

Smylie Suggests Delay to July 1 On College Lease

BOISE, Sept. 22 (UPI)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie proposed today that any attempt to break the lease which gives Magic Valley Christian college possession of a state-owned campus in Albion be delayed until next July 1. He said he believes the state land board, which last week asked the attorney-general's office to determine whether the lease could be broken, acted hastily. "This is not the kind of a problem which needs to be dealt with in haste," said Smylie.

He was out of the state when the board held its meetings.

Smylie met this morning with Donald R. Nelson, acting college president, and other representatives of the school.

"They came primarily," the governor said, "to tell me some of the problems and give me some information which I think the board didn't have."

Nelson said that in the visit with the governor "we primarily just chatted." He said Smylie was "very considerate."

Nelson, in a statement, said the executive committee of the college board of trustees met Monday night "to give consideration to recent threats through the newspaper by Mr. O. J. Buxton and the state land board to break the lease."

"It was the conviction of the committee," the statement said, "that the general public should be informed about their contractual agreement with the state of Idaho about how the lease might be broken."

Nelson quoted from the lease, which provided that formal notice should be given and also provided for appointment of an arbitrator to settle any dispute.

The statement said those provisions were not complied with.

Smylie said that prior to leasing the campus in 1957, state officials made every effort to find a state use for the school. He said such efforts were unsuccessful.

"It would seem to me," Smylie said, "that if this property can be made useful to the state and its people, that is what we ought to do."

Nelson said the lease gives the college 30 days to correct any breach.

T.F. Hospital Executive to Get New Post

PETER H. SLATER, 327, Seventh Avenue north, assistant administrator at Magic Valley Medical hospital, has been appointed administrator of Bonner General hospital, Sandpoint.

Sigler took over the duties of assistant administrator at the local hospital after Ray Tate was appointed administrator at Bonner Memorial hospital, Pocatello.

Sigler had high praise for Mrs. Mrs. Oliver, the hospital staff, doctors and the department heads for their extremely fine work.

He added that Mrs. Oliver directs an extremely efficient and organized organization to assure a high level of patient care.

Sigler also praised the community. "I will take many fond memories of the many friends and associates with me," he stated.

His duties at Magic Valley Medical hospital will terminate about Oct. 15. Appointment of Sigler's successor as assistant administrator will be made later.

Smylie Will Not Comment On Shortage

BOISE, Sept. 22 (UPI)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie refused yesterday to speculate on what happened in 1955 misfiring of the bureau's occupational licensing while sealing state Democratic Chairman Lloyd Walker of comment on something he knows very little about.

He said a full investigation will be made and a report will be made public "in due time."

Walker said the shortage shows audits of state agencies should be made by the state auditor's office, rather than the bureau of public accounts. He said the bureau was under Smylie's patronage.

Walker said if the auditor was doing his audit would be made very year instead of every two years with the licensing bureau.

"Our county is small," he said. "But it could be larger in some other areas."

Smylie and Walker were simply looking for something to tie his shoes to.

He said the audit report of the shortage reached his desk Friday and he was in Washington and hasn't had a chance to study it.

Asked about a progress of the investigation, he said:

Some 150 Republican precinct individuals, Blick said, "They government and way of life clearly are issues in this election. While some people may not agree with Senator Goldwater as a person, very few will deny that the cause he espouses is a true cause and one that will carry him and Republicans to victory."

"Idaho farmers, businessmen and workers know that their very existence is firmly rooted in our free enterprise system and a government that is continually trying to control and regulate this system by excessive controls and taxation is not in their best interest," he said.

"I feel that this drift to more powerful centralized government will be beaten at the polls, from the county committee to the president, and predict a victory for Republicans that still have faith in the individual, whether he is a farmer, worker or businessman, knows best what he can and should do for himself," Blick declared.

"People throughout the county and state realize that this is more than an election of indi-

ford, incumbent state senator who is running for reelection. Mrs. Barnett and James A. Collier, also Boise, conducted the one-night training session. Senator Blick keynote speaker, attended by 150 precinct committeemen and workers from Twin Falls and Jerome counties. (Times-News photo)

Modern Pioneers

Craigton B. Nelson, a Magic Valley pioneer, died the other day at the age of 39. He wasn't a pioneer in the sense of those who came to Magic Valley early in the century or before. Instead, Mr. Nelson pioneered the study of Magic Valley weather, making an entire career widely from regional trends.

Mr. Nelson was the advisory agricultural meteorologist of the Twin Falls weather bureau. He came here in November, 1961, to take charge of the weather bureau's first efforts at forecasting the weather specifically for southern Idaho. Until then, southern Idaho forecasts were pretty much of a hit and miss proposition, handled by weather stations far away as Salt Lake City or Spokane. Mr. Nelson quickly discovered there was precious little specific information designed especially for forecasting in southern Idaho, and more specifically for Magic Valley.

Mr. Nelson's first few months in Twin Falls emphasized the long overdue need of weather bureau service here. More often than not, the forecasts missed. Mr. Nelson was the object of much good-natured kidding which he accepted in the proper spirit. He never threw up his hands and quit—merely redoubled his efforts. He studied all available data about the area in which he was responsible for weather forecasting. Before long, Mr. Nelson's intensive study and concentration started paying off in better forecasts.

Magic Valley is still a tough district in which to forecast weather. Freaks of terrain and location still make the forecaster's life hectic. Yet thanks to Mr. Nelson and his scientific efforts, Magic Valley residents have learned they can rely on predictions of the Twin Falls weather bureau. Magic Valley farmers, especially, are indebted to Craigton B. Nelson for pioneering one of the last remaining "frontiers" in weather forecasting in the United States. Magic Valley will reap the benefits of his studies for many years to come.

REAL LIPSHOOTER

Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev, a fast man with the word, seldom wastes where he's going when he starts to brag. So it wasn't surprising when he told visiting Japanese the other day that the Soviet Union has developed a new weapon capable of destroying all life on Earth. Understandably, the boast aroused considerable conjecture and the premier has been besieged by pleas for an explanation.

Premier Khrushchev has been backsliding and filling it didn't take long for him to reduce his original boast to a report that scientists had shown him "a terrible weapon that shows what mankind can do." He also offered the further explanation that the new weapon was not a nuclear bomb.

Of more interest than the boast are the circumstances attending it. The Japanese, in the careful Japanese manner, made notes on the meeting and declared the new weapon threat was aimed at Red China. Always before, when Premier Khrushchev felt disposed to mouth threats and boasts, it has been for the benefit of the West, more specifically, the United States. He also used the occasion to accuse Red China's Mao Tse-tung of "spreading warlike sentiments" and trying to seize Russian territory.

Naturally, in voicing his latest boast, Khrushchev told the Japanese his country has war and does not want to use its new weapon. Then he quoted what he claimed was an old Russian proverb, "If you live among wolves, you should howl like a wolf." Mr. Khrushchev gets plenty of practice!

There's always the possibility Russian scientists have developed some terrible new weapon, but then, there have been rumors of new and terrible developments for warfare in this country for years. There have been rumors of startling discoveries in the field of bacteriological warfare; rumors of deadly gases, far more effective than anything used in World War I. Rumors persist of secret plants turning out secret products that are stored in secret places. Something along this line has been rumored under way at Hill Field, near Ord, Idaho. It would seem there must be some foundation in fact for all the rumors.

If the Russians have some terrible new weapon they might show less restraint in using it against Red China than against the West. Red China still has no atomic weapons, and almost nothing of the caliber of the most recent Khrushchev boast. Perhaps if the rift between communist Russia and Red China reached the shooting point, someone might be able to break some potent weapon into Chinese hands. If the two communist giants reach that point in their differences, it's certain there would be a huge cheering section.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Any man who hangs around Washington for any length of time should lose the capacity to be appalled by anything, but the Senate's revived "investigation" of the Bobo-Baker case has stench that can't be ignored.

We have got here, Mrs. Johnson's investigation, an investigation that will be no investigation at all if the Democratic Senate majority can manage it. A charge that a Democratic contractor named Matt McClain paid a $35,000 kickback on the construction of the District of Columbia stadium has been plainly referred to the Senate rules committee with instructions to look into it.

DEAD END—This is like commanding Hilbert Humphrey to investigate Lyndon Johnson. The rules committee had its chance several ago when it "looked into" the influence wielded by Baker, a Johnson protege as secretary of the Senate majority. On a straight party-line vote, it merely recommended the appointment of a select committee on senatorial ethics.

Already, the Democratic majority has voted to deny Republicans members of the committee the right to sit with them. And Rules Committee Chairman H. Everett Jordan, D., N.C., is most reluctant to discuss what the committee plans to do.

Yet a situation exists that cries for the fullest explanation. McCloskey, Democratic finance committee chairman at the time, had to post a $73,631.25. But Sen. John Williams, R., Del., has produced a check signed by McCloskey for $109,205.60, payable to the insurance firm of Don Reynolds associates.

MYSTERIOUS $15,000—Williams told the news media he kept $10,000 of this money for his own services and handed the remaining $25,000 over to Bobby Baker to help finance Johnson's vice presidential campaign in 1960.

Now the Democrats are willing that Williams and Reynolds withhold the kickback charge unless the campaign got under way. Williams may be so but it is the Democrats' own fault if they find themselves in a political bind. Williams tried to get the rules committee to ascertain the amount of the McCloskey check before it closed its investigation, but the committee insisted itself with a telephoned statement by McCloskey that the check was for "about $73,000."

HUH?—None of the Democratic majority in that earlier whitewash of the case wanted to call either McCloskey or Reynolds or both and make them testify under oath. Indeed, that noted reformer, Sen. Joe Clark of Pennsylvania, said there was no need to do so. "In view of the very evasive statement which Mr. McCloskey has made," he said. Politically naive McCloskey is a Pennsylvania, too, of course, but even so the attorney had reason to expect better from Joe Clark.

Clearly, the Democrats recognized that the Bobo-Baker case is still one hell of a mess and they are determined to keep it buried, at least until after the election. In the rules committee, they have picked the right outfit to affiliate at the interment; after all, those boys have had experience at the job. But no amount of deodorant is going to kill that stink.

Views of Others

A GOOD SHOW

The two candidates for Idaho's second district seat in Congress showed themselves to be worthy opponents Thursday night. Each spoke with conviction, they debated vigorously and they left their listeners—if any were uncommitted—with a selection between distinct and opposing philosophies of government. Surely it can be said of the Democratic incumbent Ralph Harding and his Republican challenger, George Hansen that the former is a chump and the latter can't be beaten.

The meeting at which the two men appeared was in the best tradition of American politics, and it was much to be preferred to the usual handout, the prepared speech and the carefully rehearsed television and radio performances which have come to be too much a part of political campaigns. As too rarely happens, the voters had an opportunity to compare the candidates, by noting how, or if, they faced the issues in the campaign, how they answered the questions put to them, the audience and their approaches to government, economy and contracts.

The debate of the second district would be well served if each campaign could see a series of such meetings from one end of southern Idaho to the other. That, of course, would depend upon the temperament of the candidates, specifically whether they possessed the courage to face their opponents in free-for-all debate. It is to the great credit of Mr. Harding and Mr. Hansen that they possess such courage. Not every incumbent or challenger would.

The only regrettable aspect of the meeting was the failure of question-and-answer from the floor. Too often they were more argumentative than informative, more interested in showing how clever the questioner than qualified the candidate and more in the form of speeches than questions. Still, the exposures of their views by the candidates preceding the question period, the genuinely probing questions that were asked and the free exchange between the candidates resulted in an informative evening.

Considerable credit goes to the success of the event should go to the Personnel Grange for sponsoring it and to the moderator, Vernon Hiltz, for his ability to keep the discussion on the track of the proceedings. At first, Mr. Horton was disposed to limit the candidates to one answer to each question, but he was reconsidered and allowed them to respond. The result was a far more informative and interesting session than it would have been had the one question—one answer rule been enforced.

Especially it is commendable are Mr. Hansen and Mr. Harding for agreeing to the face-to-face encounter in the first place and then for forthright presentation of their views. The voter who allowed him missed an excellent opportunity to witness a first-rate performance of the kind that in modern political campaigns is becoming far too infrequent. —Idaho State Journal

TOLL MOUNTS

The Minnesota traffic toll, as autumn days cut down on the heavy travel of the summer months, stands some 20 deaths ahead of the 1963 pace. The Labor Day week-end took 10 lives, which is similar to the best record the state has had over a similar holiday, but the worst.

The fact remains, however, that in a little over eight months 555 people have died on Minnesota highways. That is an average of more than two a day, every day in the week.

The point often is made that our record per million miles is getting better. We travel farther to kill one person than we did a few years ago. But there's small comfort in that. We also have better highways and better cars, but, unfortunately, probably not better drivers, at least not to continue for the rest of the year at the pace this has been maintained through Labor Day, the highway death toll from 1963 topped the 800 mark. That seems a tragic number of lives to be lost—especially when all of our safety programs are directed at protecting people rather than killing them. —Minneapolis Press

Orchestra for Opera Strikes At Rehearsal

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (UPI)—The Metropolitan Opera orchestra went on strike yesterday on the first day of rehearsals for the opening of the new season. The strike placed future plans of the season, scheduled to begin Oct. 12, in jeopardy.

The members of the American Federation of Musicians turned down a contract offer from the union last week to continue work without one. Opera General Manager Rudolph Bing said the company will rehearse as long as possible without orchestra but would have "no option but to lay off employees if it becomes useless or impossible."

Bing said he did not think Local 802 of the union, to which the 108-member orchestra belongs, understood the Met's offer of a five-year contract that included guaranteed year-round employment by the third year and a minimum pay of $13,500 by the fifth year. Orchestra mem-

Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives.

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste moisture in the colon becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, patients have to force action by flushing, irrigating or dredging the intestine.

This new miracle substance, known medically as diethyl sodium sulfosuccinate, works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity in no laxative time.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name Rivanol. It is safe—not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try Rivanol—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

PILER, Sept. 22—Virginia Gay Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown, Piler, and Frank L. Martynowicz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Martynowicz, Berwyn, Ill., were united in marriage in a civil ceremony Aug. 29 in St. Edward's Catholic church, Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Taylor before an altar decorated with white gladioli in brass containers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta which featured an empire bodice of Chantilly lace over a princess skirt. The gown was finished with tiny buttons at the waist. A delicate train of lace bordered with organza fell from a large soft bow at the waist.

The bride's shoulder-length veil of imported illusion was held by a single lace rose. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids accented with gold leaves and velvet streamers.

For tokens of sentiment, the bride wore the traditional blue garter, a penny in her shoe and carried her grandmother's crystal rosary.

Barbara Brown, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a straight-length dress of gold and white brocade taffeta, fashioned with a high neckline and elbow-length sleeves. She carried a large gold chrysanthemum on three white leaves accented with gold leaves.

Bridesmaids were Nancy Hart, Salt Lake City; Diane Green, Blackfoot; Ariel Baach, Ogdon, and Donita Garriss, Wilmington, N. C. They were attired in street-length dresses of colored satin with ribbons like that of the maid of honor. Each carried a large white chrysanthemum and gold leaves.

Randall Martynowicz, Berwyn, Ill., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were John Pastorek and Edward Hancock, Ogdon; William Garris, Wilmington, N. C., and Bruce Brown, Piler, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a two-piece beige lace ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of brocade-colored chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue peau de soie ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Edward Blasberg, grandfather of the bride, wore a beige linen suit with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze-colored chrysanthemums.

A reception was held in the parish hall. The bride's table was covered with a nylon eyelet cloth with a flounced skirt, and centered with a five-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The base of the cake was encircled with ivy and gold flowers and was flanked by white cherub candelabras holding white tapers. The bridegroom's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with silver candelabra and cornucopia.

TUESDAY, Sept. 23 — Born today, you are not only competitive but also completely trustworthy and reliable. Those who know you are well aware of these qualities and may sometimes take advantage of your good nature by dumping their own problems into your lap. The New Way at Okay!

NOW! BUY ALL YOUR GROCERIES

MEAT-PRODUCE-DRUG SUNDRIES-BAKERY-FROZEN FOODS-HARDWARE-AND HOUSEHOLD ITEMS

WHOLESALE PLUS 10 PERCENT

To Every Family in Magic Valley:

This week inaugurates Okay's new food pricing policy in Twin Falls. On Sunday night, all grocery items in all departments were marked down to the wholesale cost. From now on every item in the store will be sold on this "cost basis." You pay the 10 per cent markup charge when you pass through the check-out stand.

We believe this to be an entirely new concept of food retailing in Twin Falls and will result in truly lower food prices for the housewives of Magic Valley! We know you will be amazed when you visit Okay and see this new price policy in action. You'll be pleased at the really small 10 per cent mark up charge which must be made to cover the normal costs of operation such as taxes, heat, lights, etc.

Every item in Okay's enormous stocks have been marked down to the wholesale price and is guaranteed by a $1,000 Surety Bond. This means our books are always open for your inspection and prices as marked are guaranteed to be no higher than the original wholesale cost.

This is our personal invitation to you to come and visit us at the Okay this week, participate in this new way of buying all your food needs. See the extra cash-savings you'll make when you play ONLY 10 PERCENT instead of the usual higher mark-up charges. This is truly the new way of shopping that actually saves you money!

The People's Food Bank Plan will allow your family to buy at wholesale cost plus a nominal 10% operational fee. Each of Okay's customers will be given an opportunity to participate. Until the plan is fully developed, your "courtesy card" entitling you to make all your food purchases at wholesale will be given you free of charge when you visit Okay.

Sincerely, Lee Fillmore
