NEW YORK, April 7 (UPI)—The American public Gen. Douglas MacArthur had served so well paid personal tribute to the gallant warrior today and their tears reflected the nation's loss. The mourners filed silently into the seventh regiment armory on Park avenue and into a brightly-lighted, oak-paneled conference room where MacArthur's body rested atop a four-foot bier. The big brass doors of the armory will remain open throughout the day and night—until there no longer are mourners wishing to enter.

Johnson's Beer Drinking and Fast Driving Chills News Writers

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UPI)—President Johnson and his wife slipped beer drinking and fast driving around their LBJ ranch in Texas over the Easter weekend, newsmen who accompanied them report.

The President also did some fast driving, say the reporters who went along.

On one occasion, they said, he gunned his cream-colored Lincoln Continental up a long Texas hill and the driver of an oncoming car veered off the road.

Mrs. Johnson, driving another Lincoln Continental at a leisurely pace, took cooling sips of beer from a paper cup as she gave a running commentary on the LBJ ranch, its cattle and points of interest for a car full of reporters.

Casualty, she drove along the ranch roads with one hand on the wheel as she held the cup.

Presidential press secretary George Reedy, when asked about the President's beer-drinking and fast-driving, told reporters today he had no personal knowledge of the incidents referred to and therefore could not comment.

In its account, Time magazine said that when Johnson's car raced up the hill, one passenger groaned, "That's the closest John McCormack has come to the White House yet."

House Speaker McCormack, D., Mass., is next in line of succession to the presidency.

Newsweek magazine carried an account of Johnson's driving over Easter weekend, when he gave newsmen an impromptu tour of his ranch, but it made no reference to beer drinking.

Asked about newspaper reports that he drove up to 90 miles an hour, Johnson told a news conference last week he was unaware he had ever exceeded Texas' speed limit of 70.

Time says Johnson took three newsmen and a male reporter in his Lincoln, while other reporters and photographers followed in five other Johnson-owned vehicles.

"The whole caravan jounced at high speeds across a pasture, zig-zagging around dung mounds and clusters of fat white-faced cattle," Time said.

Johnson blew the cow-like horn on his car at the cattle, and Time said one newswoman recalled he once gave "a very graphic description of the sex life of a bull."

Spotting a sow with a half dozen pigs, Time said, the President offered to pose for a photo with a pig if reporters could catch one—and "guffawed exuberantly" as the sow charged.

The frightened photographers, as he knew it would.

Johnson finished his own cup of beer, Time said, refilled once from a newswoman's cup and sped off at 90 miles per hour or more.

Newsweek said that after the hill-passing incident, Johnson pulled up at a ranch house and asked "is the secret service still with us?" The magazine said the car with the security men in it had been left behind on the highway "caught behind cars Mr. Johnson had passed on the way."

WALKING FROM NEW YORK FUNERAL home with heads bowed after visiting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bier are the general's widow and their son, Arthur. Monday only the family and public officials were allowed into the funeral home where it was brought after his death in Washington Sunday. The general's body was taken to the seventh regiment armory Tuesday morning where it will lie in state for viewing by the public. Funeral services for the general will be conducted Saturday. ### 'I Surrender'

BESSEMER, Mich., April 7 (UPI)—Lee H. Perry, proprietor of Perry's fun park in this Michigan Upper Peninsula community, is distressed about the economic conditions in the area.

"I hear that President Johnson has declared war on poverty," Perry said. "All I'd like to know is where I surrender."

Goldwater Says Nixon Is Competitor

PORTLAND, April 7 (UPI)—Claiming former Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be his ultimate opponent, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater today was winding up a two-day campaign for Oregon's primary votes.

He was scheduled to address students at Oregon State university at Corvallis, then go to Salem for a luncheon speech to the American Plywood association convention. He was to fly back to Washington after leaving Salem.

Of Nixon, Goldwater said "we differ most in the area of the welfare state."

However, he said he would differ less with Nixon than he would with New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton.

He said "when Nixon was in the senate, we voted together 85 to 90 per cent of the time."

He said neither Nixon nor Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith could be termed "me too" candidates.

All are on Oregon's May 15 Republican presidential primary ballot.

Goldwater termed the Oregon primary "very, very important," but later said a Lodge victory in Oregon would not be significant.

Lodge is a "banker's hours campaigner" and cannot win the GOP nomination, Goldwater said.

Gas Firm Sold

EL PASO, Tex., April 7 (UPI)—The El Paso Natural Gas Products company marketing and refining properties have been sold to Shell Oil company for a reported 37 million dollars, W. D. Nole, El Paso Natural Gas products president, made the announcement Monday, capping more than two months of uncertainty reports of the sale.

Boy Dies After Being Dragged by Horse

JEROME, April 7.—Daniel Scheer, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scheer, Jerome, died at 6 p.m. Monday in St. Benedict's hospital of injuries received in an accident at his farm home Friday evening. The boy was dragged for about one-quarter of a mile when the horse which he and an older brother were riding became startled. The child had a rope around his waist and tied to the saddle horn. The Scheer farm is located four miles southeast of Jerome.

Daniel Richard Scheer was born Aug. 26, 1957, in Jerome, and was attending first grade at Canyonside school. He belonged to St. Jerome's Catholic church.

In addition to his parents, survivors include two brothers, Michael Scheer and Patrick Scheer, and one sister, Sandra Scheer, all Jerome; paternal grandfather, Bernard Scheer, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fink Benton, all Jerome, and maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun, Hartsville, Mo., and Mrs. Mary Benton, Mountain Grove, Mo.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Holy funeral chapel. Mass of the angels will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Friday in St. Jerome's Catholic church. Final rites will be held in the Jerome cemetery. Memorials may be made to a church memorial fund for the church. Friends may call at the chapel Wednesday evening, Thursday and until time of services Friday.

Authorities have said they believe S/Sgt. Chester N. Lyons, 28, killed his wife, Lillian, 26, and Mrs. Mary C. Darley, 19, then himself.

Their bodies were found Thursday morning along a road near Mountain Home and authorities placed time of death at about 1 a.m.

Smith said witnesses will include a man who had recently sold Lyons a gun believed to be the death weapon, rancher Kenneth Johns, who found the bodies, investigating officers, and witnesses who saw the three people together in Mountain Home the night of the killings.

Smith said he doubts if Dell B. Darley, husband of the younger woman, will be called. Sheriff Earl Winter said investigation showed that Darley was at home the night of the shootings. The couple had two children.

Royal Pair to Marry Outside The Netherlands

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, April 7 (UPI)—Princess Irene, 24, and her Spanish fiancé, Prince Carlos de Bourbon Parme, 33, will marry outside the Netherlands. It was officially announced today.

The announcement, made by the princess' private secretary, Mrs. C. C. Wijnen, did not specify the site or the date.

Carlos is a leader of the Spanish Carlist movement, aspiring to the Spanish throne.

Irene gave up her second-line rights to the throne when her engagement was announced.

Irene is a convert to Roman Catholicism, the religion of Carlos. Her conversion from the Dutch Reformed faith of her royal family stirred controversy even before it was officially disclosed that she would marry a Spaniard.

Eight Major Steel Firms Indicted For Price Fix Plan

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UPI)—The government obtained indictments today against eight major steel companies and two officials on charges of conspiring to fix prices. The indictment grew out of a continuing investigation started in April, 1962, after the late President John F. Kennedy forced the steel industry to rescind $6 a ton price increases that had been announced only days earlier.

Nixon Backs Strong Posture in Viet Nam

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 7 (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon said today he believes a principle that Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur laid down in the Korean war should be applied in South Viet Nam. The former U. S. vice president told newsmen no one can tell what would have happened if MacArthur's recommendations for that war had been carried out, "but I was one of those who believed at the time that his principle—there is no substitute for victory—was a correct principle." MacArthur wanted to attack Chinese air bases in Manchuria. Restrained, he called that area a privileged sanctuary.

On a tour, Nixon arrived at this capital of Nationalist China for a two-day visit as the house guest of President Chiang Kai-shek.

Nixon told reporters that if South Viet Nam should go under, "the creeping communism in that part of the world would go a gallop and the whole of Southeast Asia would be lost."

Nixon said he believes the South Vietnamese, supported by the United States, should do what was necessary to attain victory. Any policy of compromise or neutralization would be a disaster for all Asia, he declared.

There is no present plan to extend the war to North Viet Nam, he said, and if victory can be won without that, it would be good.

Referring to statements by Sen. J. W. Fulbright and some others, Nixon deplored what he called loose talk about the United States adopting a flexible policy toward communism in general and the Chinese communists in particular.

Santa's Okay

EVERETT, Wash., April 7 (UPI)—Relax, kids, Santa Claus and his reindeer came through the great Alaskan earthquake without a scratch.

That was the reassuring word Monday from the region's eight civil defense headquarters, which said Santa had been swapped with inquiries from children to find out how Santa fared.

A radio message to the town of North Pole, 15 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, brought a reply that all was well there and toy deliveries would be made on schedule next Christmas.

Broadcasters Flailed by FCC Leader

CHICAGO, April 7 (UPI)—Chairman E. William Henry of the federal communications commission accused the radio-television industry today of "crass complacency" in the face of threats to broadcasting freedom.

In effect, Henry told the broadcasters they seemed more concerned with their pocketbooks than their obligations to the listening and viewing public.

By such an attitude, he said in an address prepared for the National Association of Broadcasters, "you tarnish the ideals enshrined in the constitution and invite an attitude of suspicion."

The 35-year-old Tennessee reminded broadcasters of the storm of protest that arose from the industry when the FCC proposed to limit the length and number of commercial messages.

The opposition made the commission withdraw its proposal.

Then he reminded them of complaints that the stations of the Pacific foundation were broadcasting obscene material and were affiliated with the communist party.

Mansfield Won't Predict Fate of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UPI)—Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana declined today to predict the fate of the civil rights bill now being debated in the senate.

After the weekly breakfast meeting of Democratic congressional leaders with President Johnson, Mansfield was asked what he thought the outcome would be.

That will depend, he said, "on what happens in the senate in the weeks ahead."

Ex-Residents Improve from Stab Wounds

DOWNEY, Calif., April 7 (UPI)—Mrs. Arabell Keegan, 45, and her daughter, Teresa, 13, former Twin Falls and Rupert residents and victims of a knife-wielding prowler, were reported improving Monday night at a hospital.

Hospital attendants, however, said their condition remained serious.

Police said the prowler entered the Keegan home shortly before 2 a.m. Saturday and stabbed the girl several times in the chest as she lay in bed.

The girl's screams awakened the mother, who dashed into the room. The man then chased Mrs. Keegan down the hall and stabbed her once in the back, police said.

Detectives said they have a man in custody for questioning about the case. They did not identify him.

Group Denies Plan to Grab Idaho Water

LOS ANGELES, April 7 (UPI)—"We're not trying to steal water from Idaho or anybody else," the information director of the Colorado River association said Monday.

"It's just that we're not satisfied with the Udal plan," said Hal Rorke. "And we want a regional water plan that is broader in scope. One in which the 11 western states could cooperate with each other in satisfying their future water and power needs."

Rorke was responding to queries, principally from Idaho, about details of a plan announced Saturday by his association.

The plan calls for congressional legislation directing Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall to make feasibility studies within the next three years of all the power and water resources in the western states.

This would include such river systems as the Columbia, Yellowstone, Green, Snake, Missouri, Colorado and Trinity.

The bill is being drafted by Washington, D. C., attorney Northrup, Ely, who represents the Colorado River association.

Several months ago, the general manager of the Los Angeles city department of water and power, Sam Nelson, proposed tapping the surplus water of the Snake river near Twin Falls for the replenishment of the Colorado at Lake Mead.

Nelson's plan called for the construction of a dam which would furnish the power to boost the water over intervening mountains, after which the water would generate enough power in the long drop to Lake Mead to pay for the project.

Idaho officials rejected the plan, Rorke said.

Alaskan Group To Meet on Quake Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UPI)—A delegation of Alaskan officials, headed by Gov. William A. Egan, meets today with a presidential commission to seek federal help in rebuilding from the earthquake wreckage.

Egan arrived Monday with 22 state and local officials. He estimated the quake and tidal wave had caused at least 750 million dollars in damage.

Egan said he was grateful for congressional passage Monday of a bill carrying 50 million dollars to help rebuild public facilities destroyed by the earthquake.

Members of the delegation said they planned a few meetings with heads of various federal departments and agencies before conferring with the presidential commission headed by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D., N.M.

Russian Cosmonauts Plan New Journeys Into Space

MOSCOW, April 7 (UPI)—Yuri Gagarin said today he and other cosmonauts are training for new voyages into space.

The Soviet news agency Tass announced Soviet scientists have made important experiments with a new type of air for space ships.

The twin announcements indicated the Russians are preparing for some new space spectacular.

The news conference was called in connection with the "day of the cosmonaut"—April 12—the third anniversary of the historic flight of Gagarin, the first man to orbit the earth.

Soviet space scientists also were on hand but they were mum.

Soviet space scientists also were on hand but they were mum.

Tass described experiments with synthetic air in pressurized cabins.

Tass said that nitrogen was taken out of the air and replaced by helium. Normally, nitrogen constitutes 78 per cent of the air a person breathes.

This new mixture has been tested, Tass said, on men who remained in pressure cabins for periods from 10 to 25 days.

Tass reported the helium produced a surprising result, that "a man with a bass voice began to speak tenor."

"This is not a hazard to health, but it does create additional difficulties," Tass said.

Bankruptcies Are No Cause For Alarm

BOISE, April 7 (U)—A former bankruptcy referee says the increasing number of bankruptcy cases processed in federal courts is not a cause for alarm. Boise Attorney Paul Boyd spoke today at concluding sessions of the 14th annual convention of the Junior Officers of the Idaho Bankers Association.

Boyd told the bankers that there were only 75 bankruptcy filings in Idaho 10 years ago compared with 100 in March of this year. But he said much of the increase can be blamed on the failure of credit managers to properly screen applicants for loans.

"Credit buying," said Boyd, "is the spirit of the age but the chronic compulsive buyer needs protection."

Robert V. Hansberger, Boise, president of the Boise Cascade Corporation, told the group that bankers must recognize the potential of the individual.

"We need the type of motivation that we used in grandfathers' day," he said, "the kind where the individual was considered important."

The outlook for agriculture over the next four years was outlined by Dr. G. Burton Wood, head of the department of agriculture economics at Oregon State University.

Wood also discussed the credit needs of farmers and told the bankers they must recognize that the issuance of agricultural credit will continue "whether you wish to be the one to issue it or not."

Belgium's Hospitals Are 'Bursting'

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 7 (U)—Belgium's hospitals were crowded to the bursting point today as the doctors strike rounded out its first week with no solution in sight.

Weariness struggled to keep up with the flood of patients. Beds were set up in the corridors. Some civilian patients were sent to military hospitals.

Only serious cases were admitted, brought in under emergency arrangements set up by the 10,000 striking doctors, who have been joined by 2,000 dentists.

The physicians, who are protesting new provisions in Belgium's national health scheme, have arranged to treat pressing cases. But their opponents claim this is not meeting the needs of the country's nine million people.

Interior Minister Arthur Gillon said the emergency setup was "not sufficient because there is no treatment for sick people at home and because the physicians refuse to function except in the main hospitals."

The doctors have refused a request by Gillon to use private clinics for emergency cases, contending they are not adequately equipped. Such clinics could provide 600 more beds in the Brussels area.

Authorities have recalled some Belgian army medical units from West Germany but won't say how many men are involved. Premier Theo Lefevre said the cabinet does not plan to transfer the entire army medical corps to civilian duty.

Doctors throughout Belgium continued their refusal to make house calls or see patients in their offices.

Two doctors were arrested Monday in Olen for failing to help an 18-month-old boy who died of what police described as a serious lung ailment.

Lefevre announced that as long as the strike continued, his government would refuse to negotiate.

The national health program, in operation since World War II, covers five million Belgians. Doctors have fixed their own fees for each case, and the health fund reimbursed the patients. The fund has a deficit of 20 million dollars.

Lefevre's Catholic-Socialist coalition, when it came to power in 1961, promised to reform the debt-ridden program. The revised health statute sets a scale of maximum charges for the doctors. Increases demanded by the doctors would total 10 million dollars a year.

Negro Policemen Are Suspended At Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 7 (U)—Three Negroes, the first and only members of their race to become Huntsville policemen, have been suspended.

Police Chief Floyd Dyer said he suspended the men Monday when they refused to leave his office after discussing complaints about working conditions.

He said he had told the men that the grievances would be referred to the city council police committee.

A two-thirds vote of the five council members is required to uphold the suspension.

LOADING FILM into camera which will be used to microfilm Twin Falls county records in Harold Lancaster, county clerk. Lancaster said microfilming of records will save space in the office and enable the courthouse to keep more accurate and secure records. (Times-News photo)

County Using Microfilm to Increase Space for Records

The Twin Falls county clerk's office is turning to the use of microfilm to find more space for records.

Clerk Harold Lancaster reports a microfilm camera has been loaned by Bannock county for the project. He said it would enable the courthouse to keep more accurate and safer records.

The camera, using one roll of film, can record some 1,200 pages of book records and keep them in a very small amount of space, Lancaster said.

A Reader-Printer device has been purchased for the courthouse which will enable anyone wishing to make copies from the microfilm or read the record on the film. Copies of the records will be sold at a reasonable price to cover expense, Lancaster said.

By using microfilm, the courthouse will have to keep two copies of the record as well as the original copy.

One microfilm copy will be kept in a safe place for security and the other will be kept as a working record. Lancaster stressed that no record would be destroyed but would be recorded to save space in the courthouse.

Corregidor Isle Suggested for General's Burial

WASHINGTON, April 7 (U)—State department officials disclosed today that in 1962 it was proposed to Gen. Douglas MacArthur that after his death he be buried at the highest point of Corregidor Island.

A memorial is to be raised there—where MacArthur's Philippine defenders finally surrendered to the Japanese in 1942—to the dead of the Pacific fighting in World War II.

MacArthur's advisers told the state department that the general had made a commitment the year before to be buried at the MacArthur memorial site in Norfolk, Va., where he will be laid to rest Saturday.

Public Land Laws Review Is Endorsed

BOISE, April 7 (U)—Approval of a resolution endorsing legislation which would bring about a review of all laws, rules and regulations under which public lands are administered was described Monday as the major accomplishment of a conference in Denver.

Mrs. Mildred Hamblitt, Boise, chief clerk of the state land department, attended the session, representing Idaho State Land Commissioner O. J. Buxton. The conference was sponsored by the Colorado State Chamber of Commerce and the Colorado department of natural resources.

The bill would establish a public land law review commission. It passed the house March 10 by a vote of 339-29. Mr. Hamblitt said, but has not yet been acted on in the senate.

The Denver conference was to coordinate work of all agencies and individuals concerned with the bill, Mrs. Hamblitt said. She said those attending the conference agreed to hold similar sessions at least annually "to support use and management of the public lands in the west for the economic growth of the West, and to seek the best possible representation on the commission and its advisory committee."

Lawyers Lay Plan for New Ruby Trial

DALLAS, April 7 (U)—Defense lawyers are putting finishing touches on an amended motion asking a new trial for convicted murderer Jack Ruby.

Unless the lawyers ask for more time, they will file their appeal Wednesday or Thursday, the deadline under Texas law.

Dist. Judge Joe Brown has 20 days from the filing of the amended motion to schedule a hearing.

In other developments, Sheriff Bill Decker fired two jail guards Monday for "obvious negligence" in allowing seven prisoners to make a sensational escape March 6, at the height of the Ruby trial.

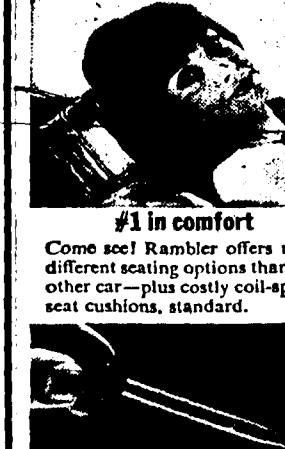

The prisoners, two of whom are still at large, kept policemen and spectators at bay by brandishing a fake gun they carved out of soap and blackened with shoe polish. They passed only a wall away from the courtroom where Ruby was being tried for the Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Decker said the guards, A. S. Greer and Troy L. Richey, "disregarded jail rules" but did not elaborate. They had been suspended since the break.

Brazil Leader Election Pushed

BRASILIA, Brazil, April 7 (U)—The Brazilian senate approved today early today calling for immediate congressional election of an interim president to serve the 20 months left of Joao Goulart's term.

With speedy approval of the bill expected in the chamber of deputies, the election appeared likely to take place Thursday. This was the target date reportedly set by the military leaders who overthrew Goulart and are anxious to restore the government before any new crises arise. The constitution provides for the election to be held 30 days after the presidency is vacated.

Conservatives behind the coup are pressing for the election of Gen. Humberto Castelo Branco, army chief of staff and a leader of the revolt. The constitution says a military man cannot be president, but it was felt that the presence of 9,000 troops who moved into Brasilia with armored units on Saturday would persuade congressmen to heed the military's wishes.

The dispatch with which the senate drafted the new law and passed it, all within one day, indicated the military pressure on the lawmakers.

Brazilian banks and stock exchanges reopened Monday amid signs of new confidence in the nation's economy since the overthrow of Goulart, who was accused of conservative foes of planning to deliver Brazil to the communists.

Peter Sellers Is Victim Of Seizure

HOLLYWOOD, April 7 (U)—British actor Peter Sellers was in Cedars of Lebanon hospital today, victim of a heart attack—and for one of the rare times in Hollywood a movie did not know which way to go.

The British actor, 38, was stricken in his home Monday with what the hospital called a moderate heart attack—halfway between a light and heavy coronary.

He has been working in his first Hollywood film, "Kiss Me, Stupid."

A spokesman for Thelma Houston, producer of the film, said: "It is such a part that no one but Peter Sellers could play. We don't know who else we could get to replace him. Our insurance covers us on this sort of thing, and I have a feeling we will suspend the picture until we can get Peter Sellers back."

The actor, one of the most versatile of British comedians, was taken by ambulance to the hospital where his condition was first reported as "very severe."

Later, a hospital bulletin said, "Mr. Sellers suffered a moderate heart attack, and his condition was listed as fair. He is expected to be hospitalized for several weeks."

Sellers' bride of two months, Swedish actress Britt Ekland, 21, a beautiful blonde, said her husband had no previous history of ill health.

His Last Battle

For days the death of Gen. Douglas MacArthur had appeared inevitable and imminent. He had undergone three major operations, on March 6, March 23 and March 29. The shock of any one of the three surgical procedures could have proved fatal to a man of less than his 84 years. General MacArthur not only went on living, but was lucid and conversed with his family and doctors. His surgeons expressed amazement, yet in the end there could be only one outcome and General MacArthur knew it. His last battle wasn't one he could win, but this remarkable old soldier fought a wonderful delaying action.

Now he belongs entirely to history through whose pages he has walked for more than half a century. Although he led American forces to victory in the Philippines back in 1898, he became a hero to Filipinos before, during and after World War II. From 1898 to the Korean war, General MacArthur had a large role in all military actions involving this nation.

During Pacific theater operations of World War II, General MacArthur re-wrote the military manuals. His island-hopping battles have been described as brilliant and will be studied by military men for a long time.

It was the Korean war and the limitations imposed on the general that led to his retirement from the military. Many Americans might reflect now what would have happened if General MacArthur could have prevailed upon President Truman to let him carry the Korean war to the Chinese beyond the Yalu river. Perhaps, as President Truman feared, such action would have triggered World War III. On the other hand, MacArthur could have been right. If he could have carried the war to the Chinese, it would have permitted the possibility of a total victory in Korea. That victory would have led to a united Korea instead of the stalemate that still divides that nation today.

Naturally, these are speculations and more years will have to pass before the Korean campaign can be judged in its proper perspective.

Whatever history decides eventually about MacArthur, Truman and Korea, the general's service to his nation had already assured his fame. The general's one unparadigmatic offense was to disagree publicly with the President, his commander in chief. Even though relieved of his command—in effect, fired—General MacArthur still had the respect and admiration of many of his countrymen. In a speech to congress that will go down as one of the greatest, he came up with another of his famed phrases, "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away." It was a quotation from an almost forgotten ballad, one that immediately took the nation's air waves by storm.

General MacArthur was handy with words, a technique sometimes referred to by his critics as "purple prose." There is no denying his words left an impression. Perhaps they would have sounded corny from any other person, but from MacArthur, they were gold. There is, of course, his famed "I shall return," and all the vivid words from his wartime communiqués, words that gave hope to a nation engaged in a desperate war and needing hope and encouragement.

Then consider his farewell to cadets at West Point almost two years before his death. "Twilight is here. I listen vainly, but with thirsty ear, for the witching melody of faint bugles blowing reveille, of far drums beating the long roll. I want you to know that when I cross the river my last conscious thoughts will be of the corps... and the corps... and the corps." Call it poetic, catchy, purple prose or what you will; there is no denying that General MacArthur had a way with words.

For that reason, many Americans will look forward to reading General MacArthur's autobiography scheduled to be published in a few months. Part of the work has been serialized in a magazine, enough to whet the appetite of those who appreciate beauty in writing. MacArthur students will use the autobiography for years in their study of the man, his military tactics and convictions. In some respects, the autobiography can't be expected to reveal anything more than is known already. The general was a man of principles and one of deep religious and moral convictions. These traits were reflected in his few speeches, in his writing and in his many wartime communiqués.

There was a "MacArthur for president" movement which never attained any real significance. Some contended the move never had a chance because MacArthur didn't care to be president. There's no point to speculating over what sort of president MacArthur would have been. He considered himself a military man, first, last and always. Had he aspired to political office, MacArthur would have been just as thorough as he was as a general. General MacArthur was one of the truly great men of this nation.

WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, April 7—Somebody on high should blow the whistle on the air force playing dirty pool in a 60-page report attacking the leading advocate of the nuclear "overkill" theory, Prof. Seymour Melman of Columbia University.

Melman, along with plenty of other authoritative Americans, believes the United States owns too much nuclear hardware, that it can destroy all civilization many times over. This group generally wants the nation to cut its defense budget up to 50 per cent and destroy some of its nuclear arms on the theory it is unnecessary to kill even our enemies more than once.

PROFESSOR PUSHES—Like most pleaders, Melman probably exaggerates his case because strong convictions tend to make a man a trifle careless with his facts. It is proper for the air force to attempt to refute his claims. But our fly-boys have no right to cast aspersions on Melman's competence or beliefs.

That is just what the air force has done, however. Not content with answering Melman point-by-point, its paper quotes a newspaper story that implies Melman is a "radical pacifist," and notes that he has only a "modest military background," acquired as a second lieutenant in the army during World War II.

Come, come, gentlemen! I realize it is air force tradition to regard any disagreement with its policies as a personal insult, but isn't this shabby stuff? I am not sure what the air force means by a "radical pacifist," but I assume it describes a citizen who wants peace—period. This may be wrongheaded, but I do not agree it is either illegal or even unwholesome. There will always be naive people who believe murder—even in wholesale lots—is not quite nice.

HE CAN ADD—Melman's military background may be "modest," but no one has yet proved a man must be a military expert to know how to count. Melman has reached conclusions such as that the U.S. could "kill" the Soviet Union and Communist China 500 times over by estimating the weapons in American possession, the number of so-called "delivery vehicles," attrition rates and the destructive power of bombs and warheads. Having done this presumably respectable research, he is not guilty—yet—of any charge of frivolity.

Furthermore, the air force has damaged its own case, which is considerable and can boast an air of official authenticity, by getting personal with Melman. For example, it says Melman's estimates include 600 B-47 bombers which will be retired and not replaced. It notes Melman showed 15 operational Polaris submarines, whereas a year later the navy announced there were only 11, with the 15th not scheduled for deployment until later this year.

AIR FORCE HOLDS SECRETS—Since exact figures and details are properly top secret, there also must be respect for the air force's claim that the manned air force aircraft offense represents only 6,000 megatons instead of Melman's 20,000, and that the so-called "second strike force" is just under 1,000 delivery vehicles compared with the 3,390 claimed by Melman. The air force also claims Melman's ratio of 20 kilotons to 100,000 deaths is absurd. An overkill case could be established for airpower during World War II, it says, since U.S. and British planes dropped nearly 50 pounds of explosives on Germany for every living German.

Nevertheless, the pleas of men like Professor Melman should be given a respectful hearing. President Johnson and Nikita Khrushchev have agreed there is enough nuclear hardware to blow the world to kingdom come. If so, we should at least be willing to think about cutting back production to the point where, as Melman says, the U.S. "could merely obliterate all of our potential enemies' major cities and industries." In nuclear warfare, enough is really enough.

PAY UP OR SIT BACK
Adlai Stevenson, speaking with the authority of the President and the secretary of state, has advised the Russians that they will surely lose their vote in the United Nations general assembly unless they pay at least 9 million dollars in U.N. assessments on which they are delinquent.

This is the considered response of the United States to the warning of the Soviet Union that if any attempt was made to take away its vote next fall, it might "reconsider its attitude toward the United Nations activities." The Soviet Union owes 52.6 million dollars in unpaid assessments for the maintenance of U.N. peacekeeping forces in the Middle East and in the Congo. Its statement said these are "illegal" because they were voted by the assembly, not the security council. The Soviet position is probably a bluff. If it is a bluff, it can be met by a call for a showdown. This is precisely what the U.S. ambassador to the U.N. has suggested is in store for the Soviets when the general assembly session opens next fall. (He might have added that the same thing is in store for other delinquents, like France.)

If, on the other hand, the Soviets are not bluffing but intend indeed to withdraw from the U.N. should an effort be made to force them to pay up, what do we do? In our opinion there is nothing that can be done except to say, "The club can't run unless every member pays dues," and take our stand on that.

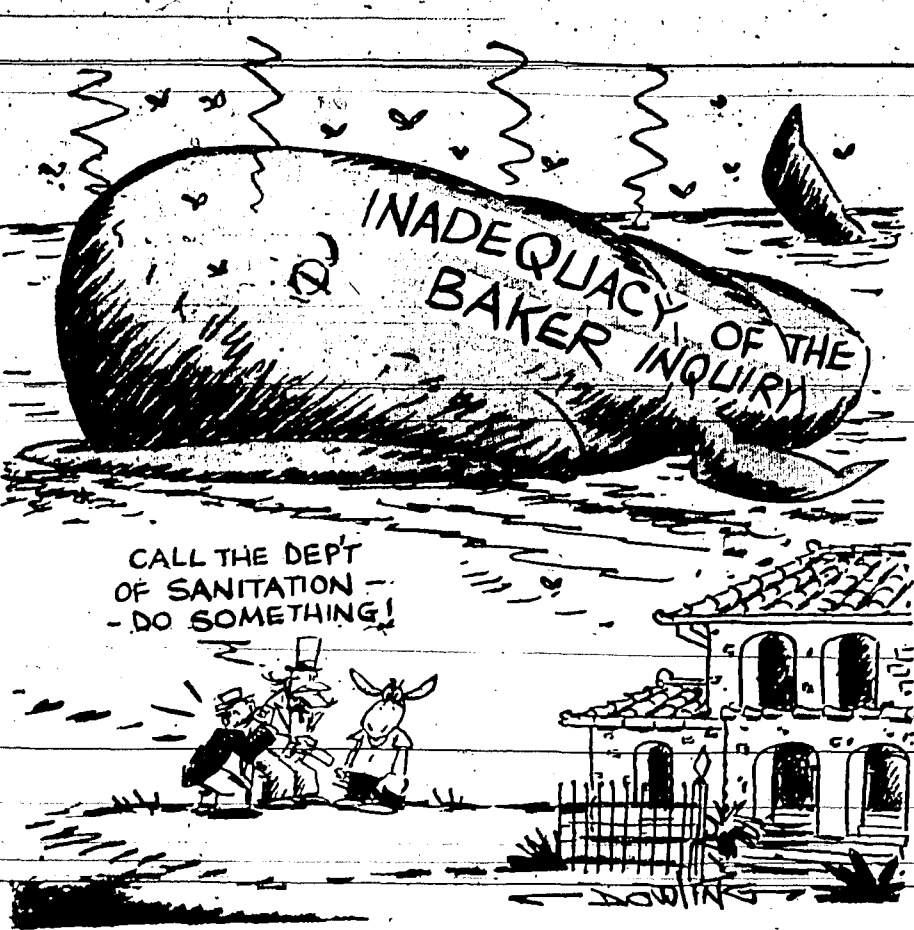

The U.N. may not realize it, but it is more powerful in this world than the Russians are. Article 19 of the charter provides that a member whose arrears amount to as much as its last two years' assessments "shall have no vote." If and when the provision is applied to the Russians (and the French), the world will overwhelmingly support the U.N. And the nonpayers will, in the end, have to turn tail and pay up.—San Francisco Chronicle.

CANADA SHOWS THE WAY
While others hunched, haved and hedged, Canada came forward and took the lead in raising an international force for Cyprus. It demonstrated again the readiness of our neighbor to the north to act at a time of crisis and to serve the good cause of international peace.

With the financial contributions pledged by the United States and Britain and the forces which may now flow from Canada's example, a United Nations army may be on the way to the strife-ridden island in the Mediterranean. Its immediate aim is to achieve a truce of three months—and that is no mean achievement. It will prevent the Greek majority from slaughtering the Turkish minority on Cyprus and avert a clash between Greece and Turkey—a clash which would have blown up the Mediterranean end of NATO. It will give both sides time to cool their passions and seek a negotiated solution. There is little likelihood that a solution will come within the three-month period. The event it does not, the U.N. force will still be there, fixed in its positions, and available for continued service for an indefinite period of time.—New York Herald Tribune.

WHEN IS A WORD A WORD?
A word is a word is a word but it depends on what it means what it means and what it means. Recently two officials from Burma paid a courtesy call on Nikita Khrushchev in the Kremlin and one said: "Long live our great yebaw." Now in Burmese yebaw means comrade but in Russian it means "lead person or libertine." So a word really is not a word is not a word.—Sacramento Bee.

As my 17-year-old son prepared to enter his senior year in high school, he was given as much freedom as possible in using the new family car under two conditions: he was to conduct himself properly behind the wheel at all times and would pay his share of the gasoline and tire expense.

His use of the car represented nine-tenths of the total mileage immediately. One month later on a Sunday evening, he busted through the front door as if a monster were after him and asked in a loud, excited voice, "Do you have any idea of how much gasoline costs?"

His mother and I listened to a good five-minute lecture on the expense of operating a car. I immediately tightened the hinges on the front door in anticipation of what will happen when he decides we need a lecture on the cost of tires.

By PHIL NEWSOM
(United Press International)
JERUSALEM, Jordan, April 7

UPD—From the Mount of Olives the view extends across the walls of Old Jerusalem and no-man's land to the rooftops of New Jerusalem which is a part of Israel.

The no-man's land is a grim reminder that Jerusalem, like Berlin, is a city divided and that this Biblical land still has found no peace after thousands of years of violence.

Spring has come to Jordan with heavy rains after seven years of drought. Flowers are blooming in rocky fields where men tending their flocks followed a bright star to the birthplace of Christ, and in the Garden of Gethsemane where He was betrayed.

In this land of symbols holy to Moslem, Christian and Jew, machineguns bristle across a line which here may be no wider than the width of a city street and there, perhaps a quarter of a mile.

The only communication between the two is a United Nations force overseeing an armistice now 15 years old with no permanent solution yet in sight. Here, 1948 is referred to as the "year of the trouble." Each side accuses the other of unprovoked attack and atrocities, and in the repetitious years of retelling, suspicions and hatreds have deepened.

At lunch in Old Jerusalem, the wife of a Jordanian official shudders at the thought of the nearby Israeli machineguns and that at any moment they might explode into action.

And there is little doubt that somewhere in New Jerusalem, an Israeli housewife is expressing the same fear of the Jordanians whose armed forces probably are the best trained of any in the Arab world.

Sharpening the dispute now is Israel's determination soon to open the valves which will direct Jordan river waters into the waterless Negev.

The Arab states dispute Israel's right to the waters and use it as the spearhead in a new effort toward a united Arab front against what they charge is new proof of an Israeli goal of territorial expansion at the expense of the Arabs.

Coincidentally, it also leads to a new propaganda campaign against the United States which is regarded as Israel's strongest and most determined supporter.

In the midst of Jordan's young King Hussein, who must rely on the United States for up to 50 million dollars annually in economic and military aid but who has also, in the sudden turn of Mideast affairs, become the agent of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

It also has led Hussein into a search for a new source of economic aid which would permit him at least to loosen his U.S. ties.

For this he has turned to oil-rich Kuwait and its healthy surplus of foreign exchange. In a swift round of travels he also has interceded, unsuccessfully thus far, for Nasser in the latter's dispute with Saudi Arabia over Yemen. A surprise trip to Iran by Hussein reportedly was with the purpose of seeking to heal a break between Nasser and the Shah of Iran over Iran's recognition of Israel.

This is not the first time that Hussein and Nasser had a moment of warmth nor the first time that Hussein has had a promise of Arab aid. Neither lasted for long.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

AUSTIN, Tex., April 7—Gordon McLendon, who bills himself as "the old Scotchman" and whose billboards are spreading like a rash across the state and carry in big letters "beat Ralph Yarborough," is of the new wave in American politics.

He has never run for office before. His views lean heavily on issues are expressed in the broad generalities of conservatives. But he is a radio personality, a radio voice, and as the owner of radio stations in Texas' largest cities he has a hold on a powerful media of communication. A skilled showman, he sometimes appears with Scottish bagpipes.

The new wave leans heavily on showmanship and intensive concentration on television and radio to put over a brand name the voter will remember favorably in the polling booth. McLendon's headquarters plan a blitz for the two weeks of the campaign leading up to the primary on May 2. Statewide television, repeated spot announcements on radio stations in every community in the state, the goal is to tie Yarborough to his spending in Washington and to Billie Sol Estes, Texas' fallen angel who contributed to one of Yarborough's past campaigns.

The blitz being planned resembles that put on for Birch Bayh, a comparatively unknown Democrat in Indiana, in defeating a veteran Republican senator, Homer Capehart. By most calculations Senator Yarborough, running for his second full term, should win. But the effects of the new-wave technique are unpredictable and the Yarborough managers are scared.

They see their man—a moderate by national standards, a liberal when measured against the conservatism of much of Texas—as the target of attack from every direction. Four candidates in the Republican primary for the senate seat, ranging from respectable Goldwaterism to the ultra right, concentrate much of their fire on Yarborough as the exponent of spending programs and deficit financing.

Big oil is said to be behind the McLendon campaign, helping to pay the bill that will include $500,000 for billboards alone, with amounts for television time adding up to sizable totals. Mrs. Clint Murchison, jr., wife of the head of one of the richest families in the nation, came to Austin to help open McLendon headquarters. McLendon's campaign manager, George W. Sandlin, chairman of the Democratic executive committee and a henchman of former Gov. Allan Shivers, in 1952 helped to defeat Democratic machinery in the hands of General Eisenhower and the Republicans in that year.

At this point a problem in political balance for President Johnson. His antipathy to Yarborough in the past is no secret. But if a conservative like McLendon, who would vote against most of the Johnson measures, or another Republican like Sen. John Tower, were to be elected from Texas, the President's own barometer would be a distinct enough has the support of organized labor not only here but in the nation, and his defeat would be taken hard by elements in the northern cities.

The visitor is told of a little drama that put this problem in blunt fashion. Gathered in the office of Gov. John Connally were some of the more potent wheeler-dealers in finance and politics. The governor was the President on the phone. It was a consensus of the group that he should give a thumbs-down signal of Yarborough and support either Kilgore, or perhaps a conservative record, or perhaps Shivers for the senate.

This may be a romanticized version of what happened. In any event, the president said a firm no. If there had been any intention of showing Yarborough early for an appointed candidate approved by the hierarchy of power in the state it has been abandoned.

The President in the statewide Beldon poll rates 77 or 78 per cent against any possible Republican nominee. Governor Connally, who has been advancing in his career stage by stage by Johnson, was nearly as high against primary contender, Don Yarborough, no relative of the senator.

Connally has nearly recovered from the grave wounds at the hands of the assassin who killed President Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22. The ordeal he went through unquestionably created wide sympathy for him. As business manager for Sid Richardson, one of three or four Texas giants in oil, and later as administrator of the Richardson estate on which taxes of 40 million dollars were paid to the government, he has the full certification of the power structure.

Connally is strikingly handsome—with an almost filmstar handsomeness. In contrast, Senator Yarborough has the homely spun look of an earlier Texas endorser, J. Frank Dobb. Texas' beloved author, said that when values beyond money, values expressing enlightenment and justice for the human race come up, Senator Yarborough could be counted on to stand up in those values. Where power and ad power, counts for so much that is a rare tribute.

Poor Man's Plato

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—Just as many men today are hen-pecked so some wives are dominated by their husbands.

They are, so to speak, "rooster-pecked." While this flies into the face of the comfortable feminine theory that this has become a world of women, it is nevertheless inescapably true.

Here and there landmark men still survive who are able to assert their authority over women and I am not speaking merely of male hairdressers. I mean husbands who are able to dominate their wives, usually without the ladies in question realizing it.

It takes a great deal of Machiavellian cunning for a man to remain master in his own split-level castle in these times, but it can be done—and it is being done.

How can a wife tell if she is "rooster-pecked"? Well, her clever mate probably has out-witted her in the battle of matrimonial boobyism.

He insists that she handle all the money in the family, then, when the household budget gets out of balance instead of upbraiding her he turns upon her a face of unsufferable forgiveness.

Although she is mistress of the purse, somehow he winds up at the end of the year with more new clothes than she does.

He's the one who takes the kids to the circus, but she's the one who spansks them when they need it.

Everytime he confesses helplessness. "Honey, I don't know what I'd do without you," she feels a fierce maternal urge to protect him even more.

Q—I have been told that my blood sugar threshold is low. Could you explain what this means?

A—The threshold is the level at which the sugar in the blood spills over into the urine through the kidneys. The normal level of sugar in the blood is about 100 milligrams per 100 milliliters of blood. If as a result of a lowered threshold you have sugar in your urine, you have some degree of diabetes. This is one of those conditions that can be controlled but not cured.

that the player who uses intelligence is apt to have more luck than the strict book player. I am thinking of the hand, shown herewith.

"The orthodox lead is the king of diamonds. South isn't happy with that lead, but he sees a chance if West has all the key cards. He simply runs off his high spade. West's last five cards will be the king-jack-nine of clubs and ace-queen of hearts. Dummy's last five cards will be the ace-queen-ten of clubs and two hearts. West must discard first. If West throws a club a heart is discarded from dummy and—dummy—takes three club tricks. If West throws the queen of hearts, a club is discarded from dummy and a low heart lead knocks out West's ace. West makes two club tricks and South makes his king of hearts. If West really thinks before leading, he can stand a diamond declarer and that dummy will almost surely show up with the ace and queen of clubs. He will lead a club in an effort to keep declarer from taking the club finesse.

"His intelligent lead will be lucky. Declarer will probably take the club finesse and the second losing diamond on the second club, but assuming West discards correctly from then on, declarer will have to lose two heart tricks because the opening lead will have killed his one entry to dummy.

Anti-Poverty Campaign Is Renewed

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—An appeal for congressional action from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy marked the renewal today of the Johnson administration's anti-poverty campaign.

Kennedy, brother of the late president and brother-in-law of poverty program chief R. Sargent Shriver, Jr., was the first witness at the resumption of hearings by a house education and labor subcommittee.

Federal Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver also was to lend his support to the proposal to spend $62 million dollars to give new skills and environments to poor youths, finance local anti-poverty projects, establish a domestic peace corps and provide new funds for small businesses and farmers.

The subcommittee heard testimony from five cabinet members in a week of hearings last month. On deck Wednesday are Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and Small Business Administrator Eugene P. Foley, then the panel will turn to public witnesses.

Other congressional news: Photographs: House investigators set out to explore the government's use of its detection (polygraphs), a practice that critics contend could shatter public confidence in federal officials. The government information subcommittee arranged a panel discussion with nationally recognized polygraph experts to discuss use of the devices.

Pesticides: A senate subcommittee called on federal officials to testify on the possible effects on human beings of insect poisons used to spray food crops. James M. Quigley, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare, was the first scheduled witness before the senate group. He faced questioning about a recent public health service report on fish-kills in the lower Mississippi.

Buhl Junior Class Play Is Planned

BURL, April 7—The Broadway play, "Kind Lady," a melodrama written by Edward O'Connor, will be presented by the Buhl high school junior class in two evening performances Monday and Tuesday, April 13-14, in the high school auditorium. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

CHICAGO, April 7 (AP)—President Johnson, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Chief Justice Earl Warren are among the 10 whites "most trusted" by America's Negroes, Ebony magazine said today.

Lawford and His Wife Are Blackballed

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—A luxurious cooperative apartment house has rejected the application of Peter Lawford and his wife, the former Patricia Kennedy, because of his profession and her politics.

The cooperative's five-man board reconsidered the application of the late President John F. Kennedy's sister and brother-in-law Monday night but one member reportedly refused to drop his opposition to the couple because Lawford is an actor and his wife a Democrat, Francis R. Masters, chairman of the board, would not make public any details of the situation.

However, socialite Charles Amory, whose 18-room apartment the Lawfords wish to buy, resorted to the city commission on human rights to find out if the apartment board had the legal right to blackball the Lawfords because any of the tenants objected to having an actor and a Democrat in the building.

Stanley H. Lowel, chairman of the commission, told Amory that the board apparently does

Beet Sugar Man Scores Cane Tactics

COLORADO SPRINGS, April 7 (AP)—The president of Holly Sugar corporation accused the domestic cane sugar industry Monday of trying to expand its markets at the expense of consumers and beet sugar producers and processors.

Holly President Dennis O'Rourke, in a statement pleading the sugar beet industry's case for a 750,000-ton increase in its production quota, attacked demands of cane refiners that Cuban sugar quotas be given to foreign producers instead of beet growers.

"It is well known that cane sugar refiners are competing for a substantial share of the expansion of the beet sugar industry into new areas, which congress has authorized," he said.

"Those U. S. cane refiners who are enjoying the benefits of this expansion . . . and are at the same time opposing an over-all adjustment . . . in the beet sugar quotas are in the position of insisting that their protected expansion shall be at the expense of the thousands of farmers who have built the beet sugar industry."

O'Rourke also argued expansion of domestic beet sugar quotas would help alleviate the U. S. balance of payments problem and still leave a third of the U. S. market to foreign producers. "Indeed a substantial contribution to foreign trade."

Farragut Is Inspected by Scout Leader

COEUR D'ALENE, April 7 (AP)—National Girl Scout officials say the Farragut wildlife refuge on Lake Pend Oreille in north Idaho will be an ideal setting for their 1965 senior Girl Scout roundup.

A delegation headed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie toured portions of the 4,200-acre former navy training area Monday.

Mrs. H. P. Moulton, New York City, a member of the national executive committee of the Girl Scouts, said the site offers a "different type of opportunity than we have ever had for a roundup."

"The native beauty and unspoiled country is just wonderful. I know the girls will have a wonderful experience here."

She said a conservation theme has been selected for the roundup, which is expected to draw nearly 8,000 girls and 2,000 adults.

The roundup's advance guard, Mrs. Moulton said, will start arriving in March or April of next year. The roundup gets underway July 17 and runs through July 26.

Maj. Gen. John E. Walsh, Idaho's adjutant general and coordinator for preparing the site, Jon Holsinger, state parks director, and Louise Shaduck, secretary of the state department of commerce and development, accompanied the governor and Scout executives on the tour.

Walsh said he will meet sixth army representatives in San Francisco in an attempt to obtain additional help in clearing the area.

Ocean Bottom Laboratory Is Planned

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The navy said Monday four hand-picked divers will spend three weeks living and working on the bottom of the Atlantic this summer.

The four divers, a navy doctor and three enlisted men, will live in a 40-foot-long laboratory 192 feet below the surface.

The experiment will be similar to some already successfully carried out by French divers.

The test will take place near the navy's oceanographic research tower, the Argos Island, 30 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Navy officers, discussing the experiment with newsmen, said it is a radically different concept under which men can work for long periods deep under the surface of the water.

Now, they said, divers are able to work for only short periods and for each hour below must spend two hours in slowly rising to the surface to avoid decompression sickness commonly called "the bends."

They calculated that the men who live in the sea laboratory will be able to do four to six hours of work a day on the bottom for three weeks.

The laboratory will receive electrical power, communications and fresh water from a large ship on the surface.

The steel sea laboratory will be equipped with electric lights, bunks, a lavatory, fresh water, shower, cooking facilities, heating and work bench and other gear.

Once adjusted to the severe pressure, the divers will venture from the sea laboratory for as far as 1,000 feet to perform a number of tasks.

The difference between living in a submarine and in the sea laboratory, the navy expert said, is that the pressure inside the submarine is the same as in the open air while that in the sea laboratory will be nearly six times that in the atmosphere—88 pounds per square inch contrasted to 14.7 pounds on the surface.

Once the divers have finished their three-week stint, it will take from 36 to 48 hours to raise them to the surface to allow gradual adjustment to the lessened pressure.

The board also adopted a resolution urging the U.S. department of agriculture to approve an extension of the deadline date for feed-grain growers to comply with program requirements.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, April 7—Born today, you have tremendous versatility which, unless you choose your direction early in life and then stick with your decision, could prove more of a handicap than an advantage. Your energy and vitality will urge and encourage you to begin projects, but if you are not careful the development of a new interest will cause you to quit at the midway point. You will succeed in life precisely to the degree that you are able to keep this tendency under control.

You are ambitious for the best, the luxurious things of life, and you are intelligent enough to know that the sort of life you want comes neither without planning nor without work. That you realize this is your best guarantee of obtaining what you want. The realization will keep you with your nose to the grindstone even when all your instincts would take you elsewhere.

You are apt to take strong likes and dislikes to people and things with little or no warning, and once you do you rarely reverse your position. This is wonderful for your friends, but it may be unfair to those for no apparent reason must remain outside your circle of companions; you might be wise to learn to reconsider your stand every now and again for, believe it or not, you could be wrong!

Among those born on this date are: Walter Winchell, noted columnist; David Low, political cartoonist; William Wordsworth, English Romantic poet.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, April 8
ARIES (March 21-April 20)—Another good day for Aries. Realize an advantage that may have been hovering in the background for days!

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Important matters, especially as they involve real estate, can be successfully—and most profitably—settled at this time.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Listen to your own conscience. Best to stick to your own team, win or lose, than to prove disloyal to the cause.

CANCER (June 22-July 21)—A good day for making contacts that could be very useful professionally. Expand property interests if necessary.

ACID-ALKALINE BALANCE

Q. What, if anything, can be done for an alkaline condition of body secretions?

A. Fortunately, the body is fairly well protected against radical changes in the delicately balanced acid-alkaline mechanism. The blood is slightly alkaline. Make it acid and you wouldn't survive to tell about it. The stomach is normally acid but the bile and the intestinal tract are alkaline. And so it goes. Under certain circumstances, conditions of alkalosis or acidosis may develop, but they are situations which must be dealt with by a physician. Don't try to "adjust" the acidity or alkalinity of your body—you might get into serious trouble.

"CLINIC" DEFINED

Q. This may not be a proper question but I'll send it in anyway. What is a "clinic"?

A. In some parts of the country the word "clinic" refers to free dispensaries. Most often, however, the word "clinic" is applied to the offices of several physicians who more or less pool their efforts and practice as a group. According to the American Medical Association, the ethical principles actuating and governing a group or clinic are exactly the same as those applicable to the individual physician.

The true measure of the worth of prescribed medicine lies not in dollars and cents, but in the faster relief from pain and speedier recovery it provides.

Campbell to Investigate Criticism

TORONTO, April 7 (U)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Monday he will investigate remarks attributed to Sid Abel, Detroit Red Wings coach, about refereeing in the Stanley cup semifinals.

Campbell will ask Abel to confirm or deny the truth of published criticism of Referee Frank Udvari after a Wings-Black Hawks game in Chicago Sunday.

Abel said in a telephone interview from Toledo, O., Monday that Udvari "choked up" when he ruled in favor of Chicago's tying goal in the third period of the game.

Campbell confirmed that Bruce Norris, owner of the Wings, had asked that the league send another referee to Chicago Thursday, provided a seventh game in that series is necessary.

As a result of Sunday's disputed win, the Hawks lead the series 3-2.

The dispute arose after a shot by Ken Wharram, Chicago, appeared to have landed at the side of the Detroit net. After the goal light had gone on and the whistle had blown—no one in agreement about which came first—Chicago players protested to Udvari.

After conferring with the goal judge, Udvari awarded a goal to Chicago. At this point Wings players swarmed around the referee and in the ensuing melee Larry Jeffrey was given a misconduct penalty.

Abel said Monday the referee's decision was "ridiculous."

Italy Sends Protest on Title Fight

ROME, April 7 (U)—The Italian Boxing federation formally asked the European Boxing union Monday to withhold its confirmation of Germany's Gustav Bubli Scholz as European light heavyweight champion.

The Italian federation said it will soon file an official complaint against the referee's decision that gave Scholz the title Saturday night in his bout at Dortmund, Germany, against Giulio Rinaldi, Italy.

Banches Villar, the Spanish referee, disqualified Rinaldi at the start of the ninth round on the grounds he had hit Scholz with an illegal kidney punch at the end of the eighth.

Italian officials said their complaint was based on a report by federation representatives who saw the fight and on a complaint by Rinaldi's manager, Bruno Amaduzzi.

Amaduzzi argued that the referee should have disqualified Rinaldi in the eighth when the foul blow landed not after the ninth started.

Villar said after the fight that he had been about to stop the fight when the bell sounded to end the eighth. Rinaldi claimed he hit Scholz in the kidney region only because the German fighter turned around.

Silverman Asks National Boxing Unit

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7 (U)—Sol Silverman, chairman of California's committee for safeguards in boxing called Monday for establishment of a national boxing commission with sweeping enforcement powers.

Silverman's proposals came in a letter to U. S. Sen. Philip L. Hart, D. Mich., chairman of the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee. The subcommittee is probing arrangements for the recent Cuscuta Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight.

A national commission, Silverman asserted, could and should enforce pre-fight training standards, standardize medical examinations given fighters just before bouts, allow only licensed trainers to work in fighters' corners during bouts and outlaw rematch agreements signed before title fights.

He noted that Liston, who lost his title after claiming an arm injury, admitted after the fight that he had strained the arm in training and suffered from bursitis. Yet the examining doctor, Silverman reported, said Liston was in superb condition.

He also called for prohibiting the showing of fight films in states in which the boxers have not been licensed.

He termed a "perplexing paradox" the fact states can bar boxers "but not their profit-making fight pictures."

Gooding State Tracks Running at the Gooding High School Track will be Glenns Ferry, Shoshone, Wendell and Halley, with competition starting at 3:30 p.m. The Gooding State event will be open to all comers and about 13 schools are expected.

The Hank Powers carnival, named for long time Twin Falls coach and athletic director Henry C. Powers, is entirely run in relays. It includes the 120-yard low hurdle hurdles and 440, 880, mile and two-mile races. The aggregate of three men determine the championships in the pole vault, broadjump, high jump, shot put and discus.

The same competition is open in a special frosh-soph division. Twin Falls, for the first time, will enter three separate teams in the frosh-soph event. These will include the sophomore class and frosh clubs from Gladiators and O'Leary junior high schools.

For the third straight year the about-records in 1200 yards and two of the record-breaking trio are back again for a third shot at it. Curtis Eaton, Ron Wilson and Jim Genn had an aggregate 149 feet, 10 inches last year. Eaton and Wilson will be joined by senior Karl Kleinkopf Thursday afternoon and the total mark should beat 160 feet. Another point of interest will be the two-mile relay where most of the record breaking sophomore crew of last season moves into varsity competition this year. These include Robinson, Terry Dodds, Phil Call and Bruce Bowman.

But Call will be dropped to run on the medley while Art Vandenberg takes his place. As sophomores the crew ran in 9:18.4 against the varsity record of 9:04 flat.

An individual record, 54 feet, 2 inches should be bettered by Eaton in the shot.

The splitting up of teams at Gooding will prevent some of the feature matches from taking place. Millers Mark Purdy, Halley, and Larry Johnson, Gooding State, will be kept apart for another week. But there will be a renewal of the quarter-mile competition between John Exner, Shoshone, and Blandford, Halley. Exner, defending district champion, won by inches last week.

Eyes also will be watching at Gooding State to see what Camas County's Ted Thornton will do. Thornton won four firsts last week-end, all with good times. If he shows improvement, Camas County will immediately become a strong threat in the bigger meets later this spring.

Pastrano Is Awkward in Spar Bout

NEW ORLEANS, April 7 (U)—"Don't judge a fighter by the way he looks in the gym. You don't win 'em there."

That was the comment from Angelo Dundee, manager of light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano after an awkward show by Pastrano Monday in three rounds with sparring mates.

"Willie's in shape," said Dundee. Pastrano defends his title against Argentina's Gregorio Peralta here Friday night.

Peralta passed up boxing Monday. His American manager, Charlie Johnson, said the Latin contender would go two rounds Tuesday with a sparring mate.

Peralta, who defeated Pastrano in a 10-round non-title bout last fall, concentrated on bag work in a 60-minute drill.

Neither fighter was able to get in any roadwork Monday morning because of a heavy thunderstorm.

"Willie's going to run tomorrow even if he has to do it in a raincoat," said Lou Groves, the veteran trainer who is preparing the New Orleans native for the first defense of the crown he won last summer from Harold Johnson.

Groves said Pastrano would pass up a sparring session Tuesday and "probably go two rounds Wednesday. That'll be his last before the fight."

Johnson said Peralta "is the greatest fighter to ever come out of South America. He's going to give Pastrano a real battle."

Colt Pitcher Hurts Shoulder

HOUSTON, April 7 (U)—Dick Farrell, ace right-handed pitcher for the Houston Colts, has returned to Houston from the Colts' Florida spring training camp for examination and treatment of a sore shoulder.

Farrell, who is scheduled to pitch the Colts' opening home game against Milwaukee April 16, complained Sunday of his arm hurting from his elbow to his shoulder.

Komives Nets Major College Score Crown

NEW YORK, April 7 (U)—Howard (Butch) Komives, Bowling Green's hot-handed basketball ace, is the major college basketball scoring champion.

The 6-foot, 1-inch senior fired at a 36.7 points-per-game clip—third highest average in history—and headed a record list of seven collegians with averages of better than 30 points per game, according to final statistics released today by the NCAA.

Nick Werkmann, Belton Hall, last year's No. 1 scorer, finished second this season with a 33.2 mark. Manny Newsome, Western Michigan, 32.7; Bill Bradley, Princeton, 32.3; Rick Barry, Miami, Fla., 32.2; Gary Bradds, Ohio State, 30.6, and Steve Thomas, Xavier, 30.0, completed the 30-point club.

Komives vaulted from 45th position a year ago to the top spot. He capped his college career with a record 50 straight free throws in his last five games.

Only Frank Selvy, former Furman star, and ex-Utah gunner Bill McCull finished with higher season averages. Selvy averaged 41.7 points per game in 1954 and McCull posted a 38.8 mark in 1952.

A pair of team records fell. Detroit's 96.1 scoring average erased the mark of 95.8 set by Morehead State in 1956. Davidson shot 544 from the floor, eclipsing the field goal accuracy record of 521 held by Auburn's 1950 team.

Dancer Has New Jockey For Kentucky

MIAMI, Fla., April 7 (U)—Northern Dancer, winner of the Flamingo and the Florida derby, will have a new rider when he meets Hill Rise in the Kentucky derby.

Willie Shoemaker, who guided Northern Dancer to victory in the two big Florida races, will switch to Hill Rise in the derby. Bill Hartack will ride Northern Dancer.

In the latest line on the derby Northern Dancer and Hill Rise are 5-2 co-favorites.

Horatio Luro, trainer of Northern Dancer, announced the switch of riders shortly before leaving Monday for Lexington, Ky. His horse also left by van for Lexington's Keeneland race track.

"Harry Silbert, Shoemaker's agent, called me and told me Bill was going to ride Hill Rise," Luro said. "I guess they must have offered him a better proposition. We then agreed that Hartack was the right rider for Northern Dancer."

"I'm not upset about it at all. I guess Shoemaker must not have been impressed with my horse's race Saturday, but I believe it was far from his best effort."

Northern Dancer won the 1 1/4-mile Florida derby in the slow time of 1:50 1/5. A week earlier, he equalled the Gulfstream track record of 1:22 3/5 for seven furlongs.

First baseman Orlando Cepeda paced the batting binge with a .438 average. His hits included four doubles, five triples and a team-leading six home runs. He also batted 26 runs across to lead San Francisco in that category. Centerfielder Willie Mays also enjoyed a fine spring, leading the ball for a 411 average. McCovey hit .391. Jimmy Pierso's port was 326 and catcher Haller hit .315.

Only regular outside the circle was shortstop Jose Pagan at .238.

Sports

FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY ROYER

The hue and cry arising from all parts of the country to put professional boxing under federal control puts many of the people connected with the sport in a very bad light.

Not only did the "sports" take club lose control of their child, they are contributing, almost daily, to its delinquency. It raises a question of whether a sport that cannot govern itself has a right to exist.

There are, it is assumed, enough good men in boxing to make the saving of the sport worthwhile. But, unfortunately, the solution brought forward is in actuality the easy way out.

"Let the government do it," someone says with a big wide, self-satisfied smile across his pin. That takes everyone in the game safely off the hook.

But as yet no one has come up with a reason why boxing is so important that the national government has to step in to save it. We don't pick out boxing. We'd say the same about football, track or anything else in similar conditions.

This column has said many times that if another sporting event were never held, the world would go right along. Only about 25 per cent of the total population would miss it—according to the surveys we've seen. We believe that sports can and do contribute much both to the spectator and participant. We would hate to see a world without athletic competition.

Boxing runs into trouble everywhere because of greed. First young boxers are sent into the ring to become moneymen for a more experienced man. Big gates take away the few weeks of training, can build up a lot of money in short order and then the athlete is left with a few dollars and a few bruises.

The point that galls is the self-interest of the money men. The World Boxing Association. These guys can agree on anything until it affects their area. When New York wouldn't give Sonny Liston a license for a title match in New York city, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Miami Beach commissions fell all over themselves with offers.

Even if the commissioners weren't interested in the money and prestige the title fight, it still would bring in, think of the pressures the hotel owners, etc. could bring to bear for rejecting such a bout.

In the long run it appears from this angle that fight sites and nationalism are the two that confront the WBA most. And they would be the hardest to control. Even federal boxing commission with all the laws necessary would find these hard to control. It would have to be a federal law. If some English boxer felt he "was robbed" in this country by an American. The English would have to recognize the U. S. champion.

Picking sites would only make every city with a population over 250,000 mad because they would all be applying for the fights.

Pursuing farther, who would serve on a federal boxing commission? Right away somebody says "Jack Dempsey." Dempsey may have been a great champion but how would he be as an administrator? Just naming the commission members would be difficult, filled with compromise and actually not much benefit in the long run, it is feared.

What with ancillary rights (closed TV to we peons) and other money making schemes, a heavyweight championship fight can bring in a lot of money. All fights draw some admission money through the gate. So why can't boxing weld itself into a tight unit like the horse racing associations and do its own policing. A 5 per cent rake off all pro gates would pay for it. One or two "solid-front" stands on specific, controversial issues would give it teeth.

With such an organization effectively functioning, federal or state help in matters of passing necessary legislation would receive whole-hearted support.

We hate to see any sport in trouble, particularly when much of it can be thrown back into the laps of the hierarchy of the sport. It would be much more appealing to the general public to see the sport clean itself up rather than join the ever growing chorus of "let the government do it."

Joe Cronin Predicts Four Teams Will Challenge Yankees

BOSTON, April 7 (AP)—American league president, Joe Cronin, predicted Monday that four teams—Chicago, Baltimore, Minnesota and Detroit—will seriously challenge the perennial champion New York Yankees this year. The league head gave the press a preview of the season which opens next week of his impressions gained in a tour of Florida spring training camps. "I pick the White Sox, Orioles, Twins

Scherer Quits As Grid Coach For Jerome

JEROME, April 7 (AP)—Frank Scherer, head football and track coach at Jerome high school, has resigned to continue his education next fall.

Scherer, a former three-sport star at Jerome in 1953-54, said he has accepted a fellowship at Brigham Young university and will enroll there next fall to work on his masters degree.

Coach Scherer led his Tigers to the Cross State football conference championship with a 4-0 record and his club was 8-1 for the season. It scored 198 points while allowing 90 for the entire season.

His track club this spring appears the strongest Jerome has had in several years. He also was assistant basketball coach, handling the junior varsity.

Rain Gives Nicklaus Bit of Edge

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 (AP)—A monsoon-like rain flooded the Augusta National course Monday, canceling practice rounds and the stock of defending champion Jack Nicklaus soared as probable winner of the 28th Masters golf tournament.

"Because of his power, Nicklaus has to be a big favorite on this course," said Sam Snead. "If the rain continues and the course is soft, he should make it a runaway."

The Augusta weather bureau could offer little encouragement for powder puff hitters in the field of 90 who might want to wrest the crown from the 24-year-old Columbus, Ohio, slugger, who hits the ball higher and farther than any man the game has ever known.

Heavy showers were expected to continue through Monday night and most of Tuesday, perhaps pouring as much as two inches of water over the lush fairways of the 6,880-yard layout. The meteorologist at the local airport said he was unable to predict likely weather for the tournament which opens Thursday.

"We hope there will be some partial clearing, Tuesday, and we may see some sun," he said. But he wasn't sure. The Augusta course drains quickly and dries out fast.

Local amateur weather seers were pessimistic. "We are in a sort of pocket here and you can't predict the weather," one said. "But this looks like the kind of rain that sometimes lasts a week."

Such would be bad news for any in the star-studded international field except the blockbusters, notably Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Snead.

Royals Train To Check Boston Sweep

CINCINNATI, April 7 (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals staged a practice drill Monday aimed at checking Boston's bid to sweep the Eastern division playoffs of the National Basketball association in four straight games.

Boston leads 3-0 in the best-of-seven series, and one more Cincinnati defeat would give the Celtics their eighth straight divisional championship Tuesday night.

The theories for the Royals' dismal showing are many, ranging from Jerry Lucas' ailing back to being too "light" and the general excellence of Boston's star Bill Russell.

Jack McInnis, the Royals' coach, thinks none of these accounts for the situation. "I think a lot of the show has nothing to do with Russell," he said. "It's been us. Only in three of the last 12 quarters have we shot 40 per cent. You know these guys are not 30 per cent shooters."

The Royals' shooting was at its worst—35 per cent—Sunday night as the Celtics won 102-82. In Boston, the Celts won 103-87 and 101-80.

Lassman Denies Liston Removed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 7 (AP)—Ed Lassman, president of the World Boxing association, said Monday night that former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston had not been suspended as previously reported in WBA fighter ratings.

"Sonny Liston is not suspended, he is simply removed from the ratings," Lassman said. "The ratings released earlier Monday carried a statement by the WBA that 'former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston was removed from the ratings due to his indefinite suspension.'"

Bankers to Buy Redskin Franchise

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 7 (AP)—C. Leo Deorsey said Monday a new offer to buy control of the Washington Redskins in the National Football league "is a bona fide operation."

Deorsey, who is running the club for the ailing president George Preston Marshall, said he will return to Washington Wednesday and "the big decision must now be made on Marshall's stock."

The offer to buy came from a group of investment bankers headed by George L. Ohrstrom of The Plains, Va.

The group offered 7 million dollars recently for 400 per cent of the stock in the $300,000 check which accompanied the original offer.

The decision on whether to sell to the Ohrstrom group will be up to individual stockholders, Deorsey said.

The group said it would send a cashier's check Monday to the Redskins office as a down payment on the 52 per cent majority control held by Marshall.

Howe Sets Cup Scoring Record

CHICAGO, April 7 (AP)—Gordie Howe, the amazing 36-year-old star of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team, set a Stanley cup scoring record in Sunday night's 3-2 loss to Chicago.

When Howe tied the score at 1-1 with a second period goal, it gave him a total of 127 in 123 Stanley cup games, including 51 goals and 76 assists.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, required with 125 points in 133 Stanley cup games, including 82 goals and 44 assists.

Braves Hit Johnson In Seventh for Win

By The Associated Press

Ken Johnson pitched perfect ball in six of the seven innings he worked for the Houston Colts; but the Milwaukee Braves caught up with the Colt right-hander for four straight hits and beat Houston 2-1 in an exhibition baseball game Monday. Joe Torre, Gene Oliver, Frank Bolling and Roy McMillan cracked successive singles to account for both Braves runs in the second inning. Johnson later walked a batter but then retired 18 straight before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The victory was the 15th in 20 starts for Bobby Bragan's Braves this spring.

Manny Mota, a utility man hit a grand slam homer highlighting a six-run Pittsburgh seventh inning as the Pirates whipped the Minnesota Twins 12-4.

Bob Bailey and Willie Stargell got three hits apiece as the Pirates collected 15 safeties.

Robin Roberts and Chuck Estrada hooked up to pitch shut out ball while the Baltimore Orioles scored an unearned run in the ninth inning for a 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Chicago White Sox made a pair of first inning runs stand up and defeated the New Mets 2-1. New York's only run came on a homer by loser Tracy Stallard.

Cincinnati jumped on Philadelphia starter John Boomer for three runs in the first inning and went on to beat the Phillies 5-3. Daron Johnson homered for the Reds and Gus Triandos and it gave him a total of 127 in 123 Stanley cup games, including 51 goals and 76 assists.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, required with 125 points in 133 Stanley cup games, including 82 goals and 44 assists.

Safeway Says It Welcomes Food Probe

OAKLAND, April 7 (AP)—Safeway Stores, Inc., stung by charges of profiteering leveled against it by a congressional committee investigating the food industry and live stock prices.

Robert A. Magowan, Safeway president and board chairman, said over the week-end his company would welcome such an inquiry in a letter to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D. Wash., chairman of the senate commerce committee.

"We feel that such an investigation will clear up misunderstandings of how low-cost distribution is achieved through modern supermarket merchandising and how it benefits both producers and consumers," Magowan wrote.

He indicated Safeway was particularly disturbed by charges of profiteering on meat prices.

"Safeway's buying and selling prices are based on competitive market conditions with no room for profiteering even if we were inclined," Magowan said.

Producers, currently faced with surplus beef problem, contend prices are being hurt by high retail prices, that have not dropped despite lower cattle and wholesale beef prices.

Safeway claims that actual figures show it had reduced its prices materially and had handled 10 percent more beef "tonnage" in the early months of this year than in the same period last year.

Bear Brake

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, April 7 (AP)—Hand-out-inclined bears may find themselves stymied by a repellent that mail carriers have used to keep dogs from biting.

The park has received a shipment of "Halt," tubes the size of a cigarette lighter and are pressurized and expelled red pepper and an oil base. Tested at the University of Georgia, the "harmless and humane" repellent has been found effective in stopping bears as well as dogs.

Rangers said the repellent would be tested on roadside bears to discourage them from a dependency on hand-outs.

High Court Says Gas Line Sale Violates Law

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The supreme court decided Monday an acquisition of Pacific Northwest Pipeline corporation by El Paso Gas company violated anti-trust law.

Justice William O. Douglas wrote the opinion.

Justice John M. Harlan said he agreed with the court's decision on the merits, but dissented "from its preemptory ordering of divestiture." He wanted the case sent back to the U.S. district court in Salt Lake City.

The ruling was given on a justice department appeal from findings by U. S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter in Salt Lake City that the Dec. 31, 1959, multi-million-dollar merger was not a reasonable probability of substantially lessening competition or of tending to create a monopoly.

T. F. Merchants Plan Promotions

The Twin Falls Merchants association met Monday afternoon at the Rogerson hotel Desert room to discuss two areas of promotion which will be coming up soon.

The Twin Falls '64 Days was the first promotional campaign discussed at the meeting. The '64 Days is a city wide campaign which will be coming up April 17-18.

Other discussion was relative to the Crazydays promotion which is scheduled for sometime in July. It was discussed about being in with the Frontier Days rodeo, sponsored by the Twin Falls Lions club, which is scheduled for July 10 and 11, but no date was decided upon.

Poison Grain Animal Death Prompts Suit

BOISE, April 7 (AP)—The Ada county board of commissioners and three individuals were sued in third district court Monday in connection with the use of poisoned grain.

E. C. Hegstrom and H. D. Duncan brought the action, contending they lost 16 calves and 39 chickens after the animals had eaten the grain. They asked for $1,733.

In addition to the commissioners, defendants were Harry R. Bryce, who operates a sales yard in Meridian; Arthur Schmlerer, the auctioneer; and Duncan Shaw, who allegedly consigned the grain to the sales yard.

The grain originally was owned by Ada county and was poisoned for use as cricket bait, the complaint said. It added that Hegstrom and Duncan bought eight sacks of the grain at the sales yard last Dec. 3 and that it was represented to be fit for animal and human consumption.

State authorities investigated the incident at the time, warning anyone who purchased the grain to make no further use of it.

Solon Urges Conservation Funds Okay

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—Rep. Ralph Harding, D., Idaho, on Monday urged the house agriculture subcommittee on appropriations to approve adequate funds for conducting soil and water conservation programs.

Outlining Idaho's needs, Harding told the committee that the number of cooperators in the Gem state's 54 soil conservation districts increased by 1,500 during the past year to a total of 10,500.

But he said that lack of personnel has decreased the efficiency of soil conservation programs and that the Idaho districts have been able to help less than half of their cooperators develop soil and water plans.

"If adequate technicians are not available," he said, "it can only serve to stifle local initiative and progress."

Harding endorsed a request by the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation districts for an additional 7 million dollars to finance small watershed project development.

"In the past, the areas most severely damaged by flood water which have covered sections of our state have been the small farming areas in need of this kind of structural and land treatment assistance which can be provided under existing laws," he said.

Reds Pulling Troops Out of Cuba

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—Informed sources said today the Soviet Union has been pulling its troops out of Cuba in considerable numbers.

U. S. officials confirmed this, but as usual declined to estimate how many Soviet military men still are in Cuba.

At the time of the Cuban missile crisis in October, 1962, it was estimated that 22,000 Soviet troops, many of them in organized combat units, were in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in the long-range weapons and other war gear Moscow has poured into Cuba to make it the most powerful military nation in Latin America.

Last October U. S. officials indicated that a report that the Soviet troop presence had dropped to less than 7,000 was a pretty fair guess. Presumably the current figure is somewhere around 4,000.

The most recent formal statement by a U. S. government agency on the Soviet troop situation in Cuba came in a nine-word observation all but buried in a state department report to the House Foreign Affairs committee. It said: "Most Soviet troops have been withdrawn from the island."

McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to President Johnson on international security affairs, said in an interview last Sunday that "there are very many fewer" Russian soldiers in Cuba now.

But he said it is a lot harder to count soldiers, "especially when they are in checked shirts," than it was to count missiles. He wouldn't want to pretend "that we know exactly how many" Soviet soldiers are still there.

Mormon Church Growth Reported

SALT LAKE CITY, April 7 (AP)—Membership in the LDS church increased by 151,665 during 1963 to a new high of 2,117,451.

The figures were in the annual statistical report given at the 134th annual general conference by Joseph W. Anderson, secretary of the first presidency.

The number of stakes at the close of 1963 was 380, an increase of 25. The number of wards was 3,049. The church had 73 full-time missions.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 7 (AP)—Mormon Church President David O. McKay closed the church's annual conference Monday with an appeal to parents to set worthy examples for their children.

"Let us go from this conference with a prayer of appreciation that we have sons who will take our places some day," said the 80-year-old leader of the LDS church.

Addressing himself particularly to the male members of his audience, McKay admonished "boys

Fired Upon

BERLIN, April 7 (AP)—East German border guards opened fire Monday on two young West Berliners who crossed into communist territory in their motor boat.

The West Berliners were not hit, West Berlin police reported. The incident happened on the Wannsee lake, which is divided by the boundary line.

Earlier, a church apostle told the conference that "a man never stands taller than when he is upon his knees."

"This should be remembered," said Thomas J. Monson of the council of twelve apostles, by "those who feel that prayer might denote a physical weakness."

Monson spoke at the closing session Monday afternoon of the church's three-day 134th annual general conference, held in the historic Mormon tabernacle.

Other speakers included Ezra Taft Benson, a member of the Council of Twelve, and Joseph Fielding Smith, president of the Council of Twelve.

Cherry

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The capital's annual cherry blossom festival opens today.

The six-day festival was to be opened formally at the tidal basin—ringed by the cherry trees which were a gift from the Japanese people 52 years ago.

Speaking of prayer, Monson said man "cannot know what faith is if we have never had it, and we cannot obtain it as long as we deny it."

"Faith and doubt cannot exist in the same mind at the same time, for one will dispel the other."

"Through personal prayer, through family prayer, by trusting in God with faith, nothing wavering, we can call down to our rescue His mighty power."

Smith said the need for repentance is widespread.

"From what we see as we travel from city to city and from what we read in the public press, we are forced to the conclusion that repentance from sin is essential throughout the world today," he said.

He declared that "cleansing of life will bring the reward of exaltation and an eternal existence in the kingdom of God."

we choose the evil the reward will be punishment."
