Koshare Indian Dances to Be Presented by Scouts

Eighty Boy Scouts from La Junta, Colo., known as the Koshare Indians, will perform dances June 16 at Jayces ballpark.

The group will be sponsored jointly by the Twin Falls Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, and the Snake River Altura club publicity chairman.

The Indian dancing group was organized in 1923 to perpetuate some of the Indian dances which seemed to be almost forgotten. Since then the boys, ranging from 14 to 18 years of age, have performed in more than 1,000 places for audiences numbering more than 400,000.

Since the Koshare began more than 500 boys have participated in the Indian dances. Their two biggest shows each year are the summer ceremonials in July and the winter ceremonials in late December, both in La Junta.

On the average, the Koshare stage 50 shows a year, the great majority during their summer road trips. Each night the boys are in a different town, but nothing short of a broken leg will stop them from being on hand when it's time to "hit the road."

They travel in their own bus, sometimes 400 miles a day.

The idea of forming a Boy Scout "tribe" started from J. P. "Buck" Burroughs' own long-time interest in Indian lore and dancing. The boys soon discovered that being a Koshare, the Pueblo word for fun-maker, was no idle play.

Each Indian is selected carefully, with only 25 to 30 new boys a year. A Junior high school student comes in on a trial basis as a papoose, and immediately starts to assemble his Indian costume, which includes such items as owl claws, horsehairs and eagle feathers.

To be a Koshare, the boy must be a Scout and must take him six months—this is also a week-long tour of the Indian world, including the Snake River and at least a C average in school.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, June 5 — Despite the florid claims of its membership in the Senate, the Senate is what short of being a citadel of statesmanship, and so it is nice to note that one of the boys made it big in the civil rights business.

This would be Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, leader of the Republican minority, whose hard-core worth sometimes is over-looked because of his "soft" approach to the turn-of-the-century vaudeville humor. The substitute for the house's civil rights bill is called bipartisan because it is backed by the leadership of both parties, but it is Dirksen's package, down to the last word.

GOT JOB DONE—True, Democrats such as Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Whip Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota helped get the bill passed, but it was Dirksen who declared the bill must be amended. And it was Dirksen who went ahead to lead the tedious and sometimes angry negotiations which resulted in the compromise.

In the process Dirksen did something for the Republican party none of its presidential candidates had accomplished. It proved that his party is a party of responsibility, that it not only could join but could take the initiative in forging legislation demanded by a Democratic administration. And as Dirksen well knows, the bill will give the Democrats a reputation credit for the bill, when and if it is passed.

FUZZY ON EDGES—Since perfection rarely is achieved in the Senate, Dirksen's substitute has its weaknesses in vagueness of detail. But it is the fact that could be agreed upon in a Senate, and a nation where many citizens of good will are uneasy about the effects of the legislation.

There is the necessary nod to the states, which are given 60 days to settle public accommodations and fair employment complaints before the federal government takes over. Just what will be required in civil rights criminal contempt cases involving penalties exceeding a 30-day jail term or a $300 fine. Authority for the government to initiate suits is eliminated, but the attorney general can intervene in behalf of complaining individuals. And the new draft forbids public officials from seeking to achieve racial balance in the schools by transporting pupils from one school to another.

MAN OF HEAVEN—If the Dirksen substitute is a little less than the New York Times makes more than the South can amply take, it still makes sense, a quality which is the hallmark of all Everett Dirksen's serious efforts. Dirksen plays the clown merely for kicks; when he talks he is the man of reason, who recognizes that on Capitol Hill only the possible can be achieved.

His bill above all is a possible bill, a piece of legislation that can be passed, that can win votes. It is not a bill that becomes necessary, it is a compromise that yet takes giant steps forward even in the face of a more radical and more radical version of the powder keg of race relations.

Everett Dirksen, who has no illusions about such things, probably would be suspicious if offered the cloak of statesmanship for his job of work. He knows that cloak has a tendency to slip off a man's shoulders at the slightest misstep. But he should know too that history will mark him with a big A on this one.

Dear Shooter:
When you find someone who is real nice and fun to be around, it sort of throws you to discover your employer doesn't think so much of them. Is this a matter of jealousy or are there lots of people who are nice but quite inefficient?

The question intrigues me so much that I'm always trying to find an answer. So far, I don't have the answer, but literally dozens of employers have told me that the most likeable guy in the office, store or plant usually is the one who does the least work so far as his job is concerned.

Perhaps it's human nature to try to make up for inefficiency by being nice, I guess.

Yes, I was parked in a car the other day when a woman came out to the car, opened the door and said "couple of children" with her and while she was opening the car door, one of the children, a girl, was investigating a nearby tree planter. Yes, the little girl was scolded, but the impulsive present touched the young mother, quite obviously.

Bolivian President Victor Paz Estenssoro won unopposed re-election to a third term in last Sunday's general elections but the ease of his victory may only signal a troubled time ahead.

Vice President Juan Lechin, since Paz's close ally—1954—the ruling National Revolutionary Movement (MNR) and now his bitter foe, had promised that election day would mark the beginning of a popular movement to overthrow the Paz government.

Various opposition groups, who supported Lechin and who were student leaders there was open talk of assassination.

The reason for Paz's easy victory lay in the fact that all seven opposition parties, ranging from center-right to extreme left, withdrew from the election and urged their followers to abstain at the polls.

Various other opposition groups stemmed from charges of fraud and resentment against a 1961 constitutional change reversing a rule that the president could not succeed himself to Lechin's bitterest foe, Paz's program of economic development, "Yankee trust" and was a "tool of Yankee imperialism."

U.S. Ambassador Douglas Hens-

person came under fire because he accompanied Paz to a ribbon-cutting ceremony at Oruro, for years a center of Lechin strength in the tin mining country. It was proof, said the opposition, that the United States was attempting to interfere in Bolivian elections by openly supporting Paz.

With the election only 48 hours away, Lechin and former President Hernan Siles Zuazo, also a long-time political rival, launched hunger strikes which also were joined briefly by student leaders.

In mining districts, electoral registers and ballots were burned and polling places prevented from opening.

But when the voting was over, by whatever method of counting, it was clear that Paz had retained his basic support from the tin miners, the peasants, the businessmen and the army.

Even had there been no boycott, Paz's margin probably would have been around three to one.

What else may be charged against him, Paz is the father of the 1952 revolt.

Lechin's 30,000 tough miners helped put Paz in office, and for a time it was said that without Lechin's support, Paz could do nothing.

In recent months that legend has been fading. Lechin fought bitterly against the Paz program of economic development, "Yankee trust" and was a "tool of Yankee imperialism."

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—Things to be grateful for in a troubled time:
All things young and fair—colts and calves and graveyards babies and romping puppies and charming babies.

Lying in the grass and hearing the drone of a nearby bird or a whirring plane as you look into a soft summer sky and try to tell your fortune in the drifting milk-white clouds.

All the tabs of summer—corn on the cob, sourgrapes, great strawberries heaped with sugar, mint juleps, lettuce, fruit, yams, great ripe tomatoes bursting with juice that runs down your chin, huge slices of watermelon in which a small boy can bury his face right up to ear.

Having the telephone tell you: "No, I don't think you'll have to buy a new air-conditioning unit this year. This one ought to hold out okay through September."

Young couples holding hands self-consciously on park benches as they watch pigeons indulging in bold courtship on the sidewalk.

The ache of tired muscles as you sail home at sunset in a small boat, feeling like Columbus returning from enlivened seas.

Stretching out at the edge of a small stream with a fishing pole held in your dining hands, and not caring a whoop whether the fish bite or swim off in the distance.

Flourishing daughters in shimmering summer dresses walking with moist hands to walk to the platform and get their high school diplomas.

Old women leaning fat arms on pillows in tenement windows as they stare down at the passing street life below them like wrinkled goddesses, careless of the world.

Jungle Force Hits Supplies Of Viet Cong

TAY NINH, South Viet Nam, June 5 (AP)—Jungle-trained U.S. and Vietnamese special forces hit a vital Communist supply area along the Cambodian border in a hazardous three-day "search and destroy" operation that ended last night.

The operation west of Tay Ninh may set a new pattern in the war against the elusive Viet Cong.

The Viet Cong toll was not high—about 25 killed out of 1,500 men estimated in the area. But everything the Viet Cong depend upon for their sustenance was used or carried away.

About 1,000 tons of rice was destroyed. Thousands of ducks and chickens were slaughtered or carried off. Dozens of pigs, water buffalo and cows were destroyed.

A 50-mile stretch along the Vao Oriental river was left scorched and barren. Winding southeastward out of Cambodia, the river has been "a strategic waterway for red guerrillas and supplies."

Pool Favored For Counting Vote Returns

BEVERLY HILLS, June 5 (AP)—The nation's major television networks and wire services favor in principle pooling their resources to cover the 1968 congressional elections.

William R. McAndrew, executive vice president in charge of National Broadcasting Company news, made the proposal here yesterday at a meeting of NBC affiliates, United Press International, the Associated Press and the two other major networks, Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) and American Broadcasting Company (ABC), all supporters of the plan.

CBS and ABC urged a pool arrangement be organized in time to the presidential elections this November.

McAndrew said the networks already had discussed pooling but that "the die is cast for this year." He proposed initiating discussions on pool return gathering among the networks and wire services immediately after the Nov. 3 elections.

Fat People Credit "Peace of Mind" for No Heart Attacks

ROSETO, Pa., June 5 (AP)—"We have peace of mind." That's the answer Mayor George Chiquino, 50, Roseto, has for medical experts who are somewhat puzzled by the low incidence of heart attacks in this little Italian-American community of fat, yet healthy and happy people.

A seven-year medical study conducted in the northeastern Pennsylvania community made up of 1,639 has shown a death rate from heart attacks that is strikingly low—despite a passion for fattening foods and wine.

Medical researchers, who published their report today on the eating habits and social behavior of the residents of Roseto, said the most striking feature of the community "was the way in which people seemed to enjoy life. They were gay, boisterous and unpretentious."

"Whether or not their sensible way of life contributed to their good health is still to be determined," the report added.

Roseto's mayor tends to agree with the tentative conclusions of the report.

"We're a cultural people. The main thing is that we have peace of mind. I guess there's a little bit of heredity in it, too," said the mayor.

In Roseto, 65 per cent of the residents are first, second or third generation Italian-Americans who have maintained many of their traditional Italian customs.

Yet the incidence from heart attacks among these people, overweight by medical standards, was considerably less than ethnically different neighboring towns—Danbury, Newark, Stroudsburg, and East Stroudsburg.

It's a puzzle to scientists who have been pointing at America's rich diet as a prime factor in arterial disease and heart attacks.

North Viet Nam Raps Khrushchev

TOIKYO, June 5 (AP)—Communist North Viet Nam accused Soviet Premier Khrushchev today of sacrificing world revolution to the needs of Moscow policy and of trying to "bludgeon red-ruled nations into doing his bidding."

An article in Hoc Tap, theoretical journal of the North Vietnamese communist party, also blasted Khrushchev's attempt to marshal all communist nations' economies under Soviet leadership in what he calls "Socialist division of labor."

Attention, Investors

Last Opportunity for Stock In Stockmen's Meat Packing Corp.
At Gooding.

The only shares available to the public now in this new industry are those acquired by the Gooding Chamber of Commerce, which will sell these shares at $2.50 and contribute the proceeds to Stockmen's Meat Packing Corp.

With the public sale of stock a success, and with Small Business Administration loans of $579,000.00 officially approved, we feel the major financial hurdles have been overcome.

Engineers are presently designing plans for the modern meat-packing plant. Construction bids are due to be let later this summer.

Upon completion, the plant will have a capacity of 200 head of cattle and 1500 head of sheep per eight-hour day. We believe the plant will be a tremendous economic asset to all of Southern Idaho.

You can join over 1200 other Idaho residents who are shareholders in this challenging new enterprise. We respectfully suggest that you act quickly if interested in acquiring some shares, because they are limited in number.

Have you ever seen 7,000 grown men cry? You'd think success would make them happy, but ever since Mustang came out, seven thousand Ford Dealers all over the country have been weeping and wringing their hands. They can't get as many Mustangs as they would like. All this would upset us, too, except it's happened to us before. You see, this was the hottest sales year in Ford Division history even before Mustang came out. At the beginning of the model year, dealers couldn't get enough of our big, hot Super Torque Ford Hardtops (sales up 54%)... or luxurious Thunderbirds (sales up 68%). Falcon sales are almost as big as Chevy II and Valiant combined. Fairlane continues to be a leader in its field. So, even though some people would like us to put all our plants to work on Mustang, we can't let down our hundreds of thousands of Ford, Thunderbird, Falcon and Fairlane lovers. Why don't you come see what all the shouting's about? Ask your Ford Dealer for a test drive. (You might even get him to smile.)

Spelling Champ Confesses Teacher's Name Is Tough

WASHINGTON, June 5 (UP)—William Kerek, 12, the 1964 spelling champion from Cuyahoga Falls, O., admitted today there is one familiar word that always gives him trouble.

It is the last name of Bethel E. Swearingin, his mathematics teacher at Bolch Junior high school, who was his official escort to the 37th National Spelling Bee.

Mrs. Swearingin, who watched her star pupil demolish "geography" and "sycophant" to clinch the title yesterday, didn't seem to mind. She was busy unwrapping a dozen roses sent from the school and receiving congratulations along with Bill and his parents. Mr. and Mrs. William B. Kerek.

Bill, a small, round-faced, bespectacled youth, took his victory in stride. He said he was familiar with the word "sycophant," but readily admitted that he would have had to guess at many other words which eliminated other contestants.

First prize in the contest, sponsored by the National Spelling Bee, was $500 in cash and a trophy cup for the winner, and an engraved plaque for Bolch Junior high school.

Prizes of $100 go to the next five. Anne Reardon, 13, Denver; Mary Elizabeth Joy, 13, Onalaska, N.Y.; Roxanne Wood, 13, Phoenix, Ariz.; Neftali Neri, 12, New York City; and Kay R. Fechenack, 14, Plymouth Meeting, Pa. They went down, respectively, on "nebulous," "indices," "anagrams," "tachygraphy" and "anacholus."

Other papers, in $1,000 in cash, a trip to New York and the World's Fair and a trophy cup for the winner, and an engraved plaque for Bolch Junior high school.

Runner-up Robert O. Matthews, 13, Oshana, O., who fought gamely for the prize, gets $500 in cash; Dave E. Label, 14, Greensboro, N. C., who placed third, $250.

Nixon Says United GOP Can Win Out

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes a united Republican party, campaigning on the "great hour" in 1964 by beating President Johnson.

"It is time to stop talking about defeat and start talking about victory," Nixon said in a speech at a Republican gathering here last night.

Nixon, the unsuccessful GOP presidential candidate in 1960, said pollsters, commentators and political experts "consider the chances of any Republican defeating President Johnson next November as being remote."

"All that I can say is this, that the polls have been wrong in New Hampshire, Oregon and California," Nixon declared.

Smylie said a meeting was planned with other GOP campaign leaders to coordinate efforts.

They are Rep. William Miller, R., N.Y., national chairman, Gen. Thurston Morton, R., Ky., and Rep. Robert Miller, R., N.Y., senatorial and congressional campaign chairman.

Assessor Talks on Revaluation Program

RUPERT, June 5—Claude E. Bowman, Minidoka county assessor, discussed taxes and the revaluation program at the luncheon meeting of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday noon at the Herring cafe.

The assessor said the revaluation program was passed by the 1955 legislature as a move to equalize property taxes across the state and to get out taxes on livestock, furniture and other personal property are figured on book value, which is uniform throughout the state.

Population growth has accounted for quite a gain of assessed valuation with the new land and new building in the county, Bowman stated. Some counties in the state record a lower valuation each year, he said.

Minidoka county ranks third in the state for rate of increase in population growth during the 10-year period from 1950 to 1960.

Statistics compiled by the state census bureau record an increase in the rate of population growth of approximately 48 per cent for the 10-year period with Elmore and Bonneville first and second.

Stamp Authority Doubts Memorial To Lost Reds

LONDON, June 5 (AP)—One of the world's leading stamp dealers cast doubt today on a report that the Soviet Union has issued a commemorative stamp honoring three astronauts lost in orbit.

A Soviet stamp expert at Stanley Gibbons Ltd. said, "We got all new issue stamps from the Soviet Union. We know nothing about this one."

He was commenting on a report published in a Sidney, O., philately weekly, the tabloid Linn Stamp News, saying the Soviet Union had issued a stamp in honor of astronauts "Fedorenko, Ueslakh and Wazenko," who "are perpetually circling the globe in their special coffins."

Cassia and Twin Falls counties ranked somewhere about 10 per cent, according to the assessor.

Bowman also pointed out that Minidoka county levies 28 mills for the operation of the city government and in other towns it is double this. He feels the electrical system in the county is one of the factors in the low assessment. He explained that Boise and Coeur d'Alene each levy about 50 mills for operating expenses.

The assessor pointed out that Idaho needs industry to bring in leadership and people who are self-supporting.

Discussion also was held on bringing new industry into Idaho. The assessor said, "We shouldn't be interested in bringing industry to specific parts of Idaho, but to Idaho in general. The space, water and climate are conducive to industry, but it was pointed out migratory workers come into Idaho for seasonal work, sometimes staying, which puts a burden on the unemployment rolls.

Idaho needs industry to bring in leadership and people who are self-supporting.

C. R. Jones announced the tour at Smiley creek to be held June 12, sponsored by the North Idaho Communities, of which he is an officer. Chamber of Commerce members and their friends are invited to join the tour, which begins on top of Calamus summit. A trailside hike dinner will be held at 7 p.m. Jones said this is a family outing.

Western States Curbing Spread of Brucellosis

BOISE, June 5 — Western states, including Idaho, are advancing steadily in the campaign to stamp out brucellosis, a costly disease of livestock and man. A report received this week by A. P. Schneider, state federal veterinary in charge for Idaho, said Montana is the ninth of 11 states in the area to achieve modified certified status.

Idaho has been modified certified since July, 1950. The addition of Montana leaves only 27 counties—four in Wyoming and 23 in Colorado—to be certified. Dr. Schneider said a county or state achieves the status by reducing the disease to infection of not more than one per cent of the cattle and five per cent of the herds. By continuing the effort and eliminating the disease an area attains certified brucellosis-free status. Once brucellosis is eradicated from livestock, the statement said, the only sources of infection for man will have been eliminated. Contact with infected animals or their products is the only source of human brucellosis or undulant fever. Economic losses caused by the disease have been reduced 80 per cent since 1947. Losses are still severe, officials said, but are much less than the 90 million dollar annual cost of lost calves, replacement of animals and reduced milk production.

Rain Showers Could Boost Weed Growth in T.F. Area

Scattered showers which have hit the area for the past few days could stimulate the growth of weeds in Twin Falls county and farmers still have time to take adequate action to prevent weeds from inflicting crops. This was the word Friday from W. G. Savage, Twin Falls county weed bureau director.

Individual action by the farmer was stressed by the director. Savage noted weeds coat the American farmer—more than 10 got from the sale of last year's wheat crop. Most of the bureau's activity at present is confined to spraying grain fields, with all the sprayers operated by the county busy. To accommodate the farmers, Bureau trucks based in Twin Falls county farmers can purchase spraying chemicals at various outlets set up by the bureau in towns in Twin Falls county. They are Neil Hartman, Murtaugh; W. H. Newsome, Haines; O. J. Childs, Piler; Wright Piel, Buhl, and Harold's Mobile station, Castleford. The prices at the outlets are identical with those at the bureau warehouse. The outlets should save the farmer considerable time, said Savage.

Savage also noted that the ACO weed program still is open, but those participating under the program must be signed up before the bureau can assist the individual farmer. The program closes in September. The bureau has a multitude of information available on weeds and weed control, said Savage. Weeds are a problem in Twin Falls county. Each year a board of county commissioners creates noxious weed extermination zones. The weeds include such perennials as leafy spurge, hoary cress or whitetop, sow thistle, rag weed, horse nettle, quack grass, Russian knapweed,

NO SIGN OF oystershell scale here as Olan Genn, assistant Twin Falls county agent, examines a tree at the Harry Gault residence, 420 Martin street. Oystershell scale has broken out on many area trees and, according to Genn, action can be taken to prevent the spread of the scale. (Times-News photo)

Resigns

GOODING, June 5 — Charles Clark, Gooding high school vocational agriculture instructor, today announced that he has resigned from the school staff to accept a similar position at Walla Walla, Wash. He will report there July 1.

Clark has been at Gooding three years and was vocational agriculture instructor at Burley for four years before moving to Gooding. "I regret having to leave Idaho, but I just can't pass up the opportunity to advance," said Clark.

morning glory or bindweed, hedge bindweed, Canada thistle, ground cherry, blue flowering lettuce, milkweed and chicory. Also included in the noxious weed list are biennial poison hemlock, annual puncture vine and annual halogeton.

Oystershell Scale Can Be Curbed, Says T. F. Agent

Ornamental tree growers should check their trees for oystershell scale, said Twin Falls County Agent Donald Yontz. Many blue ash, lilac and other smooth bark trees are infested with oystershell scale, and now would be a good time for control, since some of these insects were observed in the crawler stage, on the sunny side of the trees early in the week.

"Good early control can be obtained by using a dormant oil spray in early spring. In June, while the insects are in the crawler stage, effective control of the young can be obtained by one application of a spray mixture containing two to three pounds of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder in 100 gallons of water. Care should be taken to insure that the proper amount of the chemical is applied. In using any insecticide, strict compliance with label recommendations should be followed. Oystershell scale are tiny sucking insects that become fixed on the bark of trees. As they grow they cover themselves with a brown secretion resembling an oystershell in shape. There is only one generation each year. Eggs are deposited under the shell and hatch shortly after the apple trees bloom. The young oystershell scale fix themselves on the bark where they suck the sap. They appear as tiny yellow specks on the bark before they are covered with their secretion, or shell.

Decision Reaches Beyond Blight in Idaho Beans

By G. H. CHAMBERLIN
The announcement by Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture Stanley Trenhaile that a voluntary control program to eradicate bacterial blight in beans is preferable to state control has brought to an end the "invisible quarantine" Idaho has had since the hearings concluded April 29. The movement of beans could increase now that the commissioner has made his decision. It would be reasonable to assume the threat of a quarantine has curtailed some activity in the bean industry. This inevitable quarantine has been in effect during most of the bean planting season. There is but a few days left for beans to be planted. As a rule, most of them are seeded before June 15.

To those who vigorously opposed the quarantine, the announcement must be taken as a victory for farmers in this area. Magic Valley farmers, for the most part, are traditionally opposed to regulations and controls.

As Idaho Bean Commissioner Bert Barlow said, "It puts the fate of the industry into the hands of dealers and growers." The industry is worth millions of dollars to Idaho. It is indeed a challenge. It could well set the tone of future problems.

If Idaho agriculture is ever to prosper without controls, then the decision by the bean planting industry is worth millions of dollars to Idaho. It is indeed a challenge. It could well set the tone of future problems.

After all, if the farmer and dealer couldn't clean up the disease in beans under a voluntary control program, then it would be folly to permit other factions of agriculture to be entered to the same type of program.

The action by the seed dealers and the grower in the matter of bacterial blight will be viewed quite closely, not only by other sections of Idaho agriculture, but by the entire world.

There exists in other nations those who would immediately capitalize on the failure of the Idaho bean grower to successfully eradicate bacterial blight. Thus, the Idaho farmer and dealers must eradicate the disease. The responsibility is greater and goes beyond bacterial blight in beans. If the Idaho farmer wins the fight against bacterial blight, he will score an outstanding victory for "no regulations." He will be scoring a tremendous victory for the integrity of Idaho agriculture, proving that Idaho agriculture is capable of meeting any challenge. Thus, the responsibility goes beyond the commissioner's announcement. However, the bean industry asked for the responsibility, it appears willing to take the chance and the opportunity. The industry also must realize there is no second chance to eradicate bean blight. In reading some of the statements made at the hearing, a scattered few said, "One more bad year and the seed bean industry is finished in Idaho. Idaho can not offer cheaper beans, only disease free beans."

The hearings did serve several useful purposes. First, it created a greater awareness of the problem. It afforded all farmers an opportunity to be heard. It stimulated the cooperative insurance program now under way on the north side. It put a greater demand on the federal crop insurance corporation to spell out protection.

It brought farmer, dealer and researcher face to face and questions were answered outright and forthright.

The Idaho bean industry enters the fight to eradicate bean disease with one strike against it. Weather will play an important role in the fight and the weatherer didn't readily for or against the quarantine.

A normal weather season is more than a must. Despite the best efforts of the industry, or for that matter government control, bacterial blight could spread. Commissioner Trenhaile has made his decision, but only the first few rounds in the fight to end blight are over. The main decision is yet to come.

Specialists Report Beef Price Rise

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—American trade specialists say the price of beef in Europe is helping reduce imports of beef in this country.

One expert points out that one year ago, bonafide beef from Australia brought 11 cents a pound more in the United States than in England. In recent weeks, however, prices in England have risen sharply because of a beef shortage which affects most of Europe.

Today, according to an agriculture department specialist, Australian beef brings as much as England, $4 in the United States. The specialist says this will result in shipping beef away from the United States and towards Europe.

Administration officials, including President Johnson, have said that American beef imports—a subject of considerable protest by cattlemen—will be down 20 per cent this year.

CHECKING LIST OF THINGS to take to Alpine Summer Conservation camp are, from left, Dennis Dean, Douglas Bean and Glen Fufahl. Large Delegation Departs For Conservation Camp

The largest delegation at Alpine Summer Conservation camp will be the 15 boys from Twin Falls county who boarded a special bus at 10 a.m. Monday. The special camp got under way this week and is under the direction of the University of Idaho extension service.

The camp is located near the backwaters of Falladae reservoir, close to the Wyoming border, and is held annually in June. Students from throughout Idaho attend the special camp which features everything from range management to erosion studies.

The boys are required to furnish their own bedding and pay their transportation. Many of the boys are sponsored by various agencies and organizations, but many attend the camp unsponsored.

While at the week-long camp, the students study forestry, soil and water conservation, range management, fish and game management and related subjects.

The boys are given some time off for recreation, but most of the time is spent in classwork, field trips or working around the camp.

Generally a bus starts in Canyon county and picks up students along the route to the camp.

Seven boys out of the 15 attending from Twin Falls county were sponsored. Olan Gunn, Paul Douglas Bean and Dennis Dean were co-sponsored by the Twin Falls soil conservation district and the Production Credit association; Calvin Johnson, David Sommer, John Parson and Allan Johnson were sponsored by the Twin Falls county Farm Bureau.

Others attending the camp included Mike Prater, Kurt Oliver, Robin Walls, Steve McCoy, Craig Robinson and Kelley Murphy.

According to Olan Gunn, assistant Twin Falls county agent, the students receive college level training adapted to ages 15 to 19.

Gunn said the camp is gaining in popularity and importance. The students gain wealth of experience and knowledge in relatively short time, said Gunn.

Idaho Milk Total Dips During 1964

BOISE, June 5—Total production of milk in Idaho was estimated at 135 million pounds during April, compared with 132 million pounds for the same month last year and the 1962-63 average of 143 million pounds.

Seasonally, production increased two per cent this year from March to April compared with the five-year average seasonal advance of five per cent for the same period.

The April output of American cheese continued well above the year earlier level, while production of creamery butter, Swiss cheese and ice cream was down from a year ago.

April milk production in the United States was estimated at 11,846 million pounds, one per cent more than in April 1963 and a record high for the month.

On a daily average basis the increase in production from March to April was six per cent, larger than the five-year, 1958-62 average for the month. The production amounted to 197 pounds per person daily, compared with 186 pounds in April last year.

Creamery butter production in the United States in April was estimated at 141,600,000 pounds. This was two per cent more than in April 1963, and six per cent larger than the five-year, 1958-62 average for the month. The seasonal advance from March to April this year was three per cent, compared with three per cent also at this time a year ago.

Farm Census Planned for Late 1964

WASHINGTON, June 5—Farmers and ranchers will receive forms for the 1964 census of agriculture in October or sooner, and will be asked to fill them out before a visit from a census taker in November or December.

The do-it-yourself plan is expected to cost several million dollars less than when a census taker asked and wrote the answers to all of the questions.

The census was characterized as "the most significant farm census since 1940." It will provide the first count of the nation's farms since 1958, and the first count of those living on farms since 1950.

are now in the hands of the State Farm Bureau, Grange, Home Demonstration Council, Vocational Agriculture and county agents.

Any rural group having a dinner or luncheon, such as a 4-H club, may pick-up place mats at the county agent's office as long as they last, said Gunn.

Mats Stress Farm Safety

Attractive paper place mats designed to promote safety are available at the Twin Falls county agent's office for rural dinner meetings, announces Olan Gunn, assistant county agent.

The place mats are designed especially to effect safety in agricultural work. The mats are furnished free of charge by the Idaho Farm Safety Council. They

Amendment Is Offered to Act

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—A proposed amendment to the cooperative act of 1935 to prevent reprisals or unfair trade practices on the part of processors or other handlers with respect to farmer cooperatives and their members was introduced this month by Senators Alton S. VI and Lausche, R., O. Companion measures in the house were introduced by Representatives Findley, R., Ill., and Stewart, R., O.

The legislation would prohibit processors or other handlers from restraining, coercing or boycotting a producer member of a cooperative, discriminating against him in the matter of price; or coerce an association member into terminating a membership agreement or contract with his cooperative.

Family Farm Aids Sought by Committee

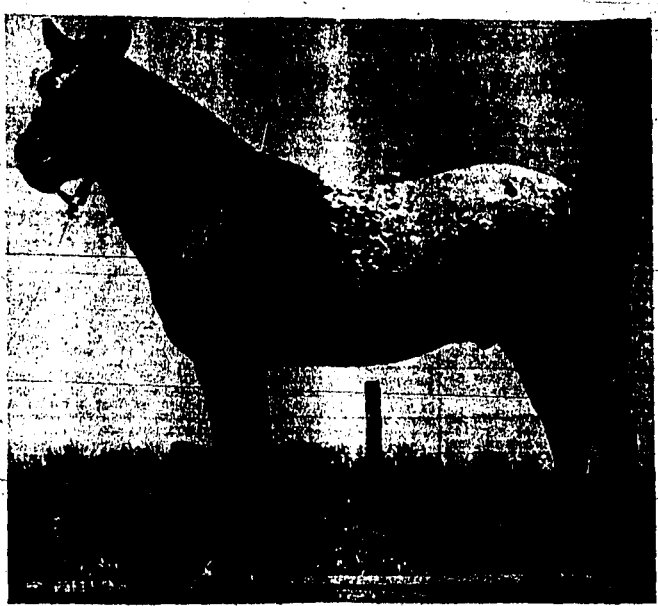

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The agriculture department today announced a new federal program to help family farms and less for so-called "small farms."

The report was issued by the department's rural areas development advisory committee. The committee also recommended a package of farm bills by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D., N.J. The measures are designed to improve the status of hired farm workers.

The advisory group, composed of private citizens, said the program should reduce federal aid in farm programs which promote the concentration of farms.

For small low-income farms, the committee recommended a federal aid including training for non-farm jobs, and educational programs. The group called for approval of President Johnson's anti-poverty bill, it recommended new federal grants and loans to help all farmers expand their operations and profits.

In addition, the advisory committee called for continuation of the accelerated public works program and the area redevelopment program.

Hearing Set

BOISE, June 5—A public hearing has been scheduled by Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture Stanley Tremble on the use of chlorinated hydrocarbons on field and orchard crops. The hearing will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the statehouse caucus room.

The hearing will determine statewide controls will be necessary in areas where heavy herbicide and other sprays are used within 1/4 mile radius of the area to be sprayed.

Controls if established would require the land owner sign statements that he is spraying with the chemical and that his neighbors are notified. Small gardens and urban areas would be exempt.

Use of Electricity Has Increased on U.S. Farms

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The use of electricity on U.S. farms has increased rapidly during the past several years, according to the crop reporting board.

During the period 1954-1963 the average monthly kilowatt hours used per farm in the early summer season rose 78 per cent from 385 kilowatt hours per farm in 1955 to 687 in 1963.

The board said the increased farm usage of electricity has been quite general. New England and the east south central states have shown the greatest increase, with 1963 usage per farm more than doubling that of 1955.

WINNER IS HONORED

Farmers Are Free to Sell Wheat; Says ASC Chairman

Under the 1964 wheat program, in the past, a farmer may sell wheat production to anyone at any price he can get. Early farm programs—agricultural stabilization and conservation—applies whether or not a farmer is cooperating with the program and whether or not he is eligible for marketing certificates.

The chairman pointed out that under the domestic wheat export certificates will follow the normal in trade channels. The farmer will receive the value of the certificates at the ASC advisory office as a part of the farm designed to bolster farmer's income from wheat.

The domestic certificates are valued at 70 cents per bushel, they apply to the domestic portion of the farm's marketing allocation; the export certificates are valued at 25 cents per bushel and apply to the export portion of the allocation. These allocations—as well as wheat export payments—will be available to wheat growers who participate in all provisions of 1964 wheat program.

There will be no reduction of the domestic certificates unless the acreage planted for harvest is below 45 per cent of the allotment.

Parleys Held To Study Certificates

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The agriculture department is conducting a series of meetings with representatives of wheat-using industries, including millers, bakers, other processors, and exporters, on the certificate plan contained in the new farm law.

Under the new law a wheat producer gets 70-cents-a-bushel certificates on 45 per cent of the domestic share—of the 1964 crop, and 25-cents-a-bushel certificates on his export share. The money from the certificates must be supplied the farmers by those who buy their wheat.

A department representative said the meetings are designed to acquaint all concerned with technical details of the operation of the certificate plan. Inasmuch as this is the first time a certificate plan for wheat has been used, both the department and the trade are subject to education on the matter.

Definite regulations concerning use of the certificates are expected to come out of the meetings. No firm decisions have been made, a department spokesman said.

Misleading Label Given To Many Oils

WASHINGTON, June 5—Food and drug administration warned in late May that many of the vegetable oils with "polyunsaturated" or related words on their labels. The reason, it said, is that "unsaturated," "low in cholesterol" and similar terms mislead many people to believe that these foods will reduce blood cholesterol.

Food labeled polyunsaturated "plays no significant part in reducing blood cholesterol unless the diet is changed drastically in other respects," stated George F. Larrick, FDA commissioner.

"Any claim, direct or implied, in the labeling of oils and fats to the general public that they will prevent, mitigate or cure diseases of the heart or arteries is false and misleading, and constitutes production in violation of the meaning of the federal food, drug and cosmetic act," it was explained.

Sharp Drop Is Predicted For Egg Mart

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The agriculture department has warned egg producers they may be facing a sharp drop in prices early next year.

Department economists predicted that egg production and prices for the rest of 1964 may not differ much from last year's levels. Production may be up slightly from levels of a year ago, and prices may be down a bit.

The experts said, however, that the number of baby chicks hatched this year has been larger than expected. An agriculture department report said this indicated that the growth of big, commercial egg-producing flocks is being stepped up.

The report said the result could be a sharp increase in production in 1965 and a significant drop in prices.

Cooperation Asked by BLM For Coming Fire Season

SHOESHONE, June 5—The local bureau of land management is preparing for the coming range fire season, according to acting range manager, Marvin Pearson.

The late spring with retarded growth of range fuel makes it difficult to forecast fire conditions at this date, Pearson points out. However, this should not be cause for complacency as a great deal of dry fuel from the previous year is still present and will readily carry fire.

Man-caused fires are still the number one problem. Many fires are caused by other users of the federal land. However, most fires are caused by burning without authority during the closed fire season and utilizing improper burning procedures, he notes.

These fires are allowed to escape from private property onto federal lands, resulting in large expenditures of funds to suppress these fires, threatening or burning on federal lands.

The closed season, as set by the governor, has been declared as May 20 through Oct. 20 of this year, during which time anyone wishing to burn on their private lands must obtain a burning permit to do so.

Anyone wishing to burn within the Shooshone district must contact the bureau of land management office here, telephone 336-2373 or 336-2208. In Paradise, Bellevue, Halley, Ketchum areas within six miles of the forest boundary, all burning permits must be issued by the nearest forest service ranger station.

In an effort to control unauthorized fires the bureau of land management will hire three fireguards this season and assign them to burning permit issuance, and enforcement within the district. Violators of the burning permit laws will be prosecuted. Anyone burning on private lands without fire permits is in violation of state laws and is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Should any fire authorized or unauthorized escape and spread onto public lands the individual responsible will be liable for all suppression costs and damages resulting from the fire.

It is against federal law to maliciously set fire to any public lands. This crime is considered arson and is punishable by a maximum fine and five years in prison.

All fires spotted in the Shooshone district should be reported to the fire dispatcher at the bureau of land management in Shooshone, at the telephone numbers 336-2373, 336-7633 or 336-2280, collect.

In Fairfield, Bellevue, Halley or Ketchum areas within six miles of the forest boundaries, all fires should be reported to the nearest forest service ranger station.

The Shooshone district extends from the Snake river on the south to the forest boundaries on the north, and from King Hill creek on the west to American Falls on the east.

The bureau of land management is responsible for fire protection on approximately two and one-half million acres of federal, state and reclamation lands within this area.

The public is urged to cooperate in the prevention of all range and forest fires, during the closed fire season on private lands, Pearson stressed.

Slim Future For Wool

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The agriculture department has released a doleful summary of the wool situation. The agency said the outlook for the U.S. wool industry during 1964 is for:

- A decline in sheep numbers
- Federal, state and reclamation lands within this area.
- The public is urged to cooperate in the prevention of all range and forest fires, during the closed fire season on private lands, Pearson stressed.
- Loss wool production.
- Moderately lower mill consumption of apparel and carpet wool.
- Larger use of man-made fibers on the woolen and worsted systems.
- A shift in wool use to lower quality wools.
- A decline in imports of raw wool.
- A continued moderate increase in imports of apparel wool textile products.

Administration Is Concerned About American Beef Cattle Price Problem

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The attention the Johnson administration is giving to the prolonged depressed beef cattle price situation shows a concern over possible adverse repercussions on the entire economy.

Since last year, cattle prices have declined to a point where it is not possible, the agriculture department says, for feeders to make ends meet in covering their operating costs.

In efforts to bolster prices, the government is buying beef, is looking into the possibility of opening beef markets in Europe and is studying proposals to offer payments to farmers to induce them to sell animals at higher weights. This latter action would be designed to reduce the beef shortage.

The state and agriculture departments announced Mexico had agreed to limit beef and veal exports to the United States this year to a level nine per cent below 1963.

The government follows comparable agreements with Australia, New Zealand and Ireland. These three countries and Mexico supply 80 per cent of U. S. imports of fresh and frozen beef and veal.

Mexico agreed to limit its exports to the United States to 65.3 million pounds this year, 65.3 million next year and 71.2 million in 1966, the announcement said.

The American beef cattle industry is one of the largest in the country, including both agriculture and nonagriculture sectors of the economy. Cattlemen have more than 10 billion dollars invested in beef cattle and many additional billions tied up in grazing land, feed-lot facilities and in feed.

Affected by the low prices are hundreds of local banks and other lending agencies which have lent money to feeders for purchase of young, thin animals for fattening for slaughter. Many feeders face difficulties in paying off these loans. Others face difficulties in getting new loans. Other segments of agriculture are being hurt. Dairymen must take lower prices for the cows they cull from their milk herds. Low cattle prices tend to depress prices of hogs and poultry because beef grades with pork and broilers. Feed prices also are affected. The demand for feed has weakened since cattle prices hit present levels.

Prices of feed cattle, those fattened for the slaughter market and of better grades with pork hit the hardest. In a move to help strengthen these prices the government has announced that its purchases of beef from now on will be limited to the choice grade. This goes for frozen carcasses as well as canned beef. Since the purchase program was announced March 2, the government has bought about 2.8 per cent of the total beef produced. Purchases represented four per cent of output. The cost of such beef to date is slightly more than 10 million dollars. The meat is being donated to needy persons and the school lunch program.

U.S. Enacts Stiff Set of Wheat Rules

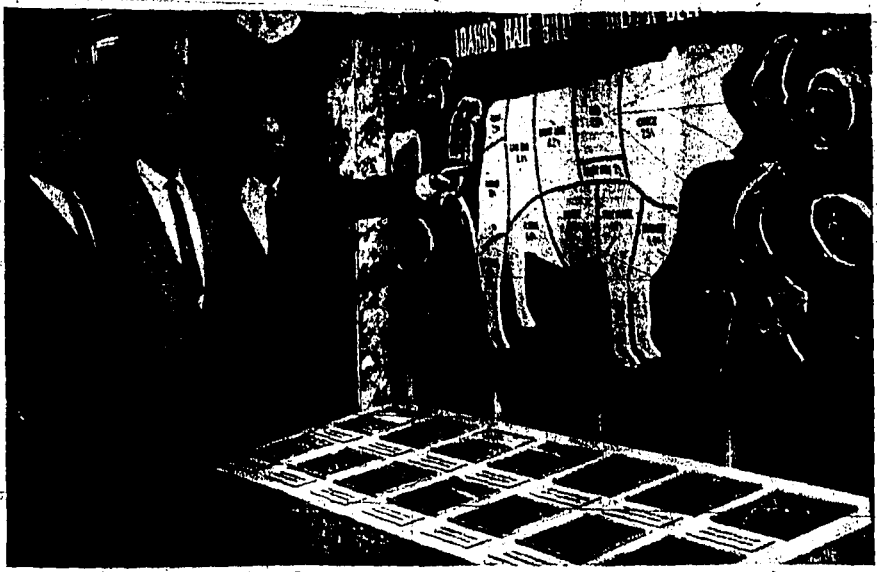

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—A new and stiffer set of federal grade standards for wheat went into effect Monday. Government officials said they hope the long-range result will be a stronger commercial export market for American wheat.

The new standards reduce the amount of defective material permitted in each of the government wheat grades.

The grade number one, for example, the new standards set at 98 percent for total defects. Under the old standards, defects of various kinds in the same grade could add up to 1.5 percent.

The agriculture department's decision to adopt the new standards was announced last January. It followed a long controversy among producer and trade groups.

Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said the new standards were approved in an effort to improve the competitive position of American wheat in world markets. Freeman said American wheat exported under the old standards contained more defects than exports from Canada and other major producers.

NEW DISPLAY relative to Idaho's half-billion-dollar beef industry is now housed in the Capitol building at Boise. Inspecting the new setup, provided by the Idaho Cattlemen's association, from the left, Jenkin Palmer, vice president; Clifford Barker, also a vice president, and Curtis Eaton, Twin Falls, president. Importance of the industry is stressed in the display.

Administration Considering New Mission to Boost Europe Beef Sales

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The administration may send a second beef mission to promote commercial exports of American beef to Europe.

This possibility arose on the heels of a five-point recommendation for strengthening the cattle industry, announced by the national cattle advisory committee.

The group, appointed by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, announced its proposals to the secretary late after a two-day closed meeting in Washington.

The group recommended that the meat industry and the government cooperate in promoting beef exports. This committee said the agriculture department's existing market development program could be used to finance the effort.

This recommendation followed an exploratory tour of Europe by an industry-government team. That first beef mission made its study at the order of President Johnson and returned to report good prospects for sales of American beef in Western Europe.

The national cattle advisory committee also recommended strong new efforts to reduce beef imports. The committee called for voluntary action with Australia, New Zealand, Ireland and Mexico—the four countries which already have signed voluntary import agreements with the United States.

The committee said the government should go further and get additional agreements with other countries, including nations in Central America.

On other fronts, the advisory committee recommended three steps:

—Legislation authorizing emergency loans to farmers and ranchers where economic conditions create a need for more credit than local sources can provide.

—The government should continue its beef purchases. For the immediate future, only choice grade beef should be purchased.

—The government should change its beef grading rules. Requirements for marbling should be revised to encourage marketing of lighter cattle and a separate system of grading beef on the basis of lean meat yield should be offered on an optional basis.

REXBURG, June 5—The second annual Idaho Junior Hereford association field day will be held here Monday at the Zake Ward ranch, announces Lynden Cook, junior association president.

Youngsters, parents, county agents, 4-H club members and FFA students are invited to the show and the Hereford judging contest will have six classes.

New Diseases Cause Losses For Farmers

DES MOINES, June 5—New types of disease problems are causing increasing trouble and losses for modern farmers, authorities reported today.

The American Foundation for Animal Health said that one cause for concern was the increasing number of non-infectious diseases developing in our livestock population. These may be brought on by greater stress being placed upon animals, nutritional imbalances, new chemicals, and steady depletion of the ground minerals from the soil.

In view of this, farmers should keep alert for any signs of animals which do not look or act normally, so that a prompt check can be made before the trouble becomes too serious.

In other cases, says the foundation, a common disease may appear in a slightly different form, or may affect a different species.

Mission Designed to Aid Rural Area Development

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The agriculture department has assigned two industrial specialists to a roving mission designed to promote the location of new processing plants in rural areas.

Department officials said the mission was part of their rural

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 5—Globe laboratories is marketing a drench grade of phenothiazine for the elimination of stomach worms, nodular worms, and hook worms in cattle, sheep, and goats, strangles in horses, and nodular worms in swine.

According to Dr. Clifford T. Orton, staff veterinarian for Globe, phenothiazine is one of the most effective anthelmintics known. Marketed under the trade name of Globe Phenothiazine drench grade, the product may be used with water and given as a drench, or it may be mixed with feed or salt.

Dr. Orton advised that in drenching a cow to "restrain the animal, preferably in a stanchion or chute, and with nose tongs raise the head slightly so that the nostrils are not higher than the eyes. Insert the pipe of the dose syringe or mouth of the drench bottle inside the corner of the animal's lip, and administer the medicine slowly. The animal will then swallow the medication.

The tour is under the auspices of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents and is sponsored by the Dow Chemical company.

Paul Drake, Lander, Wyo., is tour leader.

Millon B. Weston, Blackfoot, is the Idaho winner of the scholarship. The entire June 8 to June 25 tour will take time members through farming areas of Idaho, Oregon, California and Nevada.

Assembly point for the tour is the Uptown Motel, Pocatello, where Bannock county agent Albert Myrhol will meet the group.

The itinerary for June 8, includes a tour of the Phosphate Day mine with Bertie Brown; view of open pit phosphate rock mining and a tour of the Simplot Phosphate plant showing how rock is converted into fertilizer; a tour of the Aberdeen eastern Idaho experiment station; and a tour of the Lamb Western potato processing plant.

On June 9, activities start with a visit to the Minidoka extension office at Rupert where Vance T. Smith is county agent. This is to be followed by observation of a soil testing program along with a deep well pump and sipping basin; a visit to see the unique record keeping system used by dairyman Rex Garrett of Burley, and a study of cultural techniques of sugar beet production.

 WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The department of agriculture and interior announced today establishment of a joint soil conservation service and fish and wildlife service committee to improve coordination of the fish and wildlife conservation in watershed development.
 The committee will work chiefly on policies and procedures for handling fish and wildlife opportunities and problems associated with watershed projects administered by the soil conservation service.

ARS Is Conducting Extensive Tests On Bovine to Determine Production

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The agricultural research service is conducting a milk production experiment with a remarkable Holstein cow. Her name is Lorna. Lorna is a veritable "milk factory." Her caloric output in milk per day is considerably larger than her daily caloric intake in feed.

Water Pipe Blocked by Heavy Rock

KING HILLS, June 5—An 11-pound rock eight inches long kept irrigation water from reaching the Arthur Orser farm on the north side of Snake river opposite this community.
 The eight-inch underground line, property of the King Hill irrigation district, is one-fourth of a mile long and the rock was found within 20 feet of the end of the line. The Orser property had been without water for several days.
 The obstruction was found after a foot-by-foot search by George Davis and Lester Hall, maintenance crewmen.
 How the rock got in the line is still a mystery.

Crop Planted

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The bulk of the 1964 corn crop in the important corn belt area has been planted, according to the government's weather and crop bulletin.
 For the week ending June 1, planting in the corn belt and Lake states advanced rapidly and neared 90 per cent completion.

ARS said other high-producing cows have equaled this record of production efficiency, but never under the conditions imposed on Lorna by the scientists. Lorna is sealed in a plastic chamber where measurements are made of the food, water, and air she consumes, and of milk and waste products she produces. ARS said that under these conditions, in the energy-metabolism laboratory at the Beltsville research center, Lorna produced 35,000 calories of milk a day on an intake of 23,000 calories of estimated net energy of feed.
 Lorna had one five-day average of 59 pounds of 5.8 per cent—butterfat milk per day, ARS said this is equal to about 120 pounds of standardized four per cent milk, or 54 quarts. During the next three five-day periods, she averaged 110, 116, and 106 pounds of four per cent fat-corrected milk per day.
 ARS said Lorna obviously would be a money maker in any dairyman's herd. But to Dr. William Platt and other scientists at the laboratory, Lorna is an efficient milk factory giving them a chance to find out how a high producer uses her feed, and a low of stored energy in her body, to produce milk.
 ARS said the knowledge gained from the experiment may lead to improvements in dairy breeding, feeding and management.
 Platt said Lorna had been building up her record, so far, without losing any body weight. But he said this cannot continue because "she is using stored fat and expending it with water." Platt said Lorna can't continue her remarkable performance for very long.

Jerome Farmer Follows Advice and Wins Show

JEROME, June 5—For some time people have been talking Archie Malone, Jerome farmer, that he had a "pretty good looking Holstein cow." After winning a wall full of ribbons and trophies at the Richmond, Utah, Black and White show, Malone figures his friends were right.
 The cow, a 4-year-old Holstein named Inka, also beat out an All-American entry to win grand championship honors.
 Malone knew he had a good cow and was hoping to pull down a few ribbons, but he wasn't prepared for what happened.
 In addition to winning grand champion, the cow also won first place in 4-year-old competition, first in best uddered and was named senior champion.
 Malone's other animals walked out with second place in 3-year-old bull competition, second place in senior yearling bull competition, second place in "get of sire" competition and second place in the progeny class.
 "The strange thing about all this is the cow began as a 4-H project for one of the Malone children—Sharon. The Malones knew Inka was a top producer and often leads in dairy herd improvement testing. However, fieldmen in Magic Valley kept telling Malone he should enter the animal in competition.
 Malone entered and won. Now he's entertaining the thought of taking the cow to the National Black and White show at Waterloo, Ia. If she wins at Waterloo, Malone can rest assured his friends and neighbors are good judges of Holsteins.

FRIDAY, June 5.—Born today, you must learn to curb your impulsive nature; otherwise, you are apt to be in hot water half the time. If you can conquer your emotions, if you can learn to put them to constructive purpose early in life, then you can become an outstanding success in your chosen career. If, however, you allow your emotions to conquer you, you may still become "known," but it is most likely to be as a "character" rather than as a figure to be respected with.

Among those born on this date are: Velasquez, famed artist; Smith and Smith, political economist; Igor Stravinsky, Russian composer; conductor.

Canadian Pro Is First-Day Leader Of Golf Tourney

RYE, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Jerry Magee, a little known Canadian who has been struggling to make expenses on tour, outshot the game's greatest players with a six-under-par 66 Thursday for the first round lead in the $100,000 Thunderbird golf classic. Jaunty Phil Rodgers and Ken Venturi forged 67s in a day of embarrassment for the Westchester Country club's par 72 and were in second place—one stroke off the pace.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer made one of his familiar charges with a late birdie finish, but had to settle for 68 and tie for fourth with a half-dozen fellow pros.

Palmer's young rival for world golf honors, Jack Nicklaus, was one over on each of the two par five holes on the back nine and ballooned to a 73. He was well back in the pack of the star-studded field of 125.

Magee, a strapping 30-year-old former amateur champion from Toronto, brought the lightning bolt course to life with a brilliant drive of 260 to 280 yards. He didn't have a bogey.

He sank a 45-foot putt for a birdie on the sixth hole, got another at the 10th from nine feet and nailed an eagle at the 443-yard 12th where he laced a three-iron blow three feet from the cup.

He closed with barely missing a second eagle from 18 feet on the closing hole.

More than 40 players belted their 35-42 par of the light 6573-yard layout, soaked by a heavy overnight rain but whipped at times by winds up to 25 miles per hour.

Tied with Palmer at 68 were former British Open champion Kel Nagle of Australia, Tony Lama, Bob Coonby, Bob Rosburg, Bobby Nichols, Marty Furgol, Harold Knoese and Paul Harney, whom Palmer beat for the title last year.

It was Rodgers, the cocky Californian, who thrilled the gallery of more than 15,000 with a brilliant finish.

He scored five birdies in the space of six holes, playing the final nine in 30. He sank a seven-foot putt on the 18th for his closing birdie.

There were five players at 69, eight at 70 and more than a dozen at 71, including Gary Player of South Africa, Bill Casper and Sam Snead.

U. S. Open champion Julius Boros, fighting an ankle sprain, compromised for a par 72. He tied with a dozen at that figure, including former Open champions Gene Littler and Cary Middlecott.

Thomas, Clinton Change Uniforms

LOS ANGELES, June 5 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox and the Los Angeles Angels made a straight player swap of outfielders Lu Clinton and Les Thomas Thursday.

Clinton was with the Red Sox briefly in 1961 and won a regular job last year when he was one of the hottest hitters in the American league over the last half of the season.

The 26-year-old right-handed batter hit .32 in the last 86 games of 1962 and was .264 overall. Last year, he dropped off to a .232 mark, although he had 22 homers and 77 runs batted in.

Pirates Hand 4-2 Setback To Giants

PITTSBURGH, June 5 (AP)—Rookie right-hander Steve Blase pitched a five-hitter Thursday night as the Pirates made four runs in the fourth inning stand-up for a 4-2 victory over San Francisco.

Blase, now 7-2, was a bit wild, walking six and unworking two wild pitches. He fanned five.

The Giants got their two runs in the fifth when Blase yielded a walk and was tapped for singles by pinch hitter Cap Peterson, Jesus Alon and Willie McCovey.

Wrong Data Claimed for Deer in Area

BOISE, June 5 (AP)—Fish and game biologists have been charged by a Boise sportsman's organization with misinforming both the department and public on Payette and Boise river drainages populations.

Norman Tague, spokesman for the Capital Conservation club, said hunting regulations for 1964 will wipe out deer herds in the drainage.

Tague said biologists used so-called trend counts to estimate the deer population for the coming fall. He said the estimations produced "paper herds."

"Recommendations of the biologists of the game division to the commission were without factual basis and are the most grossly exaggerated recommendations ever presented by the division to the game commission since its creation," a statement released by the club said.

The statement recommended that three game management units be closed to general hunting for the coming year with the exception of special trophy antler hunts on limited permits.

Charges of the club were denied by Roger Williams, fish and game department game supervisor. He said the department "is on sounder ground in the Boise area than in any place in the state."

Williams said he has perfect confidence in the census made by department biologists.

HATTIESBURG, N. C., June 5 (AP)—Joe Jansen, sr., Longport, N. J., who caught and released his second marlin yesterday, has taken the lead in the International Blue Marlin tournament with 600 points.

Connally, the guest of Sanford during the fifth annual tournament, was credited with the biggest catch of four dolphins, a 25-pounder. The governors failed to catch a marlin, but did land the dolphin.

In second place with 482 points was William Fletcher of Easton, Md., who landed a 360-pound marlin.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By BOB REESE

In a small town in the Canadian backwoods, a country doctor named Allan Roy DeFoe went on a routine mission. A 25-year-old woman, already the mother of six children, was giving birth in the world's most famous birthing room.

Her name was Mrs. Olive Dionne. What happened after the doctor arrived electrified the world. For Mrs. Dionne gave birth to five little girls, who became the most famous babies in the world, the Dionne quintuplets. Their combined weight was less than ten pounds all together at birth. Dr. DeFoe saw to it that all of the quintuplets survived. . . . Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Estelle and Marie. The world took the quintuplets to their hearts. Within a few years 3000 visitors a day would be counted coming to their home just to see them. The world has never forgotten the Dionne quintuplets, whose early years were eagerly followed in press and pictures by millions. . . . but do you remember when they were born?

Remember the year? A family man in those days, with a few mouths to feed, couldn't afford to gamble when he bought a car, new or used. He looked for the best deal he could find and said, bought from a reliable dealer he could trust. The year was 1934.

Whether you're in the market for a new Dodge or Chrysler or a good old model used car, we can offer you a better deal. Right now we have a terrific selection of good, reconditioned used cars. . . . backed by our reputation for dependability and honest dealing. . . . We have used Buick, Oldsmobile, and Ford. . . . and many more. . . .

PHILADELPHIA, June 5 (AP)—Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers pitched the third no-hitter of his major league career Thursday night allowing only one walk in a 3-0 victory over Philadelphia and tying Bob Feller's modern no-hit record. Koufax, the 28-year-old left-hander, faced the minimum 27 batters. Richie Allen was the lone baserunner, walking on a 3-2 pitch in the fourth but he was thrown out stealing.

No-Hitter Came as Result of "Study"

PHILADELPHIA, June 5 (AP)—Sandy Koufax revealed Thursday night his no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies was the result of a careful study of his pitching form that disclosed he has been making a mistake in his delivery. Surrounded in the Los Angeles Dodgers clubhouse after his 3-0 triumph, Koufax said: "I have been studying myself in magazines, my form and suddenly I realized I had been stepping too far to the left with the right foot across my body."

Robinson, who hit his first homer in the fourth, connected in the ninth after walks to Vada Pinson and pinch hitter Doron Johnson. The blow was off Bob Sadowski, who had just replaced Don Schneider on the mound. The triple play, third in the national league this season, occurred in the eighth inning. After Bory Coleman and Robinson had drawn walks off Tony Olmon, Leo Cardenas lined to Mike de la Hoz. The Milwaukee second baseman doubled Coleman off second by flipping to shortstop Denis Menke whose relay to Gene Oliver at first retched Robinson.
