Hail, Rain Devastate Area Crops

Hail and rain raised havoc with roads, ditches, canals and crops in parts of Magic Valley Wednesday afternoon, with crops being devastated on the Roseworth tract. Pete Griggs, Roseworth, said Thursday morning there were from six to 18 inches of hail on the ground on the south end of the Roseworth tract. The hail stones were about the size of a large marble, Griggs noted. The hailstorm hit the area about 3 p.m. Wednesday and lasted only a few minutes, but the rain behind the storm forced water out of canals and ditches, flooding the roads.

Griggs estimated about 100 per cent of the grain in the mile-wide swath the storm followed, was destroyed. Griggs said about three-fourths of the hay and 50 per cent of the beans also were destroyed by the hail. He added that the hail also destroyed peas.

The farms on the Roseworth tract hit the hardest are owned by Truman Clark, W. B. Arness, Lawrence Sill, Don Wolf, Robert Shafer, Lyle Shafer and Lloyd Davis.

Griggs, who has been on the tract for about three years, said, "This is the worst hailstorm I have ever seen."

Mrs. Griggs said Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Gladys Sill got caught in the hailstorm and the car got stuck like it was in snow. Griggs said the cars and pickup trucks that were stuck were

Judge Seals Murphy Case Records

SHOSHONE, June 20—District Judge Charles Scoggins said Wednesday he "sealed the records for the protection of the children" in the divorce case of Margaretta Fitler Murphy, now the wife of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The judge declined a reporter's request to see the testimony and the property and child custody settlements made in the suit she filed this spring in Fairfield against Dr. James Slater Murphy. They had four children.

But the judge said he would consider the newsman's request if he filed a court petition and could show "reasonable grounds."

Judge Scoggin said the records on the child custody and property matters were "sealed" on his

Tear Gas Used to Break up Racial Riots in Georgia

By United Press International

An antisegregation demonstration at Savannah, Ga., last night erupted into rioting that police had to break up with tear gas. At least four persons, including a detective, were injured by thrown bricks. Officers arrested 274 demonstrators. The violence started as police were unloading from paddy wagons the Negroes arrested at a demonstration at the Holiday Inn motel. Bricks and bottles were thrown at police by around 1,000 Negroes in front of police headquarters. There was some scuffling and then officers fired tear gas pellets to disperse the Negroes who broke about a dozen plate glass windows in stores as they retreated down a street.

The demonstration was one of several held after President Kennedy's plea Wednesday that Negroes abandon racial demonstrations that could lead to violence.

There were other demonstrations at Danville, Va., where 20 persons were arrested and at Albany, Ga., where 26 demonstrators, including four white persons, were arrested.

Negroes planned to demonstrate against alleged school segregation today in St. Louis, Mo.

The situation was quiet in Gadsden, Ala., where officers used electric shock sticks and nightclubs to scatter Negro demonstrators early Wednesday.

Fight Back

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 20 (AP) — The University of Alabama board of trustees has taken what could be the first step toward removing three Negro students from the university system.

The board filed notice in U. S. district court Wednesday that it would ask the fifth U. S. circuit court of appeals to overturn a lower court refusal to delay integration of the formerly all-white institution.

meet with Mayor Allen Thompson today at Jackson, Miss., to seek final agreement on desegregation proposals.

There were these other developments:

New York — Negro leaders threatened mass demonstrations and civil disobedience if officials of the nation's largest city don't meet Negro demands for equal job rights and equal schooling.

Washington—President Kennedy invited a group of 30 white and Negro leaders to meet with him Saturday for a discussion of the nation's racial problems.

Cambridge, Md.—A state mediator began negotiations with city officials Wednesday and Negro leaders expressed hope of gaining settlement of their desegregation demands.

Winston-Salem, N.C. — Negro Leader Charles McLean said he would "use all my influence" to comply with Gov. Terry Sanford's plea for a halt to racial demonstrations in North Carolina. Sanford has scheduled a meeting next Tuesday with Negro leaders from throughout the state to discuss racial problems.

Greenville, Miss. — The city council has agreed to establish a race relations committee to settle desegregation disputes.

Tallahassee, Fla. — Gov. Farris Bryant said he has no immediate plans to appoint a biracial committee to study racial problems in Florida because "we don't have any problems that aren't being handled."

Miami Beach — Alabama Gov. George Wallace attacked President Kennedy's civil rights proposals as a "program of civil wrongs."

Albion Float Is Top Cassia Parade Entry

BURLEY, June 20—The Albion "Main Street" float was chosen winner of the parade which highlighted Cassia County Centennial celebrations here. The float consisted of a bar, millinery shop, and a hotel featuring a man washing clothes out front. The Overland Shopping Center and the Southwest school of Burley tied for second place. Holmes Construction company won first place in the old vehicles category. The animal-drawn units first place went to Lovell Turner with his ox-drawn team and covered wagon from Declo. Marching units first place went to the Minico Steppettes; second was won by the Burley junior high school band. Mounted units first place was won by Cassia county posse members.

Jack Jordon was parade chairman.

The children's parade began Wednesday at the corner of 14th street and Miller avenue. First place went to Tamera Thornberg and Debra Thornberg and Terrel Rae Mallory for Pebs Linda Beal won a first place with her pioneer costume.

John Osterhout won first place with his Indian travois. Other first place winners were Jimmie Ray Janek, decorated bike, and Allen, Timmie and Terry Hurst with an animal-decorated float.

The style show was held at the Burley High school auditorium, sponsored by the Cassia county home demonstration council with general chairman W. A. Bradshaw, Malta.

Bridal dresses of 1909, owned by Mrs. Edgar Moorman, Milner, were featured along with those owned by Mrs. Robert Demers, Burley and Mrs. L. S. Biel, Murtaugh.

One-hundred-year-old suits were shown by Mrs. Twyle Hunt and Mrs. Julius Drake, Burley.

Four Burley police officers on motorcycles led the parade. Following was a delegation of Veterans of Foreign Wars, who carried the colors, a car carrying World war I veterans and three convertibles with the Centennial queen candidates.

Burley Mayor Leonard Salmon, State Sen. Don Loveland and State Rep. Ivan Williams followed in a convertible driven by Bob Sazvik, general chairman of the parade.

Also represented were the Burley junior high school band, the high school drill teams from Burley and Minico high schools, an antique steam engine, six early autos, a 1936 fire engine, covered wagons drawn by ox teams, a sheriff's posse and Indian dancers from the Twin Falls Centennial pageant.

About 175 people were served breakfast at the Cassia county posse breakfast from 6:30 a. m. to 11 a. m. Thursday at the Cassia County fairgrounds, sponsored by the Cassia County Sheriff's Mounted Posse.

Cooks included Robert Anderson, pancakes; Gene Funk, eggs; Jay Glorfield, ham; Louis Johnson, sausage; Donald Hess, coffee, and Kenneth Smith, milk.

The Cassia County Centennial queen, Ruth Ann Loveland, and her princesses were special guests at the breakfast. La Dell Handy, posse captain, was general chairman.

Slyvin Burgi won the judging for the fullest beard at the pregagent beard growing contest Wednesday evening at the fairgrounds. Other prizes were awarded to Irvin Tilley, thinnest beard; Fred Wright, best trimmed beard; David Fenstermaker, longest beard, and Wayne

Union, Steel Agreement Is Reported

PITTSBURGH, June 20 (AP)—The United steelworkers union and the basic steel industry were reported today to have reached an unprecedented agreement for a new contract.

Union sources said the reported settlement was wrapped up at a meeting Wednesday night of the labor-management human relations committee.

If so, this would mark the first time that an agreement has been achieved in the basic steel industry without strike-pressure bargaining.

The union has been free since May 1 to formally reopen basic steel contracts under a 90-day strike deadline.

The joint committee began working on changes in the contract last January, and in the past few weeks has been meeting almost daily.

According to union informants, the reported agreement calls for an extended vacation plan for veteran employes, some improvements in the insurance plan and a few other changes.

In return, sources said, the union has agreed to extend the current pacts through 1964. At present, the contracts can be terminated June 30, 1964.

Navy Blames Pipes for Sea Tragedy

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—A navy report on the nuclear submarine Thresher today blamed failure of a piping system for the April 10 sea tragedy that cost 129 lives.

A naval court of inquiry concluded that the piping failure—which led to flooding and then to loss of electric power—was the "most probable" cause of the first disaster in nuclear submarine history.

The court reported that it found no evidence of sabotage or hostile action concerning the Thresher.

Posse Meet Set In Burley for This Week-End

BURLEY, June 20 — Idaho State Posse will meet in Burley Saturday and Sunday, with posses expected from all of Idaho.

A parade at 6 p.m. Saturday will start at Overland shopping center and travel north to Main street then east to the fairgrounds.

Grand entry at 8 p.m. Saturday at Cassia county fairgrounds will be followed by posse drills.

Races will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Cassia county fairgrounds.

Cassia County Mounted Sheriffs Posse is host.

Full Valley Flag Display Urged July 4

The prime day of the year for flying the American flag will roll around in two weeks on the Fourth of July.

Independence day and the American flag are almost synonymous. Everyone in Magic Valley is encouraged to display the flag on July 4, giving the area a truly red, white and blue Independence day.

Complete flag kits are still available at the Times-News, selling for cost of $3. The kit includes a three- by five-foot, 50-star flag; brass jointed, hardwood staff; wall bracket, halyard and complete instructions.

Gem School Fund Allocation Trimmed

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie confirmed today that he will ask the board of examiners to reduce the public school fund allocation for the first six months of the new biennium by 1.2 per cent. That would mean that about $122,000 that would have been available for distribution to the more than 100 school districts in the six month period beginning July 1 won't be available. The governor had directed earlier this week that general fund agencies receive 23.8 per cent rather than 25 per cent of their total two-year appropriation in the six-month period beginning July 1.

He said the order applies across the board, except for a few agencies that have seasonal expenses higher than normal in the six month period. He said they will get proportionately less in the second six months.

Scheduled for distribution to the schools are $7,400,000 in July and $4,877,000 in September in general fund money. In addition, the schools receive additional money from endowment income.

Smylie said he "would think they would" when asked if he believed the board of examiners will accept the recommendation.

The bill providing for the school appropriations provides for a reduction by the board. It reads:

"The state board of examiners may order the transfer of only a portion of the above stated sums if for any reason revenues to the general fund are insufficient to meet in full the appropriations to be made from the general fund."

It means school districts can expect somewhat less than the estimates given them earlier by the department of education.

Smylie said the allocations are being reduced for general fund agencies in view of indications that income will fall short of expectations in the new biennium, as it has during the current biennium.

If it should fall short, the schools might in the long run receive less than the 40 million dollars appropriated by the legislature.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Arnold Williams said he is asking that his office be exempt from the 1.2 per cent reduction for the six-month period.

In a letter to Budget Director Don L. Walker, Williams said he has had to hire three additional employes because of a requirement that his office receive and file copies of the new Idaho loyalty oath, and because of a normal seasonal increase in the filing of corporation paper.

Williams said that without the reduction, his actual payroll of $18,200 for the six months would be more than the $19,250 allocated.

Cold Snap Hits

By United Press International

Near freezing temperatures chilled northern Minnesota and Michigan early today on the last full day of spring. Heavy thunderstorms ripped through Dixie, causing at least one death.

The sudden Midwest cool snap also brought readings in the 40's and 50's to Wisconsin, lower Michigan, and northern Illinois and Iowa early today with winds gusting up to 20 miles per hour.

No Pope

VATICAN CITY, June 20 (UPI)—Vatican radio said cardinals failed to elect a pope today in their second session.

The cardinals met twice —once this morning and again this afternoon — in the Sistine chapel to choose the 262nd pope of the Roman Catholic church.

Each time they took two ballots, and each time the result was negative — no pope.

U. S. Ports Threatened By Strike

WASHINGTON, June 20 (UPI)—The National Maritime union today threatened to station pickets at all of the nation's ports in a move that could tie up American shipping.

Assistant Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds said the action was threatened by a top aide to Joseph Curran, president of the NMU, but defeated temporarily at government request.

Reynolds said the NMU's action stemmed from an intervention fund with the Marine Engineers Beneficial association. Both unions are affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

Labor department officials feared that NMU picketing might shut down major ports and force ships to remain tied up at their piers.

The dispute grew out of attempts by the engineers union to prevent the Maximus, a former Grace Line ship, for sailing from Philadelphia with a final shipment of drugs for Cuba.

Slippery Smylie Eludes Posse, but Rips Trousers

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—Pony Express riders participating in the Gem county Centennial celebration tried unsuccessfully today to arrest Idaho's chief executive and take him to Emmett on horseback.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie eluded the riders in a scuffle on the statehouse steps. Two of them slipped and tumbled down four or five steps, but no one was hurt.

The governor, who invited the riders and the rest of their party to a nearby cafe for coffee, said he sustained 35 cents worth of damage in the fray. The back of his trousers scraped against the concrete steps and a minor sewing job was required.

Smylie received an invitation to the day-long celebration from the riders, who rode in relays from Emmett in just an hour and 25 minutes. It is about 35 miles.

The 23 riders used 26 horses. State Sen. Vincent Nally, R., Orm., rode the final one-mile lap.

The invitation delivered to the governor was rolled up in a piece of cowhide.

A bell sounded at the Pickett corral, an old territorial landmark, heralding the return of the riders to Emmett. The celebration included a greased pig scramble, log rolling, tug-of-war, a potluck supper, an Idaho pageant and square dancing in the streets tonight.

Senate Demo Leaders Predict Rights Bill Support Is Gaining

WASHINGTON, June 20 (UPI)—Senate Democrat leaders predicted today that President Kennedy's civil rights bill will have more than 50 co-sponsors — a majority of the senate—by tonight. They also mapped plans to prevent it from being tied up in committee. These developments came as the tough new civil rights proposals touched off what promised to be one of the most bitter congressional battles in decades. Senate Democrat Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., said administration leaders hoped that many parts of Kennedy's legislation could be steered to committees other than the senate judiciary committee.

The judiciary group is headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D., Miss., a staunch foe of civil rights measures. Southerners have threatened to use all their power, including committee chairmanships, in an effort to defeat the President's plan.

Humphrey told reporters that by getting various committees into the picture, "we will at least have hearings on as much of the program as possible" whether the judiciary committee acts promptly or not.

In the house, Chairman Emanuel Celler of the judiciary committee, introduced the civil rights legislation and ordered hearings on it to start next week with testimony from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Celler said adequate opportunity will be given for those opposing the bill but he declared that "under no circumstances will this opportunity be permitted to be utilized for purposes of delay or obstruction . . ."

The house education and labor committee started discussions of a fair employment practices bill in closed session but put off any action until next week.

FT-109 PREMIERE HELD

BOSTON, June 20 (UPI)—"PT-109," the movie version of President Kennedy's wartime exploits, held its world premiere here last night, attracting vast crowds, a sprinkling of celebrities, and mixed reviews from the critics.

Officials Skeptical Of Cuban Invasion

WASHINGTON, June 20 (UPI)—Reports that Commandos of the Cuban revolutionary council have landed in Cuba in a war of liberation could not be confirmed in official Washington quarters today. Both the White House and the Pentagon said they had no knowledge of the reports and the state department said a check has produced "no confirmation." State Department Press Officer Richard I. Phillips said the department had checked with its office in Miami, where the reports originated, and it produced nothing to support them.

Phillips added that he believed it would be "very difficult" for any major military landings or movements to take place without U.S. forces in the Caribbean detecting them. He indicated that no large movements have been detected.

Earlier today the Cuban Revolutionary council in Miami announced that exile commandos carrying "large quantities" of arms for anti-Castro rebels landed by boat early today in Cuba.

"The council announces the war of liberation has begun and that its forces are prepared to carry the fight to the enemy," the communiques said.

However, sources close to the council said "relatively few" men were involved. The basic objective was to reinforce the rebels in Cuba with arms, they said.

HALT ADVERTISING

NEW YORK, June 20 (UPI)—All cigarette advertising in college publications has been halted by most of the major cigarette manufacturers, according to the Tobacco Institute.

Champagne Heralds Okay For Hot Line

GENEVA, June 20 (AP)—To the popping of champagne corks the U.S.-Soviet agreement on a hot line between Washington and Moscow was formally signed today.

The line provides for a direct teletype cable between the two capitals as one means of preventing an outbreak of war by accident.

It would be used by President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

U. S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle and Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin signed the agreement in the French Room of the Palace of Nations in their capacity as American and Russian delegates to the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Buddhists Want Prisoners Freed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, June 20 (UPI) — Buddhist leaders today demanded that the government show good faith in the agreement they negotiated Sunday and release more than 200 demonstrators.

They also charged that a Buddhist student leader was beaten to death by security police after his arrest June 4 in the religious center of Hue. They called for the release of another student arrested with him.

Congress Faces Poison Problem

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—This noisy spring, congress is worried over the possibility of a silent one.

Two congressional committees are occupied with health warnings on the dangers of pesticides, demonstrations of the sex habits of the male cockroach, and cries of concern for man's feathered and furred friends.

Such is the legislative impact of Rachel Carson's popular anthology of death, "Silent Spring," and the public clamor it has evoked.

Already Miss Carson has testified before one committee, and asked congress to curb sales of pesticides, and to cut down on aerial spraying.

Beside this she wants to arm individuals with the legal right to seek redress in the courts against neighbors who spray not too well, but too widely, and allow poisons to intrude another's domestic domain.

She insisted repeatedly that she does not want to stamp out pest control—but instead wants reasonable controls on the use of pesticides.

Even before she testified the President's science advisory committee had suggested there be tighter federal controls.

The committee also urged a philosophy of insect control, rather than insect eradication, by pesticide-using federal agencies.

The federal pest control review board found one spraying program in Washington state timber land might endanger oysters in nearby coastal water, and the U. S. forest service ruled out the use of DDT.

Thus, temporarily at least, did the oysters save a worm-like pest called the hemlock looper from the ravages of DDT.

A new plan has been evolved in which only part of the land—safely away from coastal drainage—will be sprayed with DDT. The rest, says a forest service spokesman, will get a new insecticide—called "Sevin"—And the first days of spraying will be watched to determine its effect against the looper.

On the one hand, some 70,000 acres of hemlock are involved

Solons Face Problems of Pesticides

with an infestation that last year struck Oregon, next year may strike British Columbia.

On the other hand, wildlife and safety are involved too. It's little wonder that congress is deeply interested.

Senators sat in rapt attention while agriculture experts showed how male cockroaches frantically trailed the scent of the female cockroach—a lure the experts hope to make a lethal one in insect control.

Two bills are pending in the senate to better protect wildlife from any spraying problems, and to tighten labeling regulations on toxic chemicals.

Government officials have stepped into the fray. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall testified that pesticide residues are being found in a number of bird and animal specimens and even in fish caught far from land.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D., Conn., a former secretary of health education, and welfare, has called on private industry to seek new pest controls which would be potentially less dangerous.

Presidential science adviser Jerome Wiesner has testified that the contamination of the environment with chemicals including pesticides is potentially more hazardous than radioactive fallout. He was quick to add that this is not now the case.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY—Partly cloudy today, tonight and Friday, with chance of a few afternoon and evening showers or thundershowers near the mountains today. Widely scattered afternoon and evening showers or thundershowers Friday. A little cooler tonight. Cooler Friday. Outlook for Saturday fair and a little warmer. Highs today 83-90, lows tonight 50-55, highs Friday 77-82, except Camas prairie highs today in low 80s, lows tonight in mid 40s, highs Friday in low 70s. Temperatures at 4 a.m.: 65 at Jerome, 60 at Twin Falls experiment station with 83 per cent humidity, 66 at Twin Falls entomology laboratory with 72 per cent humidity, 66 at Rupert, 60 at Fairfield, 65 at Buhl, 68 at Castleford, 70 at Wendell; at noon, 79 at Twin Falls experiment station with 46 per cent humidity, 83 at Twin Falls entomology laboratory with 39 per cent humidity. Barometer: 29.81. Soil temperatures: At Twin Falls experiment station, four-inch 70, eight-inch 67, 20-inch 63 (24-hour evaporation .21); at Buhl, three-inch 79; at Castleford, three-inch 67; at Wendell, three-inch 71.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY

The northern portion of the weak Pacific front passed across Idaho last night, bringing scattered thundershowers mostly in areas in southcentral Idaho Stations in Magic Valley reported amounts generally less than .10 of an inch, although the weather bureau office located at the Twin Falls experiment station recorded .12 of an inch. Roosevelt, located south of Castleford at an elevation of about 4,000 feet, reported damaging hail from a heavy thunderstorm late yesterday afternoon. No other hail was reported from any Magic Valley reporting station, however. Fairfield, on Camas prairie, recorded the greatest rainfall with .50 of an inch accompanied by some light hail yesterday afternoon and evening.

As mentioned, the northern portion of the Pacific front has moved eastward into eastern Montana, but the trailing southerly portion of this front extends southward across Idaho. This portion will be moving across our area during the next 24 hours and will be replaced by a ridge of higher pressure pushing in from the Pacific. Scattered shower and thunderstorm activity will come alive again this afternoon and evening, with most of the showers favoring the upper Snake and southeastern sections of Idaho.

Temperatures will be a little lower today and still lower tomorrow, ranging from the 70s in the Salmon-Challis areas and in the Lewiston-Orofino area to the 80s across the remainder of southern Idaho. Some warming and a return to fair weather are expected Saturday, especially over central and southwestern sections. Gradually improving weather conditions will allow haying to make satisfactory progress after Friday. The humorously wet June has treated us well, but with a return to fair weather increased cultivation and spraying operations will have more favorable working conditions.

Buhl School Absentee Vote Ready

BUHL, June 20 — Applications for absentee balloting in the Buhl school district's four-mill levy election July 2 are being accepted at the school district office in the high school building, reports Supt. Rex Engelking.

Applications for absentee ballots can be made at any time but ballots and voter's oaths will not be made available until June 27. Voters can begin casting ballots June 27, when each absentee voter will be sent a ballot and oath with instructions.

Absentee ballot applicants also may vote in person before Lois Rudy, school district secretarial clerk, at the school office on or after June 27.

Anyone who expects to be absent from the district on election day or unable to go to a polling place because of some disability is eligible to vote absentee. The school official noted absentee ballots must be cast prior to election day as no absentee ballots will be accepted on July 2.

Election officials will be Mrs. William Aldrich, Mrs. Lee Mathews, Mrs. Eva Walker, Mrs. Fred Brailsford, Mrs. David Phillips and Paul Hunt.

Hail and Rain Cause Heavy Crop Damage

pulled out by tractors.

Ralph Schnell, Rogerson, reported a heavy rain fell about 3 p.m. Wednesday, with a hard wind that knocked down some crops, but there was no hail.

Three creek is running full and an estimated 10 second feet of water was from the rain Wednesday afternoon.

About seven inches of rain have fallen so far this year at Rogerson, with a normal to date amount of moisture for a full year in the years past has been about nine inches.

It rained from about 3:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday at Oakley, with about .25 inches falling. Crops in the area were knocked down by the storm.

Mrs. Lenna Gee, Oakley, reported Thursday morning that lightning struck a switch box near her kitchen sink, melting it and burning the wall.

A 30-minute hailstorm struck four miles north of Richfield at 5:10 p.m. Wednesday, damaging several farms.

The inch-and-one-half stones ruined a majority of the crops. At least 1,500 acres of land were affected, with hay fields beaten to the ground, and wheat and barley snapped off. House roofs, sidings and windows were broken in the area hit by the storm. Home gardens were ruined.

Farmers Donald McCurtain, Riley and Heber Kelly were ditching with their tractors when the storm struck. The two men stayed under their tractors for 45 minutes with tractor seats over their heads.

Several people were caught and sought shelter under willows. Those caught included Nyle Swainston, whose crops were chopped out, including 130 acres of hay, and Melvin Wellhausen, whose crops were completely wiped out six miles from Richfield. Farmland leased by Orford Bailey was damaged, although his own land was unhurt.

Other Richfield residents with damage to their homes and crops include Max Bahr, Jody Parker and Rex Flavel. Golf ball and heavy rain struck all over the Richfield area, although there was no crop damage to the area untouched by the hail storm.

Series of Burglaries Solved Here

A series of car breakins and burglaries in Twin Falls was solved by the Twin Falls police department when six juveniles were apprehended Sunday with some of the stolen merchandise.

Detective Cloyce Edwards said about 50 cars were broken into the past two months and burglarized. Clothing, cameras, groceries, fishing equipment, tools, beer, cigarettes, soft drinks, books, ladies purses and gas were taken.

The six youths, ranging from 9 to 16 years of age, were taken into custody Sunday after some of the youths were caught in a garage along Washington street drinking beer they had taken from Freddie's bar, 717 Main avenue west, Saturday night.

Edwards said the merchandise the youths took either was destroyed, traded or sold. Edwards added the merchandise was taken from unlocked cars in the business district and near several bars.

Edwards added the youths also broke into a Young's Dairy truck last week and took some milk.

The youths were turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Mrs. Rogers Passes at 52

Judge Seals Murphy Case Records

order at the request of attorneys for both sides.

Mrs. Murphy, 37, was granted the divorce in Camas county at Fairfield on April 1. She married the New York governor last month.

There has been speculation on what custody arrangements the Murphys made for their four children, James, 12, Wendy, 10, Carol, 7, and Malinda, 3.

There is a large manila envelope in the files of the courthouse at Fairfield that bears this handwritten label:

"4-1-63. Case No. 1031. Camas. Sealed by court order and not to be opened without court permission. Signed: Judge Charles Scoggin."

"I did it for the protection of the children," the judge told the reporter. "To get access to the records it would be necessary for you to file a court petition. I would consider it, but you would have to show reasonable grounds."

Mrs. Murphy filed suit for divorce on grounds of grievous mental anguish. Her husband denied it and also denied she was a legal resident of Idaho. Idaho, like Nevada, has a six-week residence requirement for divorce. Mrs. Murphy lived for six weeks in a cottage at nearby Sun Valley.

This "sealing" of court records in certain cases is not unique in Idaho. One court in Northern Idaho county once maintained a "sleeper file" where testimony in civil cases could be withheld from the public at the request of the litigants.

Judge Scoggin, who talked with the reporter informally after a court session here, said he has received telephone calls from all over the country about the Murphy case but that, "I'm not going to be a reporter for anyone."

In reference to his sealing of the records, he mentioned the practice in Idaho of withholding the names of juveniles in most court cases.

A high legal source in Boise, who declined to be quoted by name, said he knows of no specific law which would either permit a court to make such a "sealing" divorce court record. "If the judge does so," he said, "he must have his reasons."

Swim Lessons To Start July 1

Britons Gnash Teeth Over Profumo Scandal

LONDON, June 20 (NEA) — Britons are angry about the reputation for immorality which this island kingdom has gained overnight, thanks to the Profumo scandal.

Britain is neither a 20th century version of Sodom and Gomorrah, nor is it seeking to recreate the Hollywood of the wicked 1920's, the natives will tell you.

It's leaders are no more immoral (nor moral, for that matter), than the leaders of other Western nations. Sin is no more rampant here than elsewhere.

This is a defensive line taken by the average Briton ever since the Profumo scandal burst on the political scene. On June 4 The Right Honorable John Profumo resigned as war secretary after it was disclosed that he had been sharing a mistress with the Soviet assistant naval attache.

Unfortunately, the Profumo affair has followed close on the heels of other scandals. Notably the Vassall case involving homosexuality and espionage at the British admiralty, and the Duchess of Argyll divorce action revealing the seamier side of the aristocracy.

These scandals have combined to give Harold Macmillan a black eye, and the nation a reputation for immorality.

The Americans, in particular, have compared society hijinks here with French court life under Louis XIV. These imputations are hotly resented by people I have talked to.

As a British lawyer, who incidentally handles many divorce cases, expressed it:

"All one has to do these days is to mention a British politician or an aristocrat and some foreigner, usually an American, is sure to give one a sharp dig in the ribs, a knowing wink, or a leer. This thing has gotten completely out of bounds."

When Profumo was confronted with his friendship with Christine Keeler, a 19-year-old call girl, he made a personal statement March 22 in the house of commons denying that there had been any immorality. In a show of loyalty, Profumo was flanked by Prime Minister Macmillan who led the Tory support when the statement was made.

Then came the June 4 bombshell. Profumo resigned after admitting he had lied to commons. "I misled you and my colleagues, and the house," the war minister wrote to the premier. But worse was to come.

When it became known that Christine was having an affair with the Russian attache, the security question raised its ugly head.

It has taken some time for the enormity of this scandal to sink in, as, far as the man in the street is concerned. Curiously enough, it is not the sexual morals of those in high places that bother him. Nor even the revelation of a possible security breach.

What shocked the public here is that Profumo lied and that he did so as a matter of personal privilege.

Statements from Crown ministers who evoke personal privilege have been regarded as sacro-sanct by their government colleagues and the opposition alike.

Probing even deeper, this nation has been brought up in the convention that true gentlemen—and this includes crown ministers—do not publicly lie when they get in a tight spot just as they do not cheat at cards.

"An Englishman's word is his bond," runs the saying.

Also, there is a feeling here that Conservative party leaders, like Caesar's wife, should be above reproach.

The sexual peccadilloes of men in high places have sometimes been overlooked. Thus the Duke of Wellington's sex life was set forth in great detail in the memoirs of Harriette Wilson without bringing the duke into disfavor.

But when threatened with exposure, the Duke of Wellington did not try to lie his way out. He had the courage to tell Harriette Wilson, "Publish and be damned."

Courage is a quality notably lacking in the present government, according to the Times of London, which acidly remarked: "It remains strange that not a single member of the government resigned when the (Profumo) affair broke in March and he (Profumo) did not himself resign."

Picnic Held by T. F. Ministers

The Twin Falls Ministerial association met at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at Shoshone falls for a family picnic.

In the business meeting, approval was given to the Boy Scout chaplaincy program, as outlined by the Rev. Ernest Hasselblad.

The group gave consideration to the five-mill levy proposed by the local school district and unanimously passed a motion to endorse the measure.

Plans were completed to conduct Sunday evening services from the city park band shell during the summer and it was determined that no regular meetings of the Ministerial association would be held during July or August.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

by STELLA

THURSDAY, JUNE 20—Born today, you have an eager, acquisitive mind that keeps you forever searching for first principles. Not so much interested in the accumulation of mere facts, you like to get down to basics—the "how" and the "why" of the matter, rather than the "what." You would be an excellent teacher, for not only are you interested in knowledge for yourself, you are eager to see such knowledge gained by others.

You have the patience of Job! You will work and rework even the smallest detail of a project until you are completely satisfied with the results. Yet, although you would like to see them do the same, you do not demand such meticulous labor of others; you realize that not everyone is capable of it, and you are quite willing to live and let live.

Gifted with great emotional stability, you should be the rock behind your own family circle. This, however, has its disadvantages, too, for you may find yourself approached more often than you would like for aid in solving problems and making decisions which, by rights, others should make.

Among those who were born on this date are: Audie Murphy, actor, World War II hero; Arthur Ernest Morgan, author, educator; Lillian Hellman, playwright.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, June 21

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Should matters take a turn for the worse, avoid giving in to discouragement. Find the cause, and the repairs are simple.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Your first consideration today should be how best to tackle the problems that seem on the increase on the domestic scene.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—A good day. The knots that seemed so difficult recently may well untie themselves if you leave them alone. Look on the good side.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Accept overtures of friendship offered in good faith. You can advance immeasurably the mutual pleasure of a personal relationship.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—This may be the day to take that first step. Go over all plans again and if they still hold together you should be on your way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Stick to your own high standards of performance and production for best results. Avoid cutting corners to save either time or money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Children may have a good word for you today. Listen to words that may well be wiser than the speakers know.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Now is the time to take advantage of the high esteem in which you are held by another. Use your influence to his betterment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—To take an attitude which others may consider overbearing or unfair could cause you to lose much that was only recently gained.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Think twice before you give away all the secrets of your success. Make sure you are not playing into the hands of competitors.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—See that you have all your facts straight before you apply them. You may be working to your disadvantage without knowing it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Avoid setting your emotions against your reason, especially as things may tend toward confusion during afternoon.

M. W. Whitaker Paid Last Honor At Rupert Rites

RUPERT, June 20 — Funeral services for Miri William Whitaker were held Tuesday at the Rupert third ward LDS chapel with Bishop Clark Cameron officiating.

Family prayer was given by Morris Whitaker. Elsie Wilson played meditation music and was accompanist. A quartet included Lillis Anderson, Lucille Smith, Bernice Westergard and Georgia Mosier. The invocation was given by O. Kay Peterson.

Life sketch was given by Bishop Cameron and speakers were Bishop Kenneth Carter and Bishop George E. Nelson. Eldon Chandler sang a solo and benediction was given by Reece A. Bates.

Pallbearers were Lowell Taylor, Verne Whitaker, Clee Stokes, Thayne Butterfield, Winn Stokes and Richard Bruesch.

Flowers were arranged by the Rupert third ward Relief society, assisted by members of the family.

Concluding rites were held at Sunny Cedar Rest, Almo, with dedicatory prayer by Wesley Ward.

Idaho Publicized In Travel Guide

Thirty pages of the new 1963 edition of the Mobil Travel Guide are devoted to the Gem state and contain descriptions of 49 towns and villages, and rated listings for 127 motels and motor hotels, 22 restaurants, eight resorts and seven hotels and inns.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie provides an introduction to the Idaho section in which he describes briefly a few of the attractions of Idaho scenery and facilities.

The exact location, telephone number and prices are given for every listing and a description of almost every facility available, including television and radio, laundry facilities, eating facilities, hours, parking, type of cooking, baby-sitter service and provision for pets.

The guides may be purchased at most book stores and at Mobil stations.

School Crossroads

Important decisions in the field of education will be made by Twin Falls county residents within the next two weeks. In the first place, county voters will decide whether to form a junior college district. Then there are mill levy elections in at least two school districts. These are separate elections with no relation other than both types come under the same general heading of education.

Voters who are qualified should make it a point to participate in both the junior college district election and the mill levy ballot. In these days of a steadily-expanding bureaucracy and an increase in the paternalism of government, it's not often local residents get a chance to determine their own future.

The vote on the junior college district will give an excellent indication of what county residents think about expanding the educational system by two years. It will show exactly the attitude of county residents toward more education.

The mill levy election planned at Twin Falls and Buhl are rather unusual in that property owners are facing a brand new type of election. The scene was set by the 87th session of the Idaho legislature earlier this year when it removed the statute ceiling from the amount school districts can levy. Yet there remains a very real ceiling—the amount property owners are willing to approve.

In a sense, the change is refreshing and at the same time a challenge. Responsibility for added school funds is placed squarely on the shoulders of local property owners. They can have whatever they want in the way of public school services and facilities, providing they are willing to pay for them. It's a matter of raising local funds for local benefit.

The situation runs contrary to the trend of the past two decades or so. It has become popular to let some higher government raise all the funds, siphon off whatever is needed for administration and what have you, and then allocate a portion of the remainder back to those who paid it in the first place.

Whatever happens in the school elections scheduled in the next two weeks, Twin Falls county residents should remember they are charting the future course of education in the county. The levy elections will determine if people are interested in improving the public school system. The junior college district ballot will determine if county residents believe something should be done to provide an education opportunity beyond high school for those who do not have that opportunity now.

These are serious decisions, ones in which all eligible citizens should participate.

If the last session of the Idaho legislature took notice of local government in one respect, it failed miserably in providing means of implementing it, a failure that will be highlighted once again in the school mill levy elections. Here is one of those fund elections in which Idaho law still specifies two-thirds approval is necessary.

The theory of majority rule is one of the very cornerstones of government in this nation. Yet in Idaho, municipal and school bonds and some levies have to be approved by two-thirds of the voters going to the polls. The Times-News has contended in the past and still maintains the two-thirds majority requirement is not realistic and places an unfair burden on those units of government charged with building and maintaining public facilities.

Considered from another angle, the two-thirds requirement actually constitutes rule by the minority. A mere one-third of the voters, plus one voter, can determine the outcome of an election in which the two-thirds majority is needed. Thus one-third of the voters actually can impose their will on the rest of the public.

It's something to keep in mind as Twin Falls county approaches the educational crossroads in its separate elections.

HERO'S FUNERAL

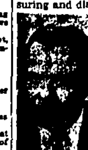
If the United States has any conscience, it will not forget soon the name of Medgar W. Evers, the Negro leader who was murdered in Jackson, Miss. He was accorded a hero's funeral in Arlington National cemetery in Washington, D.C. More to the point, Negroes regard him as a martyr to the cause of integration.

To date, there has been no suggestion police are even close to finding the cold-blooded sniper who shot Mr. Evers in the back. It was a despicable crime, one that no person should condone under any circumstances. Everyone concerned should make all possible effort to bring the murderer to justice.

In the continuing integration movement, it may develop the shot that killed Mr. Evers will do more to promote integration than all the demonstrations and court actions. The murderer may have defeated hi[illegible] purposes.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY



Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON, June 20—It is at once reassuring and disheartening to learn that the United States intelligence community had a line last November on the relationship involving Britain's unfrocked war minister, a call girl and a Soviet naval attache—and was told by the British to go peddle its papers elsewhere.

The reassuring part is that Uncle Sam's spies were on their toes. The disheartening side is that the British, as so often has happened, didn't want to think about anything so unpleasant.

Now the British not only are having to think about it, but Prime Minister Macmillan was forced to talk about it in the house of commons. Meanwhile, the Pentagon and the central intelligence agency are boiling at the uncomfortable thought that the call girl, Christine Keeler, should have shared her favors simultaneously with War Minister John Profumo and a high-living Russian spy named Capt. Yevgeny Ivanov.

"UNUSUAL"—"We never insinuated a damned thing," says a high official in the American intelligence community. "We merely suggested that it was at least unusual that a British official should be patronizing the same female as the assistant naval attache of the Soviet embassy."

But the British sat on their hands until last March, when a laborite member of commons asked a question on the subject. Only then did the queen's intelligence get on its horse. And when the showdown came, much of the information which forced it came from American intelligence, fattened by material from the FBI's dossier on Ivanov.

To American intelligence, the worrisome thing about the whole business is the inability on the part of British officialdom to face one of the cold war's facts of life. This is that all Russians, and particularly those with diplomatic status, are spies. They wouldn't be trusted in their jobs if they were not. Yet Macmillan at first accepted Profumo's original explanation that there was nothing "improper" about his relations with a girl who was being romanced by a Russian naval officer.

MORAL DECAY—At the bottom of all this is a kind of basic rottenness which pervades a segment of Britain's so-called ruling class. In England, this smart set is intrigued by degeneracy and perversion. Witty pimps and call girls are regulars at fashionable parties and their professional antics are considered clever. The homosexual is looked upon as chic and amusing. He is pampered by the females and regarded as part of the entertainment by the male.

In a world where the communists play on every weakness of the capitalistic governing cliques, this is dangerous enough; blackmail is the communists' most powerful weapon. But London's smart set also has shown a tiresome—and hazardous—penchant for adopting people of curious political philosophies, notably the intellectual with leftist tendencies. They love to dabble in communist dogma, and if their latest discovery is a sure-enough, Moscow-training communist, it's all the more fun.

WARD GOT AROUND—Profumo moved in a circle to which Ivanov had cordial entree. The Russian is reported to have "dazzled" socialites with his charm, his wit and his easy spending. It was a circle which also admitted Dr. Stephen Ward, the so-called "society osteopath," now accused of operating a call girl service which offered the talents of Christine Keeler. Ward says Winston Churchill was one of his patients, and as an artist he says he numbers Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth, and Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, among his sitters.

It was Ward, of course, who "introduced" both Profumo and Ivanov to the Keeler woman, and that is what bugs American intelligence officials. They are not paid to sit in moral judgment, but they don't like Russian spies getting too friendly with folks who might know a state secret or two.

Views of Others

THE HIGHER, THE FUNNIER

Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the house ways and means committee, has introduced a bill to levy social security taxes on personal earnings up to $5,400 a year instead of the present ceiling of $4,800. Efforts of Kennedy administration spokesmen to relate this to their proposal for hospital care for the aged are slightly amusing.

The chairman's bill, they pretend, will improve the outlook for adding their proposition to social security. They are whistling to keep up their courage. It will have the opposite effect if its significance is at all understood.

The hospital care or "medicare" bill could benefit only if the increase recommended by Mr. Mills were to be used to help finance hospital care for the aged. But the revenue from it is already more than earmarked.

The trustees of the social security trust fund reported a few months ago an indicated long-range income deficiency for the fund of about 3 per cent. This situation is due in part to the addition a few years ago of payments for disability besides the original old-age insurance. The Mills bill proposes to cover only half of the 3 per cent deficiency, leaving a prospect that the trust fund will run into the red even without "medicare."

Is this an argument for adding hospital care for the aged to the cost of social security? The social security payroll tax now is 7¼ per cent on employe and employer together, scheduled to rise to 9¼ per cent in 1968. The "medicare" system would add at least one fourth of one per cent at the outset, probably a great deal more in the long run.—Christian Science Monitor

POSTSCRIPT ON OLE MISS

Thirty-five professors have quit or have resignations pending at the University of Mississippi, according to the Associated Press. This is a damaging exodus from a professional force numbered by Chancellor J. D. Williams at about 100.

Of those who have left or are preparing to leave, 21 are leaving because of the integration crisis, the A. P. was told. And the spirit represented by the display of the rebel flag probably has influenced other decisions even if the temptation of better paying jobs may have been decisive. Prudence restrains comment, but one professor, a born Southerner, said: "A year ago, I would have said that I'd never leave. But since then the situation here has become too uncertain, and in many ways too intolerable."

Since, as a rule, it is more difficult to leave a place, even if it is deteriorating, than to refuse an invitation to such a place, one may suspect that the chancellor has a replacement as well as a resignation problem. The atmosphere of prejudice simply is not conducive to education.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

GLANCING BACKWARD

Dear Pot Shots:

The account of the recent reunion of the Twin Falls high school class of 1913 gives me the urge to give the following information. The old high school building was completed in the fall of 1911 and the move from the old Bickel building was made during the Thanksgiving vacation.

We began attending classes there at that time. In May, 1912, the class of that year was graduated and the exercises were held in the new auditorium, thus making the class of 1912 the first to be graduated from the new building.

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, June 20 (NEA) — Sweeping changes in American migratory farm labor practices are expected to follow the wind-up on Dec. 31, 1963, of "bracero" program under which Mexican workers have been brought to the U.S. as harvest hands.

There may be some effort to revive this plan and extend it another year, as the Kennedy administration has requested. But the house vote to kill public law 78, under which the program was administered by the U.S. employment service, is expected to be approved by the senate.

This would end 10 years of supervised recruitment which replaced the old practice of hiring "wetbacks" who crossed the river illegally to seek jobs.

Import of Mexican contract labor reached a peak of 437,000 workers in 1959. It has dropped steadily since then to 195,000 last year. A further cut is expected this year.

There will still be a need for almost 500,000 seasonal workers to take off America's crops of grains, fruits and vegetables. But automation on farms has shortened the harvest season. Farm labor that used to find 250 days work a year now averages only 100 to 130, not enough to live on.

There is no manpower shortage here at home, but there is a recruiting problem. Annually for the last 10 years about 200,000 people have been leaving farms for the cities. Still there is high rural as well as urban unemployment.

If migrant workers have to be recruited in the southeastern United States for work as far west as California, transportation costs will be high.

For Mexican labor, each worker recruited was given $15 to pay his transport costs to employment centers on the U.S. border. Employers had to provide transportation from there.

There will be a new farm wage problem. Minimum pay for Mexican labor has ranged from 60 cents an hour in Arkansas to $1 an hour in California and Michigan. One gripe against the system is that American workers haven't been able to get even these guaranteed contract rates.

The complaint of big farm operators is that they can't find enough domestic labor for even these prices. With no competing Mexican labor supply, pay scales for domestic farm labor may have to be raised, increasing farm costs.

If there is a return to the old wetback practices, a new burden will be thrown on the immigration service border patrol.

Shutting off the legal Mexican farm labor supply is expected to bring pressure for import of more contract labor from British West Indies. About 12,000 came from BWI last year, mostly for Florida. But transportation costs to the Southwest probably would be too high to use this labor force.

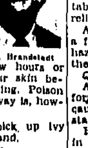
Most of the U.S. east coast migrant farm labor, which is native American, begins its year's work in Florida and moves north as the season advances. There are about 200,000 workers in this force, organized in crews scheduled for work in each area all the way to New England.

For many years past, working and living conditions of migrant workers have been the subject of much investigation and criticism. One of the principal reforms proposed has been to give American migrants the same protection given to Mexican farm labor in the U.S.

One principal benefit of killing the Mexican bracero program in the house has been to speed passage of a series of six bills proposed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D., N. J., to improve migrant labor conditions.

The Doctor Says

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.



Dr. Brandstadt

The surest way to prevent poison ivy is to stay indoors, but even that may fail, because contact with tools, clothes or a picnic basket contaminated with the poison several days beforehand may cause you to blossom out.

Furthermore, a dog that has picked up the resin may deliver it right to the easy chair where you are sitting. If you pat him, you may regret it a few hours or days later when your skin becomes red and itching. Poison ivy acquired in this way is, however, very rare.

More often you pick up ivy poisoning at first hand.

If, like most people, you are susceptible to poisoning with this resin, the first rule is to learn what poison ivy looks like and remember that it grows not only as a vine but also as a bush.

Its thick, sticky, poisonous resin is found chiefly on the shiny leaves. Many a person brushes against these leaves when knocking about in the woods without realizing that he has done so.

If you should recognize too late that you have come in contact with the leaves, the sooner you wash your hands, preferably with a strong soap, the better.

As an alternative, you can wipe the resin off with a wad of cotton or facial tissue soaked in alcohol or gasoline.

The use of a protective cream before contact with poison ivy may prove helpful. The cream should contain zirconium, as this neutralizes the poison.

Desensitizing injections or tablets have been helpful to some susceptible persons, but must be taken two or three months before the anticipated exposure, to be of any value.

They must not be taken after the exposure, as this would only aggravate the attack.

We can't all be lucky. So, if in spite of precautions, you develop an ivy rash, calamine lotion or a paste made of sodium bicarbonate and water may relieve the discomfort.

Cortisone and related steroid hormones in lotion, ointment or tablet form also usually gives relief.

And so I say, who would trade a fine summer day, with all its hazards, for any other day in the year?

Q—What causes hives?

A—Hives is a very common form of allergy. It may be caused by a great variety of substances.

Hives are most likely to occur in the areas of skin that are subjected to pressure or friction, such as under a belt, garters or suspenders, and inside the shoe or at the shoe tops.

The commonest foods that cause hives are seafoods, strawberries, milk and milk products, nuts, eggs, wheat, pork and chocolate.

But even commoner than foods as a cause are such drugs as quinine (including tonic water), salicylates (including aspirin), barbituates, iodides (including iodized salt), and penicillin.

Some very sensitive persons get hives from exposure to heat, cold or sunlight.

When the condition is very severe an injection of adrenalin may be required. The best treatment, however, is prevention. This requires studies to determine the exact cause, and then avoidance of contact with that substance.

BARRY GOLDWATER

Washington today is engaged in a world-wide search.

The search is for policy. Hardly a week goes by any more that the newspapers don't carry stories about another search being instituted. The headlines tell the story. They tell of a search for a Cuba policy, a search for a Laotian policy, a search for a Haitian policy, a search for an Atlantic community policy.

And, needless to say, the search is being conducted by the United States government.

What it adds up to is that we as a nation do not have anything remotely resembling a consistent or meaningful foreign policy. The New Frontier is playing everything by ear. What pertains in one part of the world is found running counter to what we are attempting to do in another. Our position changes from month to month depending almost entirely upon current developments.

I suggest this indecision and lack of policy is costing us dearly in terms of human freedom. For example, while we searched for a Berlin policy early in the present administration, the communists went brazenly ahead with the construction of the Berlin wall. This, of course, was hailed by the new frontiersmen as proof positive that the communist system doesn't work—or at least wasn't working at that time—in East Germany.

No matter what it may mean in terms of communist failure, the indisputable fact remains that freedom in the world was seriously confined by the construction of the Berlin wall. And we, as acknowledged leaders of the Western world and the cause of freedom, did nothing to stop that wall from being built. Nor have we done anything to have it removed.

And while we were searching for a Cuban policy, we allowed the Castro government, with the help of Russia and the communist-bloc nations, to turn the Caribbean island into a communist fortress.

For one brief time, back in October, 1962, we took a position and forced Premier Khrushchev into a policy retreat. But we did nothing to follow through on the advantage.

We let the promise of on-site inspection of Cuba get lost in the shuffle. We let the Soviets maintain a heavy garrison of many thousands of men. We made a nebulous and meaningless distinction between "defensive" and "offensive" weapons. And we instituted a policy of what can only be described as "watchful waiting."

What else are we doing about Cuba today? Nothing. We are watching and waiting, apparently in the hope that some combination of events will occur to make the spectre of a communist military penetration of the western hemisphere disappear.

When you iron out all the wrinkles in the Cuban situation, you come to the inescapable conclusion that we have an "anti-missile" policy with regard to Cuba and nothing more.

There can be no doubt that our lack of policy on Cuba has been a serious blow to the cause of freedom. What makes it worse, that blow fell right in our own front yard, and it may only be the first of many more communist victories in the western hemisphere.

Our attitude in Laos also fits the pattern of inconsistency. The New Frontier started off talking very tough about stopping the communists in Laos, because it was considered the key to all of Southeast Asia. Then we switched to a policy of supporting a coalition government made up of Western, communist and neutral factions in Laos.

This was done despite the fact that, wherever this device has been tried, it merely paved the way for an eventual communist takeover. And now that Republican predictions that the reds would never honor the Laotian agreement have come true, now that the communists are on the march in the Plain of Jars in direct violation of the truce agreement, the best we can do is send Undersecretary of State Averill Harriman to Moscow to plead with Khrushchev.

The plain fact is that the strong Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy which used American strength when and where it was needed—in places like Lebanon, the islands of Quemoy and Matsu and elsewhere—has been watered down to the point where we have no policy at all. That is the reason for the search presently going on.

How do you stand, sir?

Interpreting the News

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—President Kennedy, his hands full with the race problem, made a pleasant gesture toward the Russians. The Russians, their hands full with the Red Chinese, have not been unusually unpleasant toward him.

Thus Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev, without new foreign troubles, have more time to spend on the ones closer to home while both of them probably wish they could spend all their time trying to solve their problems with each other.

"Let us re-examine our attitude toward the Soviet Union," Kennedy said in a speech announcing nuclear test ban talks would resume in Moscow in July. "Let us re-examine our attitude toward the cold war."

On July 5 the Russians meet with their severest critic in the communist world, the Red Chinese. The talks should be over by the time the test ban talks begin later in the month.

Kennedy's rather conciliatory statements put no extra heat on Khrushchev although whether this is to his advantage in talking with the Chinese is open to question since their main complaint is that he's a softy with the West.

Meanwhile, watching Kennedy up to his neck in the race problem, Pravda and Izvestia published the full text of his speech, which was unusual, and a Kremlin commentator called it "extremely significant."

But Western diplomats didn't see any change in Soviet policy and anyone who tries to read deep significance into all this at this time looks more like an astrologer than an astronomer.

Since the Russian-Chinese dispute is bitter and deep it isn't likely to be settled at the July meeting and Khrushchev probably will be wrestling with his Asian neighbors for a long time to come.

Nor is Kennedy by the magic of a few civil rights bills—if they pass in congress—going to solve in a few months a racial problem which has been a problem for centuries.

If this moment of quietude in American-Russian relations has an air of abnormality about it, it's hardly more than an illusion since the voices in the background make it very normal, indeed.

While Khrushchev himself keeps quiet, Moscow propaganda organs continue to bang away at American racial troubles, NATO nuclear forces and other cold war frictions at the very moment Kennedy's speech is being read in Russia.

South did not reply. He was waiting for East's lead on the second trick. When East continued hearts, South ruffed, drew trumps and claimed his slam.

He still did not bother to answer North. Success had answered for him.

In most instances a bid that traps your partner should be avoided, but there are exceptions and South's pass over five hearts and bid of six spades were both logical.

South had used that rare bid, the forcing pass. He had decided that if he bid five spades his partner would probably be unable to go to six because he, South, was looking at a singleton heart and North might well hold a couple of cards in that suit. South also decided that if North doubled five hearts it would show heart strength. In that case South might not even make five spades and it would be better to play at five hearts doubled.

However, North did bid five spades. South was sure that all North's high cards would be working spades and South bid the slam with every expectation of success.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 6 5 ♥ K 3 2 ♦ A Q 2 ♣ A 6 5
What do you do?

A—Pass. You have shown 18 or 19 points by your jump to two no-trump. Your partner is willing to play three no-trump. It should be all right with you also.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three no-trump your partner goes to four clubs over your three spades. What do you do now?

Is it proper to call for Gordon's by name in English Pubs?

It's not a matter of being proper. It's unnecessary. For when most Englishmen ask for gin, they expect to get Gordon's. After all, its distinctive dryness and delicate flavour have been a part of English life for 194 years. Americans, however, have been enjoying Gordon's for a somewhat shorter span of time. So it is wise(and proper)to specify Gordon's by name. Your first sip of a Gordon's martini will tell you why it's the biggest selling gin over here as well as in England and the rest of the world.

News Around Idaho

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—The Idaho Education association has launched an investigation into a decision by the Jefferson county school board not to rehire Superintendent Onan Mecham. And the IEA said it has advised its members not to apply for the position until the investigation is completed. The Jefferson county board's decision not to renew Mecham's contract was disclosed at a special meeting last Thursday. Mecham was not present and has declared that the action was "unfair." He said he had not been given official notice prior to that time that the board did not intend to renew his contract.

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—An order granting the Clearwater Stage Line, Inc., of Lewiston authority to discontinue its six day a week schedule between Spalding and Headquarters was issued Wednesday by the Idaho public utilities commission.

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—The Boise Water corporation was granted authority Wednesday by the Idaho public utilities commission to issue one million dollars in unsecured promissory notes for debt retirement and capital expenditure. The application for the authorization stated that the proceeds from the sale will be used to discharge $292,277.96 unpaid principle amount of unsecured promissory notes and retirement of $307,722.04 of open account indebtedness. The remaining $400,000 will be used to finance capital expenditures for other corporate purposes, the application stated.

MOSCOW, June 20 (AP)—Top honors in competition among more than 740 young people at the annual state 4-H club conference here were claimed Wednesday night by Kathleen Keck, Parma, and Dan Brown, Orofino. Miss Keck was declared winner of the "off the farm business" scholarship sponsored by the Idaho cooperation council. She will receive a trip to the national convention of the American Institute of Cooperation at Omaha, Nebr., Aug. 4-7. John Watanabe, Idaho Falls, was runnerup. Brown was named winner in the state 4-H tractor driving contest. Raymond O'Neal, Lewiston, was second; Don Castle, Gannett, third; Sid Beckstead, Preston, fourth, and Jim England, Emmett, fifth. Awards were presented at a general assembly Wednesday night. The conference runs through Saturday.

POCATELLO, June 20 (AP)—Two faculty members from the state's two universities will visit the state youth training center in St. Anthony to determine how best to help employes who work with juvenile delinquents. The visit will be the first step in a program outlined here by the Idaho committee on juvenile delinquency training and research. The committee is a function of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education. As set forth by Chairman Ray Wootton, Boise, the committee's purpose is to devise training programs for local, county, and state employes who work with delinquents. Wootton is chief of the division of youth rehabilitation for the state health department.

SUN VALLEY, June 20 (AP)—Potato consumption has been declining the past 30 years, has rounded the corner and is now going back up, John D. Snow, manager of the Potato Processors Association of Idaho, said Wednesday. At a meeting of the association, preceding the annual convention of the Idaho Growers-Shippers association, he said there was a consensus that this was because of the good acceptance of high quality, easy to prepare, processing potatoes. Jack Morgan, Idaho Falls, the outgoing president, presided at the meeting at which the following officers were elected: Robert Mercer, Shelley, president; Golden Grigg, Burley, vice president, and Snow, Burley, secretary-treasurer.

KELLOGG, June 20 (AP)—A game conservation officer had to pump three shots into a charging moose Tuesday night before he could kill the badly injured animal which had been struck by a car. Game man Russell McKeever, Wallace, was called by Vernon Bebb, 20, Kellogg, whose vehicle struck the moose in the hind quarters and badly injured the yearling cow. McKeever's first shot enraged the animal and it charged. Two more shots finally finished the moose off 15 feet from where the officer stood. The meat was taken to the Shoshone county nursing home for patients.

MOSCOW, June 20 (AP)—Police Wednesday issued an all-points bulletin for a Moscow woman and her three children who are six days overdue on a car trip to Lyle, Minn. Arlo Bohn reported that his wife, Ladonna, 30, and his three stepsons had not been heard from since leaving here June 10 and had not contacted relatives in the mid-West as arranged. Mrs. Bohn and her three sons from a previous marriage, aged 9, 7 and 4, were due to arrive at her mother's home in Lyle June 13. But the mother, Mrs. Otto Lumbolt, informed Bohn Tuesday that her daughter had not called each morning as planned. No word had been received since she left Moscow.

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—Representatives of the state land department and two Custer county legislators plan to inspect two possible areas for development of cottage sites today in the Stanley basin and near Galena summit. Land Commissioner O. J. Buxton said the state presently has no cottage sites in the Stanley area. It sites are developed, they would be offered either for lease or for sale. He said requests for sites from around the state are "literally running out of our ears," and total about 4,000. Buxton said a preliminary survey has been completed for development of cottage sites on Cavanaugh bay at Priest Lake in Northern Idaho.

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—The leader of the dissident faction in the Ada County Democrat Central committee has asked Sen. Frank Church, D., Ida., to reverse his stand on a nominee for the Boise postmastership. Guy R. Bradley, who claims that he is the chairman of the central committee, asked Church to nominate Elgy O. Dechambeau rather than Acting Postmaster John G. Rost. Church has said he will nominate Rost.

CALDWELL, June 20 (AP)—The president of the National Recorders association is a guest of the Idaho State Association of County Auditors at its annual convention which opened today. She is Velma Vest Smurthwaite, Utah. Speakers at the opening session included C. L. Swensen, Preston, Franklin county auditor, who discussed county finances, and Keith Schofield of the Idaho attorney general's staff, who outlined changes in Idaho election laws. The convention continues through Friday.

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—Idaho's draft quota for August is 28 men, the state director of selective service said today. Maj. Gen. John E. Walsh said that is 12 more than for August of 1962. He said all men drafted will be 22 years or older.

WEISER, June 20 (AP)—Fiddle music filled the air here today with the start of the National Oldtime Fiddlers contest. Fiddlers over 70 and those under 18 began preliminary competition in the senior and junior national and regional contests. Finalists were scheduled to compete tonight for the championship. Judges for the three days of fiddling are Mrs. Viola Ruth, Phoenix; Cy Widner, Fresno, and S. F. Neff, Council Oak, Kans. Competitors for the national fiddling championship compete Friday and Saturday.

MURPHY, June 20 (AP)—A flash flood, the product of a thunderstorm, sent water cascading over state highway 45 near Murphy Wednesday afternoon, Yale Holland, Nampa, said five- to six-foot walls of water hit the highway. The highway department was called in to help open the road to travel.

D. E. Peterson Is Paid Last Honor

BURLEY, June 20 — Funeral services were held Wednesday for DeVere E. Peterson at the Joseph Payne Memorial chapel with LDS Bishop Russell Ivie officiating.

June Hutchinson and Afton Brown sang, accompanied by Mike Chesley.

Pallbearers were LaVon Hansen, Dean Hansen, Eldon Hansen, Verl Larson, Don Osborne and Larry Petersen.

Flowers were arranged by sixth ward Relief society members.

Concluding rites were held at the Clarkston, Utah, cemetery where the grave was dedicated by Andrew H. Heggie, Clarkston.

KELLOGG BANKER DIES

KELLOGG, June 20 (UPI)—W. W. Papesh, a prominent Kellogg pioneer businessman and banker, died at his home here today at the age of 85. He had lived in Kellogg for 64 years and had been prominent in numerous banking circles.

Spectacular Grand Tetons Picked for Film Location

"The most beautiful motion picture location in America" is the way Delmer Daves, writer-producer-director of "Spencer's Mountain," describes the Jackson hole country of Grand Teton national park in western Wyoming.

Ten years ago, Daves filmed a picture there and was so deeply impressed by the grandeur and beauty of the area that he vowed he would return some day to make another film. The opportunity arose with "Spencer's Mountain," a novel by Earl Hamner, jr., which Daves read and which he recommended to Warner brothers for a motion picture.

Daves then wrote the screenplay and, having signed Henry Fonda, Maureen O'Hara, James MacArthur, Wally Cox, Donald Crisp and blonde 17-year-old Mimsy Farmer for the leading roles, set out for his beloved Tetons to capture all their magnificence in the magic of Technicolor and the scope of Panavision.

Of all the beauties of Grand Teton national park, the most commanding is the lofty and rugged Teton range. These mountains, which dominate the landscape, are by no means the most extensive, but they are perhaps the most striking examples in the United States of what geologists call the fault-block type of mountains.

A gigantic block of the earth's crust was uplifted along the line of a fault, or crack, in the earth's surface. Wind, water, frost and glaciers sculptured this block into the canyons and peaks, which rise to a maximum of more than 7,000 feet above Jackson hole and the valley of the Snake river.

The Grand Teton range rises abruptly from an almost-level basin, Jackson hole, which was named for an early explorer, David E. Jackson. From the north, out of Jackson lake, the Snake river meanders placidly through the meadows and forests of the upper valley; then it flows more rapidly beneath steep bluffs through a series of fast riffles and quiet stretches; it leaves the park about five miles south of park headquarters.

The river also helps give the valley its interesting plant-life and provides some of the finest fishing in the Rocky Mountain region. On the north, the valley is bounded by the high plateaus of Yellowstone national park; on the east, by the Mount Leidy Highlands and the Gros Ventre mountain.

Administered by the national park service of the U.S. department of the interior, Grand Teton national park was established and dedicated in 1929, but it included only mountains and a narrow strip of land with "piedmont" lakes.

In 1950, it was enlarged by the addition of most of Jackson Hole national monument, which had been established in 1943.

Included in the monument were some 52 square miles given to the United States by John D. Rockefeller, jr., who had acquired and held the land in trust until the national park service could administer it.

The area of Grand Teton national park is now almost 500 square miles, of which about 98 per cent is in federal ownership. The park is roughly rectangular in shape, about 24 miles at its widest extent and about 38 miles at its longest.

Until shortly after 1600, Jackson hole truly belonged to the Indians. It was too cold for them to winter there, but during the milder seasons, they fished and hunted and occasionally waged war in the valley.

In 1807, the adventurous John Colter, whose name is linked closely with both Yellowstone and Grand Teton history, passed through the area on a solitary exploring trip. Originally a member of the Lewis and Clark expedition, he had set out to induce the Crow Indians to trade at Manuel Lisa's post.

Within a few years, many hunting and trapping parties began to work through the region. It is believed that a group of French-Canadian trappers gave the mountains their name in 1819.

As they saw these conspicuous peaks on the skyline from the west, they called them "Les Trois Tetons" (The Three Breasts), because that is how they appeared to them.

These peaks are today called Grand, Middle and South Teton—and, for those unable to travel to see them or those who can't see them often enough, they are in full view now for all the world to see in "Spencer's Mountain."

REDS SIGN AGREEMENT

TOKYO, June 20 (UPI)—Despite the Soviet-Chinese ideological rift, the two nations Wednesday signed a one-year scientific and technical cooperation agreement running through 1964 and Red Chinese Premier Chou En Lai cabled congratulations to his Soviet counterpart on the latest Russian space achievement.

Tax Bug Chews Big Chunks Out of States' Residents

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—The tax bug is at it again. Taxes are being pushed up again in many states.

Higher or new taxes formed a widespread trend in the legislative season now approaching an end.

But it wasn't all one-way traffic.

A circuit court judge banned collection of Indiana's new two per cent retail sales tax, ruling it unconstitutional. And his action, just days before the July 1 effective date of the tax, turned the state's fiscal order into chaos.

Nevada's lawmakers boosted the sales tax rate from two to three per cent. But the voters vetoed the increase in a referendum.

Wisconsin legislation to replace the selective sales tax with a general sales tax was vetoed by the governor.

The Illinois legislature has failed to approve Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's program of special taxes on sales of cigarettes and alcoholic beverages.

Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that serves business with such information, reported Wednesday that "state legislatures are boosting rates and adding new taxes at a fast clip to meet rapidly rising revenue needs."

"State tax growth is reflected in the whopping budgets submitted in key states for the coming fiscal year," it said. "California plans to raise and spend 3.25 billion dollars, New York 2.8 billion dollars and Michigan 1.4 billion dollars.

"Taken together, these three budgets total 7.5 billion dollars. In 1948, all 48 states collected only 7.7 billion dollars."

Meeting Is Held By Busy Do'ers

Members of the Busy Do'ers 4-H club were instructed in cooking and sewing by Mrs. Gene Hull and Mrs. Glenn Dossett, leaders, during a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hull.

Demonstrations were assigned for the next meeting, to be held at 3 p.m. June 24 at the home of Mrs. Glen Dossett.

Mrs. Robert Ullman was a guest. Refreshments were served by Cindy Hull.

Five Girls to Compete in Rupert Rodeo Queen Event

RUPERT, June 20—Five entries will compete in the Rupert Rodeo Queen contest at 7:30 p.m. in the Minidoka county fairgrounds.

Mrs. HazelDean Hunter, chairman of the event, reports the girls will be featured in eight different events during the contest — riding and dismounting, barrel racing, backing horses, general handling of mount, show gaits, free lance action, appearance (of horse and rider) and pertinent questions about horse, equipment, etc.

A committee from the Minidoka Wranglers again is coaching the girls. Instructors are Rex Rasmussen, Clyde Kendall, Roger Thompson and Seth Rasmussen.

A queen and two attendants will be selected. Winners will be announced when holders of Jamboree tickets cast votes for their favorite contestant at the Jamboree, June 29.

Entrants, parents and sponsors are: Bette Meuleman, 17, Mr. and Mrs. V. Meuleman, Rupert, Hogan's Leather and Canvas and Rupert Rexall; Dianne Hawkes, 17, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hawkes, Paul, Coast-to-Coast store; Julie Crystal, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Crystal, Paul, Safeway and Clark Motor; Karla Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Norvin Dickson, Rupert, Lott Electric and Hanna's Jewelry, and Claoma Elison, 16, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hill, Ballantyne's and Rupert Reminder.

Miss Diane Cannon was selected last year to reign over this year's rodeo and Fourth of July celebration. The new queen will reign over the 1964 activities.

"Perry Mason," (8:30 p.m., CBS)—"The Case of the Mythical Monkeys" is the story of a frightened secretary who asks for Perry's help because she thinks someone would even kill to obtain the package she is supposed to deliver for her employer.

"Dr. Kildare," (7:30 p.m. NBC, Repeat)—Jerald Hastings' wife wants Hastings committed to a sanitarium, even though Kildare and Gillespie plead for beneficial therapy following damage from a brain operation in "Hastings' Farewell."

"Twilight Zone," (8 p.m. CBS, Repeat)—"No Time Like the Past" tells of a man disenchanged with the Atomic age decided to retreat to an earlier and happier period via a time machine.

"Andy Williams," (Color, 9 p.m. NBC)—Guests on tonight's show include Maureen O'Hara and Andy's three singing brothers.

"The Nurses," (9 p.m. CBS, Repeat)—The problems of a student nurse who comes from a sheltered background are complicated by the fact that a doctor takes a dislike to her in "The Barbara Bowers Story."

"Alcoa Premier," (9 p.m. ABC)—A member of the politburo of a Communist country, in "The Potentate," thinks he is on the skids and devises a diabolical plan to make a friend appear to be a traitor to get the heat off himself.

BEST THURSDAY NIGHT MOVIES

"The Charge of the Light Brigade," (1936) Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland and David Niven (9:30 p.m. Channel 11)—Exciting, fast moving adventure story suggested by Tennyson's poem. Good performances by all concerned.

Water Reuse May Help U. S. Problem

(Editor's note: Following is the second of three dispatches on what is being done to conserve water in the United States.)

By LEROY POPE
United Press International

NEW YORK, June 20 (UPI) — Many communities in the United States, both urban and rural, have recurrent severe shortages of fresh water. Some have chronic shortages. Yet the country as a whole has an abundance of fresh water, scientists say.

We have fresh water enough to last the country for several thousand years, even at rapidly increasing rates of use, according to the experts.

Dramatic figures are published from time to time about how our present population of around 180 million uses several hundred gallons of water per person every day in various ways, compared with four or five gallons a century ago.

What is lost sight of is that we don't consume most of this water by using it. Of the 270 billion gallons a day used in 1960, only 61 billion gallons was consumed. The rest was returned to streams, lakes or underground sources for re-use.

And we are learning how to increase the gap between "use" of water and "consumption" of water.

Nevertheless, there are severe problems.

One is that it is in precisely the regions where water is scarcest, that the largest proportion of water "used" is actually "consumed"—the arid and semi-arid region of the West. Irrigation is the great consumer of water and irrigation has to be practiced in those regions.

Another problem is that the water distribution systems of many of our big cities cannot deliver water fast enough to meet greatly increased demands in summer.

Their reservoir systems are not adequate, either. The American Waterworks association estimates that American cities and towns need to spend a minimum of five billion dollars to bring their water plants and pipe systems up to date.

An even bigger problem is pollution. There are many kinds of pollution—but two main kinds, bacterial and chemical.

The bacterial pollution comes from man—the concentrations in small areas of hundreds of thousands or even millions of people whose presence creates sewage.

Curiously and quite contrary to what most people imagine the industrial or chemical pollution is by far the more serious problem.

The contamination of water by sewage is relatively cheap and easy to overcome. At every meeting of the American Waterworks association and at many other scientific meetings, papers are read showing how easy it is. In plain fact, water containing sewage in anything but enormous quantities is purified more or less naturally by letting it travel through the soil or diluting it in the streams of mighty rivers. Where the sewage is of huge quantity, as from a city, it must be treated with chemicals before it is returned to the soil or to a stream.

But bacteriologists and hydrologists constantly argue that cleaning up water containing sewage is so easy and so safe that those cities which, because of their location, are actually short of fresh water, probably could solve their problems by purifying water containing sewage and re-using it at once.

Of course many people are horrified at such an idea. They refuse to believe the sewage water can be so quickly and thoroughly purified. Yet it is being done every day on a big scale.

Sewage effluent from the city of Baltimore, for example, is purified and piped to Bethlehem Steel's huge industrial installations at Sparrows Point, Md.

There are many other such operations in the country on a smaller scale.

The chemical pollution of water is far more difficult to deal with. It can be so difficult that many communities have to outlaw certain industries to protect their water supplies.

Yet chemists and scientists are doing much in this field, too. Industrial processes are changed to prevent pollution.

More significant, in many industries, the polluted water can be re-used over and over with a filtering and chemical process right in the plant.

For example, the laundry industry is one of the biggest users of water and the new detergents it employs are extremely hard to deal with when the foamy water is discharged into small streams or lakes. Yet new filtering and treatment processes make it possible to reuse the same water with a loss of only about five per cent a day to evaporation.

Some engineers predict the laundry industry will soon be using re-circulated water almost entirely.

In Pomona, Calif., water from the city's sewage treatment plant is repiped for use in watering lawns and has been since 1936.

Many hydrologists are interested in methods of "recharging" underground water bearing sands by direct injection of waste waters from sewage treatment plants to save the water.

But much more needs to be learned about the risks involved in this.

Particularly, it is not known how far through the water-bearing sands pathogenic viruses can travel.

Bacteria can travel only about 250 feet through even porous water bearing sandy soil, it appears.

(Next—De-salting sea water.)

8.5 Principles of Acceptability

(1) Summary: The street layout of such subdivision shall be in the sections of the Master Plan adopted and approved for the City of Twin Falls and shall be considered in relation to existing and planned streets, to topographic conditions, to public convenience and safety, and shall have an appropriate relation to the proposed uses of the land to be served by such streets. Where such is not shown on the Master Plan of the arrangement of streets in a subdivision shall either:

(1) Provide for the continuation or appropriate projection of existing principal streets in surrounding areas;

(2) Conform to a plan for the neighborhood approved or adopted by the Board of City Commissioners to meet a particular situation where topographic or other conditions made continuance or conformance to existing streets impracticable.

8.6 Intersections Along Arterial Streets: Intersections of residential or collector streets with arterial streets and highways shall, insofar as practicable, be widely spaced along the arterial streets and be limited in the number of intersections to the minimum consistent with reasonably convenient access between arterial streets and local neighborhood areas.

8.7 Future Extension of Streets: Where a subdivision adjoins unsubdivided land, streets which in the opinion of the Board of City Commissioners, should be continued in the event of the subdivision of the adjoining land, will be required to be provided to the boundary of the tract.

9.0 Partial Development: Where the plat to be subdivided contains only part of the tract owned by the subdivider, the Board of City Commissioners may require a topographic map of the unsubdivided portion.

9.1 Large Tract: Where a tract of land is subdivided into large parcels, an arrangement of streets and streets will be required to permit a re-subdivision into smaller lots in conformity with the requirements specified and specified in these regulations. Building set back lines shall be established in order to reserve the necessary right-of-way.

9.2 Frontage on Arterial Streets: Where a subdivision abuts or contains an existing or proposed arterial street, the Board of City Commissioners may require marginal access streets, reverse frontage lots with a minimum depth of one hundred and fifty (150) feet, screen planting contained in a non-access reservation along the rear property line or other treatment as may be necessary for adequate protection of residential properties and to afford separation of through and local traffic.

9.3 Half Street: Half streets may be approved where essential to the reasonable development of the subdivision when in conformity with the other requirements of these regulations and when the Board of City Commissioners finds it will be practicable to require the dedication of the other half when the adjoining property is subdivided. Whenever a half street is adjacent to a tract to be subdivided, the other half of the street shall be platted within such tract. Half streets will not be constructed until both sides have been platted.

9.8 Street Names: No street names shall be used which will duplicate or be confused with the names of existing streets. Street names shall be subject to the approval of the Board of City Commissioners and shall conform to the City's standards for the naming of streets and the numbering of property.

9.9 Reserved Strips: Reserved Strips or Street plugs controlling the access to public ways will not be approved unless deemed necessary for the protection of the public welfare or of substantial property rights or both, and in no case unless the control and disposal of the land comprising such strips is placed within the jurisdiction of the City under conditions approved by the Board of City Commissioners.

10.0 Dimension and Layout Requirements:

10.2 Width: Width of right-of-way shall meet the minimum requirements shown in the following table:

Type of Street	Right-of-way Minimum
Arterial	80'
For Multi-Family or Commercial Development and Collector Streets	60'
Residential Streets	50'
Cul De Sac (dead-end street with turn-around	50'
Turn-around for Cul De Sac	40' radius
Alley	20'

10.3 Intersections:

(1) Horizontal intersection angle: 90° intersection preferred.

(2) Sight distance: The Board of City Commissioners may require such conditions as will establish and protect adequate sight distances for vehicular traffic at street intersections.

10.4 Curves: When connecting street lines deflect from each other at any point by more than ten (10) degrees, they shall be connected by a curve with a radius adequate to insure traffic safety and proper street construction and appearance.

10.5 Blocks: The lengths, widths and shapes of blocks shall be designed with due regard to:

(1) Provision of adequate building sites suitable to the special needs of the type of use contemplated.

(2) Needs for convenient access, circulation, control and safety of street traffic.

(3) Limitations and opportunities of topography.

10.6 Lots:

(1) Lot dimensions shall in all cases conform to the minimum requirements of the Zoning Ordinance for the district.

District R. L.: The minimum lot area per dwelling unit shall be not less than 9,000 square feet.

District R. M.: The minimum lot area for a one-family dwelling shall not be less than 6,000 square feet.

District R. P.: The minimum lot area for residential use within this district shall not be less than 3,000 square feet of area required for front, rear and side yards, off-street parking and first floor area of the building, be provided, that no lot area shall be less than 6,000 square feet.

District C. L.: The minimum lot area for residential use within this district shall not be less than 3,000 square feet.

Districts C. C., C. G. and I.: The minimum lot area for residential use within these districts shall not be less than 6,000 square feet.

(2) Lot dimensions for residential use shall also conform to a maximum requirements:

(a) The maximum lot size for residential use in all districts shall not exceed by 50% the minimum.

(b) Lot dimensions for residential use within an acreage tract wherein the lots exceed 150'x150', the subdivider shall provide street and alley easements to assure adequate access when the lots are replatted; deed covenants shall prohibit construction of permanent structures in such easements and also regulate set-back requirements for such structures.

(3) Lot Side Lines: The side lines of lots shall run at right angles to the street which the lot faces, or as near as is practicable, or on curved streets, the radial to the curve as far as practicable.

(4) Double frontage and reverse-frontage lots shall be avoided except where essential to provide separation of residential development from traffic arteries or to overcome specific disadvantages of topography and orientation.

(5) Lots Subject to Re-Subdivision: In subdividing tracts which at some future time are likely to be re-subdivided, the location of lot lines and street details of the layout shall be such that re-subdivision may readily take place without violating the requirements of these regulations and without interfering with the orderly development of streets. Restriction of building sites in relation to future subdivision shall be made a matter of record if in the opinion of the Commissioners considers it necessary.

(6) Property lines at intersections shall be rounded with a minimum radius of ten (10) feet, or shall have comparable cutoffs or chords in place of rounded corners.

10.7 Easements for Utility Lines: Easements for sewers, water mains, electric, telephone, drainage, irrigation or other public utilities shall be required. Easements for utilities shall be a minimum of fifteen (15) feet in width, centered on rear or side lot lines.

10.8 Water Courses: Where the subdivision is traversed by a water course, drainage way, channel or stream, there shall be provided an easement of such adequate width to contain the water and to construct and maintain the said way.

10.9 Pedestrian Ways: Pedestrian ways with a minimum width of ten (10) feet shall be provided where any such walkways are essential for public convenience.

10.10 Alleys:

(1) Location: Alleys shall be provided in commercial and industrial districts, unless other adequate provision for parking and loading facilities are made in accordance with the Board of City Commissioners.

(2) Intersections: Alley intersections and sharp changes in alignment shall be avoided, but, where necessary, corners shall be cut sufficiently to permit safe vehicular movement.

(3) Dead-End: Dead-end alleys shall be avoided where possible, but if unavoidable, shall be provided with adequate turn-around facilities as determined by the Board of City Commissioners.

10.11 Sewage System: In subdivisions within the City, method and extent of sewage disposal shall meet the standards of and be approved by the City. In subdivisions within one mile of the City, method and extent of sewage disposal shall meet the standards of and be approved by the State of Idaho Department of Public Health. In a subdivision within a sanitary sewage system, the Subdivider may be required to make connection thereto.

10.12 Land Surface Drainage: Such grading shall be done and such streets and alleys shall be provided by the subdivider as are deemed essential by the City Engineer to provide adequate drainage.

11.0 Required Improvements: General Information:

The required improvements on property within the City Limits and within the City Limits will vary from those required on properties being subdivided in but outside the City Limits. The properties within the City limits have been taxed for improvements during the City, while properties that lay outside the City have not been taxed for such improvements. For the above reason the requirements are listed in two parts. All properties that lay outside the City limits at the time this ordinance is passed shall conform to the requirements of properties outside the City limits.

12.0 Responsibilities "Properties Inside City Limits"

12.1 Engineering

The subdivider shall be responsible for all engineering design: this includes but is not limited to such items as storm sewers, sanitary sewers, curbs and gutters, sidewalks and water lines. The City Engineer shall review all designs and approve them before any work is started on them. The City Engineer shall be responsible for field staking and inspection of all public utilities.

12.2 Streets, Alleys

The subdivider shall be responsible for the construction of the streets and alleys in new subdivisions. This construction will consist of grading, surfacing, to conform to the City's Standards for the type street desired. The City and subdivider shall pay the costs of materials. Only streets which have approved curb and gutter shall be built and connected to another paved street or highway. Subdivider shall provide extensions leading to other developed areas or areas to be developed, shall be considered adequate for such items adjoining streets within the subdivision. The construction of streets or alleys in the subdivision will be done at the same time and budget funds are available.

12.3 Water Mains

The water mains shall be constructed in a new subdivision at the expense of the subdivider. Water mains shall be constructed at the expense of the subdivider. Water mains shall be constructed at the same time and budgeted funds are available.

12.4 Sewers and Drains

Sewers and drains shall be constructed at the expense of the subdivider. The City Engineer shall finish and inspect the construction.

12.5 Curbs, Gutters

Where curbs, gutters and sidewalks are to be constructed, the City shall pay the expense of the subdivider and shall conform to City standards. The City Engineer shall finish and inspect the construction.

12.6 Traffic Controls, Lights, Signs

Traffic control signals, street lights, street name signs and traffic control signs shall be installed at the expense of the City. These items will be installed at the time and place deemed advisable by the City.

12.10 Responsibilities "Properties Outside the City Limits" Make and Inspect.

13.1 Engineering

The subdivider shall have responsible for all engineering work in connection with the subdivision. The City Engineer shall review the engineering work submitted by the subdivider. In cases where the subdivision is being considered for annexation the City Engineer may make the field work and inspection.

13.2 Streets-Alleys

The subdivider shall be responsible for the construction of streets and alleys in new subdivisions being considered for annexation, the streets and alleys shall be improved at the expense of the subdivider in accordance with the current policy and standards established by the Board of City Commissioners. The required improvements such as concrete sidewalks, concrete curb and gutter, gravel base courses and asphalt surfacing will be determined by the Board of City Commissioners at the time of annexation.

(2) In lieu of these requirements, the subdivider may deposit with the City Clerk a performance bond or other security agreed upon by the City, equal to the City Engineer's estimated cost of such improvements as a guarantee that within one (1) year after seventy-five (75%) percent of the lots are occupied in any one block of street, the work in such block will be completed by the City shall be installed. If within one (1) year after 75% of the lots have been occupied, the work in such block is completed the bond or other security shall be forfeited and the improvements completed by the City. If the work has been completed to the satisfaction of the City, the bond or other security shall be released.

13.3 Water Mains

When water mains are constructed in subdivisions outside the City limits the subdivider shall be responsible for the expense of construction. Where the subdivision is being considered for annexation the water main construction shall comply with City standards.

13.4 Sewers and Drains

When sewers and drains are constructed in subdivisions outside the City limits the subdivider shall be responsible for the expense of construction. Sewers must conform to State of Idaho standards. Where the subdivision is being considered for annexation the sewers and drains shall comply with City standards.

13.5 Curbs, Gutters, Sidewalks

When curbs, gutters, sidewalks are constructed in subdivisions outside the City limits the subdivider shall be responsible for the expense of construction. Where the subdivision is being considered for annexation the curbs, gutters, sidewalks shall comply with City standards.

13.6 Traffic Controls, Street Lights, Signs

Traffic control signals, street lights, street name signs and traffic control signs shall be installed at the expense of the subdivider. Where the subdivision is being considered for annexation these items shall conform to City standards.

14.0 Variations and Exceptions

Where the City Council and City Commissioners finds that extraordinary hardship may result from strict compliance with these regulations, it may vary the regulations so that substantial justice may be done and the public interest secured; provided that such variation will not have the effect of nullifying the intent and purpose of the Master Plan or this Ordinance.

14.1 Conditions: In granting variances and modifications the Board of City Commissioners may require such conditions as will, in their judgment, secure substantially the objectives of the standards or requirements so varied or modified.

We were pioneers, too

Fidelity's start in 1908 at Filer was anything but impressive. But it was a start, and it took a lot of foresight in those days of barren sagebrush to see that this great agricultural heartland could grow from such humble beginnings.

Through 55 years of continuous operation, Fidelity has grown with the area, and is proud to have been of help to so many people. Just because we're bigger now, don't think we've gone high hat.

Ask one of the oldtimers about us . . . more than likely he'll say, "For my money, I'll bank on Fidelity."

Filer Legion Post Gavel Passed Along

FILER, June 20—Rex Reed, newly-elected commander of the Filer American Legion post, was presented the gavel by Jack Pierce, former commander, at the Monday meeting of the American Legion and auxiliary.

Installation will be held July 5.

Legion members discussed the Filer Centennial observance and voted to contribute to the fund financing the celebration, and also to enter a float in the parade. They decided to have the flagpole painted this week before the celebration and Bill Elliott was appointed.

Reed, Edward Shaff and Paul Brown were appointed delegates to the American Legion department convention July 12 to 14 in Boise. Alternates are Clarence Bever, Pierce and Clifford Ed Johnson. Shaff will serve on the resolutions committee and Brown will assist the foreign relations committee.

The group signed a card to be sent to Col. Elmer Harshbarger who is in the veterans hospital at Boise.

Linda Shaff and Gayle Cobb, Filer delegates to Girls' state, described their experiences. Refreshments were served.

Flowers were arranged by members of Rupert chapter No. 39, Order of Eastern Star.

Concluding rites were held at the Rupert cemetery.

ALL THAT REMAINS of a 14-foot outboard motorboat that went over Twin falls Tuesday night is being examined by three members of the Abrams family, who almost went with the boat. From left are Melvin Abrams, Gary Abrams and Robert Abrams. Robert Abrams and his son, Gary, were in the boat at the time it capsized, after a water ski tow rope got tangled in the boat's propeller. Melvin Abrams and Darrell Fairbanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Fairbanks, Twin Falls, were trying to get into the boat when it capsized. After the boat capsized, Gary swam to the boat docks at Twin falls and Melvin and the Fairbanks youth swam to some rocks. The current was pulling Abrams to the edge of the falls when Donald Love and Chester Hatch, in another boat, saved Abrams from going over. (Times-News photo)

Merva L. Lake Is Bride of R. Castillon

BUHL, June 20—Merva Louise Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ravanello, Kemmerer, Wyo., became the bride of Robert Castillon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gomez, Buhl. The double ring wedding rites was solemnized by the Rev. Jerome T. O'Connor June 15 at the Buhl Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The couple exchanged nuptial vows before an altar decorated with pink and white peonies flanked by beauty baskets of lavender, pink, yellow and white peonies and iris, tied with white satin bows and streamers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white bridal slipper satin designed with a high empire bodice, scooped neckline and short sleeves. The bouffant hooped skirt was caught at the back with a large self bow and descended into a short chapel train.

A tiara embellished with seed pearls released her shoulder length veil of bride's illusion. Her jewelry, a teardrop pearl necklace, and white elbow-length gloves accented her gown. She carried an array of pink carnations ornamented with pink net trim, silver leaves, and flowing pink and white satin streamers adorned with pink carnations.

Mrs. William Thomason, Shoshone, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a bright salmon colored silk shantung street length gown fashioned with a scooped neckline, cap sleeves and a full skirt. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Jane Ravanello, sister of the bride, and Mary Gomez, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They were dressed in pale salmon colored afternoon dresses fashioned like that of the matron of honor, accented with tiers of ruffled lace on the bodice and the full gathered skirts.

Thorleif Rangen was best man. Derek Cantrell and Joseph Steffens were ushers.

Traditional wedding music was played by Matilda Leahy, organist. She accompanied Mrs. Frank Karel and Mary Karel to sing, "Ave Maria."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ravanello selected a beige chiffon dinner dress with orange accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a two-piece powder blue afternoon dress with white accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The newlyweds greeted wedding guests at a reception held in the Holy Trinity Episcopal church parish hall. The bride's table was covered with a scalloped hand cut linen tablecloth, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake reflected on a large round mirror.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT CASTILLON
(Hamilton photo)

Tall white columns separated the tiers and the cake was decorated with pink and white rosebuds, wedding bells, silver leaves and topped with a miniature bridal couple against an array of white tulle and clusters of rosebuds.

Mrs. Zane Alexander, Shoshone, cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. William Thomason presided over the silver coffee service and Mrs. S. L. Boyd, Pocatello, poured punch. Sydney Thomason, Vicki Boyd, Sheila Boyd, Randy Boyd and Mary Kay Alexander, all cousins of the bride, were in charge of the gift table.

Mrs. Richard Zaring, Ogden, registered guests. Mrs. C. E. Thomason, aunt of the bride, Buhl, was in charge of arrangements.

For the wedding trip to Texas and Old Mexico, the new Mrs. Castillon changed to a flowered taffeta with a chiffon overskirt afternoon dress with yellow and orange accessories.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Kemmerer high school, attended Beauty Arts Academy, Twin Falls, and has been employed with the R and R cafe, Buhl. The bridegroom attended high school at Jerome and is employed with Rangens, Inc. The couple will make their home at the Oregon Trail apartments, Buhl.

Special out-of-town guests present, in addition to the bride's parents, were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Zaring, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Anderson and family, American Falls; Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Boyd and family, Mrs. Alice Boyd, Pocatello; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zaring, Ogden; Mr. and Mrs. William Thomason, Mrs. Ida Stickney, Mrs. Zane Alexander, and Mary Kay Alexander, all Shoshone.

Rose Luncheon Is Held by Gooding WSCS

GOODING, June 20—The annual Rose luncheon of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was held at the Methodist church.

Mrs. Dwight E. Wilcher gave the invocation and Mrs. Ed Morris, president of the WSCS, gave the welcoming address. Mrs. Erle Whipkey, program chairman, introduced Donna Hawkes, who played piano selections; "May Day," an original composition, for which she received the Compton award.

Mrs. Glen Journey presented an original story assisted by Leota Bailey. Both were dressed in Centennial attire.

Sandra Bristow sang "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair."

The tables were decorated with bouquets of roses, pastel candles and strips of pastel crepe paper. Large floor bouquets decorated the dining hall.

Mrs. Emmett Kelly was general chairman. Serving and planning the luncheon were Mrs. Erle Whipkey, Mrs. C. D. Moore, Mrs. Wilbur Louckes, Mrs. Phil Higgins, Mrs. Mildred Manuel, Mrs. James Muffley and Mrs. Ed Koester.

Waitresses were Kristi Meyer, Cinda Chigbrow and Mrs. Hugo Shelberg were in charge of the decorating.

Miss Nebeker, Blake, Repeat Nuptial Vows

DECLO, June 20 — Victoria Nebeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth G. Nebeker, Midvale, Utah, and Richard (Dick) Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Blake, Declo, were united in marriage June 4 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Vance, Salt Lake City.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Don G. Williams, of the Midvale LDS sixth ward. The couple stood before a fireplace flanked by beauty baskets of pink roses and white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white street length sheath gown of lace over satin, long sleeves and a square neckline. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was held by headpiece of lace and pearls. She carried a lavender orchid surrounded by white satin streamers and white lace flowers.

Francine Tuft was maid of honor. She wore a green satin street-length dress and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Tamara Blake, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a pink nylon chiffon dress with a pink lace jacket and carried a miniature duplicate of the bride's bouquet in pink roses and white chrysanthemums.

First Lieut. Gary R. Blake, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Gary Schmidt was groomsman. Todd Nebeker, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

MRS. RICHARD BLAKE

The couple greeted guests in Declo, June 5, at an open house at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Norby, Spokane; Mrs. Leo Thurston, Burley, and Mrs. Joseph Gillett, aunts of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Frank Gillett, aunt of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest room assisted by Laurie Thurston and Nancy Gillett, cousins of the bridegroom.

Yvonne Blake and Janice Blake, sisters of the bridegroom, were in charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds will make their home in Salt Lake City.

Double Ring Wedding Rites Unite Couple

JEROME, June 20—Baskets of peonies, iris and columbine formed the background for the double ring wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Judith Maryon Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Watson, Jerome, and Gerald Dean Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Hodges, Seattle, Wash.

Bishop Don Watson, Buhl, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony at the Buhl LDS church, June 8.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a scooped neckline, lily-point sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt. The material for the gown was a gift from the bride's brother, Patrick, who sent it from Hong Kong. The gown was made by the bride's mother.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion, borrowed from the bridegroom's sister, was held with a halo of pearls.

Her bouquet was a purple orchid, surrounded by pink feathered carnations. A single strand of pearls, borrowed from Mrs. Fred Miller and a handkerchief made by her mother completed her outfit.

Mrs. Boyd Cannady, Boise, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a beige brocade sheath fashioned with a fitted bodice, rounded neckline and short sleeves. She carried a muff topped with a corsage of white carnations.

Ada Watson and Susan Watson, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were dressed in blue sheaths with white lace overdresses. They carried white over-blue muffs with white carnation corsages. The attendants gowns were made by Mrs. Watson.

Dawane Allred, Buhl, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Michael Watson and Marc Watson, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Watson chose a rose silk afternoon dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Cecil Watson, Pocatello, aunt of the bride, registered the guests. Mrs. Don Watson, aunt of the bride, arranged the gifts.

The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth over pink was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. The cake, decorated with blue birds, blue bell and pink roses was topped with a miniature bride and groom encircled with a tulle and lace heart.

Mrs. E. L. Chaplin, Hagerman, and Mrs. Parley Watson, Buhl, grandmothers of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Dawane Allred, Buhl, poured.

For her wedding trip to Seattle, the new Mrs. Hodges chose a yellow sheath with white accessories and the orchid corsage from her bouquet.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Shoreline high school, Seattle, Wash.

The bridegroom attended schools in Idaho and served three years in the navy. He is employed in construction in the Seattle area where the couple will reside.

Out-of-town guests include Mrs. E. L. Chaplin, Hagerman; Mrs. Parley Watson, Buhl; Mrs. Lydia Hodges, Filer; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Allred, Castleford; Mr. and Mrs. Verl Hodges, Quincy, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Gribble, Seattle, and Lilly Bowley, Seattle.

Others attended from Buhl, Filer, Twin Falls, Shoshone, Castleford and Wendell.

The couple was honored with an engagement party given by Mr. and Mrs. Gribble. A pre-nuptial shower was given the bride by the Primary mothers in Seattle.

50th Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

BURLEY, June 20 — Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Woods, Caldwell, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a family dinner at the home of Mrs. Florence Newman, Burley.

Mrs. Woods selected a blue dinner dress with beige accessories accented with a corsage of pink carnations.

The buffet table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake decorated in the 50-year motif, surrounded at the base with ivy and yellow roses. Quartet tables featured crystal goblets with pink peonies, tied with gold ribbons and placed on gold doilies. Gifts were presented the honorees.

Attending the event were the couple's daughter, Mrs. Gordon Peirce and daughter, Joy, Lafayette, La.; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stone and Blanche Otto, Eden; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Otto, Mrs. Susan Evans and daughter, Julie, Charlie Otto and Mike Lintner, Pocatello; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Peck, Buhl, and Mack Crouch, Burley.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods were married May 28, 1913 at Hydro, Okla. They are former residents of Filer and lived in Nampa prior to moving to Caldwell. They have two children, a daughter, Mrs. Peirce, and a son, Richard Woods, Yuba City, Calif., and three grandchildren. Mr. Woods is employed with Decker Hardware, Caldwell.

Also feted at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stone, Eden, who celebrated their 34th wedding anniversary on that day.

Norma Suhr, Nyheim Repeat Nuptial Vows

JEROME, June 20—Before an altar decorated with yellow and lavender iris, Mrs. Norma Suhr and William Nyheim exchanged wedding vows, June 8. The Rev. J. C. Werschler performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Suhr, son and daughter-in-law of the bride, attended the couple.

The bride wore a pink lace suit with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. Her attendant chose a blue embroidered cotton afternoon dress and a corsage of white carnations.

Cindy Malone was organist. Keith Werschler sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer."

"David Suhr, son of the bride, and Vernon Kohntopp were ushers.

The couple left immediately for Seward, Nebr., where they will attend summer sessions at Concordia college.

The bride has been secretary to the principal at Jerome high school. The bridegroom has been principal at Canyonside school.

A reception was held in the church basement. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink rosebuds, was topped with wedding bells, and flanked by lighted tapers in crystal holders.

Mrs. August Hein cut and served the cake. Mrs. Pat Young and Mrs. Weston Jones poured.

Installation Is Held by Jerome Guild

Food for Americans

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Fresh salmon and green peas is a traditional New England combination for Fourth of July dinner.

In this case, we have used a large piece of salmon, covered with a savory glaze and a smooth coating of mayonnaise, to serve cold.

To complete this New England "special," serve fresh peas and new potatoes in their jackets.

NEW ENGLAND SALMON
(6 to 8 servings)

2 quarts water
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon salt
1 small carrot, sliced
1 small onion
6 peppercorns
3 sprigs parsley
2 cloves
1 bay leaf
1 (3 to 4-pound) piece salmon
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup real mayonnaise

Combine water, vinegar, salt, carrot, onion, peppercorns, parsley, cloves and bay leaf in kettle or roasting pan large enough to hold salmon.

Cover; bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes. Wrap salmon in cheesecloth and tie ends, leaving enough to hold while lifting fish out of pan when cooked.

Place fish in liquid. Cover and simmer 10 to 12 minutes per pound. Remove fish from pan. Remove cheesecloth and skin while still warm.

Chill salmon. Strain liquid, set aside ¼ cup. Sprinkle gelatin over cup reserved liquid. Let soften 5 minutes. Place over hot water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved.

Gradually stir remaining ¾ cup reserved liquid into mayonnaise, then stir in gelatin. Let stand at room temperature just until slightly thickened, 15 to 20 minutes.

Place chilled salmon on rack and spoon mayonnaise mixture over fish covering the entire piece.

Place on serving platter. Decorate with parsley, carrots, cucumber slices, chives or as desired. Chill until ready to serve.

Stocks

NEW YORK, June 20 (UPI)—Reports of a commando landing in Cuba hit the stock market with hurricane force today. However, after the air cleared prices were left exactly where they began—mixed.

The action began at noon following word that commandos of the Cuban Revolutionary council had landed "at various points" in Cuba to carry out "an effective war" against the Castro regime.

The news sent nearly every section of the list into a tailspin. High speed tickers fell as much as six minutes behind floor transactions at 12:27 p.m. (EDT) with flash prices showing such issues as IBM down around 6, Chrysler off more than 2, and General Motors down about 1½. Electronics were particularly hard hit.

Trading over the noon hour alone totaled 1,390,000 shares compared with 860,000 in the previous session.

However, after an hour of pounding, U. S. officials said they were "dubious" that any important military operations had taken place and the stock market immediately picked up the cue.

Steels were among the first to recover—mostly reflecting word from a member of the United Steelworkers that a settlement of the new contract "is now imminent."

By 1:13 p.m. (EDT) the storm had passed and the stock tape had finally caught up with trading.

Chrysler regained about a point of its previous loss. U. S. Smelting improved in the metals. Some stores and oils also moved higher. A few blue chips softened but the market, in general, moved up decidedly from its lows.

Grains

CHICAGO, June 20 (UPI) — Frantic buying based on reports that some revolutionary forces had landed in Cuba spurred grain futures to higher levels today on the Chicago board of trade.

At the final bell, wheat was up ½ to 1⅛; corn up ⅛ to ⅝; oats unchanged to off ⅛; rye off ⅛ to up ½; and soybeans up ⅝ to 1½.

General buying and short covering in most grains followed the announcement. News that U. S. officials had minimized the importance of the invasion brought selling into the market which removed part of the gain.

Most soybean contracts also received momentum from larger than expected crushings during May. Shorts covered actively. Japan reportedly bought 225,000 bushels of soybeans.

Along with the stepped-up local trading stimulated by the Cuban news, wheat advanced on high spot prices in the Southwest and prospects for improved export sales in the near future.

Corn also rallied and derived additional strength from export covering and large impoundings of corn in the government loan. Exporters sold a total of 2,000,000 bushels of corn to Holland and Belgium and 600,000 bushels to Japan.

Oats and rye moved upward with other grains, but both lost ground and ended mostly steady.

Outside markets were steady to higher.

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I was quite surprised by the answer you gave in reply to a question as to whether a beneficiary of a life insurance policy would have to pay any taxes on the money received.

Doyle

You wrote that it would depend on the size of the estate involved and who is the "owner" of the life insurance policy. Is this a new rule on life insurance and taxes?

A. No, it is not. But it's clear that it's something about which many people are uninformed. That one item in a previous column has brought in more mail than anything that has come out of this battered old typewriter in a mighty long time.

The facts are relatively simple—as simple as anything can be, where taxes are involved.

When a person covered by a life insurance policy dies, his "beneficiary" will get the proceeds of that insurance.

But, if the person who died was the owner of that life insurance policy, the amount of that insurance is included in his estate for estate tax purposes. If the estate is big enough, taxes will have to be paid.

However, if the person who died was not the owner of the insurance on his life, the amount of the insurance will not be included in his estate for estate tax purposes. Result — lower death taxes or none at all.

Q. My wife is the beneficiary of my life insurance policy. Can I make arrangements for her to become the owner of that policy?

A. Certainly. Assuming that you are the owner of that policy, you can "assign" the ownership to your wife. See your insurance agent or broker. He'll draw up the necessary papers.

Q. Could there be any disadvantage in changing the ownership of my life insurance policy to my wife?

A. There could be, if you have any really serious marital problems. Once you assign the ownership of a life insurance policy, so that the proceeds will not be part of your estate, you assign all rights to it.

So, if you assign the ownership of your life insurance policy to your wife and you two bust up, she'll remain the owner of that policy. And you could not change that.

Q. An agent for a life insurance company showed me literature explaining that the proceeds from a life insurance policy is never subject to any income taxes. Are you trying to tell people that this is dead wrong?

A. Wrong? No. Misleading? Perhaps. The proceeds from life insurance are not subject to income tax bite. But the income tax is one thing. Federal estate taxes and state inheritance taxes are entirely different things.

Any insurance company that puts out literature on this subject most certainly should explain all the angles of all the taxes.

Q. How long would you suggest I keep my duplicate copies of my income tax returns and the things connected with each return—checks, receipted bills, statements, etc.?

A. If you're willing to assume that the government isn't going to charge you with fraud, you're safe to keep these records only five years. But, if you do happen to have any trouble at all with the revenooers, the longer you have kept accurate records, the better. I still have records on every tax return I ever filed.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK, June 20 (UPI)—Investment adviser Walter McKibben of Investograph Stock Survey says he ventures to predict a new high very soon, and with it the return of the small investor.

"We can only hope that the economy remains strong enough so that the small investor is not immediately and badly burned," McKibben says. He believes the small investor is entering the market much too late to profit substantially but notes that "he is unlikely to get too badly hurt if he buys near current levels." McKibben warns that the time for caution will be if the market shoots up a quick 40 or 50 points.

Standard and Poor's notes that the market may have to work its way through a further period of consolidation before the advance can be resumed. It believes that increasing emphasis should be placed on realistic values in any new commitments.

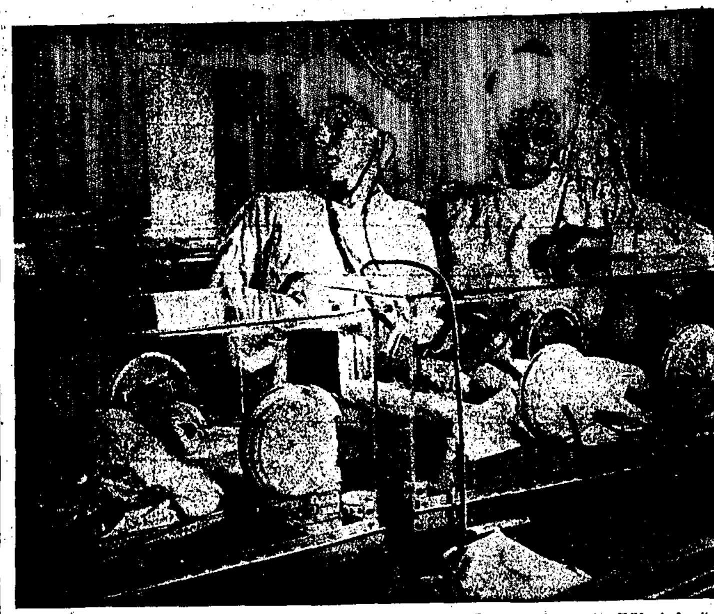
Sylvan Epstein of Reuben Rose and company, Inc., believes the market will eventually work its way out of the current narrow range and move forward. He notes that several important indicators are decidedly bullish and lead him to believe that the next few weeks may see the beginning of another strong upward move.

United Business Service says that even though the broad trend is still pointing up, increasingly cautious policies would be advisable as prices advance.

Honor Roll

Carroll college, Helena, Mont., reports four Magic Valley students have been placed on the "B" honor roll for the second semester. To be eligible for this honor, students must carry 12 or more semester hours and maintain a B or better average.

On the roll from Magic Valley are Pamela J. Gellings and Thomas G. Morris, both Jerome; Richard B. Wright, Rupert, and Caroline Ellen Burns, Twin Falls.

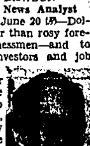


TWO NURSES KEEP close watch on Rose Mary and Ruth Ann Temoshenke, the 13-day-old Siamese twins who were separated Wednesday in a four-hour operation. The girls were joined at the chest and abdomen, and it took two teams of doctors to separate them. A spokesman for Children's hospital, Pittsburgh, Pa., reports the operation was a success, and both of the infants are listed in satisfactory condition. (AP wirephoto)

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Dollars speak louder than rosy forecasts to businessmen—and to workers and investors and job seekers.



Sam Dawson

So, however promising the future looks to the planners, what really counts for the nation's retailers and producers and all other citizens is how the money is coming in right now.

For most it is coming in very well inded.

The total of wages and salaries is rising. The sums that stockholders are getting in dividends are at a record high, because the net profits of U.S. corporations have gone up despite the complaints of a profit squeeze.

Retailers are taking in more money, even if they'd like to ring up more. Savings institutions are taking in more money, too.

Builders are starting more houses. Factories as a whole are hiring more employes, despite the mechanization that in some industries means turning out more goods with fewer workers. The average work week has increased. The service industries continue to make more jobs, although not enough more to solve the personal problems of the unemployed.

All hands realize that this could change—either way. The expected slight summer letdown could be extended and then the money wouldn't pour in as it should. Or the economy could take off to new heights as the forecasters in Washington hope.

But today the dollars and cents figures speak loud.

Income is flowing into individual pockets at an annual rate of 458.2 billion dollars, according to latest government figures. This pace is 18.5 billion dollars faster than a year ago. It is also 1.2 billion dollars better than in April, with most of the increase in wages and salaries.

This means that the five-point rise in the federal reserve board index of industrial production since the first of the year is benefitting the employes as well as the manufacturers.

But the corporations are doing all right, too. Early reports show a rise in profits in the current quarter. In the January-March quarter, earnings before taxes totaled 53.3 billion dollars, compared with 53.25 billion dollars in the final three months of 1962 and with 50.9 billion dollars in the April-June period last year.

Rising wage and salary payments have kept most retailers on the upgrade. Biggest advances have been in sales of autos and other consumer hard goods. Both the car and appliance men are confident the better sales trend will continue. Appliance sales have picked up this spring.

Part of this is due to replacements. But a large part is tied in with the rise in home building. In May, housing units were being started at an annual rate of 1,728,000, a pace 149,000 faster than a year ago, and 101,000 better than a year ago, and 101,000 better than in April.

Local Cattle Market Best In 6 Months

The fat steer and heifer market was the best it has been since January, with a strong to 75 cent higher market Wednesday at the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company.

Cows were about steady, feeder cattle were strong and active and Holsteins were 25 to 50 cents higher.

Good to high choice steers, $20 to $22.60; commercial to low good, $19 to $20; utility steers, $15 to $18; fed Holstein steers, $17.50 to $19.50; good to choice heifers, $19.50 to $21.50; commercial to low good heifers, $18 to $19; utility heifers, $14 to $15; commercial cows $16 to $17; utility cows, $13.50 to $15; canners and cutters, $11 to $13.

Commercial bulls, $17.50 to $19.50; utility bulls, $15 to $17; light bulls, $13 to $15; heavy feeder steers, $19.50 to $22; light feeder steers, $23 to $25; common quality steers $17 to $19; Holstein steers, $18 to $22; poorer grade steers, $13.50 to $16.

Heavy feeder heifers, $18.50 to $20; light feeder heifers, $20 to $22.50; common heifers, $14 to $17; steer calves, $26 to $31; common quality steer calves, $23 to $24.50; heifer calves, $22 to $27; vealers, $22 to $29, and feeder cows, $12 to $14.

Wendell Has Playground Equipment

WENDELL, June 20—Bats and balls, volleyball and net have been purchased by the vacation church school committee of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches with a portion of the funds collected for playground equipment for the Labor camp grounds, says Mrs. Earl Schrenk, chairman.

A work night has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, with members of the Mariners group and Methodist Men's club in charge. Playground equipment will be installed. A swing set donated by the Richard Hagerman family will be moved to the grounds. There is still need for material for swings and other items suitable for playground. Anyone with items to donate may contact Charles Ireton at the Idaho First National bank or Mrs. Earl Schrenk.

The Labor camp playground was laid out by members of the Lions club. During a work project the ground was leveled and the plot seeded to grass.

Work Suspended

SALT LAKE CITY, June 20 (AP)—Work remained suspended on construction projects throughout Utah today while federal mediators set the stage for a meeting they hope will end the two-day strike by 430 members of the Iron Workers union.

Federal Mediator Lyle Johnson said a meeting has been arranged for 1 p.m. Friday between representatives of Iron Workers Local 27 and the Utah Chapter of the Associated General Contractors.

Filer Expects Turnout for Centennial

FILER, June 20—Filer residents are expecting a good crowd for the Centennial celebration Friday.

Most stores and business houses plan to close from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. so employes may enjoy the parade and free lunch at the fairgrounds.

The parade will start at 12:30. All those who plan to be in the parade are asked to be at the fairgrounds at 11:30, says Rex Reed, parade chairman, so they may be assigned places in the procession.

Most local organizations and service clubs have responded to the parade invitation and are preparing floats. Individual entries also promise to be outstanding.

The American Legion color guard will lead the parade. The procession will leave the fairgrounds and come down Main street, then make a circle and go back to the fairgrounds.

The Filer Wranglerettes and the Filer Junior Riding club will appear in the parade. Queen contestants for the Magic Valley Western Horse show will be led by Karen Lavens, former Miss Rodeo America. Appearing among contestants will be Janet Lierman, Filer's contestant for the queen title.

Music will be presented by members of the Filer high school band. The Order of the Arrow also will take part. A special section will feature children from the ages of 7 to 12 years and prizes will be awarded the first three best entries.

Following the parade, the free lunch will be served at the fairgrounds. Lee Jordan is lunch chairman, assisted by various civic organizations. Members of the American Legion are preparing cole slaw and women's clubs are baking beans. Children will be served free milk. The Junior Riding club will sell pop and ice cream at the grounds.

The afternoon will be devoted to children's games under the direction of Lee Bartlett. The first night of the horse show will open at 6:30 p.m.

ROBERT MELVIN ANDERSON

. . . will be honored at a farewell testimonial at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the Twin Falls LDS seventh ward chapel. The son of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Anderson, 507 Alturas drive, he will enter the mission home at Salt Lake City Monday before proceeding to the Canadian mission July 1. He was graduated from Twin Falls high school in 1961 and has attended Utah State university, Logan, for the past two years.

Last Rites for Kaylene Nelson Held at Rupert

RUPERT, June 20—Funeral services for Kaylene Nelson were held Tuesday in the Minidoka LDS stake tabernacle with Bishop Eldon J. Stephenson officiating.

Family prayer was given by Kent Brower, meditation music was played by Arlene Hepworth and invocation given by Herbert Poteet. Alene Humphries sang a solo and a duet was sung by Elizabeth Clark and Richard Hanks. Ned Stocks sang, accompanied by Katherine Stocks.

Bishop Eldon Stephenson gave the life sketch, and other speakers were Earl H. Griffith and Bishop George E. Neilson.

Active pallbearers were Hal Stevenson, Douglas Parker, Hal Mickelsen, Blaine Cook, David Mickelsen and James Cook.

Honorary pallbearers were members of the Acequia Explorer group.

Floral arrangements were under direction of Acequia Ward MIA presidency, assisted by Dixie Rasmussen, Sheril Knight, Kathy Crofts, Marlene Ramsey, Linda Mackley, Carlene Douglass and Diane George.

Concluding rites were held at the Rupert cemetery with the dedicatory prayer by George Crofts.

BUHL SLATES STATE RIFLE MEET SUNDAY

Field of 55 Is Expected for One-Day Event

BUHL, June 20—The centennial edition of the Idaho state high power rifle match will be conducted at 8 a.m. Sunday with the Buhl Rifle and Pistol club serving as host. A field of 55 shooters from throughout the state is expected to participate in the seven-match competition. It will be fired at the national guard rifle range located six miles west of the northwest corner of Buhl.

The event is open to all members of the National Rifle association and the Idaho State Rifle and Pistol association. Junior clubs affiliated memberships also will be honored.

The first two matches will be fired at 200 yards. In the first each participant will be allowed two sighting shots and then shoot 20 shots for record. They will be allowed 20 minutes to complete the course. The second match, rapid fire, will consist of two strings of 10 shots each. Each string must be fired in 70 seconds.

From 300 yards the standing to prone third match will be fired in 10 shot strings again with the 70-second limit. In the fourth match, 20 minutes will be allowed to squeeze of 20 shots from 600 yards.

The Idaho state high power rifle championship is included in the fourth match and this will be the aggregate scores over the first three. The civilian rifle team members for the Camp Perry Rifle team will be selected on scores in this match.

The sixth match Idaho camp Perry fund match, is an aggregate of the two rapid fire sessions with proceeds being used to defray expenses of the Idaho team entered at Camp Perry.

A special session, the governor's ten, will earn the winners a special citation from Gov. Robert Smylie.

Trophies will be awarded in all classes and matches. Classifications will be based on NRA system.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY

Jerry Engelbert, the strong man from Jerome, with little in the way of encouragement and mostly on self determination, begins the initial steps toward his life-long ambition next week-end—gaining a berth on the U.S. Olympic weightlifting team.

Hovey

Jerry's story is quite something in this area and almost as unlikely as having a Magic Valley athlete signed to play in the National Hockey league. The number of ardent weightlifters—this does not include those using weights for improving muscles toned for other sports—in this state can be counted on one hand. So there must be some credit to the man for punishing himself so long to the tune of "so what" from the rest of the Magic Valley sports world.

Ordinarily, the Times-News does not promote things. It generally holds itself in the sense of reporting on things being promoted by others. But the Times-News is very happy to do whatever it can for Jerry Engelbert. Not because he definitely is one of the top three in the nationals in his classification but because of the man himself.

Unassuming and actually too quiet for his own good—somebody's got to blow his horn for him—Engelbert hopes to get to the national in Pennsylvania next week-end. He is a farm boy with an average income and taking off for a week to compete is tough enough without trying to defray his own expenses. For that reason, the Times-News offers itself as a means for sports-minded persons in the area to help the young man's career. The Times-News has been running a Jerry Engelbert fund, hoping to raise $350—a very minimal figure. Response has been fairly good but not overwhelming.

It isn't a case of Magic Valley digging down to give someone a free trip back east. In fact, after the community of Jerome twice had helped him and Jerry didn't win, he felt perhaps he was taking money under something like false pretenses. He had to be talked into seriously considering going back to the nationals this year.

Ken Rice, Jerome, has long been an Engelbert booster and probably has become closer associated with the strongman than anyone else except his parents.

"I'll tell you one thing about Jerry," says Rice. "He won't spend anybody's money if it isn't necessary. Last year after a big night, he felt like eating a steak. He saw the price was $4 and since he was on somebody else's money he turned around and walked out of the place. I supose he went to some drive-in and had a couple of hamburgers."

"He knows it's necessary for him to get back to the competition fresh but coming home is something else. Last year he turned some money back in." Rice recalls, "I've suspected he hitch-hiked back home, but I've never asked him. I've been afraid to."

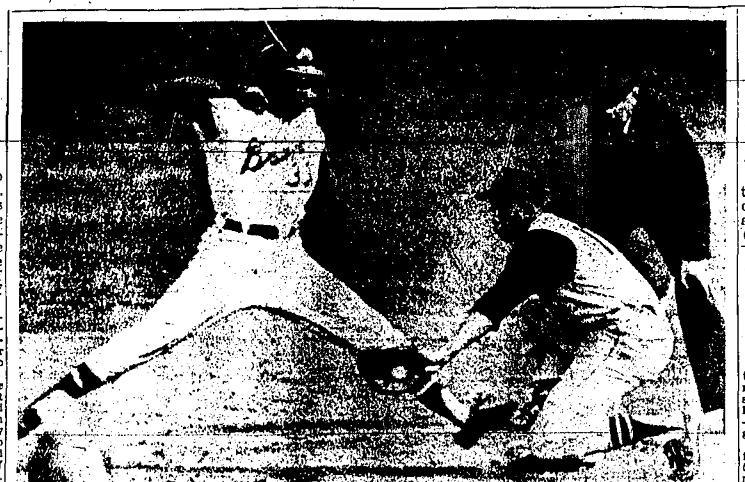
With the wrist injury gone that hampered his career for a full year, Engelbert is rapidly climbing toward the coveted 1,000 pound mark for the three lifts. This would put him within 18 pounds of the national record. He finished third in the Pan-American tryouts this spring at 840 pounds, missing second spot by 10 pounds. Since March, he has hiked his best total by 40 pounds. He feels now he's never been stronger. His biggest drawback at the start was weight—or rather lack of it. Now he has grown into top of his classification limits and this can only help.

As Engelbert himself has pointed out, it perhaps isn't absolutely necessary that he go back to nationals this year. The Olympic team is his dream. But this year it would be possible for him to take a berth in the international competition plus tour Japan with a good will team next October.

Going deeper, though, it is felt here that this year's nationals do figure prominently in his career. The finals in 1963 will include the same faces he will be battling for Olympic spots in 1964. It is always good to know as much about your opponent as possible. One can always read cold statistics, but it is far better to actually see, judge and know for yourself. It is for this reason that the Times-News feels the 1963 nationals are ultra important to Engelbert.

It is hoped that enough people in Magic Valley feel as the Times-News sports department does. Many have contributed to far. If you'd like to, just mail the contributions—a dollar or anything—to the Jerry Engelbert fund, Larry Hovey, agent, in care of the Times-News.

We can assure you, none of it will be wasted.



EVIDENCE IS HIDDEN from umpire Doug Harvey as Mack Jones, Milwaukee Braves, hasn't landed but the baseball has in Pirate first baseman Don Clendenon's mitt. Harvey ruled Jones safe on the pickoff try. (AP wirephoto)

Banks Hits 350th Homer As Cubs Win

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Ernie Banks smashed his 350th homerun, good for two runs batted in that raised his career total to 1,001, Wednesday to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 9-1 voctory over the Houston Colts.

The game was played under dark and rain-laden clouds before play was suspended due to rain after Houston batted in the eighth.

After a 48-minute wait the umpires called off the game as the rains continued.

The Cubs jumped on starter Hal Brown and Russ Kemmerer, his immediate successor, for three-run spurts in the first and second innings.

Orioles and Indians Split Twin Bill

CLEVELAND, June 20 (AP) — Milt Pappas hurled a five-hitter as Baltimore defeated Cleveland 6-2 in the nightcap of a doubleheader Wednesday night and broke the Indians' string at seven games. Cleveland had taken the opener 5-4 on Joe Azcue's ninth inning homer.

Pappas, 6-3, had a two-hitter until Tito Francona slammed his fourth homerun of the season in the seventh inning, scoring Willie Kirkland, who had singled.

Errors by Woodie Held helped the Orioles score a run in the third and fifth innings. They came in on a double by Luis Aparicio and Brooks Robinson's single.

In the opener, Azcue hit his game-winning blast with two out.

The Indians had rammed in four runs in the first inning, but Baltimore kept chipping away, finally tying it in the top of the ninth when John Powell raced in from third on a suicide squeeze by Saverine.

THREE FOR ONE

OAKLAND, Calif., June 20 (AP)—The Oakland Raiders traded three football players Wednesday to the Buffalo Bills for Archie Matsos, for the last three seasons all-league linebacker of the American Football league.

Boston Uses Power to Drop Tigers

BOSTON, June 20 (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski hit a pair of long homeruns for four runs batted in and rookie right-hander Bob Heffner threw a seven-hitter in his first major league start as Boston defeated Detroit 9-2 Wednesday night.

The 24-year-old Heffner was summoned from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league last week.

Yastrzemski belted a solo homer off reliefer Phil Regan in the fifth inning and hit a two-run homer off Mickey Lolich in the seventh on his next time at bat. Both drives landed in the centerfield bleachers.

Frank Malzone also homered for Boston, with Yastrzemski on base in the third, and upped his RBI total to 44.

16 Men Enter AAU Decathlon

CORVALLIS, Ore., June 20 (AP)—Sixteen entries, including world record holder C. K. Yang and this country's top performers, were announced Wednesday for the National AAU decathlon championship June 28-29.

Yang, the UCLA student from Formosa, is, however, a doubtful performer. His coach, Ducky Drake, said Yang has not been able to train because of injuries.

Yang holds the world decathlon record of 9,121 points.

White Drives Cards Past New York 9-4

ST. LOUIS, June 20 (AP)—Bill White drove in five runs with his second grandslam homer of the season and a double as first-place St. Louis smashed 13 hits for its third straight win over New York Wednesday, 9-4.

White's bases-loaded blast, the sixth of his career and his 12th homerun this season, came off Met starter Track Stallard in the fifth. White now has hit in 12 straight games.

George Altman, with two singles, stretched his hitting string to 17 consecutive games—longest in the National league.

The Mets scored twice in the second on Al Moran's bases-loaded single, and added another in the fourth on Norm Sherry's hit. Tim Harkness' sacrifice fly drove in a fourth run in the seventh.

U. S. Tennis Team Gains Meet Finals

LONDON, June 20 (AP) — The United States women's team, led by Darlene Hard and Billie Jean Moffitt, defeated Britain Wednesday and qualified to meet the powerful Australian squad in the final of the newly inaugurated Federation cup knockout tennis competition.

In another rainy day at London's Queen's Club, the two girls from Long Beach, Calif., dodged between damp turf and indoor wooden courts to win their singles matches. The United States also won the doubles matches.

Miss Hard defeated the British captain, Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, 6-2, 6-4. She won the first set in the rain, then moved indoors and wrapped up the match on the wooden surface.

Miss Moffitt, in the dry and on wood from the start, overcame Christine Truman, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Then Miss Hard and Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., combined to sweep past Mrs. Jones and Miss Truman in doubles, 2-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Australia also swept all three matches with South Africa furnishing the opposition.

Margaret Smith, the Aussie No. 1, kept up her all-conquering pace to crush an off-form Renee Schuurman 6-3, 6-2. The whole of this match went through on grass with the rain increasing as it went on.

RESIGNS

POCATELLO, June 20 (AP) — Pete Goodwin, general manager of the Pocatello baseball club, has resigned "with considerable regret."

Sikes Stays Alive In Overtime Match

WICHITA, Kans., June 20 (AP)—Tournament medalist Dick Sikes, Arkansas, sank a 10-foot putt for a birdie two on the third extra hole and won his second round match today in the National Collegiate Athletic association golf tournament. Sikes was hard pressed by relatively unknown James Colbert of Kansas State. The victory puts the Walker cup team member and National Public Links champion in the third round of the NCAA individual tournament.

Thursday Sikes faces Harry Hoskins, Texas A and M. Hoskins defeated John Doyle, Penn State, 1-up in the first round and Jimmy Allen, Georgia, by an identical score in the second round.

Prior to the tension-filled match with Colbert, Sikes defeated Jim Reim, Stanford, 4 and 2. Sikes continued the brilliant golf that brought him tournament medal honors. He was one under par for 16 holes, despite the fact the course was waterlogged from an early morning downpour. He was one over par on the 6,640-yard par 70 Wichita Country club course in his extra hole match with Colbert.

Among other favorites joining Sikes in the third round was defending champion Kermit Zarley of Houston. Zarley defeated James Seeley, Jerome and Navy, 2-up. He also downed Dave Philo of Florida State, 4 and 3.

Also moving into Thursday's round were Jim Ferriell of Louisville and Bobby Greenwood of North Texas State.

Ferriell scored 4 and 3 victories over Charles Hellman of Purdue and Charles Layton of Georgia.

Greenwood also posted a pair of 4 and 3 victories. He defeated Tommy Arnold of North Carolina and Dave Eichelberger of Oklahoma State.

George Creagh of Vanderbilt advanced with a pair of 3 and 2 victories over two North Texas State golfers.

Redlegs Edge Phillies 6-5 In 10 Innings

CINCINNATI, June 20 (AP) — Leo Cardenas' two-out single with the bases loaded in the 10th inning drove in Frank Robinson with the winning run in Cincinnati's 6-5 victory over Philadelphia Wednesday night.

Robinson set up the decisive run when he walked with one out, stole second and reached third on walks to Pavletich and Daryl Spencer. Cardenas then lined a Jack Baldschun pitch to left field for the clincher.

The lead see-sawed through the first six innings with Don Demeter's second homer, in the sixth, giving the Phillies a 5-5 tie.

U.S. Skiers Can Win in Olympics

SPOKANE, Wash., June 20 (AP)—Members of the team selected to represent the United States in the next winter Olympics in Austria have the potential to win several gold medals, the president of the U. S. Ski association said Wednesday.

"We want winners," said Dr. Meritt H. Stiles, Spokane physician, "And we will go all out to get winners.

"We expect to come home from Innsbruck with not one but several medals."

Stiles listed John Belfanz of Minneapolis and Gene Kotlarek of Duluth as easily capable of winning gold medals in jumping. John Bower, Auburn, Maine, is outstanding in cross-country, he said, and could score in the Nordic races.

Chiefs Take 7-5 Victory Over Billings

BILLINGS, June 20 (AP)—Pocatello beat Billings 7-5 Wednesday night with Craig Seegmiller strong at the plate and Lou Konyha strong from the mound — and the Mustangs weak on getting their men home.

Billings got singletons in the first, second and third innings, then could do nothing but leave men stranded on base until a two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth.

Pocatello got two in the first frame when Spence Scott singled and scored on John Boccabella's double and Seegmiller singled home Boccabella.

In the fourth Don Barnett doubled home one and Charles Benson singled home two. Seegmiller hit a solo homer in the sixth and Pete Desilva doubled, then went around on groundouts.

College Track Group Wants to Meet With AAU

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—The executive director of the U.S. track and field federation proposed Wednesday a July peace parley with the AAU in the feud for amateur athletic control. The federation chief, C. D. (Chick) Werner, sent a telegram to AAU President Louis Fisher suggesting a Chicago meeting July 9 or 10 in answer to Fisher's request last week for a meeting "to effect a cooperative effort" in the drawn-out sports scrap.

However, this latest move appeared to be just more ring-around-the-rosy, because Fisher on June 10 had directed his peace wire to the president of the National Collegiate Athletic association, Robert Ray, dean of special services at the University of Iowa.

Last Thursday, Ray dispatched a detailed letter to Fisher, stat*ing the NCAA merely is* a member of the U. S. federations in track, basketball, baseball and gymnastics and that the AAU would have to do its talking with those federations.

Fisher's wire to Ray specified he was prepared to meet only with NCAA representatives.

Against this background, Werner's telegram—released by the track federation's newly-established Chicago office—informed Fisher:

"It is the understanding of our member groups and ourselves that all negotiations are to be conducted between the USTFF and the AAU. Our mutual understanding, therefore, is that your offer to meet with our member groups indicates a willingness to meet with the USTFF."

Werner also suggested that the posible Chicago meeting should be opened to the press "so the public can be informed of our mutual effort to work together to produce America's strongest possible track and field representatives. We will await further word from you."

This latest development in the three-year-old feud between the AAU and the NCAA-bulwarked federation group, also including high school and junior college areas, comes on the eve of the important national AAU track meet in St. Louis this week-end.

Marichal, Giants Rap Dodgers 8-3

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20 (AP)—Juan Marichal survived the post-no-hit jinx with relief help Wednesday and fired the San Francisco Giants to an 8-3 victory over Los Angeles before a sellout crowd at Candlestick park.

Marichal, who no-hit Houston 1-0 Saturday, surrendered six hits including a two-run homer by Willie Davis and a one-run clout by Ron Fairly, before leaving with two out in the eighth inning.

The victory was Marichal's seventh straight.

Billy Pierce rescued Marichal after Fairly's homerun and two consecutive singles in the eighth.

MAGIC VALLEY DEFEATS GREAT FALLS 5-3

Deloney Gets Eighth Win In Row as Cowboys Run Winning Streak to Six

GREAT FALLS, June 20 (AP)—Spunky southpaw O'Dell Deloney survived a ump in the fifth inning but finished strong in picking up his eighth straight ictory as the Magic Valley Cowboys topped Great Falls' Electrics 5-3 Wednesday ight. Still unbeaten, Deloney got himself in trouble with two walks in the fifth nning when Great Falls scored all its runs. Despite winning their sixth straight, the Cowboys still were unable to pick up ground in the Pioneer league standings as the pace-setting Idaho Falls Yankees belted Boise 13-6 to match winning streaks. The results kept things tight for a crucial first-half pennant series at Jaycee park in Twin Falls starting Friday night.

Deloney didn't last the game, going eight and one-third innings before giving way to reliever Lane Phillips. Phillips retired the side handily. But before leaving, the southpaw from Riverside, Calif., fanned eight while giving up five walks.

Both teams crammed their scoring into one inning each but the Cowboys had the biggest outburst.

That came in the third inning and Deloney started it off with a walk. Nolan Campbell followed with a single and another walk to Alex Johnson loaded the bases. Bill Tomaselli delivered a two-run single. Johnson, after gaining third on a ground out, scored on a single by Jim Campbell and Randy McGraw clouted a double to score the decisive runs.

Great Falls' inning started on a single by Jay Arnette. Walks to Mickey Hartling and Jerry Patenaude preceded a sacrifice fly by Fred Woessner which scored Arnette. Whitey Johnson then belted a double to score two runs. But Cowboy catcher Larry Baughman got Deloney out of trouble when he picked Johnson off second base.

Yankees Win Sixth in Row; Maris Homers

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Roger Maris banged a three-run homer, his 12th of the year and third in the last two games, in the sixth inning Wednesday night as the New York Yankees won their sixth straight 3-2 over the Washington Senators.

Maris' homer followed singles by Robby Richardson—who had three hits—and Tom Tresh, and came off lefthander Claude Osteen. Osteen had shut out the Yankees 1-0 in his last outing against them. It was Maris' second homer off a lefthander this year and sixth off Washington pitching.

Jim Bouton, who was the victim of Osteen's shutout, got the victory to run his record to 8-2, but the Senators knocked him out with a two-run burst in the ninth.

Hurler Gets Three RBI's, Pirates Win

MILWAUKEE, June 20 (AP)—Pitcher Earl Francis helped win his own game with a double, two singles and three runs batted in as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Wednesday night.

The Pirates ruined Bob Sadowski's major league debut with three runs on seven hits in the first four innings.

Homeruns by Hank Aaron and Mack Jones were the only runs off Francis as he gained his third triumph against two defeats. He needed help, however, from left-hander Joe Gibbon, who took over with two on and one out in the seventh and blanked the Braves on one hit. He struck out five.

Twin Falls Legion Nips Jerome 2-0

Kendell Kinghorn delivered a clutch double to highlight a two-run first inning and pitcher Jim Blakely and John Hull took over from there as the Twin Falls American Legion junior baseball team nipped Jerome 2-0.

The first inning was the only time Twin Falls ever got to Jerome pitcher Jan Blamires and faulty fielding was the major reason for the defeat. Roby opened by living on an error. He took second on Mike Touchette's sacrifice and moved to third as Larry Hunter was gaining life on another error. After Oliphant scored on a wild throw, Kinghorn delivered the double to send Hunter home.

Blakely worked a near perfect seven-inning stint, only an error at shortstop keeping him from facing the minimum of 21 Jerome batters. Jan Blamires broke up the Twin Falls bid for a no-hitter when he lined a single up the middle in the top of the ninth.

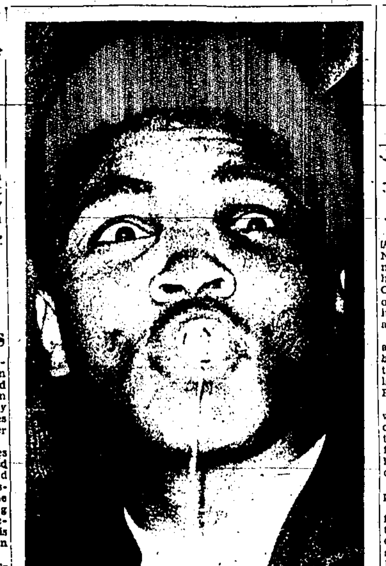
WSU Miss Gains Golf Semi-Finals

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., June 20 (AP)—Claudia Lindor, Washington State continued her drive Wednesday toward individual honors in the 19th women's intercollegiate golf tournament.

Miss Lindor, victor over defending champion Carol Sorenson of Arizona State Tuesday, scored a 4 and 3 victory over Mary Lowell, also Arizona State.

Diana Hoke of Hood and Marianne Gable of Los Angeles State were the two other entries to make the semifinal round.



BUTTONED UP, heavyweight boxer and poetic prophet Cassius Clay, whose predictions are often on the button, poses this shot for the benefit of photographers Wednesday as he returned to New York from his ring victory over Henry Cooper in England Tuesday night. (AP wirephoto)

Gasmonaut Cassius Passes Over Liston

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—There was excitement in Cassius Clay's voice and his eyes glowed like burning coals. He spoke almost as if he believed what he said. "That big, ugly bear, Sonny Liston. He's scared to death of me. He's losing sleep thinking about me and what I'm going to do to him." So intently did Cassius speak that the reporter's mind played tricks with him. He started to picture the 6-foot, 1-inch, 220-pound Liston cringing in a corner, his eyes bleary from lack of sleep, and wondering when killer Clay was coming for him.

The reporter snapped out of his daydream when he heard again: "Ugly bear, total annihilation, tramp, greatest, bestest, handsomest, predict eight, he'll be in a worser fix if I predicted six . . ."

Cassius' monologue droned on.

Back to reality, the reporter asked Cassius to face the facts. He is only 21, he has lots of time, what is the rush and does he really and truly want to fight the devastating champion?

"Sure, I want that big, ugly bear but I gotta get my cut," said The Greatest Wednesday on his triumphant return from London where he had stopped British champion Henry Cooper in five rounds as he said he would.

"I want a million and a half guarantee plus half of the TV money. My managers are working on the deal."

How about Liston's cut?

"Man, that fight will draw a 15-million-dollar gate with everything. It will draw more than Cleopatra and Cleopatra (Liz Taylor) was at the ringside watching me Tuesday night."

Cassius was advised that Jack Nilon, Liston's adviser, wanted to put the Clay-Liston fight in Philadelphia in September, providing Liston beats Floyd Patterson (a cinch, says Liston) in their July 22 return fight.

"That's all right with me," said Cassius quickly. "His home town will witness the annihilation. And then it's only a hop, skip and jump to New York, Pittsburgh and all the other nice cities nearby so people can come to see the fight."

As for the hurry to fight Liston, Mighty Mouth said, "I want to be the youngest heavyweight champion ever. I want to break Patterson's record."

He was told that his deadline then was Dec. 12.

"I'm gonna break the record," he said.

This time he sounded like he believed it.

Yankees Belt Braves With 19-Hit Spree

BOISE, June 20 (AP) — Idaho Fallshitters went on a batting spree Wednesday night, banging out 19 hits to smother Boise 13-6.

The Yanks hit included solo homeruns by Julian Vicente and Mike Hegan. They scored in every inning but the third and ninth.

Boise's Glen Clark seemed to be the only member of the opposition who wasn't overawed by Idaho Falls' batting prowess. He banged out two homeruns, each with a man on base, and went three-for-five at the plate.

Nicklaus and Palmer Renew Rivalry As U.S. Open Golf Tourney Begins

BROOKLINE, Mass., June 20 (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, fit and determined, renew their struggle for No. 1 golf honors in the 63rd National Open championship Thursday over the knobby old course where history was made half a century ago.

Palmer, 33, his powerful game and phenomenal drive bolstered by a long rest, is a 4-1 favorite to capture the title lost to Nicklaus in a playoff at Oakmont, Pa., a year ago.

He tees off at 8:42 a.m., EST, with Jay Hebert and Doug Ford, one of the early threesomes in the star-studded field of 139 professionals and 11 amateurs tackling the links of The Country club.

And capitalize the "T" if you please.

He should have completed his first round by the time Nicklaus takes off at 12:04 p.m. with Bob Goalby and the reigning national amateur champion, Labron Harris, jr.

Strangely, Nicklaus who beat Palmer in the rich world series of golf and won both the Masters and Tournament of Champions has been shoved back into secondary status by the revival of Palmer sentiment after Arnie's Thunderbird victory last Sunday.

The young giant from Ohio is 6-1 in the friendly, illegal betting around the clubhouse. Other leading contenders, Gary Player, Dow Finsterwald, Julius Boros and Gene Littler, are 10-1 shots and higher.

Although the game's greatest players, domestic and from abroad, are assembled here, it's strictly a two-man show, Palmer versus Nicklaus, and the golfers themselves in an informal poll showed a favoritism for Palmer, the comebacker.

"I want to win this one so bad I can taste it," Palmer said. "I'd like to win by 10 strokes."

Nicklaus, who said he had corrected a driving flaw on the practice tee Tuesday, said, "Certainly, I think I can win it—that's the reason I'm here."

The 6,870-yard, par 35-36—71 course, with its hidden holes, tenacious, short rough and postage stamp greens, is not much changed from the links over which Francis Ouimet, a 20-year-old Brookline caddy, beat the great British stars, Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, for the 1913 Open championship.

The triumph, the first in the Open for a native-born American, is credited with taking golf from its snobbish, country club setting and giving it to the common people.

The tricky layout, full of little hills and knobs which can give even the finest fairway-splitting drive a capricious kick, has been criticized by some of the competitors who call it everything from a "monstrosity" to an "antiquity."

Sam Snead, making his 23rd try for the only minor title he never has won, appended perhaps the most appropriate description when he said:

"It's a hit-and-listen course. You hit a shot and then cup an ear to listen to the crowd reaction. A cheer or a groan tells you what kind of a shot you've made."

All but one of the holes—the 15th—has a blind spot either on the drive or the approach. The greens are small, narrow and heavily trapped.

This is one of the factors, in addition to his known flair of comebacks and climactic performances in major championships, that has made Palmer a red-hot favorite again.

"Palmer is a great bunker player and, because of the small greens, there will be a lot of bunker shots," said Cary Middlecoff, a two-time Open champion. "I'd have to pick Palmer. If there's anything to stop him, it may be his eagerness. He may want to win too much."

Gene Littler, who won the title in 1961, threw his vote to Palmer with the statement; "Arnie has convinced me—I think he's a super man."

African, U.S. Racial Problems Compared

BY WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK, June 12 (NEA)—Is there a link between racial tensions bubbling furiously in the U.S. today and the rising tide of black nationalism sweeping the continent of Africa?

After a three - month news tour of the dark continent and the surrounding nations most involved in her birth agonies, this reporter comes home to find a mirror image of the color battle he left across the Atlantic—and a number of disturbing questions.

But are the concepts the same, and—far more crucial as this reporter often has been asked on return—does this world take its incentive from that, or that struggle from ours?

Is a Negro American encouraged to public demonstration, for example, by the overwhelming victory of Jomo Kenyatta, Kenya's former Mau Mau leader, as prime minister of a major white-settler African nation?

Does it mean anything to Negro Americans that Ghana's president, Kwame Nkrumah, has world leaders of all colors dancing attendance at his palace in hopes of gaining his allegiance?

Or, for example, does the Republic of South Africa find some justification for its policy of apartheid—segregated statehood for its Negro Africans—in customary white-black relationships in some U.S. states?

Well, there is no doubt that some line of communication is open between Negro American and Negro African leadership. Nor is it any kind of secret that racial troubles in the U.S. are headlined in the black African press.

And, of course, should an African student feel himself slighted in the U.S. for any reason whatsoever, his complaint is usually circulated through the highest offices in his home country.

It is also a matter of fact that the white supremacy government of the Republic of South Africa, led by Verwoerd, is in daily receipt of congratulatory letters from some white citizenry of this country.

Despite a roomful of evidence like this, however, it is impossible for this reporter to find anything more than a few parallels between the birth pangs of African nationalism and the agonies of American democracy.

In the first place, most Africans, when they think about it, are probably as pro-American as they are pro-their-own-country. Regardless of what they hear about U.S. classroom segregation, they would like their children educated here.

In the second place, the position of the Negro American in Africa as teacher, expert or emissary is something less than certain. Whatever he may feel about his heritage and ancestors, the African tends to look on him as an American first and a Negro last.

Out of the office Americans in Africa, black or white, seem to this reporter to share the same feelings about the continent, its indigenous residents and its colonizers.

Those feelings cannot by any stretch of the imagination be described as "my people," "my cousins," "my allies"—but in the far more remote and alien "our brothers."

Also, the African politician at the district or even state level has no time to look for links between his struggle and the fight that rages in the U.S. And in real life there are few.

The African is a member of the majority ruled by a handful of greedy, frightened whites. He has the irrepressible logic of numbers on his side, and the time-consuming job of trying to be heard on this point.

As Jomo Kenyatta pointed out to this reporter: "Pan-Africanism, federation and all the rest may be good goals for the future. But right now we have a great deal to do in building our country and tribes into a nation."

Does the Negro American take any incentive from this in his open efforts to change his way of life?

The answer is another question. Does his white American opponent take any incentive from South Africa's adamant policy makers and police who, for example, can and do place white citizens under five - year house arrest without trial or recourse for speaking out against national security measures?

The plain fact is that Liberia has a segregation problem as virulent as any in the U.S. with native Liberians resentful and angry at being ruled politically and socially by the descendants of former U.S. slaves who chose to take their freedom to Africa—and with it a 19th century American supremacists attitude.

From the African point of view, except perhaps in South Africa and Southern Rhodesia, unity is built far less around color than aspiration. Tribal warfare over land or cattle is a clearer, more present danger by a long shot than black vs. white uprisings.

In the U.S., at least to one reporter glad to be home, the Negro American can't learn much or take real heart from the African's struggle or gains—except, maybe, to note that the winds of change are blowing on both sides of the Atlantic—Africa, South America and, obviously, in our own back yard.

JOMO KENYATTA explains African nationalist movement to NEA correspondent Ward Cannel, in Nairobi.

Smylie Order Is Praised, Criticized

BOISE, June 20 (AP)—An executive order cutting general fund spending by about 12 million dollars during the first quarter of the next biennium was praised today as a "prudent fiscal move" and criticized as an attempt "to rob Peter to pay Paul."

The order which cuts spending by general fund agencies to 23.8 per cent rather than 25 per cent of their total budgets during the next six months was made public Tuesday by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

The governor said the action was taken in view of indications that the state's income will fall short of expectations during the two-year fiscal period that ends June 30, 1965.

Smylie emphasized that the action is not prompted by the financial problems of the current biennium.

But Sen. Cy Chase, D., Benewah, said today that he believes the cutback "is an attempt to recoup the more than 2 million dollars the state is borrowing from the next biennium to balance the books at the end of the current one. It is an attempt to rob Peter to pay Paul."

Smylie, however, described the order as "a prudent fiscal move quite in line with practices of the past," and said it would provide a "cushion" for the end of the next biennium.

Glance Off Road Causes Accident

BUHL, June 20—John L. Worley, 24, Boise, momentarily glanced from the highway and his 1959 Ford ran into the back of a stopped 1955 Chevrolet stationwagon operated by Mrs. Irene F. Thomas, 29, route 3, Buhl, at 11:10 a.m. Tuesday three and one-half miles northwest of Buhl on highway 30.

Deputy Sheriff Curtis Pryor noted Mrs. Thomas had stopped her car for a flagman as highway department personnel were painting the center line stripe down the highway. Worley failed to see the stopped car in time to avoid a collision.

Damages of $200 were estimated to the stationwagon. There were no eidtions or injuries.

Area Policemen Attend Course At Idaho State

Police officers from four Magic Valley towns are among the law officers from 22 Idaho communities attending the 10th annual basic session of the Idaho Law Enforcement academy at Idaho State college.

The session which started Monday, includes 100 hours of class instruction and will close with a graduation luncheon June 28. The course is sponsored by the college, the FBI, Idaho Peace Officers association and the Idaho Municipal league.

Patrolmen Earl E. Farmer, Buhl; Jim L. Finch, Burley; Dal Muir, Gooding, and Gary W. Bates, Twin Falls, are attending the session.

Deductions On Livestock Sales Urged

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 20 (Special)—Sen. Len Jordan, R., Ida., has urged the senate agriculture committee to expedite action on legislation to permit deductions from the sale of livestock to continue to finance educational and research activities in the livestock industry and for a sales promotion program.

In a letter to Sen. George Aiken, R., Vt., ranking minority member of the committee, Senator Jordan noted that after nearly 40 years of such voluntary cooperative contributions to this program, a regulation by the department of agriculture, scheduled to go into effect on July 1, will prohibit this practice because, according to the department officials, it is in violation of the packers and stockyards act of 1921.

"Producers and packers of the American livestock industry have conducted successful educational activities, research and sales promotion for a number of years," the Idaho senator noted.

"They have financed a program including these activities through voluntary contributions of a few cents each from animals sold through commissions," he continued.

"The programs have been very helpful to consumers as well as to producers. Instead of hampering this effort, I feel that the livestock people are to be complimented for having developed such a forward looking and enlightening project at their own expense," he said.

"Livestock production, feeding, processing and sales contributs a great deal to the total economy of Idaho," Senator Jordan told Senator Aiken. Certainly the federal government should not prohibit livestock growers from helping themselves," he concluded.

Plant to Open

BURLEY, June 20—Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., plant at Burley, will begin production Monday, using potatoes from California. All employes required to work will be notified through the personnel office.

Flaming Gorge Water Rising

GREEN RIVER, Wyo., June 20 (AP)—The Flaming Gorge reservoir has backed up 50 miles on the Green river toward its eventual stopping place on the outskirts of Green River.

Frank Dallon, assistant project construction engineer, said the reservoir was getting deeper about a foot a day and was almost 200 feet deep at the dam in Utah.
