Idaho now ranks third in the nation in sugar beet production. BY RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, July 14—Despite the clergy's and the general public's denunciation of the supreme court's ban on government-sponsored prayers in public schools, the Kennedy administration seeks to quiet the clamor it has aroused. Its viewpoint, the article says, has been misunderstood and misinterpreted by its numerous illustrious critics.

True economic stagnation... This is an important thing to remember in the present debate over fiscal and government attitudes. I've seen this happen over and over again. It's a recession in the real business world... I believe the President has a right to be heard on this issue. He should not be held back by the liberal advisers who are in the White House.

Another Marvel

The marvels of the space age follow so closely that the world is likely to regard them as commonplace. Satellites attract little attention these days unless there is something extraordinary about them. Even the extraordinary satellites such as the Telstar—financed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company—were taken for granted.

DECISION DEFENDED—However, in a generally unnoted decision—Assistant Attorney General Burke Marshall—defended the decision and assailed the Supreme Court's decision.

REBUTTAL BY HOOVER—The nation has a spiritual and religious heritage. But that has not been advanced by the attack on the court during the past few days. In almost direct rebuttal, Herbert Hoover, the most prominent American Quaker, said that the court's decision is a violation of one of our most sacred tenets.

WASHINGTON, July 14 (UPI)—Republicans who are neither moderate nor liberal suspect that there is a gimmick in the plan for a Republican National Convention in Chicago.

But to do these things, the President must rid himself of the liberal advisers who are in the White House. He should not be held back by the liberal advisers who are in the White House. He should not be held back by the liberal advisers who are in the White House.

Interpreting the News
WASHINGTON, July 14 (UPI)—The government is not aware of the fact that the President's tax-cut proposal is a major step toward economic recovery.

Presumably, the Russians will interpret the use of Telstar as "American imperialism" in outer space. They may have some other thoughts to voice on the subject, too. It would be owned by the Russians to insist that private use of space is impossible and the Telstar satellite should be shot down.

$2.55 HAIRCUT

Those working at some craft or service easy to duplicate or perhaps do away are well aware of the dangers of increasing prices. And yet they reach the point where the rising costs of everything they consume drive them to a price increase. The alternative, if it is to maintain their living standard, is either to find a new vocation or follow the practice of moonlighting—working at another job to augment insufficient income.

Another case in point has been that of the barber. At each new increase in the price of a haircut, customers have registered sometimes violent complaints. And each time the price of a haircut goes up, disgruntled customers experience a run on home barbering equipment. Some barbers are philosophical about those who get about the home practice of barbering. "After a couple of those home haircuts, they'll be back," they contend.

My old bridge friend, J. C. Ripper of the Kankakee has been playing bridge for many years. He is also excellent at rubber bridge, as evidenced from his play of today's hand.

Glenns Ferry Woman Says Idaho Doesn't Need Gaming

Editor, Times-News:
I wish to disagree with V. K. Glenns Ferry's editorial on gaming in Idaho. I believe we can solve our gambling problem with a much more satisfactory solution. I am sorry to see this advocate of gambling running for high office in this state; and I hope others who wish to live here and enjoy life will see the wisdom of opposing such an influence.

Jerome Writer Suggests Area Parents Check Bus Schedule

Editor, Times-News:
The Jerome school board have had their July meeting, and among other items, they discussed a new policy on transportation. Mr. Schaefer presented them with the policy he had written. Mr. Mahan and Chairman Ruel were in favor of adopting it. Mr. Hills, Mr. Sontichon and Mrs. Fike wanted to think about it. Mr. Sontichon stated that inasmuch as they had a workable policy, he preferred not to vote for a new one unless something could show him where it was better. Mr. Hills was in disagreement with the policy which stated students may be expected to walk at least one-fourth mile. "This would mean your child would walk as far as one and one-half miles. Hills stated he would vote for the new policy if the words 'at least' were deleted. At the end of the discussion the motion was tabled and Ruel stated, 'It will stay tabled.'

I suggest each parent contact either a board member or Mr. Schaefer to ascertain how the new policy will affect your child. MRS. YNED KELLEY (Jerome)

T.F. Man Calls for Support Of Smith, Democratic Party

Editor, Times-News:
Open letter to A. W. Brunt: This is prompted by your recent statement to the effect that you believe we can solve our gambling problem with a much more satisfactory solution. I am sorry to see this advocate of gambling running for high office in this state; and I hope others who wish to live here and enjoy life will see the wisdom of opposing such an influence.

Dangers of No Prayers Cited in Letter by Rupert Woman

Editor, Times-News:
This recent event which has stirred the people, some to action and some to inaction, is more than a passing thing of the moment but will have an immeasurable effect on the millennium to come since the coming generation which is to soon head out land, I speak of the ruling of the supreme court of the United States that prayer in the public schools is unconstitutional. The harm, psychologically, to a child is greater than we can know, especially a child from a non-religious home. To the child, the school is infallible in knowledge. If the school considers God and spiritual things unimportant and to be discarded, that will almost always be the child's attitude. How this opens the door for the acceptance of atheistic communism and the breakdown of our nation! How it removes the other end. Then he called her to help him pull on his end. When she did so, of course, the rope snapped at the knot. He then remarked that their life could be patterned after that little episode. By pulling together they could attain their goal, but by opposing each other, neither could succeed.

I feel the Democratic party by permitting each to go his own separate way, would be opposing each other all the way. It is the people of Idaho who they feel a tremendous need for a change in our tax structure. If you continue in your present attitude and along the lines you have laid down, you will only succeed in splitting the party. Mr. Smith will be elected governor and have to fight his battles alone.

You have in your power and office the opportunity to get behind Mr. Smith and not only help him but also put many other Democrats in office. If you do not do so, you can only see a break-up of the Democratic party and very likely a break-down in the multi-party political system in the state of Idaho.

HOUSECLEANING? "No, I'm just crazy like everybody else in Twin Falls," said Mrs. Jack Dildier. She is one of many employers in Twin Falls who were dressed differently during "Crazy Days" Friday and Saturday. All the participating stores put their merchandise on the sidewalks to sell in the cool breeze and sunshine. (Times-News photo)

IS THIS A CRAZY MAN? This is a question Mrs. Helen Moody, right, Manhattan Beach, Calif., and her three children, might ask about C. E. (Ed) Bossard, left, during "Crazy Days" Friday. Bossard looks crazy in this getup because Friday and Saturday was "Crazy Days," a downtown promotion in Twin Falls. Some 20,000 people were in Twin Falls Friday and Saturday. Some small children asked Bossard where he came from. (Times-News photo)

T.F. Merchants Go All Out, Draw Big Crowds for "Crazy Days" Promotion

Twin Falls was the place to be Friday and Saturday during "Crazy Days." During those two days everyone saw to what extent a merchant will go to draw a crowd. This is just what the merchants did—draw a crowd.

"Crazy Days," a downtown promotion sponsored by the Twin Falls Merchants division, was the biggest promotion Twin Falls has had for several years, according to C. E. (Ed) Bossard, chairman. Some 20,000 persons were either shopping or just looking at the merchandise displayed in the stores on the street Friday and Saturday. "The employees appeared not to be the only crazy ones," said the customers. "The customers were just as crazy," a retail store manager said.

Merchants wearing crazy costumes were selling their goods on the sidewalks along Main street. Among the nobles were Jerry Faulkner, assistant manager of J. C. Penney company, who was wearing a night cap and sunglasses, and Earl Faulkner, Penney company, who was dressed as "Ben Casey."

Customers, many dressed in crazy costumes to match the merchants, soaked their feet in the tub of water placed in front of Beck's shoe store or collected pennies from the employees of William's shoe store to use in the gun machine installed on the sidewalk.

"The response of the people was wonderful," Bossard said. "One clothing store manager noted that the store's business was triple that of a year ago at the same time."

"Another merchant said that this promotion is the only one held in Twin Falls for several years that everyone enjoyed and actively participated in," he said. "It was such a success," said Bossard, "that we hope to have many more just like it in the near future."

Changes for Accounting Firm Listed

Reorganization of the former Riddle and Riddick public accountants firm and plans for construction of a 10,000-ft. addition to the building at 122 Third avenue north were announced Saturday by Vernon Riddle.

Riddle and H. Ted Roth, who have been a partnership in Twin Falls since 1955, have merged with Eldon V. Evans, formerly a CPA at 127 Second avenue north, and admitted Lloyd G. Bledsoe to the firm. Bledsoe has been an accountant with Riddle and Roth for about eight years, and became a CPA in January.

Evans was graduated from the University of Denver, Colo., in 1935 and has been a CPA for about seven years. He moved to Twin Falls from Fossil in 1960.

Riddle came to Twin Falls in 1942 after graduating from the University of Idaho, Moscow. He joined the late Edwin A. Wilson, CPA, and in 1946 they formed a partnership. Eventually Riddle bought Wilson's share of the business, and in 1950, he was joined by Roth. They formed a partnership in 1955.

Roth said the new firm will be known as Riddle, Roth, Evans and Bledsoe.

He pointed out that construction of an addition to the west side of the present building, built about four and one-half years ago, will start Monday morning. The addition will be constructed of brick veneer, to match the original building, and an entirely new front will be made. The present building is 25,000-sq-ft. with a full basement. There will be no basement under the addition.

Radiologist Joins Twin Falls Office

Dr. Paul B. Houston, 532 Shoop avenue, was a local optometrist, announced Saturday that Dr. Lehman N. Sterling, former Salt Lake City optometrist, has moved here and will be associated with him in his radiology practice.

Dr. Sterling was graduated from Fishburne military school, Waynesboro, Va., in 1946, and from Duke university, Durham, N.C., in 1951. After serving a one-year research fellowship with the national polio foundation at Duke university medical center, he was graduated from the university's medical school in 1955.

He served a one-year rotation internship at the U.S. naval hospital, Jacksonville, Fla., and six months at the naval medical school, Bethesda, Md., for additional training. While in Salt Lake City he took three years of training in radiology at the University of Utah and has spent six months at the Los Angeles tumor institute.

Mrs. Watkins Is Paid Last Honor

Realtors Hold Dinner Confab

BURLEY, July 14.—The multiple-listing service of Cassia and Minidoka counties held an anniversary dinner for members and their office staff at the Funderosa Inn Thursday night.

Merlon J. Voorhees, Idaho state realtor, was the guest speaker. He and his wife are from Boise. Jack Bell, also Boise, assistant secretary, also was a guest. Kenneth Seal, Rupert, assistant director of state, and charge of the program, Tadna Urquhan, Heyburn, played two piano numbers. A round table discussion was held after the dinner.

Too Close

HALLEY, July 14.—Hunter Nelson, forest ranger here, was speaking over a two-way radio Friday morning when lightning struck so close to the Halley ranger station that the mouthpiece flew back and hit him in the mouth.

The impact loosened his teeth and threw him forward against the desk. Nelson said he felt as if a splinter had gone through him.

He was not hurt but he was unable to eat any lunch.

George E. Haney, Jr., was appointed as new chairman of the Twin Falls multiple listing service during a breakfast meeting Friday morning in the Rogerson hotel.

Irene Summer, Simpson Wed in Twin Falls Rites

Irene Summer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Summer, twin falls bride, became the bride of Benjamin E. Simpson, son of Mrs. Laura Simpson, Independence, Mo., and N. R. Simpson, Twin Falls, Ariz., in ceremonies June 10 at the First Presbyterian church, Twin Falls.

The double ring rite was solemnized by the Rev. J. O. Bullock before an altar decorated with brass candlesticks, baskets of tangerine gladioli and peonies. The pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, after a marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over taffeta with a lace bodice and applied lace panels down the front of the skirt and rosettes in the back.

The groom wore a white lace handkerchief made by his great-grandmother.

She wore an elbow length veil of illusion net held by an organza rosette on sheer chiffon floss accented with pearls and sequins. The skirt panels also featured sequin accents.

The bride carried a crescent bouquet of yellow ranunculus.

The groom was Mrs. Donald (Carol Hoover) Monson, San Francisco. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Richard (Mary Summer) McChistland, sister of the bride; Pocastello; Mrs. Simpson, sister of the bridegroom; Independence, Mo., and Mrs. Art Williams, San Francisco.

Each wore a bouffant dress of tangerine silk organza over taffeta and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow roses and Marguerite daisies.

Flower girls were Leslie Sumner and Anna Summer, niece of the bride. Each wore a dress of yellow silk organza over taffeta and carried a basket of white roses and yellow gladioli blossoms. Each attendant wore an organza rosette headpiece, made by the bride's mother.

Best man was Gary Talbot, Pocastello. Ushers were Fred Sumner, Richard McChistland and Gordon Morgan, all Pocastello.

Mrs. Charles Allen, organist, accompanied Ronald McNetley, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The mother of the bride chose a beige eylet dress with tangerine accessories, and a symbolum organza.

A reception was held after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and housed over yew with a white satin top. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with white roses and yellow gladioli. Cupid vases held yellow roses and sprays.

Garlands of sprays were held in place by coronas of yellow roses and satin bows. Yellow roses encircling the cake, and yellow gladioli completed the table decoration.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Fred Sumner. Serving were Mrs. C. Dowd and Mrs. Joe Koch, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Gary Talbot and Virginia Elliott. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Dwight Jensen.

The couple honeymooned at Kelchum and visited the mother of the bridegroom in Independence. They also toured the Ozarks and traveled to San Antonio, Tex.

The bridegroom is stationed with the artillery air defense school in Ft. Panola, Tex., where the couple will reside. Upon his completion of training, they will move to Germany where he has been assigned.

The bride is a 1959 graduate of the high school and attended Idaho State college. The bridegroom was graduated from IBC with an English degree.

Teacher Labels 'Annual Model' Design Disaster

A Columbia university professor of architecture says the worst of the field of design was the "annual model."

"I stay in a perpetual war with the annual model," said James Marston Fitch, professor of architecture at the Columbia school of architecture.

Fitch cited the lawn mower he currently owns as one example of the "annual model." He said for years the name of its manufacturer was "Fitch and Sons."

"I don't want to denigrate the lawn mower or penicillin or the tank vaccine," he said. "The fact is, so far as arts and crafts are concerned, the present presents an unlimited chance for bad taste."

Fitch said that designers, manufacturers and consumers all have spent the last decade in a whirlpool of confusion because of the fantastic technical advances. He said he certainly was not proposing a slowing up on the scientific front.

"I've got the full circle of the mower line," said Fitch, "and am back to the original push type, but it's a miserable failure. I looked at it one day, thinking they should have spent less on gilt and more on the machine. Finally I got so upset I kicked the mower. The gilt fell off. It was paper and would have come off in the first week."

Fitch delivered a strong attack on modern design and "planned obsolescence" at a meeting of the New York chapter of the National Home-Fashions League.

Fitch formerly served an architectural center on several magazines and has written several books. His latest is "Architecture and the Evolution of Plenty."

His talk was titled: "Past, Im- perfect. Present, indicative. Future, tentative showing up."

He said the title "Certainly

Woman Author Describes Life as 'Normal Mom'

LARCHMONT, N. Y., July 14—Jean Kerr, the writer, says that the popular picture of her as the "laughing girl of Larchmont" just is not true.

"I despair like all other women," she said. "What's so funny about me is the chafing tunic and the television sets scattered about the house with the boys of ours, who laugh when there are faint in the bathtub and turtles in a dresser drawer."

"Those who think I'm the laughing girl of Larchmont just don't have the true portrait."

Mrs. Kerr, her husband Walter, the drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune, and their five sons ranging in age from 16 to 2 1/2 live in this New York suburb in a huge old house which she said "looks like a bench club."

A rich amateur inventor originally owned the rambling, three-story structure built around a huge courtyard.

"I finally stopped going to the car to write," she said. "Kerr, who used to seek authorial privacy in the family jockey. Now, I work in a third floor bedroom. I get out to it by walking all around a balcony. It's quiet there because no one else wants to make the trip."

"The matter of the serious-minded instead of the always-ready-to-quit author—name Kerr when Mrs. Kerr was asked for some suggestions on smiling one's way around everyday crises in a household.

"They're not funny at the time," she said. "What women ever laughs when her best dress has just come back from the cleaners in ruins? Or when somebody forgets to take the meat for dinner out of the freezer?"

Mrs. Kerr, if by now you have not caught up with her, is the author of a very funny play about marital problems, called "Mary, Mary," a "hit" on Broadway. She also has written other plays which had good runs on Broadway, sold to the movies, and has some best sellers to her credit. Her latest collection of casual essays called "The Snake Has All the Limes."

Various critics have called her the most amusing author around.

Describes our world today — in politics, art, literature, architecture and design.

"The worst thing that ever happened to design was the annual model," he said. He labeled it a "dreadful institution" and said that "unless designers can get past this, the future really is tense."

Fitch said that designers, manufacturers and consumers all have spent the last decade in a whirlpool of confusion because of the fantastic technical advances. He said he certainly was not proposing a slowing up on the scientific front.

Dash of Man's Style Contrasts With Femininity
 NEW YORK, July 14.—The swiftest family man who watches parts of his wardrobe disappear from time to time to the closets of his wife or sister will understand what designer Bill Blass means.
 A dash of masculine fashion is now in a woman's wardrobe. It is up her femininity by contrast.
 Blass told fashion writers at the New York Couture Press week showings his job for Maurice Rentner are for ladies men.
 The involvement crops up in a lot of men's fabrics, in a classic cut of a man's chest, in a grey-worsted suit, a light color in a camel-hair little boy vest worn with a white blouse, and a dark, double-breasted jacket in a belted black satin dinner dress.
 Blass takes a suit, looks unaccompanied by a tie, a vest or stole. He makes dresses worn with a stole, a long-lined, will take the tone of a suit on chilly days, and the throat of his walking stick is a jaunty, matching color.
 Long-jacketed walking suits, he says, are being shown by designers now, but they all expect to say where, in this day of being pedestrian travel, one goes there.
 These—seam-winning—Blass designs are the only designer to adhere to the suit, substantial food taste of men's fashions.
 MISS RIGGS, in his collection of Arbury hollow, made much of the man-tailored look of the suit, but no one could accuse him of being dedicated to the masculine silhouette, of conveying the masculine influence. He is almost completely decorated by Mrs. John P. Kennedy with ralph coats, draped, double-breasted, and preponderant. One costume featured a long dress with a red skirt and black lace.

Hemline to Stay Put for Autumn, Designers Say

NEW YORK, July 14—Put away that needle and thread. When you hemline is safe where it is for another season.

Actually, the hemline status quo has never been in jeopardy at the last showings of the New York fashion show, now halfway through a week-long parade for the nation's fashion press. Designers all along pretty much agreed on ending matters just below the knee.

What about a dominant silhouette?

Nothing very startling is emerging. It's just more of the same easy, good-natured style of clothes you're wearing now. Most designers seem content to hone their favorite, familiar shapes and give shoppers a wide range to choose from.

Thanks to the First Lady's trip to India and Pakistan, the Par Easterns are far-hat-hat has been so thick you could cut it with a bolo knife.

One afternoon there was a brief respite, with only Jacques Tiffeneau's dome-shaped turban and Brooks' noren-paneled evening dresses evoking exotic images. That is, if you overlook Bill Chagnac's Egyptian barge, which, technically, concerns the middle—not far—East anyway.

Young Brooks, who has shown of his works hanging in White House closets, pushed the shift into high gear for his Torville collection. The shift, which some lowbrows call the sack, is his set profile, loose and unified. Occasionally, though, he'd insert a dartsed midriff for shaping, or box pleats a skirt, or break up a smooth expanse of fabric from neck to hem with scrolled, self-applied bandings at waist to hiplines.

His coats were slim skimmers or dome-breasted leaners. He used a lot of jersey. His chief colors were a creamy snow, jade, strong pink called rouge, and a pater pink called quart.

Fitness Plan Carries Over to Women's Styles

NEW YORK, July 14—The most fashionable look next season will be a sleek one emerging from the warm depths of capacious fur hat and muffling fur collar.

Designers are bundling up women against cold weather as if they fear a penicillin shortage with the first snowfall; and their solitude, after years of pneumonia-baiting—is welcome.

About 200 of the fashion world's afternoon gowns and winter clothes from the houses of Harry Frechtel, Edward Abbott and Harvey Bertin reflected this newly awakened concern for protecting feminine frailty.

The unspoken question is: Could it be that President Kennedy, with his program for health and physical fitness, is yielding more influence in the fashion field than his chic First Lady?

It's true that Edward Abbott showed an Indian coat like Prime Minister Nehru wears and a group of the nation's fashion designers in commemoration of Mrs. Kennedy's trip to India and Pakistan.

The newswoman—homage—was absent, possibly because of her visit south of the border was announced too late for the fall design deadline. Besides, who ever heard of a fur sombrero, or sable scrapp?

Harry Frechtel extended his health preservation policy to men, too. He kept most of the fur inside his coats, thus protecting husbands from shock and stress.

First they get used to the idea of paying for what shows, a little mink trim perhaps. Later they can weather that first dazzling peek at the coat's lining—a seemingly endless expanse of rippling, luxurious, ransom-rich fur.

Linings, with mink most popular, include everything from nutria and Australian opossum to the skins of baby foxes and hamsters.

Miss. Hannah Hodder demonstrated making corsages at a meeting of the Garden Club at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. L. E. Miller, 1015 E. Main St., Tuesday night.

Mrs. Hodder noted the various types of corsages that may be used at various occasions.

Mrs. Hodder said a corsage should be made in a simple, elegant style. She advised that the use of fine wire is essential in making a corsage that will hold its shape and that the ribbon should be made of a material that will not stretch or fade.

Mrs. Hodder gave directions for making a variety of corsages, including the traditional ribbon corsage, the popular "clasp" corsage, and the modern "claspless" corsage.

The meeting was held in the garden of Mrs. Miller's home, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Homemade Ice Cream Rates Family Praise

Few things are more satisfying to a busy housewife and mother than the compliments from her family and friends on her special way of cooking. And to many women, cooking becomes not a daily chore, but a creative art, a mode of expression.

To Mrs. Howard Arrington, Twin Falls, cooking is just that. "Many women find it easier to express themselves through writing, painting or interior decorating than I am happy when I can develop a recipe which my family loves. Cooking is more of a time-consuming necessity; it can be a satisfying art," she believes.

Summer is the traditional time for outdoor parties, picnics and old-fashioned get-togethers in the back yard. These gatherings provide endless opportunities for the creative cook to try out new recipes and improvise upon old ones.

Modern packaging methods and the advent of the "TV dinner" have altered the art and preparation of foods, but there are many dishes left (practically untouched by the so-called) that are homemade.

According to Mrs. Arrington, an electric freezer produces the same old-fashioned ice cream taste as a hand-operated freezer, but it is more convenient and faster.

Mrs. Arrington considers ice cream one of her specialties of the house, and is often asked to make it for summer potluck parties. She has given her recipes to many friends and neighbors.

"Ice cream recipes are practically foolproof; anyone should be able to make perfect ice cream by following the instructions. Of course, I do have a slight advantage because we have fresh cream from the cow," she comments.

Vanilla is probably the most popular flavor and can be used as a base for several other flavors. Mrs. Arrington's vanilla recipe includes:

- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups milk
- 1 1/2 cups lemon juice
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup milk

Heat these ingredients in a heavy two-quart pan until a thin foam and the milk steams. Mix well and add the sugar and flour. Beat until thickened. Remove the mixture from the heat and have ready three slightly beaten eggs in a small bowl. Add some of the hot pudding to the eggs, and then add the egg mixture to the pudding. Do not reheat.

Add 1 1/2 tsp. vanilla (less if pure vanilla extract) and 1/2 tsp. lemon extract (if this merely accents the vanilla). Cool the pudding. Slightly whip four cups of cream; add one half can evaporated milk and then pudding. Beat well and milk.

Mix the pulp from the lemon and heat and have ready three slightly beaten eggs in a small bowl. Add one cup chopped walnuts. One cup chopped walnuts.

Mrs. Henderson told of a recent bus tour from Gooding to the mental health center in Boise, home at the state tuberculosis hospital, and asked the Jay-C-Ettes to help promote the acquisition of this center by writing to representatives and county commissioners.

A letter was read from Mrs. Marge Stout, Lewiston, state Jay-C-Ettes president. Mrs. Stout will visit the Gooding club at a luncheon Aug. 28. Letters were also read from Beulah Myroberle, Boise, membership chairman; Mrs. Duane Stray, Twin Falls, president; and Mrs. Richard Lennan, Twin Falls, fourth district vice president.

Jeri Shaver reported on the raft race to be held in Boise July 14, and that the Jaycees will sponsor the state high school rodeo next year.

Other committee reports were read from Mrs. Thompson, on plans to be made for the club; Mrs. Lauroyne Aron on the bus trip to Nampa state school; Jeri Shaver on coffee sales at the community auctions; and Mrs. Arden Stutzman on the joint picnic.

Airlines Rate Instructor Has World for Office

NEW YORK, July 14, AP—Elizabeth J. Williams ranks as one of the world's most traveled lecturers — and her students also get around.

Mrs. Williams, a brown-eyed, red-haired beauty, president of Minneapolis, is an expert on airline travel rates (tariffs, the industry calls them). She teaches other airline personnel from management to ticket counter staff the complex technique of figuring the most advantageous fare for the passenger.

"On a round trip any from New York to Paris, the fare is cut and dried, no matter what regularly scheduled line you're on," she explained in an interview. "But when you get into the real itinerary stuff . . . say around the world with a lot of stopovers and side trips, there are many possible fares."

"We want to give the customer the most for his money," said Mrs. Williams. "Today's airline passenger shops around for fares. And nobody flies from A to B and let it go at that. . . . The American tourist now wants to cover the globe. . . . The airline's job is to cover the globe."

Mrs. Williams is the newly-named manager of tariff information at Pan American World Airways, the first woman ever to hold the post with the carrier. Her major destinations — Hong Kong and London, to teach rate structure to traffic and sales people detached temporarily from their regular jobs and flown to "school" in the two cities.

Her teaching schedule calls for two trips to Hong Kong, four to London, three to Los Angeles and one to Miami.

U.S. Team Drops Canada in First Davis Cup Match

SEATTLE, July 14 (AP)—United States won its second American zone Davis cup tennis play today by adding a straight-sets victory to Friday's 2-1 triumph in Memphis. Chuck McKinley and Dennis Chambers of the U.S. defeated Canada's Godbout and Fontana in the 11-9, 7-5, 6-1 defeat of Canada's Godbout and Fontana. Capt. Bob Kelleher of the U.S. team called the "doubles a good, tight match." He said the Canadians "played awfully well throughout." He said his own boys "need some more hard work and they're going to get it before the U.S. team plays its next Davis cup round against Mexico in Mexico City.

Fontana, 31-year-old Canadian captain and veteran of seven Davis cup matches, said he was "pleased to win the first two sets. We certainly had a chance at 4-1, but couldn't capitalize on our advantage."

The U.S. team breakthrough of Fontana's services twice in the long first set and twice in the extra-game second set were turning points of the tussle.

"By the time they got the first two sets their confidence was unshakable," Fontana said. "They were so tight they were dynamic. They got grooved in my serve and I couldn't do anything about it."

Two singles matches Sunday will have no effect on the best-of-five match completion.

McKinley, 21, and Patton, 20, who are national doubles champions, entered the matches heavy favorites over Fontana and Godbout.

Fullmer Will Defend Title Against Tiger

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14 (AP)—Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer will defend his title today when he set aside a proposed title-clearing bout with Tiger Aug. 21 at San Francisco.

Fullmer, disappointed over numerous delays in getting Fender into the ring, met a National Boxing association order to fight Tiger Aug. 21 at San Francisco.

He signed last spring to meet Fender, holder of the New York-North America title, on June 9, at Boston, Mass. The bout was subsequently postponed until the late Benny Rothchild was unable to sell television rights for the proposed Boston match.

Fullmer said he would like to allow a change if the complete details could not be consummated.

Rothchild, promoter of the match, said he had been told by Fullmer that he hoped to bring Fullmer and Fender together in late October, but the Utah fighter set his sights on the title.

Rothchild and San Francisco promoter Benny Ford will meet to discuss the Fullmer-Fender bout at the deakle park—home of the San Francisco Giants. They hope to announce a rate of $25,000, the stipend can add $5,000 for a fight and a rate of $20,000 for a fight.

Miss Sorenson Cops Women's Western Title

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 14 (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Carol Sorenson soundly defeated Barbara White 8 and 7 today in the 36-hole finals of the 62nd women's western amateur golf championship at the South Bend Country club.

Miss Sorenson, a sturdy little blonde from Janesville, Wis., shot a one-under-par golf for 29 holes to add the WVOA trophy to a collection that includes the current intercollegiate championship, the 1959 Western Junior and the 1960 National Junior.

White, 22-year-old Louisiana State champion from Shreveport, hit a longer ball off the tee but failed to keep it in the fairway. She had to chip to the green on 14 holes, and with medium putts falling to fall, she was in trouble from the start.

Thirteen states, including Alaska and Hawaii, will send representatives, as will British Columbia, Canada.

General sessions will begin Monday with interregional sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday night, and executive director Thomas L. Kimball of the national wildlife federation as the main speaker.

Palmer Pockets British Open Title, Looks Toward PGA Meet

NEW YORK, July 14 (UPI)—British open champion Arnold Palmer flew his private plane from Idlewild airport to his home in Lutrope, Pa., today and before leaving said he will begin practice immediately for the Professional Golfers' association tournament which opens next Thursday in Philadelphia: Palmer and his pretty wife, Winnie, arrived this afternoon on a British overseas airways jetliner from Prestwick, Scotland.

Palmer described his record-breaking 72-hole score of 276 in the British open as "an accumulation of four rounds which as good as I have put together in a long, long time, if ever."

Palmer said that he expects to arrive in Philadelphia early Monday morning.

"The switch from the small British ball to the larger American one always gives me trouble, so I'm going to get in as much practice as I can for the PGA," he said.

"When you first hit the big-size ball after playing the little one, you feel like you're hitting a pumpkin. And you have to get used to putting it," he added.

Palmer made no prediction of victory in the PGA and said that the "150 players" would be his chief competition.

He described the old Troon course — site of the British open — as "one of the toughest I ever played."

But his impression of the fairway did not coincide with that of golf's Africa's Gary Player, who said they were "like concrete."

"Many of the fairways are narrow and hump-backed — that is their high points are in the center — and it's sometimes hard to stay out of the rough," Palmer said.

"I think that the rain just before the tournament made them more fair and I think they would have been much easier if we had had bad weather," he added.

Palmer's sole criticism of the tournament was the unruly crowds.

"The crowds got completely out of hand as I approached the 18th green on the final round and I was stuck," he said.

"I wasn't worried about myself, but there were a lot of women and children who could have been injured in the surge to the green."

Carry Back Is Monmouth Race Winner

MOONSBORO, N.J., July 14 (AP)—Carry Back smashed into the lead midway down the home stretch today and broke the track record as he captured the $109,150 Monmouth park handicup in a spine tinner that saw favored Kelso finish second, Beau Purple, who had upset both of them in the July 4 Suburban handicap, was third.

Expertly ridden by Johnny Price, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner owned by Mrs. Katharine Price of Miami scampared under the wire in two minutes 25 seconds for the 1 1/4-mile, 103-three lengths ahead of Mrs. Richard G. DuPont's Kelso. The late eclipsed Round View's track mark of 2:01 1/2 set in the 1947 Monmouth handicup.

Kelso, home of the year in 1960 and 1961, was three-quarters of a length ahead of Hobocus Stable's Beau Purple in the field of six handicap starters.

Mrs. Q. A. S. McKean's Polyad was fourth, followed by Harry View Farm's Carwell, and Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away. Towson was a late scratch, as his stable had looked for a muddy track which didn't materialize although there were light mid-afternoon showers.

MOBILE TELEPHONE SERVICE is demonstrated by Larry Matson, who operates a mobile delivery service in Twin Falls. Chances are when you call Larry he might be in town or driving down Main Street in Buhl. With this kind of a set up, he can reply after saying, "hello," is "where are you?" the car's horn so that the phone is connected with...

Days of Being Sure Where Phone Answerer Really Is Are Now Past

Car 54 where you... you-rin'-his-number... mobile number, that is he is liable to answer from anywhere within a 25-mile radius of Twin Falls. It boils down to just this: Matson is one of a growing number of business people who have telephones in his car. They can place a call or receive a call from anywhere within very high frequency radio distance of a butte located practically directly east of Jerome about four miles. The answerer, known as an Arctoberg, is located by a radio broadcasting equipment and also the state police and highway department radio towers. American Telephone and Telegraph company equipment also is located in the same area. Gordon Bourner, Twin Falls telephone company service foreman, believes that these mobile telephones are the coming thing.

Evidence of Ancient Lake, Early Pioneers Abounds in Desert Area

BY O. A. (Gus) KELLER, Times-News Feature Editor... The evidence was in the form of fossil shells which can be found in various places along the old trail and which, no doubt, proved to be an interesting discovery as early as well as modern day pioneers.

Also of interest to those involved in early history of the area are iron "mezzel" rocks found near Three Island crossing at Glenn Ferry.

To enter the canyon at this particular point, the early pioneers found it necessary to cut the rear wagon wheels so they would slide instead of roll down.

It is interesting to note that the iron "mezzel" rocks are found in several places along the Oregon trail. This one was picked up at Three Island crossing near Glenn Ferry. Covered wagons, with the rear wheels tied, maddened down the steep canyon sides and stirred rocks as from their bill them. The iron still is retained on rocks the wheels struck.

The fossils found in the desert between Hagerman and Glenn Ferry on the south side of the river, usually are held firmly by a rock-like substance which used to be bottom mud. Some of the shells found are as big around as a dollar and are not unlike the modern clam shell. For the most part, they are easily accessible and, in at least one instance, the old trail runs right beside a hillside covered with shells. The area is near where the three good horses have been found.

Red Heroes Growing Old And Worried

BELOGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 14 (AP)—The heroes of communism are growing old and they are growing worried.

INTERESTING TO HISTORIANS are the iron "mezzel" rocks which are found in several places along the Oregon trail. This one was picked up at Three Island crossing near Glenn Ferry. Covered wagons, with the rear wheels tied, maddened down the steep canyon sides and stirred rocks as from their bill them. The iron still is retained on rocks the wheels struck.

The partisans who came out of the Yugoslav forests with Marshal Tito... They were a tough bunch, full of revolutionary fervor. They took power between 1945 and 1948 and they held it. They were, by and large, guerrilla fighters of underground newspapers, organizers of strikes, saboteurs who harassed the Nazi armies. Today many of them are in offices, drive official cars, make plans, run the party organization. They are old men now. They still are an energetic bunch. They frequently have their offices in former palaces, like Tito, Cheorghiu-Dej and Crechoshvaki's Antonin Novotny. Their governments provide big cars and escorts if they care to use them.

THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO these fossil shells contained living organisms. Today they can be picked up in various areas adjacent to the Oregon trail as it crosses the Idaho desert west of Hagerman on the south side of the Snake River bottom mud, turned rock-hard by age, holds the shells. This entire area was once covered by ancient Lake Bonneville. (Times-News photo)

Realm of Wranglers Challenged As Ballet Invades Working Ranch

OBEDIAN, July 14—Some of the most dramatic and colorful scenes in the Sawtooth valley area have been taking place in the realm of wranglers as ballet invades working ranches. YOUNG BAGPIPER JERRY MINNER carries on his back the bagpipes of "Scotty" Stewart, who himself was a piper in his native Scotland when a youth. Young Minner is proud of his Scottish outfit which he inherited through a friend, Mrs. Janet Brown, Reichum. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Just why Jerry Minner, KETTERUM, whose family tree branches into Sweden, England and several other European countries other than Scotland, should be a "natural" bagpiper is more than Mrs. Janet Brown who comes direct from the Isle of Scotland, can fathom.

One day not long ago Minner was playing his pipes, and practicing marching, along "Tall Creek at Old Valley" all by himself. "But a natural" on the pipes, he is for all that, he acclaims, his course Jerry has always been musical and has and is playing in several musical groups but the pipes are his favorite instrument.

He first became interested in them through his friend, Mrs. Brown, who ordered a set of them direct from her friend, Hugh Macpherson, in Scotland. When the bagpipes arrived Mrs. Brown and Jerry admired them and he tried to play them. The noises which they emitted were anything but musical—and what did it take to put them in the "kettle"? Some good Scotch "whisky" and "honey." The bag was soaked in "Scotch Highland Cream" whiskey and honey, for a time—and properly kneaded and dried—and the rest of bagpipes played "as good as new."

Minner also obtained his Scotch plaids through Mrs. Brown's kindness. He is very proud of his "black and white" millitary tartan, kilts and hose, his green piper's jacket trimmed with Scotch thistle buttons, and his Glen Gary bonnet with its black hair feather.

He wears a horse-hair sporran. "This, Mrs. Brown explains, is the most important part of a Scottish outfit."

"There are no pockets in Scottish kilts, and it is in his sporran that a Scotchman keeps his money. Many Scots have made money 'the moths and money flying out of a Scotchman's sporran,'" she says.

Worn with the Black Hawk outfit is a Scottish kilt which warriors used to wrap around them as they slept on the battle field. In their hose is stuck a dart which can be thrown during battle.

Minner is very proud of his Scottish outfit. On returning from the Seattle World's Fair recently, where he played the Scottish pipes, several passengers down the ramp from the airplane, he remarked to Mrs. Brown: "There wasn't a one of them had as fine an outfit as Minner's mother, Mrs. Carl" longer has the breath necessary to play a bagpipe. "You'll have to carry on for me," he said to Jerry. And Jerry will be glad to do it.

A mother and two cub were found in the Fish creek area about 2 miles north of Carey last Saturday morning. The cub was owned by Pete Cennarus, RICHFIELD. The herder, Frank Bibbee, and a camp tender, Chas. Abinger, heard an odd noise after noticing the sheep bunching, together with taking into the trees the herder came on the mother sheep standing up against a tree just looking at him. Her cub was playing in the tree above her.

The cub wishing to tangle with the beast the herder shot her first, then each man shot one of the cubs. A lamb had been killed by the mother. Bears had not been seen by the herder in that area for several years and while the mother was playing in the trees the cub was playing in the tree above her. The cub was playing in the tree above her. The cub was playing in the tree above her.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY. The old cat and dog story sometimes takes on a different slant. At any rate the "T.M. Hatzmaker" family, SHOSHONE, was greatly entertained recently when their dog adopted a stray baby letter and gave it continued and undue attention over a 24-hour period.

The kitten, named "Smoke" by Joyce Hatzmaker, was either dropped off or stayed into Hatzmaker's sometime on Sunday night. The family dog "Tara" no more than laid eyes on the baby letter and decided that one needed some tending.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"How Not to Solve Your Problems"
BY REV. ROBERT BURCHELL, Associate pastor, First Baptist Church

Life is, as some say a series of problems which the human mind must solve. The problems begin rather simple but soon become more complex. The cry of a baby for food and dry clothing is soon followed by the more complex difficulties of a child.

As life progresses the Rev. Burchell's problems become more complex and include the great social problems of the nation and world. This is a significant statement of course, but life is a series of problems and the minister is in trying to solve them.

How do we do it? How do we solve the problems that confront us? Usually we try to do it the easiest way. In debt, however, from the loss of a job, if your credit has run bad then you can do as some have actually done—take a divorce.

But life has taught most of us that there are no simple solutions to its most perplexing problems. A financial crisis, the loss of a job, the loss of a spouse, the loss of a child, the loss of a home, the loss of a family, the loss of a friend, the loss of a neighbor, the loss of a community, the loss of a nation, the loss of a world.

The old cat and dog story sometimes takes on a different slant. At any rate the "T.M. Hatzmaker" family, SHOSHONE, was greatly entertained recently when their dog adopted a stray baby letter and gave it continued and undue attention over a 24-hour period.

The kitten, named "Smoke" by Joyce Hatzmaker, was either dropped off or stayed into Hatzmaker's sometime on Sunday night. The family dog "Tara" no more than laid eyes on the baby letter and decided that one needed some tending.

The dog didn't take her eyes off the kitten until about 10:30 Monday when she finally was persuaded to go around to the back porch and attempt to make it go away. The dog "Tara" no more than laid eyes on the baby letter and decided that one needed some tending.

British Doctors Threatened To Strike Over Health Plan

LONDON, July 14 (AP)—The Saskatchewan doctors' strike has revived memories of the time British doctors threatened to walk out on the state-run health service.

It happened in the early days of the program launched in 1948 to provide free medical care for every citizen.

British doctors recall they never contemplated anything as drastic as their Canadian colleagues' strike.

The dispute here was over pay, not principle. The British government threatened to withdraw their services from the state-run program in 1952 but they were prepared to carry on in private practice the way they had always done before.

Lord Taylor, who is a private parliamentary secretary when the scheme was shaped by Britain's postwar Labour administration, was invited to return to advise the government. Taylor emphasized he was going primarily as a mediator.

The British program provided a background for Saskatchewan, but there are big differences in whether these patients are sick or well.

For the first 500 patients on a doctor's list he receives $252 per figure is $220. This is financed by a compulsory levy of 3 cents a week from every wage earner plus a hefty contribution from the treasury.

Other solutions may also be proposed but Smith's must be rejected as being too stringent. He could win majority vote if he had a sound proposal but solving problems in the usual way has never appealed to me. It has a way of catching up with you later in life and you are left with memories.

What does this have to do with religion? Well this column is for our "Minister Sees It" and that's the way I see it—problem people who are prepared to carry out the easy wrong way instead of the hard right way.

Luncheon Slated By Busy Fingers

FLER, July 14. Plans for the mother's luncheon to be held on July 31 were made at a meeting of the Busy Fingers and Cooks 4-H club.

The group also made plans for a swimming party to be held Wednesday at Nat-500-Park to be followed by a slumber party at the home of Kay Dunlap, junior leader. The members will cook their own breakfast the following morning "at 7:30" of their 4-H project.

Sharon Smith presented the American flag salute and Kay Smith led in the 4-H pledge. Vicki Cobb presided at the business meeting. Demonstrations were given by Kathy McCandless on peanut butter cookies and Kay Smith, root beer floats. Kay and Sharon, hostesses, served refreshments.

Closure of 2 Airstrips Is Reported

Two state emergency airstrips are closed until further notice due to spring run-off erosion, announced Chet Moulton, state aeronautics director.

The north-south runway at Straville is closed, and marked with an "X" until maintenance crews can repair several deep washes across the runway. The east-west runway will continue in operation.

The state emergency field known as Laidlaw Corral, located in the lava desert between Carey and Kinama, also is closed and marked with an "X" until maintenance can be scheduled.

The Cascade reservoir recreational airstrip has been regraded and will be sprinkled daily. Users will assure prompt shut-down of pump and removal of cross sections of pipe by circling two or three times as an indication of intended use.

Hard Work, Cooperation Pay Off as Jerome Boy Scout Troop Is Honored

Jerome, July 14—Members of Boy Scout Troop 36, sponsored by the LDS first ward, have learned that hard work and team work pay off. They recently were selected as one of the top 25 Boy Scout troops in the church system. They were picked from 2,734 troops.

Some of the other accomplishments of the troop include two conservation projects, one in erosion and the other in tree planting.

Some 27 out of the 38 members of the troop carry the long-term camping award and the troop is 100 per cent equipped to go camping.

While many troops have trouble finding adequate adult leadership, Troop 36 has a Scoutmaster, two adult assistant Scoutmasters and one junior assistant Scoutmaster. While most adult committees have three members, there are seven on Troop 36's committee.

Rust Is Big Drawback in Auto Market

Detroit, July 14 (AP)—One sure way to lose money on that car you hope to trade is to allow rust on the body to go unchecked.

The LDS church scouting program will observe its 50th year in the Scout program next year and they will celebrate by naming their top 25 troops. Troop 36 is one of those troops.

The troop has four patrols and the patrol system is the backbone of the troop. "All projects are patrol projects and the competition is intense," said Thurson. Competition and teamwork are mainstays in the operation of the troop.

A four- to five-year-old model without rust will bring $100 to $200 more. Add a reasonably clean interior and you've built a big difference.

Scoutmaster Walter Thurson said that the troop was picked on the basis of membership progress, leadership and activity. He said that both the sponsoring unit and the boys themselves should share the honor.

"We are very proud of the boys and the honor they have received," said Thurson. "They have worked very hard to be a top Scout troop and the adult support has been tremendous."

Dealers figure that at least 80 per cent of the cost of reconditioning a used car for resale is devoted to its appearance. One used car lot which specializes in older models estimates an average expenditure of $100 on preparing such a car. Most of this is spent on replacing and repainting rusted panels.

Thurson noted that there are three Eagle Scouts in the troop and over 60 per cent of the boys are first-class Scouts or higher. During the past year the troop sponsored five boards of review, held four courts of honor and one Eagle court of honor.

Troop members include Larry Weeks, Gordon Ford, Ed Prescott, Michael Humphries, Wesley Dryden, Ronald Harris, Dennis Cappas, James Abbott, David Thamine, David White, Roy Prescott, Lyl Hollibaugh, Randy Williams, Terry Turpin, James Carter, Kent Williams, Robert Conklin, Parry Dixon, Gertrude Wyman (guide patrol leader), Milton Olander, Alan Kump, Terry Thamine, Kiri Williams, Randy Bell, Mark Bingham, Joe Tippett, Norman Kump, Donald Thurson, Danny Orr, Vincent Williams, Fred Grater, Shane Barlow, Ernest Cahala and Donald Mason.

Rust is a cancer. Once it appears it must be treated or it will spread, eventually eating holes in the metal body.

Also the troop has 60 per cent of the boys qualifying for the national 10-day camping award, 100 per cent of the boys subscribe to "Boys Life" and the troop owns camping equipment valued in excess of $400, most of which was earned through troop fund raising campaigns.

breeding conditions for rust. Car manufacturers have become very concerned about rust, especially with growing change to unitized bodies. A unitized body eliminates the use of a separate frame. Panels which once were only coverings become part of the basic structure of the car.

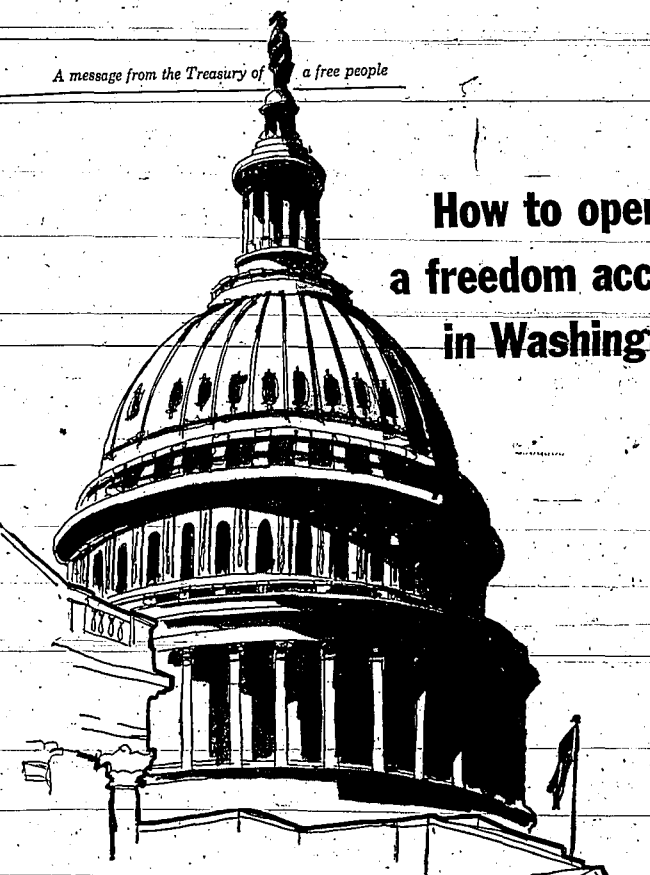

Three most vulnerable areas for body rust are the leading edge of the front fender, the leading edge of the rear fender and the small steel panel directly below the door, known as the rocker panel.

Additionally, a badly rusted car is a poor advertisement. "I wish we could buy up all of those models and get them off the streets," said one Detroit executive as he viewed pictures of his particular make from five or six years ago.

The two most common manufacturing approaches in the fight against rust have been dipping in solutions which coat and protect the vital areas, and the use of galvanized steel. Several companies use both. Others use primer coats especially formulated to minimize rusting.

You'll find your freedom account number on every U.S. Savings Bond you buy. It's just below and to the right of your name. (Pretty good proof of ownership, too.)

CHECKING SOME of the equipment that is used in mobile telephone service is Gordon Rotrner, telephone company service foreman. There are two operating channels for subscribers using mobile phones. One channel has 17 subscribers and the other has 11. The set up operates on a very high frequency assigned by the federal government. The subscriber picks up his phone vehicle and charges a monthly fee for its use. At the present time, in addition to installation free the charge is $56.50 a month. In explaining just what happens when Mason calls from his car, Rotrner put it this way: "The ultra receiver from the hook in the car and dials any number within range (an area about 25 miles any way from Twin Falls). His voice travels through the air to the receiving sending station atop the butte. The voice then goes through and dials any number within range which is about 25 miles. The voice sound travels through the air and is picked up at the receiving station on a butte near Jerome. There the voice is transferred to a cable that is connected with the main office in Twin Falls and is then routed onto the company's regular lines. (Times-News photo)

are three antennas in a triangle. One is for both channel receivers and the other two are separate senders for each channel. The mobile numbers are not as yet listed in the telephone books but must be obtained from individual subscribers. And how do they know their telephone is ringing when they are out of the car? A gadget connects the bell with the horn and each time the bell rings the horn does likewise. This can be disconnected when the occupant is behind the wheel. When you call such a subscriber the old phrase "I'm right here where the phone is" means nothing. The phone might be anywhere, so you had better ask: "Where are you?"

U2 Planes Discover Reason Fallout From Red Tests Hasn't Shown up Yet

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—U2 aircraft—the type in which Francis Gary Powers crashed in Russia—helped explain why an anticipated record fallout from Russia's 1951 nuclear tests didn't materialize this spring. The reason, it was learned Saturday, is this: Much of the radioactive debris from the more powerful tests hurried so high that it did not rain readily with lower levels of the atmosphere—and so will be delayed in falling. Atomic energy commission scientists told a reporter that the high-flying U2, capable of soaring with balloons that went up to about 20 miles, uncovered evidence that allowed this conclusion. The expected spring maximum fallout from the tests would be only half as intense as AEC and other scientists had anticipated during and for several months after the autumn tests. And that's the way things turned out. Only about half the radioactive debris originally hoisted in the atmosphere by the approximately 50 tests has now come down—compared with the full amount originally expected—said the maximum danger for this year is now over. "The rest of it is still in the atmosphere," he showed—and it might take from two to 10 years more for all of it to come down. Meanwhile, it will decay and lose some of its radioactive punch. Little-known details of this high-altitude nuclear sleuthing came to light when a reporter queried the AEC and other agencies on the latest picture on the fallout situation. Soon after the Russian tests were completed, American experts estimated through several analysis methods that the total explosive yield from the 50 tests was about 120 megatons—that is, equivalent to 120 million tons of TNT. It was estimated that 25 megatons was in the form of "fission yield"—the component which produces the predominant share of fallout. Recalling that Russia's 1952 tests produced some 12 1/2 megatons of fission yield, the experts figured that the fallout from Russia's 1951 tests would, in the spring of 1962, just about double that noted in 1959 following the Red series. This admittedly "most pessimistic view" was based on the assumption that the fallout from the latest series would behave, in the atmosphere, much like that of the 1958 series. Virtually all of the 1958 fallout was deposited by the following spring. The U2s scanned about 100,000 square miles—presumably over American Arctic regions—in an operation conducted by the defense atomic support agency. The planes found a definite belt of radioactive debris at an altitude of 70,000 feet—much higher than the 60,000 feet where other debris from the Soviet tests had been noted. The belt added up to the equivalent of 10 megatons of fission yield—nearly half of what the experts had figured for the entire fission yield of all the tests.

Traces Still Remain of Ancient Lake

fall relatively quickly into lower reaches of the atmosphere. But the evidence gained by the planes and balloons appeared consistent: The "high" radioactive debris was going to stay a lot longer than anticipated.

Transportation Agent at Sun Valley Promotes Historic Lore of Wood River

KECICHUM July 14.—If it had to do with history you can bet that John D. Sidley, Sun Valley's transportation agent for the Union Pacific railroad, is mixed up in it.

And if it is Idaho history—and especially that of the Wood River area—you can be sure of it. In this area, although there are many who "work" history, the promotion of it, Sidley is perhaps the most tireless worker.

Although he is the last to claim any of the credit for the various promotions which have been clicking off for Kechichum in recent years, the record shows him to be one of the driving forces. For instance, he was one of the organizers of the Wood River Historical society and is now in his third term as president. At the present time he and others are sponsoring a study of the Union Pacific company for land acquisition on highway 93 where a museum could be located.

"The old time fiddler's contest, known formally as the Ketchichum-Sun Valley Invitational, is his brain child. The third contest will be staged this October and will attract outstanding fiddlers (by invitation) from many areas. The contest has proved to be popular and last year's champ was Marlene Shaw, Corral.

As if the activities listed thus far are not enough to keep him busy in his spare time, he also served as chairman of the antique auto parade which is held yearly in connection with Kechichum's famed "Nagan Days" celebration. And, again, the old auto event highlights the Sunday, Aug. 26, program—Historical chairman of the Idaho county central commission.

Why all this interest in history? Sidley says that it dates "way back" to his youth. "Since I was a kid," he said, "I have read just about everything I can get my hands on that pertains to the history of the West."

He adds that when time permits "he enjoys visiting the old mine sites in the Wood River area. This activity alone will keep him busy for some time because records for some of the mines in the neighborhood of 1,000 claims are tucked away in the surrounding hills.

Born in Idaho Falls, he received his early education in the public schools there and graduated from high school in 1930. He then went to Idaho State college (known at that time as the University of Idaho, southern branch) where he studied engineering, then switched to education.

After finishing two years at the college, however, he decided he could not be financially supported and he found a job, so he returned to Idaho Falls and started to work for the Union Pacific as a "bottom of the ladder."

"He took a job as messenger-boy and admits today that no messenger which was I went from there it had to be up." And it was not long before he started up by being advanced to the position of call clerk. Continuing to advance, he was sent to West Yellowstone in the summer of 1943 as baggage agent.

In September of 1947 Uncle Sam had other plans and he was drafted into the air force and sent to Buckley field, Colo., where he entered training as an aerial gunner.

"It was much smaller than I thought it would be and they needed little guys to fit into the gun turrets," he recalls.

He never got to put his training into actual combat practice, however, because pneumonia and the flu came around at the same time. The disease won, and he was hospitalized. Because of this, he was discharged from the service.

Other fiction books are available at the Twin Falls public library for circulation, announces Edith Oyler, acting librarian.

Heading the list is the number one book on the best seller list, "Ship of Fools," by Katherine Anne Porter. Another new book by Herman Wouk is "Yonkers Hawk," the story of a young novelist from Kentucky who has a wild and dazzling career.

"Uhuru," by Robert Ruark, is a novel of Africa today. "The Toy Soldier" by Elizabeth CADWELL, "The Pale Girl," by Elizabeth Corbett, and "Dorothea," by Muriel Ellwood are other fictions on the list. For the sport minded person there is "The Best Sports Stories for 1962."

Six new mysteries have been added to the list. They are "The Case of the Blonde Bonanza," by Eric Stanley Gardner, "Hand in Glove," by Marjorie Broun, "Murder by Paul Anderson," "The Call of the Blood," by "The Ballad of the Running Man," by Smith, and "The Man Who Died Too Soon," by a Harrow Coak.

JOHN D. SIDLEY

lung collapsed he underwent surgery at Pocatello general hospital and was ruled ineligible for flying.

He spent the next two years at various fields in Colorado and California and then he was drafted and he was needed in the infantry more than the air force and so he was sent to Camp Blanding, Mo., and went overseas with the 78th Infantry division as a sergeant and motor sergeant.

In the European theater he saw plenty of front line action. Asked if he was ever wounded, Sidley said he was never hit, but he did a lot of shooting while they were shooting at me but to tell the truth I never did know whether I hit anyone or not."

As a member of combat command, first battalion, 31st Infantry regiment, he was first across the Rhine at Remagen bridge head. This was the one railroad bridge the Nazis failed to blow up. He expressed that historic bridge crossing "this way," "We ran across."

Why did the Yanks run? Because we were being shot at," Sidley explained.

He was in Germany when the war ended and was sent home on March 17, 1946, and discharged in Pocatello. But since the government was still not completed, he was "tagged" for additional training and sent to Camp Pendleton and served another 13 months in that engagement before being released.

The way he met and married his wife—a story in itself—and well worth recounting. After World War II he had returned to Idaho Falls and spent two more years at West Yellowstone before becoming ticket agent at Idaho Falls.

This led to a summer stint with the "Blue" contingent of the tour at Chicago. It was that summer, while he was conducting a tour at West Yellowstone, his wife-to-be, Doris Forrester, a student nurse at the time, she was from Cranston, Canada. She was one of the tour members.

The two started corresponding after the tour and continued until she completed her course in psychiatric nursing at the University of Toronto.

So in November, 1955, he transferred to Sun Valley, where he had been appointed transportation agent on March 3, 1954, but was still in the office at Smooth Rock Falls, Ontario, and they were married.

Probably nothing so startling at traveling that distance to be married but the startling thing is that when he arrived there to claim a bride he met her parents for the first time.

The couple returned to Sun Valley and have resided in that area since that time, now living in their own home at Ketchichum. Sidley hopes he stays in Ketchichum and Sun Valley for a good long time because it is a fine place to raise children.

They have four youngsters: Tammy, 6; David, 4; Anna-Marie, 3; and Mary Irene, 10 months. All were born at the Sun Valley hospital where his wife does psychiatric nursing.

Despite Sun Valley's fame as a winter resort, Sidley finds the summer period the most interesting because of his hours of the nearby mountains.

"I have a keen interest in the Knights of Columbus and, until recently, was a member of Rotary."

Sportsmen Invading Primitive Area Cause Reduction in Trout Bag Limit

country. Some of the reasons behind the drastic reduction in bag and possession limits could be a result of the invasion of primitive areas by sportsmen.

One of the purposes of the fish tagging operation was to learn the amount of fish kills resulting from angling. The prevailing opinion seemed to be that trout usually are mortally injured and die even though given freedom and the opportunity to live again another day.

Not so, according to analysis of the middle fork data. Mortality to the released fish probably is less than five per cent. If the fish are handled carefully, and returned to the water quickly, this always has been an important consideration in view of the fact that fishermen on commercial float trips down the river keep few fish because of the lack of a good fishing gear.

Another idea about the same line is presented in an editorial of the "Herald-Bulletin" of Pocatello. "Friends who are ardent fishermen and conservationists have another solution to improve fishing—take home fewer dead trout. One friend has an unbreakable rule. He insists that his companions on any fishing expedition catch and kill only the trout they can eat in camp. 'Why should I help ruin future fishing by saving my friends a bunch of trout?' he asks. Let them catch their own or buy their own fish in a store."

fish effects of these coming are discernible in many of those with an eye to the future. The amount of fish kills may have been recovered and returned to the department. The trout were tagged for the same reason: migratory waterfowl and big game animals are marked for future identification. The date and place of the tagging are recorded. The rest is up to the sportsmen. Simpson says that tags are becoming common in areas from the middle fork this summer.

This means the department can compile records showing what is happening to the magnificent middle fork cutthroat trout. The date and place of the tagging are recorded. The rest is up to the sportsmen. Simpson says that tags are becoming common in areas from the middle fork this summer.

BEST KNOWN OF LOOKOUTS for range fires is probably the one at Notch butte, shown above. Adjacent to highway 83 near Shoshone, it is seen by thousands of motorists. The butte affords a sweeping view of surrounding rangeland and is manned seven days a week during the fire season. Operated by the bureau of land management, the lookout is on the left rise. The structure on the right is the state highway department radio communications building. Legend has it that the "notch" in the center was put there when Kit Carson fired low while trying to shoot at a band of Indians on the other side. Range fires are easily spotted from this tower and fire crews are dispatched quickly. (Times-News photo)

Palefaces to Get Indian Fire Aid

The Indians are coming. Not really! Well, yes, really. What we mean is not really like the Indians used to come, whooping down out of the hills to kill or capture or scalp the pioneers, but this time in a peaceful way to really help the palefaces.
 The Indian 100 strong, are coming from Fort Hall to aid in fighting range fires in the Shoshone district of the bureau of land management. They are members of the crack Sho-Ban fire fighting group, well trained and eager to cope with the forces of nature.
 They will be called quickly to duty when needed and will respond at once, according to Jim Gabeltas, fire control officer for the district.
 The Shoshone BLM district is a big one. Eastern city dwellers crowded into block after block of closely constructed homes, would never believe there was so much space left.
 Running from the Snake river on the south, to the forest boundary up north, from King Hill creek on the west to American Falls on the east, it comprises about two million acres of federal range. By permit there are about 25,000 sheep and 35,000 cattle grazing on it at various times.
 And, from the Notch butte lookout this entire area—and much more—is held together by a radio communications system second to none. Marvin Pearson, assistant district manager, assists.
 Pearson also announces that this year a helicopter will be stationed in Shoshone and the helicopter will be used in spot, line, fires, moving equipment and men and also emergency supplies.
 Installments on the due dates. There are guesses that Australia will grow more rapidly as a nation once it no longer has favored treatment from Britain. In any event, there is a philosophical attitude.
 The Sydney Daily Mirror put it like this: "Let us not squabble too much before we are hurt. It may be, indeed, that our hurts will be light, and that we appear to play to be a grievous, lasting injury in a year or so become an inspiration to more vigorous effort and greater economic reward."

Aussies Feel Europe Mart Is Challenge

SYDNEY, Australia, July 14 — Britain's affair with the Common Market has been a shock to long-faithful Australians, but this country seems today to be taking the prospect as a challenge more than as a cause for concern.
 It looks as if affection for Britannia will remain high even if she does go off galivanting with those European fellows.
 Every Australian seems aware Britain will join the Common Market. The price for Britain's entry appears to be the cancellation of empire preference, perhaps by 1970.
 These preferences, virtually assure commonwealth countries the United States should lower tariffs on wool and other products which Australia exports.
 In many ways Japan is Australia's big hope, especially if the Japanese continue to use more meat and dairy products in their diet.
 Japan already is Australia's largest customer, and 1961-Japan bought goods worth 363 million yen. Britain took 310 million yen, and the United States 162 million dollars.
 Japan spends more in Australia for wool, coal, copper, hides, pig iron, iron and steel scrap than does any other country. It is also an important buyer of meat, sugar and wheat.
 Red China, too, has become an important customer for wheat.
 Australia and China grain from last year's crop for 179 million dollars on pay-as-you-earn terms. The Chinese have met-

DIRECT AND FAST two-way radio communication is maintained during the fire season from the Notch butte lookout. Jim Gabeltas, fire control officer for the district, assisted Pearson as he looks on. Pearson describes the fire conditions on the range as the worst in years. (Times-News photo)
