Johnson, German Chancellor Open Parley at Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (UPI) — President Johnson and West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard opened talks in the comfort of the Johnson ranch house living room today on East-West tensions and European tariff barriers to American farm goods. Vowing to carry on the "great heritage" of President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the two newest Western leaders spent two hours in private. They probed European Common Market tariff-walls and such problems as red-encircled Berlin.

Erhard expressed anew his nation's sorrow over the assassination of President Kennedy. Johnson, in a lunch toast, referred to the "sorrow because of a great loss."

Both men, new to their jobs, sounded a note of "new hope" for world peace and freedom, and set right to work on their arrival at the LBJ ranch.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said they went over a "wide range of subjects—the current situation in Europe, in Berlin, and the general situation involving Germany."

After lunch, Johnson and Erhard went into session with their advisers, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder. Rusk and Schroeder met separately during the morning.

Johnson and Erhard, who represents a member of the six-nation European Common market, took up the question of greater access to European markets for American farm products.

"They discussed the strengthening of the Atlantic alliance," Salinger said, "including mutual defense problems — bi-lateral as well as NATO problems."

The private meeting gave Johnson and Erhard an opportunity to discuss such problems man-to-man.

It also was a chance for the two chief executives to size up and get to know each other in the rural, home-like atmosphere of the ranch.

The talks continue through tomorrow, when Erhard leaves for home.

Johnson set the tone of the meeting:

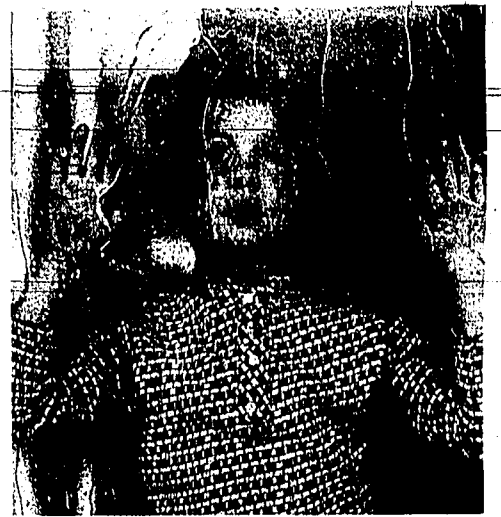

"It is our duty in these new two days," he told Erhard, "to discuss the great tasks of the future."

"It is our good fortune to build on the work of great men who have gone before—to begin our labor together..."

The president said Germans and Americans stand "united against danger and strong in hope" for a solution of East-West tensions.

The formalities of the 19-gun welcoming ceremonies at Bergstrom air force base gave way to the comfort of the ranch after a helicopter ride that gave Johnson time to show Erhard the operation of his LBJ spread.

Erhard flew into Bergstrom air force base at Austin from Houston, where he spent the night after a 17-hour flight from Bonn.

RAIN, RAIN, GO AWAY, is probably what this little girl is muttering to herself right now. The school children are on vacation and are eager to try out their new outdoor toys. And then what happens? It rains. Looking sadly at the sky for a hint of blue is Jana Kay Anderson, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gleason (Andy) Anderson, 1315 Lawndale drive. (Times-News photo)

Mary Patricia Mahan Is Crowned 1964 Miss T.F.

(See Pictures on Pages 10 and 12)

Mary Patricia Mahan, a lovely 19-year-old girl from Jerome, was crowned Miss Twin Falls of 1964 during the 13th annual Miss Twin Falls pageant Saturday night in the Twin Falls high school gymnasium. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mahan, 606 Second avenue east, Jerome, she placed first in the swim suit competition and tied with Carolyn Jean Denton, 17, Filer, in the evening gown event.

Miss Mahan was crowned by last year's winner, Kathleen Diane Kelley.

Miss Denton was first runner-up and tying for second runner-up were Lonna Jill Dunagan, 18, Jerome, and Susan Klinke, 18, Twin Falls.

Miss Mahan will compete next year in the Miss Idaho contest at Boise with winners from other pageants throughout the state. The local Lions club will pay all of her expenses while in Boise for the Miss Idaho pageant.

Competing with eight other girls from Twin Falls and Jerome counties, Miss Mahan received a dozen long-stemmed red roses, along with several other prizes from local merchants and the Twin Falls Lions club, which sponsored the pageant.

She received a $300 scholarship from the club, a $75 lady's wrist watch from Herrett's, Sterling and Jensen's jewelers, $25 savings account from the First Security Bank of Twin Falls, $25 cash award from KLLX radio, and $25 cash award from Shirley and Mendota men's store.

Miss Mahan also was selected Miss Congeniality, an honor which was determined during a tea for all contestants Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Serpa, 580 Alameda drive north.

For the evening gown competition Miss Mahan wore a white tulle brocade full-length gown with a leaf imprint. The gown was fitted at the waist and had a high neck and low back. She wore rhinestone bracelet and earrings to accent her apparel.

For her talent she gave an excerpt from Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

Taking first place in the talent division was Miss Klinke, who performed a dance which depicted a ballet dancer in her dress.

After receiving a letter, she displayed varied emotions about the note, first sadness, then anxiety and an optimistic outlook.

Other girls competing for the crown were Kathleen Stapp, 21; Susan Stuart, 18; and LaVerne Schlier, 18; Carson Gail Park, 17, and Mary [See MISS T.F., page 2]

Clawson Firm Gets YMCA Building Job

Bid of J. A. Clawson Construction company for $161,022 to construct the new YMCA-YWCA building here has been accepted by the YMCA board of directors, the board of trustees set up under the will of the late Mrs. Evangeline M. White and the joint steering committee of the YMCA-YWCA building project, it was announced Saturday. Three bids were submitted and the acceptance of Clawson's bid was recommended by Harold Gerber, Twin Falls, architect. The other two bids were submitted by Peek Building Contractors and Otis Hall Construction company.

The new "Y" building will be located on Elizabeth boulevard across from Jaycee ballpark. Construction will start as soon as possible.

The project building committee appointed a building board, which included a national YMCA consultant, to formulate specifications for a building with the funds available for the project.

Arctic Air Brings Cold To Midwest

By United Press International

A new surge of arctic air plunged temperatures well below zero from the Midwest to New England Saturday and nearly a foot of snow fell in lower Michigan.

The severest cold was along the northern border states where International Falls, Minn., had a temperature of 22 below and the mercury dropped to -18 at Watertown, N. Y.

It was -12 at Glen Falls, -11 at Plattsburgh and -10 at Massena, all in northern New York. Superior, Wis., reported -10 degrees. Albany, N. Y., -6; Dubuque, Ia., -5; Rockford, Ill., -4, and Madison, Wis., -3.

Ludington, Mich., had a 10-inch snow fall, and more snow was expected during the day. Four inches fell at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and sections of southern and western New England measure up to three inches.

Another snow belt extended from Nebraska across Kansas in to southeast Missouri.

In the West rain fell from California to Washington. Showers were expected in Alabama and Georgia when the cold air pushed eastward from the plains.

The weatherman promised 50 per cent cooperation for Sunday's national football league championship playoff at Chicago. The Chicago forecast called for sunny skies, but temperatures were expected to reach no higher than 20 degrees.

Purrs

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (UPI)—The Peder-nales river winds its way across the LBJ ranch, bothering no one except those newsmen who have to spell or pronounce its name.

A foreign reporter yesterday asked President Johnson how to pronounce the name of the stream.

7 Persons Hospitalized By Car Crash

RUPERT, Dec. 28 — Robert Knuth, Rupert, was listed in serious condition in Minidoka Memorial hospital and six others, five of them children, also were hospitalized after a two-car collision about 5 p.m. today, approximately seven miles north of here on highway 27.

Mrs. Darwin Tyler, 36, Rupert, was listed in satisfactory condition after the 1962 Chevrolet she was driving hit a slick spot in the road and slid into the path of a 1962 Volkswagen driven by Knuth.

It was reported Mrs. Tyler was taking a group of children home from an LDS Sunday school class party at her home at time of the accident.

Steven Terry, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Terry, Acquia, and Lynette Tyler, 7, and Wesley Tyler, 5, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Tyler, all passengers in Mrs. Tyler's car, were listed in good condition Saturday night.

Shelia Butler, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Butler, and Gregory Tyler, also in Mrs. Tyler's car, were listed in fair condition.

Knuth was taken to the hospital by ambulance and the others were taken to the hospital by Mrs. Herbert Poete, who happened by just after the accident.

According to State Policemen Charles Peugh and Roy Thomas, who investigated the accident, no citations will be issued.

Group Plans Horse Racing Next Year

BOISE, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Despite financial difficulties, the Idaho horse racing committee says it will do everything possible to bring pari-mutuel racing to Idaho in 1964.

The committee, which met for the first time yesterday, said it recognized an "obvious financial problem" but hoped to complete drafting of regulations with volunteer help.

Under the 1963 pari-mutuel law, the committee will receive a percentage of the money bet to cover its expenses but the legislature failed to provide funds for its operation until the first race meet is held.

Arthur Oppenheimer, Jr., Boise, elected chairman, said the committee will follow Gov. Robert E. Smylie's advice against accepting contributions from persons connected with horse racing. He declared the committee will not take money from anyone "in any way connected with horse racing."

"But," he said, "we might consider volunteer help from those not connected with racing after a security check."

One financial obstacle was cleared when Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard agreed to the committee's request to lend the assistance of his office in drafting regulations.

Shepard discussed legal questions with the committee all afternoon after Smylie met with it for about an hour.

Oppenheimer said committee members plan to serve without pay and Mrs. Beth Fitzwater, Boise, volunteered to serve as secretary also temporarily without pay.

The committee is to get an office in the statehouse.

Oppenheimer said also that the committee plans to ask Smylie if it can use money from the governor's emergency fund to get started.

Erhard Is Flown Over LBJ Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (UPI) — President Johnson flew West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to the LBJ ranch a roundabout way today so Erhard could see the ranch operation from their helicopter.

Johnson and Erhard sat in a forward compartment on the flight from Bergstrom air force base at Austin, and the President gave the chancellor a running account of the cattle and sheep-raising operations on the ranch. They circled low over the ranch to see it all before landing.

Mrs. Johnson rode in a rear compartment with West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

Cyprus Slows Jitters Over Invasion

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Invasion jitters lessened across Cyprus today even though three jet fighters with Turkish markings against buzzed Nicosia.

Clearly marked with the Turkish insignia, the planes roared over the capital just above the rooftops at 7 a.m., then headed north toward Turkey.

The jitters had arisen from rumors Friday night that two flotillas of Turkey's warships were closing in on this Mediterranean island, where at least 50 persons have been killed in communal fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

The vessels never reached Cyprus.

In Ankara, Turkey's foreign ministry denied that any Turkish planes have been dispatched over Cyprus since "a warning flight" was made Christmas day.

The ministry declared no other Turkish flights have been sent over Cyprus since the Christmas eve cease-fire agreement and that no Turkish ships have entered the island republic's territorial waters at any time.

The U.N. security council met in emergency session in New York to hear a Cypriot charge that Turkey's behavior was warlike. Turkey denied it. The council adjourned without action.

Buhl Woman Slain, Male Friend Is Held

BUHL, Dec. 28 — A 45-year-old Buhl woman was found shot to death here early Saturday morning and a man whom authorities said she was intending to wed was being held on suspicion of the murder.

Mrs. Lillian Bullard was found dead in the home of Roland Beard, 42, 1510 Main street, west, Buhl, before daylight Saturday. She had been shot once with a .30-06 rifle, the bullet striking her just beneath the breast bone and remaining in the body. Twin Falls county Sheriff James H. Benham said Beard had confessed to the shooting and would be charged with second degree murder Monday, when Probate Judge Joe Ann Warberg returns from Ogden.

Sheriff Benham said Beard told him he shot Mrs. Bullard sometime between 1 and 4 a.m. Saturday during an argument at his home. Benham said Beard had not told him yet what they were arguing about.

Beard and Mrs. Bullard had been keeping company for about six months, Benham said, and Beard told the sheriff they had talked of getting married soon.

The sheriff said the murder had been reported to Buhl police by Beard, Beard and Merle Singleton, about 45, who was living with Beard and was in the home at the time of the shooting, walked together to the Buhl hotel, sometime after the shooting, and Beard placed a call to the Buhl police station.

Buhl Police Chief Charles Burbank said Beard told Patrolman Elza Hall, who was on duty at the time, he thought there was a dead woman in his home.

Hall, Beard and Singleton went to Beard's home, where they found Mrs. Bullard's body. Hall took Beard and Singleton back to the police station and called Sheriff Benham and Twin Falls county Coroner Claude Wiley.

Singleton was released Saturday morning after being questioned by Benham.

Burbank said Beard had worked in Buhl as a laborer.

Mrs. Bullard's body was taken to Albertson's funeral home, where funeral services are pending.

U.S. Officer Is Killed by Red Gunners

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Communist Viet Cong gunners opened fire on a U.S. army helicopter flying over the Mekong delta today and the American officer at the controls was killed.

A spokesman said bullets ripped through the cockpit of the HU1B as the helicopter was escorting a command "copter" carrying an American military adviser on an administrative mission.

The incident occurred 55 miles southwest of Saigon near the village of Mo Cay.

The co-pilot took over from the dead officer, a first lieutenant, and the craft returned to its Saigon base. No other personnel aboard were injured.

The pilot became the 162nd American killed here since the United States took an active role in the South Vietnamese war against the Viet Cong in 1961.

His identity was withheld until relatives were notified.

Pope Plans Historic Summit Meet

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 28 (UPI)—The first meeting in 25 centuries between leaders of the Roman Catholic and Orthodox churches became a virtual certainty today as Pope Paul VI conferred — and likely prayed — with an emissary from Constantinople.

Both the Roman Catholic pontiff and Patriarch Athenagoras I of Constantinople — Istanbul — appeared committed to a summit encounter in the Holy Land. Pope Paul begins his three-day pilgrimage there Jan. 4.

The meeting between the pope and the patriarch's envoy, Metropolitan Athenagoras of Thiatiron, was in itself historic. It marked the first visit to Rome by an official representative of the patriarchate of Constantinople since the schism between Orthodox and Roman Catholicism in 1472.

License Plate Sales Reported

A total of 9,625 sets of passenger and truck plates had been sold in Twin Falls county by 5 p.m. Friday.

At the Twin Falls county courthouse a total of 7,800 sets of passenger plates and 625 truck plates had been sold.

The Dallas Insurance agency, Buhl, reported a total of 1,101 passenger and 69 truck plates sold in Buhl.

Guard Increased At U.S. Legation

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Bulgaria assured the United States today it would prevent any further demonstrations against the U. S. legation in Sofia.

A U. S. official in Sofia said the police guard outside the legation was increased from one to four.

The official reported by telephone from the Bulgarian capital that the assurances of safety for the legation were made by Foreign Minister Ivan Bachev. The assurances came after U. S. Charge d'Affaires Richard Johnson delivered a strong protest demanding the communist government pay for damages done Friday by about 3,000 demonstrators protesting alleged U. S. employment of a former Bulgarian diplomat as a spy.

TREMOR NOTED

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 28 (UPI)—A slight Earth tremor lasting 12 seconds shook Lima today but no injuries or property damage were reported.

Civic Auditorium Committee Nearly Ready to Start Subscription Drive

The Civic Auditorium Campaign Executive Sales committee has 52 members signed up and ready to begin securing subscriptions soon after the Jan. 7 meeting, Henry Willis, Twin Falls, campaign chairman, announced Saturday morning after the signing of the Fidelity National bank.

Willis said the committee is seeking a minimum of 60 volunteer members. Those who have signed the group have agreed to contribute at least $1,000. Willis said he will work to secure significant subscriptions from others until the goal of $500,000 has been subscribed.

Willis said according to the payment plan, the public may subscribe to the project by paying 10 per cent down and the balance in 36 months.

Willis explained the Hockenbury System, Inc., which has been secured to conduct the capital fund campaign, has reported there has been a wave of civic auditorium constructions sweeping the United States and Canada during recent years, as communities struggle to compete with each other for recognition and civic development.

The Hockenbury System, Inc., states the site is one of the most important in making an auditorium easy to operate, attractive to local citizens, nationally recognized for talent and convention delegates, and thus a financial success.

Given a clear field to select the best site, those responsible must study and evaluate each possibility on the basis of more than one factor.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Paul M. Engle has been hired as executive assistant to the Idaho State Employees association, a newly-created post. Engle has served as safety engineer for the state labor department.

Dog Leash Law Enforcement To Be Strict, Derrick Says

H. L. (Herb) Derrick issued a warning Friday to all Twin Falls residents that starting Wednesday the new dog-leash ordinance will be strictly enforced.

Derrick has noted that the city has hired Frank Reed as dog catcher to work along with William Dye, present dog catcher. The two men will try to apprehend all loose or stray dogs in the city.

Derrick noted it is almost impossible to catch all stray dogs, but when they are caught the owner will be required to pay a stiff fee to get his dog back.

"This is no $2 or $3 thing," Derrick noted. A $5 impoundment fee will be charged, plus a $2 license fee and $1 a day for board at the Twin Falls city dog pound.

ADA Scolds Leaders of Both Parties

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — Americans for Democratic Action scolded leaders of both parties today, saying they permit a "reactionary-conservative" coalition to run congress.

ADA, which classifies itself as a nonpartisan organization supporting liberal causes, said not even the late "President" Kennedy's eloquence and drive or President Johnson's "skill and determination" have been able to "move the iceberg on Capitol Hill."

This was due, ADA said in a report on the session expected to end Monday, to what it termed failure of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Speaker of the House John W. McCormack, D., Mass., to put their weight behind rules changes.

The organization said Mansfield directly opposed the 1960 Democratic platform by maneuvering to prevent the senate from adopting new rules, particularly to curb filibusters, at the opening of the session. It took a swipe at Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois for participating in this.

McCormack was charged by ADA with contributing to the "tyrannical power" of Rep. Howard W. Smith, D., Va., to bottle up civil rights and other legislation as chairman of the house rules committee.

ADA said House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana "took the low road" by leading a fight to ban Export-Import bank credits for the financing of proposed wheat sales to Russia and iron curtain countries.

There was no immediate comment from any of those named.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY—Partly cloudy today and tonight. A little cooler tonight. Extensive areas of valley fog. Outlook for Monday partly cloudy with chance of precipitation. Highs today 33-38, lows tonight 14-22, except Camas prairie highs 26-34, lows —5 to 8. Temperature forecasts: Gooding 37-22, Jerome 37-18, Buhl 36-16, Twin Falls 39-17, Burley 38-15, Rupert 37-14, Fairfield 32-9. High Saturday in Twin Falls 37, low 25; 37 at 3 p.m. Precipitation: .32 of an inch from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, .34 of an inch from 8 a.m. Friday to 3 p.m. Saturday. Total precipitation since Dec. 1, .98 of an inch.

At the surface, high pressure continues to remain over the Intermountain area and the western plateau. Considerable overturning of moist air from the Pacific, in association with the upper trough of low pressure moving through the high pressure ridge, has brought various amounts of precipitation to the valleys of southern Idaho.

A series of disturbances continue to move out of the broad Pacific low into the Pacific Northwest. Riding along the West Coast will tend to weaken these impulses and give them a more northerly track. Sufficient moisture will continue to be available to bring occasional light rains and snows to southern Idaho. Considerable cloudiness will occur on into the fore part of the week, with brief periods of partial clearing and with rather extensive areas of fog throughout the lower river valleys.

Saturday much fog occurred in the valley areas, with overcast skies at most places. Day and nighttime temperatures showed small variations at most places.

Precipitation amounts in the past 24 hours indicated that amounts in the valley areas ranged near one-third of an inch at most places. Snow accumulations varied throughout the valleys since a mixture of rain and snow occurred. In Magic Valley variable amounts on the ground are mostly one to three inches.

TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION

Highest temperature last 12 hours, lowest temperature last 12 hours, precipitation for 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. CST.

Cuba Claims U.S. Blew up Soviet Boat

HAVANA, Dec. 28 (AP) — The Cuban government charged today that U.S. central intelligence agency (CIA) "saboteurs" blew up a Soviet-built PT boat last Sunday, killing three Cuban sailors and wounding 18 in the first act of aggression by the Johnson administration.

A government communique said a mine blew up the PT boat last Sunday in Sigüenza bay of the Isle of Pines and said an investigation showed that the explosive came from a U.S. navy submarine.

(Last Sunday, an anti-Castro exile group whose spokesman reported from Honduras claimed to have attacked a Soviet vessel in Sigüenza bay.)

The statement by Cuba said the United States was "directly responsible for the bloody and cowardly act against the people of Cuba at the moment they were preparing peacefully and full of joy of the festivities at the end of the year"—the rise to power of Premier Fidel Castro.

The communique said the attack was the "first act of aggression since Lyndon B. Johnson occupied the presidency of the United States... and it is logical to suppose that the facts are known and have the full approval of the President..."

Boy Injured in Crash Improves

SHOSHONE, Dec. 28 — Douglas Hall, 17, Shoshone high school junior who was critically injured in an auto accident at Piloche, Ariz., in which his parents were killed Tuesday, is reported to have regained consciousness in a Phoenix hospital.

Killed in the accident were Mr. and Mrs. William A. (Art) Hall, Shoshone civic leaders.

Also hospitalized in Phoenix with injuries received in the accident is Douglas elder, Marilyn, 18, a freshman at Ricks college, Haysburg.

It was reported today that she was able to sit up in bed and was making good progress toward recovery.

Won't Run

DETROIT, Dec. 28 (AP) — Former Michigan Democratic Gov. John B. Swanson announced today he will not run for governor next year.

Swanson made his announcement in a television statement in which he said his doctors had advised him against it because of shrapnel found in his leg from World War II wounds. He said the doctors told him he probably could not stand a hard election campaign.

Sen. Church Will Sponsor Amendment

BOISE, Dec. 28 (AP) — Idaho Sen. Frank Church says he will offer a constitutional amendment to congress next month to change the vice presidency succession laws.

Church said there was a "defect" in the present laws that allow the speaker of the house to become President should something happen to the chief executive.

Church, at an Idaho Press club press conference here yesterday, said his amendment will be offered to congress next month. His amendment would allow the President to pick from two to five men he wants as a junior partner and the house would pick a vice president by majority vote, in the fashion it now is empowered to break ties in presidential elections.

Church told newsmen he was personally highly pleased with the progress of President Johnson. He said he was certain Johnson would be nominated for president next year and he would pick a running mate from the industrialized northeast.

Church said he would like to see the "harder" work by his congressional delegation to get off-lay approval of the proposed Fremont and Bitter dams and the controversial Burns Creek project. He said the McCuffey project was another that would get "renewed attention" in the next session.

Skating Good

Skating conditions at the Magic mountain ski area range from good to excellent, it was reported Saturday evening.

About six inches of new snow was reported to have fallen at Magic mountain by Saturday evening and roads were open but chains advised. All ski runs will be operating Sunday.

Miss T.F.

Ardith Larkins, 17, all Twin Falls.

At the conclusion of the three highlight events of the pageant—evening gown, talent and swim suit competition, the five finalists were each asked two questions by George Haney, Jr., master of ceremonies.

The questions were, what cure can parents use to keep teenagers from staying out too late on dates, and what suggestion the girl could give on how the growth and development of Idaho could be speeded up?

Miss Mahan, answering the first question, said that "never having been a parent, I'll just have to take a stab in the dark."

She said if parents could gain the respect of their children, the children would honor their requests.

On the second question, Miss Mahan commented that she was "very prejudiced" for the state because of its great natural resources. She stressed preservation of the state's natural beauty and emphasized the area of tourism. She theorized that people visiting here probably would become interested enough to live here. Miss Mahan also pointed out Idaho's great potential for industry.

The girls appeared before a near-capacity audience which attended the pageant in spite of a thick fog which some pageant officials thought may have hurt attendance.

Judges for the pageant were: Mrs. Eugene Gibbons, Gooding; Louis Gorman, Buhl; Mrs. Kenneth Gorman, Hazelton; Mrs. L. E. Bowman, Rupert; and Mrs. Harold Holsinger, Well. The girls were judged on a point basis in the three main divisions, not including the Miss Congeniality award, which is a separate prize.

Prizes for Miss Denton as first runner-up are a $100 scholarship from the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company and a $25 cash award from Twin Falls Realty and Insurance.

Prizes for the two second runners-up, Miss Dunagan and Miss Klinkle, are $75 cash awards from Self Manufacturing company.

Miss Denton and Miss Mahan, as tying winners of the evening gown competition, will receive $25 gift certificates from the Idaho Department of State. Miss Klinkle will receive a $25 gift certificate from the Mayfair shop for the talent event award and Miss Mahan also will receive a $25 gift certificate from Hopper's for the swim suit event and $25 from Idaho Savings and Loan association for winning Miss Congeniality.

Winners of past at Miss Twin Falls pageants were introduced and Miss Kelley spoke briefly on her past year's reign.

Entertainment during events was provided by Gordon Elliott, who has the lead role in next year's Dilettante production of "Can-Can" singing "Days of Wine and Roses"; Sharon Marie, a former Buhl resident who now has a recording contract with Capitol records, singing "Run-around Lover" and "Summer-time"; and the Nobles, a quartet from Buhl, singing several selections and doing routines. The Nobles were joined in one number by Mrs. Tom McVey.

Organist for the pageant was Larry Bennett; modeling directors were Mrs. Wayne Bauer and Mrs. Heley Henderson, and general chairman was Tom McVey, assisted by Laverne Thorncroft.

C. E. (Eddy) Rossard, Twin Falls Lions club president, introduced the master of ceremonies and handed out awards to the winners.

Gerald L. Gorman, Buhl, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Robinson for improper passing. He was assigned three violation points.

Twin Falls Police Judge Dale J. Adamson fined James E. Kinsey, Twin Falls, $10 and costs for speeding in the 600 block of Second avenue south. Also fined $10 and costs by Judge Robinson was Lloyd C. Kennel, Twin Falls, for failure to yield the right of way. Both were assigned three violation points each.

International Diplomacy Comes to Texas Cow Country

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (AP) — International diplomacy came to the cow country today and the first lady calmly took over as gracious hostess.

The president's wife, up early to add the last-minute touches for the two-day visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, had everything ready, down to a German chocolate cake made from an old family recipe she found.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson moved easily from the role of guide around the ranch for a busload of newsmen and women yesterday to the job of helping her husband entertain the chancellor, Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and a small host of cabinet members, ambassadors and other diplomats.

In the rolling Texas hill country which was heavily settled by Germans in the mid-19th century, Mrs. Johnson had just one guideline for Erhard's visit: "Give him a most wonderful welcome in the Texas-German flavor," she said.

She had everything ready down to books on Texas and regional folklore in case the visitors wanted to relax and read.

The two-story, 13-room ranch house was decorated with bunting. There was a large picture of Erhard with a sign that read "Willkommen," German for "welcome."

The main road approaching the house and alongside the Pedernals river had alternate German and U. S. flags waving in the mild southern breeze.

Mrs. Johnson, with the help of the University of Texas, found copies of two poems by a young German girl whose parents came to Texas in the 1850's. They were bound in red leather and she will present them to Erhard to take home to his wife.

She got the "number one guest room" ready for the chancellor on the second floor of the house with a view of the winding Pedernals.

Lynda Bird Johnson, 19-year-old college sophomore, was helping her mother with the hostess chores.

Arab League Sets Meet to Stop Israel

CAIRO, Dec. 28 (AP) — The Arab League today began preparation of the agenda and security for a summit meeting called by Gamal Abdel Nasser to thwart plans by Israel to divert waters of the River Jordan for irrigation purposes.

Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic, tentatively scheduled the meeting for Jan. 13 and all members of the Arab league with the exception of Saudi Arabia have agreed to attend.

Some quarters feared that King Saud of Saudi Arabia might not reconsider his refusal to attend because of his opposition to Nasser. But they hoped for a change of heart in view of the tentative acceptance from Morocco's King Hassan II — another Nasser opponent.

Both sides expressed the hope they could keep open the checkpoints which allowed Berliners their first Christmas family reunion in two years.

So far 250,000 West Berliners have visited relatives in East Berlin, the official East German news agency, ADN, reported. Altogether 840,000 permits for one-day visits have been issued, the agency said.

The permits are good only for eastward trips as was clear Christmas day when East Germans trying to flee to the West were shot by border guards.

Despite the tragedy, a West Berlin spokesman said, "The senate, West Berlin government and the federal government of West Germany hope that a further easing of the situation for the people in both parts of the city should be achieved."

He was referring to a remark made by East German Deputy Premier Alexander Abusch in an interview with a communist newspaper that his regime was willing to talk about the extension of the visiting period.

The East-West agreement included only those West Berliners who have close relatives in the Soviet sector.

West Berlin officials indicated that in future talks Western negotiators would try to obtain wall passes for West Berliners who have no relatives in the East.

Extension of Deadline in Berlin Eyed

BERLIN, Dec. 28 (AP) — German officials in both parts of this divided city voiced readiness today to discuss extending past the Jan. 5 deadline the agreement permitting West Berliners to visit behind the communist-built wall.

The conference was scheduled to take place in the main headquarters of the Arab league in Cairo. With the full backing of United Arab Republic authorities, the league officials were setting up offices for each delegation in the hall.

Officials were also preparing briefs on the River Jordan problem.

The UAR is assuming full responsibility for the heads of state attending the conference. In this connection they were debating whether to accommodate the visiting delegates in various guest palaces scattered about the city, or at the Nile Hilton hotel.

Communist May Speak on Campus

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP) — An appeals court ruled today that a member of the national committee of the communist party may speak on campuses of the state university.

The appellate division for the third judicial department unanimously decided that Dr. Herbert Aptheker, an avowed communist, could appear "in the name of academic freedom" at the University of Buffalo, a unit of the state university.

TOKYO, Dec. 28 (AP) — Japan, alarmed by the possibility of a rupture of its trade and diplomatic relations with Nationalist China, today postponed from hour to hour a final decision on the case of Red Chinese defector Chou Hung-Ching.

Moslems Riot On Theft of Sacred Hair

NEW DELHI, Dec. 28 (AP) — Mobs of Moslems stormed through the streets of Srinagar in northern India today, protesting the theft of a hair said to have come from the beard of the prophet Mohammed.

Reports reaching here from the capital of Kashmir said the rioters set fire to fashionable homes, shops, buses, cars, trucks, two movie theaters, an automobile agency and partially destroyed the police station. Police fired rifles into the air to disperse the mob and one man was reportedly wounded.

The theft was reported last night. Police superintendent said the hair disappeared from the Hazrat shrine on the edge of Dal lake.

Thousands of Moslems visited the shrine to mourn the loss. Businesses closed, taxis stopped running and waiting women joined processions carrying black flags through the streets.

Moslems in Kashmir were said to be divided with some worshipping the hair and others opposing such worship as a form of idolatry.

An official of the National Congress party, Mohammed Shafi Quareshi, was quoted as saying the theft was an insult designed to injure Moslem sentiments and foment communal trouble for the fulfillment of nefarious political ends.

State Premier Shamsuddin was en route back to Srinagar from his summer home at Jammu. He was said to be "deeply distressed" at the theft.

Solon Lauds Review for Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper today praised President Johnson's appointment of a high-level foreign aid review committee but added that congress will demand more detailed studies if the aid program is to survive.

The Kentucky Republican said he was urging the President to extend the work of the special committee to "specific areas and specific countries by appointment of small committees."

Cooper, a former ambassador to India, yields considerable influence in the senate. He said in a statement that "unless information is provided by independent evaluation, I believe the foreign aid program will be abolished by congress."

In any case, he said, without such detailed studies "we will not know whether the program in specific countries is good or bad."

The review committee named by Johnson is headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball. The group held its first meeting yesterday and will report to the President by Jan. 15.

or less established criteria, the firm reports.

Edward C. Forsythe, representative of Safeway Steel Products, who has worked with managers and architects of many major auditoriums in the country, says, "Location is one of the most important points to decide, and as a consequence, one of the most controversial. Selfish demands must be ruled out in favor of welfare of the building and its service to the community. The location must be considered in relation to the type of building and its uses."

"Nearness to motels is important for conventions, but not so important for community affairs. Parking facilities are important in all cases, and highways leading to the building also must be considered."

Wills explains the financial success of the auditorium will be greatly enhanced when it is designed for many uses, such as exhibition hall, music hall and a Little Theater.

There is little doubt that convention business is important, the association told Wills. It is big business in many cities and the value runs into millions of dollars each year.

Competition is so keen for convention business, Wills explained, that many convention bureaus think it necessary that the auditorium facilities and services be offered rent free.

Firms Accused of Discrimination

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP) — Fifty of the nation's giant utility firms were accused today of discriminating against Jews and other minority groups in selecting executive personnel.

The accusation was made by A. M. Sonnabend, president of the American Jewish committee and a Boston industrialist.

He said very few of the utilities practice discrimination as a specific policy. But nevertheless, he said, they "maintain a personnel practices climate that discourages Jewish candidates and members of other religious and ethnic minority groups."

L. Mietzner, Filer Man, Succumbs

Louis Mietzner, 77, route 2, Filer, died Friday at Magic Valley Memorial hospital after a short illness.

He was born Jan. 31, 1886, in Prosser, Nebra., and moved to Filer in 1947, where he had resided since. His wife, Louise, preceded him in death in 1953. He was a member of the Clover Lutheran church.

He is survived by three sons, Julius Mietzner, Hildreth, Nebr.; Emmett Mietzner, Buhl, and Leonard Mietzner, Rupert; one daughter, Mrs. Lella Hartwig, Filer; one brother, Gustav Mietzner, Jerome, and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Berg's Twin Falls mortuary chapel with the Rev. Carl Losser, Clover Lutheran church, officiating. Final rites will be held in Hildreth, Nebr. Friends may call at Berg's chapel from 2 p.m. Sunday until time of service Monday. Custodian of the memorial wreath is Martin Roesler.

Tax Cut Will Boost Output, Planners Say

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—If taxes are cut promptly the national output will rise by 26 billion dollars next year to a record of about 610 billion dollars, the National Planning association predicted today.

The forecast of a four and one-half per cent rise, which compares with a three and one-half per cent increase from 1962 to 1963, was made by Gerhard Colm, NPA's chief economist and the former senior economist of the President's council of economic advisers.

Colm emphasized that the estimate assumes enactment of a tax bill early in 1964, retroactive to Jan. 1. His year-end statement said:

"Should that assumption be wrong, then again we would have to assume a substantially lower increase in the gross national product."

The forecast was in terms of dollars having their 1963 purchasing power. If prices continue to rise at their recent gradual rate of about three and one-half per cent a year, the GNP in 1964 would be several billions higher in terms of current prices. The GNP is a dollar measurement of the value of all goods and services produced.

The outlook is not wholly satisfying, Colm said, because unemployment will remain high. Despite substantial economic gains during 1963, unemployment held close to 5.6 per cent of the working force.

Water Users At Mud Lake File Rights

TERRINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Water users in the Mud lake area have filed for rights to 2,000 second feet of water to recharge part of the vast underground water system of the Snake river plain.

The idea of diverting spring flood or other surplus water of the Snake to feed the underground system and provide more water for pump irrigation has been talked of for some time.

But the farmers, members of the Upper Snake River Ground Water Users association, are the first to ask water rights for the purpose.

Jack Gerard, Terrington, the chairman, said the association represents eight canal companies with nearly 50,000 acres of farm land.

He said the idea is to supplement the present underground water supply. But he declined to say whether talk of the threat of diversion of Idaho water to southern California had anything to do with the decision.

"The water table is up pretty good this fall," he said. "It fluctuates each year. This would at least strengthen it some. It would be beneficial to us."

The underground water recharge has been described as one means of protecting Snake river water for use in Idaho. T. C. Butler, a Boise consulting engineer, last week urged Gov. Robert E. Smylie to file on all Snake river water that goes un-used past Miller dam, near Twin Falls.

But the governor said there is a legal question as to whether he can. He said a previous governor had filed and if that filing were valid, his would be unnecessary.

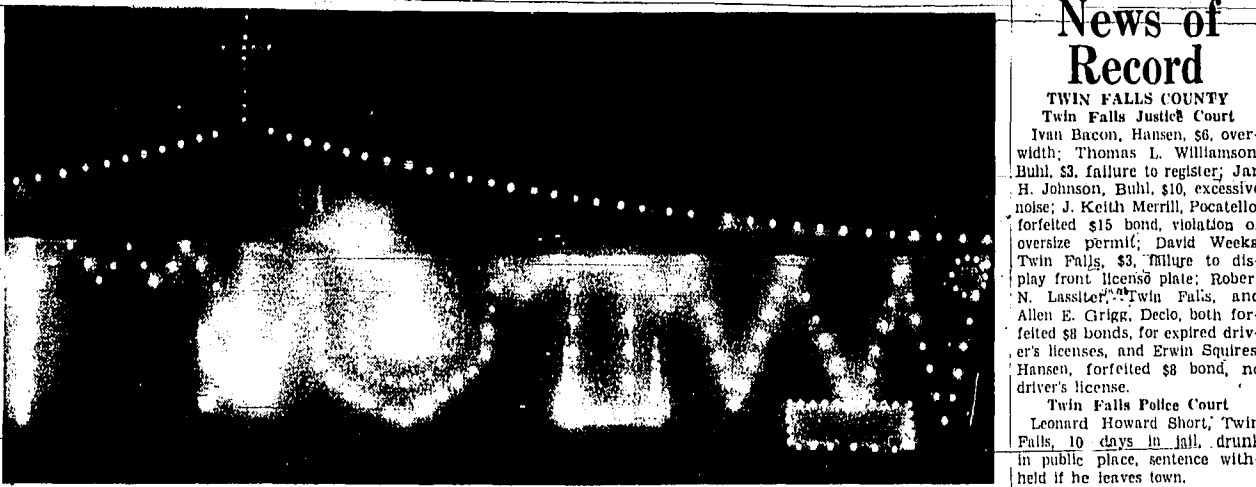

State Reclamation engineer Carl Tappan said in Boise that anyone wishing to protest the application will have until Jan. 9 to file protests. He said the application for the water was filed Dec. 19.

Boise Has Grown Steadily, Now Is Metropolitan Area

BOISE, Dec. 28 (AP)—With the exception of a brief period following the Boise basin gold rush, Idaho's capital city has enjoyed a pattern of steady growth designated earlier this year with designation as a major metropolitan area.

Because Boise's growth has been slow it has been largely ignored over the years. But with its sudden emergence as an important trade center, industrialists and bankers have begun to ask, "What makes Boise grow?" and "Will the growth continue?"

Business and civic leaders generally agree that a healthy, diversified economy, equitably distributed between commercial, financial, governmental, industrial and agricultural payrolls is responsible. And they are unanimous in their opinion that the growth will continue.

Boise's growth began shortly after the gold rush of 1863 and with its designation as territorial capital in 1864. The new city was ideally located to provide services to the Boise basin and Owyhee gold mines and with the expansion of governmental operations its economy began to boom.

Boise City, as it was then known, grew slowly in the early years. The 1870 census showed the city had a population of 995 and by 1890 it had grown to 2,311. But by 1910 the population figure grew to 17,358 and then doubled to 34,393 in 1950.

During the next 10 years, however, the city added only 88 persons to its population figure while Ada county grew to nearly 100,000, almost one-sixth of the state's population.

Further growth was hindered by Boise's legislative charter which made no provision for annexation of the fast growing suburban areas.

Civic leaders persuaded the 1961 legislature to permit re-vocation of the charter and later that year residents voted to toss it out and become a city of the first class with annexation powers.

The city council acted quickly and annexed several residential areas boosting the city's population to over 50,000 making the city eligible for metropolitan status.

It was this designation and Boise's inclusion in national statistical growth that focused attention on the slow but steady growth.

Then annexations also enabled Boise to recapture its position as the largest city in the state which it lost in 1962 when Pocatello merged with the community of Alameda.

In answering the question "What makes Boise grow?" the Chamber of Commerce points

No Dancing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Dec. 28 (AP)—The provisional government is starting to restrict dancing, which was wholly banned in President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime.

A $2-tax was imposed last week on all persons attending public dancing halls. Private dancing parties were ordered restricted to Saturdays and days immediately prior to public holidays.

Farmer Fatally Injured by Car

MOSCOW, Dec. 28 (AP)—Alfred Gilbertson, 78, a retired Moscow area farmer, was fatally injured today when struck by a car on highway 85 about eight miles south of here, Idaho state police said.

Driver of the car was identified as Larry J. Wyatt, 24, a student at Washington State university, Pullman.

Gilbertson died in a hospital about three hours after being hit.

State Policeman Roger March said Gilbertson was in the roadway looking for a turn off he had missed.

Charles Miller Taken by Death

FILER, Dec. 28—Charles W. Miller, 75, longtime Filer resident, died Friday in Magic Valley Memorial hospital of a short illness.

He was born Jan. 10, 1888, at Carthage, Mo., lived at Dubois for several years and in 1933 moved to a farm at Filer. He was a member of the Magnitude lodge No. 76, AF and M at Dubois.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Connie Brown Wageman, Twin Falls; a sister, Mrs. Maude Simmons, Rochester, N. Y., and six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Berg's Twin Falls mortuary.

Hulk of Ship Is Moving To Gibraltar

BERGEN, Norway, Dec. 28 (AP)—The burned-out hulk of the Greek cruise ship Lakonia is now moving steadily toward Gibraltar under low of the tugs Herkules of Norway and Polsee of the Netherlands, the owners of Herkules said tonight.

A spokesman for the owners, Norsk Bjeringskompagni, said the Lakonia has a 10-degree list, but seems in no immediate danger of sinking.

"Men from the Herkules have been on board several times and now also have been under deck, but we have no report on what they have found," the spokesman said.

He said both tugs have lines made fast to the Lakonia's bow and may reach Gibraltar in two or three days.

Johnson Will Meet Feb. 21 With Mateos

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28 (AP)—The February meeting of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos with President Johnson will be the first of several conferences abroad planned by the Mexican chief executive in 1964.

Lopez Mateos and Johnson will meet in Los Angeles Feb. 21, where they will receive honorary degrees from the University of California. They fly to Palm Springs for talks that afternoon and the morning of Feb. 22.

Lopez Mateos and Johnson are old acquaintances. They met in Mexico in 1958 and at Johnson's Texas ranch in 1959.

The announcement issued by the ministry of foreign relations of the Lopez Mateos-Johnson meeting indicated that the Mexican president would make other official visits abroad during the coming year. It said that the California conference would be "the first which our chief executive will make in 1964 to another chief of state."

Lopez Mateos has received formal invitations from Italy and Great Britain.

Barrier of Age

Four-year-old children starting school in Warren, Pa., with youngsters two years older are reported making satisfactory or better progress. They adjust well to the experience and class visitors cannot pick out the younger pupils. That's the report from the Warren school board in the second-year of the experiment.

The only special measure in the test was to make sure all the younger students were bright and mature for their age. Children selected for the test were required to have an IQ of 130 or better. A team of consultants from the University of Pittsburgh is directing the program.

It's not surprising there were misgivings both on the part of educators and parents. A pediatrician advised one mother not to enroll her child because of "the adverse effect of social immaturity" during later years in high school.

There's plenty of indication adults do not quite comprehend the ability of children to learn. Parents also are prone to declare children should enjoy the joys of childhood as long as possible. The net result is that children are penned by an artificial barrier of age; artificial because children, when left to their own devices while at play, do not seek out other youngsters of their exact age. Small children are not aware of any differences of age up to something like four years.

Left to their own devices and with a choice available, children are much more likely to associate with other youngsters of their own mental development. Here is a more reasonable means of dividing children for purposes of instruction. It's a system that may gain more acceptance in the light of experiments like that in Warren, Pa.

Eventually, it may result in a school system without today's traditional classes. Perhaps some day a student will be permitted to progress through school according to ability, not age.

Dr. William Tisdall, one of the Pitt researchers working on the Warren experiment, declares children are not being pushed or being deprived of childhood. "There is evidence from the Warren parents . . . that gifted children are frequently happier in the more stimulating environment of the kindergarten or grade one classes than in their own homes."

It's another way of saying that any child needs a mental challenge and is more likely to progress and be happy than without a challenge. Adults who force pointless play on children—either at home or in the classroom—are indulging themselves, not the children.

TYPICALLY COMMUNIST

It was Christmas day in Berlin. Visitors from West Berlin were being welcomed through the communist wall by communist guards. There were smiles and Christmas music for the visitors. But other communist guards along the wall had a different Christmas greeting for Paul Schulz, 18, who chose the holiday for his attempt to escape to the West. He was shot in the back as he scrambled over the wall, falling into the arms of a West Berlin policeman.

The whole incident is so typical of communism. On the one hand there's music and smiles for visitors, but there's nothing except brutality and death for those who would escape their East Berlin prison. It's difficult to understand how anyone could be fooled by the smiling masks worn by communists when it suits their purpose. No number of smiles, no amount of music could possibly conceal the inhuman brutality that exemplifies communism so well.

Communist brutality needs no such illuminating incidents as the Christmas day shooting of the young refugee. In Berlin, especially, there is a monument to red brutality in the wall erected by the communists to prevent more Germans from escaping to the West and freedom. The wall is a symbol of communism and its brutality, nothing more, nothing less. So long as it exists, with murderous guards to shoot down those who would escape, the world can see quite plainly what communism is all about.

The wall speaks volumes. It is just as eloquent as Negro students demonstrating against communists in their own capital, Moscow. The wall demonstrates the inhumanity and failure of communism equally as well as armed repression in Hungary.

The Free West should recognize an ally in the wall. The West could do worse than to make certain representatives of free people everywhere get a chance to see the wall and its armed guards who do not hesitate to shoot a man in the back.

WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Nobility at this house is buying the gold brick on sale hereabouts that the appointment of Thomas C. Mann to take charge of Latin-American affairs has solved all our problems down there and we can now relax over our holiday cups.

Mann, our recent ambassador to Mexico, is wearing two whole titles as assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and special assistant to the President. This makes him undisputed boss of the deteriorating situation, with his White House title serving notice that the Big Boss himself will tolerate none of those sly, striped-pants conspiracies against his new boy. Few of our overseers got that kind of protection from the back stabbers in Foggy Bottom.

TOUGH ASSIGNMENT—Nevertheless, there has been no suggestion that Mann, for all his admitted competence in dealing with Latin Americans, is possessed of divine right. He is only human, although warmly so and of authentic distinction. And the mess in Latin America, particularly in the Alliance for Progress, is of the kind that sends mere humans screaming to the nearest head feller.

President Johnson has left no doubt that Mann will be his personal representative, which should bring some in a neighborhood aware of the uses of power. But there has been only one change in the cast—Mann himself. He'll have to play his scenes with the same old gaggle of self-serving Latin-American politicians, the same old rich land owners and slick operators seeking the fast buck. If he can handle that bunch, we should, forthwith, select him President for life.

SELF-HELP IS PAINFUL WORD—Mann's biggest problem is that the political and financial proprietors of most Latin-American nations just don't want to help their own countries. Any rational and humane revolution will cost the rich men money and the politicians power, and so far they have shown no sign that they're willing to pay the bill. Instead, what they want is the traditional U.S. handout, with no strings attached and a chance to skim the cream off the top for themselves.

Therefore, these characters find the premise of the Alliance for Progress most unpalatable. For the alliance is a self-help program, and self-help is a swear word south of the border. Uncle Sam has pledged 10 billion dollars over a 10-year period, but the fine print says Latin America must match this contribution and, more, that the countries have to clean-house so the aid will do some good.

RESENT SUPERVISION—So far, the housecleaning is proceeding with measured languor. At this writing, less than half of the 19 countries involved have submitted blueprints for the acceptable use of U.S. aid, and mostly the needed tax reforms are still at the talking stage. Meanwhile, Latin politicians spend most of their time complaining about too-close supervision of aid spending by U.S. administrators. It is dawning on them that Uncle Sam meant it when he demanded his money's worth on this one, and it is a shock to their egotisms.

President Johnson has come up with no new ideas for solving the problem, but has merely told Mann to get on with the job. Perhaps there are no new ideas available, unless we decide to surrender to the thieves and change the rules to permit outright grants, and congress wouldn't buy that one. Mann's job, therefore, is to try to sell the Latin-American proprietors on honesty and patriotism. He'd better wear sidearms.

THE WEATHER REPORT
With weather science on the verge of major achievement as outlined in the series of articles just concluded, it is no longer apt to say no one does anything about the weather except talk about it.

The time has come when an intensive effort today, especially in setting up a world weather watch, will pay big benefits in improved forecasting as well as scientific knowledge five to ten years hence.

It is also a time for caution, a time to support good science and reject the crackpot. There are those who claim ability to forecast weather months or years in advance, although no skill in such forecasting has ever been verified. There are those who claim rainmaking benefits from cloud seeding, although these have yet to be conclusively demonstrated.

There are those who urge crash programs to try to develop weather and climate controls, raising the spurious threat of the Soviets getting such controls first. Yet, meteorology is only now at the point where even the most elementary questions relating to weather control can begin to be investigated.

Hope of more accurate forecasting or of developing whatever degree of weather control may be possible lies in vigorous and orderly exploitation of meteorology's new capabilities. This will lay the base of scientific knowledge on which the practical developments depend.

Congress and the administration should be prepared to provide the funds and diplomatic effort to carry forward the United States' share in establishing the global weather observing system now being explored by the World Meteorological organization while remaining wary of false weather prophets.—Christian Science Monitor.

DESPERATE JUGGLING
Portland apparently is to have organized baseball again next year, thanks to a wholesale juggling of minor leagues which places Indianapolis and Little Rock in the Pacific Coast league. But the lengths to which the baseball magnates have had to go to keep a semblance of life in the minors indicate the desperation of the situation. One has to be an incurable baseball optimist to believe that under present operation procedures the game will long continue in this and many other cities.

It took considerable imagination to picture Dallas, Tex., and Oklahoma City as having any connection with the Pacific Coast. Now one must stretch the imagination to the breaking point to include Indianapolis. A league reaching from Indiana to Hawaii is ridiculous even if the name is changed to something more descriptive than Pacific Coast. Traveling expenses will be terrific if Indianapolis and Hawaii exchange games. Evidently, such traveling will be kept at a minimum by dividing the league into eastern and western divisions of six clubs each, the division winners to play for the championship at the end of the season. Why not, then, have two distinct leagues? The major leagues have throttled minor league ball by owning nearly all the players and making the minor clubs dependent on major-league sponsors, which send out and call back players at will and pungle up enough money to cover deficits. Unless the system is changed, the Coast league could be stretched clear to Puerto Rico without saving the life of minor-league baseball.—The Oregonian.

IT'S A PATTERN
To many people, the best and easiest solution to any public problem is to get some special law, or "benefit" from the government. The pattern normally is to set up a cry for help and then an organized group to knock on the door of congress, the legislature, board of supervisors or city council demanding some law or regulation to help the problem.—West Point, Miss., Times Leader.

POT SHOTS

LOOK AHEAD
Dear Pot Shots:
Christmas was no more than over and some of the people in our neighborhood started taking down their Christmas trees. They argued they'd had the trees up for two weeks or more before Christmas and they were tired of them.

I've always maintained a tree should be up through New Year's. Wouldn't it be better to wait a while before decorating a tree and then keep it until after New Year's day?

QUICK RESULTS!
Some Twin Falls residents dropped in unexpectedly on friends the other night and the result was a little quick housecleaning.

The male visitor, considerably taller than his hostess, looked at the top of her newfangled range. The hostess had a fit, promptly exclaimed, "Stop looking at the top of my range! I know it's dirty!"

Whereupon the visitor calmly signed his initials on the top of the range!

The very next day, the hostess handed a note to her visitor of the night before telling him, "I'll bet I now have the CLEANEST stove in Magic Valley!"

TERRIBLE SEASON!
Dear Sir:
Christmas was New Year's holiday time may be wonderful to some folks, but it's one continuous nightmare for some of us.

Candy, that's the reason. Not to mention all that rich, delicious food. Everytime you turn around, someone is urging you to sample some candy or fruitcake or some delicious-looking, calorie-loaded dish.

It just isn't fair to those of us who have a weight problem and can't (or won't!) do anything about it.

So by the time the holiday season is over and all the candy and fruitcake have vanished, you certainly don't have to look twice to spot someone like me. I don't stand out like a sore thumb, I stand out like a brick building!

GETTING PERSONAL?
Dear Patsy:
I think someone must be referring to me and I saw a getting personal in an ad the other day to "hostess huns." The very idea!

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (NEA)—One word from L.B.J. — and congress does as it pleases. Which proves once again that the cowboy who can tame that critter hasn't yet been born.

A lot has been written and spoken about how the new President is a great operator on Capitol Hill. This is based on his record as senate majority leader during the Eisenhower administration.

The late Sam Rayburn was speaker of the house in those eight years, and the two Texans made a good team.

During the Kennedy administration, however, while Vice President Lyndon Johnson was senate presiding officer, the record of legislative accomplishment was not so good.

This can't all be blamed on the vice president. He sat in on White House conferences with congressional leaders. But he wasn't directly responsible for running the law-making machinery. And he was out of town or out of the country much of the time on business for the President.

In the 87th congress, first two years of the Kennedy administration, White House aides maintained that congress enacted three-fourths of the President's requests. Independent checks were never able to put the count above half, even though there were some notable accomplishments.

This year senate majority leader Mike Mansfield claims that congress passed more than 60 per cent of President Kennedy's 137 message recommendations and requests.

Senators Joe Clark, D. Pa., and Clifford Case, R. N. J., — pushing congressional reform because of its do-nothing record — say that over a quarter of Kennedy's more than 400 requests never received any consideration.

And the number of presidential recommendations approved — 80 by the Mansfield count — won't total 50 per cent.

This poor showing is attributed to the President's opposition in both parties. His opponents did not like either his foreign or domestic policies and they made him their personal whipping boy over Cuba, South Viet Nam, civil rights.

When Johnson became president, the assumption was that this would change because the new man was an old hand with congress and knew how to get what he wanted.

His first priorities were civil rights and the tax bill — the same as Kennedy's. Neither one is being passed this year.

The President approved a discharge petition to get the civil rights bill out of the rules committee. It failed for lack of both Democratic and Republican support, in spite of the fact that GOP House leader Charlie Halleck was invited to the White House for breakfast.

Washington News

Republicans having bolted their own party leadership.

One more effort was made that day to approve a slightly different compromise proposal. This effort foundered also on the shoals of weak Democratic leadership. The leaders' problem was that they could not persuade their troops to remain on the battlefield nor to return to it.

To get the second compromise to the house floor for a vote, the leadership needed favorable action by the House rules committee. Only six rules committee members showed up, two short of a quorum. There are 10 Democratic members of rules, two more than a bare quorum, but only six showed.

It is a fact that there were a couple of Republican rules committee members in Washington who could have appeared, thus providing a quorum for business. But the responsibility for the functioning of the committee or the house itself lies squarely with the majority party by reason of its numbers.

If the Republicans in house and committee were on a steady strike, they at least were in Washington. The absenteeism that wrecked the adjourn plan earlier was Democratic absenteeism.

It is being remarked around the Press Club and elsewhere among the politically astute that the idea of assigning an anonymous White House spokesman (as was done) to denounce the Republicans and to call Clifford Halleck a so-and-so was a very strange idea, indeed.

Democratic administrations have been for years leaking the word that Charley was a so-and-so, for that matter, news at all. The real news from congress was Democratic absenteeism.

BARRY GOLDWATER

As the result of a rather slick bit of parliamentary legerdemain, your children and mine now may be forced to answer questions concerning the most intimate family relationships and other subjects that American could now be made to answer, even in court.

Even worse, the enormous taxes you already pay to support government bureaucracy will go, in part, to Barry Goldwater finance this indirect inquisition into your most personal affairs.

All this came about recently during the long and drawn out battle over extension and expansion of the national defense education act (NDEA) of 1958. As finally approved, the measure calls for the expenditure of approximately 1.8 billion dollars through fiscal 1967.

Actually, the cost will be much greater, because the amount called for would cover only vocational education through that period. Other phases of the program are covered only until June 30, 1965.

The legislation concerns federal assistance for individuals, school construction, impacted areas and other related matters. Among these, in practice at least, is student "testing," a word which conceals a shockingly large variety of evils.

Under this heading, students have been made to tell their inquisitors whether they have had sexual relations, have ever broken into warehouses, have stolen money, have fought physically with their parents. They also have been asked which of their parents is fairer in meeting out punishment and whether they wish their parents had as much money and education as do the parents of their classmates.

Obviously, the replies to many of these questions could be self-incriminating, and any student would be well within his rights in refusing to answer them. But school kids whose parents cannot afford to send them to private schools are not likely to get in court fights to prove the point.

I long have opposed federal financing of such personal probing and in 1961 unsuccessfully introduced an amendment which would have outlawed expenditure of U.S. funds for these purposes.

In consideration of the NDEA measure this year, an amendment similar to that I had introduced two years ago was approved unanimously by the committee on labor and public welfare, and then passed the senate.

The amendment provided that no federal funds "shall provide for the conduct of any test, or for the asking of any question designed to elicit information dealing with the personality, environment, home life, parental or family relationships, economic status or sociological or psychological problems of the student tested."

Having already passed the house, the bill was sent to conference for the purpose of compromising differences between the two bodies. One of the few areas in which there was no disagreement whatsoever between conferees was the amendment prohibiting expenditure of federal funds on "psychological testing."

It therefore came as something of a surprise when members of the senate later learned that the member who headed the group of senate conferees had, for no apparent reason, voluntarily withdrawn the amendment. As a result, it now is dead, and "psychological testing" may continue — with federal financing — until such time as the restriction again may be written into the law.

In rationalizing his action, the chairman of the senate conferees said, in effect, that the amendment really did not mean anything because the states themselves could finance such testing out of their own funds if they chose.

The trouble is that they can't do it with money they would have to spend on truly educational subjects — except for the largest out taxers provide.

How do you stand, sir?

Poor Man's Plato
By HAL BOYLE
NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 28 (AP)—According to an old proverb, the grass is always greener on the other side of the fence. Every year people move to another state because they believe such a move will improve their lives.

More often than not they are disappointed. There is no part of the country that is ideal the year around. If there were I doubt that there would be room enough to house all the migrants.

Temperature is not the only factor in making the victim of the diseases mentioned uncomfortable. He must also consider altitude, relative humidity and air pollution.

The new President has made desperate last-minute efforts to get new farm legislation to prevent a farm income drop next year. He has moved in to reorganize the faltering Alliance for Progress in Latin America. He is here, there and everywhere, promoting a 75-million job economy, protecting consumer interests, trying to abolish poverty.

He has tackled everything except oil, which — being a slippery substance in his home state of Texas and elsewhere — he has turned over to Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall.

He still has his first miracle to pass in congress.

Oswald Jacoby, Bridge

South's five no-trump Blackwood call.

Johnny was looking at a lot of cards in defense against a no-trump, but it never occurred to him to double. He did not want to show the location of those picture cards.

When he saw dummy, Johnny was really glad that he hadn't doubled. Obviously, South held all the missing aces and kings and if he could bring those ace and king tricks he would have his slam.

It also looked as if South would bring those six diamond tricks home unless Johnny could create an illusion for him.

That is just what Johnny did. South finessed dummy's queen of diamonds at trick two and Johnny dropped the jack.

South returned to his hand with a club, led a diamond, played dummy's ten and was about to claim a grand slam when Johnny produced the king. Instead of making all the trick South wound up going down four.

Gains Are Reported in Grain Futures

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Most nearby soybean contracts took fractional losses while other grain futures scored moderate gains this week on the Chicago board of trade.

Compared to last Friday, wheat was up 1 1/2 to 2 cents a bushel, corn up 1/4 to 3/8, oats up 1/4 to 3/8, rye up 1/4 to 3/8, and soybeans off 1/4 to 1/2.

Wheat futures gained 2 cents on anticipation of senate passage of a provision permitting the export-import bank to finance commodity sales to Soviet countries and promise of new wheat legislation. News on Friday that licenses had been issued on 40.8 million dollars of wheat for sale to Russia brought buying, although selling appeared when the trade learned no actual sales had been made.

Demand for what was also based on belief that wheat supplies will grow slim this season, on a close gap between supply and demand in soft red wheat and on reports that farmers tended to stay within acreage allotments in planting the winter crop. Flour mills and exporters were large takers.

Soybeans declined sharply early in the week on a disappointing November crush, limited demand for meal and oil and bearish weekly export figures. Longs took profits. Short covering toward the week's end in anticipation of tight supplies and the export license news pushed old crop prices to within fractions of last week's close and firmed distant contracts.

Increased livestock feeding and smaller receipts as a result of cold weather over the corn belt brought buying to the feed grain. Prices ended firm.

Oats firmed with corn and rye gained more than a cent with the bread grain.

Trading this week was slightly by a day due to the Christmas holiday.

JEROME, Dec. 28—The Cache Valley Breeding association held its annual delegate and technical dinner meeting in the Magic Valley cafe here Thursday night, with R. M. Hawks, Paul, director, and Leon Machen, Caldwell, field supervisor, in charge.

Those present were reminded to consider representatives to be candidates at the board of directors' election at the annual association meeting in March.

Fifteen persons attending came from Richfield, Oakley, Burley, Rupert, Buhl, Gooding and Wendell.

Oscar H. Steene Honored at Rites

Funeral services for Oscar H. Steene were held Friday at White mortuary chapel by the Rev. John N. Garbrandt.

Soloist was Jack Hyder and Mrs. Frank Fonda was organist. Pallbearers were Walter Slaughter, George Crowder, William Orange, Carl Kobel, Harold Hov and Harold Menger.

Final rites were held at Twin Falls cemetery under the direction of the Kayler lodge No. 94, AP and AM.

Business Activity Regains Momentum After Brief Lag

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Business is closing out 1963 on a high plane.

It weathered early 1963 predictions that the economy might slow down in the second half of the year.

The commerce department reported during the week that business activity has regained its momentum after a brief lag in November and seems likely to produce a sizeable gain in the final three months of the year.

Here is evidence of the economy's robust health:

The gross national product total of all goods and services is at an annual rate of 592 billion dollars against 554.9 billion dollars for 1962.

The federal reserve board's index of industrial production stands at 126.9, compared with 118.3 last year.

Automobile sales, including imports, are estimated at 7.7 million this year, up from 7 million in 1962.

Business spending on new plant and equipment is calculated at 30.1 billion dollars, a gain of five per cent over last year.

Steel production of 109 million tons is the highest since 112.5 million tons were turned out in 1957.

Personal income hit a record 472.8 billion dollars, up from 442.1 billion dollars last year.

Housing starts reached a record 1.5 million units.

Consumer spending increased

Cutter Races To Be Held At Richfield

RICHFIELD, Dec. 28—Three cutter racing teams from Minidoka county which won in last Sunday's opening at Albion, will make another try at Richfield Sunday.

Last Sunday, because of insufficient snow on the ground at Albion, chariots had to be used. Magic Valley Cutter Racing association officials reported that actual cutter racing is now scheduled with plenty of snow on the ground.

The activities will get underway at 1:30 p.m.

Local teams which were unbeaten last Sunday were owned by Shelby Hodges, Rupert, Ron Nielsen, Paul, and Budge Mickelson, Minidoka.

Hodges won over the team driven by Tom Mackley, Rupert; Nielsen over Don Vandenberg, Burley, and Mickelson defeated Von Cunningham.

This Sunday Nielsen, who finished fourth in the association last year, will race former Paul resident Gary Crystal, who finished third last year. Mickelson, last year's runner up, will com-

New Telephone Setup Reported

BURLEY, Dec. 28—Residents in Burley, Oakley and Declo may make telephone calls to any of the three communities without paying a long distance charge effective Sunday, reported W. Dean Gibson, manager.

They may dial the number listed in their local directories to reach any of the three exchanges.

Over $50,000 has been spent by the Mountain States Telephone company to make the service available to its customers in this area. Because of the close relationship between the three communities the number of telephone calls will probably increase with the new service, stated Gibson.

At present there are 5,800 telephones under the Burley exchange, 335 at the Oakley exchange and 356 at Declo.

pete against Cotton Riley and Hodges will be up against Lee Jolley.

James Foulton will take on Howard Haslam, Hap Gates will race Kenneth Daniels, and Jack Funk and Max Burton will race.

News Around Idaho

GEORGE W. GRAFF, a navy ensign, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Graff, has been graduated from the Naval Officer Candidate school, Newport, R. I. The 16-week course is designed to prepare the candidates to take their places as junior officers in the fleet.

DONIS G. MEINERS, a second lieutenant in the U.S. air force from Burley, has been assigned to fly jet tanker aircraft following graduation from flying training at Reese air force base, Tex., where he received his silver wings. He is the son of Carl Meiners, 407 east Main street, Burley.

KELLOGG, Dec. 28 (P)—The department of law enforcement reports it has seized several punch boards in a Kellogg tavern and filed anti-gambling law violation charges against Floyd Vazey, Warner Mills, department commissioner, said Vazey was employed at the Inland Cigar store where the punchboards were seized. He said Vazey appeared in justice court but was released on $200 bond pending further hearings.

CALDWELL, Dec. 28 (P)—A Nampa naturopath charged with practicing medicine without a license is scheduled to appear in Canyon county justice court for preliminary hearing Jan. 23. R. A. Kellogg is charged with using medical instruments and saline to treat Claude R. Worley, Boise. If convicted, Kellogg faces a maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each of six counts. Worley also is suing Kellogg for $50,250 in a civil action.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—The question of whether Idaho will pay an oil company $100,46 for bills run up by a Canadian on a stolen state credit card was left unanswered yesterday when Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard failed to take action on the claim. Shepard said he had not decided whether to sign the claim, which Gov. Robert E. Smylie has approved and Secretary of State Arnold Williams refused to sign. The attorney general was busy most of the day, meeting with the newly-appointed Idaho racing committee. Williams refused to sign on the ground State Patrolman Ronald Bruce was negligent in leaving the credit card overnight with a service station attendant near Clark Fork in north Idaho. Bruce said when he went back the next morning he was told a Canadian had taken the card. The Canadian later was jailed in Ontario on another charge, but not until he ran up the $100.46 in bills. Governor Smylie said he felt it was a legitimate obligation of the state.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—The Idaho board of examiners will skip its year-end meeting scheduled for Monday because of plans of Gov. Robert E. Smylie to be out of town. The governor planned to go with his family to the Smylie cabin in Long valley, near Cascade. State Auditor Joe R. Williams, board secretary, said the examiners are required to meet at least once a month but that all pending business had been handled by circulating it to the three members.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—Idaho Public Assistance Commissioner Bill Child has taken under advisement objections voiced to proposed regulations governing licensing of child care agencies in Idaho. The regulations, which were drawn up by the department of public assistance, were filed yesterday at a public hearing in Boise. Child said few protests were registered but those that were were "well taken" and probably would result in some changes in the regulations. Child said the 20 child care agency representatives attending discussed thoroughly a regulation which would prevent exploitation or unfair punishment of children in the care of persons other than their parents.

PRIEST RIVER, Dec. 28 (P)—A Calgary, B. C., pilot escaped injury yesterday when he made an emergency landing at the Priest River air strip. Federal aviation agency officials said William Gaede was en route from Pendleton to Calgary when he encountered difficulties and made the unscheduled landing. The plane's propeller was damaged in the landing and officials said it would be Monday before it could be repaired.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—Statistics released today by the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho show that the percentage of the state's general fund allocated to education is up from 52.8 per cent to 64.4 per cent in eight years. The state spent 26.1 million dollars in education in the 1955 and 1956 fiscal period compared to 57 million dollars appropriated for the current two-year period, which began last July.

POCATELLO, Dec. 28 (P)—New construction here this month hit a record low, marking the least productive December since 1949, and the lowest monthly permit valuation since November, 1961. Only nine building permits, listing a total valuation of $49,015, were issued according to City Building Inspector V. G. Harriman. This compares with 19 permits, valued at $110,250, in December of last year.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—The state highway department today listed 39 Idaho construction projects as currently under way. They total 178 miles with a total cost of 322 million. Included are 14 interstate projects covering 63 miles at a cost of 19 million dollars, 20 state highway projects of 79 miles and 94 million dollars, and five bureau of public roads projects, 36 miles, with a total cost of 3.7 million dollars.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—The state aeronautics department announced today plans for a series of award banquets in February and March to honor pilots with records of safe flying. Director Chet Moulton said pilots who have one, five, 10 or more years without either a reportable accident or violation will receive awards. He said pilots who feel accidents or violations charged to them weren't their direct responsibility can appeal to a special review board, scheduled to meet next Jan. 6.

POCATELLO, Dec. 28 (P)—J. Clifford Forsgren, Franklin county state senator, and Mrs. Naomi Gilbert, his sister, both Preston, were injured near here today when his car skidded and struck a parked pickup truck. Forsgren, 70, incurred a broken arm and broken rib, and Mrs. Gilbert, 62, had a broken arm and broken kneecap. They were taken by ambulance to St. Anthony hospital from the scene of the accident four miles west of Pocatello. Also injured was Grady Joe Johnson, 27, Chubbuck. He was acting as a flagman for the Hood Construction company, which is laying a pipeline across highway 30 at that point. Johnson was standing near the pickup truck, which Forsgren's car struck from the rear as it skidded on the icy road. Johnson was taken by a fellow worker to Bannock Memorial hospital for observation.

IDAHO FALLS, Dec. 28 (P)—Flood threat possibilities will come under close scrutiny in a meeting scheduled here Jan. 16. Russell Holm, chairman of the east Idaho flood control district No. 1, announced today. Holm said Col. James Bedlow, commanding officer of the Walla Walla office of the U.S. army corps of engineers and reclamation officials and those representing various state and local agencies. Holm said the meeting was to discuss what flooding prospects are and what precautionary steps, if any, should be taken.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—The Idaho tax commission ended its last meeting of 1963 today, concerned primarily with an appeal by the Society of Jesus from a decision of Bonner county to tax a Catholic retreat on Priest Lake. Executive Secretary Harold Johnson said the decision would not be announced until early next week, when a formal order is issued. The society maintains that the Linger Longer lodge, purchased two or three years ago, is used only for purposes connected with worship and is therefore exempt from property tax under Idaho law. But the Bonner county assessor said a tax should be levied and he was upheld by county commissioners. Also decided by the board were a number of appeals from assessments around the state.

BOISE, Dec. 28 (P)—A. Edward Prince, 66, active in Idaho Masonic activities, died last night at a Boise hospital. Prince was a past master of the grand lodge of Idaho and past sovereign, St. Michael conclave No. 21 of Red Cross of Constantin. He was a past potentate of El Korah temple, past master, Idaho lodge No. 1, AF and AM, and held every office in the York rite bodies. Prince was a native of Middleton and attended the University of Idaho and George Washington university.

WAIKAKE, Dec. 28 (P)—Representatives of the Sunshine Mining company and the striking Steelworkers of America met here today with a pair of federal mediators. Reports of progress, if any, were not revealed in the session aimed at ending a strike at the nation's largest silver producer that started Nov. 4. Federal Mediator J. L. Ashe, Spokane, said, "We met with the two parties today and quite possibly more talks will be held—probably next week."

IDAHO FALLS, Dec. 28 (P)—Directors of the Idaho Potato Growers, Inc., centered at Idaho Falls, have registered their opposition to the proposed potato diversion program in the state and asked the Idaho potato and onion commission to poll growers on their diversion attitude. Orval Hansen, Idaho Falls, attorney for the large potato growing cooperative, asked the commission to conduct the poll in a letter he drafted on behalf of the cooperative today. Hansen also represented Idaho potato grower groups at hearings last year on the proposed national potato acreage and marketing controls. In the letter, the directors expressed the view that most potato growers in Idaho are likewise opposed to the potato diversion program in which the government issues payments for diversion of lesser grade potatoes diverted to starch and livestock feed.

BUN VALLEY, Dec. 28 (P)—Sigl Engrl, head of the Sun Valley ski school, will be a guest of honor at the 25th Huenemann ski race at Kitzbuhel, Austria, Jan. 19 and 20. Engrl, a native of Kitzbuhel, was the first winner of the famous European race when it became a combined slalom and downhill competition in 1935. Two other native sons who will be honored are Christian Pravidn, an instructor at Sun Valley, and Andrij Molterer, Aspen, Colo. Pravidn has won the Hahnenkamm three times, Molterer four.

WILKINS PREDICTS RACIAL TROUBLE
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (P)—A Negro leader said today the nation probably faces more and bigger demonstrations for civil rights because congress "contributed nothing to meeting the urgent problem."

OLIVE BRANCH
HOME, Dec. 28 (P)—Patients in HOME city hospitals have given Pope Paul VI a gold olive branch to carry with him on his flight to the Holy Land next Saturday.

Italy Party Disciplines Red Senators

ROME, Dec. 28 (AP)—Italy's slowly splitting Socialist party today ordered disciplinary action against 13 pro-communist senators who broke party ranks in a confidence vote on the new center-left government of Premier Aldo Moro. The decision of the party directorate was a further step toward a schism that is expected to become final in a national meeting of the pro-communist wing Jan. 11-12. The pro-communists, led by Tullio Vecchiotti, were expected to set up a party of their own, opposed to the government and possibly more extreme than Italy's powerful but cautious communists. The directorate voted to refer the 13 senators to the party's disciplinary board, which last week inflicted a one-year suspension from party activities on 23 socialist deputies because of a similar rebellion. Pietro Nenni, who left nominal leadership of the party to become vice premier under Moro, is delivering a major speech tomorrow in an attempt to keep most of the rank and file united behind him and limit the size of the split.

Death Claims A. H. McKee

GOODING, Dec. 28—Alexander Holmes McKee, 81, died Friday in Gooding county hospital of a short illness. Mr. McKee was born May 24, 1882, in Dayton, Wash., and married Carrie L. Cordell on July 12, 1905, in Waterville, Wash. He attended school in Corvallis, Wash., and homesteaded in Saint Andrew, Wash., until 1909, at which time he moved to Richfield. Mr. McKee farmed near Richfield until his retirement in 1959, when he moved to Gooding. Mr. and Mrs. McKee celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary this year. Mr. McKee was a member of the Gooding Methodist church and served on the Richfield school board. Survivors include his widow, Gooding; one son, Clyde McKee, Downey, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Lee (Vera) Monroe, Jerome, and Mrs. Virgil (LaVita) Coffman, Walnut Grove, Miss.; one sister, Mrs. Grover Cardell, Santa Cruz, Calif.; nine grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by a daughter, Veria Irene McKee. Funeral services are pending at Thompson chapel, Gooding.

Death Takes Filer Woman

FILER, Dec. 28—Mrs. Antonia Thurman, 45, died early Saturday morning at her home, 700 Idaho street, Filer, of a long illness. She was born July 10, 1918, at Boise. She was married to Judge Kern Thurman Dec. 23, 1937, in Wendell. They moved to Buhl in 1944 and then to Filer in 1947. She was a member of the Filer Catholic Women's club and a member of St. Edward's Catholic church. Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Stephen A. Thurman, Camp McConnell, Kans., and Douglas Kern Thurman, Filer; her mother, Mrs. Frank Jayo, Oreana; three daughters, Frances Ann Thurman, Twin Falls; Judith Camille Thurman, Boise, and Mary Teresa Thurman, Filer; five brothers, Frank Jayo and Fred Jayo, both Oreana; Richard Jayo, Murphy, and Ted Jayo and Gene Jayo, both Marsing; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Aquilo, Grand View; Mrs. Irene Parker, Boise, and Jo Jayo, Oreana, and her grandmother, Mrs. A. L. Le-tendend, Boise. Funeral services are pending at Berg's Twin Falls mortuary. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday in Berg's Twin Falls mortuary chapel. Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Edward's Catholic church. Concluding rites will be held at Sunset Memorial park. Friends may call at the mortuary from 6 p.m. until 7 p.m. Monday.

Aide Poses Human Slag Heap Threat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said today that national job trends threaten to place millions of American workers on a "human slag heap" even in prosperous times. He warned in a year-end statement that a rapidly increasing labor force and the impact of automation is splitting workers into "have" and "have-not" categories. Workers with skills in demand enjoyed record-high earnings in 1963, he said, even as unemployment remained at recession levels. "This division of people threatens to create a human slag heap," Wirtz said. "We cannot tolerate the development of a separate nation of the poor, the unskilled, the jobless, living within another nation of the well-off, the trained and the employed." He urged increased efforts to attain full employment—"nothing less"—through strengthening of the national economy. "Prosperity must mean, for 1964, extending now the general economic well being to those it has so far not reached," he said. "This will be measured most clearly in the reduction of unemployment rates, especially among the younger workers, members of minority groups and those in the remaining distressed areas." He termed 1963 a year of "unprecedented prosperity by many measures" and cited the total of 69 million jobs and average factory worker pay of more than $100 a week. But he cautioned that jobless rates among the growing ranks of teen-agers and young workers is double the national average. He added that output per man-hour has been increasing faster than the post-war rates for three years.

Decree Brings Cuts of 730 Million Fast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (P)—An unpublished decree by President Johnson, demanding a "voluntary" trimming of agency budget requests, produced more than 730 million dollars worth of cuts in 48 hours, government sources said today. The cost-cutting drive apparently has become Johnson's uppermost concern, administration aides reported, and has become the biggest headache of his cabinet officers. But even though the President pounded on the cabinet table at a recent session, to underscore his demand for savings, officials indicated there is little hope of a fiscal 1965 budget below 101 billion dollars. That would be about two billion dollars greater than the spending estimate for fiscal 1964, ending next June 30. But the budget message still is full of blanks and question marks, officials said, and only these facts seem fairly solid: —It will go to congress Jan. 21, remaining open for revision until almost the last moment. —It will show reduced outlays for some of the heaviest spending agencies, including the defense department, agriculture department, atomic energy commission, postoffice and veterans administration. —It will propose increases for some others, including the labor department, the department of welfare, the peace corps and the housing agencies. —It will wind up in red ink again, although the deficit is expected to be smaller—by several hundred million dollars—than the estimated fiscal 1964 deficit of 9.2 billion dollars. Inter-American Aide Quits Post WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (P)—Arturo Morales Carrion, U.S. deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, is quitting his job, informed sources said today. He is expected to be appointed to a high position within the Organization of American States on matters related to the Alliance for Progress, a U.S. aid program to raise Latin-American living standards. Morales Carrion was one of the two men President John F. Kennedy brought from Puerto Rico to help his administration handle its relations with Latin America.

Wilkins Predicts Racial Trouble

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (P)—A Negro leader said today the nation probably faces more and bigger demonstrations for civil rights because congress "contributed nothing to meeting the urgent problem." Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, made the prediction in a year-end report on the desegregation struggle in 1963.

TELEVISION SCHEDULES

MONDAY NIGHT, DEC. 30
"Wagon Train," (7:30 NBC)—A wagonmaster is charged with deserting his wagon and the passengers to die of thirst. Jack Kelly and Barbara Ball are featured tonight.
"Andy Griffith," (7:30 ABC)—Ople and his chums take their roles as Robin Hood and his merry men seriously when they befriend a hobo. The youngsters run into the hobo in his makeshift camp while forging in their "forest." The crafty hobo plays on the sympathy of the boys, at the expense of the pantries of Mayberry.
"Hollywood and the Stars," (8:30 p.m. NBC)—Film clips of a historical record according to date on Bing Crosby. It tells of years from 1926 to now. Joseph Cotten narrates.
"The Dick Powell Theater," (9 p.m. CBS)—"Up Jumped the Devil," starring Hugh O'Brien, and Otto Kruger. A dynamic young executive sets up a "dummy" company to provide him with the money necessary to satisfy his gambling fever.
BEST MONDAY NIGHT MOVIES
"The Power and the Prize," (1956) Robert Taylor, Lisabeth Mueller, Burl Ives, Charles Coburn, Mary Astor and Sir Cedric Hardwicke (8:30 p.m. KUTV and KIPF)—Interesting drama involving the world of big business. An executive in London falls in love while he is in the process of closing a shady deal.
"Beyond Mombasa," (British, 1956) Cornel Wilde, Donna Reed and Leo Genn (10:35 p.m. KCPC)—Adventure film set in Africa with all the cliches—dangerous safaris, murderous tribes, uranium mines, etc. Not too well done, though.

Yule Light Winners Announced

BUHL, Dec. 28—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Souza won the grand prize in the annual Buhl Jaycee Christmas lighting contest, it was announced today by Delmar Skaret, co-chairman of the project.

As grand winners the Souzas will receive a $10 cash prize in addition to a merchandise prize. Their holiday display included a lighted hand-painted scene of Mary and the Christ child giving the illusion of a stained glass window, a silver Christmas tree with pink lights, enhanced with a color wheel, an array of colorful light decorations and Santa Claus emphasized with a red light glow.

Merchandise prizes to be awarded for the best holiday decorated homes in the city will go to Mrs. Matilda Leahy, first place; the Rev. and Mrs. Maynard Hilgendorf, second; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Joslin, third; Mr. and Mrs. Geng Toed, fourth, and Mr. and Mrs. Gono Hopkins, fifth.

Winners for the best lighted holiday display in the rural division were Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Kern, first; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dais, second, and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hamilton, third.

The Magic Valley Motors, with holiday decorations based on the theme, "Wishing you an old-fashioned merry Christmas," won the traveling plaque for the fourth consecutive year for the best decorated business establishment. Last year the Magic Valley Motors received a permanent trophy for winning the traveling plaque three years in succession.

Skaret noted all winners will be notified and their prizes will be delivered to them. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Don Willer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schoover, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Winn, Sesta Motel, Wilson-Bates Appliance store and Dana Implement company.

Skaret expressed appreciation to all merchants who contributed prizes for the event. He reported the Buhl Jaycees and Jay-C-Eltes distributed ten baskets of food, toys and clothing to needy families in the community during the Christmas holiday. In addition the Jay-C-Eltes, acting as a clearing house for welfare baskets for various churches, clubs and organizations, were the distributing agency for welfare baskets for 30 families in the community.

Skaret also announced the annual Jaycee and Jay-C-Elte New Year's eve dance will be held Tuesday at the American Legion hall. Guests may be invited.

Solon, 81, Keeps Perfect Record Intact

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—On Monday a small, white-haired man of 81 years will complete another congressional session with a perfect attendance record. For Barratt O'Hara, D., Ill., it has become a habit.

Over the past 11 years there have been 2,127 roll calls in the house. The Chicagoan has been present each time except one. And few could find fault with his reason for missing that one.

In the last few working days of the current session, when the house was meeting at pre-dawn hours in a frantic rush to finish its business before Christmas, O'Hara was on hand always. Many of his younger colleagues weren't able to rouse themselves from bed and answer the several roll calls.

Through the years O'Hara has had his share of head colds and days when he just didn't feel right. He himself finds it hard to pin down exactly why he has maintained his phenomenal record. He didn't intend to start one back on Jan. 5, 1953. It just sort of grew.

"I felt pretty good when it passed 2,000 roll calls," he said in a recent interview in which he stressed that he was not criticizing his less zealous colleagues. "I'm terribly grateful that good health and good fortune have made it possible."

In fact, O'Hara thinks it's unreasonable to expect anyone to maintain a 100 per cent record. He thinks, however, that a congressman owes it to the voters to be present at least 90 per cent of the time.

"Constituents at home respect the clock in their jobs," he noted. "We in congress should be equally attentive."

O'Hara is a member of the house foreign affairs committee and chairman of its African affairs subcommittee. He is deeply devoted to the field and is held in warm regard by the newly emerging countries of Africa. But he refuses to let any of his subcommittee business stand in the way of representation of his constituents on the house floor.

Storm Disrupts Japanese Trains

TOKYO, Dec. 28 (AP)—A heavy snow storm disrupted train and bus service in west coast areas of Japan today.

Twenty-one passenger trains and 87 freight trains were canceled in northern Honshu and others ran up to five and one-half hours behind schedule. A two-day snow fall in some places totaled 30 inches.

Smylie Urges Bond-Financed State Water Development

BOISE, Dec. 28 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie has sent a letter to all members of the legislature urging bi-partisan consideration of a proposal for bond-financed state development of Idaho water.

He declares that he favors establishment of a new constitutional state agency which "could plan, construct, finance and operate both irrigation and power producing projects."

The letter, outlining Smylie's views on water development in detail, was written to Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D. Gooding, in response to questions about the proposal. Smylie distributed copies to all lawmakers.

The governor has already said he will call a special 1964 session to consider a water plan, if a proposal as drafted by a special committee not yet appointed wins approval of the lawmakers.

He wrote Ravenscroft that Idahoans, because of a Los Angeles proposal to divert Snake river water, "are deeply and genuinely interested and concerned. For that reason 1964 would seem a proper year in which to invite them to make their decision."

Constitutional amendments to create a water agency and to permit revenue bond financing of projects would have to go on the general election ballot.

Smylie said he would consider a special session if bi-partisan support can be created "and favorable legislative action seems assured."

"If this can be done," he wrote, "two valuable years will have been saved and we can be on the way to using the water before we lose it to the water-hungry southwest."

"I find myself in full agreement with you that the southwest interests are deadly serious in their proposals for use of Idaho water in California. Wisdom requires us to take steps now to save this asset for Idaho's future growth."

Smylie said a state agency should be able to develop water projects on which congress is slow to act and for which private development isn't possible.

He told Ravenscroft he agrees planning should take advantage of private development.

"Some . . . can and should be undertaken privately," he said, "and the governmental role should be solely one of encouragement and assistance. Some can more profitably be undertaken by a state agency and still others would fall in the category of things which existing agencies of the federal government can do best."

"I have thought for some time that we needed an aggressive effort in this field at the state level, because it is demonstrable that authorization and appropriation of projects for reclamation and irrigation are less favorably viewed in the congress than they were 20 years ago."

White House Aide Bags First Deer

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (AP)—White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, not particularly noted as an outdoorsman, bagged his first deer yesterday.

The deer-kill was Salinger's second back-to-nature feat of the day. Earlier, he surprised those who know him well by mounting a horse named "Paint" on the Lone Star ranch and riding for several minutes near the ranch house.

The President and Mrs. Johnson took Salinger hunting just before dusk yesterday at the neighboring ranch of A.W. Mour-sund.

The President got one shot at a deer, but missed. The shot, said Salinger, "was a very difficult one."

Salinger himself hit his deer twice from about 150 yards. He did not know whether it was a buck or a doe. Either is legal to kill in season in Texas.

Hill Country Town Will Host Erhard

STONEWALL, Tex., Dec. 28 (AP)—The hill country town of Stonewall is proud of its one-story schoolhouse and adjoining gymnasium—where West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard will be entertained tomorrow.

President Lyndon Johnson, Erhard's host, once attended the school as a boy, before moving to Johnson City, 16 miles east.

In 1960, the town had a population of 135 but the surrounding community totaled about 550. Principal Harvey Eckert has six teachers at the school and 110 students attend classes through the eighth grade.

Originally, the town was known as Millville after a cotton and sawmill on the banks of the Pedernales river.

The name Stonewall came from an old stagecoach stop and post office run by I. M. Nunez, a Georgian who served under Gen. Stonewall Jackson in the Civil war.

The stagecoach stop was closed and Stonewall postoffice moved to the present townsite before the turn of the century. The settlement itself dates from about 1860.

No Bang

ROME, Dec. 28 (AP)—Fireworks are very big in Italy for New Year's although they are illegal.

To take the bang out of many an Italian celebration, police have seized 37,000 fireworks torpedoes in raids around the country, 15,000 from one clandestine factory near Naples.

Rusk Views 1964 With "Optimism"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today he is entering the new year with "a modest optimism" that 1964 will feature a sober, peaceful search for solution of still-dangerous East-West disputes.

"Looking broadly at the world situation," Rusk predicted "1964 will be a period of probing the possibilities of peace."

"My impression is that there is a certain soberness in the attitude of the principal governments of the world; that there is a recognition that crisis such as the missile crisis in Cuba in October, 1962, must be avoided if possible."

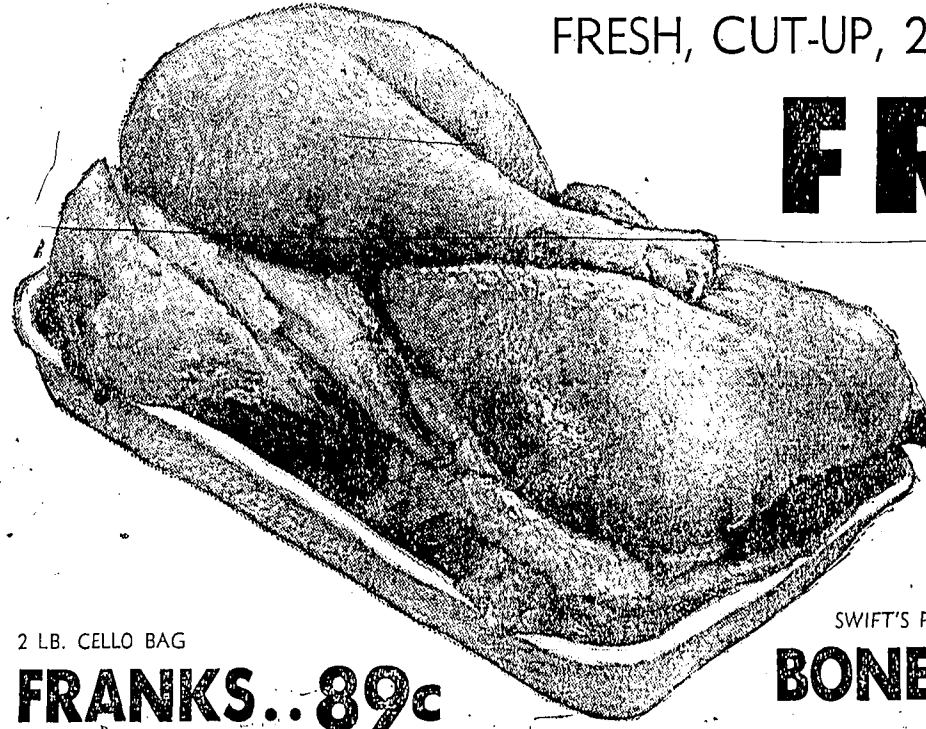

"I think there is a general feeling on the part of the peoples of the world that somehow a way to peace must be found, and this is reflecting itself in the care with which governments are exploring these possibilities."

"So I enter 1964 with restrained optimism, with a modest optimism. I am not pessimistic. I believe there are opportunities in the situation . . ."

"There is much unfinished business. But I think that we shall go about that unfinished business . . . to try to find solutions that will help build one more year of peace behind us in this world situation."

Rusk, who spoke in a recorded interview with Japanese broadcaster Kazushige Hiragawa, listed Berlin, Germany, Cuba and South Viet Nam as large, dangerous and "still explosive points" that must be dealt with.

And the great underlying issue remaining the contest between those who support the kind of world envisaged in the U.N. charter and the communists who seek to impose their system globally through revolution, he said.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, DEC. 29—Born today, you have the absolute courage of your convictions and the indomitable will to speak and act as you think right. This makes you a person greatly to be feared in certain doubtful circles, but one greatly to be admired in others. A born leader, you will inevitably be looked to for guidance in those less certain, less strong, less capable than you.

From the natural head of the family group you may well progress to the leadership of a club, a state, or a nation. Your rise is not destined to be an easy one, should you choose to enlarge your influence beyond your own community—for you will make enemies with your power as easily as you will make friends. It is the friends, however, who with their loyal support should enable you to win in the end.

Your greatest stumbling block to success will be the same thing that is your greatest asset—your insistence on the worth of your own convictions. You might be wise to develop a certain degree of tact before you begin your journey to success; you could save yourself a great deal of time and a great deal of trouble by listening to the advice of those who are wiser than you.

Among those born on this date are: William E. Gladstone, British statesman under Queen Victoria; Andrew Johnson, 17th president; Billy Mitchell, military aircraft pioneer.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, Dec. 30

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20)—An important day. Don't overlook the chance that others may be helpful if you give them the opportunity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Social or professional activities are stimulated today. Make the most of an unexpected—but hoped-for opportunity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—A fine, productive day for all your efforts. See that you accomplish at least the first step in a new enterprise.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—Be very sure that all personal relationships are resting firmly on a basis of trust if you would have today's venture a success!

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—An excellent day for all your affairs. Even problematical financial dealings begin to be seen in a new, fair light.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—An opportunity for profit may well come today. Seek the advice of one who knows before jumping in head first.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Social commitments may tend to add confusion to the day. Avoid risky business advancement for special popularity.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—If of truth as easily as you will make friends. It is the friends, however, who with their loyal support should enable you to win in the end.

Laws Good, but Should Be Enforced, Woman Asserts

Editor, Times-News: Why do you have the new ruling of the county commissioners? It is something that should have been done by other commissioners. People come here from out of state and get county help, winter after winter, and pay no taxes.

Just like people who own no property, pay no school tax and still their children get just as much benefit from schools. So why not a three or four-cent sales tax to help the school funds?

Will this end up like every spring, this being published that people are responsible for cleaning up snow lots and removing old cars off the streets. We have had a law for years and it has not been enforced. Now we have the leash law, will it be enforced?

There are some good laws and laws in Twin Falls and here is another that should be put in and enforced.

City police serving notice on people for leaving little children in cars unattended and enforce it. Owners can be traced by car license after a ticket has been put on the car, the same as for overparking.

We have got some good people in office, but please put some bite in your ruling.

Mrs. J. A. ASH

Parents Offer Reward for Dog After It Bites Child

WENDELL, Dec. 28—Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bunn, Wendell, are offering a reward for the return of their dog, dead or alive, in order to test it for rabies.

The dog, which bit their son, Matthew, 8, on the hand Tuesday morning in a part Labrador, 6 months old, all black except for a white spot on its face and a white tip on its long tail. A phone call stands about 18 inches high.

The dog bit Matthew when he attempted to get the animal out of the family car, which was parked in front of the Bunn residence at 439 East avenue A, Wendell. The bite broke the skin of the boy's hand but did not appear to be serious, and the youngster, under a doctor's care, has shown no ill effects.

Mrs. Ray O. Peterson, mother of Mrs. Bunn, observed the incident through the window of her residence, which is on the main floor of the same building in which the Bunn family occupies a basement apartment. But, before Mrs. Peterson could get outside, the dog had disappeared and has not been seen since.

Mrs. Peterson said the dog appeared to be loaming at the mouth and extremely ill. It wore a collar or identification.

Anyone having information concerning the dog is asked to get in touch with Deputy Sheriff Bill Bunn, the boy's uncle, who lives at Wendell, or with Wendell Police Chief William Austin.

Contact also may be made with the Petersons or the Dale Bunn. The Bunn do not have a phone, but Mrs. Bunn may be reached on weekdays at the office of Dr. M. E. Scheel, Wendell. Length of letters will be limited to 300 words. Longer letters will be returned to the writer.

Trimming of Budget Major Achievement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The major achievement of Congress this year was trimming the budget for a tax cut in 1964.

The Johnson administration budget for the next year contains the economies promised by our new President, the Idaho Republican said, "this historic act for a tax cut in 1964."

Jordan said Republican leaders in both the house and senate have promised to continue the GOP task force effort to work for appropriation economies that "will make any tax cut a meaningful thing after the budget has any tax savings by increasing justification."

The Idahoan said that Republican last February had set a goal a reduction in federal spending that could lead to a reasonable tax cut and that, despite executive branch rhetoric, this occurred.

"I am pleased at the success in budget reduction in the first session and I shall continue to work with those, both in congress and the administration, who are seeking to hold the line on government spending excesses during the second session in congress, in good faith, to enact a tax reduction in 1964," Jordan said.

Victims of Crash Still in Hospital

GOODING, Dec. 28—Mrs. William Bentley was described as being in fair condition and her husband in good condition at Gooding County Memorial Hospital tonight after head-on auto collision in which they were involved Friday morning four miles west of here on highway 20-25.

Their 1962 Volkswagen collided head-on with a 1956 Oldsmobile driven by Warren Scott, 33, Bliss, according to Deputy Sheriff Dan Muir. Scott was not hurt.

Because of fog, Bentley was unable to see the oncoming car, said the deputy. Mrs. Bentley's spine, skull and jaw were fractured, and she sustained lacerations. Her husband sustained lacerations and possible internal injuries.

The two are students at Brigham Young University, Provo. Both cars were demolished.

Modeling Can Be Dangerous, But Profitable

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Modeling traditionally ranks as one of the more peripatetic professions around. The girls may have hat boxes and will travel, often to several jobs in the course of a single day.

But two highly successful television models, June Ferguson and Toni Wallace, are the grand exceptions. They haven't moved from one assignment to another in six years although the one has had its hazardous moments.

Mrs. Ferguson has had a wrist slashed, all in line of duty, although later the attending physician asked her in all seriousness, "Have you been feeling dependent?"

A refrigerator, improperly balanced on a display turntable, plopped over when Mrs. Wallace opened the door and narrowly missed her. Another time, a wall unit on the television stage set fell on her. She once got a detergent burn from dipping into a bubble bath—she wore a bathing suit. And ticks originally occupying a sheep which appeared on their show took nest in her hair, until discovered several hours later.

Mrs. Ferguson remembered a set-to with a St. Bernard, who was supposed to act favorably for benefit of camera to a piece of meat she was holding. "He nearly took my arm off," she said. "His name was 'Brand.' I'll never forget it."

Once Mrs. Wallace, driving a big golf cart slowly on stage caught a sling pump heel in the controls and plowed the machine into a turntable.

Her husband made her give up practice at home on a unicycle she was supposed to ride before camera. "After a month," she said, "he decided the thing was too dangerous for me. The show hired a professional."

Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Ferguson go through all these experiences as part of their job on "The Price is Right," which NBC started in 1956. They joined the show, now on ABC, a few months after its inception.

Their primary job is to model clothes and display prizes. Modeling alone involves from 10 to 20 changes of costumes in a given week. The show gives credit to the designer of manufacturer whose clothes are used.

It was a fur coat gimmick which resulted in Mrs. Ferguson's wrist gash.

She was supposed to catch the coat as it was "flown" into camera range on a string, cut the string and put on the coat. She cut the string, and her wrist. She finally got off stage—and fainted.

Both have tangled with easy-to-open convertible couches which just wouldn't open on camera.

"But we don't mind the little things that go wrong," said Mrs. Wallace. "They agreed such incidents live the show."

For their modeling and copying they are paid $465 each, each week—the scale set by the American Federation of Radio and Television Artists (AFTRA) for such work.

MISS TWIN FALLS parent contestants and judges were given a chance to relax at a tea given by Mrs. C. E. (Eddy) Bossard and Mrs. R. M. Serpa at the Serpa home, 580 Alturas drive north, from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday. Contestants pictured are Carolyn Denton, left, Flier; Susan Stuart, center, Twin Falls, and Mary Pat Mahan, Jerome. The tea was given to acquaint the judges with the contestants. Punch and coffee were poured by Mrs. Thomas McVey and Mrs. Bossard. A color scheme of pink and white was used for the table decorations. Does Marriage Affect Teachers, Writer Asks

BY PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (UPI)—Teaching no longer rates as a spinster's profession. Sixty-eight per cent of today's teachers either are married or have been married.

But what effect has the institution of marriage on the institution of education? Earl H. Hanson, president of Rock Island, Ill., schools answers the question in a report in the current journal of the National Education Association (NEA).

He asked 17 administrators—Bossons of 450 teachers—such questions as: do women teach better after marriage? What effect does marriage have on the energy and time devoted to planning, reading, professional preparation? Does parenthood enhance or detract from a teacher's performance?

Eleven of the principals said women teach the same after marriage. Two, men in both cases, reported a woman teaches less well after she acquires a mate.

It seems that marriage affects male teachers more. Eight principals think men teach better after marriage. Seven could see no difference.

One-half of the respondents said that teachers with children teach better because they understand more about children. But the other half could see no difference.

One-third of the principals said married women with children give less time to preparation of work; the other two-thirds said children in the woman teacher's family make no difference in planning for classroom work.

The belief about married male teachers with children is different. One-third of the principals said married men with children give more time to professional work.

"Perhaps having a family increases the determination of the father to be a better performer, or maybe there's more peace in the classroom than in the nursery," Hanson said.

Most of the principals said parenthood gives both men and women teachers a big break in working with parents of their students.

"The teachers and the parents of their pupils feel they are fellow passengers in the same boat, and this helps them get along with each other," Hanson said.

He noted also that it's amazing the effect educators' husbands or wives can have upon a classroom, a school or a school system, even though they may never go near a classroom.

"A happy marriage," he said, "has been known to change a woman from an uninspired, de-

Clothes Are Sitzmark of Today's Skier

BY HAROLD SHEEHAN
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (NEA)—"Going skiing this week-end," the gay blade in the office was heard to declare.

"Didn't know you could ski," "I don't; but what's that got to do with it?"

Such is the approach of many addicts to America's favorite outdoor winter sport. An informal survey at Stowe, Vt., turned up, no less than 18 fakers, sitting around fireplaces with phoney plaster casts on their legs.

Proper and up-to-date ski wear has become as much a part of the downhill mystique as safety bindings and skis themselves.

After all, except for a few fanatics, nobody these days goes skiing just to ski.

Projecting your image on the slopes or in the lodge becomes a thing of essence this year, thanks to a wide selection of good-looking men's wear. Most of the offerings will keep you warm if you are so foolhardy as to venture on the tow.

Bulky sweaters remain a hardy perennial around the cheery fire and on the crystal Parkas, likewise, are coming back to the trails in a variety of colors. One popular offering is made up of a finely woven fabric, called Reevair, which has been used in raincoats for the last couple of years. Good against the elements while, it also breathes.

manding martinet into an outgoing, stimulating teacher. Similarly, a wife who is intelligent and personable, interested in her husband and his profession, may even make a good principal or superintendent out of a mediocre one.

It works in reverse, too. Hanson said a husband may make a teacher so miserable that home worries follow her to school. Or a greedy, unscrupulous wife can be an albatross around the neck of her educator husband.

He told of a superintendent's wife—"Large, broad-shouldered, deep-chested matriarchal sort of woman."

"She really should have been the superintendent," he said. "Because she wasn't, she only fouled up her husband's work."

She always answered the phone at home, gave the answers to school questions and sometimes forgot to report to her husband what she had said.

The husband eventually switched to selling books.

MR. AND MRS. WILFORD C. MORGAN will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Jan. 1 at their home, one mile east and three-fourths of a mile north of Declo. (Meiner's photo)

Golden Wedding Anniversary Open House Set

DECLO, Dec. 28—Mr. and Mrs. Wilford C. KING HILL, Dec. 28—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Timbers, Eileen Timbers and Margaret Timbers, Milwaukee, Wis., left Wednesday for Oakland, Calif., to attend the wedding of their daughter, Frances Timbers, to Virgil Nichols, Jr., at the St. Rose's Catholic church, Sacramento.

Altar Society Reports Meet

WENDELL, Dec. 28—The Rev. Pascal Merola gave the invocation at the St. Anthony Altar society meeting held at the home of Mrs. Charles Miller, president.

Mrs. Miller read the prayer of St. Francis and a Christmas poem. A tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy, taken from the Idaho Register, was read.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Edward Novacek will be the hostess for the January meeting.

Boot Trend Is Fashionable

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (NEA)—Are you resisting the boot trend because your ankles are too pretty to hide?

Footwear designer Golo has the answer. Rising from a handsome pair of alligator pumps, is a tall and transparent boot, which displays nicely a lady's ankle and gracefully curved calf.

For rainy weather he has also styled the spats shoe, in calf and shin heights. The boot spat gives the illusion of being an ordinary, heeled shoe worn with old-fashioned white spats.

Fur Coat Adds Couture Look To Wardrobe

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (NEA)—A fur coat can add a couture look to a career girl's wardrobe. This year, the price of that touch of glamor is within reason.

In past seasons, furs were luxury items that young people could seldom afford. Now the new sport furs, many of which can be bought for the price of a good cloth coat, have opened a new world of fashion to working girls and coeds alike.

Curly white Norwegian lamb, snow lynx, mink sides, kit fox and the spotted South American cats that look like leopard all can be worn with flair and swagger by the young set.

Over her smart, little wool dresses, a natural kit fox coat can take the career girl through day and evening. In shimmering shades of rust and honey, this fur has just the right touch of sophistication, and its price will outfox a limited budget.

For the cottage girl, furs such as curly lamb, white or brightly dyed, will gambol with ease over the campus from football game to fraternity dance. And dad won't balk at its cost.

Furriers are finding that they have an almost untapped market among working girls and students because of the new sporty furs. These fashions are fun to wear and budget blessings.

They come in a variety of styles from belted trench coats to swinging A-lines. On many the fur is worked horizontally rather than vertically for a new fashion approach.

And before we overlook comfort while stressing price and style—the coats are cozily warm, too, to keep you snug this winter.

Holiday Party Held for Youths

Women of the Moose and Loyal Order of Moose and their families held their annual children's Christmas party at the Moose home. A pollock supper and program highlighted the evening events.

Nancy Carlson played a piano solo; Janelle Morton was soloist, accompanied by Miss Carlson. Terry Killinger recited a poem; Kenneth Scherupp told jokes, and Marsha Isham and Louisa Isham sang a duet. Santa Claus presented treats to the children.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN C. LATTIMER

Betty Davis, Lattimer Say Wedding Vows

HANSEN, Dec. 28 — Betty Elaine Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Davis, Hansen, became the bride of John C. Lattimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lattimer, Eden, Dec. 28 in the Kimberly Christian church.

The Rev. Martin Torrence officiated at the double ring ceremony performed before the altar decorated with two baskets of white chrysanthemums, red carnations and tall candelabra with lighted white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Chantilly lace and tulle gown. The fitted lace bodice was accented with a V-neckline trimmed with bridescent sequins and long lily point sleeves. A lace panel at the front was enhanced with side-lace penguins ending at the center-back.

Her shoulder-length illusion net veil was held with a crystal tiara. Her jewelry was a single seed pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a cascading red rose bouquet tied with white satin ribbon on a white ribbon.

Carole Davis, Twin Falls, was maid of honor. Kathleen Davis, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore identically-styled street-length dresses of red brocade taffeta. The bodice was enhanced by short sleeves and a V-neckline. Each carried a cascading white carnation bouquet tied with red velvet ribbon.

June Davis, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in a red velvet dress with a full gathered skirt and three-quarter length sleeves trimmed with white lace. She carried a white basket of flower petals.

Joy Walker, organist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Christy Crockett and Diane Grey, who sang as a duet.

The bride's mother chose an emerald green brocade taffeta dress with dark brown and beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a cranberry red brocade taffeta dress with black accessories. Each wore a corsage of feathered white chrysanthemums.

James Roberts, Burley, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Gary Van Burn, Twin Falls, and Gale Roberts, Burley, cousins of the bridegroom, were ushers and candlelighters.

Judy Martin, Eden, registered the guests. Karen Hill and Janet Larson arranged the gift tables. Lana Roberts and Janet Roberts, Burley, cousins of the bridegroom, were giftbearers.

A three-tiered white wedding cake was centered in the bride's table covered with an organza flounce. The cake was decorated with tiny red bells and larger white red-trimmed bells. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The cake was flanked by sprays of holly. Crystal candleholders with lighted candles completed the table appointments. The cake was made, and decorated by Ralph Marsh, Rupert, uncle of the bride.

Mrs. George Lattimer, Eden, grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Elmer Annis, Twin Falls, grandmother of the bride, poured punch. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Howard Annis, Filer; Mrs. Ralph Marsh, Rupert; and Marjory Annis, Twin Falls, all aunts of the bride. Women of the CWP assisted in the kitchen.

For traveling, the bride changed to a white cotton brocade dress accented with red accessories and the corsage or red roses.

Lattimer is serving in the armed forces, stationed at Long Beach but will soon be transferred to Hawaii where the new Mrs. Lattimer plans to join him. The bride is attending Twin Falls Business college.

A dinner for the wedding party was held in the Caboose room of the Depot Grill.

Guests attended from Burley, Rupert, Filer, Paul, Eden, Twin Falls, Kimberly and Hansen.

Supermarket Strategy Is Quaint Scene

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP) — It actually happened in a supermarket during a Saturday afternoon traffic jam of cars and cart pushers. Two women, apparently sisters, counted the items in the one grocery cart they were pushing as they moved forward in an express checkout lane plainly marked for "five items or less."

They counted eight items, consulted, and then one of the pair snatched forth to get a second cart—empty. Swiftly, three items were transferred to the second

Beauty Travel Tips Listed for Winter, Summer

By ALICIA HART
NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (NEA) — The family hearth is spending more time without a blaze these days as the number of winter vacations increases.

An estimated 17 million annually scoot off to other climes from December to March.

Split vacations—summer and winter—also are on the upswing. According to the American Society of Travel Agents, the sun states-lead in popularity with Florida and California out front.

While fun-in-the-sun enthusiasts head for palm trees and sandy beaches, some 2 1/2 million skiers head hopefully for snow-covered slopes.

Although these vacation spots may seem poles apart, there are some beauty travel tips that fit both snowbunnies and the bikini set.

Sunglasses go whether it's Aspen, Antigua or along the fast-developing Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast. The sun glinting off the sea is just as blinding as snow glare. It is suggested that you carry an extra pair if you wear prescription lenses.

Also take along eyedrops in a handy squeeze bottle to wash out foreign particles and soothe the eyes.

A good, moisturizing sunburn lotion and lip balm are true companions for the swim-and-snoorkelling vacationers and the winter sports enthusiasts.

With all your activity, fatigue is going to hit at times. After a long day in the biting cold or hot sun, Aspirin is the answer here. Also, tuck in a vial of bath oil. Taking these items with you helps save money since resort prices are always slightly higher than at home.

Another pre-travel tip: give your hair a body permanent and you will spend less time with pin curls and rollers after a day of play.

Furniture Talk

occupies, for most of us, a third of our lives . . . which means that of all the furnishings in our homes, the one we use most is the mattress on our bed, along with its companion box spring.

That makes the selection of a good mattress and box spring one of your most important purchases for the home, not just because of hours of daily use, but because it contributes so much toward your feeling of health and vitality coming from restful sleep.

A sleep set is just about the only purchase you make in home furnishings where you need to be concerned only with service. Appearance has little, if anything to do with it. You want a quality ticking because it will last longer, but the pretty pattern isn't any reason for buying.

Mattress comfort, and the choice of a good-imperspring or foam rubber mattress, is largely an individual matter. Many experts recommend mattresses more toward the firm side than the overly soft, but a light person might prefer the softer mattress. Your best bet is to stop in at our bedding department. You'll find a full selection of sizes and types in quality name brand sleep sets. Test them for comfort, and remember: a good mattress and box spring are one of the best investments you can make.

City Doesn't Approve Use Of Minstrels

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 (AP) — Black faced minstrels will strut and prance to the tune of "Dem Golden Slippers" as usual on New Year's day in the traditional mummies parade here, but not with city approval.

The use of black grease paint and burnt cork on the faces of the marchers was permitted when Magistrate Elias Myers, parade director, bowed to protests and lifted a ban against their use.

City Recreation Commissioner Robert W. Crawford immediately pronounced the city's disapproval of blackface and asked parade judges not to award $65,500 in city-donated prizes to entries considered "offensive" to racial groups.

Cecil B. Moore, local president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said his group would "boycott the parade, the television coverage of it and the sponsors. We consider this an insult to all Negroes."

Myers and Crawford had announced last week that black-face makeup was insulting to a "certain segment of the city population" and that anyone wearing it would be pulled out of the line of march and arrested if he tried to return.

A group of mummies picketed Myers' home, complaining that the black faced minstrels were part of the mummies to "behave themselves and don't poke fun at anybody." He said marchers in black face won't be "arrested but if anyone gets out of line, I'll act."

Mrs. Ford Is At Sun Valley Indefinitely

SUN VALLEY, Dec. 28 (AP) — Mrs. Henry Ford II of Detroit has rented a five-bedroom cottage at Sun Valley for what officials say is "an indefinite time."

Reports published in Detroit said Mrs. Ford planned "to establish the six weeks of Idaho residence necessary to qualify for divorce action."

She is the wife of the chairman of the Ford Motor company. The Fords separated Aug. 3 after 23 years of marriage. They have three children.

Mrs. Ford arrived in Sun Valley Thursday with a daughter, Charlotte, 22, and son Edsel, 14. Daughter Anne, 19, is in New York. Ford could not be reached for comment.

Ford has been linked romantically with Italian-born Mrs. Maria Cristina Vettore Austin, divorced wife of a British navy officer.

Mrs. Austin is reported in Europe, but plans to return to the United States soon to join Ford for a Caribbean cruise and then go hunting with him in Spain.

Ford is the eldest grandson of the late Henry Ford. He became a convert to Roman Catholicism to wed the former Ann McDonnell, of a prominent Long Island family, in 1940.

President Shakes Hand, Kisses Friend

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (AP) — President Johnson took advantage of a seven-minute delay in the arrival of West Germany's chancellor today to shake hands with hundreds of people and kiss the cheek of an old friend.

Johnson signed a little boy's autograph book, and patted children on the head while aides urged him to hurry because Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's plane was landing.

Security measures were relaxed slightly at Bergstrom air force base, near Austin, to allow 2,000 people to witness the full military honors and reception for Erhard upon his arrival.

As the minutes ticked away, Johnson upset his aides by strolling to the crowd to greet some of the spectators.

Meantime, the jet-carrying the German dignitaries landed with the President still chatting and shaking hands.

Dozens of secret service agents and air force police hovered around the President, keeping watchful eyes on the crowd.

Johnson strolled leisurely along, patting boys and girls on the head and shaking the hands of adults.

At one point, Johnson spotted an old friend, Mrs. Will Odom, wife of an Austin lawyer, and leaned through two rows of the crowd to kiss her on the cheek.

"That's my first kiss from a president," Mrs. Odom said. She and the President chatted for half a minute before Johnson moved on.

Bob Patterson, 9, Lake Charles, La., asked Johnson for his autograph. The President walked on a few feet, then turned and put his signature on a piece of paper held out by the boy.

The crowd, although not huge, was the largest in which Johnson mingled freely since becoming President.

Presidential security measures have been rigid since he took the oath of office Nov. 22 just after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

What Is a "Preference Customer" For Electric Power?

Back in the early years of this century, when federal reclamation projects were first constructed, hydroelectric power was sometimes developed as a by-product and used to operate project pumps. Legislation set up a "preference" in the sale of surplus power for public purposes such as street lighting and water pumping.

Over the years — with the assistance of those who advocate government ownership of the power business — preference given to public uses was distorted from the original intent, and became preference favoring selected groups of users.

First, preference in the sale of federal power was given to consumers served by quasi-public bodies such as REA co-operatives and public utility districts.

Secondly — and this was the frosting on the cake — preference customers became the recipients of large benefits derived from tax avoidance and other subsidy at the expense of taxpayers. Preference to minority groups became a device to aid and abet the growth of government power. It also became a vehicle for eliminating investor-owned, taxpaying electric companies and setting up a government monopoly at has been done by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Bonneville Power Administration is playing the preference game in southern Idaho. And they're doing it at your expense!

Goldwater Not Surprised With Decline

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 28 (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R. Ariz., said today he was not at all surprised by an Associated Press poll which showed a sharp decline in his presidential stock.

In an interview, Goldwater said: "Our own poll conducted recently backs up the AP analysis."

The senator said he wasn't disturbed by the revision of Republican opinion as cited in the poll because "all will realize soon it's the same old ball game, only with a different pitcher. Actually, this was to be expected."

"This doesn't trouble me in the least," Goldwater added, "because I thought I was riding too high anyway. I honestly would like to see a real good horse race for the Republican presidential nomination."

The AP poll, taken over a two-week period ending Dec. 26, showed Goldwater slipping and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon on the rise.

Although still in front, Goldwater's vote from 1,361 party leaders in 50 states was only about half the total he rolled up in an October poll prior to the death of President Kennedy.

Daughter of President Knows Oats

JOHNSON CITY, Dec. 28 (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson, 19-year-old college sophomore daughter of the President, knows her oats. Also, cattle, sheep and deer.

As an escort for a busload of newsmen and women on a tour of the LBJ ranch yesterday the vivacious Texas university co-ed was a witty and informative guide.

"I'm really an amateur at this," she said. And then she reeled off details about the irrigation operations for the winter oats on the ranch.

A woman reporter, obviously from the city, exclaimed, "There are some deer."

"Not hardly," said Lynda. "They're African sheep."

"We also raise a lot of registered Herefords. We also have some prize cattle. Last year we showed both the grand champion bull and cow in Johnson City, Fredericksburg and Burnet."

Riding past a stock tank (pond), Lynda recalled how her father once stocked it with choice fish for the visit of a dignitary, and how her sister, Lucy Baines, got there first.

"My sister slipped out early the next morning and caught all the fish, using bacon rinds as bait," she said.

Local Woman Is Booked on Fraud

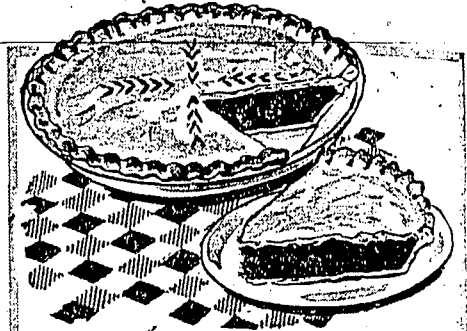

The federal government brought suit in U.S. district court at Boise Friday to recover $5,830.70 which it charged Mrs. Velma Donnelly, 461 Third avenue east, Twin Falls, fraudulently obtained from the department of health, education and welfare between 1954 and 1961.

Mrs. Donnelly was indicted for fraud in March and was convicted May 2 after pleading guilty. She was sentenced to one year in jail, but the sentence was suspended and she was placed on probation.

She had allegedly been receiving widow's security benefits but remarried and did not notify the security office.

Johnson Asks More Cutback For Military

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — President Johnson, apparently confident he has public support for cutting unneeded military bases, wants the defense department to look for even more installations to eliminate.

Johnson announced yesterday he had asked Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to appoint a board for more intensive study of the need for 6,700 bases that now exist.

He added that reaction to the department's announcement two weeks ago that it was closing or curtailing 33 military bases was running 5-to-1 in favor of the cutbacks.

Thomas D. Morris, assistant defense secretary for installations and logistics, was appointed by Johnson to study ways of trimming military installations. He has been working in the field under orders from McNamara since 1961.

A special committee also was set up to study the efficiency of 11 naval shipyards. It is known that the defense department plans to close four of the shipyards, but it is expected that the Pentagon will take its time deciding which ones.

The announcement on the closing may not come for another 12 months which would be after the presidential elections.

Since the Morris studies began more than 400 military facilities have been closed or curtailed. But there still are about as many as there were in the first place — 6,700.

The reason that the figures do not show a net reduction is that there have been new missile, radar and other facilities opened. Also, as McNamara has explained, it is difficult to define just what comprises defense facilities and to keep a precise count.

For example, a small radar station with a handful of men may be counted as a facility and given the same weight in statistical computations as a huge army post.

Morris has various lists of facilities under study for closing or reduction. The total numbers have never been revealed but could range into the hundreds.

Exclusive of savings from shipyard closings, McNamara has estimated that reduction or shutting down of other military facilities eventually could save about 600-million dollars a year.

Estimate Varies On Ranch Acres

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Dec. 28 (AP) — What is the size of the LBJ ranch?

It's 348 acres and a few leased parcels of land, according to ranch foreman Dale Malechek.

It's 438 acres, according to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, the first lady.

"Something more like 400 acres," according to daughter Lynda.

More than 400, plus the leased parcels, according to the owner, President Johnson.

The President disclosed yesterday he had leased a few small pieces of land since taking office to insure more privacy and protection for his home.

He said flatly there were 400 acres plus the leased land.

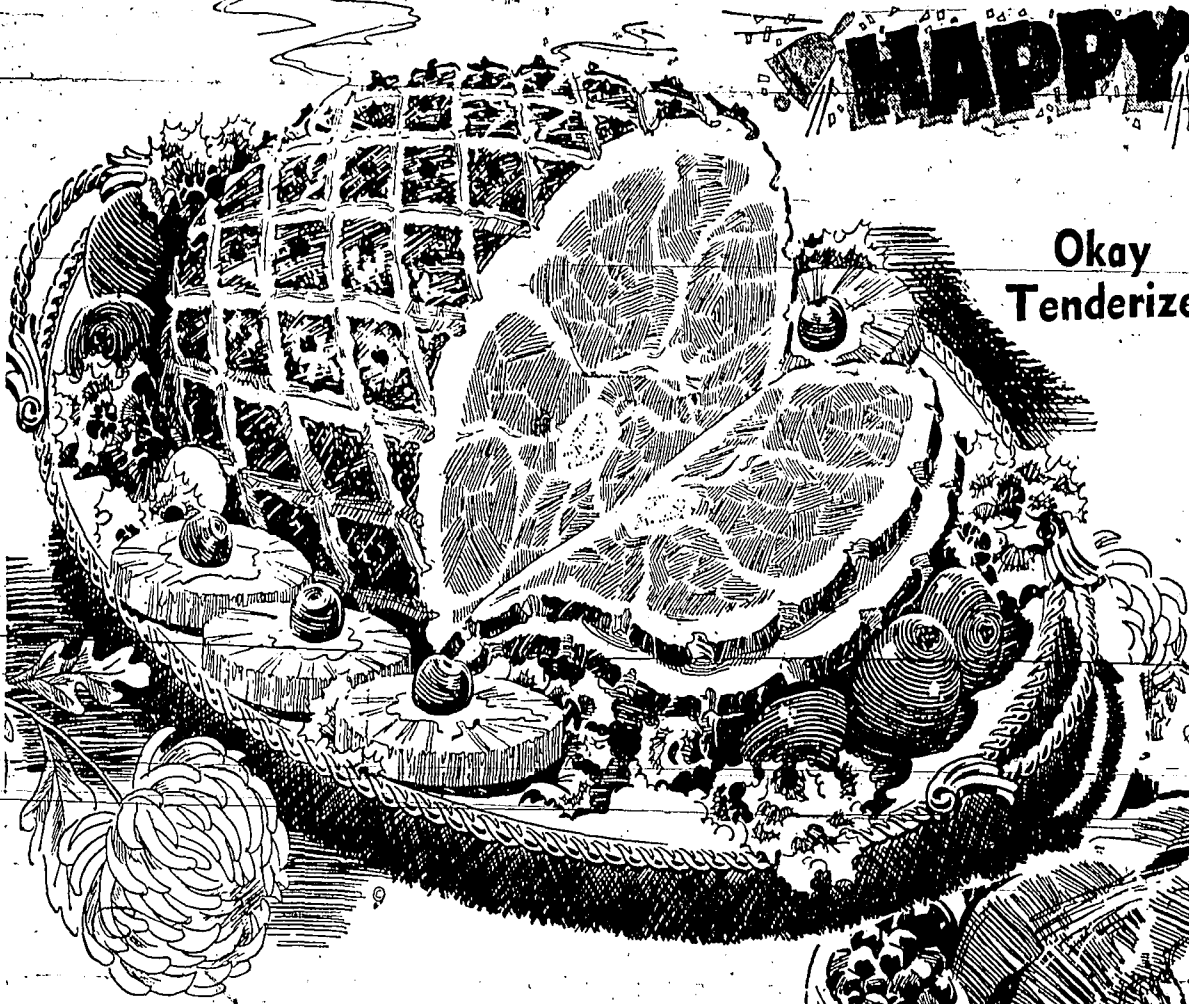

Red Premier Has Talks on Trade

RABAT, Morocco, Dec. 28 (AP) — Premier Chou En-Lai of Red China held formal talks with King Hassan II today and informed sources said the Peking leader tried to drum up more trade with Morocco.

The sources said Chou put in a bid for more finished products and more trucks.

Moroccan-Chinese trade now runs to the equivalent of about 32 million dollars a year.

UCLA Staves Off Late Bid by Illinois to Cop L. A. Classic

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28 (AP)—Fourth-ranked UCLA halted a fierce Illinois rally in the last three minutes to score an 83-79 victory tonight for first place in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic. Third-ranked Michigan won third place in the tourney by defeating Pittsburgh 95-80. New York university, 10th ranked nationally, whipped Southern California 70-69 for fifth, and West Virginia defeated Yale 69-66 to finish seventh. In the last three minutes, Illinois wiped out a big UCLA lead by scoring 10 straight points to move within one point, 79-78. But the Bruins went into a stall and managed to run out the clock to keep their perfect record intact.

The Bruins now have won nine in a row, including an 18-point victory over Michigan in this tourney Friday.

UCLA was behind for most of the first half. A long jump shot by Walt Hazzard tied the score 28-28 and the Bruins went on to build a 48-37 halftime lead.

Illinois' game was crippled when Skip Thoren poked up three early fouls and later went out with five personals with almost seven minutes to play.

Thoren was high point man in the game with 24 and led both teams in rebounding.

UCLA's offense was led by Gall Goodrich with 21. Jack Hirsch scored 18 and Walt Hazzard had 17.

In the last 20 seconds, Hazzard pulled UCLA out of danger with his two free-throws to give

BYU, Oregon State Gain Far West Finals

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 28 (AP)—Fast-breaking Brigham Young overwhelmed Oregon 80-70 tonight and moved into the finals of the Far West Classic basketball tournament against Oregon State. Oregon State, which has won this tournament seven straight years, defeated Colorado State university in Saturday night's first game 53-51. The finals will be played Monday night. Oregon will play Colorado State for third place in the first game of Monday night's doubleheader.

It took Brigham Young 23 minutes to get its fast break going against Oregon. Then, in the next three minutes, the Utah team broke the game wide open, scoring 14 points in that stretch while Oregon was collecting 3.

Oregon forced Brigham Young to play in deliberate style the first half, with Brigham Young managing a 30-24 advantage. But in the second half, Brigham Young poured in 50 points and at one time was ahead by 23. Against reserves Oregon closed the gap in the final minutes.

Six-foot, 8 inch John Fairchild led Brigham Young with 21 points, 13 of them in the last half.

Seattle university came from behind and nosed out Washington State 81-79 with a fancy display of ball stealing in consolation play.

Louisiana State, after trailing in the early minutes, moved in front 45-41 at halftime and gradually lengthened the margin in the second half.

Warriors Edge Bullets; Fight Flares in Game

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28 (AP)—Walt Chamberlain's one-hander won one second remaining gave the San Francisco Warriors a 106-104 National Basketball association victory over the Baltimore Bullets tonight.

Chamberlain's 12-foot shot ruined a last-ditch rally by the Bullets, who overcame a six-point deficit in the last two minutes after a wild melee involving players, officials and fans.

The ruckus started after Guy Rogers of the Warriors fouled Kevin Loughery near mid-court with San Francisco ahead 102-96. Both players started to fight and they were soon joined by Al Attles of the Warriors.

Referee Norm Drucker grabbed Attles around the legs and in the wild scramble Attles, Drucker and referee Tom Birch fell to the floor.

Jerome Romps to 41-20 Win as Twin Falls Hits Four Times From Field

JEROME, Dec. 28—The Jerome Tigers ripped the Twin Falls Bruins 41-20 tonight in a remarkably poor ball game. Twin Falls, playing without its two leading scorers and veterans, was inept in its floor game but mostly in shooting. The Bruins managed only four field goals the whole night and none in the third quarter. After a while, this rubbed off on the Tigers, who after showing fair early foot, managed to batter through seven minutes of the third quarter with only one free throw. Both Steve Beer and Art Vandenberg are out with torn ankle ligaments.

The Millard twins, Steve and Stan, proved the difference in the game as they connected for nine field goals between them. Steve hit three baskets after a slow start to send Jerome to what proved a prohibitive six-point lead. Then Stan added another.

Steve Humphreys finally broke the Bruin scoring ice from the field with eight seconds left in the period.

The second quarter was a replay of the first. Alan Brown finally getting another Bruin goal with 1:56 left in the half. Melnyk, Stan Millard had added two goals and Rob Williams and Steve Millard got one each.

Then it was time for both teams to go cold. Twin Falls actually cut into Jerome's lead in the third quarter when five Bruin free throws connected as Jerome was going scoreless. Then Melnyk hit a long shot to get the Jerome offense untracked and Stan Millard came back with a free throw and field goal. That turned it into a 29-12 third-quarter score.

Twin Falls still didn't score until Bill Johnson hit one with 4:51 remaining in the game. That gave the Bruins 13 minutes and 11 seconds without a field goal.

Twin Falls won the preliminary 44-34.

DAVIS CUP VICTOR Chuck McKinley, left, is hoisted on teammates' shoulders and congratulated by Robert Kellcher, U.S. team captain, after McKinley beat Australia's John Newcombe to give the Americans the Davis cup in the challenge round at Adelaide, Australia, Saturday. McKinley, St. Louis, beat Newcombe 10-12, 6-2, 6-2 and earned the U.S. a 3-2 victory. (AP wirephoto)

Mushers Win Notus Meet; Bliss Third

NOTUS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Camas County shot only 22 per cent from the floor tonight, but it was still hotter than host Notus, and the Fairfield team came away with the Notus invitational basketball title 59-48.

In the consolation game, Bliss ripped Greenleaf, 60-50, to make it a clean sweep for the Magic Valley crews against the Treasure Valley hosts.

Notus, led by Ron Hansen's 15 points, hit only 20 per cent. Camas handled the ball better in crucial stages and topped the Pirates under the boards.

Bruce Ankeny led the scoring in the consolation game with 21 points but four Bliss cagers came through with ten or more.

Utags Belt Ohio State By 79-66

LOGAN, Dec. 28 (AP)—A five-minute period in which Ohio State failed to score plus a 40-point effort by Wayne Estes gave Utah State a 79-66 victory over Ohio State university in an inter-sectional game tonight.

The score was tied for the 17th time at 58-58. But in the next five minutes, 20 seconds, Ohio State couldn't hit and Utah State pulled to a 71-58 lead.

Estes hit 14 field goals and 12 of 14 from the free throw line and was high point man of the game with 40.

The Buckeyes' Gary Bradts scored 27 points.

A capacity crowd of 6,268 watched Utah State win its seventh straight game at home this season.

The score was tied 32-all at intermission. But Utah State seemed to solve the Buckeyes defense in the second period.

Both teams were cold from the field for most of the game, although both showed short spurts of accurate shooting.

The loss was Ohio State's fourth, against five victories. Utah State is now 7-2.

70 Athletes to Compete in Event

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Polovauter, C. K. Yang and Miller Tom O'Hara are stars in a field of some 70 athletes competing in the 30th annual Sugar bowl track meet Sunday.

The weatherman expects temperatures in the high 60's for the eight-event outdoor games.

A highlight of the cluster show is the interest in a possible future year-end deep south track circuit between the Sugar and the Orange bowl in Miami, Fla.

Two top Louisiana athletes—John Pennel, world record holder in the pole vault, and sprinter Dave Byron—are entered in the Orange bowl meet.

U.S. Ends Aussies' 5-Year Tennis Reign

ADELAIDE, Australia, Dec. 28 (AP)—There is nothing in the world like a champagne rinse for your hair—especially if it is applied by a United States ambassador just after you have won the Davis cup. That was the opinion of Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif., and Chuck McKinley, St. Ann, Mo., today after they captured the international tennis trophy for America for the first time since 1958.

McKinley, the sturdy acrobat, clinched the cup with a 10-12, 6-2, 9-7, 6-2 victory over 19-year-old John Newcombe in the decisive fifth match. Earlier, Roy Emerson had squared the series with a smashing 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 conquest of Ralston.

The triumphant youngsters had hardly reached their dressing rooms when the huge silver trophy was brought in.

While the athletes stood around the cup for photographers, the U.S. ambassador to Australia, William C. Battle, poured champagne over the heads of the two American stars.

"You will get pneumonia," someone yelled.

"I don't care. It's worth it," Ralston replied.

The ambassador served as a messenger boy when fans at the door asked for players' autographs.

"Hey, matey, get McKinley's autograph for me," an Australian yelled.

"Certainly, just a minute," Battle said, soon he was running back and forth from the front-door-to-the dressing room getting autographs upon request.

"This is one of the big thrills of my life," the ambassador said. "It was a wonderful series."

McKinley said the Davis cup victory provided him with particular satisfaction.

"I hope we have shown many of these people that we are not what some people have said we were," he said. "We have proved we are not a bunch of stinkers."

McKinley was a member of the 1960 team which was accused of smashing up a dressing room in Perth after losing to the Italians and then causing a commotion on an airplane.

Also recently a Sydney newspaper called the Americans "a bunch of stinkers" and "the poorest sportsmen the game has known."

Solons Sweep Two Games In Nevada

ELKO, Dec. 28—The Gooding Senators coasted to another easy 52-37 victory tonight to complete a two-game sweep over Elko. Gooding won last night's game 65-39.

Elko made a better showing in the first half and managed to stay within eight points at intermission.

Elko tried everything from a full-court press to a zone defense to try to stop the Senators Friday night. But Gooding, hitting 50 per cent from the field, didn't mind any of it as they ripped through 24 points in the second half and coasted home.

Cincinnati Wins League Opener

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Cincinnati Bearcats won their Missouri Valley conference basketball opening game tonight 64-62 over a Tulsa team that switched tactics.

Instead of going for the usual fast break, the Golden Hurricane tried a deliberate offensive and high-to-mid defense. This kept both teams scoring low.

Tulsa tied the game 26-26 at halftime.

Tar Heels Coast Behind Trio for Gator Bowl Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—North Carolina unleashed power running Ken Willard and a pair of fine quarterbacks and thoroughly dominated Air Force in the 19th Gator bowl football game today, crushing the Falcons 35-0. There was little Air Force could do against the rampaging Atlantic Coast conference co-champions in the one-sided match before 50,018.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY

At the first turning point of the basketball season, two things have become apparent.

1. The new rule which shuts off the clock at every available opportunity has increased scoring.

2. Magic Valley teams had better start shooting free throws.

The first point shouldn't be surprising. The rules committee has added about four minutes of playing time—20 to 30 minutes of waiting time—so scoring should be up.

The second observation can best be illustrated by games over last week-end. Kimberly outscored Valley 21 to 8 from the free throw line in winning by nine points. Fouls were quite comparable up to the point Kimberly went in front in the overtime and Valley had to start pressing. At the end, Valley had 28 fouls and Kimberly 23.

Twin Falls missed enough free throws to have beaten Caldwell, instead of bowing by eight points. No Paul Ostin coached club has started so poorly since coach Ostin devotes at least 15 minutes per practice session to free throws.

So far, Magic Valley high school teams have participated in 98 basketball games. Of that amount, the home team has won 55 while the visitors have taken 37. The percentage of home floor wins is .627, slightly ahead of last year but behind the previous three seasons.

The other day, a couple of conservation officers for the Idaho fish and game department were roaming down the third fork of Rock creek taking the annual-beaver trend count.

Mostly it's a series of walks up and down the twisting little canyons. Mostly it's about as thrilling as the late, late show.

But as Marion Rhodes and Gary Davidson progressed, they entertained themselves by spotting 27 head of deer and then found the tracks of two adult mountain lions in the snow.

A little farther down, and about 60 yards away in a small pocket in the hillside, they spotted the two mountain lions. Rhodes had three guns back in his car and a walking stick in his hands. The mountain lions weren't too impressed either with the cane or the men.

But Davidson wanted a little closer look. So he started up the hill.

He walked slowly, pausing often. Finally Rhodes asked the reason for this slowness.

"I want to be sure they know I'm here," Davidson said.

But if Rhodes was a little miffed about leaving his guns in the car, consider the case of conservation officer Davidson.

Only a resident of Idaho for five months, he is prevented by law from buying a resident hunting license and therefore can't legally carry a gun in the field.

Major Loops to Renew Donations

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28 (AP)—The major leagues voted to renew a $50,000 donation to help finance the Central Illinois Collegiate League, the president of the National Collegiate Baseball foundation announced today.

President Bob Stewart, athletic director at St. Louis university, said the National Collegiate Athletic association is expected to approve continuation of the venture.

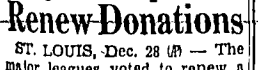

"The baseball foundation operates the league and serves as an intermediary between the major leagues and the NCAA in developing summer baseball for college players.

touchdowns, then gave way to Gary Black, who directed North Carolina to another touchdown for a 20-0 halftime lead.

They also shared the second half work with continued success.

The Tar Heels marched 77 yards the second time they had the ball and Willard powered to a touchdown late in the first quarter.

The 220-pounder showed surprising speed and maneuverability for his size. He circled the ends and went up the middle with consistent success.

He carried for seven of the 11 plays in the first drive.

Edge's passing was the highlight of the second North Carolina scoring march, covering 68 yards after a pass interception.

Black was the whole show in the third Tar Heel drive. He passed three times and ran twice, all for big chunks of the 65-yard advance.

It was a disappointing day for the fans of Terry Isaacson, the versatile quarterback who led the Air Force Falcons to a 7-3 season and ranked fifth in the nation in total offense with 1,747 yards. North Carolina was 8-2 this year.

Isaacson, alternating from the T and shotgun formations, advanced Air Force into a threatening position on those rare occasions when North Carolina wasn't controlling the ball. But there he ran into a defense that matched the Tar Heel offense in effectiveness and protected its goal with interceptions.

Keesport Wins 15th Milk Bowl

DALLAS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Perry Siberio ran for 121 yards and two touchdowns today in leading McKeesport, Pa., to a 28-0 victory over Dallas in the 15th annual Milk Bowl football game.

Siberio scored on runs of one and four yards and also ran over two conversions. Wendell Wilson got the other McKeesport touchdown on an 11-yard dash and ran across the conversion.

Wichita Cops All-College Meet Title

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Wichita Wheatshockers stopped Oklahoma City's offense tonight and humiliated the Chiefs 80-47 for the championship of the 28th annual All-College basketball tournament.

The Wheatshockers opened with a zone press that wrecked Oklahoma City's poise and forced the host club into numerous elementary ball handling errors.

Working from a deliberate offense, Wichita opened its margin to 25-11 midway in the first half and stretched it to 35-18 at halftime.

Lenox broke the previous individual mark of 50 points set by Frank Selvy of Furman against Cincinnati in 1953. The 6-2 senior drove in for the record-breaking basket with 56 seconds left, then added two more points on free throws.

The Houston Cougars rallied after intermission and defeated Montana State 56-55 for fifth place earlier Saturday.

Houston hit only 25 per cent of its field goals in the first half and trailed 25-16 at the break. But during the first three minutes of the second half, the Cougars outscored Montana State 13-2, and took the lead.

Earlier, Washington defeated Idaho 80-69 for seventh place.

Washington moved to a commanding 42-27 halftime lead in the opener after Idaho went seven minutes in the first half without a field goal. Idaho's only serious threat came with a minute left when it closed the gap to four points.

Minnesota and Villanova Move Into ECAC Finals; Utah Loses

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers joined Villanova in the finals of the ECAC holiday basketball festival, defeating St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 69-63 at Madison Square garden tonight. A crowd of 10,285 watched Villanova knock Utah from the unbeaten list 82-75 in the first half of the semifinal doubleheader. St. John's upset Dayton 88-76 and Providence downed Cornell 69-63 in the afternoon consolation twin bill. Mel Northwood, held to four points in the first half, came to life in the closing minutes as the Gophers withstood a St. Joseph's rally and scored their seventh victory in nine games.

The 6-foot, 8-inch center scored his team's last six points to offset a closing spurt by the Hawks.

Trailing 56-55, Minnesota scored six straight points on baskets by Lou Hudson and Don Yates and a pair of free throws by Bill Davis to forge ahead 61-55 with 2 1/2 minutes remaining.

A basket by St. Joe's Jim Boyle was matched by Hudson's driving layup. Boyle scored again for the Hawks but Northway hit two free throws to make it 65-59. St. Joe came back again on two long one-throwers by Steve Courtin but Northway matched each of these with strong rebounds to foil St. Joseph's final bid.

Minnesota, frustrated by St. Joseph's puzzling zone defense, had difficulty finding the range in the first half but finally began to hit from the outside and took a 31-25 halftime lead.

Villanova, trailing 46-43, netted eight straight points early in the second half to take a 51-46 lead. Richie Moore, a 6-foot, 4-inch sharp-shooting sophomore, paced the drive with four consecutive baskets and finished with 24 points.

Utah, which brought a 9-0 record into the game, closed to within 67-64, but the pace proved too tiring and Villanova pushed ahead to a commanding 66-56 lead five minutes before the end.

Bernie Shaffer, who had been setting Moore up for his outside shots, scored eight consecutive points to seal Utah's doom. It was Villanova's eighth victory in nine games.

Doug Moon of Utah, one of three Ute players to foul out, led his team with 21 points.

Providence trailed most of the way but finally came to life in the closing minutes and pulled out its game with Cornell.

A rebound by Jim Benedict, a Providence substitute, tied the score at 55-55 after four minutes remaining. John Thompson followed with two free throws and Jim Stone added four more points with two driving layups to put the Friars ahead for the first time since the opening moments, 67-59.

Providence will meet St. John's in a fifth place battle in Monday's tripleheader when the championships will be decided.

Thompson, Providence's 6-10 center, was the top scorer with 28 points. Stone had 18. High man for Cornell was Bob McCready with 16.

The Big Red, whose record is now 5-4, was handicapped by the loss of Capt. Ray Ratkowski on fouls in the opening minutes of the second half. Providence is now 5-3.

The Flyers of Dayton, trailing 40-29 three minutes before intermission, closed the gap to 46-45 early in the second half but the Redmen came back with a 12-point spurt to open up a 58-47 lead and were never threatened again.

Gordy Hatton and Henry Bur-long shared scoring honors for Dayton with 16 points each.

Rakestraw's Passes Lift Gray to Late Touchdown, 21-14 Victory Over Blue

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 28 (AP)—Larry Rakestraw of Georgia put on story book aerial demonstrations today, and with that advantage, the South won the Blue-Gray football game 21-14. Rakestraw, the Southeastern conference's leading passer and runner-up in total offense, found the target on two touchdown passes and accounted for most of the distance on another scoring drive which traveled for 98 yards. A partisan crowd of 20,000, watching the game under bright sun with the temperature in the mid 50s, saw the Rebels go out in front 14-0 in the first period, then held his breath as the never-give-up Yanks came storming back to tie the score.

ISU Rallies to Nip Western Montana

ANACONDA, Mont., Dec. 28 (UPI)—The Idaho State college Bengals came from behind here tonight to take a 77-67 win from Western Montana in the Anaconda holiday basketball tournament play. The first half was even most of the way, but the Bulldogs maintained a lead which gave them a 37-35 margin at the half. As the second half got under way, the Bengals found the range and began to sharpen up. With nine minutes to go the Bengals had a 6-point lead.

Bruneau Has Glens Ferry Outlaw Title

GLENS FERRY, Dec. 28 (AP)—It took two overtimes to do it, but Bruneau nipped Triplets of Glens Ferry Outlaw basketball championship.

Faux Clear Store, Buhl, belted Wendell 70-32 to claim the consolation crown.

Bruneau put three men into double scoring figures to offset the Glens Ferry punch of Sherm Pack and Terry Perrin, who had 15 each for the losers.

Wisconsin Is Champion in Cage Tourney

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 28 (AP)—Wisconsin crushed Georgia Tech with a blistering fast break that brought a 104-84 victory tonight and the championship in the Milwaukee Classic basketball tournament.

The small but speedy Badgers bolted to a lead in the opening minutes and soon increased it to 43-24 as they out-rebounded and outfooted the taller Yellow Jackets.

Sophomore Ken Gustafson led the Wisconsin onslaught with 27 points and received the most valuable player award for his performance before 7,900 fans.

Reserve Bill Eldson led Georgia Tech with 26 points. Tech's 6-foot, 9-inch center, Jim Caldwell, was held to nine points.

Marquette took third place by trouncing winless Dartmouth 98-69.

Sophomore Tom Flynn paced the attack as the Warriors paced the attack as they never relinquished. The 6-foot, 5-inch forward topped all scorers with 24 points. The Indians were led by Davis Blaine and Vic Mah who scored 18 and 15 respectively.

Bob Lacey Signs With Vikings

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—All-America end Bob Lacey of North Carolina signed with the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football league immediately after his team whipped Air Force 35-0 in the Gator bowl game today.

Norm Van Brocklin, Vikings coach, and Bert Rose, Vikings general manager, were on hand to sign the 6-foot-3, 210-pounder from Pelham, N.Y.

He was the Vikings' sixth draft choice and was picked 11th by New York of the American Football league.

San Jose State Defeats Santa Clara in WCAC

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Sophomore S. T. Saffold hit a 10-foot jumper that put San Jose State ahead to stay tonight and the Spartans went on to take a 56-55 victory over Santa Clara and win the West Coast Athletic conference tournament championship for an unprecedented second time.

Kentucky Is Tangerine Bowl Winner

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Western Kentucky's defensive specialists throttled the Coast Guard's offensive thrusts and turned three Cadet miscues into touchdowns in rolling to an easy 27-0 Tangerine bowl victory tonight.

The teams battled on even terms for one and one-half quarters, then the Hilltoppers took charge with two quick touchdowns.

Western Kentucky's initial break came when Coast Guard's Paul Blayne dropped back to kick and the pass from center sailed over his head and the Hilltoppers took command on the Cadets' 32. Brothers Jim and John Burt alternated in carrying the ball to the 11. Quarterback Sharon Miller then faked a handoff and reached around left end for the touchdown.

Two plays after the ensuing kickoff, Coast Guard fumbled and Kentucky's Hugh Sturgeon nipped on the ball on the Cadet 11. John Burt lost time, then Miller fired a 20-yard scoring pass to right end John Mutchler.

In the five-year history to win two titles, The Spartans also won last year.

Bob Yahne got the last four points for Santa Barbara and provided the Gauchos with their win over St. Mary's.

Yahne's 10-foot jumper with 27 seconds left made it 71-70. With 10 seconds remaining, St. Mary's called its sixth time out—more than legal—Yahne added a technical foul shot and collected another free throw point at game's end.

Oille Johnson scored 27 points and grabbed a record 25 rebounds in leading host University of San Francisco to a 77-67 victory over the University of the Pacific in afternoon play for fifth place.

In an earlier afternoon game, Loyola of Los Angeles used a full-court press in downing Pepperdine, 76-80, for seventh place.

The 6-foot, 8-inch Johnson broke his own rebounding record of 23 net Thursday and also topped a tournament record by gaining 65 rebounds in three games. Pepperdine's Sterling Forbes had set the old record in 1959 with 49.

The 50-point margin represented the approximate bulge UHF enjoyed for most of the game. Bill Wilson led Pacific with 26 points.

Babe Parilli Played Best Game Ever

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—"Babe Parilli played his greatest game ever," a joyful Mike Holovak declared today, minutes after his Boston Patriots defeated the Buffalo Bills 26-8 and won the American Football league's Eastern division championship.

"He was great," the Boston coach said in heaping praise on his quarterback.

Parilli directed a land and air game on War Memorial stadium's ice-covered field that Buffalo could not stop, completing 14 passes in 35 attempts for 200 yards and two touchdowns.

The happy Parilli said he thought "the icy field benefited my passing."

"I didn't have much trouble with my footing and the ice slowed up the Buffalo rushers. We went into the game planning on not too much running and lots of passing. Our special plays worked."

Holovak declined to give an opinion on Buffalo's failure to give Boston any trouble.

"Let them talk about themselves," he said.

In the Bills' dressing room, Coach Lou Saban said Boston "played real fine, we played poorly."

He said Buffalo ran into too many fourth down situations with a yard or two to go.

"If I took a gamble and blew it, I'd be in real trouble," Gino Cappelletti, who kicked four field goals and two extra points, said there was "a good hold on every ball."

"I would take my time because Buffalo couldn't get traction to rush me."

Babe Parilli Played Best Game Ever

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—"Babe Parilli played his greatest game ever," a joyful Mike Holovak declared today, minutes after his Boston Patriots defeated the Buffalo Bills 26-8 and won the American Football league's Eastern division championship.

"He was great," the Boston coach said in heaping praise on his quarterback.

Pats Rip Bills for AFL Division Crown

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—Boston quarterback Babe Parilli passed for two touchdowns, and Gino Cappelletti kicked four field goals as the Patriots defeated the Buffalo Bills Saturday, 26-8, and won the Eastern division title in the first playoff in American Football league history.

shots in the final quarter and fired a 10-yard scoring pass to halfback Mallon Faircloth of Tennessee for the tiebreaker.

Faircloth previously had gone 44 yards on another touchdown pass.

Sports writers chose the Georgia passers as the game's outstanding player.

Ode Burrell, the breakaway runner who led Mississippi State to victory in the Liberty bowl a week ago, also thrilled the pro-Southern crowd with his repeated explosive bursts through the Yankee line. Burrell picked up 99 yards on 17 plays for a 5.9-yard average.

Both teams missed scoring chances by feet. The Yanks drove to the Gray five at one point but couldn't get past the stubborn Rebel line. The South came even closer, bogging down on the one.

Rakestraw completed 14 of 22 passes for 177 yards, more than 100 yards of it in the first quarter.

The Georgia quarterback put on his most spectacular show in the Rebels' second touchdown drive after a 50-yard punt by Bill Schoonover of Syracuse gave the South the ball on its own two.

Mixing passes with running plays, Rakestraw directed an on-rushing Rebel drive which went 98 yards in 16 plays. It equaled a Blue-Gray record for seven consecutive first downs.

When he wasn't throwing the ball, the Georgia signal caller took a few turns at carrying it himself. He piled up 32 yards in nine plays, giving him a total offense of 269 yards.

Ken Coleman, the big Kansas fullback, won the sports writers acclaim as the offensive star for the Yanks with 51 yards in 15 attempts. Schoonover, who broke up one Rebel play after another, was the defensive standout for the North.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Boston Celtics broke a tie in the last six minutes and held off the St. Louis Hawks for a 107-100 National Basketball association victory tonight.

Bill Russell, who netted only seven points, dropped in the leading basket to give the Celtics a 91-89 lead. Then John Havlicek and Sam Jones kept Boston safe. The Hawks could get no closer than three points in the final seconds.

The victory boosted the Eastern division leaders five games ahead of Cincinnati.

76ers Surprise Lakers 114-100

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 (AP)—Johnny Kerr of Philadelphia set a National Basketball association record of most consecutive games played as the 76ers defeated Los Angeles 114-100 tonight. He also contributed 23 points to the victory.

Kerr, 31, appeared in his 70th straight NBA game, breaking the old mark of 706 by Dolph Schayes, now the 76ers coach.

Hal Greer was high for the 76ers with 24 points. Jerry West led Los Angeles with 29 while Elgin Baylor had 26.

EAST AND WEST BATTLE TO 6-6 DEADLOCK

Conversion Try Blocked in Last Period by West

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Texas Tech's Dave Parks of the West burst through to block Rick Leeson's fourth-quarter conversion attempt, preserving a 6-6 tie with the East in their 39th annual Shrine charity football game today. With just 4 minutes, 12 seconds to play, Michigan State's 156-pound All-America Sherman Lewis scooted around right end for 10 yards and the tying touchdown.

Both Sides Felt Officials Caused Loss

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28 (AP)—A wrong penalty call cost them the game. East players and coaches charged Saturday after their 6-6 Shrine football game tie with the West.

The West had its own complaint, arguing it should have won on a fourth-period safety.

The East's argument stemmed from an apparent 56-yard touchdown pass from halfback Jay Wilkinson to wingback Paul Krause that came one play after the West had taken a 6-0 lead.

Wilkinson, a star at Duke, rolled to his right and with the West caught napping, he threw to Iowa's Krause, who was in the clear at the West 19 and scored untouched.

Officials called the play back, ruling Wilkinson had passed the line of scrimmage before he threw.

"I was really surprised that they called it back," said the son of Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson. "I was running parallel to the line the whole way, then turned and threw. I don't see how I was past it."

East Coach Jack Mollenkopf from Purdue said he didn't think Wilkinson was past the line. "I was pleased we didn't get beat," he said, "but we had the opportunity to win and didn't."

"I think Wilkinson should have had an award as anyone—he intercepted a couple of passes and threw the one they called back."

The West, led by defensive back Jerry Richardson from West Texas, claimed a fourth-period safety which the officials didn't award.

East's Sherman Lewis slanted to his left on a play that started on the two-yard line. Richardson hit him cleanly at about the goal line and they tumbled into the end zone. Officials placed the ball at the one-foot line and the East then drove all the way up the field to the tying touchdown.

"I sure felt he was behind the goal line," said Richardson. "He was running behind the line and he was coming at me and I hit him at the line."

Lewis, from Michigan State, said he thought he had escaped the end zone but admitted he wasn't sure how officials would call the play.

Penn State Wins Motor City Tourney

DETROIT, Dec. 28 (AP)—Penn State rallied in the final minutes and downed Detroit 88-83 tonight to become the first eastern team to win the Motor City Basketball tournament.

Holy Cross scored a 91-82 victory over Western Michigan in the consolation game.

Penn State, trailing for most of the game after keeping it close in the first 10 minutes, outscored the host team 10-4 in its winning rally.

Bob Wells, named the tournament's most valuable player, scored seven of his 36 points in the final spurt. Detroit's Dick Dink paced all scorers with 38 points, 20 of them coming in the first half.

Holy Cross went ahead with seven minutes gone and controlled Western Michigan's fast break while moving in a 46-38 half-time edge.

Kerr Plays 707th Basketball Game

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 (AP)—Anyone else would tell you today is December the 28th. But for John Kerr of the National Basketball League's Philadelphia 76ers, it's today the 707th—a very special date.

Barring mishaps, Kerr plays his 707th consecutive NBA game tonight, against Los Angeles in a convention hall, breaking the league record of 706 set by 76ers Coach Dolph Schayes.

Kerr had Schayes' record Friday night in Hershey, Pa., as the 76ers defeated the Detroit Pistons 119-107. The 6-foot, 9-inch veteran scored 12 points, while teammate Chet Walker, a 6-6 forward from Bradley, was high man with 29.

Kerr said he hurt his right shoulder during the game but was determined to play the record-breaking tonight.

In fact, he says he wants to go for 1,000.

WINS BOWL HANDICAP
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Gretchen Princess, a 13-1 shot, came from fifth place to overtake front-running Flare Dancer today to win the $10,000 Sugar Bowl Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

Pittsburgh's Leeson, who had missed two first half field goal attempts, lined up for the conversion kick. Parks, the first man to block a conversion in the recent National Football league draft and signed by the San Francisco 49ers, rushed across unchecked to block the attempt.

Penn State's quarterback Pete Liske engineered the scoring drive, a 98-yard advance taking 13 plays and at one point the East had been pushed back less than a yard from its goal. Then came the key, a 33-yard Liske pass to Ohio State's Paul Warfield and the East was en route to winding up this contest in only the fifth tie of the series.

Both clubs staged tremendous defensive shows. Baylor's quarterback Don Trull was hounded by hard charging defenders all afternoon but managed to unlead a lone scoring pass of 25 yards. Southern California's Willie Brown leaped high in the end zone to grab that third-quarter aerial.

The 180-pound USC speedster also played a great defensive game to win honors as the outstanding player on the field. Oregon State end Vern Burke, also for the West, was voted outstanding lineman by newsmen covering.

As the defense dominated the grueling struggle, Trull had lost the football four times by interception before he and Brown converted an East fumble into the touchdown before 60,128 fans in Kezar stadium and a national television audience.

Duke's Jay Wilkinson, son of the Oklahoma coach, had just intercepted a Trull pass at the East 40. A penalty for throwing to an ineligible receiver moved the ball back to the 35. On the next play, Purdue quarterback Ron DiGravio fumbled when hit by Washington State's Glenn Baker and Jim McNaughton of Utah State recovered at the East 25.

Trull, who signed with Houston of the American Football league earlier last week, found Brown with his long pass a moment later over defender Warfield.

Pete Beathard of USC had two chances to convert but missed both. Ralph Baker of Penn State blocked a try but the East was offside. A second attempt sailed wide to the left.

Straight Par Nets $68,000 On Pro Tour
DUNEDIN, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—If you think you have to be a regular par-buster to win big money on the pro golf tour, you've got it all wrong.

If you had played in all 43 official Professional Golfers association tournaments in 1963, and merely matched par in each event, you would have won $94,000. And the only names ahead of yours on the money-winning list would have been Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros, and Tony Lema.

You would be famous as the 1963 U.S. open champion. You would have finished second in the Colonial National and the American Golf classic.

You would have tied for third in the Masters and for fifth in the PGA championship, and you would have finished sixth in the Denver open and the Thunderbird classic.

Doc Giffin, the PGA publicist, came up with these and other interesting facts and figures today after thumbing back through his voluminous records of the 1963 season.

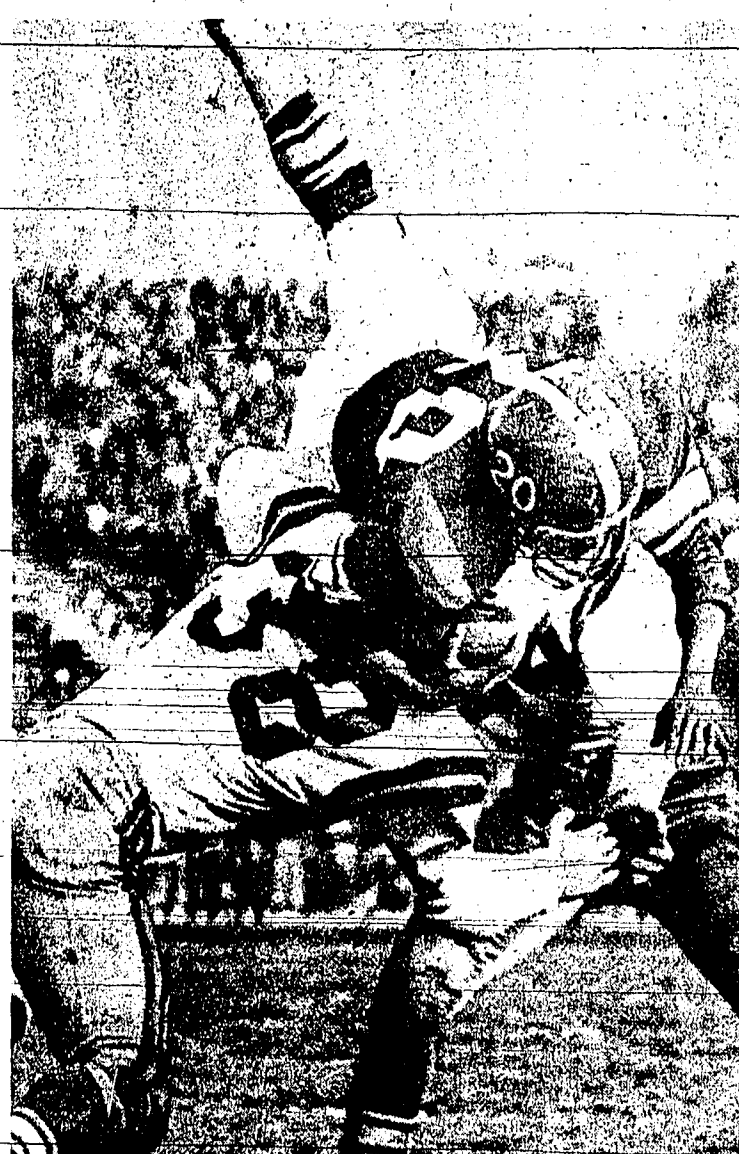

Fame and fortune would have been yours with that straight par performance. But, on the other hand, you might have been as unlucky as Bobby Brus.

The sponsors of the Sahara Invitational had planned to put up a prize of $77,777 for a hole-in-one, and Brus got one on No. 13. But tournament officials had decided against the big payoff because they considered the insurance premium too high.

Or you might have been snake-bitten like Chi Chi Rodriguez. He shot a double eagle in the Bulok open, only to have it washed off the official record by a rain-out.

Or you were disappointed as Don January. Two years ago, he was rewarded with $50,000 for a hole-in-one at No. 16 at Indian Wells in California. This year he did it again, and all they gave him was a $100 consolation prize as hard-luck player of the week.

These were some of the biggest surprises of a year in which Palmer broke the money-winning record by taking home an official $128,250.

DIVING FOR YARDAGE is East back Sherman Lewis (20) of Michigan State, upended by West back Tom Crutcher (38) of Texas Christian and West Mel Profit (84) of UCLA in the second quarter of the 39th annual Shrine game. Lewis was stopped on the West six-yard line. The game ended in a 6-6 tie. (AP wirephoto)

Finals Set For Big 8 Cage Slate

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 28 (AP)—Oklahoma State and Jim King put the defensive clamps on Kansas 65-56 and Kansas State's tourney favorites clipped Missouri 84-67 behind Willie Murrell's 27 points in the semifinals of the Big Eight basketball tournament tonight.

K-State meets Oklahoma State for the championship Monday night.

King dominated the backboards, led the scoring with 19 points, and held Steve Renko, the No. 2 Kansas scorer, to four points.

A late flurry by George Unsel pulled Kansas within three points 59-56 with 2:13 left. King led it a minute later with a tip-in.

Murrell scored 19 of his points in the last half after Missouri rallied from a 44-38 halftime deficit to a 44-44 tie.

Ray Bob Carey, Missouri's scoring leader, tied Murrell at 27 points. Carey got 19 in the first half.

In the afternoon consolation games Iowa State upset Colorado 37-35 behind Steve Harmon's 19 points, and Oklahoma beat Nebraska 75-66.

Tim Lowe hit a jump shot to put Iowa State in front 20-26 with 5:58 left in the first half and the Cyclones never again were headed.

Trailing 40-37 at the half, the Buffaloes missed a change to pull even midway in the second period when they missed five out of six free throws in less than three minutes.

Mike Frank of Colorado was the game's leading scorer with 22 points.

The lead changed hands 11 times in the second half before Fred Fleetwood hit a field goal and added a free throw that put Oklahoma ahead 64-52 with 0:32 left in the game.

Daryl Pelsch was high for Nebraska with 21 points.

Kentucky Raps Notre Dame

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 28 (AP)—Unbeaten Kentucky, making a determined bid to become the nation's No. 1 collegiate basketball team, surged past Notre Dame 101-81 tonight behind the shooting of Cotton Nash.

Boosting their record to 6-0, the Wildcats went into triple figures for the fifth time this season.

Kansas City, A's Continue Negotiations

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 28 (AP)—Kansas City made Charles O. Finley what the city said was the best offer in organized baseball today and said he could keep the Kansas City Athletics' office and equipment at Municipal stadium until Jan. 10 without rent or penalty.

The baseball team's lease for the stadium expires Dec. 31 but negotiations at this late stage included only a lot of pitches, many balks and no runs.

The contract would run for five years with no options or escape clauses. Finley would pay the city five per cent of paid attendance and seven and one-half per cent of revenue from concessions, but everything over $50,000 a year would go toward repaying $300,000 Finley spent on stadium improvements.

The A's owner negotiated with city council Friday but no deal was reached. Before leaving today he said he would not return until the city agreed to give him what he considers a square deal.

Finley has threatened to build a temporary stadium in a cow pasture if necessary. He started moving some equipment out of the stadium for fear its presence there would constitute a lease renewal after New Year's eve.

"When speaking of moving to a cow pasture," he said, "I'm talking about renting or leasing about 300 acres of land and building a temporary stadium with bleacher-type seats, lights and all the modern facilities."

"It probably would cost me a million dollars, but I'm willing to do that if necessary."

LaSalle Nips Georgetown, Joins Bonnies in Quaker City Finals

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 (AP)—LaSalle, fired by Frank Corace's 29 points, defeated Georgetown and along with St. Bonaventure, a 64-62 victor over Drake on a last-second field goal, advanced to the final round of the Quaker City basketball tournament tonight. Loyola of Chicago defeated Northwestern 88-82 on the clutch shooting of Ron Miller and Les Hunter, and Temple outclassed Boston college 99-68 in consolation round games. Loyola and Temple meet Monday for fifth place in the first game of a triple header.

As a result of tonight's games, LaSalle and St. Bonaventure meet Monday night in the final game of the tripleheader to determine the winner of the annual holiday festival. Loyola of Chicago and Drake play in the second game of the tripleheader to determine third place.

St. Bonaventure had taken a 62-60 lead on a lay-up by John Mahonchak with 55 seconds remaining, but Drake substitute Norman Watson was fouled with 20 seconds left and dropped in a pair of free throws to tie the score.

The Bonnies moved the ball across mid-court and with five seconds left called a time out. Then Crawford let loose just as the buzzer sounded giving the Bonnies their seventh victory and sending them into Monday night's tournament final.

Crawford led St. Bonaventure with 28 points. Billy Foster paced Drake with 18 points.

Boston college was no match for Temple, which quickly built up a big advantage and led 40-26 at halftime. Four Temple players hit in double figures, led by 11-foot, 11-inch senior Frank Bishop who hit his career high with 29 points. He made 12 of 18 field goals and five free throws.

About the only consolation for Boston college was the sparkling play of John Austin, a sophomore who tallied 27 points. Miller, who was high scorer for Loyola with 25 points, put the Ramblers ahead for good on a three-point play with 13:18 remaining in the first half.

When Northwestern moved to within three points with little more than five minutes left, Hunter poured in 12 points to wrap the game up. Hunter scored 24. High for Northwestern was Rich Falk with 38.

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, SUNDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1963

Future Is Bright for Couple After 53 Years in Area, 62 Years Married

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor
If Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Peters had carved no other niche in the history of the Twin Falls area other than they had resided here for more than 53 years, that would be something. But they have done much more than that. They are now in their 63rd year of marriage and the three children born to that union all are living and practically within shouting distance of the father and mother.

Whether it is a record of any kind is not important. The important thing is that it has happened, and both Mr. and Mrs. Peters are active enough to enjoy talking about it and sipping in a laugh here and there as they do.

It was on Dec. 11, 1901, when Gerrit, then of Waupun, Wis., journeyed to the nearby community of Alto to take one Johannah Klumpers as his bride. She had been born there and he was just seven years away from the life he had left in his native Holland.

Although they both admit to their ups and downs, and their disagreements—but never to the point they really stay angry—they have stuck it out, have taken the good with the bad and are now looking forward to their 63rd anniversary in the fall of 1964.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters now make their home in Twin Falls at 330 Sixth avenue east. Although in retirement, they still maintain an interest in the community and have hobbies which, they explain, keep them "out of mischief."

Their marriage was performed by a minister in the home of the bride's parents, and nine years later the Peters had traveled way out West to Twin Falls. They came into town on a September day with their three children.

Peters recalls that in 1910 Twin Falls, which was just a little over six years old, had a population in the neighborhood of 6,000. His uncles, Guy and Cornell, came West at the same time. Their belongings, including house furnishings, had been loaded into a railroad car at Waupun a week

LIVING TOGETHER for 53 years in the same area is something in itself, but when a couple starts on their 63rd year of married life, that might be classed as double something. Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit L. Peters, Twin Falls, look forward to another good year in what was a new country when they first came to Twin Falls in 1910. (Times-News photo)

PROBABLY THE MOST exasperated man in Twin Falls as the new year approaches is Lawrence Murphy, 1625 Shoup avenue east, a local merchant policeman. He was just a step ahead of Ross Bourquin, route three, who picked up passenger plate 1964 at the assessor's office. As a result, Murphy was handed 1963, while out of the corner of his eye he could see Bourquin with a broad grin as he got 1964. Murphy has something to gloat about, however. He is the only driver in the county who sports license plates with both 1963 and 1964 on them. Receiving the license plate corresponding to the year of issue is just a coincidence in Twin Falls county. No plates are reserved. (Times-News photo)

New Skating Rink at Burley Will Compete With Frozen River Area

BURLEY, Dec. 28—The Snake river, with its many ponds and overflow areas, plus drainage ponds always has furnished the residents of the Burley-Rupert area plenty of spots for ice-skating.

In recent years, however, the area has been experiencing a boom in recreation and outdoor sports.

One day W. W. Paulson, a Burley businessman, counted 1,100 people skating on "Emerson pond." Paulson decided then the community could support an ice-skating rink.

He had been toying with the idea for some time. The large crowd on the pond, plus good reports from other ice skating areas, convinced Paulson to build the rink.

In the next few days Paulson will hold his grand opening for the rink. The next few days will be spent in completing the concession stand and the ice shop.

The rink will be one of the largest in southern Idaho. Its dimensions, 85 by 185 feet, rival the ice rink at Sun Valley.

The rink is located behind Paulson's sporting goods store on the north side of Burley. It will be a stone's throw from the interstate highway cloverleaf.

Paulson is convinced the only way the rink can be successfully operated is to set down some hard and fast rules and offer to the public a full service facility.

All skating will be supervised. This chore has fallen on the shoulders of Bert Haven, who will be the "pro" and in charge of the rink. Haven formerly was employed at the Sun Valley rink. He will offer instruction.

Paulson also is planning on one ice patrolman for every 50 skaters, with "rowdies" being ejected immediately or denied entrance.

"This is necessary," says Paulson, "to build public confidence." "My goal is to gain a reputation such that parents can send their children out to skate without fear or worry."

"I want the parents to know that I'm gladly babysit their children," said Paulson.

The rink will be available for private parties and a schedule will be drawn up as soon as the management has had time to study the use of the rink and

INSPECTING COMPRESSORS is W. W. Paulson, Burley businessman. Paulson installed two 75-horsepower compressors to freeze the ice on a new rink he constructed on the north side of Burley. The ice will be frozen artificially by piping ammonia gas through brine pipes buried in a concrete slab. The rink measures 85 by 185 feet and is the largest outdoor rink in Magic Valley. The machinery to freeze the ice is housed in a separate building behind the rink. (Times-News photo)

New Junior High School Students Research Early Pioneer Namesake

By G. H. CHAMBERS
Just who was Robert Stuart? Even before the mortar was dry in Twin Falls' newest junior high school, people — and students — were asking that question. Several historians in the area have done research on Robert Stuart. Included among them are Arthur Kleinkopf, assistant superintendent of schools who suggested the name to the school board members, and Mrs. Hugh O. Boone, corresponding secretary of the Twin Falls County Historical society.

Included among the curious concerning origin of the name, Robert Stuart, were the students attending the new facility. According to J. O. Watts, Robert Stuart junior high principal, the students wanted to research history and discover for themselves who Robert Stuart was.

TABLE COVERED WITH correspondence is examined by Robert Stuart junior high school students. The letters came back to students who wrote in various places inquiring about Robert Stuart. Christine Peterson, left, examines a drawing of the Stuart clan tartan, while Dan Sizemore and Dianne Hatch read letters concerning the Stuart coat of arms. The school has permission to use the tartan and the coat of arms in school activity. (Times-News photo)

GIFTS ARE PUT onto school bookshelf by Robert Shobe and Mary Burkhardt. Two volumes of the life of the Stuart family were given to the school by the district public library. The books, from a private collection, were given to the junior high school because it is the only public building in the United States named after the early-day explorer. The books came as a result of letters written by the students seeking information on Robert Stuart. (Times-News photo)

Missile Base Head Tells of Conditions

OAKLEY, Dec. 28 — Glad to be home for the holidays is Capt. Lloyd D. Smith, a former Oakley man. For the past 13 months "home" has been an army post near the village of Taechon-ni, Korea, where Smith was in command of six five, a Nike-Hercules guided missile site.

Here aircraft are tracked over Korea and missiles are on guard 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The site is located on the Yellow sea some 130 miles south of Seoul. Smith had a good chance to compare the customs and the people of the rural area with those of the U. S. as a whole the people are very poor.

The highest paid employe on the site was the interpreter, who was a college graduate from Seoul and spoke English, Korean and Japanese—but received the equivalent of $38 a month in U. S. money. House boys who do work equal to the K. P. duty, receive from $20 to $22 a month. Smith notes every day is about the same as the next and Sunday is no exception. Sale or market day is every five days. Market days at Taechon-ni were all days ending in a three or an eight. The people bring their home-made and home grown products into the village to be sold on these days.

Korea is an industrious nation, even though it is extremely backward in its methods. Everyone is busy all the time, but people have a tendency to follow the methods of their ancestors. Captain Smith used as an example the cement mixer the army provided for their use.

The Koreans wouldn't use it but went ahead and used their old flat tin sheet and mixed the cement with a small shovel to suit themselves.

The people are slow to change their ideas, but a few cars are coming into use and buses which have been salvaged from the two and one-half ton army trucks are also appearing.

To be able to read the Korean language, Smith says one starts at the lower right hand corner of the page, reads straight up to the top and then to the left. Most of the children are required to attend school and they wear special black and white uniforms during the school day.

Colored slides Smith took show the houses are fairly neat in structure, even though they are built out of a mud-mixed brick. Underneath the floor, where the sleeping quarters are located, is a hollow space where brush, charcoal or pressed coal is pushed from the outside and burned to keep the house warm.

Paper equal to U. S. wallpaper is placed over a layer of bricks and floor boards to help decorate and keep the house clean. They also put it on the walls of the "hutch."

To keep the rains out, a thatched roof made from rice straw is stacked on the top. Straw mats are placed on the outside of the mud bricks to keep them from washing away during the rainy season. No shoes are left in any house and consequently are left outside on the porches where most of the cooking is done. During the time Smith was in Korea he did not see a hinged door of any kind on any of the Korean buildings. He saw only sliding doors.

Much Korean clothing is handmade but shoes are made of rubber. Men's shoes are plain while the women wear brightly decorated ones with various designs. Their stockings are made of two layers of cloth with the area at the sole filled with padding. Sometimes the padding is made of grass or some other soft material.

He says the women make cloth from a special grass which they shred with their teeth, spin into a fine white linen and then make into garments.

American women would dread washday as there is no such thing as a washing machine in Korea. It is a common sight during the winter or summer to see the women go to the river. Continued on Page 23

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

The Eternal Light

REV. EARL W. RIDDLE
First Methodist Church

One day, several years ago, according to a report in the newspapers, the city of London experienced a 10-minute period of panic. A thick belt of dense, black darkness wrapped itself around the city. In mid-afternoon myriads of people and flying birds and frightened birds in the shelter of their roosts.

Freakish and unpredictable, the cloud of darkness descended, stayed only 10 minutes, and then disappeared with the swiftness and suddenness with which it had come. But while it lasted, one of the world's biggest cities experienced a near-mass panic.

Women screamed in the streets, others fell to their knees on the sidewalk and prayed, other hysterical people shouted. "The end of the world has come!" An official of the meteorological office said, "There has never been anything like it in my lifetime."

But then he went on calmly and factually to explain the freakish phenomenon as an accumulation of London smoke imprisoned under a thick cloud of mias vapor.

That 10-minute panic in London provides a picture in miniature of the universal pandemonium that would break loose in all the world were it not for the steady reality of Almighty God. Every day we live and move and take for granted — that eternal steadfastness at the heart of things which the Hebrews called "the faithfulness of God."

As we come to the beginning of a New Year, in the shattered confusion of the ending of an old one, we must become once again cognizant of the fact that God is still at the helm. So often we human creatures wander aimlessly by the guidance of pressures from one side and another.

We do not take upon ourselves the God-given privilege of disciplined lives. We are swayed by the whims and fancies of an age which, at times, is drifting in its moral conviction.

There is a seriousness about our people in an attempt to catch some of the meaning of the events which surround us. Perhaps it takes tragedy and chaos to bring out the best in us. Nevertheless, at the beginning of this New Year, we need to listen to the challenges placed before us to live the steady, wholesome lives for which we know that God created us.

Lloyd Douglas, author of "The Robe," told how he loved, occasionally, to visit a little old man who gave violin lessons. He had a studio, if it could be called that, a small room set in a long row of rooms where other music teachers taught.

"I liked to drop in on him," Douglas said, "for he had a kind of homely wisdom that refreshed me."

"One morning I walked in and by way of greeting, said, 'Well, what's the good news today?' Putting down his violin, stepping over to a tuning fork suspended from a silk cord, he struck it a smart blow with a padded mallet, and said, 'There is the good news for today. That, my friend, is A. It was A all day yesterday. It will be A all day tomorrow, next week, and for a thousand years. The soprano upstairs warbles, off-key, the tenor next door flaps his high ones, and the piano across the hall is out of tune. Noise all around me; noise; but that, my friend is A.'

Have we not lives which need tuning up by the steady, faithfulness of God? Herein is not only the wishful thinking of pent hearts at the close of a year, but herein is the hope for salvation — as individuals, as a nation, as a world.

May God grant us the wisdom and the courage to remain steady and true to the best that is within us each day of the New Year.

Californian Is Hurt in Mishap

RUPERT, Dec. 28 — Peter A. Blum, 21, Walnut Creek, Calif., was taken to Minidoka Memorial hospital after a one-car accident at 12:45 a. m. Friday on highway 27 one mile south of Paul.

He told sheriff's officers he lost control of his 1963 Volkswagen on slick roads. The auto went into the borrow-pit, overturning twice. Two passengers, Darrell Lake, 18, and Tim Lake, 16, both Paul, were uninjured.

Officers said the Volkswagen was demolished. Blum was released after treatment for bruises and lacerations.

Stamp Window

Nine artists, most of them from the Northeast and Midwest, have accepted invitations to a competition for the design of the 1964 Wilderness Battle commemorative stamp, fourth in the Civil War centennial series.

The artists, all finalists in the contest for the 1963 Battle of Gettysburg stamp design, have submitted a total of 34 designs for the Wilderness stamp, which marks the bloody battle in thickets and swamps near Fredericksburg, Va., as Gen. U.S. Grant drove for Richmond. The artists are:

Henry Bensath, New York City; Walter R. Benke, Scarsdale, N.Y.; Harold Christenson, Brielle, N.J.; Robert Hageman, Chicago; Russell E. Hill, Gordon, Wis.; William Irwin, Detroit; Bernard Nagler, Los Angeles; James Pearl, Frederick, Md.; and Frank Sebastiano, Hartsdale, N.Y.

Their entries will be judged by three men from Washington, D.C.: John Walker, director of the National Gallery of Art; Donald McLeod, an official of the bureau of engraving and printing; and artist William Walton chairman of the commission of the arts, a government agency. The winning design, which will get a $500 prize, will be issued May 5.

The 1963 U.S. Christmas stamp apparently was a huge success throughout the nation, with a postoffice department survey reporting requisitions almost 50 per cent higher than in 1962, when it first issued a Christmas stamp. To meet the demand, the print order was set at two billion, avoiding the 1962 problem of a "sellout in many postoffices." New Issues: Ceylon released a blue and brown 5-cent stamp, showing the island's terrain, flora and fauna, for national nature conservation week. Nationalist China noted the good-people-good deeds campaign with a stamp featuring a woman and a spray of orchids and another showing a hand lighting a candle. Japan issued a multi-color 10-yen stamp to publicize the Izu Islands quasi-national park, the 17th in the park stamp series. India commemorated children's day with a brown 15-rupee stamp showing children being served lunch by a female school worker. The New Hebrides, a group of south Pacific islands administered jointly by France and Great Britain, released the first eight stamps of a 24-value regular series. Surinam marked the 150th anniversary of the independence of the Netherlands with a blue gold-ochre and black 10-cent stamp depicting the arrival by boat of the prince of Orange at Scheveningen.

This column is a public service of the Society of Philatelic Americans, a stamp collectors for 47 years. Information on the society's membership benefits can be obtained from SPA's President, Robert Bagghman, Box 1178-K, Liberal, Kans. 67040. The volume of mail, however, prevents Mr. Bagghman from answering general questions about stamps.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

"I love my home in America, it's so peaceful here." These words came from Irish-born Mrs. Lucine Erickson, BRIDGE community. Her home is charming and full of hospitality. Thanks to the courtesy of Mother Nature and an artesian flow of unbelievably hot water, just 150 feet from their doorstep, Lucine Erickson and Kathleen Erickson have an answer to their heating and hot water supply. Lucine (called Erick by family and friends) has been familiar with the Raft river area since boyhood. His uncle, Alvin Newbold, a pioneer in the valley, started drilling a well for irrigation purposes in 1949 and tapped the artesian flow of hot water.

Although his plans for a good irrigation system were ruined, this staunch pioneer has remained in the valley. About six years ago the Ericksons purchased a 10-acre tract of land near the well, with the privilege of using the hot water. At the time they were living in Ogden, Utah, which was their home for six years and where Erickson was employed at Hill Air Force base.

On week-ends they commuted to Bridge, a distance of 120 miles, where they began rebuilding a two-room house on their newly-acquired land into an attractive two-bedroom home, complete with hot water heat. The water flows through small radiators, purchased from Air Force surplus and installed by Erickson, who is a mechanic, carpenter and electrician.

In February of this year the Ericksons settled permanently in their new home and, as soon as the weather permitted, Mrs. Erickson, a small, slender woman, full of energy and enthusiasm, began working with the soil around her home, making an attractive yard-of-flowers and lawn which seemed to thrive under her care.

She loves animals. Among her pets are three dogs and two Siamese cats, which are her constant companions. Two miniature English sheepsdogs bounce around her as she goes about her work, as if they shared her enthusiasm for her new home in America. Mrs. Erickson was born in Youngal, Ireland, but because of the turmoil in the country her something else. They are the kind who make their dreams come true.

Mrs. Hugh Arterburn, HAGERMAN, has a cotton plant that is bearing cotton. Three squares, as the buds are called, set on in the later part of August and two fell off.

The third one has grown to the size of a golf ball. The blossoms are pink the first day, then turn white and close up, and the boll is formed. This boll grew to the size of a golf ball, swelling all the time, until it burst open into the about three-inch mass of cotton last week.

Mrs. Arterburn states the plant is 2 years old. The seeds were sent to her father, Paul C. Gay, TWIN FALLS, from Oklahoma, and she planted three of them.

Two died, but the lone survivor is about two feet tall. She keeps it in a five-gallon bucket, in full sunlight, and waters it about once a week. It has been kept in the house most of the time.

The leaf of the cotton plant resembles the leaf of a green bean.

Rupert Yule Mailings Gain

RUPERT, Dec. 28 — Rupert Postmaster E. M. Greer reported

Christmas mailing in Rupert during the 1963 season showed a slight increase over 1962. A total of 12,914 pieces of parcel post were handled between Dec. 1 and Christmas of this year, compared with 12,519 for the same period last year. A total of 187,833 letter cancellations were recorded in the office last year compared with 188,763 for this season.

THREE MEMBERS of Town and Country Bridge club exhibit gifts they made for other members of the organization during Christmas season. The practice of "hand made" gifts started nine years ago and, members admit, is getting rather involved as each tries to outdo the other in originality. Mrs. George Thorpe, Twin Falls, left, displays a translucent star made from colored glass and a reed frame, while Mrs. Robert Blastock, Jr., center, Filer, shows a fireplace garland made from magnolia leaves, pine cones, fruit and Christmas balls. Mrs. Gaylord Toler, Twin Falls, holds a wreath made of fruit, greenery, pine cones and spray paint. An original Christmas tree skirt applique and a centerpiece of Ponderosa pine with large candle are displayed on the table. (Times-News photo)

Kennedy Led Battle to End Defects

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — Before his death, John F. Kennedy lent his personal force to a crusade on behalf of children not yet born.

He took presidential note of thousands of the nation's most pitifully hurt—thousands whose injuries date from birth, and who he insisted had a right to be born well.

Likely he was remembering with compassion the tragedy of one girl, born to wealth 44 years ago, who could only answer life's challenges with frustration.

She is Rosemary, eldest of the late president's sisters, and heart of a family crusade against mental retardation. She is under care in a convent home.

Kennedy's presidential efforts took special aim on the broad problems that arise in pregnancy and birth, that add to the national toll of more than five million retarded Americans, and that produce each year some 250,000 deformed babies, some of them destined for mental retardation.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, telling of her daughter's early life, said she once found it difficult to talk about, but now, "I want people to know it should be talked about—not hidden. There is hope now."

As President, her son became the first to send congress a special message on the problems of mental retardation and illness. This month he was to have addressed the family-founded Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation in New York City, and present its awards to fighters against mental retardation.

Gift-Giving by Local Bridge Group Has Resulted in Involved Situations

Gift-giving sometimes practically gets out of hand.

Take, for instance, the situation as exists in the so-called Town and Country Bridge club. There are only eight members in the club, but the Christmas just past was the ninth in which members have participated in a gift exchange.

The exchange of gifts gets rather involved. With the first one, the members decided all gifts would have to be made personally—that is, no direct purchase could be made.

Result is that each year the situation gets more involved as each member tries to outdo the others.

"It all started as a joke," one club member said, "but now it is past that point. We are seriously thinking now that we should make entirely practical things and give them to people who really need them."

The club, which meets every other Thursday night throughout the year, is composed of eight women from Twin Falls and one from the Filer area.

The gift-making is all legal, the members point out. Names are drawn from a hat and "you make a gift for the name you draw."

Trying to describe the various gifts is difficult, members declare. There is a financial limit in each case, but this amount was not disclosed.

Club members include Mrs. George Thorpe, Mrs. Gaylord with the fact that many people do not recognize that they are taking drugs," said researchers. "A woman who has put a dropper of nose drops in each nostril nightly for two years will deny that she is 'taking any pills,'" they said. "Yet the effect of the nose drops on the blood vessels of the placenta and the placental bed is well known. The meticulous housewife who sprays her kitchen regularly with an insecticide is likewise not taking any drugs as she sees it."

At birth, doctors are on the alert to some disorders that can cause mental retardation if not caught in time. These range from incompatibilities in blood to disorders of metabolism.

Simple chemical tests of the infant's blood and urine can spot one disorder of metabolism—Phenylketonuria—that can cause mental retardation. Now doctors can detect it before it poisons the brain and correct it with diet.

There are at least a dozen drugs that can cause birth defects—from hormones to tranquilizers, from anticoagulants to some sulfa drugs.

DON'T MISS THIS GREAT EVENT OF Drastic Reductions!

LANDHOLDER-SPORTSMAN problem was one of many items on the agenda for discussion and action during the 29th Annual Idaho wildlife federation meeting in Twin Falls recently. Among those citizens donating their time and talents to wildlife activities were from left, Alvin Benson, Melba, chairman of the landholder-sportsman council; Lud Drexler, Twin Falls, district four federation chairman; and Sen. Don Fredericksen, Gooding, who was chairman of the council in past years. (Fish-game department photo)

Cooperation Between Sportsmen and Landholder Is Must for Idaho Agency

Idaho Fish-Game Department
BOISE, Dec. 28—Full cooperation between sportsmen, whether organized or not, and the Idaho fish and game department is a two-way street. Expansion of statewide fishing and hunting opportunities, under the Five-Point program for the future, involves money and other considerations, which even the Idaho Wildlife federation can not undertake on its own. And sportsmen, the beneficiaries of conservation and restoration programs in their many forms, hold the key to better relations between people who own the land and people who hunt on it.

about fishing or hunting, and perhaps closes the meeting by telling a few tall stories about "the big one that got away." It's still a good idea. To function properly, local clubs must have community projects, such as improving a public access area for hunting and fishing, developing a water-fowl area, maintenance of such areas, better landholder-sportsman relations, teaching hunter safety classes, especially on the firing ranges. These are some of the problems that organized sportsmen can help solve. Responsibility for good outdoor manners rests squarely on the sportsman. He is in the best position to do something about it. For the club which does not have a good program for promoting the Golden Rule, now is a good time to start. Donning a beat-up old fishing hat or a bright-colored hunting vest does not convey a normal, respectable, law-abiding citizen into a violator. Neither do the deeds of such irresponsible characters portray the actions of typical hunters and fishermen. But this needs repeating again, and again and again.

know the tremendous reproductive power of wildlife creatures in reproducing their own kind; why the average pheasant life is less than a year; why a lake will produce only so many pounds of fish in a season. These are things sportsmen's clubs can talk about and get expert reports from the men in the field. But by far the most important activity of any group of sportsmen lies in the great influence it can have on national and state legislation. A club which is affiliated with some other state, regional or national organization is far more effective than an isolated group or individual. Here is an example of a minority having more influence than the majority because the latter belongs to no club at all. It's the organized minority of sportsmen who are willing to study conservation plans, needs, shortcomings, to become well-informed conservationists. Thus, they are playing an important role in perpetuating Idaho's great fish and wildlife resources. This being the season for stock-taking and resolutions, why not be one of them? Happy New Year!

He added that the federated sportsmen's clubs, the Idaho Outdoor Association and individual sportsmen must become "go-betweens" with the fish and game department on one side and the public on the other. At the same meeting, Alvin Benson, Melba, chairman of the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council, carried out this theme by presenting a plaque to Milford Vaughn, Owyhee county rancher, as statewide Landholder-Sportsman of the Year, and six awards of merit. These went to Marvin Houck and Ed Houck, Boundary county farmers; Louis Breshers, Homedale farmer; Les Hohman, Spirit Lake sportsman; Elmer Annis, Twin Falls sportsman, and Mrs. Naomi Sweeney, Winchester farmer.

Responsibility for good outdoor manners rests squarely on the sportsman. He is in the best position to do something about it. For the club which does not have a good program for promoting the Golden Rule, now is a good time to start. Donning a beat-up old fishing hat or a bright-colored hunting vest does not convey a normal, respectable, law-abiding citizen into a violator. Robert Stuart Junior High School Students Do Research on Namesake
Quesnell and Mrs. Arthur Kleinkopf, began writing letters and making inquiries. Individuals, as well as institutions replied and supplied valuable information on the life of Robert Stuart. Replies from various states, and Canada and Scotland were gracious, and the students were impressed. From the Detroit Public Library came two bound volumes telling about the Stuarts. These were gifts from a private collection. From Washington, D.C., the Oregon Historical Society, Nebraska department of education, Wyoming department of education, Missouri department of education and also from the Idaho department of education came replies. Each reply aided the students in piecing together the story of Robert Stuart. And as the story began to fit, became more interesting. Characters known by name only began appearing.

Formal statements nominating the winners of these awards use a great many superlatives to say that the candidates were outstanding "for leadership in promoting local improvement in landholder-sportsman relations during the year 1963." For example, Vaughn, the "landholder-sportsman of the year" and busy-rancher, rarely has an opportunity to attend a sportsmen's club meeting. Nevertheless, he never has posted his 4,000 fenced acres to keep hunters out. His ranch is in prime sage grouse, antelope and deer range in the Big Springs-Battle creek country of Owyhee county. Marvin Houck and Ed Houck never have exhibited "no hunting" signs on their 1,000-acre ranch in Boundary county. Their fields are open to hunters of migratory waterfowl, grouse, pheasant and deer. Louis Breshers, Homedale farmer, has done an outstanding job to improve relations between farmers and sportsmen. Les Hohman helped remove the piling from the fill at Spirit Lake in north Idaho, thus making it safer and more attractive for boaters and swimmers. He also helped build the bath houses at the access beach.

Why it's important to manage the environment or habitat rather than birds, animals or fish needs teaching, as do the basic biological laws governing the balance of nature. Sportsmen should

Robert Stuart was born in Brig o'Turk, near Callander, Scotland, in 1785. The name Stuart evolved from Stewart, which evolved from Steward. That is being accomplished, the problem involved, the spirit involved in treating the patients, says Rhena Eckert, Dr. Schweitzer's daughter, a lab technician at the hospital when she isn't lecturing about it in Europe and America. There's a modern 600-bed hospital in Libreville. But says a village headman, "We go to Dr. Schweitzer's hospital to get well."

Mrs. Naomi Sweeney helped pioneer the landholder-sportsman program in 1952. Over the years she has maintained, "I will not close my land," which amounts to 10,000 acres under her control near Winchester. She was elected "Grassman-of-the-Year" by the Cattleman's association in the years 1961 and 1962. Elmer Annis, Twin Falls farmer and sportsman, contributed in another way, since he does not have thousands of acres to open for hunting and fishing. Working through his club, the Idaho Outdoor Association, he devotes many hours toward helping conserve the state's wildlife resources. Walter Priebe, Twin Falls, was given a special award for 50 years of service in sportsmen's work by the Southern Idaho Sportsmen's Association. There are many reasons why the sportsman should join a club. Even if the local organization does no more than show a film

Grew Defends Schweitzer's Medical Ways
LAMBARENE, Ga., Dec. 28 (AP)—Nearing the end of its 50th year in the jungle, Dr. Albert Schweitzer hospital finds some critics have tarnished its golden anniversary. They've said the hospital is dirty, primitive, outdated, a colonial remnant. "Everyone is entitled to his own opinion," replies the Nobel prize-winning doctor, musician, humanist, now nearing 89. But his staff is not as serene. "Nonsense," said Dr. Rolf Muller, chief surgeon at the hospital. "Money goes first for modern medicines and equipment." "Doctors, people, view medicine from their own frames of reference," says Dr. Richard Friedmann, senior physician. "We don't practice here as they do at Mt. Sinai. But New York methods will not work here just as our methods are not practical there." Families accompany patients to the hospital comforting them in the strange environment. Except for special diets, they cook for the patient under medical supervision. Some floors are bare earth. But the staff pitches in, pouring cement for a new ward, repairing buildings, providing the spiritual as well as medical care that comforts, heals. "Too many people visit Lambarene too briefly to understand

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Local Businessman, Bomber Pilot in World War II, Has Unique Souvenir

When it happened, Henry L. (Hank) Willis was sort of disgusted, but now that he has had plenty of time to think it over, he is somewhat happy. The incident which caused it all occurred when he was a first lieutenant during World War II, was in command of a B-17 bomber flying out of England over Germany and was "hit" by a piece of enemy flak.

HENRY L. WILLIS

Probably, in the back of his mind, he had visions of having a purple heart pinned on his chest after being wounded in action. This was not the case, however. When the bomber returned to England, Willis took the piece of flak, about half as big as his fist, out of his leg—well, not his leg but his pants leg. The metal, which could have severely wounded him, ended up between the pants material and his skin. He was not even scratched—He now has the piece of metal at home.

He was attached to the 366th bomb group and was flying out of a field at Thurleigh, England, about 50 miles north of London. Once his plane was so shot up he had to make an emergency landing at a French field, but on all the other 30 missions he flew he got back "home," although holes appeared in the bomber at various times as a result of enemy action.

A unique thing about his crew was that all members, including himself, were single. Even when his co-pilot received a plane of his own command, the replacement was a single man.

"It was easier that way," Willis said recently. "We could concentrate on the work cut out for us rather than wishing we were home with the wife and kids."

The trail from his birthplace on a farm near Gregory, S.D., to one of the community leaders and businessmen in Twin Falls, has been a long one. At the time of his birth his folks were farmers. That was in 1923. His mother died in 1935 and is buried near the family homestead. He was the fourth boy of six children. One, a brother, Wesley, was killed in China during World War II while serving as a P-38 pilot.

His local schooling was at a country school eight miles northwest of Dallas, S.D. It was the typical one-room, one-teacher school which flourished in the more isolated areas. There were 13 students—12 boys and one girl.

Somewhere along the line he skipped two grades, with the result when the family moved into the town of Gregory he and his brother Robert were in the same grade.

"I will always be convinced it was at the convenience of the teacher and not because of any brains I happened to have," Willis laughs.

It was in 1937 that the family moved to Gooding, where his father, E. J. Willis, opened and managed a Gamble's store. He and the children lived above the store and all took turns at the cooking and housecleaning. Later they moved into a home and a housekeeper was hired to do the work formerly done by the youngsters. After participating in band, orchestra and other musical activities, he was graduated from Gooding high school in 1938. He was only 16 years old at the time. After high school graduation he entered the Woodbury Business college in Los Angeles, but after a year the war was nearing so he returned to Gooding, where he signed up for the air force.

Before he was called to active duty, however, he was able to attend the University of Idaho, southern branch, now Idaho State university, for a semester.

He completed his boot camp at Lincoln, Neb., and was sent to the College of Idaho with a college training detachment.

From there he went to Santa Ana, Calif., for classification tests and was assigned to primary flight at Tulare, Calif., took his basic at Merced, Calif., and advanced at Douglas, Ariz., after graduation being commissioned a second lieutenant.

He was then assigned to first pilot school at Roswell, N.M., for B-17 bomber training.

He picked up his crew at Sioux City, Ia., and together they flew the plane to Scotland.

He then was assigned to the 366th bomb group and started out on the bombing flights which would see him complete 30 missions over enemy territory before his work was finished.

While he was flying out of England, his brother, Robert, was flying out of France and at home the father was operating a service station—the first step toward formation of a family business which later would result in establishment of the largest Nash motor dealership in the state.

While the boys were still in the service, the father was offered the Nash dealership in Twin Falls at the location which it has occupied since. Henry and Robert joined the father in partnership and later two other brothers, Lowell and Ernest, joined the organization. Only a sister, Mrs. Roger Vincent, Piler, and a half sister, Mrs. Mike Oliver, Moscow, are not connected with the operation.

Henry was married in 1949 to Rose Alban, daughter of Mrs. Delana Alban and the late Ray W. Alban, Gooding. They moved to Twin Falls, where the family business was located, and have lived here since. Their present address is 687 Cindy drive. They have three children, Steve, 13, a student at Robert Stuart Junior high school; Greg, 11, and Kathy, 8, both students at Morningstar school.

Henry engages in many community activities. The latest, and probably most exacting job, is that of president of the Civic Auditorium association, Inc., now in the midst of a fund-raising drive which it is hoped will enable the building of an auditorium in Twin Falls. In 1954 and again in 1958 he received the Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior citizen award for his community activities. He now is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Lions club. He also served on the board of that organization of only 24 members of this generation.

In 1964 he will advance to the post of exalted ruler of the Twin Falls Elks lodge. He is now leading knight. He is a member of the Dilettante board of directors and has participated in many of the productions sponsored by that group. A member of the Methodist church, he sings with the choir. He is known nationally in automotive circles, being a member of the advisory board for American Motors corporation. He is one of only 24 members of this one of only 24 members of this board scattered over the United States.

The Willis boys, who have been active in flying, are continuing their "hobby" at the local airport. Together they own a Beechcraft Bonanza which they use both in the business and pleasure fields.

He was, in turn, state treasurer and federal Indian agent. He died in 1848.

Robert Stuart Junior high school is the only school named in honor of the explorer, as far as the students at the school can determine.

A lawyer in Scotland asked the students to forward to him additional information gathered by the class. The student body at the new school has the permission of the "Clan Stuart" to display the "Stuart coat of arms" and wear the "Stuart tartans," the plaid colors of the Stuart family which are red, blue and green.

Most of the letters and inquiries sent out by the students have been answered. Their curiosity has been satisfied.

"It has been quite an experience, not only for the students, but for us as well," said Mrs. Quesnell and Mrs. Kleinkopf.

Rites Held for Terrance Brady

BURLEY, Dec. 28 — Funeral services for Terrance (Terry) Walter Brady were held Thursday at the St. James Episcopal church with Rev. George Quarterman officiating.

Palbearers were Jay Clum, Gary Post, Peter Snow, Jeff Caldwell, Harrison Powers and Jay Alldaffer.

Final rites were held at Sunset Memorial park, Twin Falls, under the direction of the Payne mortuary.

LEISURE TIME has resulted in Gerrit Peters, local pioneer, acquiring the hobby of rock hunting and related time-consuming activities such as the making of a candelabrum which he calls "Golden Inn." Made mostly of rock and glass, the miniature structure has interior lighting. A handmade cane which he created is shown in front of the Inn. The hobby, he declares, has been the incentive that has kept him active. (Times-News photo)

Future Looks Good for Couple After 53 Years in Area, 62 Years Married

 before they left, also by train. But, when they hit Twin Falls, the car was some place behind them.
 "That first night in Twin Falls was what could be called a 'lulu.' They took rooms at the Waverly hotel.
 "We were tired from the long trip and so we went to bed early that evening," Peters said. "It was nearly midnight when the commotion started.

"One of the women was bitten by a bedbug and she got up and rapped at the door of the room where the rest of us were. She had the bug stuck on a pin. You should have heard the commotion among the women. Not one of us rested the rest of the night."

Peters recalls that the next day "we took a look at the town and country and it looked very good to us." He rented a house, as did Cornell.

Then Guy and he bought a half-acre of land on Addison avenue east. It was the block between the present Washington school and the Medical Arts building, which also houses the offices of the Sawtooth national forest.

 "We built two houses on the lot and did all the work ourselves, but the plumbing, Guy moved into one and my wife and I and the youngsters moved into the other. It was still 1910. I remember vividly that there were just two houses on the 40-acre plot, of which the Washington school property is now a part."

The following year, 1911, he constructed another house at the corner of Elm street and Addison avenue and moved into that location after selling the original home. Later he purchased 10 acres of land on which the old Magic Valley Memorial hospital stands, just east of the present hospital. He planted the entire acreage in apple trees.

Then the Peters had a couple of visitors who changed their way of life for awhile. One was a Hollister banker and the other a surveyor. The idea was to establish a new town (this was 1912) in the area of the newly completed Salmon dam. They wanted a Hollander to help put the plan over and Peters had been selected.

Riding the train from Twin Falls to Hollister, Peters met the banker and surveyor and they toured the area. In a hack, pulled by "two fine horses." The next day the banker and surveyor offered Gerrit and Guy Peters a half interest in the townsite "for the same price it would cost them to get an advertisement in a Holland newspaper to get a Holland settlement started."

Within a short time many Dutch families had moved to the area, coming from Manhattan, Mont., and Grangeville, among other places. The result was that these early arrivals did so much "free" advertising that more advertisements were not needed.

Within two years there were 22 buildings at the new town of Amsterdam. Included were a school, livery barn, grain elevator, lumberyard, hotel, real estate office, blacksmith shop, church, general store and a post-office—in the store, Gerrit Peters was recommended by then Congressman Addison T. Smith for the job of postmaster and he became the first one for the newly-bull community.

By 1914 the item—lack of water—was evident and the settlers were in trouble. The company could not deliver the water to which the landowners were entitled. Owners on the 60,000-acre project finally banded together and refused to pay their assessments until they received water. Court action resulted in the Salmon Land and Water company being ordered to reduce the project to 35,000 acres. During the long litigation, many settlers gave up in disgust and left.

Even the town started to disappear as business stopped. The store, owned by Peters, was traded for a farm, but even then it was found that the two families could not make a living from an 80-acre tract, so Guy bought another place near Hollister and Gerrit bought his half interest and took full possession of the first farm.

Today, the community of Amsterdam is little more than a memory. Only the school (used for storage), the old hotel, now used as a home, and one other building remain. Even travelers down nearby highway 93 fail to realize the nearness of a ghost town.

After the water trouble, only four families remained in the area. Gerrit's land finally totaled more than 400 acres, but even though he bought water shares there were years when not enough water existed.

The Peters' son, Leonard, still lives on the home place. In 1942 Mr. and Mrs. Peters moved to Twin Falls, where they have resided since.

Thus, the Dutchmen got a toe-hold in what now is Magic Valley and many of their descendants remain here.

The dream of a settlement of Hollanders went up in haze, but at least, Gerrit contends, the venture showed that "the stickers are the winners because the four families of us who stuck with it can take care of ourselves now."

U2 Designer Winces When Craft Falls

BURBANK, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP)—Every time the communists shoot down an "Angel," Clarence L. Johnson winces.

"Angel" is the nickname of a glider-winged jet sky spy called the U2, Johnson designed it.

That's one reason Johnson winces. The other is the certain knowledge that soon he will be besieged by questions he must not answer about one of the world's most secret aircraft.

Johnson hates to answer questions.

"I learned a long time ago," he says, "you can't put your foot in your mouth if you keep your mouth shut."

Four times the communists have shot down U2s—once over the Soviet Union, once over Cuba, twice over China.

After the first U2 incident, May 1, 1960, Johnson established a policy: He retreated into his "skunk works"—a hush-hush section of Lockheed aircraft corporation that he heads as vice president of advanced research—and simply was never available.

For three years he remained aloof, improving the U2 and, rumor has it, adapting its photographic cargo to Lockheed-built Agena satellites, which the air force uses as Samos spy siles.

Recently Johnson stepped into the limelight long enough to accept an air force association trophy for "providing the free world with one of its most valuable instruments in defense of freedom," the U2.

Before returning to the privacy of his office, Johnson granted a rare and exclusive interview.

From this emerged a portrait of an unsung genius who four times has come up with radical military aircraft designs the nation urgently needed: The twin-fuselage P38 of World War II, the jet-powered P80, the almost wingless P104 and the U2.

The interview was pegged on the opening, at the California Museum of Science and Industry, of a history of aviation featuring models of 60 Lockheed planes, more than half of which Johnson helped develop.

They included these firsts claimed for Johnson:

—The first all-pressurized cabin for high-altitude flight, in the XC35.

—The first broad, stubby propellers—to take a bigger bite in the air and thus increase range without excessive fuel consumption—in the B37, which the navy used as a radar picket and called the PVL.

—The first wing-like tanks, on the P80, as a way to increase fuel capacity and still keep the wing thin and fast.

—The shark-shaped, triple-tailed Constellation, the first over 600-mile-an-hour transport.

—The first thin, stubby wings for supersonic flight, on the 1,500 miles per hour P104.

—The U2, first jet capable of loitering for hours at altitudes reportedly about 80,000 feet, out of sight and out of range of most aircraft defenses.

Slick Roads Blamed for 2 Mishaps

RUPERT, Dec. 28—Slick roads were blamed for two auto accidents in Minidoka county Thursday, according to the Minidoka County sheriff's office.

In an accident at 2 p.m. Thursday on a county road 5 miles northwest of RUPERT, a 1959 Oldsmobile driven by Robert R. Oxarango, 35, Rupert, was struck by a 1961 Chevrolet Corvair driven by Warren W. Anderson, 24, Blackfoot. No one was injured and no citations were issued.

C. Clark Barlow, 34, Heyburn, driving a 1962 Ford truck, was hit from the rear when he slowed down to make a right turn four miles south of Paul at 3:45 p.m. Thursday. Richard D. Blincoe, 40, Heyburn, driving a 1963 Ford truck, told sheriff's officers he didn't see the signal for the turn and couldn't slow down in time to avoid the collision.

Minor damage was reported to both trucks. There were no injuries or citations.

127 Baskets Are Given for Christmas

RUPERT, Dec. 28—Mrs. Grace King of the department of public assistance reported that 127 Christmas baskets of food, toys and clothing were delivered in Minidoka county to needy families.

The Rupert Elks, who delivered 75 baskets, took care of the majority of the needy families, according to Mrs. King.

Mrs. King stressed the need for a central committee to refer names of the needy families as duplications were made in some instances and several families were omitted.

Those assisting the Elks in filling Christmas baskets were Job's Daughters, American Legion auxiliary, Rupert, American Legion auxiliary, Paul, Minidoka Community church; Christian church; LDS church; Elks club, Burley and Heyburn; Paul Elks club, and several private parties.

Former Burley Resident Dies

BURLEY, Dec. 28—Mrs. Edith Phillips Wildoner, 63, former Burley resident, died Thursday at Tempe, Ariz., of a lingering illness.

She was born Sept. 11, 1910, at Burley, and married Dewey Wildoner.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter and her mother, all at Tempe. Also surviving are one sister and a half sister.

Graveside services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Pleasant View cemetery, Burley, with Oleen Dummer officiating. Friends may call at the McCulloch funeral home, Burley, Tuesday until time of services.

EARLY-BIRD ICE skater, Bruce Turner, Declo, inspects the new rink being constructed at Burley. Turner decided to hang his skates back on the wall and wait until the rink was completed. The rink measures 85 by 185 feet and compares in size to the one at Sun Valley. It will be the largest commercial outdoor

Oakley Veteran Tells of Life at Base in Korea

Continued From Page 19 There is practically no waste to Korean rice production. Ropes, mats, sacks, clothing, almost everything they have, is made from one form of the rice plant or another.

Something else Smith recalls is that there is practically no religion in this area of the world. Only an estimated five per cent of the people are Christians and 11 per cent practice Buddhism. With 60 per cent of the world's population in the Orient, he feels this is rather significant that most of the people have no religious ties.

Funerals are primarily noisy affairs. Women aren't allowed in the procession (at least Smith never was able to see any), but the higher the rank of the dead person the bigger the funeral. Children carry gaily-decorated banners ahead of the procession, and paid mourners weep and wail, along with all kinds of chanting to add to the confusion.

The brightly decorated casket adorned with dragons is carried on a platform by 12 boys. There are no cemeteries and a person can be buried anywhere. But his station in life determines how high up on one of the mountainsides or how low down by the sea he will be buried. If buried by the sea, he is a person from the lowest class of life, Smith comments.

The people live mostly on their rice and eat very little red meat, but occasionally they buy dog or ox meat from the butcher shops. The U. S. government is trying to build up a deer herd for their benefit, as there is much foliage and ideal conditions for deer.

Captain Smith is visiting his family and friends and then he and his wife, Mary, his two sons, Douglas and Jimmy, and his daughter, Peggy, will move to Ft. Bliss, Tex., where he will be a member of the staff and faculty of the U. S. army guided missile center.

"Six or seven stalks of rice are used to bundle each small pile. The farmers then carry them from the field in bundles on their backs in an 'A' frame, which is a pack frame constructed of wood. I have seen them carry as much as 300 pounds at one time on this contraption with the aid of a staff stick.

"They may go as far as a 100 yards at a time and then sit down to rest," Smith notes. "This goes on all the way until they get to their destination."

New Ice Skating Rink at Burley to Compete With River's Frozen Surface

Continued From Page 19 A machine is being constructed to keep the surface of the ice smooth. Paulson realizes he is competing with the frozen surface of the river and the many ponds.

The outdoor rink is enclosed by retaining walls. It is constructed to be converted to outdoor dancing in the summer.

The ice is frozen artificially, with pipes buried in a concrete slab.

Ammonia gas is fed through brine pipes to create the ice. Two 75-horsepower compressors supply the power to freeze the ice. Under normal conditions only one compressor would be required. However, when the temperatures begin to rise, the other compressor will kick in to keep the ice frozen.

Lighting Contest Award Winners To Be Selected

RUPERT, Dec. 28—Winners in the Rupert Christmas lighting contest, sponsored annually by the Chamber of Commerce, will be announced early next week, according to Mrs. Helen Dickinson.

A $25 grand prize is being offered for the best decorations in the area, with three separate prizes being offered in each of the four divisions—commercial, residential, rural and church.

There will be a $15 first prize, $10 second prize, and a $5 third prize in each group.

Judges for the contest are Mrs. Dickinson, William J. Henscheid and Edward Engert.

Infant Honored

BURLEY, Dec. 28—Gravestone services for Dewey Quincy Vannatta, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. (Smoky) Vannatta were held Friday at the Pleasant View cemetery with Bishop Ralph McCombs officiating.

There will be a $15 first prize, $10 second prize, and a $5 third prize in each group.

Judges for the contest are Mrs. Dickinson, William J. Henscheid and Edward Engert.

Storage Building Burns at Paul

PAUL, Dec. 28—A storage building at the Paul labor camp was destroyed by fire at 9:15 p.m. Thursday. The frame building was used by the Minidoka county weed control department and county agents, but contained nothing valuable.

Elmer Felzer, acting chief of the West End fire department, said the cause of the blaze was undetermined. He noted there was no electrical wiring on the building and the door—padlock was intact. There were no farm laborers occupying any buildings.

Damage was estimated at $800. Ten volunteers answered the alarm.

Gooding Man Is Honored at Base

GOODING, Dec. 28—Staff Sergeant George L. Wilkinson, son of Mrs. Anna Wilkinson, route one, Gooding, was presented with his United States Air Force certificate of retirement during a recent ceremony at Mountain Home air force base. Wilkinson has more than 21 years of active military service which includes service during World War II and the Korean conflict. At the time of his retirement he was assigned to the ninth strategic aerospace wing.

ALL WAS SPICK AND SPAN inside the Shoshone Baptist church as Christmas services, 1962, got under way. Redecorating work was completed and church members gathered for the annual service.

Burning of Shoshone Baptist Church Brings Back Memories of Early Days

By MRS. HARRELL THORNE
SHOSHONE, Dec. 28 — One of the earliest structures and landmarks in one of the older communities of southern Idaho is to be leveled.

The Shoshone Baptist church, gutted by fire in the early Sunday morning hours Dec. 15 soon will be only a memory in the hearts of its people. The old steeple, with its weather vane against the sky long has been a part of the village scene.

The rustic old church was flanked by a wide lawn, where there had been a grove of trees when the church was first built. Here, on Sunday mornings and various other occasions, horses, buggies and wagons were tied. This old grove was the scene of many a Sunday school and church picnic.

With the passing of the horse and buggy and the advent of the automobile, the grove disappeared. Now the old building itself must give place to something new and modern.

A new church, however, may take time, as there was very little insurance on the old structure.

The interior of the church had in the past year, been extensively remodeled and decorated. New pews had been installed, each one donated in the memory of one whose life had been part of the life of the church.

On Dec. 14, the Rev. Paul Winkler and the trustees of the building had just installed new pulpit furniture, a gift of Dr. John McMahon, Pocatello, who had presented the furniture to the church in memory of his parents, Robert J. and Florence McMahon. The parents were charter members and lifelong leaders of the church fellowship.

Church trustees working the day of the fire were Derald Lehman, Ed Haak and Ernest Adkins. They had left the building. The Rev. Mr. Winkler and Edward Bayliss were putting on the final and finishing touches, about 2 a.m., for a "surprise for the congregation."

They noticed smoke and discovered fire in the furnace room in the basement. Bayliss summoned the fire department, while the Rev. Mr. Winkler carried water from the adjoining building. Bayliss returned to carry out pulpit furniture.

The pews were removed when the fire was under control, and although blackened, it is thought they may be refinished and possibly most of them restored.

Through the generosity of the Episcopalian people in Shoshone, church services were held at 11 a.m. that Sunday morning as usual, in the newly completed Episcopal church building which had only three months before been damaged by fire when struck by lightning.

The Baptists called a meeting of the membership after the services and resolutions of thanks were drawn and sent to all of the churches, lodges, organizations and individuals who had shown generosity.

The evening of this Dec. 16, the Baptists met with the Assembly of God congregation, with the Rev. Mr. Winkler delivering the sermon.

Even though the building was gone, not a service was lost.

The history of the Baptist church goes back to Sept. 5, 1890, when a group of seven men and women met in a rock schoolhouse in Shoshone. These seven dedicated themselves to organize a Baptist church and entered into a covenant.

On Sept. 13, 1898, they drew up articles of faith and the first membership roll numbered 12. The Baptist missionary who assisted in the church organization was a man by the name of Howard Bowler, whose home church was in the then thriving community of Bellevue.

The first pastor was his father, the Rev. Edwin Bowler, who, with his family, served the church until his death in 1900. The missionary son then returned to Shoshone and served until 1902. It was during this time that the present church building was erected.

The church clerk's minutes read "Oct. 1, 1901. Plans were commenced for the building of a place of worship. Lots were secured from Charles Hansen on the north side of the river for $150, and the deed was made to Brothers R. J. McMahon, T. B. Beck and J. M. Rogers, trustees. It was decided to build a stone building. Contract was let to M. T. Otis, Hagerman.

F. M. Crandall did the carpentry work. The church was not ready until June 22, 1901, when the first service was held.

It should be remembered that, at this time, the building was lighted with kerosene lamps and heated by a huge, potbelled stove that stood in one corner.

In 1909 the church filed articles of incorporation and was incorporated for 50 years. About 1911 the steeple was built and a project started to purchase a bell.

The children of the Sunday school were enthusiastic in support of the bell.

In 1919, excavation was made under the building and a furnace was installed. Then came the addition of an annex across the back of the original structure. The records show marked increase in membership at this time.

In 1946, the church featured its 50th anniversary. An invitation was sent to the Rev. Howard Bowler, founding father, who had risen to position of executive secretary of the Northern Baptist convention. Word was received he was too ill to make the trip. However, another former pastor, the Rev. Walter Smith, Washington state, did come and gave the anniversary address.

Plans for 1964 included an impressive dedication service, when the people hoped to share with the community the beauty of their church interior and furnishings.

These plans are not discarded, only changed, church members affirm. The Dec. 18 business meeting was attended by over 100 persons willing and eager to get on with the new project of restoring to the old building site a new church.

Idaho's Demo Chief Blasts Hailey Civil Rights Stand

Lloyd J. Walker, Twin Falls, state Democratic chairman, has issued a statement concerning the resolution recently passed by the Hailey Chamber of Commerce condemning civil rights legislation now before congress.

Walker, who was born and raised in Hailey, said the resolution stated that the measures were "a long leap to communism."

"It was with shock and disbelief that I read the resolution on civil rights adopted by the Hailey Chamber of Commerce," Walker said. "One might expect such a document to emerge from many places, but never from Hailey."

"Those of us who take great pride in the deep family roots we have in the Wood river country have been proud of the great tradition of tolerance in which we were raised.

"Our town may have been a small mountain town, but we never knew there were such dirty words in the language as nigger, and we never knew that a man had no right to think, speak or live as he believed.

"We were raised to believe that all men were born equal and all men had an equal right to share in the great material wealth which is our country.

"A group using the name Hailey to label the right for freedom as a 'long leap toward communism' shatters those of us who were trained there.

"One month ago we all pledged ourselves to stop the peddling of hate in our country. We all pledged we would forget the type of language used in this so-called resolution, because we all recognized it was this type of stupidity that created the atmosphere in which our President was shot. "If we truly have reached the place where men can no longer honestly fight for their brothers and can no longer disagree without being labeled as traitors, then our system of government has failed.

"I, for one, do not believe this condition has arrived. President Kennedy conceived of a civil rights bill and I, like many millions of other Americans, who believe in the absolute dignity of each man support such a measure, through open discussion some bill supported by the majority of our citizens will be passed.

"Do you honestly believe we are traitors attempting to destroy our system? If you do, then your statement on communism was correct. If you do not, then in the name of this great nation and in the tradition of the valley you now represent, quit peddling the mental filth which engenders the hatred we all pledged to destroy."

Dance Slated

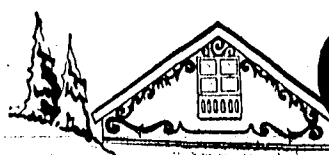

HOLLISTER, Dec. 28 — Hollister Grange will hold its second annual New Year's Eve Teen-Age and College Student dance for Hollister community youths and their friends at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 31 at the Grange hall. There will be refreshments.

Mrs. Heber Loughmiller and David Chadwick are co-chairmen for the dance. Games will be played.

CHRISTMAS 1963 at the Shoshone Baptist church presented a vastly different view than that taken just a year ago. Fire had destroyed the structure and members were forced to hold services in a "borrowed" location. The early morning blaze started while the minister and an aide were preparing for the Christmas season. Both before and after photos were taken by the Rev. Paul Winkler. Church members are formulating plans to rebuild the burned structure.

SO YOU ONLY HAD A DOLLAR WHEN YOU CAME TO THIS COUNTRY? HOW DID YOU INVEST IT?
THAT'S JUST WHAT IT COST TO WHEE HOME FOR MONEY!

I'VE DISCOVERED A LIQUID THAT WILL DISSOLVE EVERYTHING!
FINE BUT WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO KEEP IT IN?
BEFORE I PRONOUNCE SENTENCE ON HIM, ARE YOU SURE THE PRISONER IS THE MAN WHO STOLE YOUR CAR?
AFTER THE DEFENSE COUNSEL GOT THROUGH CROSS-EXAMINING ME, I WASN'T SURE I EVER HAD A CAR!

WILL YOU STUDENTS PLEASE STOP EXCHANGING NOTES?
WE WEREN'T EXCHANGING NOTES WE WERE PLAYING CARDS!
MAY WANT TO ENROLL HERE, PROF. SMART! WHAT ARE YOUR TERMS FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS?
LOAFERS, DEAD-BEATS AND GOOF-OFFS!

YOU'VE TOLD ME LOTS OF STORIES, UNCLE AMOS, BUT DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING YOU NEVER TOLD ME ABOUT?
NO, ALVIN, M'LAD WHAT COULD IT BE?
WELL, YOU NEVER TOLD ME ANYTHING ABOUT SMUGGLING, DO YOU KNOW ANY SMUGGLING STORIES?
DO I KNOW ANY SMUGGLING STORIES? ARE YOU SERIOUS?

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE

EGAD, ALVIN, DO YOU MEAN TO SAY I NEVER TOLD YOU ABOUT THE FAMOUS ME-SNACKLE SMUGGLING CASE? I WAS WITH SCOTLAND YARD AND WORD CAME THAT A HUGE FORTUNE IN GEMS STOLEN IN PERSIA WOULD BE SMUGGLED INTO ENGLAND!
DROP THE TYNSWORTH CASE, HAD YOU HOP OVER TO HARWICH? SLIP! M'SNACKLE IS COMING OVER ON THE EVENING BOAT FROM HOLLAND AND MAY TRY TO RUN IN SOME OF THE GEMS FROM THE PERSIAN JOB!
RIGHTO, CHIEF?
I SPOTTED 'SLIP' THE MOMENT HE CAME IN FOR CUSTOMS INSPECTION. THE MEN WENT THRU HIS BAG WITH A FINE TOOTH COMB, BUT FOUND NOTHING!
EVERYTHING IS IN ORDER, SIR!
THANK YOU!

EGAD, MEN YOU'RE LETTING THIS SMOOTH GENT WALK OUT WITH ABOUT 100,000 ROUNDS STERLING IN GEMS IN HIS HAND!
YOU'RE FULL OF ALE! THE ONLY THING IN MY HAND IS A POKE FOR YOUR JANN!
YES! I SAID HIS HAND!

EXAMINE THE HANDLE OF HIS SUITCASE, MEN!
WELL, BASH ACONYAN ME TO THE YARD FOR A BIT OF A CHAT OVER OUR FISH AND CHIPS, EH?
BUT HOW DID YOU GUESS, UNCLE AMOS, THAT TH' JEWELS WERE IN TH' HANDLE OF TH' SUITCASE?
I DIDN'T GUESS, LAD! IT WAS MY GENIUS FOR DETECTION! I NOTICED THAT THE HANDLE OF THE SUITCASE WAS MOIST FROM HAND PERSPIRATION CAUSED BY HIS NERVOUSNESS!

HA--NOSY HOOPLE, FROM THE YARD? I SUPPOSE YOU SUSPECT HIM, MAJOR?
HOLD A BIT, YOU THAT STRIPPED ALL RIGHT, LET THEM SEARCH ME!

THAT 'FLAMM-LOOKIN' LITTLE MAN' YOU MENTIONED IS MY HUSBAND!

OH, I'M SO SORRY, M'AM-- I MEAN I'M NOT SORRY 'HE'S YOUR HUSBAND' I MEAN-- UH, GOODBYE!

I WAS SO EMBARRASSED WHEN YOU ASKED OUR NEW NEIGHBOR...

YOU WERE EMBARRASSED? YOU COULD HAVE KNOCKED ME FLATTER 'N A FLOUNDER WITH A FEATHER-- AN' THAT WOMAN LOOKED LIKE SHE'D LIKED TO HAD THAT FEATHER ON A CLUB!

I GET SO MAD! WHEN MY BIG OL' MOUTH GETS TO FLAPPIN' IT'S BIGGER THAN THE GRAND CANYON AN' WINDIER THAN A TROPICAL HURRICANE!

I'M GONNA MAKE A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION TO LOCK MY MOUTH SHET 'N THROW AWAY THE KEY!

YOU CAN'T DO THAT, DOR!

IF YOU CAN'T OPEN IT YOU CAN'T EAT, AND YOU'LL WASTE AWAY TO NOTHING!

ROOR ME! MY BIG OL' MOUTH IS MY WORST ENEMY-- EVERY TIME I OPEN IT I EITHER GETS FATTENED OR FLATTENED!

THINK OF IT-- ALMOST 1964!

JUST A FEW DAYS AND WE'RE INTO A NEW YEAR!

THAT'S WHEN SOME PEOPLE MAKE RESOLUTIONS!

I KNOW WHAT YOU'RE THINKING!

YOU AND I AND LILLIAN AND WILLIS COULD WELL AFFORD TO MAKE ONE GOOD RESOLUTION FOR 1964! I THINK MINE WILL BE NO MORE LATE MEALS!

GOOD FOR YOU! NOW LET'S SEE-- WHAT'S FOR ME?

I GUESS CUTTING OUT SMOKING WOULD BE THE BESTONE! A COUPLE OF DOCTORS HAVE TOLD ME TO!

SO HAVE I!

WE SURE HAD FUN SKATING!

YOU TWO SHOULD HAVE JOINED US!

BETTER STILL YOU TWO BETTER JOIN US-- WE'RE MAKING NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS!

I RESOLVED NOT TO HAVE ANY MORE LATE MEALS, AND YOUR FATHER TO CUT OUT SMOKING!

SO I GUESS IT'S MY TURN! OKAY, NO MORE ARGUMENTS ABOUT WHO DOES THE DISHES!

HOLD IT, BUDDY-- YOU'RE NOT GOING TO CHICKEN OUT ON THIS RESOLUTIONS DEAL! I CAN THINK OF A POZEN FOR YOU!

HA! FUN-NY! BUT I WILL MAKE ONE RESOLUTION-- AND THAT'S TO STUDY HARDER AND GET BETTER GRADES!

I KNOW-- LET'S MAKE A DEAL! THE FIRST ONE TO BREAK HIS RESOLUTION GIVES A DOLLAR TO EACH OF THE OTHERS!

COUNT ME IN!

HA! YOU EXPECT ME TO AGREE TO THAT?

... AND SHOOT MY ALLOWANCE FOR A WHOLE WEEK?

Face

AND STAY THERE TILL YOU LEARN TO BE A BETTER BOY!

I GONNA BE BETTER BOY... I GONNA BE BETTER BOY...

THANKS TO WENDY MASON (AGE 12) CHIPPAWA, ONT., CANADA

Boots CUT-OUTS

YOU SHOULD BE ASHAMED LOSING YOUR TEMPER LIKE THAT, HORACE!

YOU'RE RIGHT, BABE! I'LL MAKE A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION ABOUT THAT!

WHO TOOK MY PEN AND PAPER?

THANKS TO LINDA RICHARDSON (AGE 10) TUCSON, ARIZONA

WELL, HOW CAN I MAKE RESOLUTIONS IF SOMEBODY TAKES MY PEN AND...

HORACE!

I HEREBY RESOLVE TO HOLD MY TEMPER... I HEREBY RESOLVE...

I GONNA BE BETTER

THANKS TO SHARON HOEY (AGE 12) CLIFTON, N.J.

WHO SAYS BLACKIE BEAR DOESN'T LIKE BOOKS!

THIS NOTE FROM YOUR TEACHER SAYS YOU CAN'T READ! WHAT'S WRONG? SURELY THERE MUST BE ONE BOOK YOU FIND INTERESTING?

WHY, SURE, DAD! THERE'S ONE BOOK THAT ACTUALLY FASCINATES ME!

WISH I KNEW HOW THEY CUT THOSE LITTLE SEMICIRCULAR THUMB-HOLES IN THE SIDE OF THE--

... BIG DICTIONARY!!
