WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (UPI) — A bumper crop of wheat is expected to be sold today after a White House meeting that was expected to call the United States to the United States and three of her satellites up to five million tons of wheat.

"I think a decision is close at hand," a Minnesota Democratic congressman at the Capitol said. "I know that the White House is in a decision-making conference with the Soviet Union."

Mr. Humphrey's statement was made in the wake of a disclosure that the Soviets, for the first time, had indicated they were interested in buying between 10 million and 20 million dollars worth of wheat from the United States.

The senator's estimate of the total amount of possible sales to the Soviet Union, Hungary and Rumania as well as to Russia, was somewhat higher—between $10 million and $20 million dollars worth of wheat.

Mr. Humphrey estimated that five million tons would be more than 10 million bushels. He emphasized that he hoped any satellite purchases would be handled separately from one with Russia.

Mr. Humphrey said there has been no decision as yet. But he said administration has been "been slow to accept" that there is a possibility of a one-shot sale for cash or oil.

He added: "I think there is a possibility in the regulation that there will be a transaction of a series of transactions. I think a decision is close at hand."

Mr. Humphrey said that Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria had indicated individually a desire to buy substantial quantities of wheat in contracts with the U.S.

He also said that West Germany and France had been selling wheat to communist countries in recent years. Last year, he added, the U.S. sold 450,000 metric tons of wheat to West Germany and East Germany, and to other countries, of which he did not want to list China.

Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (UPI) — The House today approved a "no letdown" defense spending bill—second largest in peacetime history. The measure would provide 41.2 billion dollars to keep America in fighting trim.

The roll call vote was 325 to 3.

The bill now goes back to the Senate for final concurrence which would send it along to the White House.

Singer Drops Interests In Gaming

LAS VEGAS, Oct. 8 (UPI) — Singer Frank Sinatra, who surrendered 25 million dollars in Nevada gaming interests, says he is going to concentrate on the entertainment field from now on.

But he wished the gambling industry good luck in paring. Casino, he said, makes jobs for entertainers and he's all for them.

Sinatra announced Monday he would not fight an attempt by the Nevada gaming commission to revoke his license. He said he'd been planning to pull out for several months.

The commission had been seeking to revoke Sinatra's license on grounds he entertained underworld figures from Chicago at Sinatra's Cal-Nev lodge at Lake Tahoe.

The singer's withdrawal was expected to end further action by the commission, although technically it still could proceed.

Leader Tells of Wild River Trip

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, Oct. 8 (UPI) — The leader of an abortive expedition into the wild Barranca de Cuervo canyon said today he and his party of 15 Americans made it only 10 miles up the river before being forced to turn back.

Dr. John L. Cross, 45, Orem, Utah, who organized the expedition to gain scientific information, said his party of 15 Americans made it only 10 miles up the river before being forced to turn back.

"I am definitely contemplating another try at the Rio Urique," he said. "However, if I make another try it will be up another section of the river."

Cross and 12 other persons, including two women, traveled by train during the night from Cuernavaca, Mexico, and arrived at Chihuahua early today.

James C. Dean, Salt Lake City, had staggered to civilization Saturday and said the expedition might be lost and without food.

Cross said his party never ran out of food, but had to do some rationing.

Cross said he was mystified that large boulders were in the river.

"I took an aerial survey in August, but did not understand why these large boulders were not spaced," he said.

He said that while they were in the Barranca de Cuervo Canyon they saw only one severely injured animal, a dead deer.

Dean, accompanied by his nurse, got out of a hospital bed to greet the party at the train. The men in the party were unshaven, but in good spirits. They said they were tired and wanted to go to bed.

17 Souvenir Pens Used By Kennedy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The White House keeps a ready supply of souvenir fountain pens for President Kennedy to use and give away at ceremonies like Monday's signing of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

As Kennedy sat down to sign the instrument of ratification for the treaty, a wooden stand holding 20 ready-to-write pens, each held upward, faced him.

Kennedy used 17 pens during the ceremony, which required him to write his signature on four copies of the document. He wrote a few letters with each of the pens in order to stretch out the choice and employ enough pens to offer as souvenirs to the invited witnesses.

There were 16 observers from Congress and the executive branch. Kennedy kept the 17th pen for himself.

The other 16 pens remained unused in the rack.

Court Rules On Property Tax Case

BOISE, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Idaho supreme court has ruled that business firms that buy property in the state must pay property tax here, even if they are purchasing from the federal government.

The high court ruled that Tree Farmers, Inc., Montana, must pay Idaho county taxes on timber it cut in the Lolo national forest in 1958 and 1959 under a contract with the U.S. forest service.

The firm had refused to pay the tax and sought an injunction from district court to restrain Assessor C. H. Goekner from collecting it. But the high court, in a unanimous opinion, upheld the refusal of District Judge Paul Hyatt to grant the injunction.

Tree Farmers, Inc., contended that it had no title to the logs within Idaho because legal title did not pass until they had been cut and sold. After they were moved to Montana.

But the supreme court said that the purchase of timber by the tax-free beneficial ownership passes to them within Idaho, even if the U.S. government is the seller. The court said the case is similar to others holding that under conditional sales contracts the purchaser and not the seller is assessed for taxes on personal property.

"The rule concerning the taxability of government property is that such property is immune from state taxation until a sale thereof is sufficiently complete to pass beneficial ownership to the purchaser," wrote Justice Joseph J. McFadden in the unanimous opinion.

Republicans Open Drive For Funds

Magie Valley Republicans have kicked off their united Republican fund drive, announced George Bever, fifth district chairman of the Idaho Republican central committee.

The fifth district includes Camas, Blaine, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka, Cassia and Twin Falls counties.

"Idea of a one-fund, one-drive campaign for political parties has never been tried in Idaho for years," Bever said. "It has been very successful in other states and many other organizations use this type of drive."

"We feel the average participant in the Republican party will prefer to pledge donations at this early date rather than be solicited from several sources later on," he added.

"Proceeds from this drive will be used to finance Republican activities in Magie Valley counties during next year's campaign and to raise the county's quota to the national state headquarters where the funds will be used to help finance statewide candidates, operate state headquarters and pay Idaho's share of the campaign for President next year."

"Our theme for this drive is 'more for '64'." Bever said. "I feel that this slogan expresses the attitude of most Republicans. If we give more of our time, effort and money, the Republican party must certainly will be victorious in '64."

explosive. "I saw Hagar Galdaturs, a well-known Communist Party official, attempt an investigation of this failure.

To say that the caliber and the quality of American officials supposedly toured Soviet agricultural works were lacking would be premature—for they raised all sorts of questions about the quality of the work done by Orville Freeman on down. Admittedly, Mr. Freeman had no farm background when he was appointed ambassador to the Soviet Union as this nation's No. 1 official in the agricultural field, his exposure to the subject has been considerable.

Recently completed an 18-day tour of Russia and supposedly was shown by friendly officials just about everything there is to see in the Soviet Union that he returned to this country bubbling over with praise for the abundance of everything Soviet, the efficiency of Communist methods.

"Totally profane," he told the nation at that time, "has risen to the level of being the ability to feed their people."

It is hard to see how that fact, would not have happened except for a hot, dry summer. But the argument, that a number of our leading agricultural officials are victims of Soviet propaganda as its agriculture. Mr. Freeman and the others who have returned from their tour of Russia would have found it simply by making a telephone call to the weather bureau that conditions in the Soviet Union are such that crops in this past summer made crop failure an almost inevitable prospect. It is almost impossible to find out about the movements of the Soviet exports throughout the free world and information picked up by the news media is not always reliable to determine the true conditions anywhere and everywhere on Earth.

Actually, there were hints that the Soviet Union had established beyond question the prospects for a successful wheat season in Russia were not the only thing that had been given to the common and well-publicized shake-up in the Soviet Union.

Business Mirror

BY SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Forecasting used to be a December sport. This year peering into the economy's future is already well under way. And a host of the predictions sound suspiciously alike.

Business will be good in the first half of 1964, and a "let-it-pass" attitude will give the aging upstarts a needed boost, business should be good throughout the year.

Those who suspect this may not be necessarily so have their warnings on a number of things. But a chief one just now is that all predictions sound alike. Often in the past an unanimous vote either for an upswing or a downturn has proved strikingly wrong. The optimistic predictions, however, have much solid backing.

The momentum of the current spending alone could carry it along for some time. And the weakness in the economy just now either aren't too apparent, or they've been around so long as to seem no more potent now than in the past few months.

Then there's that tax cut. If federal taxes are cut soon enough for the effect to be felt in the early months of 1964, increased consumer spending could boost already high retail sales and industrial production. If the tax cuts are voted sometime later, say in 1965, so that the actual extra spending money becomes available only toward the middle of the year, this could prove an anti-inflationary measure.

The lingering worry among some economists is how much of the age of the present upturn will be based on past experience. It shows that a current upturn usually follows a period of declining weakness. A downturn in the economy cycle usually comes as a surprise to most Americans, businessmen or workers, producers or consumers.

Some economists argue that business cycles have been largely tamed by government cautious or pump-priming. Others contend they have only lost the worst of their bite but are still with it.

Some of the caution signs now being raised are the easing off of the retail boom in housing construction and its manufacturers' new orders for durable goods. The seasonal retail sales and personal income of late haven't rung up the big gains of earlier this year.

That's why the good news from Detroit that the new car models seem to be catching on, with the promise of another good sales year, and the uptick in steel production which has firmed up, are viewed as especially encouraging right now.

And the forecasters are jangling the mood of it. Montanucci and the likelihood of tax cut had most of them to see only half-way ahead.

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I know of one only one absolutely infallible rule about the stock market. "You'll never go broke taking a profit." Let's say I buy some XYZ stock, at $100 a share. It goes up in price, to $150 a share. I sell. Then, it keeps going up, perhaps to $250 or $350 a share. In retrospect, I may feel like kicking myself around the block for not hanging on and selling at the high end of prices. But, meanwhile, I have pocketed a sweet profit.

Am I naive or are you with me?

A. You're not naive. That's for sure. You quite an adage that has been around Wall Street for longer than I have.

But that doesn't necessarily mean that I'm "with" you. I'm not.

Your example is nice and neat, you take your profit. You're joyful. Of course, you might be slightly disturbed by the capital-gains tax on your profit. But you'll know that, for the moment. Now, what do you do? Do you try to repeat the same process over and over again, with different stocks? If so, do successfully, that's just wonderful. You're a great hot-shot, in-and-out stock market trader. And you're paying big capital-gains taxes.

But, sooner or later, you're bound to make a mistake. All traders stub their toes, fall flat on their faces and lose their shirts.

People who buy good stocks and keep them are the really successful people in the stock market.

Here's another less popular but very true Wall Street adage for you to ponder.

"Traders die broke."

Q. I hope you can help me. I am a mutual funds salesman. I have been taking all kinds of abuse from friends, customers and people I hardly know ever since the securities and exchange commission released and sent to congress that part of its "special staff study of the securities market" dealing with mutual funds.

You wrote about that section (Chapter XI of the staff report) and described it as a "good report." You explained that it is not a "scatter-gun blast" as the mutual fund business. You said it "takes dead aim" at certain things in the business.

I only wish that you could hear what other people are saying. I know they haven't read chapter XI. I haven't read it, because I haven't been able to get a copy. Where can I get a copy, so that I can study it and be able to give factual answers to all these people who keep harping about it—even though they don't know what it says.

A. I wish I could help you. But what you ask for is not available to the general public yet. Chapter XI of the SEC staff report dealing with mutual funds will be in part four of the report when it is made available.

Then, you'll be able to get it from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C.

A limited number of mimeographed copies were distributed to stock exchanges, industry associations and the press when the different chapters were filed with congress.

News Around Idaho

BOISE, Oct. 8 (U-P)—The Great Northern Railway company has been authorized to discontinue its station at Naples in Boundary county but plans to maintain partial service to the small community. The Idaho public utilities commission authorized the discontinuance on grounds that Great Northern doesn't do enough business there to warrant expense of an agency. The railway said it lost $6,788 there last year, and $2,608 in the first five months of this year. The railway plans to continue passenger service of two trains by means of flag stops, with stops being made at the community, and freight service with one train per week at the endpoint 22 miles north.

His address will be the theme "God's work for our time."

BOISE, Oct. 8 (U-P)—Southwest Idaho teachers were told Monday they should try to give youngsters a positive attitude toward life, partly by helping them have a good image of themselves. The speaker was Dr. Lawrence Dierbach, executive secretary of education services of the National Education association and a former U.S. commissioner of education. He said a child should be taught to face reality, and at the same time should be given a positive approach. "A child's anxieties are as real as yours and mine," he said. "The people who succeed are those who know how to conquer their troubles." Dr. Dierbach said teachers should see if they are recognizing the importance of giving the child a good image of himself, recognizing the power to teaching youngsters to think for themselves and adopting teaching to meet the needs and abilities of the emotionally disturbed.

SALMON, Oct. 8 (U-P)—Harold McFarland, Carman Creek rancher, has been selected Lemhi county chairman of the year. Members of the Lemhi county grassman committee chose him over two other candidates. Russell Hillman, Lemhi county agent, said McFarland was chosen on the basis of his total land and livestock operation and the part he played in that operation. The Carman Creek rancher will be eligible for the central district grassman contest, and if he wins that he can compete for the state title.

It plans to seek a $70,000 rate increase. The PUC authorized the increases on a temporary basis, saying they would be adjusted when construction and operation costs are known. It noted that they are higher than most rates in Idaho. Silver Star users outside of Grays Lake, a cooperative, asked it to provide dial service.

Quintuplets Are Protected By Armed Guard at Hospital

ABERDEEN, S.D., Oct. 8 (U-P)—Three weeks after the Fischer quintuplets were born, a sunburned father halted an acquaintance in Aberdeen: "Say, where's St. Luke's hospital? Think I'll go over and see the quints."

He was back in no time, surprised on his weathered features. "They won't let you in," he complained. "This South Dakota prairie city could have saved him the trouble. They know the four girls and a boy, growing stronger daily, are all limits. They have adopted a live-and-let-live policy toward Andy and Mary Ann Fischer, the quint's parents. The Fischers operate in a strange semi-isolation while they carry out their contract for exclusive magazine and television rights to details of their story. Andy has been too busy to return to his $50-a-week job as a shipping clerk.

Aberdeen seems uncertain of how to proceed. Increased business, tourists and otherwise, which the quints are certain to draw, is tempting. But few persons would want it, or admit to wanting it, at the expense of the five's welfare or reasonable privacy.

It appears the quints will go home, when their doctor permits, to a weathered nine-room farmhouse. Its stucco sides are faded, but it sports a bright blue single roof.

No guard is posted to keep away the curious, but few stop. Those who do are turned away politely.

At the hospital, two miles to the southeast, the atmosphere is not as hushed.

An armed guard, equipped with a mirror that lets him see around a corner and down an outer hall, is on duty 24 hours a day a few feet from the nursery where the quints gain weight daily. Each must weigh about 5 1/2 pounds before being allowed to go home.

If you're the properly-identified parent of a new baby, you'll be by him, after the state health department in help with the expenses of the infant into the home (the first three weeks claimed even here, but Dr. T. O. Carver, state health administrator, said today he knows of no law on which such payment could be based).

SHORTAGE OF WATER MUST BE FACED
SEATTLE, Oct. 8 (U-P)—Water shortage is not a problem in the Pacific Northwest now, but it may become one, an official of the U. S. Reclamation service said Monday.

Grant A. Howell, Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke as the four-day annual convention of the Water Pollution Control Federation opened.

"Unless a concentrated effort is continuously made to save the water we have, the need for adequate water will become a problem for your area and the entire world," Howell said.

De-salting sea water, Howell believes, is impractical. "The pollution of the water problem," he said, "will be in developing ways to reuse it."

"By treating industrial wastes and the sewage we can use the water over and over again," he said.

Ike Wants GOP to Battle Out Policy Problems Publicly and Pick Candidate

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP) — President Dwight D. Eisenhower wants Republicans to battle out policy differences publicly at the 1964 convention—and then pick a presidential candidate best representing majority views proclaimed in a terse party platform.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Eisenhower said he would "like to see a good lively fight" among delegates in the GOP's caucus. In this way, "you could have the feeling of consensus of Republican thought" in the choice of presidential and vice presidential nominees.

Eisenhower, who wants this sort of wide-open policy debate on the convention floor, met with reporters in his office on the Gettysburg college campus. Here are other points he made in a far-ranging discussion of political matters:

—He believes he may have been mistaken in interpretation of some of the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater, particularly on repeal of the graduated income tax. But Eisenhower also believes that before the Arizona senator "can be considered a serious candidate, he has to do his best to make his views clear—in presidential primaries and foreign policy, medical care for the aged, fiscal responsibility, the farm problem and civil rights."

—He has "kept very still" in pressing a personal preference for the presidential nomination because "I have no intention of entering politics." But he thinks three or four men he declined to name are more highly qualified than others to be president.

—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has told him he was removing himself absolutely from the 1964 presidential nomination contest. "But," says Eisenhower, "I suppose that if I suddenly there was a wave of support that threw him again into the race, there would be no question about his capacity to perform the job."

Question: Mr. President, you had quite a bit of experience in the field. What kind of a president do you think Kennedy is making?

Gen. Eisenhower: One thing I have always avoided is dealing in personalities. But I will say that in almost every domestic program I see what I consider is a degree of, if not recklessness, at least of carelessness in our budgetary affairs, so that there are few domestic programs, that he has advanced, that I could agree with wholly.

Q. The other day you wrote that you are nuclear on precisely what are Sen. Goldwater's personal views. You called on him and other Republican presidential possibilities to state their views clearly. On what particular issues are you unclear about Goldwater? Do they include, for example, civil rights?

A. I don't know exactly what he has said about civil rights, but I think he has probably taken a moderate course. I believe he must believe, like all of us, in progress in this field. As a matter of fact, I believe in just as fast progress as we can make, but it must not be an impulsive

Boss Bumbles in Act of Firing His Bookkeeper

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — You could take another course in bookkeeping, said a Baltimore man, after firing his bookkeeper.

The man, who is a boss, fired his bookkeeper after a series of mistakes. The bookkeeper had made several errors in the company's accounts.

as to be destructive. Q. Senator Goldwater professed himself to be mystified, saying he thought he had made his views on the issues very clear. Kennedy next year? I assume you think that. A. I may have been mistaken, but I thought at one time he had argued for complete repeal of the graduated income tax. In this I have been told that I was mistaken. But a couple of weeks ago in an interview, he said he was not in principle. He thought the only practical thing to do was to keep the graduated tax in proper bounds, useful bounds, that would do the least damage to incentives and our capabilities of accumulating reinvestment capital while we were getting the necessary revenues to run the country.

I accept this attitude, except that I believe the graduated income tax, within reason, correct in principle, too. I think unquestionably his view now is one that he is close to mine. But there have been a number of his views in the past that my friends and I, in our talks, have just not known in detail.

I assume that if he comes into a position of candidacy, that he will try to take each of these things—the farm problem, sound fiscal proposals, foreign affairs and whatever—that he will define his approach in terms that a man can say, "I can take this," or, "I would object to this."

Q. Specifically, on civil rights Goldwater has said he is opposed to what is called the public accommodations proposal. I wonder what your view on that particular proposal is?

A. Personally, I would think if we are going to get into this as a matter of law, and if you could get it passed, we should base our effort on the 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution.

If I had to vote on this thing on the theory that the interstate commerce clause of the constitution would give you the necessary authority to establish such a law and enact it, and enforce it, I would be very doubtful. I can't believe the framers of our constitution would try to take the interstate commerce clause and make it apply to a little thing like a hamburger place, so to require who comes in there and who couldn't.

I would hope that here we would have an awful lot of moral authority—as much as law—because I can see many ways that you probably could settle this thing.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — Dorothy Lamour went before the Baltimore city council for a job interview. She told the councilmen she could do a good job as a member of the Baltimore civic center commission even though she was a woman and the majority think people in show business are highly.

"Mr. chairman," interrupted councilman Joseph Curran, "I don't think Miss Lamour's sex is an infinitely."

The other councilmen agreed, and promptly confirmed the appointment of the former actress, now Mrs. William R. Howard III, to the commission.

Cowboy Back Cited Again By WAC

DENVER, Oct. 8 (AP)—Tom Wilkinson, Wyoming's sophomore quarterback, was named back of the week in the Western Athletic conference today for the second week in a row.

Jeff Jefferson, Utah end, was chosen lineman of the week. Wilkinson, who was named back of the week last week, was named back of the week for the second week in a row.

Only one other WAC back, Elton Fortie of Brigham Young, ever won the honor two weeks in a row. Wilkinson, who was named back of the week last week, was named back of the week for the second week in a row.

Both the number of completions and the yardage were Wyoming records. Wilkinson's quarterbacking engineered two Wyoming touchdowns in the closing minutes of the first half as he passed for another score in the third quarter, as the Cowboys moved to a 42-7 lead.

Fullmer Has Urge to Try One Last Bout

TEANECK, N.J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Gene Fullmer is fighting the toughest battle of his life and it's not his hearing chips.

A little voice keeps telling him to "try one more fight and a million voices—his own—want him to call it quits.

While he tries to make up his mind, the former middleweight champion, now 32, bites his lip and works on his mink farm and quarter-horse ranch in West Jordan, Utah, and trains his brother, Don, for his future shot at the title he once held.

"I've been trying to talk myself into retiring ever since the last fight against Dick Tiger in August," Gene said, "but that little voice keeps telling me to try it once more."

"I'm still undecided. In a way, I'd like to try it again but my wife and family are against it. I haven't got a definite date when I'll make up my mind but it won't be too long."

"I haven't been in a ring or had a pair of gloves on since the last Tiger fight. I've been keeping busy on my two ranches, which are coming along fine. In fact, I just went to Oklahoma and bred one of my mares to a high-priced stallion."

Gene has found it increasingly tougher to get into shape.

"The last few years I've always been 15 pounds or so overweight between fights," he said, "and the same reducing method as Archie Moore. He says he learned it from an Australian origami. I call it origami."

Koufax Is Top Vote Getter in All-Star Voting

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers' world series star, led the vote Monday, this time heading the voting for the annual Associated Press major league all-star baseball team.

The fireballing left-hander, a 25-year-old star in his regular season, was named on 68 of the 71 ballots by baseball writers. He was the only Dodger player chosen for the all-star team. The voting was based on regular season performance.

The St. Louis Cardinals placed three on the All-Stars, first baseman Bill White, third baseman Ken Boyer and shortstop Dick Groat.

The New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants each placed two men. Second baseman Bobby Richardson and catcher Elton Howard represented the Yankees, while outfielder Willie Mays and Juan Marichal, a right-handed pitcher, made it for the Giants.

Outfielders Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Al Kaline of Detroit rounded out the 10-man squad.

The Dodgers, who swept the Yankees in four straight series games, had three players on the team. They were second baseman Jim Gilliam, shortstop Maury Wills and outfielder Tommy Davis. The National League batting champion.

Valley School Sets Lecture For Nov. 30

KEN HAZELTON, Oct. 8.—The atomic energy commission is sponsoring a demonstration lecture program, entitled "This Atomic World," to be presented Oct. 30 at the Valley High School, The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn., will present the program.

The institute is a nonprofit, educational corporation of 30 southern universities and colleges, operating under contract with the atomic energy commission. The traveling exhibit units which visit hundreds of high schools throughout the nation each year, are designed to provide the public with a better understanding of atomic energy.

Kenneth W. Reagles, an exhibit manager, who has received special training in nuclear science, will present the program. He holds a bachelor of science degree from Wisconsin State College.

The demonstrations and lectures are designed specifically to acquaint high school students with the basic principles and uses of atomic energy and to stimulate their interest in science.

Subjects to be covered include atomic structure, the nucleus and radioactivity, radiation biology, fusion, fission and the uses of radioisotopes. The application of these isotopes in agriculture, industry and medicine is an important aspect of the non-military use of atomic energy. Projections for the use of the atom in rocketry and space travel also will be discussed.

Faith 7 to Be On Display In Boise

BOISE, Oct. 8 (UP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper's Faith 7 space capsule, which carried him on 22 orbits around the Earth in the last flight of the project Mercury program, will be on display in Boise next May 14-17.

Its final day here will mark the first anniversary of the historic 34-hour and 20 minute flight.

"This is an opportunity for the young people of Idaho to view a vessel that, in history, will rank with the Mayflower or Colonel Lindeberg's Spirit of St. Louis," said Gov. Robert E. Smylie. "I am especially hopeful every school child in Idaho will have the opportunity to see Faith 7."

The Idaho congressional delegation and the governor cooperated in making local arrangements for the capsule's visit, part of a tour of the capital cities of all 50 states.

On display with it will be food similar to the supply Major Cooper took on the flight, cameras and survival equipment.

KENNETH W. REAGLES will present an atomic energy demonstration lecture program Oct. 30 at the Valley High School. The program is sponsored by the atomic energy commission and is presented by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. Reagles, exhibit manager, holds a bachelor of science degree from Wisconsin State College.

Winnie Ruth Judd, Infamous Murderess, Still Free

PHOENIX, Oct. 8 (UP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, the minister's daughter who became famous as the insane "tiger woman" murderer, escaped prison one year at 10 a day and she hasn't been arrested since.

It is the longest period of freedom she has known since she was sentenced to die for killing two friends and slipping them bottles in a trunk to California a few days after she walked through a door that was "accidentally left open."

Between 1930 and last year, she escaped six times. Each time she was back in custody. She was freed for periods of a few years up to six weeks. This time, authorities "saw" her never return.

It is a case still marked open by law enforcement agencies because she made no particular effort to escape her whereabouts since her escape. She was found in a trunk in California a few days after she walked through a door that was "accidentally left open."

Part of the hospital's fence had been torn down for a paving project, and the one notorious murderer failed into the night. Her journey into the nation's headlines began when an attendant in a Los Angeles railroad station found blood seeping from a large trunk that had been shipped from Phoenix.

Inside were the dismembered bodies of two young women, Agnes Apple Leoni, an X-ray technician, and Hedvig Samuelson, a school teacher.

Mrs. Judd had been a close friend of the two women. The trunk was traced to her. She was brought to trial.

The prosecution said she killed her two friends in a jealous rage over a man. The all-male jury convicted her and said she must hang.

Three days before her scheduled execution, and after the invitations to a hanging were already in the mail, she was declared insane at a hearing proceeded through the efforts of the prison warden. In 1957, the death sentence was commuted to life in prison if she should be found sane.

Mrs. Judd, now 59, was born in a farmhouse in Oxford, Ind., in 1905. She was married to Dr. William Judd when she was 22, but apparently had left him when she arrived here in 1930.

Authorities think she has had and living somewhere and help since her escape, but have to death.

and speculated on the identity of the supposed benefactor. The supposed benefactor has been called from throughout the nation, but none have proved reliable. A year of freedom has been granted her, but she is not allowed to be still in the country. Next week marks the anniversary of her life.

It was on the night of Oct. 16, 1931, that Agnes Apple Leoni and Hedvig Samuelson were killed.

Ketchum Club Meet Airs Project

KETCHUM, Oct. 8.—Principal discussion during the meeting of the Ketchum Rod and Gun club Friday evening was the current work project of setting up new trapshooting grounds northwest of Ketchum.

The club will use 20 acres under a special use permit from the bureau of land management. Jack Wilderman, president, says James Patterson, Ketchum engineer, will survey the ground this week.

The traps have been moved from their former location at Warm Springs ranch. Wilderman asked anyone interested in helping with the work to contact any of the officers. Clyde Bell is vice president and Eugene Sowerby, secretary.

James Limes showed a colored home movie of duck and pheasant hunting in the area.

Members voted to change the regular meeting night from the first Friday to the first, Thursday of each month. All meetings are held at the city hall.
