WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The United States suspended today its aerial surveillance and arms blockade to have received assurance the Soviet Union has stopped construction of missile bases on the island. The U. N. Secretary-General U. Thant is conferring in Havana.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense, announced the Pentagon briefing shortly before noon the temporary suspension of the aerial surveillance. The blockade had been suspended at dawn. He said he had talked this morning with top officials in charge of analysis of the pictures. Sylvester said he now could give a more detailed analysis of the aerial pictures.

Warning Is Given About Red Imports

BURLEY, Oct. 30—The widespread idea of "red" imports made behind the iron curtain was the topic of a luncheon meeting of the Boise and Idaho State Chamber of Commerce at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Burley chamber.

Many items are manufactured behind the iron curtain, shipped to western Europe where they are re-packaged and exported to the United States with misleading information as to their origin, Boige said.

Many items stamped "Made in Hungary" or Poland, Bulgaria, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Cuba are red items and the proceeds go toward the propaganda program known to the United States.

A survey of local retail establishments is being made by the Salt Lake team, and he reports numerous items found in the local stores.

The group Boige is with was organized to call attention to communist imports on the local business scene, and to warn merchants and buyers of how to identify such imports.

In most instances, Boige reported when merchandise is imported from the situation, they were anxious to comply, and to limit their buying to products from the United States, or free countries.

Most of the persons working with the survey over the nation, veterans of World War II, and are interested only in products from American manufacturers and businesses. In some areas, he said, members of the committee working on their own, have gone into stores selling such imports and placed cards or signs on the packages telling the buyer that the item was made and sold by communists.

Many retail merchants told of receiving calls, and in some instances, of being boycotted, because of alleged "red" goods. Some stores closed for several hours while the employees opened and checked every package of goods in the store and removed all cards placed there by the committee.

The speaker pointed out how trade carried on by American businessmen with Japan before the war effort and enabled them to build up the war machine later used against us.

He said that persons finding merchandise in stores with labels identifying them as being from iron curtain countries should bring them to the attention of the merchant, and ask him to buy only from non-communist countries.

Among items listed by Boige as coming from communist countries included whisk brooms, beads, purses, canned hams, cut glass, Christmas ornaments, wood products, furniture, footballs, motor bikes, bicycles, photographic film, canned sea foods, skis and ski equipment, watch clocks, camera and rifles. Most of these items are labeled, Boige said, and can be easily identified.

Members voted to discontinue with the regular luncheon meeting next Thursday because of the former appreciation dinner being held that night.

All merchants who had not yet asked to sponsor a farm couple at the dinner were asked to contact Mrs. LaVonne Colbert at the chamber office.

Guests of the club were C. W. Westbrook, Van Evans and Ralph Smith.

Fairness of Papers Cited By Harding

BOISE, Oct. 30—Rep. Ralph Barker earlier today praised Idaho newspapers for turning over "their valuable space to papers concerning Idaho voters."

"I understand that one of the most prominent publishers voiced his policy as being cooperative with candidates. He stated his opinion that it was expensive enough to merely run for public office and his publication would endeavor to make presentation of points of view not a question of dollars and cents such a point of view."

Harding said, "is of the highest traditions of Idaho journalism."

Candidates without well-heeled sponsors would not be able to present their candidates if it were not for public-spirited citizens as exemplified by this publisher."

Barker continued, "A candidate should not quarrel with an editorial point of view, because this is the publisher's privilege and unanimity in opinion can only lead to conformity and stultification of discussion, something a free nation, such as ours, cannot afford. As long as the editor keeps continuing their tradition of fairly presenting all points of view, even in disagreement with newspaper policy, Idaho voters will continue to be well-informed."

YM-YWCA to Take Part in Trick or Treat for UNICEF

The YM-YWCA sponsored a "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" project which was conducted Halloween night by members of the Y-Teen and Twin Falls high school HI-Y groups.

This will be the first time the local teen-age YM-YWCA groups have participated in the annual UNICEF campaign. Funds raised during the solicitation Wednesday evening will go to the United Nations Children's fund, which originally was called the U. N. International Children's Emergency fund. The fund was started by the U. N. to help meet the urgent needs of children in remote areas or over-crowded countries.

The fund is financed entirely by voluntary contributions of individuals, governments, several private donors and the annual Trick or Treat campaign. It is used to purchase medical supplies, equipment and food for children.

Local solicitors can be identified by bright, orange stickers on their contribution containers. Local Y-Teen and HI-Y members will meet at 6:45 p. m. at the YWCA building and will solicit from door-to-door between 7 and 9 p. m.

Mrs. Marjory Molyneux, YWCA secretary, noted Saturday that 41 boys enough vaccine to protect 100 children from tuberculosis, 45 boys 10 cups of milk for 200 children suffering from hunger or malnutrition and 300 penicillin for 330 children.

Speaking of the teen-age "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program, Ireland's Ambassador Frederick H. Boland, past president of the U. N. general assembly, says, "By cooperating with the U. S. committee for UNICEF, young adults become more valuable to themselves and to their respective countries. They acquire new knowledge and express new respect for human values. They give of themselves with the price and gratification of knowing that they are contributing toward a more healthy, peaceful and prosperous world."

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, Oct. 30—Born to-day, there is every indication that success, even fame, will come to you. Although it may not come to you until late in life. Having something the "midas touch," you are more fortunate than you realize to acquire wealth.

Thoughtful and analytical, you have probably already gained a reputation for problem-solving. Indeed, at some point in your life, you may even be asked to solve the problems of many, individually and en masse. In this regard, you would be wise to exercise extreme care, for to be given a hand in the life of others is to be given a most complex and serious responsibility. Despite your analytical mind, your emotions are relatively near the surface, and keeping them under control will be one of your

Coach Babe Osceola entered the season quietly confident of another good year. Since losing the prospectively battle with Idaho in the closing minutes, the Bengals have been off form. They have been out-striking their opponents but losing.

However, the USC coaching staff is quite pleased with the Bengals' fresh crop again. The Bengals came back up two lopsided decisions over smaller schools, including a romp over Montana State's freshmen, and then bowed 24-14 to Utah State's frosh.

Looking ahead toward Idaho, Jerry Prosser, former Twin Falls prep star, definitely will not play football this year. Prosser injured his knee last Thursday, just when he expected to taste some action. An operation is planned this winter. With Prosser goes Idaho's last chance for speed.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY

It doesn't take long to go from chicken salad to chicken tenders. So I just went to Twin Falls coach Paul Ostyn within hours of the Bruins' first loss of the season to Borah.

"Two fans called to give advice. Anybody in a 50-50 of course."

"I just had to tell you that you are the most stupid coach I've ever seen," said the first caller.

"We got the two fastest half-backs in the state and you're running them out of the single wing."

To this coach Ostyn replied: "Thank you, I've always wanted to be known in superlatives for coaching. If I'm the dumbest, then that sets me apart from the others."

The second caller castigated Ostyn for not having Tim Lavens as a fullback at Jerome last year before moving to Twin Falls. He caught three passes for 41 yards against Borah. In addition, Lavens is not a single wing type fullback. He's a sprinter for the most part.

By the way, the Bruins now are 6-1 and Ostyn is the first winning coach Twin Falls has had since the late 1940's. A personal note here also. Doug Evans and Joe McCoolum have scored on runs of 80 and 70 yards off the single wing against the Bruins. Those are maximum runs and they have others. The longest scoring run against the Bruins came on Friday, 25 yards by Dave Bryson.

As to the coach, Ostyn, Andy Pollock, both former Ted Kilmura, Nampa, and Ray McDonald, Caldwell, say in the days of the two Twin Falls boys. So far none have come close in head-on competition to matching Kilmura remains on the alert.

Neither coach Ostyn nor any one, expects anyone to like the single wing, but only to be a little realistic. Only once has Twin Falls been shut out in four years. Show another six team that can hold up the same team.

Coach Dee Andros continues to improve with his handling of men at the University of Idaho. He got three touchdowns underfoot to Utah going into Saturday's game, the Vandals made the Utes hustle it out for victory, coming from behind in the last two minutes.

Coach Andros had a rehashing of his lineup last week and again played the same sophomores. These new faces gave the return of halfback Mike Rice after a bout with mumps, made much of the difference. And remember, Idaho has only five or six seniors on the entire club.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the year as been the showing of the Idaho State Bengals. However, this surprise has not been pleasant.

Coach Babe Osceola entered the season quietly confident of another good year. Since losing the prospectively battle with Idaho in the closing minutes, the Bengals have been off form. They have been out-striking their opponents but losing.

"I've got a fine team but we've just had too tough a schedule so far," Krause said. "Our last four games have been with four of the best teams in the country."

"It's against Northwestern going to explore one of their days—and it may be Saturday against Navy."

This warning was sounded today by Ed (Moore) Krause, veteran Notre Dame athletic director, in a talk to the weekly luncheon of the Notre Dame football writers.

Notre Dame and Navy clash Saturday at Philadelphia's municipal stadium in the 36th game of what is called the loupest continuous intercollegiate rivalry in college football.

Krause insisted that deflation had not set in at South Bend where the once feared Fighting Irish of their toughest seasons in years.

After beating Oklahoma in the opening game, Notre Dame has lost consecutively to Purdue, Wisconsin, Michigan State and Northwestern.

Mitchell Says Redskins to Stay on Top

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—"No longer feel we should be at the bottom of the league. If I have anything to do about it we won't be contented."

Booby Mitchell voted the New York of the Washington Redskins in Monday as the speaker at the weekly session of the pro quarterback club luncheon.

"Most of the Redskins are playing new positions," he said. "We came along faster than I expected."

We fell from the start we were in good ground compared to what happened in the past. We thought possibly next year we might be contented.

"At present, we're in fair position. We still feel that the season is over the writer from New York will be coming down to Washington, D. C., to see the championship game."

It was obvious that Mitchell, the fleet flanker who tied for the league lead in scoring the most passes caught, didn't think the 49-34 defeat by Cleveland last Monday was a flunker, but he said the Redskins still had the championship conference of the NFL by a half game.

"When I came to Washington from Cleveland, they told me I was going to be a flunker, but I said, 'I was glad to hear that. I felt I had had it as a running back at Cleveland. You get tired of having Sam Huff (Glenn "The Hammer") hit you in the mouth all the time. I wanted to get outside where I could score some."

Dental Marvel

MIAMI BEACH, Oct. 30 (AP) — America's dentists soon will be working with a cementing agent for fillings which will prevent recurring tooth decay, it was reported today.

Dr. Michael G. Buonocore, Rochester, N. Y., said in a paper prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the American Dentists association today that materials presently available to dentists do not bond to tooth structure, thus sometimes letting bacteria in to start new decay around a filling. Buonocore and Dr. Eugene W. Skinner, Chicago, both said development of such a cement to prevent recurring decay involves many problems but they eventually will be solved.
