U.S. AIR MISSING; DEFEAT OF AIRCRAFT

Traffic Mishaps Claim Two More Lives in Valley

OAKLEY, Oct. 27—Two people died Saturday from injuries in Magic Valley highways, boosting the total of traffic accidents in the area to 50, far ahead of the 46 at this time last year. Bernardo Olivera, 55, Oakley laborer, died early in the afternoon after the pickup truck he was driving slammed into the side of a 1 1/2-ton best truck seven miles north and one-half mile west of Oakley. The pickup was on its side at the intersection of two county roads. The second victim was Mrs. Vivian Woodford, 76, who died at 2:15 p.m. Saturday at the end of Memorial hospital 18 miles west of Burley. She was driving a 1950 Buick Wildcat on Oct. 27 as she drove on Highway 25, west of Pauls Valley, Oct. 27.

Traffic Deaths

The third traffic death in Magic Valley occurred Oct. 27 as a result of an accident in Minidoka and Cassia counties. The driver was killed by a car which was struck by a truck. The driver was killed by a car which was struck by a truck. The driver was killed by a car which was struck by a truck.

FILER, Oct. 27—The 23rd annual Flier herd bull sale, owned by Blaine Curtis and sons, Burley, was the highest priced bull at the 23rd annual Flier herd bull sale Saturday afternoon at the fairgrounds. The bull, Bull No. 104, was judged grand champion of the Saturday event Friday afternoon. The bull was sold to Tom Miller, Jerome, for $1,900. Other winners were Real Silver Don C-1, owned by Wallace Hayes, Burley, and Angus L. L. Colwell, Burley, and Angus L. L. Colwell, Burley.

GOP Charges Chief Using Vote Stand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—A Republican charge today that the chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is using a "vote stand" to influence the outcome of the presidential election. The charge was made by a Republican spokesman who said that the FBI chief had been seen at a campaign event in a state where the FBI has a large presence.

Burley Students State Tuesday Meeting On "Laboratory of Democracy" Theme

BURLEY, Oct. 27—"Student body members of the Laboratory of Democracy are the theme to be used for the student council workshop held at Burley high school today. About 200 students are expected to attend the workshop. The workshop will be held at the Burley high school and will be held at the Burley high school.

A PART OF A GROUP who called themselves the Students Committee in Support of American Cuban Policy, made up of University of California, recently and fraternity members, marched down Market street in San Francisco Saturday. The group stopped in front of the building housing Communist party headquarters and chanted "Cuba Si, Khrushchev No!" and "800 demonstrators showed up in the Civic Center demonstrating for and against the Cuban blockade. There were no reported incidents. (AP wirephoto.)

Explorer Shot Into Orbit For Studies

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Oct. 27—The Explorer XV satellite rocketed into orbit Saturday night to survey an artificial radiation belt created by a U.S. high-altitude nuclear explosion last summer. The satellite was launched by a Thor-Delta rocket at 6:15 p.m. Saturday. The satellite will be used to study the radiation belt and its effects on the Earth's atmosphere.

Two Hospitalized After Accident Near Rupert

RUPERT, Oct. 27—Two women were hospitalized for treatment of injuries received in a head-on collision Saturday night south of Rupert on Meridian road. The accident occurred at approximately 10:30 p.m. when a 1958 Buick Wildcat and a 1959 Oldsmobile collided. The driver of the Buick was injured and taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Burley. The driver of the Oldsmobile was also injured and taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

MILLAN, Idaho, Oct. 27—A fatal crash occurred today in Millan, Idaho, when a 1958 Buick Wildcat and a 1959 Oldsmobile collided. The driver of the Buick was killed and the driver of the Oldsmobile was injured. The accident occurred on Highway 25, west of Pauls Valley.

Kennedy, Premier Exchange Notes for Peace Settlement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—The defense department called up 24 troop carrier squadrons from the reserve Saturday night after announcing that Cuban weapons had fired on unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes. One American plane was reported missing. The callup involves 14,000 men trained to airlift combat troops. Asked if the action signified that an invasion of Cuba was imminent, a defense department spokesman declined comment. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara ordered the callup about two hours after President Kennedy said from the White House that he was willing to negotiate an immediate end to the Cuban crisis if Khrushchev stops work on nuclear missiles in Cuba and defuses the missile crisis.

Idaho Campaign Gets New Added Verboosity

The crisis of the coast of southeast America has put some new verboosity into the Idaho political campaign—especially since five of the state figures were hauled out of the state to attend special briefings on the situation, Sen. Frank Church, D., Ida., is still gone. Those who attended a meeting—today—in San Francisco yesterday were Inkerlin Sen. Len B. Jordan, R., Ida.; Reps. Grace Pfoote and Bill Harding, Democrats, and Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

MASTER PAIRS CHAMPIONSHIP competition Friday, the first of three championship divisions in a three-day Magic Valley sectional bridge tournament, ended in a tie. The two winning teams were, from left front, Florence Brown and Vickie Williams, both Idaho Falls, and from left rear, Mrs. K. M. Dieleman and Barbara Schiffendecker, both Boise. Both teams scored 42.50 points. Open pairs championship was scheduled to be completed Saturday and teams of four for championship competition will be held Sunday. Sunday sessions will begin at 1 p.m. and play in the American Legion hall. Albert Germentlan, Pasadena, Calif., is tournament director. Single sessions of open events are scheduled for Sunday afternoon and evening. About 250 persons from Idaho and surrounding states are expected to compete in one or more of the three championship divisions. (Times-News photo)

Hansen Raps Vote Record Of Harding

JEROME, Oct. 27 — "Our incumbent congressman (E. L. P. Harding) has failed to keep his 1960 campaign promise to work for a balanced federal budget," State Rep. Orval Hansen, Republican nominee for congress, declared here Friday night. "During his two years in congress, he has not voted against a single New Frontier spending proposal," Hansen said. "On the contrary, he has voted to spend more of our tax dollars during a two year period than has any other congressman from Idaho in the history of our state."

"While campaigning two years ago he said over and over that the federal budget should be balanced annually," Hansen said. "When he arrived in Washington, however, he quickly forgot his campaign promise and not only joined in giving away our tax dollars but proved that he could keep up with the big spenders. He set an all time spending record for a single session of congress that is unmatched by any past Idaho congressman."

"There is desperate need for tax relief to get the nation's economy rolling again and to put our nearly four million unemployed back to work," he said. "But, it is unrealistic to talk about tax cuts unless we are willing to reduce federal spending. It is economically unsound and morally wrong for us to pile up more and more debt for our children and grandchildren to pay. With decreased expenditures necessarily increased during the Cuban crisis, it is doubly important to cut non-defense spending."

I Had to Have $12,000
By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

I never knew kids could be so much. I never knew boys could wear out shoes so fast. And I needed a bigger house for my growing family.

So I sent $7 for a trial subscription to The Wall Street Journal. I heeded its warnings. I washed in the ideas it gave me for increasing my income and cutting expenses. Now I am slowly forging ahead. Instead of being broke on $9,000 a year, I am living well on $12,000 a year.

This experience is typical. The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,000 to $30,000. It is valuable to the owner of a small business. It can be of priceless benefit to young men who want to win advancement.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big news associations. It costs $24 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail. Or tell us to bill you.

Published daily right on the Pacific Coast to bring you vital business and Washington news immediately. Address: The Wall Street Journal, 1540 Market Street, San Francisco 10, California.

Picking Up
Absentee balloting picked-up Friday with more than 75 new absentee votes cast, since the previous day, when 425 ballots were in various stages of processing—either mailed out to voters or returned to the Twin Falls county court-house for distribution.

By 5 p.m. Friday, 504 absentee ballots had been cast for the Nov. 6 general election. Registration and absentee balloting for the election ends Saturday. However, absentee ballots received in the mail Nov. 5 and 6 will be taken to the proper precinct, polling places for tabulation.

WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON (By RAY TUCKER)—The Democratic labor's undeviating support of Democratic candidates for national office in the 1964 election is a clear indication to the advantage of the Republicans in next month's congressional elections. This is the view of the 1964 presidential contest. This position is influenced by the fact that the Democratic Party and many labor unions have supported the Democratic ticket in the past. It is an unexpected and unanticipated gain for the Republicans in the 1964 election. This is the view of the Democrats, especially President Kennedy.

Danger in Talk

For the time being, at any rate, at least some world leaders are regarding Russians with the distrust the Reds have earned down through the years. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is apparently out to declare that any negotiations in the Cuban crisis must be under international control. That's just another way of saying the Russians are liars and can't be trusted.

Experts say anyone willing to look at the record could find little use for the Russian word. Even such formal agreements as treaties have been upheld by the communists only so long as they served their purpose. There is no honor among the communists, and the same is true of the world as has been demonstrated forcefully in the current crisis.

Under present circumstances, the U.S. is not likely to be drawn into a typical communist trap, a proposal for a moratorium on both sides including two or three talks to permit some negotiations. Past records indicate the Russians probably would ignore their part of the bargain.

The world recognizes the tension and possibilities for fighting in the U.S. action of throwing a blockade around Cuba. It would also indicate the probability of Russia conceding anything around the conference table. Even if any worthwhile concessions were made by the communists, their value in actual practice would be nil.

Another illustration of the general futility in talking with the Russians can be found in all the discussions over Berlin. Even the United Nations illustrates the futility of such discussions.

But now, finally, there is every indication the United States has learned a lesson about the dangers of talking with the Russians about anything. Even if President Kennedy should reach the unlikely decision to lift the blockade moratorium, U.S. naval and air forces would keep a close check on the approaches to Cuba. It's not hard to guess how fast the U.S. would call attention to any Russian violation of the blockade and it's equally easy to guess that the U.S. would resume its blockade immediately a Soviet violation was detected.

Many of these Magic Valley residents who spend the winter in warmer climates travel by automobile, pulling a house trailer behind them. For some of them, the trailer is their only home. They haul it south in the fall and north in the spring, going wherever fancy takes them.

POT SHOTS

Dear Gent: I have been criticized rather severely from time to time because of the free use I make of the word "pot." It's a habit, but it has given me a bad name. When folks invite me into their homes, they tend to be kind and try to change the subject, whether it's on the table or hidden in the kitchen. On behalf of all other like me, I'd like to give our defense: Food doesn't catch just doesn't taste like food. It's a habit acquired during long years of eating in cafes where the prices are more moderate. Red Inside (Twin Falls)

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EASON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—It is now in the hands of the United States intelligence sources that the big Russian military buildup began in Cuba last July. For three months thereafter, the whole island was covered only short-range anti-aircraft missiles were being delivered. This appears to be the first time since the American of missiles in Cuba.

For all this, Cuban refugee sources were reporting far heavier offensives from Cuba to Cuba and the arrival of far more communist "technical" advisers to Cuba. This could verify early in October, however, the refugee reports were not clear.

Confirmed now by United States air reconnaissance photos taken over Cuba, it is clear that American intelligence sources in their cautious desire not to fall for exaggerated reports may have seriously underestimated the buildup.

It is also clear that the Kennedy administration in making its decision to blockade Cuba was not based on the fact that American intelligence sources in their cautious desire not to fall for exaggerated reports may have seriously underestimated the buildup.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—The old step that President Kennedy has taken to "quarantine" Cuba will have consequences that no one can foresee in the immediate future. It is only a matter of time before the world spoken in the atmosphere of a tense atmosphere. It is a habit, but it has given me a bad name.

News Around Idaho

IDAHO FALLS, Oct. 27—Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. will mark the official opening of the new upper interstate highway 15 between Idaho Falls and Blackfoot. The opening will take place in a ribbon cutting ceremony a quarter of a mile south of the Broadway interchange in Idaho Falls.

BOISE, Oct. 27—American Legion members and wives from 15 Western states will attend conferences on rehabilitation and housing for veterans today. The opening ceremony will be held at the convention center Nov. 7-10. Lou Babbs, Idaho state Legion adjutant, said the conferences will be held in the Legion's western area. About 250 persons are expected.

BOISE, Oct. 27—The Idaho School Trainers association appeared unanimously today a resolution opposing any further federal aid to public schools. Action on the resolution came at the district meeting of a two-day meeting here. Elmer S. Crowley, executive secretary of the Idaho Education association, a morning speaker, urged the trustees to oppose efforts to establish teacher unions.

POCATELLO, Oct. 27—Charging that Idaho's libraries are trying to get along on far less than is necessary, El Oberler, Idaho State college librarian, said today that the library trustees have not helped the state's 10 libraries very much financially. Oberler was luncheon speaker today at a regional workshop for library trustees at Idaho State college.

MOUNTAIN HOME, Oct. 27—A civil defense plan that calls for possible evacuation of families to Nampa or Gooding has been developed for persons living here. The plan will take place in the event of a nuclear war. It has been distributed to all families on the base in recent days in light of the Cuban crisis, the base newspaper reports.

POCATELLO, Oct. 27—A new dimension of creativity and freedom for teaching here by a national organization through the increasing use of teaching machines and similar programs. The speaker was Dr. Robert E. Odier, assistant secretary of the National Education association's department of audio-visual instruction. He was featured speaker at the Idaho department of elementary school principals first annual meeting. It drew 150 persons to Idaho State college here.

Challenge Is Given T.F. on Hawley Vote

The Twin Falls Women's Republican club has accepted a challenge from the Cassia county club to produce more votes for Jack Hawley than any other county in the Gem state, Mrs. Alfred May, president of the Twin Falls group, announced Saturday.

Hawley, a Boise attorney, is seeking election to the U.S. senate against incumbent Frank Church. Mrs. Barnett said.

"Because of the tremendous impetus Hawley has made on the voters of Cassia county, women there are conducting a door-to-door campaign to let the people know about the candidate," Mrs. Barnett added.

GOP Motorcade Set for Monday

A "meet your candidates" motorcade will operate Tuesday in Twin Falls, sponsored by the Twin Falls County Republican central committee.

All county, state and national candidates will participate in the motorcade. The group will leave the Republican headquarters at 8 a.m. and proceed to Murtaugh. It will then return to Hansen and Kimberly, reaching Twin Falls at noon. The caravan will be in place at 3 p.m. in Buhl at 3 p.m. and arrive at Castletown at 4:30 p.m. The motorcade will provide an opportunity for voters to meet Republican candidates.

An "old fashioned" rally will be held at 8:30 p.m. Monday on KLLC-TV. All county candidates will participate in the telecast.

Workshop Is Held by 45 Librarians

BURLEY, Oct. 27—Approximately 45 Idaho Valley librarians and library staff attended a trustee workshop Friday at the Ponderosa Inn, arranged by Mrs. Leon Street, chairman of Burley Public Library board.

Purpose of the workshop, she said, was to explore ways to make public libraries more significant to the community.

A coffee and refreshment period was held at 9:30 a.m. at the Anne Parke room of the Ponderosa Inn. Participants and guests were introduced and welcomed by Mrs. Street at 10 a.m. in the conference room of the Ponderosa Inn.

Mrs. Gertrude Newcomb, Boise, chairman of the Idaho State Library board, told the group that like the post Ruskian she "wished she could spread the seeds of libraries across the land."

One reason she brought out for good libraries is that "the United States could make life and death decisions for the whole world and good decisions be made on good information."

Shirley Hake, Boise, spoke to the group on the library service. Helen M. Miller, Idaho state librarian, Boise, said in an afternoon session that out of 46,000 people in Magic Valley that could hold library cards only 18,000 have them.

At the luncheon Mayor J. L. Salmon spoke briefly on civil defense and the present world crisis.

Mrs. Rachael Fenke, Boise, extension librarian, conducted a discussion on "Do we want good library service, or do we have good library service?"

Shoshone Youth Injured in Game

SHEOSHONE, Oct. 27—Bill McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McKay, is the Arco hospital for treatment of an injury he sustained in a football game between Shoshone and Halley high schools. He was taken there by his parents after developing a high fever.

The exact extent of his injury is not known at this time, to be determined from an X-ray specialist's report. Young McKay collided with another player and fell on his chin and face.

Accidents Hurt 2 in Buhl Area

BUHLE, Oct. 27—Two West End residents were hospitalized Friday afternoon as the result of farm and school accidents. Both were reported in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial hospital, Twin Falls.

Donald Thomas, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thomas, Buhl, fractured his ankle bone when he stepped over a hole while working with students on the high school grounds Friday noon. He twisted the ankle and then fell on it according to his mother.

X-rays were being taken Saturday on the Thomas youth's ankle and surgery may be necessary to install a pin, his mother said.

Guy Martinson, Castletown, caught his right thumb in a potato piler at the Billoe-Bassett Produce company where he is employed.

Jerome Reports Two Accidents

JEROME, Oct. 27—Two minor accidents were reported in Jerome Wednesday. A. C. Renegar, 30, Jerome, was driving a 1961 Ford which backed into a parked 1968 Chevrolet owned by Harold Otto, Jerome.

The accident occurred at 8 p.m. at 108 West avenue G. There was no damage to the Chevrolet and the right front fender and bumper of the Otto car were damaged.

At 8:55 p.m., a 1960 Cadillac driven by James H. Benham, 39, Jerome, collided with a 1958 Ford owned by Fred Kiser, Jerome. Miss Crisp told officers she swerved the wheel to avoid hitting a dog.

Arizona Man Held Here for Other States

A former Phoenix, Ariz., man arrested Friday afternoon in Twin Falls on charges of child stealing in Arizona and embolism in Salt Lake City, remained in Twin Falls county jail Saturday awaiting possible extradition by Arizona authorities.

George A. Buchanan, 23, was arraigned late Friday before Probate Judge Zeo Ann Westberg on a fugitive warrant and bond, which has not been posted, was set at $1,000.

An arrest warrant issued by Phoenix officers, charged him with taking his 4-year-old son from Aunt Anna's nursery while the child was in legal custody of Peggy Sue Buchanan, his divorced wife. The Twin Falls county sheriff's office received word Thursday that Buchanan was staying in a local hotel.

He is also wanted by Salt Lake county Sheriff George Beckstead for embezzlement of a Weibor tape recorder and speaker. Salt Lake officers are reportedly in the process of obtaining an embezzlement complaint against him.

Shirley James H. Benham said that location of Buchanan's son is not known and that he would continue investigation.

Telephone Cable Is Repaired

BURLEY, Oct. 27—Telephone service in the Burley-Burley area, disrupted when construction workers severed a 300-pair cable, was fully restored by 8 p.m. Friday, according to W. W. Clark, Twin Falls district manager for the Mountain States

Telephone and Telegraph company. The cable was cut by equipment of the Davis Construction company, Provo, which is installing lines for the clearance call out of Burley. Busy wires were severed and had to be routed through Twin Falls.

Republicans Talk at Rally At Hagerman

HAGERMAN, Oct. 27—A rally sponsored by the Snake River Republican Women's club was held Wednesday at the American Legion hall, honoring candidates of Goodhue county.

Mrs. Alfred Sandy, president of the Hagerman club, gave the welcome. She introduced Mrs. John Faulkner, president of the Goodhue Republican Women's club; Mrs. E. E. Brack, president of Wendell's club, and Mrs. Ray Peterson, Goodhue county committee woman.

Mrs. Sandy also introduced Emerson Pagmire, county commissioner, who introduced the candidates. They were Harold Butler, state senator; Clyde Heston, state representative; Bill Jackson, county auditor; Wes Troutman, assessor; Catherine Stone Roberts, county treasurer; Jerry Renfrow, county commissioner; Keith Anderson, sheriff, and James O'Connell, probate judge, who commented on amendments to be voted upon.

Goosick introduced John Sandborn, and Alex Coleman, Jerome, who was the speaker.

Coleman said that the Burns Creek project could not be justified on a financial basis, nor on basis of reclamation. He stated that there was flood control involved and that it would be a 50 per cent public power project.

Even as a strangle power dam, Coleman said, it would not earn the interest on the money involved, even at the absurdly high interest rate which the government would be charged. He stated there would be an annual net loss to the taxpayers of $300,000.

Coleman further stressed that the dam would produce agricultural water and that it would be a 50 per cent public power project.

He said that he thought that the dam would produce agricultural water to produce electricity at the Burns Creek project would be an excellent use of Idaho water to produce natural resource.

Stacy said that he is unalterably opposed to the bringing in of Bonneville power. Coleman said he felt sure that under such conditions, Idaho could be robbed of her water by California, through the Bonneville power network.

The low cost of Bonneville power is created at taxpayer's expense, he said, and the cost of bringing such power into the area would be prohibitive at the rates intended to be charged. The taxpayer will have to make up the difference, the speaker declared.

Coleman stated that the elimination of the taxes paid by private power companies through the introduction of taxpayer-subsidized public power would work an immediate and huge increase in the taxes paid by the people now served by private power companies.

Mrs. John W. Jones and Mrs. Louise Conrad were in charge of refreshments.

Mrs. Conrad and Mrs. J. R. Rutsell were assisted by Mrs. Brenda who presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Faulkner at the silver coffee service.

Hostesses were Mrs. Sandra Mrs. Harry L. McWayne, Jr., and Mrs. D. H. Gold.

T. F. Youngsters to Assist SOS Drive Halloween Night

Chances are, if you hear a rap on the door Halloween night and open it to see, not a ghost or a mischievous witch, but a neatly dressed youngster holding a milk carton, you will have received a good deed for the day.

One of approximately 150 young people participating in the Share Our Surplus drive sponsored by the Twin Falls Ministerial Association, will be on duty Sunday and Halloween night.

Humorous Skit Given at College

Proper and improper methods of office administration and conduct were presented during a skit Wednesday by students of the Twin Falls business college. It was written in a humorous style by members of the secretarial practice class.

The skit portrayed telephone and receptionist techniques of a poor secretary as contrasted to an excellent secretary. Participating in the skit were Vicki Stanley, Carol Blacklock, Mary Knowlton, Sue McCoy, Sue Bartholomew and Patsy West. Mrs. Davis Turner is secretarial practice class instructor.

Randee Wilson, educational administrator, outlined for the students the "positive" program of the college in which each month a personality quality is chosen. The special qualities are grooming, dependability, professional interest, cooperativeness, versatility, initiative, community interest and quality of work. Students demonstrating these qualities best are spotlighted each month for special attention.

Chamber Says Sales Plans Against Law

Chain referral scheme will be unable to realize the commissions promised because of the unavailability of enough prospects to keep a chain going indefinitely. When promises of large rewards are made to induce participation, in the full knowledge that they cannot be realized by representations to the contrary are fraudulent within the meaning of the postal statutes.

Chain referral sales plans are violative of postal fraud and lottery statutes, according to William Grange, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Grange warned local merchants and consumers that, according to the National Better Business Bureau, the United States post office department has ruled that the typical chain referral sales plan has the three essential elements of a lottery—prize, chance and consideration, and is fraudulent in design and intent.

In a recent typical chain referral case, the postoffice department ruled that the purchase of an article constitutes "consideration," and the promise of a prize is a lottery. The element of "chance" is present in the chain referral scheme because the amount of reward available to participants depends upon the efforts of others over whom the participant has no control, and is therefore a matter of chance. Hence the chain referral sales plan is a lottery.

Although the postoffice department is required to establish that a promoter has intent to defraud, it may infer that a promoter is aware of the fact that some participants in a

Woman Thanks Local Youth For Helping With Hurt Dog

Editor, Times-News:

I want to take this opportunity to publicly thank Chris Talkington for being such a fine young man. It seems we don't take time out to praise our youth when they do some fine upstanding thing but we find time to condemn them when they are in error.

Just two weeks ago at dusk, our pet Pekinese ran across the road in front of Chris' car. We don't know if the car bumped the dog or ran completely over him, but he ran to the lawn and laid down and it looked like the dog was breathing his last.

Chris stopped his car and came over to me where I had gathered the dog up in my out-door shirt and asked what he could do and took the responsibility of driving me, my little boy and the injured dog to the veterinary. The veterinary said there were no broken bones and no serious internal injuries, then treated the dog for shock with Chris assuming responsibility for everything.

So, thanks to Chris' quick thinking and responsibility, we now have our little dog, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Talkington are doing a mighty fine job of raising a son.

Congressmen Hit For Liberal Use Of Mail Franking

The passage of the new postal rate bill by the 86th congress was hailed by the defunct-Postoffice department as a step in the right direction. However, most people don't know that this same 86th congress, Democrats and Republicans alike, had a franking bill for this year of $3,000,000 one million more than for the previous year.

I am well aware that this is a part of our great interstate highway system. Mr. Hinkle takes full credit for building these roads. This is actually an untrue statement as Idaho could never have afforded to build this interstate highway system.

Can You Afford HIGHER TAXES

to give someone else subsidized electricity?

Bringing tax exempt Bonneville power into Southern Idaho—as proposed by some political candidates—deserves a close look by every citizen.

There is no magic about Bonneville power. It is an example of the federal government in business. It is subsidized by taxpayers. It pays no taxes. It operates at a mounting deficit.

It serves no homes, no farms, no commercial establishments. It delivers electric power below cost to a few large industries and to a few "preference customers" who profit by tax avoidance.

The beneficiaries of the subsidy, and they are a small minority, take their advantage from the pockets of the tax-paying majority. Because these "preferred customers" avoid taxes, you must inevitably pay more.

Substitution of tax-exempt power facilities for those of investor-owned companies deprives state, county and local government—including school districts—of tax revenues upon which they rely.

Idaho Power Company's state and local taxes last year amounted to $64 million.

McCullum Shines As Bruins' Title Hopes Dashed

The Borah Lions, getting alert play from their defensive line, hanged out Twin Falls Bruins 36-19. Friday night was wrapped up another Southern Idaho conference football championship. A pair of pass interceptions, both run back for touchdowns, and a safety accounted for this difference in scoring in the game.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY Another change in Magic Valley athletic scene has come up this year with the Declo team moving into the double A classification at tournament time. Declo finished second in the 12A on counting 12-0 over the limited allowed for remaining in the single A classification. The split came as 12A for class A, 250 for class A and 300 and over for triple A.

The projected enrollment indicates we'll climb up a while. 1934 and stay there for a while, Turner said. We're not too happy about moving up because with 136 students we'll be competing against schools with 200 and more.

Valley, which was expected to cover the class AAA standard this fall, stayed in class double A for basketball but moves up to class A in track. The basketball team is scheduled to play 25 between class A and B.

Meanwhile, Wayne Fagg, Wendell fourth district principal, has been awarded the enrollment figures of Piser to see whether the Wildcats enrollment will assist them in the triple A ranks. Piser passed the test with 326 students in the top four grades. Coach Bill Heise reports that the school seems to be in a plan which will maintain the necessary enrollment for the next several years.

Purdue Turns Iowa's Mistakes Into Win

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 27 (UPI)—Ball hawking Purdue capitalized on Iowa's season-long habit of giving the ball away today and handed the Hawkeyes a 26-3 defeat before 60,000 disappointed homecoming fans. Purdue, notching its second Big Ten win without a loss, broke a close game open in the third quarter and scored twice on drives set up by an intercepted pass and a personal foul penalty.

Stovall Leads LSU to 23-0 Gator Rout

BATOR ROUGE, La., Oct. 27 (UP)—With All-America candidate Jerry Stovall spearheading the attack, Louisiana State whitewashed Florida's husky Gators 23-0 in a crucial Southeastern Conference game tonight.

Stovall, a 195-pound senior from West Monroe, scored twice for the sixth-ranked Bronchos on a run and again when he snared a 15-yard pass.

As usual, the elusive Stovall—LSU's "Mr. Do Everything"—came up with clutch plays for the Tigers, who beat Florida by the identical score last year.

The victory, LSU's fifth in six against the Gators, set the stage for next Saturday's traditional battle here, with undefeated Mississippi. The Tigers' only blemish is a 6-6 tie with Rice.

After the Tigers secured assured victory in tonight's clash, fans started chanting: "Go to hell, Ole Miss, go to hell!" The Rebels defeated Vanderbilt tonight.

LSU coach Charlie McClendon used his well-tested "keep the ball" formula to overpower the Gators. The Tigers had control of the piskin about two-thirds of the contest.

The deepest penetration that the Gators made was to the LSU 23 on their first set of plays. At that point, they lost the ball on downs.

The Gators, whose record is now 3-2, scored 24 points in their previous two games. Senior quarterback Lynn Amodeo and Jimmy Field unleashed a potent passing attack. LSU's best aerial assault this year, Amodeo booted a 29-yard field goal in the opening stanza after Field had clicked on tosses of 24 and 29 yards to Stovall.

In the second period, the Tigers drove 80 yards in 16 plays with so team halfback Bob Campbell waiting over for the final pass to give LSU a 10-0 intermission edge.

Field threw 13 yards to Stovall in the first quarter. Their touchdowns in the third period, Florida end Tom Gregory was lamming on Florida's arm and the 195-pound quarterback was able to complete the throw.

Stovall's deft run in the final period completed the Tiger scoring.

After a scoreless first quarter, Montana broke ahead with a 65-yard drive capped by fullback Ron Werba's plunge from one yard out, on an attempt run for the first time.

Mira Wings Hurricanes Past Cadets

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo., Oct. 27 (AP)—George Mira's razor-sharp passes, carrying out the crucial yardage in all three touchdown marches, swept the Miami Hurricanes past the Air Force Academy, 21-3, at the wind-blown Falcon football stadium today. The Miami quarterback set up the crucial yardage in all three touchdown marches, swept the Miami Hurricanes past the Air Force Academy, 21-3, at the wind-blown Falcon football stadium today. The Miami quarterback set up the crucial yardage in all three touchdown marches, swept the Miami Hurricanes past the Air Force Academy, 21-3, at the wind-blown Falcon football stadium today.

After that, however, the big Miami line and the deft passing of Mira proved too much for the under-manned Falcons. Miami scored a touchdown late in the second period to lead, 7-3, at halftime, and then added the two clinchers in the third period. The 6-foot, 175-pound Mira, although completing only 5 of 14 passes for 74 yards in the first half, connected on 3 of 4 for 44 yards against the wind in the first scoring march. Fullback Ken Hunt smashed three yards for the score to end the 14-yard drive.

Mira carried the Hurricanes 57 yards in 10 plays for their second touchdown which scored on a 39-yard pass. The five-armed Mira connected on 3 of 4 passes for 30 yards in taking Miami to 10-0 in the final quarter. The big play was a six-yard pass to end the game. The touchdown on fourth down, it was Mira's eighth touchdown pass of the season.

Planning Is Needed for State Wildlife

GOODING, Oct. 27—Need for range planning and careful management of Idaho's wildlife resources was stressed here last night by John R. Woodruff, director of the Idaho fish and game department, at a Landholder-Sportsman council dinner. A crowd of 150 hunters and farmers attended the special event, which was aimed at promoting better relations between the two groups. The theme was "Let's get a better picture of the state's wildlife resources and the need for better planning and management." Woodruff noted that the demand on Idaho's wildlife resource will continue to increase as the population expands and there is more leisure time. At the same time, he noted the state's wildlife resources are being limited due to urbanization and cleaner farming practices among other things. Woodruff noted these facts challenge the management practice of the fish and game department and also placed pressure on sportsmen to observe good hunting ethics to keep open as much hunting and recreational area as possible. Continuing he said the department by introducing new birds and animals into the state, can help meet the increase of demand for more of these sports. He cited the introduction of chukar partridge as a shining example of the state's success in hunting and birding. The state is trying to bring wild turkeys to sufficient population to go on the game bird list.

Pheasant Opening Is Considered Success

A large army of hunters ran into large numbers of pheasant in Magic Valley Saturday and the result was the best opening day hunter success in four years. The average hunter success in five Magic Valley counties was 1.1 birds per man—"quite definitely a good solid success," reports the Idaho biologist Charles Blake, Jerome, Idaho fish and game department. "If it hadn't been for one season, it would have been a very average day," said Blake. The best hunting was found in Blaine county where 18 hunters checked out with 232 birds—most of the best results recorded in this area for several seasons. The average was 1.7 birds per hunter. The District area proved better than a bird per hunter. The checking station south of Gooding with 13 birds per hunter. Each of Gooding checked out 12. The fly in the ointment was the Twin Falls station which had 1.1 birds per hunter. At the 200 hunters took out only 10 birds. Blake warned hunters not to expect this to continue even through Sunday. "We must realize that these pheasants are just for the first half of year hunting, the pheasants went to bed a lot earlier and will be another story," he said. "Hunting success is bound to drop a certain percentage."

400 Books of Stamps Given For Stadium

A project of the Twin Falls high school Brain Boosters group to finance seating at the school's new football stadium through trading stamps was successfully kicked-off Friday night at the Bruins' last home game, with about 400 books of stamps collected. Mrs. Henry Woodall, chairman of the Boosters' project, reported Saturday that more books are expected to be gathered from students during the next week. Stamp collectors can place either stamps in books or loose and unsealed stamps in the books. Loose stamps will later be placed in books by a group of junior high school students. About 5,000 books of stamps will be needed for the project which will furnish seating for 3,000 persons at the stadium. Seating capacity at Lincoln field, currently used for high school football games, is only 2,200.

Penn State Outlasts California by 23-21

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 27 (UPI)—The Penn State football team defeated Roger Kochman and the Bruins of California to full advantage today for a 23-21 victory over a stubborn Berkeley underdog California club that ended a record-setting season with a 200-pound senior halfback who paced one scoring effort and tied a touchdown. The game was the only one of the season in which one of the Penn State six players scored for 11 yards for a total of 285, two more than the total score set by Jerry Drentas of Oregon State in 1954. After a scoreless opening period in which Penn State absorbed 65 yards in penalties, the Nittany Lions marched 80 in the second quarter. Dave Hayes plucked the final yard and Center hit the 100-yard mark. The Bruins' field goal for a 10-0 lead after Junior Powell kicked a 30-yard field goal at the Cal 45 and returned it to the 35.

Top Rated Texas Held to 14-14 Deadlock by Inspired Rice Owls

HOUSTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Randall Kerbow passed 18 yards to Ronnie Graham and clinched a 57-yard fourth period touchdown drive and gave the underdog Rice Owls a 14-14 tie tonight with the Texas Longhorns, the nation's No. 1 collegiate team. An overflow crowd of 73,000 saw Rice, with nothing behind to record the first 100-win season on its four-game season record, surge from behind to record the first 100 meetings between the traditional Southwest conference rivals.

Northwestern Bombs Notre Dame by 35-6

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 27 (AP)—Defeated Northwestern's brilliant Tom Myers-to-Paul Flitney passing combination, clicking twice for touchdowns, swept the nationally third-ranked Wildcats to a record 35-6 triumph over slinky Notre Dame.

Flitney, the nation's third best passer, made several circus touchdowns for 102 yards, including a 49-yard scamper by Paul Flitney, a 20-yard scamper, but Texas roared back to a 14-14 advantage as Tommy Ford scored one touchdown and set up another with a 55-yard punt.

Rebels Crush Vanderbilt by Score of 35-0

MEMPHIS, Oct. 27 (AP)—Rush, kick and pass attack of the Rebels in the nation, spared neither power nor pass in smothering Vanderbilt's defense. The Rebels' number two quarterback, Jim Weatherly, also wooed himself, hitting end Woody Evers for 102 yards and a touchdown and setting up another. The Rebels' number two quarterback, Jim Weatherly, also wooed himself, hitting end Woody Evers for 102 yards and a touchdown and setting up another.

Celtics Whip Syracuse 118-98

BOSTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Boston Celtics took over their familiar perch atop the National Basketball Association's eastern standings Sunday when they topped the Syracuse Nationals 118-98. Boston's first loss for Syracuse in four starts while Boston remained undefeated in three games. Boston's vaunted bench gradually were down the Nats in a rough and tumble game. The Celtics' scoring was well divided with Tom Sanders, Sam Jones, Tom Heinsohn and Bill Russell leaders at 17 points apiece. Also a major factor was Celtics' 22 rebounds. The high man for the Nats and the game was Lee Schaffer, who tallied 21.

PLACES TO HIDE are still numerous adjacent to the Massacre Rocks site in U.S. Terry, Twin Falls, finds while he visits the area. His great-uncle and grandfather and grandmother on his mother's side went through this area in a wagon train in 1862. TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, OCTOBER 28, 1962

MORE ACTIVE HALLOWEENS, now long past, were in the mind of J. A. Cederquist, Twin Falls business man, when this picture was snapped. This would put the time of the original picture back about 1907 for Cederquist, who recalls the practice was a frequent, but not appreciated by the owners' pastime.

Hobgoblins Will Prowl Area on Halloween

Next Wednesday evening you never, one might question how many have a good coat of wax might do when that one hobgoblin is having trouble keeping his pants up or his nose clean. Shortly after the young hobgoblins hit the hay with a sack full of goodies and the possibility of a good stomachache in the morning, the older witches will venture on the street. The older characters aren't interested in plundering the helpless victims of the Magic Valley, as a rule, but they are out to raise a little heck. Window soaping is more in their line, or upending something. A few of them will be out trying to top the previous year's tricks and attract the attention of the local police without really breaking the law. There will be a few old-timers who will be chatting with other old timers, telling of stunts and events they once undertook. All night long there will be the thumping of big and little feet on the lawn and on the sidewalk.

There will be the doorbell ringing and no one there. There will be older and doughnuts to eat and drink. There will be plenty of mischief all night long. But, most of all, there will be an opportunity for many children to let off a little steam without getting into too much trouble. Perhaps it is a wise idea to let off steam in this modern day and age and to think it all began many years ago.

Gem Director Was Chief's PT Captain

BY NORMAN MARTIN
BOISE, Oct. 27 (AP) — Idaho's new civil defense director was commander of the nation's first PT boat school and taught a young man named John F. Kennedy how to use the swift, offensive weapons.

Rear Adm. William S. Specht, retired, 59, said he later followed the young navy lieutenant to the South Pacific to take command of a PT raiding squadron.

Kennedy had already written the draft for "PT 109" before Specht got there since Specht went on and was awarded the legion of merit with a gold cluster for his small boat attacks on Japanese shipping.

Draft Written
"Kennedy was recuperating from his experience when I got out to the South Pacific," Specht said. "Then he was sent state-side and the next thing I heard of him he landed in Congress. So I've been keeping an eye on him ever since."

Specht was Idaho civil defense commander once before. He served from 1955-58 then was named director of state surplus property, then named commander again to replace Col James Keel, Jr., who resigned.

Six Feet Tall
Specht is six feet tall, gentle spoken, raxed looking, and concerned with the background situation of Cuba viewing of a shadow in the background.

He was born and raised in the Caldwell area. He attended the navy school at Annapolis from 1927-31.

He was commander of the PT training center at Newport, R.I., when PT boats started proving their attacking ability.

Commanded Center
He was commander of a small squadron of them when Pearl Harbor was bombed. Later in the war he served on heavy cruisers and battleships in the Pacific.

At the end of the war Specht was executive officer of the old Pocatello naval ordnance plant.

Retired in 1949
He was retired in 1949 after 26 years in the navy. He took his family to Challis, and tried cattle ranching until "the cold winter made me change my mind." Then he moved to Boise.

Specht doesn't have a fallout shelter and says he's sorry he doesn't.

"We have a good basement," he said. "We're going to fix it up with the necessities. I told my wife about that."

Need for CD
His wife is Jane, mother of Arthur, 28, a marine; Marie, wife of the California state department of health, and 16-year-old Martha, a Borah high student at Boise.

Specht thinks the present crisis brings out the need for civil defense measures," he said. "Actually, civil defense is something that should be practiced every day, not only because of a crisis."

Sorrows, Joys of Oregon Trail Life in 1862 Told

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

News traveled slowly when wagons were using the Oregon Trail. In fact it was so slow that a member of a wagon train just hours ahead of one ambushed at the "Gate of Death" near American Falls failed to hear of the massacre until 15 years later.

This, and other information, is contained in a story of a trail trip made in 1862 by the late Mrs. C. W. Walton, great-aunt of U. N. Terry, Twin Falls business man, in the same train were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ulmer, grandparents of Terry on his mother's side. But it is the story of Mrs. Walton, who died in Seattle in 1943 at the age of 96, that relates details of the overland journey.

For some reason she did not relate, the train of which she was a member when she was about 15 years old, split up before reaching the Death Gate, now known as Massacre Rocks. This chance arrangement in all probability saved her life.

Just hours after the first section of the train went through the second section was "jumped" by Indians who had huddled nearby. The train now numbered, she said, 48 women. It was August a little over 100 miles. Outnumbered, the 48 defended themselves as could in a close battle. Sons, including a young woman who had been a friend, were killed or skinned was over.

SELECTED AS THE NORTHWEST'S most outstanding music seeler by the national Epilone society is Sharon Zlatnik, Twin Falls, who is a senior at Whitman college. The selection was announced in the organization's national publication. She was drafted from the local high school in 1958 and was Miss Twin Falls that same year. S daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zlatnik.

Former Miss Twin Falls Now Top Music Student

Sharon Zlatnik, Miss Twin Falls of 1958, has been named outstanding senior music student of the Pacific Northwest by Phi Epsilon, national music sorority.

Announcement of her selection for the high honor was made in the sorority publication, "The Triangle." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zlatnik, 240 "Elch" avenue north, Twin Falls.

As a result of her winning the Miss Twin Falls crown she received the scholarship of the local Lions club and used this, and other scholarships she was granted, to enter Whitman college, where she studied music and psychology.

She was graduated magna cum laude from Whitman this spring and is doing graduate work at the University of Washington in music and psychology. She is working toward a master's degree in both subjects.

A graduate of Twin Falls high school, she was concert leader for the orchestra for three years. Her early training at the piano was under the direction of local teachers including Mrs. Effie Hinton, Mrs. Margaret Watts and Mrs. Edith Foss.

At Whitman college she is president of the Arrow, honorary; a member of Sigma and Sigma Kappa; and junior honorary secretary of the student council, was listed in W in American College yearbooks and was a Phi Beta Kappa.

Among other things, she has a good background in campus production, and "Julius" and wrote sonata for her honors

JACK DAVIES, LEFT, MAYOR of Halley, receives the deed for the lot on which stands one of the oldest buildings in town from Everett B. Taylor, city attorney. The land was owned by Lucile and Leon Friedman who stipulate that the lot is to be used for a museum site and if the planned historical museum is discontinued, the site will be used for municipal purposes only. (Times-News photo)

ONE OF THE OLDEST BUILDINGS IN HALLEY, this adobe structure will be renovated for use as a historical museum. Deed for the lot was recently given to the city of Halley by Leon and Lucile Friedman, whose father, S. M. Friedman, used the structure as a storage building. The structure was originally built for a liquor storage warehouse and site was used by well known actors in the early 1890's. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Land on which stands one of the oldest buildings in HALLEY has been deeded to the city for use as a museum site, Leon and Lucile Friedman have presented the deed for the lot, located on highway 93, on Halley's main street in the center of town, to Mayor Jack Davies. They point out that the lot is to be used as a museum site and if at any time the museum is discontinued, the site will be used for municipal purposes only. The building is one of the three left standing which were constructed of brick made from adobe obtained from ground in the northern limits of the city. It is the only one on which the original adobe has not been covered. It was originally built for a liquor storage warehouse. The floor is worn from dancing feet of prospectors and their sweethearts of the early days. The small stage at one end of the hall accommodated, nationally known actors and actresses who came here to present their dramas during the 1890's.

Friedman, treasurer.

The HAGERMAN village clerk has moved. Misspelled persons are common to the law enforcement department now since the clerk's office has been in the postoffice building for as long as anyone in Hagerman can remember.

J. D. Ellis, Hagerman village clerk, has had his office moved from the postoffice building to the former emergency hospital building, directly behind the postoffice. By consent of stockholders, the city is using the building and will keep it in repair for the clerk's office.

Ellis has been clerk in the postoffice building since 1949. Prior to his term, George Jones was clerk, and before Jones, Van Heffer. The building was owned by Harry Frazer, who used it for a bank until the bank closed. It was village clerk, preceding Van Heffer.

The change has been brought about by the remodeling of postoffice building.

LEN JORDAN STANDS TALL IN WASHINGTON D.C.

JORDAN IS A RESPECTED STATESMAN After his successful term as Governor of Idaho, Jordan was twice appointed by President Eisenhower to national and international positions of great importance and responsibility.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"A Minister and Politics"

By REV. EARL W. RIDDLE, Pastor First Methodist Church. We find ourselves in a period of anxiety concerning the conditions of the world. We have mixed emotions upon the pending election of our candidates for peace with armaments. We find ourselves faced with the difficult question of deciding upon candidates for public office and yet we are called upon to decide in so many areas of our lives, we are affected by the decisions of others that we must take seriously those decisions which we can make for ourselves.

In a world of conflicting ideologies and causes clamoring for our allegiance, we know where we stand and for what we would be willing to give our lives. It is my feeling that too few of us know just where we stand in the world of today. What are our convictions that make life worth living? What are the actions that are required of us as responsible citizens in this world of God?

Amendments Approved by Area C. of C.

SHOSHONE, Oct. 27—Two of the Idaho counties amendments to be voted upon at the Nov. 6 election were approved by the Shoshone Area C. of C. One amendment was approved after a discussion at the luncheon meeting Tuesday noon. The amendments were S.J.R. No. 1, regarding Chinese or other Orientals, and S.J.R. No. 2, regarding the 60 days residence requirement for voters in presidential elections. Members opposed H.J.R. No. 10, which would elect the judges to constitutional courts, giving the legislature the power to establish courts inferior to the supreme court and provide for their jurisdictions.

Chamber members felt this amendment would take the matter from the local to a state basis and if their judges were to be appointed, it might become a political reward affair. They did not approve of the matter being taken from the local control.

Announcement was made that members will be contacted for prizes for the school's Halloween carnival.

A letter was read from the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce which stated that the centennial film "Idaho" is available to organizations upon request. A letter was also read from the Idaho-Eastern Oregon Development Council regarding a meeting to be held in Boise this week where it will be decided whether or not to continue with the organization, and if so, how it will be financed.

President Harry Thorne reported the chamber was well represented at the Lincoln County Farm Bureau's annual dinner election meeting and that the group spoke on the background and history of the college. Guests at the meeting included E. M. Tomlinson, Milo Davis, W. C. Sentien and Dr. Taylor, all Boise. Dennis Morgan of the Key club.

The group went on record expressing appreciation to the Union Pacific railroad for the new paint job done on the depot here.

... upon God. This does not mean that we leave all of the hard work to God but that we recognize that without a deeper relationship to Him, we are without the power to do anything. It is my conviction that we must continue to make that relationship to Him, we are without the power to do anything. It is my conviction that we must continue to make that relationship to Him, we are without the power to do anything.

Tom Driscoll Is Kiwanis Club Leader

PILER, Oct. 27—Tom Driscoll was elected president of the Kiwanis club at the Tuesday luncheon meeting.

Robert Moldenhauer was chosen first vice president; Keith Parson second vice president, and L. C. Boas, treasurer. Kern Thurman was appointed to the office of secretary by president Driscoll.

Service on the board of directors will be Orville Gaskett, Wilfred Herrett, Tom Putnam, George Ehrhardt, John Storza, Max Henry, Robert Graves and Robert Blawie, Jr.

William Bunce announced that the Kiwanis club has purchased four pairs of glasses for needy children since school started this fall.

Blakstock reported that he had met with the state highway department in Boise last week and that one of their engineers is at the intersection of Highway 93 and 50.

It was announced that Kiwanis rap shots will begin at noon on Sunday, Nov. 4.

Dr. James Taylor, acting president of Southern Idaho college, Buhl, was introduced to the group and spoke on the background and history of the college.

Guests at the meeting included E. M. Tomlinson, Milo Davis, W. C. Sentien and Dr. Taylor, all Boise. Dennis Morgan of the Key club.

IF YOU

CUSTOMERS NOW

6 YEARS AGO THERE WERE NONE

Six years ago, a new company was created... with no employees, no money, no customers, no plant facilities. A group of visionary, capable people accepted this challenge and have made Intermountain Gas Company the success that it is today!

INTERMOUNTAIN GAS COMPANY... the nation's youngest natural gas utility.

- Delivered natural gas to its FIRST customer in December, 1956.
- Has connected 36,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers in 6 years.
- Had less than $2,000 revenues for the year 1956. Gross revenues for the year 1962 will approximate $12 million!
- Has installed over 1,500 miles of distribution service lines, making natural gas available to 70,000 homes and businesses.
- Is delivering gas to 41 Idaho communities in a service area of over 46,000 square miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dashi of Twin Falls enjoy the distribution of natural gas to 35,000 customers of Intermountain Gas Company. Their new home, located at 2195 Alta Vista Drive, includes natural gas heating, water heating, cooking, drying and yard lighting. Pictured in photo above, left to right, are Carl Schwela, serviceman who turned on the gas at the Dashi residence, Mr. Dashi, Ken Houghton, Intermountain Gas Central Division manager, and Mrs. Dashi.

Korea Builds
Fun Area for
U. S. Soldiers

By CONRAD FINK
SEOUL, South Korea, Oct. 27 (AP)—Despite their stern austerity campaign, South Korea's military rule is getting heavily beat it can provide the American GI the off-duty fun he seeks.

The question between some Koreans—and many high-ranking U.S. officers—is whether the government will provide will conflict with what American mothers and church groups think the GI should get.

The answer may determine the success of Walker Hill, a plant in the center of the government building with 5.5 million dollars squeezed from South Korea's lean treasury.

It is named by the Koreans in honor of Gen. Walton H. Walker, who defended the Pusan perimeter in the early days of the Korean war and then drove to the Yalu River. Walker was killed in a deep encirclement north of Seoul in December, 1950.

Walker Hill, overlooking the Han river 10 miles east of the capital city, is scheduled to open in December and start gathering some of the dollars that many of the 20,000 U.S. servicemen in South Korea now carry to Japan.

Walker Hill's new beauty 150 acres will react vigorously, subsequently, he says. If there is prostitution or crooked gambling at Walker Hill, the entire complex will be declared off limits and the Korean government will be "out of luck as far as getting Ols is concerned."

Some U.S. servicemen say Walker Hill couldn't offer Ols anything not offered in most cities of the world and that Tokyo will remain northeast Asia's biggest attraction.

There also will be bars, night clubs, dice tables, roulette wheels, slot machines, card games and, according to informed sources, pretty business.

One Korean official says: "We wonder sometimes what all the money in Ohio and Pennsylvania will think."

Gov. Guy S. Meloy, top U.S. soldier in Korea, says he knows from long army experience that American mothers and church returned to Twin Falls, where she was graduated from high school with the class of 1934. After working in various occupations in Twin Falls she entered the WAC's in 1943. Upon completion of the basic training course at Ft. Des Moines, Ia. she attended the army administration school, branch No. 1, Noogdoche, Tex.

She was then assigned to the WAC headquarters company, 32nd service unit, Ft. George G. Meade, Md., and served as a finance clerk-typist in the accounting section until honorably discharged in July, 1945.

While residing in Twin Falls she was a member of the Twin Falls American Legion post and the Business and Professional Women's club. In 1941 she was married to Silvers, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Silvers, pioneer Murtaugh residents.

The couple moved to the Silvers family homestead in Murtaugh, where her husband farms. They are the parents of three children, Shirley, 13; Wilma, 11, and a son, Dana, 9.

Mrs. Silvers points out life on the farm demands a great deal of time but to keep up with the daily chores, so a hobby doesn't enter into the picture at present.

However, she has found time for considerable church and community work. She taught several years in the Methodist Sunday school and Vacation Bible school. The reporter also belongs to the PTA and the Murtaugh Orange as well as national made of the district in question. Both Edward Millard, ranger for the Twin Falls district, and Jack Lavin, recreational staff officer, among those making the inspection, said that there is no known cure for the disease.

Orange. She also has been a leader of a Blue Bird group and assistant leader of a 4-H club. Mrs. Silvers has been Murtaugh correspondent for about eight years and always looks forward to hearing from new as well as former contributors of news items.

To eliminate the disease, it is necessary to remove the trees which have been attacked, and this means practically all the alpine fir in the division.

It is the thinking of the officials at the present time that some burning will have to be resorted to after useable lumber has been removed. In such a controlled fire, the blaze is started uphill in a cleared area and burns downhill under guidance control.

The explanation given by officials is that the disease is a fungus type parasite spread by spores. It causes an exaggerated growth of the limbs or trunks of the tree and eventually kills it. The disease spreads rapidly.

To casual observers the great growth caused by the disease in parts of the tree resembles a great bird's nest.

In the fall the diseased areas of the tree appear brown but in the spring it turns a bright orange, the two officials point out. In the orange stage it has a disagreeable odor.

After diseased areas are burned over forest workers will plant Douglas fir trees, which are immune to this particular scourge. Although no exact count of dying or diseased trees could be given it is believed that they would number into the thousands.

Firm Is Checked
By T.F. Chamber

The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce recently has checked on a firm publishing a directory for businesses and professions, William Orange, secretary-manager, says.

The reply, from a Better Business Bureau in one of the larger Western cities, states, "The designation on the invoice, Western Union, is highly misleading inasmuch as this is a new business and has only sent a test mailing of 5,000 pieces."

Rates in the proposed directory appear to be quite high, and Orange advised that all major cities maintain libraries of a well-known national directory firm, making business and professional firm names available without the services of this new and untried firm.

RE-ELECT GOVERNOR ROBERT E. SMYLIE

HERE'S THE RECORD OF A SOUND AND PROGRESSIVE ADMINISTRATION

IDAHO HAS MADE STEADY GAINS WITH BOB SMYLIE'S LEADERSHIP IN:

- EDUCATION: Idaho now has stronger public schools, better paid teachers, new school buildings, a University and State College that meet the needs of a growing state.
- ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT: 40,000 new jobs since 1954! Personal income, Idaho's net worth, electrical energy output, natural gas consumption, irrigated land, number of industrial plants, manufacturing income, rate of population increase HAVE ALL INCREASED SUBSTANTIALLY UNDER BOB SMYLIE'S LEADERSHIP!
- AGRICULTURE: Wheat freight rates have been lowered. Meat inspection and warehouse inspection programs have given protection to the consumer and assistance to the farmer. Our biggest industry now has a vital and effective voice in state government.
- GOVERNMENT: Our budget is balanced. We have no unhealthy or unmanageable surplus. State departments work together as a team . . . are conservative with public money. And we have met the human needs of Idaho people.
- BUILDING PROGRAM: A grand total of $7,305,000 in new buildings and improvements completed or under construction since 1961. WITHOUT A GENERAL TAX INCREASE!
- HEALTH AND WELFARE: Public Assistance grants kept pace with rising costs . . . hospitals now have professional staffs. We have made a splendid beginning in community mental and public health care . . . medical-care program meets the needs of our older citizens.
- NATURAL RESOURCES: Our timber endowment managed in business-like fashion. We now harvest our forests on a sustained yield basis . . . we have a career forest service. Fish and wildlife resource has never been more prosperous. Water-rights protected.
- LAW ENFORCEMENT: All of the laws have been enforced with impartial vigor. The State Highway Patrol has been established as an outstanding career service.

● HIGHWAYS: During Bob Smylie's administrations as governor, 400 miles of Idaho Highways have been built or rebuilt to go from Boise to Hong Kong; from Lewiston to Tokyo; from Bonners Ferry to Berlin; from Pocatello to Rome; from Idaho Falls to Auburn . . . a total of 5912 miles of highway built or rebuilt.

Burley Football Coach Has Abandoned Task of Moving-up, Keeps on Winning

BURLEY, Oct. 27—At least a coach's job is to win. There is the perennial task of making champions out of small towns, moving up to a bigger school to produce more champions, and there always is the chance of "getting the ax" along the route.

Other high school coaches might worry about this kind of life, but not Rulon Budge.

Budge has been coaching high school athletics at Burley since the second season. He has never endured on the football field. He won three, lost three and tied one for an even season.

Since that opening season at Burley, Budge-coached teams always have been winners. Budge can recall one season when they lost four games out of a 10-game schedule. Otherwise, his teams have lost three games or less.

This is one reason why Idaho sports writers always rate Burley tough, no matter what anyone says. Budge's first love is football. He coaches basketball and has taken his turn with baseball and track teams.

Ask Budge how many football games he has won. Ask him how many years his teams have won or shared in the conference crown. Ask him how many players he has coached during his term at Burley. Ask him all this and chances are he can't tell you. Budge isn't interested in statistics. His usual answer, "Oh, we win out there."

Football at all levels is becoming more specialized. Contact the specialists with Budge's simple, fundamentally sound plays. Many of the offensive and defensive plays he is using are those he brought with him. His theory is this: If a play is executed properly, and the boys score, it's a team win. There is no reason why it won't work.

Burley football teams run a single wing offense with an unbalanced line to the right. Budge doesn't sit back and ignore new ideas. He tries them and fits them to his style. He believes football is a sound sport. "It teaches youngsters that if they are going to get ahead they'll take team work, individual work and nerve," he says. "I personally believe it does a boy good to take a few hard knocks and to dish out a few hard knocks."

People participating in high school athletics will get quite an argument from Budge. He believes that the President's Physical Fitness program is excellent. Often people think the only thing that will keep a boy in school and keep his grades up.

"Boys learn to work out many of their problems while participating in athletics," Budge notes. Often a conference with a boy will do a lot of good. High school athletes have come and gone during Budge's term at Burley. At present Budge is coaching children of many of his former players.

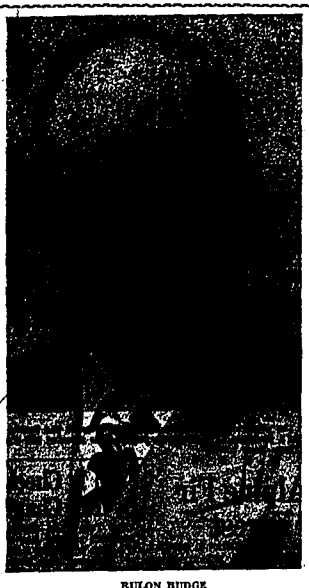

Budge was born some 55 years ago in Ogden. He attended schools in Ogden and Weber-Junior college. In his junior year he transferred to Utah State University. His first coaching assignment was Sugar City, in 1932. He coached there until he transferred to Burley in 1939.

A logical question would be, attended so many successful seasons at Burley why didn't Budge "move up." According to Budge he likes Burley, the school and the people. Often these days up are for fun money and simply prestige. None of the desirable factors of new job offers ever led, so Budge remained in Burley.

In addition to coaching, Budge is a member of the Burley Lions Club, was recreational director for the city and is active in church work. He gave up recreational work to become the golf pro at the Burley municipal golf course.

Golf is another reason why Budge has stayed close to Burley. The city has an excellent course and Budge likes to play golf. Budge's youngest son, Steve, has become quite a golfer around the state. "He's got to the point where I don't get him any strokes," says Budge.

In addition to his wife, there are four other Budge—two boys and two girls (Gaye and Marilyn).

RULON BUDGE

Gerald and Steve). As a rule, Budge and his teams finish the spotlight. However, this is not always easy to do. Winning the mythical state championship (just a few years ago) is no way to remain unknown. There are other state championship trophies in other sports. They stand as mute evidence that Budge's fundamentalists can win ball games.

There is one thing that puzzles the fans and, according to Budge, is puzzling to him, and that is to look in the stands and

GLADING FISH at the Hagerman hatchery are fish and game department workers Walt East and James Davley, right. During the 1950-60 biennium, over five million catchable-sized trout from six to 16 inches were produced in state hatcheries and released in Idaho streams, lakes and reservoirs. Probably another half million were planted within the state by other agencies. Under a new program for expansion and improvement of fish population to meet growing population pressure the goal is to increase the number of catchable-sized trout. Many streams are now flowing trout in more abundance than it could if it wasn't supplemented by plantings. The state operates 14 hatcheries to boost the supply of fish. (Fish and game photo)

Population Is Putting Pressure on Development of Gem Wildlife Areas

BY JIM HUMPHREY Idaho Fish-Game Department One phase of the new five-point program for developing Idaho's wildlife resources in the face of growing population pressure calls for the expansion and improvement of fish production and distribution.

The goal is to increase the number of catchable-sized trout. This means overhauling existing facilities in some places rather than big construction jobs to build more hatcheries.

Figures covering the 1950-60 decade show how fish production can be boosted without need for large capital outlay for new plants.

For example, the state hatchery production of rainbow trout alone soared from 191,380 pounds in 1950 to 484,548 pounds in 1960, an increase of over 72 per cent. This does not include fish raised by federal agencies and released the same years in Idaho waters.

Other hatcheries added another 33,514 pounds of rainbow trout in 1950, and 89,416 pounds in 1960. Actually the gain in numbers produced at the end of the decade was only about one and one-fourth million fish over 1950. The figures for state hatchery production are 4,772,275 in 1950. These numbers do not include other species of fish produced during those years. In those years of cutthroat, brook, brown, splanloope, kokanee, Mackinaw and golden trout, or warm water species such as largemouth bass.

Rainbows are much more adaptable to hatchery propagation and rearing than other species of trout. That, coupled with the demand of fishermen for more and their ability to adjust to a wide range of environmental conditions, explains why the bulk of hatchery-raised fish are of this species.

It is noteworthy that 1950 was not a poor production year. Hatchery production in pounds was that year more than doubled the 1940 mark, and was 148,000 pounds greater than in 1948. The number of catchable-sized trout six to 16 inches long, were from 317,418 in 1949 to 881,948 in 1950.

Thus the trend toward producing catchable-sized trout began soon after the close of World War II, when military personnel and industrial workers returned to Idaho. Likewise the increase in resident fishermen was paced by more nonresident fishermen in a pattern very similar to the Changing over from the production of millions of little fish to about the same number of catchable-sized trout and fish expansion work to handle the enormous greater production. It also required changes in distribution equipment, larger, improved hauling units, and the development of better fishing gear.

Current figures will not be available until later this month but, during the 1950-60 decade, over five million catchables were produced in state hatcheries and released in Idaho streams, lakes and reservoirs. Probably another half-million were planted within the state by other agencies.

Catchables are raised and released with the view that they soon will show up in the creel to provide trout fishing for better than a stream can naturally produce under heavy fishing pressure. Also the catchables take some pressure from native fish.

Having been protected and almost spoon-fed in the hatcheries from one to two years, the creel-sized rainbows not only have difficulty competing with wild species for food and resting places, but also tend to be more susceptible to the baited hook.

The first state hatchery was built on Silver creek about 15 miles from Idaho Falls. Now, more than half a century later, the fish and game department operates 14 hatcheries located at American Falls, Ashton, Clark Fork, Eagle, Grace, Hagerman, Henry Lake, Mackay, McCall, Mullan, Sandpoint, Twin Falls and Warm River.

These hatcheries produced over 31 million fish of all species and sizes during the 1950-60 biennium, a mixture of one and one-fourth million pounds. Production schedules are geared to planting season demands, that includes the restocking of lakes and streams following chemical treatment, as well as supplementing wild fish populations with hatchery stock on waters getting the brunt of ever-increasing angler pressure. Fish allocation is based on requirements of different waters. Decisions must be made about the species to be planted, sizes and timing. Such considerations require constant referral back to a big volume called a "catalogue of Idaho streams and lakes."

With the increased fish production, a new type of balanced diet, fortified with vitamins, has been developed in pellet and meal forms to replace traditional meats, alfalfa and other animal products. This not only increases the quality of fish, but also reduces labor costs. Moreover, it cuts down disease resulting from dietary deficiencies.

Shirley Risks Reputation in Research

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (CP)—Shirley MacLaine risked her virtuoso reputation for a role made more difficult by lollyering around the Parisian red light district for several weeks picking up information for her newest role.

Wide-eyed, button-nosed Shirley plays a prostitute in "Iris La Duce" and candidly admits her knowledge of shady ladies was limited to other portrayals she'd seen on the screen.

"I had to research those poor creatures for myself," she explained.

"The only answer was to go to their haunts and get a true impression of their attitudes and reasons for becoming hookers. I studied their attitudes, the way they walked and talked.

"Every night I got in a cab and drove down to Les Halles section of Paris—where Iris La Duce" takes place—and got to know some of the girls. They were perfectly willing to discuss their lives with me.

"One thing I discovered is that most of them have 12½ of about 3. They aren't very bright."

Shirley's project was not just a lark. She attacks her role with the dedication and tenacity of a Green Day Pecker's knock-out.

For "Gaiety," Shirley spent two weeks in a Tokyo Gaiety school, she talked to doctors and psychiatrists to learn about the kind of woman she portrayed in "The Children's Hour."

"The roles that are farthest removed from my own personality and character are the ones I seem to play most," she said.

Movie Schedule "West Side" Sample of Brilliant Moviemaking

BY IVAN LINGCO

Told against the background of New York City's turbulent, teeming west side, where teenage gangs are always on the brink of conflict, "West Side Story" is a masterpiece of direction, photography, sound, music, dancing and several other elements. But for all of its greatness and several well-deserved Academy awards (it won 10 of them) it is not completely free of error.

However, it does have a lengthy list of merits—most notably in the music, choreography and technical phases of its production.

The only two musical films which can be even slightly compared with "West Side Story" are "The Band Wagon" and "The Band Wagon," a bonafide choker of a few years back that had only one outstanding scene—some exceptional "contemporary" photography, and "An American in Paris," which also featured an exciting blend of great music and dance sequences.

"West Side" story is based on "Romeo and Juliet," with Richard Beymer (Tony) and Natalie Wood (Maria) playing the ill-fated lovers. A tenement house fire escape has been substituted for the balcony, and the drama and tragedy are still there.

Other stars in the film, now showing at the Idaho theater for a limited engagement, are Russ Tamblyn as the Jets' leader, the Jets—one of two opposing teenage gangs; Rita Moreno as Anita, the fiery-tempered Puerto Rican who becomes involved in a betrayal which triggers the film's final moments; and George Chakiris as Bernardo, leader of the Jets, Maria's brother and Anita's love friend.

It probably should be explained that Tony (played by Beymer) is Rita's best friend, but has been drifting away from the teenage gang and has even re-surrendered to the law. Do you candy store—something which the Jets apparently consider as scraping the bottom of the barrel. Maria (Natalie Wood) has been promised, before the film begins, to marry another boy—Chino (played by Jose de Vega).

With these as the central characters, the film settles down to action—plenty of it, mixed with Leonard Bernstein's magnificent music and the richest color photography ever screened. "West Side Story" was filmed in 70 millimeter Panavision, which utilized exceptionally fast film and resulted in the clearest, sharpest color photography possible.

It will not be shown in the original 70 millimeter process here, but even will lack the road show engagement's stereophonic sound, but even will reduce to a 35 millimeter film for projection purposes, the clarity and brilliance of the original.

Rita Moreno and George Chakiris are both winners with Oscars for their supporting roles in the movie, all but steal the show. Their Oscars were well-deserved ones.

However, nothing in the film can possibly surpass Leonard Bernstein's scoring, for which he received a special award from the Oscar people. His songs fit neatly in with the story's plot and dialogue — an unusual accomplishment in most musical films, where songs are generally grafted on to the main plot, only to give the scriptwriter time for a coffee break.

Besides the well-known "Maria" and "Tonight," the film also includes some other exceptional musical material—such as "America," a witty satire on life in America viewed by the Puerto Ricans; "Oce, Officer Krupke"; the Jets lampooning of the cop on their neighborhood; "I Feel Pretty," Maria's discovery that she must be in love; and "Somewhere," the ballet and dance sequences are brilliantly staged and add surprising realism to the film.

Another outstanding merit of the film, which also received an Academy award, was the work of the set designers. Some of New York City's slum area tenement buildings and run-down tenements probably were touched up a bit and the resulting backgrounds are remarkable.

The only glaring fault of the entire production—obviously by its presence throughout the film — is the casting of Richard Beymer as Tony.

(Standing in line at Grauman's Chinese theater while waiting to buy a reserved seat ticket, I overheard one woman mention to another, "I didn't know Richard Beymer could dance and sing." When it all over, it's discovered that not only can't he dance and sing, but he's actually done most of his dancing talents.)

Truly it is the casting blunder of the year, particularly for a film of its size.

If Hollywood ever gave away little gold statues for "Phases of a Moon" Production, which Contributed Greatly in Driving Moviegoers to Watch TV! the casting people would have received one for giving Tony's role to Beymer.

Aside from its technical and material attributes and/or faults, the "West Side Story" script succeeds in telling a hard-hitting and powerful story. There is violence and some people may even complain about a few lines of raw, outspoken dialogue, but the end result is a moral lesson.

Adults and teen-agers should find the film a rewarding experience and in a class by itself.

Warning: Don't go expecting an over-idealized, sentimental, or sentimental half-way through, as it's generally done most "roadshow" pictures. It's not as long as "South Pacific" or "Ben-Hur," and runs about two and one-half hours.

"New" Jayne Alters Attitude, But Not Famous Measurements

By VERNON SHOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP)—What is a "new" Jayne Mansfield?

Following her separation from husband Mickey Hargitay the bosomy blonde announced she was a changed woman. She was, in fact, a new woman.

If so, there appears to be nothing new nor rearranged about her superstructure. Her measurements are as awe-inspiring as ever, her voice filled with promise and her walk as wiggy.

Asked point blank about the "newness," Jayne responded:

"While I was in Italy this summer I discovered a whole new concept of life. It was like taking off a pair of dark glasses through which I had been looking at the world.

This was pretty heavy stuff coming from the Texas glamour girl.

"With it came the feeling that there is no necessity for displaying one's voluptuousness because it is no longer important," she explained. "It is better to have your soul on display than your bosom."

Jayne dispatched a vodka martini with a soul-stirring flourish could see that she was, indeed, a changed girl.

Did this mean that her famed plunging necklines would plunge no more? Would rumor spring which she had turned to falsies?

"I don't think so," Jayne said, again soulfully.

"Part of the new Jayne Mansfield is that I won't work at being a sexpot anymore. I guess I can't keep it from coming through, but it will have to come through a lot of material."

Here was a Mansfield death knell for her bikini swim suits. It was almost like watching Joe DiMaggio hang up his glove or hearing that Brendan Behan had taken the pledge.

Jayne herself was moved by the enormity of the occasion. She removed the olive from her second martini and set it on the table.

She finally broke the silence to observe: "The Mr. Mansfield will be playing some serious roles in pictures. I've had some wonderful critical reviews of my comedy parts, but now I want to use the training I got at three colleges, UCLA, the University of Texas and SMU.

"People don't think of me as a college girl, and I'd like to have a chance to prove that I can do just as well with dramatic roles as I have with comedy."

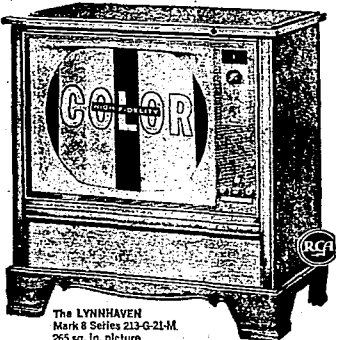

Jayne indicated she and the estranged Hargitay had no immediate plans for divorce. Neither are they particularly close to a reconciliation.

The question arose whether there was a place for the muscle man in the future of the new Jayne. Time in next week, however, Jayne won't really know until she has had time to live with her new image for a time.

Proof positive that a "new" Mansfield exists is a man named Curt Frings, her new agent. He

On My Own Time BY BOB HARTLEY

Advertising is a wonderful medium and probably as much a part of our lives as eating and sleeping. Certainly it is a vital cog in the machinery of our economy.

Advertising also can be a flink. As evidence of this we offer what may well be the rage next summer. A California firm that was behind the hula hula craze will offer to the colorful gadgeteers the "water wiggle," a device of absolutely no use to anyone but which probably will make the firm a gross in the millions.

Here's how it works: A hose is attached to the garden outlet, and when the water is turned on, the gadget will wiggle around the lawn. In the other end, the California firm says, is a "kookie face" crowned by a mop of black hair. If the company has its way, next summer it should be wiggling and spouting on every other lawn in the nation.

To say that gadgetry such as this is a disconcerting commentary on life in the affluent society is an understatement. It seems that when all legitimizing needs are provided for, things can only be kept moving through a constant and frantic search for the useless.

And it can only be kept up as long as advertisers hold the public in the illusion that the useless is not also pointless.

Eric Johnston, a moviedom official, says the movie ad-man's job is the toughest of all and he is right. Stags, think how many synonyms there are for "stupendous" and "colossal."

The nation should be up in arms over the Cuba crisis. Look at all the television shows that are being interrupted for news specials. And what ever happened on "Wagon Train" Wednesday night?

We're thoroughly burned up. We mean mad. Furious. Steaming.

"It serves the promoters of the Fuller-Tiger match right if they lost money on it. After the way they bungled the broadcast rights for the title fight they deserve to lose money. We cannot shed a tear in sympathy.

With millions of persons anticipating the match, only a handful was able to enjoy it. The rest had to wait 24 hours for full reports and be content until that time with reports that the final outcome required of persons, including promoters and boxers, are crying because boxing has lost face with the public. What better way to seal its doom than to keep the people from enjoying the match?

They deserve oblivion.

We understand Agate Valley authorities have sent a cable to Khrushchev telling him not to get excited—the armed men in southern Idaho this week-end are pheasant hunting, not red hunting.

There are many peculiarities in our society. One is the continued growth in the number of service stations in this vicinity and across the nation. No matter how saturated the market is, there always is someone willing to lease a service station and certainly always an oil company with a service station to lease.

The peculiarity that arises is that the car manufacturers are coming up with more gimmicks each year to reduce the need for maintenance of an automobile. Now you can get 30 miles per gallon of gasoline, you can take six months between oil changes, you don't need grease jobs, the final work required and the latest deal is a 50,000 mile warranty on some items. In fact the new slogan might be "see your service station attendant once a year."

Someone once said, "Where's it all gonna stop?" It's just one of the questions of our society that goes unanswered.

CBS did a tour of the White House with Mrs. Kennedy in 1961. NBC is hoping to tour the Kremlin with Mrs. K this year. Where's ABC? Probably still using that greasy kid's stuff or something.

In view of the current Cuban situation there have been requests that senators of Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders mail old diaries to Washington for study. Keeping this in mind, a logical excuse to set foot on Cuban soil would be to undertake the task of salvaging the diaries.

When Dr. Terrell Carver of the state health department was in town last week for a public hearing on pollution, we had hoped he meant it in relation to the pollution campaign. By election day we may need a political cleanup drive.

New Series Mixes Money And Mink With Moonshine

BY VERNON SHOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP)—A new television show will attempt to show that the city of Beverly Hills is a gracious setting for a bunch of Ozark hillbillies.

Titled "The Beverly Hillbillies" and starring Buddy Ebsen, the series takes a jaundiced view of diamonds and mink when mixed with moonshine and overalls. If it doesn't work the producers can always switch the locale to, say, Terre Haute, Ind., which is every bit as humorous as Beverly Hills.

Ebsen, a genuinely admirable man and skilled performer, is a prototype for his role—tall, sandy, lean and (at the moment) unkempt.

This despite the fact he is a native of Belleville, Ill., and a resident of Newport Beach, Calif. Because the new series will be peddled in England and Australia, where pounds sterling flow like an Ozark stream, the hillbilly patois will be low key. "I try to keep my voice just plain country," Ebsen said without trace of an accent. "If we used the real hillbilly lingo, it wouldn't be understood in those foreign countries."

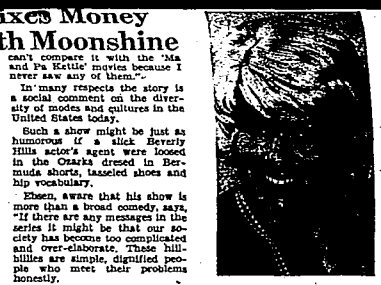

"See, the story is about a family who hits 25 million dollars worth of oil back on their farm. There are four of us: me, grandpa, Jethro and Ellie Mae. And I almost forgot cousin Pearl. You can imagine what happens when this bunch moves into Beverly Hills."

Ebsen hastened to assure this series is not a one joke show.

"The mountaineer I play is a man of great dignity and character. There are moments when he is funny, but he is the head of his clan and his word is final.

"It's nothing like "The Real McCoys." Ebsen said, "and I

LARGEST STEEL GIRDERS ever constructed in Idaho dwarf men working on them as Homer Stradley, shop foreman for Bell Manufacturing company, Twin Falls, looks on. The 25,000-pound girders are being constructed for contractors on a bridge job over the Snake river near Shelley. The bridge is a part of the interstate highway system. Officials of the local concern said 10 units will be made, averaging two a week. (Times-News photo)

IMPORTANT WHEEL gains the attention of Homer Stradley as he inspects end of one of the 25-foot steel girders being made by the Bell Manufacturing company for an Interstate highway bridge near Shelley. This wheel, which permits the great girders to be turned easily, was the "brain child" of Doyle Sillar, owner of a local wrecking company. (Times-News photo)

Local Company Manufacturing Largest Bridge Girders Ever Made in Idaho

The largest steel girders to ever be constructed in Idaho are starting to roll out of Twin Falls by truck.

Built by the Bell Manufacturing company for use in a bridge over the Snake river and a canal near Shelley, on the new interstate highway system, the huge steel girders are 120 feet long and five feet, five inches high.

Levi Thorneck, vice-president of the company, said the contract calls for construction of 18 of the steel girders and that four have been completed. With preliminary checks now out of the way, production has reached a two-week rate, with some 22 men employed on two, 10-hour shifts, six days a week.

A total of half a million pounds of steel will go into this job before completion, Thorneck declared.

Each individual beam tips the scales at about 25,000 pounds and two of them are transported by truck at one time.

The company official pointed out that the units are fabricated of high strength, low alloy steel which has 30 per cent greater strength compared to ordinary steel of the same weight.

The job is made more difficult because each girder must show a four-inch camber in the 120-foot length. The steel used is from the Columbus-Geneva plant near Provo, Utah, and the flange plates are from Seattle.

Thorneck said the work is being done in a leased location on Washington street because even the large headquarters plant did not have room enough for this work, along with other construction being carried on. Special equipment is used in the manufacturing, including a steel hoop welded to various portions of the girder, which permits it to be easily rolled for various welding angles.

This hoop, the Bell company officials said, was the "brain child" of Doyle Sillar, who operates a wrecking service in Twin Falls. The idea worked "like a charm" and without it the task would have been very difficult, Thorneck said.

Homecoming Set for Piler School

Activities will get under way on Thursday evening, Nov. 1, and will be followed by the football game at 1:30 p.m. when the Piler Wildcats will play the Challengers. Steve Annis is chairman for the parade committee. Decker and Jack Ramsey will be in charge of halftime services.

Honor Court Set Monday

SHOSHONE, Oct. 27—A court of honor for Boy Scout troop 102 will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Episcopal church Parish hall.

First class and life badges will be given as well as other badges and recognition awards. Slides taken of the troop at Camp Bradley last summer will be shown and refreshments will be served.

All Boy Scouts registered with the troops must attend if they wish to remain registered with the troop. Honors or other awards may be excused only by a letter from parents to the Scoutmaster.

All scouts, parents and family members are requested to attend if they have boys being advanced or not.

Richfield Lists Honor Students

RICHFIELD, Oct. 27—Supp. F. R. Briggs has announced the Richfield high school honor roll for the first six weeks.

Eva Kline, Manone Pope and Mary Chaffield attained highest honors out of a possible four-point achievement. High honor students were Janet Flavel, Sandra Stubbs, Dorothy Deeds, Elaine Davis, Lana Sanders, Tony Jansen, Lavey Jeffries, Elene Brush and Elaine Behr.

Honorable mention for a three point or better average went to Shirley Whiteall, Linda Riley, Caryl Sinclair, Dawnetta Latta, Glennie Cooney, Marilyn Crowther, Tony Ward, Karen Crowther, Marilyn Patterson, David Jeffries and Pete Appell.

Mrs. Max Behr and Mrs. Ralph Smith have been substitutes in the elementary faculty this week for Mrs. W. C. Flavel and Mrs. W. T. Flavel.

Ever So Gentle ... FLAMELESS electric dryer

Little Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Veal Rich, Meridian, helps her mother unload the dryer.

Fluffed and tumbled in warm, fresh air, clothes from a FLAMELESS electric dryer come out cleaner and fluffier than laundry dried out of doors... fluffier because of gentle tumbling in a continuous, soft breeze, cleaner because there is no exposure to wind and dust, soot, rain or snow... just sanitary freshness in filtered air.

The new electric dryers have settings for various fabrics, including the new synthetics. Unlike line-hung wash, clothes from the dryer are wrinkle free. Many items can be folded and put away without ironing.

Add to this the time-saving, work-saving convenience, the freedom from weather worries, and you'll wonder why anyone in this modern world would want to be without a modern FLAMELESS electric dryer.

DREADED SNAKE RIVER was the term used by the great son of U.N. Terry, Twin Falls, to describe the waterway the first saw in 1862 while a member of a wagon train bound for Oregon.

A copy of the story she wrote concerning the trip is now property of the local man. He visited the area around Massacre Rocks last week. (Times-News photo)

Story Relates Joy, Sorrow of Trail Life During Trip to Oregon in 1862

Lepi and an unidentified Indian, Mrs. Watson's friend was Elizabeth Adams, known as "Lizzy."

All the victims were buried along the trail in graves which have since been lost through time. Adams, Shepard, Winter, Bulminkle and Lepi were interred side by side. The Italian was buried among the rocks where the Indians had hid and Miss Adams was buried at Hat River, a few miles distant from the Massacre Rocks site.

Mrs. Watson was residing in Albany, Ore. 18 years later when she first heard of the massacre. A visitor from California who had met members of the Adams family who escaped being killed, told her the story. It was chance meeting as the California woman was visiting friends in Oregon at the time.

But aside from this narrow escape, the story written by Mrs. Watson is interesting as it relates life in those days when the possessions of a lifetime could be crowded into one wagon.

When the decision to go west was made the family was living in Georgetown, Wis., and news of the impending departure brought neighbors by the score to help prepare for the trip.

In her story, Mrs. Watson tells of the departure.

"One night Mr. Walton in April,

1862, there was standing in the streets of Georgetown, Wis., a little train of five wagons, all ready to pull out. Spring had come with all its beauty and friends gathered from the country round to bid us farewell; friends, alas, we were destined to never meet again.

"As the last hand was wrung and the last tear shed, the horse teams started, then, with the wain haul buck" from the drivers, the oxen began to push their noses, wheels began to roll, and we were off.

"My father had one spring wagon, drawn by horses for the family conveyance. So had George Patterson. The other three wagons were drawn by four yokes of oxen hitched to each wagon.

"My sister Nan and little George were to ride in the spring wagon with father and mother and Andy, so the little boys could be company for each other. They frequently begged to be allowed to get out to see if they could talk as fast as the oxen could go.

"She continues the story by relating that they later crossed a river and after traveling all day camped for the first night just 12 miles from the point they started.

"At this speed the road was long. In fact it was about four months before they reached Fort Hall and started to travel down beside the dreaded Snake river."

She recalled that across this section of Idaho water was scarce and that "it seemed to me that there was just trouble and trouble for weeks."

"Life in a wagon train, according to her story, was hard on the old folks and easy on youth. "Everyone was getting pretty tired nowadays, especially the old folk."

"None enjoyed themselves except the young people, and so say were the spirits of youth.

"Each night in camp well-niced youth organ, fiddle and concertinas playing an old-fashioned dance. (Editor's note: This was after the small train had joined with other wagons to form a large group.)

"Lovers laughed at hardships, told each other why the man in the moon smiled, and exchanged vows often rattled on the trail if a person could be found to tie the holy knot.

"Why not laugh and be glad? wasn't there a pot of fortune at the end of the rainbow trail? Yes, there was . . . and for some the arduous lay between them and the end. For others the rainbow hope spanned 20 to 40 years before that hope could be realized.

"Perhaps it is a good thing they did not know that, for the surplus of hope would not have been ample enough for the aight draft on reserves. Very few had even a hundred dollars each on their persons. They had expended all cash on stock and supplies to get across."

The story, as written by Terry's relative, is quite detailed and provides an insight into dangers and pleasures faced by those who traveled across this country before it was settled.

"Makes you feel that you are not doing very much on your own," said Terry after a visit to Massacre Rocks area where he visited in surroundings his great aunt and his grandparents had seen more than 100 years ago.

From all indications, his visit revealed that the only thing that had changed in all those years was the original "Gate of Death" had widened to make way for a great highway and that picnic tables were now present where pioneers had stopped to refresh themselves at a nearby creek.

Otherwise, he opined, Indians could still be hidden in the agalosa rocks.

COURSE SLATED

BURLEY, Oct. 27 — A one-day course in tax management practices will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at the Ponderosa inn. John H. Peterson, the A. Twigg in Falls, will be the discussion leader. Similar classes will be held in Moscow and Boise.

Grange Hears T. F. County Candidates

MURTAUGH, Oct. 27 — Twin Falls candidates in the Nov. 9 election spoke briefly at a meeting of the PTA this week.

Among those introduced by precinct committeeman John Savage, 22, and Ronald Goodman, R., were Russell C. Larson, William Pohlman, Democratic state representatives; Edward Babcock, state senator; T. W. Silvers, county clerk; and Jack Claborn and William Lanting, GOP legislative candidates.

The flag presented by Cub Scouts of ten five, pack 42, under the direction of Mrs. C. R. Morrill, den mother. Owing the pledge of allegiance were Charles Stovall, Lonnie Manake, Mark Stuffman and Mike Gott. Invitation was given by Ted Vance.

Mrs. A. E. Cummins, president, announced the community birthday calendar drive will be held Nov. 12 with the room mothers doing the soliciting. They will return to the school for lunch at noon.

The world globe, room count prize, was awarded to the seventh grade for the best parent attendance, percentage.

The program, presented by students of the second and seventh grades, included several song and dance numbers under the direction of Mrs. Morris Lattimer, second grade teacher, and Mrs. Harold Savage, seventh grade teacher.

Numbers presented by the second grades included a Chinese costume number.

The seventh grade students sang four songs and danced. Orla Collins, a student recently of Hawaii, narrated and gave the origin of the numbers.

Mrs. Dee Routt and Mrs. Howard Hix, second grade room mothers, served the refreshments. The PTA open house meeting will be held Nov. 28.

REASON FOR LAUGHTER is probably not shared by Roll, a German shepherd, caught in the process of mouthing his lips before taking a command in the German language from Thomas Howell. The dog accepts commands in both English and German thanks to Thomas who, when the dog was first brought home as a pup.

German Shepherd Takes Commands in Two Languages, Thanks to Local Boy

After all, a German should be able to understand German.

The Charles J. (Chuck) Elwell children, who reside with their parents at 148 Pierce street, were of the same opinion when their mother brought home a dog as a pet.

It was only a pup, but it was a cute and somewhat funny and the youngsters took to it at once. Ben Thomas, nesting 6 years old, was first to ask what kind of a dog it was.

His mother told him it was a German shepherd.

The youngster was switched from English to German in his conversation. The dog pricked his ears and wondered, "But today all that is changed."

Now the dog, called Roll, is a big, drooping animal of nine months.

And, for the record, Roll understands either English or Ger-

a puppy, reasoned that if it was a German shepherd, then it should be talked to in German.

The boy's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elwell, and his brothers and sisters all speak the foreign tongue in everyday conversation. (Times-News photo).

lish in the household. As a result the youngsters, all five of them, understand and speak German.

Both the mother and father laugh as they look back on Thomas' decision to talk to the dog in German because it was a German shepherd.

"He just figured that if it was a German dog it should know the language it had worked because the dog accepts commands in either language," Elwell said.

The father is music instructor at Valley high school and formerly held the same position at the Kimberly high school. He also is director of the choir of the Presbyterian church in Twin Falls.

Captain EASY

by LESLIE FERBER

ON A FANTASTICALLY SLENDER CLUE, M'KEE AND EASY ARE OFF TO THE FLORIDA KEYS IN QUEST OF $250,000 IN BURIED BANK FUNDS...

MISS KIRK, IF THIS TURNS OUT TO BE A WILD CLUES CASE, PROMISE YOU'LL NEVER TELL ANYONE THAT YOU KNOW ME!

I PROMISE, MR. M'KEE!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

WITH MAJOR HOOPLE

THERE YOU ARE, RAYMOND! A NEAT TRIPLE JUMP — AND THE GAME IS OVER — HIGH-HEEL!

YOU'RE TOO GOOD FOR ME, MAJOR — LET'S CHAT INSTEAD OF PLAYING (ANY MORE)!

I'LL GO GET A LIBATION FOR US AND BE RIGHT BACK!

NOW YOU'RE TALKING!

DO YOU TAKE EGAD, RAYMOND, THERE IS ONE I GADRY HAD TO BEAT THE GHOST STORIES, MAJOR?

WAS THE HAUNTED OAK TREE OF STOKEBUN, ENGLAND?

I WAS ON A WALKING TRIP HEAD — AND FOR THE LIFE OF MY WINDYBUSH I TOOK A SHOOT CUT THE BRICKED TREE THE PEOPLE FEARED TO PASS?

WHEN I DREW NEAR TO THE OLD ONE THE BRICK IN MY VEINS CHILLED AS I BEGAN TO CUT THE BRICKED TREE THE PEOPLE FEARED TO PASS?

AS I ADVANCED THE GHOST VANISHED INTO THE TREES!

IN ROUNDING THE TREE, MY NECK RAN INTO THE BRANCH — MY HORRIFYING WAS A BRANCH — IT WAS A LONG ARM!

BEFORE I COULD BACK AWAY, THE AWFUL ARM ENCIERCLED MY NECK — I WAS HOLD TO...

(GREAT CAESAR! WHAT HAPPENED TO THE LIGHTS, RAYMOND?)

ULP!! DON'T ASK ME, MAJOR!

THE HOUR IS 2 A.M. AND THE ELECTRIC POWER IS DOWN IN THE BOWS REPAIRING

EGAD RAYMOND — JUST AT TH RIGHT PLACE — IT'S SEE — YOUR NECK, AND WELL — WHERE DID I GET IN MY... THERE!

IF ANYONE HAD TOLD ME I'D BE LOOKING FOR A 'TREASURE CHART' CARVED ON THE UNDER-SHELL OF A FLORIDA SEA TURTLE, I'D HAVE LAUGHED IN HIS FACE!

WEIRD AS POE'S 'GOLD BUG,' SUH — EXCEPT THAT THIS COULD BE FOR REAL!

EASY, ANTICIPATION OF THE PUDDING IS OFTEN MORE DELICIOUS THAN THE EATING!

WE'RE OVER THE KEYS NOW, MR. M'KEE... TURTLE ISLAND IS TEN MINUTES AWAY!

GOOD! AS WE FLY OVER THE RUINS OF THE FORT, WE CAN COMPARE ITS OUTLINE WITH THE 'POGGY BANK' SKETCH FOUND IN BANKER GEORGE KANNON'S HAND!

YOU WERE RIGHT, MISS KIRK! THAT MUST BE THE KEY WHERE HE WAS MAROONED FOR TWO YEARS AFTER ABOARDING WITH HIS BANK'S FUNDS!

LATER...

...MY SOUL AND BODY WE COULD SPEND A YEAR OF FRUITLESS DIGGING IN THESE RUINS!

WE'LL HAVE TO WAIT TILL THE TURTLES COME ASHORE TO LAY THEIR EGGS AND FLIP EACH TURTLE OVER, SUH!

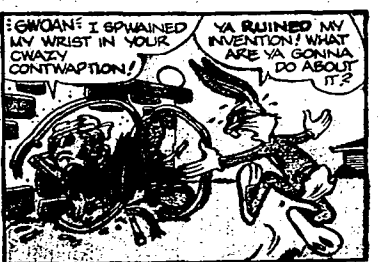

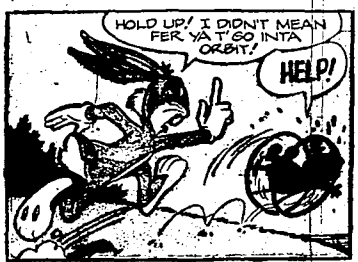

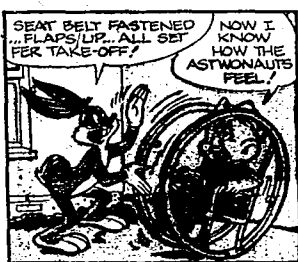

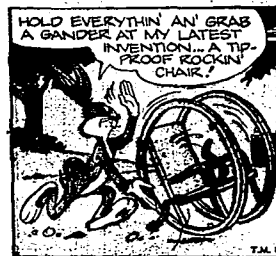

EASY! MR. M'KEE!

HERE THEY COME! THE SPawning PARADE HAS BEGUN!

BLAZES! WE'LL HAVE TO WORK FAST — ONE OF THOSE REPTILES COULD BE WORTH $250,000!!

BUGS BUNNY

Veo FLINT

FORGET LAIRD FOR THE TIME BEING, DAN. WE CAN'T HELP HIM NOW...

BUT PERHAPS HE CAN HELP US CATCH A MURDERER!

WE'RE GOING TO GET A TRAP...

HERE'S HOW WE'LL DO IT...

SOMEONE IN THIS HOUSE THINKS YOU, NOT LAIRD, ARE NOW DEAD! OUR JOB IS TO TRAP HIM!

KELLY AND I ARE GOING TO THE LIBRARY, SUPPOSEDLY UNAWARE OF WHAT HAS HAPPENED! ... HERE'S WHAT I WANT YOU TO DO, DAN... AND I'LL TAKE PERFECT THING!...

WELCOME, ORPHAN OF THE STORM!

WHY ARE YOU CLOSING THE DOORS, FLINT?

THERE IS AN ANCIENT BELIEF AMONG THE NATIVES OF MANY TROPICAL ISLANDS...

...HOWEVER, ANY UNUSUAL ACTIVITY IN THE WESTERN SKY IS A BAD OMEN...

...AND MEANS POSTPONING PLANS...

...THEY CLAIM THAT THE GHOST OF THE MURDERED MAN WILL APPEAR TO EXPOSE HIS MURDERER!

SO DUJOO, TH' WITCH GOT REAL EXCITED WHEN YOU TOLD HER TH' GRAND WIZER HAD GONE HUNTIN' FLYIN' ALLIGATORS!

YES, MY STARS, I THOUGHT SHE WAS GOING TO COME APART ALL OVER!

DID YOU EVER SEE A FLYIN' ALLIGATOR?

NO... IN FACT I'VE NEVER EVEN HEARD OF ONE!

WELL, TH' WIZER WENT WITH OOP, AN' OOP USUALLY KNOWS WHAT HE'S DOIN'!

I DON'T BELIEVE IN FLYIN' ALLIGATORS... BUT I GOT AN IDEA SOMEHOW OOP AN' TH' GRAND WIZER WILL SHOW UP WITH ONE!

IF THEY DO, THAT'LL BE TH' LAST YOU'LL EVER SEE OF DUJOO!

TH' WITCH!

BE A GOOD THING! WE DON'T NEED HER KIND HERE IN MOO!

LET'S GO SEE WHAT SHE'S UP TO RIGHT NOW!

HEY, THERE'S NOBODY HERE! TH' CAVE'S EMPTY!

D'YOU SUPPOSE SHE TOOK A POWDER?

SHE MUST HAVE... THERE'S TH' GRAND WIZER'S OL' HAT!

YEH... AN' TH' OL' BOY'S BEADS, TOO!
