NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By Andrew Tully
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—There is sharp contrast these days in the public utterances of a bright young man in Washington and a man in England who remains bright but who is no longer young.

Andrew Tully would lead to the takeover of Southeast Asia by the communists.

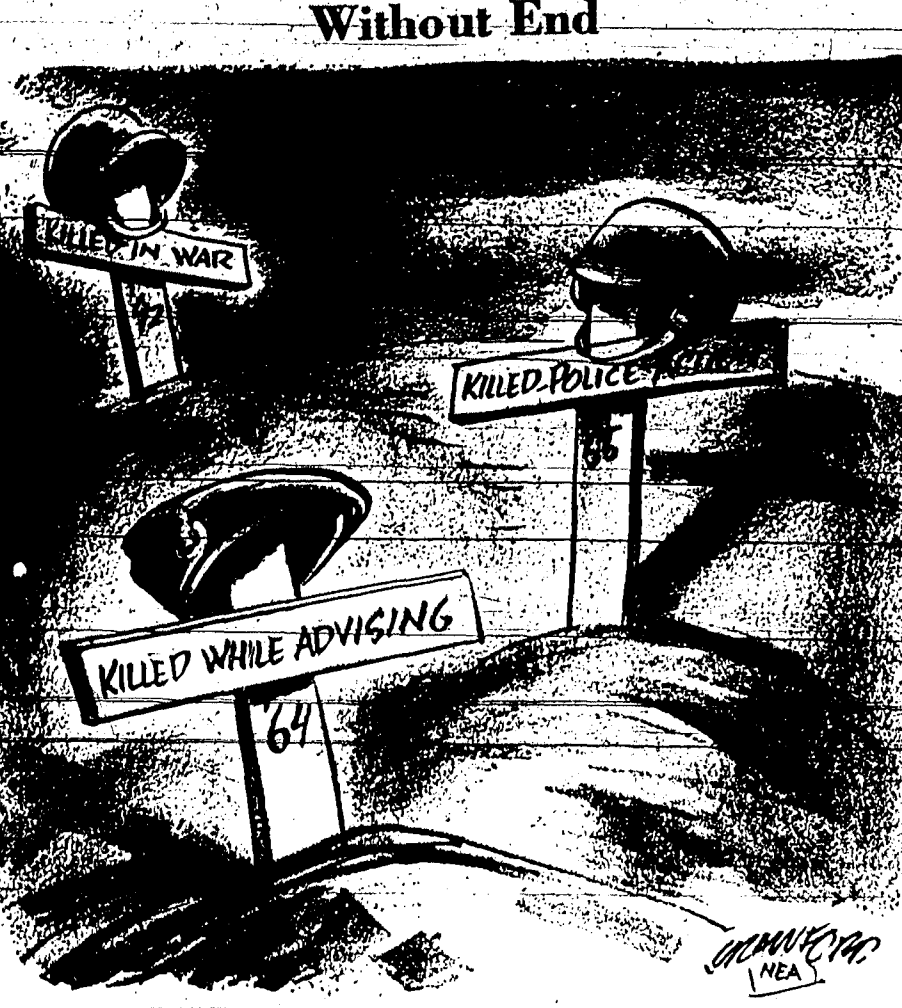

CHAMBERLAIN'S EXAMPLE — If you were young in 1938, you remember Anthony Eden in his finest hour—an hour of defeat. He was a foreign minister of sparkle and principle, determined to call the bluff of two dictators named Mussolini and Hitler, only to be rebuffed by his boss.

RESIGNS FAST—And then two days later, Eden walked into his office a few steps across Downing street from the prime minister's residence to do what he had to do—resign. But he did so in the quiet understatement of his kind: "My dear prime minister, the events of the last few days have made plain a difference between us."

BUT HE RETURNED—That "strong young figure" returned, of course. Eden served under his old friend Churchill as secretary of state for war during the grimmest days of a war for the establishment brought on itself by rejecting his counsel. Later, he ascended again to his old post of foreign minister, and finally to prime minister in April, 1955. He had been right in 1938, and he was right again in 1955 when he directed the British invasion of Egypt after the seizure of the Suez canal in an attempt to topple the trouble-making Nasser.

POT SHOTS

TIS AN ILL WINDI
Pot Shots: One of those recent days when the wind was blowing so hard from the south, it just seemed that everything that wasn't tied down was blowing away.

LEAVE IT HOME!
Dear Pot Shots: I've noticed a few cars with 5B license plates on them and a considerable amount of snow clinging to the car, both top and bottom.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?
Pot Shots: Did Santa Claus ever get that toy train assembled or adjusted? Really he ought to hurry with the job. Because those reindeer huddled on the roof of the house appeared to have a conference. With schedule of their own, like visiting the glorious meadow.

YOUNG VIEWPOINT
Sir: Our organization was having a meeting in one of the rooms at the church when the door opened suddenly and two teen-agers were carried right into the room by their momentum. There was a moment of silence then one of the youngsters said to the other, "This can't be the place; there's no one here except old people!"

President Charles de Gaulle's comfortable majority in the French chamber of deputies assures that so far as France is concerned, he will continue to have his way.

It was in February, 1963, that the government began taking the measures which now are having their effect.

These and other measures had the desired effect of cooling off the French economy.

Opponents of the government program charge that the new five-year plan does not go far enough in public welfare projects such as public housing and roads.

It was Helen Keller who observed: "Life is an exciting business and most exciting when it is lived for others."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (U) — Eight presidents have died in office and 16 times the country has been left without a vice president.

Luckily, each time a president died there was a vice president to take his place and serve out the term, although this left the vice president vacant. But seven other vice presidents died in office, and one resigned.

Johnson got a quick response to the suggestion in his message but only because the ground-work was laid in 1964.

Last September the senate by a 65-0 vote approved a proposed constitutional amendment intended to settle the two questions.

Local Decision

In view of Governor Smylie's message to the 38th session of the Idaho legislature, the people of Twin Falls county acted none too soon in creating a junior college district last Nov. 3.

Certainly if the legislature refuses to act this year on a system of junior college districts, it will be forced into the move two years hence.

The legislature has considerable pressure to act now, but nothing compared to the pressure that will exist in two years.

Before an unplanned proliferation of junior colleges occurs, he added, "you should give earnest attention to changing the structure of the junior college law, looking to the ultimate creation of a state-wide system of junior colleges.

You can bet Mr. Smylie was looking squarely at Twin Falls county when he mentioned the "unplanned proliferation of junior colleges."

Mr. Smylie later declared, "Provision should be made for activation of the districts by the state board of education as need therefore becomes apparent.

Perhaps the current session won't get around to enlarging the local junior college district, but you can be sure legislators will be impressed a great deal by the size of the vote that created the Twin Falls county junior college district.

Furthermore, the fact that residents of Twin Falls county did overcome the formidable two-thirds vote obstacle can be expected to weigh heavily in any legislative action on junior college districts.

Jerome Probate Judge Is Retiring for Second Time

JEROME, Jan. 9 — Probate Judge J. H. Silbaugh locked his office door Friday night and officially retired for the second time. He had served in the office for three terms. In 1954 he was called to the office of probate judge and he served two terms as probate judge and one-half term as probate judge. He served two terms as probate judge in 1952 by Russell Shaud in the primary election.

However, the judge had received more votes than any other candidates as a write-in on the Democratic ticket and after his friends insisted that he try as a candidate for that party, he decided to run. He was re-elected as a Democrat and has served as such for the past two years.

The judge announced last April that he would not be a candidate for reelection.

Silbaugh was born in Uniontown, Pa., Jan. 19, 1885, and lived in West Virginia until 1903. He then moved to Pittsburgh where he met and married Suzanne Heyart in 1906. They moved to Jerome in 1910 and settled on a farm west of Jerome in the Appleton district.

He has six living children, Mrs. Hugh Chestnut and Mrs. Richard Lone, both Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Jack Bernhiser, San Leandro, Calif.; Harold Silbaugh, Santa Barbara, Calif.; and Mrs. Robert Conner, Boise. He also has 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Mrs. Silbaugh died in 1963. Silbaugh served on the Appleton school board from 1917 to 1934 and was a member of the board of directors of the North Side Canal company for 19 years, serving as president of the board several years. He is a member of the directors of the North Side Lumber company.

He also served as a director on the Idaho State Reclamation association and was a member of the Committee of Nine for 12 years. Silbaugh plans to visit a brother in Phoenix in February.

Boy Scout Council Forming New Advancement Policy

A new council-wide advancement policy, providing for district courts of honor at the first class, star and life Scout levels, is being established by the advancement committee of the Snake River area council, Boy Scouts of America.

Members of the council committee which is putting new life into the advancement program are Dr. James McMullan, Buhi chairman; George Hartley, vice chairman; Melvin Cutler, Myron Dosselt, Tom Jones, O. J. Smith, Ralph Langford, E. L. Eggert, E. J. Shaw and William Parsons. Marvin Messer, district Scout executive, is committee secretary.

Hartley pointed out Saturday, following a meeting with district advancement chairman earlier in the week, that the council group is endeavoring to mould the policy so it fits the needs of all troops, packs and posts throughout the council.

"We want this policy to be a result of thinking on the grass roots level," he declared, "and not something that is forced upon the units."

The committee noted there is a need for standardization of advancement procedures throughout the council which can only be obtained by establishment of a definite policy.

The courts of honor proposal is only one of several which are being considered. Unit courts of honor still would be held for tenderfoot and second class advancement, and for awarding of

Winter Social Season Is Highlighted Here By Job's Daughters-DeMolay Formal Dance

By NORMA HERZINGER

An annual formal dance, a dance looked forward to by all Job's Daughters and DeMolay members, is the highlight of the groups' holiday social season. Such a dance was held at the local Elks lodge hall with all the splendor expected at a holiday formal. Although the dance was held after Christmas, it is considered the annual Christmas formal and is sponsored by the three local Bethels and DeMolay chapter.

The rustle of taffeta in the girls' gowns was evident everywhere as the guests began to arrive. The girls never looked more beautiful, powdered in their floor-length gowns, some in velvet, some in taffeta and some in silk, each wearing just the right corsage chosen by the escort of the evening.

This dance is a favorite of college students and is eagerly awaited by these students home for the holidays.

The hall was elaborately decorated in three shades of blue and overhead was a false crepe paper ceiling adding much to the festive dance setting. The theme of the dance was "Silver Bells" and was carried out in holiday decorations throughout the hall.

Job's Daughters and their dates, DeMolay members and their dates, college students and chaperons danced to the music of Bud Teasley and his orchestra. The refreshment table featured a variety of cookies and soft drinks which were served throughout the evening.

Chaperons for the dance included Mrs. Betty Harrison and Duane Harrison, guardian and associate guardian of Bethel No. 19; Mrs. Marilyn Jenkins and J. H. Steadman, guardian and associate guardian of Bethel No. 56; and Mrs. Lola Somus and James Catterton, guardian and associate guardian of Bethel No. 43.

Girls presently reigning as honored queens of the three local Bethels are Rose Ann Sinclair, Bethel No. 43; Kathy Magaw, Bethel No. 19; and Kathy Harder, Bethel No. 56. Bruce Sternke is master counselor of the local DeMolay chapter.

Young Fashion Designer Is Big Success

By Jean Sprain-Wilson
NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—The recent arrival in this country of Angela Cash, England's youngest fashion designer, was a sharp contrast to her parents' experience here before she was born.

The petite 20-year-old with eyes rimmed with mascara and fluttering with fake lashes beamed in the crest of success.

Although her firm Angela at London Town has existed less than a year and a half, American department and specialty stores were so eager for her British Mod styles that she had come to set up a branch operation here.

By being at the right age, at the right place at the right time, Angela has accomplished in her parents' homeland what they had come to much touted America to do: And failed.

"I feel I'm very lucky," she says, blowing a wisp of smoke from her cigaret, and posing a well-manicured hand.

She's heard the story many times about Mama and Papa's struggles in Seventh Avenue's famous garment district, as well as the time they put all their money in a Texas bank that promptly closed. After nine years they returned home to England and attained success with a dress firm called London House.

Meanwhile Angela was growing up with a sketch book in her hand and the yeasty restiveness of all her generation. She was neatly tossed out of boarding school for disrespectfully remodeling the class uniforms.

Undaunted, Angela nagged at Mama and Papa Cash to let her add some of her then unorthodox costumes. No go. They did let her make up a few though. When her mother was showing the collection to a Swiss buyer, Angela slipped into the showroom in one.

"Terrible," said mama, apologizing.

"Marvelous," said the Swiss buyer, who placed a large order. After that Angela's Mod styles which she describes as "Victorian but somehow very modern-looking" have moved out of her own dress house onto the backs of England's clothes-conscious Mod-Mods and regular Mods.

The Mod-Mod, she says, is from 11 to 18. Angela, being 20, is among the regular Mod group aged 16 to 25. Mods a year ago shocked the world by appearing in skirts as short as Americans are only now getting around to wearing.

Now they are in mid-calf lengths for day while only the most avant garde here dare to put on this so-called demilongueur hem length for formal occasions.

Angela, in an Irish-crocheted white blouse like grandmother used to make, talked about her favorite colors, lilac, and pale lavender, and taffeta, and bustles and pinched waists—all a part of the new mod mood.

And she talked about the Mod mood itself.

"We are brought up much more strictly than American children. I think we're inhibited until we get to be teen-agers and then we just have to revolt to try things our own way."

MR. AND MRS. DONALD G. DEPEW (Right Morita photo)

Judy Robinson, DePew Wed in December Rites

The Rev. Henry J. Oerhardt solemnized the double ring rites in a candlelight ceremony. Decorated with red tapers, acandelabra with greenery and red satin bows formed the background setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie. The fitted bodice was enhanced with a high neckline, long sleeves and a skirt of unpressed pleats. The long sleeved Chantilly lace overdress had a fitted bodice falling into a skirt of unpressed pleats. Sealslips accentuated the neck-line. The train of the bodice and skirt continued down and around the skirt.

A white satin bow released her shoulder-length veil of sheer illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses entwined with red velvet ribbon. As tokens of sentiment, she wore the traditional blue garter, a 1919 English penny loaned to her by Mrs. Wayne King, and an heirloom brooch that belonged to her great-grandmother.

Organ music was played by Tom Holter. Linda Kendrick was vocalist.

Linda DePew was maid of honor and Lucretia Caldwell was bridesmaid. They were attired in street-length red velvet dress with sheath gowns fashioned with short sleeves and high necklines. Each carried a white miff adorned with a red poinsettia and red ribbons.

Flower girl was Elaine Grammer, Wendell. She wore a princess style red velvet dress with covered red buttons and carried a white chrysanthemum nosegay trimmed with red ribbon, Chris Grammer, Wendell, carried the rings on a lace heart-shaped pillow.

Best man was John DePew, brother of the bridegroom. Galen DePew, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsmen. William Allen and Dennis Robinson, brother of the bride, were ushers and candlelighters.

The bride's mother wore a green lace ensemble with a white hat and dark green accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace ensemble with beige accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The reception was held in the social hall of the church. Hostesses for the reception were women of the church under the direction of Mrs. L. A. Widrig.

The bride's table featured a white tiered organza tablecloth and was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake. The cake was decorated with red roses and white wedding balls. Large signaling bell topped the cake. Double silver candleholders with red tapers flanked the cake.

The bridegroom's table featured a sheer organza tablecloth, a silver punch bowl and a silver coffee service. A bouquet of red carnations and white chrysanthemums, flanked by silver candleholders with red tapers, completed the table decor.

Cake was served by Mrs. Lee Robinson and Mrs. Norma Grammer, Wendell, aunt and cousin of the bride. Coffee was served by Mrs. Perry Carroll, aunt of the bridegroom, and punch was served by Mrs. Harvey Ault, Tremont, Utah, aunt of the bride. Marilyn Ball and Dianne DeMoss received the gifts. Martha Glenn was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a red velvet "A" line dress and a cut velvet flowered coat accented with black accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple will reside south of Hansen.

The bride was graduated from Twin Falls high school and attended two years at the Idaho State university. She is employed at Buttreys. The bridegroom was graduated from Hansen high school and attended Idaho State university. He is employed at Carrells electric, Twin Falls.

Home Comforts Can Pop Out Of Slide Rule

By KAY SHERWOOD

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (NEA)—More attention to the engineering of home furnishings designs is a fair prediction and one that should bring hope to the heart of the homemaker.

After all, if we can produce engineers who can dope out the details of a round-trip journey to the moon, there must be some who can solve pesky, everyday problems, such as where to store the extra leaves for the dining room table or how to read comfortably in bed.

Still bruised from wrestling extra leaves for our dinner table out of their carton behind the basement door, I guess I am particularly intrigued with a new dining room set which stores the leaves in the buffet next to the table.

How simple it all seems! Engineers for this American-made ensemble (Drexel) designed a leaf that folds and fits upright into a drawer in the buffet. More than one leaf can be stored in the drawer which is concealed behind a cabinet door. If the family is large enough that leaves are needed in the table all the time, the compartment is easily changed to drawer-and-shelf storage.

"This new viewpoint in furniture will be readily apparent by spring. The functional aspect of the design, however, does not overshadow the luxury note. There is sleekness and simplicity of line expressed in such luxurious materials—polished walnut, oiled teak, leather, cane, suede and polished chrome and stuminum.

Underscoring the life of ease is a king-sized headboard which includes a push-button control panel to regulate electric blanket, radio, clock or electric coffee percolator.

The padded vinyl backrest is adjustable and armrests pull down to brace the bed-bound reader comfortably and high-intensity reading lamps light the pages of his book.

If you're tired of crouching in front of the bathroom mirror to put on make-up, this might be the year to save up for a really good dressing table. The engineers have worked out lighting and mirrors to provide a true.

evenly illuminated look at yourself from the front and the sides.

The real problem I can see here is that a teen-age daughter would almost certainly usurp the table and the roomy drawers for her hair-fixing equipment and her myriad little pots, boxes and brushes.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Owings and Mrs. Rhoads.

Young Gano tanked two key points in the closing minutes as Jerome came from behind to tie Twin Falls in regulation play and then added four points in overtime. Jerome hit four free throws in the final minute of the extra session to nail the lid on the victory.

Until the overtime Jerome had led only three times, the last time being momentarily at 18-16 early in the second period.

Twin Falls twice led by six points but never was able to shake the Tigers in the defensive, but frantic game. Neither team hit well from the field.

The Bruins appeared headed for victory when they showed an 11-0 run from 2:37 left in regulation time. But they went the last 6:35, including the overtime, without scoring from the field.

With 2:22 left, Bob Thackeray hit for Jerome and Gano added two more 25 seconds later. With 1:00 left Stan Millard tied it at 30-29.

Twin Falls then had seven shots at the bucket but missed on six. Stan Millard had a chance to decide it from the foul line but missed.

Pat Williams opened the overtime with a goal and Kirk Williams got one point back on a free throw. Gano then "out-thought" Twin Falls on a jump ball and raced down the floor for a bucket and 43-40 lead.

Pat Williams and Jim Blamires closed the game with one-pointers.

Friday night Twin Falls put 13 men into the scoring column in whipping the Indians 71-48. The total was the highest since 1957-58 when the Bruins scored 74 against Caldwell.

Buhl opened warm and stayed with the Bruins over the first four minutes. Then both Astorquia and Kirk Williams each picked up four points and Alan Brown hit a crumpled to send the Bruins from a 7-8 deficit into an 18-8 lead.

From then on coach Paul Ostyn used his platoon system, the second unit taking over for six minutes in the second period and the third string wrapping the half up.

In the third quarter the starters returned to push the margin to its widest point at 58-29. Kirk Williams hit during that span and Astorquia pumped through three straight to highlight the attack.

Bruin Paul Stover clamped a lid on Buhl scoring as Clark Griffin, who netted only four points. But Junior Neal Bariger picked up the Buhl scoring punch with 14.

Predators, Heavy Snow Battled to Save Deer Herds

By O. A. (GUS) KETTER
Times-News Feature Editor

KETCHUM, Jan. 9 — Men and machines are being pitted against predators and heavy snows this winter in a fight to save deer and elk forced down into the valley in search of food — and the men and the machines are winning.

A typical life and death struggle went on in the Warm Springs canyon area. Here, within a stone's throw of year-around and summer homes, the game animals put their trust in man, watched as feed was piled for them and even approached houses to peer into windows.

It was as if they knew that man — oftentimes their enemy — would not harm them as they followed instinctively to their fight for existence.

Snows had accumulated daily in successive storms which hit the area for 21 consecutive days, and proved too much for the deer and elk. They sank belly deep in the white stuff which covered the ground in all directions. Their only path was down, and down meant into the valley where men lived.

Homeowners of the area were quick to react to the news. They chipped in money which went to buy hay which they spread about for animal food.

Men like A. M. (Huffy) Huffman and Dave Brandt, who love to hunt in season, now threw themselves into the fight to aid the stricken residents of the high forests.

Then the men with the equipment, snow vehicles which would operate under the difficult conditions presented, joined in — men like Dean Davis, district conservation officer, Halley, and Dale Tanner, big game biologist, Jerome.

Both are with the Idaho fish and game department. Other volunteers, like Ray J. Holmes, Twin Falls, Idaho fish and game commissioner, who got nothing out of it but the satisfaction of a job accomplished, also were there.

Combined, they accomplished their task. It was to move the animals upstream, out of the populated area

TRAGIC, REAL LIFE drama unfolds before the Times-News camera during a mountain blizzard, as two dogs move in to attack deer driven down from the hills by deep snow in the Ketchum area. These two animals, seen at the bottom of the picture, came from a pack of dogs stalking the deer near a feeding area. Under law, when domestic pets, such as dogs, attack farm or game animals they no longer are classed as pets but become predators. As such, they can be disposed of. Warning shots failed to turn the dogs away from the deer. Game officials and volunteers were attempting to lure the deer further up the canyon floor where natural feed was more readily available and where they would have a chance to survive the winter. DEER, STANDING on top of small haystack, practically obscured by deep snow, look nervously in direction of unnatural sound. These animals are among scores driven from the hills in quest of food in the Ketchum and Sun Valley area. This picture, during a snowstorm, was taken from a window in the home of A. M. (Huffy) Huffman, who resides on the Warm Springs road out of Ketchum. On several occasions, Huffman has looked up from reading a newspaper, to see several deer looking at him through the window. (Times-News photo)

TIRED AND HUNGRY deer rest near a giant pine tree. Their movements have been tramped down an area in the snow which makes it easier for them to stand without sinking in. Deer in the foreground are practically out of sight as they traverse paths they have worn in the deep snow. Game officials say that the animals are getting weak as much from attempting to move in the deep snow as they are from lack of food and protection from the elements. The Ketchum-Sun Valley area is experiencing one of the most sustained snowfall periods in recent history. (Times-News photo)

TWO OFFICIALS of the Idaho fish and game department, pick up a bale of hay which will be transported by snow vehicle to an area accessible to stranded and hungry game animals in the Ketchum section. Dale Tanner, left, big game biologist from

Jerome, assists Dean Davis, district conservation officer, Halley, in the task. Steady storms for a period of more than 20 days have made the feeding task extremely difficult. (Times-News photo)

SIGN PLACED BY residents who spent their own money to purchase hay with which to feed stranded deer is inspected by Ray J. Holmes, Twin Falls, Idaho fish and game department commissioner for the fourth district. Several residents of the Warm Springs area "chipped in" money to purchase this hay

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

Life as Sailor Was Alright, but T.F. Resident Prefers Cowboy Surroundings

It's a long way from Ward Bond's yacht to a pair of cowboy boots in Twin Falls, but B. L. (Sonny) Ward is now a confirmed landlubber.

Those who know Ward would have a difficult time picturing him, complete with beard, on the deck of a tuna clipper, battling across the mighty Pacific ocean in search of tuna. The sea, up until he moved to Idaho, was Ward's way of life and at the time he loved it.

B. L. (SONNY) WARD

But Ward is the first to admit that, despite the thrill and challenge, it doesn't beat living in Twin Falls.

"No one loves this town more than I do," says Ward.

There is an old saying which goes, "You can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy."

This evidently held true for Ward. He originally hailed from Montana and Montana is a long way from the Pacific tuna beds.

Ward was born June 8, 1930, at Great Falls, Mont. When he was 3 years old the family moved to San Juan Bautista, Calif.

From there they moved to King City, Calif. He was graduated from Coalinga high school in 1938. He spent some time in and around the horse tracks and horse farms of California, working as a jockey and trainer.

After a while he moved to Los Angeles and on Dec. 4, 1941, he enlisted in the U.S. coast guard. For the next four years he lived the life of a sailor aboard a sub chaser. He must have hit port once in a while, because on June 12, 1943, he married his wife, Betty.

Ward is a charter member of the Snake River Lions club. The club was created for people interested in the welfare of Twin Falls and for people who wanted to become a member, but can not attend regular luncheon meetings. The club meets in the evening, twice a month.

Another project Ward had a hand in is the swim program at Dierkes lake for cerebral palsy children.

Ward has held practically every office in the Snake River Lions club since its inception.

In addition, he is a member of the American Legion and once was second vice commander.

He also is a member of the Twin Falls Elks lodge.

For a while he developed an interest in archery and a few years ago archery was quite a hobby with Ward. He's got plenty of archery trophies to prove his skill.

In recent years horses and horse activity have occupied quite a bit of time at Frontier field. He recently brought a well known quarter horse stallion in-

Two Area Youths Join Air Force

Ronald A. DeNaughel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine J. DeNaughel, Burley, and Paul Barga, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Barga, Jerome, have enlisted in the U.S. air force for duty tours of four years.

Airman DeNaughel enlisted for the administrative fields while Airman Barga enlisted for electronics prior to leaving for Lackland AFB, Tex., where they will undergo six weeks of basic training before entering technical training.

to the area, in conjunction with another Twin Falls individual, to promote the quarter horse line.

Ward lists hunting as one of his favorite sports, but claims he doesn't do much (killing any more). A couple hundred tons of more was enough.

"The people who live in Twin Falls have been real good to me and my family. Twin Falls is the garden spot of the world in my opinion and people should work hard to keep it the fine community it is," claims Ward.

The Wards have four children. The oldest boy is 21 and the oldest girl is 19. The other two are boys age 6 and 3. In addition there is one grandchild.

He plans on continuing to host the rodeo until it becomes an outstanding attraction for the

New Excuse

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8—Mrs. Barbara Landes, a clerk in the superior court jury commission office, has heard a lot of reasons for persons to be excused from jury duty, but the one she got yesterday was a sure winner.

A man summoned for jury duty told her he was the sheriff of Los Angeles county. Sure enough, it was Sheriff Peter J. Fitchess. He was excused.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Lund Christensen, HEYBURN, experienced the next best thing to having their children home for the holidays when they unexpectedly learned that two friends of their children were visiting in the area. The humorous part of it was that neither the young people nor Christensens were aware of this circumstance until two separate individuals brought them together. It seems Nile Greenhalgh, student at USU, Logan, and son of Mrs. Lavelle Greenhalgh, Heyburn, brought his friend, Guy Pierce, student at BYU from Connecticut, out, to visit at Mrs. Greenhalgh's home over the Christmas holiday.

Greenhalgh was filling out a form for the peace corps and was writing names for references and asked his mother how to spell Christensen.

Mrs. Greenhalgh spelled it for him and mentioned to Pierce that Christensens had a son on an LDS mission in Connecticut. When Pierce said he knew a Christensen who was serving an LDS mission in his area but didn't know where the missionary was from, Christensen showed him a picture of Lyle Christensen in his high school yearbook.

Pierce recognized the picture and quickly accompanied Greenhalgh to Christensen's home a couple of blocks away. The visit was a treat since it was the night before Christmas eve and the Christensens were thinking of their children who were away from home.

A few days later they received a call from Mrs. Noel Croft, Heyburn, saying she had met a girl from High Wycombe, England who knew and had worked with their daughter, Mrs. Jay Sunpeter, who is living in England.

The girl, Ann Grey, a student at BYU and formerly from England, was spending the Christmas holiday with Kevin Mellor, a student at BYU, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mellor, PAUL.

Again the Christensens were visited with a welcome gift that to them could have very easily come right from the heart of "dear old Santa Claus."

Although five generations in one family are not rare, not too many families are fortunate enough to have them. But little Jodi Lynn Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lynn Cook, Paul, has not only a great-grandmother, but a great-great-grandmother.

Her parents homesteaded north of Paul in 1935 and have lived there since. Mrs. Cook, the former Patricia Manning, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Manning, pioneers of the Paul community. The baby also is the great-granddaughter of the late Henry Manning, well known businessman and cattleman of Minidoka county recently elected to the livestock hall of fame.

The baby's grandmother, Mrs. Elias (Geraldine) Cook, is the great-granddaughter of the late William Frederic Rigby, pioneer at Newton, Utah. Later Mr. Rigby was instrumental in building Ricks academy at Rexburg where he served as state president for many years and settled the town of Rigby, which is named for him.

Elias Cook is supervisor of the soil conservation district in RUFERT and has served on many community committees.

The baby's great-grandmother, Mrs. Cecil (Verneta) Cornia, resides in Salt Lake City. Jodi Lynn is her first great-grandchild. The great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Rigby, resides in St. Anthony.

She has been an active worker in the LDS church and has been pictured in the Relief society magazine for her handwork in knitting and crocheting. She is accomplished at giving readings and though she has been in a wheel chair for some 12 years she still does her own work, maintains her own home and lives alone.

More Marriages

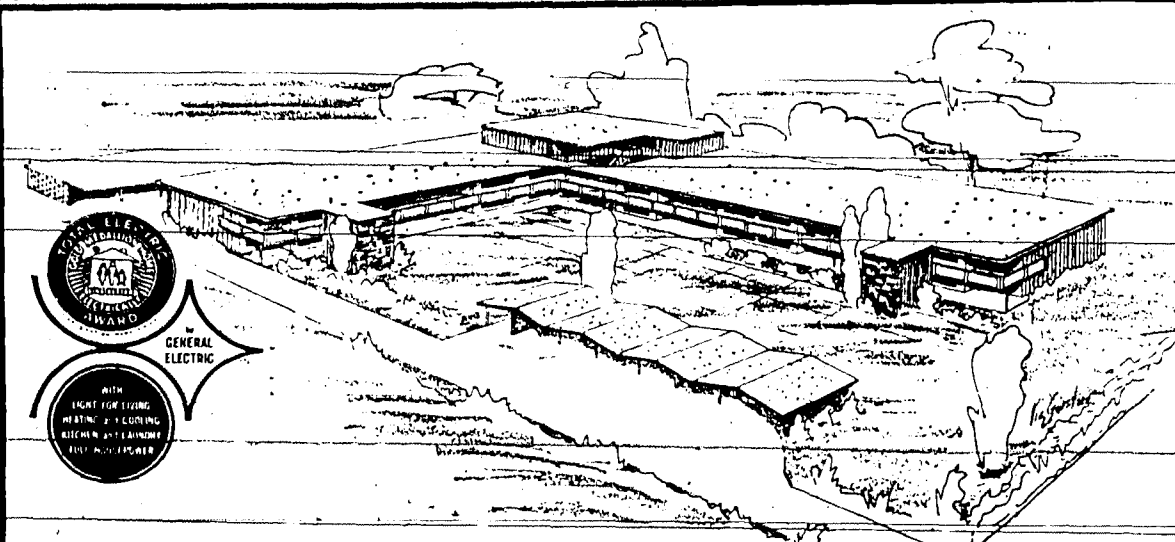

SHOSHONE, Jan. 9 — There were 18 marriages recorded in Lincoln county during 1964, according to Mrs. Luella L. Kinsey, clerk.

While there were more marriages than divorces, there were 12 divorces granted through the district court here during the year. Most of the marriages, Mrs. Kinsey notes, are county residents, while most of the divorces are not residents of the county.

Three years ago Ward, with the help of other interested persons, began the project of creating some activity at Frontier field. This led to the establishment of the Snake River Lions club rodeo, which is held each year in July.

The first year of the rodeo drew some 110 contestants. The rodeo grounds had been idle for 15 years until Ward, with the help of Jake Pope, livestock designer, got a rodeo going. The preliminary work involved the rebuilding of much of the arena. The rodeo has now become an annual event drawing some 100 contestants in all phases of ro-

ONE SIDE UP and one side down, but the middle is level. That's one of the features of the newly designed amphibious Snowmobile, brainchild of Wilford Herrett, president of the Acme Machine Works, Filer. This feature will enable the vehicle to operate on a side hill, while passengers will remain on a level platform. Operation controls are in front of the driver. Herrett poses in the body of the unit with cab portion removed for easier viewing. (Times-News photo)

Amphibious Snowmobile Pilot Model Readied for Initial Field Tests

FILER, Jan. 9—Any way you look at it, it is quite a gadget. It is a new style amphibious Snowmobile designed by Wilford Herrett, Filer, and built in the plants of the Acme Manufacturing company and the Acme Machine Works.

Herrett, president of the Acme Manufacturing company, terms the new vehicle the "experimental model" of a unit it is hoped will make travel over deep snow, or even water, an easy matter to accomplish.

It took eight months to build the pilot model and there were no blueprints.

"It is just one of those things where you know what you want to build and go ahead and get the job done," Herrett smiled.

One of the many features incorporated into the newly designed vehicle is the ability to raise or lower the treads individually. This will enable it to operate on side hills, while the portion where driver and passengers sit would remain level. This adjustment is made from the driving seat by means of levers which are easily operated, according to the designer.

Another feature is the ability to operate in water. The treads provide the locomotion even though they are not touching bottom.

Even this feature is unique. The vehicle can ford a stream with a depth of about 40 inches with the tracks touching bottom and providing the moving power, or the tracks can be lifted and it will float in only 15 inches of water.

"In other words, the treads serve as a means of locomotion whether they are touching bottom or not," Herrett said.

Nose of the vehicle is even raised when entering water so no water comes in under the prow. Separate drives are provided for both sides and planetary steering for the turns is controlled by two levers from the driver's seat. A cab will be placed over the body of the vehicle and there will be room for eight passengers in addition to the driver. Highway transport will be on a special trailer.

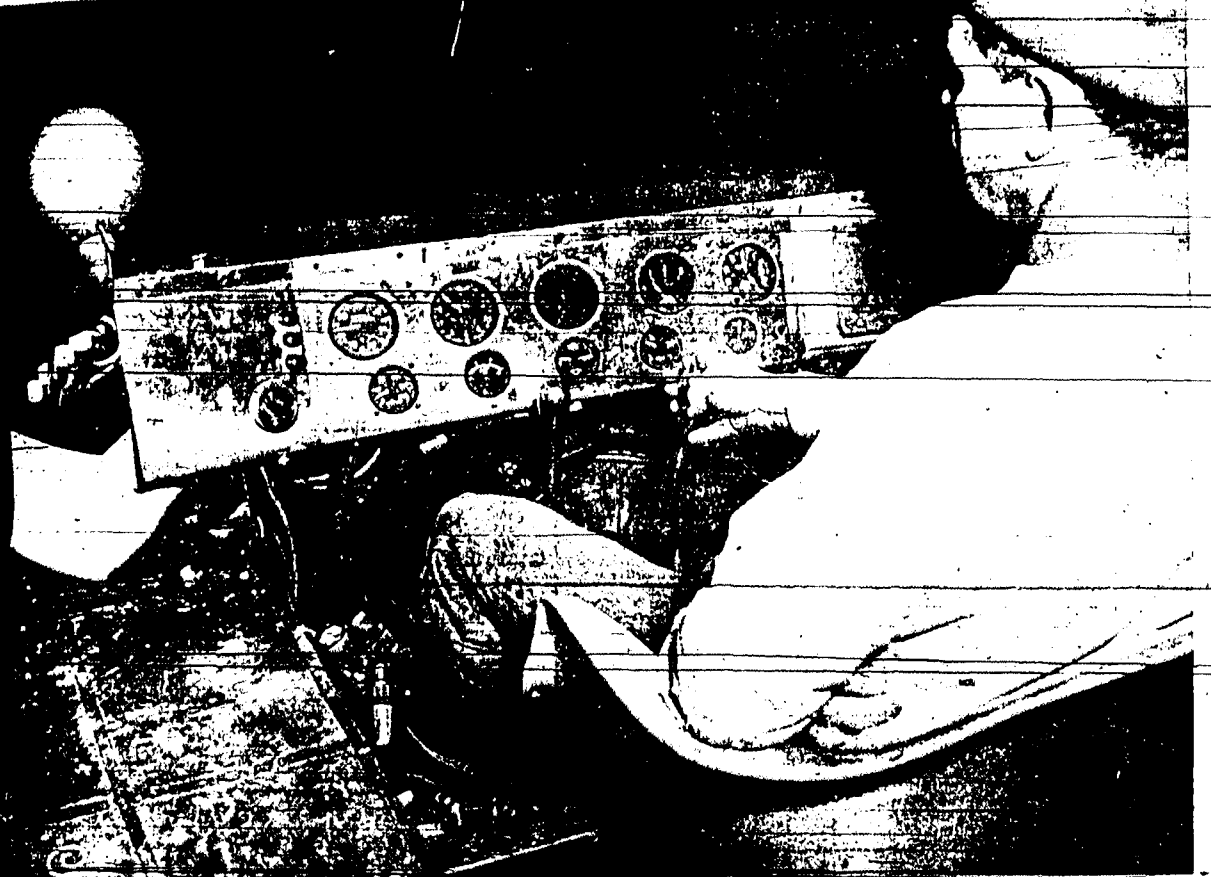

As a safety factor, the vehicle is equipped with dual fuel, hydraulic, ignition and electric systems.

"This precaution is just in case something should top operating," Herrett said.

Construction and power is such that it can climb a 100 per cent grade. The normal highway grade seldom is more than 10 per cent. A 100 per cent grade, Herrett explained, means that there is a one-foot gain in altitude for every foot the vehicle moves forward.

Power is supplied by a 78 horsepower Corvair motor and it is geared down to a special drive. The full horsepower is delivered at 4,000 revolutions per minute. "Potential use of this machine, we believe, is unlimited," the designer said. "It could be used for hunting, for fish and game or forest projects and even for rescue work. With the built-in safety factor it should be ideal for this type of use. It is definitely an off-the-highway machine."

Tentative plans called for the vehicle to be put through its paces this week-end in connection with a game count in the mountains in the vicinity of Fairfield. Snow is extremely deep in the area this winter and it was expected that state game department as well as forest service officials would be on the hunt.

IMPRESSIVE ARRAY of instruments is noted on dashboard of newly designed amphibious Snowmobile. Steering is by means of levers, noted in front of Wilford Herrett, designer of the machine. Various safety factors have been built into the vehicle, which is designed to carry eight persons and the driver. It operates equally well on snow or water. (Times-News photo)

Turkey Shoot Planned by Club

RICHFIELD, Jan. 9—Plans to build a turkey shoot were discussed by the Richfield Lions at their first January dinner meeting held Tuesday night at the Methodist recreation rooms.

The club needs the turkey shoot for its annual pre-Thanksgiving fund raising projects, it was stated.

The club also furnished 400 oranges for the community treats at the Christmas community play presented by the elementary school.

PRESIDENTS of two related Filer firms talk over final check plans in construction of amphibious Snowmobile turned out in the plant there. Seated in the vehicle is the designer, Wilford Herrett, president of Acme Manufacturing company, talking to Hugh R. Farmer, who heads the Acme Machine Works. The vehicle was slated for field test this week-end in connection with game count in the mountains behind Fairfield. (Times-News photo)

IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING one Christmas, this Heyburn family gets ready for a second, this time in far away England where they will reside for the next three years. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Durfee discuss the situation with their daughter, Venita, 13. Originally the family was scheduled to go to England in connection with LDS church work in December, but a sudden postponement found them staying in Heyburn until the middle of this month. As a result, most of their clothing and Christmas gifts had been sent ahead to their new home. They were forced to celebrate in Heyburn without them, but look forward to another round of festivities when they open the pre-shipped gifts in England. (Times-News photo)

Apple Day

BOISE, Jan. 9 (AP)—Rep. Max Rogers, R-Gem, initiated intra-house "lobbying activities" in the Idaho house of representatives yesterday by handing out two bushels of apples grown on his Gem county fruit ranch to fellow lawmakers.

Speaker Pete Cenarrus, R-Blaine, granted Rogers permission to hand out the apples while the house was in recess.

Rogers requested that the day be known as "delicious apple day" and said, "It's best to distribute these fine apples during an intermission because it's almost impossible not to eat them as soon as you get one."

House rule No. 64 prohibits eating while the house is in session.

Second Christmas Celebration Awaits Heyburn Family at Home in England

HEYBURN, Jan. 9 — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Durfee and their daughter, Venita, 13, are getting what might be termed two "once-in-a-lifetime" opportunities — two Christmases and an all-expense paid trip to England for three years.

The Durfees were scheduled to board a jet airliner Dec. 14 and, thinking everything was running according to plan, they sent most of their clothing and family Christmas gifts ahead.

The usual farewell expressions were exchanged, gifts presented and then the unexpected notice from their sponsor saying circumstances prevented them from leaving until mid-January.

Durfee, 57, who has worked as an independent builder the past 30 years, was recommended by Rodney Hansen, Minkola LDS stake president, to the church building committee in Salt Lake City.

The LDS church has a building program in which carpenters and their families may be sent to other countries to work on church building projects.

Durfee was surprised when President Hansen told him an appointment had been made for him to meet with H. Dyke Walton, member of the church building committee, one evening at the Ponderosa Inn. He was interviewed, accepted and oriented on procedure.

Mrs. Durfee, who has been teaching school the past 11 years at Heyburn, was honored by her fourth grade class about three weeks ago, and by the school faculty. When she learned of the postponement in departure plans, she continued with her class until the Christmas vacation.

Durfee said the reason the Salt Lake authorities postponed the trip was that building permits could not be obtained until after the holidays.

The family saved for a long-desired trip to Hawaii which they took about four years ago, and to New York City to the World's fair last year. Durfee hadn't told his wife that he was making plans for them to visit England for about two years. He was working hard to save enough money to go for a short visit and now, as the saying goes, he's getting his cake and eating it too.

Durfee will receive wages while building churches and with time available he can see parts of England.

Mr. and Mrs. Durfee feel this is a true challenge for them, and Venita is bubbling over with excitement.

Proclamation Urges Aliens to List Addresses

January has been proclaimed alien address report month by Exor H. Kroll, mayor of Twin Falls.

In a proclamation signed Jan. 2, Kroll requested Twin Falls citizens to "assist and encourage every alien within the city of Twin Falls to report his address at the nearest postoffice or immigration and naturalization service office during the month of January, 1965."

The proclamation was issued at the request of R. G. Hoffeller, Helena, Mont., district director of the immigration service.

All aliens living in the United States are required to report their address during January. Address report cards must be submitted even though the address has not changed in the past year.

Idaho Wildlife Federation Meeting Scheduled for Boise Next Week-End

By Jim Hubbard
Idaho Fish-Game Department
 BOISE, Jan. 9 — Reminiscing will be a popular, though informal pastime of officers, delegates and friends at the 30th annual Idaho Wildlife Federation convention in Boise Jan. 15 to 17.

Formal activities, of course, will review recent accomplishments and plan legislative and other action programs for the coming year.

Some of the discussion no doubt will point with glowing pride to the successful launching of the five-point program for the future following its acceptance by the 27th session which helped put the Idaho fish and game department on a sound financial footing without a dime from general taxes.

In this way, Idaho's organized sportsmen do more than just talk or gripe about what the fish and game department does or does not do.

Knowing that the department operates under state laws and with money collected under these laws, the sportsmen, through their legislators, actually control how much of a program for maintaining and expanding the fishing and hunting potential can be developed, and how much money can be spent in the process.

Few of the delegates will remember, except as hearsay, such signal triumphs as the federation-backed initiative petition to establish a commission form of administration for the Idaho fish and game department in 1934, or even the voter approval of the zirconium mining initiative proposal of 1955.

These milestones of historic significance do not dwarf important continuing federation projects such as the annual statewide conservation essay contest, the hunter safety training in the public schools and the close cooperation with the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman council to promote better hunter-hunter-fisherman relations in every county.

Old-timers recall that the Idaho Wildlife Federation organized on a statewide basis in 1934, with

It can have in state and national legislation.

Idaho Fish and Game Director John R. Woodworth, like most wildlife administrators, says the success of his programs depends on organized sportsmen.

Few unorganized sportsmen have enough hard conservation information to be really helpful. They do not understand how their hunting and fishing license and tag money is used.

On the contrary, organized sportsmen such as those convening in Boise this week to reemphasize and plan for the future are in a position to know about the statewide fish and game program—and to further help it.

Through their resolutions and their legislative programs, they promote what they want in conservation.

In short, Director Woodworth needs organized sportsmen who are willing to study the department's conservation plans, needs and shortcomings, to become well informed conservationists.

"Why not become one of them?"

(discover the difference)

Find out what 350 hp feels like in America's favorite intermediate size car

Next time you're feeling low, come on in and plunk yourself down in the bucket seat of a Chevelle Malibu Super Sport. Flick the ignition—bring that special-order 350-hp power plant to life. Then go find a road and try not to smile.

We think it's the greatest pep pill since weekends—and that goes for the other Chevelle V8's too. The 195-hp. And the 250- and 300-hp jobs we can order for you.

And of course if power doesn't sell you right off, maybe Chevelle's short turning radius and overall handling ease will. Or its Full Coil suspension ride. Or its Super Sport all-vinyl interior with wall-to-wall carpeting. Or its huge trunk.

Or maybe it's just plain old value. We've got a showroom full of comparison materials that prove Chevelle to be a better buy (and we'd be only too proud to show them to you). Just ask us.

But whatever it is that you think might make a Chevelle loyalist out of you, you'll never really know until you get into one—and see how hard it is to get out again.

A Chevelle Malibu Super Sport is downright habit forming.

THIS HIGH MOUNTAIN lake would look much different right now if a picture were taken from this same point of view. Accessible only in late summer, it is now ice covered and deep in snow. Heavy snows of this winter are expected to delay entry to such lakes as this until late in July or early August. (Times-News photo)

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, Jan. 10 — Born to-day, you are basically spiritual. A highly analytical mind coupled with capability for original thought is a dual gift and enables you to carry out the whole operation of an idea on your own. Though you are successful, you are also tactful and subtle and are able to get your way easily, without making enemies. You love justice and have an instinctive knowledge of right and wrong. There are many avenues toward any one of numerous careers, since your talents are sundry. You might be wise, however, to allow some of the weight of your natural dignity to slip from your shoulders if the peak of success is your aim. A greater success could be a greater responsibility. You must try to avoid a reputation for being snobby. A constant effort at conviviality could soon develop the habit of friendly gain. In choosing a mate, you must be wise for you are a man that you need a leaving agent in your life — someone who would buoy you up rather than someone of the same temperament. Among those born on this date are: Ethan Allen, American Revolutionary War hero; Robinson Jeffers, noted American poet; John G. Spongberg, British statesman, historian.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

MONDAY, Jan. 11

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Form careful associations that you will not lament later. This may be a day of temptations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Words once spoken cannot be unsaid. Remember this and be especially careful in your conversations with children.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Be certain that the tone of your comments concerning employment is not such that you alienate those you would like to attract.

ARIES (March 21-April 20) —

Pressing matters at home should come first. Pay your respects to those who deserve it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — The Taurus with a sense of humor should be able to overcome much and institute a wealth of good feeling.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Avoid presenting yourself as an expert where you know your own mind. Do not be misled by romantic mysteries. Get to the root of things before trouble arises.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Advantages that seem real may turn out to be blessings in disguise. Look on the bright side.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — The emphasis today should be on self employment. Turn to times of the mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Describe the domestic situation with caution. You could be easily misunderstood or misquoted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) — A day which may seem to be not at all unusual. Weigh the subtleties with care for a different view of it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Details are the most important features of this day's rewards. Don't be taken in by the general appearance alone!

Dollar Days Are Planned For Rupert

Use These Phone Numbers FREE of charge

RUPERT, Jan. 9 — George MacDonald, chairman of the Rupert Merchants' committee, reported a "Dollar days" event planned for Feb. 19 and 20, when the Chamber of Commerce met Thursday at the Hiram cafe.

MacDonald also reported plans are progressing on the Newcomer club project and Thomas Thompson was appointed chairman during the Merchants' meeting held Tuesday morning.

Plans were made to continue action to see that the sales tax bill which probably will be passed by the state legislature is well formulated. Merchants felt the collection of the proposed sales tax by businessmen would not be a small job and businessmen should be allowed something for the collection.

The merchants also will continue efforts to revise the Idaho driver's license code to provide that a colored photo of the owner appear on the license, MacDonald stated.

Richard Bohle, chamber president, announced the Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce is holding an industrial development workshop in Boise, Jan. 20 and urged members attend.

A directors' meeting was announced for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the chamber office. All newly elected directors as well as current directors are to attend the meeting.

Herman Carroll presented slides and commentary on his recent trip to Ecuador at the conclusion of the business meeting.

Magic Valley Pilots Form Association

The Magic Valley Pilots association was formed at a meeting Thursday night at the Twin Falls American Legion hall. Approximately 100 pilots attended from throughout Magic Valley.

Consisting entirely of pilots, the organization has been created to further aviation in the Magic Valley and to provide opportunities for special education programs to be presented at various times throughout the year.

The program was initiated with the appearance of Lloyd W. Priest, a meteorologist from the Boise weather airport station. He explained the newly installed teletype weather station which began operation Monday at Joslin field.

This machine will give accurate detailed and hourly information on weather conditions of the western United States, he said. The information to be covered includes temperature, dew point, visibility, temperature, dew point, wind direction and velocity and altimeter settings of hundreds of meteorological stations throughout the west.

It also will convey latest forecasts and give information on flight advisories received from pilots in the air.

A feature that has been added to the service is winds aloft data at six-hour intervals. This service will enable Magic Valley pilots to get complete and instant weather information, in planning any flight in the United States.

A committee consisting of L. James Koutnik, temporary chairman, E. C. Woods, secretary, Kenneth Hepler, May, Edward Butts, Warren Barry and William Bosworth will set up a list of bylaws at the next meeting.

Also initiated at the meeting was the new "pinch hitter" flying course for wives of pilots. In this course the wives will be given four hours of ground school and four hours of dual instruction in the co-pilot's position.

The instruction will enable them to locate an airport, operate the radio and bring a plane in safely to a landing in the event of some disaster. Twelve wives signed up for the course.

Pilots interested in becoming associated with the group may contact E. C. Woods at Joslin field or any of the organizational committee members. There will be another meeting in about one month.

SMALL BUT EFFICIENT snow vehicles such as this one are now pressed into service to get food to deer stranded in the Krivichum-Hum Valley area. Hay is hauled on a small sled at the rear. These three men are spearheading the efforts of the Idaho

Predators, Snow Battled To Save Deer

And into districts where natural food is available. The herds must not be allowed to congregate. They must be scattered to survive.

Packs of dogs harassed the practically helpless animals. Two attacks by dogs were observed and broken up during the time the fish and game men were in the field.

Finally, the snow vehicles the men operated were able to pack down a path leading upstream. Hay was scattered along this path and when the men withdrew the deer and elk gradually worked their way to where it was hoped they would go.

Now they are safe in the shrubbery and in the breaks with an open water stream available to them. Only four deer and a few elk remained in the danger area by the end of the week. Victory had been won, but even then plans were formulated for days to come. It was an early winter and it could get still worse before spring appears.

Any additional threat on the deer or elk herds in the area will see live trapping by fish and game workers. The animals will be transported to areas where they can survive.

Men and machines combined to win the first round.
