school in the morning before school and after school was out," Cain recalls. "I might add that in those days we milked with our hands, not with automatic milkers. And when there were the horses to feed and care for. The day of the tractor had not yet dawned."

He recalls that summer was not much of a vacation either because "those cows had to be milked. But to hasten the end of that work was nothing unusual because everyone worked hard."

He entered the University of Oregon to "do business" but after a year accepted a position with the C. C. Anderson company. During that employment he met Marie Brennan in Twin Falls in 1933 and they were married Sept. 29, 1936.

Just two years later he left Twin Falls because there were no appliances available war relocations was so that and so there was no job.

While awaiting his draft into the army, he and his wife went to Portland where both accepted employment at the Willamette Iron and Steel company. He was in the material expediting department and she in the ration department.

"Then came the shock. Called for examination he was rejected because he proved to be allergic to various items.

"I was so dejected that I walked around for more than an hour before I got up nerve enough to go home and tell Marie they didn't want me," he recalls.

Staying in Portland until the end of the war, he had made up his mind to enter business for himself and so in 1945 he returned to Twin Falls, soon receiving the Prigmore franchise for this section and went into business with P. Blazek as a partner, was called Blazek.

Hailey Lists Changes for Teacher List

HAILEY, June 23—The Blaine county school board of trustees today announced the resignations of Mrs. William Gillison and Richard Jones. Supp. Paul Dempsey resigned.

Mr. Matzger Fell, now teaching in the Seattle schools, will replace Mrs. Gillison in English in Hailey high school. Bertrand Vroman, who has taught part-time in this section, will replace school-wide carpenter, Ketchum. His house in Warm Springs substitution, will fill the vacancy left by the resignation of January as social studies teacher in Hailey high school.

Wilbur "Pat" Bell will return to Blaine county schools as just-mentioned teacher at Ketchum to replace Barbara Otto.

Sandra Lee Strickland, a graduate of Eastern and Western university now teaching in Anchorage, Alaska, will teach second grade at Blaine to replace Mrs. Paul Dempsey.

Fredrick Marx, Poastville, a 1950 graduate of IBC, with major in mathematics and mathematics, will take over these two classes in Hailey high school.

Mrs. Ellis Hill, Evans view, and Mrs. Iva Phoenix, Eugene, Ore., have been offered contracts for the Bellevue elementary grade.

Superintendent Penney says he is pleased with the progress made in hiring teachers but there are still several posts to fill.

Cain and the partnership lasted for nearly six years. After it was dissolved he was sole owner three years and then the firm was incorporated and expanded into four states and is in Twin Falls and one each in Jerome and Paul.

Only recently the out-of-town stores were closed and the two local stores consolidated into one with a new store at the large Dewcler building on Main, avenue north at Second street under the name of Cain and Blazek. With the expansion the firm added furniture and rugs and now operates on the latest furniture and appliance store in the valley.

In addition to his business career, Cain has been active in church and community activities, including the Kiwanis club, Community club and Chamber of Commerce. He was a school board member for eight years and clerk of the board that entered the time. He is also a member of the Blue Lakes Country club, and clerk of the board that entered the time. Telephone Wires May Soon Disappear From Horizon as Voices Take to Air

No wires? That will be the situation, on long distance calls between Twin Falls and Pocatello the latter part of August when the new microwave relay system of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company is installed. Usually, all the calls between the two points will be handled by the relay system at first, but it will come in time. And the day is not far distant when telephone long distance calls between major centers will go "without wires."

In Twin Falls, the new microwave tower atop the telephone building has been topic of discussion since it was first constructed.

Telephone company officials say that it is one of five towers which will serve the Twin Falls-Pocatello jump. With a tower at each end of the wireless line, there will be three in between.

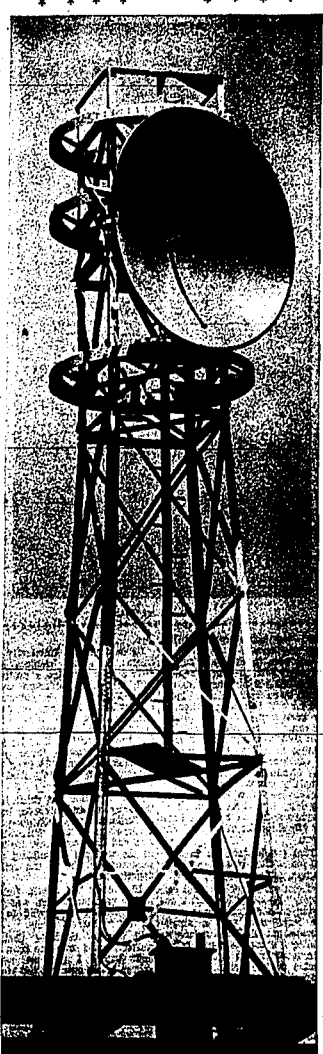

Because the voice will jump from tower to tower with the speed of light (186,000 miles a second) it really does not matter where your voice starts from or on all finish.

What matters is that with full use of the equipment, at least one and operating at capacity, it will be possible to transmit 200 calls between the two points at one time. And that is a lot of talking.

About a year from now a similar setup will be in operation between Twin Falls and Sun Valley.

After all calls go through the relay system will eliminate many of the delays which crop up now and then when wires are used. No longer will a squealing ear drop call when it shears off a pole and pulls the wires down with it. And there will be much less danger, for instance, that a gopher hunter aiming a little high will cut a wire as he happened only the other day between Twin Falls and Sun Valley.

Another thing — fog will not hurt communications under the new setup and neither will snow. Likewise, wind (unless it blows the tower over) and rain (unless the drops are as big as hens eggs) does no damage.

DOMINATING STRUCTURE atop telephone building is a new microwave relay tower. Sometimes in August, it will aid in shorting telephone calls from Twin Falls to Pocatello without wires. Sometime in the future it is expected all telephone calls between population centers will be dispatched by this method. (Times-News photo)

Reading Plan Is Reported For Ketchum

KETCHUM, June 23 — The summer reading program for children at the Ketchum-Sun Valley community library this year provides, for the first time, a guided program in three special fields of interest.

The program has been set up for students in next year's fifth through eighth grades, and Mrs. Charles Ritter, Mrs. Gerold Eidel, Karen Pryah and Don Bennett are donating their time as instructors.

Mrs. Ritter is supervising exploring, with one field trip a month. The children in this class are reading of nature study, wild flowers, rocks, Indian relics, animals and birds.

Mrs. Eidel and Miss Pryah are guiding the students in their study of the drama, with general instruction in acting, props and other phases of play production. They also will hold one meeting a month.

Bennett is supervising the study of art, with general instruction in drawing and painting once a month.

Mrs. Ben Conley, librarian, states that approximately 100 children have enrolled to date. She explains that a student in the guided program may choose only one of the above groups and will be required to read at least two books in his or her special field before each of the monthly meetings. Children of all ages are encouraged to read although only those who have completed requirements will receive pins for "reading merit."

As a convenience to both students in the reading program and to adults, the library is open during the summer months on Friday evenings as well as other days of the week. Mrs. James Terra and Mrs. Calvin Thompson are acting as assistant librarians during the summer.

The library will be open from 6 to 9 p.m. Mondays; 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesdays; 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays; 4 to 9 p.m. Thursdays; 9 to 9 p.m. Fridays and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Mrs. Conley reports that 200 young people's books were received on loan from the Boise state library last week to be used in the program. These include many recently published titles.

Information Reported on Development

Many tourists returning from the World's Fair may receive an announcement detailing them the winners of a one-fourth-acre plot in Tucs county, New Mexico. These notices are being sent to people who signed free registration cards at booths located at the fair.

William Grange, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce reports several local residents have written to the office asking for information concerning the location and geographic features of the acreage.

Investigation has found the following facts—the nearest railroad is 20 miles away; the nearest airport is 24 miles away; bus service is available to Tera Pinedra, a small town two one-half miles from the property. Telephone lines presently run along highway 111, two and one-half miles from the site.

Electricity is said to be available approximately one mile from the subdivision. While water in many western areas presents a problem, an officer of the firm says plans are to develop a community-type system, going down state wells is reported to be $300 to $750.

Grange urges persons considering real estate investments in undeveloped areas or in locations at which the climatic and geographic conditions are unknown to them, make a thorough investigation. He added that many real estate firms and banking establishments in addition to the local Chamber of Commerce can provide information on such business ventures.

LITTLE SPANGLE LAKE in the Sawtooth mountains has a reputation of being one of the top fishing spots in Idaho's high country. It is one of nearly 2,000 high mountain lakes, many of which are described in the new revised edition of "Mountain Lakes of Idaho," now in its third edition. Fish and game department personnel are distributing 30,000 copies.

New Revised Edition Available Now Of Booklet on Idaho Mountain Lakes

By JIM HUMBIRD

Idaho Fish, Game Department BOISE, June 23—Many sportsmen are reviewing the new revised edition of the pocket-sized booklet, "Mountain Lakes of Idaho," taking personal pride in the fact they served as contributing editors.

They helped the fish and game department by telling about their high country angling success, and about trail conditions, horse feed, camp sites and the like. They also reported and helped chart the location of hitherto unmaped alpine lakes. Although the third edition is off the press and available for free distribution on request from department field personnel and the Boise headquarters office, the fisherman still has a place in the program. He must continue sharing his back country experiences regarding trout sizes, numbers, kinds, pressures, hours spent angling, and condition of fish brought to creel. Proper management of these waters depends on accurate knowledge of such things.

However, most of the fishing can know about the high lakes only from what they have read and heard. Others may have seen some of the lakes from the windows of aircraft scurrying above the granite crags, where glaciers scoured out nearly 2,000 ago. Best seen from foot or horseback, however, these vistas of surpassing beauty, replete with pine-scented air, blue waters and rocky spires, are worth every step of the way. And the fishing is for those with their feet on the ground, a bonus denied to air passengers just passing over.

Outdoors, brook and rainbow are the main trout species found in mountain lakes. Size and numbers of fish vary and it is not unusual to see but not catch them. Dry flies, lures and bait all work but these fish can be choosy. Take a variety of tackle and use light leaders in the clear waters.

Roads into mountain lake areas generally are not open until some time in July. Check with forest service or fish and game department personnel to learn road conditions and to get details on lake and trail locations.

The new edition resumes the story about stocking hundreds of mountain lakes with trout since 1947. Some of them have received fish to replenish the population already present and many others have been stocked for the first time. Each year the department enlarges the fisherman's horizons by stocking additional lakes.

Five new mountain lake areas are included in the third edition of the handbook. These are the Cabinet mountains to the north, the Selway Crags, the Trinity mountains, the south fork of the Boise river, and the Big Wood.

river in southeastern Idaho. Altogether, there are 23 mountain lake areas covered throughout the state. As the introductory paragraphs point out, trail and road conditions may change from time to time, but every attempt has been made to present the maps and other information accurately.

The booklet first was published in 1952 following surveys to learn which high lakes could be stocked with what kind of fish, and the easiest route to each lake. This led to actually planting fish in many of the lakes and the need to publicize the work.

The little mountain lake booklet caught the public imagination. A revised edition in 1958 listed more lakes and attending details of more than 400 lakes. Since the last printing, many lakes have been restocked by fisheries biologists and restocked as conditions dictated. Each summer area fisheries biologists attempted to survey one or more lake areas on a rotation basis to maintain as many lakes as possible on the producing list.

This a definite program is carried out to improve the existing fisheries. By increasing fishing opportunities in mountain lakes some of the pressure is removed from the lowlands. Half a mile across rocks, dead and through brush.

Choosing a lake with a good fishing history to it is a good idea, particularly for lakes sometimes easier to walk to. A good trail will be removed from the lowlands, half a mile across rocks, dead and through brush.

The booklet describes in detail the lakes and through brush.

Obtaining accurate information about a lake's exact location.

Setting aside plenty of time to get to the lake and back before dark and still have enough time for fishing.

Not being too disappointed if the lake has one of its "dry" Mountain lakes are now producing nothing one can limit the next.

fall the lake areas with information regarding access roads and trout species to be found. It gives many tips for planning trips.

For example, the lakes are in areas where the fisherman must attend to all his own needs and comforts. Often the trails and roads are rough to take weak hikers. This means planning and accurate knowledge of how to get to the destination—and back.

On trips into mountain crevices of more than eight miles, a pack-trip with horses is recommended. Names of packers in each area can be obtained from license vendors, conservation officers or forest rangers.

2. Planning carefully, packing essential tackle, equipment and food.

4. Setting aside plenty of time to get to the lake and back before dark and still have enough time for fishing.

TYPICAL OF MANY of the teen-age girls working in the fields this summer are, from left, Gloria Lampe, Pam Kerwin, Nancy Hoffman and Dorothy Lange. Lively conversation helps spice the day and make the beet rows seem a little shorter. The girls go to work in various stages of attire, mostly borrowed from

Lively Conversation Spices Task of Girls Hoeing Beets

There is more to hoeing sugar beets than weeds, especially if teen-age girls are doing the hoeing. The weeds of old sugar beets haven't changed much over the years. The weeds are the same, the beets are the same and the hoe is the same. About the only thing that really changes is the conversation.

When teen-age girls talk about hoeing beets? Well, mostly it's about the same thing they talk about all the rest of the time, the latest Elvis record and the latest fashion trends.

It would seem strange that girls hoeing beets would be interested in fashion, considering some of the outfits they wear while hoeing. For the most part their costumes are borrowed from their brothers or fathers.

Pointed-toe shoes seem hardly suitable in beet fields, but some girls wear them and say they are quite comfortable.

For the most part, the girls prefer light canvas tennis-type shoes. None of them wear socks.

Hats are another item. Capri pants are slowly invading the sugar beet fields and giving Elvis and dungarees a run for their money.

Everything from sweat shirts to dad's Sunday best dress shirts adorns the upper half of the young ladies. There is no set rule about whether the shirt is tucked in or out. Most of the time, according to the girls, it depends on how hot it is and the mood you're in.

Hats are almost non-existent. These same girls who work all day in the hot sun go home at night and wonder how they are going to cover their heads.

Girls who have a special viciousness when it comes to chopping a weed out of the ground. A large, stubborn weed for example might incur the wrath of several girls. There's three flying away on one weed seems hardly fair. But the girls claim it is the only way to get rid of pent up feelings.

The thing that carries them through the day and up and down the beet rows is conversation. It may run from the more serious, like politics, to the ridiculous, like a neighbor's old rat-trap car.

Girls, once they strike, will interrupt the best of intentions. Nothing paralyzes like a good case of the giggles. It breaks up the day.

At the end of the day the girls head for home, beat the dust from themselves and reappear that evening as lovely, charming young ladies.

The next day it is back to the hoe and hoe and those endless rows of weeds. The payoff, of course, is the money they earn, which will go a long way this summer towards school, records and clothes.

Money earned by hoeing beets will aid in the purchase of new clothes for school in the fall or to add to the girls' record collections. The girls admit that sometimes the conversation gets a little silly, but it is good entertainment. As a rule the girls shun hats. (Times-News photo)

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS in comfort may soon be commonplace in downtown Twin Falls, and all without the aid of air conditioning. Neal Garrison, assistant cashier, and Harold O. Hove, assistant vice president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, take advantage of trees set out in the sidewalk near the new drive-in structure. They missed the shade because the photographer wanted more light, so he set them in the sun. (Times-News photo)

Poor, Old Brooklyn Tree in for Shock; T.F. Will Have Forest

BY O. A. (GUB) KELLER, Times-News Feature Editor

The tree that grew in Brooklyn will have nothing on those growing—and to grow—in Twin Falls except the local trees will possibly be more shade.

Downtown trees in Twin Falls seem to have a future while the tree in Brooklyn had a past.

Up until about now there were only a couple of brave souls, or firms, who sported trees in the downtown section. One was Jack Baumer, who owns Wray's cafe, and the other was the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company.

Baumer's tree is planted in a big container which tips the scales at about half a ton and therefore is quite safe from those individuals who want to take home a souvenir.

On the other hand, the trees at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust property are planted right in the good earth, although concrete sidewalks crowd around. The bank trees are on Shoshone street south alongside property occupied by the new drive-in facilities.

Getting back to Baumer's tree — he has added a little touch lacking at the bank's trees. He has quite a few flowering plants in the big pot. These are fine, he said, but they do have drawbacks.

One drawback is that lots of people seem to think blooms are to pick, even if they belong to someone else. And some people do just that.

An additional drawback with the flowers is that they must water them each morning. This drawback is denied by his wife who says she handles the watering job and it is no hardship so far as her husband is concerned.

Right now the tree in question are about 10 or 12 feet high and are doing well. They are not fast growers so shade will come later.

Now that the city council has authorized those who want to place trees on sidewalks in front of their places of business — in pois, of course — the first trees are apt to have many new friends. In fact one way contends that when the downtown section is tree covered it will be hard to see the businesses for the trees.

Other forms of worrying are developing in the wake of the tree growing spree. One was noticed by the city commission. Some prospective tree buyers wanted the city to water them. Councilmen told the buyers one to water their own trees or just forget them.

Then, too, there is the worry of what to do with the roots. Trees have a nasty habit of getting bigger and bigger roots as the trees themselves get bigger.

How long can one of these pots keep the roots in check before the roots crack the pot? And, in the case of the bank and Trust company trees, what happens to that nice new crackle sidewalk when the roots decide to go places?

But worry not, says someone else. By the time the roots reach the busting-out stage there will be another lot and the trees will be removed and forgotten.
