Record Crowd of 17,258 Attends East End Day at Twin Falls County Fair

FILER, Sept. 4—A record-breaking crowd of an estimated 17,258 persons attended East End day Thursday at the second day of the Twin Falls county fair. Officials said the attendance passed last year's record turnout of 16,827 paid admissions for East End day. Continued good weather Friday made officials predict that attendance today at West End day also will better the 1963 figure. Schools in the west end of the county are closed for the day and many businesses also have closed to allow employes to attend the annual event. Horses were judged this morning for fitting and showing and also for quality. Judging contests in both home economics and livestock also were conducted this morning while dress style revues and agricultural demonstrations were scheduled for this afternoon.

Special awards and trophies will be awarded at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Throughout the grounds there were crowds and the many concessions operated by churches and lodges did a "land office" business Thursday evening.

The Hollister Grange booth which placed first in the artistic arrangements, has a singularly attractive display. Using the theme harvest jewels, a dark blue fan is outlined on a light green background. Small sheaves of grain are studded with colored gems in a sunburst arrangement on the fan.

The Cedar Draw Grange exhibit received first in quality and also first in best original arrangement and best general appearance. This booth uses a timely election theme, showing a puzzled farmer being pulled one way by a Democratic mule and the other way by a GOP elephant.

A large question mark over his head explains the puzzled expression of the farmer as he ponders which way to vote.

Warren Lasson received grand champion in swine with Linda Morrison as reserve champion. Rosemary Lassen was awarded grand champion in dairy cattle with Carolyn VanZante as reserve.

Entries in the juvenile department are almost double those of last year, according to Mrs. Cecil Brown, superintendent. She noted the entries all are very good and said some of the art work is outstanding.

Boys are entering more classes this year and even are invading the cooking and needlework departments, said Mrs. Joe Hulse, assistant to Mrs. Brown.

Patrick Anderson, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Anderson, Filer, received a blue ribbon for a sweater he knit.

Goldwater Pleased By Speech Reaction

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 4 (UPI)—Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater today was pleased with the initial reaction to his opening campaign attack against administration domestic and foreign policies. The Arizona Republican told newsmen he thought reaction to his opening campaign speech yesterday was "just fine." He spoke to about 5,000 persons in the tree-shaded plaza in Prescott, Ariz., where he has started two successful senatorial campaigns. The senator, who has been talking extensively about foreign policies in the weeks since he won the GOP presidential nomination in San Francisco, gave more than equal time to attacking administration's responsibility for combatting lawlessness.

Goldwater said the nation's top leaders are responsible for encouraging every community to "enforce the law, not let it be abused and ignored."

Goldwater's tone was one of militancy. His voice rose repeatedly in something approaching anger as he tossed a new attack at administration defense policies. He also said the shadow of scandal falls on the White House "from the ballot box to the safe deposit box."

In a significant portion of his speech, Goldwater, in stating his long-time view that the "cancerous growth" of the federal government must be halted, stressed that such an action cannot be taken all at once. He made it clear that withdrawal of the central government from enterprises in which it is now active must be a gradual evolution.

He concluded his speech by reading newspaper appraisals of the campaign of 1860 in which Abraham Lincoln was attacked as the weakest possible candidate against Stephen Douglas, who was described as one who could command the support of the party's broad center. Goldwater said he was not comparing himself to Lincoln except to the extent that, like Lincoln, he expected to win.

Senate Holds Meeting for Two Seconds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI) — The senate put on a burst of speed today by meeting for just two seconds, then adjourning for the Labor day week-end.

Sen. Lee Metcalf, D., Mont., matched his previous record as "the fastest gavel" in the senate.

The token session was required by the Constitution, which prohibits either house of congress from adjourning more than three days—not counting Sundays—without the consent of the other.

Metcalf and five other senators were in the chamber as the opening bell rang and he quickly said:

"Under the previous order the senate stands adjourned until Tuesday noon next."

Then he banged the gavel and the adjournment bells rang.

Senate officials said the two-second meeting today matched the all-time previous speed record Metcalf set Dec. 27, 1963.

Death Is Asked for 2 White Men

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 4 (UPI)—A state prosecutor asked a jury of white men today to bring in the death penalty for two white men charged with murdering a Negro educator and army reserve officer.

Prosecutor Glete Johnson in his summation charged that the defendants, Joseph Howard Sims and Cecil William Myers, shot down the Negro, Lemuel Penn, Washington, D. C., on a highway last July 11.

"The law of the state of Georgia is the death penalty," Johnson told the jury.

"They are not entitled to sympathy or mercy, because they showed no sympathy or mercy."

Sims, 41, and Myers, 28, were among four white men—identified by the FBI as Ku Klux Klansmen—charged in the predawn slaying.

Johnson appealed to the jury "to stop this type of nightriding with guns."

Sims and Myers in unsworn statements to the jury yesterday said they were innocent. Also charged with murder in the case is James B. Lackey, whose repudiated statement implicating himself and the other two was introduced in evidence. The fourth man, Herbert Cuest, was freed of murder charges during the trial.

Johnson said the killing was a cold-blooded assassination motivated by hate and violence.

"The honor of the state of Georgia is on trial here," he said. He pounded with his fist on the speaker's stand when he called for the death penalty.

U.S. Readies For Holiday Week-End

By United Press International

Millions of Americans take to the nation's highways today for the start of the 78-hour Labor day week-end, the last holiday of summer. The national safety council estimates between 400 and 500 persons will died in traffic accidents.

The week-end officially begins at 6 p. m. local time today and ends at midnight Monday.

In a pre-holiday accident, four children of a Livermore, Calif., family which set out early for a Labor day week-end visit with relatives were burned to death late yesterday when their car burst into flames after colliding with a trailer truck near Peabody, Mass.

The safety council said as many as 23,000 persons will receive disabling injuries in automobile accidents during the week-end. The council said about 435 persons would died on the highways if the period were not a holiday.

Waits

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI) — The 52-million-dollar lower Teton reclamation project in Idaho awaited the signature of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The bill received congressional approval yesterday after consideration by a senate and house conference.

The Teton project would impound water in the Fremont reservoir for the irrigation of about 114,000 acres of land near the confluence of the Teton and Henrys Fork rivers and would provide flood control and electric power generation.

Idaho's two Democratic congressmen voiced their approval after the measure was passed.

Rep. Ralph Harding said the Teton is one of only two rivers in the nation that run through populated areas without provisions for flood control.

Service Set For W. B. Joy, 81; Richfield

RICHFIELD, Sept. 4—Private services are planned at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Cloverdale Memorial park, Boise, for William Bixby Joy, sr., 81, Richfield resident, who died Wednesday in Boise of a lengthy illness.

Mr. Joy was a former member of the Idaho public utilities commission and also worked in the office of defense transportation during World war II. He farmed at Richfield for many years and had lived here since retiring in 1950.

He was born April 24, 1883, in Iowa City, Ia., and was graduated from the University of Iowa. In 1913 he married Elizabeth Ellis at Draper, Utah.

He was employed by the U.S. Smelter company in Salt Lake City and Midvale, Utah, until 1925 when he came to Richfield where he ranched. He farmed here and raised chickens until 1933.

At that time he went to Boise to work in the public utilities commission as secretary. During World war II he served in the office of defense transportation. In 1945 he was appointed a public utilities commissioner, serving in the post until 1950 when he retired.

Mr. Joy had made his home at his ranch here since then. He belonged to the Presbyterian church and the Richfield Grange.

Survivors include his widow; three sons, William B. Joy, jr., Boise; Edwin E. Joy, Salmon, and Ernest L. Joy, U.S. air force; one daughter, Mrs. Marion Westerdahl, Arvada, Colo.; two sisters, Mrs. Clarissa LaClair, Billings, Mont., and Blanche Joy, Iowa City, Ia., and five grandchildren.

Anti-Trust Suit Filed in Seattle

SEATTLE, Sept. 4 (UPI)—A 1.2 million dollar suit against unions and nine plumbing firms accused of violating antitrust laws was filed in U. S. district court yesterday by a contractors' association.

The Associated Plumbing and Heating Contractors of Washington, Inc., suit said the violations consisted of entering interim agreements during a strike.

Work Nears On Bridge Approaches

Construction is to begin soon on the bridge approaches on the old airport road, extension of Blue Lakes boulevard south, according to B. E. Sessions, district engineer of the Idaho state highway department. The bridges should be completed for the harvest traffic, he declared.

The Twin Falls construction company will start at the county highway building on Rock creek and proceed 4.87 miles south. It is expected that the work will be completed in 100 working days.

The 7.3 miles between Richfield and Carey on U. S. 20, should be completed and inspected next week.

Crews presently are engaged in placing the final course of oil surfacing on the east bound lane between the interchange and Rupert on the Heyburn-Rupert project. With favorable weather conditions, this 4.1 mile project should be completed soon, Sessions said.

Roadways and parking areas at the state school in Gooding are 85 per cent finished, and are, for all practical purposes, completed.

Structures for the interstate highway project from Jerome to U. S. 93 appear to be about half finished.

4-H Judging Is Held at Rupert Fair

RUPERT, Sept. 4—Judging of 4-H and FFA livestock entries was under way Friday at the Minidoka county fair with a good crowd reported.

First place winner in the display by 13 area home demonstration clubs in the armory building was the Desert Dozen club. Second place was won by the Heyburn Dandy Does, and third place honors were divided between the Jolly Neighbors and Home Acres clubs.

Mrs. Jean Mahlenbacker and Mrs. Frank Snyder were chairmen for the display, theme for which is "Modern dimensions in homemaking."

The three top winners in the miniature rodeo Thursday night were Wayne Allen, first; George Montgomery, second, and Danny Crystal, third. Two local 13-year-old boys, James Casad and Jesse Hess, gave creditable performances as clowns.

The tractor contest is scheduled for 8 p. m. today. Saturday the three-day event will close with open class judging and the flower show at 2 p. m.

Storms Hit Some Parts Of Midwest

By United Press International

Thundershowers dotted the Midwest today and gray, rainy skies darkened New England. Clear weather prevailed across the rest of the nation.

The thundershowers hit parts of the Midwest with locally heavy amounts of rainfall. Lamoni in southwestern Iowa reported 1.46 inches in six hours and Forbes air force base near Topeka, Kans., had 1.12 inches.

Drenching rains and high winds swept across Wisconsin late last night and a reported tornado demolished a barn in the southern part of the state.

A freak windstorm spawned gusts of 70 miles an hour over Cadillac, Mich., toppling some power lines and destroying a building. Heavy rains followed the storm.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the upper 30s in Montana to the mid 80s in the desert Southwest.

Health Bill Faces Tough House Fight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)—Backers of a senate-passed health care-social security bill today began to organize a rescue operation for the measure in anticipation of a tough fight in the house. The senate approved the bill yesterday by a 60-28 vote. It now goes to a house-senate conference committee, but negotiations on a compromise bill are not expected to begin until the middle of the month. Once the compromise is worked out, the changes then must be approved by both house and senate. The original house bill contained no health care provisions.

The senate measure would expand the social security system to provide hospitalization and nursing care benefits for about 18 million elderly persons. In addition it calls for a $7-a-month boost in cash benefits for 20 million social security pensioners. All this would be financed through higher payroll taxes.

No health care bill has ever reached the house floor for a vote. Previous measures have been bottled up or killed in the house ways and means committee, due in large part to the opposition of committee chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D., Ark.

Rep. Cecil R. King, D., Calif., a longtime supporter of health care legislation, indicated in an interview that backers might report to a rarely used parliamentary maneuver to help rescue the bill.

He said that an attempt probably would be made to get the bill to instruct house conferees to insist on a health care program in the final draft of the compromise bill.

This move would require a majority vote, but even then it is not binding on the conferees, though such an action is supposed to express "the will of the house."

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., told a news conference yesterday, "I don't think anything providing

2 Hurricanes Are Reported In Atlantic

MIAMI, Sept. 4 (UPI) — The season's first and second hurricanes whipped up the Atlantic ocean hundreds of miles apart today, a threat only to ships that might cross their paths.

As hurricane Cleo raced across the northern Atlantic and her sister storm, Dora, churned up the tropical Atlantic, officials in Washington began considering Gov. Farris Bryant's request that parts of Florida's Cleo-ravaged east coast be declared disaster areas.

The governor said a state survey released yesterday showed Cleo caused a total of 115 million dollars damage to Florida's "Gold Coast."

After threatening the northern island chain bordering the Caribbean sea, hurricane Dora turned its 115-mile an hour winds to the north, away from Puerto Rico and other land masses.

The Miami weather bureau said Dora was about 800 miles south-southeast of Bermuda and moving toward the northwest at 10 miles an hour.

The Washington weather bureau said that Cleo was about 400 miles south-southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, and speeding toward the northeast at 37 miles per hour.

Paul Youth Killed in Power County Crash

PAUL, Sept. 4 — A college student from Paul was killed Thursday night in a one-car accident nine and one-half miles east of American Falls on a county road. Floyd Dale Reno, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Reno, route 2, Paul, was fatally injured and two companions, Wesley Hill, 19, Heyburn, and Gerald Carlyle, 22, Minidoka, were hospitalized when all three were thrown from the vehicle. Power county sheriff's officers said Mr. Reno failed to negotiate a turn and the car skidded, overturning several times. The other youths are reported in serious condition in Power county hospital, American Falls.

They were en route to Pocatello to look for housing this fall at Idaho State university. The Reno youth would have been a junior there.

Floyd Reno was born March 10, 1944, at Powell, Wyo., and came to the Rupert area with his parents in 1960. They have lived in Paul since that time.

He was graduated from Minico high school in 1962 and attended the University of Idaho, Moscow, for one year and Idaho State college, Pocatello, last year. He would have been a junior at ISC this fall, majoring in education.

Survivors include, in addition to his parents, five brothers, Ray Reno, Riverton, Wyo.; Harold Reno, with the U.S. air force in West Germany; Ralph Reno, Billings, Mont.; Kenneth Reno, Powell, Wyo., and Walter Reno, Paul; four sisters, Mrs. Jerry (Alice) Rath, Helena, Mont.; Mrs. Ned (Marjorie) Scholz, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Mrs. O. E. (Doris) Butler, Ft. Thompson, S.D., and Mrs. LeRoy (Helen) Beckwith, San Diego; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Alce Reno, Visalia, Calif.

Whites Held Hostage by Congo Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The rebel commander of Stanleyville told the United Nations yesterday he is holding all white men, women and children in the northeastern Congo city as hostages against possible air raids by the central Congolese government.

Gen. Nicolas Olenga, reversing himself at virtually the 11th hour, warned the United Nations that his forces would fire at any plane approaching the rebel-held capital of Oriental Province.

The rebel general sent a message to U.N. Secretary General Thant accusing the United Nations, the International Red Cross, the World Health organization (WHO) and other international agencies of being part of an "imperialist plot" against the Congolese nationalists (rebels).

Soldier Dies Of Wounds In Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Sept. 4 (UPI)—A U.S. army enlisted man was killed today when ground fire from communist Viet Cong guerrillas ripped into a U.S. helicopter 34 miles southwest of Saigon.

The American, whose name was withheld pending notification of next of kin, was the 189th U.S. serviceman to be killed in action since 1961.

A crew member of an American UHIB chopper, the soldier died of a chest wound while helping Vietnamese troops track down communist guerrillas in Tay Ninh province.

In other military action, three Americans suffered slight injuries in plane and helicopter crash landings. And three more American advisers were helping Vietnamese forces drive to their biggest victory in weeks near the northern city of Quang Ngai.

With operations still in progress, Vietnamese regulars and local "popular" forces had killed 70 Viet Cong guerrillas, captured two others and took possession of several weapons including two recoilless cannons.

As of 5 p.m. (5 a.m. EDT) today, government forces had suffered eight killed and 26 wounded in action.

Job Camp Set for Nez Perce Area

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)— Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho, said yesterday the job corps camp to be established on the Nez Perce national forest 30 miles east of Kooskia will be manned by 100 youths and eventually increased to 200.

Church said plans are to open the camp in November as one of the first in the President's new economic opportunity program.

Idaho youths and boys from neighboring states will have priority for enrolling in the camp.

New Violence Flares Again In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia, Sept. 4 (UPI)—New racial violence flared in Singapore today as Malaysia entered a state of emergency, ready for a possible armed showdown with Indonesia.

Riot-trained police patrolled Singapore streets as internal trouble plagued the young federation, already tense over a reported landing Wednesday of Indonesian paratroopers on its soil.

Police said two persons were injured as bands of Malays and Chinese roamed the troubled Geylang district, hurling stones at buses, autos and houses. The cabinet met in Kuala Lumpur to consider the fresh riots as a curfew in Singapore went into effect. The island state was declared to be in a "state of danger to public order."

Seven persons have been killed and 48 injured in racial disturbances since Wednesday, Singapore radio said today.

The Malaysian government charged that Indonesian agents were behind the latest outbreak.

With pledges of support from its Commonwealth partners, the government acted quickly after the reported landing of 20 Indonesian paratroopers in Johore State, 100 miles southeast of Kuala Lumpur.

Weather Bureau Gets Calls From All Over U.S. About Idaho's Potato Crop

BOISE, Sept. 4 (UPI)—Idaho's potato crop this season has callers worried from Maine to New Mexico, the U.S. weather bureau said today.

Reports here and elsewhere that the state will have one of the lowest yields of spuds in years, have prompted many calls from out of state, the bureau told UPI during a survey of the 1964 crop.

Almost all the unidentified callers, the bureau said, asked if the crop was threatened by frost and unseasonably cool and damp weather. Most of the callers said they were "curious" about the Gem state crop, a weather bureau officer said.

The callers' worries have some foundation this season. The light yield is predicted because of late spring planting and early frosts.

Richard Ohms, University of Idaho extension potato specialist, said he has heard of few reports of extensive frost damage to date, but he noted spot frost has damaged some crops.

And Oneida county Farm Extension Agent Virgil S. Cross said that "cool weather the past three weeks with average temperatures below 60 degrees has seriously curtailed the growth of 60,000 acres of potatoes in the Oneida-Minidoka area."

Cross said planting in the Magic Valley was delayed upwards of 15 days by rains this spring.

"Most of the seed did not have time to warm up," he explained, "and as a result decay has set in. This has resulted in a high percentage of weak plants

Court Denies Writ to Free George Olson

The state supreme court in Boise has denied a writ of habeas corpus filed by Vernon K. Smith, Boise, attorney for George Olson, charged with the Aug. 22, 1963, murder of Keith T. Gates.

The writ was filed by Smith in an effort to free Olson, claiming Olson was being held illegally because the site of the shooting, 599 Lynwood boulevard, is not in the Twin Falls city limits, due to a faulty annexation ordinance.

The murder trial, which originally was set for Aug. 7, was postponed by Eleventh District Judge Theron Ward until the ruling from the supreme court.

Twin Falls county Prosecuting Attorney James May said Friday since the supreme court has

Area Judges Working on Assignment

EDEN, Sept. 4—Three Magic Valley justices of the peace are working on a committee of the Idaho Magistrates association to outline recommendations for qualifications and appointments of judges.

They include Mrs. Wes Harman, Eden, Jerome county justice; Al Robinson, Twin Falls justice of the peace, and Dale Adamson, Twin Falls police judge.

Mrs. Harman reports a state meeting of the magistrates' association will be held in the state capitol, Boise, Nov. 20-21.

A full agenda of court problems is planned for the two-day session, which is designed to approve proposals which will be presented to the Idaho legislature for the lower court revision.

Some of the items to be discussed are: Changing name of justice of the peace courts to county courts, making them courts of record and raising civil jurisdiction of these courts to $1,000, in an attempt to ease the load on the district courts and to provide faster adjudication for citizens.

Elimination of court costs in criminal cases, with a percentage of the fine assessed returned to the county or city to pay operational costs.

Setting of definite qualifications for judges, and providing for training sessions under trained personnel. Attendance would be mandatory, with those refusing to attend subject to removal from office.

Requesting the legislature to make it mandatory for political subdivisions to provide offices and suitable courtroom facilities for their courts.

Judge C. E. Spencer, Wendell justice of the peace, has been assigned to recommendation of changes for the small claims court.

The Idaho Magistrates association is represented by membership in 30 of the 44 counties and in 22 cities in Idaho.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY

Currently, the weather charts show a continued warmer westerly flow of air into the valleys of southern Idaho aloft and clear skies and higher pressures at the surface. Daytime temperatures will continue to respond to this warming and heating from the sun by rising to approach near normal values into the week-end. Nighttime temperatures will be slower to respond to heating as clear nights allow much of the daytime heating to escape. In Magic Valley, however, most areas will be frost free tonight. Clear skies will continue over these valleys today and Saturday.

Maximum temperatures today will range in the 70s to low 80s and on Saturday in the upper 70s into the 80s. Minimum temperatures tonight will range in the low 30s again in southeastern valleys to the mid to upper 40s4 in southwestern valleys. Below freezing is expected in Camas prairie with readings in the mid 20s. Protection as deemed necessary against frost in colder areas of southeastern valleys will be needed tonight.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST

The mean pressure chart aloft through Wednesday shows a broad low pressure area over the Rocky Mountain states into the Great Plains states with high pressure in the eastern Pacific northward into the Gulf of Alaska. The westerly flow of air aloft now into the Intermountain region will be giving way to a northwesterly flow of air during the week-end.

Temperatures over the valleys of southern Idaho during the next five days will continue to average below normal. The range will be from two to five degrees below normal in southcentral valleys. Daytime temperatures will approach near normal during the week-end over most valleys.

Normals for this period are Gooding 82-40, Twin Falls 82-45 and Burley 80-44.

Storm activity will be at a minimum through Wednesday and shower activity from a storm on Sunday will move east of the Continental Divide. Little or no precipitation is expected over the valleys of southern Idaho through Wednesday.

Sunshine will average around 80 to 85 per cent of possible. Soil moisture losses will increase through the week-end with average daily loss ranging from .20 to .30 of an inch. Soil temperatures at the three to eight-inch depth will rise into the mid to upper 60s over the week-end, but will be lowering again into the first of the week. Days of stronger winds appear to be Sunday and Monday with lighter winds into mid-week.

Harvesting operations will have dry weather allowing considerable progress to be made during the next five days. Fruit harvest and third cutting of alfalfa in southwestern valleys will have favorable weather to be done. Rising daytime temperatures will be most favorable to late row crops where growth is yet needed to make a crop. Field preparation and planting of fall grain crops can be accomplished successfully through Wednesday. Frost protection measures at night in some southcentral valleys during the week-end will be necessary and later advisories regarding this should be watched for.

Condition of Injured Boy Listed Good

Rob Roy Spafford, 13-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. James Spafford, 556 Monte Vista drive, was termed doing "real well" at Twin Falls Clinic hospital Friday morning. He was taken there Wednesday night when he was shot in the leg by a neighbor who mistook him for a prowler.

Young Spafford was outside the Paul Beck home at 525 Cindy drive when Beck heard a noise, grabbed his .22 caliber pistol and went out to investigate.

The boy, surprised by Beck's appearance, started running. Beck shouted at the fleeing figure to stop, and when it didn't he said he fired a "warning shot" which hit the youth in the left leg.

The boy was taken to the Twin Falls Clinic hospital where he was treated for a compound fracture.

Hospital authorities said Friday it was not known when young Spafford would be released.

Services for Sgt. A. York Set Saturday

PALL MALL, Tenn., Sept. 4 (UPI) —Sgt. Alvin C. York was home in his beloved Cumberland mountains for good today, no longer haunted by the deed which made him the greatest foot soldier of World war I.

The legendary mountaineer was returned to his sprawling farm on the Wolf river from Veterans hospital in Nashville where he died Wednesday at the age of 76.

Funeral services were scheduled at 2 p.m. CST Saturday with burial in Wolf river cemetery, not far from the mountain ledge where York married his childhood sweetheart, Gracie Williams, after his triumphant return from the war.

York's body was taken to a funeral home in nearby Jamestown for public viewing Thursday, but will be returned to his wood frame farm home prior to burial.

A deeply religious man, York confided in his last known interview that the memory of the 25 German soldiers he killed during the bloody battle of Argonne forest in France remained with him through the years.

"I still don't like to think about it even today," York said in the interview on his birthday last Dec. 13. "I always believed in the Lord's commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill,' but I also believe there are times when a man just has to fight for the things he believes."

Quite a few of the bread and cake exhibits were made by boys, the superintendents said.

A steady stream of people passes through the Historical society museum each day.

Each year more items are added to the museum which is located in the old dining hall across from the horse barn. The dog house, filled to capacity with different breeds of dogs, is another building usually crowded with spectators.

A booth in the second merchants building has a dial-a-sermon service which is attracting attention, sponsored by the Lutheran Laymen's league. The booth contains two telephones and passersby are invited to step in and dial 5400 for a one-minute sermonette.

Members of the league are assisted by Walther league members in distributing literature and answering questions.

Capacity crowds also turned out Thursday night for second performance of the action-filled rodeo, which was kicked off with a grand entry by the Twin Falls Mounted Sheriff's posse.

Rodeo fans responded with cheers for their favorite contestants and chuckles for the two rodeo clowns — Chuck Henson, Tucson, Ariz., and Wiley McCrey, Briscoe, Tex.

Thomas Parks, Filer, Twin Falls county fair board secretary, also was honored Thursday night at the rodeo for 36 years of service.

Results of Thursday night's rodeo performance are:

Bareback riding — Malcolm Jones, Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, first, 61 points; Johnny Ley, Miles City, Mont., second, 57 points, and Phil Doan, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, third, 54 points.

health care . . . will finally be enacted into law."

In an unusual move the senate named seven members of its finance committee to bargain with house negotiators, instead of the normal five. This was done to include at least two pro-health care senators, Albert Gore, D., Tenn., and Clinton P. Anderson, D., N.M. The other five conferees all are opposed to the measure.

A breakdown of yesterday's final senate vote on the bill showed 48 Democrats and 12 Republicans supporting it, and 10 Democrats and 18 Republicans against it.

The bill already is an issue in the presidential campaign. President Johnson enthusiastically supported the health care plan and it was endorsed in the 1964 Democratic party platform. GOP presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater assailed it as a step toward a welfare-state system and voted against it in the senate.

According to city police, Romans also was driving his vehicle west on Kimberly road when he rammed the rear of the Garman car.

Garman, his wife, Naomi, and their children, Randy, 8, Don, 16, and Jack, 14, were taken to the hospital where they were treated and released. Debbie Garman, and Tim Garman, 6, also passengers in their father's car, were uninjured, as was Romans.

Damage was estimated at $400 to the Pontiac and $875 to the Chevrolet.

In another accident at 7:55 p.m. Wednesday, Charles E. Powlus, 18, 433 Gardner avenue, backed his 1964 Mercury into a 1951 Dodge driven on the 100 block of Martin street by Samuel W. Caudell, 19, 186 Sidney drive.

and probably one of the lowest stand counts of record."

A spokesman for Idaho Potato Processors said the Idaho Falls area reports potato plants "blacker than hell" from the frost Wednesday night.

Some potato growers in eastern Idaho have reported as much as 33 per cent crop loss due to early frost, the spokesman said.

How much frost there will be and how early the heavy frost will be is anybody's guess right now.

The U.S. weather bureau said it is forecasting a "warming trend" although spot frost could continue for another week.

Ohms said he was "optimistic" about the crop in general, but continuing spots of frost could seriously hamper the Gem State's most famous and favorite product. He said most of the damage from frost would be in the size of the spuds and this would hurt the growers at the market.

Some plants in eastern Idaho begin processing of Idaho russets next week.

Only then, when wagon loads of spuds are torn from the earth, can the statewide spud market really be examined for weather damage, Ohms said.

British Cars Stolen From Greek Guards

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Sept. 4 (UPI) — United Nations officials disclosed yesterday that two British armored cars were stolen during the night from the port city of Famagusta. They apparently were taken from under the noses of Greek Cypriot police and Irish U. N. troops.

The vehicles belonged to the British life guards, who are being rotated out of the U. N. peacekeeping force. The thefts, first admitted by the U. N. since it sent troops into the strife-torn island last March, could develop into a major issue unless the vehicles are returned.

The United Nations has expressed grave concern over the military buildup by rival Greek and Turkish Cypriot forces.

In Ankara, Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu warned a special session of parliament that Turkey was "approaching a situation which may result in war" with Greece. He denounced what he termed the "irresponsible behavior of the Greek government in supporting President Archbishop Makarios in his attempt to deprive the Turks in Cyprus of their rights."

He is a member of the board of the associated general contractors, and American Road-builders, Inc., and a trustee of the Boise public library.

denied the writ a new trial date probably will be set in Eleventh district court.

Olson has been in Twin Falls county jail since his arrest, the day after the murder.

The long delay in Olson's trial started when the preliminary hearing was held up so Mrs. Anna Lou McKinnon, Olson's ex-wife who was wounded in the shooting, could testify.

Mrs. McKinnon was in a hospital in Salt Lake City and by the time she was released and able to testify at the hearing the January term of court had been set.

Olson's trial was listed first in the criminal trial section for the July term.

Mrs. McKinnon and Gates were cousins and Gates was visiting Mrs. McKinnon at the time of the shooting.

Ground-Air Search Fails For Family

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 4 (UPI) —A ground-air search early today failed to turn up any sign of a Salt Lake family, unreported since telling relatives they were going fishing July 31.

Sheriff's Lieut. Pete Hayward said Mr. and Mrs. Nathen Slate and their 11-year-old son, Sydney, were deeply in debt. "I've been getting calls steadily from finance companies since their disappearance was made public," he said.

"There is nothing to indicate foul play," Hayward said. "We are asking the FBI to make a check of social security numbers in all of the western states to see if either Mr. or Mrs. Slate is employed somewhere else."

Utah highway patrol aircraft today finished checking the area from Heber to Echo Junction without finding any trace of the Slate car.

COMMENT
by R. E. BERG

Pride in Our City

Cities, like people, have personalities. And like any personality, it can be judged in two ways . . . by what you see and what you feel.

Part of our city's personality is its appearance: the grace of its buildings, the bustle of its downtown, the restful quiet of parks and residential areas.

But the feeling our city gives off is purely a product of the people. Friendliness, cooperation, energy, enthusiasm—these are the spirits the people of our city can exude to earn respect and regards from visitors and newcomers.

A leading hand in maintaining our city's personality, its appearance and service to all is taken by us.

We like to exercise our pride in our city in a most practical and helpful way, by being of service to all.

Our fine ambulance service is just one of the ways in which we serve our community in a practical and helpful way. We take great pride in our efficient service to our friends and neighbors. We are at your service 24 hours a day.

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include these lines: "Progress is born of experience. It is the ripening of mortal man, through which the mortal is dropped for the immortal. Either here or hereafter, suffering or science must destroy all illusions regarding life and mind, and regenerate material sense and self. The old man with his deeds must be put off." Company in Idaho Will Hike Rates

BOISE, Sept. 4 (UPI) — State Farm Insurance, the state's second largest insurer of automobile drivers, plans an 8.3 per cent increase in insurance rates for 40,000 policyholders in Idaho.

State Insurance Commissioner Leo O'Connell said yesterday the firm has the authority through state laws to make a discretionary rate increase without a review by his department.

The company claims a loss in Idaho since 1961 of more than a quarter-million dollars on major coverage. Rates will vary from Boise to Pocatello, the firm said in announcing the increase.

The increases will average from one to four dollars for commuters and about 10 cents a year for rural drivers.

While some states have constitutional authority to review proposed insurance rate increases, O'Connell said Idaho's first insurance law, written as late as 1961, leaves the rates to the discretion of the insurance company.

Irrigation Season Ends On Oct. 10

SHOSHONE, Sept. 4—Wednesday Magic reservoir contained 112,100 acre feet of water, compared to 111,100 a year ago on that date.

At the regular September board meeting for the Big Wood board of directors, decision was reached to extend the irrigation season for one year only to Oct. 10. The Magic committee of the board will meet in another week to decide how the Magic water will be run.

Ten days of free water already has been allotted to Magic water users. There is a question as to whether a second 10 days of free water should be allowed in September, or if it should be held for October.

If too much water is used in September and only a few use the extra water in October, there may not be enough water in the canals and laterals to deliver to everyone. About 60 per cent is needed to make all deliveries.

Each water user is urged to contact his director as to when

Dispensary Will Stay In Pocatello

POCATELLO, Sept. 4 (UPI)—State Rep. Darrell V. Manning said yesterday the navy will not move its dispensary from Pocatello to Idaho Falls as rumored earlier.

Manning said Second Dist. Rep. Ralph Harding assured him in a telephone conversation that the navy had no plans to remove the dispensary that served some 100 navy and atomic energy commission employes.

The rumor was raised last week when Pocatello Chamber of Commerce President Paul Herzog wrote Idaho's congressional delegation to investigate whether the navy had such plans.

Buying Votes

If anyone walked up to the average taxpaying citizen and offered him a five-dollar bill for his vote, the marines might have to be called out to restore order. But just as surely and certainly American taxpayers have been selling their votes for years without protest or fuss. Now the politicians are involved in another great wave of vote buying. There will be no great outcry this time, either.

In the next few weeks, as congress rushes around picking up the loose ends, one of the greatest activities will involve buying votes. Although members of congress and the administration will use different words it boils down simply to buying votes. The issues aren't so special and might range all the way from medicare to some sort of subsidy. Likewise, no particular member of congress or political party can be singled out for special criticism. If criticism should be directed at anyone it would be the individual voter who has been swallowing this stuff for years.

Much time and effort have been devoted to conditioning the voter. By now, few, if any, would regard the process as selling a vote. It's described in such high-minded terms as "benefits," "sociological progress," "economic improvement," "preservation of resources," "constructional improvement" and a host of similar terms. All the time politicians keep telling the voters how much they're "giving" the dear people.

The bald truth of the matter is that politicians go right on trying to buy votes. It's not exactly a coincidence that the programs with the widest appeal and greatest benefits are conceived and approved during election years. Cost? Hang the cost! The government will take care of that. Of course, what the politicians don't ever tell the people is that no government has any magic source of funds. It all comes from the taxpayer's pocket. And in the process of the taxpayer taking his money from one pocket and sending it to the government and then putting a portion of it back in another pocket, the amount is reduced considerably.

This vote-buying technique isn't limited to the federal government by any means. Twin Falls county taxpayers, traveling to the county fair this week, may have been reminded of a more or less local attempt to buy votes when they drove over that now - miserable highway between Twin Falls and Filer. It can serve as a constant reminder. Some county taxpayers may remember how the project was rushed along one fall shortly before elections. The obvious faults which still exist include improper engineering, insufficient right of way and poor drainage. There may be others, but these will serve to illustrate the point. Tax dollars paid for the highway which still offered four lanes with a smooth roadway when that year's elections rolled around.

Not all attempts at buying votes are so obvious. In fact most attempts are well disguised and subtle. There is so much sugar coating that many taxpayers never taste the bitter center of the pill. They just can't understand why taxes keep going up and up and up.

It would seem that even the most unthinking taxpayer would start associating higher taxes and the always increasing benefits from the government. If the voter wants all these things he must be prepared to pay the bill with higher taxes. If the taxpayer has any doubt that members of congress are out buying votes all he has to do is glance at the feverish activity in Washington as the election nears. In years when there is no election the "benefits" aren't nearly so prominent.

NO RHYME, REASON

Idaho's highway fatality picture continues to present baffling inconsistencies. Why should one or more parts of the state run contrary to the state-wide trend? Yet it happens every year and there's no way of predicting whether Magic Valley, for instance, will coincide with the state-wide trend, have a better record, or a worse record.

Fortunately, Magic Valley's record this year is considerably better than the state-wide trend. Anyone is welcome to guess about the reasons involved. At any rate as September started, Magic Valley had killed 16 per cent fewer people on its highways than last year. Yet Idaho, as a whole, has racked up a record of 30 per cent more fatalities than a year ago. There's just not that much difference between drivers in Magic Valley and drivers in the rest of the state.

In the face of continuing accidents, injuries and deaths, Idaho drivers cannot take too many precautions to keep from winding up as a statistic. It seems more important than ever for the individual to practice defensive driving. In addition, safety belts seem to be almost a necessity. Governor Smylie reports the lives of two or three state employes have been saved by safety belts, which are now installed in all state-owned cars. Any precaution is worthwhile if it will save a life—yours.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — A week after the windup of the Democratic convention, some of the party pros are beginning to have second thoughts about that "loyalty" pledge with which the bosses bludgeoned the Alabama and Mississippi delegations.

Andrew Tully

Specifically, these more thoughtful leaders are uncomfortable with the weapon as a permanent remedy to force recalcitrants into line. As one of them put it, "Political conventions are supposed to be contests. Recalcitrants have as much right to be in the hall as conformists to the majority viewpoint."

RINGMASTER—There's food for a second—and a third and a fourth — thought in these words. What gave this house some unease was the way Lyndon Johnson bossed the convention. From both a personal and a political point of view, of course, he'd been crazy if he hadn't taken supreme charge. But the aftertaste would have been better had he permitted those who disagreed with him to participate in the proceedings.

So-called liberals of both parties loudly acclaimed the dissenters at San Francisco who fought up to the eleventh hour to thwart Barry Goldwater. To these citizens, Bill Scranton was a hero and so was Nelson Rockefeller. Meanwhile, Goldwater was denounced for tyrannizing the convention.

KENNEDY'S WAY—Well, the situations were not quite identical. Sure, Goldwater ran the convention—just as John Kennedy did in Los Angeles in 1960. He treated his opponents with contempt on the rare occasions he noticed them. But he let them have their bitter say and he let them cast their bitter votes. And he did not throw them out of the Cow Palace.

At Atlantic City, the bosses' explanation for their tyranny was that they had to present a united front to the nation. Very well, sirs, but Goldwater also wanted as much unity as he could fashion—he knew he'd need the Scrantons and the Rockefellers and the Nixons. But he didn't try to get unity by expelling these men from the party.

RIGHT TO DISAGREE—It seems to me it's implicit in what they call the American Way that dissidents be protected. An honest and sincere delegate may go to a convention knowing that his conscience will not permit him to support a certain candidate because he believes that candidate is a bum. He should not be forced to swear he'll support that candidate as the dishonest price for the right to take part in the convention which is already his.

More important, however, the country needs its dissenters, especially in politics. They are the men and women who keep the majority reasonably honest. They are the ones who ask the embarrassing questions and bring out into the light of day issues the majority would just as soon not talk about.

A few short years ago, the Negro struggled, often in vain, for the right to be heard. White citizens of Mississippi and Alabama are entitled to fight for that same right.

Views of Others

CBS THROWS A CURVE

Now that Columbia Broadcasting system has bought the New York Yankees for a reported 10 million dollars one wonders if future contracts will include a clause requiring a player to shave exclusively in CBS commercials. Will bonuses for signing be paid primarily for prowess at the bat or for good looks, acting ability and a fine head of hair on which to apply non-greasy materials?

National Broadcasting company, and possibly American Broadcasting company, as well, certainly won't let CBS have the only inside voice in major league dispensation of lucrative broadcasting rights. With baseball ownership ranks breached, the networks certainly will try to buy professional football teams also. They have to keep their viewers and sponsor revenues in fall and winter, as well as in summer.

Walter Cronkite may not be another Casey Stengel, but it is logical that, if past TV tactics are followed, some photogenic anchorman will be developed to rule the Yankee squad and march dramatically out to the mound in a moment of crisis. If NBC buys a team, it may want a battery as clever and well publicized as Huntley and Brinkley. Brinkley's equivalent would do the pitching, naturally.

The broadcasting tail has long wagged the political dog: political conventions are organized especially for maximum TV exposure, and elections are decided by the television pundits long before all the votes are cast. Sports broadcasting, which began modestly in the early days of radio, in large part supports professional baseball and football and even the colleges clamor for the electronic moolah. Taking over actual ownership of the country's most successful baseball club was a natural development in the increasing dependence on television.

CBS leads at the end of the first inning. NBC and maybe ABC undoubtedly will try to even the score. The U.S. supreme court, which ruled that baseball was a sport and not a business, has struck out ignominiously.—The Oregonian.

SILVER DOLLARS ONCE AGAIN

We leave to savants of the dismal science all learned disquisitions on the effects of the decision to mint more silver dollars. No doubt something that gives so many of us innocent pleasure is iniquitous and damaging to the national economy in some obscure way. Or, we are braced to learn, the decision by congress to replenish the silver coffers was dictated by some wicked local interests, or perhaps in accord with some economic theorem that modern thinkers dismiss as crackpot.

As we say, we don't care. We do know that the silver cartwheel is an esthetic delight—a gleaming disk of metal which feels as if it is really worth a dollar. We also know that part of the folklore of the Far West rests on these dollars of the same sort that Wild Bill Hickok must have slammed on the table when he was playing poker in Deadwood and drew the dead man's hand.

Silver dollars have a pleasant clink in the pocket, and give the owner an agreeable ballast of affluence. These coins are superb gifts for deserving nephews and small fry in the neighborhood.

When they are mint-new they look like pleasing medallions. When they are worn and old, they carry the freight of tradition and evoke the past of our republic and recall the days when political campaigns spun around the silver cartwheel.

And now, for the first time since 1935, the mint will again be enriching this silver vein in our moneys. Don't tell us that someone in the silver states will make an indecent profit on it all. We don't care.—Washington Post.

THE HIGHRISE EGGHEADS' BLOOPER

Laughter, as Max Eastman pointed out, often involves a sense of the incongruous and sometimes a feeling of joy when the top-lofty are toppled.

Which explains why the good people of Strasbourg, France, are laughing and laughing. The university there built a 16-story science center, presumably from designs by gifted engineers and architects. But the top of the building sways too much for the delicate instruments and the city's water pressure won't push the water supply above the sixth floor. So the top 10 floors remain unoccupied.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

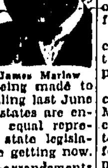
". . . She never eats lunch and settles for just a small dinner, but then she's eating practically all day."

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

Interpreting the News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP) — The supreme court, which has moved into vacuums congress wouldn't fill, is getting its own particular kind of backlash from politicians.



James Marlow

In a struggle now over curbing the court's powers members of congress have themselves as boxed in they may be here another month although they could use the time in election campaigning.

An attempt is being made to undo the court's ruling last June that voters in the states are entitled to far more equal representation in their state legislatures than they are getting now.

Example: Under arrangements unchanged for more than half a century in some states a relatively small number of people in one district, especially country district, can elect one legislator while four times as many people squeezed into a single district elsewhere can elect only one.

The court said representation in both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis of "one person, one vote," and federal courts have the job to see it's done.

The present attempt to undercut the authority and range of the court is looked upon as so dangerous by opponents of the effort that one of them, Rep. Emanuel Cellar, D., N.Y., said "it could wind up rendering the court a nullity, destroying our Republican system of government."

The powerful court over the past 10 years has infuriated one group after another with decisions ranging from a ban on segregation to a ban on official prayers in public schools. It inflamed the politicians — some of them — by its decision on state legislatures.

The politicians and political machines which hold power in state legislatures where representation is not on an equal population basis naturally don't want any changes that would cost them jobs or power.

Some people, not directly involved, may feel the court over-reached itself. But the Republicans at their convention this year responded to the opposition to the court ruling by putting into their platform a promise in support of: "A constitutional amendment, as well as legislation, enabling states having bicameral two-house legislatures to apportion one house on bases of their own choosing, including factors other than population."

This would take away the court's power to order reapportionment of both houses on a population basis.

A week after the Republican convention in July Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader of the senate, attempted to carry out the platform promise by introducing a proposed constitutional amendment in congress.

But there wouldn't be time to act on it this year, since congress is coming to an end. It would have to wait till next year. So as an interim move Dirksen made this proposal in the form of a bill to be passed this year: Delay any court orders on reapportionment for about two years.

He didn't offer it as a bill by itself — he said he didn't think it had a chance that way — but as an amendment on the 3.5 billion dollar foreign aid authorization bill.

President Johnson is anxious to get the foreign aid money. If he vetoed the bill because of the attached Dirksen amendment, the whole thing would have to go back to congress. He very probably wouldn't veto it. That's Dirksen's strategy.

For some strange reason, although the value of people's votes are involved in all this, Johnson has said nothing, taken no stand. The Democrats in their platform played mousey by leaving out all mention of reapportionment.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader in the senate, worked out a compromise bill with Dirksen, just a little milder, and with the help of the Johnson administration's justice department.

But some members of the senate—particularly liberals led by Sen. Paul Douglas, a Democrat and like Dirksen from Illinois—wouldn't buy any part of it and are determined to fight until they kill it.

The two-year delaying action in the Dirksen bill would give congress time to approve the kind of constitutional amendment he has in mind and then perhaps time for the states to approve.

A constitutional amendment must be approved by two-thirds of house and senate and by three-fourths of the state legislatures — 38 out of 50 — or three - fourths of conventions called by the states. It is up to congress to decide which method is to be used.

If it was done by state conventions — to which delegates would be elected by the people — the voters could have a direct voice in whether they wanted reapportionment by voting for delegates who were for or against it.

But only once in American history — this was the 21st amendment ending prohibition in 1933—has an amendment submitted to the states by congress been approved by state conventions.

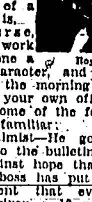
If Dirksen's amendment went to state legislatures it's not hard to imagine the politicans who stood to lose jobs or power by reapportionment would jump at the chance to approve the amendment.

Poor Man's Plato

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—Have you ever noticed how a modern business office comes to life each day?

It is something like a zoo waking up.



Boyle

Each white collar peon approaches the daily ordeal of coming to work each morning in a way that inevitably shows what kind of a person he is.

Of course, coming to work is for anyone a test of character, and if you will watch the morning parade to duty in your own office you may find some of the following characters familiar:

The Optimist—He goes immediately to the bulletin board, hoping against hope that overnight the boss has put up an announcement that everybody has been given a 10 per cent merit raise. When he doesn't find it there, he says, trying to find something to be happy about, "Well, anyway, it's only three more days until Friday."

The Hypochondriac—The first thing he does is go from desk to desk to see if anybody happened to leave a pill there from the day before. Since he doesn't really know what ails him, it is only by taking other people's medicine that he can ever find a cure.

The Senior Vice President—Long years of doing nothing while seeming to be overburdened with cares have made him the best actor in the place.

The Junior Executive — This eager beaver comes in with a briefcase bulging with memos he has written overnight on how to improve the organization. He sends them to the boss, the boss sends them unread to the senior vice president, and the senior vice president fashions the memos, still unread, into paper airplanes and sails them out the window.

The Joy Spreader — "Well, well, well—is everybody happy?" he chirps, as he makes the rounds slapping everybody on the back. Satisfied he has done all that is humanly possible to build morale, he relapses into his swivel chair and stares at the clock until quitting time.

The Office Grouch—He growls as he hangs up his coat and rolls up his sleeves. For 30 years he has come to work half an hour early, so he could spend a longer day hating his fellow workers.

The Neater-Upper—Tidiness is his god. "Everything has its proper place," he mumbles as he gets a dust rag and starts polishing his desk. If he finds one of his paper clips is missing, he mopes about it until lunch time.

Mr. Big Himself — The boss, having lost a breakfast argument with his wife, arrives in no mood for cheery hellos. He needs to have his feeling of authority bolstered. A look of unholy joy comes across his face as he looks at the row of buzzers on his desk, each standing for one of his executives.

He reaches gleefully toward the buzzers as he says aloud to himself, "Who'll I scare first?"

Another office day has begun —with business as usual.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

President Charles de Gaulle further sabotages Europe's Common Market, enlivening it like a skunk at a garden party. Italy falters in the boom. Structural strains increase.

Henry J. Taylor

Al Capone used to say: "We don't want no trouble." He was doing best without it. The Kremlin is repeating this to Europe and to Washington. And that strategy has become the most disruptive clog in the Common Market machinery.

Khrushchev is saying that heaven can wait. He's providing it now: peace and a relaxation of tensions. His stance is as dangerous as was Al Capone's. And Washington is helping the danger mightily by putting a good face on the Soviet Union at every turn.

European unity under the so-called New Europeans has thus undergone a great change behind the scenes. Little of our political thinking has adjusted to this. Neither has our boom-psychology nor our expanding investments abroad.

The Common Market garden party began under five leaders pressing for European integration—France's Jean Monnet and Robert Schuman, Italy's Alcide de Gasperi, Germany's Konrad Adenauer and Belgium's Paul-Henri Spaak. The results bloomed in the 1948-58 decade. The New Europeans then talked as though a United States of Europe could be built quickly—in one generation, at most.

The central fact, now widely overlooked, was that the chief urge toward all this integration arose from the Soviet threat.

That situation remains full of wild greed and savage lust for power, but the wily Soviet wisely came up with its peace offensive. The Kremlin's lion-into-lamb treachery softened up one Common Market country after another and the drive toward integration gradually weakened like a winded miler. Moreover, bureaucracy inevitably played its part.

The Common Market operates within a treaty that consists of 248 articles and is administered in Brussels by more than 5,000 people. The setup is intensely bureaucratic; "Beamtenstaat," as the Germans say and as the headquarters is now widely known.

The Soviet knew that the Europeans are not really prepared to jump immediately from the national into the European era.

Europe contains two main political traditions: one derives from Roman law, the other from German common law. The Roman evolution dominates the political doctrines of the Latin countries led by France, Italy, Spain and Belgium. The other is the root of most continental doctrines of the Latin countries led by France, Italy, Spain and Belgium. The other is the root of most continental doctrines elsewhere. It is translated now in the spirit, and approximately the structure, of the old German political institutions like the "Genossenschaft" a sort of cooperative society.

In truth, the Common Market idea, on the economic side, was not new in either France or German spheres of influence. It was the idea of political integration—which comprises the bottom third of the Rome treaty that contains the Common Market provision—that is unique and which many felt guaranteed the Common Market's success.

But in actual practice, under the Soviet peace offensive, old feelings, preferences and prejudices have emerged, symbolized by a famous Swiss story:

A teacher asked a little boy who was the first man on Earth.

"William Tell!"

"Think again," the teacher said.

"William Tell!" repeated the boy.

"And what about Adam?" asked the teacher.

"Oh, yes, sir—if you include the foreigners."

This resistance to coordination flows through the wars and through the centuries. The Soviet peace offensive cashes in on it exactly as it is cashing in on Washington's nonresistance in another way. The result leaves our foreign policy as confused as a punch-drunk pug fighting himself in the movies.

This column recently stated that what Khrushchev wanted President Kennedy to do was not to make peace as the late President understood it, but to make the President stop resisting the U.S.S.R. and seal the status quo, plus much more. He wants the same with President Johnson.

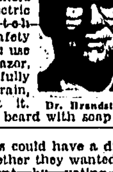
What we are seeing here and abroad is the Soviet technique of gradualism. Accustom people to retreating and you can gradually dominate exactly the economic and military resistances that bloomed under threats but fade when the lion merely dresses himself like a lamb.

The Doctor Says

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Q—I am a 16-year-old boy and I have acne pretty bad. What is the best way to shave and not make it worse?

A—There is no one method that is best for everyone. But most boys find an electric shaver easiest on the skin. Others try the electric then switch back to a safety razor. If you use a safety razor, shave carefully with the grain, not against it. Soften your beard with soap and hot water before you start. If your beard is not too heavy, shave only once or twice a week.



Dr. Brandstadt

After shaving rinse with cold water and apply an astringent antiseptic solution.

Q—Is there such a thing as a carrier of a venereal disease? If a man had gotten such a disease from a woman wouldn't she know she had this disease?

A—If by "carrier" you mean a person who has a venereal disease in the contagious stage but does not know there is anything amiss, the answer is yes. Women are much more likely to have infectious syphilis or gonorrhea without symptoms than are men. In case of doubt it is best to have a blood test.

Q—I have been having severe pains that run from my nose over my eye, down my neck and out to my shoulder. My doctor says I have Sluder's headache but so far as I'm concerned he can have it back. What causes these headaches?

A—Sluder's neuralgia is a type of facial neuralgia that is caused by chronic infection of the nasal sinuses. As with other forms of neuralgia, drugs taken by mouth give very little relief. Injecting the nerve root with hot water or alcohol should help you. If the effect wears off too quickly a more permanent type of relief can be obtained by having the nerve root cut across completely.

"My partner's queen of clubs held the first trick and he continued the suit. Declarer won the second club, drew trumps, ruffed the last club, played out all his diamonds winding up in dummy. Then he led the ten of spades. My partner was in with the jack and had to give him either a ruff and discard or lead back a spade. South made four hearts for a top score while other South players made either three no-trump or found a way to go down at four hearts."

Do you see why other players went down at four hearts? Joe didn't, but Joe could have beaten the hand. He should have played his king of clubs on his partner's queen. If declarer ducked Joe could have led back a spade and West would have had several safe escape or out cards. If declarer won the trick it would have been up to Joe to rise with the ten of clubs the next time the suit was played and lead the spade as before. Eating of War Dogs Report Is Unfounded

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Sept. 3 (UPI)—A U. S. military spokesman today denied press reports that 300 war dogs bought and trained at a cost of $100,000—to protect U. S. camps—have been eating Vietnamese villagers.

That would work out a cost to the American taxpayer of about $450 a pound, compared to the 20 cents a pound which is the going price for dog meat in the Saigon market.

However, the American spokesman said the report was unfounded "as far as we can determine."

The English-language Saigon Post said 200 dogs had been flown to Saigon from Germany on commercial airliners, put through six weeks of training and airlifted to tribal villages for sentry duty.

When dog handlers returned to the villages a few weeks later, they found that most of the animals had ended up in family cooking pots, the Post claimed.

The Post headlined its story "Costly counter-insurgency brainstorm goes to pot."

While denying the story, the American spokesman did reveal that the United States has so far supplied 330 war dogs for the civil war against the communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

He said 100 were on duty with scout platoons, 170 worked with sentries at military installations and 60 were still in training.

He said it cost $580 to put a war dog into action, not counting the cost of his training. The dog himself costs $235. His leashes, muzzles, blankets and other equipment cost $100, his vaccinations and medical care, $45, and air freight charges, $100.

Department Glad About Draft Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The defense department said yesterday it is glad Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater says the draft should be voted. But I said President Johnson already is working toward that goal.

The Pentagon said, however, it was irresponsible to talk of ending the draft before an adequate volunteer military force could be assured. With enough volunteers, it said, the draft would be "ended today."

Goldwater, in his opening campaign speech Thursday at Prescott, Ariz., said, "Republicans will end the draft altogether, and as soon as possible. That I promise you."

"Republicans understand that the military forces need trained volunteers who make the military service a career," the Arizona senator said. "Republicans understand that the purpose of the military forces is not social, or political—it is to help keep the peace of the world."

Goldwater accused the Johnson administration of using the "military services for political and social schemes" with the resulting possibility of a "drift closer to war on an ebbing tide of military strength."

T. F. Clinic, Kiwanis Club Provide Guidance Exhibit

Another opportunity in vocational guidance is being provided for junior and senior high school students of Twin Falls school district 411.

The Twin Falls Clinic hospital and Twin Falls Kiwanis club are assisting the school district with a lighted display featuring the various facets to be entered in the area of medicine.

The clinic, represented by Dr. Joseph W. Marshall, presented the Kiwanis vocational guidance committee and school district with the exhibit.

The presentation was made Thursday noon at the regular Kiwanis meeting in the American Legion hall.

Boyd Lowe, director of guidance for the school system, will supervise the use of the hospital display. It will be transported to the different schools throughout the year.

The object of the visual display unit is to direct attention of the young student to the 60 to 75 different vocations in hospital training. This, in turn, points out the variety of opportunities in other fields.

Unemployed Teen-Agers Many in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—There are three times as many unemployed teen-agers as there are any other classification of jobs-seekers and they are largely responsible for a rise in unemployment in August to 5.1 per cent.

For the first time in 54 months unemployment had dropped in July to below five per cent. But the decline to 4.9 per cent was wiped out when the usual drop in teen-age unemployment in August failed to materialize last month.

Heads of families and other adults continued at the lowest level of joblessness in seven years. And the number of unemployed actually dropped by 160,000.

What sent the seasonally adjusted jobless rate up again was that teen-age joblessness usually declines 200,000 in August—40,000 more than the case this year.

Harold Goldstein, a spokesman for the bureau of labor statistics, said the rising influx of teen-agers in the labor market is likely to heighten the unemployment problem in the next few years "if there isn't an offsetting increase in demand."

Burley Pair to Attend Confab

BURLEY, Sept. 4—The Rev. and Mrs. Glenn A. Koch of the Zion Lutheran church, Burley, will travel to Seattle Sunday afternoon to attend a mission workshop there on the campus of Seattle Pacific college.

The workshop will include theory, practical application and doctrinal review in addition to giving those involved an opportunity to exchange notes and materials.

"The tempo for Lutheran growth in the Northwest is increasing steadily and such programs as these help to insure that this growth be achieved and reinforced in such a way that it is permanent and healthy," he stated.

"There is no problem in getting members, but there is a problem in getting spiritually converted, educated, and dedicated members of Christ. This is our objective and this is the purpose of the workshop."

Camp Bradley Report Given At Meeting

HAILEY, Sept. 4—At a court of honor for members of Boy Scout troop 6 Tuesday evening in St. Charles hall, Scoutmaster Thomas Rice and Assistant Scoutmaster Grant Patterson reported on the troop's trip to Camp Bradley.

In telling of the outstanding conduct of the troop members they reported that Kenneth Patterson was the only Scout of the almost 1,000 boys who attended camp this summer who received the life saving award. Out of the eight boys who received the mile swim award three were from troop 6—Steve Shirts, who also received the award last year, and Gregg and Jeff Garatea.

Stanley Bird told briefly of his trip to the national Scout jamboree, Valley Forge, Pa.

Theodore Broyles, advancement chairman, was in charge of ceremonies.

Patterson presented tenderfoot and second class badges to James Warren. He presented second class badges to Steve Breneman, Thomas Bridges, Lynn Dowdy, James Patterson, Robert Miller, Lynn Fife, Gregg Casco and Jay Dorr.

Snake River area council badges went to Bill Brooks, Gregg Cisco, James Warren, Harold Nelson and Kenneth and Dennis Patterson.

A 50-miler award was presented by Fica to Oliver Adams, and he in turn presented awards to the boys who took the trip under his supervision, Kenneth Patterson, Dennis Patterson, Lawrence Barber, Alan Brooks, Steven Shirts, Robert Nicholsen, Harold Nelson, Dan Cutler and Harmon Adams.

Mrs. Buster Bridges, assisted by Mrs. Lyle Breneman, Mrs. Keith Bird and Mrs. Hazel Barber, was in charge of serving refreshments.

7 Men Hurt As Concrete Floor Falls

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)—At least seven workmen were injured today when a concrete floor being poured in the National Press club building collapsed.

The accident was in the space formerly occupied by the Capitol theater and now being converted into offices.

Five of the men, not believed to be seriously injured, were taken to George Washington University hospital. The others received skin abrasions and bruises.

The area, about 20 feet square, was a tangle of steel rods and fresh cement. A construction superintendent said he did not know how many men were pouring cement when the floor collapsed. He said he believed the floor may have caved in because the braces gave way.

A police inspector said he had been informed that none of the construction workers are missing.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The meows of a cat stranded two days atop a three-story building was too much for one sympathetic man.

The embarrassed man declined to give his name. The cat's name is Tabby.

2 Men Die In Truck, Bus Mishap

BILLINGS, Sept. 4 (UPI)—Two men were killed and a third person injured last night in a pickup truck-school bus collision on U. S. 87 just east of here.

The victims were removed from the truck after wrecking equipment was used to rip the battered vehicle apart.

Yellowstone county coroner Mel Boice said he was withholding the names of the victims until the relatives were notified.

Taken to Deaconess hospital was Billy Roether, 20, Billings, believed to be a rider in the truck. A hospital spokesman said he received chest injuries, but he was not believed to be critically hurt and was responding to treatment.

The two vehicles apparently were traveling in opposite directions at the time of the crash.

T. F. Man Gets Award at Army Camp

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Sept. 4 — A Twin Falls man was named "best soldier" of southern Idaho's 372nd Quartermaster battalion during the two-week annual summer active duty training which ended here Saturday and eight Magic Valley army reservists graduated from special schools held in conjunction with the annual summer camp.

PFC Larry D. Rountree, route 2, Twin Falls, was selected as the battalion's best soldier from the nearly 200 officers and enlisted men in the battalion in attendance at the camp. The award certificate is presented each year to a reservist who is attending his first summer camp.

The award was made by Maj. Gen. Michael Kauffman, commander of the 96th Infantry division, Fort Douglas, Utah.

General Kauffman was featured speaker Friday afternoon during graduation services for students attending the two-week non-commissioned officers academy. All five of the Magic Valley reservists enrolled in the academy graduated from the special school.

They are Sgt. George R. Stocker and Pvt. John T. Kinsey, both Twin Falls; Sp 4/c. Robert R. Jensen, Kimberly, and Sp. 4/c. Byron G. Hardy and PFC Richard G. Williams, both Oakley.

General Kauffman remarked that NCOs are "the backbone of any unit," and stressed that training received during the school is invaluable to the reservists' home units. He said candidates selected to attend the school were picked because of their potential as officers and leaders.

Other Magic Valley men who attended special schools during the summer camp were S/Sgt. Granvill P. McAlister, Rupert, who attended the week-long equipment records system course, and S/Sgt. Albert L. Hoover, Twin Falls, who attended the week-long chemical-biological-radiological school which lasted two weeks.

First week of CBR instruction included chemical and biological warfare, nerve, blood and blister agents, use of protective masks, and both how to use gas in warfare as well as how to protect against it.

During the second week there were demonstrations and practical exercises on radiological calculations and fallout prediction.

Sergeant Hoover, commenting on training received during the two-week CBR course, said Friday evening that if civilians attended the class it would dispel their fears of atomic and gas warfare.

Reed's body was found by a road the day after he vanished from a teen-age party.

IDAHO FALLS, Sept. 4 (UPI)—Law enforcement officers throughout the Northwest were on the lookout today for Dana Frazier, a forgery suspect who walked out of the Bonneville county jail when two officers turned their backs. The sheriff's office said Sheriff A. E. Heslop and two of his deputies were in the jail kitchen across the hall from the main offices when Frazier, waiting to be jailed on a forgery charge, got up and walked out. Frazier recently was returned here from Texas to face the charge.

BOISE, Sept. 4 (UPI)—Teachers of the Boise school district were complimented yesterday by their superintendent for the "leadership role they assumed two years ago" which, he said, possibly averted a teachers' strike. "I would like to compliment the Boise teachers," Supt. T. C. Bird said, "for the outstanding leadership role they assumed two years ago. I feel that if it hadn't been for the Boise teachers, we might have had considerable trouble.

BOISE, Sept. 4 (UPI)—A request to have Latah county declared a disaster area because of weather damage to crops was in the hands of the state agriculture department for investigation today. State Rep. George Hicks, D., Latah, asked Gov. Robert E. Smylie and Rep. Compton I. White, jr., D., Ida., yesterday to take steps to have the county declared a disaster area.

CALDWELL, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The U. S. agriculture department says the Boise Valley Livestock Commission company, Caldwell, has been accused of violating the packers and stockyard act. A complaint alleges the firm engaged in unfair and deceptive prices in livestock marketing during March, April and May of this year. The firm operates as the OK Livestock market.

BOISE, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The state health department today reported that drowning had claimed 34 lives in Idaho during the first six months of the year. It said water wings, rubber rafts and inner tubes can be hazards to unskilled swimmers by giving them a false sense of security. The department said non-swimmers should always wear life jackets while boating, and be accompanied by swimmers. It said all boaters should be skilled in first aid and mouth-to-mouth rescue breathing. It said boaters should take a swimming and water safety course.

MOUNTAIN HOME, Sept. 4 (UPI)—A Mountain Home jeweler under indictment on a state charge of filing a fraudulent income tax return was found dead in his home early today. Sheriff Earl Winter said V. J. Rowett, about 40, apparently died of a self-inflicted wound. There was a bullet wound in his head and a pistol was found nearby.

White House Keeps Close Tabs on Contract Dispute in Auto Industry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The White House is keeping close tabs on the simmering dispute over a new contract in the superbooming auto industry.

President Johnson's eyes and ears on the scene in Detroit belong to William E. Simkin, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service.

Simkin has quietly departed for the Motor City to keep tabs on negotiations during the critical days preceding the Wednesday deadline set by the United Auto Workers (UAW) for a new pact with Chrysler corporation.

Top presidential advisers obviously are concerned that a long strike against any of the "big three" auto producers might disrupt the nation's surging economic advance in the midst of the election campaign.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the UAW, is a strong Johnson supporter. He clearly does not want to embarrass the chief executive if he can reach an acceptable agreement in an industry enjoying record-high profits.

Yet the union's demands are costly — especially those asking more relief time for assembly-line production workers — and the chances for a walkout are not ruled out by any means.

Chrysler, ranking behind General Motors and Ford in car sales, has been selected by the union as the pace-setter in the bargaining because it has less ability to withstand a long strike.

Since car production is at a record level, none of the firms want to trigger a strike by an adamant stand.

That may explain the somewhat generous "first offer" placed on the table by Chrysler and the other two companies in talks with the UAW so far. Although it has been ridiculed as impossibly low by Reuther, it represents a package of wage-fringe improvements valued at 35 cents per man-hour during a three-year contract period.

That would be slightly less than a three per cent increase for the auto worker — who now makes an average three dollars an hour and has about one dollar an hour in fringe benefits.

Wage settlements in recent years typically have ranged between 2.5 and 3.5 per cent of the payroll.

Reuther has contended that the auto companies can afford much more generous settlements because of their high profits in the third consecutive year of producing seven million or more cars.

Johnson's advisers, however, are worried that any fat package negotiated by the UAW will become a pattern for other labor-management settlements this year and in 1965.

Other firms may not be so profitable, and may have to raise prices to cover the cost increases, these advisers contend.

A Reuther-led effort to score a breakthrough in early retirement is viewed more sympathetically in Washington.

In part this may be because the exact costs of such a program are hard to calculate and the pattern is not so clear for other industries.

Although Johnson is keenly interested in the outcome of the talks, he is being advised to stay in the background and not intervene publicly in the bargaining.

Injured Man Files Suit

BOISE, Sept. 4 (UPI)—A Pocatello man has sued the J. R. Simplot company and the Argonaut Insurance company in federal court here for $217,000.

Gene H. Adams, a former employe of the J. R. Simplot Gay Phosphate mine at Fort Hall, said he has been unable to work since rock and corrugated iron fell on him beneath a conveyor leading to the company's crusher at the mine.

Adams, 28, said Argonaut discontinued compensation payments of $45 a week last July 10. He said he can not live on the $45 a week he still receives under the workmen's compensation law.

Wilma Ayers, Walker Recite Nuptial Vows

BUHL, Sept. 4 — Nuptial vows were recited in an evening candlelight ceremony Aug. 14 in the Buhl First Christian church by Wilma Jean Ayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ayers, and Larry L. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Walker, all Buhl.

The Rev. Delmar M. Talley solemnized the double ring wedding rites. Gold candelabra with lighted white tapers flanked by beauty baskets of apricot-colored gladioli tied with ornate variegated apricot satin bows formed the background setting for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a traditional white gown of embroidered tulle over taffeta. A scalloped V portrait neckline and lily point sleeves accented at the wrists with miniature self covered buttons were features of the fitted bodice. The bouffant floor-length skirt was enhanced with a scalloped hemline. The gown was made by the bride's mother.

A pearl studded tiara released her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with a cascading spray of apricot-colored baby roses encircling a large white orchid.

Her jewelry was a gold and pearl necklace with matching earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

For tokens of sentiment, she borrowed the wedding dress belonging to her sister, Mrs. Richard Bencken, wore a blue garter made for her by her sister, Diana Ayers, and carried a silk handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

Mrs. Richard Bencken, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a deep apricot-colored satin floor-length gown designed with a fitted bodice with soft pleat accents at the sides and back of the skirt. She carried a single large chrysanthemum adorned with net and streamers.

Mrs. Ronald Foukal, sister of the bridegroom, and Diana Ayers, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore deep apricot-colored floor-length gowns and carried chrysanthemum bouquets fashioned similar to that of the matron of honor.

Stephany Foukal, niece of the bridegroom, gowned in an apricot-colored floor-length gown styled faimilar to that of the other attendants, was flower girl. She carried a decorative white basket trimmed with satin ribbon from which she scattered apricot-colored rose petals.

Rocky Joe Bencken, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin pillow edged with lace.

Donald Ayers, brother of the bride, was best man. Kerm Douglas and Forest Johnson, Hazelton, were ushers and candlelighters.

The bride's mother wore a teal blue cotton and linen three-piece ensemble with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a two-piece beige dinner dress with beige accessories. Each wore a corsage of coral-colored carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table featured a white lace tablecloth undercored with orange and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. The cake, iced in white, was embellished with touches of apricot on lattice work, butterflies, apricot-colored doves bearing wedding bands and topped with a cluster of large white wedding bells against a background of tulle and lilies of the valley. Salmon-colored gladioli surrounded the base of the cake.

Silver candelabra with white tapers and silver and crystal appointments completed table arrangements. Mrs. Orlin Freeman and Mrs. Harold Ayers cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. George Saijo served coffee and Mrs. Harry Davis poured punch.

Mrs. Jack Hopwood, Mrs. Donald Dann and Mrs. Darrell McRoberts presided at the gift table. Iriend Walker, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a two-piece green and white knit suit with beige accessories and the white orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Buhl high school and Links school of Business, Boise. She is employed at the Idaho First National bank, Buhl.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Valley high school and served four years with the marine corps. He is employed at the GAC Finance company, Twin Falls. The couple resides at 420 Eighth avenue north, Buhl.

Out-of-town guests attended from Nebraska, Burley, Twin Falls, Boise and Hazelton.

The bride was feted at a prenuptial shower at the home of Mrs. Richard Bencken, with Mrs. George Saijo and Mrs. Clarence Bencken as co-hostesses, and a shower at the First Christian church, with women of the church as hostesses.

The double-ring nuptials were solemnized by the Rev. Norman E. Stockwell, Longview, formerly of the Twin Falls Episcopal church of the Ascension. Altar baskets of marconi daisies formed the background decorations for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, recited vows in a street-length sheath gown of white raw silk, with an exquisite full-length coat of gros point de Viennese lace. A circlet of satin rosebuds released her halo veil of sheer illusion. She carried an ornate bouquet of shattered white daisies entwined with ivy.

Her jewelry included an opal dinner ring, a bracelet of pearls and chain, gifts from the bridegroom, and opal earrings. For tokens of sentiment, she wore a blue garter, a gift from a sorority sister, Rosalee Mjaio, and carried a white lace handkerchief, a gift from Mrs. Walter Olson.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Frank Bevington, the bridegroom's mother.

The bride's mother was attired in a turquoise linen dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a pink eyelet dress with matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of white daisies.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. R. H. Young, Parma, chose a pink and rose dinner dress. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. S. G. Bonstead, wore a gray figured afternoon dress. Each wore a corsage of white daisies.

A wedding eucharist for the bridal couple followed the ceremony.

A luncheon was served following the service in the Fireside room of Bart's restaurant, Longview, hosted by the bride's parents. Tables were decorated with floral arrangements of white daisies. The bride's table featured a two-tiered wedding cake adorned with a base of summer daisies and topped with a nosegay of daisies enhanced with satin ribbons.

Shirley Young and Mary Anne Young, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Young, jr., Nampa, cousins of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake, assisted by Mrs. Walter Olson, Buhl.

For her wedding trip, the new Mrs. Bevington selected a navy blue linen two-piece ensemble accented with red and white braid trim and red accessories.

The bride attended Filer schools, the College of Idaho and was graduated from the University of Idaho. She is affiliated with the Delta Delta Delta sorority. The bridegroom attended Nampa school and is a graduate of the University of Idaho, where he was affiliated with the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

The couple resides at Hilltowne apartments, 1252 Walpert street, apartment B-23, Hayward, Calif. The bridegroom is employed by Wells Fargo bank, Hayward, and the bride will teach language arts in the Hayward junior high school.

The morning preceding the wedding, a brunch was held at the home of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Stockwell, Longview, assisted by their children, Peter, John and Susan. A rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was held at the Longview Country club, hosted by the bridegroom's parents. Preceding the wedding, an informal coffee hour at the Miramar Motor inn was hosted by Mrs. Walter Olson and Howard Parish.

Truck Burns Fighting Another Fire

"MIDDLE WALLOP, England, Sept. 4 (UPI)—First came the fire truck to put out the fire in farmer Charles Trueman's barley field. Then came more firemen to put out the fire in the fire truck.

Neither succeeded. Both the field and the fire truck burned to a crisp.

Trueman said the first truck had just arrived when a fireman knocked on his door. "Can we ring for another fire engine?" he asked. "Our engine is on fire."

"I just couldn't stop laughing," Trueman said later. Officials said the fire truck was parked in the barley field and caught fire when the wind changed.

TWO PLANES COLLIDE

QUINCY, Wash., Sept. 4 (UPI)—Two single-engine crop-dusting planes collided over Columbia basin fields at sunset yesterday, killing one of the pilots. The other pilot escaped unhurt.

Hazards

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Sept. 4 (UPI) — Trying to paddle a surfboard 446 miles from San Francisco to Los Angeles has its share of hazards—take it from Larry Capuns, 22, who is attempting to do it.

"I see sharks every day," he said. "Today there were some seals that tried to knock me over, but they were just playing."

4-Room Office Suite Leased to Mrs. Kennedy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The federal government said yesterday it has leased a four-room office suite for Mrs. John F. Kennedy in New York City.

General Services Administrator Bernard L. Boutin said the office presently was occupied by Mrs. Kennedy's staff and will be used "for answering thousands of letters about the late President which Mrs. Kennedy is continuing to receive."

TODAY'S TELEVISION SCHEDULES

SATURDAY, SEPT. 5

"Summer Playhouse," (7:30 p.m. CBS)—George Clobel is manager of Hyde Apartment House," title of tonight's comedy and residence of quite a few odd tenants including Fred MacMurray, Steve Allen and William Frawley.

"The Defenders," (9 p.m. CBS)—Jeremy Slate is featured in a drama about a young man accused of being a fortune hunter and of murdering his friend.

BEST SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIES

"The Naked Spur," (Color, 1953) James Stewart, Janet Leigh and Robert Ryan (7 p.m. KUTV and KIFI)—Exciting, fast-paced western involving an angry rancher, an elderly prospector and a retired army officer who band together to track down a killer.

"They Died With Their Boots On," (1941) Errol Flynn and Olivia DeHavilland (9:30 p.m. KUTV)—It's Custer and the famous battle of Little Big Horn with enough action for every male extra in Hollywood to get shot. Not too accurate, of course, but a good western.

"It Should Happen to You," (1953) Judy Holliday, Jack Lemmon and Peter Lawford (10:30 p.m. KMVT)—Riotous comedy about a model who rents a billboard overlooking a busy intersection in New York City and becomes a celebrity sight unseen. Judy is delightful as Gladys Glover, the unemployed model, and Jack Lemmon made his screen debut in this very funny flicker.

MARKETS AND FINANCE

Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—Late gains by selected issues bolstered a rise as the stock market closed higher today. Trading as moderate.

Boeing jumped more than 2 points, New York Central nearly 2 and Schering more than a point.

The irregular and cautious pre-Labor day session produced enough selective advances by key stocks to push the list higher on average.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.1 million shares compared with 4.31 million Thursday.

A wide range of selected issues made gains of a point or more. For most key stocks it was a scrambled picture of fractional gains and losses.

Scattered blue chips firmed the averages. United Aircraft and Du Pont advanced more than a point each. U. S. Steel and Union Carbide added fractions.

Despite the threat of a strike next Wednesday, auto stocks were fairly firm on balance. Ford rose nearly a point. Chrysler added a fraction. General Motors eased from its historic high.

Gains of a point or better were made by Singer, Lukens Steel, and Mack Trucks.

Eerox, Control Data and Polaroid sank a point or more.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were higher in quiet trading.

Corporate bands were higher; governments declined.

Youth Cited in Rupert Accident

RUPERT, Sept. 4—Thomas R. Caldwell, 17, Rupert, was cited for reckless driving after a one-car accident Wednesday afternoon one mile west of Rupert on highway 30.

Sheriff's officers investigating the accident reported the driver apparently approached the intersection at a high rate of speed and then attempted to make a left turn. He lost control of the 1964 Chevrolet he was driving and the vehicle left the road, striking a telephone pole.

Damage to the Chevrolet was listed at $300 to the right front end.

Passengers in the car included Tom Cook, 14; David Chase, 13, and Mike Caldwell, 14. There were no injuries.

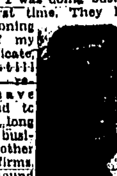
The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE



Doyle

Q. About nine weeks ago I bought some stock through a new, small investment house, with which I was doing business for the first time. They have kept postponing delivery of my stock certificate, which I still have not received. I have never had to wait this long when I did business with other brokerage firms. Does this sound as if something fishy is going on and what can I do about it? Also, will I be protected if fraud is involved?

A. A nine-week wait for delivery of a stock certificate is a mighty long time. We're assuming, of course, that you instructed the broker to deliver the certificate to you.

Many people do leave their stock certificates with their brokers. And some brokerage firms just take it for granted that their customers don't want to take possession of their stock certificates — unless the customers shout about it.

You became the owner of the stock on the date you bought it. But delivery of the certificate to you can take some time. And, sometimes, there can be foul-ups.

The person who sold the stock you bought must send the stock to his broker in "good delivery" form—properly endorsed, etc. That broker sends it to the transfer agent. From there it goes to the registrar, back to the transfer agent, to your broker and then to you. You will receive a new certificate, registered in your name.

All this may take a couple of weeks. But nine weeks? You have reason to crinkle your nose and suspect the aroma of cod.

I would suggest that you ask your broker about it, politely, just one more time. If you get no reasonable explanation, pound on a few desks.

Then, if the brokerage firm is a member of a stock exchange, complain to that stock exchange. If that firm is not a stock exchange member, you will have to take your case to the National association of Securities dealers. And you might also be wise to alert the local authorities—district attorney's or prosecutor's office.

The answer to your final question is that, if the brokerage firm is a member of the New York Stock exchange, you are protected against fraud by the "broker's fidelity bond" every member of that exchange is required to carry. Many non-NYSE firms have similar bonding arrangements.

Q. My husband bought for me 50 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph stock at a brokerage firm with which he was doing business. The account there is in a terrible mixup. They claim they made an overpayment in the account. My husband says that, if they did, he would repay same, providing that the New York Stock exchange audits the account.

That brokerage firm refuses to transfer my 50 shares of AT&T to me or to any other brokerage firm. What would you suggest I do?

A. Contact the department of member firms, New York Stock exchange, 11 Wall street, New York 5, N.Y. That department checks into complaints against members of the exchange and has a reputation for doing a good job.

Q. I have been told that, under the new tax bill passed by congress earlier this year and since signed into law by the President, it is possible to sell stocks and other capital assets and not pay taxes on capital gains—as long as those profits do not exceed $20,000 a year. Is this correct?

A. Nope. Profits realized from the sale of capital assets are still taxable as capital gains. You can get the sad news on this from any internal revenue service office, or when you figure out your 1964 federal income tax return.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

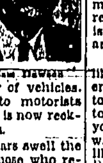
Business Mirror

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP) — Americans start their last long week-end of the summer this evening with the year already apparently headed for disaster records on the highways. The toll in lives, injuries, and dollars mounts most years. But 1964 has been setting records in deaths as a percentage of vehicle miles traveled, as a percentage of population, and of the total number of vehicles.



Sam Dawson

The dollar loss to motorists and property owners is now reckoned in the billions.

Some of these dollars swell the annual receipts of those who repair human bodies, or cars, or buildings and other construction—but such dollar receipts aren't sought.

And the financial loss to thousands of families damages many other industries whose goods can't find as big a market.

Auto accidents as percentage of miles driven are estimated to have risen 20 per cent in the early months of this year. There were 5.4 accidents for each 100,000 vehicles miles.

July saw a record set in the number of fatalities. Warnings of the accident hazard this coming week-end are being issued by national and local safety officials.

Weather conditions across the nation this week-end can either invite accidents by luring more motorists onto the roads or cause accidents by making driving dangerous.

The economic loss for 1963 is estimated at 10.3 billion dollars, up 500 million dollars from 1962. Last year's toll is divided thus: 7.7 billion dollars in property damage, medical and funeral costs, wage losses, and the overhead cost of insurance; and 2.6 billion dollars in property destruction.

The Insurance Information Institute reports 10 million cars in 11 million accidents, involving 3.5 billion dollars of insurance in 1962, the last year for which information is available.

The National Safety council records 43,600 deaths in 1963, up 7 per cent from 1962, and compared with 37,955 deaths reported by the U.S. bureau of census in 1963.

Injuries last year are put at 3,460,000 by the Travlers Insurance companies, with 1,600,000 of them disabling. Ten years earlier the toll was 2,140,000 injuries.

Projection of the accident rate by the Kemper Insurance group for the years of 1963 through 1972 estimates 220 million cars will be involved in 130 million accidents, for a toll of 425,000 deaths, 37,500,000 injuries and a total cost of 100 billion dollars to the economy.

The American Seat Belt council says a study of 10,000 accidents shows serious injuries can be reduced more than one-third with the use of proper seat belts.

It reports that 22 states and the District of Columbia have passed laws requiring new cars to have such belts in the front seat.

But all agree that the real measure of safety—and the reduction of human and economic losses—still remains right where it did—with the driver.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

by STELLA

FRIDAY, Sept. 4—Born today, you have great versatility and could make a success of just about any career you chose. But you will have to stick to that choice, fighting against outside interests and inner instincts that make you want to try something else just "for a change." The more often you give in to that restless impulse, the less likely is your chance for success in any one thing.

You have strong likes and dislikes in people, but you are clever enough not to allow your feelings to endanger your progress. Able to submerge your own feelings, you can work well in harness with one for whom you have no liking whatever; at the same time, you are quite unable to hide your own talent under a bushel simply in order to work with one whom you like very much.

Naturally affectionate, you should have a most happy marriage—so long as you are careful to choose a mate who is neither timid nor sly. You like your men and women as nature made them, divested of all those mental and emotional "cover-ups" the world at large places upon them. Honesty, simplicity, straightforwardness: these are traits you should look for.

Among those born on this date are: Richard Wright, author; Mitzi Gaynor, actress; Henry Ford, industrialist; Francois Rene Chateaubriand, French author and statesman.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, Sept. 5

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Conservative action in business will gain you more than an untested adventure in expansion. Keep to a single course.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Moderation, particularly where finances are involved, is highly recommended for the Libra who would see the ledger balanced.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Make it a weekend free of business worries. Romances old and new may make your life particularly interesting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—A better day for social affairs than for business. Stick close to family routine; increase family feeling of closeness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 22)—Protect your interests in all fields of endeavor, but don't carry any of them forward at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Both personal and business affairs need and deserve the diplomatic touch. Avoid annoying complications.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Avoid any appearance of mixing home and office affairs this week-end. Your family deserves your undivided attention.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—Another good, progressive day—go out after what you want; try to clinch an important deal.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Merchandising, especially as it pertains to clothing, is active. A good day for replenishing school wardrobes.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—With temptation abounding, this is a good day to practice what you preach — moderation in spending!

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—The arts are definitely favored this Saturday. Should business become involved in the week-end affairs, keep it short and sweet.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Make plans for home improvements, but delay putting them into action. A time for dreaming, not spending.

SATURDAY, Sept. 5 — Born today, you are highly idealistic, and for that reason you may find happiness frequently out of reach in a world that at times seems to have little room for ideals. Because you find it hard to accept compromise, because you seek perfection, you are bound to be disappointed often; if, however, you try to put ideals into practice, rather than merely bemoaning the fact that they are absent from life, you can make a great contribution.

Science and literature are your most compelling interests — and it is through one of these two fields that you will most likely make a long-remembered contribution to the world. You could be a most inspiring writer; avoid wasting your talents on smaller things. Or you could benefit mankind through scientific discovery; again, avoid wasting your talent on smaller things.

Your emotions are deep and lasting. When you love, you are quite apt to keep the same love-object all your life. For this season, make an effort to marry the object of your first affection. Otherwise, you may find yourself missing that phase of life altogether.

Among those born on this date are: Frank Yerby, noted American novelist; Darryl Zanuck, motion - picture magnate; Florence Eldridge, actress.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sunday, Sept. 6

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Take time to rest and relax. This may be your last vacation-type week end for a long time.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Friends and relatives may well decide to join you in an unexpected celebration. Take time to appreciate recent events.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Scorpio should have a handful of ideas today. Select one and watch the results as you push it to conclusion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—No time for Sagittarius to be traveling. Make an effort to stay put, moving around home base.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—A cheerful day in which you can make up for a number of past shortcomings by showing your true loyalty to family members.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Spend as much time outside as weather will permit. Store up fresh air and energy for the week to come.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—It will be easy for your emotions to betray you today. Avoid a display of temper which could create an awkward situation.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—If traveling by car, take extra precautions. Courtesy is your most treasured friend today.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Take things calmly and cautiously, and you can avoid giving your true feelings away. Save self-exposure for later.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Early hours should be exceptionally good. But if they fall short of your expectations, look to yourself for the reason.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—The outlook is bright if you stick close to home. The galavanting Cancer is apt to be regretful by evening.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—An excellent day for promoting new ideas—so long as such activity does not involve immediate change for you personally.

Freeman Gets Four Wins, Wagering Hits $7,000 in Opening of Rupert Races

RUPERT, Sept. 4—Jockey Wayne Freeman booted home four winners in the opening day of pari-mutuel horse racing at the Minidoka county fair Thursday afternoon. The four victories gave Freeman a big edge in the leading jockey race and he also added a pair of thirds. Dennis Bramble and Waters each rode two winners and Bramble, the leading jockey at the Jerome race session, had his best first-day performance in three Magic Valley openings as he added three places and a show.

A total of 850 persons wagered a total of $7,000 on the 10-race program. The races will continue Friday and Saturday and wind-up with a Monday afternoon program.

The only multiple winner among the owners Thursday was R. C. Hillman, Pocatello restauranteer. Hillman got a victory in the ninth race with Roy Dixie and Yellow Dude, an Appaloosa jointly owned by Hillman and J. Katsil, won the seventh race. Hillman's Harmon Rusty got a show in the eighth event.

Two of the races had to be settled by photos. The best race of the day came in the final in a three-horse blanket finish. High Minute, Freeman aboard and owned by Ron Nielson, Paul; Orphan Pal, owned by Ray Treasure and booted by Tom Hunter, and Dixie Round, ridden and owned by Call, provided the thrill.

Dixie Round, a distinct third coming off the turn made a game bid in the stretch but finally had to settle for show. The photo final put High Minute, who won a five-furlong race at Jerome three weeks ago, in first spot and dropped Orphan Pal to second by inches.

The second race also was tight with the camera putting Rushing Roulette, Call in the irons and owned by Lyle Saurey, at the tape in front of C. D. Moore's Rainy Day Pal, Bramble up.

The daily double returned only $12 for picking the winners of the first two races while the second-race finish returned $81.00 in the quinella.

Raft River Will Use 1964 for Rebuilding

MALTA, Sept. 4—With a host of sophomores and juniors, the Raft River Trojans, who dropped their first game to Castleford 13-6 Thursday, are hoping to pick up a few wins this year but 1964 must remain a rebuilding season. With in-again, out-again coach Ruel Barker back, after completing work on his master's degree last year, the Trojans should do better than last year's 0-7 record.

"I was pleased with our effort in the opening game despite the loss," says coach Barker. "We had a little trouble early in the ball game but the boys lined out very well in the second half. We're young and so we should progress with the season."

The opener also substantiated coach Barker's idea that sophomore tailback Dana Tracy, 5 feet, 11 inches, 170 pounds and speed, and frosh fullback Ray Jones, a 165-pounder, have the potential to be very good backs. With them the Trojans can call on backs Cal Edwards, a 130-pounder who scored the only touchdown against Castleford, and Richard Ward, another 130-pounder. The backfield was hurt when sophomore halfback Mike Lance broke a leg.

The end position has Paul Tracy, 150 pounds; Fred Nye, 130, and Brad Smith, 135 pounds. The center is Reese Barlow, a 155-pound junior, and guards are Howard Hitt, 160-pound senior; Billy Hutchison, 150-pound senior, and Victor Tracy, 150-pound freshman. The tackles are Steven Stark, 160 pounds, and Lavell Carrington, 155 pounds.

"You can see that we haven't much size," coach Barker added.

The Trojans lost eight regulars off last year's club including Dave Gilliam, Ray Barker, Ted Hodges and Melvin Warr.

The Raft River schedule includes Sept. 11, Raft River at Hagerman; Sept. 26, Rockland at Raft River (homecoming); Oct. 2, Raft River at Oakley; Oct. 9, Raft River at Minico jayvee (night); Oct. 16, Murtaugh at Raft River; Oct. 23, Declo at Raft River, and Oct. 30, Hansen at Raft River.

Vandals Conduct Pass Scrimmage

MOSCOW, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Idaho Vandals spent 30 minutes in a passing scrimmage as part of Thursday's workout.

Coach Dee Andros had his four quarterbacks passing to ends and other backs in the half hour drill.

Andros moved rookie quarterback Jerry Ahlin, Boise, to a first unit defensive post. Ahlin had been working on both offense and defense with the second unit. He will replace the fullback on defense.

Half a dozen Vandals were out of action Thursday with minor injuries but the team physician said he expected half of them back Friday.

Andros scheduled two full workouts Friday, a light drill Saturday morning and a full scrimmage Saturday afternoon.

U. S. Will Send Team to Japan

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 (AP)—A 19-man U.S. amateur baseball team, which will play several exhibition games against Japanese teams as part of the Olympic games next month in Tokyo, was announced Thursday.

Coach of the team, University of Southern California baseball coach Rod Dedeaux, said host countries for the Olympics are permitted to select two sports not included in the regular games and invite one country for each sport to send a representative team.

Baseball is one of the most popular sports in Japan. Predictably, the Japanese picked it and the United States.

Brandt Gets Key Hit as Orioles Win

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL, Sept. 4 (AP)—Jackie Brandt lashed a three-run double with two out in the seventh inning Thursday, propelling the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-1 triumph over Minnesota.

Brandt's blow up the left-center field alley on a 3-2 pitch came after Baltimore had loaded the bases on Luis Aparicio's single, a fielder's choice, Brooks Robinson's double and an intentional walk to Charlie Lau.

Victim of the blast, Camilo Pascual, was thrown out of the game following Brandt's hit by plate umpire Larry Napp. Pascual protested vehemently that Brandt should have been called out on a third strike when the count was 2-2. He thought he had got a good portion of the inside corner with a fastball.

Pascual, in his most demonstrative outburst in any game he ever pitched here, had to be forcibly restrained by Twins catcher Ron Henry after his banishment.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 (AP)—Jim Fregosi and Lou Clinton knocked in two runs each Thursday, leading the Los Angeles Angels to a 4-2 victory over New York and pushing the Yankees four games out of the American league lead.

Ken McBride, who had won only one since June 11, pitched five innings and picked up his fourth victory in 16 decisions.

Fregosi belted his 18th homer with a man on in the first inning and scored along with Willie Smith on Clinton's decisive double off rookie Mel Stottlemyre in the fifth.

Johansson Loses Verdict To Tax Court

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3 (AP)—A federal appeals court upheld Wednesday United States tax assessments of over 1 million dollars against former heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson.

The assessments grew out of purses received by the big Swede for prize fights in the United States.

The fifth U. S. circuit court of appeals rejected Johansson's claim to an exemption from U. S. income tax as a Swiss resident and because of Swiss business connections.

The decision said Johansson, in 1½ years between the date he claimed to have moved to Switzerland and March 13, 1961, spent only 70 days in that country—compared to 120 in Sweden and 218 days in the United States.

The tax claimed by the internal revenue service included $598,181 for 1960 and $411,620 for the period of Jan. 1, 1961, through March 13, 1961.

In regard to Johansson's contract with a Swiss corporation, the court said he was the corporation's sole employe and only source of revenue.

The corporation was termed "a device which was used by Johansson as a controlled depositary and conduit by which he tried to divert temporarily, his personal income earned in the United States, so as to escape taxation thereon by the United States."

Robinson Voted Player of Month

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 (AP)—Frank Robinson, whose sizzling batting has kept the Cincinnati Reds' pennant hopes alive, was selected National league player of the month for August, it was announced Thursday.

Jim Bunning, the Philadelphia Phils' perfect-game pitcher, was second in the balloting by 50 baseball writers and broadcasters. Bunning was 4-0 in August and had an earned run average of 1.60.

Robinson, the Red's star outfielder, hit an even .400 for August with 40 hits in 100 at bats. He slugged eight homeruns and drove in 24 runs in 27 games as the second place Reds won 17 and lost 10.

AAWU Defers Pay TV Action, Votes to Retain League Name

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 4 (AP)—Pay TV is out for the 1964 Pacific Coast big college football season. Presidents and chancellors of the eight members in the Athletic Association of Western Universities killed the plan for this fall when they decided it needed more study. The head men at Washington, Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State, Stanford, California, UCLA and Southern California also decided that in most cases the status quo was fine for the present. They kept the AAWU designation and didn't even have a suggestion of what nickname might replace the Big Six which became "Big Six Plus Two" when Oregon and Oregon State came in last July 30.

They also didn't take action on a letter of intent proposal, deciding instead to take more time in an effort to perfect such a system.

Subscription Television Inc., operating in Los Angeles and San Francisco, has submitted a proposed contract covering collegiate athletics in the AAWU. The pay TV firm already has contracts with the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants baseball teams.

Although the presidents and chancellors had received copies, they decided consideration of the proposal should be deferred "without prejudice" for further and intensive consideration by all member schools.

A subcommittee on each campus is to make the study.

There was no indication when such studies would be concluded, but AAWU president Robley Williams of California said there could be no pay TV of the coming football season.

Dr. Williams said also that it was the "decision of the entire group there is no point in changing the name of the conference." Again, he said, this was "without prejudice" to the future. Meeting with the school administrators were the athletic directors and faculty representatives for athletics.

No other names were discussed, he said in answering a newsman's question.

Dr. Williams said the AAWU will try to formulate a letter of intent for student athletes in terms as non-legalistic as possible. Also an ethical code for recruiters will be developed.

"We would want a letter of intent so in case there was a violation, there would be no penalty on the student. Any penalty would be on the institution or its representatives who violates the code of ethics," the spokesman explained.

Goldsmith Posts Second Best Time

DARLINGTON, S.C., Sept. 4 (AP) — Paul Goldsmith capped three days of frustration Thursday by driving the second best four laps ever recorded at Darlington International raceway.

Goldsmith, held back by an assortment of mechanical woes and several encounters with the guard rails, nailed down ninth position for Monday's Southern 500-mile stock car race with an average speed of 136.514 miles per hour over the 1⅜-mile track.

Frick Still Ponders Sox-Minoso Problem

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox appointed Minnie Minoso as a coach Thursday as commissioner Ford Frick deliberated over a "faulty rule" under which he vetoed the Sox' purchase of the veteran outfielder from their Indianapolis farm club. Sox general manager Ed Short said he had three telephone discussions with Frick during the day concerning the commissioner's squelching of the purchase Tuesday of the 41-year-old Minoso from the Pacific Coast league team.

Frick said Wednesday night the Sox, in releasing Minoso six weeks ago and then buying him back Tuesday, were guilty of "covering up" in order to add another player while keeping Minoso in the weeds.

The Sox subsequently kept Minoso, who played 10 of his 14 big league seasons with them, from suiting up for Wednesday night's Sox-Detroit game.

But Thursday Frick was quoted by Short as admitting the rule he invoked was at fault and not specific enough for this type of case.

"Mr. Frick said he is keeping an open mind on the matter and that a similar case involves the Baltimore Orioles, who want to bring up a player after the triple A season," said Short.

He did not identify the player sought by Baltimore.

"At any rate, the White Sox think Minoso deserves to be a member of a championship team and we signed him as a fifth coach," Short said. "Manager Al Lopez said he would be very happy to have a man with Minnie's enthusiasm, spirit and experience sitting on the White Sox bench."

Short said Frick's opinion, covering both the White Sox and Oriole cases, was that neither club could sign the player involved until after the regular season.

"But the commissioner said he wanted to think the matter over and talk with some of his assistants on the point of possible sanction of Minoso as a player after the Triple A season ends Sept. 13," Short said.

"If we can, we would change Minoso from coach to player status after Sept. 13."

T.F. Sophs Rip Tigers By 51-0 Tally

MOUNTAIN HOME, Sept. 4—The Twin Falls sophomores turned to the air early in the game and then turned on the speed in coasting to a 51-0 victory over Mountain Home Thursday night.

Dick Johnson fired passes to John Warner and Gary Stimpson to set up two first quarter touchdowns. Johnson got the first on a three-yard run and Warner reversed for 20 yards and the second.

In the second period Warner went 45 yards on a reverse and Doug Flint went 25 on the same play minutes later. Johnson and Dave McCollum each booted one extra point.

Johnson raced 35 yards an a touchdown return for a third period score and then hit McCollum with a 25-yard pass play to open the last quarter. Flint scored from nine yards out on a reverse, Johnson converting, and then McCollum intercepted a Mountain Home pass and rambled 85 yards for the final score.

Although the Twin Falls line played well on defense, the standout was 175-pound tackle Chris Thompson.

Larsen Hurls Shutout at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4 (AP)—Houston's Don Larsen pitched his first shutout in more than five years Thursday night, checking Philadelphia on four hits as the Colts whipped the National league leading Phillies 6-0.

Larsen, who last pitched a shutout May 30, 1959, when he was with the New York Yankees, had made 35 starts since then without blanking the opposition. His victory over the Phillies, bringing his record to 3-6, was his second complete game in 12 days.

The Colts put the game out of reach with a five-run sixth inning rally highlighted by Carroll Hardy's two-run homer.

Perry Hurls, Bats Giants Past Mets 3-1

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—Gaylord Perry limited the New York Mets to five hits Thursday and drove in two runs himself in leading the San Francisco Giants to a 3-1 victory before a weekday crowd of 31,706.

Perry had a shutout up to the ninth inning, when Joe Christopher opened with a triple and scored on George Altman's fly.

Perry singled home Tom Haller with one run after two were out in the fourth inning after successive doubles by Duke Snider and Haller had brought the first Giant score off Jack Fisher. In the sixth, Haller beat out a bunt, took third on Jim Davenport's double and scored on Perry's fly.

RALLIES FOR WIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4 (AP) — The Calgary Stampeders scored two touchdowns in the last four minutes and stole a 13-10 victory from the Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday in the Canadian Football league.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By BOB REESE

Many things happened that year. Roosevelt was inaugurated for the first time, and in his Inauguration Day address he told a nation gripped by depression the "only thing we have to fear is fear itself!" Prohibition ended that same year, and the day of the speakeasy was over. The N.R.A. was born, but the breadlines continued to grow.

Over in Europe a man named Hitler was in the news, leaping to greater prominence in Germany. And from that same land came a stream of refugees, crossing the ocean to the land of freedom. One of those refugees was a mild, middle-aged man with a striking spray of white hair. He settled in New Jersey, at Princeton.

He was a man destined to change the destiny of the world. From his theories, a dozen years later came the atomic bomb. His name was Albert Einstein.

Remember the year?

In those days it didn't take a mathematical genius to figure out that a car was an important investment . . . and legitimate savings in a better deal were worth taking advantage of.

The year was 1933.

Today, as then, smart car shoppers are looking for savings. You'll be surprised at how much we can save you on a brand-new Dodge, Chrysler, Imperial or Simca. We're in business to stay, and we're not trying to make a fortune on each car. So we can give you a better deal, at Bob Reese's Dodge City, 500 Block 2nd Ave. So., Twin Falls. Phone 733-5776.

Twin Falls Hosts Buhl in Football Opener Saturday

Twin Falls' Bruins and the Buhl Indians renew a six-year rivalry with the record standing even at 8 p.m. Saturday at Lincoln field. Neither team has much more than "nuisance" injuries for the game which should be one of the area's most interesting of the season. In six meetings the clubs have won three apiece — each winning a lopsided runaway — with Twin Falls holding the edge in scoring 96 points to 84, thanks to two shutouts in 1961 and 1962. And both teams will have one probable starter out.

"About all we want to do is get by, do a little hitting and not get walloped," said Buhl coach Ed Peterson. Then he added with a smile, "I don't want to cry too much."

"Really, this will be an interesting game for us," he continued. "We have to find out what kids are going to hit for us. They haven't been doing it with any pattern of consistency in practice so far. We have five boys who will bang and we have to know about the other six. A lot of our thinking and planning for the season will be based on this game."

"We will go into the game as strong as can be expected — a few sore ankles and bruises," he said. "Our first unit has been looking reasonably good in scrimmage but we still aren't set on a second team. We are very shallow. Any injury at any line position will hurt us a lot unless some of the boys we have show us they will play better after a kickoff than in practice."

Twin Falls will go without 210-pound halfback Alan Brown, who is nursing a sore knee, while Buhl has lost Dan Kerg, a starting guard to a haying accident.

Both will show good aerial attacks if their running games bog down. Buhl has two-year veteran Clark Griffin at quarterback while Twin Falls answers with John Astorquia. The Indians have an edge in backfield weight, fullback Joe Martin going 190 pounds and halfbacks Randy Baxter and Pierce running 180 and 165 respectively. Twin Falls halfbacks, Scott Strong and Tom Lynch, run 170 pounds each with fullback George McAdams at 175.

Chicago Cops 3-0 Victory Over Redlegs

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 (AP)—Lew Burdette's four-hit pitching and a two-run homer by Billy Williams lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Thursday night.

Rookie Ron Campbell drove in the Cubs' first run with his first major league hit in the second inning. Campbell singled after Reds' starter Johnny Tsitouris, 7-11, walked Len Gabrielson and the Chicago outfielder stole second.

Mantilla Hits 2 Homers, Sox Defeat A's

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 4 (AP) — Felix Mantilla slammed two homers and two singles and Dick Radatz posted his 13th victory in relief as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Kansas City Athletics 7-5.

Mantilla homered with the bases empty in the fifth and eighth boosting his season total to 24. Ed Bressoud hit a two-run homer for Boston in the seventh wiping out a 5-4 Kansas City lead.

Bill Bryan homered for the A's. His smash off starter Earl Wilson was the 33rd homer the Red Sox pitcher has given up this season.

Golf Match To Benefit Olympics

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—Ken Venturi, the U. S. open titleholder, and Tony Lema, winner of the British open, agreed Thursday to meet in a golf battle of champions for the benefit of the American Olympic fund.

The offer was made by Fred Corcoran, business manager for both golfers, who said:

"This is an opportunity for golf to make a contribution to our efforts in Tokyo. Venturi and Lema are willing to play an exhibition without any remuneration, all proceeds to go into the Olympic chest.

"With a little organization, we could raise tens of thousands of dollars."

The reaction from the U. S. Olympic committee was enthusiastic.

"That is wonderful," said Lyman Bingham, executive director of the USPC. "Golf never has been an Olympic sport and so we are not equipped to handle such an undertaking, but we would throw our support overwhelmingly behind it."

Corcoran, director of the International Golf association and once tournament manager for the Professional Golfers association, said he would like to see the match played at the Congressional club in Washington, D. C., where Venturi won the National open last June. He suggested Saturday (Oct. 3) as the date.

"I realize the time is short but this could be worked into something really tremendous," Corcoran said. "For instance, other golf clubs around the country could hold an Olympic tournament on the same day, with members matching their best-ball against that of Venturi and Lema."

Ring Magazine Supports Liston

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—Ring magazine refused to go along with the World Boxing association in outlawing a return match between champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston, listed Liston as the No. 1 heavyweight contender today.

Ring also said it didn't support the WBA threat to take Clay's title away from him if he meets Liston in a return, tentatively set for November at a site to be announced.

Blasingame And Braves Blank Cards

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4 (AP)—Lefthander Wade Blasingame scattered seven hits while Milwaukee broke open the game with a six-run seventh inning for a 7-0 victory over St. Louis Thursday night.

Milwaukee batted around in the seventh, hammering St. Louis relievers Barney Schultz and Bob Humphreys for five hits. The big blow was Joe Torre's two-run triple.

Rumor Claims Fox Will Replace Dark as San Francisco Manager

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—The new manager of the San Francisco Giants is scheduled to be Charley Fox, who is almost completely unknown outside the organization. Fox currently is managing the Tacoma team in the Pacific Coast league, the top farm club of the Giants. The Giants have shrouded the name of the man who will succeed Alvin Dark as manager of the Giants in complete secrecy. Dark, of course, is being replaced after seven years as a player and four as manager of the Giants.

Most of the speculation concerning his successor has centered on the coaches of the team, or other top baseball names.

But the Giants intend to give the job to Fox, a loyal and industrious organization man. Fox is a New Yorker, who stands six feet and weighs 180 pounds. He will be 43 in October.

A catcher who had a cup of coffee in the big league, Fox has been with the Giants organization all his life. He appeared in three games in the majors in 1942, but the rest of the time was a minor league player.

Fox went on to scout and manage for the Giants and has been in charge of the Giants instructional school in Arizona the past few years.

He helped develop many of the players on the current San Francisco roster, including such as Tom Haller, Ron Herbel, Gaylord Perry, Jim Duffalo, the Alou brothers and Jim Ray Hart.

The Giants' front office has not officially announced that Dark is through, and there probably will be no announcement until the Giants have lost all chance at the National league pennant.

Owner Horace Stoneham and Dark have not been friendly for some time. Stoneham reportedly feels that Dark has not consulted him on team matters.

Declo Highly Rated In Magic Valley Loop

DECLO, Sept. 4—With nine returning starters off last year's 5-2-1 squad, new head coach Keith Wilson and the Declo Hornets loom as a team to watch in the Magic Valley conference. The Hornets tied with Murtaugh and Oakley for the title last season. The Hornets began their fall campaign against the Hailey Wolverines Friday afternoon. The two men missing from last year are Melvin Darrington and Bill Thompson. Still the Hornets are blending a combination of juniors and seniors this season. At quarterback is junior Mike Matthews while Larry Darrington, 170 pounds; Jon Goodman, 160 pounds, and Lee Wickle, 130 pounds, are at halfback. Returning fullback is two-year veteran, Joe Bingham, a 180-pound senior.

Coach Wilson also can call on three guards in Larry Meade, 165 pounds; Eldon Hurst, 180 pounds, and Larry Bingham, 160 pounds. The center experience is provided by 195-pound Mike Thompson and the tackles are Gaylen Price, 170, and Dale Turner, 175 pounds.

Coach Wilson also likes the speed of Gaylen Engstrom, a senior who will run out of the halfback spot.

The remainder of the Declo schedule includes Sept. 11, Shoshone at Declo; Sept. 18, Rockland at Declo; Sept. 24, Hagerman at Declo; Oct. 2, Declo at Castleford; Oct. 9, Declo at Wells; Oct. 16, Oakley at Declo; Oct. 23, Declo at Raft River, and Oct. 30, Declo at Murtaugh.

Hanner Glad To Make Packer Club

GREEN BAY, Wis., Sept. 4 (AP) —Dave Hanner, the granddaddy of the Green Bay Packers, is resting easier. He has made the club for his 13th National Football league season.

"Every year it's more of a struggle and you have to bear down harder," the veteran defensive tackle said. "You always have to fight for your job. There's always some young guy trying to beat you out."

Although 34, Hanner doesn't feel he's too old for his role in one of pro football's most rugged lines.

"There are quite a few players in the league older," he noted. "There's Jack Stroud, Gino Marchetti, Andy Robustelli and Y. A. Tittle to name a few. I don't think age makes so much difference if a player can avoid injuries and keep in condition."

Nicknamed Hawg by teammates many years ago, the former Arkansas star felt his job was in jeopardy this season after the Packers drafted several outstanding tackles, including Nebraska's Lloyd Voss, the No. 1 selection. And it didn't help when he was kept on the bench as Green Bay dropped a 20-7 decision to St. Louis in the pre-season opener.

"Sitting on the bench was worse than any game I've ever played," Hanner said. "I love this game and I love to play it. It was awful just sitting there and watching."

Hanner's lone consolation was the coaches' statement: "We know what he can do."

Lions Release Idaho State Man

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich., Sept. 4 (AP)—The Detroit Lions of the National Football league reduced their roster to the required 43 players Thursday by releasing second year halfback Larry Ferguson, and rookie defensive end John Miller, Idaho State alum.

Ferguson, who was captain of the Iowa team two years ago, was the Lions' fourth draft choice. He underwent surgery on his knee after suffering an injury midway through last season.

Negotiations for Reopening Bowladrome Near Culmination

Negotiations for re-opening the Bowladrome under new management are currently under way and should culminate within a week or 10 days. Roger Marsh, spokesman for the Associated Amusements company, Salt Lake City, which owns the building and also operates the two Twin Falls drive-in theaters, said Thursday he was not at liberty to say who the new operators would be but added it would be "one of Idaho's oldest and most successful" proprietors. The Bowladrome, which opened several years ago with 20 lanes and then was expanded to 30, was closed this summer and the Bowladrome corporation filed bankruptcy. The workings of the legal proceedings have kept the future of the plant in a static state and promoted several rumors.

Marsh scotched the report the building might be converted from Brunswick to American Machine and Foundry—automatic equipment. "If the current negotiations are successful, it will remain a Brunswick establishment," he said.

There also have been rumors that if the current lessee prospect should withdraw, the Associated Amusements company has a second alternative that would see the bowling house back in operation this month. Marsh said he could not comment on that as there never has been anything official about any alternate plan.

The company remains quite confident that the current negotiations will be fruitful. "The Bowladrome should be open within a matter of a few days after all the proceedings become final," he said.

Marsh added he is accepting league reservations now and will relay them to the new operators. Persons interested should contact him at the Motor-Vu in the evenings.

"The company is very interested in putting the Bowladrome back into operation," he concluded. "Of course, it is a big investment but it also doesn't look good for a facility like that to be standing idle."

The Bowladrome, which formerly was an eight-lane house in downtown Twin Falls, expanded to the new site in the wake of the great bowling boom of the late 1950s. Some 23 men invested in the corporation. The closure largely resulted from the expansion to 30 lanes and came as a result of the nationwide Brunswick-AMF war, the Bowladrome adding the 10 lanes in an attempt to head off AMF competition here.

BURLEY, Sept. 4—Burley's little league football program gets under way with a 10-team jamboree at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at Denman field.

Featuring players ranging from 9 through 12-year-old leagues, the jamboree will have each team playing two five minute quarters.

The league includes 350 boys and 45 to 50 coaches.

Sugar Ray Beaten by Englishman

PAISLEY, Scotland, Sept. 4 (AP) — Mick Leahy, 29-year-old British middleweight champion, outpointed former world champion Sugar Ray Robinson in a 10-round fight here Thursday.

Sugar Ray, now a sluggish 44, could not land on Leahy even when the openings were there.

Leahy weighed 159½, and Robinson scaled 163.

Robinson had weight problems before the bout began. It was signed at 161 pounds, but Sugar Ray weighed 164½. He shed 1½ pounds in a couple of hours.

Leahy carried the fight from the start, but Robinson, fighting from memory, tied up the Englishman.

Most of the crowd thought it should have been called a draw, and there was some booing when referee Ike Powell of Wales gave the decision to Leahy. Robinson didn't like the verdict either.

Leahy had little but crude aggression, but Robinson frequently leaned on his opponent and seemed unable to go the full three minutes a round. Robinson landed a few clean punches, but his timing was off and he could not put combinations together.

Musial Ready To Resume Fitness Duty

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4 (AP)—Stan Musial, recuperating from a severe virus attack, said Thursday he will be ready to resume his duties shortly as national physical fitness director and St. Louis Cardinals executive.

"I think I'll be here another day or two," said the former Cardinals star from his bed in Jewish hospital. "Of course, I'll have to take it easy. But the baseball season's almost over and I haven't many speaking engagements left."

The smiling Musial was a great contrast to the Musial who collapsed in the Cardinals locker room shortly after the St. Louis-Milwaukee game Tuesday night. The attack, called "viral enteritis," was caused by "complete exhaustion."

"I felt good until Tuesday," Musial said. "But I've been traveling a lot and making personal appearances and it tired me out and left me open to the attack."

Dr. I. C. Middleman, the Cardinals' and Musial's physician, reported earlier Musial should be out of the hospital in a few days. "But we are continuing tests," he said, "to determine the exact nature of his ailment to be sure there is no condition regarding the abdomen that might require surgery."

Second Chance

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 (AP)—Veteran 400-meter hurdler Willie Atterberry Thursday was added to the entry list in the U.S. Olympic games track and field final trials here Sept. 12-13.

Head coach Bob Giegenback said there had been a mixup in communications in Atterberry's appeal for a chance to compete in the finals.

Wilson to Start For Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 (AP)—Ben Wilson will start at fullback for the Los Angeles Rams in Saturday's National Football league exhibition against the San Francisco 49ers, Rams Coach Harland Svare said Thursday.

He also said that Roman Gabriel will be back as starting quarterback, and that Terry Baker will make his debut as a running halfback.

Wolves Edge Trojans in Grid Opener

MALTA, Sept. 4—The Castleford Wolves struck for two first-half touchdowns and survived a fourth-quarter drive by the Raft River Trojans to post a 13-6 victory in the football opener for both clubs Thursday.

The Wolves got off to a slam-bang start when Gary West rambled 40 yards on the first play from scrimmage but after that the young Raft River club was pesky on defense.

Castleford got the ball after kicking off to the Trojans and then receiving a punt. West's long run came on an off-tackle play and he also got the extra point. Early in the second quarter Raft River fumbled and the Wolves recovered on the 15-yard line. A five-yard penalty helped put the ball on the one-foot line just before the final touchdown play.

As the second half began Raft River began hammering at the middle of the Castleford line with sophomore tailback Dana Tracy and frosh fullback Ray Jones doing the carrying. The Trojans ground from their own 15-yard line to the Wolf 30 before Calvin Edwards shook loose on a reverse and scored.

A weird exchange of possession occurred in the fourth quarter, starting when Raft River's Richard Ward picked off a pass to stop a good Castleford drive. When forced to punt four plays later, Raft River again took the ball when the kick was fumbled. Castleford moved for two first downs before being forced to punt again and this time the Trojans blocked the kick, Paul Tracy recovering at near midfield. From there the Trojans began another grinding march but the clock stopped them at the Wolves' 10-yard line.

GETTING BIG THRILL out of ride on the Hammer, one of the most popular rides at the Siebrand brothers carnival at the Twin Falls county fair, are two young girls. Tips Are Given for Labor Day Week-End Driving

(Editor's note—The national safety council predicts that 400 to 500 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the Labor day week-end. In the following dispatch written by national driving champion A. J. Foyt, the three-time winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile Speedway auto race, gives some safety tips that may save your life.)

By A. J. FOYT

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4 (UPI)—I have an advantage over every driver in America when I pull my race car out on the track.

When I race, I know I am competing with drivers who are skilled and who I can count on in a tight situation to make the right move at the right time.

As a motorist, I am not so fortunate, and neither are you.

In many instances, it is necessary to think for the other guy. As a result, I have followed certain rules that I would like to pass along to all of you taking to the highways over the Labor day week-end.

Be sure to keep a safe distance behind the car in front of you when cruising at highway speeds. A good rule is to figure a car length for every 10 miles. So if you are traveling 60 miles per hour, you should be at least six car lengths behind the car in front of you.

Don't take the skill of other drivers for granted.

Don't look for trouble. Do not retaliate if another driver is discourteous on the road. If a driver in passing cuts in too sharply, don't get even by cutting him off. This driver's name is "Mr. Trouble," and it is best to avoid him on the highways.

If at night a thoughtless driver with his bright lights on approaches and does not heed your warning blinks to lower his beams, don't retaliate by blinding him. It is senseless and you could cause a head-on collision.

If you are planning a long-distance trip, avoid fatigue. I make it a point to stop at least every three hours for a short walk. I find it keeps me alert.

Do not under any circumstances mix drinking with driving. Even if you just have a few quaffs of beer, your reflexes can be dulled, and in a tight situation you'd need to have everything going for you.

As many of you start your long trips, I will be preparing my car for a championship race at Du-Quoin, Ill. I would not think of starting this race without giving my car a complete safety check. So take a tip from me and have your car carefully inspected by your serviceman before you start out.

And to you young fellows—whether you are planning a long trip or just driving around town over the holiday week-end—forget the drag racing at the stop lights. This is a sign of immaturity, and is the most useless sport in the world. If you think you have a "hot" car, then take it to the nearest supervised drag strip.

Wear Shoes

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 4 (UPI)—The Lisbon city government told citizens today to put on their shoes or go to jail.

The government said anyone caught walking around barefoot out of doors would be liable to fines of 20-100 escudos (70 cents to $3.50) and jail terms of three to 15 days.

Firemen Meet

RICHFIELD, Sept. 4—Fire engine operation and resuscitator instruction were given at the Wednesday night meeting of the Richfield volunteer fire department by Lyle Piper, former fire chief.

Clifford Conner, new fire chief, presided. Dale Whitesell is a new member of the force.

DOCTOR DIES

JACKSON, Wyo., Sept. 4 (UPI)—Dr. Norman A. Welch, 63, president of the American Medical association, died last night of a massive cerebral hemorrhage he suffered while at this vacation resort to address a medical meeting.

More Could Survive Crashes If Fire Could Be Prevented

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 4 (UPI)—Science executed an airliner Thursday.

And from the victim's twisted, broken carcass, came impressive new evidence that more people could survive even violent crashes if fire could be prevented.

The execution was staged at a desert airport near here where technicians of the federal aviation agency (FAA) and flight safety foundation (FSF) sent a big Constellation down a 4,000-foot runway toward deliberate destruction. It hit a series of strategically-placed barriers at 118 miles an hour, tearing off the wings and buckling the fuselage in two places.

But the only fire occurred at the first moment of impact when engine oil ignited, and the flames died out almost instantly. What was left on the side of a sun-seared Arizona hill was the battered facsimile of a once-proud air queen, whose interior stayed relatively intact.

There were 21 adult dummies and three dolls aboard the doomed test plane—the second to be wrecked in the FAA-FSF project. Engineers who inspected the interior immediately after the perfectly controlled crash said one of the dolls and two of the dummies were probable "fatalities." They were in an area immediately behind the cockpit, where the floor collapsed and drove their seats downward.

The most impressive test results came from a fuel containment system designed to reduce fire-after-impact.

Technicians had filled two outer wing tanks with colored water (yellow and green) simulating high-octane fuel. The two inboard tanks also contained water, but mixed with a burgundy-colored gelled substance that would have kept real fuel from spraying out of the ruptured tanks onto hot engine parts from the fuselage.

When the 250 airline, military and air industry spectators reached the crash site, it was obvious what the gelled water had achieved. Rocks and sand in a wide area were stained yellow and green, and one side of the fuselage was almost saturated with what would have been death-dealing fuel in a real crash.

But the wine-colored spillage from the gelled tanks was in a relatively small area, confined mainly to the wing itself and trailing behind the wreckage in a fairly slim path. The left side of the fuselage was almost free of any stain, even though it was next to a gelled tank that burst open. The other inboard tank suffered little damage.

All interior cameras and stress-recording instruments apparently worked perfectly, according to a preliminary inspection.

The test went off so perfectly—after two days of delay involving mainly instrumentation troubles—that the final wreckage resembled almost perfectly a diagram prepared by engineers before the crash. The old "Connie," which once flew global routes for TWA, was sent down the runway on a single railroad truck hooked to the wheelless nose gear.

Farm AND Ranch SECTION

Magic Valley's Week-End Farm Paper

Along Fences and Canals

Vegetables at eye level are rather unusual, and in the case of one variety at the C. M. Wilson place in Shoshone, the result is almost startling. Large hubbard squash are tucked away high up in the shrubbery behind their place. There wasn't much room on the ground so the squash just grew up. As a result there isn't a squash on the ground, but they are doing nicely in the shrubbery.

Approximately 240 acres of corn has been harvested at the Charles Kast ranch, east of King Hill, by the Green Giant Canning company, Buhl. Michael Kast, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kast, Fairfield, operates the ranch here and is assisted by his brother-in-law, James Bleving.

Mike Parke, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Parke, King Hill, has returned from Castleford, where he has been employed this summer at the ranch of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Senften. Mike will attend the University of Idaho, Moscow, this fall as a senior.

Marlin Woodward is combining clover seed at the Rodney Ruberry ranch at King Hill this week.

Floyd Mingo, Paul, is now pasturing some 100 head of cattle on the Ruel Barker ranch in Elba.

Levi Lloyd, Almo rancher, has been plowing his land and doing some weeding in preparation for planting fall wheat.

Some frost damage to gardens and potatoes were reported the latter part of August in the Almo area.

David Fish, Tuttle, is combining grain in the Shoshone, Dietrich and Rupert areas.

Dewayne Ward, Almo, is cutting and harvesting his second cutting of alfalfa hay this week. The frost last week toppled the hay over, but apparently no damage was done.

Most of the farmers in the Almo area have harvested their grain and are now cutting and baling straw.

Most of the farmers on Camas prairie have completed harvesting their winter wheat and have started on their spring grain. Rain the first part of the week halted field work.

Many Camas prairie farmers have their winter wheat drilled and up. An exceptionally good stand is noted on the Allen Bauscher farm along the highway east of Fairfield.

Many hands of sheep and some cattle have been turned into the alfalfa fields an Camas prairie. There was a good re-growth of alfalfa following the first cutting and many of the dry land farmers were able to cut and bale a second cutting following a record breaking first cutting.

R. C. Strom, Tumwater, Wash., and his son, R. M. Strom, Bartlesville, Okla., have each bought an acre of land from Dick Pope, along Billingsley creek, north of Hagerman. The Stroms plan to build homes on the plots. The R. C. Stroms have started construction on their home, according to Ivan Dunham, local real estate salesman.

Everend Jensen has started construction of a new house for a family dwelling in his orchard, north of Hagerman.

Expansion of Facilities, Staff Seen For Research Center in Near Future

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Farm Editor

KIMBERLY, Sept. 4 — Rapid expansion of the Snake River Conservation Research center staff and facilities is anticipated during the coming year.

Since establishment of the center the full impact of beneficial research possible has not been felt because of a small staff and lack of some necessary equipment. This situation, however, is expected to show rapid improvement during 1965, thus providing an answer to some of the problems which plague irrigated lands, drylands and rangeland.

Expansion possibilities were outlined during a two-day session attended by members of the advisory committee and those invited, including interested officials and experts from Idaho, Nevada and Utah. The sessions were held at the research complex near here Tuesday and Wednesday.

The advisory committee is made up of representatives from state and federal agencies as well as several farmers and ranchers. Purpose of the committee is to meet annually to review the work and progress critically and to make recommendations concerning future research projects.

The committee session was held to assemble new ideas for research projects, in view of contemplated acceleration of the center, and to determine the most pressing problems to be studied. Since the research center is to serve an area comprising the upper Snake river basin, representatives attended from Utah, Nevada, Oregon and Idaho.

The center is concerned with soil and water conservation problems. Many different phases of research either are now in progress or will be initiated soon.

Thes include such items as development of irrigation equipment, sprinkler irrigation studies, water management, drainage, salinity and alkali problems, soil erosion, microbiology, soil chemistry and fertility.

A. R. Robinson, Twin Falls, is director of the center and also serves as chairman of the advisory committee.

Advisory committee members present for the two-day session included, in addition to Robinson, Forrest Miller, engineer, soil conservation service, Portland; Luther Jones, state soil conservationist, Boise; H. E. Cushman, extension soil conservation specialist, Oregon State university, Corvallis; Charles G. Painter, extension soils specialist, University of Idaho, Boise; Gilbert Corey, agricultural engineer, University of Idaho, Moscow.

Invitees included John Fish, area conservationist, soil conservation service, Elko; Dr. R. A. Young, chairman, department of agriculture, biochemistry and soil service, University of Nevada, Reno; Dorrell Larsen, extension irrigationist, University of Idaho, Moscow; C. C. Warnick, associate director of engineering experiment station, University of Idaho, Moscow.

George Bloomaberg, University of Idaho, Moscow; Dr. A. A. Bishop, college of engineering, Utah State university, Logan; Dr. Gaylen Ashcroft, assistant professor of climatology, Utah State university.

At start of the conference, J. S. Robins, staff member, assisted Robinson in detailing the scope of the program and the history and responsibility of the setup.

Problems of the entire basin area were discussed after introduction by the various experts.

Nuisance Birds in Crops Cause Extensive Damage

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 — Feed and crop damage by nuisance birds is a 5-million dollar annual problem. Blackbirds in three states alone cause an estimated 15 million dollar loss a year.

Western feedlots bear the brunt of bird destruction, as much as $2,000 a day. Starlings are the chief offenders in feedlots in 12 of the 23 western states and five corn belt states. A starling may eat one to two times his weight, about one-fourth pound a day.

Rice, sorghum, sunflowers, orchards, vineyards, gardens and cultivated fields also suffer heavily.

Blackbirds mainly damage corn, rice, grain sorghum, truck crops, nuts and fruits.

English sparrows damage grain, fruits and vegetables.

Besides plaguing feedlots starlings also damage fruit and can transmit swine diseases.

Other nuisance birds are linnets, horned larks, crowned sparrows, vagrant pigeons, crows, magpies, certain birds of prey, even woodpeckers.

Accordin-gto-a Farm Quarterly report, there are four bird controls: Scare them off, shield crops from them, make crops unattractive to them, destroy them.

A number of bird-control devices and practices work with varying success.

It is up to the farmer to determine which will best protect his crops and feedlots.

The report details preventative methods. Pamphlets are available from the US. department of interior, fish and wildlife service, and from the agency's branch of predator and rodent control.

The U.S. bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife will spend some $600,000 this fiscal-year to seek solutions. Pennsylvania is testing sterilants to curb reproduction of starlings and blackbirds.

HOPS TOTAL DROPS

BOISE, Sept. 4—United States production of hops is forecast at 52,334,000 pounds, two per cent greater than last year and 15 per cent above average. Prospects are down in Washington and Idaho, and offset higher yields expected in Oregon and California.

Freezing Weather Could Be Disastrous in Area

With temperatures dipping into the 30's throughout most of the week, many Magic Valley farmers are concerned with the prospect of frost hitting the 1964 crop and delivering a hard economic blow to the area.

Two years ago on Sept. 8 a frost hit Magic Valley and turned a sizeable portion of the spuds and beans black. Fortunately, the first hit harder in other parts of the nation.

For the past two years Magic Valley farmers have had to gamble, because of a late spring, hoping that killing frosts wouldn't show until late September. Last year the frost didn't hit until late October.

For two years Magic Valley farmers have been lucky, but some of the higher fringe area farmland has been nipped by frost.

Most of the crop hasn't had a full, 100-day growing season. In order to insure a full harvest this fall the frost has to stay away for another 10 days or two weeks.

Planting this spring was delayed about two weeks and government weather bulletins issued throughout the summer have indicated that the crop is about two weeks late.

In many cases potatoes have been in the ground about 90 days. The same is true with beans. The grain crop, however, is harvested. Mostly the yields appeared good, but grain alone won't carry the valley.

Wet, cool weather of the type during the past week or 10 days is conducive to the spread of plant disease—a problem Magic Valley farmers have fought for the past two years.

The next 10 days could spell the difference between a successful crop and severe losses.

Sudan Grass Tour Planned For Tuesday

GOODING, Sept. 4—A farm tour featuring varieties of the Sudan grass and sorghum hybrids will be held Tuesday, according to Edward Koester, Gooding county agent.

The tour will start at 1:30 p.m. at the Paul Marlow farm three miles west of Wendell on the Wendell-Hagerman highway.

Several stops have been planned to show various varieties, including Trudan Sudax and FS 22. Since this is a new crop, various rates and dates of planting were used, as well as fertilization. Some have pastured the forage crop, some has been made into hay and some will be pastured in the future, Koester said.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the tour and see the results in growing this new forage crop, he added.

Sheep Judge Is Named for Show

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4—Another sheep judge has been named for the 1964 Grand National Livestock exposition, Oct. 23 through Nov. 1, according to L. C. Smith, president of the association, which operates the Cow Palace.

James H. Davidson, animal husbandry department, University of Wyoming, Laramie, will judge individual and pens market lambs.

RESPONSIBILITY STRESSED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—Pesticide users have a responsibility to their communities to see that every empty container and all pesticide surpluses are disposed of properly and safely, emphasizes agricultural research service in a new publication devoted to that subject.

Better Markets, Not Handouts Can Aid U.S. Farmers, Says Farm Bureau

SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 4 — Farmers want better markets — not government handouts, Charles B. Shuman, American Farm Bureau federation president, said today at the dedication of a new grain and bean terminal facility on the Saginaw river near Milwaukee.

"Because of the failure of government farm programs, farmers are turning to improvement of their marketing facilities as a more effective means of securing better farm family net income," the national farm leader said.

"The farm families of Michigan and their organizations — the Michigan Farm Bureau federation and Farm Bureau Services—are to be congratulated on this great achievement. The Saginaw terminal to be operated by the Michigan Elevator Exchange, division of Farm Bureau Services, may well be the means of providing greater market opportunities to thousands of Michigan farmers. Farmers have repeatedly demonstrated that they make greater progress in solving their own problems when they use their own resources than when they turn to politicians," Shuman said.

The federation president expressed the firm conviction that the market price system will bring better income to farmers, but warned that the system cannot function until the impediments of bad farm legislation are eliminated.

For example, he pointed out that the administration's wheat program is a fantastic failure which has wrecked market prices, cut farm income and at the same time imposed a "bread tax" on consumers.

The wheat program, he said, which was rammed through congress this year in direct contradiction of the wishes of wheat farmers as expressed in the 1963 referendum, "is an example of the futility of attempts to legislate prosperity for farmers."

"While wheat farmers are still reeling from the market-wrecking application of the 1964 wheat program, the secretary of agriculture has announced a further 'tightening' of the program for 1965 which will mean less income for cooperators as well as noncooperators," Shuman reported.

"Under the 1965 program, the loan rate is being reduced from $1.30 to $1.25. This will make it possible for the commodity credit corporation to lower its selling price and further depress the market price. At the same time, payments made to cooperators under the certificate feature of the program are being increased five cents a bushel—thus making producers more dependent on direct payments from government. Subjection of farmers to the whims of the secretary of agriculture is thus increased in an effort to force them to accept tighter controls on their farming operations. If the market system is destroyed, farmers will be compelled to go before congress with hat in hand each year to secure appropriations for their livelihood," Shuman asserted.

"It may come as a shock to some that in 1964, farmers will receive some 17 per cent of their net income in the form of direct government payments. The growing dependence of farmers on government doles for their income is dramatized by the fact that as recently as 1960 payments accounted for only 5.0 per cent of net income," the farm leader reported.

Referring again to the administration's wheat program, Shuman said that the "scheme" is not only hurting farmers, but it is imposing a "bread tax" on consumers. He reported that bread prices have already been hiked in many stores as a result of the 70 cents per bushel tax placed on wheat milled for U.S. consumers.

Signup Set

SHOSHONE, Sept. 4 — Farmers in Lincoln county will be able to sign up to take part in the 1965 voluntary wheat program either this fall or next spring, according to Walter Rinehart, chairman of the agricultural stabilization and conservation county committee.

The spring signup for wheat and grain program for 1966 crops will be held at the same time. Signup will end Oct. 2.

USDA Report Shows Lower Farm Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)— The agriculture department reports that lower prices for hogs, potatoes, cotton and tomatoes pushed the average of all farm prices down one per cent in the month ending Aug. 15.

A seasonal increase in prices for milk and eggs offset some of the weakness in other commodities, and the average price of beef cattle edged up slightly during the month.

The net result, however, was a one per cent decline for the month. Average farm prices were four per cent below a year earlier and the lowest for mid-August since 1955.

Farm costs edged up one-third of one per cent in the month ending Aug. 15. As a result, the prices of farm commodities dropped to 74 per cent of parity. This compared with 75 per cent in mid-July and 78 per cent of parity one year ago.

Parity is a method of expressing the purchasing power of farm commodities. When the price of items farmers sell is at full parity, it theoretically is in fair balance with the cost of items farmers buy.

Hog prices in mid-August averaged $15.60 a hundredweight, down 30 cents from a month earlier and $1.10 below a year $18.30 a hundredweight, up 10 cents from last month, but still $2.10 below a year ago.

Trace Minerals Are Needed To Insure Healthy Animals

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4 — "It is absolutely necessary that livestock receive steady and adequate amounts of trace minerals, and if stock feed is low in needed trace elements, the feeding of trace mineralized salt will induce startling differences in gains, feed savings, and shrinkage," said A. W. Werry, industrial products research and development manager, Leslie Salt company. Werry added that in one feeding trial, trace mineralized salt was credited with increasing gains by one-third pound per head, per day.

One of the most important elements specifically designated as a trace mineral is cobalt, and while the amount required by cattle and sheep is small, a lack of cobalt in daily feed will result in poor health and productivity of livestock.

Cobalt is required by ruminants in order to synthesize vitamin B-12 in the rumen. If the food contains no cobalt, the micro-organisms which produce vitamin B-12 cannot thrive and multiply; vitamin B-12 is not made and digestion is inhibited. Vitamin B-12 is essential for maturing red blood cells and the prevention of anemia.

Symptoms of cobalt deficiency are usually hard to detect, and depending on how serious the cobalt deficiency is, symptoms may range from a slight loss of appetite and a reduced growth rate, to general weakness, severe anemia, and an appearance of outright starvation.

Gradual loss of appetite is the initial symptom. Sometimes, a cow on lush pasture will refuse to graze, even though it is starving to death. Or, it may refuse hay or grain! As a result of starvation, it becomes anemic, weak, emaciated, and develops a rough coat.

Cobalt deficient areas occur intermittently across the nation, and there are seasonal, as well as geographic, deficiencies depending on rainfall and soil types. In addition, there are crop differences as where corn and grasses are more apt to be cobalt deficient than grain, sorghums, alfalfa, or legumes.

Although there are several methods of correcting deficiencies of cobalt, the most convenient, and economical method is to add cobalt to the feed of cattle and sheep in cobalt-fortified salt, or by way of a pre-mix.

Mineral deficiencies seldom come single, and today more stockmen and dairymen are using multi-purpose trace mineralized salt, not merely for ruminants, but for all other farm animals as well, thus preventing not only cobalt deficiency, but other costly deficiency diseases as well.

Meat Production Continues High

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)— Meat production in the United States is still high.

For the week ended Aug. 15 total meat production under federal inspection was estimated at 503 million pounds.

This was four per cent above the 484 million pounds a week earlier and 11 per cent above the 456 million pounds a year ago.

PLOW!

And you're on your way to profit! Fall-applied USS Nitrogen plowed down with crop residues can increase your profits! ● Nitrogen speeds the decomposition of grain stubble, corn stalks, potato vines — helps transform crop residues into soil-building organic material by spring. ● The result: Greater soil productivity and higher profits for you. ● Fall fertilization makes a lot of sense. Fertilizer applied in the fall works for you all winter long, decaying stubble — and it's available when and where needed by crops in early spring. When you fertilize in the fall, you avoid spring rush, and the uncertainties of spring weather (Remember last spring?). ● Fertilize this fall with USS Nitrogen Fertilizers, made by United States Steel.

Administration Plans to Turn Down Proposals to Increase Farm Benefits

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UP)—Administration farm officials apparently plan to turn down proposals for increasing benefits under the government's 1965 support program for wheat.

A request for action to increase farm income under the program came from a spokesman for commercial wheat growers.

The spokesman was Ken Kendrick, Washington representative of the National Association of Wheat Growers. He conferred with Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman and other top farm officials.

Kendrick told newsmen he came away with the impression that Freeman does not plan any changes in the 1965 wheat program — no increases in rates already announced for price support loans, marketing certificate payments and acreage diversion payments.

The wheat growers' spokesman said he thought some producers could earn as much under the 1965 support program as they did under the 1964 program. Kendrick said this applied especially to farmers who take advantage of a new rule authorizing production of wheat on feed grain acreage.

Kendrick added, however, that for some other farmers he believes the 1965 wheat program might result in lower income — a drop of about three per cent in some cases.

Tests Indicate Sheep Treated With Thiabendazole Cut Intestinal Worms

BOISE, Sept. 4—Encouraging results in reducing losses caused by intestinal worms in sheep are reported by Ed Duren, livestock agent for the University of Idaho extension service in Caribou, Bear Lake and Franklin counties. Flocks treated with thiabendazole as a result of extensive and continuing tests show more vigor, better lamb production and more wool.

Treated lambs gained 15 pounds more than those not treated, and they reached market weight earlier. Treated ewes produced nearly 12 per cent more wool and 28 per cent more lambs. The weight increase for lambs at an average of 15 pounds at $20 per hundredweight would return $3 per head. In a flock of 500 lambs this amounts to $1,500.

The drug costs about $5 for a 35-ounce package. The standard dose is one ounce per 50 pounds of body weight. A ewe can be treated for 15 cents, a 50-pound lamb for seven and one-half cents.

Administered in various treatment systems, thiabendazole gives promise, Duren said, of bringing relief to a condition that has troubled sheep in Idaho and other states for many years. In addition to organized result demonstrations that showed the value of the medication, about 30,000 sheep have been treated for internal parasites. Many flock owners in the tri-county area are on a control program the second year. Although final conclusions and recommendations are yet to be made, Duren said the results so far have been "quite effective in launching and establishing an economic internal-parasite control program."

A paper on the work was presented by Duren and S. E. Park of the Merck Sharp and Dohme Research laboratories at the July meeting of the western section of the American Society of Animal Science, Bozeman, Mont.

Three experiments, they said, were conducted with sheep on ranches affording different types of pasture and management. A fourth experiment followed the sheep of one of these ranches through the winter and spring.

All the animals were identified, weighed and assigned to groups at random. To minimize variations in weight that might be attributed to handling, both treated and untreated sheep passed through the chute at each drenching.

Thiabendazole was administered as a drench at the rate of one gram per 50 pounds of body weight. In the third experiment the animals were drenched initially but subsequent doses were mixed with coarse salt or rolled barley. There were no harmful effects.

At the start of the trials, worm eggs observed in dropping were characteristic of a group of stomach worms. Twenty-six days after the medication no worm eggs were detected in composite samples. Average counts for the three untreated groups were in the hundreds.

Despite the difference in management and nutrition of the animals in each experiment, the researchers said, the treated groups were uniformly more thrifty as reflected in better condition and increased weight gains. The best improvement in gain was obtained in the first experiment, in which parasitism was kept down by giving the ewes five monthly treatments.

Mini-Cassia Potato Crop Forecast at 60,000 Acres

BURLEY, Sept. 4—The potato crop in Cassia-Minidoka area, which totals 60,000 acres, never recovered from its poor start last spring, reports Extension Potato Agent Virgil Cross. Wet weather delayed planting on the average of 10 days to two weeks.

Poor road conditions helped delay handling and much of the seed was planted soon after arrival. Most of this seed did not have time to warm up and as a result decay set in immediately. This has resulted in a high percentage of weak plants and probably one of the lowest stand counts of record. Thousands of acres have 60 or less plants per 100 feet. This poor stand has brought on a high weed population and required damaging cultivation to clean them out.

In the late plantings high fertilizer rates suitable for earlier planting combined with high temperatures delayed and helped bring about a very light set in many fields of three to five tubers per hill.

Many growers were caught by not irrigating within the 30 to 35 day period due to the rain which has resulted in pointed ends, dumbells, and bottlenecks.

There seems to be no in between either the crop will make a high quality pack or it cannot be used for fresh shipment.

The cool weather the past three weeks with the mean temperature averaging below 60 degrees has seriously curtailed the rate of growth and unless there is warm weather without frost for the next three weeks this crop could set an all time low for yield per acre and total U.S. No. 1's. Approximately one-fourth of the acreages need 10 days or two weeks to make a six-ounce top.

Exhibitors

Warren Barry, chairman, Twin Falls county fair board, reports that the 1964 county fair has more exhibitors and people working in concessions and stands than any previous year.

Wednesday opening day attendance was down 600, total cars handled were almost identical with the 1963 figures.

The administration of only two treatments to the ewes in experiment three resulted in a smaller difference in weight gain. On the basis of the average life cycle of stomach worms, such a schedule calling for 60 days between treatments would obviously permit reinfections to develop.

In one experiment an untreated ewe died from parasitism during the first 60 days on pasture. On the other hand, a severely parasited ewe improved markedly following the first treatment and gained 78 pounds on the repeated dosing program.

A high percentage of the treated yearlings maintained superiority and developed early. Seventy-five per cent of the treated rams in the second experiment were selected for the national ram sale, compared with 50 per cent for the untreated group. Also, 75 per cent of the treated ewes were retained for flock replacements in contrast to 41 per cent of those not treated with thiabendazole.

Milk Liked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — As in the United States, dairying in Canada has its points. Canadian consumers drink more milk and use more butter than Americans. Per capita consumption of dairy products in the Dominion is about 900 pounds — compared with a U.S. average of 632 pounds.

Trap Planned To Combat Gypsy Moths

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — Scientists loaded a double-barreled trap in August in moves to control spread of the gypsy moth. Small, featherweight traps, baited with a substance that attracts the male moth, were air-dropped in New Jersey and New York, in recent effectiveness tests, the department of agriculture reported.

Lured by the siren promise attractant, the Don Juans become ensnared by the traps' inner wall coating of sticky tanglefoot.

Plant - pest - control workers were scheduled to place similar traps by hand in the Cape Cod area in Massachusetts to combat the forest, shade and fruit tree pest. The new approach is called "saturation trapping" by agricultural research service. What the male moths call the device is not known.

Poultry Litter Used as Supplement in Beef Feed

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4—Poultry litter (chicken manure) fortified with some energy-feed, vitamins and minerals, makes a cheap ruminant feed for fattening beef cows and dairy replacements.

Use of this new feed is causing some controversy in Maine, where feed runs higher than in the Corn Belt.

Maine farmers have to find a cheap feed if they are to go on raising beef and producing milk, and some of the sharpest cattlemen in the state think they have found it in chicken litter.

There may be a conflict with Maine law in feeding litter to reproducing dairy cows. The best use of the feed may be in raising replacement stock.

After two years of feeding, some of the problems are well known. One of the worst is getting the hardware out of the litter. It takes a good strong magnet to pull out staples, nails and other bits of steel. Another is that the feed must be kept dry if the cattle are to eat it. And another is the necessity of mixing the feed. This cannot be overemphasized.

Cutting feeding costs and accomplishing a good weight gain are not the only advantages of this mixture. Another is that gall-sickness have been markedly reduced.

AWARD IS SET

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 — A new award for "Distinctive Research in the Area of Clinical Nutrition", has been announced by the American Society for Clinical Nutrition. To be known as the McCollum Award, sponsored by National Dairy council, this recognition will consist of a sum of $1,000 together with a commemorative scroll for the recipients. First presentation of the award will be in 1965.

HOLDING HANDFUL of potatoes is Virgil Cross, extension potato specialist on the Warren Heins farm east of Norland. The crop is being produced under a program that calls for no forage rotation. The Heins farm once was part of the S. A. Camp project. (Times-News photo)

Rotation, Irrigation Are Explained on Potato Tour

NORLAND, Sept. 4 — Irrigation, rotation and fertilization were just a few of the subjects covered in the annual Mini-Cassia potato tour last week.

Virgil Cross, extension potato specialist, led an estimated 55 farmers and interested individuals over several area farms, pointing out the various procedures individual farmers use to produce potatoes. Also on hand from the extension service was Dorrell Larsen, extension irrigationist.

Larsen pointed out that the two methods of irrigation, gravity and sprinkler, sometimes have side effects that are undesirable. Over-irrigation and compaction produce a hard crust near the edge of the furrow which makes the absorption of water slow and difficult.

Larsen had charts showing the rate of consumption for sprinkler irrigation. He said size of the sprinkler nozzle and the amount of pressure determine the rate of consumption. Another factor to be calculated is wind velocity.

One of the stops on the tour was at the Warren Heins place. Heins is producing potatoes on land that does not include an alfalfa rotation. Grain is substituted in the forage program and results indicate yield doesn't fall off. There also is some indication that the crop is free of many common potato diseases. However, Cross pointed out that the testing is still going on and results are not definite.

Another stop was on J. R. Simplot company land. The land is producing potatoes in sufficient size and quantity on land that was abandoned by the S. A. Camp company as "poor crop land."

Throughout the tour Cross emphasized the need for soil testing and applying proper amounts of fertilizer and trace elements.

The tour began at 9 a.m. and concluded shortly after noon.

Pesticide Agreement Is Agency Goal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — Agreement on standard insecticide tests and the determination of safe and practical tolerances was set as a goal for the U.S. department of agriculture in cooperation with other government agencies in the conference report on the agriculture appropriations bill sent to the White House.

"It is to be noted," said the report, "that it is within these areas where there must be agreement if our food supply is not to be needlessly jeopardized."

Budget estimates for pesticides research totaled 20 million dollars. A substantial portion of the items involved was agreed to in conference for a total of 25.5 million dollars. Of this, 17.4 million dollars were earmarked for research activities and 8.1 million dollars for facilities.

Payments to Blaine Area Are Reported

HAILEY, Sept. 4—Carl Schoessler, chairman of the Blaine agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, announces that payments amounting to $13,734.12 have been received by Blaine county farmers diverting acreages from feed grain into approved conserving uses.

Farmers taking part in the 1964 feed grain program and the voluntary 1964 wheat program, will soon receive payments.

Schoessler said that for feed grains a part of the diversion payment was made in advance to producers at the time they signified their intention to participate in the program. This was done as a means of helping them meet production expenses. Payments soon to be made represent the balance of diversion payments.

No advance payments were made for wheat in 1964; and those soon to be made include the diversion payments for shifting wheat acreage into conserving use and the value of marketing certificates earned through participation in the program.

Wheat certificates have a value of 70 cents per bushel for the part of the farm's marketing allocation represented wheat for domestic use and a value of 25 cents per bushel for the wheat for export, Schoessler said.

Schoessler reminds—farmers that receipt of the final program payment does not mean an end to the program and those who diverted land from production under either the wheat or the feed grain program agreed to protect it and not harvest from it throughout the whole of 1964. Such diverted acreage may be grazed starting Oct. 1, 1964.

Apple Crop Prospects Are Brighter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UPI)—For consumers who like apples, this coming fall should be a happy season.

The agriculture department reports that production is up sharply this year and prices will be down from last year's level. As of mid-August the farm price of apples for fresh use was down 10 cents a bushel, 30 cents below the same date one year ago.

Based on estimates made last month the 1964 commercial apple crop will reach about 147 million bushels. This would be the biggest crop since 1937—up 17 per cent from last year.

This extra production will lead to marketing problems for Western growers.

The agriculture department says the central and eastern states, which normally import apples from the West, won't need as many this year as in 1963 because record crops are expected in New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan, as well as in California.

Williams Tractor Company Honored for Sales Effort

Harley Williams, Williams Tractor company, Twin Falls, was presented an award last week by officials of the J. I. Case company for top sales, third quarter, Salt Lake branch. Floyd Bankson, representing the Case company, said in making the award that Williams Tractor company enjoys the distinction of being one of the top 10 outlets for Case combines in North America.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were honored guests at a banquet sponsored by Case company. Several key members of the Williams Tractor company also were invited to the ceremony, which paid honor to Harley Williams. The banquet coincided with Williams' birthday anniversary and the evening was topped off with ice cream and an extra large birthday cake.

Special guest at the banquet was Dick Vanshoste, Paul, who was high individual salesman for the branch.

Both Williams and Vanshoste were presented trophies by the company.

Williams, in a few brief remarks at the conclusion of the banquet, said, "Something big is coming from Case. I don't know exactly what it is going to be, but I can promise you that Case company is going to put on the market machinery and tractors that will set the farm implement world on its ear. That day is not too far off."

Bankson pointed out that Case company is already enjoying a 17 per cent increase in sales this year.

Agronomists Work to Build Resistance to Stripe Rust

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Sept. 4—Wheat growers will soon have varieties of the popular Omar and Lemhi wheats which are resistant to stripe rust, says Dr. Warren Pope, University of Idaho agronomist.

Researchers at the Idaho plant science farm are also working to achieve a higher level of resistance to the disease in the Tendoy variety which was introduced in southern Idaho in 1960.

"Severe stripe rust can still cause yields losses in excess of 50 per cent," Pope said, "and we are working to develop stripe resistance in these strains of wheat which are best suited to our areas."

According to Pope, stripe rust, which was recognized in northern Idaho as early as 1920, became a serious problem in 1960, causing high losses in the club wheats. The stripe rust reached southern Idaho two years later and caused serious damage in the spring wheat, variety Lemhi, widely grown under irrigation. Lemhi had no resistance to stripe rust.

Resistance to the stripe rust has been put into Lemhi now by D. W. Sunderman of the U.S. department of agriculture at the university's Aberdeen branch experiment station. Sunderman used the variety Lee and crossed it four times to Lemhi giving it original Lemhi qualities plus the stripe rust resistance present in the Lee.

"There are many different sources of resistance to stripe rust," Pope said, "and we are putting each of these separately in Lemhi. Sunderman's Lee x Lemhi 4 is being increased."

Sunderman is also developing two lines of hard red spring wheat which are resistant to stripe rust which appear to be better suited for production under irrigation than the variety Thatcher which is grown currently.

Winter wheats are also an important part of the agricultural picture and Idaho researchers are working to develop rust resistance in each of the important winter wheat types.

According to Pope, the club wheat Omar, which was developed for a resistance to smut, has very little resistance to stripe rust. Resistant Omar types have been developed by crossing the club wheats three times to Hohenheimer, an old European wheat.

"These have good stripe resistance," said Pope, "and if they do not have the Omar quality, we already have cross four and cross five to Omar coming up through the breeding program. Our present lines of these wheats will be increased the fall, but we won't decide what to do with them until next year."

SEED SALE INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—Annual sale of certified seed is more than 150 million dollars, according to the department of agriculture. The return to the farmer in increased crop values is 10-20 times that amount in terms of quality, yield and weed and disease control.
