WHIRLIGIG

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—Federal reserve and treasury officials are predicting more control over the United States gold drain than is indicated by the outflow has been slowed somewhat. It is still high and threatens to become a major problem.

The United States gold holdings, which was 23.3 billion dollars in 1959, is now 21.5 billion dollars in 1962. The loss in the year has been almost a billion dollars.

There are several reasons for expecting a continued outflow of America's gold.

LESS SALES ABROAD—One reason is that American sales abroad have been declining, although still above of our purchases. This is caused by the fact that Western European economies, revived with our help, are now winning control of our previous markets. Our trade surplus so far this year is almost 1 billion dollars less than last year.

Another reason is that the U.S. faces a loss of its huge European market for farm products, notably grains, rice and poultry. The European Economic Community, or common market, which the U.S. was midwife, has agreed to levy tariffs on farm imports to keep prices as high as the market set by the common market. The levels are usually higher than the world price.

This barrier could cost the U.S. 400 million dollars in sales. The loss is now being met by the purchase of foreign goods or in offsetting our drain by that much.

WHAT WERE WE DOING—The U.S. also fears foreign losses because, still another increase in foreign travel is likely; and more goods are probable. We could lose another billion of our precious gold supply.

There have been some steps to dam the flow. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has appealed to Western nations to drop plans for a common market for grain goods. So far, he has not been successful.

President Kennedy has appointed Christian A. Herter, secretary of state, as his special representative to negotiate reductions of tariffs within the general agreement on tariffs and trade. Herter is expected to return in 1964.

In addition, the state department is undoubtedly exerting subtle pressure on European nations to reduce their U.S. purchases. It is also using the same argument, the British are using to continental nations: "If we cannot earn foreign currency, we cannot afford to buy many troops defending the continent."

CUT SPENDING—The government has attempted to cut spending abroad by both military and civilian agencies. The defense department has been stepped-up. The defense department has claimed that servicers, by buying at the lowest possible price and increasing the number of establishments, have saved $50 in gold per man in a year. However, this program meets some resistance. Many services are being encouraged to put in for overseas assignments to see more of the world. These men like to spend money in the foreign countries. The state department is also studying the possibility of increasing exports. Under the plan, profits made in selling exports abroad are tax free. COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER ERSON

(WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (NEA))—WASHINGTON is being laid by many political analysts for almost a century. The results of the vote percentages, after falling to make a big dent in the GOP's vote in the House and United States House of Representatives.

There is nothing particularly new about the GOP's loss in state legislatures and in the House of Representatives. The GOP has lost in state legislatures and in the House of Representatives.

Two years later the Democrats picked up 428 seats and earned a 50-49 vote in the House. In states where both houses are under one party's control, the GOP has lost in 1956, 1958, 1960, 1962, and 1964. The GOP has lost in 1956, 1958, 1960, 1962, and 1964.

Despite GOP improvements in 1960 and 1962, Democrats still hold total control in 10 states, against 14 in 1960. But it has to be remembered that the Republicans are in a staggered gain of 68 state legislatures. The GOP is in full control of four additional legislatures—Pennsylvania, Indiana, Colorado and Utah.

Republican leaders are also allowing themselves a "bookkeeping" gain. They now claim two seats in the House of Representatives. Officially nonpartisan in its legislative process, the House of Representatives is in fact Republican.

If this claim is granted, then the GOP has a full control in 10 states, against 14 in 1960. But it has to be remembered that the Republicans are in a staggered gain of 68 state legislatures. The GOP is in full control of four additional legislatures—Pennsylvania, Indiana, Colorado and Utah.

Today's rough political picture necessarily means office and unofficial talks, indicate a Republican victory over 1960. Some 70 seats on top of their 200-seat advance in 1960, this shift would be a pretty big program.

But these changes surely won't be the end of the party's struggle. The party with surely new grass roots nourishment in its ranks. They will help to overcome more and more of the little enough bucking up from the 1962 results.

Cold, Snow Slap North, East in U. S.

By United Press International

Blister cold and heavy snow slapped the nation's North and East today on the last full day of autumn. The change in the weather threatened to create hazards for Christmas travelers.

Snow fell from Kansas and Nebraska to the mountains of the West, and accumulated up to five inches were expected before it quit.

With the Christmas holiday period scheduled to start at 6 p. m., highways already had become hazardous in the snow and rain. Four traffic deaths were caused in Southern Illinois alone by slick highways late yesterday.

The temperature tumbled to 22 below at Waterson, N.Y., early today. It was in Detroit, Mich., 22 in Minneapolis - St. Paul, Minn., and 21 in Denver. Honolulu residents averted yesterday in the lowest temperature on record. The mercury fell to 34, one degree below the previous record set in March, 1933, and February, 1941.

In a six-hour period, Indianapolis, Ind., received three inches of snow, and Quincy, Ill., and Elkhart, W. Va., two inches. More than three inches of snow and freezing rain fell at St. Louis, Mo.

Between 250 and 300 barges remained hung up because of low waters at Cairo, Ill., the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. One inch of rain fell, but it was too early to tell whether it would raise the rivers enough to float the barges.

The Illinois department of conservation said the waters in many northern Illinois lakes and ponds were low enough to kill fish this winter.

A 1,000-foot layer of fog returned to central California last night for the second night in a row. Thousands of motorists were stranded at the San Francisco airport and three traffic deaths were blamed on the fog.

That was the message Thursday from Gov. Robert E. Smylie to Mrs. Florence Burchfield Nampa. The latter had complained that on a recent trip over the highway she saw no warning signs on the north section of the hill although she said the section south of the divide was well marked. Few Changes Asked in Gem Guard Plans

BOISE, Dec. 21 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie said Thursday he has approved only minor changes in the new alignment for the Idaho national guard proposed in the reorganization plan of the secretary of defense.

He suggested in a letter to Gov. E. Ernest "Reddy" Taylor of Georgia, that units of the Idaho national guard consist of 80 per cent priority 1 to be rated instead of 70 per cent priority 2.

The latter designation, Smylie said, would "have moving them from one communitarian plan with the resultant loss of many years' experience and military training on the part of both personnel and the communities involved."

Some of the units, he said, are not capable of maintaining the strength required for 80 per cent priority 2.

"The minor modifications proposed," Smylie said, "will provide the department of army with valid troop units and assist the state of Idaho materially in both meeting her commitments to the federal government and to the communities of Idaho in civil defense and disaster relief."

NASA Official Forecasts End Of Test Pilots

HOUSTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The "headmaster" of new astronaut training says that 10 another decade, experimentally test pilots may be as obsolete as 1934 bombers and the space agency will soon have to find a new source of astronaut.

The original seven Mercury astronauts and the nine trainees all came from the ranks of military and civilian test-pilots. Richard Day, director of flight crew operations, suggested three possible future sources of astronaut.

One source would be the high school graduates who are interested and qualified.

Another possible future source would be the manned spaceport center during the summer and between semesters at college.

5-Crewmen Hurt in Idaho Plane Crash

NOVILL, Dec. 21 (AP)—An air force single engine plane crashed today in a north Idaho town Thursday, injuring all five persons aboard.

The crewmen taken to a hospital at Moscow, 35 miles east of here, were identified by the air force as:

Capt. Toby G. Turpatrick, 30, pilot, fractured jaw, head, leg and shoulder injuries.

Capt. Robert Terndon, no age, serious head injuries.

Staff Sgt. Tony Luocco, 23, head injuries.

Technical Sgt. Raymond Ahlstrom, 27, serious head injuries.

Alirman 1st James L. Hagarty, 24, head injuries.

The plane was an L20 Bell-Uhland Beaver, used as a trainer and transport at Geiger air force base, Spokane.

The craft slammed into the ground about 50 yards from the grass strip runway, tearing a hole two feet deep before flipping over its back.

Lloyd Hall, owner of the airport, said he saw the plane circle several times, then make a low altitude pass from east to west. The pilot apparently quit cold when he turned in to gain altitude, Hall said, and the pilot threw the plane into a spin. He said he saw the unsuccessful attempt to make the runway.

Hall said four of the men had either been thrown out or staggered out of the plane when he reached it. He and several others got the fifth man out, then helped administrator first aid until a rescue helicopter from Patuxent air force base, Spokane, arrived with a doctor aboard.

Reds Fail to Settle Major Differences

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 21—President Tito of Yugoslavia on his way home today from talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow, made no effort to settle all major differences between them. Tito told Yugoslav newsmen that after his talks with Khrushchev, he will return to Belgrade to discuss the policies are somewhat clear.

Tito indicated he intends to pursue his independent brand of communism. That policy led to his break with Moscow, though relations have taken a turn for the better since.

More Money For Projects Is Released

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—President Kennedy has released nearly 200 million dollars to start new or continuing public works projects.

The allocation announced Thursday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges was Kennedy's second program approved by the outgoing Congress.

Congress authorized a 900 million dollar program and appropriated 400 million dollars for use at once.

Kennedy released 165 million of the public works money Oct. 24.

Hodges said 118.1 million dollars worth of state and local public works, and 42.7 million dollars in federal projects financed under that allocation are producing 230,000 man-months of employment on 881 projects.

Based on your experience in the initial allocation, this second allocation should generate an additional 280,000 man-months of employment, he said.

Under Kennedy's second allocation, 147 million dollars will be used for state and local projects and 50 million dollars for federal projects in sections of the country which have high unemployment rates.

Two of the dogs, described as a police dog and a big yellow and black spotted dog, were seen by J. E. Seaback, to whom the sheep belonged. The deputies searched the area until Thursday night when they found the dogs and traced the owners. Two whose owners could not be found, were killed.

Three Gunmen Are Being Sought

BOSTON, Dec. 21—Three gunmen, one disguised as a postman, were sought today for the midday mail robbery of $2.5 million Christmas stamp receipts from a hijacked mail truck.

The robbery last night came exactly four months and six days after the record 1.5 million dollar Plymouth mail truck holdup.

Although it paralleled in some ways the method of operations used in the Plymouth robbery, the bandit got far less loot.

Chief Postal Inspector William P. White said, "I cannot visualize any connection between this robbery and that of Aug. 14 in Plymouth."

Cuban Trip For Students Scheduled

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—A busload of American students was scheduled to depart for Toronto tomorrow on the first leg of a roundabout trip to Cuba, where they have been promised an all-expense-paid Christmas vacation.

Anatol Scholser, local promoter of the holiday trip, said between 45 and 70 college students are expected to make the trip. From Toronto, they will fly to Havana aboard a Cuban plane Sunday.

Scholser said the Cuban university students federation, which is controlled by the Fidel Castro regime, will pay for the trip. The state department warned of fines and prison terms for unauthorized travelers to Cuba, a group of University of Buffalo students canceled plans to join the vacationers. Scholser said he still hopes to persuade them to go, and the bus will make a stop in Buffalo for the purpose on the way to Canada.

Pravda Hits At Chinese And America

MOSCOW, Dec. 21 (AP)—Pravda lashed out at both Washington and Peking in blunt language today, claiming the Soviet way was the only path to peace. The communist party newspaper's lead editorial accused America "and those who support them"—meaning Red China—of engaging in "subversive activities" which threaten world communism. Pravda praised recent party congresses in Bulgaria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Italy and France where both Red China and America were criticized openly for their hard-line Stalinist ways. Pravda protested that the trial of the communist party in the United States is motivated by those "trying to fan anti-communist hysteria." It claimed the trial made American democracy a "hypocrisy and duplicity" and deprived millions of workers, farmers and negroes of their rights.

MOSCOW, Dec. 21 (AP)—Pravda published today an interview with Yemeni President Abdullah Salal in which he attacked American leaders and their "reckless policies." Salal was interviewed in Sana'a, the Yemeni capital, by a Novosti press agency correspondent. The story was dated Nov. 20 the day after the United States recognized Salal's revolutionary government.

Along Fences and Canals

A new feeding shed about 100 by 60 feet has been completed on the ranch which Burien B. Hines, operates. The shed is for milk cows and stock. Concrete has been poured and masonry built on the ranch which Leo McCoy runs. Both places belong to Mrs. Charlotte Link.

J. S. Feidhusen, Twin Falls, will place eight-foot-high snow fencing around his hay stacks. He has been fighting the snow for a long time to keep the silk from eating the hay. With one stack however, he will experiment with black plastic. Last winter he placed plastic over one stack and the edges were left loose so the wind could blow them. Feidhusen believes this frightened the animals away as many footprints were found around the stack, but none close enough to eat the hay. The fall and winter past feed six up Adams gulch which lies to the south of the Feidhusen ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Vanhook are moving into their new home near Hinkle. Foster McGlochin, Mrs. Vanhook's father, has been working on the six-room building the past few years. The building is 18 by 26 feet and the bedrooms and baths are 12 by 16 feet. The home is stucco with shakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beecher have sold their 300-acre ranch south of Bellevue to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Deimer, Buhl. Beecher recalled when they gave possession of it. It was 11 1/2 miles to the north of the ranch from Mr. and Mrs. George Merck. Lawrence Zettis purchased the Beecher cattle and Mr. and Mrs. Deimer will stock the ranch with cattle they owned in Buhl.

Camas county agent John H. Patton says because of the mild fall weather, frost is only about two inches deep in the ground and the wheat farmers there will be a foot to a foot and a half in the ground before the winter snow falls. They feel the prospects in overwintering snow good.

Willard Wilson has been taking advantage of the good fall weather to make additions and improvements on his farm west of Corral. He has just completed a new loading shed, built new fences around the house and outbuildings, put new windows in the house and is presently putting a roof on a new pump house. He installed new sidewalks earlier this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robinson have reconstructed a building on their ranch at Tuttle for use as a machine shed.

Glenn Patterson, Tuttle rancher, is moving his sheep to the pen from range land.

Dean Porter is constructing a support in the yard of his farm west of Eden for a large bell. The bell formerly was the Hillside school bell and was acquired by Porter when the schoolhouse was torn down a few years ago.

Coyotes at the doorstep have been plaguing the Gene Alexander in the past few days. He has been shooting coyotes to the barns and orchards at the Alexander place. No sheep have been lost lately because they are corralled.

Farmers in the Hansen and Kimberly area are taking advantage of the warm December weather by plowing, disking and covering their hay fields.

Two ewes at the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Wolfe, Tuttle, have two lambs apiece, the first in the area. The Wolfes have 22 other young ewes to lamb this winter.

Key Points Listed for Good Health

DON MOHNS, Ia., Dec. 21 — A three-point plan to insure a healthier crop of barnyard babies during 1963 was urged upon farmers today by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

The three key points listed by the foundation are:

1. A healthy, well-nourished dam that has been adequately immunized against disease, and can help pass along some of this immunity to her offspring.
2. Prompt action by a veterinarian when accurate or other common backyard livestock conditions appear.
3. Clean, dry, sanitary conditions in which and the young animals can be born and can spend the early weeks of their lives.

Purchase of Certified Seed Potatoes Eliminates Several Disease Hazards

Planting certified potato seed eliminates many disease hazards threatening the commercial grower, says Twin Falls County Agent Donald Youst. Youst noted that this is the time year commercial growers begin checking their source of supply for seed.

Compared to non-certified seed, certified seed is the best insurance that there will be marketable crop at harvest time. This year was a good year insofar as a quality of potatoes is concerned, said Youst.

Certified seed is the best basis for high yield and quality. Using so-called cheap seed might prove disastrous because it is not resistant to many known potato diseases.

Potatoes are susceptible to many disease-causing organisms. Since potatoes are vegetatively propagated, the organism of many potato diseases are present in tubers used for seed. These organisms can be bacteria, fungi, virus or nematodes.

It is impossible to tell by quick visual observation whether seed is diseased. Idaho certified seed meets the requirements of good seed. Narrow tolerances are allowed for moderate diseases. There is no tolerance for serious diseases.

A single infected plant often can result in complete rejection by the Idaho Crop Improvement Association where zero tolerances are in effect.

Youst noted that entire crops have been lost because the grower planted "one year old" seed which was infected with ring rot, leaf roll, common blight or nematodes. Some diseases are capable of remaining in the soil and infecting future crops.

Youst pointed out that farmers have a responsibility to their neighbors to plant disease-free to the month. Production declined five per cent from October to November, the same seasonal change as in 1961.

For the first 11 months, milk production totaled one per cent more than in that period last year.

U. S. Director Details Loan Operations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — John A. Barker, director of agricultural credit, U.S. department of agriculture, met with the staff of the National Milk Producers Federation on Dec. 8, with up-to-date details on the operations of farmers home administration.

Based on data for the 10 calendar years immediately preceding, the ratio is computed of the manufacturing wholesale price average to the average price received by farmers; f.o.b. for all milk wholesales to plants and dealers.

The ratio is multiplied by the parity price for a milk sold wholesale to determine the parity price equivalent for manufacturing milk.

If this new method had been used in September and October, 1962, the parity price equivalent would have been $4.15 for milk testing 3.18 per cent instead of the $4.15 per cent testing 3.53 per cent.

Milk Parity Price Change Is Announced

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — A change in the basis for computing the parity price equivalent for manufacturing milk was announced in late November by the crop reporting board of the U.S. department of agriculture.

It consists of using the average price received by farmers, f.o.b. plant, for all manufacturing grade milk instead of the "three-product formula—milk bought for production of American cheese, evaporated milk, and the butterfat-dry milk combination.

Production of Milk May Exceed 1961

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — Milk production for the first 11 months of 1962 totaled 116.71 billion pounds. This compares with production of 125.45 billion pounds for all of 1961.

If the December, 1962, production is equal to that of December, 1961, the total for 1962 will be more than one billion pounds over 1961 production.

November milk production was 9.21 billion pounds, one per cent above the 1961 average for November in 1961 and 10 per cent above the 1951-60 average for the month. Production declined five per cent from October to November, the same seasonal change as in 1961.

For the first 11 months, milk production totaled one per cent more than in that period last year.

Rural Taxes Continuing Upward Rise

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — Farm real estate taxes rose 63 per cent in 1961 over 1960. Total of 1,250.3 million dollars. California, Illinois and Iowa accounted for more than a quarter of the taxes.

Taxes per acre of farm real estate in 1961 were higher than in 1960, in every state except Rhode Island, which showed a slight decrease, according to the recent figures from economic research service.

Taxes per acre per acre showed the greatest increase, 59 per cent in Alaska, because only a few acres in 1961 were higher than in 1960, in every state except Rhode Island, which showed a slight decrease, according to the recent figures from economic research service.

Pest Abolished By Sterilizing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — The agricultural research service has successfully demonstrated a technique involving male insect sterilization to eradicate the cotton boll weevil population in a specific area.

The demonstration was carried out in a small-scale, isolated field test in Louisiana, about 60 miles south of New Orleans.

Male boll weevils released in the laboratory by dipping them in apholate, an effective chemical sterilant. Female boll weevils that mate with sterile males lay eggs that do not hatch, thus causing self destruction of the insect population.

Germ-Free Research Can Aid Animal Development

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 21 — "Germ-free research is a new horizon in the animal health field. Through germ-free research, we expect to make many more significant contributions to the health of animals," Dr. Joseph Pennack, American Dynamid company, told a meeting of the National Association of TV and Radio Farm Directors.

"Germ-free research has become an important new research tool in the past decade," Dr. Pennack noted. "By raising animals in a completely germ-free environment, we can closely study the inter-relationship between nutrition and disease on growth of livestock."

"Our overall goal of germ-free research is to help the feed industry and farmers produce more and better animals more efficiently and give greater utilization of production facilities to our country's livestock."

"With a vast array of conditions, conventional animals are affected by a multitude of factors, such as parasites, diseases, insect infestation, housing and disease. In the germ-free environment, we can study the effect of various diseases on the growth, feed conversion, aging and other aspects of the animal's life."

"Polio and other future research, Dr. Pennack outlined some important areas of interest that are being investigated."

"We have an opportunity to explore in detail the relationship of animal health to the community. We can now obtain exact basis for the principles of animal health and the health of man. This leads work with animals may provide valuable information on the health of man which can lead to improved methods of solving human health problems," the Dynamid scientist stated.

Western Cattlemen Enter Into Water Belly Season

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21 — Western cattlemen are heading into the water belly season with heavy losses as they feed and spot from the disease, rated the third highest, cattle loss in the nation.

"In Montana, the winter of 1961-62 showed a pronounced increase in the number of water belly cases reported," says A. W. Werry, technical director, Leslie Bell company.

"This winter, 1962 cases were reported on 164 different cattle ranches. The year before that, there were only half that number," he said.

"This wide variation points up the lack of knowledge about why water belly strikes and what can be done to treat it," Werry noted.

"Fortunately, we do have a proven method for preventing much of it, high salt intake," he said.

"Animals with from three to 10 per cent salt in their ration rarely get water belly, he explained. "The reason the disease is known as kidney stones in humans) do not form when animals are drinking plenty of water. The high salt intake encourages them to drink abnormal amounts of water."

"Obviously, of course, the salt alone isn't enough. Animals must have access to plenty of water, water that is clean enough to drink. And that isn't always possible in the northern states," Werry added.

"But until we know more about the effect of diet on health, high salt intake is the most practical preventative available to ranchers."

Court Rules Milk Order Enforcement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — A United States court has ruled that the federal milk marketing order covering the Baltimore area is enforced during an appeal on the validity of the order.

The order was held invalid last June by the United States district court on the grounds that parity prices had not been determined in the hearing, that parity prices were unduly restricted by the definition of producers in the order, and that the order was in violation of the anti-trust laws.

The district court refused to enforce the order while an appeal to the circuit court was pending.

The appeal on the validity of the order will be argued in early January. In the meantime, the order will remain in effect and administrative assessments and payments into the producer settlement fund resumed. The order of the circuit court will be held in abeyance until the appeal is decided.

Consumption Of Corn Feed Is Climbing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — Cows ate more corn along in the month of 1962 than in any other month of the year.

Statistics showed that the milk cow fed on farms of dairy reporters during the summer feeding season registered 47 per cent corn usage, 40 per cent grass usage, and 13 per cent other types of feed. This compares with 1961 percentages of 35 per cent corn usage, 48 per cent grass usage, and 19 per cent other types.

Cows this year received an average of 100 lbs. of hay, about the same as in 1961. Alfalfa and mixed alfalfa hay constituted 85 per cent of all hay fed during the 1962 summer months. About 35 per cent of the hay was purchased.

Accidents on U. S. Farms Not Declining

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — Accidental deaths on farms are not declining in proportion to a lessening of the farm labor force, B. department of agriculture has advised.

Reasons given are increased average age of farm people, relative job isolation, and minimum traffic control on rural highways.

Accidents resulting in nonfatal injuries occur in about one-third of the farms population each year, an agricultural economic report said. Some 18 per cent of farm people are injured seriously enough in these accidents to lose time from their work, and about three per cent are disabled each year.

Accidents on the farm are often associated with farm machinery, which falls as the most common kind of accident in farm homes.

Mexico Lifts Bull Embargo

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — The Mexican government recently lifted its embargo on the export of purchased Charolais bulls.

A presidential decree permits the export of 40 of the animals.

The Mexicans have indicated an embargo on exports of Charolais cattle since July, 1961, to build up local herds of superior animals in Mexico. U.S. producers have been interested in obtaining the bulls to improve American herds and to help in breeding on other farms.

Mexico also has authorized exports of Brahman bulls but the number has not been determined.

Cost of Donated Food Is Rising

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — Food donations at home and abroad by the agriculture department totaled more than 1.1 billion pounds in the first quarter of fiscal 1962, and increase of six per cent over the same period last year.

"If I have to go through all that to get married, I think I'll just stay in the fifth grade!"

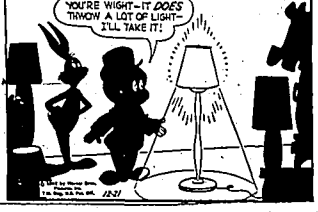

"Oh, come now, Pop! With all the surplus, you know the government would never let Jack build a beanstalk that big!"

"The pillow's in case I fall—and the life preserver's for in case that sign is right!"

"You act like it was me what threw the sock bottle, va think I got no feelings? Now is my fighter?"

"You're right—it does throw a lot of light—take it!"
