HAVANA, Feb. 23 (AP)—Cuba accused the U.S. navy Saturday of violating its waters Thursday and released a photograph of an antenna-studded ship cruising off Havana.

A caption accompanying the photograph identified the vessel as the Oxford and said it penetrated Cuban jurisdictional waters.

In the foreground of the picture was a Havana seaplane base. The photo also appeared to be that of a converted merchantman that often can be seen from the Havana waterfront, cruising along the horizon.

The charge followed a midnight speech by Prime Minister Fidel Castro accusing the United States of conducting artificial tensions and making the sea off Cuba unsafe for navigation. Castro denied that his planes had attacked an American ship in the Gulf of Mexico three days ago.

The Cuban press also published pictures of eight men whose captivities the government reported. It charged of launching counter-revolutionary raids from Key West, Fla., into Cuban waters about 30 miles north of Central Cuba.

The Cuban navy said the group hijacked two 33-foot trawlers that were recovered as the eight men were landed. The group in the photos appeared to be dressed in fatigue uniforms.

Also photographed were officers and ammunition alleged to have been used to organize rebel bands in Las Villas province and Nicaragua, American and Cuban (Continued on page 2, column 1).

Woes Attack Tired Band Of Hikers

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Fifty-mile hikers who traveled all over San Francisco's No. 10 trail, wondering if their George Washington Redwoods National Forest marathon has been worth it.

Blistered and bruised, they sat, some on the ground, some on logs, some on the shoulders of their companions. There were about 200 of them—about one-tenth of the 2,000 who started the trek.

Kids in Bermuda shorts, loafers, sneakers, wild but worn hair, some with backpacks, some with straw hats and baseball caps, some with late evening dinner and a few with a pat of butter.

Mecca for the mostly teen-aged crowd was radio station KGO, which broadcast the hike from the top of the Redwoods. A KGO disc jockey, Tommy Saunders, had proposed the hike up the Redwoods. He had been a hiker himself, and he was in St. Francis Memorial hospital. Dr. Francis J. Charlton said Saunders was suffering from fatigue.

Police estimated the hiking high as 10,000 feet. The hike was started at the gate of Santa Clara university near San Francisco. The hike was started at the gate of Santa Clara university near San Francisco. The hike was started at the gate of Santa Clara university near San Francisco.

Changes in First Aid Are Taught at Red Cross Class

Sixteen Magic Valley persons enrolled in a Red Cross training program on changes in treatment of accident victims. The course, being held in the Idaho Power company auditorium Thursday, is for first aid instructors who will take the new methods to other Magic Valley groups.

Recent medical thought discourages taking a tourniquet off the wound after it has been applied. Until now, it was thought best to loosen the tourniquet once in a while to let the blood flow. Now the tourniquet is left on until the physician removes it at the hospital.

This and other changes in first aid practices are demonstrated through Thursday, in the first aid course. The class is directed by Frank Mogensen, Twin Falls, Idaho state police.

Enrolled in the course are John Miller, Twin Falls; Carl L. Finerich, Twin Falls; Mrs. L. H. Daniels, Gooding; Mrs. Jane Peterson, Wendell; Frank H. Olander, Gooding; Paul K. Twin Falls, Rupert and Nampa, Ore., Amalgamated Sugar company factories established an all time high in production during the 1952-53 season just concluded, setting a record of 7,088,000 bushels of sugar, 100-pound units, according to A. E. Benning, president. Prior high production was a year ago with 6,402,000 bags.

The company factory records established are the firm's largest facility at Nampa going over the two million-bag mark; Twin Falls, exceeding the one and one-half million figure, and Rupert, topping the one million-bag figure.

Amalgamated's other plants in production this year are at Nampa, Preston and Lewiston, Utah. The Preston and Lewiston factory operations will be combined next season at the Utah plant.

Benning reported beet sugar content was better this year than in the last campaign with the exception of Nampa, where a prolonged fall rain during the early part of the harvest depressed the sugar content of the beets in that area.

Contracting is now under way for the 1953 beet crop in the company's territory of Utah, Idaho and eastern Oregon.

Facts or Politics?

It would be interesting to know all the details behind the statement of Sen. Cecil D. Andrus, D., Clearwater, to the general effect that he plans to investigate the costs of raising trout. One thing is certain: there's more to the statement than meets the eye. Almost in the same breath, Senator Andrus says he wants fish and game department records on the case involving Rangen, Inc., and Elwood Grimes.

Senator Andrus says he intends to use the records to try to determine whether it is cheaper for the state to raise trout or whether it would be cheaper to buy trout from commercial trout raisers.

Commercial raisers have quoted a price of about 60 cents per pound for rainbow trout," Senator Andrus revealed.

Well, if the good senator is interested in facts and information, he might ask the fish and game department. Presumably Senator Andrus would have no more trouble getting information than the Times-News.

Personnel of the fish and game department told Boise provided the figures were readily and on short notice. The department's cost for all its trout is 69 cents per pound—delivered in the stream and ready for the fisherman. That, really quite a reasonable figure, is not really quite as good as the commercial hatchery quotation of 60 cents provided by Senator Andrus. It's remarkable because the 69-cent figure—delivered in the stream—covers all types of trout and the transportation of up to about 600 miles in some cases.

Commercial hatcheries concentrate on rainbow trout, presumably because that species is the most economical to raise. The fish and game department raises rainbow, cutthroat, brook, mackinaw, gold, and the famed kamaops. All types are needed in the course of a year.

Because of plentiful water of ideal temperature, the department raises trout many trout all the way to north Idaho, which lacks the ideal water at Hagerman. The long haul has been proved more economical than maintaining special facilities in north Idaho where losses in cold water have been high.

As an example of some hatchery costs, exclusive of maintenance and handling, the department cites Senator Andrus' hatchery last year and 47 cents at the Hagerman hatchery. The latter figure includes the heavy loss resulting when chemicals from the federal hatchery killed trout in the state hatchery.

Along the line, there also has been a difference of opinion on loss rates when commercially-raised trout are planted in streams. The department has questioned the ability of forces to raise trout in streams and adjusting to stream conditions.

It would seem if Senator Andrus is merely looking for information, as he claims, there is plenty of it available for the asking. On the other hand, if he is looking for a political angle, his mind, it must be recalled there were plenty of political implications in the Rangen-Grimes case when it first became public knowledge last year.

One little slight is worthy of attention. Earlier in the session, the senate voted down a resolution on the so-called "Liberty amendment" to the U. S. Constitution which would have taken the federal government out of any business, military, commercial, or financial or industrial enterprise except as specified in the Constitution. Suddenly Senator Andrus is hinting strongly that commercial hatcheries can produce trout cheaper than the state.

Where the federal government is concerned, the inference is the government can do it better; but in Idaho, the reverse is true.

To keep the record straight, it would be nice for Senator Andrus to reveal his sources of information up to now. Who has been bending the good senator's ear and why?

CHALLENGE WANTED

Although some persons would deny it emphatically, most humans are more content when they face a challenge of some sort. That's one of the reasons the current 50-mile hike fad has spread so widely—it's a challenge.

So it really shouldn't amaze anyone when architecture students at the University of Miami strike for tougher courses and longer examinations. They have a departure from what has come to be accepted as the normal behavior of university students. In the U. S., particularly, college students have become known as fun lovers who enjoy a wide variety of athletic and social functions and end up "cramming" for examinations.

There's a possibility college students are the end result of a system of education that places emphasis on fun, not on serious achievement.

That impression of college playing might change eventually if students from the first grade always faced a challenge. Some U. S. students might even demand tougher courses and longer examinations instead of seeking out such studies as "art appreciation" or "family relations."

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—This time, the professional orators have not been invited to their offices against that United Nations agricultural grant which is being offered to the U. N. in all the hoopla it is possible to make the main point of the controversy.

This is that unfortunately, while the United States may be supporting the grant, the world it is no longer is running the show. By majority vote, the U. N. has now been given the so-called "emerging nations," an unduly collection of aversive nations.

Andrew Tully has written for the last few years, and yet the orators do not seem to mind it. They do not do so because that would call for the reaching of a tough decision by the U. N. to accept the situation as it is or not to accept it.

The U. N. can still work it all in the U. N. of the life-and-death matters. But in the day-to-day routine of the U. N., the Afro-Asians and other "emerging nations" are not wanted. They are not wanted by the communist world—can vote out at their pleasure. It is no longer U. N. nor even the "emerging nations" is the property of countries like Ghana and Togo.

NO CHANCE—It is true; as the administration has said, there was no point in asking for a vote in the 18-nation U. N. special fund council on the million gift to the U. N. from the Caribbean. We have lost it. But our approach was meek-mouthed; at least we would have been able to get the record of our friend for future financial consideration, which is the only consideration that matters in the U. N. A. people would not.

There remains, however, that pesky "on-the-other-hand" problem, to wit: Should we throw up our hands and get out of the U. N. or should we not? It is not so undeniably far-fetched as it seems; there is a hard core of rational men in congress and the press, and the administration is not warmed by membership in a club which is continually kicking us in our collective teeth.

The Cuba thing is clearly such a kick. Our presence in the U. N. is a constant source of opposition to the grant on political grounds alone, but on evidence that the aid could not be offered to Cuba because of the U. N. policy on the Cuban thing. It pointed to the large-scale emigration of Cuban farm technicians; the slaughter of workers; the plundering of the U. N. resources as evidence that the project had two strikes on it. And, since the grant entails the hiring of technicians and the U. N. would have to pay for them, the U. N. would have to pay for the thousands of Soviet agricultural "technicians" have been doing for the past two years.

THE BIG SUCKER—But the fund council, in effect, refused the grant on political grounds alone, but on evidence that the aid could not be offered to Cuba because of the U. N. policy on the Cuban thing. It pointed to the large-scale emigration of Cuban farm technicians; the slaughter of workers; the plundering of the U. N. resources as evidence that the project had two strikes on it. And, since the grant entails the hiring of technicians and the U. N. would have to pay for them, the U. N. would have to pay for the thousands of Soviet agricultural "technicians" have been doing for the past two years.

Every time I see it done, I grind my teeth and they're starting to recede toward the gumline.

ANY OTHERS?
Someone phoned the T-N Thursday night and wanted to know where to mail a card to Ray Tucker, whose National Whirligig Column has appeared on this page so many times. The address wasn't handy at the time, but cards may be sent to Ray Tucker, 7000 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

Some of our other good contributors who have read Mr. Tucker's column down through the years will want to mail him a card. In case you missed it, he has retired because of a recurrence of cancer for which he has surgery last year. This time doctors can't operate.

Whoever phoned, your greeting card was nice.

Interpreting the News

BY JAMES MARLOW
(Associated Press News Analyst)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—President Kennedy's remarks to congressional leaders on communism in Latin America apparently are nothing but a determination to make a determination of the future of the United States.

There is a determination to make a determination of the future of the United States.

What's IN A NAME?
Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is an amiable politician who happened to help President Kennedy win the 1960 election. He is a man of many qualifications for the post of undersecretary of commerce, to which he has just been appointed. He is a man of many qualifications for the post of undersecretary of commerce, to which he has just been appointed.

With this rich background in business experience, the Kennedy administration has appointed him to be the secretary of commerce. His nomination must go to congress, where a senate committee is now questioning his appointment. It might be a service to ask whether Mr. Roosevelt's qualifications fit the high standards which the Kennedy administration has set for its appointments. This country cannot afford the luxury of royal families, in which a name alone is sufficient to entitle a man to high public responsibility.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—In the morning newspaper of the Washington Post, the Marquis Childs writes on the subject of the U. N. grant to the U. N. in all the hoopla it is possible to make the main point of the controversy.

With his escape to England at the time of the French defeat in 1940 he set out to sustain the cause of France. He was a staunch supporter of the French cause, and he was a staunch supporter of the French cause.

After his failure to reconcile the bitter divisions of the French cause, he turned to the cause of the United States. He was a staunch supporter of the United States cause, and he was a staunch supporter of the United States cause.

On the island of Port-au-Prince, the Red Chinese claim to be helping the United States in the cause of the United States. They are helping the United States in the cause of the United States.

On the island of Port-au-Prince, the Red Chinese claim to be helping the United States in the cause of the United States. They are helping the United States in the cause of the United States.

The best hope for avoidance of an eventual showdown with the United States is to keep the United States in the cause of the United States.

Around Washington these days, it is popular to downgrade French President Charles de Gaulle, not only for his well-known refusal to let the French enter into the European Community, but also for his announced desire to establish an independent nuclear force.

It is certainly not surprising that de Gaulle has been a constant thorn in the side of the British and the Americans. He is a man of strong opinions, and he is a man of strong opinions.

It strikes me that President de Gaulle is a man of strong opinions. He is a man of strong opinions, and he is a man of strong opinions.

And what he sees, I suggest, is that France must begin establishing its own nuclear force. He is a man of strong opinions, and he is a man of strong opinions.

Some of it, I suggest, is that France must begin establishing its own nuclear force. He is a man of strong opinions, and he is a man of strong opinions.

Salt Lake City Girl Dies After Beating

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 23 (U-P)—A 17-year-old girl, 15, one of two girls bludgeoned with a hammer two days ago, is dead. She received multiple skull fractures and brain injuries when beaten over the head with a hammer wielded by 17-year-old Rita Hinz, of Salt Lake City.

Hinz, who had been free on $5,000 bail, admitted striking the victim with a hammer. She became enraged. He told Toole county sheriff Ray Ollie that the girls weren't hurt but he got her from being stuck on the western Utah desert, so he chased her with a hammer and beat her over the head.

The 17-year-old youth was picked up by Salt Lake county sheriff Ray Ollie at the request of the Toole county sheriff.

The second girl, 16-year-old Drinda Jane Ames, was still in serious condition.

Air, Naval Blockade of Cuba Asked

ANARHEIM, Calif., Feb. 23 (U-P)—An air-naval blockade and a break in diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union were proposed by former Sen. William F. Knowland Saturday night to force the Soviet Union to stop its support of Cuba.

"I refuse to accept the doctrine that we are helpless, short of armed conflict, to deal with a dangerous Soviet satellite in the Caribbean," Knowland said in a prepared speech to the California Republican assembly, said this country, acting in conjunction with the Organization of American States, could:

1. Announce that if the Soviet Union were to take any further steps toward the blockade of Cuba, a light naval and air blockade would be thrown around Cuba.

2. Notify the Soviet Union that diplomatic relations would be suspended and all USSR embassies closed until the last Soviet soldier left Cuba.

"I doubt the Soviet Union would want this to happen," Knowland said, "since Soviet embassies are centers of Soviet espionage and communist propaganda in Latin America, as they are elsewhere in the world."

Tax Program May Undergo Operation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (U-P)—President Kennedy's tax program is still undergoing congressional debate and is expected to be scheduled into the operating room. But already one critical item has been taken out of the major surgery.

And with it may go some of the proposed tax reductions.

This item is the proposal to put the tax under personal deductions like interest, local taxes and charitable contributions. It would also deduct only 50 percent of the total instead of five per cent of income.

No members of the house ways and means committee, now considering the tax package, has publicly said anything about the provision advanced by the administration to recoup some of the revenue lost through the cutting of taxes. On the contrary, several members have previously said they would support the first to go when the committee starts writing a bill in a month or so.

The tax-writing group begins taking public testimony on this proposal Monday. The witness panel will include the chairman of the committee, Rep. Carl Albert, who already has been writing members that the provision would dry up contributions. Real estate and building interests, concerned with the effect of a change that would diminish present tax incentives to homeowning, are another potent source of opposition.

Yet the deductions floor is a big item in the overall administration tax plan, which envisions reducing rates enough to cut the government income tax 13.5 billion dollars a year eventually, but recouping 32 billion dollars through other tax changes that would tax some income more heavily than now.

Of the 22 billion dollar recovery, a full 23 billion dollars would be provided by the 4 per cent deduction floor.

Coles will speak at 1:30 p.m. to the Upper Snake River Valley Water Users Protective union at a meeting in the Bonnerville county courthouse. The NRA will hold its annual meeting at Sun Valley in October. Chairman Leonard E. Graham, Riley, union chairman, said other speakers will include Harold T. Nelson, Boise, regional director of the bureau of reclamation; Dick R. Gray, Blainville project superintendent; and Allen Simmons, supervisor of area reservoirs for the bureau of reclamation. Gray and Simmons are from Burley.

IDAHO FALLS, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Members of the Idaho state bar association, Glenn Coughlin, Boise, commission president, said the commission is meeting with the bar associations throughout the state to acquaint themselves with local problems and to explain and indicate the work being done by the group. There was a general discussion on various legislative proposals which the Idaho state bar association has presented to the legislature now in session, officials said.

IDAHO FALLS, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Plans for construction of a new nursing and rest home in Idaho Falls at an estimated cost of $250,000 were revealed Saturday. The remodeling, one-story brick structure would be built just east of the 21st temple and south of the municipal golf course. Plans call for 64 family units capable of accommodating 122 persons. The units are designed to house one, two or three persons.

MOUNTAIN HOME AIR FORCE BASE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—March 4 of this year will be the 50th anniversary of the oldest squadron in today's U.S. air force, that of the first bombardment squadron of the ninth strategic aerospace wing here, the air force said Friday. Added to history 45 at a curve and military crossing between Lewistown and Menan and turned over in a field. Chief Friday was listed in "fair condition" at the Idaho Falls P.D. hospital. The air force said it became a permanent unit and took part in the expedition against Mexico in 1916, thus becoming the first air combat unit in the United States army, the air force said.

IDAHO FALLS, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Rabbi Fire Chief Russell said suffered a crash and possible other injuries Saturday morning when the new fire truck in which he was riding to a fire at Roberts added to highway 45 at a curve and military crossing between Lewistown and Menan and turned over in a field. Chief Friday was listed in "fair condition" at the Idaho Falls P.D. hospital. The air force said it became a permanent unit and took part in the expedition against Mexico in 1916, thus becoming the first air combat unit in the United States army, the air force said.

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Two bills which an opponent considered aimed at specific situations but might have widespread effect met varying fates in the Idaho state senate. One was approved, the other killed. Approved 25-14 was a bill which would authorize peace officers to search motor vehicles "with or without a search warrant." Sponsors said it was intended to aid in suppressing the drug traffic. Killed was a bill which would have authorized the definition of trespassing to include a person who refuses to leave property upon the demand of the owner, or his agent. Sponsors said it was aimed to help the state develop its fruit growing areas in southwestern Idaho.

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—A proposed constitutional amendment that would let the Legislature have a part of financial responsibility for construction was approved 45-1 Friday in the Idaho house of representatives. Rep. James Monroe, D. Nez Perce, said the amendment would permit the bonds to be repaid from the fees of the notary public, rather than by local assessment. "We have worn out the threat in letting the property tax take care of things," he said. "We should let the services pay for them."

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—The Idaho senate approved Friday, after considerable debate, a bill its sponsor, Sen. R. M. Wetzel, D. Elmore, said "could be the last of its kind." It provides for the recording in county records of the transcript of oral testimony of a judgment. Wetzel contended the procedure the bill provides would clarify the law in becoming effective as a result of a judgment. Sen. Harold L. Ryan, D. Washington, an opponent, objected. He contended court judgments already are recorded and "all this does is raise again the cost of litigation."

POCATELLO, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Elliott Weston, Boise attorney for the Lamb-Weston company at American Falls, said today the company has filed for four charges of unfair labor practices against Teamster local 983 of Pocatello and Idaho Falls. The Teamsters received a majority of the votes Wednesday in a representation election at the Lamb-Weston company. Weston said the union has apparently won the right to represent 301 employees. But Weston said any one of the charges he has filed could cause the election to be set aside.

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—The Idaho senate voted 11-24 Friday to kill a bill which would have required proof of financial responsibility of the owner before an automobile could be registered. Present law requires such proof only after the owner has been involved in an accident. Sen. J. C. Sandberg, D. Blaine, was principal sponsor for the bill, which he said "merely means putting the responsibility where it belongs." He said the present law is "like trying to insure yourself after you're dead."

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Friday was Washington's birthday celebration. But it was the time for adjustment that adjustment in recognition was given the event in the Idaho senate. "I think," said Sen. William J. Dee, D. Idaho, the minority leader, "I should call attention to the fact that this is Feb. 22, and that is the birthday of George Washington. We observe it, of course, by working." He sat down and the senate voted to adjourn.

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U-P)—Bills which would authorize use of radio and television stations in the publication of legal advertising are pending before the Idaho house of representatives. They were introduced by the house judiciary, rules and administration committee early in the session, were printed, then were referred back to the committee where they have since been held without action. The bills authorize the publication of legal notices by radio and television broadcasting stations. The other provides that advertising for proposed constitutional amendments must be run on radio and television stations as well as in newspapers.

T.F. Crowds Seek Bargains On Washington's Birthday

Magie Valley residents surged into Twin Falls stores Friday morning to seek bargains to celebrate the birthday of the man who once threw a dollar across a river.

George Washington's dollar, across the Hagerman river, (as legend goes) would have bought three cans of oysters, a set of Indian pajamas or a large waterbuck—among other things.

A crowd of shoppers were assembled at the doors when stores opened at 9:30 a.m. from 15 to 25-year-old Doris Davis, chairman of the Twin Falls Merchants' association, said Friday's sale was one of the biggest sales of the year.

Advertisements proclaiming "Real George's" day, among other cliches, excited the shoppers.

Huge Lake on Freeze Verge, May Close

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Feb. 23 (U-P)—So far as known Lake Superior never has frozen over, end to end and side to side. But it is close to that now and it shortly may close what little gap of open water that remains.

J. B. meteorologist Arthur Meyers said today a Trans-Canada Airlines pilot flying over the 400-mile-long, 100-mile-wide lake reported Friday only open water visible scattered patches not more than one to two acres in size.

Meyers said extremely cold weather, which added thermometer here to 21 below zero Friday, continues for a week and conceivably might last two weeks. This has been one of Michigan's coldest winters in years.

Staggering Problem of State Funds Facing Flustered Idaho Lawmakers

By Earle L. Jester

BOISE, Feb. 23 (U)—Why is it so difficult to write an acceptable formula for distributing state funds to the public schools? Why not simply take the total amount appropriated and divide it among the districts on the basis of student enrollment?

School people are quick to reply that a simple formula will not apportion the money fairly because the problem itself is a complex one.

Some districts are small, geographically, while others are large. Some districts have few students and these may be some of the largest geographically—while others have many.

In some districts the value of property assessed for taxing purposes is a great deal larger, on a per-student basis, than in others. Thus the maximum local tax levy now permitted, 20 mills, will raise considerably more money in some districts than in others.

Transportation of students is costly for some districts, a minor item for others. In some districts there has been little change in school population for many years. In others the number of students has expanded rapidly in recent years.

All of this makes it difficult to write a formula that is fair to all districts—and still acceptable to a majority of the lawmakers who must approve it. Legislators, representing specific counties as they do, are inclined to judge each formula on the basis of what it will do for their own schools.

This is one reason why it is so difficult to bring agreement on a formula. Over the years inequities have been built up which result in districts receiving more than their proportionate share, when all factors are taken into consideration. But because a reduction in state aid would mean an increase in local financing, such districts—and the legislators who represent them—will resist any effort at reduction.

To appease such districts, and thus win the votes needed for approval, sponsors of the formula now in effect agreed to include a provision which was not in the original draft. It provided that regardless of how the formula was applied, no district would get less in state aid than it had received in the preceding two years.

Now with revision of the school formula again a major problem, the same cry is being voiced—and listened to.

But both formulas currently under consideration in bill form fail to go as far in that respect as the one adopted in 1961. In the first plan, the 1961 formula set 15 mills as the maximum effort required of a local school district to share fully in state aid.

In the current session the senate bill, embodying the so-called simplified formula drafted by two Canyon county school superintendents, provides that any county which can support its public school program at the present level of a local tax levy of 30 mills will get no state aid.

And it provides that any district which cannot do so, but which fails to levy 20 mills, will have its state allotment reduced in the proportion that its actual levy bears to 20 mills.

In the house bill, which is a remodeled version of the present formula, districts get less state aid than they normally would receive if their tax levy is less than 27 mills, calculated on the basis of "adjusted assessed valuation."

The adjustment is used because there is wide variation among the counties in the assessment rate of property in relation to its current cash value. The state tax commission, using real estate sales as the measure of current value, says that on the average throughout the state property is assessed at 16 per cent.

But individual counties vary greatly, ranging from a low of 11.9 per cent to a high of 32.3 per cent.

For purposes of determining how much districts will get in state aid, a district in a low ratio county might levy the maximum 30-mill tax and still fall short of the 27-mill minimum specified. Its share of state funds would be adjusted downward accordingly.

The senate and house bills differ in the unit they use in distributing state money. The senate bill uses the number of students.

For the current biennium the total is 33 million dollars, a boost from 27 million dollars two years earlier. The preliminary budget committee and Gov. Robert E. Smylie proposed a 36 million total for the two-year period beginning next July 1.

The state department of education asked 40.5 million dollars and the department said if the state were to provide 50 per cent of the total cost of operating the schools, 15 million dollars would be needed.

Generally, opinion is that the eventual total will be 39 to 40 million dollars—if the financing can be approved. It would take an increase of 10 to 12 million dollars in tax revenue and so far neither the house nor senate bills has actually approved any boost.

Two Union Officers See Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23 (U)—Two officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, at odds last week over whether to strike, have united against the Southern Pacific Railway company in a continuing dispute over automation.

James Weaver, head of BP's clerks unit, and William McGovern, grand vice president of the brotherhood, told a San Francisco news conference, "It's coming to a head; a strike is only a matter of days."

The clerks say they've lost 6,000 BP jobs to automation and are streamlining since 1958. They want future cutbacks made up by job retraining or by offering substitute jobs. The road says it will agree only to a "reasonable" number of jobs on a federally suggested basis for a man about to be laid off.

Last week Weaver set a strike deadline almost daily but McGovern insisted that the union's Frank O'Neill agreed with BP to switch the talks to Chicago. Those talks broke off Thursday.

Red Cross Blood Program Is Area School Credited for Helping Woman Planned on Cancer Drive

BURL, Feb. 23—The Red Cross blood bank program is credited with helping save the life of Mrs. Paul Neumann, Burl.

Mrs. Neumann has been a longtime recipient of the blood program having received more than 200 units of blood during the past seven years. She also has received approximately the same amount of albumin. For a time, Mrs. Neumann, whose system was unable to build blood, had to have a blood transfusion every 28 to 30 days.

After having undergone two surgeries, one in April, 1951, and another in November, 1951, her health has somewhat improved so she managed to get by with only two pints of blood in 1952. However, she is undergoing further treatment.

Mrs. Neumann wishes to express her appreciation to the Red Cross, which through its blood program, managed to keep her her blood type in stock, her physicians are Dr. V. H. Anderson, Burl, and Dr. Fred Knoch, Twin Falls.

Mrs. Neumann also wishes to extend her thanks and appreciation to the many friends from this locality and other states who have donated blood replacements for her with the Red Cross.

Praise Given Actions of Students at Debating Meet

Editor, Times-News: "Kids were never this kind of serious about their modeling work," said a moving word here terms such as "compliance," "juvenile delinquency," "non-conformity" have so often been applied to our high school youth. The students of the 27th annual Webster County School Forensic Tournament held in Oakes, Utah, Feb. 15 and 16, during this time in the world, over 1,000 bright-eyed, alert high school students from Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah were gathered to watch the thinking of our youth and to see how they debated the proposition: "Resolved: that the United States should go to the aid of Cuba." While preparing for and competing in the tournament, wonderful young men and women embraced and eagerly sought solutions to problems of the security of our nation.

Where, during this tournament, the trouble makers, the beatniks, the complacent who say to go to Cuba, Cuba, Cuba, they were certainly not to be found when they examined the arguments of the students who were filled with students and coaches from four Idaho schools. They were in the audience, lived in very close proximity, finally being able to hear with the maximum of clarity the words of their adult behavior.

Where they at Webster County, they were in the audience, lived in very close proximity, finally being able to hear with the maximum of clarity the words of their adult behavior.

Glenns Ferry Too Close to Target Area

GLENN'S FERRY, Feb. 23—Since Glenn's Ferry is within a 60-mile radius of a target area, it does not qualify for a civil defense hospital. It was reported at a civil defense committee meeting at the American Legion hall Wednesday evening.

The group decided it will be the responsibility of the community to provide cots, blankets, medical supplies and an auxiliary power unit. The "community" is considered to consist of the Hammett, King Hill, Glenn's Ferry and Indian Cove areas, W. E. Mineau, chairman, said.

One radiological monitor unit may be obtained for each of the outlying areas and one for each of the four wards at Glenn's Ferry, provided there are a minimum of two trained monitors at each area, Mineau stated.

"Wonderful World of the West"

I feel this property has a great future and would not sell it. As a life for retirement it cannot be equalled, as a speculative proposition it is sound. I was very favorably impressed by Helen and Albuquerque when we visited there and the climate is ideal protection against the rigors of old age.

Harold K. Stein & Family
114 Quinn
Cape, Michigan

At the time I purchased this acreage it was for investment only but one trip out there changed my mind. We now intend to retire at Rio Grande Estates in Rio Grande, New Mexico. We have everything we want. Recreation, wonderful climate and all the planning that it brings done... make this a "dream come true" place to live. We want to thank you for the opportunity to invest and share this property with you.

Dele J. Kent
218 Cleveland Drive
San Antonio 28, Texas

We visited there last year and thought it was simply wonderful country to retire or come in at anytime. The air and sunshine were marvelous, and the people in the city of Salen seemed so very friendly.

Northwest Nazarene College Smothers Magic Valley 94-61

Gary Locke uncorked his usual scoring blitz tonight and the Northwest Nazarene college of Nampa blasted a 94-61 victory over the Magic Valley Christian college Panthers in both teams' final of the season at the Twin Falls gymnasium. The Panthers stayed close throughout the first half, but without the services of top scorer Darrell Freeman, out on an injured ankle, and with Locke and his teammates burning the nets in the second half, they couldn't breach the gap.

Cincinnati Overcomes Tulsa 55-54

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23 (UP)—The top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats came from 11 points behind in the last eight minutes tonight to beat Tulsa 55-54 in a Missouri Valley conference game. Coach Ed Jucker's strategy of using three guards in the closing minutes and alternating sophomores Ken Cunningham and Pete Meyer did the trick. Cunningham scored six of the Bearcats' last 18 points and was fouled with a 20-foot jump shot with 2:23 to go. George Williams free throw provided the winning edge 40 seconds later. When was fouled charging for the basket after Tom Thacker stole the ball from Tulsa. Thacker also saved Cincinnati's victory by grabbing the rebound after Pete Meyer missed the last shot of the game. The Golden Hurricane ran off eight points at the start of the game. The first time the two-time NCAA champion Bearcats led the score was at 10-11. 3 minutes, 55 seconds before the game ended. Cincinnati's Missouri Valley champs seemed to do nothing right in the first half, which ended with Tulsa leading 24-20.

NCAA Group Takes Potshot At AAU Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (UP)—Sniping continued in the approach to the 1963 AAU sports year, and the college group apparently carried its latest attack right into the AAU's back yard today. The U.S. Track and Field Federation, organized by the NCAA, set an effort to sanction the AAU's own track meet Saturday night at Madison Square garden, and three per cent of the gate receipts or $200.

The AAU rejected the offer for the national indoor championship, the 1963 sponsored by the AAU annually. The question of who is going to sanction which meet has been a key question in the two-year struggle between the two groups.

Rice Expells Student For Bribe Attempt

HOUSTON, Feb. 23 (UP)—The Southwest conference, rocked last year by an investigation of alleged game fixing by basketball officials was jarred again today with the report that a Rice university student had been expelled for offering two players a bribe to shave points. Two Rice basketball players, Herb Steinkamp and Dick Cranmer, reported the student tried to bribe them to hold the margin down to less than 14 points in the game with Baylor Tuesday night. The university issued a brief statement Friday night that "a student has been expelled from Rice university. He attempted to bribe two basketball players to shave points in the game with Baylor Tuesday night. This was reported immediately by the players to Rice authorities."

Johnny Frankie, Rice basketball coach, said the matter had been referred to the FBI. Athletic director Jesse Neely said "as far as I know the players were approached Feb. 18 and they reported the bribe attempt to Frankie the next day." That was the day before Rice's game in Dallas with Southern Methodist last Saturday.

"Frankie said the players were told: 'The point shaving in the Baylor game depended on whether you show down the Baylor game by win by less than 14 points.'"

Frankie said. Rice lost the SMU game by 15 points, 60-45. "He said he had been offered $40,000 and give my guards $200 apiece to show down the Baylor game by win by less than 14 points," Frankie said.

Rice lost the SMU game by 15 points, 60-45. Steinkamp exceeded his Southwest conference average of 11.2 points, scoring 22 points against both SMU and Baylor. Cranmer scored three points against SMU and six against Baylor. The team averaged 53.5 points a game as a substitute.

Cramer is a Belaire, Tex. high school graduate. Steinkamp is from Venetia, Ill. The investigation of alleged game fixing last year by a legislative committee. No charges were filed but two officials were suspended. One was suspended for life for this season's basketball race.

GILBERT WINS
MIAMI, Feb. 23 (UP)—Jack Gilbert, 158, of Knoxville, Tenn., captured the 15th of the Fort Lauderdale, in a six-round bout at Little River auditorium Thursday night.

Pumblitis set in on the Nazarene quarter during the early going, and the Panthers held a 9-5 lead—their only lead of the night. NNC quickly recovered and began to creep ahead of the Panthers and held a slim 23-22 first quarter advantage.

But paced by Locke, they began to outdistance the scrappy Panthers and moved on to a 34-28 halftime lead. Magic Valley kept its hopes up during the third stanza, despite some torrid jump shooting by VanArndel who spurred the Nazarene lead to 40-34 as the teams went into the fourth quarter.

Then the blitz began. Locke hit three straight baskets. Powers and Hancock each contributed five points and Cook and Hagood made good two attempts from the field. The reeling Panthers could never regain their composure as NNC stormed down the floor, hitting easily and dominating the backboards.

Freeman came into the game with five minutes left to play, but it was too late to provide enough spark for the Panthers. Alchison finished with 22 points to lead the Panther scoring while Locke hit 24. Keith Miller pumped through 16 for MVCC and VanArndel dropped 15 through the hoop for the Nazarene crew. The loss leaves the Panthers with a seasonal record of 4-20.

Clay Won't Be Pushed Too Rapidly

SEATTLE, Feb. 23 (UP)—Cassius Clay writes his own script. "It's a little rich at times," William Faverham, Jr., of Louisville said today, "but he doesn't let it get to him. He has decided to create an image and he works at it."

You know Cassius Clay. It's likely also that you know Bill Faverham, chairman of the board of 11 Louisville sponsors who back Clay, fighting or talking. Here on a business trip—he's a distiller—Faverham said Clay is not tempted by the city's famous alcoholic products. "His idea of a big time is four scoops of ice cream and a double orange juice, straight," said the chairman of the board.

A couple of us had watched Clay since he was a 14-year-old kid in amateur smokers. Faverham said. When Clay won the Olympic light-heavyweight title a Louisville fight was formed to further the boy's career for the professional heavyweight title. The contract gave Clay a $10,000 bonus, $400 a month for the first two years and 50 per cent of his purse thereafter. Faverham said he cut out 23 or 24 names from the ring.

Loquacious Cassius wants to be the youngest world heavyweight champ on record. To attain this goal he must win the title by Dec. 12 to beat Floyd Patterson, who became king of the heavies 35 days before he was 22.

"Body is going to rush us," Faverham said. "Not even Clay." He revealed he had turned down an ultimatum from champion Donny Liston's management while here. Faverham said he was told Clay would have to meet Liston in July in New York.

Stand in line after that. He said he replied that the earliest date agreement to the Louisville syndicate would be December, or October and a favored site would be Los Angeles. He would prefer, said Faverham, "a winter year."

If Clay's training were a problem, his training never is a problem. "If anything," said the board chairman, "the overtrain. He can't walk down a street without a crowd-bombing."

Bruins Eliminate Minico 48-35; Senators Bounce Past Buhl Indians 55-4

Twin Falls and Gooding kept their hopes alive with victories Saturday night as the first week-end of a fourth district AAA basketball tournament came to an end. Twin Falls bombed the ice cold Minico Spartans 48-35 and Gooding, paced by a freshman, ousted the Buhl Indians 55-4. Meanwhile, Burley and Jerome, both unbeaten, rested up for the championship semi-finals.

Twin Falls had its hands full with the Spartans, a team the Bruins had handled easily twice during the season. It was Twin Falls that was trying to catch up much of the first quarter and then, at 14-14, as the second period began, Twin Falls, led by Doug Schow and Art Vandenberg, bounced out in front by six points and never trailed again.

Action was tight in the first quarter with Minico's Bill Berry and Ron Page offsetting a sudden lull, streak by Bruin Kendall Kinkhorst. Kinkhorst, who had three straight jump shots to tie the game at 8-8 before the two teams were saving over the next minute. Just before the buzzer, Doug Schow hit his two free throws to tie it up.

It became very easy for the Bruins in the third quarter when the Spartans went completely dead and scored only one point. That came on a free throw by Page. At the end of the period, Twin Falls was coasting 34-20 and both sides called the benches.

Adamson, a tall freshman, gave Gooding control of the backboards and the Senators opened hot and stayed that way by beating Buhl. The homecoming Indians were playing without coach Ed Schrock, who fell ill Thursday night and was still in bed with a high fever Saturday.

Gooding scored at a torrid 55 per cent clip from the field in the first quarter to all but wrap the game up. The Senators came but of that, eight minutes with a 10-7 lead.

Buhl, paced by a great rebounding guard, Bill Berry, inched back slowly over the next two quarters and late in the third quarter succeeded in cutting the margin to five points.

But as the fourth period began, Gooding again began to dominate the backboards and the Senators rolled home. They ended the night with a 48-35 final, a 17-16 per cent average from the floor.

Idaho Bows to Seattle 77-72, Dumps Huskies

MOSCOW, Feb. 23 (AP)—Idaho held off a Washington rally in the opening minutes of the second half and controlled play by a narrow margin to beat the Huskies 77-72 in a college basketball game today. Washington moved quickly to a 9-3 lead but Idaho picked up 12 straight points for 15-9 edge largely on the strength of a full court press. The game lapsed into a tight defensive battle with Idaho ahead 32-28 at the half.

Big Ed Correll pushed the Huskies ahead 35-32 after four minutes of the second half and again at 37-35, but Idaho hit three field goals and was never headed.

Chuck Johnson got only 12 points but pulled down 22 Idaho rebounds. Washington got 40 off the boards.

Chuck White topped the scoring with 19 for the Vandals. Center Dale Easley was high for the 12th straight game with 18 points.

The Beattie Chitelines, with Eddie Miles leading the way, handed the Vandals a 77-72 defeat Friday. The fine second half play by Idaho's defense, which held the Huskies to 35 points, gave the Chitelines the same season record of 12 straight wins.

Idaho was in command in the first period, going out by 14 points. The Vandals' defense, which slipped back eight points, then suddenly surged in front by 12 points in three minutes.

The Vandals chopped away but couldn't overcome the visitors' attack. Seattle used six players and the five regulars all hit in double figures.

Johnson found a bouncing match with Seattle center John Trevisan but still managed to haul down 24 of the 47 Idaho rebounds while Trevisan got 10 of Seattle's 24.

Washington's defense, which held the Huskies to 35 points, gave the Chitelines the same season record of 12 straight wins.

Raft River Tops Devils In 48-40 Tilt

RAFT RIVER, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Raft River Trojans closed out the basketball season with a 48-40 victory over the Devils in the first quarter and could manage only a slim 17-16 first quarter lead. They stretched it to 30-22 by halftime and had the Red Devils down 38-29 at the end of the third stanza. A comeback rally by Murtaugh was nipped in the bud and the Trojans carried an eight point lead as the buzzer sounded.

The Murtaugh junior varsity team red-hot and dribbled the surprised Trojans 63-25 in the game.

But Mark Hansen, Phil Johnson and Wayne Stokes each hit a basket in the same period. And Estes sank two free throws with 22 seconds to go which led to a win.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 23 (AP)—Bradley topped nationally-ranked Wichita 64-63 in their Mid-South Valley conference basketball game tonight.

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, the Yankees' two top money makers who are the only unsigned players on the team, are due early next week to talk contract, Yankee officials said today.

Large Part of "Oklahoma!" Production Is Made up of Area High School Students

"The show must go on," and as a lot of other things, such as American history, biology and social studies, are being on a production such as "Oklahoma!" is, at best, a complicated task, and undertaking that task is the Dillettante Group of Magic Valley. The group is made up of individuals from many walks of life, with one of the larger segments including high school students and young people. Of the entire production cast, some 30 to 25 members are under 20 years of age. Your chance of spotting them on stage is limited. However, much of their handwork will be shown.

High school students come to practice with two sets of books. One set of books covers the production "Oklahoma!" The other is tonight's homework.

Twin Falls by no means has a monopoly on the youngsters working on the production. Many come from other valley high schools and commute to Twin Falls each night.

They come because they have more than just a casual interest in the legitimate theater. A production such as "Oklahoma!" allows the student to peek into the world of drama to see what it offers.

They find out that staging a production involves compromise, criticism and teamwork. They discover that criticism is not blocking apart their efforts; it's an attempt to better the individual and that effort.

They discover the importance of the section of the production on which they are working when the pieces begin to fit together.

While other high school students and youngsters are out "dragging Main," these students are learning a practical lesson in sacrifice and in getting along with people.

"The students have done an excellent job with the production and fit very well into the circle of the adults working on the production," says Paul Kilias, director.

Interest by young people assures that Dillettante work will continue. As those who become too busy or disinterested drop out, the youngsters are filling the gap.

After producing several musicals in Magic Valley, there are some "old hands" among the younger set. These are students with two and three productions behind them.

Tedious waiting is contrary to youthful enthusiasm, but the students wait. Then it is instant action. They do their part, contribute their bit—then it is back to tedious waiting.

And in the back of Washington school auditorium, where rehearsals are held, the students kill time by doing homework, get lost in thought or open so they don't miss their part.

Members of the Dillettante group are not just interested in the value of the student and are rewarded outstanding effort. Last year, the group gave a scholarship to Jeanne Metuloka, a high school student.

On March 1 at Piler high school auditorium the curtain will rise on "Oklahoma!" The production will run March 1, 2, and 3 and March 7, 8 and 9. An additional production has been scheduled during the spring fair.

Tickets are available at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce office.

Geisha Girls Declining in Modern Japan

TOKYO, Feb. 23 (AP)—The poor Geisha. Her trade is on the way out.

The number of working Geishas in Tokyo has fallen 15 per cent in the last 10 years to about 4,500 from 5,200 in 1953, and it seems certain that sometime before the end of the century the last Geisha may twang her discordant guller a final time and plunge into history.

The traditional ways of Asian life are in retreat, with Western patterns of living taking precedence. The modern Japanese woman is growing discontent with her role as the unquestioning homemaker, and as she wins a greater share of her husband's attention there is less room for stag parties with professional hostesses. In many cases, the cocktail party is taking the place of the Geisha party, and those who run the Geisha-looking agencies are hard to find.

The life of a first class Geisha still is disciplined and demanding. Girls who choose to make their way in the world by pleasing men find they can do it quicker as actresses, dancers, singers and bar or nightclub hostesses.

Many puzzled foreigners who have been to Geisha parties during the post-war years wonder why the institution has survived this long.

Most visitors who go through the experience find it fun to spend one evening sitting on a straw-matted floor, experimenting with Japanese food and watching the apparently timorous but go through their very best. The humdrum fact is that the visitors' wives, bosses or the

Historic Pioneer Rock Survives Recent Floods

Many a tourist across southern Idaho has pulled to the side of the road a few miles southwest of Massacre Rocks to enjoy a small roadside park and photograph a huge boulder which bears inscriptions of the names of pioneers who came that way during the last century.

To preserve this historical old rock, a high wire fence was erected to protect it from the general public, vandals and accidents.

Earlier this month, nature almost ruined man's attempt to preserve the rock.

Floods which raise havoc throughout much of Idaho also took their toll near Massacre Rocks.

U. S. Highway 33 used to dip down and run close to the small park harboring the rock. However, the new highway circles the small park on a high fill over the creek.

During the recent flooding the culvert under the new stretch of road was unable to carry the large amount of water flowing in the creek. As a result, the flood water was impounded behind the large fill and finally the fill gave way, ripping a large section of highway with it.

The cascade of water was enough to rip down the protected fence around the rock with the pioneer autographs on it.

Water pressure, mud and sections of highway guard rail and trees battered the rock until it is almost impossible to decipher some of the carvings. Mud and silt have filled most of the carvings.

Probably the most unfortunate part of the incident is that the fence is down and the rock is exposed to vandals, curiosity seekers and the like.

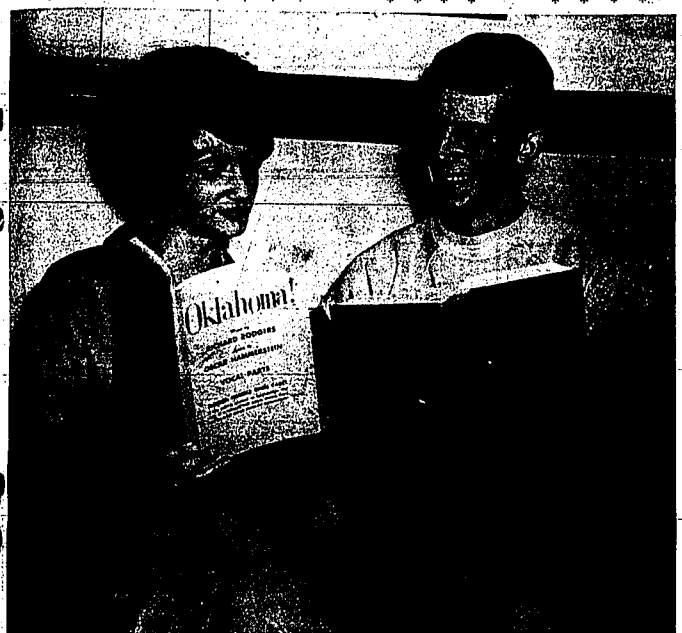

The grass surrounding the rock and much of the plants area is covered with mud and refuse.

The old culvert under the abandoned section of U. S. 33 is still standing and existing highway traffic has to detour on this section of road until the new highway is repaired.

Historical groups and the state highway department have spent considerable time and effort to preserve the signatures of Oregon Trail travelers. High water almost washed away their efforts.

EXAMINING NATURE'S ATTEMPT TO RUIN AN OLD HISTORICAL SITE is David Brock, 459 Ash street. The rock for many years was a favorite place for pioneers to carve their names. A fence was erected to protect the rock, a few miles southwest of Massacre Rocks. Recent floods, however, have torn out the fence, ripped down the signs and raised havoc with the area. The rock was almost completely under water during the peak of the flood. (Times-News photo)

Sixth Graders at Kimberly Learn Limited Spanish for Class Lesson

KIMBERLY, Feb. 23—As the most Magic Valley students visit until they reach high school, Kimberly elementary school.

Students at the school are not expected when one of Gilbert Rowe's sixth graders greets them in Spanish instead of the conventional American "hello."

The students are by no means masters of the language but they have mastered some of the simple and elementary phrases. This was demonstrated recently when the class performed for a PTA meeting. The class presented a skit. The first part of the skit was presented in English, then repeated in Spanish.

The switch to speaking Spanish came about as a result of two things. First, the subject for the year was Mexico and South America. Secondly, Joe Galtan enrolled in school. Joe could speak Spanish fluently as it is the major language spoken in his home.

So, Gilbert Rowe, the teacher, decided to combine the two events, the enrollment of Joe and the geography lesson. As the students would learn a particular name of something, Joe would give them the Spanish name. Geography no longer became boring to the students, and from this start, isolated words soon became simple Spanish phrases.

Rowe then decided to enlarge upon the subject. Instead of counting out, two, three—the students began reciting, uno, dos.

Rowe is the first to admit that perhaps the lesson isn't as correct as it should be, but the students are speaking phrases quite well and Joe claims he can understand them.

Many Mexican customs can be explained by Joe. This allows Rowe to go beyond what is in the textbook. The students might be considered, by many, to be the habit of a lazy people.

However, Joe points out that the students is a custom. And the work day in Mexico is a long one. At noon the sun is at its peak and it is generally unbearable.

NOT ALL SCHOOL WORK is difficult. Sixth grade students at Kimberly elementary school have been learning to speak Spanish along with their study of Mexico and South America. Learning value of a "setia" is easy for Randy Claitor, left, Ricky Erickson, and Rod Buehler, right. The students recently put together a skit for PTA in which half the program was done in English, then repeated in Spanish. A transfer student, Joe Galtan, speaks Spanish and has translated ordinary words for the students for classroom use. (Times-News photo)

Eden Resident Combines Radio Hobby With Farm

EDEN-HAZELTON, Feb. 23 — A falling tree hit the telephone lines might cause some rural families discomfort, notably all the antennas that dot the place.

In fact they were probably a "ham."

Amateur radio might seem out of place on a farm, but, according to McClain, it fits right in with farming. For example, if Mrs. McClain wants him at the house and he is in the barn, a radio operator, better known as

TESTING HIS SMALL, two-meter civil defense set is Rex McClain, Eden farmer. McClain believes in case of an emergency radio operators can serve a useful role in communications. In addition, having a rural location could avoid many pitfalls that would encumber a city dweller. McClain has emergency power available in case of a shutdown and also has a mobile unit in his car. AN OLD MILL WHEEL stands in the front yard of J. Newell Dayley's yard, Oakley. It originally belonged to a complete flour mill located in the mouth of Goose creek 81 years ago. Dayley says the old wheel has special meaning for him, as it was in 1902 that he met his wife-to-be "down by the old mill stream." The wheel measures three and one-half feet across and a foot wide and weighs 1,200 pounds. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Most people would have no sentiment over 1,200 pounds of granite rock which measures three and one-half feet across and is a foot wide, but to J. Newell Dayley, OAKLEY, it brings back old memories because it was down by the old mill stream where he first met his wife-to-be 60 years ago. This granite rock is a section of the old mill wheel which was constructed by Norton T. Tuttle, a millwright who operated a grist and a sawmill in Tropic, Utah, prior to moving to Oakley in 1884. Tuttle and his family made their home at the mouth of Goose creek below the present Oakley reservoir near the Luther Baker home. Here a mill pond and mill race were prepared for operating the first sawmill, a small planing mill and a flour mill for the Oakley area.

The huge pieces of machinery were freighted by wagon-trains from Kellom, Utah, to install a burr-type four mill. Great slabs of granite rock were obtained in Utah and Vermont, but the steady revolving of the grinding wheels they failed to hold up; consequently the granite had to be imported from France.

Soon another problem arose as the Goose creek water could not furnish enough power for the three mills, so Tuttle abandoned his planing and sawmills, leaving only the flour mill to exist in 1885.

At this time improvements were made in the form of a Red meat for hearty cold weather eating is featured in many supermarkets over the nation this week-end. Price tags reflect heavy marketings of cattle and pig.

Ribs of beef are offered at 57 cents a pound in the New York area by one national chain.

In the Los Angeles area, the same cut, the rib roast, is widely featured at 3 to 4 cents lower than a week ago.

Other beef attractions include hamburger, chuck roast and cube steaks.

Smoked hams are selling for 26 cents a pound for shank ends at one national chain. Bacon is generally lower in the Midwest than a week ago. Sausages, spare ribs, chops and loin roasts are regionally featured.

Poultry continues to compete for the poultry fan's attention, with the price added in many markets going this week to turkey.

Poatoes, radishes, celery, carrots, lettuce, cabbage, onions and celery are widely featured.

Fruit counters feature pears, apples, bananas and grapes.

When the Knights arrived at the hospital and learned their son was not believed in critical condition, they returned home and installed the couple from Montana, spend the night in one of their cabins.

At 5 a.m. Monday they were called by the hospital to come at once, but their car would not start. Hearing the Knights, the Montana couple dressed and rushed them to the hospital.

When they learned that Jack Knight had died of a heart attack, they stopped to locate the Povey greenhouse and order flowers before continuing on their way to Montana.

"Racial Integration, a Personal Problem"

By ESCIL HIBER
Church of the Brethren
On January first of this year, 1963, we commemorated as a free republic the 100th anniversary of the Proclamation issued by the President of the United States which reads in part:

"I, Abraham Lincoln, do hereby declare that all persons born or hereafter naturalized in the United States shall be considered as citizens thereof. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor deny to any person within the United States the equal protection of the laws."

Many people no doubt struggled with a secret dilemma: conscience demanded that they do life hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on the face of the earth, but emotions fed by years born of ignorance were suggesting mistrust.

The point is, we do not really know whether or not we really racial prejudice until we are caught in a test such as this or are sensitive enough to imagine ourselves into such a position.

We are aware that the Bible has no direct statements against such problems as slavery, nationalism, racism and the like. Problems which, though not synonymous, do have a relationship.

We must even concede that first century Christians, both slaves and free, were not instructed to abolish slavery, a condition which does suggest the priority of one group over another. But rather, the New Testament taught slaves to express loyalty to their masters, and masters to show compassion toward their slaves.

Even in much later times slavery was not abolished, but the product of evil. None the

The husband of the new family, a college graduate with a master's degree, had been transferred there as an employee of a government agency that is doing a service considered almost indispensable to the area's agriculture.

The wife, a young mother, had formerly been a social worker and had just received a bachelor's degree. They were members of one of America's oldest and most respected Christian fellowships.

We have rented our farm and will sell our farming equipment located 2 1/4 miles North of the Southwest corner of Filer or 3/4 mile North of Deadman Corner.

MEET YOUR REPORTER . . .

Mrs. Amos Williams, New Castleford Reporter, Also Is Police Judge, Clerk

CASTLEFORD, Feb. 23—Mrs. Amos Williams, newest addition to Times-News reporters across Magic Valley, served as justice of the peace in Castleford for five years and is currently employed as village clerk and police judge.

Born on a farm which was "taken out of acreage" five miles west of Twin Falls, Mrs. Williams has spent her entire life in Idaho with the exception of about three years in the mining camp at Tulo Tulo, Nev., with her husband.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Peterman, came from Pullman, Wash., to the Twin Falls tract in 1903. Their daughter attended a little country school at Pleasant View, now the Knoll Grange hall.

Since there were no cars, students either walked, rode horseback or drove a horse and buggy, the reporter recalls. She remembers the bigger boys pulling her buggy down the road.

Her parents farmed there until 1929 when they sold out and moved into Twin Falls where they operated the Peterman grocery and service in South Fork. A sister, Edith Peterman, still lives in Twin Falls.

The reporter was graduated from Twin Falls high school in 1932 and on Dec. 31, 1934, was married to J. Amos Williams, a native of Tyler. The couple farmed one year at Piler and then moved to Twin Falls where he worked for the Twin Falls Canal company.

In 1937 they moved to Ketchum where he was employed by Smith Parulon on a dairy farm. Williams worked for five years. They left Ketchum in 1942 and Williams worked in a copper mine in Nevada for several years.

In 1945 they moved to Castleford where they have resided since. Williams worked for the Union Pacific railroad for 10 years and now is employed for Idaho frozen foods in Twin Falls.

Williams was on the village board when a bond election was approved for a city water system. This was completed in 1952. Mrs. Williams was appointed in 1953 to replace Steve Gillette, as village clerk and police judge.

The next year she was appointed by county commissioners as justice of the peace to fill the unexpired term of Gillette. This is a two-term position.

Mrs. Williams says her hobbies include gardening, sewing, knitting, crocheting and music. She plays the piano, guitar and mandolin and belongs to the First Baptist church.

The Williams have three sons. The oldest, Arland, is serving in the navy as a cook aboard the USS Zumwalt. Also in the navy is the youngest, in France with the army.

Mrs. Williams assumed the post of reporter for the Castleford area Feb. 13, replacing Mrs. Parley Harmon, who resigned because of poor health.

The new reporter seeks cooperation of clubs and organizations to give her news of meetings promptly.

Employment Trend Still Downward

The downward trend in employment continued during January as winter weather and other seasonal factors reduced work opportunities, according to the Idaho Labor Market report, compiled by the Idaho employment security agency.

Job opportunities in Butte were fewer than a year ago. The slow demand and a price drop for frozen potato products resulted in production cutbacks in processing plants. Job opportunities also were reduced because of less turnover than in recent years.

In Twin Falls, unemployment, consisting primarily of seasonal workers from agriculture, construction and warehouses, continued to increase. This in turn had some adverse effects on employment in the trades and services. The increased acreage meant for sugar beets extended the sugar refining run through January and into February.

Lack of good skiing snow curtailed activities at Sun Valley, which reduced the expected demand for chambermaids and housemen, according to the report. Also in the report, it appears likely there will be a shortage of general farm hands with irrigating experience when the farming season begins in March or early April.

Unemployment in Gooding continued to increase as seasonal employment dropped to the mid-range. There is some demand for irrigators with employers offering to hire well qualified men now for year-round work.

Eden Resident Combines Agriculture And Hobby as Amateur Radio Operator

punch of the button summons him.
McClain admits being a ham does seem like an odd hobby for a farmer. However, he sets no reason why a farmer can't get just as technical and scientific as his city counterpart. Besides, with lots of land available, erecting an antenna is no task.

McClain became interested in radio while attending high school, and the desire to become a "ham" never left him. His hobby, which once occupied a small corner of the room, now fills the back room of the McClain home. McClain has a master console, a small, two-meter civil defense set, a teletype set and a mobile unit for his car. All of this, plus spare parts and tubes and a workshop area, fills the one room.

The logical question at this point is how does Mrs. McClain feel about this. According to Mrs. McClain, she has the amateur radio bug just as bad as her husband.

Mrs. McClain says people might be surprised there are several women interested in amateur radio. While many women would be at home talking to neighbors on the telephone, Mrs. McClain is swapping stories and recipes with other women "hams."

Dropping in for a cup of coffee after the conversation might be somewhat difficult. The other woman might be in Texas or Pocatello. However, it has happened.
Often "hams," while traveling through the country, will stop in and visit with the McClains. After talking with one another over the radio it just seems natural to finally get together, says McClain.
Farming is a full-time job with McClain so he doesn't get too much free time to build and rebuild his sets. Hence, he depends on good commercial equipment. There are many companies who rebuild radio equipment and put it on the market at a reasonable price. Most of the "hams" are always trying to improve their equipment, so there is quite a turnover, he says.

McClain is enthusiastic about the future of amateur radio in matters of civil defense and emergencies. The "ham" has demonstrated he can deliver in an emergency, says McClain, recalling the recent floods in the Pocatello area.

McClain also believes there is a definite advantage in having a rural location. Cities could get real congested in the event of an emergency. Property and other damage wouldn't have the devastating effect on rural "hams" it would on those in heavily populated areas.

McClain can deliver emergency power to operate his equipment if necessary. In addition, he has his mobile unit. And being a farmer he has other advantages. The radio always are being filled more and more with commercial business now, using two-way radio communication. McClain is a strong believer in using the airways.

McClain believes that amateur radio operators should not risk any chance that might hurt the franchise they now hold. Amateurs should play informed on the latest trends in communications and through organized clubs and affiliated organizations keep a zealous watch on the status of the amateur radio operator.

The reporter was graduated from Twin Falls high school in 1932 and on Dec. 31, 1934, was married to J. Amos Williams, a native of Tyler. The couple farmed one year at Piler and then moved to Twin Falls where he worked for the Twin Falls Canal company.

McClain is a member of the Magic Valley Amateur Radio club.

Judy Christensen, a junior education student from Twin Falls, is co-chairman of the committee operating the Student Union's "pancake house." The Blue Bucket Inn, open each Sunday at 5:30 p.m., is designed for students whose residences do not provide an evening meal.

Walter Greenman, freshman, and Barbara Ware, a sophomore, both from Twin Falls, are members of production crews working on the play "J. B." which the drama department is preparing for March.

Gem Hunters May Ponder Location of Deer Herds; They Are on High Range

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department
BOISE, Feb. 23—Field reports from game wardens soon will come to the fish and game department from various big game wintering ranges throughout Idaho. It can be predicted many of these will comment that the elk and deer are not there in the numbers previously found during annual trend counts. This will be correct for those areas where concentrations of game occur only during winters of deep snow.

For example, Dick Norell, game biologist stationed at Cascade, writes as follows in a memo to the Boise office dated Feb. 18: "Range conditions in Hellsing herd level. It is used, along with range conditions, as a guide to setting hunting seasons and bag limits. It is a physical impossibility to count all game animals, but local points in key areas are useful aids in herd management. (Fish and game photo)"

The trend count is a comparative newcomer in the big game management field, but it has proved to be a useful and economical method of determining herd levels. It is used, along with range conditions, as a guide to setting hunting seasons and bag limits. It is a physical impossibility to count all game animals, but local points in key areas are useful aids in herd management. (Fish and game photo)" along the line. Measurements are made of plant and shrub cover. Records are kept of vegetation area and form classes. Pictures are taken as part of the permanent record.

It is a simple enough to measure seasonal growth on branches or twigs of browse shrubs and plants in the fall. The amount eaten by animals in the winter is determined by late winter checks.

Forage on most brush types can be used up to 80 per cent of the annual growth without causing permanent damage. About 20 per cent are deemed best by game management workers because this leaves some margin for extra hard winters. Widespread forage use in excess of 80 per cent is an indication that range and herd are out of balance, that there are too many elk or deer for the available food supply.

How this works out in practice is illustrated by results of studies in the Payette river drainage from 1956 to 1962. This shows that the yearly checked deer kill management units 33 and 35 should be about 1,500 animals—If enough forage is found to keep the winter herd properly fed. Last fall the desired harvest quota through checking stations was raised to 2,000 deer because the winter range showed heavy use by late winter of 1961-62.

More does than bucks usually are found in deer populations. When the largest part of the harvest is bucks, the next year's breeding season will still find more does than bucks. During the past four years, hunter report cards show bucks making up about 50 per cent of the deer kill on the south fork of the Payette. This is almost exactly the same ratio of bucks to does as is found in Idaho's statewide harvest between 1956 and 1962.

The hunting season was closed in these two units in December before the 2,000 deer quota was checked out, because late fall browse measurements showed excellent summer growth, and prevailing mild weather permitted the herd to range well above the critical winter range. Game workers were sure that the range this winter could carry more deer than usual because of the unseasonable "bluebird" weather that continued into December.

The 1963 hunting season on the south fork of the Payette river will be based, as usual, upon browse use on the winter range, and upon the state of the deer herd after all available

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

Fred Locke, Gooding Civic Leader, Has Been Active Scouter for Many Years

GOODING, Feb. 23—"Every one should participate actively in church and civic affairs," says Fred Locke, Gooding civic leader and outstanding Boy Scout worker. Although Locke is not a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce he believes wholeheartedly in the group's slogan, "Community service is the rent we pay for the space we occupy."

Notable is Locke's service to the boys of the Gooding community through his continued service to the Boy Scout organization since 1943, when he was instrumental in the organization of the Lions' Scout troop 33.

He served as leader until 1944, when he entered the navy, where he was a weatherman through 1945. Since then he has held some kind of office continually in the Scout movement, having been active on the advancement committee, and served as district chairman and district committee member.

FRED LOCKE

able herd information has been considered.

Trend counts are no more than the term suggests. It is a physical impossibility to count all of Idaho's big game animals, but local counts in key areas are very useful aids to herd management. Experience shows that at least three successive years of work is needed—and the longer the trend counts are continued the more meaningful the results.

The long-term method and operation necessary for trend counts in game management is often misunderstood. People not fully acquainted with the ways and wherefores sometimes conclude that it is too slow, or unworkable because it does not give total numbers of game animals in the state.

However, information collected over a long period of time is much less likely to be misleading because it is based on a solid footing. When this is combined with known harvest figures and management of elk and deer is based on measured facts. It is a proven method, workable and accurate. But it does take time to do the job.

He has served in that capacity since 1943. He participated in Scouting in Idaho before coming to Idaho and holds the Scoutmaster's key. He has attended two national jamborees, one in 1957 as sectional staff member for the council and once as a troop leader in 1950. He and an assistant also took a unit of Explorer Scouts to Philmont Scout ranch in 1956.

Locke helped organize a Cub pack at the Christian church, of which he is a member, and served as Cubmaster for three and one-half years. He then returned to serve on the troop committee and again as Scoutmaster for the Lions in 1958 and has served in that capacity since. Locke's Scout career started when he was 12. He attained Eagle rank, and then went on working in the organization in several capacities.

"I like working with youth, because they are more receptive than adults," Locke said, and added, "Kids don't let you down."

He presently is serving his 30th year in Scouting, and in 1961 was recipient of the silver beaver award, which is an award presented by Boy Scouts of America to Scouts who are active in a wide range of church, community and Scouting fields. Locke also served as Scoutmaster of troop 30 in Twin Falls for four years before coming to Gooding.

To fulfill the phases of active community and church service as set forth in the requirements for the silver beaver award, he serves in many organizations.

He is past president of the Lions club and chairman of commerce, and is still an active member of both these organizations. He is also a Grange member and belongs to the Masons.

He is an elder of the Christian church, has taught a high school Bible class for five years and sings in the choir, although he says he doesn't like to brag about his singing.

Locke is also a charter member of the Gooding Regional Horsemen's Carriage club, and is presently restoring a 1928, four-cylinder, Chevrolet, although he doesn't seem to have much time to work on it as he owns several horses, which he says doesn't have to be fed.

He has to spend more time on them than on other hobbies because of mending fences and "all that goes with horses."

Also a collector of stamps, he says he hasn't the time to work with them much, and lately has filled them in boxes. He feels they are of value when a Scout who needs a certain stamp, because he is free to look through the boxes to find what he needs.

Locke attended North Central college in Illinois and the University of Idaho, Moscow, and for the past 21 years has operated an insurance agency in Gooding.

He is now serving as district manager for an insurance company and manages the Grange Mutual fire insurance for the state of Idaho.

In politics, he is a conservative and proud of it, and believes the two-party system is the making of a country. He feels everyone should have a definite party affiliation and willingly state his views on every issue.

He and his wife, Alice, who, incidentally, says she has been a Scout for 23 years—the number they have been married) have three children, Walter, a senior at the University of Idaho, who achieved the rank of Eagle Scout; Louise, a student at Stevens-Henrich Business college; and Bob, an eighth grade student, now working for his Eagle badge.

BUENOS DIAS AMIGO is a common expression used by sixth grade students at Kimberly elementary school. The students have learned a few basic words and phrases in Spanish to coincide with their study of Mexico and South America. Mike Scott, right, checks the "homework" given by Joe Galian. Joe speaks Spanish fluently and is partly responsible for the new terms. When members of the class would learn a particular word or phrase, Joe would give them the Spanish pronunciation, and they would use it in their work. (Times-News photo)

Kimberly Sixth Graders Add Spanish Language to Liven Geography Lesson

able to work outside. Hence, the class came into use.
When the time came to present a skit for PTA, the 25 boys and girls in Row's sixth grade naturally wanted to present their skit in Spanish. Row agreed.

Geisha Girls Declining in Modern Japan

voters back home would find very little to disapprove of.

The visitors trade tips of said rice who whose potency has been exaggerated abroad with the girls, many of whom are middle-aged, and even play childish party games that have no language barriers—like "schops-paper-back" or stretching a piece of paper over a glass and burning it to see who makes the coin fall in.

For the foreigner, the Geisha party invariably turns out to be a surprise in a different sense than he might have expected. It is innocent.

In the old days, years of training went into making the Geisha the world's aloofest party girls. Often, they were selected for these roles in childhood, and began their careers as maids in the dormitory-like houses where they were kept in near-captivity.

They were trained endlessly in story-telling, conversation, dancing and music before the customers were exposed to them.

Table-waiting was raised to an art. Girls were drilled endlessly to pour wine gracefully and slice their guests' dessert oranges into the shape of five-pointed stars.

To make money as a Geisha, the girl had to please the customers, the men for whom the Geisha house provided party catering service. If she did, they would request her by name as an entertainer at future parties.

Since almost every girl could eventually learn singing, dancing and wine pouring, the Geishas who were in the most demand, and who made the most money, were the ones who gained a reputation for being good company.

Some of them were brilliant women, who could talk finances with bankers and war with generals.

Traditionally, Geishas were required to quit the business if they married.

Aside from prostitution, Geisha entertaining was one of the few ways of life in medieval Japan that held out high financial rewards to women who didn't marry.

Modern Geishas have given up the dormitory living that prevailed in the old days. They're apartment dwellers now, checking in nightly with the Geisha agencies to see what work has been lined up for them.

Not all their customers are wealthy Japanese. Often a girl may find herself working alone in a party of office workers or a high school class reunion, stag or mixer—or even a covey of bemused foreign lads.

The credit for learning one language might not go on the students' report cards and be classified as foreign language but as far as Gilbert Rowe is concerned the sixth grade at Kimberly can hold its own with any beginning Spanish class.

Rowe is also thankful that Joe checked into his class. His explanations have made the geography lesson more interesting.

Since the idea belonged to the students, Rowe decided they should write the script, one in English and one in Spanish. The skit was a combination of all the students have learned.

Joe opened the skit with an introduction in Spanish, followed by one in English. From that point on the other students took their turns speaking in both languages.

The costumes for the skit were as authentic as possible.

Local Group Preparing to Attend "Aircade" in Boise

The first Aircade for Citizens' Action, sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be held Wednesday in Boise, announces William Orsinger, secretary - manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Discussion at the one-day meeting will be on tax reduction and reform, federal expenditures, disciplinary health care, labor union monopoly power, federal subsidies for education, federal intervention in local affairs and many others.

A team headed by Ladd Plummer, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, will be in charge of the Aircade. The team will include a number of leading business and government officials. The Aircade is planned to give a clear, revealing picture of the country, its mood, makeup and likely tempo, its strengths and weaknesses and its probable course in the months ahead.

The team of authorities will give a solid, fact-based analysis of all major congressional issues, their potential effect on business, family, community and nation and make recommendations for legislative forces at work.

The meeting also will show how to work effectively with congressmen and senators, how to communicate with them using proven, workable methods and how to make recommendations in Washington, D.C.

Church Renews Aid Cut Drive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—St. Frank Church, D. C., is renewing a drive to cut American military aid to the prosperous nations of western Europe.

Church said he would seek an amendment to this year's foreign aid bill, requiring prosperous NATO members to contribute their share of defense costs.

He told the senate the U. S. is spending 11.5 per cent of its total national income for defense purposes while western Europe spends only 4.9 per cent.

SOLDIER ASSIGNED

KIMBERLY, Feb. 23 — Army Lt. Kenneth F. Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Olsen, was assigned to the 2nd airborne division at Ft. Bragg, N. C. Olsen is a member of the division's administration company. The 24-year-old soldier is a 1954 graduate of Kimberly high school and student at Idaho state university in Lewiston.

U.S. Offers Many Faces To European

BERLIN, Feb. 23 (AP)—Some West Europeans call American aid, which they condemn them as sinners but most are indifferent, in a friendly way.

The relationship of West Europeans and Americans has evolved into a state of tolerance, almost a feeling of equality, in the 17 years since World War II.

Immediately after the war the conquering American was king—admitted, courted, copied.

A lot of the admiration rubbed off during the postwar occupation because of the involvement of American troops in black-market, money-dealing and womanizing among the rubble of devastated Europe.

Now West Europe is back on its feet and emerging into an economic unit that will be a powerful rival to the United States.

Now West Europeans no longer feel they are dependent on the rich uncle from the states whose favor must be courted. The American is just another citizen who will get the same adulation as anyone else if his behavior merits it.

This does not mean there is a common European attitude toward Americans. European unity has not advanced far enough for there to be a common opinion on anything.

A tour of American bases from front-line Berlin to the sunny shores of Spain found local feelings about Americans ranging from indifference to communist-inspired hatred.

In West Berlin the American soldier is regarded as a hero, a knight in shining armor protecting the city from being gobbled up by communists. In the East, the soldier is regarded as a nuisance and a delinquent in printing any derogatory story he can dredge up from German cities where Americans are stationed.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Kyser

GOODING, Feb. 23—Funeral services for Mrs. Cordie Kyser were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Methodist church with the Rev. Dwight E. Wilcher officiating.

Two songs were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ore and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wood, with Mrs. Don Simla accompanying on the organ.

Active pallbearers were Walter Higgins, Orval Davis, Dr. Ed Ryan, Roy Nink, Manning Peterson and John Bragg. Honorary pallbearers included Walter Darling, E. L. Roodenigle, M. P. Ryan, Sherman Stump, Jack Byrum, Julius Schmitz, Eric Whippley, Ben Gleason, Clarence Wells, John Edinborough, Everett Dauber and Clarence Best.

Last rites were held at Elmwood cemetery with members of Marguerite Rebekah lodge No. 98, in charge of the service.

Course Slated

HEYBURN, Feb. 23—The village of Heyburn will sponsor a Red Cross first aid course within two or three weeks for the members of the Heyburn fire department and members of the village board with Byron Hacking as instructor.

The public is invited to attend classes with them. If interested contact Hacking.

"The black saint," because of his charitable activities.

The saint you are to the reality of the communist menace, the friendlier people are toward the protecting American troops. The nearer you are to the poverty line in southern Italy and Spain the more appreciative are the people of characteristic American generosity.

It is the affluent and privileged Europeans who are likely to be most cool.

An American schoolteacher at a strategic air command base, leaving for Germany to be married, said, "Among the old families in Berlin we are not liked and not wanted. They dislike our ways and our ideas."

The still-privileged, conservative classes of Europe, retaining caste, resent the intrusion of the ideas and impulses of the century-old pattern of rigid family life.

Youth Band in Process of Formation At Salvation Army Headquarters Here

—Strike up the band! It has been about 25 years since the Salvation Army of Twin Falls sported a band and the one then was of the "street corner" variety.

Not so today. A new band is in the process of being organized. Some of the members have been selected and some are even being "blown," according to Capt. Leonard H. Bilz, director of the organization and commander of the Twin Falls Salvation Army corps.

Right now the organization is in process of much practice, and public concerts will not be played until later, the conductor points out. However, he said, all members are from Twin Falls and area range from grade 6 to high school.

Officially, the new organization will be termed the Salvation Army youth band. Organization was started last September.

—and more members could join if instruments were available. "Perhaps some people have a band instrument tucked away in the house, one that is no longer being used. We could use it and would appreciate its being donated to the new band," Captain Bilz said.

Salvation Army bands familiar to older residents of Twin Falls featured a small group playing on the downtown street corner. The new band, when ready, will be featured in more formal concerts.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, Feb. 24—Born today, your chief asset—patience—is a coin in the bank. If you spend it wisely, it will serve you well; it will keep you from discouragement and prevent you from jumping to conclusions and from making a too hasty move or decision. It will smooth your way to success. But if you spend it unwisely, it will deteriorate into mere waiting and will be able to purchase you nothing.

You enjoy the things that money can buy, but—because it is not your nature to be a particularly good juggler of finances—you may well need the aid of someone you can trust when it comes to investing, whether the amounts are large or small. Should that "someone" turn out to be your mate, so much the better!

Entertaining and humorous, you are probably wise enough not to exhibit these traits only when in society. Always remember to make full use of them to your own home, in the privacy and company of your own family. You will be a mate and parent of rare dimensions. Let kindness and laughter reign, as well as, and the result will be long, happy, fruitful years.

Among those born on this date are: Winslow Homer, noted American artist; Henry Kirke Brown, sculptor; Zachary Scott, actor; Chester Nimtz, World War II U.S. Admiral.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, Feb. 25
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Morning unpleasanties could be dispatched with ease by the firm application of a little common sense!

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—The degree to which you have taken to heart the lessons of the week-end past may well be tested today. Be on the alert.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—A wise decision, made early, should bring encouraging results by evening. Keep a calm, even disposition.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Get an early start today or you may well find half the field before you by the time you arrive.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)—Don't ruffle another's temper by thoughtless action. You need everyone's full support today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—Kindness lost, past, perhaps forgotten, may well bear fruit today. Watch for a change for the better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—An early start, extra on-the-job effort, cool head—all are needed for success today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)—Bottlenecks offered you by another may not have been arrived at via full understanding of the situation. Think it over!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Successful as a successful doer! A day when actions definitely speak louder than words. Work!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Domestic calm should help you achieve the same one job. Try for harmony with co-workers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Small fry may again have considerable influence on the tempo of your day. Treat them kindly!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Only you can know what satisfies you best. Consider every possibility; then choose the line to follow.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Only you can know what satisfies you best. Consider every possibility; then choose the line to follow.

CAP Cadets Are Selected For Activities

Col. Dwight L. Shaw, Twin Falls, commander of the 10th Air Force, announced that several Idaho CAP cadets will be selected to attend the annual CAP exchange program at Great Lakes, Ill.

Selected for the international air cadet exchange to a foreign country are John W. Wallace, II, Robert A. French, Earl A. Kray, Dennis E. Davis and Donald S. Walker, all Boise. Thomas E. Thacker, Boise, was chosen as an alternate.

Gary J. DeBols, Boise, will attend the jet orientation course at Wright Air Force Base, Ind.

Other CAP cadets selected for schools are Thomas M. Thurman, Boise, for the orientation course at Chuteau air force base, Ill.; Theodore V. Spangler, Jr., Boise, for the aviation agency course; Tinker air force base, Okla., and Andrea L. Hopkins, Boise, jet age orientation course, Maxwell air force base, Ala.

Karen V. Wallace, Boise, and Christine Mackley, Boise, were selected to attend the inter-regional girls exchange program at Great Lakes, Ill.

All of the selections were made Feb. 19 at a "Boise reports" E. Woods, Twin Falls, executive officer of the Idaho wing. Woods said primary reason for so many Boise cadets being chosen is that the aerospace course is taught at Borah high school as a regular course.

The NBAA reports that in 1960 professional pilots were employed to man 7,100 aircraft flown by military, business, transportation by corporations, to question the advisability of executive flying.

In 1959, a Continental company plane crashed in Ohio, killing eight executives and two pilots. In 1956, eight Crane company employees, including six top officials, perished when their plane went down near Louisville, Ky.

Speaker Set
WENDELL, Feb. 23—Mrs. Floyd Kline, Dietrich, fourth district PTA president, will be guest speaker for the Pioneers day program of Hub City PTA at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the elementary school hall-purpose room.

The program will include a bassoon solo by Carol Dixon, and a saxophone trio by Siyari Willard, Roberta Willard and Doris Jensen.
