POCATELLO, Aug. 4 (UPI)—The Republican platform convention today shouted down an attempt to have the party condemn a proposed sales tax in Idaho. A plank condemning the sales tax was tossed out of the platform this morning at a half-minute meeting but another effort to have it inserted was made by delegate Robert Farber, Fayette. Farber said that the Democratic party would claim the Republicans are not anti-sales tax if Republicans ignored the matter. "The Republican party may forget about its pushing over the sales tax," he said, "but the people won't."

Hustle, Pace of U.S. Life Impresses Turkish Visitor

The hustle and rushed pace of life in these United States is most impressive to a young Turkish girl visiting Twin Falls as part of an exchange program connected with the international young ambassador program.

They Seain, Istanbul, Turkey, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Breckenridge, Twin Falls, says "Americans are too excited—too busy." They have no idle time, she said.

"I am surprised how they do so much in 24 hours," she observed.

The 21-year-old Miss Seain works as an interpreter for Mobil oil company in her native Istanbul and speaks English fluently. She said she attended an American college in Turkey where she majored in business administration and took several sectorial courses.

In summing up her first impressions of U. S. citizens, Miss Seain notes, "Americans depend on sandwiches too much."

"Already my ideas are changing. Before making this trip, I felt American children did what they wanted. That parents were not concerned. I was wrong, they do care," she noted.

Miss Seain pointed out that she had a social traveler, just by going to work every morning and returning home at night. She goes from Asia to Europe going to work and from Europe to Asia on her way home.

She must cross the Bosphorus strait and one side is considered Asia and the other Europe.

Miss Seain landed on the east coast a week ago and arrived in Twin Falls Tuesday. She will spend three weeks with the Breckenridges and will go to Los Angeles where she has some relatives. After a week there she will return to Twin Falls.

On her return she will live with the Earl Haroldson family for two weeks and then return to her native land.

During her stay she will speak before several area service clubs. The clubs are sponsoring her visit.

After visiting Snake river canyon and viewing the gorge from the top, Miss Seain expressed amazement at "the green in the bottom." It looks so rocky from the top," she said when taken to the top.

Miss Seain attended a meeting of the Twin Falls Republican central committee Thursday evening. American politics are much like politics in Turkey, she said, after witnessing a hassle among party members.

"One thing that surprised me was the lack of young people at the meeting. In Turkey it was the young people who overthrew a government the people did not like," she explained.

"Asked how she was excited as a participant in the exchange program, she reported that she

The fire is believed to have started from defective wiring or lightning.

He questioned an area "near Los Angeles" since she has relatives there.

The Breckenridges also filled out an application form stating they would like to host one of the participants in the exchange program.

Purpose of the program is to exchange cultural ideas and gain first hand experience of the social and daily lives of average families in the country visited by living with the family, Miss Seain explained.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Although it appears impossible to convince President Kennedy's group of prominent economic advisers of the fact, every seemingly reliable indicator suggests that the American economy will continue to grow for the foreseeable future. It is not the fact that the economy is growing, but the fact that it is growing at a rate far different to what they were in the depression days when FDR took office. The President's economic and economic system.

There was then no question or doubt as to what the President needed not only one but many shots in the arm to prevent an illness that might have been fatal. The President had him clamored for betterment and a congress that was not wholly sympathetic to his novel ideas. FDR also provided something that seems to be lacking in high places today—bold leadership and courage.

ARE WE REALLY SICK?—Today, however, neither private nor public economist can say whether we are suffering from a recession or heading into one at some indefinite period a few years hence. The President and his advisers seem inclined to request an immediate tax cut, and conservative forces support this viewpoint.

ARE WE REALLY SICK?—The President has no doubt that the economy is growing. He is certain that the President would awaken into action the attitude of the various groups, and his program would be enacted. Congressional polls and mail show that they do not share the White House view of the importance of the legislation he has in mind.

ON THE BASIS OF HIS ANNOUNCED PLAN, the President will campaign most actively during the coming year for a period for the mental health insurance bill, federal aid to education on its terms—a department-of-urban-affairs-and-for-greater-urban-control program, and a program for production. For almost two years now, congress has treated or blocked action on all of these White House proposals.

COOL TO MEDICARE?—With the possible exception of even Franklin D. Roosevelt, few presidents to congress what seemed to be a more appealing proposal than Medicare. It was called "Social Security." Even in the face of the doctors' powerful, nationwide lobbying efforts, White House strategists believe that it would sweep through house and senate.

THEY FORGOT, however, that the number of immediate beneficiaries would be rather limited under the present administration. The highest estimate figures that they would not exceed 20 million in view of the people not being able to finance themselves medically and in every other way.

ON THE OTHER HAND, many millions of young couples, already burdened with debt, need the cost of supporting the system for 30 or 40 years before they would be able to retire.

THE 21 DEMOCRATIC SENATORS, who had done more detailed and accurate political homework on this question than the President, are not in favor of it. It seems that they are against this seemingly humanitarian measure because it did not appeal to as many voters as the President thought.

PRAYER ISSUE?—The question of federal aid to education ranks second only to the debate over the supreme court's anti-prayer decision as the most pressing issue before the congress and the American people. Schools and churches are fundamental institutions.

EVEN THE EDUCATORS disagree over whether further federal aid to education is in the field is advisable. Although President Kennedy considers the objection unreasonable, and he may be correct, the fact is that there are many state officials that federal financial subsidies and support would eventually lead to a more uniform and higher quality of education. It is hardly necessary to add that the citizens of the cities, or for more governmental authority down on the farm.

These did not pay off sufficiently to warrant the enormous cost. The Institute for International Communications in New York called this the 1957 Moscow festival was the first of its kind. Like the others, it had been suspect because of its location.

WHEELS GOLDEN WATER

President Kennedy has declared that the issue of federal medical care is the most important people this fall, and I could not think of a more appropriate time to discuss it.

The President's apparently feeble attempt at an election issue, will result in congress more money for the year, 20 of them voted to table the Medicare bill. It is a clear sign, in my view from the dining and observation platform, which make one complete revolution every 24 hours. The great white cone of 14,000-foot Mount Rainier. In the northern distance is Mount Baker, and on the farthest skyline a Canadian peak.

Consider for a moment some of the aspects of the Medicare administration proposal. Of the 16 senators of whom are Democrats, 10 of them voted against the administration proposal. The House has passed the bill, and the Senate is expected to pass it.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—One of the daily miracles of our times is how a middle-aged man manages to get up and face life every morning—particularly on a Monday. Young people have been saying 'No' because they are 'full of zest and hope'.

Campaign Preview

As most Idahoans have suspected all along, the state's general election campaign this fall isn't going to be a milk and water proposition. Until now, there have been very real exchanges, but Gov. Robert B. Smylie opened up enough at Poestello on the eve of the Republican platform convention to show what lies in the future. It's going to be a knock-down, drag-out campaign.

"We will rip the veil of anonymity off the man (Smith) . . . the record will demand to know what is the people's background and the character of every candidate for high public office," the governor declared.

His words laid the groundwork for a free-wheeling campaign that will involve new issues as well as issues. Yet the governor is right in one respect—the people are entitled to know the background and character of all candidates.

3,000 People Attend Bank Open House

The newly renovated Fidelity National bank in Twin Falls opened its doors Saturday to approximately 3,000 persons from "the whole Magic Valley area" to attend the open house celebration, Guy H. Bheare, bank president said.

Attending also were visitors from Salt Lake City, Boise and other areas plus several "out-of-town" bankers whose presence was the result of an over-all remodeling and redecorating program which included one of the largest in the state, Harold Stewart, cashier, explained.

This marks the first complete renovation of the building since its opening here from Piler in 1933, Stewart said, pointing out that the bank has grown from a staff of 12 persons in 1935 to a staff of 44 persons at present.

And so moved to Twin Falls during the depression years, Bheare observed, the remodeling program was a move to provide "a clean, convenient place to do business."

Stewart pointed out that all changes were designed to bring the bank and to better serve the public.

"We want the customer to feel at home when entering the bank," Stewart noted, adding that the remodeling was done with special efforts to provide a "stiff staff" impression.

Stewart has doubled the clerical working space. Complete remodeling of the building deposits new vaults and the deposit boxes have been installed.

The gleaming bright vault door is a masterpiece in its design. It is nine inches thick and is constructed with reinforced steel.

The new bank staff was present Saturday to greet visitors and explain various functions of the bank.

Stewart's bank staff will include: branch manager, Robert Bheare, note department, escrow department, postal department and a new department which will feature the latest in design and most modern equipment plus special services suggested by local bankers.

State Auditor William Adams said the deficit a year ago was $1,928,121, and in 1960 $518,571. Climbers Will Take Blame For Death

JACKSON, Wyo., Aug. 4 (UP)—The Appalachian Mountain club of Boston assumed responsibility today for an incident in which one of its members died of a jagged, snowy slope of 13,765 feet on Teton peak.

Luther Child, Boston club vice president, said some members of a 10-climber party had failed to register with the national park service to climb in Grand Teton National park.

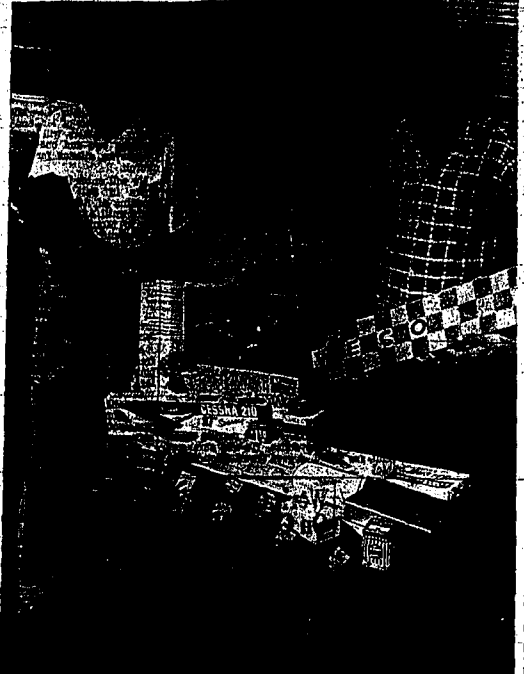

The 10 climbers failed, unintentionally, to sign out for a difficult ascent up the spectacular peak. Child said.

Stephen Smith, 21, Holden, Mass., a club member, died of exposure when he apparently tried to lead the party to safety in a raging blizzard.

The rescue has been unofficially estimated at $5,000.

Telephone officials called the breakdown "a major service disruption" but said the fact that it occurred late at night helped to minimize its effects.

DOG DAYS DESCEND ON BOBBY KENNEDY IN FORM OF HIS PET
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Most dogs get lonesome when the kids are away on vacation. Brummus is no exception.
 So Brummus, a husky 100-pound Labrador, has been going to the office with his master, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.
 "With the children gone he gets lonely," Kennedy told some visitors the other day. "So I bring him to the office with me and he gets pretty secretive to take him for a walk."
 And that explains the pretty secretaries walking the streets around the department of justice, being led by a big black shaggy dog.
 "Brummus was missing one day this week, and there was the office with this matter, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in Mexico City, Aug. 4 (AP)—Officials said a color film of the recent visit of President and Mrs. Kennedy to Mexico has been sent to the White House."

Junior College Termed Feasible if T.F. Boise Youth, Organized on County - Wide Basis 15, Dies of Crash Injury

A junior college in Twin Falls is economically feasible if established on a county-wide basis, Vernon Riddie reported to the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors Friday.
 Riddie headed a committee to study feasibility of a junior college. The committee report will be studied by board members and discussed at the Aug. 17 meeting, said Jerry Cover, president.
 According to Riddie report, sources of income for the college would be taxed on real and personal property, tuition, liquor receipts and federal aid for vocational instruction. Riddie said an eight-million county tax would yield about $22,145.50. The county would come to about $24,000 and liquor receipts—about $23,944.91—Riddie said this is 50 per cent of the total liquor receipts in Twin Falls county. Federal income for instructors would be about $5,000. Total income would be about $49,000.

MR. AND MRS. PARKER GLENN WOODALL

Long and Lean, Less Leg Shows
In Paris Fashions
 PARIS, Aug. 4 (AP)—Paris has turned out a winter-woman who is long and lean and shows less of her legs.
 The fashion shows here wound up with the unveiling of Cristobal Balenciaga's 1962-63 line.
 The world can rest assured that the female shape will not change during this fall and winter, but it will be modified by slimmer longer skirts and suit jackets, skimpier sleeves to the wrists, flat shoulders and tighter waistlines.
 Exceptions and counter-trends included waiting-length jackets and three-quarter sleeves.
 Many designers, such as Marc Bohan at Dior and J. H. Crayth at Nina Ricci, did not lengthen their skirts. (Italians Simonetta and Pabani stressed-coats with deep shawl collars and loose, full shoulders.)
 Experts agreed, however, that the trend is toward lengthening coats and evening gowns. All designers cut more and more clothes closer to the body.
 Buyers to buyers who viewed them all, Balenciaga and Hubert Givenchy are still the "greats" of high fashion. And they both hold centers to a narrow line. Of other couturiers, 20-year-old Yves St. Laurent drew the most gasps from both buyers and reporters with a downright skinny lining dubbed the "tube."
 Buyers called Marc Bohan's Dior line the most commercial for the general world-wide market. Although it was a "mid-range" shop, it, too, was longer and leaner.
 —Other trends:
 —Cocktail dresses: black crepe sheaths were the most popular, often with stoles or capes attached. Usually low cut in back.
 —Culottes: Nearly every designer showed some. From Dior's fake culotte skirt (actually a high center seam to a slightly flaring skirt) to culottes on daytime gray wool dresses by Guy Laroche. For home entertaining, "floor-length culottes" are definitely "in."
 —Coats: traditional coats, with back fullness, still were in the fall line, but more narrow coats were shown, as well as the generally flaring "offstage" line.
 —Another new look was the "bathrobe" coat, developed by Antonio Gastile for Lanvin, a casual wide-collared coat tied at the waist.
 —Evening gowns: mostly floor-length, lavishly beaded and embroidered, often with matching jackets or coats.
 —Color: the big new color was purple, for everything from evening gowns and cocktail suits to daytime wool suits.

Age of Opulence Looms for World Of Fall Clothes
 NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Opulence by the acre and price tags to stagger the average budget dominate fall and winter fashions for evening.
 Opulence takes off in three directions—in the plethora of fur trim, in the lushness of fabrics themselves, or in the addition of jewelry, which certainly must be keeping a lot of seamstresses in jobs sewing on bugle beads, jet, seed pearls or other iridescence.
 As for price tags, certainly the woman can shop around and find a handsome evening dress within her budget. But if she wants to splurge on a grand occasion gown, the price tag can go as high as $3,000 for a floor-length formal, jewel-encrusted from neckline to hem.
 Herbert Goldheim, a manufacturer whose price tags let some reporters lose sleep than some of the other clothes found in the New York garment industry, explained there are three reasons for some of the fantastic prices.
 One is the customer's desire for luxury fabric. The second is the workmanship which goes into the fabric itself—some of the jeweled materials cost $25, $33 and $40 per yard because of the handwork involved. And, third, the workmanship in the garment itself.
 Goldheim said that manufacturers no longer just stitch pieces of fabric together; ever since the days of the late Christian Dior designer, clothes like works of architecture have been constructed. A jeweled dress, for instance, is built from the inside layer by layer. There may be as many as four—the outside "skin" of jewels, in 1962, is a base of crepe in turn lined, and finally lined again with a layer of Marquise-cut.
 The result is fall and winter collections in an olman's ransom of luxury. Members of the New York Couture group of dress manufacturers showed their collections to visiting reporters: Jeweled silks, cut velvet thick as upholstery, satins, creamy moccasins, and metallics with the shimmer of the supposed mermaid.
 The surprise entry in the formal wear field, though, is wool. Not everyone's gotten around to it yet, but as they say in baseball, "wait'll next year." Such pace setters as Bill Blass, chief designer at Maurice Rentner's, used lacy thick mohair for bar-top evening dresses.
 So-called "catalina," the Californian who traditionally opens each new season's collection in New York. His bare-topped formal in wool were column-like in shape. And late day dresses combine wool jacket over satin skirts.
 One silhouette dominates all others in formal wear, probably as a result of Mrs. John F. Ken-

Mystery of Income Tax Cut Now Playing in Washington

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—The mystery of the income tax cut now playing in Washington is whether the duty economic states will cause President Kennedy to ask congress to allow tax cuts immediately instead of next year as he promised earlier. Time of decision is little more than a week away. The first and one of the most important indicators—the job situation—came out last week. The unemployment rate is expected to be a quick test case. Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg reported the number of unemployed declined by 450,000 in July. The unemployment rate improved about 1.1 million over a year ago.

Most Grains Lost Ground During Week

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—All grain futures, except wheat, which closed unchanged, lost ground this week on the Chicago board. The Chicago board closed Friday, wheat was unchanged to 1/2 cent, corn off 1/4 cent, soybeans off 1/4 cent, and drummed rail off 1/2 cent. Continued reports that corn and soybeans were making favorable crop progress were the most important market factors in feed grains and bean futures. Long liquidation prompted most seasonal lows, although rallies were frequent. The market was quiet under annual but steady hedge and other sales. Wheat futures were unsettled because of pending new harvest in the region in the exchange put off opening trade in July. Cash contracts for soybean oil and meal until the outlook is clarified. Spot wheat prices were firm at Chicago and in the Southwest. Export and mill interest was active, and India purchased over 800,000 bushels of wheat on Friday. Media sales kept wheat firm. Soybean futures were reported disappointing yields. Traders expressed concern about large stocks of wheat and corn at Chicago despite heavy export and domestic demand. Corn corporation corn sales also increased from a week earlier. Cash corn was reported in reports of scattered crop damage in Iowa, but the market declined under annual but steady hedge and other sales. Eye traders discounted lack of recent business with West. Many signs details were talking. Supplies were small, but a large crop in prospect. Chicago cash grain markets reported wheat off major fraction, corn in 1/4 cent, soybean 1/4 cent, and soybean 2 1/2 cents down.

Hit Batsman Forces in Winning Run as Chicago Nips Yanks 2-1

By The Associated Press

With the bases loaded in the ninth inning, Bill Stafford's pitch hit Al Smith to force in the decisive run for a 2-1 Chicago White Sox victory over the New York Yankees Saturday. It was a weird windup to a game in which the Sox left 16 men stranded and, until the final inning, Stafford and Frank Baumann were locked in a pitchers' battle that gripped a Comiskey park crowd of 36,465 — largest of the season.

Washington's John Schmeitzel hit two homers and Don Loefer added another for a 9-3 victory over Boston.

The Senators drove out Gene Conley, Red Sox right-hander, by using the score in the sixth inning, then handed the loss to southpaw Arnold Earnley.

Third baseman Schmeitzel slugged a 3-0 pitch into the left field screen in the seventh, breaking a 3-3 deadlock. Schmeitzel also homered in the opening frame.

The Kansas City Athletics scored six runs in the first four innings and romped to an 8-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Dingo Segui (6-3) held the eighth, but four hits in the eighth inning he pitched and whiffed clutch relief pitching of Lee Stange.

Stange pitched scoreless ball over the last 7 1/3 innings as the Twins battered Don Mossi out with their first-inning extra-inning effort. Harmon Killebrew's 28th homer was the big blow, accounting for two runs. Lewny Green had a double and Bob Allison a triple before Mossi departed.

In the fourth inning, John Wyatt finished up in the final frame. John Romano belted a two-run homer in the first inning, putting the Indians into a 2-1 lead. Tony Segui closed the door until the eighth when rookie Al Luplow hit a homer.

Right-handed Jack Fisher withdrew a ninth-inning uprising and pitched the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

Lee Thomas led off the Los Angeles inning with a double off the right field fence. After an infield out, Felix Torres drove home the visitors' first run of the game with an infield single.

Joe Spivee fanned to end the inning and the game.

Commons to Become BPAA Field Worker

Stan Commons, manager of the Bowldrome Twin Falls for several years, will join the Bowling Proprietors Association of America staff as a field representative Oct. 1. Keith Johnson, one of the area's bowlers who has worked with Commons at the Bowldrome, will take over as manager of the 80-lane house as manager on the same date. Commons will remain a stockholder in house. Johnson said there will be no change in the operating policy of the Bowldrome.

Commons and his family will move to Denver early in September to accept the position of his official duties. His territory will be the Rocky Mountain states. He will work directly with the state and local bowling proprietors in promotion, and building of a junior bowling program in each of the states he covers.

In accepting the position Commons said he disliked leaving Twin Falls and the friends he had made here but he noted the challenge and honor of the job and something he couldn't pass up.

Commons first went into bowling in 1949 when he bought into the old Bowldrome, which was located in downtown Twin Falls and owned at that time by Bud Cowham. In 1950, Commons became the manager of the Bowldrome and operated the eight-lane house until 1957 when he leased it to the current owners. He worked in 1958 to take over operation of the facility, modernizing it by switching to automatic pinsetters.

A year later the Bowldrome was shifted to its new home on Eastland drive and expanded to 20 lanes. Again in 1960 the Bowldrome expanded to the present 80-lane facility, the largest bowling establishment in the state and one of the Northwest's largest. A 40-lane house since has been built in Boise. The Bowldrome will be owned and operated by Commons and Johnson.

In addition to promoting and expanding bowling in the Twin Falls area, Commons notified the Idaho Bowling Proprietors Association into its strongest position while serving three years as president.

He was instrumental in getting the Idaho match games for both men and women. A state tournament for boys and girls in addition to his work in the BPAA. As the state junior first became president, the state group counted only 12 members. When he stepped down this year the membership was up to 67.

Great Catch by Allen in 10th Frame Snuffs Out Magic Valley's Threat

BOISE, Aug. 4 (AP)—A two-out, bases loaded single by Chuck Hasenstab in the 10th inning gave Boise a 7-6 win over Magic Valley in a Pioneer league game tonight. Santos Alomar, who had walked to lead off the 11th, scored the winning run. Magic Valley threatened in the tenth, but a great catch by Marciel Allen broke it up. With bases loaded and two out, Allen jumped high in the air against the rightfield wall to rob Fred Walters of a home run. The Braves took advantage of Magic Valley errors to push in front early in the game and send starter Doc Weber to the showers. Dick Vencha committed two miscues that gave Boise three unearned runs.

Bernie Belan came on and kept the Braves in check for five innings until the decisive rally. The total of six runs was the lowest output by the Cowboys in the past two weeks, except for a 5-6 curfew draw to Idaho Falls. Jim Couch kept the Magic Valley home run streak going when he belted a three-run slug in the fourth inning to get the Cowboys on top. The Cowboys held the lead briefly in the fifth inning when they came up with a single run but ended the night with three more.

Then the Cowboys came up with a pair in the sixth inning to lead 7-6. The game lasted three hours and four minutes. Magic Valley's batting order was: 1. Phillip 2.1 Alomar 3.2 Vencha 4.3 Walters 5.4 Belan 6.5 Couch 7.6 Timmer 8.7 Johnson 9.8 Johnson 10.9 Belan

Chiefs Walk To Win Over Billings 5-3

POCAHELLO, Aug. 4 (AP)—Retail pitcher Otto Melschner walked in the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the eighth inning and Pocahelto beat the Pioneer league leading Billings Mustangs 5-3 this afternoon.

Jerry Funk hit a solo-homer for Pocahelto in the seventh. The Chiefs' first tally came in the second when scored on a fly by Gene Beard.

Zeke Faulkner hit a fly homer for Billings in the first. The Mustangs took a 3-1 lead with two in the fifth as Lee Green singled, stole second, went to third on Pat Foley's single and scored, as did Foley, on a single by starting pitcher Edward Hahn.

Don Drysdale Feted for Posting 20th Decision
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4 (AP)—Don Drysdale, hailed as the pitcher most likely to become a 20-game winner since the Dodgers came to Los Angeles, today accepted the acclaim of baseball fans for achieving that milestone on his 10th straight win last night.

The Dodgers' cut a cake in their clubhouse after Drysdale posted his 20th victory against the Chicago Cubs to become the first hurler in the major leagues this season to record 20 wins.

And with that win, Drysdale also became the first Dodger to achieve 20 victories since Don Newcombe recorded 27 wins in 1958; the year Drysdale came up to the club in Brooklyn as a rookie.

"Coming to this big stadium in Chavez Ravine helped me regain my confidence," Drysdale said after the victory. "I can pitch the same here as I do on the road, something I couldn't do in the Coliseum where any mistake could cost a pitcher a game."

And it took some of that confidence last night for Drysdale to work himself out of trouble after he gave up three runs in the first inning.

"I guess I was thinking about getting that 20th win," Drysdale said. "I can't recall when I was so nervous warming up for a game."

"This club has treated me real well since I came here," Drysdale said. "I really wanted to justify their confidence this season and I started working early to take off weight and get into condition and it all helped."

After Mexico's No. 1 ace had gone before McKinley's brilliant shot-making 6-2, 7-5, 6-3, young Antonio Palafox revived the hopes of a capacity crowd of 3,200 at the Caputepa Sports center by polishing off Don Douglas in a Santa Monica, Calif., 6-3, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5.

Olympian Is Victor in First Garden Bout

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Wilbur (Skeeter) McClure, the 1909 Olympic 147-lb. middleweight champion, made an impressive main event debut in Madison square garden tonight. He punched out an unanimous decision over the experienced Farid Salim of Argentina in a lively 10-rounder.

McClure, from Toledo, Ohio, thus ran his unbeaten streak to 10. A 12-6 underdog, he weighed 156 1/2 to Salim's 160.

Referee Mark Conn and judge Joe Armstrong each had McClure on top, seven rounds to three. Judge Leo Birnbaum had it 8-2.

McClure, who never had fought more than six rounds before, started fast, paced himself through the middle rounds, and finished with a flourish.

McClure opened a cut on Salim's left eyebrow in the third round as both slugged it out. In the sixth he stopped jabbing and rocked Salim with a four-punch volley.

Don Knotts Would Rather Be Fish

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 (U.P.) — "Or would you rather be a fish?" ... Televisors Don Knotts has just that choice in his first starring role in movies.

Right now Don is spending his vacation from the Andy Griffith show making "Mr. Limpet" at Warner brothers. Don is the man in the title role, the fish. This is a part-animation, part-live-action movie in which he transforms from man to mollusk.

As soon as he gets out of the deep, he'll go back to the third season as Deputy Barney Fife on the Griffith show. He doesn't mind his position as supporting actor. He won the Emmy twice for his first two years with the series.

"It's a good show to be identified with," he explained. "People don't just like the show; they feel very strongly about it. That kind of acceptance isn't very easy to find.

"I'd had chances to head up my own series, but I don't think the time is ripe for it. I'd be willing to stay with Andy for a five-year run — no longer than that. I think people can get too used to you in one spot.

"Then I'd lay off television for a year or two and do movies. As much as a Broadway show, I'd be best not to push yourself too long in television. After a lay-off I might try my own series."

Offhand you wouldn't tab Don as any candidate for stardom. He has a face like — well, it is a little fish-like. His physique amounts to — to a strapping 125 pounds. Yet he has managed to hold his own steadily for the past dozen or so years — five years on the radio show, five on the "Mr. Tumble for Breakfast," four on the Steve Allen show — two with Andy.

"I think there's more competition for the guys who are tall, dark and handsome," Don observed. "People are always telling those guys, 'Gee, you ought to be in movies.' A lot of them try, and Hollywood fills 'em with good-looking men.

"But people don't tell guys like you ought to be in the movies." So there are less of us in them."

Boyd Runs From His Past In Thriller-Drama "Lisa"

With his portrayal of a man running away from his past in Mark Robson's "Lisa," Stephen Boyd should achieve that desired public image of a top flight film star. Dolores Hart plays the role of the film's heroine and Boyd's love interest.

The Irish-Canadian star, who was seeking for his performance as "Mexcala" in "Ben Hur," feels rather strongly about his role. "I've always," he explains, "in a complex character, very sentimental and beneath his veneer of professional toughness, highly emotional. It was my job to present him to the audience as a wholly vulnerable man."

Boyd, who has appeared opposite such leading ladies as Elizabeth Taylor, Susan Hayward, Hope Lange, John Collins and Julie Christie, is very enthusiastic about Hollywood films; he prefers motion pictures to the stage and feels that foreign and "new wave" productions have their place in entertainment, but it is and always will be a small part as compared to that of Hollywood.

His role calls for violent action ranging from pistol whipping to using a sub-machine gun to ward off fire-eaters.

Director Philip Dunne considers the role a remarkable tour de force for Boyd. "Never before," he says, "has there been such a chemistry of good casting: Boyd and Dolores create a perfect mating of male and female actors."

Berman's Special Set for Aug. 14

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 — One of America's most popular young comedians, Shelley Berman, will star in his first one-man television special, "Shelley Berman's Personal Appearance," on the ABC-TV network Tuesday, Aug. 14.

According to Berman, his show will include his observations on TV comedians, his own thoughts on the medical profession and on hotels, and an old favorite of two-colored routines which have made Berman a famous comic.

Author Offers Mixed up Slate of Nobel Winners

The Prize, by Irving Wallace (Simon and Schuster): As a cast of characters for this novel Wallace has assembled the crassest, most mixed-up group of Nobel prize winners that ever troubled a Swedish dream. He imagines a Nobel lineup including: Drs. Claude and Denise Maecanu, French husband-and-wife team who qualify jointly for the chemistry prize and who are industriously unfaithful to each other whenever there is no professional challenge in sight; Dr. John Garrett, who has a paranoid hate for Dr. Carlo Parelli, the Italian with whom he must share the medicine prize; Emily Stralman, beautiful niece of the physics prize winner, who has been so crippled emotionally by concentration camp horrors in Nazi Germany that she is extremely fragile. To these Wallace adds Andrew Craig, the alcoholic literature prize winner. Their high jinks take place against a carefully re-created background of Nobel week, an auspicious annual event in the Swedish calendar. It's hard to see Sweden aren't a warlike people.

The "Yorlitz Age," by Paul Murray Kendall (Hornor): Fifteenth-century England during the Wars of the Roses, has come to be regarded as a dark and bloody land. Kendall of Ohio University, who has done some interesting research on this period, begins to differ. In this book he argues that the 15th century was in fact a period of prosperity and progress during which the wars were only incidental. He says people who talk about "Merrie England" are actually referring to the latter half of the 16th century, whether they know it or not. Kendall advocates imposing evidence to support his theory.

Dinah's Half Century, by J. N. Darling, edited by John M. Henry (Duell, Sloan and Pearce): Darling was probably the most influential American cartoonist of the first half of the 20th century. His drawings, published in the daily newspapers throughout the country, commented astutely on political campaigns. President from Teddy Roosevelt to Eisenhower, dictators from the Kaiser to Stalin, wars, depressions, fairs and national follies. "Dinah" as he signed his cartoons, for the most part relied on gentle spoofing rather than bitter satire to make his points. The cartoons, arranged chronologically, have captions and commentaries by John Henry.

Guadalcanal Recalled as Nightmare

EDITOR'S NOTE — There were many more war veterans in the area of the world than the one road back. History records the war. The memories of the nightmares call the memories of the war. The war is remembered by a Marine who was a Private.

AP Newfeature Writer
The names have faded over 20 years into the mists of history—Guadalcanal, O'ahu, Tanagero, Savo, Guadalcanal. They may not be the names you know, but they were the names of the men who fought the war. They were the men who fought the war. They were the men who fought the war.

DISPLAYING the one that didn't get away is Joe Dolan, Rupert. Dolan caught the 186 pound striped blue marlin while on a fishing trip to Mexico this spring. According to Dolan, it took two hours to land the blue fish using a light outfit. 50 pound test line. The fish was the 11th Marlin he has caught and is by no means the largest. He once caught a 250 pound shark. (Times-News photo)

Professor Explains Odd Death Notice

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Prof. Dudley Stamp explained Friday one of the most unexplained death announcements ever inserted in the obituary columns of the London Times.

The notice, about his wife's death, was: "At sunset on the cliffs of Widemouth in the driving rain of her husband's cigarette, she died." Stamp is an economist, geographer and authority on soil erosion.

About the notice he put in the newspaper he said: "It may sound like a penny proverb, but I had a girl pupil once who was the only I succeeded in teaching her anything was marrying her."

"We had a wonderful life together. Five years ago she had a heart attack, but with the aid of drugs she made a good recovery. But we both knew the end might come anytime."

He added that his wife, a religious woman, often prayed that she would die before her husband, and that it would be quick. "That's just the way it happened," Stamp went on. "Her great ambition was to see her husband married and she was so happy."

Hardy Hunters Don't Overlook Idaho Bighorn Sheep, Mountain Goat Hunts

BY JIM HUMBIRD
BIGHORN AND MOUNTAIN GOAT hunts are more than just a means of obtaining meat and hides. They are a way of life for many hunters in Idaho. The hunts are hard and demanding, but they are also rewarding.

Each trophy hunter takes time to the high country of rugged and broken terrain. And nonsportsmen pay four times as much for bighorn meat as they do for venison. The meat is higher than the services of packers and guides are used, and when bighorns are hunted, the services of packers and guides are used.

Hunters have conflicting ideas on where to find rams and goats. In the high country, lateral ridges break off sharply into the main ridges. Sheep often are bagged in such places. They generally follow the same game trails down to water. The largest bighorn hunting unit is area F, the middle fork of the Salmon river.

Unlike mature rams, which must have at least a three-quarter curl of the horns to be legal rams, bighorns cannot be distinguished easily through binoculars. Hence the regulations provide for either-sex hunting. Bighorns, however, have heavier horns at the base than rams. Experienced trophy hunters carefully "draw" horn diameters before drawing a bead on any of them. Few sheep often are mistaken for goats because they also have horns, but no three-quarter curls.

Contrary to popular thinking, goats often are found along mountain rivulets of water, but always in rough, steep terrain. As with sheep, they, too, can be approached easily from above. Both species tend to be wifolent and wary—whenever anything moves below.

Prohibitively high rams or trophy goat legal: about the same as a big buck deer. Mountaineers hunt with three-quarter or better cur curl about 60 pounds. It's a violation, of course, to leave a ram or goat.

Most of the remaining goat population is in the southern range to the north. Thus the herds are scattered widely over the mountains from the Gannett on the south through the Snake River to the Snake River plains.

Rupert Sportsman Claims Every Man Who Fishes Should Go After Marlin

RUPERT, Aug. 4 — Joe Dolan likes to fish and so do many people here. But when Dolan says he is going after one of the big ones, he means it. The big one is the marlin. Dolan has caught 11 marlins in his life. He has caught 11 marlins in his life. He has caught 11 marlins in his life.

When Dolan says of getting a big one, he means Marlin. With most fishermen the goal is in the producing and Dolan can produce. Hanging on the south wall of Dolan's store is a mounted 186-pound blue striped marlin.

Dolan landed the huge fish during a fishing trip to Mexico in March of this year. The fish hanging on the wall of Dolan's store is a mounted 186-pound blue striped marlin. Dolan landed the huge fish during a fishing trip to Mexico in March of this year.

According to Dolan, a herring about eight to 12 inches long is the bait. The man on the fishing boat actually does the work in preparing the bait. The bait is improperly put together, you're just wasting your time. The backbone of the fish is removed and a large hook is placed inside the fish. The eye of the hook and the mouth of the bait are seen together and the bait is properly prepared.

In four months a great marine division the first was ground down until it was chipped as much as possible. Ninety-five per cent of the men who entered the campaign at the outset were sick, wounded or dead, mostly sick.

In the end there was victory. Fresh troops, marine and army finally arrived to finish what the first had begun. For the Japanese, Guadalcanal was a disaster. The southern prize, which had begun at Pearl Harbor and swept through Singapore, the East Indies, the Philippines and the Solomon Islands toward New Zealand and Australia, was ended.

A FEW SHORT-months-ago, a picture from this same spot would have shown a fenced pasture. Now it shows a lived-in and landscaped block at the far end of the block, someone in the process of getting settled in the middle of the block, and a house under construction at this end. New homes are termed easier to buy than old ones by real estate dealers. Reason: The monthly payments are less and sometimes down payment does not exist. (Times-News photo)

New Homes: They Rise Like Mushrooms While Causing Old Home Sale Problem

Where do the people come from? More than once this question has been asked in Twin Falls when block after block of new homes have been constructed.

DISPLAYING THE HEAVY jacket he received at the Philmont Scout ranch is Donald Thueson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thueson, Jerome. The bright red jacket has a full insignia representing the Philmont trail. Thueson attended the Scout ranch on a scholarship from Sears, Roebuck and company. He was selected by the Snake River Scout council and was the only Scout from Idaho Valley to attend on this scholarship. Several other Scouts will attend leadership courses there later in the summer. (Times-News photo)

Jerome Boy Passes Course In Scout Leadership at Ranch

At Jerome, Aug. 4—Donald Thueson, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thueson, Shoshone, who recently returned from the Philmont Scout ranch at Cimarron, N.M., feels he has a very sticky scout. He was sent there for the junior leadership training course, which was underwritten by Sears Foundation and is the only Scout in the Snake River council to attend the leadership training at the New Mexico ranch. Several other Scouts will attend the leadership courses later this season, according to Scout officials. Before leaving the ranch he was among the youths to receive a pocketknife and sash as a token of being the first group of junior instructors to take and pass the course given. The classes included citizenship, pioneer housekeeping, cooking, Boy Scout organization, campfires, Scout circus and how to lead songs. Thueson passed each class he took and was also qualified to teach other junior leaders. As soon as he teaches a class he will receive an instructor's patch. Thueson described the picturesque ranch that was given to the Scouts by Wade Phillips, part owner of the Phillips 66 company. "One day we climbed Mesa Verde—one of the highest peaks in the state—till we got to the end of the ranch. In the distance we could see purple mountains which was part of the ranch too," Thueson said. The ranch covers an area of 100 acres or 12,000 acres, he explained. On the ranch are 300 head of Hereford cattle; 350 acres of alfalfa; over 8,000 deer and a buffalo herd of 50 or 75. There are also elk, antelope and mountain sheep. Unfortunately, the buffalo was on the other side of the ranch and Thueson didn't see while at the ranch, in addition to taking the classes, they rode horses, cooked their own food, had a conversation overnight hike and one day hike. One day they visited the large house built by Phillips and now used mainly for conventions. The house family also stays there when they return for their seasons by visit. Thueson described the collection of early firearms that are in the house. There is also a breastplate, helmet, sword of a knight and a woodbox that once belonged to Richard the Lion Hearted. Thueson said Phillips traveled all over the world to gather materials for the house. One of the outstanding features is the different types of tile he brought from several countries. In the basement is a trophy room built by the Indians who were friendly with Phillips. Here is an adobe oven built by the Indians. The unique light fixtures were made from wet hides stretched over green wood. When they dried the skins were as tight as drums Thueson said. There is also the head of the largest buffalo ever produced by the herd and trophies from many other animals. Thueson is a life Scout of Troop 38. He attended the ranch with Scouts from Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana. They went by chartered bus that started from Seattle.

Small Boy Enjoys Rooting for Cowboys

Continued from Page 17. A good curve works long concerning baseball, he doesn't care much for umpires. The best weapon in baseball is the homerun. He doesn't care for pitchers' duels; he likes to see them hit—unless the Cowboys are in the field. He believes that...
