Shoshone Boy, 6, Uses Blood Often Because of Hemophilia

BY MRS. HARRELL THORNE
SHOSHONE, March 16—One of the most grateful recipients of Red Cross blood is a 6-year-old boy, Swain, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Swain, Shoshone, who has hemophilia, or a disease known in lay language as a bleeder. The hemophiliac's greatest peril is not the external bleeding from cuts and wounds, but the much more frequent internal hemorrhages, caused by a clotting or even a twist of the body. Mrs. Swain points out. Often after the slightest injury, and sometimes for no apparent reason at all, the capillaries within the knee or ankle begin to seep blood into the narrow spaces of the joints, causing unbearable pain. A healthy-appearing boy, Sonny, found earlier in life that a fall or bruise might cause him serious pain. Mr. and Mrs. Swain first discovered their son had hemophilia when he was about 6 months old when his knees were bruised by the rubbing of the high chair plate as it was placed on or removed from the chair. Then one day he slipped a bit in his bathtub, his mother recalls, and a severe bruise appeared on his hip. They had the boy checked in Twin Falls and Salt Lake City and the long vigil of special care began. Mrs. Swain said she has had one full night's sleep since that time and she does not dare let the boy out of her sight. There are three physicians who help the couple look after the boy, one in Shoshone, and two in Twin Falls. When he first complains of a pain, Mrs. Swain immediately places the boy on the floor. Often this alone will eliminate further treatment. When this does not help, he has been taken to Twin Falls for transfusions and this is where the Red Cross blood-bank has been of assistance. Thanks to friends and especially help from boys at the Mountain Home air force base, however, the Swains have had a supply of the blood their boy has needed and have a reserve at this time. His greatest fear is at Mountain Home and so he stays at home and so he stays at home. The Red Cross informed Mrs. Swain in order for doctors to have the blood designated for her, the replacement card included a possible. His number is 4-7015. During the past year the boy has had five or six transfusions and often when they are needed he has more than one pint of blood for his recovery. When Sonny was 1½ years old, the doctors felt he was too young for blood and the Swains recall with appreciation that A. O. Olin, 1621 Maple avenue, Shoshone, had blood of their type B-B. A major task came up when Sonny was learning to walk. The use of the stairs and the child had to be avoided. Therefore, they put a belt around his body and held him up for his walking exercises. When he was small, they padded his elbows, knees and seat. He still wears football pads on his knees for protection. At the present time, the boy is nursing an ankle, which has been giving him trouble around the past two summers at Priest Lake for 14 to 17. They have to carry him a great deal of the time as the weight of his body and walking make the ankle wobble. Though his activity is and will always be restricted, he loves to go on an airplane. Hemophiliacs have become educated to his condition and are very good and helpful to him. Mrs. Swain spends hours playing with him as his older brothers, Carl, 20, now in the navy, and Michael, 10, are away from home a great deal of the time. In the summertime, Mrs. Swain said the boy lives outside and she is right there with him. They are planning on Sonny attending public school next year, though they keep special attention will have to be given him. Mrs. Swain said she will help in any way she can to provide his education. She said, "we read so much; we pray and we hope, but we know this sort of thing takes years and years to improve the treatment." Until recent years, most hemophiliacs ended their lives in braces, in wheel chairs, or as bedridden bundles of tortured human geometry, and though there is considerable more treatment and relief, most even a few years ago, the problem troubles medical men. A National Hemophilia foundation has been organized, publishing a newsletter to help the parent know how to care for a child with the disease, fund campaigns are under way with weekly charts and critiques being donated as well as new developments in blood storage and general education programs on the subject.

Riding Club Members Aid Amendment

Two directors of the Frontier riding club, Donald Quast and Virgil Olson, are credited with helping get an amendment passed in Idaho legislature which allows non-profit organizations to hold livestock sales without filing for a special charter at a cost of $100.

The amendment, pertinent to law passed during the 1962 legislative session which prohibited non-profit groups, such as the Frontier riding club, from holding sales as they had for the previous 16 years.

The amendment legalizes sales of livestock by any non-profit cooperative association, corporation sole and religious, fraternal or benevolent, corporation, providing the groups comply with regulations of the livestock marketing board.

A horse sale, rodeo and parade are on the agenda as part of the summer activities of the Frontier club this year. It was announced Saturday. The rodeo will be sponsored by the Snake River Lions club.

The course will offer three undergraduate or graduate credit and will meet June 10-22. Lower said the course should be of interest to elementary and secondary school teachers, principals, curriculum directors and superintendents, and will cover ways for improving classroom instruction.

Emphasis will be placed on the findings of research and experience and participants will have opportunities to introduce and study problems from their own situation.

Fee for the workshop will be $30, and applications should be submitted as soon as possible to the college of education at ISU. Course number is education 046.

School Formula Changed Again

BOISE, March 16 — The compromise school formula, which one lawmaker pointed out was an amalgamation of two amendments with expanding a school district, was approved again Saturday in the Idaho legislature.

Rep. Frank Hirsch, R. Post Lake, house education committee chairman, said the amendment takes out a clause freezing school districts that levied less than 28 mills in taxes at the local level in 1961-62 at the same level of the state and they receive those years.

Hirsch said it would directly help the Mountain Home and the Power county school districts, and would also give more money to about 19 others if they raise their levies to 28 mills.

He said the 20 districts, if they boost the levies, would receive about $164,000 that otherwise would have gone to other districts in the state.

Marr Assumes Third Round Tourney Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. March 16 (AP)—Dave Marr, playing in the wind-and-playing-it-well-taken over the lead in the $25,000 St. Petersburg open golf tournament today with a third round score of 66.

The 27-year-old St. Petersburg, N.Y., who had a 64-hole total of 202 and a three-stroke lead going into Sunday's final round, moved into second place at 208, topped by Paul Coody, who in 17 holes shot with 206 on the strength of his 68.

Ted at 207 were Doug Ford, Massachusetts, N.Y., who had a 64-hole total of 211.

The round was played on the 6,537-yard course in bright sunshine. But winds churned up to 25 miles an hour in gusts.

The wind didn't bother Marr. "I just pulled the cart, club out of the bag every time," he said.

Marr had some very bright moments in his round. "On the 10th, I took out a seven-iron when I knew it was an eight-iron shot. That's what I did. It hit in front of the trap and bounced over it," he said.

On the 15th, Marr's tee shot landed in the rough. He played it off a tree root to within 15 feet of the pin, then holed out for a 5.

Marr, who hasn't won a tournament in almost a year, said he's pretty sure he's out in front by three, or out in front by any.

Floyd said he believes a change of altitude helped him in this tournament.

In four months on tour, the 20-year-old golfer hasn't cashed a paycheck. But he said, "I came here with the hope of winning this tournament instead of just making the cut."

Retiring Cousy To Be Honored

BOSTON, March 16 (AP)—Bob Cousy, perhaps the only magician in history pulled from the game, is scheduled for a memorable day honoring his retirement from pro basketball Sunday.

The occasion will be the final game of the regular season for the Boston Celtics. Only the playoff will then remain for Cousy, who has signed to coach Boston college next year.

Syracuse is the opponent, fittingly, for it was from the hall of fame Dan Alton that Celtics owner Walter Brown drew Cousy's name in 1950. From that moment, the former Holy Cross star became the most famous player and triggerman of the fast break in the history of the game with moves many have imitated, but none have quite equalled.

MOOREHEAD, Miss., March 16 (AP)—Louisiana National Guardsmen defenseman infielder March 9, was resting comfortably today following an operation on his broken knee.

The doctors said it is too early to make predictions on the outcome of the 74-hour operation, but he is "very heartened" by the player's condition.

Frank Selke, Jr., a publicist for the National Hockey League team said the doctors are "very, very satisfied at this early stage."

The operation, in which surgeons used pressure on the spinal cord in the neck, was decided on after Fontinato complained of severe pains in the neck and arms.

Liston Told Knee Needs Rest Again

MIAMI, Fla., March 16 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston's doctors told him today to give his knee, reportedly sprained three weeks ago, another 24 hours' rest.

Then the doctor will take another look at the knee, and if no operation is needed, Sonny will resume training," said his manager, Al Weinstock.

Liston said rumors current here that Liston's April 10 title fight with Floyd Patterson would be called off because of the knee were untrue.

"As of now, the fight is definitely on," he said.

After resting the knee for two days, Liston tested it Saturday morning at the gym with two doctors. They reported it improving.

If the cartilage in his knee is torn, we must operate," said Dr. Duke Baird. "If it is not torn, we will try to operate with a laser beam. There is no operation will be necessary. There is no fluid in the knee, and that is favorable."

Patterson opened up an opening pattern at his training camp, knocking two of them down as he practiced a two-fist offense in six rounds.

A strategy of about 600 persons saw Patterson punning three sparrows. Ray Lopez, 228-pound former Cuban champion, was Patterson's sparring partner.

Levi Furie, 200, went down once. Lee Andrews, 200, had better luck slugging Floyd's blows.

Patterson appeared to be giving a lot of six-punches to Liston's midsection will be a strategic target unless Sonny gets his about 10 rounds.

Dodgers, Tigers Cop Extra-Inning Wins

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Dodgers and the Detroit Tigers both came from far back and won in extra innings in Saturday's spring exhibition baseball games. Last Second Shot Nets NCAA Crown

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 16 (AP)—They are calling him "Bomber" Boeie today. The 6-foot, 4-inch Junior from Pipestone, Minn., probably will carry that nickname through life. Villanova's Boeie shot his bomb last night. It was a leaping 40-foot one-handed shot which was airborne as the buzzer ended the game. It sailed through the hoop, and South Dakota State had to wait Wittenberg, Springfield, Ohio, 44-42, to win the NCAA college division basketball championship. In the frantic final seconds of the contest, the scoreboard showed that Wittenberg's top-ranked players were ahead 42-41. "Actually," however, the score had been tied 42-42 after sophomore Bob Giesard made the second of two shots from the top of the keyhole. The long range specialist had been sent into the game by South Dakota's Coach Vernon only three minutes earlier.

Less than 20 seconds remained. The Tiger's Al Thresher missed his shot. South Dakota's Nick Rold captured the rebound. He passed to Boeie. Boeie dribbled several times, then let fly in the form of a javelin-throw. "If I looked at the scoreboard and thought we were the point behind," said Boeie. "I'd had showed we were tied. I don't think I would have shot. As it was, I was off the wrong foot."

"It was a real sloppy shot, but I'll never forget how good it looked going through the basket." The loss shattered Wittenberg's 21-game victory streak and left the Tigers with a 22-2 season mark. South Dakota's Jackrabbits led 19th in The Associated Press small college poll, closed out with a 22-2 record.

Oglethorpe of Atlanta, Ga., took third place by edging Southern Illinois 63-54 in overtime. Bobby Dixon scored eight points in the extra period, including his total of six free throws for the game, to nail down the victory.

DRIBBLE COUNTER TALLIES BOUNCES
DEPOUILLE, Kans., March 16 (AP)—How many times does the ball bounce during a basketball game? That question intrigued Ed McKeenan for several years. He decided to find out. McKeenan chose the Hill City, Mo., gymnasium of the state basketball tournament last night for his guinea pig.

He discovered that the round ball hits the floor 1,000 times during the game. He also found that the ball bounced the ball 812 times. Highland added 637 bounces.

McKeenan bounced the ball 79 times. The ball itself was responsible for 48 independent bounces out of the gym.

McKeenan also set the most bounces in a game, winning the game 62-61.

Manager and Rickey Have Player Clash

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16 (AP)—The senior cardinal of the St. Louis Cardinals, Branch Rickey, argued with manager Johnny Keane over the disposition of a young player, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said tonight.

Jack Herman, sports writer for the Globe-Democrat, said Rickey provoked the argument and Keane declined to be drawn into an open controversy.

"The nothing to say," Herman quoted Keane as saying. "Big Dave" Cardinal general manager, said in St. Louis the disagreement has not upset his schedule for the coming week.

Rickey wanted to retain 20-year-old infielder Jim Harris instead of sending him to Houston. Harris was drafted from the San Francisco Giants by the Cardinals.

Keane disagreed and stood his ground, Herman said. The reporter said Rickey stormed out of the clubhouse and skipped a regular meeting of Cardinals of field and coaches.

This is the second controversy in which Rickey has figured since being hired last fall by the Cardinals. In November Rickey thought it would be advisable to retire star Stan Musial.

Rep. John W. Batt, R., Canyon, led the assault, describing county agents as "a fine old custom that's worn out."

Batt said that with modern communications county agents aren't necessary. He said most of the information they put out is readily available by mail.

Batt also leveled fire at the home demonstration program for farm women, lasting month by month, and discussion topics in one county.

Batt observed that in February their subject was "Fingerprints, Furniture Alignment, the Future and that in November."

PLAYING UNCONCERNED is Pisko, a registered Samoyed, as owner Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Black, Sun Valley, and Dickson spins "Sammy wool" combed from this and other dogs of the breed. The wool is washed, carded, spun, then made into such items as hats, sweaters, booties for babies and scarfs.

Mr. and Mrs. Black, who also operate the B-D Square Kennel company at Bellevue in addition to the store in Ketchum, are the only ones selling such items on a commercial basis. They own 29 Samoyeds over eight months old and are under contract to Sun Valley for dog sled rides. (Times-News photo)

Visitor Traffic Heavy as Local Doctor Breaks Leg at Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, March 16 — Traffic seems heavy at the local hospital and a great part of it is attributed to the fact that Twin Falls doctor is spending a week as result of a broken leg incurred on the Baldy ski slopes.

The "victim" with right leg in full cast, is Dr. Paul B. Heuston, Twin Falls radiologist, who has 27 years of practice, but is noted as more broken leg X-rays than the average person can think a stick at. His big complaint when the broken leg was being set was that the local doctors — all friends of his — coyly refused to let him read his own X-rays.

Dr. Heuston, a frequent visitor to the resort, has been skiing for 27 years and this is his first mishap.

"Not bad for that much fun," he says, "and next year when it snows I'll be right back at it again."

The accident which crossed him up was, incidentally, not a spectacular one as accidents go. He caught the edge of one ski in a little ice, there was a "snap" and that was all there was to it. The "snap" signaled "two" weeks in bed. It is expected he will be discharged from the hospital at least about March 24.

"Kneewhile, his room fills with flowers, he has acres of magazines to read, newspapers are numerous, a radio is nearby and a television set is set up at the foot of his bed.

And the visitors — Dr. Heuston reports that they are friends, mostly from Twin Falls.

"They stick their head in the door and say, 'Well, good for you.' Some of them seem almost happy that I am where many of the patients have been."

"Does the leg hurt?"

"Sure it hurts," Dr. Heuston

GRAB-BLITZ is flashed by Dr. Paul B. Heuston, Twin Falls, as he takes a forced vacation at the Sun Valley hospital following a skiing accident. He admits the vacation could be long, but his only critical comment (in fun, of course) is that most of the visitors are friends who poke their head in the door just to comment. "My, that's too bad," in a tone which sounds as though their heart is not in the sympathy area. "Then, the doctor's doctors say, he will be hauling a cast around for a while after that." (Times-News photo)

CHECKING; RECEIVING SET tied on back of lead dog, Ewee, is Robert Black, Sun Valley. Because of the length of the team now being featured at the resort, commands go through a speaker held in the hand of the driver to a speaker mounted on the dog. The speaker wire is mounted along the side of the sled and down the main draw rope between the dogs. The 21-dog team of Samoyeds is longest ever to operate commercially. (Times-News photo)

Resort Boasts Longest Dog Team In World; Animals Provide Wool

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER, Times-News Feature Editor

SUN VALLEY, March 16 — This famed Sawtooth resort has seen a lot of unique things in the days since it first started but two of the most unique items have been added recently.

One is the longest operating dog team in the world — so long that the driver talks to the lead dog by means of a battery operated speaker-receiver system — and the other is a "reversible" Samoyed made from this spun wool (called "Sammy wool") combed from the dog team members during the molting season.

The couple behind both "uniques" is Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black. Under contract to the resort, the store will pull sleds equipped with miniature wheels. This operation will originate at the putting lot near the hospital and will include rides both to Dollar and Baldy mountains, in addition to other selected destinations.

The unique dog team — which can operate as two units when required — is made up of famed Samoyed dogs — all registered with the American Kennel club. This dog strain is a direct descendant from one of the earliest dogs known. Because it has never been subjected to cross breeding in the registered state, it is gentle and intelligent. The famous "Sammy wool" has no odor — although not overly large animals are able, under ordinary conditions, to pull one and one-half times their weight. This 21-dog team, averaging 45 pounds per dog in weight, can pull a load equal to about three-quarters of a ton.

And, if you really want something exciting, just remember that the world record load pulling total for a dog of this breed stands at 1,200 pounds. This record, of course, was made under ideal conditions and, as the Blacks say, "the animal must have been in top shape."

The items made from the wool from the dogs are offered for sale at the shop in Ketchum. They range from sweaters to little booties for babies. The wool finishes out in a form that is practically identical to angora wool.

The combs are saved over a period of time. For instance, it takes the combs from one dog over a period of about three months to get enough to make a sweater.

After the "Sammy wool" is gathered, it is washed and then carded. It is then spun by Mrs. Black. After this it can be either knitted or crocheted into the articles desired.

The Blacks are the only people in the United States offering such articles on a commercial basis.

The dogs are usually combed in the spring when they shed and, in the case of females, right after they have weaned their pups.

Located at Bellevue, the kennel has 29 Samoyeds over eight months of age. There are 64 dogs in the kennel, including Scotties and West Highland Whites.

All kennel dogs are trained, especially so in the matter of noise.

"If one of the dogs started to bark or whine and all jobs in it would be so loud it would put up the neighborhood. But Mr. Black, when the noise starts, just steps to the door, gives one carded." It is then spun by Mrs.

CENTENNIAL MEDAL which will be offered for sale over the state in the immediate future is shown above. One side depicts miners at the moment of gold discovery while the other is a replica of the original state seal, different than the present one. The medals will be available in both bronze and silver for sale to the public.

Plans for Sale of Gem Centennial Medal Almost Ready, Says Director

BOISE, March 16 — The official Idaho territorial centennial medal will be available all over the state in about two weeks. It was announced today by J. J. Swinney, director of the Idaho Historical society.

Samplings of the "design" have been made by the Idaho Historical society, which is issuing the medals on behalf of the state government.

Manufacturing arrangements for the medals are being completed and will be announced within a few days, Swinney said. They will be generally available throughout the state two and one-half inch bronze medals will be priced at $2.50, and one and three-fourths inch examples, made of pure silver milled and finished in Idaho, will be $12.50 (including federal tax. Swinney said these prices are significantly below the usual cost of similar commemorative medals on the collector's market.

The silver medals are edge-marked with the weight, just over 1.2 Troy ounces and the legend "pure Idaho silver."

Pure silver examples of the medals were presented to Governor Smylie and living ex-Governors Idaho, the centennial banquet held in Boise, March 2, Swinney reported. Each of these was especially engraved with the recipient's name and term of office.

The medal, designed by sculptor Carl Hultz, of New York City, has on the face a scene of two prospectors peering into their gold pan at the very moment of discovery, Swinney pointed out that this is not in Idaho history, but rather to symbolize the multitude of Idaho her first significant population.

The reverse of the medal contains the first seal of the territory of Idaho. This is not the same as the present state seal.

The medals are being manufactured by the Medallic Art company, New York City. Bunker Hill corporation of Ketchikan and Kennedy Investment was given special handling attention to ensure that only silver actually mined and melted in Idaho was used to strike the Idaho medals.

many others.

The medal program was originally instituted by the territorial centennial commission in 1890. When the commission dissolved in 1921, the Historical society took over the project. At Governor Smylie's request, Swinney reported that the planning of the project has been carried out with the advice of Henry L. Day, Wallace, president of Day Mining and a numismatic collector of long experience.

The bulk silver for the silver medals was purchased from the Bunker Hill corporation of Ketchikan and Kennedy Investment and attention to ensure that only silver actually mined and melted in Idaho was used to strike the Idaho medals.

SMOKES AND FIRE is all that remains of the many weeds and clumps of asparagus that once covered the old pioneer graveyard at Hagerman. Volunteers armed with shovels, axes and pitchforks cleared the plot of debris and an attempt to relocate and mark many of the old graves will be undertaken by members of the community. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

People who had their electricity cut off last Sunday evening when a car ran into an Idaho Power pole at the south edge of SHOSHONE are recognizing just how much they are dependent upon electricity. Cows that had never been milked by hand suddenly became a problem. Farmers had no water, there was no heat for many, and as a result many are considering getting portable motors to transfer the milking units in event this sort of thing happens again. They firmly felt their cows would be injured if let go without a milking.

The power came back on after about six hours and work was resumed, although it was behind schedule.

Where farmers had only a few cows, they milked them by hand, but the majority had to wait. At the home of A. W. Tidwell, his 100 head of cows posed a tremendous job. Walter Jones and Elmer Jones milked three of their cows by hand, then decided to walk for the power to come on. They finished up their work about 11:30 p.m.

Fred Moore had part of his dairy herd milked when the electricity went off at 7:30 p.m. He came back on at 10:30 and finished up around 12:30 a.m.

Kath Jackson and Fred Stenchen, as most of the farmers, waited for the electricity to complete their chores also.

Ray Robinson said his electricity came back on after about an hour so he wasn't too far behind.

Elden Gashier and son, Gaylen had the answer to the problem. However, they somehow hooked their milking machine up to the pickup truck and did their milking. Kay and Bill Boyd, and helped them milk their cows in the same manner.

Some of the cows in various herds give as much as four or five gallons of milk each.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Justice, HAGERMAN, received word that two grandsons were born to two of their daughters, March 9. The younger boys are within two hours of each other and with only one ounce difference in their weights.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Seattle, are parents of a baby boy, Mark Lee Johnson, to the former Bill Justice who taught music in the Twin Falls school.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swoboda, Tumwater, Wash., are parents of the other baby, David. She is the former Estelle Justice. Bill Swoboda has another child and Mrs. Justice is in Tumwater caring for him.

These are the grandchild of Mrs. W. L. Justice, Hagerman, one of the earliest residents in the area.

Volunteers armed with shovels, axes and pitchforks have removed the old graves and are working on HAGERMAN. The group cleared the asparagus weeds and debris from the old trees and one-half acre.

Report Given About Africa For Chamber

REPORT, March 16 — A report on the geography, history, economics, people and politics of South Africa was given by Fairfax Fair, exchange student presently attending the Jerome high school, during the Thursday noon meeting of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Fair, 18, outlined the history of the country since its first settlement in 1652. The country is now a republic, he pointed out, since gaining its independence from Great Britain in 1961.

South Africa comprises some 800,000 square miles, about twice the size of Alaska. The total population is about 18 million, with three and one-half million whites, one and one-half million colored, or half breed, 10 million blacks, and one-half million Asians.

According to Fair, the country has a diversified climate, ranging from tropical on the east coast, to arid, rainless desert on the west coast. All areas, with the exception of the tropical belt, with an average of 17 inches, requires irrigation for all crops, he said.

South Africa is one of the fastest advancing countries in the world, Fair said. "We have never received any foreign aid, and within the past few months have set up a lend-lease plan of our own to aid other countries."

He pointed out that South Africa was the first country to repay the United States lend-lease funds after the close of World War II.

The Republic leads the world in the diamond market, Fair pointed out, and gave an outline of the history of the diamond industry.

He told of the recent development of mining diamonds from the alluvial soil carried into the ocean, and from the soil along the west coast. Production is strictly controlled, he explained, to keep the world markets from being flooded.

Some 90 per cent of the world's diamonds are produced in South Africa, and one third of the commercial or industrial diamonds, Fair reported.

They also produce some 60 per cent of the world's gold, totaling over $50 million a year. The gold is still being developed and being brought into production, Fair said, with some of the world's deepest gold mines.

Deep-level mining methods developed in South Africa are being put to use in all parts of the world.

The supply of iron ore is virtually unlimited, Fair said, with many other important minerals in great supply.

"South Africa has been called the treasure house of the world," he said.

Fair expressed his feeling concerning the politics of his country, pointing out that the party he supported disagreed with the party in power on the question of handling the racial problem.

He also pointed out the opinion of many people of the way the black people are handled in his country was all wrong, or at least misinterpreted. "The blacks are afforded the best in educational advantages and enjoy a much higher standard of living than other dark races in any African country."

Fair showed a film depicting the development of water power and irrigation projects, and the industrial picture of the country.

Ralph Smith reported the progress being made on the proposed highway improvement on the Minidoka-Dietrich road through the north part of the county. He said that confirmation had been received from Dale Garner, state representative, that oiling would be started at Minidoka and proceed west as far as the money allocated would go.

He also said an oiling project will be started at Kinama and work east, probably about four or five miles. The highway department hopes for completion of the project by 1964.

Concerning the proposed connecting road from Highway 24 to Highway 25 on 2nd west, Smith said that the department of highways had gone over the suggested plan and feels the cost is prohibitive, at least for the time being.

Wayne Anderson, president, read a letter from the Halley chamber stating approval of the proposed road plan for the Minidoka-Dietrich area and reporting that they had sent a copy, with their endorsement, to their legislators in Boise.

Everest Goal Of American Expedition

KATHMANDU, Nepal, March 16 (AP) — Along a steep, rocky trail in eastern Nepal, more than 1,000 men and women are waiting to start a great black block of rock that rises higher than any other part of the Earth.

A group of the men hope to keep waiting up to the trail, up a glacier, up wind-packed snow to the summit of Mt. Everest. The expedition is led by two men with babies strapped atop loads of food and scientific equipment, are supporting a major American assault on the mountain.

Besides Everest, the climbing team plans to make redoubts near Annapurna and Nuptse. The three peaks appear on a map as a topographical "Y" pointed east.

Look at the bottom of the Y, is 29,228 feet high. This makes it the fourth highest mountain if counted separately. Some experts claim it is a spur of Everest.

Nuptse stands 27,725 feet high at the end of a razor-edge ridge from Lhotse.

On the short side of the Y lies the South Col, a snow-covered crevasse. At a lower level it would be considered a mountain pass. The South Col is the highest point of the South Col in 1952. The British made it the next year when a Sherpa, Tenjing Norjig, and a New Zealander, Sir Edmund Hillary, topped the highest mountain. The Swiss returned in 1954. He succeeded and, just for good measure, climbed Lhotse for the first time.

Dyrenfurth is heading the expedition through eastern Nepal as leader of the American expedition. The climbing team will be accompanied by William Tinsford, deputy leader of the U.S. peace corps team in Nepal and one of the men who first climbed 660-foot Manaslu in 1950.

The 10 Americans, one Britisher, 33 high altitude Sherpas and 350 porters make up the most elaborate expedition ever sent against Everest. Its members expect to begin scientific observations when they reach base camp at 17,800 feet March 20, and continue taking observations on Everest. The Chinese takeover of 28,000 feet or more

Spanish Need In Protection Now in Focus

MADRID, March 16 (AP) — A clearer picture is developing of what Spain wants for an extension of its defense agreement with the United States.

On the military side, the Franco government's main preoccupation is with obtaining enough modern arms and technical help to develop its own defenses against possible hostility, with emphasis on protection from air attack.

On the political side, Spanish leaders want greater recognition as a loyal ally of the anti-communist West. Its aspirations in North Africa membership in the North Atlantic Treaty organization, in the face of certain opposition from strong socialist groups in Norway and Holland.

The Franco government probably will settle for less.

"We know that Spain's contribution to the West in event of a global conflict might be small beyond our cooperation in furnishing base facilities here, said one senior Spanish military officer.

"We know, too, that in event of war we cannot depend on American planes to protect Spain. That is why we are anxious to build up with American assistance — our own defenses."

Military experts say Spain also will require technical instruction for some form of training in nuclear warfare.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Wilford W. Sagers, Longtime Oakley LDS Teacher, Is Well-Known Speaker

WILFORD W. SAGERS

OAKLEY, March 16 — From the time he was chosen to be the orator at a Fourth of July celebration in Oakley when he was 16 years old, Wilford Sagers, Oakley, has been called to speak at many prominent affairs.

An accomplished speaker he is respected by many a bereaved family which has received sympathy and comfort from him to any of the hundreds of funerals he has addressed.

Some years ago, he was called to Los Angeles, to speak at the funeral of Sam Hunter, a former Oakley inn and son of Edward Hunter.

Here he met Sam's brother, Keith, a talented artist, who painted a fine sketch of Sagers' portrait during the funeral service.

Soon a short letter arrived asking a few personal details about his coloring, and shortly after a large, beautifully colored portrait of Sagers arrived and composed of members of the Hunter's gratitude for the funeral oration and also his appreciation as a former-school student of Sagers.

This picture is highly prized in the Sagers home.

Sagers was born in Salt Lake City March 1, 1903, of seven children. In 1909 his father sold his home in Salt Lake City and moved to the farming area located in the basin, seven miles east of Oakley. The family came by train to Mindoko and by chance came with the second man to become Oakley's Cassia stake president, William Back.

A long wagon ride brought them from Mindoko to their farm in the basin. Here the family lived until 1917 when their father again moved most of his family to Oakley and Wilford went to the high school in the western states.

His mother, Mrs. Sagers, and his father, Mr. Sagers, were married in the LDS temple in Salt Lake City.

They lived until 1933 at the home in the basin, raising stock and farming, but with the depression "he went back into teaching after having received his teacher's certificate at 18 years of age at the former Alton Normal school.

In those days, certificates were not as hard to get as they are now, for he attended only one summer school and was eligible to teach.

The summers found him still working at the task of preparing himself more for the career he had chosen and soon he had enough credits to become a full-fledged teacher. He taught two years as a regular teacher and five as the principal of the Oakley elementary school.

Previous to this he taught at the Basin school for three years. In 1941 he received his bachelor's degree in education after attending USAC in Logan and now is only a few hours away from his masters degree at BYU in Provo.

Sagers always has been an avid reader. A large library in the LDS seminary building where he has taught for the past 18 years shows a vast collection of books and a good number of books now packed away in boxes—stored—He says he refers to be well-informed on current events and to keep abreast of the times.

He makes his success in life to a "goal and desire to be of service to my fellow man and this is one of the reasons why I selected the teaching profession." "The deepest satisfaction that has come to me in my career is the realization that I have been an inspiration to the youth for them to strive to make a success of their lives."

Hardly a week goes by but what Sagers receives a letter of appreciation and gratitude from some former student.

The Sagers have always taken a great interest in the community sports. He says he and his wife have attended nearly all the local football and basketball games the Oakley Hornets have ever played locally and out of town for the past 19 years.

He points out a seminary teacher needs to participate in the extra-curricular activities of the high school because he feels it gives seminary students a realization that the teacher is interested in their affairs and influences them to take an interest in what is vital in the teacher's work.

For seven years he served on the Basin school board and was one of a committee of three on the agricultural adjustment association committee for Cassia county.

Since from this he is a non-resident worker in the LDS church, serving in the Cassia stake presidency for four years; as bishop of the first ward for 12 years; served in the bishopric of the old fourth ward—has been a member of the stake high council for 15 years, was superintendent of the state Mutual eight years, served as superintendent of the state Sunday school five years and has also held a number of other ward offices.

The Sagers have three children, Monroe Sagers, Gooding; Mrs. Denver Alton, Oakley, and Robert Sagers, Burley, and 16 grandchildren.

In 1951 he turned the key to the seminary building over to Gail Ooley and began to take life a little easier while still continuing to serve his fellow men in ways other than teaching.

DECORATIONS ON FRONT and back of the jackets worn by Camp Fire girls are not just decorations. They are symbols which tell the girl's adopted Indian name. Four members of the Ma-Kin-Ho group of St. Edward's church display

Symbols on Jackets of Camp-Fire Girls Really Mean Something, Leader Says

All that meets the eye is just that it seems. For instance, there are the symbols on Camp Fire girls' jackets. To those in the organization, or acquainted with it, they are symbols denoting the Indian name the girl has adopted, or to signify what she wants to be or do.

Such a naming project has been completed by members of the Ma-Kin-Ho group at St. Edward's with Mrs. Henry Johnson, leader. She has just completed Mrs. Cliff Whittle, whose husband has accepted a position in another state.

The use of symbolism is a unique and distinctive feature of the Camp Fire program, Mrs. Buchanan points out.

"Since the organization originated in the United States, the originators saw it fitting to turn for inspiration to our only really native folk art, that of the American Indian," she said.

"Each Camp Fire unit chooses an Indian name and creates the symbols to signify the name. Furthermore, each girl chooses an Indian name for herself, expressing what she wants to be."

The symbols which the Indians created to picture their world and life around them have proved to be a rich and almost inexhaustible source.

"Most symbols picture things rather than ideas. The symbols are an arrow, for example, is not a realistic drawing but a very simplified representation," she continued.

She pointed out that once people become aware of the symbols it is interesting to discover how many different kinds there are.

State Council Explained at Realtor Meet

SHOEHORN, March 16 — Purpose of the newly-instituted state realtor's president and secretary council was explained to members of the North Side board at their meeting held Wednesday evening at the Lincoln inn dining hall.

Dinner arrangements were made by Mr. and Mrs. Wendell and Mrs. Harvey Iverson, Gooding.

A report on the council meeting held in Boise recently was given by Quincy Gates, Gooding, vice president of the North Side Board. He said one major purpose of the council is to subsidize the Realtor and Broker program, as well as train officers. Realtors were urged to leave legal matters to attorneys.

Gates reported on talks explaining the lawyer-realtor relationship, said members were urged to fight federal controls and made suggestions for programs that will be of value within each board.

Henry LeMoine, Hagerman, president, proposed advertising ideas, which might include informing the public, proclaiming a stand on issues and support of such. He said he felt people should know the North Side board has assisted financially with the legal battle in the state of Nevada in the realtor and lawyer situation wherein legislative proposals were found in favor of the realtor's stand.

Members decided to discuss with members of the district board the matter of promoting legislation that would give the state realtor's board more authority in such things as arbitration and endow them with power to assist in more local problems. Wayne Hudelson,

If you want a truck that does its work without yelling for attention all the time, buy a "new reliable" Chevrolet.

You have to take care of it; it's a machine. But this isn't a full-time activity. The clear idea is that the truck works for you; not vice versa.

The way to build such a truck is to put more quality into it. For example, Chevrolet doesn't build one type of suspension system for all sizes of trucks. Chevrolet designs suspension systems to fit your need. The light-duty type is strong on comfort. Another kind for heavier trucks stiffens up as you increase your load and vice versa. Make sense? Conventional pickups have double-wall construction in cabs, doors, lower side panels. Roofs are insulated. Body floors are select wood, not metal. Tailgate chains are wrapped in rubber. If you'd like to examine or drive a new '63 Chevrolet truck, just call us. We'll be right over.

Gem State Youngsters Air Problems In Wildlife Through Essay Contest

BY JIM HUMBOLDT
Idaho fish-and-game department BOISE, March 16 — Some of Idaho's biggest problems with respect to its rich natural resources will be aired by the younger generation now in junior and senior high schools around the state. The occasion is the 25th annual observance of National Wildlife week, March 17-23.

Unlike most states, Idaho gives its youth this forum to speak on conservation matters through the medium of a statewide essay contest. This culminates in the announcement of state-level winners in both senior and junior divisions in appropriate publicity during the week.

The contest and awards are sponsored by the Idaho Wildlife Federation and the fish and game department in cooperation with the public and parochial school authorities. This year state chairman is Trumbull Nemo, newspaper writer and associate editor of a national magazine, decided that the Idaho observance will carry the theme of the essay contest, "Water and our Wildlife Heritage."

Three essays in each division were judged best. The state winners are: Junior high school division — Claudia Hollowell, Bilsa, first; Lonnie Cowper, Pierce, second; and Kenneth Marcus, Coeur d'Alene, third. Honorable mention — Valerio Moffitt, Coeur d'Alene; Chrissie, Bilsa; and Linda Lee, Kellogg.

Senior high school division — Penny Simmons, Coeur d'Alene, first; Janet Davis, Caldwell, second; and Lee White, Coeur d'Alene, third. Honorable mention — Pam Brownlie, Blaine; Gary Donat, Parnie; and Susie Johnson, Wallace.

The history and purpose of National Wildlife week goes back to 1938 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued the first proclamation. It has been celebrated annually since by the National Wildlife Federation and the state groups that belong to the organization. The purpose of the week is to focus public attention on the importance of renewable fish and wildlife resources, and on the broad, pressing problems of conservation.

What do the young essay writers have to say that will command the attention of their elders? "The state winners realize as true conservationists that their heritage is precious and want to keep it that way. In the main, the essays hit three central points: There are water pollution, soil erosion and the drainage of swamps, farm ponds and other wetlands. Related problems are some hydroelectric dams and overgrazing.

Talk on Food Given at BPW Burley Meet

BURLEY, March 16 — "Free like a million" was the subject of a discussion by Mrs. Clifford Mullikin and Mrs. Wilbur Bierman at the Business and Professional Women's meeting this week at the National hotel.

Mrs. Evelyn Cash, chairman of the health and safety committee, introduced Mrs. Mullikin and Mrs. Bierman. Mrs. Mullikin pointed out the close relationship of the emotional and physical health with the food which a person eats. Mrs. Bierman discussed the amount of sugar one consumes and how it affects the body.

Several books were used for reference by the speakers and they noted that all the books are available at the Nutrition center for rent or sale. Officers James E. Resenbaum, administrator of the Casa Memorial hospital, explained the new mass casualty program being adopted by the hospital. He said this is a plan of action in case of emergency and that volunteers are needed who could be called upon to help care for injured persons if a sudden disaster occurred in this area.

Mrs. Christine Frederick, vice president, was in charge of the business meeting. She told members the report of the nominating committee will be made at the April meeting and officers will be elected.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, April 9, at the National hotel with a program on public affairs to be arranged by Mrs. Viola Lovin.

ing. With minerals it means not mining more. It also means not waiting any extra that will mine. With forests it means planting enough trees for the next year. With farm lands, it means taking care of the soil so that it remains fertile and so that it will not be blown away by the winds or washed away by the rivers. A lot of Idaho's natural wealth already has been wasted.

"Water, the lifeblood of the world," determines all—crops, animals, as does the lack of it. Water is interdependent with all resources: soil, minerals, forests and wildlife. All resources affect wildlife through water. Water feeds soil; the soil grows plants that are the cover and means of life. Here wildlife lives, reproduces and fights for existence. Every animal has adaptations to live where it does. The destruction of their homes usually causes them to perish.

Thus, the younger generation has spoken—renewing Idaho observance of National Wildlife week with the essay theme, "Water and our Wildlife Heritage."

Prison Walls Hold Many Untold Tales of Heartbreak

By The Associated Press

Behind prison walls originates whose hand he clasped a few many an untold tale of heartbreak. But occasionally pride, forgiveness and remorse show the poignancy of eternal hope.

In Kansas City an old man sits alone with memories of a small boy, seldom speaks to anyone. He nourishes his pride—and hopes.

In Tooele, Utah, a father clasps a teen-ager's hand and forswears malice. He offers forgiveness—and hope.

And in Jonesboro, Ga., a tall, blond boy fumbles with a yo-yo and recalls that it cost him most part of his life. He knows remorse—and hope.

"There are judgments that be long to the courts of men and others that belong in the court of God. I hope that there will still be an opportunity for him to do something worthwhile in his life. If one of two persons can alter their lives for the better as a result of this tragedy, then Shirley Carol will not have been in vain."

The blond teen-ager with the yo-yo is from Jonesboro, Ga., was identified only as Pat. He was one of five young prisoners from a Georgia reformatory who were in drab, blue denim uniforms addressed an assembly of Jonesboro high school students in an experimental crisis prevention program.

While the students listened in silence, Pat told them he never had stolen so much as a piece of candy, until he started running around with older boys. His first theft was a yo-yo on the chicken house door, so he everything.

"The funny part of it," Pat continued, "is that I had three yo-yos at home. I had plenty of them. I had to steal one to find out if I could. I had plenty of them. I had to steal one to find out if I could. I had plenty of them. I had to steal one to find out if I could."

The father in Tooele, Utah, is J. Maurice Clayton, whose daughter, Carol, 16, was fatally beaten

LONGEST DOG TEAM in the world—so long that the driver speaks to the lead dog by voice telephone—takes railroaders for a ride near Sun Valley at the snow resort near an end. Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black, the unique dogs are Bismoyers and are descendants from among the earliest dog strains known. The 21-dog team can be divided into two units when necessary and also will operate this coming summer at the resort, by switching to sleds equipped with small wheels. The team measures 78 feet from driver to lead dog. (Times-News photo)

DISPLAYING ARTICLES made from combings collected from Samoyed dogs is Mrs. Robert Black, Sun Valley, who, with her husband, operates a shop in Ketchum and kennels at Bellevue. Called "Sammy wool," the hair has no odor and, in the finished product, looks much like angora wool. It takes three years' combing, for instance, from one dog to make one sweater. After spinning, the wool can be knit or crocheted. (Times-News photo)

VOICE COMMAND is given by Robert Black as he operates dog team at the Sun Valley resort. Just 10 feet ahead, the lead dog knows just what to do—he receives the commands through a speaker securely tied on his back. Although not an "expert" requirement in "dog" know, it is a must when the dogs operate in parades and are unable to hear the driver without the special setup. Sun Valley guests receive themselves for a swing through the snow as Black gives the commands. (Times-News photo) command, and all is quiet.

The Blacks came to the Sun Valley area Nov. 16. They operated their rides at Shoshoneville pass during the 1961-62 season. They started in the kennel business in 1950 and entered their animals in the initial parade in 1960.

It was in this parade that the need for a speaker-receiver system. It was 70 feet from the driver to the lead dog and the crowd was so noisy that the dog could not hear the shouted command.

Actually in a parade two drivers are used because their weight is needed to hold the dogs to a "stop" place. So far the dogs are concerned they can work all day pulling a load and not a half dozen sweaters than their weight. The only thing that can stop them is heat," Mrs. Black said.

Last year the 21-dog team was featured in the Apple Blossom parade in Washington and at the Seattle Grand Sealair parade.

"We were looking for a place to make and the Ketchum-Sun Valley area seemed just the place. Even the dogs like it here," Mrs. Black said.

Her son, Black, a Junior at the Valley high school, assists his parents in the "dog business."

Trip Won by 3 T. F. Auto Salesmen

Three Twin Falls car salesmen were in Colorado Springs, Colo., last week instructing Ford Motor company's executives in the art of selling Lincolns and Mercurys.

The three, Art Hirling, Abbie Urigen and Elvin Brown, of Thelen Motors, have been named as three of the top 15 salesmen in Lincoln-Mercury in the two western states. It was the second year—the trio has been rated in the top 15 out of some 2,000 salesmen.

Emmett Harrison, Thelen's motor sales manager, said Hirling, Urigen and Brown won a four-day, all-expense-paid trip to the Broadmoor hotel in Colorado Springs where the convention is being held. Their wives accompanied them.

At 32 Years, Man Starts to Lose Hearing

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

AF Helena Writer

CHILCO, March 16 (AP) — Mr. Averette May, 32, lost his 32nd birthday, sits down at the breakfast table with his wife as usual. She casually asks if he would like sliced bananas on his cereal. He continues reading his newspaper in silence.

"What's the matter with you?" she cries in exasperation. "Why don't you answer me?"

"Well, why don't you speak up?" he retorts. "I can't hear you people, especially females with highlighted voices, will have to talk a little louder from now on for him to hear them as well."

And, studies by a St. Louis pathologist indicate, the average man will lose more of his hearing at about age 50 and suffer a third drop in hearing acuity when he reaches the 55-65 age bracket.

Dr. John F. Corso, Ph.D., drew his conclusions on hearing loss with an advertising age from a study of 82 men-and-women who had been exposed to a minimum of industrial noise and were presumed to have normal hearing.

Writing in the current Archives of Environmental Health, published by the American Medical Association, he said a diminution in hearing acuity becomes noticeable in men at age 32 and in women at age 35.

Marked changes in the hearing of men, he said, occur on the average in a period of about 10 years. In women, he added, the changes are more gradual, with deterioration fairly uniform.

Giant Office Structure Is Now Complete

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — On a rainy spring morning early last June a gravelly 10-man was flown over mid-Manhattan in a helicopter.

Edwin S. Wolfson had pulled himself from a painful sick bed to take one last look at the flowering of his fondest dream, which soon would be the world's largest commercial office building.

Three weeks later, Wolfson succumbed to cancer at the age of 60.
