More Taxes

Sometimes it seems the federal government's principal function is to devise new ways and means of collecting and spending more money. And always with restrictions or regulations imposed on the people. The land and water conservation fund act, HR 3846, now pending in congress, is a good example.

Basically, the act would impose fees for use of facilities under supervision of federal agencies, including bureau of land management, bureau of reclamation and forest service. For instance, if the family in Rock creek canyon, there could be a fee connected with it. Or if the family planned a Sunday afternoon boating on Lake Walcott above Minidoka dam, there would be a fee. Or perhaps it would mean another fee. Or perhaps it would mean another fee. Or perhaps it would mean another fee.

It wouldn't be necessary to pay a fee each and every time someone went across public lands or facilities. For example, John Q. Public could purchase a windshield sticker that would permit him to visit all such areas for one year. The sticker would cost a mere $7.

Taxpayers might have a few questions about further taxes to maintain and develop areas already under public jurisdiction. Taxpayers also might object to paying another tax-gobbling agency to implement the land and water conservation fund act, not to mention the necessary fee to maintain public areas and enforce provisions of the law.

Taxpayers also might question the basic principle of the act, that public lands and facilities already established and/or maintained by public funds, it's one thing to pay a fee to visit a national park like Yellowstone, but quite another to pay a fee to visit a public area like Rock creek canyon.

Although HR 3846 specifically exempts hunting and fishing, there's no reason to expect the exemption would go on indefinitely. The history of other federal regulation tells the story quite clearly. Other federal agencies have been successful in their efforts to head off monstrosities from far more humble beginnings.

The dissenting views of several representatives are enough to arouse alarm on the part of taxpayers. Some pertinent passages from the dissenters follow:

"If this bill is enacted, the owners of Federal lands will be charged fees just to enter or traverse it."

"The bill breaks faith with millions of Americans by imposing fees for entrance and use on lands and waters acquired under a specific statutory commitment providing that 'they shall be open to the people without charge'."

"The bill would add substantially to the federal tax burden for recreation; while authorizing acquisition of millions of added acres for recreation; while the acquisition of millions of added acres for recreational use, it does not provide for development. . . It is apparent that the bill is concerned almost entirely with land acquisition, and disposes of the land by placing it in recreation areas already on hand."

"Approximately 30 million dollars annually will disappear from the highway trust fund if HR 3846 becomes law. Unless the congress appropriates money from the highway trust fund at the taxpayer's expense, the highway program will suffer."

"The bill would call for a tremendous bureaucratic buildup under the control of the executive, with no congressional control over the expenditures for such purposes. The bill would inevitably increase the payroll of the department of the interior by millions of dollars."

"This is a bold attempt by the interior department to avoid the appropriations process in order to purchase land and water areas for which they have not been able to secure congressional approval by using the 75 million dollars annual proceeds of government surplus."

"Although the bill purports to establish a land and water conservation fund to assist the states in meeting present and future outdoor recreation demands and the needs of the American people, it will not be to determine what is needed within their borders."

"The land and water conservation fund act is just one more bureaucratic attempt to impose more regulations and more taxes on a nation that is already overburdened with both. The United States does not need more federal regulation and more federal taxes. It needs considerably less."

NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 — Spain's trade agreement with Castro's Cuba involving $1 million dollars worth of goods for the $1 million worth of fishing trawlers is an example of the built-in trade agreements that we're making with the world. It's a sale of goods and services to Cuba, and there's nothing we can do about it.

Spain is buying the sugar from Cuba and paying for it in goods. Cuba is buying the goods from Spain and paying for it in goods. This is a trade agreement that we're making with the world. It's a sale of goods and services to Cuba, and there's nothing we can do about it.

U.S. is hooked — Franco, in short, knows about our situation. It's all very well, but it's not very practical from the U.S. point of view. Uncle Sam has military bases in Spain, and he wants to hold onto them. He's got to bring Franco with economic and military aid. He's got to bring Franco with economic and military aid.

Our backyard problem — Unfortunately, the world has changed since the years just after World War II when the U.S. was hailed as a savior of freedom both as a result of military intervention in the war and as a result of military aid. Europe's economy is strong and building, and it needs economic aid. It needs economic aid.

SECRET IS OUT — Yet, of course, the United States is expected as a matter of course to continue American aid to the Greek and Turkish governments in the eastern Mediterranean. Cyprus does not menace the United States any more than Cuba does. Cyprus does not menace the United States any more than Cuba does.

U.S. is hooked — Franco, in short, knows about our situation. It's all very well, but it's not very practical from the U.S. point of view. Uncle Sam has military bases in Spain, and he wants to hold onto them. He's got to bring Franco with economic and military aid.

Our backyard problem — Unfortunately, the world has changed since the years just after World War II when the U.S. was hailed as a savior of freedom both as a result of military intervention in the war and as a result of military aid.

SECRET IS OUT — Yet, of course, the United States is expected as a matter of course to continue American aid to the Greek and Turkish governments in the eastern Mediterranean. Cyprus does not menace the United States any more than Cuba does.

Better Meat Preparations Are Explained

Jerome, Feb. 8 — Jerome county homemakers learned how to prepare meat for their families and how to get more for their meat dollar during the final day of the meat cutting school held in Jerome. Mrs. Clifton U. Peterson, University of Idaho extension nutrition specialist, discussed the nutritional value of meat.

She explained that often the less expensive cuts of meat carry even more food value than more expensive cuts. She illustrated her talk with liver, a prime source of iron. Though pork liver is the least expensive, it yields the highest proportion of iron.

She urged the women to feed other persons and conserve more meat. She said that when a person is ill he should be fed meat as it can be digested easily. She distributed food gravies and sauce to be omitted for convalescents.

Mrs. F. Havelle, coordinator of lamb merchandising for the American Sheep Producers Council, discussed the value of lamb. She said that lamb is naturally tender. While he cut up a lamb he discussed the economy of buying lamb.

Most women purchase leg of lamb or lamb loin chops, forgetting about the other cuts. This forces the price of these two items up.

He said if women would purchase more of the other cuts, the price on the leg and loin chops would drop.

Some of the cuts he discussed include lamb shanks and lamb neck chops. Both of these should be braised. He reminded the women that the fat, the tough skin covering most lamb cuts should be removed before broiling and left on for baking.

"It is the fat that often causes a disagreeable odor when it burns," he said.

When you ask the butcher to pre-prepare a shoulder roast, be sure to ask for the bones for stew or soup, he said. Another interesting cut of meat he displayed was a saratoga roll. This is lamb from the shoulder rolled up and skewered. He also illustrated shish-ke-bobs.

"All chops should be at least one inch thick, and should be broiled until slightly pink, for the best flavor," he said.

His final caution was to remind the women always to remove the ribs from a crown roast before roasting, and replace them later. He said when he worked as a retail butcher several times a day faced customers admitted to leaving the paper full of lamb and having them fire.

Mrs. Donald Wayne, Buhl, for Jerome Power and Light, discussed the proper cooking of chops and a beef roast on a rotisserie. The pork chops were prepared by broiling and then covering with a sauce of green pepper, onions and tomatoes. A slimmer she recommended that chops be served with fluffy rice.

One of the women asked if meat cooking is not to overcook or undercook. Most women overcook their meat, she said. She recommended purchasing a meat thermometer, and using it often.

"Never put water in a roast when you are broiling your meat," she said.

She told how to pan-broil, by searing the chops and then turning the pan, and pouring off the fat as it accumulates.

She also recommended cooking pork roast in cider, instead of water.

SERVINGS PLATED — There will be distribution of meat samples celebrated by the Rev. Father John Rafferty at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Peter's church. Friday, Feb. 13, 7:30 p.m., at the church. The distribution of these plates will be held.

Square Dancers Have Special Dance Events

Purpose of this association is to provide square dancers and to teach beginning square dancers, and also to coordinate dances as to special dancers that were held at least four times a year at that time.

As time went on and square dancers began to do more evening between-dance, the need for live special dancers seemed to lessen and, at the present, the only association-sponsored dance of the future type is a half formerly held at the Challenger lamp-house with known as the Sun Valley Capers. The dance will be transferred to somewhere in Magic Valley this July and will have a name caller, Myron Bliss, Glenora Ferry, is the only charter member caller and still is calling for the same club regularly, the Melody Square, Gooding.

The Idaho Square Dance Association now is in the process of electing officers. This will be for the same purpose as the local associations, only on a state wide basis to promote square dancing, eliminate the confusion of special dances in different areas and to standardize some of the young dancers who do not dancers traveling to other areas will be familiar with the dance being done.

In July, 1945, after two years of planning and working, the Idaho Centennial Square Dance festival was held in Boise. The square danced at Ann Morrison park, against a background of beautiful light and water falls. The night compared only with the published pictures of the American square dancers, dancing around a fountain at the World Fair in Brussels.

At the Idaho Centennial square dance, dancers registered from 42 different states as far away as New York state.

National Square Dance convention attracted as many as 20,000 people. The 1945 Western Square Dance convention had 9,000 people dancing at one time.

Salmon Chamber Asks Abolishment of Commercial Fresh Water Fishing

SALMON, Feb. 8 (Special)—The Salmon Chamber of Commerce has called for the abolishment of all commercial fishing in all fresh water streams on the Pacific coast.

spawning escapement. While there were no actual figures available, they did arrive at the following estimates:
"Pai chinook, 160,000 minimum escapement necessary; Bonneville count, 112,000; actual escapement, 112,000; spring and summer chinook, minimum escapement necessary, 200,000; Bonneville count, 160,000; sports catch above Bonneville, 27,800; actual escapement, 133,200; steelhead, minimum escapement necessary, 125,000; Bonneville count, 103,000; sports catch above Bonneville, 103,660; actual escapement, 67,315."

In a letter to Sen. Frank Church, D. Ida., the chamber, through its fish committee headed by Jack Cook, said that it also "recommends and demands":
1. "The prohibition of all construction of any more dams in the Columbia river drainage until a successful method is found for the passage of fish."
2. Creation of a Pacific sea run salmon coalition.
3. Establishment of fish hatcheries in the Salmon river drainage.

The Salmon river drainage is the last Pacific-coast spawning ground for chinook salmon. Cook told Senator Church, "Must it become extinct for the sake of commercial fishermen who can make the money while it lasts, and not leave anything for future generations except the dams?"

"Why should Idaho protect the salmon and steelhead for the apparent benefit of commercial fisheries who are not limited in quantity of catch while Idahoans (and non-residents as well) are limited to two a day?"

Copies of the letter were sent to Sen. Alan Jordan, R. Ida., Rep. Ralph Harding and Compton White, both Democrats, Gov. Robert Smylie and the Idaho fish and game department.

The letter took to task comments made by Donald L. McKernan, director of the bureau of commercial fisheries, who wrote Senator Church that although the 1959 catch of spring chinook salmon was lower in the Salmon river than in previous years, the Salmon chamber told Senator Church:

"We fail to understand what he (McKernan) means by saying in one breath that the salmon run was lower and in the next breath by saying that there was a normal amount of fish in the stream. How can this be?"

The chamber called attention to a "Bare Our Salmon and Steelhead, Inc." brochure which says the decline in salmon and steelhead is attributed to many factors including commercial fishing, dams and pollution.

In 1959 the high catch of salmon was 4,700,200 pounds, the chamber's letter to Senator Church said. In 1950 the catch was 20,070,028 pounds. This was a 50 per cent decrease from 1950 to 1959 and eight years before escapement counts were made over Bonneville dam.

Auto Boom Is Rolling In High Gear

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—The automobile boom keeps rolling along in high gear.

The industry contradicted predictions that sales would flatten out in January.

The performance, heightened expectations that 1964 will be a good business year as a whole.

Automakers sold 562,500 cars and trucks in January, up 4 percent over the 543,000 delivered in January 1963.

This gave them a fast start in 1964, but many expect a third seven-million-plus car year in 1964.

General Motors, corporation, the No. 1 producer, had its best January in history with sales of 120,500 cars, compared with 105,000 in January 1963.

Chrysler, with a 13.4 percent increase over last year, topped the list with 101,000 cars.

American Motors reported the best January sales in three years, with 70,000 cars.

Production in January set a new high for the month of 744,448 cars. This exceeded the old record of 698,770 set in 1960.

The stepped-up pace of production continued during the week with an estimated output of 167,000 cars. This was up four percent from the 160,000 cars produced in the week ending Jan. 26, 1963.

The auto industry moved ahead in hand with the automobile industry, its biggest customer, as production during the week posted its fifth consecutive peak.

Drifting Snow Forces Richfield Residents To Utilize Old Modes of Transportation

RICHFIELD, Feb. 8.—Transportation in and around Richfield is undergoing quite a change this winter. Old-fashioned sleds and automobiles are giving way to crawler tractors, pickup trucks and in some cases a sturdy pair of legs.

The situation in Richfield is typical of many northern Idaho communities. Hard winter snow is a rarity and for the past years it is so the automobile has suffered. Drifting snow is changing the picture. Not since the winter of 1948-49 can many residents remember putting snow in the middle of the street. The piles have now reached chest-high proportions. It's time to eliminate jaywalking.

Philip Olinther has taken to riding a donkey through the snow. It is the best means he has found to get from one place to the other.

Feeding cattle and livestock is almost an impossibility with a truck. Hence, many feeders are returning to horse-and-horse-drawn wagons mounted on runners rather than wheels. Spare horses are few and many are in demand.

Bruce Sorenson is an example of feeders who are harnessing horses in the morning to take care of livestock. Hardly a day goes by that he isn't asked if he knows where more horses are available.

Tractors can get around and many farmers are using tractor-drawn trappers to keep roads open and keep driveways polished down to get in and out with their automobiles. If and when they are used, a couple of hundred pounds of rock are common in the back of pickup trucks to give added weight to break through the snow and give the rear wheels traction.

ONE WAY TO TRAVEL across snow drifts and covered fields is to ride behind a good team of horses on a sled. Mike Robinson holds the reins while his sister, Holly, hangs to a brace. The father, Bruce Robinson, is on the back of the sled.

the wagon distributing hay to livestock. Horses are in demand in the Richfield area for feeding operations. Drifting snow has made using a truck almost obsolete. The children, in time, will be able to recall the hard winter of 1963-64. (Times-News photo)

In many cases it is just easier and safer to walk than to take a chance with the car.

Union Pacific trains to Ketchikan and Lill City often require a snowplow to clear the tracks. It has been years since the trains pushed through this small community scattering snow all over the right of way.

The winter of 1963-64 is different than 1948-49 in one respect. For some reason the snow has occurred on Wednesdays. In 1948-49 most of the storms came on the weekend. Thus the school had to go to school Monday and Tuesday; set snowed in on Wednesday and resume school Thursday and Friday.

Swamps Are Site of Little Known War

CONAKRY, Guinea, Feb. 8 (AP)—In the swamps and jungles of Portuguese Guinea, African nationalists are waging a stubborn little-publicized guerrilla war.

Their aim is to win independence for Portugal's West African colony squeezed between Senegal and the independent Guinea republic.

The action is directed from a palm-shaded wooden house on the outskirts of Conakry that doesn't even have a telephone. The extent of the action has never been fully evaluated despite efforts of diplomats and newsmen.

War communiques of the African Party for Independence of Portuguese Guinea speak of 1,000 Portuguese soldiers killed and wounded since the "direct action" started Aug. 3, 1961. Officials of the party say their "guerrillas" have shot down 18 Portuguese planes and that 100,000 Portuguese soldiers and 100,000 Portuguese civilians have been brought under guerrilla control.

They show pictures of smashed Portuguese planes surrounded by smiling Africans clutching Soviet-made submachine guns. In Conakry, there are occasional reports of Soviet ships unloading cases of arms and ammunition for the Portuguese Guinea fighters.

"Our aim is freedom," says Amilcar Cabral, 38, the party's youngest secretary and in effect the head of the revolt.

A graduate of Lisbon University, where he studied agricultural engineering, Cabral fled to Conakry in 1961 to organize the rebellion—claiming—handcuffs. He says that several hundred of the colony's 600,000 citizens are involved in the struggle against some 17,000 Portuguese troops.

CONTRARY TO WHAT might be expected, it is the fingers that depress the strings, not those that pluck them, that get sore while playing the guitar. At least that is what Gene Boeserman, who will be in charge of the country music jamboree at Plier Monday and Tuesday night, has discovered after 25 years of playing. This year the shows will benefit the Idaho Youth Ranch near Rupert. (Times-News photo)

Sore Fingers Caused by Playing Guitar 25 Years

Gene Boeserman has sore fingers.

Contrary to what you might be thinking about this guitar player who has been plucking away for about 25 years, the soreness is not on the fingers of his right hand.

It is his left hand that does the plucking, but the pick is what does the work. Because of this the fingers do not get sore.

The sore ones are on his left hand, where the fingers slide up and down the strings.

It is hard for some people to believe this, but it is just that way," he declares.

Right now the guitar is riding on a wave of popularity. When Boeserman started to play over many years ago, it was popular but not universally so, as it is today.

As a youngster in Kansas he attended the old-time dances. These were the kind where the guests arrived and, before the dancing started, the furniture and rugs were all taken out of the house and stacked up in the yard," he said.

He liked the music rather than the dancing and so he loved to play the guitar, he said.

Now, he points out, most professionals use the electric guitar, while folk players for the most part still cling to the acoustic type which has no amplifier.

Now a farmer residing northwest of Twin Falls, his home in past years has been headquarters for a seasonal get-together of musicians.

In fact, the crowd got so big that a change had to be made and it has now ended up in the annual country music jamboree which will be staged at the Plier high school auditorium Monday and Tuesday nights.

He is host for the gathering which will feature music ranging from classical western to the "fests" as released. Not one person questioned that giving up five pieces, known as the Tune

Tanglers, will be among the groups participating. There also will be duos and singals during the show.

This is the third annual event. The first year the profits went to the YWCA and the YMCA. The second year the profits went to the Idaho Youth Ranch near Rupert will benefit.

Earl B. Peck, Twin Falls, secretary of the Idaho Youth Ranch, will have charge of the show taking during the two nights.

He reports that progress of the ranch "is on the upward grade."

He continued, "We have places for 22 at the ranch and those places are filled by boys who when they come adjusted to conditions that exist, are getting a new lease on life."

As each boy develops to where he can take a place in society, a place is found for him, he

Problem of Quitting Smoking Habit or Not Changing Varies in City

Do you want to quit smoking? A lot of people in Twin Falls want to do the same thing. Others are coming in, but a great number still are trying to "kick" the habit.

"Others frankly figure they are going to die someday, one way or another, so are continuing to smoke with no effort at either cutting down or quitting. It all started when a government report concerning cigarette smoking and its relation to lung cancer came out. In Twin Falls, however, was immediate in some cases, speculative in others and downright belligerent in still others. Around town the inquiring reporter found that sales of cigarettes in some locations have dropped, while in others they are holding about steady. One thing is fairly certain—they have not gained.

Practically everyone interviewed ed in "off-the-cuff" approaches where it was understood that names would not be used, admitted that to quit you have to quit.

"This thing of tapering off is all bunk," one heavy cigarette smoker said. "It cannot be done. I just quit, and you know it wasn't half bad after the first couple of days. One help is to tell your friends you are quitting. They will force you to stick to it."

One working girl declared she had quit down from more than a package to one after breakfast, one after lunch, one after dinner and a couple during the evening.

Another, well-known businessman said, "Anything experts tell me I have a chance to live a few more years by giving up smoking, then I give up smoking. A guy would have to be crazy to not quit after such a promise."

But another fellow, equally known, declared, "While being equal, I want to live another 10 years without a few pleasures! I'll smoke all I want to."

It was evident none of those spoken to understood the results of the "fests" as released. Not one person questioned that giving up smoking would prolong life—all being equal. "While being equal, I want to live another 10 years without a few pleasures! I'll smoke all I want to."

So it gets right back to the fact: Americans seem to do what they want to—at least until they change their minds.

RON TAYLOR, states the only way to quit smoking cigarettes is to quit. So the local advertising man breaks one in 1964 and says, "That is that." (Times-News photo)

JAMES STANDLEY, standing behind the tobacco counter in the place of business downtown, admits he gave up cigarettes—but a pipe has replaced them. (Times-News photo)

JAMES DODDS declares the best way to quit smoking cigarettes is never to start. Even several cartons do not interest him because he never smoked at all. (Times-News photo)

THIS SPACE was reserved for a local businessman who declared he would rather die than quit cigarettes. When asked to pose for a picture he decided not to make the statement in the press. "Might hurt business," was the reason. (Times-News photo)

CARL AND VERN JENSEN watch the last logs from the last truck for the logging season being unloaded by Milton Savaris (operating drag line) at the Bellevue sawmill. Dragline tongs picked up logs like they were toothpicks. At the time they unloaded this truck they intended to load more logs from Baker creek, but snow slides the next day drove them from the canyon. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

It took two tractors and eight and one-half hours hard work for four HATLEY men to get the stationwagon belonging to Vern Jensen over the fire miles coming down Baker creek to highway at recently "The Jensen brothers—Don, Vern, Carl and John—have hauled logs for the BELLEVUE sawmill all summer. They have several million more feet of logs at the head of Baker creek to get out there to the mill. They worked in the last of autumn, under blizzard conditions, to bring down six loads—40 tons to the load. On a recent Sunday morning they went up to the location of the snow-covered campsite some eight miles from the highway, intending to haul that day and then stop for the winter.

Said Mrs. Vern Jensen, who has driven her stationwagon to the campsite, "The snow was coming down so hard you couldn't keep your eyes open, and it was piling up at the rate of a foot an hour." (Baker creek has the reputation of being one of the snowiest spots on the Wood river drainage.)

"He kept getting worse and worse and about 2 p.m. the men decided they had better forget about any more hauling and get out of the canyon. All the way up we had noticed the snow kept slipping down from the sides into the canyon.

"Vern and Bill Barrell, who had log, took a 'cat' and a loader and went on ahead. Carl drove the stationwagon for me and Don drove the GMC truck with the other 'cat' loaded on it. "Don ran out of gas and came on up to the stationwagon and we started down the road to get some gas from the other truck. A snow slide came down just in back of the truck Vern was driving and right in front of the stationwagon," she continued.

"It was so deep around the car that the doors wouldn't open, so Carl and Don crawled out the back window, ran up and got some gas and went back to the other truck.

"The wind was starting to blow. The men knew there was danger of more slides.

"Don climbed on the tractor on top of the truck and drove it right into the tracks that were serving as a road.

"He was afraid it might break something on the machine so it wouldn't be any good to us, but figured he had to take the chance.

Sore Fingers Result of Guitur Use is released and another applicant is selected by the admissions committee from a long list of boys who need help.

"New supporters and the continuing help of our previous contributors have enabled us to free ourselves of debt, except the land, which is on a long-term basis. The most urgent need right now is more housing for boys."

He pointed out that management of the ranch is under the direction of a board of directors who donate their time and skills for planning, directing and formulating the policies necessary for growth and development.

"Foremost of the efforts is to be on a pay-as-we-go basis," Peck declared.

Boyd Peck and Booserman point out that about 20 groups of musicians will be heard during the two nights of the gathering at Filer. Groups will come from as far away as Boise on the west and Idaho Falls on the east.

"If such a thing is possible, it will be a better show than the last two years," Booserman declared.

Driver Cited for Failing to Yield

Ralph C. Ranch, route 2, Twin Falls, was cited for failure to yield the right of way after a two-vehicle collision at 12:57 p.m. Thursday three miles south and three-quarters of a mile east of the Moice Yu corner.

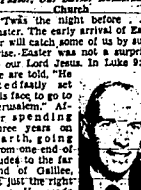

Officers said Ranch was driving a 1957 Dodge pickup truck from a private drive and pulled out in front of a 1964 Chevrolet stationwagon driven by Thomas W. Williams, 31, route 1, Twin Falls, which was traveling west on a county road.

The right front end of the stationwagon and the left front end of the pickup truck were damaged. There were no injuries.

Gruener home to watch the elk. The animals are timid, however, and watchers must wait if they want to see them on the feed ground.

AS-YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By EUGENE TIARKS
Pastor, Our Savior Lutheran Church

"Twas the night before Easter. The early arrival of spring will catch some of us by surprise. Easter was not a surprise to our Lord Jesus. In Luke 9:31 we are told, 'He steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem.' After spending three years on earth, going from one end of Judea to the far end of Galilee, at just the right time He made His way to Jerusalem. It was there, not an accident that plans for His capture and imprisonment were being made at the time He arrived in the Holy City.

This plan for His capture and eventual crucifixion did not prevent the Lord from completing His purpose. He set His face to go to Jerusalem. He was determined to save men. He could do this only through suffering and sacrifice. Jerusalem represented the place where He could, and would, fulfill His purpose.

While He was going, about preaching the Word of God, healing about the Kingdom, and healing the diseased, He was preparing men for salvation. He gathered about Him a group of men who accepted Him as 'The Christ, the Son of the Living God.' These followers listened to Him day after day. They heard how He answered the doubters, how He gently opposed His claim to be God's Son. We would expect these followers to be worthy men, worthy of salvation.

In spite of the close contact with one of the disciples became the betrayer. The remainder of them slept when He most needed their prayer support.

3 Directors To Be Named For Cemetery

PAID. Feb. 8—Three directors for the Paul cemetery district will be elected Monday with polls open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. One two-year term and two four-year terms will be filled. The four-year terms are in the districts one and two and the two-year term comes from district three.

District boundaries include, for district one, the area north of 200 north between the Minidoka-Jerome county line on the west, the Minidoka-Lincoln county line on the north and 300 west on the east.

District two includes everything north of 200 south between the Minidoka-Jerome county line on the west, 200 north road on the north, and 300 west road on the east. Polling place is at the Vernon Expert residence located 400 west and 287 north.

District three includes everything south of 200 south between the Minidoka-Jerome county line on the west, 200 north road on the north, and 300 west road on the east. Polling place is at the Vernon Expert residence located 400 west and 287 north.

over sin and death. This victory is our victory over sin and death. To feel the true significance of the event, we should plan and prepare. Some churches have several weeks of preparation time called Lent. Special worship services, invitations to increase private Bible reading, personal sacrifice, self-denial, all these aid the people to a greater appreciation of Jesus' accomplished salvation.

Preparation is vital to a real understanding and appreciation of Easter. Jesus suffered and died to save all men, but we need to allow this salvation to be our salvation. Jesus paid the penalty for sin, ours included. Only by accepting the payment, does it really become payment for our sins. A consciousness of God at work for me leads to acknowledge God's saving act through faith in Christ. This conscious awareness comes through God's Holy Spirit at work in us. The Spirit works as we give Him opportunity. Give God this opportunity for your own peace, security, and eternal joy.

Drifting Snow Forces Many Richfield Residents to Change Transportation

Increased coyote activity in the snow-covered areas. The snow is frozen and coyotes simply run across the top of the snow without making a sound. For some strange reason, the wind seems to come up just as the coyotes are coming. It is not unusual for farmers to count several hundred pheasants about the farmyard.

The "increased" numbers of coyotes and other game birds are giving rise to many different rumors around the area in Richfield.

Public Meeting Conducted at King Hill on Loan Project

KING HILL, Feb. 8—Approximately 30 farmers and interested persons attended the second public meeting held by the directors of the King Hill Irrigation district to inform the landowners more fully on the proposed small project act loan.

The meeting was held at the King Hill Grange hall Wednesday night with Donal J. Ploch, president, in charge. He introduced William Burpee, attorney for the bureau of reclamation. Burpee spoke on the procedure of securing a small loan for the district.

The procedure consists of financial, engineering, informing the district of community voting on the loan and many other plans have to be considered before a loan can be obtained.

Ploch presented illustrated charts of all the construction work that will be done in the district, such as replacing wood levee siphons with steel and concrete ones.

He also showed the estimate cost of the work to be done providing the election Feb. 18 passes by a two-thirds majority. Ploch stated that if the proposed loan is turned down by the landowners in the district, assessments of $17 to $18 per acre will have to be assessed.

Siphons badly in need of repairing must be rebuilt and new siphons would last 40 to 45 years of service. He also stated he would like to see the election passed so assessments would pay as they are now.

Daniel Applegate, engineer for the bureau of reclamation, spoke on the maintenance of the proposed new siphons.

Library Week Essay Contest Is Scheduled

Twin Falls students from the fourth grade through high school will have a chance to enter Idaho National Library week essay contest, Robert S. Burrill, Twin Falls librarian, announced Friday.

A similar contest was held successfully in Twin Falls county in 1963. Winners were entertained in Boise by Helen Miller, state librarian. Winners toured other points of interest in Boise.

Each local library in Idaho will manage its own contest and forward winning essays to the state contest committee. First and second prizes will be awarded in each of three divisions: elementary, junior high school and senior high school.

Cash prizes will be awarded in each division. The total amount to be announced.

Theme of the essay is "Reading Is the Key," the National Library week slogan.

The contest ends at the beginning of library week, April 12.

Library Week T.F. School Competes In Fair After Layoff

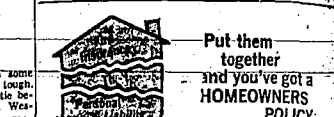

After an absence of several years, the Science fair has been revived at O'Leary Junior High school. More than 60 students participated in the event this year and the results were well worth the effort, reports A. A. Johnson, science instructor.

The students entered seven categories which included astronomy, physics, botany, medicine, zoology, chemistry and geology. They were judged on thought content, preparation and display.

According to Johnson and John Darrington, science instructor, the fair is being used to boost interest in the junior high school in "science" and "scientific" subjects. The fair affords students an opportunity to display their interests, gain experience in scientific competition and can give the instructor an opportunity to judge the progress of the students.

The judges felt considerable time and effort had gone into

Show Design, Art Work Under Way

Two native sons of this area—born at the community of Stock Creek and the other at Kimberly—have a much to do about the sets which will be featured during the upcoming Dilettante production of "Can-Can" at the Piller high school auditorium starting early in March.

In addition to being born in this area, both men have followed careers which closely parallel. Wayne Kious, who was born at Kimberly, has been an instructor at the Piller high school for 11 years. George Walton, who was born at Stock Creek, is in his first year as an instructor at the Twin Falls high school. He came here from the Bellevue school system.

The two are co-operating in design. For the most part Kious puts the original ideas into paint, small paper form. From there they are taken by Walton and a crew of local school students and transposed into back-grounds which will fill the Piller stage.

In addition, Kious will be doing the sculpturing for the production, which will be directed by H. Paul Kline. The show will follow the original Broadway version by Cole Porter.

Presentations dates will be March 6-7, 8, 12, 13 and 14. Tickets will go on sale soon and sale locations will be announced.

Both Kious and the two art instructors point out that the sets being constructed will follow the original Broadway design, with variations made to fit available space on the Piller stage.

GETTING THE PERSPECTIVE prior to putting another idea of set design on paper is Wayne Kious, art instructor at Piller high school. The ideas advanced by Kious for the "Can-Can" production are made into large sets by a special crew from Twin Falls. Director for the presentation is H. Paul Kline. (Times-News photo)
