TV Service Is Purchased In Ketchum

KETCHUM, Oct. 13 — Royce Adams, native of Ketchum, has purchased the Wood River Television service, which was established by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Aikman in the fall of 1954, and serves the communities of Sun Valley, Ketchum and the Warm Valley area through an under-the-hill radio system some 15 miles long.

Adams, atop Baldy mountain, picks up signals from five cable-tv stations, programs selected from KSL-TV, Salt Lake City. This pickup, over 100 miles, is said to be the longest reception reception by direct cable in the United States.

The exceptional long-distance reception is made possible by the fact that the transmitter at Salt Lake City and the pick-up station atop Baldy mountain are both 9,200 feet above sea level. When the cable system was installed in Ketchum homes in October, 1954, it was the first in the southern Idaho and one of the first in the Western states.

After came to Ketchum with his parents when he was 5 years old. He was graduated from Ketchum high school in 1946. He started work as an ski instructor in Michigan, while still in his teens.

In 1952 he became associated with a machine supply business at Boise City, Mich., which he recently sold. While he still has major business interests in Idaho, he plans to dispose of them soon and he and his wife and two children will return to Ketchum to live.

He has purchased the B. N. Peterson home in the Warm Valley subdivision.

Vance Beckwith, Rupert, Is New President of Area IEA

BURLEY, Oct. 13—Vance Beckwith, Rupert teacher, was elected fourth district president of the Idaho Education Association Friday afternoon at closing sessions of the two-day annual convalesce in Burley. He succeeds Norman Hunt, Burley.

Other new officers include Mrs. Helen Dietz, Buhl vice president, and Mrs. Lola Pietelick, Jerome, treasurer.

Irman Olinger, treasurer and past president of the National Education association, and dean of the college of education at the University of Kentucky, gave the keynote address Friday afternoon.

Only three nations ever have tackled the problem of mass education of their people, he said. They are the United States, Russia and Red China.

"What road we take now depends on how dedicated we are to the proposition of an equal educational opportunity for all children," he declared. "It is either called on the state to undertake to give leadership in the search for ideas and for improvement in education practices."

"I am convinced no progress was made without great ideas. No great ideas ever evolved without great people."

During the Friday morning business session, Jack Jones, Sandpoint, state IEA president, braked as completely false the contention that inflated gambling will solve the state's educational problems.

The official pointed out a salient tax is the only available source of additional revenue in Idaho which he feels will work effectively.

The IEA president also criticized Gov. Robert Smylie, noting that Idaho is 4th in the nation in the amount of money spent per child in education.

"Gambling is dangerous," he declared, referring to the proposal of Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Vernon K. Smith, for legalizing gaming on a local option basis.

Fenceposts Lost

NETCHUM, Oct. 13—Somebody got their fenceposts mixed during the past few weeks, according to Jack Sidley, president of the Wind River Historical society.

The post disappeared from Lake Creek canyon and members of the Historical society believe that if whoever took them, believing that perhaps wood from posts "just grow that way" would replace them, they would be doing a good turn for posterity.

OVERDOSE OF ASPIRIN is not generally thought of in connection with the Red Cross blood bank program, but 3-year-old Bonnie Scarie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Scarie, 208 Elder avenue, recently swallowed some 30 aspirin, an incident which resulted in her blood being completely changed. The local Red Cross chapter furnished four pints of blood for the blood exchange. Little Bonnie is pictured above looking over a bottle of blood which nearly took her life, and four bottles of blood, which saved it. The nearby straggle also shows the importance of keeping medicines out of reach. (Times-News photo)

Red Cross Blood Bank Saved Life of Child Who Took Overdose of Aspirin

Not many people associate the Red Cross blood program with an overdose of aspirin—but the two apparent opposites came together about two months ago when Bonnie Scarie, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Scarie, 208 Elder avenue, swallowed some 30 aspirin tablets.

Because of this incident, two weeks later at Magic Valley Memorial hospital, all of her blood, including about four pints, was completely changed. Besides showing just one more utilization of the Red Cross blood program, little Bonnie's tragedy points out the importance of keeping medicine out of the hands of children.

Larson Terms Demo Talk as "Scurrilous"

The Twin Falls county Republican leader Saturday accused the state Democratic caucus attack on Sen. Len Jordan as "scurrilous" and said the Democrats' knowledge does not justify the attack.

"It is indeed appalling that what must report to this type of political smokescreen to cover up the ineffectiveness of their caucus and not getting Burns elected in not getting Burns elected in the caucus," said the subject of Lloyd Walker's unparliamentary remarks was the caucus public works bill. The purpose of the vitriolic attack was to screen the fact that Burns was doing nothing to help get the Idaho project. Senator Burns was able to hold off to some extent the caucus. He was the only one on all Idaho project.

Walker deliberately distorted the facts when he slammed Senator Jordan's record in working with the senate conference on the Burns project. Walker was quoted as saying that all that Jordan had done was to send a letter to the caucus. Walker does not have the legislative facts even on this statement.

The fact is that Senator Jordan talked to the senate conference personally about the Burns project. Burns' crack and Bruce Eddy projects in the caucus were taken care of by measure. He was told that he was to be taken care of by the caucus. He turned down the measure both in the senate conference and again on the floor of the house that there was no chance to keep Burns' project. Senator Jordan was assured that the senate conference would stand firm on the Burns project. He was told that the senate conference would stand firm on the Burns project. He was told that the senate conference would stand firm on the Burns project.

CLOSE-UP MAP OF TWIN FALLS outlines the 35 precincts of the TWIN FALLS area within the city and the rural areas immediately adjacent to the city. Each precinct has a number and all Twin Falls voters are urged to be registered for the Nov. 6 general election. Registration ends Saturday, Nov. 3. Twin Falls 23 precincts comprise half of the county's voting and registration divisions. Bull has seven precincts, Filer, three, and Kimberly, two.

Absentee Voters Urged to Act Quickly As Election on Nov. 6 Draws Closer

Twin Falls county clerk T. W. Silvers urged Friday afternoon that any persons who will be unable to vote in the Nov. 6 general election contact the county clerk's office and ask for their absentee ballots.

"He stressed that nursing-home patients, elderly persons who are confined to home and persons who will be hospitalized or otherwise unable to vote in person, telephone the office at 733-3433 or apply there in person for the absentee ballot. Application forms, ballots and registration forms can be mailed to voter and then returned by mail to the courthouse for distribution to the proper precinct.

The county clerk pointed out the importance of casting absentee ballots early.

The day before the election and election day, county clerk's office workers and election helpers will be busy distributing ballots, voting equipment and supplies to the county's 30 polling places.

The earlier absentee ballots are cast, the less chance there will be of a ballot becoming accidentally mislaid in the precinct and being sent to the wrong polling place.

On Friday, about 350 absentee ballots had either been cast or sent to voters. Absentee voters so far include servicemen, college students and residents who will be out of town on election day. Persons may vote absentee in the clerk's office if they have the ballot sent to them. Persons may not vote absentee the day of the election, but ballots received from voters who previously were sent ballots will be counted if received the day of the election.

Clerk Silvers mentioned that persons who vote absentee may vote at home and at their own convenience.

Registration for the general election ends at 9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3. Saturday also is the last day persons may vote absentee in person at the county clerk's office or apply for absentee ballots.

Polls will be open Tuesday, Nov. 6, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Voters who have changed precincts since the last election must transfer their registration to their new precinct.

When we came to a river we got wet. This river bed was paved with rocks the size of melons. What a test for new light- and heavy-duty suspension systems this was!

New engines, suspensions, frames and narrower front ends show their stuff on Mexico's tough Baja Run!

With months of proving-ground tests under their belts, why did new Chevrolet trucks take on the rugged Baja (bah'ho) Peninsula? This is the toughest line of trucks Chevrolet ever built. Sending them over the most punishing terrain in North America road totally unlike the fine highways on the Mexican mainland) was double proof of this fact. Frames, engines, suspension systems were subjected to stresses far greater than trucks normally encounter. Swindle on Uniforms Is Reported

Business and professional people in this area who use uniforms were cautioned today by William Grange, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, to be on guard against bogus uniform salesmen and their phony bargain offers.

According to Grange, this field long has been plagued with fraudulent operators who accept deposits on the purchase of uniforms but who never deliver anything. These impostors display impressive looking catalogs and order books and induce sales through "two for one" or other bargain offers. However, since they are not authorized to represent or to take orders for any uniform company they merely pocket the deposits received and hurriedly move on to the next town.

Victims of these petty swindlers sometimes wait for weeks before they realize they have been duped. Thus, they not only lose the money given to such petty thieves, but are inconvenienced by their waiting for uniforms which never arrive.

Grange suggests to local doctors, dentists, nurses, receptionists, beauticians and others using uniforms that they can avoid being victimized in this swindle by avoiding unknown salesmen and by dealing only with uniform salesmen of known reliability. If in doubt, they may call the Chamber of Commerce, which through its membership affiliation with the National Better Business Bureau, may assist them in ascertaining the reliability of any particular sales person or firm.

Grange adds that people in all businesses and services who would either know their representative before paying any money or order merchandise to be paid for on acceptance only, or who solicit for any merchandise or service collect money in advance, there is the possibility that they may not forward the order and the money to the company for the goods ordered.

This has been the case in recent complaints involving a furnace cleaning firm which promised to do service work and collected in advance. Complaints have been reported on a number of occasions in connection with photography outfits and other fly-by-night operations. The Chamber of Commerce will be glad to investigate any items in conjunction with this type of selling, Grange added.

Freedom Is Key, Wendell Parley Hears

WENDELL, Oct. 13 — "Freedom, rather than government control, is the key to a prosperous farm economy in Idaho," Rep. Orval Hansen, Republican congressional nominee, declared here today.

"Agriculture is Idaho's major industry. My opponent has done a disservice to the growth of this industry by supporting both the first and final recent version of the Freeman omnibus farm bill," Hansen opposes Rep. Ralph Harding.

Representative Hansen spent the day campaigning in Elmore, Coalinga and Lincoln counties, and spoke at a luncheon gathering in Wendell. Mrs. Hansen conducted a door-to-door campaigning in Mountain Home and Fairfield and at an afternoon meeting of Republican women in Fairfield.

"Controls on the production of milk, feed grains, potatoes or any other major Idaho crop could put Idaho's farm economy into a deep freeze and force a growing industry into the straight jacket of bureaucratic red tape," Hansen declared.

"Idaho's agriculture is less developed in terms of our potential growth than the agriculture in many other parts of the country. Population growth on the west coast promises expanding markets for our products. The development of our young meat packing and food processing industries is essential to the growth of Idaho's agriculture."

Extensive Camp Improvement Work Under Way in Rock Creek Section

Extensive improvement work on two main camps on Rock creek, south of Twin Falls, is under way and it will be completed before winter or early next spring, it is announced by Ned Millard, Twin Falls district ranger. Sixty-two national foresters, 500 men camp being rehabilitated are at Pettit and Penitensium. At Camp Pettit, Ranger Millard points out, the improvement work will provide seven camping units and two large picnic units. Five of the camping sites will be adapted to trailer use. In addition the camp will provide three two unit outdoor restrooms and four hydrants with cold spring water piped from a spring located far up the side of the hill. A feature of the restrooms will be plastic roofs which permit sunlight to enter and also automatic ventilator which operates at all times. Interiors are painted white and outside surfaces a dark brown. The ranger explained that rehabilitation of a camp means that for all practical purposes it is just like new. All trees cut out of the boxed area, trees not needed are cut down and saved into logs for fire use. New concrete fireplaces are provided and, in most cases, the tables will be permanent. Formerly picnic tables were entirely of wood but the new variety will have bases of concrete with wooden tops. The heavy anchored tables will, the ranger points out, thus remain where it was intended they should be located. At Camp Penitensium new roads and parking areas are being constructed. Single Instructors, One Bachelor In Minority on School Staff Here

BY O.A. (GUS) KELKER
 Times-News Feature Editor

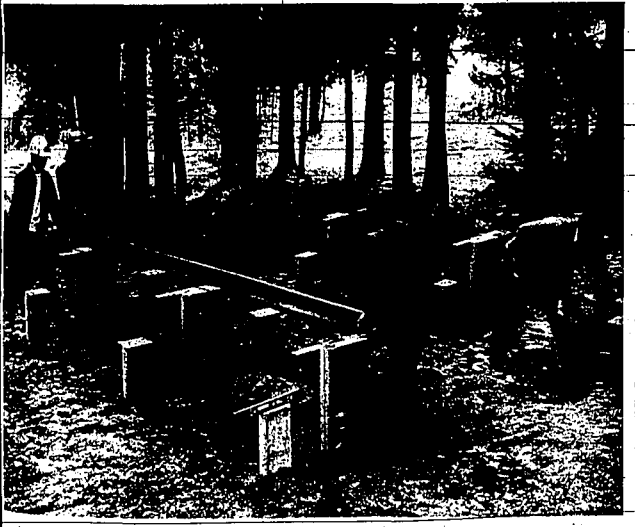

Thirty years ago in Idaho school systems, when a woman teacher married she usually was asked to resign. Today, at the Twin Falls high school, there are only four women teachers out of 27 who do not have the title of "Mrs." ahead of their name. Among the remaining 21 instructors—male—only one is not married. This lone bachelor is Dale Blackham, a former junior high teacher who now teaches American government and world problems for seniors. Why is he a bachelor? He has his mind made up on this subject. He is of the opinion that until a man is set in his career he should not get married. He believes this to be especially true when going to college, expressing the opinion much of the college social life is lost through an early marriage. Blackham is in his fourth year of teaching. He was born in the little town of Deceyville, Utah, about 25 miles west of Logan. He was graduated from Bear River high school at Tremonton and then from Utah State where he majored in history and political science, with mathematics as a minor. After college he taught one year in Montpelier high school, then taught American and world history. He came from there to the local Junior high school for two years and this year was transferred to senior high. It is handsome in his fourth year of teaching. He is a member of a study hall period and shares a house in Twin Falls with John Stevens, football and basketball coach at Kimberly high. They have a unique arrangement as far as cooking is concerned. Stevens cooks breakfast and Blackham cooks supper. Who washes the dishes was not discussed. Typical of the "single" teacher at the school is Ann Jacobs, who is in her first year as a senior English instructor. Why isn't she married? Actually she sees no great rush into matrimony. Right now she is interested in her position in Twin Falls, her first job. A former resident of Lewiston, where she was graduated from high school, Miss Jacobs went one year to the University of (Continued on Page 21)

PERMANENT PICNIC TABLE construction is carried out by members of a 10-man crew now engaged in rehabilitation work on picnic areas up Rock creek south of Twin Falls. Camps being rehabilitated in the present work, slated to last through next year, include Pettit and Penitensium. The work crew is headed by Glen Smith, Halley, foreman, nearest camera. Newsman Died to Save Press Rights

(Editor's note: National Newspaper week being observed Oct. 14-20. There have been many champions of "Freedom of the Press" in the United States. The following concerns Ellish P. Lovejoy, a man who died in the defense of that freedom rather than the business profits of George Town, where whole blocks of stores were burned to the ground to remain as scars of wild fighting last February. Six persons were killed before Japan called British troops to restore order, and save his government from overthrow. The troops are still there. 80 (Continued on Page 21)

Single Doses of Aspirin Started Local Business

Ever had a headache, bought a package of aspirin, taken two or three and stuck the rest in your purse or pocket. Two or three weeks later after the headache came off of the container and the aspirin have expired, mixing with keys, coins and other items you finally toss the container of aspirin away. This happens to countless people any number of times. A good many people have entered drug stores and asked for a single dose aspirin. As a rule they buy the package and the whole procedure starts over again. Some six months ago Robert King of Magic Valley Drug, Twin Falls, decided the simple way to solve this problem was to market single doses of aspirin. Some weeks later after the headache were constantly in demand by the public— aspirin, upset stomach pills and nerve pills. King decided to market these three items in single doses. The idea was to serve the individual on the go, from his own medical cabinet. King began corresponding with a company in New Jersey to see if they could assist him in the marketing of his single dose products. In the meantime the King (Continued on Page 21)

Guiana Could Open Gates for Marxists

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK
 TORONTO, Oct. 13 — Guiana, a small country where the 570,000 people are black, brown, yellow and white, is a hot spot of international intrigue. It is a 160-mile coastal strip, on the north shore of the Atlantic, once a colony of the British and now under the control of the United States. It is a country which, some believe, promises to become a Communist republic, providing a base for communism to enter South America. The Guyanese Prime Minister, Burnham, 44, a dentist and politician, dealt about 100,000 revolvers around this self-styled Marxist. The politics of the situation are further embittered by racial differences. This was an early Dutch colony which the British took over in 1763. Last year British Guiana received internal self-government, with defense and foreign affairs remaining in British hands. Full independence was to follow, but now it appears several years away. The sugar cane workers and rice growers are largely people whose grandfathers came from India as indentured laborers. These East Indians make up half the population, and they follow Jagan. They vote for him not because they understand Marxism, nor because they are poorer than the rest, the annual per capita income of Guianese was $250 in 1960 against an average of $100 in Latin America. They vote for Jagan, because his grandfather, too, was an indentured laborer from India. The East Indians live in little wooden houses, work hard in the canefields, grow a plot of rice, own a cow, and save their money. They also produce children faster than the Negroes. A third or more of the Guianese are descendants of African slaves. When the slaves were freed in 1834, many brought land and formed villages. Today, East Indians run most of the former slave villages. In all but politics these people live together peacefully. A Negro town's middle class strayed, 20 politics they line up behind Jagan and Forbes Burnham. Burnham, 38, a lawyer with London education, helped Jagan form his People's Progressive party but later took his Negro followers into the final People's National Congress. His own followers grew from this bitter split over leadership. Despite success in the business battle of Georgetown, where whole blocks of stores were burned to the ground to remain as scars of wild fighting last February. Six persons were killed before Japan called British troops to restore order, and save his government from overthrow. The troops are still there. 80 (Continued on Page 21)

SINGLE DOSES of various medications can now be purchased by the public thanks to Robert King, Twin Falls druggist. The three most requested single dose tablets are for headaches, upset stomach, and an anti-tension remedy. Some six months ago, King, after corresponding with large drug concerns, decided to order the medications made up in single doses. The packages were then assembled in Twin Falls and distributed throughout southern Idaho. Acceptance has been excellent and requests for the packages are coming in from other areas. BREAKING IN A NEW DOG to replace Jupiter, who was a world champion dog caddy in Magic Valley, is Paul Bovey, Jerome. The dog, Hercules, is a coal black pup weighing 97 pounds and is a French Weimaraner. When full grown he will weigh about 150 pounds. The pup is now eight months old.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Paul Bovey, JEROME, is breaking in a new dog, Hercules, to take Jupiter's place. Jupiter, a cross between an Old English sheepdog and a Newfoundland, was well known on golf courses in Magic Valley. He was the world champion dog caddy and Bovey proudly displays clippings from all over the world about the dog. The clippings are from places as far as Calif., Egypt, and Havana. Bovey is now president of the national association of dog caddy owners. Jupiter was killed when struck by a car last winter at GAREY. Bovey already had retired him and was looking for a new dog.

The new pup, coal black and weighing 97 pounds, is a pure-bred Weimaraner. He is now 8 months old. When Bovey introduces him to the cart it was similar to breaking a horse. When 97 pounds of dog caddy is broken in, it is difficult for a master, even as large as Bovey to assert himself. Hercules did finally submit to the collar and pulled the cart for a few feet. Bovey plans to work with him for short periods of time until next spring when he should be ready to pull the cart.

Hercules just returned from "dog college" at Golden Knoll in Mountain Home. The pup didn't like the idea of submitting to a collar and pulling a golf cart, but Bovey plans to work with him for short periods of time until next spring when he should be ready to pull the cart. (Times-News photo)

Turnover in Gem Teachers Is Scored
HAGERMAN, Oct. 13 — Superintendent George Carnie reported on the turnover in the teaching staff in Idaho at the school board meeting this week, using as his basis for information, a recent edition of the Idaho Education News.

Carnie stated that when school started this fall, Idaho school superintendents showed a turnover of 1,273 teachers out of last year's total staff of 6,223 persons. This is an 18 per cent turnover or nearly one out of every five teachers in the state.

In 1961-62 Idaho's turnover among teachers was 10.5 per cent or second highest in the nation. Now, Idaho may have the dubious honor of moving into first place among the states in turnover of teachers. Carnie stated, as the national average is only 8.2 per cent.

Idaho is fifth in the nation in the amount spent per child; 37th in teacher salaries; 48th in the per cent of increase in the amount spent per child in the last 10 years. Last year 44 un-certified teachers taught in Idaho and there were 1,648 provisional certificates used.

Superintendents were plagued with recruitment all autumn long, and they couldn't pay enough money to hire new teachers, Carnie noted. If it were not for the so-called "captive" teachers in the communities of Idaho, school could not have opened this fall, he declared.

Carnie said Idaho has a real problem when in position out of every five changes, something is wrong. Why do the teachers leave? Two Idaho State college surveys prove it is low salaries, poor working conditions and a lack of money. These Idaho State college surveys were taken all come from or are the result of a lack of money. One Bachelor, Four Single Teachers Overshadowed by Married Instructors

Oregon and then entered the University of Idaho and was graduated after studying in English and social studies.

She is teaching because she wanted to. She recalls that all through high school she had that goal in mind.

In Twin Falls she lives in a "bedroom flat" apartment where she cooks two meals a day. She eats lunch at school.

Actually she is only about five years older than her average student. One student, a girl who stayed out of school several years but who is now attending, is only a year younger than Miss Jacobs.

Does she like Twin Falls? "Lovers it," she says. And as for sports and other school activities, she relates she is more interested in them now than when she was in high school and college.

She instructs five senior classes a day totaling around 140 students.

Typical of the married women teachers is Mrs. J. Owen (Mrs.) Ellis who handles beginning French at both the junior and senior high schools.

She has returned to fulltime teaching because she has few home duties, her daughter, Eileen, now being a student at the College of Idaho.

Many other women return to fulltime instructing after raising a family.

In the case of Mrs. Ellis, she has more than 20 years' experience including the position of county superintendent of schools in Lemhi county for six years and principal for two years at a grade school at Salmon. She also has taught in Boise junior high school and has been in the local system for 10 years.

She received her degree in English and French from the College of Idaho.

She lives with her husband, fish and wildlife district supervisor of 11 Idaho counties, at 1628 Poplar avenue.

George Staudacher, high school principal, expresses a high degree of satisfaction with the school "family."

"Every instructor is qualified for the job he or she holds," he said.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Lifelong Kimberly Resident Still Is Satisfied With Small-Town Activities

KIMBERLY, Oct. 13—Scores, perhaps hundreds of people cannot say they have resided in the same town 40 or more than 41 years.

Other hundreds cannot claim they have resided in the same town all their life.

A. K. (Ooch) Dodds can make such a claim and can add to it every day because he has no intention of leaving Kimberly. It isn't that he hasn't had the opportunities but it all boils down to the fact he likes it here.

This love of community all started Feb. 23, 1921, when he was born, not at the hospital in Twin Falls, but in the home of his parents in Kimberly.

And after some 41 years in the same community he has only one comment or suggestion, as to improvement:

"We could stand some more paved streets in town."

Dodds, who picked up the nickname of Ooch in his high school days, attended Kimberly grade school and was graduated from the local high school in 1939.

The fact that in high school he had diversified abilities he borrows out in a record which shows participation in football and drama at the same time. The high school sponsored a tennis team at that time and he was on that unit.

After high school graduation he entered the University of Idaho and was graduated in four years majoring in business administration. Then came World War II.

He volunteered for air force duty in March, 1942, and was selected for pilot training. He took pre-flight at Chanute Army Airfield at Ontario and basic at Lancaster, both in California. He switched to Douglas, Ariz., for advanced and received his wings and commission as a second lieutenant.

He was assigned to B-24 bombers training at Pueblo, Colo., and then to the seventh air force in the central Pacific.

It was there that he received an ear injury which ended his flying days and he was transferred to the 40th hospital division as an air adviser for the Philippines. After this invasion he was transferred to the staff of General Spatz and rode out the war in that position.

He was discharged in January, 1946, and returned to Kimberly with his wife. He had married Amy Lou Knapp, a University of Idaho sweetheart, on the day he received his wings.

After his discharge he operated Dodds Cigar store in this community in cooperation with a brother, Wiley, and his father, Dr. W. Dodds. This association continued until 1952 when the business was sold, the elder Dodds retired. Wiley went to the advertising department of the Idaho News, and he opened the Dodds Insurance agency. This agency has been recognized by the Idaho News, and he opened the Dodds Insurance agency. This agency has been recognized by the Idaho News, and he opened the Dodds Insurance agency.

Dodds has definite reasons for remaining in a small community like Kimberly. He is convinced it is the best place to raise a family and also that life here is not so hectic as in a larger community. Then, too, he likes rural areas and being here puts him right next door to what he likes.

Being a young man has its advantages, one of which is that he is only about 10 or 15 years younger than the town in which he lives. He believes a young town affords the opportunity for doing things communally.

Pill Selling Problem Led To Business

The anti-tension pill became so successful that King is now marketing it in multi-capsule doses.

The new product began doing well in Magic Valley and within a short period of time demand forced them to move out of the valley and into other areas.

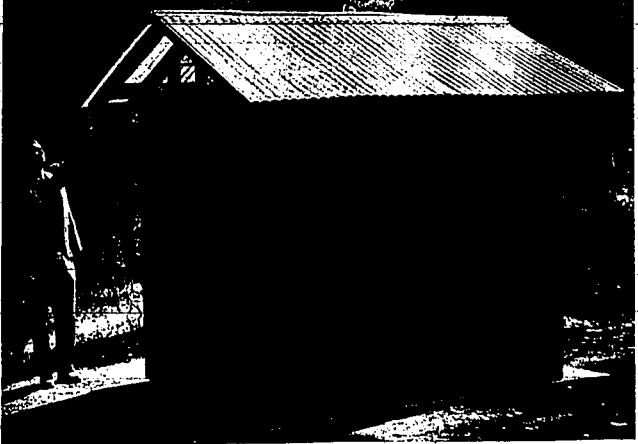

At the present time the three items are being sold in other states and have been doing well in some parts of California. Little old King realize those first few packages would grow into marketable out-of-state product. Keeping present success in mind, King would like to see them marketed on a regional or perhaps a national basis.

The packaging of the present items is done by the New Jersey firm and the assembly and distribution of the product is handled in Twin Falls by King Pharmaceuticals. The company has an assembly plant in Twin Falls. It is hoped that when cost factors can be overcome, the entire process can be done in Twin Falls. Plans are under way to undertake new moves when market conditions permit.

"Actually, it is strange that no one else thought of marketing pills as good as done in Twin Falls," King says.

Extensive Improvement Work Starts On Several Rock Creek Camp Sections

Constructed together with camp areas, four will be available for trailer use and in addition there will be the four picnic areas.

The district ranger points out that the work is being carried on under the work project known as "operation outdoors."

"It is an improvement project to meet the growing demand for outdoor recreation," he said.

Popularity of the Rock creek area is related as records show in the Sawtooth area above Gidna summit. Usage is especially heavy on week-ends and holidays. Because of availability, many people also use the area for evening outings.

The improvement crew is headquartered at the Magic mountain tent and live in trailers and quarters. They are given meals in the old lodge. They are expected to remain in the area until the snow flies or somewhere around Nov. 1, Millard said.

If time permits late this fall or next spring, there will be some rehabilitation work done at Porcupine springs camp. The popularity of the Harrington rock camp was recorded in 1933, records show.

Ranger Millard said that a 16-day limit will be placed on use

France's De Gaulle Faces Showdown With Politicians in Coming Election

By DAVID MASON
 PARIS, Oct. 13.—President Charles de Gaulle's long period of crisis, finds himself squarely in the middle of another one.
 The World War II Free French leader who returned to power to quell the strife over Algeria has said that the time has come when promises to be an all-out joust with old-line politicians.
 At this point no serious observer is willing to predict the outcome, but most everyone agrees that the stakes are high, and marked by the coming show-down.
 French voters of rebellion were quenched in Algeria, De Gaulle, 71, took a daring initiative in his long-simmering dispute with France's politicians.
 "On the surface the issue seems minor. Should Frenchmen be able to elect their president by popular vote, or should the small electoral college system continue?"
 De Gaulle decided to put the question to the people in a referendum.
 Since the matter involves a revision of the constitution, most politicians and legal experts argued that the national assembly should decide. They said this is settled out clearly in the constitution.
 The national assembly registers no opposition to De Gaulle's plan by ousting his cabinet. De Gaulle sailed back to announce the national assembly. That will precipitate new elections.
 French voters will file to the polls three times—Oct. 17 to give their verdict on the presidential election referendum and twice more in November in two rounds of legislative elections.
 When the count is on these tests at the polls, it should be clear whether he determined De Gaulle has won or lost. If the figures go against him, De Gaulle has said, he will walk out.
 Many observers expect that De Gaulle will get a majority in the election referendum. The first reaction of the man in the street is "mouh out" (but yes—certainly).
 But the majority may be thin and abatingly neutral. The issue has been deeply troubled by questions going to the heart of modern-day French political life.
 Furthermore, now that the Algerian conflict has been ended, De Gaulle is perhaps no longer the country's independent man.
 Some of De Gaulle's opponents admit it is a good idea to elect the president directly. They charge that he deliberately vitiated the constitution in order to keep the country in a state of emergency for his own purposes. Parliament's place in running the country was already sharply trimmed.
 Persons close to De Gaulle say he faces a showdown in an attempt to reach the cumbersome and hickering political class in France.

Road Traffic Continues High; Slight Drop Noted in Forest Campground Use

Highway traffic through the Sawtooth forest area in Sawtooth valley over Galena summit was about the same as the 1951 season but campground visits showed a drop.
 This was revealed in a report compiled by Jack J. Lavina, Sawtooth forest recreation staff officer, and Harry C. Ames, staff engineer.
 Although not detailed in the report, officials are of the opinion that the situation remains about the same but more travelers on highway 92 were making the long jump to Beslike and the fair and did not pause a day or two in the Sawtooth area as normally would have been the case.
 The report shows that the Redfish lake road, for instance, carried about the same number of cars in both summer seasons (1951 and 1952) but that fewer people camped in the area or brought trailers in.
 While traffic up in July and August was up to compensate for the bad start.
 In both years it was estimated that some 61,000 visits were made to the lake. The visit total does not include forest or private employees of the section who come and go during the entire season. These people are not counted in the total cars using the Redfish lake road averaged 209 a day during the past summer season.
 Part of the drop in use was brought about by a cold June. While traffic up in July and August was up to compensate for the bad start.

June totals were much less, being only 40,775 in 1952.
 Of the number of persons visiting the area, the percentage staying for one or more days was less last summer.
 The 1952 summer season is expected to be a good one for visits to the area. It is getting ready for this influx improvement work is under way on many campgrounds at the present time, the two site-plans-out-out.
 Work is under way, for instance, at the new Mt. Heyburn camp on Redfish lake. This includes parking spaces for trailers and tents and also boat landings facilities. It will be ready for use in the 1953 season.
 Heavy area use is going on at the present time at Mt. Heyburn road in the forest leads road.

Elijah P. Lovejoy Gave Life While Defending Newspaper 125 Years Ago

 They accused Lovejoy of trespassing on the abolition newspaper, Jefferson City. They supported the charge with a special resolution.
 The right of free discussion and freedom of speech is unfettered and sacred. It is not made by a conventional reservation made by the people in their capacity as a citizen. It is the moral right on the part of the abolitionists to freely discuss the question.
 Lovejoy's troubles were only beginning.
 The "Lovesjoy" moved to Alton, Mo. of his printing press were destroyed. (Once he had destroyed while he was in St. Louis.) The fourth press was shipped by river across to Alton from Cincinnati.
 On the night of Nov. 6, 1837, Lovejoy and friends in the press of the Mayor John M. Kram moved the press from the boat to a warehouse owned by William S. Gillman.
 About 60 armed men stationed themselves on different floors of the building.
 However, the next evening, a mob of about 100 men, led by Capt. Long, came to destroy the press. Nineteen men volunteered to stay with Gillman and Lovejoy.
 An hour passed before the mob decided to gather near Joseph Long, who had seen some military service, was elected captain of the Lovejoy force.
 Representatives of the mob, Edward Keating, a lawyer, and Henry West, were given permission to enter the warehouse for a parley. They quickly gave their terms.
 "Unless the press was given up to the gentlemen outside the building, the building would be destroyed by fire."
 Their demands were refused.
 Capt. Long ordered the mob to one should shoot into the mob without his order.
 The crowd then attempted to force entry into the building but were driven back by an order from Capt. Long to one of the men to fire in return for a shot that entered the building but did no harm.
 "The returned shot killed a man named Bishop, one of the mob, and wounded several others. The returned reinforced by drunken militia who shouted threats that they would "fire the building and shoot every damned abolitionist who stood before them." Capt. Long called for volunteers to make a sortie to prevent his escape.
 Major John M. Kram attempted to disperse the crowd without success. Soon attempts were made to fire the building. A ladder placed by a volunteer reached the roof.
 Capt. Long called for volunteers to make a sortie to prevent his escape.
 Mrs. Ruff, a Royal Weller and Elijah P. Lovejoy stepped forward. As they entered from the building into the brilliant moonlight shot was fired from behind a shelter.
 Capt. Long called for volunteers to make a sortie to prevent his escape. Others wounded Ruff and Weller; Lovejoy had strength to run back

Hitchcock Busy With Movies, Television

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15 (AP)—Any television or movie director set where Alfred Hitchcock is working is the quietest, best organized and smoothly run in the film studio.

Invariably Hitchcock, looking like an aging cherub in a business suit, moves like a glacier that the man who has the reins firmly in his gentle grasp.

This season, the famed director is deeply involved in his seventh year of similar out-of-weekly television program, a job just twice as large as it has been during previous six years. The series has been expanded to a full hour and moved back after two seasons with NBC, to its original home at CBS.

All this has made many changes necessary, including a radical departure from the show's old habit of building one idea up to a point for a surprise—or snapper—climax.

On Tuesday day Hitchcock was working as an actor, filming one after another, a half-dozen introductions to the show or the commercials. This segment of program has its own special crew—a special director and a writer who deals up the rare situations and sets down the droveries which are Hitchcock's trademark.

Hitchcock can take direction as well as give it. He obeyed all suggestions, was ready when the lights were set, and was familiar with the lines he read calmly set where a prompter set directly over the camera's eye. He was patient when anything went wrong, and scurried away when he was not needed.

For one with so many irons in the fire, Hitchcock gives the impression of a man without a care or responsibility in the world. But the master of the mystery has his secret; careful preparation.

"My wife and I live alone," he explains. "I'm not a good mixer, and our home life is very simple. I spend a lot of time reading and studying."

While he is working on a movie and a television series "Hitch" is constantly on the hunt for new properties.

Hitchcock is the son of a prosperous London poultry dealer and studied art and engineering at the University of London. His first job was in the art department of a London advertising agency but he soon moved to the job of "title writer" for a motion picture company.

HITCH DOES HOMEWORK far into the night, working over his expanded scripts for his twice-as-long new series, "The Alfred Hitchcock hour." He will direct a few of the programs, act as host in each episode and keep an eye on everything from script selected to the sound effects, but his principal occupation is still the direction of motion pictures. Besides being lengthened by half an hour, his show has moved back to its original home at CBS, after two seasons with NBC.

George Doesn't Join Exodus to Vegas for Shows

BY DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15 (AP)—Comic George Cobelet isn't joining the entertainers' exodus to the big money in Las Vegas; not any more.

"So you play Vegas," Lonesome George explained.

"A couple decides they want to see a show. The wife wants to see Cobelet. The husband wants to see the girls in the Idaho show across the street.

"So they go to the dinner show. They get in at 8:30 and no one will serve them. He's mad already. Then the scotch runs out and there's still 30 minutes left to the show.

"Try to get a laugh out of that peep."

Cobelet concedes any time. "Cobelet took to the concert circuit last summer.

"You have two hours, without interruption.

"And you get the best kind of audience. They came to see you. Not to eat or to drink. And they're not looking for the show girls. There aren't any glasses rattling."

Maureen O'Hara, 39, Is Mother of 20 1/2 Children

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15 (AP)—Maureen O'Hara, the screen's most successful movie star, was talking in her soft Irish brogue about motherhood.

"A housewife stopped me the other day and said, 'How can I get to sleep with you?' My husband adores you. Why do you have to be such a glamorous mother?"

"So I asked how many children she had. Four, she told me. And I said to her, 'Why, isn't that wonderful. It shows how much your husband must love you.'"

At 39, the onetime Irish colleen—who looks 25—has become an expert on motherhood.

She's had 20 1/2 screen children and three grandchildren. One was adopted. A couple died at birth. She's even had twins.

But all but one (15-year-old daughter, Bronwyn Bridget) confirmed their hijinks to the screen.

Bronwyn is her daughter by her divorcee manager; to the late producer Will Price.

The others were the offspring of cinematic marriages with such famous husbands as Rex Harrison, John Wayne, Robert Young, Tyrone Power, Fred MacMurray, James Stewart and Henry Fonda.

The half child?

"Hayley Mills. She played twins in 'Parent Trap.'"

All this motherhood has given a new resurgence to Maureen's career, usually confined in early days to the hoop-skirted heroine in such swashbucklers as "Spanish Main."

And it hasn't lessened the attentions of her steady beau, Mexican City attorney Enrique Pique. She's been a mother in her last five films. In her latest, "The Mounties," with Henry Fonda, they're parents of nine.

Harold Lloyd Film Features "World of Comedy," and Laughs

Full TV SCHEDULES Oct. 15 to Oct. 21

NO PLACE TO GO? Not down, Harold Lloyd is in a rather pretentious posture in this scene from "Harold Lloyd's World of Comedy," now showing at the Orpheum theater. The film was compiled from eight of Lloyd's all-time great films, including "The Freshman," "Professor Beware," the famous clock sequence from "Safety Last," and this climbing up the building sequence from "Feet First." One of the great comedies of all time, Lloyd retained the rights to the majority of his more successful films, and they have not been seen during the past two decades. Sound, narration and a musical score have been added to the assembled sequences. Also playing at the Orpheum will be a highly-praised documentary, "Behind the Great Wall," in color.

Nine side-splitting sequences from eight of Harold Lloyd's most famous films are featured in a recent collection of episodes compiled by the many, straw-hatted comic. The assembled film clips, titled "Harold Lloyd's World of Comedy," are now showing at the Orpheum theater.

The film, which was presented by special invitation at the Cannes film festival and won unanimous cheers from the festival-goers, covers most of Harold Lloyd's "golden era of comedy," and includes the famous, flock sequence from "Safety Last" (1923), the football sequence from "The Freshman," (1925), and the building climbing episode from "Feet First," (1926).

Other highlights of the collection are the Mexican revolution episode from "Why Worry?" (1929), the new car and turkey sequence from "Hot Water," (1924), and several prime episodes from "Chin Chin" (1924) and "Professor Beware," (1924).

One of the great movie comics of all time, Lloyd, who was the Jerry Lewis of the 1920's, retained the rights to a majority of his more successful films (those which were responsible for making an international star of their screwball hero) and, consequently, they have not been seen via any commercial medium during the past two decades. Now, with sound, narration and a musical score added, one can at least view excerpts of the same films which their parents went wild over 40 years ago.

When Lloyd finally decided to make use of his films, he created an original format which produced a new motion picture, rather than a mere update release. The format, using collections of high-light episodes from outstanding silent films, has proved popular with the public in previous undertakings. Including "The In Comedy was King," and "Days of Thrill and Laughter."

In producing and editing the new collection, Lloyd's objective was to illustrate the ingredients of great comedy while maintaining a continuity in the life and times of a likable youth who eventually won out despite the fact that the dice were heavily loaded against him. Although the horn-rimmed image Lloyd created remained constant from picture to picture, in each one a change of tempo in plot and

Zanuck Commands Troops In 'Longest Day' Invasion

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)— Cecil B. De Mille once boasted that only two men had ever parried the Red Sea and he was one of them. Now Darryl Zanuck can claim to be one of two men in history who commanded a mass invasion of Normandy. His achievement, recorded in the new film "The Longest Day," is an impressive one.

This is the sort of thing that Zanuck does best. He is never happier nor more successful than when he is in command of the troops. He is a commander—and a cutter. His great films—"12 O'Clock High," "All About Eve," "Gentlemen's Agreement"—were all masterfully edited. So is "The Longest Day." It moves swiftly from scenes of mass movement and to a vignette of two soldiers in a hushed backwash of battle, from the grateful allied paratrooper commands to the frenetic posts of German generals.

The miracle of the film's organization is that there is no trace of that cliché, the stenographic narrator. Nor is there any condescension to language. The Germans, French, English and Americans speak their own tongues. The film has its defects. Some of the American paratroopers have the ring of cheap brass. There is one absurdity; a glider planeload of British commandos crash-lands next to a bridge and the German sentries hear nothing. Otherwise "The Longest Day" is about the ultimate in film warfare. A one-take scene taken from a helicopter of a French commando advance along a Normandy quay may well be the greatest single piece of war action ever filmed.

"HERA" IS FILMED
NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Lou Jacobi, co-star of the Broadway comedy hit "Come Blow Your Horn," has been named by Billy Wilder for a key role in the motion picture version of "The Longest Day."

T.F. High School Key Club Finishes Painting, Numbering Parking Places

There was probably as much paint ending up on the painter as the curb but members of the High School Key club in Twin Falls got the job done. The job in question was painting and numbering of the curb in front of the school. The parking area curbs were painted in black. No parking areas were painted red.

many carried on by Key club members. Sponsored by the local Kiwanis club, the unit is the only service club in the school. Under school rules faculty members are given spaces nearest the front entrance and these are now numbered. Questioned as to how the numbers would be assigned to the various instructions, Joe McCollum, club president, said: "That will have to be up to the teachers. We have painted the curbs and the numbers are in but we are not going to get into any argument as to what teacher parks where." Membership into the club by invitation, patterned after the sponsoring Kiwanis club. In addition to the president, members are Charles Brown, lieutenant governor; Kay McCallum, secretary; Chips Barlow, treasurer; Dave Hoffman, senior

Guiana Could Open Gates For Marxists

 ...the racial problem. So is a business slump.
 The government runs mainly sugar and bauxite, on imports of goods. Protest over a budget that increased taxes on consumer goods and imposed a compulsory "savings levy" on salaries sparked the rioting.
 "Now financial trouble looms for the Jagan government. Lack of confidence has halted business investments. Imports have fallen sharply—with a loss of customs receipts. Economists say millions of dollars have been augmented out of the country. The budget deficit is estimated at several million dollars.
 Jagan's enemies consider the premier and his party so enamored with the revolution that his government would spin into the Soviet orbit once it achieved independence.
 Jagan denies this, promising a "democratic, representative government, neutralist in foreign relations."
 His American wife, who was in Chicago in student days, visited Cuba last year. Peiping and Moscow this year. Both Cheddi and Janet profess admiration for Fidel Castro.
 The opposition is insisting on a new election in proportion to the votes it receives. Opposition leader Burnham says Peter LeFleur, wealthy anti-Communist brewer of Portuguese descent, think that would give their forces enough seats to outnumber Jagan's party.

Former Cabinet Official Faces Hard Test in New England Senatorial Race

BY GEORGE BAZAN
 NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13 (AP)—Abraham Ribicoff's race against Congressman Frank Soley-Brown, Jr. for a U.S. senate seat is viewed by many as a test of the new frontier in the Connecticut elections Nov. 6.
 Democrat Ribicoff resigned as secretary of health, education and welfare to make the senate race.
 He is running as an administration supporter, and, in particular, as a champion of Kennedy's controversial social security medical care program.
 Both Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower both sides.

 Soley-Brown, a six-term congressman, says he will counter Ribicoff's "on-and-off" record. Soley-Brown is a self-declared liberal Republican who is but much of his campaign on his year "Connecticut first" occupational record.
 With less than a month to go the Democrats are favored with a close election. But there are many important issues.
 The number of unaffiliated voters (more than 400,000) is better-than-you" campaign on than either party's total.
