Junior Great Books Class Tours Studio

HAYLES, March 2—Members of the Junior Great Books class from Carey and Valley were guests at the Picard Art-gallery, Sun Valley this week.

The students were hosted by the artist Fred Picard who discussed the development of art appreciation as well as part of personal cultural growth.

The focal point of the visit was the display of Picard's valuable limited edition of "Stomacher's Odyssey." The book contains three luxury volumes, contains especially prepared lithographs, illustrations by famous artists and painter Hans Berni.

The Picard copy also includes original frontpiece paintings included as a gift to him from the students.

The students, who are reading a special program "Home-to-Shakespeare," found the volumes impressive and a delightful aid to heightened appreciation of the school year.

The Picard gallery tour is one of several features of broadened art appreciation activities which have been offered to these students throughout the school year.

The Great Books program in the school is expanding in an honors program for advanced students and is offered to accelerated students selected according to grade average, achievement, and interest. The class is offered on a non-exam-level basis.

Participating students read and discuss broad and enriched classical reading and introduce the art and music of the period studied as an extra.

They will earn one additional credit per semester for their reading and receive honors notation on their transcripts.

Mrs. Max Barton, Carey, accompanied the Carey group, as well as Jean McFarland, teacher of the two groups. Mrs. Barton is an interested patron of the enrichment activity both as a parent and as an avocational artist.

Menace of Communism and Its Threat Discussed At Talk Given in Twin Falls

By IVAN LINCOLN

The threat and theory of communism were outlined during a public meeting Friday night in the O'Leary Junior high school auditorium by Mrs. John Wilfong, Emmett, second from right. She is shown here after her two-hour speech, for which she received a standing ovation by a near-capacity crowd, which congratulated by Charles Harris, left, chairman of the Twin Falls county Farm Bureau, which sponsored Mrs. Wilfong's appearance. Second from left is Mrs. Albert Wilson, also Emmett, who is state Farm Bureau women's chairman, and at right is Monroe Hayes, state Farm Bureau board member from the local district. Mrs. Wilfong lived for many years under communist rule in Ukraina. (Times-News photo)

...no marriages. In the confusion arising from no official marriages, communist organized "marriage bureaus" which were little more than window dressers a couple could register as a married couple. A divorce could be obtained, also for free, the next day.

She declared that communists are not afraid to admit they're wrong as long as it furthers their cause. She explained that persons can almost predict the future to be followed by communism just by reading of Khrushchev's comments. Almost always, she noted, the communists will take two steps forward in one area and then step back to divert attention, while making progress in another area.

Mrs. Wilfong, continuing her comments on the importance of the family unit under democratic government, and how communism became concerned about destruction of family units affected communism. In an effort to emphasize family units, churches were reopened with communist-trained spies as "ministers."

She mentioned the Greek Orthodox church practice of confession, where communists espousing as priests heard citizens' confidential matters and of the resulting "disappearance" of many churchgoers.

"If you rob a man of his initiative, his production drops," she declared — pointing out a basic difference between communist theory and free enterprise. She mentioned that in red China one farmer can produce only enough to feed four persons, but that in America one farmer produces enough to feed 45 persons.

Mrs. Wilfong also commented on how communism had taken another basic free enterprise concept — competition — and twisted its true meaning to fit into the communist system in which there is competition between factories and collective farms but not individuals.

She commented that Lenin once said, "We can't expect Americans to jump into communism, so give them small doses of socialism." Mrs. Wilfong pointed out the three basic rules of communism — there is no God (they are proud to be atheists), man is a material machine with no soul, no spirit and no significant spiritual value, and economic determination.

She urged parents to become active in PTAs and take an active interest in what is being taught in schools. She said she has been shocked to find that in many cases nationalism is ridiculed in schools.

Communist propaganda, Communist National educational, scientific and cultural organization, she noted that while many American schools use UNESCO materials the UNESCO program receives a great deal of support from Russia, which will not allow UNESCO in its own schools.

Mrs. Wilfong said another communist theory is that, strictly act that promotes communism is a "peaceful" act. They believe mass warheads taken from Cuba were "peaceful" warheads. If someone is killed to promote the communist cause they don't consider it murder, but merely a disposal of something for "peaceful" purposes.

She blasted exchange programs between Russia and the United States, declaring they have nothing to offer. She mentioned one Idaho farmer recently toured Russia and was allowed to take pictures of crops which communists had selected as appearing the "best" examples.

She said when the farmer's slides were shown to a group of farmers here they laughed at the poor quality and inferior farming techniques.

"We have become too tolerant, tolerant to the point we have lost our jobs," she said, adding "We are so broadminded we have become blind and transparent."

"You can't be a little bit pro-communist — or — wishy — wishy American. You either are American or you aren't," she asserted. She urged those attending the meeting to dedicate themselves to their country and not be just mere Americans, practicing Americanism only on special occasions such as Washington's Birthday.

She asked what makes Americans, including many well-to-do people, become communists and expressed the hope that some might form but have joined a mistaken cause.

"If you would drop some of the American communism you've picked up, they'd probably swim back to the United States within two or three weeks," she declared.

"The United Nations is a dream which has become a nightmare," she said.

She mentioned sneaky infiltration tactics used by communists to spread their cause with slogans such as "each according to his ability, each according to his need." She commented the slogan sounds well-rounded, but in actual practice the workers are paid to the best of their ability all day and their needs are considered only basic.

The meeting was opened by Charles Harris, Twin Falls county Farm Bureau chairman, who said citizens logical and sound decisions. Monroe Hayes, state Farm Bureau board member from the Twin Falls district, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Wilfong's appearance here was sponsored by the Farm Bureau.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON, March 2—The boys' cries of gloom over the rift between the Soviet Union and Communist China have been amplified in the past few weeks. Both the State Department and the more optimistic news agencies have taken a harder look at the situation.

This is good, and realistic. The inclination in the State Department to view this rift as a crisis of "Soviet policy" is a mistake. It is not a crisis of "Soviet policy" but a crisis of "Soviet leadership." It is not a crisis of "Soviet policy" but a crisis of "Soviet leadership." It is not a crisis of "Soviet policy" but a crisis of "Soviet leadership."

They have been known to pass bills unanimously without being aware of the implications of what they are doing.

The ways of lawmakers are strange. Indeed, citizens cannot comprehend that goes on in the state legislature; they must be forgiven because a good deal of the time the legislators themselves don't know. They have been known to pass bills unanimously without being aware of the implications of what they are doing.

News Around Idaho

BALMON, March 2 (U) — The ice-encrusted body of a boy missing since November was found Saturday, washed up on a log in the Salmon river about 40 miles northwest of here. The boy, Joseph C. Coupland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Coupland of Gibbonville, was lost in the river nearly four months ago when a car operated by his mother plunged off the highway and into the water. Mrs. Coupland and several children made it to safety. Skin divers had searched for Joseph's body without success for some time after the accident.

POCAATELLO, March 2 (U) — Forty-one members of the Boiler-makers union here agreed on a new contract with Bannock steel company Eric Saturday and will sign it today. The one-year-old contract was the primary issue in the walk-out of the workers. Wages were not considered a key issue, although the workers were granted an increase, Minion said.

POCAATELLO, March 2 (U) — Twenty-three Idaho cancer society delegates from six southern Idaho counties met here Saturday to help April's statewide fund-raising. They gathered for a three-day trip to the state capital, including a panel discussion on cancer, and instructions in soliciting funds. Dr. Jay Merzley, medical director of the American Cancer Society, moderated the panel discussion which included Dr. Frank Staheli and Dr. Lynn Anderson. Dr. Staheli discussed research and surgery and Dr. Anderson described leukemia and cancers of the bone marrow.

BOISE, March 2 (U) — Warm weather will bring out ticks in agricultural and lower mountain areas, the Idaho department of health said Friday. Small, parasitic arachnids are the most common and most annoying ticks, the state health department said. Ticks are most abundant in wooded areas, but also in tick-infested areas, but said the risk is not great for persons who have only occasional or week-end outings. "The treatment of such serious disease with antibiotics is very successful," it said.

BOISE, March 2 (U) — Representatives of the polo-industry reviewed the bill Saturday night over whether bulk shipments of Idaho tubers to other states would be beneficial to them or not. At present shipment is limited to packaged lots. Arguments were heard on the bill, which would allow direct sale of tubers to other states in a four-hour session Friday night by the agriculture committee of the Idaho house of representatives which did not adjourn until 11:30 p.m.

BOISE, March 2 (U) — The Idaho supreme court reversed a Franklin county district court judgment Friday involving the cancellation of an automobile insurance policy. The trial court had ruled that the insurer did not fraudulently purchase an automobile policy from Temperance Insurance exchange which insures only total abstinents. The high court held that Colburn was not a total abstinenter and had concealed this fact when he applied for a policy. It said that material misrepresentations are the basis for cancellation of insurance.

BLACKFOOT, March 2 (U) — Agreement on the terms of the 1963 sugar beet contract between the Idaho Beet Growers association and the Utah-Idaho Sugar company was reached Friday at a meeting in Boise. The agreement was announced jointly by W. Albert Johnson, the vice president of the Idaho Beet Growers association, and R. M. Cannon, Idaho Falls, Idaho manager for the company. Involved in the Boise meeting were representatives of the Idaho growers and company officials from Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Utah.

POCAATELLO, March 2 (U) — Floyd Staheli, 43, was released from the Pocatello city jail Friday afternoon to a guard who will return him to the state reformatory at McCall, 60 miles northwest, on a life sentence for murder. The man was arrested Sunday by railroad police and a fingerprint check showed he had been wanted nationally since escaping from the prison last May.

POCAATELLO, March 2 (U) — Dance bands from throughout southern Idaho congregated here today for something new in high school music—a stage band contest. The festival is designed for extra school activities. There are big bands of 12 to 18 members, rather than the small combos. Tony Rull, Elkhart, Ind., a stage band clinician, is here to give the various bands suggestions.

POCAATELLO, March 2 (U) — It will cost more than $50,000 to rebuild damage caused by last November's flood in Bannock county and the regular monthly payments to assist the flood-stricken areas. The Idaho state reformatory was destroyed Friday at a meeting in Boise. The agreement was announced jointly by W. Albert Johnson, the vice president of the Idaho Beet Growers association, and R. M. Cannon, Idaho Falls, Idaho manager for the company. Involved in the Boise meeting were representatives of the Idaho growers and company officials from Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Utah.

Following in the delightful vein—smoothly and brilliantly—was "Oklahoma," which has been produced by the Dillettante Group. Directed by H. H. Black, the play is a beautiful and witty comedy in three acts, which has delighted the "first-nighter" audience.

Police Terror Missing Now in Russian Territory

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 2 (U) — The biggest change in the Soviet Union since the death of Joseph Stalin 40 years ago next Tuesday is the disappearance of a major terror from the lives of millions of people.

"Nowadays when someone knocks on your door at 2 o'clock in the morning," said architect Alexander A. Podkhutov, "you no longer automatically reach under the door for a Soviet-born rifle."

Podkhutov knew the unspookable terror intimately. He spent 18 months in the most dreaded place in Moscow, the Lubianka prison, before being moved to a labor camp in Siberia.

"I must apologize for my face," he explained, "but a human face will take only so much beating. The right side of his face was lacerated and too full; but the left side sagged badly, like a sack of flour, and his eyes were the opposite of being crossed. They looked out from his tortured face in opposite directions."

"This was an old friend, a Mustoville I'd last seen 14 or 15 years ago. I talked to dozens more like him in their homes or in my hotel."

"These Soviets — and thousands upon thousands of others falsely accused and sentenced under Stalin — were liberated in waves after the victory of 1945."

"Of being returned to their homes, when priority in getting a new room or apartment is a job."

"Not a single meeting I had attended since the war. I had no friends. I was a lone citizen, arranged by Soviet authorities."

The Institute for Foreign Travel arranged for foreigners — and for Soviet visiting Soviet countries — official said with considerable exaggeration: "You do not want to see a guide. And, as you speak Russian, you won't need an interpreter."

"So my wife and I have been on our own since arriving here Jan. 24th."

Every citizen I talked to — and there were scores of them — agreed that the stark terror of Stalin, and his police, was the late but unlearned L. P. Beria, his gone.

A number of Soviet citizens agreed that they did not feel entirely free in meeting and talking with foreigners.

But nearly every one of them agreed that the terror had gone.

T.F. Commission To Meet Monday

Appointments to the Twin Falls parks and recreation commission will be made Monday during the Twin Falls city committee meeting at the city hall.

The commission will authorize the city to enter into an agreement for services of a fiscal agent, authorize call for bids for installation of cross drains on Main avenue and authorize the city to enter into a lease with C. K. Perkins for a restaurant at the golf course.

A resolution for getting the golf course back into the city is also on the agenda.

Senator Hopes Utah Will Pass Auto Tax Amendment

BOISE, March 2 (U) — An Idaho legislator is expected to introduce a bill to amend the Utah constitution to allow the state to levy a property tax on automobiles of Idahoans who drive there, the legislator said today.

He said he hopes it will be re-considered and passed so the two states can try to work out a reciprocity agreement two years from now.

He said that "at least 20 million automobiles are being used in Idaho each year, but the control of highways and regulation of all vehicles that drive through the state is left to the state under the jurisdiction of one centralized agency."

He said such proposals have been introduced by other states in recent years.

Robert Stuart School Nears Completion Here

Construction on the Robert Stuart Junior high school building is nearing completion, reported by hearing school superintendent H. Ragland, superintendent of the Twin Falls school district.

Ragland said construction crews are putting final touches on the building's interior.

The 23-room junior high school building, including the six-room annex for special 55-56-57-58-59-60, where handicapped children will be helped, will cost about $700,000.

The school is on a 20-acre site, one-quarter mile north of Sky View Manor, facing Caswell avenue on the south. It is designed to accommodate about 550 students.

The school will be heated with gas. The nature of the construction — it is built around a square — should reduce heat loss, Ragland said.

Included in the building is a gymnasium, library, combination cafeteria and auditorium and the six-room special education building. The total area of the building is 48,280 square feet.

Sealed bids for the complete work on the grounds will be opened and contracts awarded March 28, Ragland said. The project consists of land leveling, grading around the building, laying out the parking area and paving or laying asphalt on the building-sidewalks, curbs and gutters along Caswell avenue and building streets, and constructing a football field and the track.

Bid proposals will be opened and contracts awarded for the installation of the sewage system at the school on March 28, Ragland said. This project includes pumping station to pump all the school's sewage back to the Madrona trunk line, south of the school. The pump will pump the sewage through a six-inch pressure line for 970 feet.

Ragland said he expects to call for bids for laying out a sprinkling system for the grounds at the new junior high school. He said plans for the system have not yet been made.

On March 25, bids will be open for the remodeling of the old postoffice building for school district administrative offices.

Mini-Cassia Farm Bureaus Plan Office

RUBERT, March 2 — Plans for the construction of an office building for the use of the Mini-Cassia and Cassia county Farm Bureaus were discussed at a meeting held Wednesday by directors from both counties.

The group voted to let the county chairman and the membership chairman of each county serve as a committee to look into the legal aspects of such a cooperative move, and to select a suitable site for the building.

Those included Frayne Shouse and Clyde Pruess, Minidoka, and Dan Orms and Grant Wyatt, Cassia county.

Walt Mackay, Minidoka county vice president, was appointed to work with Wyatt on the legal program. Officials explained Simplot's Soltbushers, the Mini-Cassia Marketing Co-operative, and the Minidoka Coop Supply, offers members a five per cent discount.

This money will go into the building fund, officers explained, and they encouraged members to use the bureau program.

Richfield Lists Honor Students

Second Class In Nursing Is Planned

RUBERT, March 2 — Names of six applicants chosen for the second class in practical nursing at the Minidoka Memorial hospital were announced this week by Mrs. Robert Sequist, instructor.

Futures for Most Grains Record Gains

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—All grain futures except new crop corn and March rice recorded gains this week on the Chicago board of trade.

Trading was moderately active and quiet. Much of the activity was based upon settling up contracts as the first day for settling notices to Chicago March contracts expired.

Anticipating heavy demand for wheat, long contracts were sold early in the week. Prices later rallied, however, when no wheat tenders were shown on Tuesday's session.

Export demand for red wheat continued slow, but the market showed some firmness from a sale of heavy winter and early sales of private crop wheat raised the possibility of price damage in the southwest.

Feed grain prices edged lower on cold weather buying and a lack of export demand for little crop upon the market. A large percentage belonged to the government and was readily taken for export movement.

Wheat had little feature. The March futures due to reports that prices might be large.

While wheat prices moved up, the market looked steady. Support from a strong cash market. Futures ran to frequent periods of quiet.

Stocks were active. The stock market had a sharp rise of the year this week.

United States on Thursday trading was light but wheat prices broke below their short-term trading range.

Some also thought fresh fears for the dollar in view of a dip in gold reserves to the lowest level since 1939 may also have figured into the sudden selling of investor and trader.

The marketplace seemed to be completely ignoring a crash of wheat. 1952 earnings, dividends, a fall of favorable dividend actions, the first climb in 10 months for manufacturers.

As a leading analyst, emphasis on the traditional absorption of a dangerous market.

During the most active session were also the most active. Chrysler fell 3 1/2 to 8 1/4.

New Call for Tax Cuts From President Highlights Week

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—A period, reversing a two-month decline, manufacturers' new orders rose two per cent in January, hitting a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 33.6 billion dollars. Orders for durable goods were up four per cent, to an all-time high.

Other critics joined a parade of opponents taking turns before the house ways and means committee. They found fault with Kennedy tax-reform proposals involving treatment of corporate profit-sharing plans, executive stock options and personal exemptions.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas A. Hoopes, appearing before the same committee, was sharply questioned on the administration plan by Republican tax-writers.

Steel production gained for a fourth consecutive week, rebounding after a quarter-year slump. The fourth week running and January construction contracts were reported to be up 10 per cent from January, 1952.

Production of Well at Paul Slows Down

PAUL, March 2—One of the wells applying water for Paul is only giving out about 60 gallons per minute, Tom Felton, mayor, reported today.

Felton and Ray Jarvis in testing the well for sand, found the water stopped after about three minutes of running. Felton said the well should run 200 gallons per minute. The well drilled four years ago, was thought to be sufficient.

Felton said the two wells serve about 250 families in Paul. Engineer Wendell Smith plans to meet with the town council next week and give them an estimate on the cost of the construction of a large concrete water tank which will be placed on the ground.

Reciprocity Agreements Look Glum

BOISE, March 2 (AP)—Rep. Jenkins, R-Ore., said today that the "iron curtain has descended" so far as reciprocity agreements with other motor vehicle property taxes and registration fees are concerned.

He said the Utah house had passed a constitutional amendment that would have made possible that kind of levying of the property tax on Idahoans, who study in the Bechive state and that no agreement had been reached by legislation.

His conversations with the chairman of the majority, the Utah state tax commission, we have not reached any agreement," said Palmer.

PILOTS DEFEAT SHOSHONE FOR AA CROWN

Perrin's Outside Shots, Rebounding by McGhee Prove Keys to 52-45 Win

SHOSHONE, March 2 — Terry Perrin, dealing a deadly hand from out front, pumped through six long shots tonight to send the Glenns Ferry pilots past Shoshone, 52-45 in the finals of the fourth district class AA basketball tournament. The pilots, falling behind only briefly at the game's outset, never could shake the stubborn Indians who were paced by the brilliant all-round game of Dean Williams. Glenns Ferry now will enter the state tournament. Perrin took advantage of some outside screens throughout the night to hold the Indians off and sophomore Leo McGhee worked the boards for most of his 17 points. Several times in the fourth quarter Shoshone worked the margin down to two and three points but never could catch the championship-bound pilots.

AL STIBBUP will be one of the Harlem Globetrotters performing against the ex-American basketball legends in their special basketball exhibition at the Twin Falls high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. Sunday.

George Trenkle, another sophomore center in the game, combined with Williams to keep the Indians in contention. Although Trenkle did not score heavily, he did yeoman work on the back-boards.

It was Trenkle who sent Shoshone off to a 3-0 lead, which Shoshone held until Perrin hit his first long shot of the night in the second quarter.

The Pilot stretched the lead out steadily until the second quarter when they opened a 17-11 margin. Williams got Shoshone back to within three on a three-point play before Bellegarde scored and Perrin came up with three more long shots to hold Glenns Ferry on top 25-17 at halftime.

The champions' longest lead came with 5:40 left in the third quarter at 29-19, again on a Perrin long shot. Shoshone replied with three free throws by Williams and Crawford before McGhee hit a rebound shot. Hadlock got Shoshone back within two on a long jumper to cut the margin to 30-28 and, in the last minute and one-half, Shoshone crept closer at 36-31 when Williams hit five straight points for Shoshone.

The diminutive Williams opened the fourth quarter with an other jump shot to give Glenns Ferry to 34-33 and it appeared the Indians might have a second half rally going.

But then the pilots rested off six straight points and Shoshone had to play catch up again. Hadlock hit a free throw and Arrossa a field goal to bring the Indians back to within three points with 1:30 remaining. Then another long shot. Over the next two minutes McGhee and Williams each summed up two goals a piece. Then Hadlock scored with 2:39 remaining to make it 45-43 for the pilots and Arrossa offset scoring efforts. With 31 seconds remaining, Bellegarde hit a field goal and with five seconds left McGhee tied the game with a free throw.

Friday night Shoshone couped near perfection at the free throw line with a strong finishing kick to eliminate Perrin 47-44. The Indians hit 23 straight from the line.

Stibbup says the pilots missed two in the game when the decision was made. Conversely, Perrin hit only 10 or 25 attempts and those 13 points split.

Weber Is Ready to Challenge All Intermountain Hoop Teams

OGDEN, Utah, March 2 (AP)—Upstart Weber college, a new four-year school, is ready to challenge the tough, proud big teams of the Rocky mountains. The big guys haven't accepted Weber yet, but they're beginning to worry that the former Ogden junior college might soon get too tough to ignore. This winter Weber took the big step toward the big time. It began a four-year program, opened a new $1.2 million-dollar gymnasium that's already too small and fielded a basketball team that has won 22 of 24 starts and ranks eighth among the nation's small colleges.

It also joined the new Big Sky conference, which boasts some other fine basketball schools in Montana, Montana State, Gonzaga, Idaho and Idaho State.

But all this isn't enough for Weber and its peacemaker 31-year-old basketball coach, Dick Motta.

"We realize you've got to crawl before you can walk, and we're lucky to be in this conference," he says. "But we do have a terrific potential."

And if that sounds like a warning to the big guys, that's just what it is.

"I'd like to play Utah, Utah State and Brigham Young," says Motta.

"I think we could beat Utah on Brigham Young this year. I've seen Arizona State and we wouldn't hesitate to play them," Arizona State is No. 4 nationally.

Motta's confidence is born of success: In three seasons, Weber has won 71 games, lost only 14 and twice was national junior college champion.

Motta traveled for his last career pick-up leading scorer in Lyon in Arcadia, Calif. and forwards Bob Lewis in Sacramento, Calif. and Gene Young in Muskegon-Michigan. Motta credits much of this O'Hara dogged Baran's steps for more than one-half mile, began his sprint kick as the gun lap started and coasted home by a good 10 yards. Baran, like O'Hara a six-foot-four minute miler, was clocked in 4:08.4. Stan Taylor of England finished third in 4:15.5, followed by Don Smith of Toronto in 4:24.

John Thomas of Boston, back in top form once again and free from his Russian nemesis, Valery Burenok, set a new record with a high jump leap of 7 feet, 1/2 inch.

Abby Hoffman of Toronto set a meet record of 2:14 in the women's 800-yard run, as she whipped the defending champion, Sandra Knott of Cleveland by 30 yards over England's Davy Clark.

Tony York of West Virginia solidified his standing in the 10-foot pole vault club when he cleared 16 feet, 1 1/2 inches, tying the meet record of 15-7 1/2.

Willie Atterbury, who holds the world record outdoors, turned on a blazing sprint finish to win the 500-yard race over England's Harry Jackson. Jackson led most of the way before Atterbury, of the Los Angeles track club, passed him and won in 1:17.4. Jackson was 10 yards back and the pre-meet favorite, Dave Mills of Cleveland a distant third.

The crowd of 10,723 was the largest in the history of the meet at the Cleveland arena.

Jim Dupree of Southern Illinois clashed with the pole vault champion, Jim Salonen, in the 1,000-yard run in 2:11.4.

Salonen finished third as Ernie Leps of the Toronto Track club passed him and won in 2:08.7. Leps had a lead of 10 yards behind Dupree. Dave Melady of the Chicago Track club was a distant fourth.

Sumner Knott of the Chicago track club upset Tennessee State's Vivian Brown in the women's two-mile run—about 300 yards in 30 seconds.

Second-highest finisher in the 500-yard race was Jim Salonen, who was held back by third, Miss Brown is the American 22-year-old indoor and outdoor champion.

Hayes Jones of Detroit captured his third straight indoor hurdle event with a 6.1 second clocking for 80 yards, beating England's Hyman of England with a semifinale time of 5.6 seconds.

Paul Drayton, trying for the 50-yard dash title in his hometown for five years, finally won in 5.2 seconds. He beat Scott Tyler of Miami of Ohio and tied the meet record.

Lorraine Dinnie of Tennessee State captured the women's 50-yard hurdles in 7.2 seconds. She beat a circulation of 150,000 in the first left index finger before the last July, allowed a clean angle to rookie Ken Medall and an injury to Bill Storen. However, one was erased on an attempted steal and the other on a double play grounder.

Bruce Gardner also pitched two nearly perfect innings before an early inning, and the pitchers to three batters. Both faced the minimum five batters, although Roebuck saved up a hit.

FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY
Idaho State college picked up eight junior college transfers to bolster its football outfit and coach Babe Cascia wants more.

It is an open secret that probably five or six players currently in football lineups will have them lifted following spring practice. Last year's star boys have not produced and the Bengals are hurrying for the scholarships led up in this "aged weight."

On the heels of the outline released by publicity director Joe Richmond, it appears the best Bengal help has been received at the Bengal camp. It was very high on last year's frosh club. Also, big John Miller, 6-foot, 6-inch, tackle, comes out of a year's rest. Another year's unexpected slump—the Bengal defense might be rebounding rapidly.

The house of representatives in Idaho's legislature passed unanimously a bill authorizing the state in the pursuing and spotting of big game animals. The bill also prohibits helicopter hunting from any game lands.

The bill has the right intent but largely is unenforceable. To correct the increasing loss of the sportsmanship theory being hunting, it seems it should prohibit helicopters from flying over game lands during the time of hunt.

Nevertheless, the house is to be commended on taking action. The bill has been passed in the past but has been worse each year in Idaho wilderness back country.

Blue Lakes county club professional Dave Kellen will be in charge of this year's national annual open which is the charge between the county club and Jerome county club contract.

The tournament will be held on the field on Saturday and Sunday and then end the top 30 of 40 places into the final 30 holes of play on Monday. Kellen figures the event will offer a $2,250 prize list.

During the state tournament at Boise next week, the Southern Idaho conference will conduct its semi-annual meeting which will be held in the Twin Falls hotel. This year's meeting will be the matter of track records.

Mets Make Decision on Woodling

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 (AP)—New York Mets President George Weiss called a press conference Sunday, apparently to discuss the future of player-contractee Gene Woodling.

The whole situation with Woodling has become an intolerable mess, Weiss said today.

Woodling exchanged some loud angry words with Met administrative assistant Johnny Murphy.

Woodling is down on his own name, Woodling said.

Woodling talked with the veteran outfielder for about 45 minutes Saturday, then conferred with Mets manager Casey Stengel.

Woodling said he would accept a job as batting coach with the Yankees.

During the off season, the veteran outfielder was rumored to be planning to retire as a player to accept a job as batting coach with the Yankees.

Committee Does Not Report Bill

BOISE, March 2 (AP)—The senate industry, labor and economic development committee was excused Friday from reporting occupational disease. The standing vote of 21-18 was on strict party lines.

Sen. Arthur Murphy, D., Shoshone, asked the senate to compel the committee to send the bill to the floor for consideration.

Sen. Watt Frasier, R., Boundary, committee chairman, contended the bill "is not a complete new departure and concept" in the field of occupational disease. He said a number of suggestions concerning the bill had been received but that the committee lacked time to draft a measure which would be acceptable to a majority.

He suggested referring the matter to the new legislative council for study.

Justice Is Demanded For Birds

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—A staunch pal of Britain's little feathered friends Saturday demanded justice for the birds.

John P. Ferguson-Less, executive editor of "British Birds," decried the love life of the birds which has been horribly messed up by the widespread use of poisonous insecticides on farmers and gardeners.

"There has been," he told a Cambridge bird societies meeting, "a huge drop in the number of songbirds, falcons in this country."

"We have evidence that this is largely due to the use of insecticides and other birds with substantial doses of toxic chemicals within them. In the first instance this prevents the progenies from breeding."

Ferguson-Less said it was a matter of time before the birds of prey to menace to other forms of wild life, both furry and feathered.

BOISE, March 2 (AP)—The Idaho senate failed Friday by a vote of 21-11 to override the veto of Gov. It Came Within Hair of Being Montana, Idaho Observes 100th Anniversary Today

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor
Just 100 years ago today
March 3, 1863 — Abraham Lincoln affixed his signature to a bill to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Idaho" and thus Idaho was born.

That long ago the state looked nothing like it looks today.
In fact it was almost named Montana territory but just before the measure was passed the name Montana was scratched out by a pen and the name Idaho was substituted. Just why this happened is not certain, but it was a last minute revision on the floor of congress.

For exactly 100 years the new territory, now called Idaho, had been needed in the territory of Washington. This great bulk of land included all territory of the United States west of the Rocky mountains and north of the 42nd parallel of latitude with exception of the present state of Oregon.

Then, when "Honest Abe" put his signature to the bill creating the new territory it included all territory of the present states of Idaho and Montana and all of Wyoming except a small rectangle in the southwest corner, which was attached to Utah.
Thus, in round figures, Idaho territory contained some 320,000 square miles.
Actually it was not until 1870 that the boundaries of Idaho became as they are at present —
"like a big rocking chair facing east."
In 1864 the territory of Montana was cut off and in 1868 the territory of Wyoming was organized. Two years later Idaho became the Idaho we know today at least in shape.
Just a week after approving the organic act which resulted in establishment of Idaho terri-

IDAHO ALMOST ended up as Montana, but a last minute stroke of a pen struck out Montana and substituted Idaho, as shown by this copy of the Idaho territorial act which the president brought west with him. The last minute revision to Idaho happened on the floor of congress and the reason is rather hazy in history. (Idaho department of commerce photograph photo)

Work at Hagerman Fish Laboratory to Determine Effect of Various Feeds on Trout Production

HAGERMAN, March 2. — The Western Fish Nutrition Laboratory, "Willard" Wash., under the direction of Dr. John Halver, purpose is to utilize the excellent water supply in Hagerman valley, for experimental work on fish, primarily in nutrition. Work being done at this station includes studies of vitamin requirements, studies on proteins and amino acids, studies on carbohydrate utilization, and other nutritional requirements of fish. With the discovery of hepatoma (liver tumor) problems in trout, the attention of this station at the present is mainly concerned with hepatoma research. Different media have been used to study this problem, including induction of simular tumors by chemicals, and the use of drugs and chemicals to arrest or retard tumor growth. After a period of time, the fish are examined surgically and are examining the livers in 2,400 yearling trout, ranging in length from six to 10 inches. Any abnormally found, as recorded and the records kept for comparison at a later date, when they will be re-examined. The healthy fish will be repeated upon.

PERFORMING SURGERY ON YEARLING trout to determine the rate of growth in liver tumor area; from left, DR. JOHN HALVER, Robert Smith and Ed Lamon at the federal fish hatchery southeast of Hagerman. Currently the men are examining the livers of 2,400 yearling trout, ranging in length from six to 10 inches. The men wear white, sterilized doctors' gowns, complete with head gear, and rubber gloves. The fish are given knockout doses of triachl. methanesulphonate and, tagged. Death rate from the operations at Hagerman is less than one per cent.

saved for additional examinations, at a later date, to determine the rate of growth and changes in any tumorous growth, mainly in the liver.
Under the direction of Robert Smith, three-men work full time and have a part-time clerk at this laboratory. At present they are taken and preserved in Boulin's solution for histological examination to confirm surgical finds.

The surgical part of the research is the most interesting part to the layman, as the three men, Dr. Halver, Smith and Ed Lamon, along with assistants, actually perform hospital technique surgery.

They wear white sterilized doctors' gowns, complete with head gear, and rubber gloves. Each technician has a complete set of surgical instruments to complete with most doctors.

The men have designed a table for this operation, with a hole into which a square plastic pan fits. The pan is partially filled with anesthetic solution, and an air hose supplies fresh air to the MADRID, Feb. 23 (AP) — You might not think swapping postage stamps could help the military of the U.S. Armed forces in Europe.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

What Do You Think of Christ?

By ROBERT O. JACKSON

First Church of the Nazarene
 What do you think of Jesus Christ? Does it make any difference in this day and age what we think of One who lived and died almost 2,000 years ago?

Jesus himself said, "Add I, if any man will, will draw all men unto me." The writer of the Gospels wrote, "Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God. For consider Him that endured such hostility against himself, lest he be wearied and faint in your view."

O, how I would like to have you see Jesus only, in all of His beauty for He is the Rose of Sharon, the Lily of the Valley, the Fairest of Ten Thousand to me. O, how I long to have you see Him, in His tender love, compassion that brought Him from the glory of heaven to the shadows of this earth below, with a longing love that takes everyone in, O, that you could see His matchless power that could still the waves, feed the multitudes, heal the sick, raise the dead, and lay down His life and take it up again—a power that is able to speak to you every troubled heart, that you might get just a little glimpse of Him—the glory that He shared with the Father in heaven.

But it is not mine to give or make you see, for this mortal heart of mine can neither grasp it, nor find words to express it if I could.

Jesus is still the world's greatest question today, as He has always been. To the Jew He was a problem which they could not solve. He was to be the promised Son of God; yet He was the son of David. He was to be the Lord of all who work in the kingdom of Israel; yet He was to be the suffering Servant who would redeem His people. He was to be the Lamb of God; "They resolved the enigma by closing their eyes and in unbelief looking only for a temporal ruler who would break the power of Rome and make Jerusalem independent of the world. They rejected Jesus—who came to give His life as a sacrifice for them because they did not understand the nature of the conquering Messiah.

"To the unbelieving today Jesus presents a problem. He cannot be explained satisfactorily as a good man, yet to admit that He is divine would necessitate the admission that His teachings are right and that all the world is wrong. This is the heart of the difficulty; how could He be understood if the good He did, teach the high moral level that He taught, claim to be the Christ, the Son of God, with the power to forgive sins and to lead men to God and to heaven as the Only Door, and still be a good man? He was either the Son of God or He was not the Son of God; and He was either right and that all the world is wrong, or He was wrong and that all the world is right.

Jesus was not a good man. He was either the Son of God or He was not the Son of God. Jesus presents the church with the problem it does not want to face. If He is the Christ, He is either the Son of God or He is not? Can He really forgive sins and save the uttermost even the lowest, the most sinner, the most wretched of unbelieving men? Can He deliver from temptation and give the inner power of character that will last? Can He be loved like He promised? Can what do you think of Christ? Do you believe Him of Christ, what kind of image are you? There is a problem in the church of Jesus Christ today; are you part of the solution or part of the problem?

What you think of Christ is vitally important. It determines your faith in His statements and His promises. It determines the power which He is able to manifest in your life. It determines the kind of life you live and the witness which you give of Him. It determines your reflection of His image. It determines your ability to win men to Christ and determine your soul's eternal destiny.

What do you really think of Christ? Now be honest with yourself and with God. Is He what He said He was, or not? Can He do what He said He could or not? Some of you are just as confused those who trust in Him. Church-

Pen Burns
HOLLISTER, March 2—A pig pen burned Thursday morning at the J. J. Wilson place.

The fire broke out from a pile of straw that was destroyed in the burning.

Christ is what He said He was. He can do for us what He said He could. He is not called to call on Him. If He is not what He said He was and if He cannot do what He said He could then He is an impostor and we had better forget Him as soon as possible!

Face the issue. What think you of Christ; whose Son is He? Then be man enough to live by your convictions. The Apostle Peter said to Jesus, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God," and went out to die for Jesus because he believed it.

BRANDT, A GERMAN SHEPHERD dog owned by Mrs. Jack Segraves, Halley, comes from seeing the world, but her mistress is nearly blind. She accompanies Mrs. Segraves to work each morning in the Blaine county courthouses and waits patiently in the hall for her. The dog's keen sense of smell comes to her aid when she has injured herself on several occasions. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Brandt is a thoroughbred German shepherd and comes from seeing every block, roadway, where she is the mistress of the house. Her mistress holds it to lead her, and for Brandt to lead her mistress, Brandt is almost totally blind. Brandt was born in Twin Falls. Robert Maccarillo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maccarillo, HALLEY, purchased the dog for him when she was just a pup. Mrs. Jack Segraves purchased Brandt from Maccarillo two and one-half years ago, when she first came to Halley after graduating from Twin Falls Business college. Since that time the dog has been her constant companion.

Each morning when Mrs. Segraves goes to her work in the Blaine county office of the department of public assistance in the Blaine county courthouse, Brandt goes with her. The dog waits patiently on the porch of the courthouse, or in the hall, for her mistress. She is a timid dog and never intrudes, but is friendly with anyone who stops by her.

Mrs. Segraves first noticed Brandt was losing her sight about last July. At that time she seemed irritable, but this soon passed. Mrs. Segraves immediately took her pet to a veterinarian who treated the dog for several months, but to no avail.

She became steadily worse and at present seems only to be able to distinguish between daylight and darkness.

She has been sense of smell comes to her aid. She seems to know anyone who works in the courthouse. Mrs. Segraves states she has had no other accidents on several occasions when she has run into objects she cannot smell while playing.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Walker, Twin Falls, had Brandt's daughter named Miss Hazel, who might lead her pet.

Some have suggested that Mrs. Segraves get the pet Brandt to sleep. The dog is in perfect health otherwise, and Mrs. Segraves cannot bring herself to do away with her pet that shows such deep affection for her.

With the installation of a new, by the construction of St. Peter's church, BIONE Segraves have been recalling events connected with the church in the community. These dates back to July, 1888, when work on the first Catholic church in Shoshone, was begun under direction of the Rev. E. M. Wittl, who was in the Halley area as early as 1881.

The "through code" service of the Oregon Short Line began Jan. 1, 1905. It was on Oct. 11, 1885, that the completed church was dedicated in Honor of St. Peter.

When Oregon Short Line transferred its division headquarters to Pocatello, Shoshone lost much of its importance and had no resident pastor for a few years.

The priests who served in the area in several towns and in 1902 they were in charge of new towns developing north of Twin Falls, including Twin Falls, Buhl, and Buhl.

About 1909, the old church at Shoshone was dismantled and the new structure erected. This, new church, the present building, is built of half stone and half stucco, and seats 140 people. At the time of the church's construction it was considered the most beautiful church in the diocese, local church members say. Cost was a problem which they could not solve.

A rectory was built in 1920, and the old residence was sold for $200. This was a small structure, divided into two rooms and a lean-to kitchen.

The new rectory would accommodate three priests. The priest then in charge paid the full contract price of $4,200 on the new parish house. The contractor, being under no bond, abandoned the building practically all bills for labor and materials unpaid.

The building had to be paid at a second time, which left a debt of $2,000 on the parish. This was a severe blow to the parishioners.

While prosperity had reigned in Shoshone at the time the building program began, now the post-war economic depression descended with full force and a number of families left the parish. Others lost interest in the church—that about a dozen families remained to pay the debt. For some time, only the interest could be met.

The Rev. Constant M. Verhoeven, recently ordained, brought courage and optimism to what seemed to be a hopeless task. He arrived in August, 1920. For five years he kept hammering at the debt and succeeded in reducing it to about three-fourths of what it was when he came to Shoshone.

A successor a few years later, the Rev. Michael Mros, finally liquidated the remainder of the debt.

In 1940 St. Peter's was a parish of 36 families and 150 members, with the pastor also in charge of 40 families and 170 persons in the parishes of GOODING, RICHFIELD, and DIETRICH.

For some time several misadventures plagued through the parish. At Shoshone, services were held at HAOERMAN and the Gooding Institute of dent and dental Gooding was made a parish Nov. 9, 1949.

In 1954 Shoshone had 62 families, 288 Catholics and its pastor, Hilchfield, had four families. At present there are 90 families in the parish with 75 of them active.

The first girl born in Shoshone, Mrs. Alice Clark Zug, was a member of the Catholic church. She died recently at Pocatello, Idaho.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

Oklahoma Director First Professional To Aid Local Dilettante Production

"It might sound strange that a person like Paul Kliss, raised and educated in a farming community by his father, should be on the stage and in the theater, but this is the case.

As a result of the current production of the Dilettante group, "Oklahoma" is "his baby," inasmuch as he is the first strictly professional actor in the Magic Valley organization has ever had.

Actually, he first saw the light of day in Oregon City, Ore., which gives him an "historical" background. But this was only a momentary nature, so Buhl is really home.

His father, the late A. E. Kliss, was, at the time of his death just over a year ago, a director of the Twin Falls Community company, a former banker and county commissioner and one who resided south of Buhl on a farm—known as the home place.

It was the death of his father that brought Paul back to this area following years of professional theater work. And he also proved a lucky break for the local Dilettante group, which, as a result, benefits provided with a much needed director.

Paul came back to Buhl from Honolulu where he had been for six years. Between then and the original time he left Buhl, his professional trail was long and varied.

He received his BA degree at the University of California at Santa Barbara, and then went on to gain his MFA degree at the Catholic University of America at Washington, D.C.

This stint at the Eastern university proved one thing to him—he was a theater man and wanted to come back to the West.

"So his travels led to Ashland, Ore., to the Oregon Shakespeare festival, where he spent five seasons as an actor and two as a director. He was instrumental in forming a winter theater company which presented four shows in rotation, six nights a week over the period of a month.

It was in the third winter of this company that he suddenly found to a halt. The theater went all the props, the costumes—everything.

Nothing is a disfiguring as lips that have broken out because of too much sun.

"A good moisturizing cream should be used the minute you return from the slope. Mrs. Hurlig says, and a rich night cream also is called for to prevent permanent damage to the complexion.

Mrs. Hurlig warns that too much make-up looks ridiculous on the ski slopes. Her advice is to be sure you are wearing the right color of lipstick to match the degree of your tan and if you use make-up to change it as your color deepens.

"Noticeable eye make-up should be saved for evenings in the Duchin room and Ram. On the mountain it is more important to bend your knees than bat your inch-long eye lashes.

H. PAUL KLISS

what he did and it proved to be the right one.

In Honolulu he was resident director of the Oumansky Theater, located in the Hawaiian Village hotel in that famed tourist mecca.

"I was with the company and he returned to Buhl and to the 'home place'."

"Pursure" plans—Nothing concrete, "Right now the important thing is 'Oklahoma' which has another performance this afternoon at 2:30 p.m. and also next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m."

Does he like working with the home folks? Yes.

"These people are all donating their time and talents to make this production a success. They all deserve the highest praise. In fact, one performer by attending all practices and performances will travel some 600 miles just to say a couple of words. That is really a labor of love."

"The long hours of practice these people put in and the very few favors they ask in return is a credit to the entire Magic Valley."

"I have directed many productions down through the years and I believe I can truthfully say that 'Oklahoma' comes the closest to being fun instead of work, and this is because of the fine people participating," Kliss said.

Expansion of Sugar Plant Is Outlined

RUPERT, March 2 — Wayne Bachman, manager of the Sugar plant of the Amalgamated Sugar company, reported on the past year's record, run, and outlined planned expansion at the Thursday morning meeting of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

A record output of 7,055,000 40-pound bags of sugar was listed by Bachman, higher than last year's record run of 6,403,000 bags.

The average daily payroll for the campaign ran around $3,600, exclusive of office force and the receiving station employees, the manager pointed out.

Expansion plans call for the installation of a bulk storage silo of 90 million pounds of sugar. The silo will be 116 feet in diameter and 92 feet high, he said. Facilities will be installed for loading the bulk sugar into special "beamers" steel railroads tank cars for transporting to users where it will be re-stored in stainless steel silos.

This method of transporting and storage will save considerably in cost to user and in transportation charges, Bachman explained. The 100-pound bags are both expensive and add to the weight of the product.

The company, after a comprehensive survey, decided to spend 10 or 11 million dollars in expanding the local plant, Bachman said, instead of constructing other plants in other localities. He said company officials feel this area has the highest potential of any area in which they are concerned. This is because of the acreage expansion of the West-Central Sugar plant, he pointed out. Officials recently sold a 400-acre tract in Washington on which they had planned to build a plant in favor of the local plant.

The expansion program will take several years to accomplish, the manager said, and will entail a tremendous outlay of capital.

Wayne Anderson, chamber president, reported briefly on the already in Boise Wednesday, which several members attended. Also attending from here were 14 high school boys who went as guests of the local businessmen.

He also read a letter from Gov. Robert Smyke acknowledging request to build a plant in 1960.

Hard Day

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Some people can get into trouble without trying too hard.

Take the case of Gus J. Martin, 40, of the Lexington avenue office of the Internal Revenue Service. This week he got into an argument with a tax collector about a refund. Apparently losing the argument, he stalked off leaving behind a yellow box about the size of a cigarette carton.

Martin was hustled back, the police bomb squad was called. The first four floors of the building were evacuated of about 1,000 persons and traffic was cleared around the block between 46th and 47th streets.

Police put a fluorescent sign in the box. Its contents were harmless.

help of a letter from the local chamber regarding the proposed improvement of the Minidoka-Dietrich highway. The governor said he would discuss the matter with the highway board.

Samuel O'Connell, chairman of the merchants' committee, reported on information received concerning current legislation affecting retail business of the state.

Anderson read a short discussion on the sales tax proposal.

Geoff Wilson, former resident now of Texas, was a guest of the chamber.

The merchants committee will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

weather-beaten look of a Tibetan mountain climber. A good sun tan cream is a necessity, and should be used not once, but repeatedly during the day. More important, it must be used the first time out—even if the sun does not seem particularly bright—because once the damage is done and a bad burn is acquired, nothing will bring about a becoming even tan.

For a sensitive skin, a sun block is a necessity. A healthy tan is pretty, however, and for this a good sun tan cream is enough. These creams come in both greasy and greaseless formulas. The greaseless type can be used under make-up and is good for the woman who has a good choice for the woman who wants a tan—but not too big a tan.

Although a regular lipstick gives protection, it is safer to use a chapstick under the lipstick. Nothing is as disfiguring as lips that have broken out because of too much sun.

"A good moisturizing cream should be used the minute you return from the slope. Mrs. Hurlig says, and a rich night cream also is called for to prevent permanent damage to the complexion.

Mrs. Hurlig warns that too much make-up looks ridiculous on the ski slopes. Her advice is to be sure you are wearing the right color of lipstick to match the degree of your tan and if you use make-up to change it as your color deepens.

"Noticeable eye make-up should be saved for evenings in the Duchin room and Ram. On the mountain it is more important to bend your knees than bat your inch-long eye lashes.

Valley PTA Has Talk by Jaycee Head

HELEN HAZELTON, March 2 — Helen Craig, Jerome, state Jaycee president, was guest speaker when the Valley PTA held a high school two-day evening.

Speaking on "Freedom," Craig said, "We must stop allowing our constitution to be twisted and bent on pretext of trying to catch up with the Russians. We said freedom must either grow or die, that it cannot simply exist."

Mrs. Rod Overfield, program chairman, introduced Craig, and she presented Mrs. Irving McDonald, who gave the Founder's Day message.

Mrs. Harold Grant, vice president, presided at the brief business meeting. The PTA prayer was read by Mrs. William Brown.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Boyd Hagen, Mrs. William Brown, Jr., and Mrs. Russell Hamann.

Attendance prizes were won by Mrs. Ester Reed's room in Eden school and Mrs. Ray Shetty's room. Mrs. E. A. Buchhorn's room and Monte Andrus' room in Hazelton school.

Resolutions committee report was made by Mrs. Red Overfield, who reported nominees for consideration in the March election. They are Mrs. Harold Grant, president; Mrs. E. A. Buchhorn, first vice president; Mrs. Carl Kelly, second vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Martin, secretary, and Mrs. Marion McCallin, treasurer.

DRAWINGS SHOW differences between Golden and bald eagles. Many factors now reducing America's eagles. To remount numbers are underway and these are cooperating with the National Audubon society in a five-year research study to learn some of the production problems.

Although protected by federal law since 1904, bald eagles often have been mistaken for sharpshooters for their dark cougars because their young need about three years to acquire adult plumage. Congress now has passed a law protecting golden eagles. (Fish and game photo)

Russia Loses Foothold as Guinea Turns

CONAKRY, Guinea, March 2.—The Republic of Guinea, 100 years ago the main Soviet hold in Africa, today is seeking Western help and ties with "conservative" Africans.

Shortcomings in Soviet aid and Soviet-inspired reforms—since 1958—have caused Guinea to turn its back on Russia.

Long-term economic commitments and pressure of some elements within the ruling party force Guinea to maintain ties with the communist world. But the government is becoming more and more accessible to Western—and particularly American—influence.

"We have made a mistake," said one Guinea high official. "We realize now where our interests lie."

At the Conakry airport, Soviet and Czech crews work on half a dozen Tu-154s lined up on the tarmac. Nearby are crates containing prefabricated one-family homes from the Soviet Union. They have been there for months. Soviet Zim trucks run over the past the skeleton of a modern hotel, under construction by Soviet-blue workers since 1959. A new printing plant built in East Germany was to serve as a propaganda distribution center for French-speaking Africa. It operates at five per cent of capacity.

The Toure government—streamlined and shaken up during a series of recent purges—has been seeking foreign capital to the country since 1958. It has pledged to spearhead socialism in Africa.

The investment code was passed to facilitate the installation of foreign companies.

The American-led international corporation FRIA, mining Guinea's bauxite deposits, is the country's main foreign currency supplier. Some 10 million dollars a year. The Guineans would like to see other companies come and work in Guinea. They are looking for more American aid. Their aid has totaled 20 million dollars since 1958. It is in the equivalent of 100 million dollars—a lot of money in a nation of 7 1/2 million.

The Guineans were annoyed by propaganda methods of some Communist nations represented in Guinea—particularly Red China and North Viet Nam. The violence of their propaganda program appears to be one of the reasons for the closing of all foreign cultural centers in Guinea.

The nation's economic plight has created what is known as a "hunger" of the stomach. And Guinea's attitude toward the United States has changed drastically largely due to the efforts of Washington's hard-working former newspaperman.

"His attitude is—simply—has not been to facilitate the work of any other company," he says. "Anybody who is looking to help and we are willing to work alongside anybody who is big for the same purpose."

A $100 scholarship will be being offered to the winner, with an additional $100 for a wardrobe.

Federal Regulations Add Strength To Gem Law Covering Eagle Species

BY JIM HUMPHIRD

Idaho fish-games department

BOISE, March 2—New federal laws and regulations giving golden eagles the same protection granted by congress in 1909 to bald eagles add strength to the Idaho law. This applies to only eight of the state's 200 or more different bird species as their names to off-season pluckers looking for moving targets.

"These unprotected birds are the English sparrow, house wren, starling, kingfisher, crow, raven, magpie and jay. Even the many kinds of hawk and owl, like the eagles are being protected by certain scientific purposes when such permits are compatible with preserving and protecting the eagle's population."

Under no circumstances may the eagle be killed either with poison or the use of aircraft.

Michael Throckmorton, Boise conservation educator and well-known authority on the birds of Idaho, says the golden eagle is well distributed around the state in small numbers. It is a year-round resident, but the less common bald eagle, occurs mainly in migration with only a handful of nesting in the state. Because it requires about three years for young eagles to acquire adult plumage, the immature, bald eagle is always in danger of being mistaken for the dark cougars of wild animals, while the bald eagle subsists largely on fish and is most often found in the vicinity of lakes and streams. North Idaho's Lake Pend Oreille generally has a sizeable number of bald eagles during the winter months. They feed on the abundant kokanee or landlocked blueback salmon.

Because the golden eagle is already an endangered species, Idaho conservation officers are cooperating with the National Audubon society in a five-year research study of the problem. For example, on Dec. 27, they found 18 bald eagles in a winter waterfowl area. This is considered a trend count rather than an inventory of Idaho eagles. In the sense that the same areas will be counted for eagles on the same day the annual waterfowl census is taken.

This is the second consecutive year Idaho's eagles have been counted during the annual waterfowl census, according to James Johnson, game management agent of the U. S. fish and wildlife service, at the U. S. state-federal project.

There are six children in the family, but only four of them will be moving to Shoshone with Mr. and Mrs. Erner. One is being married and a son is working in the Hailey area.

Truck Collide

JEROME, March 2—A two-car accident occurred at 2 p.m. Tuesday on South boulevard, police report. Mrs. Margaret Lima, 27, Jerome, was driving a 1953 Chevrolet pickup truck which collided with a 1957 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Paulie Scott, 28, Jerome. Mrs. Lima was traveling east when the other truck backed from a driveway.

Fires Occur At Shoshone

SHOSHONE, March 2—Both the city and rural fire departments in Lincoln county were alerted to separate fires Wednesday afternoon.

In Shoshone some trash in the outside window well of the old postoffice building caught on fire, presumably from the paper flying into the well from a trash fire, and in north Shoshone 200 bags of straw buried at the Ray Hopkins farm, 13 miles northwest of Shoshone, burst into flames.

Cause of this fire is unknown. Because of high winds Wednesday afternoon, farmers in north Shoshone feared for some time the blaze might blow across the street to a truck on the street.

Eight firemen in Shoshone answered the call. They reported smoke damage to the basement of the building.

The fire in Shoshone was at 3 p.m. while the one in north Shoshone was at 4 p.m.

It Came Within Hair of Being Called Montana, but Idaho Hits 100 Today

fired in Idaho and two months later, on Sept. 25, last, when he issued the proclamation calling for an election for members of the legislature and a delegate to Congress. The election was scheduled for the last day of October.

Wailes immediately announced that he would seek the post of delegate to Congress and set about campaigning. Soon thereafter the proclamation meeting at Mount Idaho, a little settlement on the trail between Lewiston and Florence, not far from the present city of Grangeville, William H. Wallace received the nomination and soon resigned the office of governor.

The Democratic convention was led in Packer John's cabin which stood near the present town of Meadows. Some say this meeting was at Idaho City but most evidence points to the lone cabin and this is generally accepted by historians. John M. Cannady was nominated as speaker. His election was believed to be a certainty because Democrats were far more numerous than Republicans. But it did not turn out that way.

First election returns supported the Democratic victory but the two weeks after election day final returns from Ft. Laramie came in and showed a majority more than 60 for Wallace. Historians point out there was much talk of fraud, but that nothing was done. One Idaho historian, however, mined no words as to his feelings in the matter: James H. Hawley, who wrote an early history of Idaho, had to say about the matter:

THIS MAN, CAPT. E. D. FINE, was discoverer of gold in what is now Idaho a veteran of the Mexican war and the California Gold Rush. He braved hostile Indians and found the precious metal on Orofino creek, thus starting a rush to the virgin land. (Department of commerce and development photo.)

"As a matter of fact, there were not 50 legal votes cast there but a military plot there. There was a military plot there, with probably three or four companies of troops who had they all voted, would not have amounted to the majority shown by the returns."

So, even in the beginning, Idaho had political "rumblings." Wallace, William H. Daniels, first territorial secretary advocating the vacant post of governor.

He called for the first election on the proclamation. This met at Lewiston on Monday, Dec. 7, 1863. The upper house was composed of seven men.

The lower house, although calling for 15 members, numbered only 11. One thing is certain, however, Daniels had the financial advantage of several persons including himself in his candidacy.

In his opening address he said: "A young territory, whose resources are undeveloped, whose every system is in its infancy, is in operation, whatever may be her prospective wealth, should not be reckless in her expenditures, but it should be remembered that efficient officers cannot be obtained without adequate compensation."

His words caught the attention of the acting governor resulting in the legislature offering an act in addition to those paid by the federal government, would be paid from the territorial treasury.

Thus, the governor, for instance, would receive $2,000 annually from the territory and the same amount from the federal government. Likewise, the judges would receive the same double salary. The secretary would receive $1,000 from the territory and $1,000 from the federal government. It was never quite plain, historians are agreed, "What the territorial salary was."

The salary move was unpopular, however, and after several years was changed by an act of Congress.

Salary laws were not the only interesting case studied by the first legislature. They came up with a Sunday law which, in practically every legislature since that time, has jumped up again.

This first one, however, was a sort of "better observance of the Lord's day."

Among other things it provided that "no person shall keep open any place for gaming, card races, ground, cockpit or play at any game of chance or engage in any noisy amusement on the first day of the week, commonly called the Lord's day."

Provision was made for fines to be levied for any violation. Thus, Idaho's territory was under survey and today, just 100 years later, the situation is not much different than it was "way back then."

Even the legislature is still in session.

Armed Forces Win Friends For America

leadingly aggressive nuclear war against the Soviet bloc. One of the major American units has "community relations" officers, whose job is to foster friendly contacts between servicemen and people in the domestic counties in the Middle East where U.S. bases are located.

The term "community relations" covers "specialty aid-in-line-of-duties" or such simple projects as exchanging stamps with local philatelists and teaching the Turkish air force band to play American music.

A local reporter who complained of litter thrown from automobiles near the club command post at Southampton, England, was pleased with swift American action, which included posting of notices and an anti-litter campaign on the base.

In several countries residents around bases complain of noise from jet engines. The remedy usually is to invite them to tour the base and receive an explanation of how essential is the work that produces the noise. Where possible, engine testing units are adjusted to create the minimum of local disturbance.

In communist "surrounded Berlin," the community relations officer of the U.S.arrison in Berlin's only WAC, Mrs. Patricia Boudin.

"The goal is to have every American soldier and dependent who spends any time in the city to get to know a Berliner, or preferably a German, in a way that enables them to look at this city through the eyes of the inhabitants, rather than from the American point of view," she explains.

The aim is to get Americans and Germans working together. Exchange visits between personnel of the American and German forces are being arranged, for example.

As an isolated rear station of the U.S. army's 11th Airborne Division, 73 miles outside Madrid, the 300 Americans who run the station daily with the Spanish air force have won friends in poor villages for miles around through their association.

Buhl Adopts '63 Budget For Hearing

BUHL, March 2 — The 1963 budget for the city of Buhl, totaling $298,283, was adopted by the city council after a public hearing Tuesday evening at which no protests were voiced.

Key club participation of the program was arranged by Stan Bhow, Kiwanis member.

Prior to the program Dr. Joseph W. Marshall reported on the "Alcraide" at Boise which 25 local adults attended and to which the Kiwanis club paid the way for 23 high school seniors from three schools, including Twin Falls. The trip was made by special charter bus.

Guests at the session were Dr. Pen Covington and Bob McKinstry, both Twin Falls; George Harvey, Parma; and John I. Dewey, Emmett.

The financial report for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1962, was announced. A discussion was held on the proposed bond election for the construction of a sewage treatment plant. It was voted as soon as possible to call for a bond election.

It was pointed out the bill, which provided a more uniform schedule for the retirement and payment of bonds has been passed by the senate and is before the house.

$86 Raised in Hagerman Drive

HAGERMAN, March 2 — Mrs. George Lemmon, heart fund chairman for Hagerman, reports $86 was collected by members on the drive.

The Future Homemakers class assisted at a community service project. It is being done by Sherry Behrens, Penny Strang, Nancy Dornbusch, Laura Larson, Vicki Behrens, Sharon Barris, Janice Maude, Sharon Brickland and Marilyn Anderson.

Mrs. Joseph Zacccone canvassed the business district. Mrs. Lemmon wishes to thank persons who helped and also those who contributed.

FISH ARE "SEWERED UP" after surgery at the federal fish hatchery near Hagerman. Under the direction of Robert Smith, employes have devised a table for the operation. It has a hole into which a plastic pan fits. The pan is partially filled with anaesthetic solution and an air hose supplies fresh air, enabling the fish to breathe during surgery. The fish tag number is noted on a medical chart which is kept on each fish.

Hagerman Fish Laboratory Studies Effect of Different Feeds on Trout

fishes, to try to find characteristics in the blood by which geographically isolated races of fish can be identified. This study is called salmon.

Blood serum is drawn from the heart with a hypodermic syringe and tested in an attempt to determine if blood characteristics can be found by which races can be identified. It will react in salmon, similar to blood typing in humans. It is hoped this study will enable the department to tell how far and where trout migrate.

The experiment was started about five years ago.

A third aspect of interest in this experimental station is the work being done with chinook trout. Not pure white, but a certain yellow in color, the albino has pink eyes.

This type of excellent subject for microscopic study, as the light color is translucent and the blood vessels, heart beat and disposition of the cells can be observed in action.

As the normal water temperature of 60 degrees F. was warm and produces a very poor quality fish, a pond has been set up with a thermostatically controlled gate, keeping the water temperature from 45 to 69 degrees, which is producing a much better quality fish.

In the two buildings at the hatchery are tank and trough facilities to feed 100 different diets to that many groups of fish.

The rainbow trout are fed variations of a standard diet and records kept as to the results of each feed.

The basic feed is composed of gelatin, casein, dextrin and purified vitamins and minerals, added according to the needs of the fish. Any part of this formula can be changed without affecting the other ingredients. The feed is made in blocks and frozen in small bars.

This research is under the direction of Dr. George Ridgway, Seattle, bureau of commercial fisheries.

Officials Ready Migrant Station

KING HILL, March 2 — Officials of the state highway department from Boise are leveling the ground on the north side of the service road near the Timbers Service station west of town for the migrant labor information station which will open next week.

Wayne Lonley, Caldwell, migrant labor supervisor, is here supervising the work and will be in charge of the labor station.

The planetarium and observatory, owned and operated by Norman Herrert, Twin Falls, is open for school groups during the month of March. Groups of 35 to 50 persons are invited to attend the planetarium—open for school units—throughout the month.

All appointments should be made as early as possible, so those wishing to use this modern science show may have their chance before school is out. His reply—
They are more and more being arranged to see the planetarium for lower grades; Herrert said. To make appointments, telephone 733-9888 or stop at the planetarium—235 West—Twin Falls.

Herrert said schools from Postville and Arco already had made appointments to visit the planetarium during March. He urges all schools to attend the shows.
