Sewer Needs Are Reported For Jerome

JEROME, Jan. 9—William Odomert, city engineer, reported to the city council Tuesday that the city sewer is working over capacity at the present time.

The sewer system has about 78 million gallons per day flowing into the plant, on a non-summer basis, he reports. Tests of the sewer were taken during the fall and early winter, Odomert pointed out, but summer usage would be higher.

Private consumption amounts to about 15 gallons per person per day of water. The Ida Gem Dairyman, Inc. discharges about 45 million gallons per day into the sewer system.

Maximum flow at the plant is 78 million gallons per day for a short time.

"The flow is not the only problem, according to the report. The plant efficiency and plant load, in addition to the flow of sewage, is determined by biochemical oxygen demand—the amount of oxygen required for the biological decomposition of dissolved organic solids in polluted water, Odomert explained. The biochemical oxygen demand is related to the amount of oxygen needed to decompose sewage.

The biochemical oxygen demand of 200 parts per million. The Jerome plant is 225 parts per million.

The Ida Gem Dairyman association is depositing the equivalent of a population of 1,000 people in an additional 100 parts per million," Odomert said. "The total load is equivalent to a community of 12,000 people."

Because of the high biochemical oxygen demand, the city sewer has only 78 per cent efficiency, the engineer said.

To compensate for the high BOD rate the city has had to add more chlorine to kill the bacteria. Last year the city used 25 pounds of chlorine per day. Preliminary studies this year indicate that 75 pounds per day will be needed.

According to the report the problems can be solved by installing an additional filter at a cost of about $150,000 to $200,000.

The original design of the plant is that improvements could be made without having to build a new plant, Odomert explained.

Odomert displayed charts showing the rates charged. The revenue being collected at the present time will not take care of all the necessary repairs and maintenance costs, the report said.

Odomert said he did not make any recommendations concerning rates. The sewer will be discussed further at the next meeting.

A building permit was issued to remodel the Oscar Ford residence.

John T. Siddle, Jr., appeared before the council, representing the First Presbyterian church. He presented the fire and police department's check for $248 each for the renovation for the fire and police protection given to the church.

The council members voted to repay the bartender's license of $248. After the appeal a bartender will not need a license to work.

Thomas P. Mahan was appointed as the city accountant.

Council members voted to sell a parking space at the corner of Main and Lincoln streets for a police vehicle.

Commander McGill reported on a special meeting held with the county commissioners to complete plans for the hiring of a service officer to help veterans, their widows and dependents in securing benefits and working out other problems involved with veterans.

Funds have been appropriated for a part-time officer to assist in this service, Odomert has been invited to participate in this service jointly, but at present no definite action has been taken.

The committee pointed out that the two counties would join a full time officer could be hired to service both counties. The total number of veterans in both counties is approximately 1,200.

Registration for dancing lessons will be held 8 p.m. Monday at the Legion hall. Lessons will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cortes and will be held each Monday evening for 10 weeks at the Legion hall. There is a charge for the lessons and both high school students and adults are invited.

Atom Cutback Made Possible By Stockpile

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—The cutback in production of atomic explosives announced by President Johnson Wednesday was made possible by a 500 per cent increase in the United States stockpile of nuclear weapons in the past three years.

This was the word relayed by administration officials in the wake of Johnson's disclosure that enriched uranium output would be reduced 20 per cent and four plutonium reactors would be shut down.

A savings of about 100 million dollars—and a loss of about 2,000 jobs—was anticipated for the fiscal year 1965 which begins next July 1.

Officials said that the nation's nuclear forces will not be decreased in any way although the rate of increase in stockpiled nuclear weapons will be slowed.

These stockpiled weapons are now reported to total tens of thousands.

Olen T. Seaborg, chairman of the atomic energy commission, said three of the plutonium reactors to be closed are at Hanford, Wash., and the other at Savannah river near Aiken, S.C. The Hanford shutdowns are to take place between Jan. 1 and July 1, 1965, the Savannah river closing on July 1, 1964.

The reduction in enriched uranium output will be divided among three plants, one each at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky.; and Portsmouth, O.

The officials said 2,000 of the jobs eliminated would be at Hanford, 100 at the Savannah River and 400 distributed among the Oak Ridge, Paducah and Portsmouth uranium production plants.

Seaborg estimated 31 million dollars would be saved in fiscal 1965 by the cutback in enriched uranium production and 15 million dollars by closing the plutonium reactors.

Other officials said the reduction in planned purchases of raw materials would mean a savings of another 50 million dollars during the year.

Seaborg said the closings would not play any way affect plants to begin operation this year of the AEC's most modern reactor, known as the "Westinghouse Reactor," at Hanford.

League Plans Session for Gen Officials

CALDWELL, Jan. 9 (AP)—All municipal officials in the state are urged to attend a training session Feb. 1, sponsored jointly by the Idaho Municipal League and the College of Idaho.

The league is geared principally for "intermediate" officials, said Ed Stumm, executive director of the league. But incumbents will find the all-day session informative and educational.

Invited speakers will cover a wide range of city government, said Stumm, executive director of the league.

He said this is the first such workshop for municipal officials and its success will determine whether there will be more.

He said Idaho has approximately 2,000 persons holding administrative jobs.

Stumm said every official "conscientiously attempting to serve his community" should participate.

Groups Work For Better Rail Rates

BOISE, Jan. 9 (AP)—A group of state agricultural organizations met Wednesday to plan a program to achieve "beneficial" freight rates for Idaho products.

The group announced it "explored the possibility" of obtaining a freight rate "expert" to plan on behalf of the state in freight rate cases affecting Idaho shippers.

West Idaho wheat commission administrator, said that since Idaho wheat is the state's largest production out of state, transportation was the greatest single economic factor in the state's economy.

He said the commission's duties at the meeting.

"Nothing would provide greater benefit for our state than favorable adjustments in shipping costs," West said.

State officials who met with the commodity men were Atty. Gen. Allan O. Sheppard, Agriculture Commissioner Stanley Terrell and Public Utilities Commission Chairman Ralph Wickham.

Representing the agricultural industries were Wheat Commission Chairman Dick Smith, Rexburg; Ben Barlow, Hamilton; and the Idaho Bean Commission; Harvey Schweindman, Boise; and the Potato and Onion Commission; George V. Emmett, chairman of the Potato Commission; and Dick Kellert, traffic chairman of the Idaho-Oregon Fruit and Vegetable association.

West said another meeting of the group would be held within a month to further discuss the proposed program under way.

Pants Seat Won't Fly Rocket Plane

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Jan. 9 (AP)—Pilot Joe S. Edwards Jr. was ejected from his rocket plane Wednesday to see if he could fly his rocket plane by the seat of his pants—and ran into more trouble than he anticipated.

His air seat, altimeter and fuel gauges failed in the top of his 3,116-mile-per-hour flight to 135,000 feet, leaving him with even fewer instruments than a normal pilot.

Edwards, a 34-year-old air force captain on his third flight in the rocket plane, was ejected safely, with this comment about his first-time speed-of-sound flight.

"Man, you sure can't sit on the edge of your seat in this thing," he said.

He was referring to acceleration forces which pressed him into his seat with "more than twice the pressure of normal gravity."

The 152 mother ship, which launched the X-15 215 miles northeast of here also ran into trouble when one of its engines quit just before the drop.

It limped home, however, without further difficulty.

Edwards had planned to shut off his electronic autopilot to see what would happen to a space ship if it blacked out.

He failed during the critical phase of re-entry into the atmosphere.

The unexpected failure of his autopilot-instrumented did not stop him.

Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated to $400 and to the International $150.

Idaho Education Group Is Impatient Over Use of Uncertified Instructors

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Idaho Education association is growing impatient over employment of uncertified teachers by Idaho's public-school districts.

Elmer Crowley, executive secretary of the statewide teacher organization, said the state should be considering a possible law to bring a halt to the practice.

The matter currently is under study by lawyers, he indicated, and if a report expected from the attorney general by Feb. 1 shows nothing is being done to weed out uncertified teachers, action may be forthcoming.

Crowley first voiced the IEA threat of litigation last fall when he said the state should be considering a possible law to bring a halt to the practice.

Since then, public instruction Sup. D. P. Enckling has stated that funds will be cut off from the state level to those districts violating the law by employing teachers without proper certification.

However, since reports double-checking questionable cases still are not back from the districts involved, Enckling said there will be no state action until the Jan. 15 allotment to the districts. The next allotment is April and that's eight months after the school year began.

Crowley said he and his association are adamant in their belief that only properly certified teachers should instruct Idaho's public school children.

He noted the rigid requirements that must be met by doctors, lawyers and other professional persons and asked why education should be treated any differently. He recalled that increases in teacher salaries and the state's share of the cost of education are strictly enforced.

"Why wink at one law and not the other?" Crowley asked. "Why uphold one law to the letter and not the other?"

He said the department of education has not informed the department of their in a certified status. Still others might be uncertified teachers who have been employed in violation of the law, it will be up to the department and the IEA to determine what happens next.

In some cases, the state board of education, which meets in Boise next month, could waive certain certification requirements and permit some teachers to remain in the classroom.

Crowley thinks this would be wrong even if the board has such authority. Permitting uncertified teachers to instruct youngsters, he said not only is harmful to the state but to the teaching profession as well.

He indicated that if there were some uncertified teachers, as suspected, that clearance later by the board of education to teach would "change the fact" they were employed without certification.

He said that, he indicated, may be the end to the IEA's patience in the matter.

Romney Asks For Record State Budget

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 9 (UP)—Gov. George Romney, citing what he called the "extraordinary economy" in Michigan, asked the state legislature today to approve spending a record $65 million dollars next fiscal year.

Romney, 56, who has announced he would accept a draft for the U.S. military, said he would not make a public statement on his nomination, proposed the 1958-59 budget in a "state of the state" message to the legislature.

His proposal is a 74 million dollar increase over the present budget of $40 million.

The program is designed to meet two basic objectives: Romney said, "To protect the state from human rights, and to serve human needs."

Michigan's Republican-controlled legislature, which turned down Romney's fiscal reform program last year, received proposals from Romney for increased spending on mental health and for higher education. Romney said the record proposal for new laws. He made no mention of fiscal reform.

Romney called Dec. 29 what he called "Michigan's improved fiscal picture which he attributed to accomplishments in his first year in office."

Applause for Talk Reflects Skepticism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (UP)—President Lyndon B. Johnson told his first press conference Wednesday to get cracking. From their applause they weren't quite sure.

As Johnson delivered his first state of the union address, the humble message he gave to his only previous appearance on Nov. 27, five days after succeeding the slain President Kennedy, seemed largely empty.

Addressing house and senate members, Johnson said he had concluded the longest congressional session since 1943. Johnson said he would not make a final line of his speech. He said the speech was short—and it was. The time was short, but they already had so much to do.

"Then in case they had forgotten," Johnson said, "I have a few more things to say."

Johnson said he had a lot to say about the state of the union. He said he had a lot to say about the state of the union. He said he had a lot to say about the state of the union.

BOISE, Jan. 9 (UP)—Proposed changes in distributive education offerings in Idaho schools were discussed Wednesday by representatives of the state education and vocational education departments. It was the second of a series of such conferences this week to review the broad-based vocational education program proposed by the vocational department. Director Sam Olsen said suggestions for changes and refinements from personnel in the vocational department were offered. He said these will also be discussed with school administrators and institutions of higher education before the program is submitted to the state board of education for final approval. The vocational department began work in September on the broad-based program, which will make it possible for Idaho to take advantage of additional federal funds under the new vocational education act.

BOISE, Jan. 9 (UP)—U.S. District Judge Chas. A. Clark has denied the request of a McVell Island, Utah, prison inmate to set aside a five-year sentence on grounds that he was not mentally ill when it was pronounced. James H. Birdwell was sentenced to a five-year term in 1953 on a charge of interstate transportation of a motor vehicle. Birdwell testified that he was in a petition to set aside the sentence contending that he was in a mental disorder when he was arrested in court, and that his mental state wasn't considered in support of his contention. He said he had once confessed to a murder he never committed and had attempted to take poison. Judge Clark authorized Birdwell's return to Boise from McVell Island for a second court appearance.

BOISE, Jan. 9 (UP)—What apparently was a gentle bomb was blasted Wednesday for a rash of telephone calls to the Boise city police department. Officers said the calls came from residents of all sections of Boise. The incident was reported at 1:28 p.m. Some callers thought it was an earthquake, officers said. But it was not an alarm.

CALDWELL, Jan. 9 (UP)—Services are planned Saturday for Elmer E. Elliott, 68, assistant vice president of the Caldwell branch of the Bank of Idaho, who died Wednesday after a long illness. He began his career in Caldwell in 1911 and worked for 46 years in various capacities in the bank. He was born in Warren, Kellogg, Nampa and Homestead.

CALDWELL, Jan. 9 (UP)—A coroner's jury has ruled that no criminal act was involved in the death of Garland E. Ward, 38, of Caldwell. The jury reported it believed Ward died as a result of a blow to the head from a broken cue stick held by Middleton bartender Bill Jones. But it said there was no "criminal" manslaughter. Ward was struck in the head during an altercation while playing pool. Ward was taken to the hospital and died the next day. The jury said that no one assaulted him, except for the blow on the head.

Jordan Classes President's Talk as 'Utopian Dream'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (UP)—Sen. Len B. Jordan, R. Idaho, described President Lyndon B. Johnson's state of the union plea for reduced spending while asking for new and expanded federal programs as a "utopian dream."

The President would have us believe, said Jordan, "we can have Utopia where all our citizens would have milk, eggs and money from the U. S. federal government."

"I cannot see how we can have all this at a bargain rate," Jordan said. "We have been awarded before and have been paying too much in the past for our federal programs or we are going to have to spend more money than the President suggests."

Johnson said Congress will have to take "first things first."

"Since priorities are not provided by the President, the Congress will have to create the utopian dream into a program of practicality."

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, Jan. 9—Born today, you are exceptionally progressive in your ideas and determinedly efficient in their execution. You are a leader, and you will be this too sure of yourself, refusing to reverse your opinion or change your course until you are sure you are right. You should know someone who sees to have good news for you, when actually it is quite the opposite. You must not make mistakes; he doesn't have the imagination or the enterprise to do so.

Investigation and enterprise are two things you have in great measure, however, even though you are sometimes of a solitary sort and give no immediate impression of your strength and spirit for the leadership. You have courage and can combat opposition all the more effectively. You must know a person who is easily known or understood.

There is no question but that an early marriage is one you are completely willing to sit on the sidelines cheering you on as you go. You are a person who needs your own companion rather than one who takes you to climb the ladder of success. For complete happiness, you must have the help and encouragement of all those you love.

Among those born on this date are Grace Zaring Stone, novelist; Fernando L. M. de, actor; Richard Halliburton, adventurer, explorer, author; Rudolph Bing, manager of the Metropolitan opera.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your sign and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday sign be your daily guide.

Beware of Fake Termite Operators

POLICE, Jan. 9—Idahoans are warned to be wary of insect control operators who tell them they have termite on the basis of a quick inspection.

Leland Pitt, director of plant industry for the state department of agriculture, said a number of people who have had termite control jobs in Ada and Canyon counties have complained.

He said they reported that a man made a quick inspection and told them they had termites, and then they had to pay around the house.

Pitt said it takes an application of chemicals to the ground where they originate to control termites. People should be "cautious," he said.

Only contract termite control work with residents past control operators that have a local address and are listed in the classified section of the telephone directory.

He said finding a termite requires a thorough investigation, including removal of wood. He said a termite never comes to the surface.

"It can be a casual glance, either on they be controlled by someone walking through and seeing a speck of wood," Pitt said.

He said a major operation to get rid of a population of termites would take months.

He said in two or three hours, if he said the termites are not in this house, they sometimes appear.

USDA Agent To Meet With Spud Grower

AMERICAN FALLS, Jan. 9 (U)—A representative of the U. S. department of agriculture is scheduled to arrive this week to meet with Idaho potato growers and discuss proposals for diverting between five and 10 million hundredweight of low grade potatoes from the market.

Joe Allen, president of Idaho Potato Growers and Marketing Association, said Wednesday his organization will work closely with the USDA representative.

"We will take him around the state to talk with cattle feeders, shippers, growers, and different organizations to try to show him what we need in Idaho to get rid of these surplus potatoes by diversion," Allen said.

"We are proposing that sellers and buyers of cull potatoes be bonded to permit them to divert direct from growers for future use as cattle feed. This way we can get the potatoes off the market at once and help with the price situation."

Allen said he has been told the diversion program in which growers have paid 50 cents a hundredweight in January is getting ready with recent quotations up to 10 cents on the national market.

Idaho hopes to divert much of weight production in excess of the 1962 output, Allen said.

"The more culls we can get rid of, the more we can strengthen the quality market," he added.

Violations, Human Error Caused Blast

BAIT LAKE CITY, Jan. 9 (U.P.)—Human error and violations of state-safety orders combined to cause the coal mine explosion that killed nine men near Helper, Utah, Dec. 16.

These conclusions were released Tuesday in a report prepared for Gov. George D. Clyde by state industrial commissioner Chas. A. Nelson and state coal mine personnel.

Nelson said executives of the Carbon Fuel company, owner of the mine, were not responsible for the violation. He said supervisors and miners among the victims violated commission safety rules.

"The men and the supervisors should have been aware of the safety orders," Nelson declared.

He said one violation involved a mining machine that was moved too far into a coal seam so that venting air could not carry away coal dust and methane gas.

The investigation also found the miners failed to check on the existence of methane gas at pre-specified intervals. Generally, it leaked that a water spray machine broke down, greatly increasing coal dust in the mine.

The report said the explosion came from a mixture of methane and dust and air, ignited by sparks created by cutler-head bits striking rock.

It added that the explosion came from the machine hitting overhead rock so it cut into a coal seam.

The coal miners died of carbon monoxide poisoning, not by the force of the explosion, the report said.

Questions on Guidance Are Topic of PTA

TWIN FALLS, Jan. 9—An informal type guidance program regarding guidance and counseling and scholarship highlighted the Bait Lake PTA meeting held Monday evening at the high school.

Heading the program were George Goodner, PTA president and principal of the high school, and Richard Ellis, guidance and counseling director.

Goodner, speaking as a former guidance counselor himself, noted guidance counseling and testing are a valuable aid to education and all students at some time need assistance at some time.

He said that the guidance counseling program is fairly new to the local district, it is definitely growing and is a valuable aid to our education system.

The program, he noted, not only aids the student, but also aids the teacher. The counselor can share certain information with the teacher and this will be beneficial in addition to offering helpful suggestions.

Goodner pointed out it is reported scholarship money goes begging every year. This is true, he said, but with more information, citizenship and leadership are the major qualities needed in securing a scholarship in addition to high scholastic records.

How worthy the student is and how badly financial aid is needed, he asserted.

The outstanding scholarship awarded locally, he pointed out, is the Green Glass scholarship which is open to both boys and girls.

Slits pointed out the aim of the guidance program is to administer and maintain a guidance service for all different levels of education beginning from the first to the 12th grade and to administer tests to find the student's interests, intelligence, habits and achievement in addition to serving as a placement and information center for the student.

Slits reported various tests administered are the differential aptitude tests given to freshmen in the fall; Iowa test of educational development given to juniors in the fall; and results now available on the tests; preliminary scholastic aptitude tests given on a voluntary basis for juniors and seniors; SAT and ACT college board examinations given to seniors on a voluntary basis.

Slits said the national merit scholarship qualifying tests to be given March 15, principally to juniors and in special instances to seniors.

Other tests include the Kuder, personal and vocational preference record which are given on a voluntary basis to students from the ninth through the 12th grades; the general aptitude test given for the employment security commission.

Slits pointed out a new Large Thorndike Intelligence test was given this year for the first time in the school district to fourth, sixth and eighth grade students and he plans to continue with this test in the future.

Goodner and Slits both pointed out parents interested in finding out the results of these various tests administered their children are invited to come to the school.

Goodner also reported the local school district is fortunate in having qualified personnel to be able to administer practically all tests required by institutions of higher learning, and the program alone saves the student a lot of time and money.

Another Big Safeway Pork Sale

ALWAYS CHECK TRIM AS WELL AS PRICE

Many markets that claim to trim their meats do only a token job. To give you full value, Safeway trims a leg of lamb like this:

See how we trim off excess fat and the long, heavy shank bone from Safeway Leg of Lamb. Some markets tuck the shank bone under the roast when it's packaged—it's important to check this point when you buy. At Safeway, trimming is done before weighing and pricing, so you don't pay for these waste parts. You get full value with a Safeway Leg of Lamb!
