

House Leaders Abandon Efforts To Hike Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (UPI)—House leaders all abandoned efforts today to pump extra funds into a drastically-reduced 2.8 billion dollar foreign aid bill. They held out hope, however, that the senate would store some of the money chopped from the program. The house met at noon to take up the bill. Speaker John W. McCormack told reporters that house leaders were surveying the possibility of persuading house members to increase the bill's total as urgently requested by President Johnson.

Efficiency

LONDON, Dec. 16 (UPI)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, a dedicated non-drinker, has been taking his lumps again from Sir Winston Churchill, a dedicated drinker. The Daily Mirror quoted Montgomery today as saying of Churchill: "He told me I would be a much better soldier if I drank brandy." The story recalled their first meeting, during World War II, when Montgomery told the then prime minister, "I don't use either alcohol or tobacco, and I'm 100 per cent efficient."

"I use both," grinned Churchill, "and my efficiency is 200 per cent." McCormack's cautious remarks appeared to reflect the negative outcome of a preliminary head check. It was said to have shown that administration forces would be lucky to head off further cuts in the program, let alone putting any new money in the bill. The bill, approved Saturday by the house appropriations committee, is 17 billion dollars less than the late President Kennedy asked for the year that began July 1 and 800 million dollars below the aid program authorized by congress.

On the eve of today's debate U. N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., backed up President Johnson's plea for restoration of the committee voted cuts. Stevenson denounced what he called "meat axe" slashes that would cause very serious damage to the nation's role as the free world leader. Humphrey said "congress will have struck a blow more dangerous than the communists' unless it restores the funds."

Johnson declared last Saturday that the reductions would "put our foreign policy in a strait jacket" and impose a "severe setback" on free world leadership. The bill, approved Saturday by the house appropriations committee, is 17 billion dollars less than the late President Kennedy asked for the year that began July 1 and 800 million dollars below the aid program authorized by congress.

Education Bill Signed By President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (UPI)—President Johnson signed today the education bill, putting the government in membership with the nation's 100 million children.

Wilderness Vote May Be Made in '64

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (UPI)—The house may vote next year on legislation to create and preserve a national wilderness system.

The bill, if one reaches the house, is expected to be a modified version of a measure which has passed the senate.

The house interior public lands subcommittee will hold field hearings on compromise legislation which was worked out by congressional and White House officials.

The hearings are scheduled at Olympia, Wash., Jan. 9; Denver, Colo., Jan. 10-11, and Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 13-14.

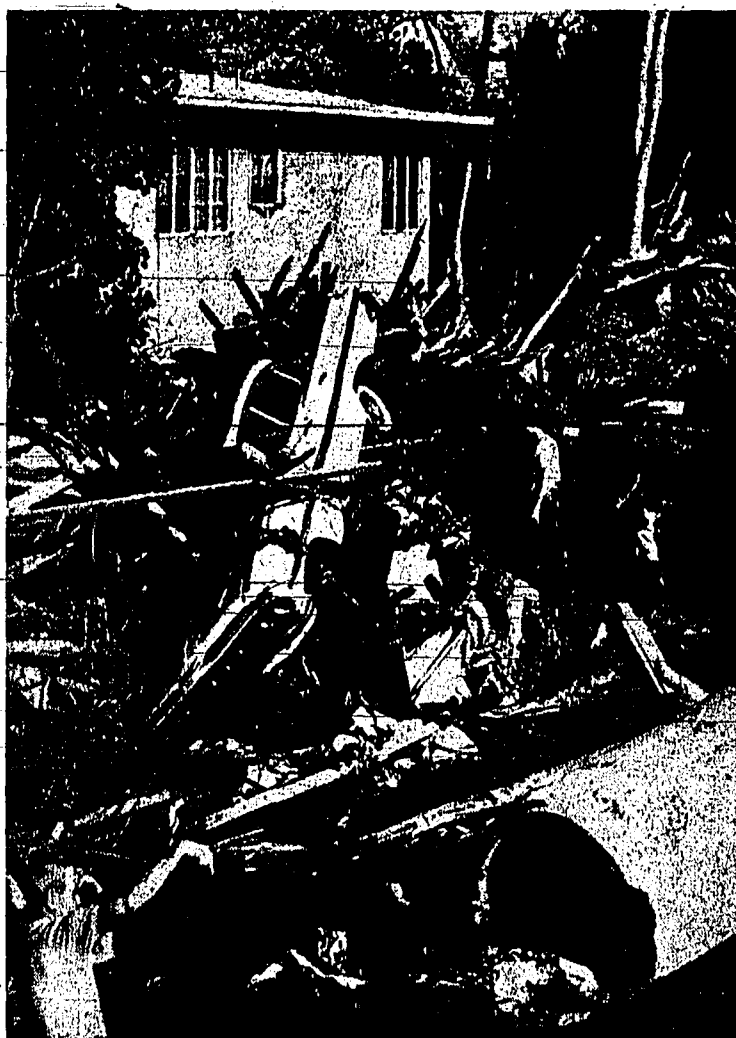

These hearings and others to be held in Washington will permit the public to give views on the compromise legislation. In all, 20 wilderness bills are before the subcommittee.

The senate-passed bill, calling for a vast wilderness system with tight restrictions against commercial and some other activities, has been stuck in the house subcommittee since April.

The latter bill is similar to one passed by the senate but which died in the house two years ago, when the house interior committee wrote a substitute measure.

There was no house vote on the substitute, which would have provided a smaller system with some commercial and other activities.

HUGE PIECES of wreckage and debris, including cars and concrete pipe like this, were carried and tossed aside Saturday by the flood waters from Los Angeles' broken Baldwin Hills reservoir. Evacuation of almost all of the residents by police kept the death toll low. (AP wirephoto)

California Dam Disaster Sparks Unanswered Question—Why?

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16 (AP)—Three hundred million gallons of water roared out of a gaping hole in Baldwin Hills reservoir, leaving three persons dead, at least 10 million dollars' damage—and one big unanswered question: Why? Investigators probed the cause of Saturday's devastating flood today as cleanup crews and heart-sick homeowners moved in.

For some, there was nothing to be done. The giant wall of water from the breaking dam swept blocks of homes away. Only deep, eroded gullies remained where attractive dwellings stood. Sixty-four homes were destroyed and 82 were severely damaged.

More fortunate residents picked among the ruins of their shattered homes, hoping to salvage items left behind when the order to evacuate disrupted the tranquil neighborhood.

The big 19.5-acre reservoir, owned by the Los Angeles department of water and power, burst with a mighty roar Saturday afternoon after a small leak developed earlier in the day.

The earth shook as huge chunks of earth from the dam collapsed into the hole created by the rushing waters.

The flood smashed through an expensive canyon residential area, hit a garden court apartment development, spread through two business districts and another residential neighborhood, then piled into a flood control channel and poured into the ocean about five miles away.

Up to inches of thick mud covered everything in the path of the water.

The many faceted investigation starting today will attempt to answer: Mayor Samuel Yorly, who wants to know why the dam broke.

Thousands of flood victims, who want to know who will pay for the damage.

Thousands of other residents, living below similar reservoirs, and wondering . . .

The small business administration declared Baldwin Hills a disaster area, making available long-term, low interest loans for flood victims.

Some facts and theories are already being advanced.

Twin Falls Man Loses Life in Viet Nam Crash

Mrs. Esther H. Allred, 1751 Borah avenue east, received word about 11 a.m. Monday via telegram from the army that her husband, Captain James H. Allred, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Allred, 1337 Sixth avenue east, was one of three men killed Saturday in an army helicopter crash about one-half mile off the shore of central Viet Nam. James Allred was the father of five children and served most of his adult life in the service. He joined the navy air corps in 1943 and served in it during World War II. After leaving the navy he entered Utah State university, where he received his degree.

3 Aviators Killed in Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Dec. 16 (AP)—The bodies of three American aviators missing after their helicopter crashed into the ocean were recovered on a lonely beach in central Viet Nam today.

The bodies were flown to Saigon for an autopsy to determine the cause of death. No wreckage was sighted.

The copilot, only survivor of the crash 15 miles south of Quang Ngai, told authorities the helicopter crashed Saturday night half a mile offshore as it started to land to pick up wounded Vietnamese troops.

The American spokesman said the three dead Americans were considered noncombat casualties.

The copilot said the helicopter was coming in for a landing "when suddenly I found water around my knees." Two accompanying helicopters completed their missions.

The copilot swam ashore and spent Saturday night hiding in the bushes. He contacted government rescuers Sunday.

A U.S. officer was killed when communist guerrillas fired at a battalion of Vietnamese infantrymen in the jungles of northern Quang Tin province.

The officer was an adviser to the battalion. There were no other government casualties.

The latest fatality brought to 85 the number of Americans killed in action against the Viet Cong since U. S. troops came to South Viet Nam two years ago.

Other Americans have died of war-related causes.

Last week was one of the bloodiest U. S. forces in South Viet Nam have had. Last Thursday a U. S. helicopter and a small plane crashed, killing eight Americans.

CAPT. JAMES H. ALLRED . . . Twin Falls man who was killed in an army helicopter crash in Viet Nam.

While at the university he was a member of the ROTC.

When the Korean conflict broke out Allred was called into the army as a reservist. About four years ago, while in Germany, he received his regular army commission.

His promotion to major was pending at the time of his death. He was listed in the top one-third of the army for efficiency.

Allred was a pilot in the army and flew fixed wing and rotor type airplanes. When killed he was on a return flight from an evacuation mission and the helicopter was about one mile from landing. The bodies of Allred and two companions were found on a beach. They were shipped to Saigon for autopsy.

His wife received a telegram from the army about 9 a.m. Sunday, stating that her husband was missing on the flight. A later telegram confirmed his death.

The Allreds have traveled in several countries and they just returned to Twin Falls from abroad in June. Captain Allred was sent to Viet Nam for a one year stay. He would have completed six months on Christmas.

Captain Allred was graduated from Twin Falls high school in 1943 and was married to Esther Faler on April 8, 1948 in Twin Falls.

He was a member of the Elks lodge and was affiliated with the Valley Christian church.

Survivors, besides his widow and parents, include three sons, Paul Allred, Jeffrey Allred and David Allred, and two daughters, Jamie Allred and Jole Allred. (See ALLRED, Page 2)

NATO Power

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Johnson assured the North Atlantic alliance today that the United States will maintain its troop strength in Europe so long as these men are needed.

Johnson's promise was contained in a message read by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at the opening of NATO's 8-day winter ministerial meeting to survey the state of Western defenses and hopes for peace.

Blaze Destroys Church at Shoshone

SHOSHONE, Dec. 16 — The First Baptist church, Shoshone, one of the oldest church buildings in Idaho, was completely destroyed by fire early Sunday morning.

The church, which was completely remodeled during the past year, was destroyed when the fire apparently broke out in a wall between the furnace room and the youth fellowship room in the basement about 2 a.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Paul Winkler, pastor of the church, and Edward Bayliss were in the church when the fire broke out, working on new furniture to surprise the church congregation Sunday.

The entire building will have to be removed from the foundation.

The sanctuary floor caved in and one wall was threatening to fall, the Rev. Mr. Winkler stated.

The building committee will meet Tuesday evening and at 7 p.m. Wednesday a business meeting-banquet will be held in the Shoshone IOOF hall to consider future plans.

The First Baptist church is the second church in Shoshone to be destroyed by fire this year. Another fire, started by lightning, destroyed the Episcopal church in September.

Sunday evening services for the congregation were held in conjunction with the Assembly of God church services.

The only items saved in the fire were the new pulpit furniture, brass candlestick holders and offering plates. The new pews were moved out but were damaged.

Just prior to the accident, Haywood said, the driver of the car in front of him saw an oncoming car and slowed quickly. Haywood said he tried to slow down, but the trailer started to swing out into the other lane of traffic.

He explained to Mogensen instead of having the trailer collide with the oncoming car, he drove the truck and trailer into the borrow pit where both the truck and trailer rolled over, pinning him in the cab. Mogensen said it took two hours before Haywood was freed from the wreckage. The truck was demolished.

Sinatra to Resume Singing Engagement

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16 (UPI)—Attorneys for two suspects in the Frank Sinatra, jr., kidnaping today were conducting their own investigations and presumably attempting to arrange fast-bail as the young singer prepared to return to Lake Tahoe where he was abducted.

Santa Monica Attorney George A. Forde, was retained by Joseph Clyde Amsler, 23, Playa Del Rey, Calif. Attorney Rex Ellis was representing 23-year-old Barry Worthington Keenan, son of a wealthy stockbroker.

Both attorneys have conferred with the suspects.

"I have had two extended conferences with Amsler and have been retained by both the father and the boy himself. I am making a full independent study of the case," said Forde. A spokesman in Forde's office said bail was being arranged for Amsler, which was set at $50,000 for each defendant during arraignment.

"He hasn't been released at this time, but eventually he will be," said the spokesman.

While work was just beginning for defense attorneys, federal agents virtually had the investigation wrapped up for the U. S. attorney's office.

Sinatra, jr., who has been available to federal agents to aid in its investigation, was preparing to resume his singing engagement at the Lake Tahoe gambling spa.

Cold Air Topples Old Records

By The Associated Press
A marathon surge of cold air brought record low temperatures to parts of the Midwest today and carried freezing weather as far south as the interior of the Gulf states.

The mercury shivered to —36 degrees in Bemidji, Minn., Grand Forks, N.D., recorded —21.

The —16 in Minneapolis-St. Paul was the lowest ever recorded for the date. The previous low for Dec. 16 was —13 in 1897 and 1932.

Subzero readings were common across the eastern plains, in wide areas of the Midwest, and in many sections of the Northeast.

German Yule Pass Talks Fruitless

BERLIN, Dec. 16 (UPI)—East German Communists Leader Walter Ulbricht said in a telegram today that negotiations for Christmas passes for West Germans to visit their relatives behind the wall in East Berlin have been fruitless.

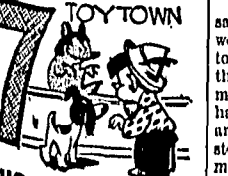

Ulbricht said in the wire to West German Socialist party progress has been "blocked" by the refusal of the West Berlin government to sign an agreement on such visits.

The East German communist government has rejected on official grounds the East German plan to issue passes so that East Berliners may visit with their East Berlin relatives during the Christmas season.

Ulbricht appealed to West German socialist leaders to instruct their government to accept the East German plan.

Negotiations on the Christmas passes began Dec. 5 but have bogged down over what West German officials consider to be a "back-door" East German demand for recognition of their regime.

TOYTOWN

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

James Jacobs, 26, and Donald H. Collins, 26, both Eugene, Ore., were being held in Twin Falls county jail Monday on charges of armed robbery. They were in jail in lieu of the $10,000 bond each, set by Twin Falls Police Judge Dale Adamson when they appeared before him Friday afternoon.

Police also are continuing investigation of Ernest McCullough, 26, Junction City, Ore., who is being held in city jail for failure to register as an ex-convict. He is believed to be an accomplice to the crime.

The two gunmen who robbed the store held five shoppers and five store clerks at gunpoint Thursday evening during the robbery. They took all currency from the four cash registers and the wall safe, before fleeing through the back door.

Khrushchev Budget Plans Fewer Guns

MOSCOW, Dec. 16 (AP)—A cut of 4.3 per cent in the Soviet military budget and an increase of 53 per cent in investments for consumer goods—industries over the next two years were announced today.

The new budget submitted to the supreme Soviet parliament—reflected Premier Khrushchev's proclaimed goal of giving the Russian people more bread and fewer guns.

But it was only a modest start in his plans for giant boosts in fertilizer and other consumer industries in the next seven years.

With Khrushchev listening, Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov announced the military budget for 1964 would be cut by 600 million rubles—666 million dollars at the official exchange rate. A cut had been promised by Khrushchev at the meeting of the communist party central committee last week.

Without giving figures, national planner Pyotr Lokomak announced additional investments in agriculture, housing, light industry and food processing in the 1964-65 period would be 53 per cent higher than in the past two years.

The military budget for 1964 totals 13.3 billion rubles (4.76 billion dollars) out of a total government expenditure of 91.3 billion rubles (101.34 billion dollars).

Military spending for 1963 was given as 13.9 billion rubles (15.9 billion dollars).

Western specialists in Soviet budgets insist that approximately half the annual Soviet expenditure is associated with the military, about the same proportion as in the United States.

However, there is no immediate means of making a clear comparison between Soviet budgets and American budgets. The Soviet budget, unlike the American, includes investments in industry which are made by private operators in America.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST
The five-day weather forecast and agricultural weather summary for southern Idaho and eastern Oregon:
The average pressure pattern forecast through next Saturday indicates considerable change as protective high pressure cells aloft and at the surface will give way to lower pressures centered along the British Columbia coast.

This changing pressure pattern will allow a greater influx of Pacific air into southern Idaho and eastern Oregon thereby holding temperature readings to near seasonal values. The current warming trend will show little change into mid-week but some cooling can be expected by the week-end. Seasonal temperature normals for this five-day period are: Boise 39-25, Gooding 36-21, Twin Falls 39-21, Burley 39-20, Pocatello 36-18 and Idaho Falls 34-15.

Precipitation totals will average from .15 to .40 of an inch over agricultural valleys occurring as periods of rain or snow around midweek and again at the end of the week. The occurrence of rain will be mostly confined to southwest and extreme southern valley sections with the upper Snake and Camas prairie receiving occasional snow as their form of precipitation.

SURFINGS will be limited this week due to considerable cloudiness caused by the frequent influx of moist Pacific air from the adjacent ocean areas. Winds will average near normal increasing at times during mid-week.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY
Currently the once mighty high pressure ridge is being flattened and nibbled away by a series of weak Pacific disturbances moving eastward across the northern Intermountain region. A few sprinkles of rain or a few snow flurries are possible through Tuesday over southern Idaho and eastern Oregon from such weak Pacific impulses but farther out in the Pacific a more vigorous storm is developing that should bring more rain or snow into this area about Wednesday. Under this ocean influence temperatures will remain mild with daytime readings climbing into the downright balmy range of the 30's and 40's over southwest, south-central and extreme southeastern valleys and in the 20's to low 30's over the upper Snake area. Nighttime minimums will also remain mild with readings in the 20's generally except in Camas prairie where the mercury will dip into the mid-teens. With warmer air overlying our snow cover, patchy valley nighttime and early morning fog can be expected tonight and tomorrow.

Yesterday Magic Valley stations took temperature honors with afternoon readings in the mid 40's. The usually warmer Boise and lower Malheur valleys had to settle for maximums in the mid 30's.

Anne Frank Arrest Probe Is Postponed

VIENNA, Dec. 16 (AP)—Austrian authorities have "postponed indefinitely" a disciplinary investigation into the wartime activities of the Vienna policeman who arrested Anne Frank and her family in Amsterdam, police announced today.

A police spokesman said no reason was given for the decision of the Austrian judiciary. The investigation had been scheduled to start tomorrow.

Police Inspector Karl Silberbauer, 53, who recently admitted arresting the author of "The Diary of Anne Frank" in August, 1944, was charged with a breach of discipline in concealing his part in the World War II drama.

Mrs. Frank died in a Nazi concentration camp to which she and her family were deported after police found their hiding place.

Silberbauer's wartime record with the Gestapo was probed in 1954, when he was reinstated in the Vienna police.

Silberbauer was suspended in October when Jewish Documentation Center Investigator Simon Wiesenthal informed the Austrian interior minister of his discovery of Silberbauer's role in the Anne Frank arrest.

He risked losing his job and long-service benefits if it was established that he concealed part of his wartime activities during his 1954 re-instatement hearings.

Wilderness

vised this year is somewhat similar to the substitute bill written by the committee in the past session.

Similarities include:
1. Creation of an eight million acre wilderness system comprised of federal lands now classified as "wilderness," "wild" or "canoe" areas.

2. Review of other potential wilderness areas with affirmative action by congress required for additions to the system, instead of by administrative order as provided in the senate and the house.

3. Continuation of some commercial and other activities in wilderness areas provided they are not compatible with wilderness preservation.

The compromise bill would close out mining in the wilderness system over a 10-year period. The old committee bill would have permitted mining for 25 years.

Some members of the house interior committee from western states with natural resources have long opposed any move to prevent mining, lumbering, livestock grazing and kindred activities on federal lands.

damaged so seriously that they are beyond repair.

The new pulpit furniture was purchased by Dr. John McMahon in memory of his parents, who were among the original founders of the church.

The Baptist congregation in Shoshone dates back to 1886, and the building was erected in 1902.

The church, a landmark in Magic Valley, was well known for its exterior construction of lava rock set in mud with painted plaster outside.

Members of the church report they are grateful the church bell was not damaged, because such bells are not made in the U.S.

Among the furniture lost were two pianos and an Everett Argator, a large console type organ, which was installed three years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Winkler pointed out that it was almost impossible to estimate the fire loss because of the increase in costs since construction. He also noted that there was very little fire insurance.

Security Council Recommends Kenya, Zanzibar

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP)—The security council today recommended that Kenya and Zanzibar, East African countries which gained independence from Britain last week, be admitted as the 112th and 113th members of the United Nations.

The general assembly was expected to complete the admission of the two new countries late today.

The admission of Zanzibar and Kenya brings to 34 countries the strength of the African group, which includes all U. N. members from Africa except the Republic of South Africa. It also raises the strength of the Afro-Asian group to 68.

Engelking Eyes State Bus Problem

BOISE, Dec. 16 (AP)—D. F. Engelking, state superintendent of public instruction, said today that Pocatello is not the only district which transports parochial school children on district-operated buses.

He said that "some other districts" engage in the same practice, which he has declared is contrary to state law. Engelking said that it was legal to transport parochial students on buses operating privately under contract to the district, as is done in Boise.

Engelking added that the districts get state aid for bus transportation only for students listed as attending public schools. He said there are no cases of parochial student transportation being subsidized at the state level "unless someone is lying in their reports."

The Pocatello school board has delayed until its next meeting in January consideration of the matter. In the light of Engelking's statement,

He said he expects the question may have to be settled by a court test.

Lawyer Tries to Get Jack Ruby Out on Bond

DALLAS, Dec. 16 (AP)—Defense Attorney Tom Howard today filed for a writ in criminal court to try to have Jack Ruby released from jail on bond so the killer of President Kennedy's accused assassin could get "proper psychiatric treatment."

Howard asked for "reasonable bond" but did not propose a figure.

Judge Joe B. Brown, who is scheduled to preside at the murder trial of Ruby next Feb. 3, received a writ of habeas corpus from Howard. Brown set next Monday as the date for the hearing on the writ. Ruby was to be brought to court for the hearing, since he shot Lee Harvey Oswald on Nov. 24.

Howard charged that Ruby was being "held illegally on a bondable offense."

Car Damage Results From Mishap Chain

RUPERT, Dec. 16—Ice and snow-packed roads caused what officers called a chain reaction between two trucks and a car on highway 25, about four miles west of here, which blocked traffic on the highway for about six hours early Sunday morning.

A 1958 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Brent Maughan and owned by Glen Maughan, both Rupert, slid off the highway about 11:30 p. m. Sunday because of snow conditions. Maughan walked back to Rupert and summoned a friend, Doyle Lowder, to help him pull the pickup truck out of the borrow pit.

Lowder was flagging traffic while Maughan was working with the trucks, when Dean Blincoe, 18, Heyburn, came upon the scene and failing to see the flagman, passed him and lost control of his 1964 Ford, sliding into the front end of the Maughan vehicle.

The other truck, a 1962 Kenworth van, came upon the scene and the driver, William Bullard, 31, Carroll, Ia., applied his brakes and lost control, causing the truck to slide and hit a concrete bridge. The truck rolled on its side and the truck landed in a canal, which was drained. The truck was owned by Laurence C. Weyman, Carroll, with Charles A. White, 25, also Carroll, in the driver's seat.

Damage to the Kenworth was estimated at $2,900 and to the pickup truck about $200. Damage to the Ford was estimated at $100.

Idaho state police patrolman Roy Thomas and Maner Wall and Raymond Jarvis, both Minidoka county sheriff deputies, investigated the accident. No citations were issued.

Driver Cited By T. F. Police After Accident

Twin Falls police department investigated two accidents Sunday in which one person was cited. There were no injuries.

R. Wayne Buckendorf, 33, 413 Fifth avenue north, was cited for leaving the scene of an accident Sunday when the 1961 Ford he was driving struck a properly parked 1958 Studebaker owned by John Hosten, 179 VanBuren street.

Police said the Studebaker was properly parked in the 100 block of Van Buren street and was struck by the Ford at 10:05 a. m. Sunday.

At 1:35 a. m. Sunday at the intersection of fourth street east and sixth avenue east, a 1960 Corvair driven by Robert L. Kopp, 23, 365 Madrin street, collided with a 1960 Chevrolet panel truck owned by D. A. Heider, 361 Sixth avenue east, which was properly parked in the 600 block of Fourth street east. Police said Kopp was going north on Fourth street east and tried to slow down when he approached the intersection, but because of icy conditions the car he was driving slid into the truck.

Demo Leaders Laud Record Of Congress

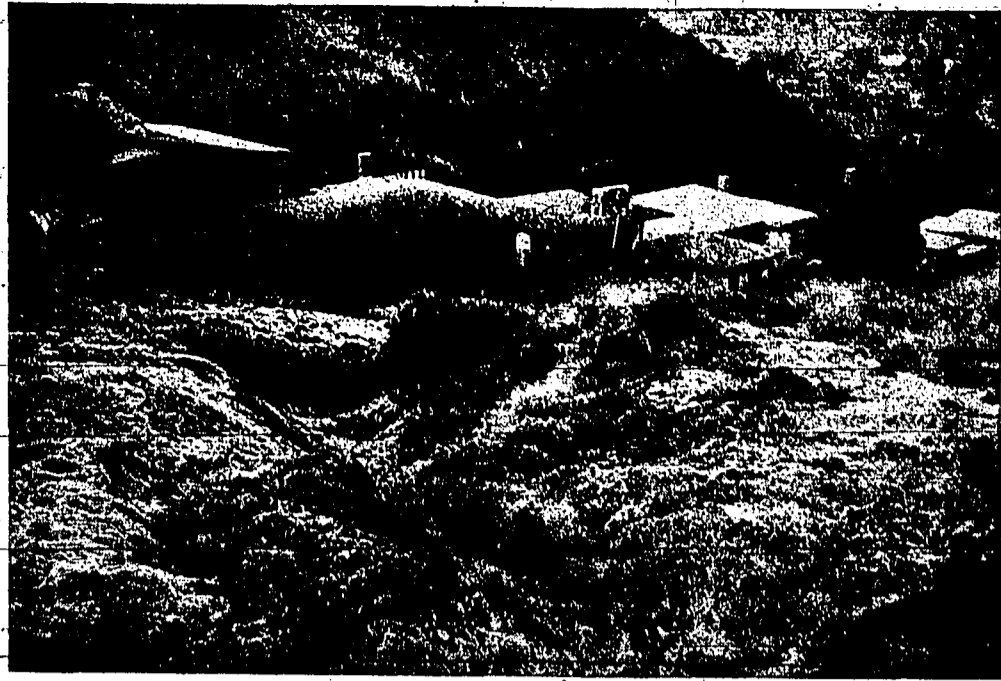

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Democratic leaders plunged today into the expected final week of the first session of the 88th congress with words of praise for their legislative record.

The congressional leaders hoped for adjournment Friday or Saturday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said yesterday he had compiled a "quite respectable" record and that any senator who contended otherwise should be ashamed of himself.

House leaders also hailed the legislation record, citing passage of precedent-setting school aid and mental health bills. In addition, they argued, both the civil rights and tax cut bills had been put in position for early passage next year.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R., N. Y., called it a "standstill congress" marked by loss of respect throughout the nation. He said congress needed more active leadership.

8,900 Visit Cape During Opening

CAPE KENNEDY, Dec. 16 (AP)—The air force lowered security barriers at America's No. 1 space port for a three-hour trial run yesterday and 8,900 persons visited the missile test center.

About 2,230 automobiles passed through the huge missile center in non-stop 65-minute motoring tours.

Maj. Gen. Leighton I. Davis said opening day would be a trial effort to see if the public "drive-throughs" could be managed without serious difficulties. The tours probably will become a regular Sunday afternoon event.

Cars carrying the public were kept at speeds of 25 miles per hour. Signs and security men at intersections directed the motorists along a special route past the launching complexes for some of America's mightiest rockets.

Only once before, on armed forces day in 1961, was the public allowed to see where its money was being spent on missile defense and space exploration.

"Anyone who will not stand up for it," he said, "I think ought to be ashamed of himself."

Mansfield said the end of a session always brought a speed-up in congressional activity but that President Johnson deserved a lot of the credit for the recent spurt.

"President Johnson has been 'on the ball,'" he said. "He's been like his old self. He's been quite aggressive, but in a nice way—trying to get things going. And he's succeeding, and I think the congress is taking up the cudgels."

Javits said on his weekly television program for New York stations that congress had put in a year of "unfulfilled promise, of painful legislative stagnation."

He called lack of action on civil rights the biggest failure and said that this and other failures "have caused the congress to lose enormous respect in the nation."

Mansfield said house and senate committees would determine when congress would act on the tax and civil rights bills. He declined to set a timetable for final action on either measure.

Asked whether he thought the 1963 session would be as long as the 1962 meeting, Mansfield said he didn't see how it could be since there would have to be a break for the November elections. But he said there might be a post-election session unless congress "shakes off its shackles."

Mansfield said his job as senate Democratic leader was sometimes depressing and sometimes exhilarating. But he said he found it satisfactory on the whole and intended to stick to it.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 — Because it was delivered in the house the day before President Kennedy was assassinated, Rep. John Byrnes' speech defending his fortunate purchase of some Milwaukee Insurance stock has not received the scrutiny the public weal demands.
Byrnes, Wisconsin Republican and ranking minority member of the powerful house ways and means committee, did what he had to do. He announced that the $25,000 profit he earned on an investment of $2,500 — after he had used his influence to get the company a favorable tax ruling — would be turned over to a scholarship fund in Green Bay, Wis. But it is hard to accept his tearful explanation that he didn't know the gun was loaded.
No law has been broken. But the facts of the case as revealed in Byrnes' own defense indicate that this veteran and knowledgeable politician must have been stricken with an acute attack of malvele.

HOW HE GOT RULING — In December, 1959, an official of the Guaranty Insurance Corporation (MGIC) of Milwaukee asked Byrnes for help in reversing an internal revenue service ruling that the company must pay taxes on premium earnings placed in a special 15-year reserve. Byrnes obligingly got an opinion from the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, of which he is a member, saying the company had a good chance of reversing the ruling in the courts. Byrnes took this ruling to the treasury department and, when treasury continued to balk, he introduced a bill on March 10, 1960, to give MGIC the requested tax relief. Two weeks later, treasury backed down and MGIC got its way.
Six months later, an MGIC official phoned Byrnes and told him the company was doing well and that he (Byrnes) could buy some stock in it "at a good price." Byrnes promptly bought 100 shares in MGIC and a subsidiary, the Guaranty Insurance Agency, with two checks totaling $2,500. By last month, the stock showed a paper value of $28,000.

WHY "GOOD PRICE"? — Byrnes declared in his house speech that he was not aware at the time that the shares available "at a good price" were supposedly limited to "selected executives of mortgage lending institutions." He said it was not until three years later, when the stock broke, that he discovered this gimmick.
Well, sir, it is good manners to take a gentleman at his word, but that does not prevent some cynics, such as Tully, from wondering how come Byrnes felt no curiosity as to why he was being singled out for the privilege of buying the stock "at a good price." It might have occurred to most men that Byrnes might not have been given that opportunity had he refused to help MGIC get a favorable tax ruling.

WHAT IS "PRESSURE"? — Byrnes denied that he used "improper pressure or threat to the treasury department or the internal revenue service." But the bill he introduced might have been interpreted as pressure by some sensitive souls, especially as Byrnes noted at the time that it "could possibly give rise to other requests for legislation to cover additions to reserves for other contingencies." Treasury doesn't want any more legislation that interferes with its tax-collecting chores.

The facts are that Byrnes did lend a hand to MGIC and that shortly thereafter he was permitted to buy stock at a bargain price that brought him a windfall profit. It is that kind of coincidence which worries the cynics, and which builds up the sentiment for legislation requiring full disclosure of their personal financial holdings by members of congress. With such a law on the books, Byrnes would not have been hornswoggled by his MGIC cronies into earning that fat profit.

CANT STAND SCRUTINY
Many government employees adopt the attitude that what they're doing is no one else's business. They forget rather easily that they are supposed to be public servants employed by the public to take care of the public's business. Before long, they give others the impression they feel they've been designated to direct the public—to run the public, not its business. It's an attitude that's all too prevalent and is not limited to any particular unit or level of government.
Understandably, the offense is greater on the federal level merely because the federal government is so huge and sprawling. Secrecy also comes naturally to federal office holders and most of the time there's little danger of exposure. That's why congress is studying the so-called "freedom of information" bill. As could be expected, various government officials wasted little time in objecting. They say it would hamper their work.
That's hogwash, of course. Such a measure might cramp their style, but it certainly would have little or no bearing on their work.
Although government officials and employees see a hazard in the bill, it's questionable the "freedom of information" is going to be accomplished by legislation. The federal establishment is just too big and sprawling. Reporters, who are the chief means of passing along information to the public, are physically unable to cover everything in the federal government.
The net result might be expansion of information efforts, but that accomplishes little more than propaganda which tells the public only what some agency or bureaucrat wants the public to know. Law or no law, that's about all the public will ever get from the bureaus and bureaucrats who stopped working for the public long ago. They work for themselves and for all they care, the public can go chase butterflies.

COUNTY SYSTEM OFFERS SAVINGS
Ohio's "Little Hoover" commission says Ohio's school districts could save nearly 1 million dollars and the state itself 1.8 million through county-wide school bus systems.
The idea, off hand, seems so logical it is sure to make trouble. A storm most likely will greet this like the violent one which has broken over proposed state centralized purchasing of school buses themselves. One tamps with a school district at his peril.
Actually, the commission's report might well be just a beginning. Why should not many functions be centrally performed for the 17 school districts in Montgomery county? Vocational education, for instance? And why confine it to schools? Why, for instance, should the police function and its costs be scattered among five cities, 13 villages and 13 townships of our county as if the patrols were still on horseback? —Dayton (Ohio) Journal-Herald.

MAIL-ORDER GUNS
The shooting of President Kennedy with a .312 rifle ordered from a mail-order house by the assassin, using a false name, has already stimulated emotional talk of national legislation severely restricting the purchase or possession of firearms.
It is an old theme, and one fiercely resisted by outdoorsmen and others who set a high value on the constitutional rights to bear arms. Sen. Thomas Dodd's bill, requiring evidence of age (over 18) and attesting lack of a criminal record in ordering a gun, is not so extreme as some in the past. Efforts must be made to prevent juveniles with criminal bents from arming themselves with pistols by mail order. But Americans, particularly in the West, are not going to submit, we believe, to a system of licensing of all firearms, including hunting weapons, as has been frequently proposed.
The historic and valid argument against restrictive legislation is that it tends to disarm the victim while utterly failing to keep guns out of the hands of criminals. Obviously, the assassin capable of planning and executing the killing of President Kennedy would have found a way to obtain a rifle had he not been able to order it so easily by mail. —The Oregonian.

NOVEMBER WOODLAND
We think of this as a quiet November world. The insistent sounds of the insects, the hum and buzz and rasp that kept the air quivering until recent weeks, have ended. The migrant songbirds that celebrated spring and summer have gone south; even their autumn chatter and scolding are no longer heard. But stop by a woodland on a sunny afternoon and you soon know that the autumn silence is comparative.
The replenished brook bubbles and chatters. A breeze sets the pines and hemlocks to sighing and rattles the crisp leaves still clinging to the oaks. It makes a swishing sound even in the leafless maples and elms. But these are simple, elemental sounds. Go into the woodland and you scarcely have to listen.
Squirrels are still busy, and two squirrels can make more noise than an unwary deer. Squirrels are forever hurrying, searching the fallen leaves for an overlooked nut or acorn, patting the woodland floor with walnut husks, shaking acorns from the oaks. A crow flies over, cawing proclamations of ownership now that his summer tormentor, the kingbird, is gone.
It isn't a silent world; by any means. But now and then there is a pause and you can hear an acorn fall. Hearing it, you know the meaning of silence and welcome the Jay's raucous cry again.
—The New York Times.

CHANCES ARE DIM
President Johnson has called representatives of various farm organizations to a conference in Washington this week. His object is simple — and has a dim chance of success — to get the various organizations to agree on a farm program. Among the delegates will be representatives of the American Farm-Bureau federation, National Farmers Union, Grange and National Council of Farm Cooperatives.
These organizations can't even agree among themselves what's good for the farmer. Some of their aims are directly opposite, leaving no chance of compromise.
If President Johnson can wrangle some sort of agreement out of the farm organizations, he's something of a wizard. In some cases, there's a suspicion the organizations themselves have lost contact with farmers.
Whatever comes from the meeting with the President—if anything—would have a dim chance of unanimous approval by farmers.

From now on, I suspect elbow grease will be used to remove the ice!

Interpreting the News

BY JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP) — President Johnson will never see the likes of it again. It probably will last through Christmas, but not much longer.
The Republicans are muted, Premier Khrushchev is as quiet as a doll, and Fidel Castro must be playing a mandolin, he's so quiet.
This isn't the first time a man in Johnson's spot, suddenly thrust into the White House on a president's death — was given a period of grace.
It happened when Vice President Harry S. Truman took over in 1945, after President Franklin D. Roosevelt's death.
The tasks confronting Johnson since he became President are just a mild daily routine compared with what faced Truman.
He had to end a war in Europe (Johnson's main problem and now is with the budget) and another in Asia, help get the United Nations started, decide to drop atomic bombs on Japan, reconstruct the country to peace, hold down living costs and settle strikes.
For some months after he moved into the White House, Truman practically had a honeymoon with the Republicans in congress. That was in 1945. The honeymoon didn't last long, the next year was a congressional election year.
The Republicans made their attacks on Truman so convincing that in the 1946 elections the voters gave them control of congress. From then on few presidents ever had so much raucous trouble with congress as Truman.
Johnson, a shrewd manipulator, may do better. But it's not a good bet.

Right now, the congressional Republicans are laying off him. The Republican would-be presidential candidates have declared a moratorium on speech-making until after Jan. 1.
But then they'll come back, re-charged by their rest, and able to make more noise than ever, particularly since Johnson, like Truman, has to encounter an election year, this time a presidential election, with himself, no doubt, a candidate.
But Johnson, deliberately or not, has followed the Truman pattern in a general way up to this point.
Truman lost no time, in addressing a joint session of congress to say he would continue Roosevelt's policies. Johnson did the same, to express his support for the late President Kennedy's programs.
Truman asked the Roosevelt cabinet to stay, although there were changes later. Johnson has asked the Kennedy cabinet to stay.
Truman paid the house of representatives a surprise visit 19 days after taking office, and had lunch there. Twice within three weeks after he took office Johnson has visited the house, and had lunch there.
Truman early favored a tax-aid program. Right from the start Johnson favored Kennedy's tax-cut program.
Within six months after Truman became President the Republicans began opening up on him. They seem to be getting restless already about their moratorium on Johnson.
One of them — Rep. Frank J. Becker, of New York — complained the other day that "when Democrats call for a moratorium on politics, it's just to gag Republicans." His wasn't the only voice of complaint.
So things ought to be getting back to normal around the first of the year.

When Victor Paz Estenssoro returned from Argentine exile to become president of Bolivia after a successful revolt in April, 1952, a prime mover in his return was a labor leader named Juan Lechin Quenda.
Since the 1940's the two had worked together in leadership of national revolutionary movements, and when Paz became president Lechin assumed the post of minister of Phil Newsom mining and petroleum.
Lechin's power rested upon his control of the communist-dominated Tin Miners' union. He himself has been described as a Trotskyite.
The MNR was leftist. But upon the question just how far to the left the two men separated.
For his part, Paz declared: "In an economically dependent country like ours an extremist revolution cannot be accomplished. Guarantees will be given to foreign capital on the condition that it brings real benefits to the country."
The Paz government has had two main supports. One came from the peasants who received land under government agrarian reform. The other source was the United States which has supported the government with 250 million dollars. This year's aid program is budgeted at $5 million.
U.S. aid to Bolivia is the largest per capita in Latin America. The elections of 1960 named Paz president of the country for a second consecutive term and Lechin vice president.

But, although operating under the same party banner, the two men had reached the end of the political ways.
Lechin went into virtual exile as Bolivian ambassador to the Vatican. He quit that post two months ago to take up active opposition to Paz, depending for his support upon the restless tin miners who still retained their weapons from the revolt of 1952.
His campaign, both anti-Paz and anti-United States, is based upon opposition to government efforts to clean up the mess in the nationalized tin industry.
The mines, nationalized as one of the first acts of the 1952 revolution, are shot through with featherbedding and fraud. Exhaustion of once-rich veins, worn-out machinery and falling prices have added to the chaos in an industry-accountable for 60 per cent of Bolivian exports.
Government efforts to introduce economic reforms, including reduction in the work force, have met violent resistance.
The resistance, stirred up by Lechin, reached a climax in the kidnapping of four Americans and six other foreigners as hostages for the release of three communist leaders held by the government, two for murder and a third for fraud.
Inherent in the act were two threats.
The use of the 10,000-man miners' militia in civil war against the government, with the end result in case of government defeat a Marxist government.
The establishment of a pattern of kidnapping first employed by Fidel Castro and later by Venezuela's rebels to dramatize any grievance against the home government or the United States.

HAND MUST BE NO-TRUMP TYPE
No one likes to bid no-trump any more than I do, but I do try to temper my no-trump bids with judgment.
Long experience has taught me that no one should hurry to bid unless his hand calls for it.
Unless your hand does call for a bid of some number of no-trump you should always try to find another call.
In a recent duplicate game I played with a strange partner who had the bad luck to make several most-unfortunate no-trump calls. Each one illustrated a good reason why no-trump should not be bid and each was properly punished.
Here is the first one. South had no reason to bid over East's one diamond. His redouble had shown strength and I could be trusting to find another bid when it became my turn.

Once he bid one no-trump I raised him to three. West opened a diamond and my queen of diamonds became of no value. Eventually, South lost four diamonds and a club and we were down one trick.
Had I been declarer at no-trump there would have been no way to keep me from making nine tricks and I probably would have made 10 or 11.
How could we get to three no-trump from my seat? Easy for good-players. South would pass the one diamond call and now it would be up to South to make a really good bid! South would bid two diamonds.
This bid would not really be a slam try, but an invitation for my partner to bid either a major suit or some number of no-trump with my bid two no-trump with my partial diamond stopper and South would raise to three.

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (NEA) — President Johnson's appearance before the United Nations general assembly Tuesday is a fitting finale for its important 18th session.
President Kennedy addressed this session Sept. 20, just after it convened. He gave the delegate a whole barrel of requests and recommendations, but he didn't pick off a nifty proposal which were not ripe for harvesting. As a result, Johnson can point to the year's accomplishments with considerable American pride.
This will not be Johnson's first appearance before the United Nations — in 1958, when he was senate majority leader, he was asked by President Eisenhower to speak on outer space before the U. N. political committee.
As chairman of the senate committee on space, Johnson explained American bipartisan commitment to the development of outer space for peaceful purposes only.
Johnson appealed to the Russians particularly to co-operate with the West in carrying out a U. N. space program.
This led to formation of the general assembly's outer space committee. For three years the Russians stymied its work.
But this year the Russians agreed to the principle of rule-of-law in space. This is one of the most important of this year's final general assembly actions.
It is considered a major breakthrough in American-Russian co-operation at the U. N. It was worked out behind the scenes in New York. The dispute and differences in reaching the agreement did not emerge in the spotlight of the U. N. auditorium in plenary session.
One of the features of this general assembly is the number of issues that have been worked out by quiet diplomacy between the United States and Russia. This development has caused some concern among small-country delegations in the U. N.
Their concern is that if "the big two" get together on too many issues, it will destroy the power of the neutral nations to stand halfway between communist and free world positions. This might end the neutral nations' balance of power over U. N. decisions.

On questions of human rights, which were major items on this year's general assembly agenda, President Kennedy did not make specific recommendations last September.
He couldn't do this because the United States did not have its own house in order on race relations.
This year, however, the general assembly gave its first serious consideration — not just emotional speechmaking — to questions of discrimination. African nations were prepared to wage major battles against apartheid in South Africa and Portuguese rule in Angola and Mozambique.
But President Kennedy said in his September U. N. speech, "We do not recognize the right of black Africans to drive out white Africans." This was the other side of racial equality, to which the African nations had not fully addressed themselves, and it caused them to pause.
After Kennedy's assassination, attitudes of many African delegates showed further change. They apparently decided to re-examine their own problems and to let the new American President enunciate his own policies on human rights, which they consider so important.
President Johnson's record in this field is good. His efforts to push civil rights legislation since becoming president have given the African delegations much satisfaction, in the opinion of American observers at the United Nations.
Johnson comes onto the U. N. stage at the intermission in a long and continuing movie, says Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland, in charge of international organization affairs. A lot of big things are going to happen, many of them on American initiative.
His general support to the United Nations, but it is not going to be just a "let us continue" President Kennedy's policies. What he has to say from here on is the development of his own ideas.

The Doctor Says
BY W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Millions of children are about to hit the toy jackpot. Toys are not merely a source of amusement, they are a vital part of your child's mental and emotional growth.
Although he may get a large number of toys on Christmas day, he needs toys the year around. It is important that they be suited to his ability.
If after being shown their purpose once he Dr. Brandstadt can't operate them by himself, they are too complicated for his present development and should be withdrawn from circulation until he is ready for them.
Another source of Christmas frustration is getting so many toys all at once that he doesn't know what to do with them.
The wise mother will readily recognize which toys have an instant appeal and will quietly put the others away to be trotted out one at a time in the ensuing weeks.
Since small children have to taste everything they can reach, they should not have access to marbles, beads, jacks and the like. Swallowing such objects may be very painful but an even greater hazard is that they may be sucked into the windpipe.
For older children air rifles, bows and arrows, pocket knives, and chemical sets may be appropriate, but it is essential to show a child how to use them safely and to supervise their use until you are sure your child understands the hazards.

Electrical toys should bear the Underwriters' Laboratories' seal of approval and should be used only by children old enough to operate them safely. This means impressing on your child the added danger of handling any type of electrical equipment with wet hands. Cords should be inspected from time to time to make sure they have not become frayed, exposing the wires.
All toys should be stored in a safe place when not in use to prevent serious falls as well as to teach a sense of responsibility and neatness.
Q — After my 3-year-old daughter has been asleep for about an hour she cries and screams for a while. We get her to quiet down and go to sleep again. Can we prevent these spells?
A — Nightmares are usually caused by bodily discomfort of some sort. An overloaded stomach, stopped-up nasal passages, or fullness of the bladder are frequent causes.
The aroused child is usually unable to describe the dreams that frightened him but more often than not will go to sleep again without any trouble after being comforted. If the child has a feeling of insecurity, the nightmares may continue until a better adjustment to his surroundings is accomplished.
Make the evening meal the lightest of her day and see that the hour before she is put to bed is not overly exciting or stimulating. Listening to soothing music or to a pleasant story before bed is a time-honored way to encourage peaceful sleep.

Summit Meet, If Useful, May Be Held

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Undersecretary of State George W. Ball predicted Sunday an eventual summit meeting between President Johnson and Soviet Premier Khrushchev — if and when the meeting might be useful to both their nations.

But he emphasized that there are no present plans for a meeting.

Ball said Johnson, like the late President John F. Kennedy, "will always be willing to go to a summit conference when it appears something useful can be accomplished."

FRANCO RAFS REPUBLIC

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, Dec. 16—Born today, you have a naturally optimistic outlook on life despite the fact that you yourself are destined for almost as many "downs" as "ups." You have what many might call a child's trust in the fairy tale happy ending, but what is actually something far greater—an absolute faith in the ultimate justice of things as they are and as they are to be. This, coupled with faith in your own ability is what in the end should turn almost any tide in your favor.

Because you are optimistic, you dare to be different. You do not fear that evil will befall the man or woman who makes a genuinely sincere effort to desert the crowd, to travel alone, in short—to be himself. This is a type of unconventionality that allows you to approach and grasp new ideas, and to find new truths in old sources, old truths in new sources. Ultimately, your success is assured; it cannot fail to be.

You need only guard against the over-assertion of your independent attitude. Do not demand that others follow in your footsteps; not everyone, remember, is prepared or fit to strike out along new paths, unsupported by tradition. In marriage particularly, take care, for a too-independent spouse could backfire!

Among those born on this date are: Noel Coward, actor, playwright, lyricist; George Santayana, poet, philosopher, educator; Margaret Mead, noted anthropologist.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, Dec. 17
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Accomplish routine matters in AM. Shop in PM. Avoid the appearance of annoyance should unexpected visitors arrive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Guard against travel risks during morning hours. Personal interests should get a boost from unexpected sources today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—A day calculated for Aquarius's enjoyment—if you take advantage of another's hints. Gear your mind to explore the subtle.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Allow holiday plans to take priority over domestic routine. Overlook minor infractions of household rules. A good day.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—A good day for business if you insist on doing business. But pleasure is today's main source of satisfaction—socialize!

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Draw on your sense of humor to meet personally clashes in the home. Allow family members their heads—but keep your own!

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Business mixes with pleasure through the first half of the day. Then the holiday spirit takes over in full. Contact friends.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—

Go over holiday gift and card list once again. There are certain associates whom you cannot afford to miss.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—If planning holiday travel, do not fall to make arrangements now! Delegate some of your authority to others if you would be free for "extras."

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Romance may well beckon Virgo today. Be prepared to give seriously considered answers to seriously considered questions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—If possible, take care of business and social matters without becoming involved in travel. Your best bet is to stick close to home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—A quiet, relatively uneventful day should put you in the perfect mood for an evening of socializing with friends.

Goldwater Is Unaffected By Johnson

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16 (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater still is in the race for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination despite President Johnson's succession, former U. S. Sen. William F. Knowland declared Sunday.

Knowland, a former senate majority leader, is leading the Arizona-conservative forces in California.

Space Heater Fire Kills Six Children

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 16 (AP)—Six children, three of them state wards, were killed last night when a space heater erupted in flames which swept a two-family house.

William F. Harrigan, 35, and his wife Leona, managed to save four of their seven children but were forced back by heat and flames before they could reach the other three and the three wards.

Killed in the three-alarm fire were the three Harrigan children, Heidi, 3, Mary, 4, and Holly, 6, and the wards, Ramona Maley, 7, her brother, Tommy, 6, and her sister, Tammie, 4.

Ralph A. Davis, 61, who lived in the other side of the two-story duplex house, was unhurt. Davis' wife was in a hospital when the fire occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrigan were taken to Maine medical center along with their surviving children, Beverly, 9, Genevieve, 7, Edward, 3, and 8-month-old John.

The fire broke out shortly after 11:30 p.m. when Harrigan tried to light an oil heater on the first floor.

Some of the fuel spilled onto the floor. Harrigan tried to smother the flames with a coat but they spread quickly to the stove's five-gallon oil tank and the stove erupted in flame.

Harrigan picked up the stove and tried to throw it through a window but the window was too small. He then called to his wife and the two ran upstairs to save the children.

Beverly jumped from her bedroom window to a snow-covered embankment alongside the house and the Harrigans dropped the baby, John, into her arms.

Harrigan then leaped to the ground and caught Edward and Genevieve as Mrs. Harrigan dropped them from the window.

The woman could not reach the other children and was forced to jump from the oncoming flames.

Doctors said Mrs. Harrigan and the four children were not injured but the children were admitted to the hospital because there was no other place for them to spend the night.

Harrigan suffered minor burns on his face and hands, doctors said.

News Around Idaho

BOISE, Dec. 16 (AP)—The former South Vietnamese ambassador to the U. S., says American foreign aid is the only effective means of embattling the communist advance in Asia. Tran Van Thong also warned in an address before the Boise Foreign Relations committee Saturday that the fall of South Viet Nam would result in a communist takeover in Southeast Asia. "What is at stake in South Viet Nam," said Thong, "is much more than American prestige. This is the future of southeast Asia . . . of Asia . . . of the world."

Thong, father of former South Vietnamese first lady Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, said American aid programs have sometimes been disappointing "but like any other tool or weapon, must be improved like rockets and planes. Perhaps you should know more precisely what you have to do, what you want to do, how to do it and whom to help," he said. "Perhaps you have to revise your idea of the cold war and your concept for foreign aid."

POCATELLO, Dec. 16 (AP)—Idaho State university's band will present its annual winter concert Thursday night here. The concert, which will be directed by D. David Missal, associate professor of music, will range from works of the Baroque era to modern compositions for band.

POCATELLO, Dec. 16 (AP)—Attorneys planned to begin selecting a jury today to hear the federal district court trial of 17 Fort Hall men charged with assault and conspiracy to commit assault. The men, all members of the Shoshone-Bannock tribes, are charged with assaulting 11 workers at the Gay phosphate mine while members of the operating engineers union were striking.

The trial, which has been postponed three times, will be held against a background of charges of racial discrimination and violation of civil rights. The Fort Hall Tribal council, shortly after the men were arrested, sent a message to the Department of Justice asking the charges be investigated. The message called the charges "gross injustice" and "abuse of civil rights and liberties." The indictment by a federal grand jury charged that on May 28, 1963, the 17 men conspired to assault non-Indian strike-breakers who crossed picket lines at the reservation mine. The indictment alleges they stopped several cars on the Gay mine road and beat several persons.

BOISE, Dec. 16 (AP)—Idaho's senior federal district judge, Chase A. Clark, says he is not thinking about retiring and that when he does decide to step down he will make the announcement himself. The 80-year-old jurist said Saturday there is absolutely no truth to reports that he will retire next March. "I have fixed no time for retirement nor given any thought to it," he said. Clark was appointed earlier this month to a three-judge panel which will hear a suit challenging an Idaho law requiring reading of the scriptures each morning in the public schools. He said at that time that he had been assigned to hear several cases in California during January and February and probably wouldn't convene the panel until late March. Clark was appointed to the federal bench in 1943 by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt before that he had served as Idaho's governor from 1941 through 1942. He also served four terms in the state legislature and two terms as mayor of Idaho Falls.

BOISE, Dec. 16 (AP)—The state fish and game department says the 165-foot fishway at the Washington Water Power company dam on the Clearwater river east of Lewiston should be completed by the first of the year. Jack Fisher, department engineer, said the fishway will allow salmon and steelhead spawning runs to cross over the dam all year, regardless of water levels. Fisher also reported that work is progressing on the 500-foot Selway Falls tunnel east of Grangeville. Work had been delayed by slides but the top heading of the tunnel now has been excavated about 230 feet. When completed, the tunnel will enable salmon and steelhead to spawn above Selway Falls in the South work of the Clearwater river.

Johnson Reaffirms NATO Aid

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Johnson lined up his new administration in solid support of the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) today at the start of a three day meeting of the alliance's council of ministers.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk brought a message from Johnson which confirms there is no weakening of U. S. determination to defend Europe while seeking means of easing the cold war. U. S. officials said.

As the NATO ministers met, the supreme soviet in Moscow began deliberations on Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's 46 billion dollar crash farm program, part of which he intends to finance by cutting military spending.

Rusk also carried personal greetings from Johnson to French President Charles de Gaulle, with whom he arranged a courtesy call. The meeting, at Rusk's request, was seen as an attempt to take some of the chill out of U. S.-French relations.

Partly because of French opposition to some NATO policies, the ministers' meeting was expected to be one of the least controversial in years. The problems and opposition remain, but no attempt will be made to tackle them during the three-day session because their complexity is too great for such a short time.

More or less by mutual consent, these issues were being bypassed. The basic problem of NATO strategy, France wants to hit back at any Soviet attack with massive retaliation. The United States prefers a stair-step deterrent, rising from conventional arms to a nuclear attack, if necessary.

Transplant Patients Will Go Home
DENVER, Dec. 16 (AP)—A South Dakota mother and daughter who were involved in a recent kidney transplant in Denver will spend Christmas at home.

Mrs. Margaret W. Best, 57, and her 21-year-old daughter, Peggy Lou, said yesterday they will leave for their home at Lead, S. D., some time this week.

Miss Best was given one of her mother's kidneys in a transplant at Colorado General hospital Nov. 16. Mrs. Best was in the hospital 12 days following the operation. Peggy Lou was released Friday.

Dogs Gone
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Two famous pets of the late President John F. Kennedy's family — Pushinka, an offspring of a famous Russian space dog, and a Welsh terrier, Charlie, — have been given away by Mrs. Kennedy.

Pushinka, a fluffy white dog of mixed breed now romps at the suburban Vienna, Va., home of Irvin M. Williams, the chief White House horticulturist. She was given to the Kennedys by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Charlie, has been given to a secret service agent, Robert Poster, who for some time had been assigned to the Kennedy family.

The problem of long-term credits for communist bloc countries. The United States opposes granting loans to Russia in order to do business. Many of its allies, however, hope to expand trade with the aid of these credits.

The U. S.-sponsored mixed-nuclear force. France rejects this plan; Britain is lukewarm. Only West Germany has given the go-ahead for its navy crews to take part in a pilot plan to try out the international crew system on a U. S. destroyer.

The council sessions were being devoted instead to East-West relations, prospects for continued diplomatic probing with the Russians, Berlin, Germany, disarmament, and communist threats outside the NATO area, NATO sources said.

Man Relates Water Ride In His Car

Editor's note—What's it like to float six blocks in the family car? H. E. Dulude, in the following story, as told to the Associated Press and the Long Beach (Calif.) Independent, Press-Beam, tells how his car was swept away when a reservoir broke in the Baldwin Hills.

By H. E. DULUDE
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16 (AP)—I don't know how we did it. We floated six blocks in my car, and five or six other cars on the way. It's a miracle we're here. My wife, Rosanna, and I live in an apartment below the Baldwin Hills reservoir. My sister, Mrs. Orise Giguere, had come to visit from her apartment next door when we heard helicopters warning everyone to evacuate.

It was about 2:45 p. m. Saturday. The helicopters said the dam was breaking. I went out and started the motor on the car and told the girls to hurry up. Rosanna looked up the street as the came out and screamed, "The water is coming."

She jumped in the car with us and I tried to outrun the water. I didn't make it. The next thing I knew, my new white sedan was hurled into the air by a horrible force of water. I am an amputee and have special controls on my car. I kept trying to drive while we were bobbing up and down like a cork in that ocean. We floated straight down the street. We bounced off other cars, some floating, some sinking.

The car hit a pole at the intersection of La Brea avenue and Rodeo road and it deflected us between two buildings, a grocery and a restaurant. I looked up and saw police officers on the roofs of the two buildings. The water was about 11 feet deep in through there.

Officer R. J. Holoubek of the Los Angeles police department jumped into the water and swam toward us, shouting, "Close the windows, close the windows." We did. The car was filling up, now. Water was up to our waists. Other police officers jumped in and formed a human chain to keep the car from floating off. Holoubek opened the door of the car with one hand and pulled us out with his other. I have never seen anything like what happened today. Before I turned, my wife and I lived in Topanga canyon and twice we had to flee from brush fires. But at least we were able to escape—what can you do when tons of water and mud surround you? We spent the night on a high school gymnasium floor—at an evacuation center—and then, later, learned that our home and all of our belongings are gone. But thank God—and thanks to Officer Holoubek—we are alive!

Pilot Whales Run Aground In Florida

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 16 (AP)—Just as they did three or four years ago, pilot whales returned Sunday to Palo Vendra beach. Most of them perished on the sand.

Roy Landrum, St. Johns county deputy sheriff, said 150 whales were reported on the three-mile stretch of beach. He said some weighed as much as a ton and measured up to 16 feet.

Three young whales, weighing about 300 pounds each and measuring six feet, and two of 800-1,000 pounds each and measuring 12-15 feet, were rescued by crews from Marineland. Bob Dahne of Marineland said there are several theories as to why pilot whales come ashore. One is that their sonar devices ricochet off shallow, sloping beaches and confuse them. Another is that they are chased ashore by killer sharks. Pilot whales are so called because they follow a male leader.

Reapportionment Is Cause of New Session

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (AP)—Gov. Otto Kerner is expected to call a special session of the Illinois legislature to work out a reapportionment plan and head off the chaos of electing all 177 state legislators on an at-large basis.

Kerner called a meeting for this morning of legislative leaders to set an agenda and date for a special session. The Illinois reapportionment commission passed out of existence yesterday without coming to agreement on a redistricting for the state. The big block was how many legislators Chicago and its Cook county suburbs should have.

The Republicans said Chicago should get only 21 of Cook county's 30 districts because of population losses to the suburbs. The Democrats sought to keep all 23 districts for Chicago, one of the nation's top Democratic vote producers. The suburbs vote GOP.

The four-month impasse on the commission reflected the 2 1/2 year disagreement that has existed between the Republican-controlled state legislature and Kerner's Democratic administration. Kerner vetoed one redistricting proposed by the legislature. Then the commission was established. Kerner said at the time that if the commission failed he would call a special session to avoid the confusion of electing 177 legislators statewide.

The confusion would be unthinkable. There would be several hundred candidates. The size of the ballot would be extremely awkward. Voters would be forced to decide among unfamiliar candidates who came from other parts of the state. Reaction to the commission's failure was instant and huge. Said Kerner: "An insensible lust and a shocking betrayal of responsibility on the part of a political party has inflicted an ugly scar on our state and shamed us in the eye of the nation."

"Time ran out because they (the Republicans) wanted it to run out. With the sham of '21 and 9' they boycotted commission meetings for a month while waging a phony war of ultimatums and press releases." Kerner sent telegrams to the legislative leaders of both houses of the Illinois general assembly and asked them to meet with him today to set an agenda and date for a special session. House Speaker John Lewis talked with a reporter in the Illinois capital at Springfield and then returned to his desk, saying, "I might as well start preparing for a special session."

Catholics Support Aldo Moro

ROME, Dec. 16 (AP)—Italy's powerful Roman Catholic labor unions gave their support to Premier Aldo Moro's left-of-center coalition government today on the eve of tomorrow's vote of confidence in parliament.

Moro, allied with Pietro Nenni's Marxist socialists, appeared certain to win in the chamber of deputies-battling despite revolts in his own Christian Democratic party and in Nenni's socialists. Bruno Storti, head of Italy's International Confederation of Free unions (CISL), expressed the full confidence of his Catholic union groups in Moro in a parliamentary speech today.

The communists have expressed their intention of trying to unseat the Moro government by a massive labor offensive spearheaded by their union, the general Confederation of Italian labor (CGIL).

Storti's position meant the communist-led union which includes the socialists will have to go it alone on the strike front. In the past, both unions often have formed a united labor front.

The Vatican stepped into the political scene Saturday after pro-communists in the socialist party threatened to make trouble. The authoritative Vatican city newspaper Observatore Romano appealed directly to militant anti-communist ex-premier Mario Scelba and 30 of his Christian Democratic followers not to carry out their threat to abstain on the vote of confidence.

Scelba replied last night in a lengthy statement which left the way open for his followers to back down gracefully in the interests of party unity. "Not only Catholics but all democratic forces must unite to face the communist menace," he said. His message reiterated his group's fears of socialist links with the communists.

Nenni seemed to have less chance of patching up the split in his party. A statement by the pro-communist faction said Nenni had reversed socialist party policies by accepting NATO obligations and by joining a coalition that excludes the communists.

PLAYERS MEET PRESIDENT. WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Johnson had a brief social call today from Cleveland Browns quarterback Frank Ryan and fullback Jimmy Brown.

Dan'l Jails Davy!

Mrs. Crockett swore out a warrant Sunday night against her husband, David Tidwell Crockett, 52, Nashville, charging him with drunkenness.

Judge Daniel Boone of general sessions court refused bail.

TRUCKS DAMAGED

Friday. Minor damages were reported to the bumper of the parked Chevrolet truck according to city police.

3 Accidents Caused by Slick Roads

The Twin Falls sheriff's office and the Idaho state police investigated three accidents Saturday and Sunday which were caused by icy roads. There were no injuries and no citations were issued.

The Idaho state police investigated a one-car accident at 3:30 a. m. Sunday one and three-fourths miles east of Hansen on U. S. highway 30. Ed N. Bailey, 41, Burley, told officers he was driving a 1963 Oldsmobile on the highway and struck a slick spot in the road, losing control of the car. The car went off the road and sheared off a telephone pole. The right and left sides of the car were damaged.

At 7:15 p. m. Saturday Marvin O. Surplus, 50, Twin Falls, told sheriff's officers he was driving a 1954 Plymouth on Elizabeth boulevard east and tried to stop at the intersection of Elizabeth boulevard east and the Tolman road, but because of icy conditions he could not. He said he let the car drift into the borrow pit.

Icy conditions caused another accident at 12:15 a. m. Sunday at the intersection of Filer avenue east and Eastland drive north. Sheriff's officers said Donald G. Drew, 21, Hansen, was driving a 1960 Chevrolet east on Filer avenue east and was attempting to make a right turn onto Eastland drive north but had no control of the car because of icy conditions. The car struck a guard rail and dented the bumper.

NEW DOLLAR BILL has been put into circulation by the United States treasury. Showing new dollar bill is Ivan B. Skinner, vice president of Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, left. He is showing the dollar bill to Robert S. Blastock, center, and Fred W. Harder, both on the bank board of directors. (Times-News photo)

First Change in U. S. One Dollar Bill Made Since '57

The first change in the one dollar bill since 1957 when the motto "In God We Trust" was added took place when the United States treasury department issued 60 million new one dollar federal reserve notes for circulation.

Issuance of the new one dollar notes, authorized by congress last June, began Nov. 25 in all 12 federal reserve banks and their 24 branches of commercial banks in every part of the country.

While the face of the new bill has the same reassuring portrait of George Washington, all references to silver above and below his portrait have been omitted.

The federal reserve notes are backed by gold instead of silver because there is a shortage of silver in the U.S. treasury. Taking the silver certificates out of circulation will make more silver available for coinage purposes and will help to meet the increased demand for currency in accordance with pre-Christmas business.

The new one dollar notes closely resemble the present one dollar silver certificates which ultimately will be completely replaced. The main difference will be the additional symbol appearing to the left of the portrait identifying the issuing federal reserve bank, and the wording on the face of the bill.

The new notes bear signatures of the secretary of treasury and the treasurer of the United States, as do federal reserve notes of other denominations.

The legend stating that the bill

"is legal tender for all debts, public and private," that appears on the silver certificate will also appear on the new federal reserve notes, but the new notes will not contain any reference to silver. Then, they will not carry the phrase "this certifies that there is on deposit in the treasury of the U.S." and "one dollar in silver payable to the bearer on demand."

Federal reserve notes have been the basic circulating currency of the U.S. for many years, comprising over 85 per cent (more than 30 billion dollars) of all the currency in circulation today.

The transition of the new bill will be so gradual that the public will not even notice there has been a change.

ADA Appeals For More Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—A non-government group urged the house Sunday to restore some of the funds cut from the foreign-aid bill by the house appropriations committee.

Americans For Democratic Action addressed its appeal to House Speaker John McCormack, D. Mass. It said if the 2.8-billion dollar figure set by the committee stands, the proportion of gross national product being spent by the United States on technical and economic aid "will be below the average for other developed countries. Indeed, it will be only one third of the proportion for France."

NEW DOLLAR BILL (top) and old bill show differences. All reference to silver above and below the Washington portrait have been deleted.

Federal Money Requested to Aid Stanley-Lowman Road

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Idaho is asking the federal bureau of public roads for aid in building the state highway between Lowman and Stanley in southcentral Idaho.

Grangers Attend Christmas Party At Cedar Draw

BUHL, Dec. 16—Members of Cedar Draw Grange observed their annual Christmas party, gift exchange and program Friday night.

Youths participating in the program were Alice and Julie Perkins, piano and flute duet; Cecelia Gould, Connie Hicks, Hannah Perkins, vocal solos; Malcolm Perkins, piano solo; Dorothy and Donald Worley, vocal duet; Nathan Perkins, Veda MacKay, poems; Cally and William Grindstaff, vocal duet; Connie Hendrix and Linda Hendrix, piano solos.

Group Christmas caroling was accompanied by Julie Perkins. Santa Claus distributed treats and children held a gift exchange. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Gary Grindstaff, lecturer. Refreshments were served by the home economics committee with Mrs. Harvey Grindstaff, chairman.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R. Ida., and State Highway Engineer G. Bruce Bennett, in separate appeals, have asked the bureau for some $870,000 for construction of state highway 21, reasoning that some 4.3 billion board feet of merchantable timber can be extracted from virgin forests in the area.

He pointed out the road would provide access to one of the state's more scenic areas.

Bennett said the new road would cut travel distance from central Idaho and western Montana, to the Boise valley by 102 miles.

Gravity May Be Energy Source

DALLAS, Dec. 16 (AP)—Scientists today discussed a possible source of energy, that may be greater than even a hydrogen bomb blast—gravity.

More than 100 scientists participated in the three-day international symposium on gravitational collapse. They exchanged ideas on how to harness the gravity pull of stars far in space.

"Gravitation is capable of yielding a hundred times more energy than the most powerful nuclear reaction," two of the scientists wrote.

Prof. William A. Fowler of California Institute of Technology and Prof. Fred Hoyle of Cambridge University are the chief exponents of the idea that the primary source of energy is shrinking or "gravitational collapse of a super-star."

The professors wrote a paper last February that said noises picked up by sensitive radio equipment was caused by gravitational collapse. The noises come from up to 1,500 million light years away from Earth, so they contended these forces are greater than any nuclear reaction.

Their theory will be studied and debated during the three-day symposium, sponsored by the southwest center for advanced studies at the University of Texas and Yeshiva University of New York.

The gathering scientists, in interviews, discussed other aspects of space.

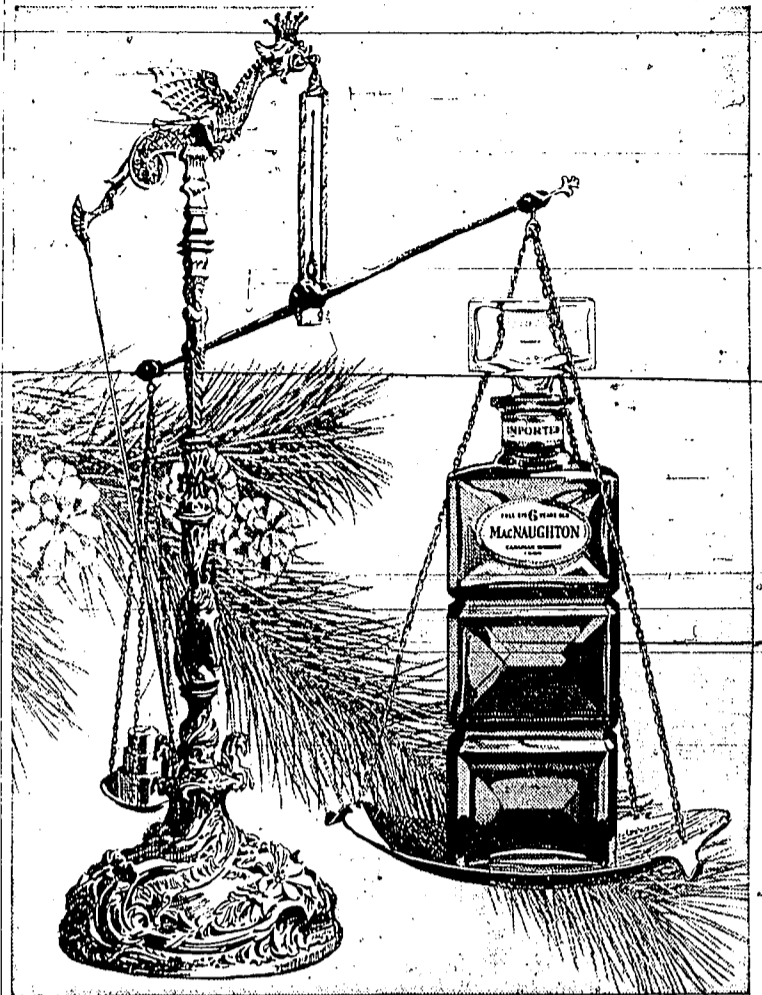

Dr. David Dewhurst, senior observer in astronomy at Cambridge University, England, told Kent Bille of the Dallas Morning News that travel by man will be restricted to this universe.

"I believe we can say with finality at this point that man will never travel among the stars," Dewhurst said.

He said the distances are too great.

Dr. Rudolph Minkowski of the University of California said space flight could be a great help to astronomical observers. He said viewing the galaxies from outside the atmosphere could greatly enhance learning.

The weighty theory of gravitational collapse, both Dewhurst and Minkowski said, is not widely accepted.

New MOL Project Eyed as Alternative to Reach Moon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The air force's new manned orbiting laboratory (MOL) project is being eyed as a possible alternative for reaching the moon if anything goes wrong in the civilian space agency's much more ambitious Apollo lunar program.

As announced earlier last week, MOL's mission is limited largely to military purposes and to operations at near-Earth altitudes of 350 miles or less. There are as yet no plans for sending up additional crews, supplies or fuel after the laboratory is in orbit.

Because of its potential for adding re-fueling, ferrying and rendezvous techniques, however, experts contended today that the laboratory could move farther out in space and could be used as an alternative method of reaching the moon.

Informed sources said the laboratory, previously described as about the size of a small house trailer and scheduled for orbiting by early 1968, will weigh approximately 15,000 pounds.

It is to be cylindrical, probably 10 feet in diameter and 25 feet long. If rendezvous is added, a second such cylinder could be hooked onto the first or a rocket could be sent up to push it farther out in space.

The laboratory will already have an attached capsule of the Gemini type for returning its two-man crew to Earth after they have spent up to a month aloft. In a similar way, it could carry a vehicle for a lunar landing and for retrieving men from the moon.

The big advantage over Apollo, according to some experts, would be that the laboratory could enlarge its orbit to somewhere near that of the moon and could conduct extensive studies at close range before attempting a landing.

The Titan-3 booster for MOL is considered ideally suited for space operations because it combines the advantages of liquid and solid fuels. The booster consists of a Titan-2 IOBM with two huge solid-fuel rockets, each with a million pounds of thrust, strapped on either side.

The solid fuels provide faster and more economical propulsion to great altitude, but it is difficult to provide them with the power stop and re-start capability which is essential in rendezvous and docking operations.

For this purpose, the Titan-2 section of the Titan-3 combination does not even require an ignition system because its motor automatically stops and then restarts when the liquid fuel is turned off and turned on.

Troop Lift To Korea Is Postponed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The airlift of a 15,000-man army infantry division to Korea, has been postponed indefinitely.

Recommended for March by the joint chiefs of staff, it will not be held during the fiscal year which ends June 30.

The Pentagon gave no reason in confirming the postponement Saturday.

Informed sources hinted President Johnson's announced economy drive was a major factor.

Procter, Gamble Told to Sell Clorox Company

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The federal trade commission has ordered Procter and Gamble company to sell the Clorox Chemical company, acquired six years ago by the giant firm.

The commission said Saturday the acquisition produced economies only in advertising discounts available to Procter and Gamble, the nation's largest producer of household cleaning products.

In Cincinnati, Howard Morgens, president of Procter and Gamble, said the decision will be appealed to federal courts.

Park Dissolves Revolutionary Military Group

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 16 (AP)—In a prelude to his inauguration as president, South Korean strongman Chung Hee Park today dissolved the military revolutionary council he led to power with a coup 31 months ago.

"This council now folds its revolutionary banners," Park said to hundreds of officers at junta headquarters.

Park, still ruling under martial law, is to take the oath as elected president Tuesday and is to form South Korea's third republic in little more than three years.

Cows Foil Airplane

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 16 (AP)—Nineteen cows last night held up the landing of a Royal Dutch airlines plane when they strayed onto the main runway of Ringway airport. KLM Manager Ron Vigers said the plane was carrying about 50 passengers and crewmen. "The cows could have caused a very serious accident, particularly as it was dark," he said.

Baker Probe

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Johnson will sign an executive order opening to the senate rules committee the income tax returns of Robert G. Baker, former secretary to the senate's Democrats who resigned under fire Oct. 7.

The committee has asked for access to the returns as it investigates possible conflict-of-interest activities by present and former senate employees.

Grand Central Terminal Scene For Yule Party

BY PATRICIA MCCOERMACK
NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Bandy Green isn't accustomed to gulping transmitters.

If he were, he'd head a busload and a peck to take the tension out of his present assignment planning the first New Year's eve dinner-dance held in Grand Central terminal.

The event, sponsored by the National Association for Mental Health (NAMH), will help the financial condition of the New York Central Railroad as well as the Mental Health group. The railroad is charging $2,000 an hour for the seven-hour event.

Green, coordinator of the affair, said in an interview that he has 4,000 items on his checklist. They range from acoustics to noise-makers.

Take acoustics. The 130 feet between the floor and ceiling of the terminal do not provide a perfect sounding board for the music of Guy Lombardo's Orchestra, featured band.

"We're going to try to correct that situation," Green said, "by erecting a bandstand, maypole fashion, made of fabric."

Noise-makers and party hats for the 2,000 guests have been ordered, the least of Green's problems. Now all he must worry about on that score is: Will they be delivered on time?

Guests attending the dance will pay—at the top — $1,000 a seat. But even those paying $12.50 a ducat will get the champagne buffet dinner green hopes will be served, as per schedule.

The first 10 seats for the dance were sold by Mrs. T. L. Simmons, Tucson, Ariz. She's a member of the development committee of the NAMH research foundation. Eventually, she hopes to sell enough tickets to have a plane load of Tucsonsites fly in for the event.

The climax of the dance will come at midnight when, it is hoped, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will ring in 1964 by tolling the mental health bell—a 300-pound bell cast from melted down chains and shackles once used as restraints in mental hospitals.

"We invited the governor," Green said, "but he hasn't replied yet."

It is also hoped that private railroad cars will bring guests to the party from Westchester, N. Y., and Fairfield, Conn., county towns along the commuter train route to Grand Central Terminal.

"Another detail we had to consider," Green said, "was helium in the balloons. This makes them rise. If thousands of balloons soared to the ceiling of Grand Central, we'd have trouble getting them down after the dance."

They're filling the balloons with plain air.

Security guards will be stationed at barricaded entrances to the dance area to keep away curious seekers. Guests will enter through the Pan-Am building, which has escalators from its lobby into the terminal.

"I expect all sorts of grumbling to appear at the last minute," Green said. He's worrywarting especially about the tight schedule for setting up the dance.

The decorations will be started 48 hours ahead of the dance. The caterer will start setting up

Wade Throws 2

Late TD Passes To Beat Detroit

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (AP) — Quarterback Bill Wade threw two second-half touchdown passes and the Chicago Bears turned back a late Detroit threat Sunday for a 24-14 victory and the Western division title of the National Football league. The Bears, gaining their first division title since 1956, will meet the New York Giants, winners of the Eastern division crown in Chicago Dec. 29.

Brown, Ryan Lead Browns Past 'Skins

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP) — Jimmy Brown ran his season's rushing total past the mile mark and Frank Ryan pierced the Washington defense for three touchdowns Sunday as Cleveland scored a 27-20 National Football League victory over the Redskins.

| | Browns | Skins |
|--------------------|--------|-------|
| First downs | 22 | 12 |
| Rushing yardage | 178 | 56 |
| Passing yardage | 192 | 215 |

| Passes intercepted | 1 | 1 |
| Punts | 7-45 | 6-37 |
| Fumbles lost | 2 | 0 |
| Yards penalized | 53 | 34 |

With 125 yards in 28 carries, Brown pushed his total yardage for the year to 1,863 yards and became the first NFL player to gain more than a mile on the ground in one season.

The victory gave the Browns second place in the NFL's Eastern Division, with a 10-4 record, and the trip to the runner-up bowl game in Miami.

Cleveland moved to a 20-7 halftime lead on a pair of 42-yard field goals by Lou Groza and two touchdowns passed by Ryan. One was for 34 yards by Gary Collins and the others for 31 yards to Ernie Green.

Warriors Coast Past Baltimore

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16 (AP) — Witt Chamberlain led the San Francisco Warriors to a one-sided 122-97 National Basketball association victory over the Baltimore Bullets Sunday night.

The former University of the Pacific star wound up with 11 completions in 20 attempts for 272 yards. Denver rookie Mickey Slaughter from Louisiana Tech actually passed for more yardage, completing 20 of 35 throws for 288 yards and two touchdowns.

Red Wings Tie Black Hawks 4-4

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (AP) — Goals by Doug Barkley and Eddie Joyal midway in the final period pulled the hustling Detroit Red Wings into a 4-4 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey league game Sunday night.

Chicago took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Chico Maki and Murray Balfour but the Wings pulled to within a goal of tying early in the second period when Andre Pronovost flipped in a rebound of Gordie Howe's long shot.

6 Men Traded by Pro Hoop Squads

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers acquired forward Bob Boozer from Cincinnati and backcourt man Johnny Egan from Detroit Sunday in a three-club National Basketball association deal involving six players.

The Knicks first obtained Egan and forward Larry Stoverman from the Pistons in exchange for guards Donnie Butcher and Bob Duffy plus a third player to be named later.

Stoverman then was sent, along with cash, to the Royals for Boozer.

Big Sky Loop Sets Full Week Slate

By The Associated Press
Gonzaga of the Big Sky conference moves into the Midwest Tuesday for an inter-sectional basketball game with Wisconsin in Madison while two Minnesota teams, Bemidji State and the University of Minnesota at Duluth, come west for games this week with Montana and Montana State.

After Wisconsin, Gonzaga will try against SHIPPING CREIGHTON Wednesday in Omaha. Creighton has already knocked off nationally fourth ranked Arizona State and Idaho State of the Big Sky.

In other non-conference games involving Big Sky members this week, Idaho State meets St. Mary's of California and New Mexico State, the University of Idaho takes on Western Washington, and Weber State faces Western Montana and Chico State of California.

'Pokes Rally To Overcome Cards 28-24

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 16 (AP) — Quarterback Don Meredith threw two touchdowns passes in the fourth quarter to boost the Dallas Cowboys past the St. Louis Cardinals 28-24 Sunday in a chilly National Football league game.

The Cowboys went into the final quarter trailing 24-14 then:

| | Cowboys | Cards |
|--------------------|---------|--------|
| First downs | 10 | 21 |
| Rushing yardage | 108 | 162 |
| Passing yardage | 108 | 281 |
| Passes | 9-18 | 20-38 |
| Passes intercepted | 1 | 0 |
| Punts | 6-37.0 | 6-35.2 |
| Fumbles lost | 2 | 3 |
| Yards penalized | 43 | 46 |

Meredith hit Pettis-Norman for 12 yards and a touchdown and Frank Clark with 25 yard touchdown pass.

St. Louis tried to come back, but Cornell Green of Dallas intercepted a pass with only a few seconds remaining.

The Cardinals scored first in the second half on a 35-yard run by Larry Wilson on a fake field goal attempt. Jim Bakken booted a field goal to give the Cards 24 points.

Boston, Toronto End in 4-4 Draw

BOSTON, Dec. 16 (AP) — Dean Prentice back-handed a 30-foot goal at breakneck speed from the opposite wing and brought Boston into a 4-4 National Hockey league tie with Toronto Sunday night.

Boston squandered a two-goal lead, then saw the Maple Leafs score four straight before rallying for a pair of third period scores.

Twin Falls Invades Burley to Highlight Tuesday Hoop Slate

The "one-point decision" series between the Twin Falls Bruins and Burley Bobcats will be renewed Tuesday night and highlight a five-game schedule for Magic Valley basketball teams. Since coach Paul Ostyn took over as Twin Falls basketball coach, the Bruins and Bobcats have proved the most evenly matched teams in the district. Burley has won four of five meetings, the Bobcats' easiest win a three-point edge in overtime.

Burley also has won one two-point decision and two one-point victories while Twin Falls has won only one — of course by one point.

Twin Falls carries a 2-0 record into the game while Burley is 1-3. The Bruins will hold an overall height advantage and have another edge in experience. Burley's highlight so far has been the nifty outside shooting of Terry Jones. Twin Falls has been relying on a three-platoon system, which coach Ostyn hopes to be able to use again Tuesday.

In other action, the Kimberly Bulldogs, the district's top producing team, will host the winless Filer Wildcats. Kimberly is 4-1 while Filer has dropped five straight. The Bulldogs took their opener from Filer 73-48.

Dietrich, which sustained its first defeat Saturday after running up four straight, runs into a tough Murtaugh Red Devil crew at Murtaugh. The home-standing Devils have dropped their only two outings but figure to be among the class in the district's 4-A classification.

Castelford, holding a 2-2 record, moves into Bliss, where the Bears are 3-2 and have bounced from pretty good to pretty bad. Camas County, which lost its first game after winning a pair, will be at Wendell, where the Trojans will be seeking to improve on a 1-3 mark.

The week's action will resume a day early with the Declo tournament beginning Thursday night.

New York Rally To Nip Montreal

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP) — The New York Rangers, rallying after a three-ring first-period brawl, ended a nine-game losing streak Sunday night with a 4-2 National Hockey league victory over the Montreal Canadiens.

Rod Gilbert's two goals paced the Rangers to their first triumph over Montreal after five losses. Don Marshall and Vic Hadfield also scored for New York.

Ralph Backstrom put the Canadiens ahead, 1-0 in the first period but moments later a six-man brawl broke out involving three players from each team.

Hawks Trounce Lakers 102-95

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16 (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks threw a defensive blanket over the Lakers and tightened the Western division race with a 102-95 victory Sunday night in their National Basketball association game.

The Hawks led at halftime 55-47 and 77-72 at the start of the final quarter. In the last period they had to turn back two determined Laker rallies and then went on a scoring spree in the final two minutes to win it handily.

San Diego Tops Oilers, Nears Crown

CHARGERS OILERS
The Chargers jumped to a 14-0 lead over Houston on one-yard plunges by Tobin Rote and Bob Jackson after interceptions by Emil Karas and Chuck Allen.

Karas intercepted a Jacky Lee pass at the Charger 39 but Lowe, behind beautiful blocking promptly broke loose for 59 yards before being knocked out of bounds by Bobby Janick at the Oiler two. Rote scored two plays later.

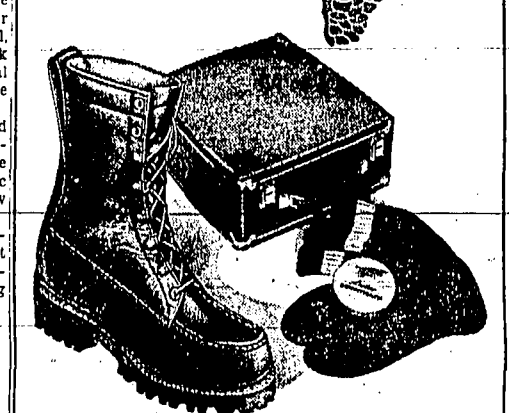

San Diego backed three pass interceptions with the running of Paul Lowe for a 17-point second quarter Sunday and a 20-14 victory over the Houston Oilers to clinch a tie for the Western division crown.

The defeat eliminated Houston from the title chase and set up a Dec. 28 playoff between Buffalo and Boston for the Eastern division crown.
