

Americans Urged Not to Depend On Government

About 1,000 people heard Paul Harvey, news commentator, explain Americans should get off their seats and do things themselves without being told by the government. He spoke at the Twin Falls high school gymnasium Saturday night, the talk highlighting Saturday's session of the three-day Jaycee-sponsored governmental affairs forum here. Harvey spoke on communism and Khrushchev.

Police Saw Ruby Before Oswald Shot

DALLAS, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Dallas policeman today admitted seeing Jack Ruby come into the city hall basement several minutes before he shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald, the Dallas Times Herald said tonight.

Harvey stressed the point there are certain towns in the states that have five-hour days and 40-hour weeks and are getting paid for doing nothing. He explained bosses are known to be lazy, do nothing and still get paid for it. He added Uncle Sam is one of the poorest financial managers.

Harvey said, "The government is a good servant, but a bad master." He noted citizens of the United States always point at Washington as being at fault, but the fault lies in the people themselves.

He spoke about the national debt and said all newborn babies will be born into a 314-billion-dollar debt. "Something is not done about it. We can't even pay the interest of our national debt now," he added.

"Now is the time to stand up and be counted instead of letting the government tell us what to do," Harvey declared. He explained he feels citizens are being controlled by fear—fear of Russians, fear of growing old and fear of being out of a job.

He noted there is a great amount of corruption in Washington. (See DONT WAIT, Page 2)

Sportsmen Challenged at Annual Meet to Accept Responsibilities

"Sportsmen in the West are going to have to wake up and accept their responsibilities in wildlife management before it is too late," declares Frank W. Groves, Reno, director of the Nevada fish and game commission. He spoke at the banquet of the 29th annual meeting of the Idaho Wildlife Federation at the Elks lodge here Saturday night. "We need sportsmen more than at any time in the history of wildlife conservation, to inform the public," he continued.

Walter Priebe, Twin Falls, fourth district commissioner on the state fish and game commission, reviewed accomplishments of the commission in the past 10 years. "Ray J. Holmes, Twin Falls, fourth district commissioner on the state fish and game commission, reviewed accomplishments of the commission in the past 10 years."

Alvin Benson, Melba, presented several certificates of award from the Landholder Sportsmen's council. Recipients included Elmer Anns, Twin Falls. A plaque was given Milford J. Vaught, Big Springs ranch. (See SPORTSMEN on page 2)

Gooding bloodmobile will be in Gooding from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, according to Mrs. Charles Gee, Red Cross blood chairman. The drawing will be held at the War Memorial hall and the quota is 125 points.

Mrs. Gee said that a contest between town residents and country donors will be held. Records will be kept and she said it is hoped enough interest will be created so that Gooding will reach the quota.

Johnson Proposes Measures to Cut Military Spending

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Johnson announced new measures today that will cut next year's military budget but indicated the total U.S. budget will exceed 102 billion dollars. Johnson made these and other major announcements at an unscheduled "coffee hour" with reporters in his office. Some of the other points he covered were:—The President will go to New York on Dec. 17 to address the United Nations and "establish acquaintance" with the delegates.

Bolivian Miners Kidnap Americans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The state department said today that three U.S. government officials and a peace corps volunteer were seized by miners in Bolivia on Friday and are being held as hostages for three communist labor leaders arrested by the Bolivian government. Richard I. Phillips, state department press officer, said the Americans, seized along with COMIBOL—Corporacion Minera de Bolivia—technicians, are Thomas M. Martin, United States information service assistant information officer from New York; Michael A. Kristula, USIS assistant information officer, Cadillac, Mich.; Bernard Rifkin, labor adviser for the agency for international development, and Robert Pergerstrom, peace corps volunteer.

Rail Strike Threat Eased By Agreement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Conductors' union and the Pullman company reached agreement in a contract dispute today that removed the threat of a crippling railroad strike starting next Wednesday. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz announced the settlement following intensive mediation efforts by one of his top aides, Assistant Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds.

Today's agreement ended a long-standing dispute that began in 1959 when the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen (ORCB) demanded shorter hours, more pay, job security guarantees and rules changes. The labor department did not announce details of the settlement but it said that hours would be reduced from 205 to 180 per month, effective Jan. 1.

The President also announced that he has approved a plan by McNamara to reduce civilian employment in the defense department to less than one million for the first time since early 1950. The goal is to cut the payroll by 25,000, to $97,000 by July 1, 1965.

McNamara later disclosed the number of military and civilian employs in defense headquarters overseas will be reduced by the end of next June by 15 per cent. And personnel of all military missions and military assistance groups will be slashed by 10 per cent.

Both these reductions will be in addition to the cut of 25,000 in civilian payrolls within the United States.

Annual Yule Parade Here Is Presented

Hundreds of area residents lined Twin Falls streets Saturday afternoon to view the annual Christmas parade sponsored by the Ministerial association. There were eight floats and five choirs in the parade plus Scout troop No. 168 which led the group with American and Christian flags followed by a cross carried by a member of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

The youth choir of the Episcopal church followed the cross with the choir followed by a float presented by the First Church of the Nazarene with the theme, "No Room at the Inn." The high school girls' chorus sang along the parade route followed by the "Shepherds in the Field," float sponsored by the First Baptist church.

A manger scene was presented by the Salvation Army and the First Methodist church presented "Wise Men Travel." The First Methodist church junior choir sang "O Come All Ye Faithful," for the parade and Beta Sigma Phi sorority sang "Peace on Earth."

Our Savior Lutheran church, First Presbyterian church and First Presbyterian church entered floats and choirs. Our Savior Lutheran church sponsored the "Wise Men Worshipping," float and the junior choir sang "Away in a Manger." The First Christian church used the theme, "A Child is Praying," for the float and the choir sang, "Tell Me the Story of Jesus."

"Christmas and the Cross" was the float theme sponsored by the First Presbyterian church followed by the choir singing three Christmas songs.

32 DIE IN WRECK LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 7 (AP)—A truck carrying 52 men to work plunged off a bridge into the Cutato river in Angola, carrying all aboard to their deaths.

SHOSHONE, Dec. 7 — A 2-year-old quarter horse owned by Roy Couch was recovering today after falling through the ice on Little Wood river Thursday afternoon in the east part of town. The animal became the object of rescue by city crews who worked for more than one-half hour to remove him. Mrs. Myrtle Albright notified city crews when she noticed the horse floundering in the icy water. The horse was pastured along the river at the east edge of town. A loader was used to haul the animal to the city shops several blocks away. Blankets were warmed and a veterinarian called. Couch said he left the horse at the shop overnight, then moved him to his barn Friday. "He was so stiff he couldn't move by the time they got him out of the water," the owner commented. He said the horse still could contract pneumonia, but so far he shows no ill effects.

Adjournment Favor Mounts in Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Adjournment sentiment mounted today while senate and house leaders mapped action for the coming weeks on some controversial matters. Democratic leaders plan to keep both house and senate grinding away two more weeks until Dec. 20. But Sen. Barry Goldwater, D., Ariz., joined in protests against this, saying "we ought to complete action on the appropriation bills and forget the rest of this stuff."

We are not getting anywhere on the tax and civil rights bills," Goldwater said in an interview. "Why waste time?" "We should quit now and come back for the new session in January. I've never seen senators so frustrated."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D., Mont., disagreed, saying, "We will be here until the 20th."

"We were elected to conduct the people's business. The place of duty for all senators is at their desks until Dec. 20," he said.

Biggest logjam facing the adjournment-minded congress involves the more than a dozen annual appropriation bills. These supply operating funds for all government activities for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Only four of these have cleared congress and been signed into law. The house, which always acts first on the money bills, has passed on all except the annual foreign-aid funds.

Mansfield plans senate floor action on three of these money bills next week, and a compromise agreement on another.

Four other money bills still are stalemated in efforts at senate-house compromises and these also are listed for completion next week.

Laborite Leader Guarded After Threat of Death

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Police are guarding Laborite leader Harold Wilson around the clock because of a threat to assassinate him, a party spokesman revealed today. Wilson has been guarded by special branch officers of Scotland Yard since receipt of the threat in an unsigned letter mailed Tuesday from Bolton, Lancashire.

The letter said Wilson—who would become prime minister if the Labor party wins the next national election—would be assassinated by 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Moving Day

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Johnsons moved into the White House today, taking up residence at the famous mansion they visited often as guests dating back to the FDR era.

Mrs. Johnson took a major hand in supervising moving of the family's personal belongings from their elegant Spring Valley section home, but signed that it would be a month before they are settled.

Importance Of Grass Is Emphasized

IDAHO FALLS, Dec. 7 (AP)—Close to 200 attending the annual meeting of the Idaho section of the Society of Range Management heard a noted speaker extol the common grass as the major force in a diverse basis of a community.

He was Joseph F. Pechanec, director of the intermountain forest and range experiment station at Ogden, Utah, formerly director of the U.S. experiment station at Dubois.

Pechanec said that the grass traditionally provides raw material base for the range livestock industry.

He emphasized, however, several major forces of new income in the field. Among them are hunters and fishermen, outdoor recreation and directly the protection of watersheds, in both quality and quantity.

He concluded that contributions by grass to community incomes is now far greater than in the past. He cited the figure of 122 million dollars in Idaho from the livestock industry alone.

At a business meeting preceding the meeting plans were discussed for bringing the group's national convention to Boise in 1967. Delegates to the 1964 convention, to be held in Wichita, Kans. in February, will be instructed to push for the action, according to Wes Fields, chairman of the local group.

President of the Utah section of the society attended the meeting, and assured support of that section. (See GRASS, page 2)

Cheap Power From Atom Seen Sooner

SPOKANE, Dec. 7 (AP)—Nuclear energy may tip the scales toward cheaper power within 20 years, a Canadian uranium expert said here today.

By the 1960s, one fifth of new energy requirements will come from nuclear reactors, said William M. Gilchrist. "This means that demand for uranium in 1980 will have surpassed the boom years of the 1950s."

Gilchrist is president of Eldorado Mining and Refining, Ltd. of Ottawa, the Canadian government's uranium buying agent. He was the main speaker at the final session of the Northwest Mining association convention here.

Louisiana Race Led By Morrison

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7 (AP)—DeLeesses Morrison, an ambassador in the Kennedy administration, raced far ahead of nine other candidates in the Louisiana Democratic gubernatorial primary election tonight and seemed certain of a spot in a January runoff.

In second place was former Gov. Robert Kennon, a conservative who had campaigned on an anti-Kennedy platform until the President was assassinated Nov. 22.

All candidates were pro-segregationist. With 949 of 2,219 precincts reporting, Morrison, former ambassador to the Organization of American States and onetime New Orleans mayor, had 141,811 votes to 59,887 for Kennon. Third was public service Commissioner John J. McKeithen with 54,716.

Fourth was Rep. Ollis Long, a member of the Long political dynasty, with 50,341 and fifth was staunch segregationist Shelby Jackson with 30,327. The other five candidates were out of the running.

Despite some rain, a record turnout approaching one million voters was forecast in the 14-hour voting period.

60-Member Committee Forming for Auditorium Drive

Moving swiftly to complete a 60-member executive sales committee before Christmas, the Civic Auditorium Convention Center group held an organizational meeting Friday at the Rogerson hotel Roundup room, reports Henry Wills, president of the Civic Auditorium association, Inc.

Fifteen Twin Falls business, civic and professional leaders have agreed to serve on the sales committee, the governing body of the campaign. Campaign workers will begin securing subscriptions immediately after the New Year toward a goal of $500,000 with which to construct a civic auditorium seating 1,200 persons in conjunction with a convention center with a 600-seat banquet hall.

Plans for AEC Change Are Opposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Three members of the Idaho congressional delegation plan to meet with atomic energy commission officials Tuesday to protest any transfer of projects from the Idaho national reactor testing station.

Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho, said Friday they will ask Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, AEC chairman, if it is true, "as has been reported in Idaho, that some of the projects scheduled for the Idaho station may be reassigned to the AEC plant at Hanford, Wash."

Sen. Ralph B. Jordan, R., Idaho, Rep. Ralph Harding, D., Idaho, and Church will meet with Seaborg and R. Lueddecke, general manager of operating and promotional functions for the AEC in Church's office.

"We most certainly will oppose any attempt to re-assign projects from Idaho or to divert any future projects that should properly be established at the Idaho Falls station," said Church.

Jordan earlier had asked Seaborg to clarify the AEC's plans. He said Lueddecke had suggested a shift of a project from Idaho to Hanford in atomic energy trade publications.

Exiles Say 126 Cuba Militiamen Die in Battle

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Cuban exile group claimed today that 126 Cuban militiamen were killed in one of the bloodiest and longest clashes between Prime Minister Fidel Castro's forces and guerrillas in the Yambay mountains of Las Villas province.

The guerrillas were reported wiped out.

Angel Gonzalez, head of the Student Revolutionary directorate in Mexico City, said the fighting took place in mid-September around Cusimil, 12 miles south of Sancti Spiritus.

Cut in Reserve Said Necessary

Ottawa, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Liberal government says a major cut in Canada's military reserve strength is necessary to beef up the regular armed forces.

Answering sharp opposition attacks in the house of commons Friday, Defense Minister Paul Hellyar said the decision to slash reserve manpower by two-thirds would not weaken the country's defenses in a nuclear attack.

Rescuer Teaches Youth to Swim

HONOLULU, Dec. 7 (AP)—The man who rescued a 10-year-old boy from the waters off Waikiki beach three months ago handed him a beginners swimming certi-ficate today.

Kenneth Daws, a lifeguard, started teaching young Henry Terada to swim the same day he pulled him unconscious from the ocean.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY—Increasing cloudiness Sunday morning be-coming mostly cloudy with snow or rain changing to snow Sunday afternoon and night. Winds easterly 15 to 25 miles per hour and gusty Sunday. Warmer Sunday night. Outlook for Monday, de-creasing cloudiness and colder. Sunday highs; 30 to 38 and low Sunday night 20 to 30, except Camas prairie, highs Sunday in lower 30's and low Sunday night 10 to 18. Temperature at 3 p.m., 36 with 46 per cent humidity; at noon, 34 with five per cent hu-midity.

SYNOPSIS
A high pressure system at the surface moved into the Northwest portion of the country Friday night and Saturday and is now sit-uated over Idaho, the eastern portions of Washington and Oregon and the northern portions of Utah and Nevada. This high pres-sure, however, is being pushed southeastward by a new low pres-sure disturbance from the Pacific which threatens to bring con-siderable cloudiness and precipitation to these agricultural valleys on Sunday. A high pressure ridge aloft is expected to remain just off the Pacific coast.

Precipitation on Sunday is expected to be in the form of snow or rain changing to snow and will begin in the western valleys during the day and will spread into the eastern valleys by Sunday evening and night. Winds will increase in advance of the dis-turbance with speeds becoming 15 to 25 miles per hour with higher gusts. Decreasing cloudiness is expected Monday with snow dim-inishing to a few flurries, mostly in the eastern valleys of Idaho. Low temperatures Sunday night will be in the 20's over most of the area. High temperatures on Sunday should be about the same as Saturday and will range from the 20's over parts of the upper Snake river valley to generally in the 30's over the remainder of the area.

Sky was mostly clear to partly cloudy Saturday and no pre-cipitation has been reported in the past 24 hours.

WEATHER AND PRECIPITATION
Weather at 5 p.m. CST: Highest temperature last 12 hours, lowest temperature last 18 hours, precipitation for 24 hours ending 8 p.m. CST.

Russ Chemical Expansion Seen
MOSCOW, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Soviet Union is believed to be em-barking on a major expansion of its chemical industry.

The purpose of such a move is to increase the production of fertilizers. Premier Khrushchev has repeatedly blamed fertilizer shortages for Russia's recent ag-ricultural problems, which have led to its need for massive grain imports from the West.

Student Hurt in 45-Foot Tumble
NAMPA, Dec. 7 (AP)—A 20-year-old Northwest Nazarene col-lege student was injured today when he tumbled 35 feet from a ledge into Snake river three miles south of Melba.

Authorities said Robert Preston was admitted to a Nampa hos-pital for treatment of cuts and bruises and a mild concussion. His condition was described as "good" tonight.

Police said Preston was hiking with three companions when he slipped and fell from the ledge,

The federation meeting con-cluded with business sessions Sunday morning and luncheon at the Elks lodge.

Saturday morning reports were given by Kenneth B. Reynolds, Pocatello, president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, and Arthur Manley, Coeur d'Alene, vice president of the federation. Reynolds said he was proud of the federation achievements.

Jack Fisher, engineer for the Idaho fish and game depart-ment, spoke on "Salmon and steelhead restoration and re-habilitation." Fisher pointed out the program of the salmon screening and dam projects. He said the fish and game depart-ment has completed 190 of 200 salmon screening structures and it is believed the remaining 70 will be completed in the next two years.

He also said about one million small salmon will be saved by screening devices that otherwise would be lost.

Dr. Craig MacPhee, Idaho Co-operative Wildlife Research unit, reported on "Development of fish toxins for rough fish control." He pointed out the basic idea is to control rough-fish. He said the unit is work-ing on a toxin in relationship to sexual development and the best approach to the destruction of squaw fish larvae. Purpose is to find a toxin that will control rough fish and not affect desir-able fish.

Wendell E. Smith, fish biolo-gist for the Idaho Power com-pany, talked about "Fish passage or alternates over high dams." Smith said adult fish in the Brownlee dam area moved up-stream with no trouble at all but the problem is to move the small fish downstream. He said in the still water they will be lost before reaching the screen device and the problem is that a great bulk of the fish do not reach the nets.

Smith noted in 1958 there were 13,000 upstream migrants and this year there were only 900. He pointed out fish and game engineers have developed tur-bines they feel will solve the problem of getting small fish downstream.

After lunch there was a panel discussion on landowner-sports-men relations consisting of State Rep. Alvin Benson, Melba; Paul Thompson, Piler; and Dan-iel G. Glenn, Ferry. The panel discussed the history of land-owner-sportsmen relations which was started in 1954.

Benson said Pansborg should be considered the "father of the landowner-sportsmen relations." Panel members were opposed to registration of firearms. Benson said hunting and fishing violat-ions cause the landowners to put up the no hunting signs; He also said violators should be pun-ished and educated to the prob-lem.

Pansborg predicted some fire-arms legislation will be passed, and said he is fearful of it. He hopes all laws resulting in any firearms registration will be given "lots of good thinking."

John R. (Dick) Woodworth, director of the Idaho fish and game department, concluded the afternoon session with a talk on "Future plans for our hunting and fishing." Woodworth said 250,000 fishing licenses were sold in Idaho this year and predicts 300,000 licenses will be sold next year.

Wives of federation delegates were honored at a luncheon Sat-urday noon at the Desert room of the Rogerson hotel. J. A. Ha-gen, Jerome, who spent several years in Saudi Arabia, showed slides and gave a travelogue.

Mrs. Robert Pettigrove, Han-son, presided at the luncheon and was assisted by Mrs. Frank Thletten, Twin Falls, in making arrangements.

Robert L. Salter, assistant di-rector of the Idaho fish and game department, presented a summary of the department's op-eration during the past year, Fri-day afternoon.

"The public works program in five northern counties and Wash-ington and Teton counties have a big boost in the game department works. This program is done with federal and state funds," Salter said.

He explained work has been done on 150 miles within these counties, access roads developed to lites for hunting and fishing, spawning channels for cutthroat trout constructed, five concrete ponds at Clark Fork fish hatch-ery were built, one dam in Boundary county has been rebuilt and lake water service for fishing has been increased. He added the fish and game department is planning a regional office at Coeur d'Alene.

Salter said, "The department is one of few agencies that have had a minor increase in person-nel—a two per cent increase."

The fish and game department planted its third crop of wild tur-keys near Riggins, Salter ex-plained. He said the birds have been doing well and about a month ago the department planted 190 mountain sheep on the Owyhee river. It plans to plant 190 sheep in the next few years, he said.

A few days ago, he noted, the department received 16 green (versicolor) pheasants and is planning to rear them and plant them in timber areas in the next few years.

Also speaking Friday afternoon was G. Heber Smith, Grace, regional director of the National

H. S. Hibbard, president of the Montana Woolgrowers associa-tion, spoke on his impressions of the sheep and wool industries in Australia and New Zealand, based on a trip made to those countries last year.

He pointed out that wool is the major industry in both Australia and New Zealand, and said those countries are now looking to ex-pand their markets to the United States, putting American wool products first and those of the South Pacific nations second.

L. A. Sharp, associate professor of range management at the University of Idaho, outlined the results of a nine-year study of grazing on crested wheat grass. The project was conducted east of Malta.

Studies indicated that the ani-mals gained anywhere from two-thirds of a pound to two pounds grazing on the plant.

He concluded that best condi-tions are reached under slightly more than medium feeding condi-tions.

Management and habits of the Jackson Hole elk were discussed by Robert L. Casebeer, wildlife staff officer of the U.S. forest service from Jackson, Wyo.

He said national forests pro-vide natural habitat for the bulk of the herd much of the year. He emphasized the need for con-tinued cooperation of the national park service, the state fish and wildlife service and the Wyoming game department for proper management of the herd.

ington. He said if insurance companies would operate like the social security administration, everyone would be in prison within 60 days.

Attorney General Allan G. Shepard asked about 40 Idaho Junior Chamber of Commerce members to contribute their tal-ents and abilities to their par-ticular party and thus to their government at the noon luncheon Saturday as part of the Idaho Jaycees governmental affairs forum.

Shepard received a standing ovation after his talk by dele-gates who participated in the banquet.

He stated that their contribu-tion could be invaluable to their party and if neglected, then they would be neglecting their coun-try.

Shepard suggested if Jaycees wanted to retain their freedoms and "the form of government" which has made these freedoms possible, then they must honor the commitment placed on cit-izens by the founders of the na-tion.

He pointed out that if a per-son neglects his party, or govern-ment and his freedoms, then he neglects his country.

He quoted a story about Ben-jamin Franklin as he was coming out of the constitutional conven-tion in Philadelphia: Franklin was stopped by a little old lady who said "Dr. Franklin, what kind of government have you given us?" Franklin replied, "A given us, if you can keep it."

Shepard pointed out that in some instances politics is dirty business but he then asked the group, regardless of party af-filiations, if they could name their present precinct commit-tee-man, county chairman or even state chairman.

"I would suggest," he said, "that you get to know them and evaluate them because they will be the people who are choosing in a large measure, your candi-dates for the higher offices in the next election."

"I would, very naturally, rather have you as an active member of the Republican party, but if this cannot be I would rather have you an active working Dem-ocrat than nothing at all," he told delegates.

Shepard ended his talk with, "You all remember the old say-ing, 'Silence is golden,' in this day and age in the area of gov-ernment and politics silence is not always golden, sometimes it is your fellow's your govern-ment—I hope and pray that you won't neglect them."

After the banquet, delegates adjourned to a workshop on "Building a workable tax pro-gram," with speakers William G. Range, secretary-manager of Twin Falls Chamber of Com-merce, William Lanting, state majority leader of the house of representatives, and Harry Tur-ner, Twin Falls county repre-sentative.

Opposition by the medical pro-fession to "medicare" and other types of government-sponsored medical care propositions was ex-plained Friday night by Dr. Paul B. Heuston, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho State Medical as-sociation.

"It is our feeling," said Dr. Heuston, "that for the best pos-sible results, the practice of medicine and surgery require a very personal relationship between the physician and the patient with-out compulsion, regimentation or interference by a third imperson-al party, in this case, the govern-ment."

He placed emphasis on the King-Anderson bill and com-mented the "recent national trag-edy has not changed the picture so far as this type of legislation is concerned."

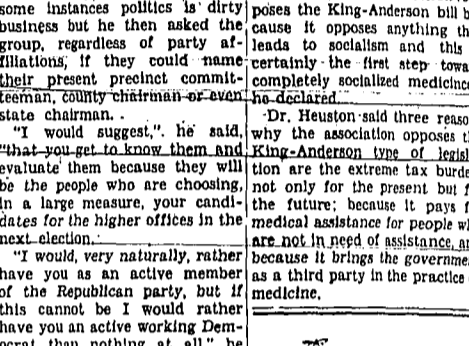

"I would like to clarify a point which may come to your mind. The medical profession does not oppose the proposed King-Anderson bill because we are afraid it will hurt our pocketbook. This is simply not the case.

"If anything," he declared, "we would be better off with this type of plan, because the doc-

Vatican Studies Summit Meet Proposal

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 7 (AP)—Vatican officials studied with interest today a proposal for a three-day visit to the Holy Land by a group of Orthodox leaders during his first visit to the Holy Land since the Orthodox patriarch since the great schism of 1054.

Salt Lake City Diocese Plans to Use Timetable

The bishop of the Salt Lake Catholic diocese announced today the diocese will follow the timetable set by Rome and United States bishops with regard to changes in the liturgy or official public worship of the church.

The Most Rev. Joseph Lennox, Federal, D.D., made the announcement by telephone to Salt Lake City from Philadelphia.

He telephoned after an earlier from Rome where he attended in Rome that Pope Paul would meet Orthodox leaders during his three-day visit to the Holy Land beginning Jan. 4.

The Vatican has not officially confirmed this, but it such a meeting is held it would be the first between a pope and an Orthodox patriarch since the great schism of 1054.

Pope Paul, in announcing his unprecedented trip Wednesday said one of its aims was Christian unity. A meeting with Orthodox and Protestant leaders would certainly help such plans.

In Cairo, meanwhile, the newspaper Al Akhbar expressed fears about the pope's safety, pointing in a general press campaign expressing reservations about the trip.

It is our duty to tell the world of our suspicions of the possibility of a Zionist attempt on the pope's life. Who would guarantee us that the Zionists would not kill the pope during his visit to the Holy Lands whether in Jordan or Israel and accuse the Arabs instead?

School Bus Hits Girl at Jerome

JEROME, Dec. 7—A 10-year-old Jerome girl was bruised Friday morning when she was struck by a school bus driven by Narda F. Johns, 32, at the intersection of North Fillmore street and East Fourth avenue.

Katherine C. Newman, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newman, was standing in the right lane of traffic, police said. The driver stated when she applied brakes to avoid hitting the child, the bus skidded on ice.

None of the 45 passengers aboard the bus was injured, police said.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Speaker John W. McCormack said today he favors retaining the present presidential succession law which puts him next in line for the White House in case of the death or disability of President Johnson.

In response to questions from newsmen, the Massachusetts Democrat recalled that he supported the present law when it was enacted in 1947 by a Republican congress on the recommendation of the then Democratic President Harry S. Truman. He said he still favors it.

"Not because I'm in it (the line of succession) but because I feel it's the best way of solving the problem," he said.

Hope Dim for Survivors in Plane Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Dec. 7 (AP)—U.S. military sources said today there is little hope any of the five men aboard a bomber which crashed yesterday morning would be found alive.

They said there were no indications that any of the men, four American and one Vietnamese airman, had attempted to parachute free before the plane plummeted into the shallow waters of a branch of the Mekong river.

Cause of the crash 25 miles south of Saigon was not determined but informed sources said it was likely the RB28 bomber was shot down by communist guerrillas. The crash area is a known communist stronghold.

Navy divers were lowered into the muddy waters several times but were unable to pry open the cockpit of the plane, which was lying partially buried in mud, according to military men at the scene.

Deaths of the four Americans would raise to 146 the number of American servicemen who have died in Viet Nam since January, 1961, when the U.S. military aid program was launched to help the government of the southeast Asian nation defeat the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Space Center To Be Open to Public Dec. 15

CAPE KENNEDY, Dec. 7 (AP)—The John F. Kennedy Space center will be opened to the public for the first time on a regular once-a-week basis beginning Dec. 15.

The air force announced yesterday it would set aside its security barriers for a three-hour period every Sunday for 65-minute automobile tours.

The general public was admitted to the spaceport only once before—on Armed Forces day in 1961. Usually, only Cape employees and a few others are admitted to the Cape.

Solid Planting

Property taxpayers of the school district at Lewiston approved an eight-mill plant facilities fund levy by a majority of 67.58 per cent. Results of the election illustrate all over again that the required two-thirds majority for such matters is not realistic and also that the plant facilities fund offers an answer to school expansion headaches.

Both of these thoughts were included in post-election statements by Lewiston school district officials. Said Andrew L. Smith, superintendent, "I consider it a miracle when 66 2/3 (per cent) of the people will vote for anything, particularly in an election such as this where we have the restricted electorate." School board Chairman Robert J. Willett declared, "Now that we can start on a cash basis, we will be able to do more solid planning for the future."

In the case of the Lewiston school district, the eight-mill plant facilities levy will yield something like 1.3 million dollars over the 10-year period for which the levy is effective. Moreover, the school district will be able to invest idle funds, raising a few thousand dollars more. At the end of the 10-year period, whatever construction is approved will be clear of any debt. The procedure is a far cry from the old-fashioned bond election which results in added indebtedness for a school district. Bonds also necessitate payment of interest, usually over a 20-year period, increasing the total tax payment.

In some districts, taxpayers have refused to approve the plant facilities levy on the grounds they lose control of how the money will be spent. It's a rather foolish and groundless argument. Taxpayers have a definite control of all school policies and expenditures in the annual school trustee election. Trustees are elected for three years and in that period voters can replace the entire board if they feel trustees are not responsive to public opinion.

Lewiston's enviable position with its plant facilities fund levy didn't come easily. Only last May voters rejected a five-mill levy when 52 per cent favored the measure. The comparison of figures for the May and December elections will emphasize it's much easier to interest taxpayers who oppose an increase in taxes. While the "no" vote climbed from 440 to only 780, the "yes" vote zoomed from 479 to 1,626.

Lewiston citizens should be proud that so many voters recognize the value of the plant facilities fund, even if it did take two elections to convince many of them they should vote.

NO VOLUNTEERS

Idaho's Sen. Frank Church, writing in the November issue of Harper's magazine, said western Europe must start paying its own way or face possible withdrawal of American troops. He explains that presence of American forces in Europe can't be considered a "rescue mission" any longer. He's right, but Senator Church also must know the nations of Europe aren't going to step forward and volunteer to pay a greater share of the West's defense costs.

Western Europe is in the same position of the relative who has been living off his rich uncle so long. Even though he can afford a place of his own and all the expenses to go with it, he'll go right on sponging off uncle. The only circumstances that will change the situation is for the rich uncle to reach the point where he'd just as soon pitch the sponging relative out in the street to shift for himself. It's harsh action, but there comes a time when harsh action is indicated.

The foreign aid program, including both military and economic aid, got out of hand long ago. Yet more billions are being poured down the foreign aid rat-hole by the U.S. every year. American politicians and bureaucrats for the most part contend it's all necessary. There are some voices in the wilderness, such as that of Senator Church who has contended the program should be cut where necessity is no longer indicated. The opinion is an exception to the government contention it's all vitally necessary to save the world from communism.

Significantly, Russia isn't spending anything near the amount being poured out by this country. It's enough to cause a taxpayer to wonder if the American government isn't racing itself in expenditures abroad, instead of Russia.

A recent exception in the foreign aid program is Cambodia which has notified the U.S. to terminate all foreign aid to that nation. Although the reasons behind the request may be open to question, still Cambodia is terminating aid from the U.S. by its own volition.

In the case of all the other nations accepting the American dollar, if not American ideals, they're in the same position as the relative living off the rich uncle. They'll go right on living off uncle until uncle finally has enough courage to cut them off, tell them to live on their own resources for awhile. In the absence of any more Cambodias, that's the way it'll have to be done.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—A politician who is not an especial admirer of Lyndon Johnson pointed to a news photo of the new President chatting with Russia's Anastas Mikoyan and said admiringly, "That Lyndon! He'd have made Queen Victoria feel at home in a Texas chill parlor."
Possibly that is the most encouraging appraisal of Johnson as he tackles the difficult chore of presenting American foreign policy to the world's statesmen that it makes sense to their own nationalistic thinking. For Andrew Tully statesmanship, after all, remains in good measure the art of persuasion through the sheer exercise of personality.

LOVES FELLOW MAN—Whatever his faults, Lyndon Johnson is up to here in personality. It is not the intellectual, contemplative personality of a John F. Kennedy so much as it is the warmth of a man who likes people as it is the warmth of a man who likes Texas hospitality and him. Johnson's brand of Texas hospitality and old-shoe concern for the comfort even of an adversary may seem strange to the sophisticated European diplomat, but it will be attractive to him. A generous spirit, even in unfamiliar accents, always gets across.

Johnson, like Kennedy, is generous in his feelings toward the world. As an individual, he has a sense of responsibility toward men everywhere. More than most men, perhaps, he is aware of the world's faults, but he has a stubborn, Old Frontier faith in the inherent goodness of mankind in those crises when the issues are big. As a tough politician he can recognize a bum a mile away, but he does not think a bum is irredeemable.

THEORY TESTED IN SENATE—That may be Lyndon Johnson's biggest asset in his dealings with the world's statesmen, few of whom would qualify for Eagle Scout. He believes fervently that if men can sit down and talk together in good faith and without acrimony they can solve whatever problems they have. He proved his slant in the senate, where as majority leader he consistently persuaded men of diverse interests to accept compromises representing their interests and the interests of others.

Fidel Castro has been quoted as saying that John Kennedy's death was serious because Nikita Khrushchev had found Kennedy a man the Russian could talk to. So is Lyndon Johnson, as his old senate colleagues can testify. This testimony often came wearily, after Johnson had kept his colleagues talking for long, midnight hours in his determination to resolve differences that would not have been resolved but for his patience and willingness to hear the other side. On Capitol Hill, Lyndon Johnson earned the title of the "great negotiator" in a little world of great negotiators.

... NOR LOSE THE COMMON TOUCH—Moreover, Lyndon Johnson has spent most of his adult life dealing with the VIPs of the nation and the world. He enjoyed a close rapport with President Eisenhower and President Truman; that impeccable egghed, Dean Acheson, is one of Johnson's loyal fans. He has sat down and talked with Europe's crowned heads and prime ministers, moving through the ancient canals of the same ease and bonhomie he exudes in walking down a Texas street. For that matter, Johnson probably knows more about world affairs than all but a handful of that exalted group. Mikoyan arrived in Moscow with his meeting with the President with a thumbs-up gesture. Britain's Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home said he had been "greatly impressed" with the new President. Moscow radio spoke warmly of Johnson's reference to "honest friendship." The Times of London called his address to congress "courageous." Lyndon Johnson has made a good start toward making the world "feel at home" in a Texas chill parlor.

NO FREE RIDE
The zeal of promoters of the so-called "Liberty amendment" to the U. S. Constitution, which would require the government to sell all its holdings within three years and at that time would repeal the federal income, estate and gift taxes, leads them to make some odd statements.

For example, an open letter to Oregon legislators seeking Oregon approval of the Liberty amendment, signed by Will W. Henry, Portland, says:
"In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1963, $577,217,291 was siphoned out of Oregon in personal federal income, gift and inheritance taxes. This was nearly three times as much as the proposed state budget. Only about 10 per cent came back to the state in various grants... The adoption of the Liberty Amendment would keep this $577,217,291 in the hands of the people in Oregon who earned it and would be available for state tax levies to carry on the necessary functions of state government."

This statement amounts to distortion. Oregon, after all, is a part of the United States. Under any system of financing the federal government's necessary activities—including national defense—Oregon citizens must pay their share. That the federal government could be maintained, even at the most economical level, without some revenues from Oregon is beyond belief. One might as well say that Multnomah county's residents would not have to contribute a cent to state government should state income taxes be repealed. The Liberty amendment never will get anywhere so long as it doesn't make sense to a majority of responsible people.—The Oregonian.

OUT OF THE THROES

Revolutions are not to be undertaken lightly. There is too much invested in them, too much blood, too many high hopes and fine ideas to whose attainment mind and body are committed.
The revolution which swept the corrupt Diem regime from power in South Viet Nam is no exception. Those who planned it and executed it carry with them the high hopes of the great majority of their countrymen. True, this revolution was not accomplished without bloodshed—few revolutions are—but the cost in blood and sacrifices will be justified if the victorious revolutionaries put into effect the democratic reforms there is reason to expect that they will.

The military control over South Viet Nam must be something temporary. Civil rulers down from the ranks of the Viet Namese themselves must organize a new government along democratic lines. They must do so promptly, for it will not do to have one dictatorship overthrown only to be succeeded by another.

If the Viet Namese have learned anything in the last few years, they must have learned that corruption and dictatorship go hand in hand, whether the dictatorship be that of a ruling class or family or a political party. The revolution has opened the way to set up democratic self-rule in South Viet Nam. There is too much invested in human lives and hopes to permit anything short of genuine democracy to prevail.—The Morning Record (Meriden, Conn.)

THE NEW 2 BY 4

The do-it-yourself week-end carpenter who was surprised to learn that the popular 2 by 4 was 1 3/4 inches wide has to be on the alert again. The American Lumber Standards committee proposes that the 2 by 4 become 1 1/2 by 3 1/2 inches.
There will be a saving of about $71 in building a house if the new size is adopted, the committee estimates. For our part there will be more. It's much easier to remember halves rather than eighths and easier to figure, too, provided one remembers that a 2 by 4 is not a 2 by 4.—Asbury Park, N.J., Press

POT SHOTS

THAT WOULD DO IT!
Dear Pot Shots:
"Exhausted," who can't read writin', should get some lady in the family to help. We don't know if they write with their foot or left hand. We like crossword puzzles, but not that kind.
Got a postal card, had to turn the thing to the Missus. We suggest you send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and several sheets of paper with a note: "Dear Ann: We were so glad to get your letter; it was too many words in so small a space. Can you take time to do it over? Love to all."
The Missus said, "That would be insulting."

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.

Dear Pot Shots:
We can solve some of the Christmas problems for your readers. We have seven adorable puppies that are fat and black, assorted sexes, to be given away to a good home. The mother is a cocker. They are eating out of a pan and eat all kinds of dog food. They can be picked up immediately. Location is one and one-fourth miles west of Buhl on highway 30.

NEED A SHOULDER?

Dear Pot Shots:
In regard to the letter of A.G.S., I feel sure the boys at either the state or federal office would let you cry on their shoulders.
As to no one liking you, maybe it comes from a feeling that you should pay your share of the tax load!
Being patriotic is something that is not out of date.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (NEA)—A first taste on President Johnson's influence with congress is shaping up on civil rights.
"The Johnson goal is simply to get the administration's civil rights bill cleared by the house rules committee before Christmas, for floor action early next year."
Octogenerian Howard W. Smith, D. Va., chairman of the rules committee, Peter Edson has made a flat statement that he will not let the civil rights bill be reported out this year. He is supported in this position by southern Democrats, the house Republican leadership and a house GOP caucus.

President Johnson has approved an effort by liberal Democrats to force the bill out of the rules committee for a floor vote. This can be done only by a petition signed by 218 of the 435 representatives.
According to house rules this petition was not to be placed in the well of the house for signing before Dec. 9 and cannot be considered by the whole house before Dec. 23.
This makes it a battle against time. Many congressmen want to adjourn the session for the Christmas holidays on Dec. 20. Some would like to push adjournment to Dec. 17 or even Dec. 14. Congress would then reconvene on Jan. 2.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and chairman of the 80-organization Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, thinks that the 218 signatures can be obtained.
NAACP and other Negro organizations have counted congressional noses on this score often enough to know. But Wilkins admits that he doesn't have absolute pledges to sign and that after 200, the going will be tough.
So the outcome will be close and it could be failure.
But Wilkins says: "We won't make a bow to anyone's Christmas vacation to get action this year." In other words, he wants congress to work right through the Christmas holidays. Most congressmen say there isn't a chance.

But Wilkins, speaking only for himself and not for his organization, says: "This is a crusade. It can't be guided by cold realism. You have to believe in fairies and magic will be accomplished. It is like believing there will be another Christmas miracle this year. The political question is what will happen if there isn't a miracle."
Wilkins promises retaliation at the polls in the 1964 elections. Failure to sign the petition will place a congressman under suspicion, though it won't necessarily blacklist him. But he will have to have a good alibi.
Failure to vote for civil rights legislation on final passage will subject a congressman to NAACP opposition.

Wilkins says that a moratorium on direct political action of this kind has not speeded congressional passage of civil rights legislation in the past. "This year's demonstrations, have sharpened appreciation of the issue," he adds.
He refers to "the terror, the persecution, the assassination of Medgar Evers in Mississippi, the death of four little girls in a Birmingham Sunday school bombing" as an accumulation of events demanding faster action now.

"Within 24 hours after Argentina threatened to confiscate American oil properties, there were demands in congress that foreign aid be cut off," Wilkins points out.
"If congress can get that excited about oil," he asks, "why can't it do something about killing little girls?"
From 25 to 50 Washington representatives of the 80-organization in the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights are being reinforced by 30 special legislative lobbyists from the United Steel Workers union to pressure congressmen into signing the house discharge petition.

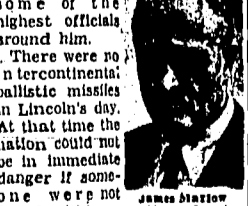

"These forces" will be supplemented by volunteers from other labor unions, church groups and Negro organizations in a drive to get some house action on civil rights this year. It is admitted there is no chance to get senate action before late spring or early summer.

The immediate line of succession: The vice president and the two congressional leaders.
It isn't hard to imagine the dismay and confusion after four such assassinations if they all occurred within a few minutes. The telephone lines would be gurgled. And how could anyone be sure who was dead and who was alive?
In short, then, who would be sure for some time that he was the next in line to take the oath of president and become commander-in-chief? And suppose right then the enemy began the attack.
Who could order the retaliatory nuclear blow if there were no president?
This writer asked the question around Washington and was told, although not officially, that undoubtedly the secretary of defense would take it on himself to issue the counter-attack order, since every second counted.

Any secretary of defense in such a situation would probably do that even though he was exceeding his prescribed authority. If anyone was left to dig himself out of the American ruins, he wouldn't be thinking about the and unprecedented constitution, at questions.
But, suppose, in the general assassination plot, the secretary of defense also was killed. What then?
This can be said on excellent authority: There is a secret procedure in the government for action in case of an emergency. Maybe it answers the questions raised here, but it isn't likely to be made public.

Interpreting the News

BY JAMES MARLOW
(Associated Press News Analyst)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The assassination of President Kennedy raises some grisly questions which were not a problem when John Wilkes Booth planned to kill President Lincoln and some of the highest officials around him.
There were no intercontinental ballistic missiles in Lincoln's day. At that time the nation could not be in immediate danger if someone were not found within a matter of minutes to become president and commander-in-chief.
Now a few moments—the time between the start of an enemy nuclear attack and the order to make a nuclear counter-attack—could mean the difference between annihilation and some survival if not victory.
Officials have said American nuclear missiles are so well scattered and protected that could reply so fast that an enemy beginning an attack would be equally well devastated.
Such statements, a discouragement to an enemy, are based on the assumption that at the moment of attack there would be someone in supreme authority to order, and very quickly, a counter-blow.

As commander-in-chief, the President would give the order. If the President were killed, the vice president, by becoming president and commander-in-chief would give the order.
Under a 1947 law, if there is no president or vice president, then next in line of succession to the presidency are the speaker of the house, the speaker pro tempore of the senate, and then the cabinet officers, starting with the secretary of state.
So the line of succession, spelled out this way, looks clear and simple. If the enemy began an attack by dropping nuclear bombs on Washington, the President and all those next in line might be wiped out.
Since time then would be so precious, the highest military officers would have to give the counter-attack order. This might be done quickly—although there's a question it would be—once it was learned Washington was gone.
But suppose an enemy decided, before beginning an attack, it would be shrewder first to create such confusion and chaos in America that a counter-attack might be fatally delayed after the barrage on this country began.
Such a foe might think in terms of assassination, not of the President alone, but those in

BARRY GOLDWATER

President Johnson has not equivocated as to where his administration will stand in relation to the programs of his predecessor. He has backed those programs, so far, to the hilt. Also, he comes to his new position from a strenuous series of appearances in which he had publicly and strongly supported the programs which he will now be adopting as executor and ad-Barry Goldwater administrator rather than just as a supporter.
It would not be reasonable, however, to suggest that the Johnson administration will be only a continuation. The style, manner and minds of all people are different, and the differences are bound to be reflected in the new President's actions.
It is to give the new President the time to make the personal adjustments which he must make that there will be a respectable period of partisan truce, a truce guaranteed by recent Republican party statements. This does not mean that the debates over political programs are to be stilled indefinitely. But it does mean that politicians of both parties are well aware that there will be shifts, even if subtle, in the positions and programs that must eventually come under debate.

personal. And surely we must expect that the new President will make adjustments there to suit his own very individual way of doing business.
It will be the combination of such appointments, with his own personality, as much as through any substantive revisions or general structure of programs in which the structure of the new administration will shape up.
Broadly, the policies may remain essentially those of the New Frontier. The new President, in fact, assures that they will be his early and forthright statements. He knows, and practical politicians everywhere know also, that there will be revealing and considerable differences due to the sheer demands of background, personality and personal commitment.
It is upon those changes that the debate over policies now waits. The fact that the new President has so crisply and decisively taken hold of his new office holds reassuring promise that the shape of his administration will be quick to form so that the business of proper construction in the congress and by the people may get under way with dispatch and order.

One of the great things about this country is exactly this: Our system assures orderly transfer of power even in a time of crisis. Preventing the upheaval, the overthrows and the paralysis that can beset other nations at such times.
And one of the very great things about our citizenry is that they too can survive the crisis of the moment and get back to the hard work of making freedom work—without in any way diminishing their sense of real tragedy and loss. It is tomorrow that powers America just as it is the past that moves and inspires it.
How do you stand, sir?

A new President, no matter how deeply he trusts and respects the team of his predecessor, is properly interested in a team he can call his own. His personal staff, for instance, is just that

How do you stand, sir?

World Corners

By PHIL NEWSOM
(UPI Foreign News Analyst)
Impossible to perceive at the time, there was tragic irony in President Kennedy's greeting upon the occasion last Feb. 19 of President Romulo Betancourt's state visit to Washington.
"You represent all that we admire in a political leader," Kennedy said.
He was addressing a man who had survived three assassination attempts and still was to survive a fourth in a nation which was the No. 1 target of Castro communism's attempt to destroy democracy in Latin America.

Yet 10 months later, it was President Kennedy, leader of the world's free nations, who was himself to fall victim to an assassin's bullet.
Now Venezuela has turned an important corner.
Despite terrorist threats, more than three million Venezuelans turned out in free elections to name Betancourt's successor. It was an important triumph for Betancourt who has been determined that first, free elections be held and second, that next March he should turn his office peacefully over to the man who won.
It was an important victory, too, for the Venezuelan people and for the Venezuelan military who successfully had resisted the temptation to seize the reins of government and thus provide the terrorists with proof that democracy in Latin America would not work.

Now a new test involving the whole of Latin America is at hand.
Only a few weeks prior to Betancourt's visit, communist Cuba itself had made clear the importance it attached to Venezuela.
In a Havana rally marking the fifth anniversary of the overthrow of Venezuelan Dictator Perez Jimenez, Cuban communist leader Blas Roca declared that the Venezuelan rebels are not alone and "we will continue giving them our backing every day." And he added:
"When they achieve their full independence and make themselves owners of the great riches in oil, aluminum and everything their earth imprisons them at America shall burn. The whole of America shall liberate itself once and for all from the ominous Yankee imperialist yoke."
In Roca's words were clear intent.
Yet within the Organization of American States, from whose councils Cuba already had been banned, there remained doubt. Words, they said, were not weapons.
Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Uruguay and Mexico continued to maintain relations with the Castro regime, refusing to join other American states in a diplomatic and economic blockade of Cuba.
The Castro regime itself denied vehemently that it has given other than moral support to the Venezuelan terrorists.
From a cache of arms discovered on a Venezuela beach, Venezuela presents evidence to the contrary.
Venezuela, backed by the United States, will demand that the OAS unite against Cuba under the treaty of Rio which also is known as the treaty of reciprocal assistance.
The answer should be overwhelming hemispheric solidarity. Unfortunately, past performance permits no such encouraging outlook.

FINESSE WAS UNNECESSARY
South won the opening club in his own hand and noted that there were 11 top tricks waiting. If either diamonds or spades should break South would have 12 and if neither broke he still appeared to have a two-way finesse for the queen of hearts.
South decided to try to count the hand and started by running

This made the odds 3 to 1 in favor of finding East with the queen of hearts to South. He cashed dummy's king and finessed his jack, whereupon West took the trick with the queen and proceeded to take the last two tricks with the jack of diamonds and eight of clubs.
South had played the hand fairly well, but not well enough. The heart finesse wasn't necessary.
He was right to take his top cards in clubs, diamonds and spades to start, but after doing this he should simply have led his last spade.
This would force East into the lead and since East would be down to hearts and nothing else, East would have had to lead a heart whereupon it would make any difference where the queen of hearts was held.

Instead of bidding three clubs your partner jumps to three diamonds over your one spade. What do you do?

Accountants To Meet in Twin Falls

Magic Valley area tax accountants will meet in the Roundup room of the Rogerson hotel Thursday with internal revenue and state tax officials to discuss requirements and problems in preparing income tax reports.

The all-day session begins at 9 a.m. Charles Olsen, of the Twin Falls internal revenue service, reports. Among officials attending will be Calvin E. West, state tax collector, and members of their office staffs.

Among subjects to be discussed will be requirements and problems in preparation of tax returns for machine processing, returns for the limited distribution of certain tax forms, problems of taxpayer identification numbers, restrictions regarding extension of time to file returns and use of reproduced returns.

R. K. Lechner, chief, IRS office branch, will be discussion leader for the morning session.

During the afternoon, depreciation, travel and entertainment expenses and investment credit will be among the subjects to be discussed by Elmer R. Hall, chief, IRS audit division.

Other officials expected to participate include William E. Foreman, IR agent supervisor; Howard Hardman and Preston Porter, IR agents; John Andulza, IR chief taxpayer service; and accounts, and George Miller, IR chief returns and receipts.

State representatives include Curtis Pate, deputy state tax collector; L. C. Stenger, senior corporation auditor, and T. E. Norton, corporation auditor.

Dwight Heter's Last Rites Held

Funeral services for Dwight (Scotty) Heter were held Saturday in White mortuary chapel by the Rev. Ernest Hasselblad. Graveside rites were conducted by the BPOE Twin Falls lodge No. 1183 at Sunset Memorial park.

Mrs. Carol Lancaster was organist and Floyd Lancaster was soloist.

Dinner Due

HAILEY, Dec. 7—Annual Basque dinner will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday in the St. Charles Catholic church recreation hall, sponsored by the church altar society.

The dinner will feature all Basque food. The event was postponed from Nov. 23 because of the assassination of President Kennedy. Mrs. Eppi Inchausti, Hailey, is in charge.

Icy Stretch Is Cause of 4 Accidents

MARSING, Dec. 7 (AP)—An icy stretch of highway 15 miles south of Marsing on U.S. highway 95 was blamed today for four separate accidents, including one in which a Winnemucca, Nev., man was hospitalized.

A physician in Caldwell said Frank B. Lord, 75, had a heart attack either before or after his pickup truck slammed into a rock wall on the side of the road.

A son, Albert Lord, driving another vehicle, turned back when he saw his father wasn't following and summoned help.

Two trucks with trailers went off the highway 10 minutes apart, both losing their cargoes. Laman Strunk, 39, Jerome, and Stanley Clelland, 27, Twin Falls, in one, were uninjured.

Also uninjured were Jefferson D. Childress, 30, Montebello, Calif., and Stanford L. Williamson, 30, Santa Ana.

Mrs. Wanda Mosier, Marsing, was treated for minor injuries. She was thrown from her car when it struck a bank after hitting ice.

L. Underwood Honored at Rites

Funeral services for Lloyd Underwood were conducted at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Reynolds funeral chapel by the Rev. Veal Fisher, Kimberly Church of the Nazarene.

A duet was sung by Mrs. William Harmaning and James Frajley with Mrs. Howard Conrad as accompanist.

Pallbearers were Silas Givens, Robert Givens, Henry Paul Givens, Gordon Standifer, Clifford Staley and Willard Webster.

Final rites were held at Sunset Memorial park.

Bar Opposes Televising Ruby's Trial

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—The American Bar association (ABA) said today it "deplores proposals that the trial of Jack Ruby be televised."

The ABA board of directors, in a statement from its headquarters here, said Ruby, accused slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald, is entitled to a fair trial "conducted with the full dignity of the law."

The association also took to task Dallas police officials and news media for announcing in advance the time Oswald would be removed from the Dallas jail. "Official laxity resulting in excessive and prejudicial publicity reached its climax in the pre-announced removal of Oswald from the city jail and the spectacle of his murder—literally in the arms of police officers and before the eyes of the television audience," the ABA said.

"This act, in addition to its utter lawlessness, has now forever precluded the determination by judicial process of Oswald's guilt or innocence. . . . However, the association said all news media performed a worthy public service in bringing to the public, fully and promptly the essential facts of the assassination of President Kennedy."

"The public was entitled to know the facts about the arrest of Oswald and also to know that the evidence was deemed sufficient to charge him with the crime," the ABA said.

Small Crowd Turns Out at Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, Dec. 7 (AP)—A small crowd of about 100 persons today paid tribute in a brief ceremony to the U. S. servicemen who died at Pearl Harbor 22 years ago. The ceremony lasted less than 15 minutes and took place in a stiff breeze that whipped the array of flags standing at half staff in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

The quiet observance, consisting of several speeches, a short prayer and the playing of taps, took place at the gleaming white concrete memorial that straddles the sunken USS Arizona. The battleship was sunk in the first wave of the Japanese attack.

The ceremony honoring the 2,333 men killed on that day was arranged by local veterans organizations.

Only two navy men were on hand in an official capacity. Lieut. Kenneth Loughman, a Roman Catholic chaplain, delivered the invocation. Musician Sgt. Tenu Aupio, Samoa, played taps on his bugle.

The defense department no longer recognizes Pearl Harbor as a special event because of its policy to conduct a single memorial for all war dead on May 30 every year.

JOINT PUBLIC INSTALLATION ceremonies were held Friday night at the Twin Falls Masonic temple. Pictured are John T. Parish, left, past grand commander of the grand commandery of Knights Templar of Idaho, installing Laried Jenkins, new commander of Knights Templar, and Mrs. Frank Briggs, newly elected president of the Social Order of the Beauceant, being installed by Mrs. Laried Jenkins, installation officer. Knights Templar, Order of Beauceant, Have Installation Laried Jenkins, 204 Lincoln street, was installed as commander of Twin Falls Commandery No. 10, Knights Templar, and Mrs. Frank Briggs was installed president of the Social Order of the Beauceant, during joint installation ceremonies Friday night in the Twin Falls Masonic temple.

Other officers installed Friday are Richard Wheeler, generalissimo; Rex Reed, captain general; Averill Canfield, senior warden; Thomas Frith, junior warden; Carl Kobel, prelate; Lewis Hack, treasurer; Floyd Bandy, recorder; Ivery E. Gopher, standard-bearer; Roland Willis, sword bearer; James M. Baves, Jr., warden; and Glen McCoy, sentinel.

Officers also were installed of the Social Order of the Beauceant. They are Mrs. Frank H. Briggs, worthy president; Mrs. Martha Anderson, first vice president; Mrs. Rex Reed, second vice president; Mrs. Averill Canfield, preceptress; Mrs. Clark Kleinkopf, recorder; Mrs. James Pnge, treasurer; Mrs. Albert Wegener, marshal; Mrs. Hugh MacMullen, assistant marshal; Mrs. Otis Hall, chaplain; Mrs. Russell Larson, director of music; Timothy O'Brien, colorbearer; Mrs. A. L. Wisching, mistress of the wardrobe; Mrs. Harold Meiser, daughter of the household; Mrs. Roland Willis, inner guard; and Mrs. Thomas Frith, most worthy orator.

Installing officers for the Knights Templar are Sir-Knight John P. Parish, installing commander; Sir Knight Claude Gordon, installing marshal, both eminent commanders of the Grand Commandery of Idaho, new commander of Knights Templar, and Mrs. Frank Briggs, newly elected president of the Social Order of the Beauceant, being installed by Mrs. Laried Jenkins, installation officer. (Times-News photo)

More Apples

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP)—Idaho's 1963 apple crop was estimated today at 1,250,000 bushels, an increase from one million bushels last year. The U.S. department of agriculture said the total compared with an average of 1,160,000 bushels per year in the preceding five years. Delicious varieties made up 46 per cent of Idaho's apple crop this year, the department said, with Rome Beauties comprising 32 per cent.

Administration Stockpiling Program Hit

SPOKANE, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Northwest Mining association, pleased because of better metal prices, took a slap at the administration's stockpile program at a concluding session here today. The 1,000 delegates adopted a resolution opposing enactment of the materials reserves and stockpile act of 1963. It's aimed at reducing present stockpiles of metals. "The government stockpiles of strategic minerals and metals," said the resolution, "are national assets of great value and are insurance against future emergency requirements."

Girl, 15, Dies, 7 Wounded By Terrorists

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 7 (AP)—Scattered street disturbances and shooting overnight between Castroite-communist terrorists and police patrols left a 15-year-old girl dead today and seven persons wounded.

The girl was hit by a stray machinegun burst while she was watching a skirmish between police and rooftop snipers in a tough district of Caracas, Lomas de Urdaneta. The snipers occasionally dropped homemade grenades.

A policeman was shot in one leg by his own pistol when he tried to disperse armed and rioting youths in a downtown sector. Three bystanders were injured in an exchange between other police and the rioters. Six of the youths were arrested.

Pursuing a campaign to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt's government, some youths set fire to a bus. But the passengers extinguished the flames before serious damage resulted. Two terrorists set fire last night to a music store owned by an immigrant from Trinidad. The flames destroyed 15,000 records.

The attack apparently was in retaliation for the Trinidad-Tobago government's release to Venezuelan authorities last week of six terrorists who hijacked a Venezuelan plane and flew it to Port of Spain.

Farm Bureau Convention to Start Monday

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Representatives of the nation's largest farm organization arrived here this week-end for the 45th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation.

The members, traditionally exponents of the free market system, were slated to take up such problems as international trade and federal budget and fiscal policies during their four-day convention.

Working sessions will begin Monday with the annual address of federation President Charles E. Shuman. Scheduled speakers will include Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Rep. Gerald R. Ford, 2, Mich., and Dr. Edward R. Annis, president of the American Medical association.

Convention officials said they expected more than 5,000 farmers and ranchers to come to the meeting from 49 states and Puerto Rico. The federation, claiming a membership of 1.6 million farm families, has organizations in all states except Alaska.

Slain President Labeled Victim Of Extremists

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (AP)—Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, newly-elected president of the National Council of Churches, charged today that the late President Kennedy was indirectly the victim of "fanatical and bigoted agitators who specialize in controversy for personal financial gain."

In an address before the closing session of the national council's triennial general assembly, Bishop Mueller did not identify the "agitators" whom he held responsible for the President's assassination. But he indicated that they included extremist groups which have caused dissension in churches.

"Our President became the ambushed victim of hatred gone mad," said Bishop Mueller.

Chou En-Lai to Visit Algeria

ALGIERS, Dec. 7 (AP)—The official Algerian news agency announced tonight that Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai will visit Algeria, soon as official guest of President Ahmed Ben Bella.

12 Persons Are Said Frozen in Trapped Convoy

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 7 (AP)—Snow plows are trying to cut through huge snow drifts to a remote pass in northwest Iran where 12 persons are reported frozen to death in a snow-trapped convoy. The Tehran newspaper Keyhan said six children are among the dead in the convoy of 25 buses and trucks—carrying about 300 persons—blocked since the middle of the week by massive drifts at Hainan pass, near the Soviet border.

Improvement At Reservoir Is Reported

One of the major projects completed or improved by the Twin Falls county waterways committee this year was that at Roseworth reservoir.

A concrete ramp, 10 feet wide, six feet thick and 155 feet long was installed there, to provide a low water ramp extending from low water level to the level of the lower end of the high water ramp, so boats may be launched whatever the water level. The new ramp is about one mile east of the older one.

The access road to this site was developed by the Twin Falls highway district.

"We appreciate their cooperation," Elmer Annis, waterways committee secretary, said.

The above work was incorrectly identified in an earlier news story as having taken place at Twin Falls.

Said Annis, reviewing the committee's work during the past year, "We serve without pay and most of the boaters express appreciation for our efforts. This is encouraging."

There are only one or two grippers. This also is encouraging. Our reward is seeing people enjoy the results of our efforts today and in the years to come."

Services Set For A. Nelson

HANSEN, Dec. 7 — Funeral services for August Nelson, 90, who died Friday at the home of James Friley, Kimberly, of a prolonged illness, will be held at 3 p.m. Monday in Reynolds funeral chapel.

Mr. Nelson was born Dec. 12, 1872, in Osterstadland, Sweden, and came to Idaho in 1914 from Omaha, Neb. On May 9, 1960, he married Louise Jackson in Iowa.

Mr. Nelson worked for many years as a painter in the Hansen area and was an enthusiastic fisherman. His wife died Dec. 5, 1960.

Final rites will be conducted at Sunset Memorial park.

Student Joins Dancer Group

SHOSHONE, Dec. 7 — Former Shoshone student, Dick Mallea, is a member of the International Folk Dancer's select group at Brigham Young university, where he is a freshman this year.

Mallea said a 10-day tour is planned for California next spring, but summer plans have not been made. His sister, Carol, is a sophomore at BYU this year.

New Bids

The city of Twin Falls will advertise again Thursday for bids on the construction of lateral sewers.

The first bidding was rejected because of an irregularity in the specifications. The city had specified a five per cent bid bond and a 10 per cent bid bond was required.

Commissioners decided to rebid the project at a meeting called at 4 p.m. Friday. In the only other matter before the Friday meeting, bids to supply waterworks materials were opened.

4-H Club Makes Food Sale Plans

KING HILL, Dec. 7 — The Can Do 4-H members planned a cooked food sale for Saturday, Dec. 14, at the King Hill grocery store when they met Friday afternoon with their leader, Mrs. Martin Woodward.

They also planned their gift exchange party for Thursday at the home of Mrs. Woodward.

Loretta Allen signed the membership book as a new member. Mrs. Woodward distributed record books to all members and served refreshments.

Renaming the club was discussed but no action was taken.

BUREAU TO MEET

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Dec. 7 — U. S. grain aid to Iraq will be increased by 100,000 tons a year, Baghdad Radio announced. Under an old agreement, Iraq got 50,000 tons of wheat annually from the United States.

SHOSHONE, Dec. 7 — North Shoshone Community Farm Bureau will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Braun. Mrs. M. E. McKendrick will show films taken at the annual picnic held in August in the Sawtooth national forest.

Kennedy Is Honored by Bliss Grange

EDEN, Dec. 7—The annual lamb feed was held by the members of the Eden Masonic lodge Thursday night at the IOOF hall, with E. C. Montgomery as master of ceremonies. The Eden sextet sang Christmas selections, accompanied by Jerry Stevenson.

Irving McDonald, local magician, presented "Magic Squares." Mrs. McDonald, assisted by Claude Bernard, directed group singing of "The Twelve Days of Christmas," accompanied by Stevenson.

Members of the Eden sextet, Mrs. Dexter Watkins, Mrs. Rex McClain, Mrs. Wes Harman, Mrs. Eugene Balsch and Mrs. McDonald, were presented with table centerpieces by Montgomery.

Carroll Knapp, worshipful master of the Eden lodge, welcomed members and guests. Special guests included Claude Gorden, Kimberly, most worshipful past grand master; Byth Clemens, Gooding, district deputy grand master; and Mrs. Clemens; and Harleigh Wallington, Jerome, past district deputy grand master, and Mrs. Wallington.

General chairman for the event was Rod Overfield. Paul Conway, Owen Beverance, Eulis Davidson and E. A. Finkenburg were in charge of preparing the lamb. Ray Short, Jack Matheny, Willard Lattimer, Ralph McClain, Rex McClain and Ooss Gordon comprised the food committee.

Table committee included Howard Johnson, Dexter Watkins, Don McDonald, Art Tattersall, Henry Case, Milo Layman and Clyde Montgomery. Invitations were sent by Carroll Knapp and Jerry Baker. Gordon Newby was in charge of flowers.

Entertainment committee included Bob Hughes, E. C. Montgomery, Irving McDonald and H. E. Gundelfinger. Finance committee was composed of Carl Gundelfinger and Charley Stone.

After the dinner and the program, the rest of the evening was spent playing games. The annual event was well attended, with approximately 90 people present.

Dies in Fire

WELLS, Nev., Dec. 7 (AP)—A ranch hand died Thursday when fire destroyed the ranch bunkhouse in which he was staying 17 miles west of Wells.

Coroner Walter Thurston said Willard Ross, about 55, Fallbrook, Calif., apparently died of asphyxiation.

Idaho Day

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—It was Idaho trout and potato day in the United States senate today.

Idaho senators Frank Church, Democrat, and Len Jordan, Republican, arranged the menu. Trout were served in the senate dining room for luncheon and the potatoes were distributed in 10-pound bags to all senators.

Letters signed by both the Idahoans told senate members that the trout were raised in the cold waters of a hatchery fed from Thousand Springs in the Snake river canyon and the potatoes were "unmatched in quality and taste."

Oregon May Help Pay for Boat Channel

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today the state of Oregon has pledged to pay one-fourth of the cost of a small boat channel in the Snake river between Weiser and the backwaters of Brownlee reservoir.

He said Idaho had already pledged one-fourth of the cost, and is hopeful that the corps of engineers project can be completed in time for the 1964 recreation season. The corps of engineers is to pay the other half.

The project involves dredging, removing logs and other obstacles and marking the channel so it is safe for boats. The 40-mile boat trip is possible now, but it is hazardous.

Smylie said Washington county has planned for boating ramps and picnic areas along the way. He said the channel will make it possible for boaters who formerly had to drive to Brownlee to put their boats in at Weiser and make the trip up the channel.

The state's share of the project, with a total cost estimated at $175,000, comes from boat fuel taxes, under a law passed by the 1963 legislature.

Broken Homes Blamed for Delinquency

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP) — The annual report of the youth rehabilitation division of the Idaho health department blames broken homes for a share of delinquency and credits religious organizations with preventing it.

It shows that 6.8 per cent more organizations have "an important delinquent live in broken homes situation."

Unbroken but bad home situations also are blamed for breeding delinquent behavior.

Of 663 children under the agency's jurisdiction during the year, described as the probable reason for their delinquency, 52 per cent were living with their parents, compared with 68.5 per cent for all children in Idaho in 1960.

Only 32 per cent of the boys and 38 per cent of the girls were referred to the agency in the 14-15 age group, compared with 56 per cent of the girls.

Anthony were living with their parents.

A sample of 498 cases showed 40 per cent of the offenders were active in any religious program, while 23 per cent were not.

The report said religious organizations have "an important role in the prevention of delinquency."

The report concluded that girls who become delinquents usually do so at an earlier age than boys.

Earlier maturity was described as the probable reason for their delinquency.

While 461 boys and only 86 girls were referred to the agency, only 38 per cent of the boys and 32 per cent of the girls were referred to the agency in the 14-15 age group, compared with 56 per cent of the girls.

Thousands Pack U.S. Exhibition in Moscow

MOSCOW, Dec. 7 (AP) — Thousands of Russians packed the American Graphic Arts exhibition in Moscow today in excited crowds that surpassed the organizers' expectations.

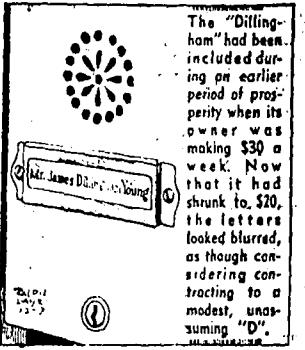

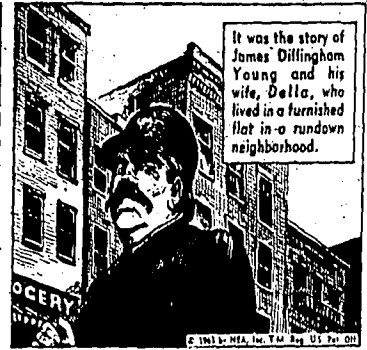

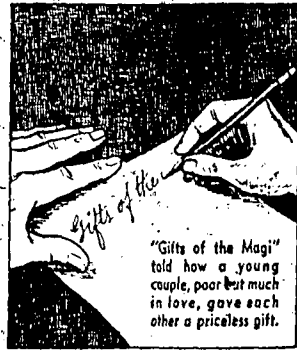

In the first four hours, about 11,500 persons came to the show.

Director Ray Wootton said 547 new cases were referred to the agency in the year ended June 30, or 16 more than the year before.

— a major American attraction in Moscow under the U. S. Soviet cultural agreement.

"We weren't expecting much — maybe a few hundred an hour," said an American spokesman. "But the turnout has been tremendous."

GIFTS OF THE MAGI

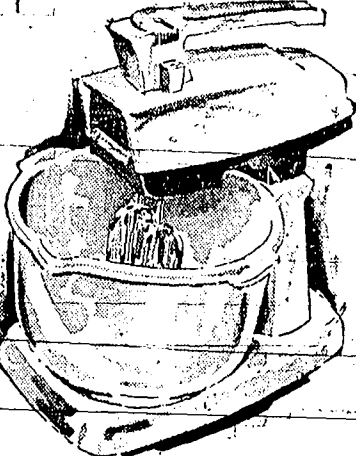

"Gifts of the Magi" told how a young couple, poor but much in love, gave each other a priceless gift.

The "Dillingham" had been included during an earlier period of prosperity when its owner was making $30 a week. Now that it had shrunk to $20, the letters looked blurred, as though considering contracting to a modest, unassuming "D."

Nike-Zeus Cost Guesses Rise Sharply

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The army has nearly doubled early estimates of the cost of deploying its Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile but still believes the program will be adopted eventually, it was learned today.

Current projections indicate that it would cost between 16 and 17 billion dollars over five or six years to mount the atom-tipped missile pillars around major U.S. industrial areas where the army believes they are most needed.

Original estimates were between 9 and 10 billion. The Nike-Zeus system now includes a second shorter-range missile, the sprint, to provide a one-two punch, along with the much more advanced radar and other electronic equipment.

Army sources said that proposals to produce and deploy the anti-ICBM will be pressed before President Johnson just as they were before President's Eisenhower and Kennedy, both of whom rejected the project.

The army has been only a partial loser, however, since the research and development funds for Nike-Zeus have been increased to a level of about 400 million dollars a year. By next July 1, about 1.2 billion dollars will have been spent on development and testing.

Subsidy of Gold Output Held Costly

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Federal banking authority said today that a subsidy to stimulate a revival of western state gold production would not yield enough gold to pay a fraction of what it would cost the nation.

Dr. David Grove, vice president of the federal reserve bank of San Francisco, spoke at a college-business symposium attended by 200 students from Idaho, Oregon and Utah.

Grove said a price increase would stimulate gold output. But he said restrictions in the international monetary fund agreement would make it difficult for the United States to raise the price.

There is also a danger of devaluation of the dollar, he said, adding, "The United States is completely determined to keep the value of the dollar where it is."

Grove said a tax allowance to stimulate gold production is possible. But he said any production increase would be small.

Grove expressed hope that cold war tensions with Russia will ease as its economy provides a higher standard of living.

Richard Wagner, vice chairman of the board for the Champlin Oil and Refining company, said the United States must improve its efficiency in production to compete with nations of the European Common Market.

He said European wages will rise but have a long way to go to match those in the U.S.

Robert Halliday, president of the Boise Cascade Paper company, Boise, said a federal tax cut coupled with reduction in expenditures would be "a great stimulus" to the nation's economy.

"You might not see more dividend income," he said, "but you would see more investment in new facilities."

Shoplifting Is on Increase During Yule Buying Season

With the coming of the Christmas shopping season, Twin Falls merchants may lose up to thousands of dollars due to shoplifters, states M. Frank Barnett, Twin Falls police chief.

"With the Christmas season well under way for shoppers, shoplifting will be more on the increase now than during other parts of the year," Barnett explained.

Barnett added there seems to be a misunderstanding by employers and employees in some Twin Falls stores regarding the arrest of anyone seen taking merchandise and concealing it.

Short House Meet Helps Rights Drive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The house met today in a rare Saturday session that lasted only two minutes but kept alive a drive to get the civil rights bill out of the rules committee before Christmas.

No action was taken during the brief session but merely by meeting, the leadership cleared the way for filing a petition Monday that would bypass the committee if signed by 218 members.

The session, which started at noon, was an official legislative day, the seventh and final one required under the discharge petition procedure before the petition can be filed.

By pushing ahead with the discharge petition the leadership is risking the hard-won bipartisan support for the civil rights bill that resurfaced from a stalemate in the Judiciary committee last September.

Republicans generally regard discharge petitions with distaste and they view the current move as an attempt to put them on the spot with civil rights groups. The Democrats expect to produce about 150 signatures and leave it to the Republicans to supply the rest needed for a majority.

Help!

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Like millions of other Americans, President Johnson realized today that time is running out for Christmas shopping. He called for help.

"Betty, I want you to do my Christmas shopping," the President telephoned Mrs. J. W. Fulbright, wife of the Arkansas senator. Presumably Mrs. Fulbright agreed to handle the chore — apparently for his wife and two daughters.

The Fulbrights and Johnson are long-time friends.

Grand Jury Not Finished In Hoffa Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 7 (AP)—The grand jury that indicted Teamsters President James R. Hoffa on jury fixing charges made clear today that it was far from through with the union leader's case.

"There are other matters which were partially investigated and studied by the grand jury which now require certain preparation of data . . . prior to the grand jury being able to proceed intelligently with its investigations," said U.S. Attorney Kenneth Harwell.

Harwell asked U.S. District Judge William E. Miller to grant a recess "until the grand jury is officially notified that the above mentioned matters have been completed by the office of the United States attorney and the FBI."

Although he would not disclose the nature of the "matters," or when he expected to recall the panel, Harwell indicated he was expecting the needed data shortly.

He hinted he was so near to obtaining the information that at one point yesterday he considered delaying the indictment of Hoffa's attorney, Z. T. Osborn, Jr. in order to avoid a recess in the grand jury deliberations.

Berlin Hopes For Breach In Wall Fade

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (AP)—Hopes of West Berliners for a breach in the wall during the Christmas season faded tonight.

The East German regime rejected a West German offer to negotiate issuance of passes to West Berliners wanting to visit relatives and friends in the East sector during the holidays.

In an official statement, the East Germans said they would talk only to the West Berlin city administration on the matter and that any move to pull the West German government into the act was an attempt to torpedo the whole project.

The statement repeated the communist position that West Berlin has an independent status and should be turned into a neutralized free city.

Up to the time the statement was issued, there had been widespread optimism that a unilateral arrangement might be possible for the first time since the wall was built in August, 1961. Hundreds of thousands of Berliners who have relatives or friends in the Eastern part of the city had been excited about the prospects raised in an East German letter to Mayor Willy Brandt.

BECOMES CITIZEN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7 (AP)—Swedish-born actress May Britt, wife of Sammy Davis, Jr. today became an American citizen.

Goldwater Gets Abusive Wires

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R., Ariz. said today he received a surprising number of abusive letters and telegrams immediately after the conservatives resulted from assassination of President Kennedy accurate comments on some radio and television programs immediately after the assassination.

Smylie Says U.S. Tax Cut No Help Now

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today that if congress approves a federal tax cut in 1964 it will come too late to bail the state government out of its financial squeeze in the current biennium.

But he said it would have in time an "immeasurably helpful effect on our revenue structure" and the benefit would be felt in 1965. He estimated it would boost state income to 5 million dollars each two years.

Smylie indicated that his former opposition to a tax cut has lessened with the emphasis of President Lyndon B. Johnson on economy in the federal government.

"Anyone in public life gets this kind of mail," said the Arizona senator, who had been urged to seek the Republican nomination to oppose Kennedy in next year's presidential contest.

The Chicago Tribune reported Sen. John Tower, R., Tex., a principal backer of Goldwater, also received threatening letters described them as "deeply disturbed" by such attacks.

Goldwater told a reporter he was "trapped on him and other persons."

Despite wide differences on many policies and political matters, Goldwater and Kennedy were personal friends.

Where the PROGRESS Is

One accurate measurement of economic progress in this modern age is found in the utilization of electricity. When it increases within a given area, it is evidence of economic improvement and better living.

By this measurement, the Snake River Valley is outstanding. The rate of increase in the use of electricity among Idaho Power customers in the past 20 years has surpassed that of any other Pacific Northwest electric system, not excluding the Bonneville Power Administration.

To keep ahead of this kind of growth, Idaho Power has increased its electric generating capacity by ten times!

There is abundant low-cost power in the Snake River Valley, and people are using it. Out of its use has come area progress—new industries, stores and shops, new lands brought into production by irrigation pumping, more comforts and conveniences in the homes.

You live in the part of the northwest where the progress is!

Bull Woman Doubts Need of Pay Raise for Congressmen

Editor, Times-News: I am wondering if your heart is in the hearts of all the good people of this valley aren't torn with compassion for our poor congressmen who have to scribble on a paltry $22,500 or more, especially in this land of the free and the plenty?

Isn't it a shame? Knowing the will of all these people and the sympathy they have in such matters, why couldn't we start a campaign to help them out with some of our surplus articles so they don't want in this great country? Here's a big chance we can't pass.

How about sending them some of our old shoes or clothing that we have a few days wear left? Some of our famous potatoes—would spare a few of the better ones, even a few teeth? If we all banded together we could help warm them, or a "hardened" bikini (maybe Liz would spare one).

Let's all band together and be sure we could come up with some help. Where there's a will there's a way, and we must do something.

Words are so soon forgotten or ignored, maybe something concrete, and I do mean concrete, might have a more impressive meaning and penetrate a few thick skulls!

Death of Dog, Calf Made Pheasant Hunt Expensive

Editor, Times-News: I have always liked to hunt and fish and have tried to be a good sport about it.

However, I know from experience there are some poor sportsmen roaming the countryside.

Due to illness in the family, there was no one home here the first three days of pheasant season. Hunters came in and hunted and they must have got to shoot at pheasants, whether they got any or not, as they are one of our birds.

I never came back to eat it. The young man said the buckshot was peppering the barn while he was in there feeding calves. I finally found the dog lying dead in the cornfield. He had been shot in the chest. Our half dog after we doctored and cared for him for about three weeks. I hope whoever shot the dog and calf enjoyed their pheasants, as they were quite expensive birds we have helped raise for the last year.

What to Do For Heart Attack Noted

What to do in case of a heart attack was outlined Saturday by Ben Katz, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Heart Association.

He stated, "First call a physician immediately." However, there are certain things that the bystander, friend or relative can do while waiting.

"Keep calm and keep the patient calm, above all," Dr. Katz said.

"Help the patient take a position that is most comfortable for easier breathing, usually propped up, but do not attempt to lift or carry the patient without a doctor's supervision.

"Loosen all tight clothing," he continued. "See that the patient does not become chilled, but do not induce sweating with too many blankets. Above all, do not give the patient anything to drink."

Persons who would like to have the above suggestions for posting in a medicine cabinet or first-aid kit, should drop a request in the mail for "In Case of a Heart Attack" to the Idaho Heart Association, 1200 South Capitol Boulevard, Boise.

Grangers in Dietrich Eye Dance Series

DIETRICH, Dec. 7.—The possibility of sponsoring a series of dances in the community was considered by Grange members at their meeting Thursday night.

Committee members to make a further study and report at the next meeting are Delbert Heiken, Arthur Thiel, Dick Roese and Ralph Towne.

Mrs. Sid Edwards, sr., was appointed home economics chairman for the year.

A Christmas program is planned after a potluck dinner to be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 18. Each family is to provide numbers for the program.

Mrs. Delbert Heiken, lecturer, was in charge of the program this week. Members took Christmas decorations and gifts they had made for a display.

Report was made that Hyrum Meservy has been moved from St. Benedict hospital, Jerome, to the Wood River Convalescent center, Idaho.

He had a heart attack several weeks ago and is expected to be confined yet for some time.

Eden Children To Give Concert

EDEN, Dec. 7.—As a gift to the community, Eden grade school children will present a Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Valley High school under the direction of Mrs. Marvin Johnson, Eden music instructor.

A unique feature of the program will be the breaking of the pinata by the Mexican children. Mrs. Olonzo Maldonado is making the pinata for this specialty.

The entire staff and children of the Eden grade school invite everyone to attend this concert.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN E. SCRUGGS

Lois Stokes, Scruggs Recite Nuptial Vows

HAGERMAN, Dec. 7—Lois Ann Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Stokes, Hill City, and John E. Scruggs, Costa Mesa, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Scruggs, Hagerman, were united in marriage in a candle-light ceremony Nov. 30 in the Hagerman Reorganized LDS church.

Elder Albert L. Sharp, Boise, uncle of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony before a background setting of chrysanthemums and candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace in dome silhouette with a brief train. The oval neckline and lily point sleeves were outlined with pearls. A crown of pearls and sequins held her fingertip veil of French illusion. She carried a bouquet of pale green spider chrysanthemums, entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Marvin Stokes, Kuna, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor.

She wore a tangerine colored crystal charm gown. Bridesmaids wore Mrs. James Scruggs and Mrs. Larry Scruggs, Costa Mesa, sisters-in-law of the bridegroom. Each wore a mint green, street-length crystal charm gown and each carried a bronze basket of brown and yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums.

Flower girl was Janae Scruggs, Costa Mesa, niece of the bridegroom. She wore a tangerine colored crystal charm gown and scattered flower petals from a bronze basket. Alessa Rae Sharp, Boise, and Karen Ann Condit, Cambridge, were candlelighters. They wore dresses identical to that of the flower girl.

Ringbearers were Scott Condit and Reed Condit, Cambridge. They carried the rings on white satin heart-shaped pillows, edged with lace and cascading satin streamers.

James Scruggs, Costa Mesa, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Larry Scruggs and Richard Scruggs, Costa Mesa, brothers of the bridegroom, and Marvin Stokes, Kuna, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Howard Carlson, Hagerman, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Leslie Lynch, soloist. Elder Gomer Condit, Cambridge, uncle of the bride, gave the prayer.

The bride's mother chose an avocado sheath dress with matching coat and brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige dress with matching jacket accented with gold and brown accessories. Each wore corsages of tallman roses.

A reception was held in the church recreation hall following the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth, was highlighted with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The heart-shaped base was encircled with smilax and chrysanthemums. The cake was flanked by smilax ornamented candles and small heart-shaped sweetheart cakes.

The cake was served by Mrs. Gomer Condit and Mrs. Albert Sharp. Mrs. James Holt and Mrs. Joseph Dorsey, both Hagerman, presided at the punch bowl and coffee service.

Sherry Holt registered the guests. Mrs. Malvern Stokes and Mary Anna Stokes were in charge of the gift table, assisted by Loren Sharp and Lynn Sharp.

Others assisting with the reception were Mrs. Howard Carlson, Mrs. Dana Gilmore, Mrs. A. Vin Pierce, Mrs. Edwin Davis, Mrs. William Hendrickson and Mrs. George Lemmon.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Scruggs changed to a black and brown knit outfit with black accessories enhanced with a bronze chrysanthemum corsage.

The bride was graduated from Hagerman high school and Twin Falls Business college. The bridegroom was graduated from Hagerman high school and is employed at Cannon, Inc., Costa Mesa, where the couple will reside.

Pre-nuptial showers honoring the bride included a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. Karl Krantzberg, Wendell, and a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Albert Sharp, Boise.

Out-of-town guests attended from Costa Mesa, Twin Falls,

Furniture Talk "YOU FORGOT SOMEBODY"

By Russ Cunningham

You put everyone else down on your Christmas list... but how about yourself? How long has it been since you've bought something good for the house? A gift for the house is something you'll enjoy all year long, an enjoyment your family and friends can share.

Does your old sofa look all right to you until just before company arrives? And then do you look at it and wish you could hide it somewhere? Perhaps you remember that old faithful furniture as it looked when it was new. But if you can stand the shock, really open your eyes and see it as it looks today. One shabby piece of furniture can destroy the effect of your living room. Why not replace that furniture for the holidays and choose something to replace it from our big collection at Hoosier.

Put yourself on that Christmas list right now; come in and ask our salesman to help you choose that new sofa, a chair, a handsome lamp to brighten the scene, a big dramatic picture to go over your sofa, or a fine wood coffee table. Our salesman will be glad to help you select accessories for period furnishings, early American or contemporary. Whether you want to mix or match, you'll find what you want at Hoosier Furniture. If you can't come in, call us and our salesman will call on you.

Closed Circuit Will Help Find Lost Children

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (UPI) — Children will have a chance to star on color television sets when the New York World's fair opens. They won't get paid for their tearful performances, but there's a good chance they'll get reunited with parents or baby-sitters faster once their sad expressions are flashed on television sets in the closed circuit networks—300 sets in all. The hero of the event, helping to alleviate the mental anguish of all concerned, will be the Radio Corporation of America (RCA). The Electronic good Samaritan pledged to help reunite lost children with their parents—or vice versa—is the world's largest closed-circuit color television network. Lost children will be trooped at regular intervals before the color cameras at RCA's exhibit. The images will be telecast over the network blanketing the fair grounds. The broadcasters in charge will tell the parents where to go to reclaim the youngsters who got out of hand—and lost. Others besides lost youngsters will star on color television at the fair. At the RCA exhibit, for example, visitors will have a chance to see themselves live as they stand in front of the color cameras. Later, they will see themselves on videotape as they pass television monitors placed in other parts of the building. The see-yourself cameras already have had a fair test. It was before the color cameras at RCA's Moscow exhibit in July of 1959 that Richard Nixon, then Vice President of the United States, and Premier Nikita Khrushchev engaged in their now famous debate over the merits of capitalism versus communism. In an attempt to fill the 2,000 hours that the color studio will be operated live each season of the fair, RCA also is developing a number of shows that call for audience participation. One is a children's show that will be taped and played back later over the closed-circuit network so both participants and their parents may enjoy it. The closed circuit network will also star visiting dignitaries from this country and abroad. They will be introduced when they arrive, so all in attendance will know which important persons are visiting the fair at the same time they are. When there's space to fill on the color network, RCA plans to run film clips of something fair visitors couldn't possibly see any other way. The films will show the fair under construction—starting from the time the fair grounds were just one big muddy field.

The group voted to send a Christmas basket to a family for the holidays. Mrs. Ellen Barron, California, was a guest.

Nine members were honored at the birthday anniversary party. Each received a miniature cake.

Mrs. L. Dean, program chairman, read an article on the Pilgrims' Thanksgiving and their progress. Mrs. Carl Ridgeway presented a piano solo. Mrs. W. Chino gave the reading, "The Praying Hands."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. N. C. Johnson, Mrs. Mrs. Doolittle, Mrs. F. Swearingen and Mrs. Harry Street. The next meeting will be held Dec. 17.

Hagerman FHA Reports Annual Holiday Party

HAGERMAN, Dec. 7—Future Homemakers of America held their annual Christmas party, with Marilyn Adams leading the devotional service. Laura Lemmon, president, conducted the business meeting.

It was reported the pop bottle drive was "cut off" due to the death of President Kennedy. Those who will sell at the first basketball game were listed. They are Nancy Donahue, Sherri Behrens, Barbara Adams and Kathy Miller.

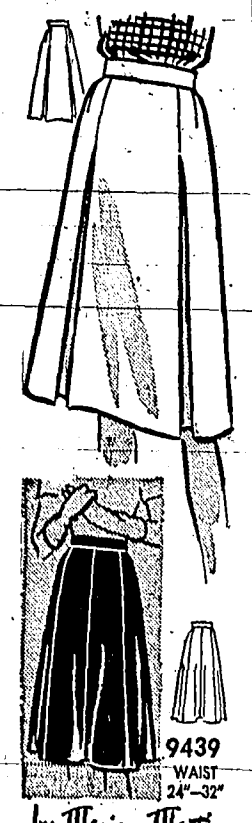

Miss Behrens will be in charge of posters for advertising the coffee, doughnuts and ice cream cones to be sold at each ball game.

Terri Larson and Marilyn Adams were named to select a pattern and materials for an FHA outfit.

The Cookie King dance and contest will be held in January. Each member brought gift wrapped presents and clothing to send to the Nampa State school and colony.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 27. Refreshments were served by Miss Larson and Ruby Brackett.

Mrs. O. Fowler Is Speaker for Flower Club

Mrs. Otto Fowler gave a talk, "Christmas Is the Time," at the Twin Falls Garden club meeting held in the recreation room of Sunny View courts. Mrs. Fowler related recollections of the Christmas festival from childhood to the present time.

Michael Fisher was soloist, accompanied by Sonie Butler. Mrs. John Platt spoke on culture of holly. Mrs. T. W. Hicks, president, conducted the business meeting. Cash donations were collected for the bus project of the Nampa State school and colony. Mrs. C. W. Delch gave the officers report. Mrs. Hicks reported on the recent holiday show.

The club decided to purchase a clock for the Sunny View courts recreation hall. Mrs. Victor W. Nelson is in charge of sales of the flower arrangement and engagement calendar. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stanley Bennett, Mrs. Clyde Ramsey and Mrs. J. W. Reynolds. Mrs. Fowler presided at the tea and coffee services.

The refreshment table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with candles and colored Christmas ornaments in a silver bowl. Guests were Mrs. O. J. Winters, Minnesota; Mrs. J. A. Bondurant and Mrs. C. L. Fisher, both Kimberly. The next meeting will be held Jan. 8 at Sunny View courts. The program will be on houseplants.

Miss Weighall Reveals Troth

HOLLISTER, Dec. 7 — Announcement has been made of the engagement and forthcoming marriage of Joyce Weighall, daughter of Mrs. Isabella Weighall and the late Elmer Weighall, Contact, Nev., to Gerrit W. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Peters, Hollister. Miss Weighall attended high school in Weighall and is a graduate of Beauty Arts academy, Twin Falls.

Peters is a 1958 graduate of Filer high school. A January wedding is planned.

Youth Group to Sell Napkins

SHOSHONE, Dec. 7—Members of the Methodist Youth fellowship are selling napkins as a fund raising project, officers announced.

A meeting was held at the home of Joseph Shaw. Adele Sandy gave the devotional service. Kathy Burkett gave a lesson from the text. Refreshments were served by the host.

Mothers Club Reports Meet

A special Christmas devotional service, "The Crech," was given by Mrs. Monroe Hayes when the Mothers club of the First Christian Church met at the home of Mrs. Bryon Whitte. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Carol Carr and Mrs. Maurice Allen.

Officers elected are Mrs. Allen, president; Mrs. Donald McDowell, vice president; Mrs. Darrell Davis, secretary, and Mrs. Gary Mullins, treasurer.

Plans were made for a caroling party. A Christmas auction was held with Mrs. Ronald Bohanan as auctioneer.

National Cemetery Is Endorsed

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP) — Leaders of the Idaho department of the American Legion today endorsed a proposal calling for establishment of a national cemetery in the Gem state.

Seven of the Legion's nine Idaho district commanders met in Boise for the group's first annual achievement conference. The two day session will end Sunday.

Max Hansen, Boise, state commander, told the group that the cemetery proposal will be presented to the Legion's executive committee at its annual meeting next February.

Hansen said only one national cemetery has been established since World War II but that 27 were closed during the same period because of lack of grave space.

He did not specify any particular location for the proposed cemetery but said there is adequate federally owned land in many parts of Idaho that would be suitable for such a purpose.

Man Tells Of Placing Critical Ad

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y., Dec. 7 (AP) — A man who played a major role in placing an ad critical of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas newspapers which appeared before Kennedy was assassinated, today said to fight the cost was paid through donations from "people of conservative persuasion."

Bernard Weissman, whose name appeared on the $1,464, full-page ad, said the money was collected by a small group he headed known as the American Fact-Finding Committee.

The ad appeared in the Dallas Morning News and asked President Kennedy such questions as "Why have you ordered or permitted your brother, Bobby, the attorney general, to go soft on communists?"

Weissman said in a telephone interview from the home of his father here that he was in Dallas at the time the President was assassinated, but was attending a sales meeting and failed to see the presidential motorcade.

Haiti Cabinet Members Resign

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 7 (AP) — Haiti was without a cabinet today as President Francois Duvalier took his time in announcing the new line-up.

The entire cabinet resigned tonight at the president's request so he could form a government of greater "democratic equilibrium." The intended equilibrium was not explained. All cabinet ministers are members of the official party. There are no opposition political parties.

Dean Oliver Earns $31,329 in Rodeo Arena; He's too Poor to Rest Now

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP) — Dean Oliver, Boise, earned $31,329 this year in becoming the world's champion cowboy, but he isn't resting on his earnings or his laurels.

"I'm too poor to do that," the 37-year-old-roper said today after returning home from the National Finals rodeo in Los Angeles, where he was crowned the all-around cowboy of 1963, meaning he earned more money this year on the rodeo circuit than any other professional cowboy in the world.

He explained that expenses ate up a great deal of his earnings, including more than $5,000 for entry fees in his two rodeo specialties, calf roping and bulldogging.

"But that is just part of the year," he said as he picked up his two-month-old daughter, Nikki, and held her balanced in one hand.

"The transmission of the car went out on me, coming home from Los Angeles," he said. "I buy new tires every 10,000 to 15,000 miles. Gas is a real expense, along with eating and motels throughout the country."

Oliver added that the horse situation for him each year sometimes becomes a real problem, especially when a trained quarterhorse goes lame.

"I was forced to buy a new horse this year. I paid $5,000 because the horse was trained and

Heart Attack Takes Hunter

POCATELLO, Dec. 7 (AP) — Roy Getty, 73, prominent sportsman and retired painting contractor here, died yesterday of a heart attack while duck hunting on Snake river.

Mr. Getty was the owner of Getty's Sports Center, which he opened about 15 years ago on retirement as a painting contractor.

He was born Nov. 27, 1890, at Fritchington, Kans., and came to Pocatello in 1917. He was a painter for 30 years. He was a vice president of the National Association of Painting Contractors, and aided in setting up a nationwide training program for apprentices. He also taught a painting class in the vocational department at Idaho State university for two years.

He was a president of the Bonneville County Sportsmen's association and was active in civic and lodge affairs.

Thompson Now Prison Inmate

STILLWATER, Minn., Dec. 7 (AP) — Convicted murderer T. Eugene Thompson, former chairman of the Minnesota Bar association's committee on criminal law, became an inmate of Stillwater prison today.

The prosperous young St. Paul lawyer was convicted last night of arranging the slaying of his pretty 34-year-old wife, Judge Holt Fosseen, immediately sentenced Thompson to life imprisonment.

Elaborate Plans Protect Johnson

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — Police and secret service agents met behind closed doors for more than three hours here last night, blueprinting for President Johnson's Sunday visit one of the tightest security plans in the city's history.

Security measures surrounding the President's brief visit here to attend the funeral of former New York Gov. Herbert Lehman will be in marked contrast to the almost breezy protective measures afforded the late President Kennedy on his last visit to the city.

On that visit, one week to the day before he was assassinated in Dallas, President Kennedy personally had requested that there be no police escort to and from the airport and while he was being driven around the city during his stay.

Lodge Says He's Not Candidate

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was quoted by the Philadelphia Bulletin tonight as saying in a telephone interview from Saigon that he has "no intention of running" for the Republican nomination for president in 1964.

The Bulletin said Lodge added that he has not received any request from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to do so.

Injuries Fatal to Bicycle Rider, 11

DALLAS, Dec. 7 (AP) — A freak head-on collision between two bicycles ridden by 11-year-old boys resulted in the death of one of them.

Larry Glenn Allen incurred a broken neck and fractured skull in the accident, which occurred on a rain-slicked street in the suburb of Duncanville last night. The boy died in a hospital.

11 Members Of Family Die Under Train

MIDLAND CITY, Ala., Dec. 7 (AP) — A grinding car-train smash killed 11 members of a Midland City family today.

A year-old girl was the only survivor.

The child, Margaret Ann Langford, had head injuries and was in serious condition at a nearby Dothan, Ala., hospital.

The Atlantic Coast Line railroad freight rammmed the old-model stationwagon when the driver pulled across a crossing in this small southeast Alabama city. The stationwagon was demolished.

Rufus Riley, said the train knocked the automobile about 100 yards down the track.

Found dead at the scene were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langford; their children, Ray Allen, 19, and Jeanne, 6; their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Langford; and three of her children, Henry Allen, 3, Vernelle and Judy Carol, ages unavailable, and a second daughter-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Langford, Margaret Ann's mother.

Another of their sons, Donald, 18, and Mrs. Kenneth Langford's daughter, Shirley Ann, 7, died about three hours after the wreck.

Switch

DETROIT, Dec. 7 (AP) — The rich, melodious voice of the Lone Ranger has returned to radio, but instead of calling "Hi-yo Silver," it now introduces a religious program.

The voice belongs to Bruce Beemer — who played "the masked rider of the plains" for a generation of Americans until the advent of television.

Beemer says there is no conflict between portraying a Wild West character and introducing ministers.

General in Viet Nam Is Popular Man

HOLAM, South Viet Nam, Dec. 7 (AP) — In this remote coastal town, the man who is fast becoming the most popular figure around is a stumping tour of villages and hamlets near the communist border.

His swashbuckling manner captivated villagers. His words came through forcefully with a joke, he answered calmly. Students lugged him on their shoulders.

Some saw potential danger in him; others said he is just what South Viet Nam needs.

He is Maj. Gen. Tom That Dinh, 37, a hero of the coup that toppled the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Nhu Nov. 1-2.

Dinh gave his final speech of the tour from a balcony at provincial headquarters in Hol An, 150 miles southeast of communist North Viet Nam.

Johnson Family Moves, Invited Out to Dinner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — The Johnson family moved into the White House today and promptly got invited out to dinner.

Although the nation's new first family did not exactly face the prospect of sitting on packing crates as many American families on moving day they accepted an apparently last minute thought by an aide, Walter Jenkins, to have them out for the evening meal.

"There is nothing nicer than being invited out to dinner on moving day," Mrs. Johnson told a White House spokesman.

Flurry of gestures, Dinh stood back as 5,000 students burst into cheers. Then the students charged up the steps, hoisted him to their shoulders and carried him off.

As he passed through the crowd, he called out: "I am not a politician as some of you newsmen seem to think."

Seed Production Reports Given

BOISE, Dec. 7 (AP) — Reports on seed production marked today's meeting of the Idaho-Eastern Oregon Seed association.

About 100 seed growers and distributors attended the session, which ended with an evening banquet.

Kenneth Higginbotham, Twin Falls, presided at a discussion of garden seed production while Robert Hadley, Boise, directed a similar session on field seeds.

Motor-Vu Employees to Share in Unusual Christmas Bonus Plan

Many businesses have some form of a Christmas bonus plan to benefit employees, but few businesses, if any, can match the bonus which will go into the spirit of the thing, as employees of the Motor-Vu drive-in theater in Twin Falls.

Roger Marsh, manager, announced that profits from the theater operation for an entire week, starting Wednesday, will be divided among the employees, with no strings attached.

"And not only that," he said, "but the profits will be more than usual because expenses will be cut to the bone and even the motion picture companies whose films will be shown during the week are providing them at absolute cost."

The theater manager believes this is the first time in the history of business in this area that such a bonus plan has been undertaken. Employees are getting into the spirit of the thing, as various local merchants.

The merchants are offering many gifts which will be presented to theater-goers during the week.

Starting Wednesday, three Jack Lemmon hits will be featured. They will be "Mr. Roberts," "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," and "The Notorious Landlady." On Friday, a special horror show will follow the regular program. Two more features will be presented from Dec. 15 through Dec. 17.

Marsh said the bonus setup is planned as an annual event. Awards being made to patrons will include free gasoline, bowling passes, grocery awards and animated photographs. At the snack bar, patrons will receive their order free if the employee does not smile when it is delivered.

"It will all be in fun, and the bonus will be much more than under ordinary circumstances," the manager said.

Employees who will share in the unique bonus plan are Howard Hine, Mrs. Clarice Wolter, June Murdock, Norman Butler, Ernest Snow, Duane Hodge, Mike Ghan, Trudi Holmes, Darlene Jones, Maria Lovelady, Ralph Ferris, Larry Ferris, Barbara Frey and Carol Dillon.

PUTTING ON THE GLOVES brings back memories of 20 years of laboring in the ring for A. W. (Sailor Jack) Robinson, Paul. After a long tour in the ring, Robinson shed the gloves for wrestling, logs and competed as a professional for a few more years. His name is familiar to fight fans in the Mini-Cassia area. It is even more familiar to Paul youngsters who have worked and studied under "Sailor Jack." (Times-News photo)

Youngsters Learn Sport From Ring, Mat Veteran

By MRS. EVERETT SAVAGE
PAUL, Dec. 7 — Undoubtedly there still are a few fight and wrestling fans in Magic Valley who can recall the name of "Sailor Jack Robinson."

He had the gloves on for almost 20 years, and when time took its toll in the ring, "Sailor Jack" returned to the canvas as a wrestler.

More often than not, when the carnival barker called out for some local challenger to meet his champion, "Sailor Jack" would climb through the ropes to take him on.

Even today, A. W. (Sailor Jack) Robinson still loves to put the gloves on at the age of 59, but it isn't for a share of the purse, it's to teach some youngster the fundamentals of the art of self-defense. Robinson hung up his gloves professionally, but took them back down to teach.

Today this 20-year-veteran of the ring takes a handful of youngsters and teaches not only boxing, but a variety of sports.

"Sailor Jack" is best known in the Mini-Cassia area. A look at the book will reveal that he touched gloves with Gene Bledsoe, Merle Hepworth and "Salty" Olson, and it also will reveal that this was many years after his prime. He entered the ring to help teach boxers to fight by offering himself as a sparring partner.

Again, today, he offers himself to youngsters in the Paul area, where he now lives and works as custodian of the elementary school here.

His love for contact sports and his love for youngsters stems from one thing. He believes that the boxing ring kept him from drifting into unfavorable company when he left an orphanage when he was about 15 years old. He maintains he was "lucky" to enter the world of sports and compete — maybe not on the highest level — but high enough to be respected by opponents.

"I saved me when I was a kid," says Sailor Jack. "I believe that sports is one of the best outlets for youngsters. It can stabilize an uncertain youth. It can help all youths."

Chimp Pilot Trained to Fly in Space

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS
HOLLOMAN AIR FORCE BASE, N.M., Dec. 7 — Bobby Joe, a 6-year-old chimpanzee, has been trained to pilot a spacecraft back through the Earth's atmosphere after a trip into space.

Bobby Joe is regarded as the ph.D. of Holloman's famed Chimp college, an air force installation conducting some of the most remarkable research in the world.

The chimpanzee was trained for space pilot duty by learning to keep a small cross inside a circle on a lighted panel board.

Spacecraft controls, say the experts, could be simplified for space flight by using the circle and cross tracking method.

Maj. Herbert G. Reynolds, chief of the comparative psychology branch for the aeromedical research at Holloman, said Bobby Joe would be a whiz at this.

When the 60-pound chimpanzee is working he does it very well. He has to keep the cross inside the circle for two 10-second periods before he is rewarded with a banana-flavored food.

Robinson believes in this theory to the extent he has worked and helped youngsters since 1938. Although he never earned his living working with youths, he received his compensation through the satisfaction of seeing the youngsters start out on the right foot.

A great believer in contact physical sports, Robinson maintains keeping the youths' busy is the main thing.

When they are allowed to gang up or sit around too much they are more apt to get into trouble," he says.

He believes there is no such thing as a bad child — only mischievous ones.

"And if you give them something constructive to do, you can even take that out of them," he notes.

The youngsters he has helped, with athletic centers and individual workouts, want this type of activity. They would bring their pennies to buy the coal for keeping the building warm.

Robinson recalls the large building donated by Dr. J. H. Plank, located in the center of town, was the meeting place 10 years ago for youngsters from 5 to 17 years of age.

They participated in boxing, wrestling, tumbling, volleyball, basketball and jumping on the trampoline. In the center of the building sat a large coal stove which needed filling frequently.

Everything connected with this athletic center was brought about by donation, including time and efforts of Robinson. Once in a while the Paul group would put on exhibition matches with a Rupert group directed by Ray Wall and Dean Anderson, to earn enough money to pay for lights and coal.

Another big supporter of the old center was Mayor Tom Felton who had two daughters participating.

As Robinson also had to earn a living to support his family, he was forced to close the center in 1934. After all-maintenance bills were paid, and the youngsters enjoyed a wiener roast, they still had $40 left in the treasury from exhibition matches, which they donated for a cement slab for the Paul school playground.

Robinson, born Oct. 14, 1905, in Lancaster, O., started his career in the ring at 14 with the "kids" in town, but never received his first "pay check" for fighting until he was 16.

His first professional match was in Monterey, Calif. He always had the ambition to go to the top, but never had proper financing or managing. Unlike the other fighters, when he

Twin Falls County's Longest Continuous Resident Gets Centennial Book as Gift

OLDEST CONTINUOUS RESIDENT in what is now Twin Falls county is Mrs. Hannah Larsen Petersen, 89, left, shown talking with Mrs. John E. Hayes. Mrs. Hayes presented Mrs. Petersen with a copy of the Twin Falls county Centennial book. The books

Mrs. Hannah Larsen Petersen has the distinction of being the oldest continuous resident in what is now Twin Falls county — and she still enjoys the area.

Mrs. Petersen, who will be 91 March 25, now resides at a rest home at 1601 Fourth avenue east. She still can read without glasses, can recall early happenings of the Rock Creek area with ease and, although somewhat deaf, enjoys a lively conversation about the "old times" of this section.

She was born in Cache Valley, Utah, and came to Idaho and the Rock Creek district in 1877. At that time it was a part of Owyhee county, an area larger than the entire state of Massachusetts. Silver City was the county seat.

Later the section became a part of Cassia county and then, when Twin Falls county was formed from a part of Cassia, Rock Creek ended up in its third county. Mrs. Petersen lived there during the changeover times and, as a result, lived in three counties without moving.

The home in which she lived in Rock Creek is now owned by Mrs. Clara Larsen and is a concrete block structure at the foot of the hill in that area. Her father was Lars Larsen, a pioneer rancher of the area, and her late husband was Christian Petersen, also a rancher-farmer.

On behalf of the Twin Falls county Centennial committee, Mrs. John E. Hayes presented Mrs. Petersen with a copy of the official Centennial book for the county. Several stories in the book concern the elderly pioneer.

For instance, Anna Petersen, mother of Mrs. Hayes, baked her own wedding cake in the oven of the stove owned by the elderly pioneer's parents. That oven was the only one in Rock Creek at that time. All cooking then was accomplished in fireplaces and the Lars Larsen oven was a priceless possession. The pioneer is an aunt of Mrs. John Hayes.

Mrs. Hannah Petersen was married in 1893 in the home of John Hansen, a Rock Creek pioneer then living at Albion.

At the time of the book presentation, Mrs. Hayes said the Centennial book would be on public sale for the last time between now and Christmas. The first edition of the book, numbering 2,000 copies, was sold and half of the second printing has also been sold, leaving 1,000 books still available. The book sells for $1.50 each and the funds thus raised will go to the museum account of the Twin Falls County Historical society.

The books are available at Closs bookstore, Sallie's Books in the Lywood shopping center, J. Hill's gift shop, the Chamber of Commerce and from Centennial committee members.

Nobel Prize Talk Is Billed as Shocker

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Writer
PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 7 — Linus Pauling expects the speech he makes in Oslo on Dec. 10 will be something of a shocker. He won't hint at what he plans to say, has even canceled speaking engagements "so I won't be tempted to let something drop beforehand."

Obviously, the world-known chemistry professor is preparing a surprise.

It would be more of a surprise, however, if he weren't. With Pauling, one of the most controversial and most honored figures in modern science, the arch eyebrow has become virtually a symbol.

He looks wide-eyed at the world, and the world frequently looks wide-eyed at him.

Some of Pauling's surprises are calculated for effect. Last year the tall, kind-faced scientist picketed the White House in the afternoon, then attended a dinner there that night.

The dinner, honoring Nobel prize winner, was virtually a command-performance. Pauling, in picketing his host, was taking advantage of his trip to Washington to publicize a pet cause — disarmament.

For years Pauling made a public scourge of himself, demanding that the world's leaders call a halt to nuclear testing. Some of his colleagues shook their heads and murmured that this was a fine dream but impractical.

Then, with almost breathtaking swiftness, the "impossible" happened. More than 100 nations signed an agreement to

DISPLAYING ONE of his many hobbies is Carl Hensched, rural mail carrier at Rupert. His cactus collection is considered one of the largest in the Intermountain region. The plants are kept in a greenhouse during the summer, then moved into the basement during the winter. In addition, Hensched is interested in photography, collects stamps and coins, writes poetry and also collects and finishes rock. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Carl Hensched, a rural mail carrier for route 4 in RUPERT, explains the reason for his half-dozen hobbies is that he "found life interesting and challenging and a person is happiest when he is busy." Among the many hobbies Hensched enjoys are a cactus collection, photography, stamp and coin collection, writing poetry and collecting and finishing rocks. Hensched, who lives northwest of Rupert, is the father of 14 children, who share and enjoy his hobbies. Mrs. Hensched has a large collection of African violets adorning all the kitchen windows and also enjoys collecting china cup and saucer sets.

The cactus collection of Hensched is one of the largest in the Intermountain region, with 5,000 plants of more than 800 varieties. During the summer months the plants are housed in pots in a greenhouse he built, then during the winter months they are moved into the basement of the house.

During the summer months the cactus plants produce beautiful, exotic flowers and Hensched explains this is because of the rest they receive while they are dormant in the winter.

The plants are watered every day during the time they are in the greenhouse; however, during the winter the plants require no water at all. The cactus plants produce some of the most beautiful and rare flowers, according to Hensched, and the bloom on one particular orchid cactus measures a foot across.

People from many parts of the United States have stopped so see the cactus collection at the Hensched farm and many come away with a pot containing a cactus plant. Hensched explains he does not receive money for the plants except in instances where the plant is rare or expensive. He feels that by selling the plants they cease to be a hobby. He reports he receives much satisfaction from this hobby.

The cactus collection led him into the hobby of photography.

He started by taking color slides of most of the cactus plants while they were in bloom. Some were shot from as close as four inches, to show the true beauty of the plant. He also enjoys taking scenery pictures. He admits the most interesting subjects have been his children.

Hensched has several thousand color slides of his flowers and has been taking pictures about 12 years. In 1955 he showed slides of the cactus blooms at a national cactus convention in Denver, Colo. The slides also have been shown to various groups and organizations in the area.

During his high school days, Hensched became interested in writing poetry. He explained he started writing poetry as an exercise to develop word power and to better express himself.

A number of his poems have been published and his book of poetry, "From Dawn to Dusk," was published in 1936. Most of the poems were written during high school.

Several of his poems were published in the Anthology Yearbook of Contemporary Poetry, and one was good enough to be reprinted in Paerber Anthologies of Verse in 1937. He admits this is one hobby he doesn't work at as enthusiastically as he used to, because it takes more concentration.

A stamp collector for many years, he has many volumes of stamps from all over the world, but enjoys collecting United States stamps best.

He said this hobby was started very slowly and was given a big boost during the time he worked as cashier at the window in the postoffice. He has somewhere between 30,000 and 50,000 stamps. When new stamps came to the postoffice he would purchase them.

Hensched collects all denominations of U. S. coins and feels the Lincoln head penny is a very practical hobby for anyone wanting to start a coin collection.

Rock collecting, as well as the photography, is a hobby the boys in the family share with their father. The family now owns cutting and polishing equipment.

Some very unusual and beautiful finished products are the result of this hobby.

Hensched also is trying his hand at growing orchids. Another interest is music and he has a collection of 150 record albums of which he enjoys orchestral and quiet music most of all.

He was given the Father of the Year award during a contest held in the Mini-Cassia area in 1962. The Hensched residence has won first prize for Christmas decorations and two second prizes. He was quick to explain the children are the artistic ones and designed the decorations.

When asked what he would recommend for someone looking for a hobby, he said he felt raising flowers is the most rewarding of all the hobbies because of the satisfaction derived from the beauty of flowers.

When Mrs. Elvyn Brooks KETCHUM, was awakened by a horrible noise at an incredible early morning hour of 3:30 o'clock recently, she was sure it was goose talk, after listening a few minutes.

Sure enough, flight after flight of geese kept honking and keeping her awake. Finally she got up and watched from her front steps.

She describes it as "one of the prettiest sights I've ever seen," as the geese were flying so low she could see them through a snow storm. She also could hear the whirr of their wings and they looked white, even against the snowy background.

At last one flock came from the opposite direction, so Mrs. Brooks began to wonder if they were lost and circling the lights of Ketchum. She decided if they were circling they were using the Brooks house as a radar beam.

She also felt there must have been more than one flock, as they made the circle so often. Just before 7 a.m., before it was light enough to see what they were doing, the geese departed, after honking for three and one-half hours.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

Too-Dirty-for-Church

By REV. GARY MAJOR—First Baptist Church

The other day I was wandering in the Middle East. After traveling through Egypt I came to stay in a small hostel in a Jerusalem church.

I had settled myself for a nice stay when I found that a few Egyptian lice had lingered in my beard and were starting to scramble to and fro in their new environment.

I was compelled to DDT myself and all my possessions. The pastor of this church and his assistants heard of my dilemma and told me that I must leave the church, at once.

This just happened to be Dec. 31, 1961. Christmas eve!

So I bundled my belongings together and went to Bethlehem to sleep in the field of the shepherds. I shall never forget that Christmas eve. I shall also never forget that church that kicked me out because I was too filthy to remain in their immaculate presence.

And so I am given the opportunity to write on the subject of "As Your Minister Sees It."

"As he sees what?" I asked myself, and my attention immediately fell on the church.

How do you see your church? Ask yourself these questions: "Is your church ready to accept the unclean, unlovely and unloved?" and "Does James 2:1-10 say anything to you?"

If we can accept the lice-infested beggar then perhaps we are ready for Christmas.

Stamp Window

By DAVID SWIT

Four nations are issuing stamps to mark the opening of the Commonwealth Pacific cable—the first telephone cable to span the Pacific—which runs from Vancouver, Canada, to the Fiji Islands and Australia and New Zealand.

Great Britain commemorated the opening, which was highlighted by a recorded message by Queen Elizabeth, with a 1-shilling, 6-pence stamp printed in varying tones of blue to suggest the sea, and black. The stamp depicts a symbolic globe, crossed by a broad line representing the cable that runs through symbolic waves and fans out to end in the words "Commonwealth Cable." At the right is a head-and-shoulders portrait of the Queen.

Similar stamps were issued by New Zealand and Australia. The Fiji Islands commemorated the opening by overprinting the blue 1-shilling stamp in the current regular series with the words "Compac Cable in Service, December, 1963" and the silhouette of the cable-laying ship "Retriever."

Stamp albums and accessories make appropriate Christmas gifts for collectors of all ages, but non-collectors are advised to choose gift certificates rather than stamps so the gift will not duplicate what the recipient already has. Among the most suitable gifts are the new editions of stamp catalogs, general books on the hobby, specialized literature for those who collect only a few areas, and stock books to hold duplicate stamps.

Albums that make fine philatelic gifts range in price from about $5 for those holding a small world-wide collection or U. S. stamps only, to up to $76 for a five-volume set of albums for stamps of the world. Also available, from $7 to $30, are albums for individual countries or country-groups.

New Issues: St. Athanasios, founder of the Mount Athos monastic community, is pictured on one of the eight stamps issued by Greece to mark the 1,000th anniversary of the "Holy Republic of Mount Athos." . . . Churches of Angola provide the designs for a set of 18 multi-color stamps released by the Portuguese province in Africa.

Two stamps picturing Ataturk, who as Mustafa Kemal Pasha founded the Turkish republic, were issued by Turkey on the 25th anniversary of his death. Ataturk's portrait also appears on a set of three stamps marking the 40th anniversary of the republic.

This column is a public service of the Society of Philatelic Americans, a non-profit group which has served stamp collectors for 69 years. Information on the society's membership benefits can be obtained from SPA's President, Robert Baughman, Box 1178-K, Liberal, Kans., 67801. The volume of mail, however, prevents Mr. Baughman from answering general questions about stamps.

Lions Club Sets Christmas Party

GLENN FERRY, Dec. 7—The Glenns Ferry Lions club will hold its annual Christmas party for members and their wives at 8 p.m. Dec. 14 in the old Koffee Kup building at Glenns Ferry, according to George South, publicity chairman.

The board of governors have set the week between Christmas and New Year's day to hold the annual Outlaw basketball tournament, sponsored by the Glenns Ferry Lions club.

THREE CANADA GEESE look alike in this photograph, but only one of the three is a newcomer. The two geese on the left practically had become pets of officials at the national wildlife refuge headquarters and then the one on the right joined the group. More "wild" than the other two, this one apparently convinced the duo that men were not to be trusted too much. As a result, the original pair no longer eat out of the hands of the officials. In this photograph the newcomer keeps an eye on the cameraman. (Times-News photo)

LAST OF A FEW of the shoveler-ducks, sometimes called spoonbills, still remaining in the Mindoka national wildlife refuge are seen through the eye of a telephoto lens as they feed. Just a week before, more than 9,000 of this type duck had been counted. Now, less than 100 are noted. Total duck population at the refuge dropped from 106,000 to 43,000 in one week as the birds headed south for the winter. Geese, however, showed an increase as they moved in off highland eating areas to the water. No hunting is permitted in the refuge and the ducks and geese seem to sense this. (Times-News photo)

Annual Lamb Feed Held by Eden Lodge

BLISS, Dec. 7—The charter was draped in honor of the late President John F. Kennedy at the Bliss Grange meeting Thursday evening with Mrs. Martin Slane, chaplain, and Mrs. Harold Butler, Ceres, assisting.

Master Fred Hamline conducted the meeting. Doran Butler, chairman of the legislation committee, spoke on activities under President Lyndon Johnson, and especially on the law preventing purchase of firearms by minors.

Mrs. Verne Carson reported on Idaho's water rights, and urged each Grange member to read all publications available on the cases where water has been taken from communities.

The group voted to enter the community service program, sponsored yearly by Sears, Roebuck foundation. Frank Lenker was named chairman.

A film, "Insurance from the Farmer's Side of the Fence," was shown by Fred Locke, Gooding. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Kyle, also Gooding.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lenker served refreshments. The next meeting, Dec. 31, will be a New Year's eve party at 9 p.m. Mrs. Sam Bishop will be in charge of the refreshments, and the program will be furnished by Mrs. Blaine Steele, Mrs. Bob Butler and Mrs. Harold Hamline.

Duck Migration Is Speeded as Cold Weather Grips Snake River Section

RUPERT, Dec. 7—The great migration is under way. Thousands of ducks are winging their way out of the Mindoka national wildlife refuge toward warmer climes.

At the same time, a survey shows that swans and geese have shown an increase since the last count, while coots (sometimes called hell divers) dropped from an estimated 5,000 to just over 100.

In a report prepared by Robert Nelson, refuge manager, and Sanford (Sandy) Wilbur, assistant manager, it was disclosed that the mass migration started about two weeks ago. The mallard population still is heavy, numbering some 28,800 against 30,000 the week before.

Pintails, however, now number only 3,800—against the total a week ago of 12,500. A big drop in canvasback duck population also was noted, sinking to 5,300 from 20,000. The ruddy duck dropped from 10,000 to 700 in number during the same period.

Last week's count disclosed the duck population standing at 43,150 against the total seven days prior of 106,400.

Such migration, the officials point out, is normal for this time of year.

One especially interesting migration sees the coots leaving the area. Although classed with a duck, these birds actually are a relative of the rail, a long-legged marsh bird. They are not even a member of the duck family.

Apparently, these birds, which normally appear to fly very little, migrate at night. The counted number at the refuge has dropped from 5,000 a week ago to 150 at present.

For some unknown reason, not all ducks migrate. Some, from all classifications, choose to remain in the area all winter, usually on the river which provides one of the few open areas during a hard freeze.

"Why some ducks hang around all winter is not known," Wilbur said. "All we can say is that they just do not fly south as most of their relatives do."

Generally, the two officials say, the duck population in this flyway is on the increase, showing a recovery from the Canadian and United States drought of a few years ago. The same increase is noted among the geese population. Also, they report, the whistling swan population at the refuge now stands at about 1,100. These great birds are comparatively rare compared to some other species.

Both officials and members of their families are watching three geese with interest. Two of them had become so tame that they would eat out of the hand. They were two that were hatched in "civilization," after the eggs had been stolen from a nest. Federal officials confiscated the birds and released them in the refuge. Their wings had been clipped in captivity, so their flights are somewhat limited, but are getting longer with each passing day.

Only recently, the "wild" goose, one which had been hatched in a wild nest and raised wild, joined the more or less tame duo. Since then the activities of the original two have changed.

The refuge officials say the wild one has apparently convinced the other two that men are not to be trusted. He "talks" incessantly to the original two whenever a human approaches.

All three still remain around headquarters buildings for the most part, and take the grain that is thrown out to them but it is becoming more difficult to get close to them.

"We are all wondering if they will stay here now or if the wild one will convince the other two that they should go south," Wilbur said.

The refuge is located 12 miles northeast of Rupert and is at an elevation of 4,545 feet. The water areas are formed by backwaters of Mindoka dam. Of the 25,630 acres, a total of some 12,000 acres is in water and marsh. The dam, which impounds Lake Walcott, is operated only as a diversion point for irrigation and as a power source.

The area was established in 1909 and is administered by the bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife, department of the interior. It is considered an important link in the chain of refuges in the Pacific flyway which extends from Canada to Mexico.

Idaho Fish-Game Director Compiles File on Rescuing Lost Gem Sportsmen

By JIM HUMBERD
Idaho Fish-Game Department
BOISE, Dec. 7—A thick, but incomplete, file in the director's office of the Idaho fish and game department brings together all search and rescue reports and related materials for the past three years. This file covers the stories of people who had been hunting or fishing and later became lost, injured, ill or deceased. It also includes many others who had been out—camping, boating, swimming or for some other reason—and come to grips with serious trouble.

Some of these stories end tragically. Most have happy endings. But in all cases, one or more people needed help—and fast.

Several reports involve the accidental injury or natural deaths of prospectors and sheepherders; victims of plane or automobile crashes; gun accidents, or drownings; old folks wandering afield; lost Scouts at summer encampment; wood haulers injured or killed on side hills by rolling tractors; stranded boat parties on the Salmon river, motorists on mud—or snow—filled roads; Christmas tree cutters; and, in one case, residents below a dam which threatened to burst and take life and property.

More help is available for search and rescue operations in all parts of the state than generally is realized. During the past three years, since the Idaho fish and game department has been requesting reports from field men about search and rescue work, the following agencies also have provided all-out cooperation and assistance:

State police officers and county sheriffs; U. S. forest service; bureau of land management; U. S. air force; civil air patrol; state department of aeronautics; U. S. department of agriculture; U. S. department of agriculture; skin divers from the Mountain Home air force base and Boise Hill

Divers club; several mountain search and rescue units; sheriff's horse posse; and literally hundreds of unattached volunteers willing to donate their skills, energy, time and often their personal expenses.

What has been spent by these agencies and individuals for search and rescue work is unknown. An indication for what it is worth, is the fact that fish and game department workers alone have contributed over seven man-months of time, or nearly $5,000 on 78 such cases since 1961. This does not include another $500, covering 5,338 vehicle miles, and $600 for renting boats, horses and airplanes, or groceries for back-country consumption.

These many agencies work together effectively and remarkably well. For example, last April during the search for Delford Sharpe in the rugged Owyhee mountains of southwestern Idaho, men and equipment were dropped in the gumbo mud. Participating were mounted sheriff's posse from Payette, Owyhee, Canyon and Ada counties, as well as the Idaho state police, fish and game department, civil air patrol and the Idaho Search and Rescue unit, Inc. The latter is a group of men who operate in remote areas that are inaccessible to other means of search and rescue because of adverse weather or mountainous terrain.

Owyhee county Sheriff Al Barberis, who headed up the search-rescue operation, came to Capt. Stan Legg, commander, Boise squadron, Idaho wing, civil air patrol, with the query, "Can you get us a helicopter to ferry men and equipment up the mountain?"

Captain Legg responded that he didn't know, but would try. He phoned Maj. Edward H. Butts, U. S. air force liaison officer for the Idaho wing civil air patrol in Boise. Within a matter of a few minutes, a "chopper" capable of carrying eight-to-ten men hove into sight from Mountain Home. Later a second helicopter was dispatched.

Col. Dwight L. Shaw, Twin Falls, Idaho wing commander for CAP, says any Idaho sheriff is authorized to place a collect telephone call to the western air rescue center at Hamilton air force base, California, to get a mission number and the CAP Idaho wing into action. The telephone number is TUCR 3-4112 (code 415). No expense is involved to the lost individual, his family or to county or state tax payers. And the county sheriff initiating the action remains in charge of all phases of the search.

Idaho wing headquarters of CAP are in Twin Falls, with the eastern and western Idaho groups at Idaho Falls and Boise. The following CAP composite squadrons are organized and ready for action: Aroo, Boise, Buhl, Burley-Rupert, Caldwell, Ohalla, Elk River, Idaho Falls, Lewiston, Nampa, Nysa, Payette-Ontario, Mountain Home, Rexburg and Welter. A senior squadron is organized at St. Maries.

Colonel Shaw says these local squadrons, groups and wing headquarters are ready at all times to help other public and private leaders and individuals in search-rescue efforts, with the assurance of any assistance the U. S. air force can give from Mountain Home, Hill air force base, near Salt Lake City, and Hamilton field, Calif.

However, CAP is a state operation of volunteer members who always remain at the disposal and under the complete control of the county sheriff during search rescue work, except in the case of missing or downed civilian aircraft. In such about 400 cadets, air-minded boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 19, but that is another story.

Some of the capabilities for search-rescue work of the CAP Idaho wing, groups and squadrons are indicated by the following figures: Senior membership 267; three CAP-owned and 30 member-owned airplanes; 12 corporate Jeeps, 20 member-owned; five four-wheel drive ambulances; one four-wheel drive weapons carrier, with a possibility of four more; large supply of sedans, station wagons and trucks; 20 mobile electric power units; unlimited supply of mobile radio units and fixed radio transmit-Idaho Falls; five member-owned, ing stations from Lewiston to helicopters.

NEAREST THING to sking, without benefit of snow, has appeared in the Twin Falls area. Dream idea of a University of Idaho student, the four-wheeled gadget enables the user to practice at any time paved roads are open. In this picture a sharp right turn is taken in stride by a youthful Twin Falls resident who brought the first one into this section. The picture was taken on the Shoshone falls grade. The steeper the grade, the greater the speed. (Times-News photo)

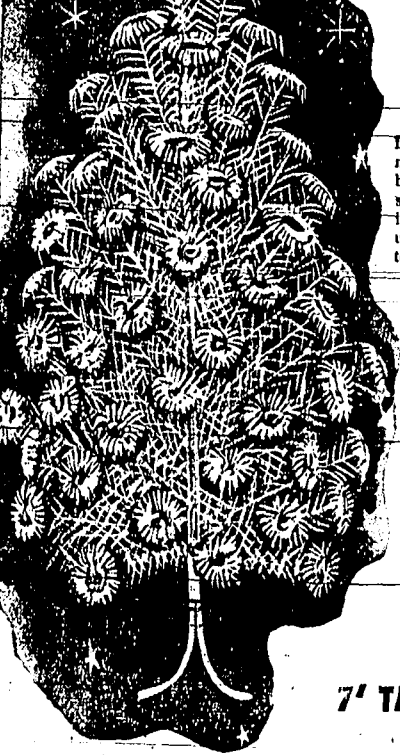

BUILT CLOSE to the ground, the new skid-without-snow gadget called a "vadle" by the inventor, is just big enough for the two feet of the rider. Soft-soled or rubber-soled shoes grip best during runs. By following downhill, paved grades the operator is able to imitate practically every movement made during an actual ski run. (Times-News photo)

Dry Skiing Possible on New Gadget

Who needs snow to ski? Actually, if you use real skis, snow is important, but when employing a gadget invented by a University of Idaho student, it really is not necessary. Called a "vadle" the four-wheeled, low-slung item resembles a small platform on wheels. The platform itself is built to tilt from one side or another with the weight shift of the operator. It is much like the movements made during actual skiing, those who have tried out the new idea report. At present, there is only one "vadle" in this section of Idaho. It is owned by a Twin Falls youth, but several other residents have sent for more. Vadle, according to skiing, is a term to define an Austrian method of skiing. With a paved road, and a downhill approach, it is possible to accomplish as much on the four-wheeled platform as can be accomplished on two skis, those who have tried out the invention report. The invention is the brainchild of Mike Randles, a student at the University of Idaho. Constructed of metal, it is built for hard-usage. Many are now in use in the Moscow area, but the introduction into southern Idaho is just starting. Although tricky at first, those who have tried the gadget in Twin Falls report that after a few practice runs it is easy to "stay aboard."

Police in T.F. Report Crashes

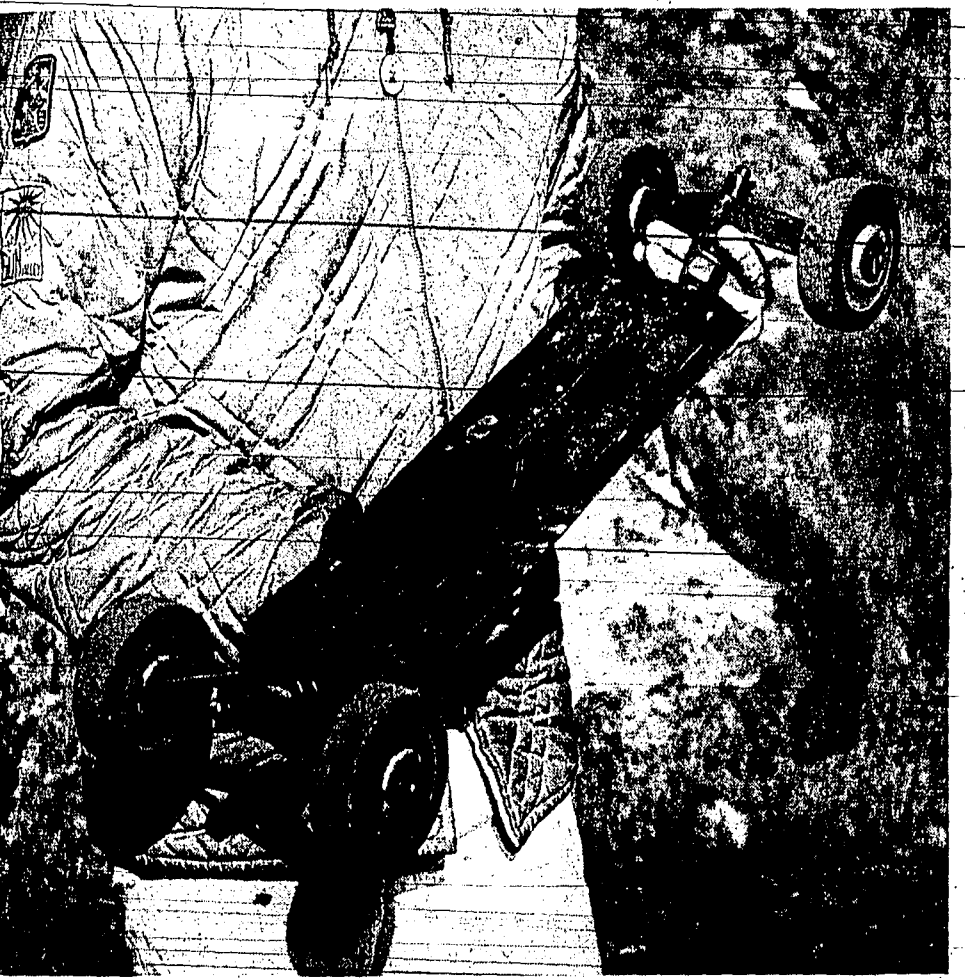

Twin Falls police investigated two accidents Friday, with no citations issued and no injuries reported. At 10:35 a.m., two vehicles were damaged when a 1961 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by Mrs. Margaret Otley, 61, Elba, backed into a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Mrs. Donna R. Miller, 40 Filer, at Addison avenue and Adams street. Police said the pickup truck had stopped for a stalled car and the Chevrolet had stopped just behind the pickup truck. The pickup truck then backed up to go around the stalled car and struck the Chevrolet. The rear of two vehicles were damaged when a 1931 Comet driven by Wesley C. Peterson, 44, 1870 Osterloh avenue, backed out of his driveway and collided with a 1963 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Floyd Vance, 24, 1855 Osterloh avenue, which was backing from a driveway. The accident occurred at 12:08 p.m. Friday in the 1800 block of Osterloh avenue.

CLOSEUP OF NEW invention, termed a summer substitute for a pair of skis, shows construction highlights. The platform tilts with weight of the operator and the rubber-tired wheels cause a tight grip to pavement as intricate turns are made. The item is expected to catch on among Magic Valley skiers, although it will not be available until some future time. (Times-News photo) pellet. During a 5-hour shift, he received 235 pellets.

Chimp Pilot Trained to Fly in Space

In another room, a 5-year-old chimp named George, who walks as erect as a man, does his special counting.
A panel with a small screen that flashes numbers sits at the end of George's cage.
When a figure shows on the screen, George presses a lever an equal number of times. He pushes another handle to clear the panel. If he gets six right in a row, a reward pellet slips down the chute.
George recently had the number seven included in his schedule—from one to seven. His hand counted out the other six numbers on the control lever quickly. When seven came up, he hit the lever more slowly, counting each tap. He missed it a couple of times.
George showed his training that day, however. He finished the sequence correctly and then looked for his reward. There was none. Again he did it perfectly and again no pellet.

Upon examination, Maj. Reynolds found the tube closed. The chimp hadn't received a reward after three hours of work, but had continued to push the levers each time the numbers came up. The scientists were elated.
Chimp college is a busy place. It has become the world's most famous chimp vivarium—animal colony—and its research with animals is being watched by scientists all over the world.
Chimp college has a classroom section in one building and dorms, or vivarium, in another. The chimp colony of 83 animals in the 675th aeromedical research laboratory is divided into three groups. One group is the chimps just arrived from Africa and in quarantine. The second is the working animals and the third includes those used for other experiments.
About 30 animals are kept a year from a supply of 250-300. They cost about $1,000 each and after training become much more expensive.

Most of the chimps are adolescents and their medicines reflect their age: sugar-flavored liquids found in any pediatric ward. The main food is a commercially-prepared chimp chow. Fruits are used for dessert or supplements to the main diet.
A special delight is "chimp cocktail," a sparkling pink-colored concoction of gelatin, soft-boiled eggs, baby cereal and milk. Pellets and candy are the main rewards in the training system.
Handlers tell an amusing story about Bobby Joe, the space pilot. Each cage is locked with a combination-type lock.
"One day," says M. Sgt. Joe T. Murray of Upper Darby, Pa., a handler, "Bobby Joe opened his lock, pulled it from the slots of the cage, opened the door and crept into the room where the pellets were kept."
"He knew just what he was looking for. He opened the door, grabbed a sack of pellets and ran down the cages throwing handfuls of the food to the chimps in the cages.

"They were all chattering, and the handlers were running after Bobby Joe, but he kept throwing the pellets to his buddies. Finally when he reached the end of the cages he sat down to eat some of his ill-gotten gains himself, but they were all gone. We had given them all away."

dedicate his time and talents to youngsters.

Because he never charged for his services, his time was limited.

In 1946, Harold Brown, Paul coach, and Robinson's brother-in-law assisted him at an athletic center located in the school gymnasium.

During the winter of 1953-54, the center moved to the Plank building where Robinson worked with 60 or 70 youngsters. He loved every minute of it.

It bothers Robinson to hear kids out on the street yelling, but "when I have them in a center, the more they yell, the more I enjoy it," he remarked.

He maintains, you can take the youngsters into a center, give them a good workout in wrestling, boxing or tumbling, and afterwards they usually want to go home to bed.

Robinson believes if you show an interest in a youngster he will show an interest in himself and become a better person.

Robinson also is a trained masseur and had offices in Burley and Rupert.

Robinson married the former Lenor Brown. They have two children, Sherry, living at home, and Roy, married and residing in Burley.

In his home, he has a scrapbook fitted with newspaper pictures and articles of both his individual career and of the athletic center for the local youngsters.

At 59, this retired (but not tired) fighter still says the main goal in his life is to operate and maintain an athletic center for the youngsters.

Pauling Nobel Prize Talk Expected to Produce Shock

and nuclear testing except deep in the ground where there would be no radioactive contamination of the atmosphere.

The day the treaty was signed, Pauling, who already had won the 1954 Nobel prize in chemistry for another "impossible" feat—predicting molecular structures, which improved microscopes later verified—was announced as winner of the 1962 Nobel prize for peace.

That came as a surprise even to Pauling. Never before had anyone received two full Nobel prizes. Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, who won the chemistry prize in 1911 had to share an earlier physics prize with two others.

Eight days after the award announcement, last Oct. 18, Pauling did another surprising thing. Instead of resting on his laurels and waiting out retirement at the California Institute of Technology, where he had spent the past 32 years, Pauling quit at the age of 62.

With his $40,465 prize, he apparently felt he could gamble on a new job with the Fund for the Republic's Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, Calif.

The fact that the center, funded by the Ford foundation, had about used up its original grant, didn't bother him.

Why did he make the switch? Again, Pauling had what were to him good reasons for the action.

"The award of the Nobel Peace prize will have the consequence that I shall devote the major part of my time in the field of international affairs," he said, "and I shall be able to carry out this work more effectively in the center than in the institute."

Associates say Pauling reaches sometimes startling conclusions because he is a truly free-wheeling thinker.

"Once he gets an idea that an impossible is possible, he will accept almost any challenges," said one.

This way of thinking has led Pauling to challenge psychiatrists with a theory of his that 80 per cent of all mental illness has a chemical rather than an emotional basis. The only mental ailments not due to the presence or absence of various chemicals in the blood, he believes, are those arising from injury or inherited defects.

"My scientific research I do because I love it. My efforts in international affairs come from a sense of duty," Pauling says.

It was this sense of duty, Pauling says, which caused him to joust with the senate internal security subcommittee in 1950 over his now famous petition, signed by more than 11,000 scientists in 49 nations, against nuclear testing.

Pauling in 1952 was denied a passport by the state department on the grounds that he was suspected by communist leanings.

He denied this "under oath" and, after his first Nobel prize, was issued an unlimited passport.

Pauling gave evidence early in his life that he was not always inclined to follow the popular approach to matters.

In Portland, Ore., where he was born, he left high school without a diploma, because he had not taken the right courses.

An honorary diploma was awarded him only a year later.

He passed his entrance exams at Oregon State college, however, and was graduated in 1922.

Three years later he won his Ph.D. in chemistry at Caltech

Vic FLINT

MY PLANS HAVE BEEN CAREFULLY LAID. THERE CAN BE NO SLIP!

FIRST I MUST DISMISS MISS DENIS FOR THE DAY!

CHARLES OTTINO OF THE FIRM RAVIL AND OTTINO, ART COLLECTORS, WAS ABOUT TO PUT A DIABOLIC PLOT INTO MOTION.

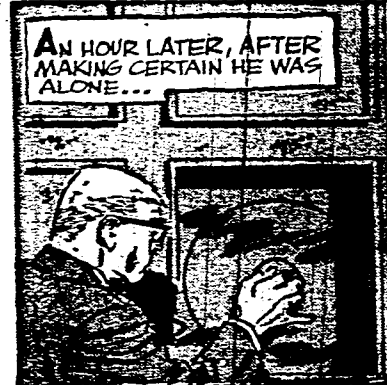

HAS THE VARGA COLLECTION ARRIVED, MISS DENIS?

YES, SIR. IT'S IN THE SAFE.

MR. RAVIL TOOK A COMPLETE INVENTORY ON IT BEFORE HE LEFT.

EXCELLENT! I'LL BE WORKING LATE, SO YOU MAY LEAVE WHENEVER YOU LIKE.

AN HOUR LATER, AFTER MAKING CERTAIN HE WAS ALONE...

HAVING EMPTIED THE SAFE OF THE $200,000 VARGA ART COLLECTION, CHARLES OTTINO PREPARED TO LEAVE THE FIRM OF RAVIL AND OTTINO FOREVER!... IT WAS SATURDAY EVENING.

ON WEDNESDAY, MISS DENIS PLACED AN URGENT CALL TO HUGO RAVIL IN ATLANTIC CITY.

I'M FRANKLY WORRIED! MR. OTTINO HASN'T BEEN IN SINCE SATURDAY. HE LEFT NO MESSAGE AND CAN'T BE REACHED AT HIS APARTMENT!

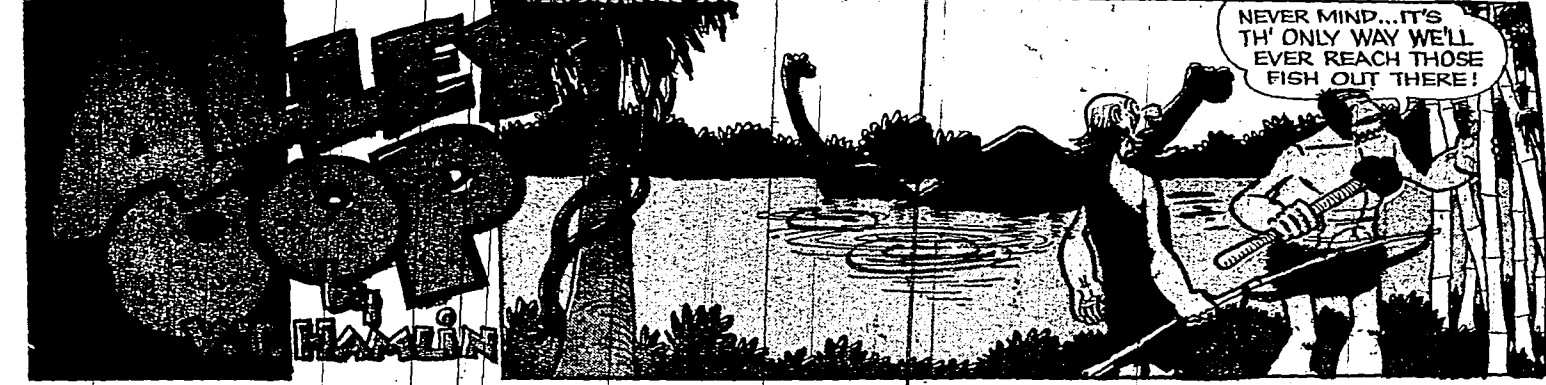

RAVIL FLEW HOME IMMEDIATELY.

THAT'S CORRECT, INSPECTOR. NOT ONLY HAS MY PARTNER VANISHED, BUT SO HAS THE CONTENTS OF MY SAFE!

A WEEK LATER, HUGO RAVIL PAID ME A VISIT.

THE POLICE HAVEN'T TURNED UP ONE LEAD ON MY PARTNER'S DISAPPEARANCE, MR. FLINT! I WANT TO RETAIN YOU TO UNRAVEL THIS THING!

NEVER MIND...IT'S TH' ONLY WAY WE'LL EVER REACH THOSE FISH OUT THERE!

NOW THIS OUGHTA DO TH' JOB FOR US! Y'GOT THAT LINE READY, LIKE I TOLDJUH?

JUST LIKE YOU SAID, HERE'S PLENTY, OF VINE...BUT WE NEVER'LL USE HALF THIS LINE!

OH, YES, WE WILL...WE'LL USE EVERY BIT OF IT!

AW, COME NOW, OOP, I KNOW YOU'RE STRONG... BUT EVEN FOR YOLI, THIS IS MUCH TOO LONG!

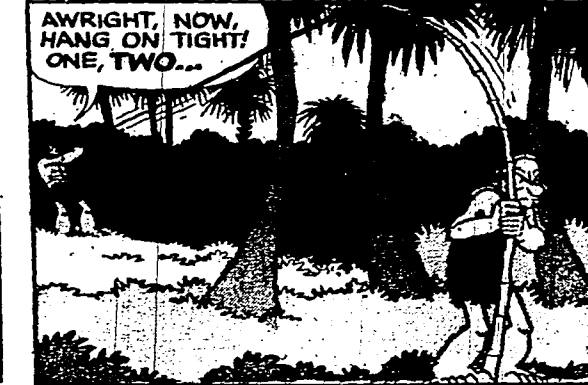

NOT TH' WAY I GOT IT FIGGERED... COURSE YOU'LL HAFTA GIVE ME SOME HELP!

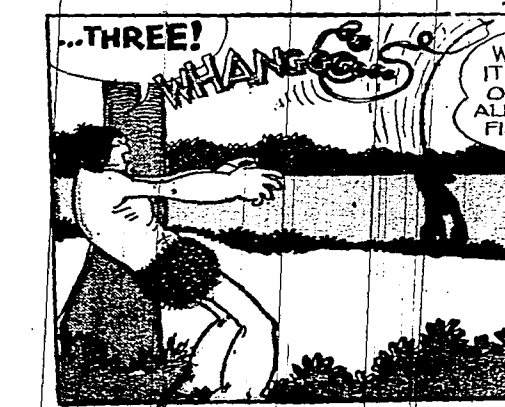

WELL, OKAY... SHOW ME TH' WAY!

JUST HANG ONTO TH' STICK... I'LL DO TH' REST!

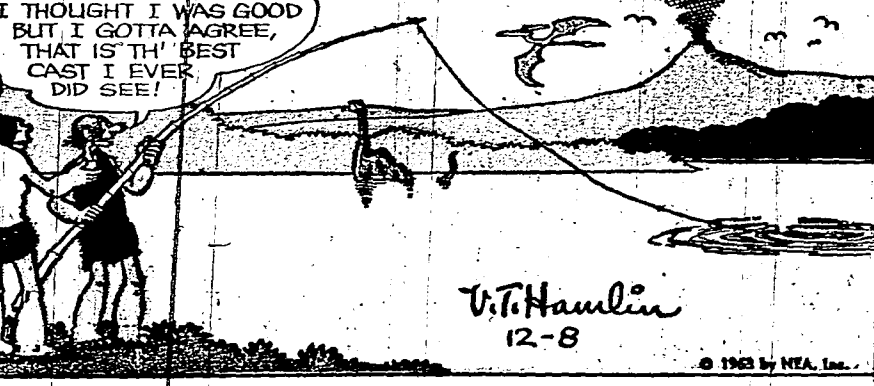

AWRIGHT, NOW, HANG ON TIGHT! ONE, TWO...

...THREE!

WHANG!

WELL, THERE IT IS, RIGHT OUT WHERE ALL TH' LITTLE FISHES ARE!

I THOUGHT I WAS GOOD BUT I GOTTA AGREE, THAT IS TH' BEST CAST I EVER DID SEE!

THANKS TO JUDY POLLARD (AGE 12) LIVINGSTON, N. J.

THANKS TO KITTY KASAI (AGE 13) DURANGO, COLO.

THANKS TO PATTI RODRIGUEZ (AGE 10) GRAND ISLAND, NEBR.

17. THAT'S WHAT I SAID--FIFTY CENTS FOR DOING THE JOB!

18. SOUNDS OKAY TO ME!

19. THERE'S A SILLY WAY OF SHOVELING SNOW AND A SMART WAY!

20. BRAINS SAVE WORK--THAT'S WHAT I ALWAYS SAY!

21. THE JOB'S ALL DONE, MOM. FIFTY CENTS, PLEASE, AS PER AGREEMENT!

22. NOT UNTIL I INSPECT THE JOB!

23. WHAT'S THE IDEA OF TWO NARROW PATHS?

24. THAT'S WHERE THE CAR WHEELS WILL FIT--WHAT'S THE USE OF CLEANING IN THE MIDDLE WHEN IT AIN'T USED FOR ANYTHING?

25. BUT THE FRONT WALK? THAT'S NOT FOR AUTOS--WHY TWO PATHS THERE?

26. OH, I WAS EXTRA GENEROUS WITH THAT! I MADE IT SO TWO PEOPLE COULD PASS EACH OTHER! NOW HOW ABOUT THE HALF A BUCK!

27. HERE'S FIFTEEN CENTS, AND I'M BEING EXTRA GENEROUS, TOO!

25. BLACKIE BEAR LIKES PSYCHOLOGY IN SELLING.

26. YEAH? MADAME! I SELL STATIONERY!

27. THERE'S NOTHING SPECIAL OR UNUSUAL ABOUT THIS STATIONERY!

28. MADAME, I SELL ONLY THE NEWEST AND THE LATEST IN STATIONERY!

29. PLEASE, YOU'LL NOTICE THAT THE BORDER RUNS ALL AROUND THE EDGES--

30. THE CENTER OF THE STATIONERY IS DIRECTLY IN THE MIDDLE!

31. DEAR ME YES, HOW QUAINT! I'LL BUY--

32. THREE BOXES!
