LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, Nov. 28 (UPI)—The Belgian-American air rescue in the Congo came to an official end today with the arrival of 76 more refugees from the north. Belgian and Congolese sources feared another 1,000 whites had been left to the mercy of the rebels. Reports from Khartoum said rebel "President" Christophe Gbenye and his lieutenants had fled to Sudan. With Gbenye were rebel Pierre M'Jele and Gen. Nicholas Olonga, who came from Cairo and President Johnson announced in Johnson City, Tex., the U.S. air force C-130 Hercules transports used to fly Belgian paratroopers to the Congo left Kamala for Ascension Island. He said the mission saved "hundreds, perhaps thousands" from massacre.

As the rescue operation ended, tales of horror were reported—and there were new reports of cannibalism. One such report came from Dominican Sister Marie Johanna Tack who arrived in Brussels with 128 other refugees who endured months of horror in the northeastern Congo town of Pauls.

"I believe the four priests there were eaten," she said. "Getting a priest in considered powerful medicine by the rebels." She said she thought at least 200 other people were in the Pauls camp, including a number of priests and nuns. She estimated CONGO, Nov. 28, Col. 3

Holiday Auto Toll Nears 400 Mark

By United Press International
The Thanksgiving holiday traffic toll climbed steadily toward the 400-mark today, maintaining its five deaths an hour average established three days earlier.

The National Safety Council, which does not count the traffic death toll over the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday, said in a similar report of November 1963, some 600 persons died in highway accidents.

The United Press International count at 11:30 p.m. EST showed Saturday 380 persons dead in traffic accidents since the start of the holiday.

The breakdown:

Johnson's Pet Beagle,
Her, Is Dead

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Nov. 28 (UPI)—President Johnson announced today that "Her," one of his two pet beagles, died yesterday on the operating table after swallowing a rock on the White House grounds.

The President, saying "We have had a tragedy," announced the dog's death after a news conference this morning on the lawn in front of his Little Ranch home.

Johnson did not say where the dog had been taken for the operation, although there were reports that it was Walter Reed Army medical center in Washington.

"Lucy (Johnson's daughter) is heartbroken about Her," Johnson said.

"Her" and the other Johnson beagle, "Him," became internationally famous earlier this year after Johnson outraged some dog lovers by holding them by the neck and pulling them.

The President stoutly maintained this is proper treatment for beagles.

Second Quint
Dies in Paris

PARIS, Nov. 28 (UPI)—A second of the Bambar quintuplets died today, the French ministry of health reported. The surviving three are suffering from respiratory difficulties.

The quintuplets were born five days ago, two months prematurely.

JEAN-LUC, THE ONE OF the five born, died late Tuesday after developing a lung infection.

The remaining boy and two girls are under constant care in incubators at the modern pediatrics center of the Paris faculty of medicine.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sandorff, Jr., a 32-month-old postman in a Paris suburb.

Mariner 4 Is on Way to Get Closeup Photos of Red Planet

CAPE KENNEDY, Nov. 28 (UPI)—America rocketed a spacecraft-on-an-aerobic course toward Mars today to get the first closeup pictures of the planet which scientists believe may harbor life. The Mariner-4 probe, equipped with a television camera, is scheduled to complete its historic 325-million-mile journey in seven and one-half months, intercepting the red planet on July 14. The craft tonight was 89,026 miles from Earth, heading toward Mars at 2,630 miles per hour.

Scientists said Mariner-4 was following a path well within the steering limits of its own rocket engine, which will be used for course correction maneuvers.

The 375-pound spacecraft's maneuvering rocket, which is designed to burn for about one-half mile, is expected to be fired next week. It also has the ability for another course correction if needed.

If no midcourse maneuvering were attempted, the probe would pass Mars by 200,000 miles.

The spacecraft will be aimed on a path that will take it within 10,000 miles of the Martian surface to give its television camera and electronic eye and remove a 90-minute film of the planet that has intrigued astronomers for centuries.

Mariner-4 is not expected to answer any questions to the existence of Martian life, but its scientific readings near the planet will be vital to U. S. plans to land life-seeking robots on Mars in 1966.

The committee of law enforcement has extended the registration time to Jan. 18, which will allow expedited handling of all applicants at the state and county level, as well as providing at least one day period after the holidays so that all registrants may comply with regulations before the deadline authorized.

Clifford Thompson, county assessor, advised those persons who have purchased a new vehicle during the year and have not transferred the title to do so prior to registration. All vehicles except small two-wheel trailers must be titled prior to registration.

All passenger vehicle owners are required to register in the county of their residence.

Thompson also advised residents to purchase only license plates after launch. He said all were radiating back data on radiation, magnetism and space-dust. The camera will not be turned on until Mariner approaches Mars.

"Everything looks good so far," James said, "but we've got a long way to go."

Mars will be about 134 million miles from Earth next July, but the Mariner flight will shorten the distance twice that distance because of the curving path it must follow to intercept the planet.

The remaining boy and two girls are under constant care in incubators at the modern pediatrics center of the Paris faculty of medicine.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sandorff, Jr., a 32-month-old postman in a Paris suburb.

The Philippine news service said six persons were drowned and 32 missing and presumed drowned in stormy waters of Receding Bay. Seven persons were rescued.

be either interior or exterior, as they are clearly visible from the street, and they must be lighted.

Elaborate nature of the display is not a deciding factor, when they are judged on general effect. An inexpensive arrangement ingeniously conceived and artistically executed, is as likely to win as one costing many times as much.

Judges will be announced and artistic judging will take place the night of Dec. 21 so that announcement of the winners can be made before Christmas.

Prizes will be $60 for first place—$35 for second, $20 for third, $10 for fourth, and $5 for each of the five honorable mentions.

Falls Active

More than 12 times as much water is flowing over Shoshone Falls as normal at this time of year.

Officials from the Twin Falls Canal Company say this is due to the amount of summer snow.

There was a good carry-over of water from last year, and with the early snow it appears there will be plenty of water for the coming year, the canal company reported.

Usually at this time of year about 200-second feet of water flows over the falls. Now between 3,000 and 3,400-second feet of water is going over.

If the condition of the Twin Falls county jail as it was Tuesday of this week is usual, then it is far from being the filthy place it often has been labeled. The jail was inspected by a Times-News reporter who found that while it would not pass a military white-glove inspection, it was basically clean and minus any bad odor. The reporter asked Sheriff James H. Bonham if the jail had been cleaned up especially for Thanksgiving. His reply was a flat, "No."

There is one good reason for believing this is true—the officer's living quarters are located on the same floor, and if the jail smelled bad at this time it would absorb the odors. The reporter found the principal odors were those of food, disinfectants, soap and natural human body odors.

The temperature inside was pleasant, but not hot. Some of the prisoners were bare from the waist up.

One thing is evident, the jail is not modern. It was constructed before elections were controlled and each cell must be visited personally by the sheriff if he is to determine that prisoners are not attempting escape or suicide.

The three central figures in the investigation are Bobby G. Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority; Matthew J. McCloud, once ambassador to Ireland and a Democratic fund raiser; and Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent.

The issue the committee will probe:

"Was there a $35,000 overpayment by Philadelphia contractors to McCloud on his campaign and his company's contribution of the 17 million dollar O-C stadium?"

McCloud has denied it. Paid $25,000 of the alleged overpayment through Baker and his company's contribution of the 1960 campaign fund of $10,000?

The President also charged that Baker's bid for the contract was given congress in January and he kept below the magic ceiling of 100 billion dollars.

"There are no plans for a summit meeting with the Soviet successors to Nikita S. Khrushchev."

"He wants a strike-free settlement of steel industry contract negotiations that will not bring a rise in prices."

"He expects occasional changes in the cabinet but hopes for reasonable continuity in top posts."

"He feels 'outraged' by the slasher of foreign aid by Congo."

Compared to the city jail, it is paradise, but compared to a place of freedom it is as dark, dirty and cold as a tomb.

Shower heads of human perspiration were absent, even though commodes were open. This could mean that strong disinfectants are used to prevent odor, or that the commode had been recently cleaned.

The county jail, located on the fourth floor of the courthouse, is physically better ventilated than the city lockup. The rooms are less crowded, the windows are larger, the air is cleaner and the temperature is more uniform.

Embassies In Moscow Are Wrecked

MOSCOW, Nov. 28 (UPI)—A mob of 2,000 African students howling what sounded like tribal chants attacked the American, Belgian, British and Congo embassies today with a savage fury that raged out of control. Soviet police, who had stood idly by at first as the "spontaneous" demonstrators erupted, finally restored order. With gritted teeth the red and blue coated police charged their horses into the fur-hatted Africans and dispersed them. Some Asians and Russians were in the mob. Police had expected the demonstrations but the wildness of the demonstration apparently took them by surprise and the Tass news agency said it was with "great difficulty" they restored order. Western observers and the most impartial but blind at one point.

When police moved they moved ruthlessly. They hurled students to the frozen ground tossed them bodily from a 15-foot balcony at the Congo embassy and off the roof of a garage. One policeman kicked a fallen student.

The mob mostly from Patrice Lumumba university, attacked the Belgian embassy, which they wrecked. Then the crowd moved onto the British embassy across the river from the embassy.

The well-organized students equipped with loud speakers which cried for imperialist blood—especially that of Americans and Belgians were protesting.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Generalissimo Franco's latest adventure in ideological expediency is causing the state department some new headaches. The Spanish dictator is now permitting the subjects of his strongly anti-communist state to fight with Red China.

The new cry among Franco's tame denunciators is "Cuba, Satisgas No!"—a slogan that would seem ill-suited to the generalissimo's brand of fascism. But as usual, Franco has a gimmick, and as usual the gimmick is: "Fascism is employing profitable trade with Cuba, it gets sugar and tobacco from the island, and exports 'military' electrical equipment, farm implements, trucks and foodstuffs. In addition, Spain has contracted to construct 20 cargo ships for Castro's merchant marine. Its business with the megalomaniac Fidel is one of the more flagrant examples of the western world's flouting of American pleas to isolate Cuba."

AND U. S. GETS BLAME.—Meanwhile, of course, the U. S. persists in its attempts to persuade Franco to cooperate. As a result, Washington is accused of trying to sabotage Spain's burgeoning economy.

Diplomats here were not surprised when the Spanish regime blamed the U. S. for the attack on the Spanish cargo ship the Arago off Cuba in which two American seamen were killed last night. The attack was mounted by anti-Castro privateers, but it is Spain's premise that it could not have occurred without American consent and, perhaps, encouragement.

As a result, the world has been privileged to witness a most unusual development. Under the careful supervision of Franco's police, small mobs of Spaniards have been staging demonstrations denouncing American "interference" in Spain's trade with Cuba. The demonstrators hurl charges of "communists" and "murderers" and even shout vengeful references to the Spanish-American war of 1898.

THANKS FOR THE TWO BILLION DOLLARS—Franco also seems to it that his newspapers depict Washington as hypocritical. Editorial point out that the U. S. maintains relations with several communist states and question the consistency of American demands that Spain sever its trade ties with Cuba.

These attacks on the U. S. seem at least inauspicious in view of the nearly two-billion dollars aid lavished on Spain since 1953. Economic aid has totaled $1,723,000,000, and military aid more than $500 million dollars. Part of the military aid goes to rebuild the Spanish fleet; 32 warships have been modernized and the U. S. has presented the Spanish government with five destroyers and one submarine "on loan." Yet Washington is in a familiar bind on this one. Ad hoc is the price Franco exacts for letting the U. S. build air force and naval bases on Spanish soil. If the aid were to be stopped, Franco undoubtedly would drop out of the compact.

As a result, Washington decided last March that Spain was "taking appropriate steps" to reduce its trade with Cuba and therefore was entitled to stay on Uncle Santa's list. At the time of course, the U. S. was setting up a Polaris submarine base there.

Views of Others

CHANGE OF VIEW

Now that Governor Rossellini of Washington has been summarily ousted by voters of that state in the recent election, chances of getting a concert of action by northwest states on behalf of the Columbia river compact may have been dimmed on the local level.

Governor Rossellini steadfastly refused to consider the compact and brought his influence to bear on this matter over the state. Only Washington and Oregon have not ratified the proposed compact although Oregon is rapid in its reluctance whereas Washington was consistently averse.

Eventually, many high schools can be expected to have rather extensive vocational departments. If the present trend continues over the next few years, this development will have hearty approval of employers who have been forced into training youngsters with little or no previous instruction. Their alternative is to attempt to hire journeymen from other parts of the nation, something that's rather difficult for an area that has low pay scales.

Vocational education is a welcome addition to a system that has been based far too heavily on such intangibles as "social adjustment." There's plenty of indication that vocational education in high schools will go much farther toward "social adjustment" and security than all the questionable educational experiments to date. And vocational study will serve a large segment of students who have been neglected far too long.

HE'S STILL HOPING

Gov. Robert E. Smylie has expressed the hope that the state's proposed water resources agency will evolve into a natural resources board. The governor, who has asked the last two sessions of the legislature for a natural resources board, says he will omit that provision from the draft of a law to create the water agency in the next session.

The natural resources board has become something of a hot project for the governor. One of the chief objections to his proposal has been that no limitation has been suggested for the natural resources board. Legislation would permit the board to extend control over any and all natural resources and activities connected with them. That included the fish and game department.

Idahoans who recall the functions and malfunctions of the fish and game department under the old political setup will hope no one is ever successful in returning the department to politics.

The effort has been made in virtually every session of the state legislature since the department was placed under the direction of a commission. The same effort has been made to exert political control over the state highway department. Both departments have made extensive and impressive progress since they were removed from the control of the politicians. It would be a mistake to return either department to the political clutches under any circumstances.

If the natural resources board proposal is broached to the next session of the legislature, sportmen would do well to watch for two things, first, any general language that would include the fish and game commission, and second, any specific exemption.

There's a difference between coordination and centralized control.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

NANDPUR, The Punjab, India, Nov. 25.—This is a big day in this dusty crossroads because the goats have arrived. They were sent via truck from California to New Delhi, where they will take a journey of two days and then 24 hours in a truck to Nandpur.

As the two peace corps young men take them out of their crates, they look remarkably self-possessed. If they are surprised by surreal tales of their strange past, all a down-to-earth level when they're most needed. The model for the seven farm schools is America's system of land-grant colleges. In India the lab, provided mostly of the people with help from the central government and American sources. And one god is the extension service as it has developed in the United States.

Two hundred miles away is the great Bhakra dam, one of India's proudest achievements. Bhakra is the Sutlej river and when completed will provide irrigation for 10,000,000 acres and 450,000 kilowatts of power. This largest irrigation project of kind in the world is a prime example of Indo-American cooperation. The designer and director of the project was the late Harvey M. Slocom, who built Grand Coulee Dam. He worked with 300 Indian engineers and 40 American technicians.

And the management press hard and the management report riots in the south and the possibility of rationing imposed for a period of time, the need for one of everything is dramatized. Up to 100 per cent of the population lives off the land, probably the highest percentage in the world. The average plot is three acres or less and the flood stick the dug only three inches below the surface is in almost-universal use.

With 300,000,000 people wanting to live on the land, it is hard to believe that rapid inflation can't be avoided. Indians are grappling with it, yet believe that small example what must be done, repeat many-times-over, will take hold and the miracle will happen while there is still time. It is the democratic example by persuasion and cooperation rather than by force and coercion that India offers the world today.

Norman Luboff Choir to Sing At Burley Concert Series

BURLEY, Nov. 28 — The second Mini-Cassette Community concert will feature Norman Luboff, renowned American choral director and arranger, said his spokesman at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Burley high school auditorium.

Although Norman Luboff's name and artistry have long been known in North America, where virtually every home boasting a phonograph also contains at least one of his nearly 30 best-selling albums, it was not until the fall of 1963 that he became able to take sufficient time from his recording activities and his work as an arranger and conductor for "Time" and television to embark on his first personal tour of the country. Norman Luboff's tour consists of 30 90-minute professional performances, accompanied by a gifted and amazingly versatile instrumentalists, whose repertoire is virtually unlimited, and who are equally at home in the canopies of Bach or the hit tunes of Broadway—all of which perform with infinite vitality and superb musicianship.

Except for the classical selections, Luboff has arranged most of the material himself. It is especially noted that this day of rock chamber and other "hooked up" electronic devices, for the clarity and uniqueness of his arrangements, and for eminently singable style.

The tall, husky and full-bearded Luboff has a very strict and thorough musical training behind him. He studied piano and voice as a youngster, participated in church activities, but didn't consider music as a possible profession until after he entered college.

After college Luboff started arranging and teaching professionally, interrupting these activities temporarily for studies in composition and orchestration with the noted composer, Leo Sowerby.

Luboff, who gave up professional singing about 15 years ago when the demand for his arrangements exceeded the time he was able to allot them on a part-time basis, is at home in almost any style of music.

He enjoys collecting folk music, particularly and his solid musical education and vast traveling experience help him to derive pleasure from "even the most 'far out' of the moderns."

Among his many recordings, which range from show tunes and blues to sacred and secular classics, is an album devoted to the choral works of Beethoven and Handel which he made with the New Symphony orchestra of London under the well-tempered baton of Leopold Stokowski.

Bandits Raid Loan Club, Take $17,360

LONDON, Nov. 28 (UPI) — A gang of eight bandits armed with clubs, an ax and shotgun raided a police-guarded loan club in suburban Walworth, today and snatched $17,300.

But during the free-for-all, while 200 members of the loan club looked on in astonishment, the raiders snatched another $17,000-in-cash. Seven of the bandits escaped.

Eye-witnesses said members of the Walworth Mutual Loan Club were gathered outside Lady Margaret church hall waiting for police to open the doors when a small delivery truck drove up.

Out burst eight raiders, disguised with theatrical masks, shattered glass in the church hall windows and clambered in.

Inside officials were preparing to pay out $100,000 in shares while three detectives guarded the money. There was a brief battle, clubs flying, chairs hurled across the room.

Then the bandits fled, as they had come, through the window, rushed to their truck and took off.

Loan club organizer James Sims, 56, said: "We had taken some of the money out of the boxes when police saw the men wearing masks coming towards the door. One said: 'It's raid!' and they barricaded the door with a table."

"But the men came through the windows. Some attacked us with pickaxe handles and others grabbed the money cases. But when they found they were empty they came back and snatched packets from the play-out box."

Sims said he dived into the fray with an ax handle. "I don't know how long it lasted. I was so confused I didn't take note of the time. It was fight, fight all the way."

Three civilians and two policemen received minor injuries in the battle.

Police said one bandit was captured but withheld further details.

2 Cars Slide Off Slippery County Roads

A Twin Falls teen-ager and a woman escaped serious injury Friday when the vehicles they were driving slid off county roads in two separate accidents.

Michael Bird, 17, Twin Falls, told county deputy sheriffs the 1963 Mercury he was driving at 3 p.m. Friday, 10 miles south of Holden, slipped the road and into a rock creek.

Bird noted he approached a curve in the country road, hit the brakes and the car slid straight ahead, over a 14-foot embankment and lit on its top in Rock Creek.

No citation was issued.

Mrs. Marcia C. Lowe, 32, Burley, was driving a 1960 Mercury at 10:10 a.m. Friday on highway about two miles east of Hamlin when she lost control of the vehicle and it skidded into a horse pit.

The vehicle struck a power pole owned by Idaho Power company, but only minor damage was reported to the pole. No citation was issued.

Gunman on FBI List

Is Captured

DETROIT, Nov. 28 (UPI) — Raymond Wynnard, 26, Detroit, a gunman who's three-day crime spree earned him a place on the FBI's 10 most wanted list, was captured without a struggle today in Madison, Wis.

Wynnard was seized by the FBI as he rode in a taxi. He did not resist arrest. A search of the room where he had been staying revealed a .32 caliber pistol that the FBI said Wynnard admitted he stole from a Detroit gunshop.

man of the Salvation Army's advisory board. Coins dropped into the kettles or money sent to the Salvation Army's headquarters, 801 Second avenue north, will go towards helping needy people have a happier Christmas. (Times-News photo)

'Christmas Kettles' Set up In T. F. by Salvation Army

THE SALVATION ARMY'S first Christmas kettle was set up at 10 a.m. Friday at Main Avenue and Shoshone street by Earl E. Haroldson, Christmas appeal chairman.

"Those of us who had a wonderful Thanksgiving at home with our families Thursday have an especially good reason to roll up our sleeves today to help the Salvation Army set up its Christmas kettle," Haroldson said.

"Beginning today, the coins we drop in the kettles, or checks we mail to headquarters will help the Salvation Army help our lonely, hopeless, ill, or down-and-out neighbors here at least as happy a holiday on Dec. 25 as most of us did on Nov. 26," Haroldson added.

"At Christmas time," he continued, "I think we all want to share with others."

Those serving on the Christmas appeal committee, besides Haroldson, include Judge O. L. Duvall, Herbert Derrick, George Hartley, Howard Burkhardt, Mrs. LaVerne Strom, Morris Roth, Maj. Samual J. Magaw, Henry Crow, Domer Bertach and the Rev. Elmer Hinckel.

Volunteers are invited to take part in the program. They are needed to repair toys, wrap packages, decorate and go caroling. Persons with almost any talent in music, art and crafts can be put to work by the Salvation Army at Christmas time, Capt. George Driver, corps commanding officer, said.

"The Salvation Army, with a 20-year history of sharing with others, steps in and does its best to help make Thanksgiving and Christmas happier holidays for the destitute family, the homeless man, the hospital shut-in and the serviceman away from home," Captain Driver said.

A total of 105 soldiers and dependents have been stricken with the disease during the year, and several other cases were reported among off-base civilians who had contact with Ft. Ord trainees.

The army earlier had planned to suspend basic training for the month of December, but a spokesman said Friday that the suspension will continue through Jan. 31 because "we want to make certain the disease is wiped out."

A medical program is being prepared to monitor areas where a new outbreak after Jan. 31.

New Title Insurance Firm Slated

Another business has evolved from the increased development in the Sun Valley operation. Lawyer's Insurance Corp., was filed Friday at the Twin Falls county courthouse by the Sawtooth Title company, Inc., T. W. Silvers, president of the corporation, announced.

The business office of the title company will be located in the Boone's Land Title company building, Twin Falls, and the agency office will be in Hailey.

Other members of the corporation are Harry H. Thompson, William J. Lautink and John W. Davies, vice president; Mr. Twin Falls, and John F. Ensign, Hailey.

The new corporation will write title insurance for Lawyer's Title Insurance, Inc., one of the nation's largest title insurance companies.

Silvers said he has had the venture in mind for a year or so.

He added he expects the Blaine county records all should be microfilmed and the files completed as they can open an office before March 1. He pointed out there are a little over 100 years of records to be microfilmed.

The corporation plans to keep it a local operation and employ persons from the Hailey area for the agency. The records will be kept in the Twin Falls office until final arrangements are made in Hailey, Silvers said, and he will employ three or four people to begin on the files in his local office.

The new office is the 10th Lawyer's Title office in the state.

Beauty Advice

"I have never yet seen a finer means of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, dryness is checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy, youthful look . . ." Extract from a report by Margaret Merrill suggesting the use of the molten tropical oil of myrrh as a powder base. Most druggists are now able to obtain supplies of this oil which gives glorious lowness to the skin.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Permian and Mrs. John Compton. The December meeting will be a Christmas party, with busloads of members as special guests at the home of Mrs. Martha Crandall.

USC TOPPLES NO. 1 RANKED NOTRE DAME

Fertig Passes for Two Touchdowns in Final Quarter for 20-17 Upset

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP) — Quarterback Craig Fertig passed for two touchdowns in two minutes and 10 seconds of the final quarter today, rallying Southern California to a fantastic 20-17 upset over Notre Dame, the nation's top-ranked college football team. The startling upset wrecked the anticipated story-book finish of Notre Dame and coach Ara Parseghian, who was lured from Northwestern to rebuild Notre Dame's football fortunes and had forged a 0-0 record and had had the first Irish national championship in 15 years in sight.

The victory put Southern Cal in the Rose bowl.

Notre Dame rolled along as expected for the first half, taking a 17-0 lead before Fertig got the Trojans started.

The ninth-ranked Heavies got the nod from the faculty representatives of the Pacific League (AAUW) despite the fact that Southern California, a strong contender, scored a stunning 20-17 upset this afternoon in Los Angeles over previously unbeaten Notre Dame.

Oregon State and the Trojans had finished the regulation conference race tied for first place with 3-1 records but did not face each other. Today's win over the Irish gave the men of Troy an overall season mark of 7-3.

The number six team, however, was favored to make the Heavies chafe in what was regarded as an obviously tight vote. There was no hint of doubt in the voting went.

The decision means a third trip to the Rose bowl for the Heavies, who made their debut in the classic on Jan. 1, 1942, when they defeated Duke 20-16. Oregon State returned to the bowl on January of 1957 when the Heavies lost to Iowa 35-10.

Fourth-ranked Michigan won eight out of nine games this season with the lone loss being by one point to Purdue.

USC Bitter on Losing Rose Bowl Berth

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (UPI) — Coach John McKay and athletic director Jim Hill of the University of Southern California tonight expressed their deepest disappointment over the failure of the Pacific eight schools to name the Heavies as the Western Rose Bowl contender.

"I naturally was very disappointed," said McKay. "So far as I am concerned, it is one of the rankers' injustices ever perpetrated in the field of inter-collegiate athletics." Hill would not amplify his statement and added that it would be all he would have to say on the selection of Oregon State as the West's bowl contender.

Coach McKay, still wearing a university sweat shirt under his jacket, attempted to buck up his own spirits.

"I hope Oregon State does a real fine job," he said. "It is a well-coached team and I hope it illustrates the conference's claim that they are better than we are." McKay and Hill was led to believe that Southern California would have a chance for the Rose Bowl selection if it played well today.

"This is the second year we have lost a conference vote for the Rose Bowl."

Cincinnati Is 20-6 Winner Over Houston

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 28 (UPI) — Al Nelson's rushing and the quarterbacking of Brig Owens were too much for the University of Houston today as the Cincinnati Bearcats overwhelmed the Cougars 20-6.

Nelson's 144 yards rushing gave him a total of 273 for the game.

Year and pushed him to the No. 3 spot in the NFL. His touchdown, however, kept him from fifth to the scoring with 23 points.

Superior ball control by Owens proved to be more than enough. The Cougars got only seven first downs compared to Cincinnati's 15 and were held to 113 yards rushing to 270 for the Bearcats.

The sluggish Cougars came alive with 10 seconds left in the game to score their only touchdown. The tally came on a 50-yard pass play from quarterback Jack Price to Dick Pratt.

76ers Explode Past Pistons

DETROIT, Nov. 28 (UPI) — Philadelphia 76ers exploded to straight points late in the third period tonight and went on to defeat the Detroit Pistons 101-93.

Philadelphia led the game 76-75 at the end of three quarters but fell behind 91-88 in the fourth quarter. The 76ers closed the gap with 10 points in the final minute to win the game.

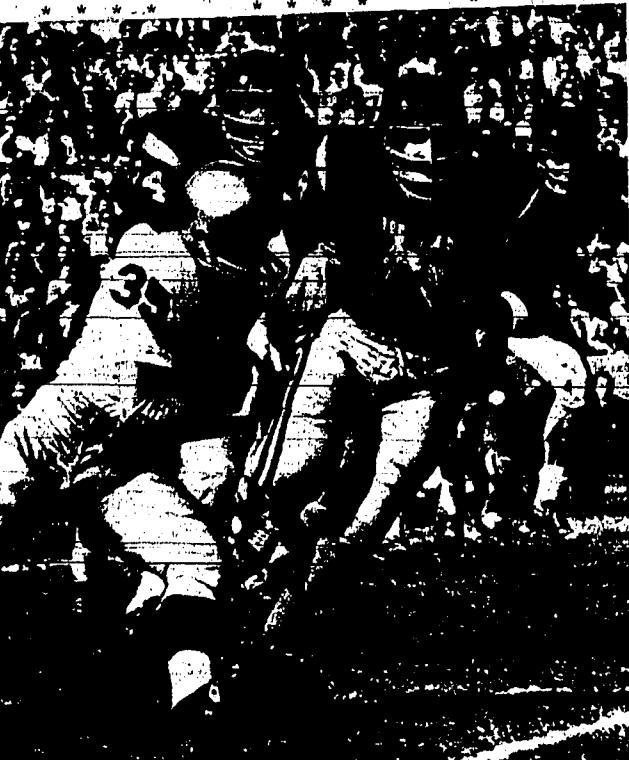

Utah Wins Title

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28 (UPI) — Bill Ellsworth, former Minnesota star from Milwaukie, Pa., scored two touchowns today as the Third Column Lions of the West defeated the Eastern champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats 34-10 in the big-way title game for the Canadian professional football championship.

Fullback Bob Swift, who opened the scoring with a 10-yard dash down in the first quarter, sprained a knee and relied in favor of Ellsworth, who assumed plays defensive half. Mincey scored his two touchdowns in the third period to put the Lions ahead 34-8.

Utah Wins Title

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28 (UPI) — Utah's high school football team scored on a long pass and a punt return to edge Edina 14-8 and win the 1964 Utah class A prep football championship.

DRIVING THROTTLE — USC linemen in Notre Dame halfback Bill Wolski on the way to a five-yard gain Saturday at the Los Angeles Coliseum. Chasing him is tackle Jim Vellone (78). USC scored twice in the final quarter to upset the previously undefeated Irish 20-17. (AP wirephoto)

Baylor Pass Attack Beats Rice 27-20

WACO, Tex., Nov. 29 (UPI) — Terry Southall passed for two touchdowns, set up two more and threw to Lawrence Elkins for two conversion points today in leading Baylor to a 27-20 victory over Rice and third place in the Southwest Conference.

recer, caught four passes to set an NCAA record for two seasons with 120 receptions, it bettered by one the record set in 1961-62 by Hugh Campbell of Washington State.

The Rice ground attack had Baylor on the ropes for a time as the Owls took a lead in the first period with a 52-yard dash by huge Russell Way. Way had gained only 37 yards on 10 carries until Saturday.

Baylor scored first on an eight yard pass from Southall to Elkins but Tom Davies missed the extra-point. Larry Rice converted after the Rice touchdown to put the Owls ahead.

Rice made it 14-13 in the second period on a one-yard smash by Walter McReynolds, who scored twice during the day.

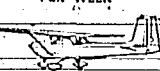

Baylor pulled within two points in the third period when Davies bulldozed over from two yards out. Then Rice went back ahead on McReynolds' second touchdown, also scored on a one-yard smash.

Oliva, Allen Are Rookies of Year In Major Loops

BOSTON, Nov. 28 (UPI) — American league batters Richie Allen of the Philadelphia Phillies and third baseman Rico Oliva of Minnesota were named rookies of the year for their respective leagues today. Oliva, the 25-year-old native of Cuba using brother's name, was picked on 19 of the 20 ballots cast by a special committee of the Baseball Writers association of America. Allen scored on 18 ballots.

Bowlers Meet

Plans for the 10th bowling tournament will be drawn at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Maple Bowl by members of the Twin Falls Women's Bowling Association executive board.

The general association will meet next Sunday at the airport on the tournament.

another one and drive it past the infielder.

Allen, who is selling cars in Philadelphia during the off season, expressed great surprise at his selection.

"Honestly I felt Rico Carty or Jim Ray Hart would get the award because of my strikeouts and errors in the last half of the season. Playing with a good ball club helped me."

Oliva won the AL batting crown by hitting .333, six points higher than Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, the AL most valuable player. Oliva also had the league's best OBP with .400, hits (217) and doubles (43).

He stayed well over the .400 mark through the early part of the season and wasn't threatened for batting laurels until the close of the season.

He finished high up in the power department as well with 32 home runs and 95 runs batted in.

He's still in baseball because as Twins manager Jimmie Dykes puts it: "They're real fun plays. You like them, you don't."

He felt Allen was a sure bet from the start, asking, "If a kid can't make it, who can?"

And he had no qualms about playing the rookie at the first time in his life debut.

"Ninety per cent of backs don't come up there are reasonably simple. Much more difficult are the real plays. You like them, you don't."

He felt Oliva had just reflexed to have been a basketball player.

"The fact is, Allen was not the worst fielding third baseman in the league this season, in percentage-wise, but he made mistakes in all fields and distances."

He says, "Any line shot down the left field line and then the right field line. He slams them past, over and through people. He can bunt, then sprint the Phills through his hitting."

Retailers Rushing Christmas Season, T.F. Woman Says

Editor, Times-News: Being the mother of four small children, I truly believe in having the Christmas spirit in our home. But I do think that some of the merchants in our city are rushing the Christmas season a little too fast. I find it very hard to try and convince my children that Christmas is more than one month away and believe me, it has really become a problem. I am sure there are others who are experiencing the same problem already being here last week and all the decorations up. It is very hard to explain. What has happened to Thanksgiving? My children are so anxiously waiting for Santa to come down the chimney any day now, they haven't even given Thanksgiving one thought. I'm sure that many of the merchants around here feel the same way and have this same problem with their children. Christmas has been rushed this fast this year, and we hardly give time to sit down with our families and thank God for these many wonderful blessings that we have and explain to the children why we have Thanksgiving.

Governor Smylie Accused Of Delusions of Grandeur

Editor, Times-News: Governor Smylie appears to be afflicted with delusions of grandeur and off on hot pursuit of liberalism along with Rockefeller, Scranton and Romney. He has the illusions of the bigtime money and the support of the kingmakers who make policies for our government regardless of who the electorate might be. I am unable to see where he has succeeded himself to be among the great saviors of the Republican party. He hardly saved himself during the last election. He was opposing an unknown opponent who advocated legalized gambling that the people of Idaho did not want. His margin of victory was nothing to be awarded a medal for or brag about.

When he advocates a middle of the road route for the Republicans to return to power this gives abstract meaning to his position. The middle of the road has been moved to the right, making it rather difficult to stay in the middle.

What he is asking us to do is accept liberalism in its most moderate form, socialism, and then communism. Is it inevitable Mr. Smylie is trying to become part of the inevitable government and asking the Republicans to discard principles to help further causes of liberalism. Maybe if more people could find out the true meaning of life.

Writer Hits Beatles, Effect Of Rock 'n' Roll on Youths

Editor, Times-News: I hope our local television station and the company with which it is associated are just a little ashamed of the Beatles program they presented Thursday night (Nov. 19). I am sure they knew what they were doing when they presented it on a Thursday night, with the full knowledge that many teen-agers would be home. How can the American people allow such disgraceful behavior to parade across our television screens and listen to such sour and repulsive notes?

In the November, 1964, Reader's Digest magazine, there is an article entitled, "What Do They Get From Rock 'n' Roll?" The author seems in favor of such music. He states, "It is my contention that rock 'n' roll is doubly helpful to a adolescent and simultaneously socializes him and provides a relatively harmless outlet for anti-social feelings." He does admit, however, that "rock and roll dulls the capacity for exertion; the steady beat creates instead a kind of hypnotic monotony."

What kind of a world do we have? Teen-agers need this kind of music (if we can call it that) to have an outlet for "anti-social feelings"? What kind of children will they raise?

If parents only realized the hypnotic spell this music has over teen-agers they would not allow them to watch such programs, or buy the records.

In our family we seldom watch television any more. We feel that the type of programs and slanted, controlled news that we get are not worth our time.

We will never spend money for a new television set, which we need, until the programs are improved.

Man Says Reduction Should Accompany Sales Tax Levy

Editor, Times-News: Let's begin by complying with the laws of libel and slander and must be in good taste. No pseudonyms or pen names are permitted; all letters must be signed with the true name and address of the writer.

Length of letters will be limited to 300 words. Longer letters will be returned to the writers.

Editor, Times-News: Unless something unforeseen takes place, Idaho is almost certain to get a sales tax. Advocates of the tax usually mention that they would approve it only if it must be concerned also with its employees and technical staff. Unhappy workers do not contribute to a happy manufacturing climate.

In states having high property taxes are reduced and personal income taxes adjusted. There has been less and less and recently about the reduction of those taxes and more about levying a sales tax.

The citizens of this state must be absolutely certain that any proposal to lay a state retail sales tax be accompanied by a joint proposal to reduce inventory and property taxes and adjust the personal income tax.

When industry investigates a state it takes into consideration more than just inventory tax. It studies the overall tax picture, out reducing the state income personal income tax, inventory tax, property tax and inventory tax, it will find that neither industry nor new residents will be attracted. It may even find some of its most mobile residents will pack up and move elsewhere. And, even though the inventory tax is fair, but not the property income tax, industry will not necessarily be attracted, and certainly the technicians who must accompany that industry from another state will be repelled.

On top of all that, it just plain isn't fair to the citizens of Idaho to have to pay extremely high taxes and that's what they will be paying if the sales tax is approved without doing something about reducing the others.

It would be well if all citizens of this state would make it their own personal business to be certain that any legislative proposal submitted would establish a sales tax accompanied by a joint proposal which would effectively and appreciably reduce tax and property tax. Don't allow yourselves to be caught in a trap. It is next to impossible to reduce taxes once they have been increased.

Editorial Praising Governor Smylie Praised by T.F. Man

Editor, Times-News: Robert Smylie, but I am that he did this by overruling your recent editorial giving praise to Governor Smylie. You have clearly seen that Governor Smylie is a national figure in politics and particularly in the Republican party.

Your editorial will help the Republicans rally behind our esteemed governor. He will be ready to unite rather than divide talk about it. He also update that a dollar or two yours concerning the general will make the leaders of the publican party in Idaho aware of the real political potential our Idaho Republican party has in the nation.

Invention of Automobile Sounded Death Knell for Country Schools

BY O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

It didn't show on the surface "way back when," but it is all too plain to see in retrospect.

The invention of the automobile sounded the death knell of the country school system which the concept of education of the masses was based, and from which some of the greatest leaders of the nation emerged.

It is just as simple as that. True, today there are country schools here and there, but they are an oddity and are the exception rather than the rule.

The situation in Magic Valley is perhaps typical.

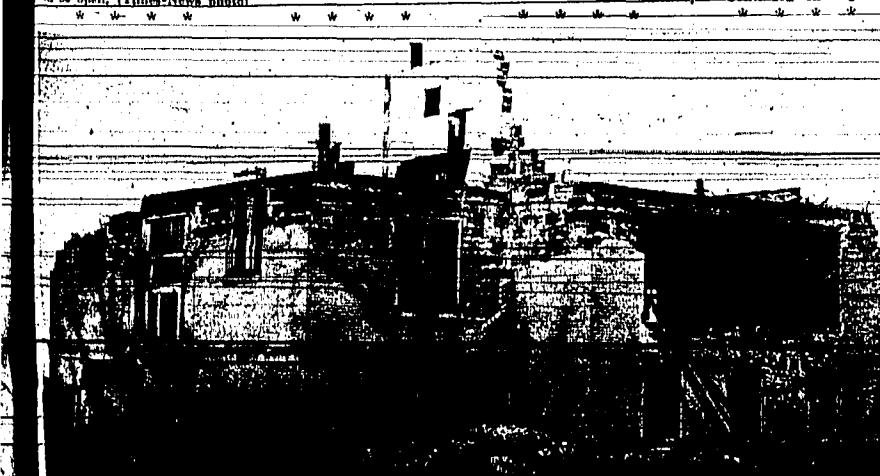

Where there were many, there now are only a few. Some are operating, some have converted to other means such as Grange halls or some home, while others no longer exist. The bell which used to summon the youngsters into the building to start the day's study (or from recess) rings no more in that particular area.

If they ring at all it is from some farmyard, some mountain ranch or some modest patio where they are, rusting out their allotted days.

The country school was a product of the horse and buggy days. In olden days a trip of 10 miles was not a trip to be remembered-to-be-forgotten; travelers from Hull to Teton Park planned to remain overnight in the "city" before returning home.

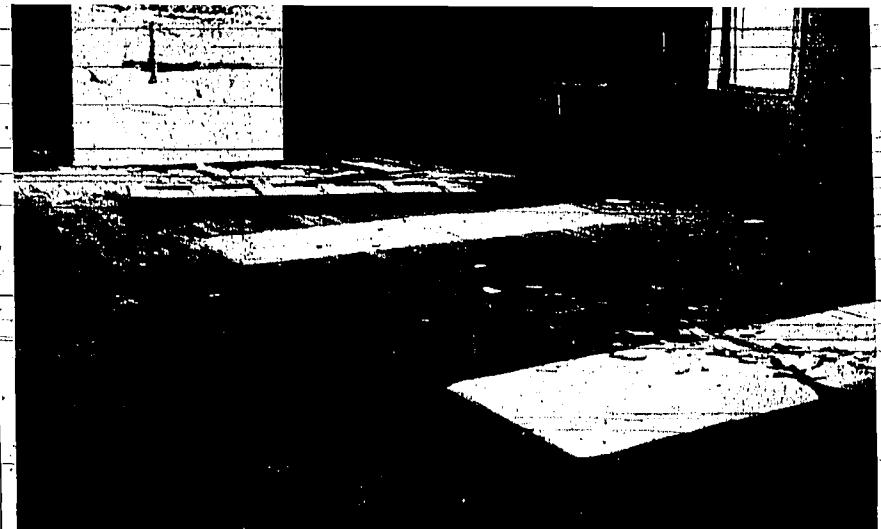

Country schools were not all one-room affairs. Some were of brick, three stories tall, and built to last. Even one like this, north of Miller, is being torn down. The automobile—the bus—makes it unnecessary to provide education at a distance. Now the theory is Continued on Page B-1

MOULTON SCHOOL window shutter hangs on by one lone screw. When it falls, all windows will be open. (Times-News photo)

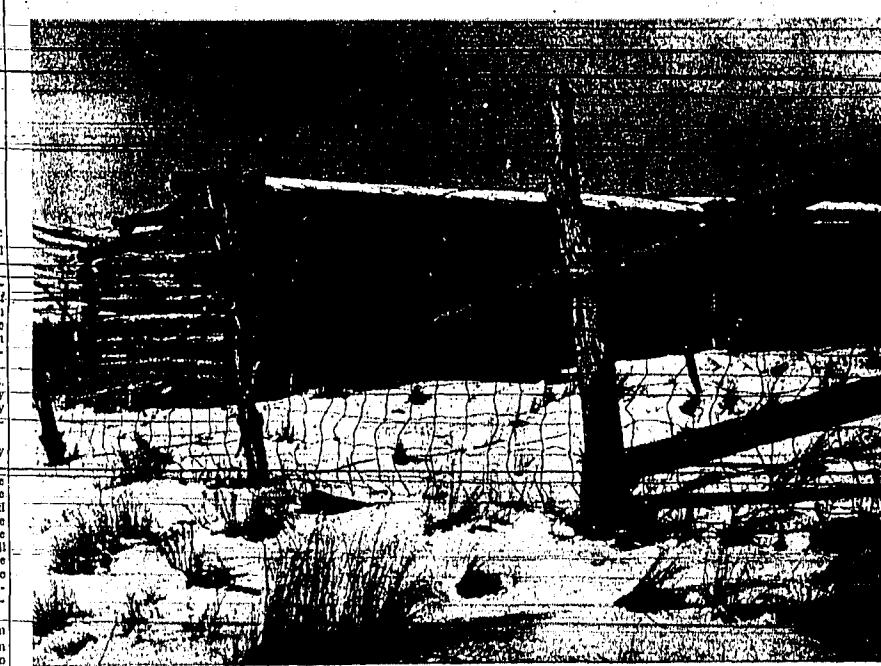

ONCE AN IMPOSING three-story brick structure north of Weller, the Maros school is now privately owned and is being torn down for salvage. Modern transportation makes it easier to take the students of the area to Weller. Such schools once were the center of most activity in a farming district. (Times-News photo)

OLD COAL STOVE, predecessor of the current hot lunch program, stands in corner of one-room MOULTON school, 14 miles south of Oakley. Abandoned and gradually falling apart, the log structure served as "educational" headquarters for years. Open windows allow light patterns to fall across the floor, revealing pieces of plaster from crumbling ceiling. (Times-News photo)

IN THIS SHELTER, horses waited patiently for their masters during the school hours. Now abandoned, it still defies the elements. Winter snows and summer sun seem to have had little effect. (Times-News photo)

THIS BUILDING, southwest of Twin Falls, was once a country school, but now has been converted into a Grange hall and meeting place for a Boy Scout troop. It is one of the few old schools in Magic Valley that have survived because its individual or organization stepped in and converted the structure to a use for which it was not intended. MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT...

Forest Supervisor Finds Full Life in Task of Administering Million Acres

Max Rees has been in around here, going to or coming from forests ever since he has been old enough to know what a forest is.

The present is no exception. He is now supervisor of the Sawtooth national forest which has headquarters at Twin Falls, and as "top man" he has 1,000,000 acres of forest-land-wood-and grazing land to watch over.

He heads a permanent force of 60 office workers, rangers, engineers and others. In the summer his force grows to around 210 because in Idaho, with heavy winters, most forest work is accomplished in the summer months.

Rees was born at Logan, Utah. His folks, as he puts it, "were ranch and farm people and I just got the idea that the land and what is produced was the best way of life."

When he was 3 years old he moved with his family to Bannock county and settled near the small community of Inkom, south of Pocatello. It was there that he went through grade school and was graduated from the high school, which no longer exists.

Following high school graduation he entered the University of Idaho, southern branch, then Idaho State university for two years. Following this he transferred to Utah State college—now Utah State university—so he could enter the school of forestry, rated as one of the best in the nation.

Background for his life's work included many tours into the forest areas with his grandfather "who loved the forest like I learned to love it," Rees said.

Following his graduation from the Utah school he was accepted as a range examiner with the soil conservation service and was sent to Oklahoma and Texas.

Although he does not wish to discuss his feelings of depression in that area, he admits that "I was glad when I was sent back West and to Idaho, and was stationed at Malad."

When the war started he enlisted and ended up a full lieutenant in the navy as a communications officer.

He served in the central Pacific and the Mariana Islands, and went all the way through while only being shot once.

"That once was enough," he admits today.

After three years in the service he returned to the United States and entered the forest service, branch of the department of agriculture. His first assignment was as a district ranger at Ely, Nev. That was in 1946.

Between the end of 1946 and 1957 so that 31 years later he was the

P. MAX REES

—was ranger in five districts with his last assignment being at Heber City, Utah.

He was then advanced to the staff office on the Okanogan forest at Provo and in 1958 was named supervisor of the Challis national forest.

Interesting thing about the Challis assignment was that while attending college he did summer work on that same forest at Ely, Nev. That was in 1946.

Between the end of 1946 and 1957 so that 31 years later he was the boss. The Challis is larger in acreage than the Sawtooth, but the work load is not as great.

The Sawtooth is a hard working forest, ranks among the top forests in the nation and about at the top in the Intermountain region. It expands from Sawtooth valley on the north to the Raft river mountains in Idaho on the south, and from the Snake range on the east to the headwaters of the south fork of the Boise river on the west. It embraces about every type of land and that forest officials administered.

Now the father of three children, Rees met his wife while attending Utah State and they were married when he was graduated. The three children are David, 21, now enrolled at Utah State, majoring in economics; Patricia, 17, a senior at Twin Falls high school, and Ralph, 6, a student at Washington grade school. The family resides at 201 Pierce street.

While stationed at Heber City, Rees and his wife joined the Lions club and when he moved to Montpelier he joined the rotary club. At present he is an active member of the rotary club of Twin Falls.

He is a member of the Society of American Foresters, the American Society of Range Management and the American Forestry Association. He also is affiliated with Psi Kappa Alpha, a fraternity.

It was just about a year ago that he moved to Twin Falls.

"It might sound kind of corny, but I'd like to stay here the rest of my life. I like the people, the town, the country, the world."

Rees is a strong advocate of multiple use of forest lands because he believes it will bring the greatest total benefits to the American people.

"These lands should benefit all the people," he said. "In years to come this will be even more important than it is today and also in these years to come the western United States will be the country where people will come to rest, relax and enjoy the area even more than they do today."

"For this reason, it is important that we who work today leave a land that will benefit those who come after us."

FATHER AND SON companionship like this helps foster hunting clinics and pass them along from generation to generation. These men, Loren Smith and Robert Smith, both sons, are sighting-in rifles on a firing range. Idaho fathers often teach their sons the art of hunting.

more than safe gun handling techniques and sharpshooting skills to their sons. They impart strong respect for wildlife of all kinds and the need for careful observance of written and unwritten laws, the so-called "code of the hills." (Phil-Gami photo)

Respect for Big Game Animals Leads To Establishment of Moral Conduct

BY JIM HUMMIRD
Idaho Fish and game department BOISE, Nov. 20 — What child has never asked, "Why do you shoot wild animals? Why do you hunt?" The answer is no easy thing to verbalize, nor is it easy to understand. A hunter can explain his sport no more simply than he can talk about his feelings toward motherhood, sin or patriotism. He must try to describe a conditioned instinct that is largely emotional.

Charley Duncell, the great cowboy artist, spent two years during the early '90s with a salty old-marine hunter, Tom Jake Hoover, living in the rugged hills above Montana's Judith basin. The mountain man was a professional hunter. He killed animals for a living, selling their hides and meat. He viewed himself as a coldblooded, relentless predator. Art Russell—nevertheless makes it clear that the old pro never shot any animal without a mile or two of his place above him, and never—and never! He knows as much about the bighorn sheep, mountain goat, couper, bear, elk and deer that come down to his doorway to see him. He deeply respects and admires the wild animals he hunts in the surrounding hills.

This is the mysterious, ancient contradiction inherent in the character of a true sportsman—the character of the animal lover whose creatures always are at their best when pursued.

Because a sportsman's attachment usually is based on the wild values of the game he hunts, a strong measure of his respect for wildlife is reflected in the way he hunts, the careful observance of written and unwritten Youngsters have stark black-and-white values without gray in-betweens. A gun is to shoot a bird or animal is to be shot, and the measure is the weight of his game bag. Game hunters never grow beyond this point.

Those are the men, often sharpshooters or skilled anglers, who ignore the law (10-612) entitling all licensed sportsmen to take one game animal, stipulating that they do their own shooting and fishing.

The last legislature amended the existing law to make it more specific regarding "party hunting"—as a means of bagging more game and fish.

The new law states that it shall be unlawful and a misdemeanor for any person to transport for any fishing, hunting or trapping license, tag or permit to any other person, and for any other person to make use of a fishing, hunting or trapping license, tag or permit issued to any other person.

Allowable bag limit levels and the total harvest of all species of fish and wildlife—always have been computed and established on the premise that each hunter or fisherman will catch about his own game.

Thus the hunting ability of amateur and expert is offset by the high success average of others, thereby keeping the total statewide harvests within the estimated bounds set up for the season. These percentages are upset when sharpshooters and skilled anglers bag game and fish for either members of their own party.

As the hunter's regard for wildlife grows, so does the measure of his sportsmanship. Such respect is fed by experience, empathy for wildlife and game laws, and a sportsman's desire to "understand which game is hunted usually marks the experienced, thoughtful hunter.

NEIGHBORHOOD CHILDREN enjoy one of Gus Radke's projects, a rocking octopus. The children are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duerkle. Radke has spent most of his life as a carpenter. (Times-News photo)

CHILD-SIZED chairs are a specialty of Gus Radke, Paul. Wooden pegs are used in the construction of the scaled down chairs and Radke claims they will support 500 pounds or he will replace them. Some chairs are 20 years old. (Times-News photo)

Construction of Furniture for Paul Children Is Hobby of Area Resident

PAUL, Nov. 28.—The fact that Gus Radke, 62, spends most of his time building children's furniture and playground equipment doesn't necessarily mean he's in his second childhood. He simply loves children.

Radke, who is living with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr.

and Mrs. Walter Stoller, northeast of here, enjoys the many little visitors who are continually coming to "see what's new."

In the Stoller household where Radke constructs furniture for the youngsters, Mrs. Stoller sits at the next table putting together all kinds of dolls.

Apparently they each inherited the talent from their father, the late August Radke, who built most of the barns and other buildings in a small section of North Dakota.

Gus Radke, who has worked as a carpenter the past 26 years in the Las Vegas area, took a little time from his hotel construction job to build a children's chair. It became so popular, he saw the chair and wouldn't let him stop with just one, and he's been making them ever since.

"If I stay away from Las Vegas over six months I can lose my residency, so I plan to return every so often to retain it," he noted.

He has a pick-up truck with a camp trailer which makes traveling convenient. His travel route usually consists of a trip to Paul or back to Las Vegas. He spends the winter here, although he prefers a warmer climate.

His current project is a life-sized Santa with reindeer which he hopes to place on the Stoller roof-for-the-neighborhood children to enjoy.

The chairs are made of black walnut, birch, cherry wood, maple and ash. They contain no nails, but are secured with about 54 doll pins which the average person can't detect. The chairs stand about 31-inches high and are constructed to hold a 500-pound adult. One woman visiting the Stoller home hesitantly asked if she would be able to sit on a chair. Mrs. Stoller told her if her weight broke it, Radke would "give" her one.

Chairs which he made 22 years ago are still in use and are almost as good as new. He makes them without any special cushioning so they can be easily re-covered. The backs of the chairs are decoratively carved. Some chairs are wax finished while others are varnished. He prefers to keep the wood as natural as possible.

Neighborhood children enjoy the "rocking octopus" which he places in the yard for them to play with. It is made of three-quarter inch plywood and has two legs. An octopus with large black movable eyes is painted on the side of the rocker.

Radke hasn't been busy so many years he didn't feel content to just sit around. "So many people waste time doing nothing and know what to do. I'm too young to sit in a rocking chair, and besides, that is harder than working," he said.

Former Kimberly Woman Authors Book on Arthritis

A new book, "My Fight With Arthritis," by Faith Perkins, recently published by Random House, will be of special interest to friends and relatives of the author who lived near Kimberly as a child and is a graduate of the Twin Falls high school. Faith Perkins is the pen name of Jessie Perkins Bramer, who was a member of the 1914 graduating class and returned to attend the first reunion of that class held in September, 1961, celebrating the class' 47th anniversary.

Members of that class now residing in this area include Harry Magrave, Mrs. Paul Harder, Mrs. W. A. Coover, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. M. Z. Stansbury and Mrs. Hugh Sheldon. Mrs. Bramer remained to visit briefly with other

Cars Sounded Death Knell Of Schools

The theory will be, and is disputed by those persons who attended these fast disappearing assemblies of education. They still look with nostalgia on the "good old days."

Others say that the "good old days" must give way to the "new day." That step, they say, is progress. Youngsters no longer have to ride their horses to school or walk long miles to get there. They seldom carry their lunch—there are hot lunch programs now—and if the distance is very far between where they live and where the bus will pick them up, then many have cars or motorbikes of their own.

Whether for the good—or the bad, that remains to be seen. One thing is certain, the closeness of a small group of students has been lost forever. Names have given way to numbers for identification, and following the leader is easier than leading.

The blame is squarely on the back of the four-wheeled, sleek, fast—made-of—transportation which is called the automobile. The horseless carriage.

A way of life was changed and is about all the wage that it is now forgotten.

Magic Valley, perhaps, never had the sleek little red school buses, but it had a lot of similar busses, painted white or combinations of colors.

Most of these have now been converted to other uses, have been abandoned and are rotting away, or have been torn down. Time doesn't march anymore, it speeds on—via automobile.

Arthritis is suffered by the Arthritis foundation and has received praise from doctors in this field as giving a realistic but not depressing picture of what faces arthritic patients. The author maintains that at least some of their progress is within their own control. She also has advice for friends or relatives of victims who should carefully balance their attitude toward the afflicted person.

Mrs. Bramer has one brother, Horace Perkins, and a sister, Mrs. John Penn Crepe Perkins.

She later attended the College of Idaho and was graduated from the University of Oregon school of journalism. She followed a journalistic career—in Portland, New York and San Francisco—where she now lives.

Her activities were restricted by a severe case of arthritis, which plagued her about 10 years ago, but she continued to write and is the author of another book as well as numerous magazine articles and fiction.

"My Fight With Arthritis" tells not only the story of the author's battle with this ancient and baffling disease, but gives many case histories of victims including one which is that of a high school classmate. She was aided in researching the present status of scientific knowledge of arthritis and the extent of its treatment by The Arthritis Foundation and by interviews with several doctors specializing in this field—to whom she gives credit in the introduction of the book.

She deals with the hundreds of quick cures and unreliable treatments which are responsible for extracting a quarter of a billion dollars yearly from arthritics who are made gullible by pain and confused by the lack of knowledge concerning this disease.

The author testified before a Senate subcommittee on this type of fraud and misrepresentation, and the dust jacket of the book carries statements from Senators Neuberger and William L. Proxmire.

Most of these have now been converted to other uses, have been abandoned and are rotting away, or have been torn down.
