5 Sentenced To Hanging For Slaying

AGRAHABAD, India, Jan. 2 (AP)—Five men were sentenced today to death by hanging on charges of slaying the 50-year-old wife of an American medical missionary April 16 in a roadside attack.

The victim was Ruby E. Nelson, wife of Dr. Phillips Nelson, a five-day Adventist church member.

The couple had been motoring on the west coast to catch a ship for the United States for home when their automobile had a flat tire.

Nelson hitched a ride into Allahabad to get a new tire, leaving his wife with the car and baggage.

Nelson found his wife near the car when he returned that night.

Police said the five convicted men killed Mrs. Nelson after robbing her of $400 in rupees, a movie camera and a wristwatch.

A sixth man was sentenced to a three-year imprisonment on charges of possessing stolen property.

Mrs. Nelson's slain brother-in-law, Dr. Nelson, from Great Falls, Mont., was secretary of Adventist medical missions in India, Pakistan, Burma, Nepal, Ceylon and Bham.

Gov. Romney Is in Public Life to Stay

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 2 (AP)—Gov. George Romney, who gained increased national stature among Republicans Nov. 3 when he pulled up a 380,000-vote re-election victory while President Johnson was winning by more than a million in Michigan, is in public life to stay.

And the decision, prompted by Romney's increasing concern that the nation be reoriented to a path stressing spiritual and moral values and individual and private effort, could lead the governor right to the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

In a private 40-minute interview with United Press International, Romney, who was just inaugurated for his second two-year term New Year's day, made plain politics was no thing when he said, "I didn't get into this with the idea of quitting."

"I got into this because I'm concerned. And I didn't get into it because I was anxious to hold public office, per se, Romney explained.

"I got into it because I wanted to do what I could to help strengthen the influences that I think must be strengthened in this country. And I'm convinced that the strengthening must start and be built from the grass roots up, in the private sector, and in the local and state areas," he said.

Before there can be any serious consideration of a presidential nomination Romney said answer one political question squarely—whether he should run for a third term as Michigan governor in 1966 or instead try to gain the U. S. senate seat of Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

At the moment Romney said he hadn't decided which alternative to take.

But in answering questions Romney made it plain that unlike 1964, he wouldn't fight efforts to figure him into the next presidential sweepstakes.

Exhibit at Boise Art Gallery Set

BOISE, Jan. 2 — To open the 1965 season the Boise Gallery of Art will feature two outstanding exhibitions of art. Drawings by Peter Moran and sculpture by Tom Hardy will open Tuesday and run through Jan. 31.

The drawings of Moran should be of special interest to students of American history as well as art enthusiasts, for they depict typical aspects of Pueblo Indian life in New Mexico and Arizona during the 1880's.

The sculpture of Tom Hardy, Portland, Ore. will complement the drawings of Peter Moran. Hardy gained initial fame with this art because of his skill and perception in the depiction of animal subjects.

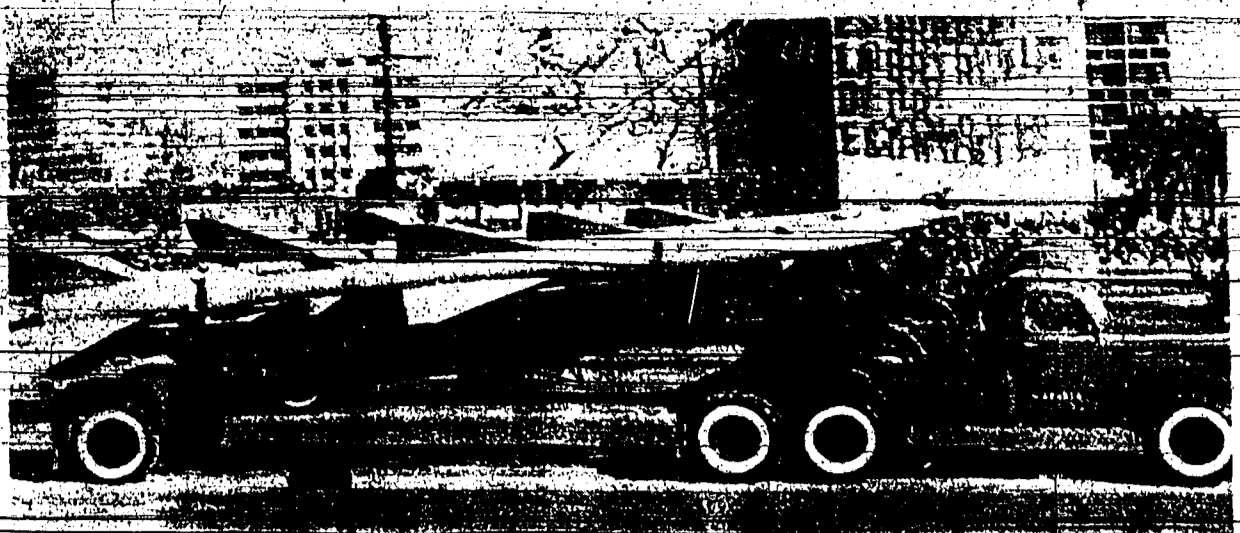

There is no admission charge to the exhibitions. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Maneuvering for Future Top Power In Democratic Party May Begin Soon

By BRUCE BOSSAT
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (NEA)—President Lyndon B. Johnson will have no competition as the dominant figure in the Democratic party in the four to eight years ahead. But there will be some interesting battles for his job.

They include, of course, Hubert H. Humphrey, vice president-elect, Robert F. Kennedy, senator-elect of New York, and his brother, Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts.

If the President holds his health and wins a second full term, the job will not be vacant until January, 1973. Thus the hard, practical rivalries of succession are a long way off. But the vital career-building leading up to the test begins right now.

A Democrat who has helped make some presidents says: "In the first six months of 1965 these fellows will be getting into position, determining what roads there are to travel. By next fall it will be time for a beginning look at who is doing what."

A quick assumption took root after the election that Humphrey would become the heir apparent. Yet it may not be quite that simple.

Johnson's own ascendancy to power through John Kennedy's death, and the Republicans' 1960 nomination of Richard M. Nixon, fired the growing notion that it is virtually axiomatic to give the vice president a presidential bid.

Before Nixon, however, it had not happened for a century and a quarter.

The President is giving Humphrey plenty to do—in tough fields like civil rights and poverty. These burdens spell opportunity, but also risk.

There is the further matter of age. By 1972 Humphrey will be past 60. One Democratic observer in New York suggests that for an incumbent vice president, such in top-level experience, that may be no drawback. Party men agree, though, that 60 has had an old sound that John Kennedy passed on the scene.

It is a fair guess that the colorful Hubert will continue to enjoy the kind of strong personal following he has today. This naturally will stand him in good stead when the time comes for combat.

Nevertheless, Humphrey's flamboyance is not all political blessing. Four to eight years of maximum national exposure on the wide screen could cost him some points. Some of his friends were distressed that he could not find a good cut-off place in his talky victory speech, election night.

After Humphrey, the two Kennedys spring to mind. The question that bugs many people, in and out of the Democratic party, is: Which one?

Robert Kennedy has many of the necessary attributes. He is steeped in political know-how, has much government experience on the administrative side, will be operating as senator from one of the country's most powerful political bases—New York.

Still, a good friend of both Kennedys says: "I think, Teddy may come along too fast for Robert."

Before, Ted Kennedy broke his back (now pretty well mended) in an airplane crash last June in Massachusetts, he was indeed moving along in great leaps. His early 1964 campaigning for other Democrats across the country had begun to create a dazzling legend. He is the family's most exuberant campaigner.

AEC Agrees On Joint Power Plant

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The atomic energy commission today announced an agreement with California on a memorandum of understanding for joint participation in a proposed 100 million dollar atomic power plant project to be used in connection with California's huge water conservancy-transportation program.

The plant, said the AEC announcement, would be used to provide about 525,000 kilowatts of power for pumps in the state's water program involving conservation of surplus water in the Tehachapi mountains for use in southern California.

An AEC spokesman said California's share of the atomic plant is about 80 million dollars, the AEC share for capital costs is about 20 million dollars.

The AEC announcement said two sites are currently under consideration for the plant: One at the California water project's Tehachapi pumping station, the other on the coast. The latter site would permit operation of an experimental sea-water desalting facility.

The memorandum of understanding, AEC said, will serve as the basis for seeking congressional authorization of the nuclear power plant project.

Ouster Will Cost GOP Dearly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Dean Burch told the Republican national committee's 192 members today that if they vote "no confidence" in him it will cost the party dearly in the 1966 congressional elections.

It will cause millions of voters "who identified themselves with responsible conservative Republicanism" to believe the GOP is not interested in their support, he said.

Burch made the plea in a letter mailed to each committee member that they make their choice solely on his ability and that the committee's Jan. 22-23 meeting "become a healing process, and not a wedge between blocs of Republicans."

"This is a time for dedication to the party as a whole rather than to any personal or party post of individual political gain," he declared.

The move to oust Burch, brewing since the party's overwhelming defeat Nov. 3, is expected to come to a head at the Chicago gathering. The GOP third liberal and moderate wings blame him, in part for the GOP's trailing.

Perhaps in six to nine months the committee might find he is the primary party problem.

Burch said, and he could step aside without tearing the party apart. But to resign now, he said, would be "divisive."

Burch's letter was keyed to the theme of one-written the party, through the national party, through the national party.

By SARGENT SHRIVER
Director of the Peace Corps
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—I've always wanted people in the peace corps who can do things—drive a nail, fix a fence, repair a fan belt.

And we have them. But we want more. This week I approved programs that will send dozens of volunteer mechanics to India and Ethiopia, and plumbers, electricians and carpenters to Chile and Peru.

Our recruiters are out interviewing blue-collar workers to fill these jobs now. These workers are coming from all over the country—agricultural implement workers from Peoria, Ill.; machinists from Detroit; and motor vehicle repairmen from New Jersey.

RECRUITING IN PLANTS—Next week we're telling our story to the workers in Ford's big River Rouge plant, and we're also planning to visit factories in Milwaukee, Kenosha and Racine, Wis., and Flint and Pontiac, Mich. Early in January, we'll take our message to the aircraft plants on the West Coast.

In all, more than 300 machinists, welders, plumbers, construction workers, electricians and other skilled workers have signed up in the last few weeks.

I want to have at least 3,000 blue-collar volunteers taking advantage of our new peace corps programs by next Christmas.

SEE THE WORLD—The peace corps is the working man's Rhodes scholarship. Where else can an American working man get a chance to live and travel overseas, learn a language and help others at the same time?

The nation's leading industrial concerns and labor unions are cooperating with us in promoting the peace corps. They also are working out policies to guarantee that these employees can have their jobs back when they return with no loss of seniority or pension rights.

With the help that these leaders are giving us, we will be of even more assistance to the developing nations.

The challenge and the opportunities of the peace corps are far from being over. We are just beginning.

Views of Others

ROBERT PEABODY, FIRST
Robert Peabody was a person of no particular importance until shortly after 5 o'clock on the evening of last July 24. He then poured the nearly three gallons of contents of a long, thin polyethylene bottle in a stainless steel tank and became known to millions. There was a roar, a glow, a flash of tremendous heat that splattered solution up to the ceiling 12 feet above. Less than two days later Robert Peabody became the first man to die of exposure to radiation in the history of the private atomic energy industry in the United States.

So it has become important to all of us who work in nuclear industry or live around it to know about Robert Peabody, and what happened in a third-floor tower room of a plant at Charlestown, R. I., and how it might be prevented from happening again.

The distinguishing characteristic of the events at the United Nuclear corporation plant is that until they happened nobody would have believed they could happen. This same characteristic distinguished the nuclear accident that killed three men and destroyed the atomic energy commission's experimental reactor near Idaho Falls Jan. 3, 1961. In both cases there was a whole series of errors by many individuals building up to a final fatal act by one man. No one was ever doing or why he was doing it, for both died before they were able to say.

At Idaho Falls the chain reaction was apparently caused by a workman's removing a control rod too far from the core of the atomic furnace, thus allowing the uranium to go out of control. It was something every workman had been taught not to do, why did this one workman do it?

At Charlestown the chain reaction was apparently caused by Robert Peabody's pouring into the tank the contents of a bottle of highly concentrated uranium solution that had been drained off when a piece of machinery was being worked on in the plant. Although the men thought he was doing or why he was doing it, for both died before they were able to say.

The fatal bottle was labeled only "Conc. liquor from evaporator." Why was the strength not specified? Peabody might have been warned away. Peabody took the bottle and emptied it into the tank on his own initiative. Would it not be thought that supervision would be particularly close in an operation dealing with fissionable materials? Peabody was a moonlighter—he worked the day shift, then the night shift, then worked as a garage mechanic during the day. Though he was an aggressive worker, shouldn't this type of work require workers who come to it refreshed and fully alert?

The ambulance that came to take Robert Peabody to the hospital was part of the only major ambulance corps in Rhode Island that had received no training in handling radiation victims. The first hospital it took him to was a wrong one and an hour and 40 minutes elapsed before he was hospitalized. The delay might have been caused in another case it didn't particularly matter in his, for he had received 10 times enough radiation to kill him. Rhode Island hospital, which received him, was completely inexperienced and unprepared for what it was now called upon to do. Everything had to be improvised.

What is being done in Missouri and Illinois and other states to prepare for the handling of radiation cases if they occur? How rigorously are the United States atomic energy commission and the state atomic commissions, of which there is one in Missouri, actually being supervised against releasing nuclear industry against the careless and unforeseeable acts that caused disaster at Charlestown, and in Idaho? We think the public is entitled to know, and suspect there is much more to be done than is being done—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MISPRINT BIBLES REVIEWED
The "Bible" which was printed in 1801 was called "The Bible" because the word "Bible" is out by mistake in one of the Ten Commandments.

The Breches Bible, an English translation printed in Geneva in 1560, got the name because in Genesis III, 7, it read "and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves breches" instead of aprons.

The Murderers Bible was printed in 1801, so-called because in Job 16, it read "These are murderers walking after their own lusts." Instead of murderers.

A very early edition was called the Printer's Bible, because Psalm CXIX, 161, was made to read "Printers have persecuted me without cause."

In the Vinegar Bible an Oxford edition 1717, the heading to Luke XX reads, "Parable of the Vinegar." Instead of vineyard.

In the Wife-hater Bible, published in 1810, Luke XIV reads, "If any man hate not his wife," instead of life.—Brooks (Alberta) Bulletin.

GRANDMA'S SPEEDY!
Our Grandma friend is stepping high.

The things she does make—Grandpa sigh.

He says, "Honey, you should slow down."

But she says, "I must get this crop to town!"

She tramples up the truck and crosses the grade.

The sun is hot and she could use a shade.

But it's late afternoon and before the sun goes down She must step on the gas and get into town.

She gets back home and cooks a meal.

She can hear the bronze deities run and squeal.

Soon, it's nighttime and all is quiet.

The coyotes yell with all their might.

She drifts into dreamland as the moon shines down.

And she dreams of the trips she must make to town.

Grandma really has the speed And what's more, her work is guaranteed.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

Washington News

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—The world was still sticky in 1964, but at home there was a movement forward and the air was cleared a bit, politically and otherwise.

President Johnson, ever since throwing out Premier Khrushchev, has been shuffling around in a kind of soft-shoe act, waiting for the music to start.

The West doesn't know what they'll do, what directions they'll take, or whether Khrushchev's departure was a turning point in history.

But at home the economy was booming for a record fourth year in a row. The budget was in a fusion with the biggest tax cut in history.

In the long view the achievements in the field of citizens' rights, civil and political, perhaps will be most memorable.

In a year in which three civil rights workers were murdered in Mississippi and Negroes rioted in Northern cities, citizens passed the most far-reaching civil rights act of the century.

Then, with extraordinary speed, the supreme court supported it a couple of weeks ago by upholding the new law's ban on racial discrimination in places of public accommodation, hotels, hotels, or motels, or restaurants.

Gradually opposition to desegregation was being broken down in the courts which started the melting pot grunts and groans coming

Interpreting the News

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
The political news from New York state points the way for Robert F. Kennedy, senator-elect. The way is onward and upward. There has been no need since election day to hedge bets that the oldest surviving Kennedy brother is heading toward the White House. If Kennedy isn't heading that way on his own, fate is likely to point him in that direction. The political news from New York is that Mayor Robert F. Wagner seems to be losing the contest for control of the Democratic state legislature which will convene in Albany Jan. 6.

A pair of anti-Wagner Democrats are front-runners as of now to become leaders of the 1965 legislature. They are assemblyman Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn and state Sen. Julian B. Erway of Albany. Kennedy relates to this situation because the key local leaders who spark the anti-Wagner effort now are the so-called political bosses who obtained Kennedy's nomination as a candidate for the U.S. senate this year.

Wagner does not desire Kennedy's nomination, apparently believing that some Democratic residents of New York state could be found to accept the honor. Back of Wagner appeared the awesome shadow of Lyndon Baines Johnson. LBJ was not about to boost another Kennedy into a seat of national political power.

Morgover, Johnson already had dealt adequately with Robert Kennedy when he forbade him to aspire to this year's Democratic vice presidential nomination. A lesser man than Kennedy would have been down for the count after a blow such as that landed on his feet and ankles for New York's senatorial nomination.

Supporting Kennedy were local Democratic leaders scorned by reform Democrats as bosses. One of these was Charles A. Buckley of New York City who was one of the original Jack Kennedy-for-President leaders. Buckley helped spark a reform movement this year which will cost Buckley his seat in the 89th congress convening Jan. 4. A reform Democrat liked Buckley in the congressional primary. Buckley has been in good standing with Johnson administration, but he may not last. The President may discover himself to be in the line of those conflict of political interest situations. Wagner is LBJ's natural political ally in New York.

Buckley, of course, opposes Mayor Wagner—who has been pretty well established as Democratic party leader in New York state. Buckley's coming to defeat Wagner's legislative leadership candidates easily could lead into a contest for party leadership between Wagner and Kennedy. Buckley is not alone among the local bosses who helped Kennedy into the Senate to Wagner's dismay and now seek to put their own men in the legislative leadership.

The situation thus created practically invites Kennedy to reach for the state Democratic leadership. Beyond would lie the way to the governorship and eventually to the White House. It all would take time, of course, but Bobby Kennedy is only 39. He will not die in 1972 when LBJ will be stepping down and it is assumed promoting a reform Horatio-Humphrey-for-Democratic presidential nomination. A Kennedy and Humphrey battling again for the Democratic nomination! Just like in 1960.

Religion in America

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
The Lutheran Church in America has armed its 7,000 pastors with a "Sober Recital of Facts" to be used in refuting attacks on the National Council of Churches.

Distributed this week, the 21-page pamphlet offers a detailed rebuttal of charges by right wing groups that the national council is "communist-infiltrated."

It also flatly denies widely circulated reports that the national council advocated recognition of the Castro government in Cuba, and gradual removal of all references to God in national life.

A "road map" of the pamphlet is devoted to a factual account of the national council's activities in the field of race relations. It emphasizes that the national council's commission on Religion and Race is "financed solely out of designated funds contributed in response to a special appeal, entirely apart from the regular budget underwritten by member denominations."

The Roman Catholic archdiocese of Santa Fe, N.M., has joined the New Mexico Council of Churches.

The "church-council movement" has hitherto embraced only Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations. Two individual Catholics, Mich. and Tulsa, Okla., have previously joined local church councils. But this is the first time that an entire Catholic diocese has come into a statewide church council.

In announcing the historic step, Catholic Archbishop James P. Davis said he was simply making a practical application of the ideals of Christian brotherhood upheld by the late Pope John XXIII and other ecumenical leaders.

A Protestant organization charged this week that church-state separations is endangered by a "pious movement" to obtain public funds for parochial schools.

The charge was made by "Protestants and Other Americans, United for Separation of Church and State," better known as POAU.

POAU said one arm of the "pious" is the demand that parochial schools be included in the proposed new federal program of aid to education, as a condition with its decision against public school integration in years ago.

But, even without the civil rights ruling, the court would have made this a memorable year. For half a century, justices had been plugging up in the states where city people were getting less representation in state legislatures than country people.

Neither congress nor the legislature could correct it. The supreme court stepped into this vacuum of responsibility and ordered reapportionment so that each man's vote means as much as any other's.

But it was the presidential elections which settled for years to come, the direction this country will take.

Because Democrats and Republicans for decades looked like twins, the presidential races began to resemble personality contests rather than different views of life and government for voters to choose between.

This year the voters got a clear choice between the conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater and the much more moderate Johnson. The President won with the greatest plurality in history, 43 million to 27 million votes.

As a result, the two parties' candidates for a long time are likely to be liberals or at least middle-of-the-roads.

The expressions of joy throughout Latin America over President Johnson's announcement that he would re-negotiate the Panama canal treaty reflected a condition which was as painful not only to U.S.-Panama relations but to U.S. relations throughout the hemisphere.

For the United States still refused to renegotiate the 1903 treaty and its rights in perpetuity over the canal generally was taken as evidence of a bygone diplomacy among free nations—a of a large nation impressing its will upon a weaker one.

The Panama canal was a matter of both nations and more, and twice in four years it spilled over in bloody violence.

Through the years, the overriding U.S. concern was the canal's strategic value and the obvious fact that the Panamanians neither could operate the canal nor defend it.

For the Panamanians it stood as a lasting symbol of their loss of their sovereignty and a status which reduced them to second class citizens.

of Catholic support for the program in congress.

"The other end of the pincers is the drive to amend state constitutions so as to permit use of public funds for the support of church schools," it asserted.

POAU described itself as "a national organization with more than 15,000 supporters whose primary aim is to maintain state separation of church and state as promulgated in the constitution and interpreted by the U.S. supreme court."

WEST WAS TOO SMART TO WIN
A certain South African expert might have wound up with a brilliancy prize in 1964 instead of a "possible booby prize" if he had not been too brilliant when he played the cards.

His team was behind in a long match and he reasoned that the team.

He opened the king of diamonds, noted his partner's five of the deuce, looked over the dummy carefully and led a low club.

This made matters easy for declarer. He drew trumps, knocked out West's ace of spades and lost another trick when West cashed his ace of clubs. Thus, he scored 620 to give his side a net gain of 720 on the hand.

Why was West's piny too brilliant at the second trick?

Because West should have responded two hearts to the opening spade bid and that he needed the queen of clubs and every other missing face card to warrant that bid. Hence, West's only hope was to lead ace and another club and find his partner with a singleton.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1♣	1♦	Pass	1♠
2♦	2♣	Pass	Pass
3♦	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ 4 5 6 7 ♣ A 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
♦ 7 8 9 10 ♣ K

What do you do?

A—Pass, or bid three diamonds. It depends on your knowledge of your partner's bidding habits.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding two spades over West's two clubs, your partner jumps to three spades. What do you do in this instance?

The 1903 treaty itself came about as a result of a none too glorious episode in U.S. history.

After failure of a French attempt to build the canal, Colombia, which held Panama as a province, granted rights to the United States, but the Colombian senate delayed ratification.

In November 1903, Panamanians revolted and U.S. warships prevented Colombian troops from reaching Panama to put down the revolt.

Some said the U.S. paid and encouraged the rebels.

In any event, within 15 days the United States had both recognized Panama and for 10 million dollars obtained full jurisdiction over the canal zone, a mile-wide strip on either side of the future canal. Subsequently annual rent was set at $250,000.

Through the years there were many U.S. concessions to the feelings of the Panamanians.

In 1906, the United States gave up its right to intervene in Panama to preserve order.

The annual rent went up in two stages to its present $3-million dollars.

And in 1960, President Eisenhower ordered the Panamanian flag to be flown alongside that of the United States in the canal zone.

It was done over the objections of many in the Pentagon, members of congress, and "Zionists" the Americans live in the zone.

This year relations between the United States and Panama were broken on the same old issue of the canal and remained so for weeks in a haggle over whether the United States would "discuss" the old treaty or renegotiate.

Panama has benefited from the canal though subsidiary income to the tune of about 63 million dollars a year, plus receiving other benefits from the alliance for progress. But she has always believed she should have more.

International Affairs Were An Interesting Mess in '64

BY WILLIAM C. RYAN
AF Special Correspondent
For students of international affairs, 1964 has been a fascinating year. It was a year in which the underdeveloped world's capacity for trouble became overdeveloped. Not much was accomplished toward establishment of brotherly love but much fun was generated over the game chess-like who had the bigger headaches, Americans or Russians.

In Asia: Neither Americans nor South Vietnamese answered the question whether Khanh can or Khanh can't. Lieut. Gen. Nguyen Khanh began the year by knocking over the regime of his colleague, Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh. The United States supported Khanh. Khanh moved himself up from premier to president. The United States supported him. The population got riotous, so Khanh stepped out of the presidency and formed a triumvirate of generals. The United States supported him. Khanh became premier all over again, promised civilian rule, set up civilian rule under a High National Council. Khanh stepped out of the premiership. The United States supported him. Khanh permitted the council to last a month, they sent it packing. The United States did not support him. Khanh told the United States it should mind its own business. In Indonesia, it was what President Sukarno called "the year of vivre-periculisso" (Italian for "living dangerously"). That meant going ahead with the job of crushing Malaysia, Indonesia's neighbor, Malaysia, remained crashproof. Sukarno told the United States to hell with your aid and Indonesians with no little inspiration from their government, rampaged against Americans. But there was balm for American wounds. Toward year's end, Sukarno said in a speech: "Some of my best friends are Americans."

For the Russians, it was the year they failed to prove to Chinese satisfaction that the USSR is an Asian nation. The door slammed against the Russian foot, as Moscowites struggled for a participating role in Asian-African conferences. They were as nice as pie to the Indonesians, for example, but the Indonesians gave them no help. It was the year in which the Russians, long the loudest critics of colonialism, were accused by implication of the Red Chinese, of being colonialist and occupying territory which belonged to other people.

In Africa: It was the year in which U.S. policy succeeded in getting the support of Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo and in being denounced only by about three-quarters of the new African states. The officially controlled press of Ghana set the tone in February with a call to Ghanaians to "damn the Yankees" for a diplomacy which it said was "the long story of murder and assassination."

For the Russians, 1964 brought an opportunity to get back into the game in Africa. If only the Chinese communists would get out. In the Middle East, Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic got loans from the Russians, helped to quell the rebellion in the Congo, and told the Americans they could "blow him from the sea" an Arab way of saying "go to hell."

Helena Rubinstein tells... Why some women look young at 50 while others look old at 35

Facts about beauty after 35; how Ultra Feminine face cream reduces lines and wrinkles due to dryness, starts you looking younger today.

Just as some girls reach adolescence at 12, others at 14 or later, you and I know that women show signs of age at different times, some as early as 35, while others seem forever young. The difference depends greatly on each woman's skin and body chemistry, and her supply of estrogen and progesterone, natural substances plentiful in youth, but diminished in later years.

What Ultra Feminine Does to Make You Look Younger

Ultra Feminine replenishes estrogen and progesterone, which cannot be stored by your skin. With daily use, your oil glands produce at a more youthful rate. Skin cells can hold maximum moisture. Lines and wrinkles due to oil and moisture loss are reduced, younger skin tone is restored. And you look younger! No other face cream at any price can make these claims for effectiveness! You'll agree with me, no woman over 35 should ever be without Ultra Feminine.

Why No Face Cream Can Duplicate the Ultra Feminine Formula

Because there are no substitutes for estrogen and progesterone when nature's supply declines, we sought to return these substances to aging skin with Ultra Feminine—an exclusive, patented formula. It is the only face cream with both of these female requisites.

The Ultra Feminine Guarantee

Damage to Buttercup Area Viewed

FAIRFIELD, Jan. 2 — Conservation officer Walter Browne and two Russco silver company officials made a trip to the Buttercup mine this week to view the damage from the recent avalanches.

Browne reported no new slides had occurred in the area. The big crawler and bulldozer that were left about one fourth mile from the mine proper have recovered there may be in danger of slides, so they didn't go to the mine.

Browne reports that no bridges were washed out but there is muck and rock at the mouth of canyons with a deep amount in the Willow creek road near the Clifford Toone's ranch.

Mine officials hope to clear out the slides and resume work at the mine this winter if the weather permits.

Avalanches before Christmas forced the closure of the mine and the evacuation of employees by the forest service from Fairfield.

Former Area Resident Is Bureau Head

OAKLEY, Jan. 2 — The 45-year-old son of an Oakley woman has been appointed as director of the weather bureau regional office, Salt Lake City.

Hazen H. Bedke, son of Mrs. George Bedke, Oakley, was appointed director of the office, announced Dr. Robert M. White, chief of weather bureau, department of commerce.

Bedke will direct the scientific and public services in the areas of climatology, hydrology, weather observing and weather forecasting. The regional office in Salt Lake City covers Arizona, California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

Bedke started to work for the bureau after leaving the air force where he served with the first weather wing.

Bedke was born in Oakley and attended school here. He received his bachelor of science degree in 1940 and a master of science degree in 1941 from the University of Utah.

He has obtained post-graduate degrees in meteorology and physical oceanography from the California Institute of Technology and Scripps Institute of Oceanography.

Bedke is married and has four daughters. Bedke's brother, Herman Bedke, is a Burley attorney.

Britain OK's U.S. Bid for German Unity

LONDON, Jan. 2 — Britain Friday endorsed in principle the United States' reported stiffened terms for a new bid to reunite Germany.

Diplomatic sources said Britain stands by the comprehensive plan for German unification and European security which was worked out in 1959 among the Western powers and Soviet leaders. Foreign ministers unsuccessfully presented to the conference in Geneva that year.

Washington reports said the U. S. administration, impatient with pressure from the Bonn government, is not now prepared to consider another approach to Moscow unless there is advance agreement among the allies on a comprehensive plan for the future of central Europe.

The West German government lately has been seeking fresh Allied talks with Russia on German reunification.

The issue was raised during the foreign ministers meeting at the mid-December NATO conference in Paris, but no commitment was made to Germany on four-power talks with Russia.

However, the Western powers were expected to get together some time in the new year to review their position on whether and how to tackle the problem.

Basically, diplomats here see the unification accord with the Soviets. The Russians have hinted they see no chance for a settlement for a long time to come and apparently have no desire to re-open the issue at a full dress conference in the near future.

ROGERSON, Jan. 2 — Army Sgt. Eugene V. Orsini, 29, son of Phil W. Orsini, Rogerson, was named "quarter-commissioned" of the 404th, Sgt. Orsini's company was the first artillery's first missile battalion at Fairchild air force base, Wash.

TWO DEMOCRATIC representatives, Rep. John Bell Williams, left, of Mississippi and Albert Watson of South Carolina got together Saturday while waiting for notification if they would be denied party privileges for supporting Republican candidate Barry Goldwater in the presidential election. Rep. John Blatnik, D., Minn., announced later that a group of liberal House Democrats voted to deny Blatnik and Watson for their action. Blatnik said more than 100 Democrats voted to deny committee seniority rights to the two men. (AP wirephoto)

Suggestions of Solving Coin Shortage in U.S. Are Listed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 — NEA — Everybody knows there's a coin shortage in the United States. What may come as a surprise is that the whole world is beginning to hurt for silver. These facts are two ends of one problem that is reaching crisis proportions.

Groping in the shadow of this black cloud whose silver lining is no consolation is the U.S. treasury department.

The treasury department's dilemma can be stated simply: To ease the coin shortage, caused by a number of things—more vending machines, more odd-cent sales tags, more odd-cent holders and speculators—the department has been forced to swamp the nation with coins. But if today's production rate is maintained, the treasury's entire supply of silver—1.35 billion ounces—would be wiped out in less than four years.

This in turn would undoubtedly cause the price of silver to rise above the standard $1.29-an-ounce price maintained by the treasury department. Thus speculators could find it profitable to melt down dimes, quarters and halves to sell the silver content.

In this event, coin speculation would skyrocket and the department would be facing a further coin shortage.

Well, why not simply mine more silver? The trouble here is that most of the silver now mined in the United States occurs together with deposits of such base metals as lead, zinc and copper. All but four of the active silver mines in the country produce more base metal pay dirt than silver.

Thus a small increase in silver production would amount to a mammoth increase in lead, zinc and copper production, the markets for which are already saturated. The same situation exists in all other silver-producing countries.

Another seriously considered solution is the total elimination of silver from coins. The treasury department is now studying a one-year study of all U.S. coins; the most comprehensive review of U.S. coinage in history.

The study will not be completed until next April or May, but the odds are overwhelming that one of its proposals will be legislation to reduce or ultimately eliminate silver from U.S. coins.

Suggested substitutes for silver are almost limitless: aluminum, stainless steel, columbium, zirconium and plastic, to mention a few.

"We're not eliminating anything right now," says one treasury department official.

But this in turn would raise the price of silver. The fast-growing vending machine industry is vitally concerned with any change in coin content. Since most of the country's 4.5 million vending machines "reject" mechanisms are based on the electrical conductivity of the coin (silver has an extremely high electrical resistivity), a change from silver could play havoc.

Estimated sales through U.S. vending machines in 1964 will be 3.5 billion dollars—about two per cent of the total retail sales in the nation.

In order to prevent current vending machines from becoming obsolete, any substitute for silver in coins must have approximately the same high electrical resistivity, and that's the rub: no other common metal even approaches silver in this regard.

"It would have to be an alloy," says a leading metallurgist, "and I'd start with either steel, lead or pure nickel. But whatever the final decision may be, it's going to take a lot of laboratory work."

But even a complete elimination of silver from coins would not begin to solve the country's increasing need for the metal.

U.S. industrial consumption of silver has averaged 196 million ounces a year since 1959. During this same period, U.S. mines produced only 33.8 million ounces a year, while imports of silver averaged 39 million ounces a year.

Thus, the average U.S. silver deficit over the last five years is 33.8 million ounces a year.

Relatively new industrial uses for silver include silver-infused tungsten for rocket nozzles able to withstand the high temperatures of solid rocket fuels and silver alloys able to resist heat and pressures generated at supersonic speeds.

All is not gloom, however. Science, which is heavily responsible for the world's growing appetite for silver, may find an answer.

Geologists believe that improved exploration techniques and tools may soon make it possible to locate more concealed deposits of silver oxide veins—pure silver "bonanzas" such as the long-exhausted Comstock lode in Nevada and Idaho's Silver City.

Solons Face Big Problem of School Formula

BOISE, Jan. 2 — The formula used to distribute state funds to public schools is one of the toughest and least understood programs facing Idaho lawmakers at each session of the state legislature.

The 1965 session will be no exception and although the formula has been revised at each of the last two sessions, it is expected to get a thorough going over again this year.

Basically, the purpose of providing state funds for the public schools is to give every child in the state equal educational opportunities.

Probably no one concerned with enacting the original formula back in 1933 anticipated it would become the headache and hassle that has developed over the years.

Understandably perhaps, each legislator each session considers a proposed formula on the basis of what it will do for the schools in his county. If it gives them more state money, he's for it. If it takes some away, he's against it.

But until the legislature adopts an overall view or what a specific formula will do for all public school students there likely will be no unanimous agreement on a distribution formula.

The complexity of a formula brings many complaints. Some ask why it can't simply divide the total money available on a per-capita basis among the public school districts.

Educators reply that the problem is a complex one, and the formula must be complex to solve it.

Some school districts have considerably more assessed valuation on which to levy taxes

Bell System Reports 1.7 Billion Profit

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 — American Telephone and Telegraph company's Bell Telephone system today reported a 13-month profit of 1.7 billion dollars—a record so far for any business concern.

The figure topped the record 1.59 billion dollars earned by General Motors corporation in 1963. The nation's No. 1 automaker has not yet reported its 1964 earnings, but had nine months ending of 1.35 billion dollars.

The Bell system, largest public utility enterprise in the world, operates more than 80 per cent of the nation's telephones.

Its parent company, American Telephone, has been a traditional passer for profits among the nation's corporations.

Example of the Bell System for the 12 months ending Nov. 30, 1964, totaled $1,700,000,000. This compared with consolidated net income of $1,590,000,000 for the similar period ending Nov. 30, 1963.

Earnings per share rose from $3.02 to $3.24.

Red Scientists Rap Bureaucrats

MOSCOW, Jan. 2 — A Soviet scientist charged today that the country's scientific progress is being held back by the bureaucracy.

V. V. Pavlov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Medical Sciences, complained in the Communist party newspaper that Soviet officials were too busy with their own projects and were not producing guaranteed results in the foreseeable future.

His remarks suggested a sharp behind-the-scenes conflict over resources for pure scientific research between Soviet budget officials and scientists.

BUDGET HIGHEST

ST. PAUL, Jan. 2 — Northern Pacific railway's budget for new equipment and passenger improvements in 1965 has been increased to the highest level in the company's history, NP President Robert S. Mactarian reported.

New Year Ushered in by Magic Valley Partygoers

By NORMA HERZINGER

And a good time was had by all! Happy New Year was on the lips of every partygoer as the new year was ushered in, in various ways.

Balloons, serpentine, New Year's noisemakers and festive hats were evident everywhere as the hands of the clock struck midnight, signifying the start of a new year.

Many types of parties were held throughout Magic Valley, including dances, card parties and quiet family gatherings. New Year's eve is probably celebrated by more partygoers than any other social event of the year. Magic Valley residents were no exceptions, despite the cold, nippy weather.

Very traditional with the New Year observances are the New Year's resolutions. These resolutions are made by many, and kept by few. Speaking for myself, I can't remember keeping any of my long list of resolutions for more than a few days.

Nevertheless, year after year, most adults, and teen-agers, too, use the start of a new calendar year as a springboard for new hopes, aspirations and a time to weed out habits they dislike in their lives.

New Years, while thought of primarily as a time for revelry and merriment, also is a time for sober thought and reflection on the blessings of the past year and plans and hopes for the infant year just beginning.

Magic Valley residents, used to living in an area where the extreme poverty and economic and political chaos prevalent in many parts of the world are at a minimum, indeed have much to be thankful for and can look forward with considerable assurance to another prosperous year in 1965.

MAKING NEW YEAR'S resolutions is a common practice among most people, but kept by few. Intentions are always good as one by one resolutions are added to a long list. (Times-News photo)

Redmen Erase 16-Point Deficit, Cop ECAC Title Over No. 1 Ranked Team

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—St. John's Redmen came from 16 points back midway through the first half tonight and upset mighty Michigan, the nation's top-ranked college basketball power, 75-71 in the title game of the Holiday Festival tournament.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVAV

About the best thing that can be said for the bowl season is that it forces some of the southern states to admit there is something resembling football north of the Mason-Dixon line.

In the comfort of the armchair, legs propped up at the proper level to maintain even circulation, it became somewhat puzzling to understand how anything as ponderous and unimaginative as Mississippi ever made the top 10 in the national ratings.

The Utah Redskins, from the Intermountain angle, bolstered this area's reputation magnificently with their playful romp over supposedly rugged West Virginia.

Bitting in a similar position right now in the Northern division of the West Coast Big eight, Bowling Green State to the California schools won't soon forget it.

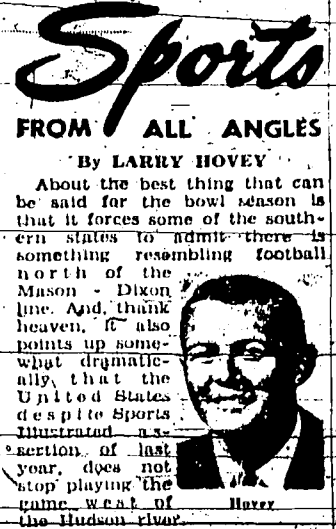

But there is one question which of necessity shall remain moot. USC fans pegged their Rose bowl claims on victory over Notre Dame.

Until the Orange bowl Friday night reports that Alabama's Joe Namath was worth $400,000 to the pros as a passer seemed absurd.

After watching Texas a couple of more times this year, we wonder why the Loughorns go to the trouble of putting the quarterback behind the center.

Exhibition SHOSHONE, Jan. 2 — A team of local players and the Harlem Stars will play an exhibition at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the local gymnasium.

The high school S club is sponsoring the event.

Hovav

for the trophy, won the most valuable player award. Hubie Marshall paced LaSalle to a 73-70 overtime triumph over Syracuse in the opener of the triple header in the game for fifth place.

About 100 of the sellout crowd of 18,400 flooded onto the floor when the buzzer sounded ending the title game, surrounded by St. John's players and carried them from the floor.

Special police were unable to control the surge and only after repeated pleas by the announcer did the mob go back to the sidelines.

The shocking upset, in which the Redmen came from a 68-52 deficit midway through the final half, was topped off by rebounding at St. John's sophomore Sonny Dove and the steady backcourt play of Ken McIntyre and Jerry Houston against the Michigan press.

Dove kept the Redmen in the running in the early going, hitting his first seven shots from the floor and kept it going with his crucial rebounding against the taller, stronger Wolverines.

Michigan, however, only once other than the early rebounding pointer to Nebraska, was threatening to run away from the out-manned Redmen when the big rally started.

Dove and Ken McIntyre were the big guns as the Redmen repeatedly stole the ball, blocked Michigan shots. Dove rebounded and steadily cut the lead down.

California Writers Belt Oregon State

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2 (UPI)—The Oregon Beavers, who compiled a fine 9-2 record while battling their way to the Rose bowl, were the subject of boisterous ridicule today in the wake of Michigan's 34-7 runaway victory yesterday.

Some observers thought that Oregon State didn't belong on the same field—or in the same country—with Michigan. Others screamed that Southern California, which tied with the Beavers for the Pacific Eight crown and defeated Notre Dame in the season's finale, would have put up a better show.

The football world will never know what the Trojans of USC might have done, but Oregon State proved beyond a doubt Friday that it was inadequate as an opponent for Michigan's words—Paul Zimmerman in the Los Angeles Times.

L. H. Gregory, sports editor of the Portland Oregonian, preferred to skip over the game. "Sidestepping the Michigan team for a moment," wrote Gregory, "the Michigan hand had a total of 76 trombones and we personally counted 18 tubas!"

Don Selby, writing in the San Francisco Examiner, called it one of the "dullest Rose bowl productions in recent history." The Los Angeles Herald-Express headline read: "Rose Bowl: New Year's Fiasco."

"It was a dull game while the score was close," wrote Mel Durand in the same newspaper. "And it developed into boredom unbearable when the disparity in the points grew."

Coach Tommy Prothro, who may have lost a chance for the UCLA job because of the lackluster offense he concocted for the game, put the blame on his own team's defense. He had plotted a chart that called for the Beaver defense, featuring linebackers Jack O'Blivovich and Dick Ruhl, to hold Michigan and wait for the breaks.

The victory put Baltimore eight games ahead of the last-place Warriors in the Western division. The Bullets took the lead on a field goal by Walt Bellamy with 58 seconds gone in the contest and never trailed. They led 25-18 at the end of the first period, 58-45 at halftime and used reserves for most of the second half.

Wilt Chamberlain led the Warriors with 43 points, but could not withstand a balanced Baltimore attack led by Walter Bellamy's 25 points.

Moreau's Late Field Goal Gives LSU 13-10 Victory in Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Charlie McClelland got his kicks from the Sugar bowl but his biggest boot came when Doug Moreau delivered a field goal to give Louisiana State a thrilling 13-10 victory over underdog Syracuse.

Moreau, a left-footed junior who learned the art by booting a football over a low hanging telephone line in his back yard, got off a post-22-yarder with 3:51 left in the Sugar bowl game New Year's day.

"It was a beautiful kick and I was really praying for Doug to make," said LSU quarterback Billy Ezell, who held the ball for Moreau.

Ezell got a second chance on a pass pattern with LSU trailing 10-2 and it turned into a beautiful 57-yard touchdown play for the Tigers.

"But I was scared I was going down," said Ezell, also a junior. He explained that he was hit by a Syracuse player and almost lost his balance before backing behind an LSU man to the end of the field.

Ezell lost control of the ball for a moment after being hit by the Syracuse guard. Then he arched the long aerial to Moreau for LSU's only touchdown.

Ezell promptly tied the game with a two-point pass to Joe Labruzzo. The victory for McClelland marked the first time that a head coach who played in the Sugar bowl has come back and won. McClelland was a star cornerback on Paul (Bear) Bryant's Kentucky team which defeated national champion Oklahoma 13-7 in the 1951 Sugar bowl.

Warriors Drop Eighth Straight

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets led from start to finish tonight in scoring a 129-103 victory over San Francisco.

Tensi Sets Pass Record, Biletnikoff Catches 13, To Spark Gator Bowl Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP) — Florida State's dazzling battery of Steve Tensi and Fred Biletnikoff poured new wreckage on player-riddled Oklahoma with a record-shattering air attack that crushed the Sooners Saturday in the 20th Gator bowl football game—36-19. Tensi, a quarterback who fires the ball like a rifle shot, threw five touchdowns, passes and the All-America flanker, Biletnikoff,

Tensi Jokes About Pass Interception

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP) — "I thought it was going to be a long day when the first pass I threw was intercepted," Steve Tensi said today with a smile. He could joke about it after the Gator bowl game because five other passes he threw scored touchdowns and gave Florida State a 36-19 victory over Oklahoma. Tensi and pass-smuggling All-American Fred Biletnikoff had it hot to be happy about as they were escorted by sports writers in the dressing room.

Both signed two-year bonus contracts with American Football League clubs. Tensi with San Diego and Biletnikoff with Oakland. They wouldn't say how much money they got but there was a "nice bonus" involved, they said.

When it came to giving awards, sports writers couldn't decide between the sensational pair who led FSU to an 8-1 season and two national prominence for the first time since the former all-girls school took up football in 1947. They named Tensi and Biletnikoff co-winners of the most valuable player award.

In the Oklahoma dressing room across the field, Coach Clomer Jones said Tensi was as good as any quarterback the Sooners had in this year. "I believe Tensi and Craig Perle of Southern California are the best," Jones said. "They both had good days against us."

The Oklahoma coach had equal praise for Biletnikoff. "He is really a halfback and runs well after receiving," Jones said. "Of course, FSU has a lot of good receivers. And they run the ball well."

"We gave them a show, didn't we," said FSU Coach Bill Peterson. "It was tremendous prestige for us," he said. "We played well outside of some mistakes in the kicking game."

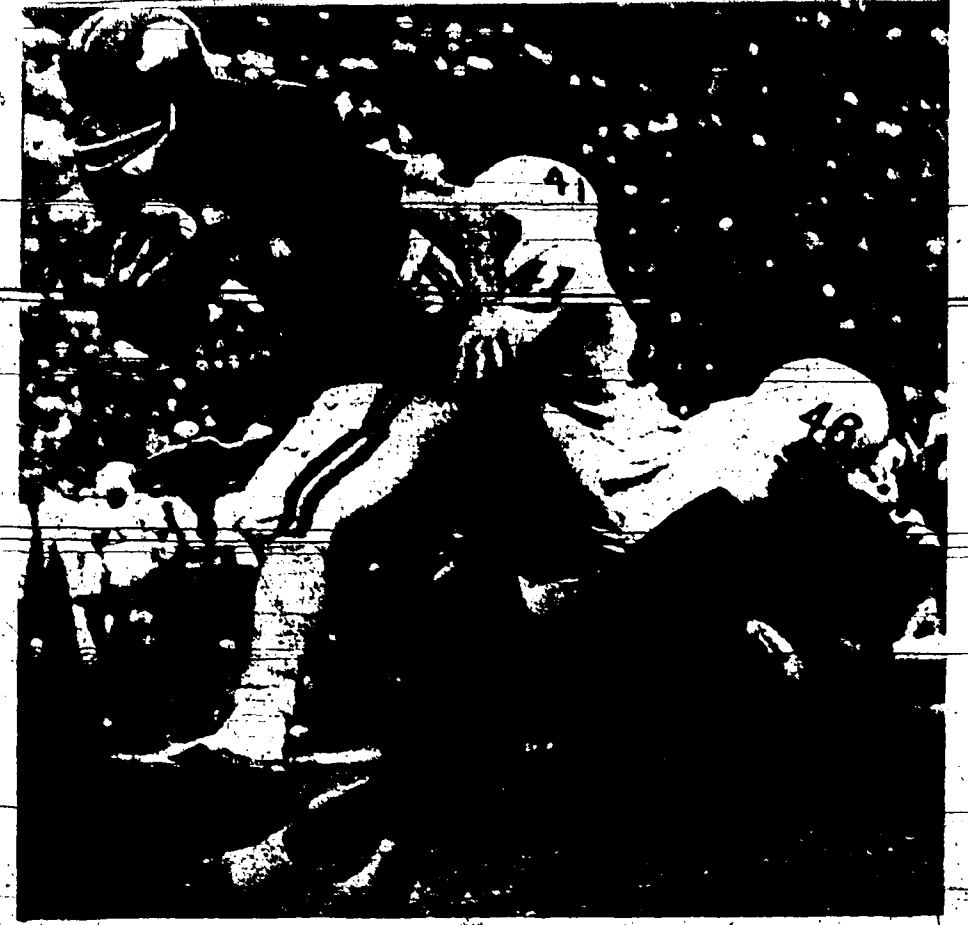

"Steve showed everybody he is a great quarterback and the line gave him tremendous protection as usual."

"Considering everything, I thought the Oklahoma morale was outstanding," Jones said.

Roelants Wins Brazilian Race
SAO PAULO, Brazil, Jan. 2 (AP) — Gerd Roelants of Belgium, Olympic 3,000 meters champion, won the 10,000-meter race today at an international meet in the municipal stadium.

His time was 29:46.1. Roelants was second in 30:13.2. Antonio Ambro, Italy, third, in 30:22.4. Valentin Robles of Mexico, fourth, in 30:32.6.

Mahmoud Ameer of Algeria was fifth, in 31:34.2. William Dellinger of the United States quit on the 14th lap.

snatched four of them in a wild aerial display that kept a sellout crowd of 50,408 blinking in disbelief. Game records were set in individual passing, receiving and scoring.

Oklahoma, which lost the heart of its offense when four key players were ruled ineligible for signing pro contracts prematurely, refused to surrender willingly to this kind of assault and added dramatics of its own. The chief of these was a scorching scoring pass in the 10th period from Ronnie Fletcher, a 157-pound sub, to Ben Hart for 95 yards — the longest single strike in Gator bowl history. Ironically, the wild, offensive game ended on a spectacular defensive note.

The scrappy Sooners, refusing to show discouragement in the face of overwhelming odds, drove 80 yards to the Florida State goal.

There they had first down with four yards to go for a touchdown. Four times they sent their power men—Larry Brown and Jon Kennedy—smashing at the line. On the fourth try, Brown was smeared an inch from the goal.

Florida State's irrepressible passing team of Tensi and Biletnikoff broke Oklahoma's back with a three-touchdown spree in the second period, climaxing air marches of 90, 63 and 89 yards. Tensi hit Biletnikoff with scoring passes of 15, 14 and 10 yards.

The last Florida State score came on a seven-yard pass, also from Tensi to Biletnikoff. Tensi completed 23 of 36 passes for 393 yards, all for records, and Biletnikoff caught 12 of them for 192 yards and four scores.

Biletnikoff's 24 points were the most ever made by an individual in this post-season contest.

Florida State's other two scores came on a first period run of 80 yards with an intercepted pass by Howard Ehler, one of the Sooners' "seven magnificents" of the defensive unit, and a 14-yard pass from Tensi to end Don Floyd late in the third period.

Oklahoma's first score came on a one-yard smash by Kennedy in the 10th minute and the other on a two-yard run by Tommy Paunell after a recovery of a Biletnikoff fumble at the goal line.

LSU Edges Past Georgia 70-69
BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 2 (AP) — Dick Smith hit on a 30-yard jump shot with three seconds left to pull Louisiana State from behind to a 70-69 basketball victory over Georgia today.

The game was a Southeastern conference opener for both teams. The Tigers rallied from the first three mistakes until Maule's clutch basket.

They were behind by 13 points twice in the second half but steadily closed in on the Bulldogs and pulled within one point after Tommy Thigpen's goal with 1:43 to go.

But he said, "we had a great football team. We never were behind except in two games—Tulsa and Nebraska—and we came back to win. We have a championship team."

Senior Bowl Passers Eye Game Record

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 2 (AP) — The five quarterbacks in the 16th annual Senior Bowl Jan. 9 will be face to face with formidable passing records set in the North-South classic.

However, the five have established an amazing record of their own. They threw a total of 103 passes during the regular season for 417 completions, or a 51.3 percentage. Their completions totaled 5,568 yards for 37 touchdowns.

Richie Barker of Indiana, who ranked seventh in the nation in passing, will be on the North squad. He'll be joined by Tom Myers of Northwestern.

The Rebels have Steve Tensi of Florida State, who ranked sixth, as well as Bob Schweickert of Virginia Tech and Joe Namath of Alabama.

It will take a lot of throwing to top the 74 attempts made in 1962. A total of 39 passes were completed to equal the record set in the inaugural year of 1950.

The most yardage from passing in the Senior Bowl was in 1961 when the North-South clubs completed 36 of 58 aerials for 639 yards.

By the records may be in jeopardy from this year's crew. Each side has top-notch receivers, too. The South has Florida State's Fred Biletnikoff, who ranked fourth in the nation with his 57 receptions for 887 yards and 11 touchdowns. New York's 7-Foot Lew Alcindor Leaves College Recruiters Panting

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — Cincinnati Coach Ed Jucker watched the big, gangling high school football backboard jumper perform for 16 minutes, then announced: "I'll take him right now. Wow. Yes, sir, I'll take him now."

"His potential is the greatest I've ever seen," said Wilt Chamberlain. "I hope he stays in New York, goes to college right here," said New York University coach Lou Rossini, rather wistfully. "It would be great for local basketball."

"I think it would be very nice if he stayed in the East," said Coach Lewis of Syracuse, who obviously wanted to expand the area. Temple's Bob Walters agreed.

The object of all the admiration was Lew Alcindor, a seven-foot, 230-pound senior at New York's Power Memorial high school, the most widely-sought schoolboy basketball player since Chamberlain's pre-college days.

Chamberlain's pre-college days, Jack Donahue, who carefully shields his star from over-exposure and will not allow him to be interviewed, insists no deci-son has been made on where the boy will go to college. Alcindor performed for the visiting coaches for the holiday football backboard jumper when his team played a preliminary to a San Francisco-Norfolk professional game in Madison Square Garden Friday.

It was a fairly typical performance for Alcindor, who has led Power Memorial through a string of 64 games without loss. In slightly less than 27 minutes of playing time in the 69-44 victory over the San Francisco team, Alcindor scored 37 points, took down 18 rebounds and blocked four shots.

"It's easy to see why he's the most widely sought player in the country," said Jucker. "He has all the moves of a polished player. His coordination and agility are amazing. And he seems to be an unselfish player. He passes off."

That indicates a fine attitude. "That's important, attitude. You've got to have that in addition to the ability. He seems to have it."

No one seems quite certain how many colleges are after Alcindor. "Quite a few,"

Chamberlain, who watched the Warriors' game. "Why, I've played with and against him."

"In playground stuff, in the summer, right here in New York, I've showed him some things, given him some advice. He's young, got things to learn yet. But he has great potential, wants to learn."

"Did you talk about college, about where he's going to go?" Chamberlain was asked. "To an extent," said Wilt, but declined amplification.

"He's copied some of Wilt's moves," Jucker said. "He's got that turn-around shot Chamberlain uses. And he's got a real good shot. The kid doesn't have to use the boards."

"And did you see him toss out after getting a rebound? That's the way to start a fast break. He handles the ball like it was a basketball and has amazing accuracy."

"He has tremendous poise out there, doesn't get rattled. He's just so active out there, does so many things. It's easy to see why everybody wants him."

Seen him before?" asked Chamberlain. "Quite a few."

IC4A Asks NCAA to Lift Track Ban

By The Associated Press PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 2 (AP) — The 71 track coaches of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to lift its ban against competing in open meets that are not sanctioned by the U.S. Track and Field federation.

The appeal was contained in a letter from Pete Morgan, Princeton coach and head of the Track and Field Association.

"Individuals who want to represent the United States in leagues we send out of the country will have to compete in AAU nationals in June at San Diego," Morgan told The Associated Press.

"But if this dispute continues, collegians will be ineligible. Eventually, collegians won't be able to compete in the Olympics."

"It's about time the leaders of both sides are made aware of the reaction by those affected most—The athletes. They're a guided, bitter and disappointed. There are hundreds of collegians in IC4A member colleges, whose careers are short. The current seniors are just two months of their college careers remaining."

Area Schools Set Mid-Week Cage Action

Several Magic Valley high school ball teams take their last two Tuesday and Wednesday fore starting conference action this week-end.

The winless Minto Sparrows relying mostly on underclassmen and elevating a sophomore in starting unit, continue their budding program but hope better results when they host Highland Rams Tuesday night. Highland won the first meet 48-42 at Pocatello.

Kimberly, also looking for first win, will travel three miles to the home of the Hardey Huskies, who have posted a slightly win since losing to Muriel's Red Devils slanted to travel to Hagerman what will be a meeting of class A-4 best.

One game is scheduled Wednesday, the Burley Bobcats (3-2) hosting the Buhl Indians who are 1-5.

Arkansas Claims National Title After Bowl Results

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas says the defeat of Alabama 31-17 by Texas makes us the only major undefeated, united team in the country. We do hope the people voting for the Grantland Rice trophy will name us national champions.

Arkansas beat Nebraska 10-7 in the Cotton Bowl after coming back from a 10-0 deficit.

pleting an unbeaten and untied season.

The Football Writers Association of America picks the winner of the Grantland Rice trophy after the bowl games are played.

Alabama was named national champion and Arkansas No. 2 in the Associated Press poll. Notre Dame was third.

Broyles said "we thought we had a team worthy of the national championship but never could get ahead because Alabama in second place ahead of us, wouldn't lose and even if Notre Dame, the No. 1 team, lost it still left us in second place." But he said, "we had a great football team. We never were behind except in two games—Tulsa and Nebraska—and we came back to win. We have a championship team."

The Porkers reeled off some spectacular plays—scoring victory in the last quarter. Quarterback Fred Marshall engineered an 80-yard drive in the final quarter, climaxing by reserve tailback Bobby Burnett's three-yard touchdown burst that stretched Arkansas' winning streak to 13 games. Arkansas' defense contributed heavily, too.

The Porkers knocked Nebraska back so far in the first period, the kickoff against the wind was short and it set up a field goal.

Tom McKeelney booted it for 31 yards and the three pointer was the eventual margin of victory.

Nebraska got a touchdown in the second period with a 10-yard dash on third down by sophomore Tom Wilson getting the ball to the 40. A 36-yard pass by sophomore Bob Churchich to Wilson moved the ball in position for the clutch run that gave Nebraska a 7-3 lead at intermission.

The play that turned the tide for Arkansas was a 20-yard pass from Marshall to Jim Lindsey that set the ball on the Nebraska ka five as less than five minutes remained.

That was part of the 80-yard drive Marshall engineered in the fading minutes that pulled it out.

The Razorbacks, who had been stopped on the ground, were behind 7-3 and the crowd of 75,504 just wasn't sure they could change the situation.

But Marshall passed for yards and ran for 10 as Arkansas rallied. He easily won trophy as outstanding back of the game.

Ronnie Caveness, All-America linebacker, led glittering Arkansas' defense with 15 tackles. And was voted top lineman.

WEST NIPS EAST 11-7 IN FINAL SECONDS

Morton's 6-Yard Flip to Schraub Proves Decisive

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2 (AP)—California's Craig Morton hit teammate Jack Schraub with a six-yard flip pass with one minute, four seconds remaining to give the West an 11-7 comeback victory over the East in the 40th East-West Shrine football game.

Scoring Play Was New to Old Battery

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2 (AP)—Craig Morton and Jack Schraub, who've been playing pass-and-catch for a dozen years and would like to go on for another dozen, pulled something new to win the 40th East-West football game today.

Morton threw a six-yard touchdown pass to his old friend with 1 minute, 4 seconds remaining in the Shrine charity game on a play they never used in their four years as teammates at the University of California.

Jack never had a chance to catch anything like that at Cal because he always played "light and" quarterback Morton said.

Schraub, who played split end in the West's 11-7 victory, said that he hit the linebacker with his shoulder and dropped off behind him. It's a real good play.

Rick Redman of Washington, the writers' choice as outstanding lineman of the game, was uniquely inspired. Shortly before the contest Redman was told that his wife gave birth to 7-pound, 10-ounce Scott Brandon Redman in Seattle.

"This definitely got me up for the game," said the 215-pound guard who ran 65 yards with an intercepted pass in the second quarter.

Navy quarterback Roger Staubach was chosen the outstanding player of the game.

"I didn't feel that I deserved it," said Staubach, "a lot of these men out there did outstanding jobs."

"Man, it was miserable," said Clarence Williams of Washington State. "I've played in wind, wet and in the snow. This is the worst of all."

Williams almost went all the way with the kickoff following the East's lone touchdown. But he was caught, from behind, at the East 33-yard line by Al Nelson of Cincinnati after running 56 yards.

Nelson gave Staubach 10 yards and then he just tied my shoelaces," said Williams. "I thought I had a touchdown."

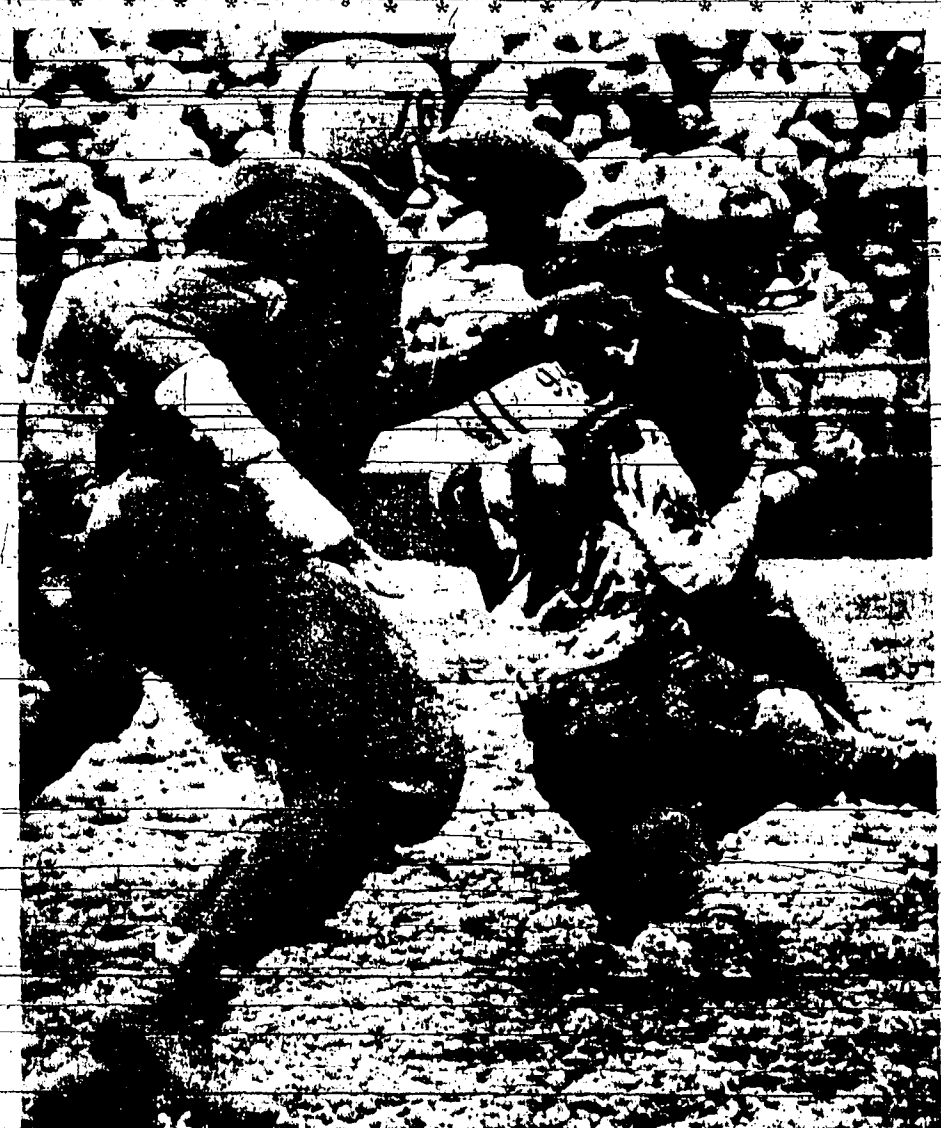

Williams was the man who knocked out Staubach on the West one-yard line just before the East scored. Fred Mazurek of Pittsburgh came in and sneaked over the touchdown on the next play.

"I was just knocked out for a second," said Staubach. "Helmet hit—we collided head-on."

Two to Schraub, giving the West a first down on the East seven. George Donnelly of Illinois picked off Morton's next pass on the one.

After in the period Morton fumbled but picked up the muddy ball, outran his pursuers and fumbled toward Schraub. It went incomplete but a pass interference call gave the West the ball on the five. Oregon's Bob Perry gained two, Morton was tossed for a 19-yard loss and the drive fizzled.

Morton completed 19 of 57 passes for 189 yards. Schraub caught nine of them for 109 yards. Staubach completed only four of 13 for 77 yards. Mazurek was two for six and Berry three for nine.

MUD-SLICK BALL gets away from Roger Staubach (12), East quarterback from Navy, as he is caught behind the line of scrimmage in the second quarter by West end Corky Sullivan (91), Oregon. West recovered, but failed to capitalize on the opportunity. At left is East's Archie Sutton (76), Illinois. The West pulled out an 11-7 victory late in the fourth quarter. (AP wirephoto)

Packer Passing to Test Cards' Defense in Playoff Bowl Today

MIAMI, Jan. 2 (AP)—The old gag about an irresistible force meeting an immovable object has a football version coming up Sunday in the National Football League's playoff bowl game between the Green Bay Packers and the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals, who were barely beaten out by the champion Cleveland Browns in the East. The Cards were 9-3-2.

Both the Browns and Cardinals have strong teams, good enough to beat the champion Browns during the regular campaign. St. Louis and Cleveland are 38-19 and 38-19, respectively. Green Bay won over the Browns 28-21.

The Packers are essentially a running team, with Jim Taylor the leading rusher with 1,169 yards. Paul Hornung, besides being the team's placement and extra-point specialist, is also a strong runner with 415 yards to his credit.

St. Louis' passing record was achieved on only 272 attempts, a small number in the pro game. He completed 163 and threw for 15 touchdowns.

St. Louis' quarterback Charlie Johnson threw eight touchdowns, 490, in fact—and completed 223 for 3,045 yards. He threw for 21 touchdowns.

Fischer is far ahead of all other defensive backs in the league in interceptions. He has grabbed 10 and run two of them back for touchdowns.

The Cardinals' hopes of matching Green Bay on the ground were dimmed when John David Crow, the team's leading rusher with 554 yards, failed to recover fully from a muscle pull suffered in the last game of the season against Philadelphia.

There was some doubt that Crow would be able to play against Green Bay. He will be used spottily, if at all. The Cardinals already were without the services of Joe Childress.

L. A. Open to Kickoff 1965 Golf Tour

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2 (AP)—The richest tour in the history of "professional golf" will get under way on Friday when the $70,000 Los Angeles Open, one of the stalwarts of the circuit, rolls into action.

The favorite, naturally, will be Arnold Palmer, who was edged in the big money race during 1963 by Jack Nicklaus, who is skipping this event.

Arnie, who served as grand marshal of the Rose bowl parade on New Year's day, should jump off to a head start over his arch-rival in this one because Nicklaus isn't entered.

On the other hand there is no question that Arnie will make headlines that year as he did in 1961 when he took a disastrous 12 on the par-five ninth hole.

There is a plaque on the Rancho course commemorating the fact that a plaque that is supposed to serve as a morale booster to the hackers who have trouble on the same hole.

The defending champion, Paul Harvey, one of the game's longest slingers, from Sunset Oaks, Calif. However, Harvey is only a part-time tourist these days and is considered a long-shot in this year's event.

Nicklaus and Gary Player, the big South African, are the only big names missing from the list of entries.

Shaffer Leads Buckeye Victory

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 2 (AP)—Center Jim Shaffer led Ohio State to a 73-68 victory over Georgia Tech today.

The Buckeye, who trailed by eight points early in the game, grabbed the lead with nine minutes left in the first half and never lost it. They led Tech 38-31 at halftime.

Texas Defense Puts Stop To 'Bama's Namath to Win Orange Bowl 21-17

MIAMI, Jan. 2 (AP)—Brilliant offensive play by Ernie Koy and Jim Hudson gave Texas three touchdowns, but it was the crashing defense of five Longhorns that gave the Texans their 21-17 upset of national champion Alabama in the Orange bowl. The Texas defense—rated the fifth best in the land—took all the sting out of a brilliant passing performance by Alabama's great Joe Namath by coming up with the big plays. Clayton Lacy, Dixon Talbert, Otis Underwood and All-American Tommy Noblis stopped Alabama and Namath six inches from the Texas 20-yard line in the fourth period.

Alabama marched to the Texas six yard line with six minutes to play and four straight times.

	Alabama	Texas

Rushing yardage	129	212
Passing yardage	238	101
Passes	20-44	4-17
Interceptions	1	3
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	66	23
Passes intercepted	1	3

the Texas defense stopped the hard charging 'Bama backs. A few plays later it was Pete Lammons who intercepted a Namath pass on the Texas 32 to kill the Crimson Tide's chance for a touchdown.

On the goal-line stand, Namath tried to punch it over himself from the half-yard line, but he was stopped inches short and Texas took over on downs.

Both Alabama Coach Paul Bryant and Darrell Royal of Texas said the Longhorns' valiant goal-line stand was the thing that preserved Texas' victory.

Bryant said on that series of downs he called all the plays. "Our line dove in there and stacked them up," Royal said. "It was great work. But I sure didn't feel good to give them three runs at us from two yards out."

Bryant said his team played a courageous second half and that he could have asked no more than that.

Koy's 73-yard touchdown run with 23 seconds left in the first quarter and a 69-yard touchdown pass by Hudson to George Sauer about five minutes later put Texas in a commanding position.

"Never in all my coaching career do I remember a team hitting me with two such big shots so close together," the Alabama coach said. "Texas is a fine team—and Royal a wonderful coach who deserved the victory."

Namath, who completed 18 of 37 passes for 255 yards and an Orange Bowl record, was voted the game's most valuable player, but the loss had taken all the joy out of it for him.

"I don't feel like I won it or deserved it," he said.

Royal said "It's wonderful to beat the national champion, but brother, I've had enough of Alabama. And a lot of Texans will be happy that we never again have to play against Joe Namath."

These two quick touchdowns gave the Longhorns a 14-0 lead and Namath told Bryant he wanted to stay in the game and try to put the Tide back in business.

With Namath throwing the ball with pinpoint accuracy, the Tide whittled the lead down.

Namath hit Wayne Trimble with a seven-yard scoring pass in the second period, but Texas countered again with another marker by Koy for a 21-7 lead. Minutes later Namath fired a 20-yarder to Ray Perkins to cut the margin to 21-14 in the early seconds of the fourth period. A 26-yard field goal by David Ray pulled the Tide to within four points, 21-17, but that was all Alabama could manage.

"This team is still my all-time favorite," Bryant said. "They've done so much with so little—and this makes them great in my eyes. They're real champions."

Texas Tells 'Bama To Keep Trophies

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Darrell Royal says he does not think Alabama should feel obliged to give away any trophies because of the upset last night in the Orange bowl. When asked how he rated the fifth-ranked Texas Longhorns now that they had beaten the first-ranked Alabama "Crimson Tide," Royal said, "I feel the same way I felt last year when we were No. 1 and going against Navy in the Cotton bowl."

"We had a room full of trophies and not one of them said 'mad to Navy' in case you lose. We beat Navy but we would have kept the trophies even if we had lost."

"And I imagine Alabama feels the same way. I bet they won't mind us any trophies either."

Coch Paul Bryant of Alabama was equally gracious. "Coach Royal did a better job of getting his team ready so he deserved to win. If I had to lose, I'm glad it was to a man like him," Bryant said.

Royal said Alabama's great quarterback Joe Namath was "simply fantastic," putting Alabama from behind and almost salvaging the game before being stopped on the one-foot line and losing 21-17.

"I don't believe in comparisons, but I say this. He has to be one of the great quarterbacks I've ever seen," Royal said.

Although hampered by an injured knee, Namath passed for 255 yards and two touchdowns. The Longhorns, quarterbacked by Jim Hudson and sparked by the running of Ernie Koy, put on a brilliant display of offensive football and then showed their defense was equally good.

Bayou Bourg Is Handicap Victor

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Bayou Bourg caught 2-1 shot Herb Scott at the 16th pole and won the $10,000 Mississippi handicap at the Fairgrounds today by one length.

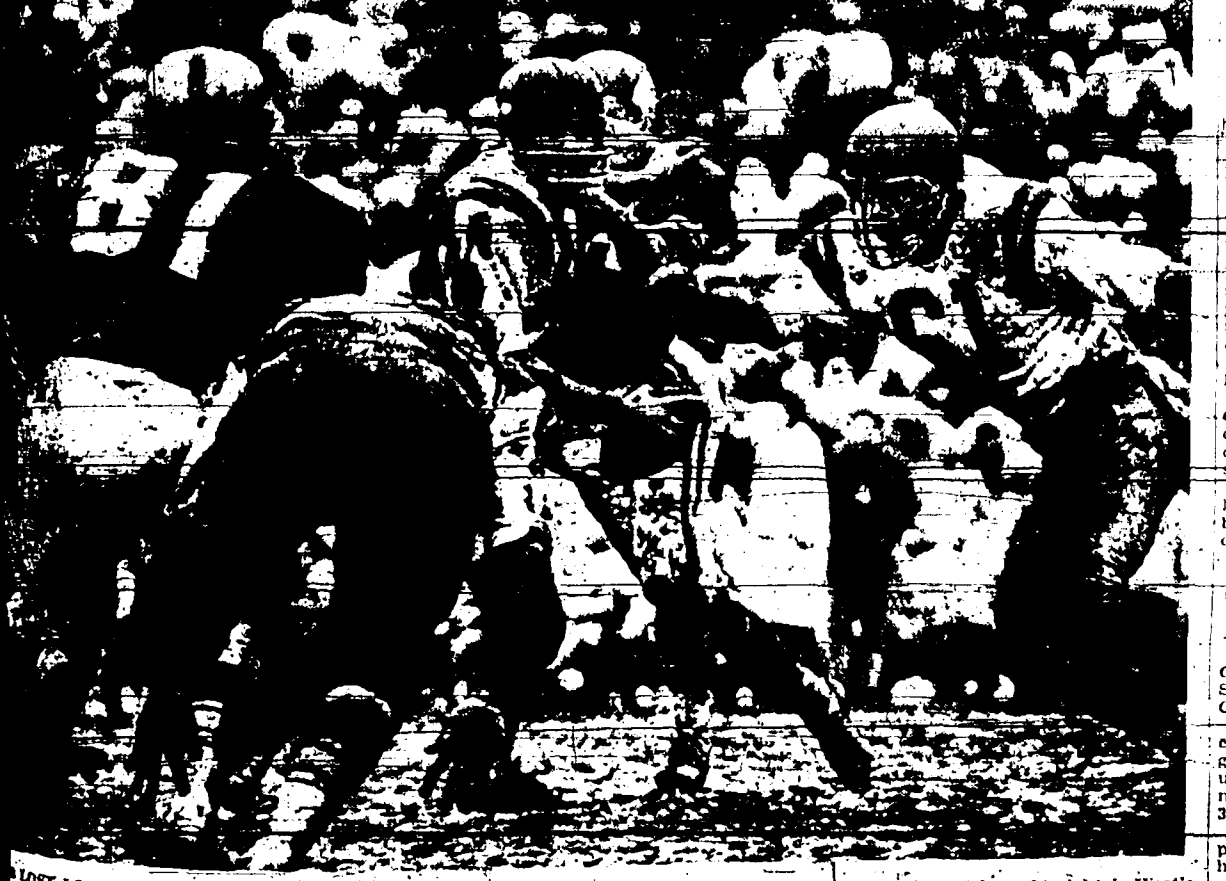

Herb Scott went to the front at the start and settled into the stretch with a good lead but was unable to withstand Bayou Bourg.

Bayou Bourg paid $16.40, $5.60 and $3.60. He covered the mile and 1/4 in 1:24.25.

Shoot Luke, also a 7-1 shot, came up fast to finish third. Herb Scott returned $4 and $3.60 while Shoot Luke paid $3.80.

MINNESOTA WINS

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Minnesota, rebounding from two straight losses in the Los Angeles tournament, defeated Detroit 80-66 tonight in its final tune-up for the Big Ten season.

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, SUNDAY, JANUARY 3, 1965

New Half Million Dollar Church Constructed to Serve Twin Falls LDS

Barring any last minute unforeseen difficulties, the sixth and eighth wards, Twin Falls stake, LDS church, will hold an open house next Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. at a new building estimated at $500,000.

Between now and next week end, the membership, the church officers and the various contractors will be busy getting the building finished for public view and approval. Part of this last minute rush includes the laying of new carpets and hanging of drapes and general clean up activities.

Members of the two wards have much to be proud of and considering that the idea of a new building was formed some six or seven years ago, it is quite an achievement. A half million dollar structure has been constructed in Twin Falls utilizing mainly the resources of some 1,200 members.

The new structure, located on the 600 block of Harrison street, is more than just a building to serve two LDS wards. It is a projection into the future.

In time, and it could happen in the next 6 months, it is contemplated that the Twin Falls stake will be divided. The new structure housing the sixth and eighth wards will then serve as a stake tabernacle. Thus in the construction of the new building features ordinarily found in tabernacles have been built into the sixth and eighth ward building.

There is some 25,000 square feet of floor space in the building and it's all air conditioned by refrigeration.

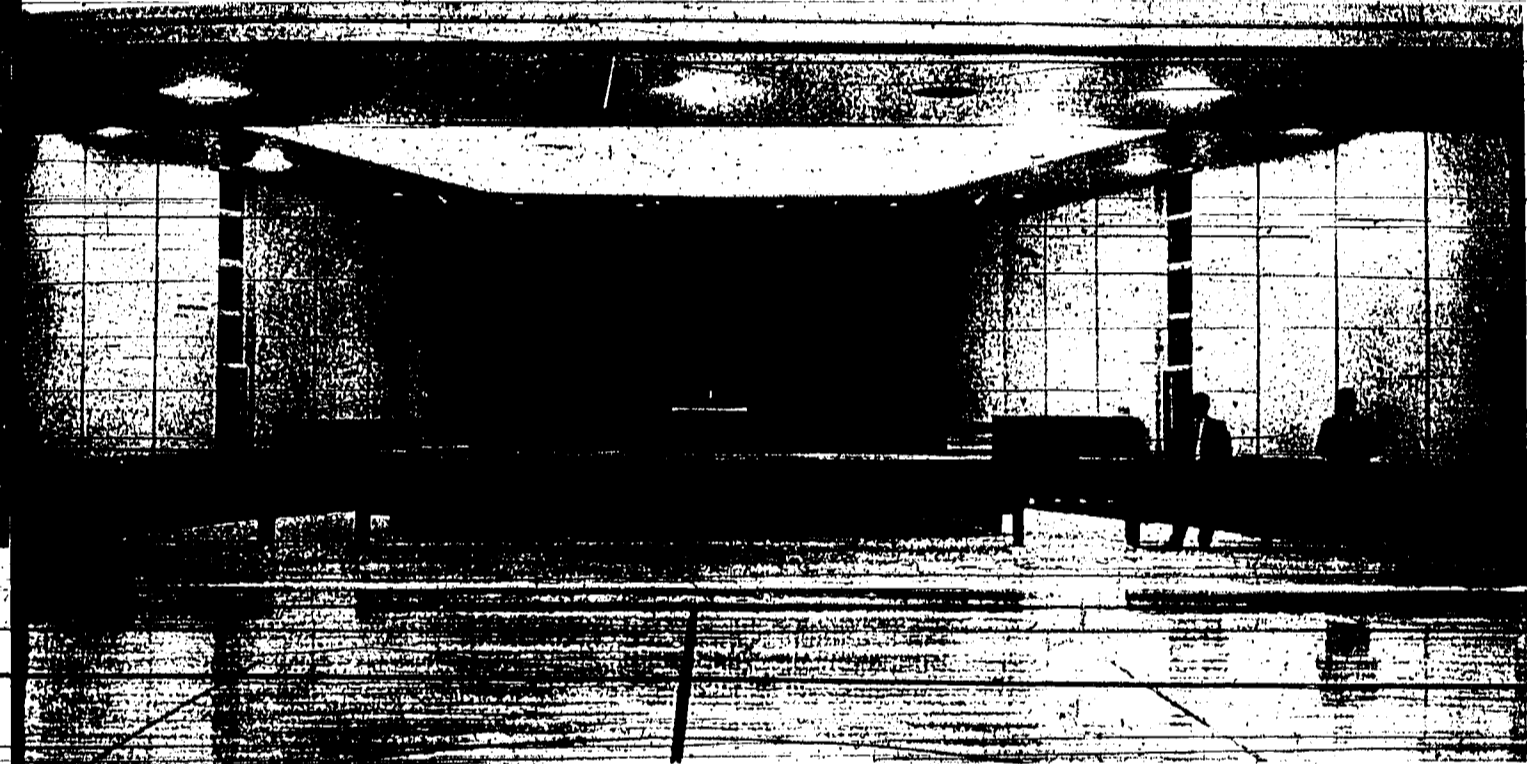

The chapel is located on the east end of the building and is somewhat triangular in design. The stage part of the chapel is located on the extreme east end of the building. Running north and south is a full basketball sized recreation hall.

Sportsmen Build Pipeline to Boost Output of Rock Creek Hatchery

A handful of members from Southern Idaho Fish and Game association have recently completed finishing touches on a pipeline which will boost and stimulate the production of fish at Rock creek hatchery.

The hatchery is owned by the state and is operated by the fish and game department under an agreement dating back to 1941.

The construction of the pipeline dates back to the early 1920's when the association have worked to improve facilities at the plant. The latest is the installation of a pump and pipeline to recirculate water used in the hatchery.

The main source of water for the hatchery comes from a tunnel dug by the Twin Falls Canal company to drain sub-surface water from the land.

The tunnel is roughly a quarter of a mile long and collects a sizeable stream of water which gushes from the side of the canyon above the hatchery. This water was tapped as a source for the hatchery and has worked out very well. The only drawback comes during the spring of the year, before the farmers begin to irrigate, at the low flow period. After the end of the irrigation season and after the water has been turned out of the canals the flow of water into the hatchery is slowed.

The slow flow period occurs when the hatchery needs water the most. Fish for planting in many Idaho streams and lakes are in the process of growing and becoming legal size during this same period. Growth is limited because of the volume of water available. The fish gain adequate growth, but growth of numbers is limited.

Now, with a new recirculating system installed, much of the problem has been eliminated.

Where the water spills from the hatchery and flows into Rock creek is where members of the association went to work. A new settling pond was constructed and a new stream bed to the creek was prepared. Some 160 feet of 10-inch iron pipe was laid from the pond back to the head end of the concrete fish ponds.

This pipeline will carry the water back to the fish ponds for reuse. A seven and half-horsepower motor was installed and is used to pump the water back to the head of the fish runs.

Vernon Smith, chairman, board of directors, Southern Idaho Fish and Game association, estimates that over 200 hours of voluntary labor was used in the construction of the pipeline.

In addition, the association spent an estimated $1,250 for material to construct the line and make it operational. The association had to do some bargain hunting and secured the good second-hand motor to pump the water. The bargain was that the motor was guaranteed.

In addition to laying the main pipeline the association had to cover an existing drainline. All this necessitated considerable expense and time.

The volunteers didn't have the best of working conditions. Changing a stream bed and digging a pipeline means only one thing: there was a lot of mud involved and the volunteers were often knee deep in mud and water as they worked to improve the Rock creek facility.

The association has the right to save where 25 per cent of the fish are planted in the area served by the hatchery. According to Smith, the association has never had to enforce this right as the fish and game department has worked closely with the group and there have been few difficulties.

The hatchery serves an area starting in east Cassia county and extending westward into Owyhee county, the north boundary is Snake river and the southern boundary is the Nevada line.

While the project is beneficial to the southern Idaho sportsman, it has created one problem. The association spent all of its money on the project and the membership dues are still a few days away.

One answer to the association's problem is increased membership. Increased membership means more money to finance projects beneficial to the Idaho fisherman.

Lud Drexler, association secretary, pointed out that the association can handle a lot of projects and participate in many worthwhile programs with the support of the ordinary Idaho fisherman—the fisherman interested in preserving and continuing Idaho fishing.

The new pipeline is in use now and will benefit Idaho fishermen this year.

Frank Thietten served as chairman of the project to construct the new pipeline and spent many hours down in the mud building the line and rerouting the ditch.

This spring, when the water level begins to drop, the hatchery superintendent will flip the switch on the pump and the end result might well be another foot long fish for someone this summer.

DEEP IN MUD and water are Frank Thietten, near end of pipe, and Vernon Smith, as they install a 10-inch pipeline which will carry water back to the head of the fish runs at Rock creek Hatchery. Thietten was chairman of the project and Smith is chairman of the board of directors, Southern Idaho Fish and Game association. The project depleted the association's funds, but will boost the capacity of the hatchery, which is used to supply many lakes and streams in Magic Valley with trout. Fish are distributed south of Snake river. (Times-News photo)

INSPECTING NEW PUMPING facilities at the Rock creek fish and game hatchery is Lud Drexler, secretary, Southern Idaho Fish and Game association. The pump will aid in the recovery of water for reuse in the hatchery. During the spring of the year, the flow of water utilized by the hatchery is low and this is the time adequate water is needed. The association constructed a pipeline and installed the pump to boost the capacity of the hatchery at no expense to the state of Idaho. (Times-News photo)

Original Protest Against Hot Lunch Program Leads to Staunch Support

HEYBURN, Jan. 2—During a PTA meeting, a small group arose to protest in a proposed plan which had just been presented by the school superintendent.

A federal law had been passed allowing the schools to serve noon lunches to students and the superintendent wanted the local PTA unit to sponsor the program at Heyburn.

As Mrs. Leo Handy recalls, "I had seen WPA lunches and as an officer of the PTA I argued long and loud against it. I lost, and as PTA secretary I kept the first books for the Heyburn school lunch program."

The old familiar saying, "The person who is the hardest to convert usually makes the best member," may pertain to Mrs. Handy.

After working with the program that first year and seeing how much a nutritionally sound meal means to a youngster, and especially how much they need it, she spent the next 10 years as a diligent supporter.

She became ill with a severe lung ailment a couple of years ago and was advised by her doctor to discontinue her school lunch responsibilities. She contributed some of the "best years of her life" to instructing and helping school lunch cooks with improved methods of preparing "type A" lunches to hundreds of youngsters. She believed that school lunch knowledge should be shared with others.

She was instrumental in having Minidoka county be the first county in the state to have a consolidated lunch program, where the whole county operated as one program.

Upon her retirement as an official in the Idaho School Food Service association (ISFSA), she was given a life membership for her organization work she fulfilled and was given the honor of having the ISFSA yearbook dedicated to her.

Mrs. Handy was born June 18, 1909, at Boise to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fruit. Her mother resides at San Diego, Calif.

Her parents were early-day homesteaders on the Minidoka project. They filed on the 80-acre farm currently owned by Jake Kerbs, northeast of Heyburn. The project was opened by the reclamation in about 1904 and her father filed in 1905.

Conditions in those days weren't exactly a picnic and the Fruits, along with other homesteaders, had to walk quite a distance to the river for water. She remembers her father speaking of the time he walked six miles to the river for a pail of water. He stubbed his toe on a sagebrush just as he returned to his tent and had to walk the six miles back again to refill the pail.

The Fruits' first child, which was stillborn at the home, was buried in the back yard under a rosebush. A few years later when the people developed at Cassin & Fry, the remains were transferred from the farm to the present location near the river.

Mrs. Handy attended school at Hopewell, located east of Heyburn, and Boise. She remembers the children thought very little about walking the three miles each day to school.

About the only thing she can remember about being cold is having the riglets frozen about her face. She was graduated from the former Heyburn high school in 1928.

She worked at Boise two years and was married to Leo James Handy, March 26, 1930, at Boise. They have one son, Donald, who is an associate in the family-owned Handy Truckline company, Heyburn, and five grandchildren.

She began working in the school study hall in 1943 and attended Albion State normal to get her library science and an emergency certificate to do library work in the school.

As secretary of the local PTA she had the job of keeping the books for the new school lunch program, which was organized in about 1945. She kept the books the first year as PTA secretary and the next year was appointed lunch supervisor.

In 1946, Mr. and Mrs. Handy purchased a common carrier trucking business from Ronald Marshall and formed the Handy Truckline company. In 1948 Mrs. Handy divided her days working between the home in the east and Heyburn schools.

The students had love and respect for "the handy Mrs. Handy" who helped many times with their problems. When she became ill and resigned in 1949, the school annual was dedicated to her with the caption: "To Mrs. Dorothy Handy—we hereby dedicate our annual for her understanding, cooperation, sympathy and inspiration towards your school for the past seven years."

She maintained her responsibilities with the school lunch program, and was appointed lunch supervisor. Although PTA officers have a frequent change-over, she remained at this position until the county school district consolidated a few years ago and she was appointed authorized representative and keeper of the county books.

The lunch program was then placed under the jurisdiction of the county school board. She organized and instructed bookkeepers for the new school cooks which were held each month. She did the case and quantity food purchasing and was responsible for the entire county school lunch program plus doing all the book work.

In 1958 they discovered the organization they had formed here with Cassia county was consolidating with the ISFSA and was "affiliated" a county chapter, with Mrs. Handy as president. At this time there were eight schools in the county, serving around 3,000 lunches a day. The vocational education department of ISFSA, Pocatello, organized positions for area representatives to work through the ISFSA and she was appointed over area three.

At the same time she held three positions in the program—area representative, authorized county representative and keeper of the county lunch books. She became ill with a lung ailment about two years ago and was instructed by her doctor to give up her school lunch service.

The PTA presented her a life membership for her work with the school lunch program. She recently completed instructing a group in the Burley Christian church on a complete study of the Bible, which took her seven years and two months.

Mrs. Handy feels it is quite ironic that the thing she spent so much effort trying to discourage on that PTA night 10 years ago became one of her biggest interests.

Through her county and state lunch service responsibilities she earned the love and respect of many people.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

DR. ROBERT C. HARVEY, First Presbyterian Church, just about the most familiar words in everyone's conversation right now are "Happy New Year!" These words, while used often and even sometimes casually, are nevertheless almost always sincere. We do hope that the year ahead will be a happy one.

While many things that make for unhappiness are not within our control including such things as some accidents, natural catastrophes, some illnesses, international tensions; nevertheless much depends upon us as to whether or not it will be a "Happy New Year."

Happiness is a strange thing. Sometimes the harder we try to find it the more it eludes us. But this is very often because we are looking for it in the wrong places. Jesus gave us excellent directions for our search when he said: "Seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be yours as well." The Kingdom of God is peace and joy brought to us by living in God's love. If we are actively in search of ways to love people of ways to make God's love known to them, of ways to bring help and comfort to others, and if we do these things in the name of Christ, then we are living in the Kingdom of God. There in the presence of God we find the happiness that no external circumstances can shake, no tragedy can destroy it, no difference can wither it, no discouragement can suppress it. For it is the happiness of knowing that we abide in God.

James we read, "If a brother or sister is ill clad and in lack of daily food and one of you says to them, 'Go in peace, be warmed and filled' without giving them the things needed for the body who does it profit?" So we might paraphrase by saying if a brother or sister is unhappy and you say to him "Happy New Year" without showing him love, God's and your own, what does it profit? For every "Happy New Year" that we utter, let there be a corresponding determination to bring into the life of that person, and any other person within your influence, the deeds and the words of love. Then it will indeed be for us and for others a "Happy New Year."

In the very practical letter of Year...

Coffee Break Big Mistake For Bandit

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 2 (UPI)—Police said Friday night that a man walked into a small restaurant, had a cup of coffee, then pulled a gun on the waitress and her 23 customers.

He rifled the cash register, and then ordered the patrons to file past him and place their wallets and other valuables on a stool. He forced one of the customers to put the look in a cardboard new year's hat.

Then, unaccountably, the bandit stuck his pistol in his belt, perched on a stool and ordered another cup of coffee.

All 23 customers pounced on him. They ripped his shirt and his pants and pummeled him mercilessly until police arrived to pull them off.

The man, identified as Edward L. Dimambro, 42, was treated at a hospital and then jailed.

Canal Zone Discussed at Rotary Meet

SHOSHONE, Jan. 2—Program at the Rotary club Wednesday consisted of piano solos by Lois Grieve, Gooding, and a talk on the Panama Canal zone by Capt. Bruce Hall. Hall was introduced by Chalmer Martin.

Captain Hall will leave Jan. 10 for a 14-week training period at a finance school in Indianapolis. He will then be stationed at Ft. Hood, Texas.

He described operations at the Canal Zone, stating several sites are being surveyed for a possible new sea level canal. The present canal handles up to 40 ships every 24 hours, but cannot handle some of the largest ships. He said most of the people there live in poverty and almost all of the area is owned by 50 families.

Other guests were Ed Hoffman, Seattle; Scott Helferty, Boise; and Lloyd Hansen, Shoshone. The birthday anniversary song was sung for Perry Hadlock.

Headstone Is Acquired for Nixon's Dog

WANTAGH, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP)—The grave of "Checkers," former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's famed cocker spaniel, has acquired a suitable headstone.

The Bide-A-Wee Home—association said that initially the grave in its pet cemetery in Wantagh, L. I., was marked only by a metal sign reading, "Checkers."

But a spokesman of the Bide-A-Wee pet memorial park said a granite headstone, purchased by Nixon, has now been placed at the grave. It reads: "Checkers, 1952-1964."

Checkers died Sept. 6 at Nixon's Fifth Avenue apartment in Manhattan and was buried Sept. 10 in the pet cemetery of parakeets, honey bees, turtles, monkeys and horses.

HARDY WINTER ANGLERS ignore zero temperatures on Bear lake in the extreme southeastern corner of Idaho to dip for Bonneville cisco or "peaknose," as the diminutive members of the whitefish family sometimes are called. As many as 131

Fishermen Flock to Bear Lake by Thousands to Catch Bonneville Cisco

By DELVAN D. HIBBERT
Idaho fish-game department
The Bonneville cisco, a member of the whitefish family, is found only in the extreme southeastern corner of Idaho to dip for Bonneville cisco or "peaknose," as the diminutive members of the whitefish family sometimes are called. As many as 131 ly very small plant and animal life. Their tiny mouths will not allow them to take large objects such as insects. This is probably the reason fishermen find it difficult to catch them by hook and line.

Cisco are greyish-blue on the back, silvery on the sides and white below. During spawning time they turn a silvery-bronze color along the side, making it a striking and beautiful fish.
Cisco are important not only as a game fish but as a forage fish for the large trout in the lake. Samples taken from the stomachs of lake cutthroat and rainbow trout all contained cisco.
Following the close of commercial fishing in the 1920's, cisco were not an important fish to the angler. In 1951 Bear lake was opened to year-around fishing to try to encourage fishermen to catch cisco and the other whitefish in the lake.
As a whitefish, Bonneville cisco has always been classed as a game fish, but the bag limit included them with other whitefish. Cisco sometimes were caught by using a tiny hook with a small white larva or wisp of red thread on the barb.
However, it was a slow process and only the hardest of anglers would fish on a cold winter day to catch a few of the small fish. Some persons took cisco illegally by nets or snagging when the conservation officers were not around.
Since the cisco is a desirable game fish and many sportsmen wished to take limits legally, anglers in Idaho and Utah proposed to the fish and game departments of both states that cisco be taken by the use of dip nets during their shore spawning run.
The Rainbow Rod and Gun Club at Montpelier was one of the leaders in this effort. Idaho and Utah fish and game departments investigated the possibilities, and in 1960 the first netting of cisco was allowed.

The season for taking cisco by nets was Jan. 1 to Feb. 15. A dip net with opening not larger than 18 inches and mesh not over one-half inch was legal. The limit on cisco was 25 fish for 1960 and 1961. Since 1962 the bag limit has been 50 cisco and the requirement of the size of mesh of the net has been removed.
The method of catching the cisco varies from year to year depending on the weather. If Bear lake freezes over a hole must be cut through the ice; if not, fish can be caught from shore by wading in the water.
A long handle is usually attached to the dip net. The net is lowered into the water and then raised as the fish swim up, scooping them up.
Last year an angler caught 131 cisco in a single dip. If more fish are taken in one net than a limit, care should be taken to return the remainder to the water alive.
For the past three years the Utah fish and game department has set up checking stations at Bear lake and checked the cisco fishermen. Assisted by Idaho fish and game personnel, a thorough check has been made. In 1962, 3,645 fishermen netted 159,292 cisco; in 1963, 3,948 anglers took 118,728 fish, and in 1964, 3,427 persons caught 106,863.

Missionary Shot as Gag Backfires

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 2 — A missionary and his wife were shot and critically wounded by his roommate Thursday night when a New Year's Eve party intended to thrill their girl friends turned into a near-killing.
Raymond Saunders, 20, of Vale, Ore., was admitted to St. Anthony's hospital with a bullet wound in his back. His roommate, Richard Whitaker, 21, of Compton, Calif., also a missionary, was jailed on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.
The two, who were sent here several months ago by the LDS church, planned to brighten up the night's festivities with a fake shooting.
Shortly before 11 p.m. they left the Mormon church here and drove to a diner with two girls and another boy. As they left the restaurant, Saunders broke into a run. Whitaker pulled a .22 caliber pistol and fired at the fleeing youth.
Saunders fell in the street. Police said both here believed the weapon was loaded with blanks. When Whitaker and his companions reached Saunders, however, they discovered he had been hit with a live bullet.
Robert Drummond, head of the local Mormon church, said the shooting was a "horrible accident" and he and the leaders of other religious denominations would attempt to have the charges against Whitaker reduced.

CHRISTMAS CACTUS owned by a Jerome woman, Mrs. Percy Hite, has delighted its owner again this holiday season by blossoming. She has had the plant for nearly 25 years and it has bloomed only during the past four or five years. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Percy Hite, JEROME, has a Christmas cactus which again "did its duty" through the holidays. Half of the plant blossomed for the Thanksgiving holidays and the other half blossomed for Christmas. The plant bloomed in rather the same manner last year. Mrs. Hite has had the plant for approximately 25 years and it has been blooming during the holidays for the past four or five years. The plant was started from a slip taken from another plant and has just begun to repay the grower with a wealth of blooms for her many years of care. Mrs. Hite stated she felt the plant blossoms in this odd way because of the way the rays of the sun shine on the plant during the winter months.
Mrs. G. W. Vallette, DECELO, is perhaps the only person in Idaho, at least in Magic Valley, who owns a Himalayan cat.
Last spring she purchased her kitten from a cattery in Gull some males may be solid brown with almost black markings.

This little fellow, registered as "Kel Keaki" (a Japanese name pronounced key-key) weighed two pounds when he arrived, but now weighs nine pounds thanks to the excellent care the Vallettes have given him.
The Himalayan cat is a cross breed between the Siamese and the Persian. It was developed in 1950, by a Mrs. Joseph P. Go-forth, La Mesa, Calif., after nine generations of cross breeding. Her object was to develop a cat with the Persian build and disposition, along with the Siamese markings and long thick fur.
The Himalayan cat got its name because of its color pattern, which is found in other kinds of animals such as the Himalayan rabbit or the Himalayan goat.
Mrs. Vallette says, "Kel Keaki proceeds to love everybody and he thinks everybody loves him." She noted an agreement has to be signed by the purchaser that one will not sell a Himalayan kitten for less than $150. Obviously anyone who buys this type of cat is a person who loves animals and intends to give them good care.

There isn't any doubt about Mrs. Vallette taking care of her cats. She has nine at the present time, two Siamese, four Persian, two cross-breeds and her pride and joy, "Kel Keaki."
He is often found lying on a "face covered" table in the middle of her living room, or on the lap of Mr. or Mrs. Vallette.

... dip net with opening not larger than 18 inches in diameter permitted in catching the Bonneville cisco. These fish are taken from a one to two mile stretch of rocky beach on the east shore of Bear lake. Here cisco choose to spawn.
Large schools of the small silvery fish swim back and forth some 10 feet of water close to shore, making it easy for men, women and even children to scoop them up with nets.
Cisco have not always been easy prey for anglers. In past years they were seldom taken by a few seasoned anglers had the patience and know-how to catch them with hook and line. Long before the cisco were taken by commercial fishermen with nets and sold in the markets of Montpelier for 10 cents a dozen.
Bear lake distributes its area equally in the states of Idaho and Utah and has a surface of about 100 square miles and a shoreline of 48 miles. At its deepest the lake filled the entire valley, which is 50 miles long and four to eight miles wide. The old shoreline may be seen at several places in the valley.
Bear lake is deepest on the west side where it is over 200 feet deep. Much of the shoreline is a sandy beach with shallow water extending out several hundred feet. However, over half of the lake is more than 100 feet in depth.
Commercial fishing was important to the early economy of the Magic Valley. As early as 1840 fish were hauled by oxen and later by horses to Evanston, Wyo., the nearest railroad station 75 miles away.
At first, they were bartered for household goods and farm equipment. By 1890 fishermen started taking money for their fish.
Fish taken for market were native cutthroat trout, suckers and whitefish. Bonneville cisco, a member of the whitefish family, was important to the commercial fisherman at the outset because its small size enabled it to escape from the nets.
This changed when Louis Peterson, a commercial fisherman from Sweden, moved to Bear lake. He used a small mesh net to catch the cisco. Cisco were sold both as bait for the trout hatchery and as food for human consumption.
Fishing in Bear lake today began in the early 1900's. Restrictions were placed on commercial fishermen. By 1911 license was required to fish and no bag limits or seasons in effect. When commercial fishing was outlawed, in the 1920's, sport fishing became more popular. Today many people fish for the big ones in Bear lake. The trout, from 20 to 30 pounds are taken each year.
Sometimes known as "peaknose" because of its tiny pointed snout, cisco also is erroneously called "lake herring." It rarely is larger than eight inches or weighs more than two pounds.
This species reaches maturity at eight months, then migrates toward shore to spawn in January and February. The eggs of the trout apparently hatch where water temperatures are below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.
The food of the cisco is mainly

EIGHTH WARD BISHOPRIC examines facilities in the new half-million-dollar building at the new half-million-dollar structure built by the Twin Falls eighth and sixth wards, LDS church.

New Half-Million Dollar Building Constructed to Serve LDS Members

Continued from Page 21... The two sets of folding doors also act as a hallway. When the crowds overflow the chapel the first set of folding doors can be opened and chairs can be set up in the hallway and the hall can be incorporated into the chapel. Normally, the chapel seats 350. The second set of folding doors will open the chapel into the recreation hall and some 2,000 people can be seated. This feature of the building will be utilized during stake conferences. On each end of the recreation room are baskets for basketball and the stage for dramatic endeavors is located midway between the two baskets on the west side of the recreation hall. The stage, complete with cyclorama curtains is capable of handling the most dramatic productions the LDS put on. To the south of the stage is a kitchen capable of handling large banquets. The front of the kitchen has an open pass-through counter to facilitate banquets and other activities.

There is a hallway completely around the recreation room and bordering on this hallway are the many classrooms and offices necessary to carry out the functions of each ward and a stake presidency. To be specific, there are 22 classrooms, library, relief society room, high council room, two bishops' offices and a stake president's office. The Junior Sunday school building is located on the west side of the building and is a scaled-down version of the main chapel. However, this room is geared for religious instruction of children and isn't as ornate as the main chapel. A hall separates the Junior Sunday school room and recreation room. And in this hall behind some folding doors is located the baptismal found-in-all LDS stake tabernacles. The front of the chapel projects far enough from the main part of the building to permit entrance from the outside on both sides of the chapel in addition to entry through the main lobby. Choir chairs and an organ will beque picnics, time and work auctions, candy sales and cookie sales to raise the needed money.

Ward dinner-groups with five to six couples per group were held on a monthly basis and brought in a considerable amount of money. In addition, individual family assessments were made according to the ability of the family to contribute. These assessments ranged anywhere from $500 to $1,500 and the payment was spread over a three year period.

One way to curtail construction costs is to do much of the work with donated labor. And over 3,000 man hours of donated labor was given in the construction of the new facility. This involves everything from shoveling to painting the building.

"This building is the product of the efforts and contributions of many people. We are pleased with it, and believe it makes a fine addition to the general appearance of our community.

"Whatever the effort and what-over the sacrifices it entailed to build this structure, it is well worth it. The building is completed and our door is open," said Lloyd Hamilton, Twin Falls stake president.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

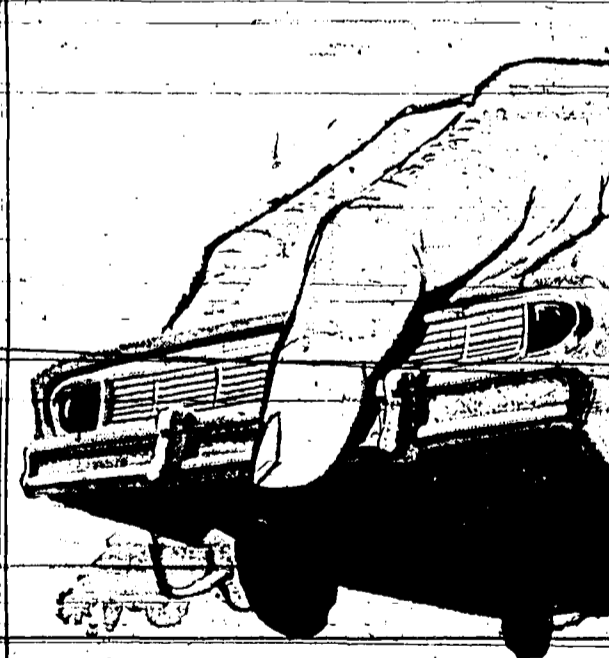

SUNDAY, Jan. 3—Born today, you have about you much of the former's nature, and a good bit of the missionary's zeal. One of these are people whose energy is practically unbounded and whose trust in his own ability is almost absolute, you would be able to accomplish a great deal of good in the world were you inclined. And unless you are born to luxury, in which case the decision for good may be more difficult, you may very well be so inclined. Emotionally secure in your own talents, you will probably not have to go through that stage of unrest and uncertainty which comes so many years in a young person's life. You are quite likely to make a definite start toward success while still in your teens, and to continue on your way methodically and unflinchingly until your goal is reached. Although you enjoy the companionship of others and are not at all averse to the idea of marriage, it may be that you will never wed. Events in your life may preclude settling down to any one place and, under those circumstances, you may not wish to tie another to wander with you. This may, however, be a mistake, there are more mates of the caliber you need than you might think!

Study Set on Resources in Great Plains

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The interior department has announced it will study historic scenic and recreation resources in the Great Plains area next year. The studies will include a Kansas prairie parkway recently proposed by the state of Kansas. The department said the study will include possibilities of a Great Plains parkway through several states, including Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and North and South Dakota. "Such a project could tie together points of historic, scenic and recreational interest throughout the Great Plains. This study will be coordinated with the efforts of a special recreation advisory council study group considering a national program of scenic roads and parkways," the department said. Other studies will include recreation and historic resources of the Ft. Robinson area of Nebraska and a study of plains and prairie grasslands suitable for possible inclusion in the national park system. The interior department turned down plans of the department to carve a Prairie National Park out of a grassland area in Kansas. Plans for a parkway through examples of the original prairie left untouched were seen as a substitute for the national park.

WHY DO MORE PEOPLE BUY
At Union Motors
WITH FULL CONFIDENCE

IF A LARGE SELECTION of cars to choose from is important to you... then Union Motors is the place to buy your cars. Shopping is best where the selection is greatest. Having a variety of models, makes and price ranges to choose from is important to every auto shopper, yet the really important aspect is the condition of the cars. Any dealer can load up his lot with inferior and worn-out autos, but we demand that every car offered for sale be in first rate condition. Our selection is good and only good cars make up our selection.
