Businessmen Predict Dip For Economy

PROT SPRING, Va., Oct. 19—A majority of business and industry executives predicted today that there would be a slight dip in the national economy in the first half of 1953. The prediction, which differed from forecasts made by other economists, was made public by Frederick R. Kappel, board chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank's business group, at the opening session of the business council. The council, made up of representatives of national top corporation officials, began a three-day work and play session here today.

Kappel said most of the country's technical consultants expect economic activity to peak out by year-end and turn down in the first quarter of 1953. Rain, Cooler Weather Ends Fire Season

SHOSHONE, Oct. 19 — Cool temperatures and precipitation have brought to a virtual end the 1962 fire season for the Shoshone district of the bureau of land management, according to James Gabetts, district fire control officer.

North Idaho lookout station and Kimama Bend lookout station both have closed and all of the fire crews with the exception of two men were terminated last week.

"As expected," Gabetts said, "this year proved to be a season of high fire occurrence due to the abnormal amount of fuel throughout the district. The relatively cool summer temperatures, however, enabled crews to control most of the fires before they became large," he added.

Only two fires were of major size, a 2,500-acre blaze which occurred on June 29 and an 8,100-acre fire on Aug. 2. Both of these fires, along with lightning, burned in the range area northeast of Richfield.

One hundred and ten fires were reported during the season. Of that number 14 were false alarms. Of the actual fires there were suppressed, 74 were caused by lightning and 74 were man-caused.

Most of the man-caused fires were started through negligence along the major highways throughout the district and by landowners who failed to obtain burning permits prior to burning brush or weeds on their private lands, Gabetts said.

"However, the district would like to thank the persons, approximately 100 of them," Gabetts said, "who obtained burning permits prior to burning brush or weeds on their private lands that were adjacent to public domain. These people obtained legal burning permits in accordance with state law. In many cases, where the burning was to be done in hazardous areas, BLM personnel assisted the applicant in working out a safe burning plan. Only one fire covered by such permit escaped through no fault of the permittee."

Although lightning accounted for only 23 per cent of the total fires, these fires were usually larger and more difficult to control, he added.

This was because they usually occurred in the more remote and inaccessible areas. Lightning fires accounted for 43,400 acres or 68 per cent of the total acres burned.

American Republic Tailored* Protection

LEARN THE FACTS ABOUT The Secret of Buying Hospital Insurance that PAYS

DOCTOR BILLS often are a big part of the expense connected with a sickness or accident. An American Republic Plan can help pay these bills for you in time of need.

Today, eight out of ten families have some kind of hospital, surgical or medical insurance. But the need for this type of protection is greater than ever. Hospital and medical care costs have been going up nearly 1% each month since 1950. If you present policy is two years old or older, and was adequate when you bought it, the chances are good that you need more coverage right now.

On its record of paying claims—the most important way to judge any insurance company—American Republic ranks Number One among the "Top 40" firms in its field. The few minutes it takes you to learn about American Republic "Tailored" Protection may be worth hundreds of dollars to you—at a time when you may need every cent you can lay your hands on!

Even if you already have hospitalization insurance, American Republic Tailored Protection can plan where your present coverage leaves off. And it pays fully stated benefits in addition to any amounts you may collect from any other health insurance policy you may now have.

American Republic Representatives are now contacting residents of this community to explain American Republic Tailored Protection. One of these representatives will call on you soon. Watch for him.

FREE FILM SHOWING IN YOUR OWN HOME Fully-qualified, specially-trained American Republic Representatives are pledged to show an educational and informative color film to all residents of this county. The American Republic Tailored Protection Plans will be fully explained and will be available to all who qualify.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—The base and the brain of politicians—the American press—is now under investigation for the first time in its history by the subcommittee of the house judiciary committee.

Rep. Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, chairman of the Judiciary committee and sponsor of the inquiry, says there will be no effort to force any kind of "freedom of the press."

"MULTITUDE OF TONGUES"—Although denying any thought of infringing on the freedom of the press, Celler adds a "but" to this demurrer.

The press, said Judge, comprises one of the most powerful and diverse instruments of the dissemination of news from many different faces and colors as it appears in the various media.

The governing phrases, as Celler emphasizes, are "freedom of the press," "press," and "gathered out of a multitude of tongues."

SEES FEDERAL PROMISE It would be strange indeed if the Congress for freedom of the press which prompted adoption of the first amendment should be read as a command that the government was to protect that freedom.

That amendment reads on the assumption that the widest possible dissemination of information from diverse and antagonistic sources is essential to the welfare of the public.

And Celler refers to the conclusion that they authorized federal intervention in this field. Here is his analysis of the personal factor is crucial the refers to the personal gathering and editing of news.

ITS PLAN UNREVEALED—Since congressional investigations are justified only as a basis for possible legislation, Capitol Hill has decided that its plan for investigation is in mind, if any, to solve this problem.

Would he, for instance, empower the federal agencies to investigate and to report to the president on the news-gathering activity of any newspaper.

To preserve "dissemination of news from diverse and antagonistic sources," would he "empower" the Federal Bureau of Investigation to keep them in business? Or, as it may seem, federal funds for this purpose were proposed in the bill.

VIIY MERRIGNS' Newspaper editors and business managers will testify before the committee that there is no mystery behind newspaper mergers and the economic picture, weekly news magazine, etc., have contributed.

What he means is not "moderate" but "moderation" is not to spend too much on advertising and publishing of news, even where there is a single ownership in a community.

What you consider a "moderate" deficit for federal spending in excess of federal revenues this year, according to the U.S. treasury department, is the deficit between $4 and $5 billion dollars.

What he means is not "moderate" but "moderation" is not to spend too much on advertising and publishing of news, even where there is a single ownership in a community.

It operates within certain limits. The first is not to get caught, the second is that the national employment line never admits his existence, and if faced with the choice of immediate or gradual change him.

When in a court in Karlsruhe, Germany, the defendant, who was accused of espionage, recounted his exploits as proudly as a movie screen.

He described a "poison gun" with which he first killed a German officer and then a Ukrainian elite leader by firing cranial pellets into their brains.

"This was cloak-and-dagger stuff with a vengeance but it was a hell of a lot of fun keeping with the traditional policy of the spy who would take like a well-trained pellet rather than like a captured.

"D-Day" on Political Front

other day—1964—agreed with Harlan and reversed the ruling of 1961.

The first chipping away at the 1960 decision came in 1961 in the decision which for some odd reason had been generally ignored in books on the court.

That year the court knocked out the law school for Negroes, separating white and Negro residential districts because, the court said, it denied Negroes the equal protection guaranteed by the 14th amendment of 1868.

But this didn't result in an end of segregation. The jolt began in 1958 when Missouri, which had rejected the Negro school, refused to let a Negro enter the state's white law school.

The court finally faced the question in 1961 when, in one of the quietest but most important of the United States Supreme Court decisions of 1961, it ruled that separate but equal facilities for Negroes in a Negro school district were unconstitutional.

Other decisions of this nature followed. COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UPI)—The average citizen gets out of the new law last week, the most that will be passed in a session of Congress.

What came out was a series of highly technical amendments to the tax code.

The changes include a 10 percent increase in the tax on dividends received by shareholders.

As originally requested by President Kennedy last year, the tax on dividends will be 10 percent for the first year, 20 percent for the second year, and 25 percent for the third year.

These figures do not take into account the increased taxes which treasury expects to collect from the increased taxes on dividends.

For average citizens filling in important tax returns, there are some of the new law's more important effects:

Expense account deductions of salaried executives for business entertainment expenses were tightened a little.

They will have to pay taxes on foreign "fringe benefits" for more than $100,000.

Thereafter they must pay taxes on the full amount. And income tax on foreign income for foreign lodges will be deductible only to the extent that they are used in America for the first time.

After Hoover What?

The name of J. Edgar Hoover has become synonymous with law and order. The director of the federal bureau of investigation also has been taken for granted by the American people.

Because of his long service he has been eligible for retirement for several years. Regulations governing federal employees specify that retirement is mandatory at the age of 70. Presumably, the rule applies to Mr. Hoover.

Down through the years, the FBI has become an agency in the federal government virtually free of politics. It's an enviable status directly attributable to Mr. Hoover, a bachelor of whom it has been said, "He married the FBI."

Although most citizens have never had a thought of a successor to Mr. Hoover, the matter has passed through the mind in one way or another for the day when he will step down, the FBI has 12 assistant or associate directors, any one of whom presumably could step up into the leader's job.

The value of having an FBI director who is not concerned with political maneuvering has been demonstrated frequently. It was shown all over again earlier this month when Mr. Hoover was keynote speaker for a five-day conference of the American Legion in Las Vegas.

Mr. Hoover gave a hard-hitting talk against his two greatest enemies—crime and communism—that may not have been possible for some politician more concerned with political maneuvering.

He declared, "Crime and subversion are the most formidable problems in the United States today because, and only because, there is a dangerous flaw in our nation's moral armor."

"What has happened to the time-honored precepts of hard work and fair play which influenced the American people in the first place? Where is the faith in God which fortified us through our past trials? Have our national pride, our moral conscience, our sensitivity to filth and degradation grown so weak that they no longer react to attacks upon our proud heritage of freedom?"

Later, Mr. Hoover declared, "Crime has a sinister partner in promoting the breakdown of our moral standards. This partner is international communism—an aggressive and insidious enemy of all true Americans... We cannot defeat communism with socialism, nor with secularism, nor with pacifism, nor with appeasement or accommodation. We can only defeat communism with true Americanism."

That's the sort of stand by Mr. Hoover that has dealt reverse after reverse to crime syndicates and organized crime in general. It's also his expressed stance against communism, a meaning for true Americans... We cannot defeat communism with socialism, nor with secularism, nor with pacifism, nor with appeasement or accommodation. We can only defeat communism with true Americanism."

There is no doubt about Mr. Hoover's stand. If other federal agencies and bureaus had been run with the same single-mindedness and objectivity, perhaps many present crises never would have developed.

For example, if the state department had been run on the same or similar basis down through the years, would the U.S. be facing today the same foreign problems? If the department of agriculture had been run with a lot more objectivity and a lot less politics, would this nation have such a critical farm supply problem today?

The lesson is clear, but it never will be followed. Dedicated, trained, competent personnel can compile a long list of enviable accomplishments where the political appointees are far more interested in their own careers than in the public service.

In the case of the FBI, it's imperative that the Hoover dedication continues. It may mean the resignation of Mr. Hoover and his bureau, but not continued attacks by communists.

World Corners

By PHIL NEWCOM EPI Foreign News Analyst Since the beginning, nations have had one another's spies. It is now a business of the spy profession must be at least acquiescent to the world's oldest and most established method still in operation.

In 1960, in a speech before the United Nations, Henry Cabot Lodge disclosed a bit of Soviet espionage displaying both boldness and imagination. It was a carved wooden replica of the great United States seal given as a gift to the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

The President admitted that a U.S. reconnaissance plane shot down over Russia was in a spy mission and also defended the U.S. in a dispute with the Soviet Union over the plane's wreckage.

When in a court in Karlsruhe, Germany, the defendant, who was accused of espionage, recounted his exploits as proudly as a movie screen.

GIFFORD, Oct. 19 (AP)—Three-year-old Pamela Tiede has had her bad luck for the month. Wednesday, she was bitten on the arm by a dog. Thursday, she broke the same arm when she caught her hand in the wheels of her mother's car. Friday, she was hospitalized at the St. Mary's hospital. On the way, she had two flat tires at the same time. Pamela finally made it to a hospital bed.

BOISE, Oct. 19 (AP)—State Sen. William Rorer, Republican, said today that he would challenge the constitutionality of the state law enforcement department four years ago. The organization, committee for local law enforcement, was incorporated as a nonprofit corporation and was described by Rorer as "a forerunner of so-called Unions Unlimited, the vehicle for his present campaign."

BOISE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Food processing boosted employment during September and the number of unemployed workers in Idaho dropped to the lowest level of the year, the employment security agency reported today. But the agency said the gains during the month were nearly offset by the beginning of seasonal layoffs which started momentarily in August and continued in September. Total employment was 282,000 compared with 282,000 a month earlier and 287,000 in September last year. The number unemployed was 9,800 in September compared with 12,000 in August and 12,000 in September last year. The total civilian labor force this year was down by nearly 6,000 from the total a year ago.

COEUR D'ALENE, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Idaho chapter of the National Council of Senior Citizens urges support of Democratic congressional candidates because of their record on legislation involving senior citizens, the temporary state director of the group, said. Robert W. Manly, Coeur d'Alene, said "our main objective is health care for the aged through social security."

SALMON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Vernon L. Winger, 49, Idaho Falls, was killed today when his car skidded off state route 18 and overturned about 18 miles south of Salmon. State Patrolman Ervin Shilton said the car skidded between 200 and 300 feet along the shoulder through a ditch before rolling over four times. He estimated its speed at about 100 miles an hour. Winger was thrown from the vehicle.

Coach Gives Address for Kiwanis Club

"Football is the only two-timed sport left in athletics," declared Paul H. Winger, Twin Falls high school director of athletics, when he spoke Thursday noon during the annual meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Twin Falls Kiwanis club. He explained that the southern Idaho conference is comparable to the high school football teams in Chicago, New York City and Los Angeles, even though they lack the depth of the metropolitan schools. He mentioned that football coaches count on senior boys to build their teams around them because of their experience, size, weight and ability.

The club's nominating committee presented several names for nominations as 1963 officers. They included: J. C. Pomeroy, president; Gordon Cox, first vice president; Dr. John McEwen and James H. H. second vice president; and the Rev. John Lockhart, Lee Moldenhauer, Paul Newton, Vernon Riddle, John Wolfe, Orr, H. P. Fox, George Hartley, Orr, Fisher and Jim Phelps, all nominated for directors.

Minidoka Crash Wrecks Trailer

RUPERT, Oct. 19 (AP)—A large commercial truck, being hauled by a truck driven by Homer K. Sanders, 44, Boise, was damaged in an one-vehicle accident of a Wednesday night miles west of Rupert on state highway 23. Sanders reported he apparently dozed and the truck, a 1959 White-freightliner-with-a-van and four-wheel trailer, went on the shoulder of the left side of the road. When he attempted to get back on the oil, the trailer turned over and partially blocked the roadway.

It was more than four hours before the load of steel machinery parts could be transferred to two smaller trucks and the wreckage removed. Deputy Sheriff Howard Platt investigated the accident. There were no injuries.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, Oct. 19—Born today, you probably know exactly what you want out of life and, more important, exactly how to go about getting it. Determination, steady promptness—these you have, and these will undoubtedly help you to get the commercial world by the balls and so put to rest your fine business mind, particularly in the field of finance.

A lover of travel, you would be most completely fulfilled were you able to include your yen to see the world at the same time as you performed the duties of your career. As this is somewhat less than likely, however, it is to be hoped that you will take each of the wanderlust out of your system, the better to be able to get down to actual business and success—later.

A hard worker by nature, you are not one to shirk duty in favor of pleasure. Yet you love pleasure, too, and take much of it from an appreciation of all that is beautiful. Although you are somewhat temperamental, you are very attractive to the opposite sex and should have no difficulty finding a willing mate.

Choose care, however, for your steadfast nature will hardly permit of a change once the marriage step has been taken.

Among those born on this date are John Adams, second President of the U. S.; Emil Orla, Russian concert pianist; Lewis Mumford, author; Jed Harris, theatrical producer.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday anniversary and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, Oct. 20
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Temperance and moderation in all things should make this day reasonably successful. Take time to think!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Be prepared for upsals which can be kept minor through thought and practicality. Don't rush things.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Ordinary prudence should result in a day far above average. Question the wisdom of each move!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—A day for taking care of yourself and your interests. Take children under your wing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Ordinary affairs are promptly tended to, are your best bet. Seek mental and physical equilibrium.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Care in activity, sincere thought before decisions, wisdom in judging—these three should raise your level of achievement.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—Routine affairs are in order. New endeavors, pushed now, may result in adverse consequences.

Taurus (Apr. 21-May 21)—A day geared to affairs of the heart. Fun and romance could lead to a permanent "deal."

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Affairs requiring physical activity should be done during the daylight hours. Caution in ev.

CANCER (June 22-July 21)—Trust your own advice to others. Careful planning, well thought-out activities needed if you're not to lose stature today!

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21)—Success dependent upon attitude—self-assurance, determined direction—both can turn the tide.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 21)—Today and tomorrow call for extra precautions. With care, you can achieve two fine days.

'63 Medium
Priced Dodge
Goed on Sale

Dodge's 1963 medium priced cars will go on sale Nov. 14 at Magic Valley Dodge dealers. The Custom 880 series and the 880 series.

There are nine models offered in the medium price range. There are three models in the 880 series, a four-door sedan and six and nine-passenger station wagon. The Custom 880 series has two and four-door hardtop, two and four-door hardtop and six and nine-passenger station wagon.

The Dodge 880 models will be offered with a standard 261 cubic inch V-8 engine or a 353 cubic inch V-8 engine as optional. Other optional equipment offered for the 880 models is the auto-pilot, which includes an auto-brake, auto-speed-control and speed-warning device.

The 880 models styling is highlighted by a new grille, hood, front fenders and bumpers. The wide oval grille is concave and has a vertical texture. Dual headlights are integrated into the side of the grille and amber lens turn signals are housed in the front bumpers. New rubber-cushioned bumper guards are offered as optional equipment.

Dodge engineers have reduced the transmission hump by one and five-eighths inches, thus providing more foot room and narrower seating comfort.

An improved, positive-closing hood latch reduces the effort required to open the hood. Jet provides maximum security and safety. A parking spring control is featured on models with automatic transmission. The mechanism is a positive and convenient method of locking the drive shaft to provide additional parking security. The spring is operated by a slide lever just below the automatic transmission push-button on the instrument panel.

The 880 models also feature strong and durable unitized body construction, smooth-riding, torque suspension and 32,000-mile chassis lubrication.

GOES ON MISSION

SIBBONE, Oct. 19.—Michael Heas visited his grandmother, Mrs. Edith Heas, this week on route from his home in Chicago, Alaska, to Salt Lake City where he will enter the LDS church mission home to be participating for a mission in Switzerland.

NOTHING BUT FRAGMENTS of the concrete block facing of the Idaho Potato Products Inc. starch plant near Jerome were left after a raging fire destroyed the structure Thursday afternoon. The fire exploded four or five chlorine gas tanks, causing heavy, settling clouds of hazmat gas to sear over the blaze. Damage was estimated at a half-million dollars, according to John R. (Dick) Marshall, manager. Builders will be brought in Friday to knock down the caving walls. Marshall said, and clean up the debris as fast as possible. Three firemen were taken to St. Benedict's hospital for treatment after they had inhaled gas fumes. They were given oxygen to clear their lungs and released. (Times-News photo)

Burley Nursing Home Slates Open House of New Facilities

BURLEY, Oct. 19.—An open house will be held Sunday at the new addition to the Burley Nursing Home, 1710 Miller avenue, starting at 10 a.m. and ending at 4 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Mittelder, owners of the home.

They invite all residents of the area to visit their new fully state-approved nursing home to acquaint them with its new facilities.

The building, built in a U-shape, has 8,500 square feet of floor space with a patio on the west side. It has a 29-bed capacity. Either double or single rooms are available with a laboratory for each room.

An approved nurse call system has been installed. The home has eight-foot halls with hand rails on both sides. An all-new kitchen and dining area and a large recreation room are included.

Hot water heat and large windows are features of the modern brick home. Mittelder said it will be operated with 24-hour nursing service.

In 1912, Dr. Premsted built the original building on the property as a hospital and operated it until he retired. Since that time it has been used as a nursing home. Mr. and Mrs. Mittelder bought the old home with the adjoining lots and in 1960 moved to Burley from California where they had been living since 1955.

The new addition is joined to the old building which has a 24-bed capacity. Contractors for the building are Henry Furrer and J. L. Salomon.

Mr. and Mrs. Mittelder are native Idahoans, having spent most of their lives in the Boise valley. She was born in Salmon and he was born in Blackfoot. They have one son in the army in Germany and two daughters in school at the Gem State academy. Mrs. Mittelder is a licensed practical nurse, having recently completed her training at the Cassia Memorial hospital. They will live in the nursing home and manage it.

Student practical nurses from Cassia Memorial hospital under the leadership of Mrs. Dorothy Harris, spend Thursdays making the beds and getting the home ready for Sunday's open house.

Long Fences and Goals

Bulls in the King Hill area over the past week has delayed farm work. At the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Harlin Woodward, beans were just beginning to be threshed.

Two combines belonging to Leslie Jones, Twin Falls, moved into the field of the A. Blawie ranch southeast of Bull in the Coeur d'Alene and completed harvesting the Blawie crop for the early 1953 season.

The annual corn pick has been completed at the Green Giant company with more than 3,000 acres being harvested and approximately a million cases of corn processed during the seasonal peak.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Tewe and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wise, Shoshone, have brought the Tewe cattle home to the ranch after summer grazing.

Hay was stacked on the Good farm north of Shoshone Saturday by neighbors and friends of the family. Harold Good is recovering from surgery and pneumonia.

Approximately 30 acres of corn was put into silage for Ralph Tewe the past few days and work began this week on the William Tewe farm in the District area.

Hayed harvesting is under way at the Allred Lutz ranch in District area. Harvesting was begun last week and the crews will go from there to Walter Eisenhart's ranch, then to Ernest Reynolds' place.

Wesley Rice and Neil Shuford, Alamo ranchers, have been hauling wood from the mountains for winter fuel.

Leroy Lloyd, Alamo, is cutting grain in the Junction valley area.

Two Alamo ranchers, Wesley Ward and Robert Pass, trucked their cattle from the summer range to the winter range, tracked near Junction valley to their home ranches.

Ernie Carter, District, is riding on the Star Lake range to bring his cattle. All Star Lake range users must have their cattle in the first of November.

Several north Shoshone farmers rode four or five days during last week to bring their cattle off the range in the Thorpe Creek range unit. Most of their cattle had been brought home. In the past few days they will sort out stags and notify owners and get up stragglers they may have missed on the range.

Bull farmers can get good quality corn silage at the local Green Giant company. Loading is done at the plant from 8 a.m. through 6 p.m. Monday through Friday only Nov. 6. After that date the silage will be delivered to the farm and loaded on trucks.

Most of the farmers in the Bull area have their crops harvested and are making preparations for winter. Among those who are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kager, Alamo, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zagala who farm southeast of Bull.

Full work on the Salmon tract is being wound up with nearly all of the beans being in, corn put away and the third cutting hay set up. Gordon Schroeder is finishing his beets in McFarmer field and Gene Nelson is digging his potatoes.

Layne Carter is completing the erection of a large potato-cellar in his silver creek area and will start harvesting his potatoes to get in in immediately.

Beef breeders are completing the harvest of 36 acres of potatoes at their ranch near the foot of Carey hill. Other lower Big Wood river farmers who are harvesting potatoes are Delmar McWilliams, William McInnes and William Castle.

Beef Supply Continues to Post Gains

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The supply of beef is up and is going higher.

On Oct. 1 there were 6,133,000 head of cattle and calves on feed for feeding states, according to the crop reporting board. This was eight per cent more than 6,670,000 head on feed these states a year earlier, and slightly higher than the 6,100,000 head fed July 1.

The cattle on feed for slaughter consist of animals destined for the retail food counter.

Markings of feed cattle for slaughter during the July-September period amounted to 3,800,000 head, three per cent more than for the same period in 1951.

The board said a check of marketing intentions showed that 24 per cent will be marketed in the retail food counter in December, and 33 per cent in November, and 33 per cent in October.

There were 3,634,000 head of cattle and calves on feed Oct. 1 for slaughter market in the north central states, up one per cent from 3,570,000 head in September, and 35 per cent over a year earlier.

Numbers on feed in Texas on Oct. 1 were up 48 per cent from a year ago.

New Vitamin Solution to Aid Animals

NORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 19.—Vitamin A-D-E-Injectable is a new 800 cc. container by Globe Laboratories, Inc., has been announced by the company. The solution is recommended for the treatment of vitamin deficiencies in animals.

Dr. Henry D. Carpenter, laboratory director, said that the deficiency of these vitamins, according to Dr. Carpenter, an animal cannot be expected to perform to its best as feed conversion, meat and milk production, reproduction, and resistance to disease are concerned.

Vitamin A is essential for maintenance of tissues that cover and line the body and for maintaining normal sight. A deficiency in this vitamin can occur in livestock fed limited roughage or feedstuffs that have been poorly stored, or stored for long periods.

The vitamin D element in the solution is necessary for calcium metabolism in dry and suckling form bone tissue in both young and adult animals.

Globe vitamin A-D-E-Injectable oil solution may be given by intramuscular or intravenous injection. The solution previously has been marketed in a 30 cubic centimeter size, but the 800 cubic centimeter size is being offered for large operations such as stock, dairy farms, and large farms and ranches.

DISPLAYING SOME of the fine potatoes harvested on Lloyd Thompson-Robert Ellis farm near Marquette are Alvin Burlew, left, and Clifford Johnson. Harvesting of spuds in the Marquette area is now in full swing and some farmers have completed their operation. The men report that the size and quality of this crop is considerably above the crop last year and the ratio of U. S. number ones is quite high. Spuds for the most part are medium in size and smooth. Skin and color are good. (Times-News photo)

Improved Weather Is Boosting Spud Harvest

Clear skies over Magic Valley has resulted in more activity in the potato harvest. Uncertain weather has been delaying the harvest during the early part of October. Activity is strong in the large potato fields north of Olaty as men and machines are busy trying to harvest the crop.

Harvest activity north of Burlew is well under way and on many of the smaller farms in the Magic Valley area, potato harvesting is complete or will be completed in the next few days.

Prospects for a better crop are evident throughout the valley and point a different picture from that seen last year.

There are some stories of single spuds reaching 10 inches in length in the Burlew-Rupert area.

According to information received by the crop reporting service of the U. S. department of agriculture is relating its estimates.

Latest summer potato production suffered in Washington, New Mexico, Ohio, Michigan and Maryland on the national scene. However, these losses were offset by increased production in Idaho, Oregon and Nebraska.

Full potato harvest is generally improved throughout the nation. Colorado was the only state reporting sufficient frost to curb yields. However, in southern Idaho and Colorado was the only state reporting sufficient frost to curb yields.

Cattle Feeders School To Feature Nutrition

A special cattle feeders nutrition school is scheduled for Oct. 31-Nov. 2 at the Idaho Power auditorium in Twin Falls, announced Donald Youis, Twin Falls county agent, and Ralph Olmstead, president, Idaho Cattle Feeders association.

The school will afford an opportunity for area cattle feeders to study nutrition in the various feeds and let them apply the benefits of the school to their own feeding operation.

The school is sponsored jointly by the Cattle Feeders association and the University of Idaho. There will be three such schools held in different parts of Idaho.

Dr. John P. Baker, professor of animal husbandry, University of Idaho, will be the chief instructor. Some of his topics will cover the terminology in cattle feeding, calculation of total digestible nutrients, comparing energy values, calculation of feed ratios.

The school will be of benefit to feeders who are seeking new ways and methods to improve their feeding operation and will illustrate how costs can be accurately computed in connection with the use of the various feeds available for cattle and other livestock used in Idaho.

A banquet has been scheduled at the conclusion of the school. However, this and other details are still to be worked out. Youis and Olmstead are making local arrangements and both noted that the school is open to any interested feeder.

A small registration to cover the cost of mail and other minor expenses, will be charged.

Restrictions Are Placed On Imports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Eighty-five percent Kennedy, the new trade expansion law includes a saving clause preventing section 22 of the agricultural adjustment act from going down the drain. Section 22 authorizes import quotas under section 22.

The National Milk Producers federation warned congressional committees of the peril to price support programs of washing out section 22 of the agricultural adjustment act at the present low percentage of parity are still above parity.

Abandonment of import quotas would result in a flood of dairy products from overseas.

Hard Drought Continues to Plague Areas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Due to severe drought, government-owned feed grain has been made available in four North Carolina, five New York and 12 West Virginia counties at reduced prices.

Earlier in October, coverage was extended to 68 counties in Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona and Missouri.

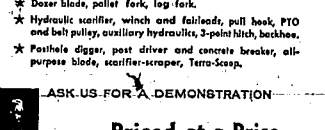

Eligible farmers have been assured by the U. S. department of agriculture that feed grain, either corn or grain sorghum, will continue in supply with no set termination date, until the drought emergency has ended.

Emergency feed grain coverage now extends to eligible farmers in 136 counties of eight states. In addition, grazing and hay privileges on soil-aid acreage, the substitution reserve, the 212 feed grain, and the 1952 wheat stabilization programs are still available to farmers in 441 counties or parishes in 17 states.

Testing Unit Reports on Dairy Herds

Some 60 dairy herds were involved in the Twin Falls County Dairy Herd Improvement Association's production testing program in September, reports County Agent Donald Youis. According to the reports of testing supervisors Jack McCormick, Unit 1, and Virgil Worcester, Unit 2, 456 cows were on production testing.

In large herds of over 20 dairy cows, the herd of Calvin Ober, Castleford, led with an average butterfat production of 64.8 pounds and an average milk production of 12.1 pounds. Other high producers with large herds, with pounds of butterfat and milk listed respectively, are: T. W. Richmond, Buhl, 41.1 and 1,192; M. C. Cochran and Bona, 38.3 and 800; Carl Harber and Son, 38.4 and 760; Borna and Borna, 38.1 and 712; and Partin Dairy, 38.1 and 885, all Buhl; Smutney Brothers Dairy, Twin Falls, 34.4 and 826; and Lamson Dairy, 34.3 and 863, Buhl.

30 dairy herds of Glenn Buckendorf, Buhl, led the medium size herds of 25-50 cows, with a butterfat average of 60.4 pounds and an average milk production of 11.6. Other herds, with pounds of butterfat and milk production listed respectively are: C. V. Johnson, 59.9 and 743; John Mack, 58.2 and 1,194; Warren Hart, 57.7 and 1,138; L. D. Major, 56.4 and 990; Carl Harber, 56.3 and 829; and Borna and Borna, 56.1 and 811; Irvin Eilers, Twin Falls, 54.3 and 1,688; Twin Falls Dairy, Russell River, 51.7 and 821; and Borna and Borna, 51.7 and 821.

The list of high producers under small dairy herds of 1-25 cows was led by Rudolph Peterson and son, Buhl, with a butterfat average of 61.1 and 1,119. Other herds with pounds of butterfat and milk production listed respectively are: C. Leonard, 58.2 and 1,041; E. W. Hall, 58.4 and 1,068; Blair Hall, 57.2 and 1,097; all of Peter and Charles Tippet, 57.2 and 919; Bernard Hoffman, 57 and 1,044; Twin Falls Dairy, 57.1 and 877; Ernie Everett, Idaho, 56.8 and 941; Kimberly and C. Agricultural Census Uncovers Some Interesting Facts About Potatoes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Considerable potatoes and other crops were lost because of millions of consumers look upon the Idaho and some other crop merely as the middle commodity in the old-fashioned staple combination of meat, potatoes and gravy. One sign of that, many of the eaters know little about potatoes.

So here is some information on potatoes gleaned chiefly from the census bureau which every five years undertakes the formidable task of tabulating the crops in agriculture. In the 17th nationwide census of agriculture conducted in 1958, census enumerators reported that:

Potatoes are produced in all 50 states.

Most of the 3,770 counties in continental United States raise potatoes, but production is concentrated in certain states and counties. In fact, two-thirds of the supply is produced in only 47 counties.

There is a continuing concentration of acreage on fewer but larger potato farms. The larger farms are those cultivating 50 acres or more of potatoes.

Farmers grow 1.5 to 30 acres or more of potatoes produced 42 per cent of the crop in 1958, 52 per cent in 1954 and 66 per cent in 1950.

Less than 20,000 farms produce 40 per cent of the total crop. Higher yields per acre made it possible to produce a larger crop

Surplus Is No Reason To End Study

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—M. R. Clarkson, associate administrator of the agricultural research service believes that surplus in a few major farm commodities provides no reason to cut back on agricultural research. He said that the annual research council that even though research has enabled agriculture to provide Americans with unparalleled abundance, it takes a tremendous effort just to hold our own against the dynamic forces of nature, such as diseases, insects and soil erosion, Clarkson said.

"And, of course, we dare not forget that farmers must feed a population that's expected to double in the next 40 to 50 years."

Clarkson said agricultural research already has fallen behind in the competition for financial support. In 1960, he said, the government was putting 40 per cent of its research dollars into agriculture. During the last two decades, agriculture's share of those federal funds has shrunk to less than two per cent.

Clarkson said ARS now is planning a major emphasis on basic research. However, much of the ARS effort has been in applied research to find practical answers to farmers' problems.

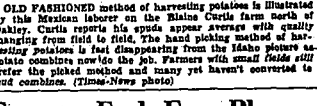

Counting the Number of Potatoes

In 1959 than in 1949 on 20 per cent fewer acres and at the same time the number of potatoes to farms in 1959 was a relatively high yield compared with 1951 because there were 53 per cent fewer farms to enumerate. In 1959, there were 1,544,000 acres of potatoes as compared with 1,400,000 in 1954. None of those farms included the little patches of potatoes that abound in practically every farm or rural town garden.

The top states in potato production in 1959 were Idaho, Maine, North Dakota, Minnesota and California. In the late 1950's, Idaho overtook Maine in production and now is the top potato state.

Arnot county, Maine, and Kern county, California, topped all counties in potato tonnage in 1959, producing 30.3 million and 11.4 million hundredweight, respectively. In Idaho, 10 counties were listed with potato production ranging from 2.3 million to 12.5 million hundredweight. In addition to Kern county, five other counties in California each produced more than one million hundredweight.

In 1951, the farm value of potatoes was about 600 million dollars. The value was considerably

OLD FASHIONED method of harvesting potatoes is illustrated by the Mexican laborer on the Blaine Circle farm north of Oakley, Curtis reports his spade average with quality changing from field to field. The hand plowing method of harvesting potatoes is fast disappearing from the Idaho potato acreage. In fact, two-thirds of the supply is produced in only 47 counties.

Freeman Feels Farm Plan Acceptable if Given Time

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, an old pro in politics, has cast himself as a "realistic" political prognosticator.

Freeman mentioned only two Democratic candidates by name. He said "prospects are good" for the election of George McGovern as senator from South Dakota over Sen. Joseph P. Hill, Jr. R.-D. The new law, Freeman said, should help McGovern.

Then he added that he believed Democrat Earl Rolvaag would be the next governor of Minnesota.

Freeman gave a firm "no" when asked if he was surprised that Republican campaigners were not making political capital of the Bullis 601 case. He said there was nothing in the case of which political capital could be made, he said. Rolvaag had not cost the taxpayers any money, and that he was not interested in "free" charges of defrauding some big financial concerns, not the federal government.

Freeman told the news conference that the new farm law was "that for agriculture in three decades." He said it represented the first basic change in farm policy direction since the 1930's. This change, he said, was the recognition by congress that rural community problems as well as farm commodity problems should be considered in developing farm legislation.

Freeman's Answer to 'No' is 'Yes'

Freeman's answer to "no" is "yes." He said that the government was putting 40 per cent of its research dollars into agriculture. During the last two decades, agriculture's share of those federal funds has shrunk to less than two per cent.

Clarkson said ARS now is planning a major emphasis on basic research. However, much of the ARS effort has been in applied research to find practical answers to farmers' problems.

greater by the time the spuds reached the table. Production this year will be in the neighborhood of 263 million hundredweight, with value yet to be determined.

LUSH GRAZING now is available for cattle on the Ralph Schnell ranch near Reisteron. A reseedling program by Schnell has converted many acres of once arid scrubland to pasture. The reseedling program has enabled Schnell to almost double the amount of cattle he is feeding. The range has been fenced and is supplied with adequate water. The grazing of pastureland is watched closely by Schnell and the cattle are moved from one pasture to another to avoid overgrazing. In one instance Schnell purposely overgrazed some land to kill off growth and then reseeded it with Crested wheatgrass. Schnell is also reseedling much of the state leased land and Bureau of Land Management land he has access to. (Soil conservation photo).

KNEE DEEP in lush grass on land that once supported only sagebrush and jackrabbits is Ralph Schnell, 1962 Grassman of the year. The Schnell family is the only family in that vicinity of Reisteron that is still on the land. Some 21 other families abandoned their land after many years of lean crops, water shortage and displacement. In 1938 Schnell's father, Paul, seeded the range with Crested wheatgrass. The grass was the key to the success of Schnell de la Hita, the "Salmon," where 300 head of cattle starved, there is now adequate feed for over 100 head. (Soil conservation photo).

Seeding Rangeland Is Tradition for Ralph Schnell, T.F. 1962 Grassman

BY O. H. CHAMBERS

The story of the 1962 Grassman of the year, Ralph Schnell, actually began almost 50 years ago with Paul Schnell, his father. Some 50 years ago the prospects of fine land and excellent crops on the Salmon tract, seeded by Schnell, and the promise of becoming one of Idaho's finest farming areas.

The years, however, told a different story. It was a story of crop failures, no water, displacement and finally the abandonment of many of the original farms. Paul Schnell was one of those who chose to remain and subdue the land. He realized that in order to make the land productive certain measures must be undertaken.

The Schnell family had acquired 150 acres of private land in 1913. Paul Schnell seeded some of his range and farmland to Crested wheatgrass and began a system of range management that his son would pick up and capitalize on many years later.

After his father died, Ralph Schnell took over the task of running the family range and farm.

In acquiring the family ranch, Ralph Schnell gained more than 100 acres of land. He added his own, their inherited, and the respect for the grass and a desire to make of Salmon tract land its original promise.

The ranch consisted of 150 acres of private land and 1,500 acres of state leased land. It supported 300 head of cattle and a few crops. It had the appearance of supporting only scrubbrush and jackrabbits. The cattle were thin and the loss of calves was constant. Its water resources were an annual maintenance of seven to 10 inches a year and water from the Salmon dam.

In order to support his herd of 300 cattle he had to buy additional pasture land and buy his winter livestock. Several years of this kind of ranching taught Schnell that he must do something to improve the range on his own land, eliminate the renting of additional land and the purchasing of winter feed.

The small field of crested wheatgrass was planted by his father as the stepping stone. Schnell began a program to make of Salmon tract land its original promise by seeding the brush and scrubland with this effort. He sought information from agencies, both governmental and private, that would increase the productivity. He credits the Soil Conservation Service, the University of Idaho extension service, his own land management, the agricultural, and a conservation committee, the fish and wildlife habitat improvement program, the Idaho Power company and the Twin Falls Bank and Trust for much of the improvements on the ranch.

In 1938 another well was brought in. Water was found some 500 feet beneath the surface. The total cost for boring the new land was $9,000. It was well worth it. Not only did it have a complete newly engineered farm with short irrigation runs, but the chance of soil erosion was greatly diminished. In addition he had access water to buy his old farm land. The dependency on ditches and salmon can water was reduced.

Large drainage ponds were constructed. Checks and drops were installed in the ditches. Where open ditching wasn't feasible he went to underground pipe and water currently in use on some 1,500 feet of pipeline on the farm. Chemical ditches are used about four miles west of the farm. On land that wouldn't support now crop Schnell began raising row crops. He increased 250 acres the acre.

Where and whenever he could, he would seed the range to grass. Realizing that the land varied, Schnell began planting other grasses. One of the first changes made when he developed his new farm ground was to take out irrigation some of the land.

that was shallow and put it under dryland grass. The better soil then was converted to irrigation. He established 30 acres of fine irrigated pasture consisting of a mixture of orchardgrass, brome grass and alfalfa to boost the protein level as well as the quantity of forage during the summer. On this pasture he keeps his milk cows, bulls and horses. The bulls leave at breeding time. He also seeded down 125 acres of alfalfa and grass to boost his hay production. He adds phosphate for the alfalfa and nitrogen for the grass.

The 420 acres of total hay production will yield some four to five tons of hay per year eliminating the necessity of buying hay in the winter.

Schnell was one of the first to enter grass seed production. It not only furnished him seed for his own use, but provided a cash crop plus making grass seed available for the western markets. He currently has 40 acres of Siberian wheatgrass, 20 acres of intermediate wheatgrass and 20 acres of Larch orchardgrass under irrigation for production purposes.

His seed production for the last six years has been 20,000 to 30,000 pounds of clean top quality grass seed per year. The grass stubble is grazed after harvest and improves the stand for the next year.

Schnell uses a system of deferred rotational grazing. He has discovered that grazing certain times of the year is better than other times. Every three to four years the dryland grasses are allowed to mature and the seed is harvested.

All this would be no advantage if the cattle were not fenced and water are the keys to grazing.

Schnell began a unique system of distributing water to his range cattle. He buried small plastic hoses under the ground that permits a flow of water to pre-determined watering troughs.

He believes that good fencing and water are the keys to grazing.

Schnell didn't stop with just the improvement on his own ranch. He has an allotment of 1,200 acres of state leased land. There is continual pressure on public land to convert it to other uses. Schnell realized that the future might bring fewer alternatives so the thing to do was improve that land.

In cooperation with the state he began a program of reseedling on state land. Most of this land is at a higher elevation than his own land. By reseedling and removing the brush he is able to pasture his cattle longer on this land, besides improving the land. Sometimes the land was sprayed with 4-4-D, in one instance he simply overgrazed the land, making reseedling easier.

Last spring he sprayed some 1,600 acres of Bluff land to eliminate the sagebrush. He is hoping that the native grasses will come back; if not, then he will reseed. Some 5,000 acres of public land have been reseeded by Schnell in cooperation with the various agencies.

What has all this done? More than 200 cows struggled for a mouthful of grass there in now adequate pasture for 450 head of cattle. In fact there are present programs completed the land will support 700 or more head of cattle.

The entire management program was started to improve the ranch so that it could support more cattle. So it was only natural that Schnell family is let his beef herd. This began with the purchase of top quality bulls. The poorer cattle were culled out and the top animals were bred back to produce a better quality animal.

Calf losses were excessive in those years and often weaner calves were only 50 pounds when marketed. Because much of his land is fairly flat Schnell uses one or two 23 cows.

Proof that his system of using less is adequate is that he has less than a 10 per cent loss in his calf crop. Calves at weaning time now average at 400 pounds.

Schnell over the years has become an outstanding man in the Reisteron area. Young men still like come to him for advice. His ranching operation has often underground pipe with risers. The completion of this and another well made him less dependant on Reisteron water and annual rainfall. A second well also made it possible to divert excess water onto the original homestead and land of secondary value was put under grass to boost pasture output. (Soil conservation photo)

Bull Sale

PRILEX, Oct. 19-The Idaho Cattlemen's association again will sponsor the largest range bull sale in the Pacific Northwest. The sale is the annual Prilex Range Bull sale and will be held at the Fairgrounds here Oct. 27, said Colin McLeod, Jr., Caldwell, manager of the sale.

Area cattlemen are reminded to get down the date as this will be one of the top attractions and many fine bulls are expected for the sale.

been the main feature in many farm tours. Schnell is an excellent host and will answer in detail any question put to him concerning his operation.

He has realized that help has come from many outside sources and is quite willing to share his experiences. He is a supervisor of the Twin Falls soil conservation district, a director of the Salmon river canal company and the Hollister Grange.

Out of the 22 families that once homesteaded in that area only the Schnell family is left. Ralph Schnell is finally making of the Salmon tract the promise that is once his. His ranch also like an oasis on the desert.

Schnell still lives on the original homestead with his wife Hazel and their two daughters, Betty and Jeanie. His hard work and efforts have earned him the respect and admiration of his neighbors and friends. For his outstanding efforts he was named "Grassman of the Year," a title his father would have envied.

It all started in 1926 with 150 acres of Crested wheatgrass—evidently that same field is still supporting cattle.

ADQUATE WATER was realized in 1960 when this deep well was completed on the Ralph Schnell ranch on the Salmon tract. The well was one of many steps Schnell undertook to improve his ranch. The well was used to irrigate some 400 acres of land which was overgrazed to provide maximum use of water with minimum cost. Where open ditches proved unstable Schnell used

Bulletin Shows Rural-City Economy Tied to Each Other

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—The agriculture department has added to its long-time campaign to popularize the idea that farm and city folks are dependent upon each other economically.

The department has issued a pamphlet of "envelope stuffing" size, which describes the farmer as a big customer of urban industry. It also stresses the point that a great many city residents depend on jobs that have an agricultural background.

The department estimates that farmers spent last year some 4 billion dollars to buy goods and services from the rest of the people and from their farmers.

Of this whopping sum, 27 billion dollars went to buy all the different things it took to produce their bumper crops, great quantities of items such as tractors and fertilizer and seed and bank interest and visits from the veterinarian.

Farmers also spent another 15 billion dollars for the same variety of things that city people buy: TV sets; toothpaste; appliances; colleges for the youngsters.

Gen Honey Crop Will Decrease

BOISE, Oct. 18—Idaho's 1962 honey crop is estimated at 12,000,000 pounds by the U.S. department of agriculture, 46 per cent less than a year ago.

Last year's crop was the second highest on record. The USDA said the average yield per colony this year is estimated at 34 pounds, the lowest on record and well below last year's yield of 62 pounds.

The crop for the nation as a whole is estimated at slightly above the 1961 record and 12 per cent more than the 1956-60 average.

Food for Americans

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Sunday buffet dinners are increasingly popular. The food is substantial and the guests help themselves. The menu (in order of most of the food) is prepared hours in advance to save last minute rush and confusion. After a day of golf or hiking, guests appreciate this kind of hospitality and the house welcomes it.

This Andalusian beef ragout is a good choice for a main dish and it is even better when made a day ahead and reheated for the party. It comes from "A Day's Ahead" by Mrs. M. J. (now available) seasoned ready to cook in water).

Menu: Shrimp to be dipped in garlic mayonnaise; toasted almonds; olives; Andalusian Beef Ragout; saffron rice; mixed green salad or artichoke hearts in French dressing; coconut cake and compote of cut-up oranges and grapes for dessert.

Defensive Unit Carries Bruins' Undefeated Hope

Defense is the watchword for the Twin Falls Bruins as they put out their season's hopes on display at 7 p.m. Friday night at Lincoln field by hosting the 12-pick Cougars. A record crowd, sparked by 5,000 tickets offered by Twin Falls businesses, is expected to fill the stadium.

BY LARRY HOWE

With the sound of football still in the air, Idaho State college is looking forward to the football season. The Bruins will be waiting to see if their wingback-tailback Joe McCollum will be able to put the Bruins back on the offensive earlier this year.

The Bruins will be waiting to see if their wingback-tailback Joe McCollum will be able to put the Bruins back on the offensive earlier this year. The final decision on whether he will play is expected sometime Friday.

The loss of McCollum would hurt the Bruins considerably. The Bruins will be waiting to see if their wingback-tailback Joe McCollum will be able to put the Bruins back on the offensive earlier this year.

From the help to find a pair of junior college transfers. Joe Bach, 6 feet, 5 inches, while Pat Reed, 6 feet, 6 inches, would lead the team.

Newspaperboys are IN the News

Day after day, week after week, throughout the year, your Newspaperboy doesn't make headlines... he delivers them.

Without his services, the millions of dollars spent every week to gather the news from the four corners of the earth and print it on high speed presses so that you can read about it while it is still news, would be largely wasted.

We want all of our readers to know that we are proud of the outstanding service performed by newspaperboys and have set aside this day to tell them

"Thank you for a job well done."

Newspaper route management is much more than delivering newspapers. Each newspaperboy is President and Sales Manager of his own business, engaged in the only part-time job that teaches buying, selling, delivering, collecting, banking, computing profits, etc. This on-the-job training helps him tremendously when he is ready for full-time employment.

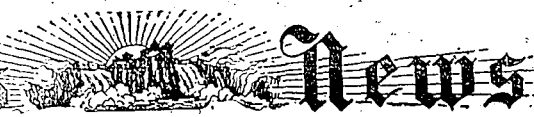

If you think your son might profit by such experience, why not have him come in and talk to us.
