Two-Nation Peace Parley Under Way

BAMAKO, Mali, Oct. 29 (AP)—President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and King Hassan II of Morocco arrived in Bamako today to bring their border parley to the conference table. Hassan, first to arrive, was smiling. Ben Bella arrived about a half hour later. Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a prime mover in mediation efforts, was the last to arrive. President Modibo Keita of Mali immediately invited the three leaders to lunch at his place before the first session of the conference. Western diplomats hoped the meeting would produce a ceasefire in the disputed border area between Morocco and Algeria, but they doubted any of the fundamental issues dividing the two North African neighbors would be resolved. Ben Bella told his people by radio that he was optimistic for peace. To strengthen the Moroccan position at the talks, Hassan's government announced its troops were eight miles from Tindouf, well in the territory claimed by Algeria.

House Judiciary Group Bumps Hard Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (UPI)—The house judiciary committee, won over by President Kennedy's persuasion, today jettisoned a "tough" civil rights bill and adopted a compromise proposal that had bipartisan backing. Both measures would ban racial discrimination in public accommodations such as restaurants, hotels and theaters; strengthen Negro voting and job rights, and allow the federal government a greater initiative in taking civil rights suits to court. Today's two votes clinched an intensive personal effort by the President to sidetrack a far-reaching bill written by a judiciary subcommittee which the administration felt stood little chance of winning approval by congress.

The subcommittee measure was killed by a 19-15 vote. The parent judiciary committee then passed a bill in favor of the more palatable substitute which some Negro leaders have charged was a "sell out." A final vote on formally sending the measure to the house was put off until the committee's next meeting expected shortly. But Kennedy's hard-won victory seemed certain.

Both bills were built on similar frameworks. The biggest objection to the subcommittee measure centered on its "part three" section. This would have allowed the justice department to initiate court action in any case in which an individual claimed his constitutional or legal rights were being violated. The administration also balked at the "part three" section. (See CIVIL RIGHTS, Page 2)

"The senator said he was using his speech in order to put before Romney the question: 'Do the Mormons still believe in the curse of Cain being on Negroes from their birth to their grave?'"

Romney was not available for immediate comment.

Publisher Raps Bureaucratic Secrecy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers' Association (ANPA) charged today that some federal agencies try to cover up their own costly mistakes by refusing to disclose information about their activities.

Eugene S. Pulliam, assistant publisher of the Indianapolis Star and the Indianapolis News and an ANPA spokesman testified before a senate subcommittee on freedom of information. The subcommittee considered legislation to give the press a right to file questions directly with the government.

Pulliam, in a prepared statement, said that an "overlapping number of bureaucratic agencies pay only lip service to the concept of the people's right to know about their government."

Pulliam charged that "bureaucratic insolence in this field goes so far that congress must pass specific legislation in some instances just to obtain information about the spending of funds."

Burley Names 7 Directors For Chamber

Members were urged to attend the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce annual meeting Monday in Boise.

It was announced there will be no chamber meeting in Burley Nov. 4 or Nov. 11 because of the annual meeting in Boise and American day.

At Thyron was presented a $500 check from the Chamber of Commerce to help the Lion club pay for bleachers to be installed at the high school football field. BLM Starts Juniper and Pinon Study

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—The bureau of land management is taking a new look at pinons and junipers, those low-growing evergreens that cover millions of acres in the West.

For years, the trees have been eradicated to make way for grasses and other types of ground cover in rangelands and watersheds.

Now the bureau of land management wants to find out if the eradication program by farmers, ranchers and others is paying dividends, or causing a loss.

To answer the question, Utah state university's agricultural experiment station has been granted $46,000 for a two-year study of pinons and junipers.

The land management bureau has assigned a forester, a range specialist and a soil specialist to the study team, director Charles H. Stoddard announced Monday.

"This study is under way because we have become aware, as eradication spreads over increasingly large areas, of the lack of information about this form of vegetation," the bureau director said.

"The latest study will include the relationship of pinon-juniper stands to watersheds. We want to know whether replacing pinons and junipers with grass actually results in greater water yields and higher water quality. We want to determine the effects on soil stability, on livestock forage and on wildlife habitat.

"We want to know, for example, if a hillside composed of certain soils can be better managed for multiple use with grass or with stands of pinon and juniper. We want to know what will happen to the equation if these factors are varied."

moving natural gas
cross-country to home and industry

Natural gas doesn't mosey through the pipelines in its travels from the gas fields to your home. It has hundreds of miles to cross, thousands of people to serve, and it is sent along at speeds up to 35 miles an hour—reaching the Pacific Northwest within two days—pushed along by compressor stations located along the pipeline. Shown here are men from El Paso Natural Gas Company's skilled compressor station crews who operate the huge reciprocating engines that speed natural gas through the mainlines. Because of these men and powerful equipment, the clean-burning flame that performs so efficiently in your furnace, hot water heater, clothes dryer and kitchen range is constantly at hand in ample quantities, the moment you turn on the gas. Other homemakers, business and industries require it. If you are using modern natural gas, call your local gas company* and learn its many advantages.

Young Man's Life Reflects Story of Generation Caught in Hot-Cold War

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
HONG KONG, Oct. 20 (AP)—

Washed up in the slight figure of a bewildered young man is the story of a generation caught in a world of hot and cold war.

It is a story of a young man who thought he had found the answer and discovered that his answer was wrong. Today he has no dreams, no illusions, not even an "ism" to cling to.

He was born the same year as the great world depression. He was 11 when the Nazis invaded his country. He was a teen-ager when World War II ended.

He went to the United States and fought for the United States, tried to be an American and failed to make it. He found frustration, he turned to communism, and found hopelessness.

Albert Belhomme, now 34, is one of those men described by the word "turncoat." He was one of a small group of Americans captured in Korea who refused to be repatriated.

He would up 13 years later in a tiny one-room flat in a rundown hotel in Hong Kong, with his Chinese wife and three children, living on handouts of the Red Cross and the Salvation Army and waiting to be sent to his native land, Belgium.

"I felt myself a sort of idealist," he told me. "I had faith in people. A lot of that has been destroyed. I have not really lost faith in people, but I know now that power is the most corrupting thing in society. I am going to stay away from all political parties from now on. There is no future in it for me."

Belhomme was knocked about by the European war. He wound up in Berlin at 16 when the war ended. A year later his mother took him to the United States and settled in Ashland, Pa.

"I tried to get a job," he said, "but there were obstacles, because I was not a citizen, so I took out first papers. Then I heard that you could become a citizen more quickly if you were in the army, so I joined."

In the summer of 1950 he was shipped to Korea with a field artillery battalion. Belhomme was a corporal by the time he and 11 buddies were captured late in November. They were taken to a prisoner camp on the Yalu river.

They were lodged 30 men to a room, so crowded that often they could not lie down. Their food was mostly boiled kernels of corn. They were too weak to bury their dead. They rolled the bodies in mats and laid them in the snow.

Their captors supplied them with reading matter, all political propaganda, and mostly Soviet publications. By the time negotiations were under way for prisoner exchanges, conditions got better in the camp, and there was more food.

Belhomme refused repatriation. He had been a prisoner almost three years. The thinking-over period failed to change his mind because he felt he already had gone beyond the point of no return. He had only two choices: home or China.

They took him to Shansi province, to the town of Taiyuan, where he was taught some basic Chinese and given more political indoctrination. He was put to work in a flour mill as an electrician.

In 1956 he married Hsu Ying. Then came the children, Billy, Ricky and Leon. But he felt the pressure of the communist state. Nobody was free to move, free to speak.

Last Aug. 30 he came out of China with his family, "sick and tired of the place."

"The life, the industry, the farms and all the rest did not agree with what I had read . . . The people were pathetic, although active resistance was out of the question. I had been of the opinion that people are basically good and, given a chance, could make a go of communism. But it was proven to me that it isn't possible."

He was taught some basic Chinese and given more political indoctrination. He was put to work in a flour mill as an electrician.

In 1956 he married Hsu Ying. Then came the children, Billy, Ricky and Leon. But he felt the pressure of the communist state. Nobody was free to move, free to speak.

Last Aug. 30 he came out of China with his family, "sick and tired of the place."

"The life, the industry, the farms and all the rest did not agree with what I had read . . . The people were pathetic, although active resistance was out of the question. I had been of the opinion that people are basically good and, given a chance, could make a go of communism. But it was proven to me that it isn't possible."

"Hazelton State Bank ...

... Whoops!"

I Mean Fidelity National Bank, Hazelton Branch"

A perfectly normal mistake. After all it was the Hazelton State Bank every banking day for over 50 years. We, at Fidelity, would have the same trouble if we changed our name . . . we've been in business since 1908. Now, don't expect any sweeping changes since Fidelity has taken over ownership at Hazelton . . . After all those years of continuous operation, the management over there (same as always) must know what they are doing. We think we do, too, (never closed our doors, either) and we are proud to be able to serve not only the south side, but the area covered by the Hazelton State Bank . . . oh, well, you know what we mean.

An empty place at the table

In a home, not far from where you live, there's an empty place at the table. Not too long ago, a mother sat there. Today she is in a mental hospital... away from her children... away from her husband... alone in the depths of her mental illness. Every day her children ask: "When is mother coming home?" And her husband asks: "When is my wife coming home?" The doctor has to answer: "Many patients do get better, but many do not. Every day we wait for research to give us new ways to combat mental illness. Until then, this mother—and thousands of other mothers and fathers must wait."

Research has found the answer for some. It can find the answer for all. Support research on mental illness. Support help for the mentally ill. Give to the National Association for Mental Health through your local chapter.

Burglars Enter Quads' Home

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—The parents of new quadriplegics were burglarized of about $2,000 worth of jewelry over the week-end, police reported Monday night.

Police quoted Martin Brecker, father of the three girls and a boy born last Wednesday, as saying that about a dozen pieces of jewelry had been taken and possibly some of his wife's clothes.

Brecker said he had left his fourth floor apartment in Rego Park Queens to spend the week-end with his wife's father in Sunnyside, Queens, and returned Monday night to find the bedroom of the apartment ransacked.

CREWMEN RUSH toward their planes from underground quarters as the air force called a B52 bomber alert for visiting newsmen at March air force base, Calif., Monday. Tire Cutters Sentenced In Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 29 (AP)—Three former college students, accused of causing more than $5,000 in damage on a tire slashing spree Oct. 14, were sentenced Monday to contact personally over 100 owners of damaged autos.

Justice Ellsworth Gump found the trio guilty on charges of vagrancy and malicious destruction of property. He sentenced them to a year in jail with all but 90 days suspended.

The youths—Michael L. Skowron, 20, Great Falls; Edward M. McElligott, 18, Anchorage; and Phillip J. Sheridan, 18, Everett, Wash., will serve 90 days of the sentence in jail.

The other 30 days they will split up, each taking a third of the owners of the 250 tires slashed. They will contact the owners, according to the sentence, to arrange for restitution. They were earlier dropped from Gonzaga university here.

Air Force Scrambles So Fast Newsmen Muff Their Picture

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Oct. 29 (AP)—The air force called a B52 bomber alert for visiting newsmen Monday—and did it so well that some were caught with their cameras down.

But officers obligingly restaged the first part of the exercise—a mass mad-rush exodus of bomber crewmen from their underground quarters at this strategic air command base.

The newsmen were on the base for their first inspection of the fifteenth air force's new combat operations center—a computer-packed control building capable of taking over direction of the nation's air might if SAC's center at Omaha, Neb., should be knocked out in war.

The commander, Lieut. Gen. Archie J. Old, Jr., told newsmen in a briefing that more than 50 per cent of the Fifteenth's bombers here and at other bases could be put in the air in eight to 10 minutes.

and expecting praise, came back to their quarters.

Tactically, their superiors explained that they had responded to the alert so fast that many of the cameramen missed the first part of the scramble, and would they please do it again. They did—for the cameramen.

A horn sounded at 2:30 p. m. just as the visitors were emerging from a tour of the so-called "alert" facility, a fenced-off building where crewmen await an emergency they hope will never come.

Some of the visitors had to move fast to avoid being trampled in the rush of uniformed youngsters who rushed up a ramp to the concrete apron outside.

In less than one minute the first B52's powerful eight-jet engines were roaring.

By 2:34 p. m. the great bombers were ready to roll.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP) — The market in chemicals proved an irregularly higher and active one today.

Union Carbide, Dow Oil, Eastman, Thiokol and Allied Chemicals, which have been up for a long time, the last one of them, the earnings. General Motors, which has reported the third quarter's earnings, and record nine-month earnings, moved up to a new high of 110 1/2. The stock has been a steady performer on the "street" but it might either raise its dividend or split its stock.

Similar rumors also have a similar effect on RCA, American Telephone and Xerox. Xerox was up 1/2 point, while RCA was down 1/2 point. It is studying a new stock issue, which it is studying a new stock issue, which it is studying a new stock issue.

Raytheon, which has been a steady performer on the "street" but it might either raise its dividend or split its stock.

Services of Valet Quite Expensive

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28 (AP)—Frank Sinatra's valet makes $1,000 a month, including tips from his celebrity friends, his wife said Monday. But it's a valet denied receiving money from not those from Glanville.

Valet George St. Jacobs, 41, was the principal topic at a hearing at which his wife requested $100 monthly support for herself and three children, pending trial of her divorce action.

He testified he received $715 monthly salary, plus $100 to $200 monthly in tips from such personalities as Dean Martin, Yvonne, a friend of Sinatra and Miss Romanoff.

Asked about Glanville, Jacobs said all he knows is what he reads in the headlines. Sinatra abandoned extensive gambling interests in Nevada recently after officials claimed Glanville, Chicago underworld figure, had stayed at a Sinatra casino resort.

The court ordered Jacobs, 37, to pay $525 monthly pending the trial.

Rosellini Almost Leaks Race Plans

OLYMPIA, Oct. 28 (AP)—Gov. Rosellini almost announced his candidacy for reelection to an unprecedented third successive term Monday night but not quite.

He went to the brink in responding to a Republican's prediction that the Kennedy brothers will see to it that he is not a candidate for reelection.

"That's just wishful thinking on the part of the Republican party," Rosellini said on his return to Washington from a 16-day trip to Japan.

"They would like to have me out of the way."

The statement was made last Wednesday by Charles Odell, Fort Orchard, Kitsap county Republican Central committee chairman.

He said the Kennedy brothers could get Rosellini out of the way by appointing him as a federal judge, ambassador or undersecretary.

Ike Elected

Quake Shakes Virginia Area

CHARLottesville, Va., Oct. 28 (AP)—Four earth tremors — one of which shook sidewalks — struck mountainous southwest Virginia Monday.

Three earlier ones, also slight and of short duration, were recorded on the seismograph at Virginia Institute of Technology in nearby Blacksburg.

There were no reports of damage.

Fish Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—The food and drug administration (FDA) Monday agreed to clear up a "misunderstanding" about a warning against fish infected with the deadly botulism virus.

An FDA spokesman said it would re-emphasize that the warnings does not apply to fresh, canned, or fresh-frozen fish from the Great Lakes region.

An FDA warning Friday said that all stocks of smoked fish from the Great Lakes area should be destroyed unless they had been cooked at a high temperature during processing or had been frozen until eaten.

The warning, however, does not apply to smoked fish from any place other than the Great Lakes.
