Millions Mourn Death of Sir Winston Churchill, State Funeral Scheduled

(See related stories on pages 8 and 13)
LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Parliament met today—leaving Sir Winston Churchill's old seat empty—and approved Queen Elizabeth's request that the nation give the beloved elder statesman all the magnificence of a state funeral for himself. The empty green leather seat which Sir Winston occupied in the last session of parliament was the only vacant place in the packed house of commons. Prime Minister Harold Wilson stood on the spot where Churchill stood for so many years as prime minister and said: "As parliament succeeded parliament he stood at this box at one time or another, holding almost every one of the great offices of state."
Wilson referred to the battered dispatch box that always sits on the table before prime ministers. Churchill's fellow Londoners led millions throughout the world into a week of mourning.

World Leaders Pay Tribute to Britain's Greatest Statesman

Free men joined hands across seas and continents today in honoring Sir Winston Churchill as one of history's great champions of liberty. Tributes to the wartime leader's bulldog courage began pouring into London almost immediately after he died Sunday. The flags of Western Europe dipped to half-staff in respect for the man who rallied the forces of freedom against tyranny in the dark days of World War II.

School Formula Is Written Into Bill

BOISE, Jan. 25 (AP)—A new school fund distribution formula it is hoped will solve one of the Idaho legislature's most complex problems was in bill form today ready for introduction in the house of representatives. It is the product of months of study by education experts and the legislative council and three weeks of hearings by the joint senate-house education committee. The new formula is designed to equalize educational opportunities. In the past, however, each legislator has considered the distribution plan in relation to what it would provide for his own district. This has led to prolonged controversy.

Johnson's Budget to Cost U.S. Record 99.7 Billion

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—President Johnson told congress today the first year on his "Great Society" will cost the nation a record 99.7 billion dollars. The President's budget message for fiscal 1966—which he hinted may be the last U. S. budget below 100 billion dollars—called for: —A 1.75-billion-dollar cut in excise taxes, without naming those to be reduced or repealed. —A 2.1-billion-dollar increase in all social security cash benefits this year, amounting to seven percent on the average, but followed by a steep rise in the payroll tax next year.

Schools Close in 2 Magic Valley Towns

Two schools closed Monday in Magic Valley and roads were also closed due to heavy snow which fell Monday morning and most of the day Sunday. Wind accompanied Sunday's near blizzard conditions and closed roads, making travel nearly impossible. State highway crews stayed on top of Galena summit Saturday night to try and keep the summit road open to travel and worked through the night Sunday. They reported Monday the road was barely open and that it was still showing. Schools in Fairfield and Carey closed Monday due to snow that fell during the week-end. Basketball games at Carey over the week-end were canceled because of hazardous driving conditions.

Some Senators Not in Favor of High Wages for Members of Their Branch

By ROBIN TIBBETS
Times-News Staff Writer
The other day in Boise, this writer spoke briefly and informally with Sen. George Blick, secretary, and Sen. Mary Brooks, Blaine coun.
The subject of pay raises for members of the house and senate was up during the course of the conversation. Both of the Magic Valley senators were of the opinion that they thought their branch of the legislature might itself a salary increase.
Both agreed that such action isn't out of the realm of possibility.
They also agreed that the salaries paid state senators in Idaho aren't enough to make them self-supporting. A senator must earn money some other way to pay personal expenses.
"I think," Senator Brooks said, "that a salary increase for senators would attract many qualified people to serve, indicating that many persons who are otherwise qualified for the job cannot campaign for it due to inadequate personal income."
Senator Blick agreed, but said he could not go along with paying members of the legislature extremely high salaries. He and Mrs. Brooks again were in agreement on this point, stating that large salaries tend to attract professional politicians who "will spend any amount of money" to secure and hold a seat.
The conversation moved on to reapportionment. Senator Brooks, who is the only woman in the Idaho senate this session, quipped that if senators are required, through reapportionment, to represent not one but several counties, "I'm afraid I'll wear out more than just one shoe" in pre-election campaigning.
The senator referred to a shoe she had worn during her 1964 campaign which was completely worn out by the time she had walked from one end of the county to another.
"I liked that," Senator Blick said, referring to the picture of Dr. Ben Klejn, Clarks Summit, Scranton's personal physician, examined him yesterday and diagnosed the illness as "a severe respiratory infection." He ordered Scranton to bed for several days.

Highlights Tell Winston Churchill's Life

By United Press International
Sir Winston Churchill compressed half a dozen careers into his life, from novelist and painter to soldier and politician. Here are some of the highlights:
Nov. 30, 1874—Born, prematurely, to Lord Randolph Churchill, son of the seventh Duke of Marlborough, and Brooklyn-born Jenny Jerome, daughter of a New York newspaper owner. Educated at private schools and Sandhurst, Britain's West Point.
1898—Service as a young army officer in India and Egypt. Took part in the charge of the 21st Lancers in the Sudan, the last full-scale cavalry charge in history, and lived to become its last survivor.
1898—Wrote his first book on his army experiences, "The Story of the Malakand Field Force." It was followed by more than a score of books, including a novel, "Savrola," a six-volume history of World War II and a three-volume "History of the English Speaking Peoples."
1899—Left the army to become a war correspondent for the London Morning Post in the Boer war. He was captured and made a spectacular escape. News accounts of it made him famous back home, and Churchill decided to campaign for parliament.
1900—Elected to parliament as a 26-year-old Conservative. He was to serve with two brief breaks, for more than six decades, but not always as a Conservative. He became a Liberal and an Independent before returning to the Tories.
1906—First government post as secretary of state for home affairs, one step below cabinet rank.
1908—Married Clementine Hooper, daughter of a British colonel and granddaughter of the seventh earl of Arle. "I married her and lived happily ever after," he once wrote.
1911—Became First Lord of the Admiralty, mobilizing the fleet for action before the outbreak of war in 1914. But blamed for the naval disaster in the Dardanelles a year later, he resigned and went to France as an infantry officer.
1917—Returned to become minister of munitions. Held several other government posts, including the chancellorship of the exchequer in the 1920's. In the 1930's, however, he split with the government over its attempts to appease Hitler.
1937—Sided with King Edward VIII in the crisis over his marriage to American divorcee Mrs. Wallis Simpson. When the king was forced to abdicate, Churchill helped write his final speech.
1939—Despite his opposition to Prime Minister Neville Cham-

Republicans In Congress Blast Budget

Plans for 2 New Idaho Postoffices Listed in Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—President Johnson's budget presented to congress today included a request for funds to build two new postoffices in Idaho.
The budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 included $1,263,000 for a new postoffice and courthouse at Moscow and $860,000 for a postoffice and federal office building at St. Maries.

Gov. Scranton Confined to Bed

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 25 (AP)—Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania was confined to bed at his Dalton, Pa., home yesterday with a respiratory infection similar to that which hospitalized President Johnson.
Scranton's Press Secretary Jack Conmy said the governor had complained of "feeling terrible" Friday on a return flight from Pittsburgh where he had conferred with Allegheny county Republican leaders. Conmy said Scranton was "coughing quite a bit" and complained of having "aches all over."
Dr. Ben Klejn, Clarks Summit, Scranton's personal physician, examined him yesterday and diagnosed the illness as "a severe respiratory infection." He ordered Scranton to bed for several days.

27 Cardinals Are Named by Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 25 (AP) — Pope Paul VI named 27 new Roman Catholic cardinals today, including three from communist lands and one from the United States. This raised the membership of the sacred college to 103, the largest in history.

Archbishop Lawrence Joseph Shehan, Baltimore, Md., was the only U.S. prelate among the new cardinals, the first named by Pope Paul since he became pontiff in June 1963.

They will formally be elevated to the purple at a consistory on Jan. 30.

Pope Paul's nominations were in line with policies that have become evident in his reign.

He has opened a dialogue with communist countries while continuing to denounce Marxist ideology. Today he named the first three Roman Catholic cardinals from communist countries since a 1958 consistory held by Pope Pius XII.

One of the nominations — of Josef Beran, Prague, Czechoslovakia — was a clear challenge to Red officials who have restricted his activities.

Other new cardinals included Maurice Roy, archbishop, Quebec, Canada; Franjo Seper, archbishop, Zagreb, Yugoslavia; and Josef Gityi, archbishop, Lvov, Poland, and primate of Ukrainian Catholics.

The late consistory for the election of cardinals was held on March 19, 1962, when Pope John XXIII elevated 10 men to the sacred college and brought its membership to 87, the largest in history.

Since then 11 cardinals have died.

T.F. Couple "Adopts" Child Through Foster Parent Plan

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Briggs, 701 Eastland drive north, have financially adopted a 7-year-old Filipino boy through the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc.

The local couple "adopted" Emil G. Peralta, who with his parents and two sisters live in Sampaloc, the second most densely populated section of Manila.

The adoption through the Foster Parents' Plan isn't a legal one but is a strictly personal matter by which the child is told about his Foster Parents as soon as he is "adopted."

Young Emil and Dr. and Mrs. Briggs will exchange letters every month.

Dr. and Mrs. Briggs will receive a photograph and case history of the child and will pay a cash grant of $15 a month for the child for a minimum of one year.

The child will receive $5 a month in addition to clothing supplies and special medical care, all taken from the $15 furnished by the local couple.

Emil's father was a tinsmith and managed to provide the basic necessities for his family but due to a serious case of tuberculosis he has been in hospitals a great deal.

The cost of his medical care takes every penny the family can scrape together.

Presently, Mrs. Peralta works as a laundress three or four days a week, earning 50 cents a day.

Emil is a kindergarten student at a school located about a mile from the family home. Mrs. Peralta walks him to school and back each day in the belief that an education is the only way of assuring a secure future.

The family lives in a basement room in a two-story house. Monthly rent is $2.50 for the house which has nothing to contribute to the family comfort.

Foster Parents' Plan is a non-sectarian, non-profit, non-propagandist, independent government approved organization. Anyone interested in financially "adopting" a child can write to the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Park avenue south, New York, N. Y.

It was noted the executive committee, with Carl Hendrix, chairman, will have charge of arrangements for the chili feed. Each Granger was asked to furnish a pie for the benefit dinner.

For the birthday dinner celebration tables featured decorations representing each month of the year.

N.Y. Train Derails, Six Persons Hurt

GALLEN, MICH., Jan. 25 (AP) — Nine cars of the New York Central's fast Twilight Limited were derailed last night, injuring at least six persons, three of them seriously.

The 11-car passenger train between Chicago and Detroit was speeding through open flat country when the last five cars spun off the track completely. Four other cars were partially derailed, tipping up about five miles of track along the snowy countryside.

A New York Central spokesman said loose rigging such as air hoses and steam lines on the underside of the cars was believed to have caused the derailment. The train which left Chicago's La Salle St. station at 5:25 p.m. EST carried from 150 to 200 passengers.

The cars were traveling at about 80 miles an hour when they left the rails with a jarring thud, shaking up scores of passengers. Two physicians who were riding on the train treated numerous passengers for cuts and scratches.

Six persons were taken by car and ambulance to Pawating hospital in Niles, Mich. A hospital aide said three were injured seriously enough to be admitted to the hospital.

The cars were owned by Susan Shomberger, 40 Allen Park, Mich.; Marian Newman, 48 Kalamazoo, Mich.; and Michael Hayes, 65 Chicago. The three, he said, would be released.

The hospital said Mrs. Shomberger received chest injuries and Mrs. Newman a broken arm, along with cuts and bruises. Hayes was held for observation.

Churchill, Doctor Were Old Friends

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP) — For Lord Moran, the death of Sir Winston Churchill ended a long association which went far beyond the normal rapport between patient and doctor.

The 82-year-old physician was Churchill's friend before he was a doctor. Sir Winston's death caused the old established firm of Churchill and Moran whose motto was "the business of cheating death."

For almost two weeks, Lord Moran became a central figure in the drama which was played out in Sir Winston's sickroom at No. 2 Hyde Park Gate.

A retiring, reticent man, Lord Moran became a television personality overnight. The world gazed anxiously on his every word.

Those words, in the form of the medical bulletins read in a deep resonant voice, could not be the grief which engulfed the face of the doctor.

Moran is one of the few eminent physicians in the world who in recent years has had only one patient — Sir Winston. He gave up the practice during the last year of World War II when the British cabinet asked him to assume responsibility for the health of the prime minister.

Moran flew more than 140,000 miles with Churchill during the war and brought him through diphtheria, pneumonia, bronchitis, cancer and broken bones.

At times when Churchill was in bed, Moran would sit for hours by his bedside, reading from the Oxford book of English verse. It was better than medicine.

When Churchill died yesterday, Lord Moran left 28 Hyde Park Gate and his head was slightly bowed.

Yesterday, he needed some money. But when he looked into the bag, he learned with horror that rats had chewed up all the bills.

Windstorm Causes Ruin In California

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Jan. 25 (AP) — The worst windstorm in 15 years swept through this resort city yesterday tearing off roofs, breaking plate glass windows and overturning campers and trailers, police reported.

There were no immediate reports of injuries but police said a thorough check of the area where campers and trailers were located has not been completed.

Police immediately closed off main routes, highways 111 and 99, from here to Banning, Calif. Most of the damage was on Palm Canyon drive in downtown Palm Springs.

The storm struck shortly after noon and caused minor damage in the downtown area. Windows in several stores were broken, police said. Thrifty drug store, Lee's shoe store, and Arians were among business establishments heaviest hit by the winds, with gusts estimated at 60 miles per hour. Police said display windows in the stores were knocked out.

One witness said "loose lumber was being tossed around." One police officer reported he saw "five sections of corrugated tin roofing with four by four frame ripped from shacks."

The winds, usually from the south today blew from the north and west and occasionally from the east, marring what started out as a beautifully clear day.

Police Seek 4 Gem Thieves

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — Washington police are pushing their hunt for four men who robbed socialite hostess Gwen Catritz at knife-point, escaping with jewelry insured for $265,000.

Officers said it was the biggest haul in any Washington housebreaking with memory.

They said the bandits entered Mrs. Catritz's 58-room mansion shortly after midnight yesterday.

Police reported Mrs. Catritz, widow of builder Morris Catritz, was bound and gagged in her bedroom. She finally worked her way free and called police.

Excise Tax Reduction Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — President Johnson proposed today a 1.75-billion dollar reduction in excise taxes paid at the counter and in transit.

But he also programmed a bigger pinch on paychecks to pay for health care and other benefits for the elderly.

The President's budget message to congress did not say which of the excise taxes—which total 14.3 billion dollars—he would like to reduce, but it is known that he favors giving priority to the "nuisance" levies.

These add 10 per cent to the price of jewelry, cosmetics, furs and luggage. They are paid at the counter. They bring in about 500 million dollars in revenue each year.

Dockets of other items—ranging from automobiles to light bulbs—are taxed five to 10 per cent at the manufacturing level.

The reductions would be offset by increased levies on highway users and aviation fuel.

Present law requires an increase in social security deductions in January, 1966. A person with a weekly pay check of $110 would then contribute $198 per year instead of the present $174.

Under the Johnson proposal, the figure would go to $238, with $168 earmarked for medical care.

Employers would match these pay-roll deductions.

The budget did not put a price tag on medical care since that program would not get under way until July 1, 1968, and it would be in the 1967 budget. The pay roll deductions would cover approximately 85 per cent of the program with the remainder to be paid from general revenues.

Johnson is expected to send his detailed recommendations on excise taxes to congress within the next few months since many of the levies expire automatically at midyear if they are not re-acted. He proposed putting all taxes which are just eliminated on a permanent basis.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said all the proposed tax cuts would take effect June 30 but, because of a time lag in collections, the loss in revenue would be only 1.5 billion dollars in the first year.

One reason for withholding information on excise levies is the concern of some economists that publicizing cuts in advance might cause consumers to hold up purchases.

Johnson said airlines should pay more taxes to help defray the cost of facilities provided to them by the government.

The five per cent tax on airline tickets would be made permanent. The 2-cent-per-gallon levy on gasoline used in airlines would be continued and a similar tax would be placed on jet fuel.

The proposed tax would be four cents on gasoline and jet fuel for nonairline aircraft.

The fast-growing air freight business would be taxed at two per cent.

Some 300 million dollars in additional revenue for federal highway programs probably would be raised by increasing the diesel fuel tax from four to seven cents per gallon and increasing the tax on heavy trucks from 63 to 85 per 1,000 pounds of weight.

Budget for Education Is Revealed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — President Johnson today sent congress a plan to increase federal spending on education by 75 per cent in one year. He said better schools were "the principal tool for building a Great Society."

The President outlined plans in his budget message to spend 27 billion dollars on education in the year starting July 1. This would be an increase of 1.2 billion dollars over the current direct outlay for education and nearly eight times the amount spent 10 years ago.

Although plugging hard for his earlier request for new school aid authority totaling 15 billion dollars, Johnson tied most of his spending proposals to programs already on the books. Of the total expenditure planned in fiscal 1966, only 600 million dollars would depend upon congressional approval of new school aid legislation.

The Johnson budget would provide 971 million dollars for grade and high school aid, 782 million dollars for colleges and universities, 507 million dollars for vocational and other special training and 405 million dollars for National Science foundation and other science education and basic research programs.

The spending plan for elementary and secondary schools is most dependent upon the success of the new school aid legislation. About 500 million dollars of it must be authorized by congress before funds can be appropriated. Hearings on the legislation started last week.

Only 100 million dollars of the college level spending hangs on the fate of the pending bills. Most of it was authorized in the college construction aid and student loan expansion bills passed by congress last year.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

SAIGON, Jan. 25—In this war-without-a-front, there are those who claim that the most dangerous bullet is in a hamlet that has been "pacified" by Vietnamese government troops.

Such hamlets pose a challenge to the Viet Cong, whose major aim is to convince the ordinary citizen that the reds are winning the war and that any protection provided by the government is a temporary, sometime thing. The VC seeks not so much to reconquer the hamlets as to make life miserable for those who live in them.

"PACIFIED" HAMLETS IN JEOPARDY—Any one of dozens of "pacified" hamlets would do as an example of how dangerous it is to take security for granted, but a place named Tan Buu calls for attention because it is only six and a half miles from Saigon. The roofs of its huts can be seen from the capital city on any clear day.

Technically, Tan Buu belongs to our side. So-called "civic action" teams have moved in under military protection to purge the hamlet of VC cells and establish democratic rule. And, after all, it would be described in American classified ads as a "close-in" suburb of Saigon.

WHICH SIDE IS WINNING?—But because the VC doesn't read the smug communiques, an American lieutenant from New York's Bronx named Bill Reach is dead. And people in the hamlets clustered in the flat lands around Saigon wonder which side is winning the war.

There was a company of Vietnamese troops in Tan Buu on that dark night when the VC launched its object lesson. The hamlet was asleep as 57 mm. cannon shells and 60 mm. mortar bombs started falling. Within minutes the stone and concrete headquarters building was all but demolished. Artillery support should have come from the nearby village of Binh Chan, but the VC silenced those guns with a shelling that wounded two Vietnamese soldiers and destroyed two trucks.

DASH FOR DITCH—Lieutenant Reach and an American sergeant were in the headquarters building for a while. Obviously, they couldn't stay there, and so they made a dash for a ditch filled with waist-high water. VC grenades exploded around them, and the sergeant was wounded in the left foot.

Reach and the sergeant decided to retreat to the Ben Luc river about 50 yards away. That's when Reach was hit by machine gun fire even as he climbed out of the ditch. The sergeant made it to the river, where he hid among some reeds until daylight, when he was picked up by a helicopter.

VC AGENTS GIVE WORD—In the sparse prose of the military, the action will be described as the successful overrunning of a Vietnamese position. But that is only half the story. Clearly, the VC attacked because Tan Buu had not been pacified. It still contained one or more VC agents whose intelligence persuaded the attackers—the hamlet was a sleeping giant.

A clutch of high New York City cops or FBI agents could have given Tan Buu the security it thought it had. The Viet Nam regime, however, doesn't own this type of cop. It has a few good U. S.-trained police, but they are spread too thin to take care of all the Tan Buus. And that is why Bill Reach today is merely a footnote in history.

Views of Others

THE IRRESISTIBLE TITLE—Titles are reported becoming very big in the motion picture industry, with Warner Bros. paying $200,000 principally for the title of "Sex and the Single Girl" and with George Axelrod and Gordon Carroll liking their title "How to Murder Your Wife" so well that they also registered a spare, "How to Murder Your Husband."

The fly in the ointment—or perhaps in view of its size we should say the owl in the unguent—is that there is no way of being absolutely sure in advance without the exercise of originality, imagination, judgment or other fringe methods that do not comfort investors of large sums of money as does some scientific method like a Nielsen rating or a Gallup poll.

An advertising agency, McCann-Erickson, has, however, come up with something which we feel could be used as a beachhead. It has a device that measures whether and if so how much the pupils of the eyes dilate on viewing a title—and the more, of course, the merrier. We look on this as a fairly large but cannot consider it colossal. A title that dilates the eyes is very good, but it is not collateral, and much less is it money in the bank.

GIRLDES FOR GENTS—A news story from Chicago says more and more men are wearing girlies, pretty much like those their wives wiggle into. They keep the paunches under control, taking as much as two inches off the post-holiday spread. One man who has worn a support for his middle for several years, says it seems to give him more pep and energy to boot.

Think that once men get over the idea that the bikini is a woman's thing, the battle of the bulge is won? He was quoted.

So, okay. But how does a man keep his girlie in place? We've noticed that women's girlies have garters attached. These serve a double purpose: They keep the stockings up and the girlie down. Else a girlie would ride up to a point where it would not control the bulges but would create new ones. Instead, we believe men would balk at wearing nylon hose reaching several inches above the knee.

Understand there are panty girlies, too, and these undoubtedly are the kind the masculine sex will adopt. No lace, though, please.—The Oregonian.

DEADLY DIAPERS—A psychiatrist has drawn heated replies to a suggestion that home is a "diaper prison" of frustration for an intelligent woman. A woman argues vehemently that it takes a great deal of intelligence to be a good mother and manager of a household. Another, in similar vein, asks: "Why should a woman not be able to think intelligent thoughts while housecleaning?"

How any woman can think thoughts of anything but the most unprintable nature while washing diapers is a feminine mystery. But the mere fact that diaper washing can be talked of in the same breath as woman's true biological role in life is revealing enough. The sooner all can be relieved of this depressing task by science, the better. The trouble is to know whether one should begin research on the baby or the diaper.—Peterborough (Ont.) Examiner.

POLICEMAN IS A FRIEND—In the home is the place to begin drumming it into the thinking of our youngsters that the corner policeman is a friend to be trusted, an official whose first duty is to protect the law-abiding citizen and his property. To wait for school is to wait too long.—Mason City (Ia.) Globe-Gazette.

NOURISHING, HUH?

Dear Sir:

I suppose at one time or another nearly everyone gets caught in the same sort of fix. But what do you do? How do you get off the hook?

The host was enraptured over the dish. He raved about it, declared everyone would love it. So I took a big mouthful and started to chew. And I chewed and chewed and chewed. It kept getting bigger and bigger and bigger. I didn't want to swallow the stuff and it certainly wouldn't have been according to Post to spit it out.

Finally I gulped three or four times—and down it went, well, most of it, anyway. I said something about our house burning down and I had to run to put out the fire and got out the door somehow.

How do you get out of those messes?

Dear Gent:

I've been thinking about the day when men finally learn how to control the weather. That should be a great day. And I've got a few suggestions for the weather-makers just as soon as they can accomplish it.

First, when they know how to make weather, they should concentrate on arranging an occasional gentle-snowfall in July and August. It will be a great way to cool the air.

Next, they should find out how to warm the atmosphere in the winter months. Instead of having these cold snows in the winter, we should have gentle, warming rains.

Won't it be a great day when the weather people can bring that off?

Interpreting the News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill was doused in the English language because his teachers thought he was stupid and English was all he was fit for.

It turned out to be a good fit. His father, Randolph, a doltish, erratic man, thought he was stupid, too. His parents, strangely indifferent about him, kept him in boarding schools from the time he was 7 until he was 21.

No wonder, with this disregard and this loneliness, he spent his life in search of recognition, first in trying to attract attention but always in trying to assert himself, to be in charge.

Since this is not the prescribed way for winning friends and influencing people, he was unpopular in school, in the army, and in politics where his own Conservatives distrusted his judgment and suspected his motives.

Even his fellow aristocrats slammed their doors when he attacked the privileges of the rich. If he had died before he was 65 he would have been a political failure, hardly more than a footnote in history.

But for five years, from 65 to 70, he was put in charge of the war against Hitler. This was enough. His desire to prevail paid off handsomely for him, England and the world.

It was his eloquence, just as much as his leadership, which made him in just five years one of the shining figures of history. At this point his roots in his school days.

He wasn't dumb. He said years later: "Where my reason or my imagination or interest were not engaged, I would not or could not learn. I should have liked to be asked what I knew. They always tried to ask what I did not know."

Not long ago, British scientist C. P. Snow said Churchill must have had an IQ as high as anyone could wish. But his teachers thought he was one of the slow ones.

They let the bright boys cut their teeth on Latin and Greek but they put the slow ones in the lowest grades and drilled them in English. And this Churchill loved.

Looking back at 51, he wrote: "Even as a schoolboy I questioned the aptness of the classics for the prime structure of our education. So they told me how Mrs. Chidstone, prime minister when Churchill was growing up, read Homer for fun, which I thought served him right."

His grades weren't good enough to get him into college. He went into the army. But at 22 he felt he was a social, political and historical boob. He decided to educate himself.

"It was a curious education," he wrote, first, because I approached it with an empty, hungry mind, and with fairly strong laws, and what I got I bit."

He read eight volumes of Edward Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," then Thomas Babington Macaulay's "History of England," and went on from there.

Churchill, consciously or not, patterned himself after Gibbon, as he showed in what he wrote later, and it was a lot. 30 books, including a history of England and histories of the two world wars. He finished at 82.

By the use of the "of" clause—like "of mankind"—and of adjectives that flashed or smoldered, the two men could turn the language into thunder over Mt. Sinai.

With Churchill, as with Gibbon, nouns and adjectives hand in hand, tripped down the pages like a bridal pair in splendid ceremony.

But all of Churchill's reading and memorizing would not have been enough to make him remembered as a writer without something else.

He had an artist's glistering sense of life and a romantic's sense of drama, plus a special ear for the language. He could make a phrase look as happy as a puppy with a porkchop.

Sometimes his sentences sound as wistful as the wheels of a wagon train or as robust as a platoon with drums in a shuffling street at three in the morning.

His teachers, who thought they had scrutinized his mind, forgot to examine his ears.

There's never a dull moment in some of our hospitals—especially the nursery. Doctors in one hospital were performing a circumcision when they noticed that the baby's blood was darker than normal, and that the baby's lips were blue. A checkup in the nursery revealed that several other babies were turning blue. A diagnosis of methemoglobinemia was made.

In this disease, the iron in blood cells is deficient in oxygen. Prompt treatment with an antidote and oxygen saved the babies' lives.

Blood tests of the rest of the babies in the nursery revealed that the disease was developing in several others.

Air conditioners were shut off on the chance that some pollutant was getting into the nursery.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

KEY WEST, Fla., — "Impecable Cuban underground sources reveal a Soviet missile concentration and electronic buildup certainly unknown to our public. And these are the same sources as on which this column is relied and who have proven completely right in the face of Washington denials, for so many months before the Oct. 22, 1962, missile 'confrontation.'"

They are eye-witnesses to the Soviet missiles and the immense electronic installations that go with these. They find the missile caves that Washington finally agreed were there not only still alive but have been enlarged. Several members of the underground even "helped" enlarge them, for they infiltrated the operation as construction workers.

They continue to insist that all long-range atomic missiles have not been removed. When Washington abandoned our on-site inspection demand we not only did not inspect the sites we did not inspect the crates. All we got was aerial photographs of canvas-covered boxes on outgoing ships.

Thus the haunting question has always remained: If the Kremlin did what it said it would do, why didn't it let us see it do it?

There were 88 long-range missiles known to have been brought in. These observers insist that many remain and have counted several at Auras (Las Villas province) alone. Auras is on the south coast of Cuba and the underground arsenal is one and one-half miles inland from the coast.

Moreover, an American enters the picture. Members of the underground name, as a prime mover in the Soviet program, an American who took asylum in Cuba and who held an atomic energy commission security clearance for four years. This scientist is a graduate of California Institute of Technology and an expert on U.S. atomic missiles.

There are two Moscow-controlled headquarters. One is in the vast cavern of Santo Tomas, Cuban communist leader and cave expert Antonio Nunez Jimenez describes this phenomenon in the Castro magazine, Bohemia, as the largest cavern in all Latin America, stating that its galleries and underground rivers extend 15 kilometers and form a complicated network of 20 intercommunicating caverns.

What Jimenez does not say is the use the Russians have made of this subterranean maze. It is today the Russian's central military warehouse of their Western zone, which encompasses the three provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas. The main entrance is at kilometer 23 on the Luis Lazaro (blocked off) highway between Pinar del Rio and Guantamo.

Soviet specialists have built a two-lane tunnel with railroad tracks connecting Santo Tomas main galleries, which are used to store missiles and arms. They have installed in one of the galleries a powerful seismic satellite tracking equipment. And they've installed in a gallery to the south their atomic energy experimental station that services atomic missiles. The American is in charge.

The second major missile and electronic concentration, also undetectable from the air by our reconnaissance flights in the Los Portales cave in the southwestern province of Pinar del Rio.

You enter the camouflaged midside through the so-called Guira farm near the town of San Diego los Baños, an important Soviet air base. This complex is connected underground with the km-wide Oscura cave.

The Cuban liaison with the Russian command there is Ernesto "Ghe" Gheorgiu's wife, Capt. Pablo Rivalta Perez (underground code name: Simon) who was in Russia 1953-54 and is one of the few Castro officers allowed access to the Soviet bases.

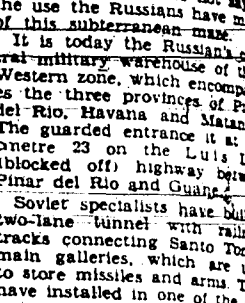

Most of the expansion has taken place since the missile "confrontation." It was directed by Commissar Nicolai Dandaniya, vice president of the Soviet state bureau of hydraulics. As at the Santo Tomas complex, the Russians employed silico-type cement which resists humidity; Czechoslovakian steel bars; wood rollers ordered from Britain; Guantamo and shipped directly from the Soviet Union—special ventilation and refrigeration equipment used to preserve the liquid oxygen required to launch missile rockets.

Thus a further vital question remains: Can these Soviet electronic installations inside our Caribbean defense perimeter jam and defeat the rocket missile operations at nearby Cape Kennedy?

The Impeccable Cuban underground sources can correctly give these eyewitness revelations but they are not competent to answer that. Our U.S. technicians should know the answer at Cape Kennedy itself. My next article will be from there.

Poor Man's Plato

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Remarks a middle-aged man gets tired of hearing:

"Take it easy—you know you're not as young as you used to be."

"Why, Arnold? Vespers, you old rascal. Imagine, meeting you after all these years! You've changed so—I hardly recognized you."

"Frankly I think you're foolish to go on fighting bifocals. The sooner you start wearing them, the easier it will be to adjust to them."

"I'd love to pour you another martini, dear, but you know what the doctor said: one before dinner—and none after."

"And this is a picture of Arnold and his college school graduation class. Wasn't he handsome then?"

"This new cemetery we're planning will be the best in town, socially speaking, and we thought that you, as a—uh—well, as a man of mature years, would be interested in selecting a plot."

Why don't you learn to do you age?"

"Remember how hard I used to have to fight you to get you put on your rubbers and carry an umbrella when it rained? I'm glad you're finally getting sensible."

"Don't leave now—the party's just getting started. Why in the old days, you used to stay until the last dog was dead."

HEART LEAD SCORES POINT

Hand one of the second round of the U.S. trials for the world championship appears to be completely flat. Every South player opened with two no-trump and played the hand at a customary pace.

While South only has 20 high-card points he has no-trump shape, preparation for any lead and a strong five-card club suit.

Four West players opened the king of spades in hope of picking up a singleton queen in the North hand. Four others opened the spade jack and one West opened the four of hearts.

At all tables where a spade was opened, South proceeded to make four no-trump. He won the spade, entered dummy with the ace of hearts, took a club finesse, entered dummy with the king of diamonds, took a second club finesse and wound up with four clubs and two tricks in each other suit.

The heart lead held South's nine-tricks because he was never able to make a second spade win the 30-point difference was worth one International Match Point.

The bidding in the box was standard at six tables. In each instance, North responded three clubs to check for a four-card or longer major suit holding and South's three diamond bid dealt such a holding.

The three-club response also made at the other six tables but in these cases South responded with three no-trumps. These pairs used a slightly different convention in which a three-diamond bid shows four four-card majors and shows five or more diamonds while the three no-trump rebid shows four or more clubs.

Buhl School Is Visited By Teacher

BUHL, Jan. 25 — Luz Marie Guevara, Rio Amur, Mexico, is visiting the Buhl school system, working under the international teacher development program.

The teacher development program is sponsored by the U.S. office of education in cooperation with the bureau of educational and cultural affairs and through an agreement between the department of state and department of health, education and welfare. It was developed to create an atmosphere of mutual understanding and respect among educators in many countries of the free world.

Special emphasis of the program is placed on learning about American people, the American way of life as well as on the academic aspects. Ideas, customs, history, culture and educational affairs are discussed and shared in many ways.

In addition to her visitation program here Miss Guevara also will appear before several groups in the community and will tour places of interest in Magic Valley.

Miss Guevara, 23, teaches English at a secondary school and commercial and technical school. In addition to a special school of English at the University of Mexico.

Newly Formed Teen Town at Burley Gets Adult Approval

BURLEY, Jan. 25 — New Teen Town recreational center located at 1600 Albion avenue in the old Baptist church building, has received endorsement from the community following three successful dances and extensive study.

The idea of organizing a youth center in Burley originated Dec. 5, 1964, when a Burley basketball team traveled to Rexburg for a game there. After the basketball game the Burley players were guests of the Rexburg team at a youth center. The Rexburg youth center was established approximately three years ago.

Upon arriving home the Burley youths began the search for a suitable building for a Burley Teen Town. Arrangements for the vacant Baptist church were made. A teen-age board of directors was selected with Norman Larsen as president; Ric Morley, vice-president; Kay Johnson, secretary; Ray Lambert, treasurer; and Linda Anderson, Kristene Karlson, Susie Dalling and Howard Morley, all board members.

After the group made the arrangements for the building and had selected its own board of directors the group then contacted S. H. Hibbert and asked him to be their adult adviser.

The youth center is non-denominational. Regulations have been established that no one under 14 years of age is admitted, no alcoholic beverages are allowed, no smoking on the premises and dress will be casual with no cutoffs or blue jeans allowed.

Parents and other interested adults are invited to attend all functions and there is no admission charge for adult observers.

Teen-age admission to dances is $1 per person. One-fourth of the revenue will go to the landlord, one-fourth to one-half for entertainment, with the rest for improvements of the youth center.

The building boasts a carpeted band shell and a large, dangerous area with a blue lighting for atmosphere. A snack bar and lounge is located in the basement. Three lawns and two overstuffed chairs have been donated to the group for the lounge by Karbel Furniture and Greenwald's.

A pop machine has been installed by the Coca-Cola Bottling company, Twin Falls. Future plans include pingpong tables and perhaps a shuffleboard area.

The group has sponsored three successful dances. A responsible adult was present at all three dances and this policy will continue at all future functions, officials note.

The next dance scheduled will be 9 p.m. to midnight Jan. 30 with the appearance of the six member teen-age dance band known as the "Tyros" from Minnetonka.

Concern by residents on whether teen-age youth would be able to handle situations that might develop prompted an investigation by adults at a special meeting.

Those attending were Mick Crouch, Burley mayor; Vern Carter, probate judge; Alfred Crane, 5th, justice of the peace; Isaac W. Lee, LDS stake president; Mrs. Fred Anderson, Burley Chamber of Commerce secretary; Earl Carlson, Burley high school principal; James Annett, attorney; Sherman H. Hibbert, teen-age adult adviser and attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. LaMar Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvia Morley, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. A. Glenn Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Karlson and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Dalling, all parents of the teen-age board of directors.

As a result of the meeting and investigation the adult group endorsed and confirmed the high ideals and purposes of the newly formed Burley Teen Town.

"The Burley Teen Town is a well supervised, wholesome youth entertainment center in which all parents can rightfully be proud to have their teen-age children participate," the adult group declared.

Speech by Churchill Is Recalled

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Jan. 25 (AP)—The man who asked Winston Churchill to the United States for his historic "iron curtain" speech in 1946 yesterday remembered the speech, the day and the fallen British statesman.

Dr. Frank L. McCluer is now president of Lindenwood college for women here. Then, he was president of Westminster college at Fulton, Mo., and he asked President Harry Truman to help bring Churchill over for a guest lecture.

"I first invited Churchill," McCluer recalled. "I had taken my letter to the President who had endorsed that invitation in his own handwriting. So, it became an invitation from the President."

The educator said, "his address sticks in my mind it was an exciting experience to have the President and Churchill at the campus for the whole day. It was a significant experience."

In his speech that sunny March 5, 1946, Churchill said, "From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the continent. Behind that line lies all the capitals of the ancient states of central and eastern Europe."

McCluer said of the speech, "Churchill was a little more far-sighted than we were. Some thought he was very critical of an ally but his speech made a very profound impression across the country. I doubt that there was a single metropolitan paper across the country that didn't have an editorial about the speech the next day."

"He analyzed the split between the East and the West and saw the intentions of the Russians before anyone else did," McCluer said.

"He was very gentle. He did have a keen sense of humor. After being with him for a while, you felt you knew him."

"Few lives have influenced the course of human history as that of Sir Winston Churchill. We praise his indomitable will, unflinching courage, clear vision and his magnificent leadership."

"But, we cannot measure the greatness of his character or of his service to mankind. It is to be hoped that we shall gather strength from the heritage he has left us and that we can share the immortal faith he revealed," McCluer concluded.

BOISE, Jan. 25 (AP)—A Boise youth was reported missing today in the Bogus basin area north of Boise. Sheriff's officers were aided by members of the mountain search and rescue unit and the ski patrol in a search for the youth. Officers said Stuart Anderson, 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Anderson, Boise, went missing alone yesterday afternoon. He failed to return home, although his car was found in the bogus basin parking lot.

POCATELLO, Jan. 25 (AP)—Construction beginning next spring on a $225,000 sanctuary is planned by the First Methodist church of Pocatello. The modernistic structure is to be completed adjacent to the present church building in October, said the Rev. V. Leon Bolen, minister.

POCATELLO, Jan. 25 (AP)—Gov. John Love of Colorado, considered an ally of Gov. Robert E. Smylie in the Republican party, has been announced speaker at the annual Lincoln day dinner here Feb. 13. Love hosted the Republican Governors conference in Denver last month, at which a resolution was passed asking Republican leadership representing all sectors of the party.

BANCROFT, Jan. 25 (AP)—Federal assistance in developing flood control projects on the Bancroft watershed, where flood damage was estimated at two million dollars the last three years, has been asked by four agencies. The federal assistance was asked in an application sponsored by the Portneuf and Caribou soil conservation districts, the village of Bancroft and the Caribou county commissioners.

POCATELLO, Jan. 25 (AP)—A $50,000 remodeling program on the Hotel Bannock's Cosmopolitan room will begin next week, a J. R. Simplot official announced. The hotel became a part of the Minerals and Chemical division of the J. R. Simplot company, when Simplot purchased it earlier this month. When the purchase was announced company officials said an initial $100,000 was to be spent on a renovation of the ground floor and second floor which includes making the Cosmopolitan room into "one of the finest and largest single convention rooms in Idaho." In addition, a longer program of upper floor room renovation will be carried out in a manner that will not interfere with normal operations. The company said Everett Jordan, hotel manager, will be in charge of the entire program. Remodeling of the convention room is expected to be completed by the end of February. Some remodeling is now being done on the sixth floor of the hotel and work on the second floor private dining rooms is expected to begin by early spring.

BOISE, Jan. 25 (AP)—The wheat problem of quality versus disease resistance was tackled yesterday by wheat growers, millers and exporters at a pre-convention session of the Idaho Feed and Grain association, registration and a business session this morning was to begin the three-day convention. The wheat problem was the subject of the association's country elevator committee meeting, said B. E. Barker, chairman. The problem, Barker said, is that some varieties do not meet miller and baker specifications. They are grown due to resistance to stripe rust, a disease new to Idaho wheat, he said.

POCATELLO, Jan. 25 (AP)—A case for diverting a portion of income taxes Idahoans pay to the federal government has been outlined by an economics professor in an article for the Idaho State Journal. The plan is to permit a taxpayer to deduct state income taxes from his federal income tax bill but not deduct federal income taxes from his state bill. The plan, says Dr. Cornelius A. Hofman, would put an extra 17 to 18 million dollars in the state treasury, but add only five to seven million dollars to taxes Idahoans pay. Hofman, an assistant professor of economics at Idaho State university, is a frequent consultant for the house revenue and taxation committee. He says that under the present "double deductibility" system, Idaho is spending more money than necessary to Washington and is subsidizing states that do not allow double deductibility. "It's a way of raising the state tax revenue without raising taxes," he says, "and it's inconceivable that it has been ignored this long."

Reclamation Work Plans Listed in Proposed Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—A $302,281,840 reclamation project construction program was proposed today in President Johnson's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Last year's request was $313,518,287. Requested for work on 50 projects, including five construction starts in the West, is $23,315,000. Added to this would be 40 million dollars advanced by California for work on the San Luis unit of the Central Valley project, 28.6 million dollars for unforeseen contingencies, project revenue and other items.

New funds provided by congress for irrigation and power project construction in the present fiscal year totaled $247,916,500. In addition, California put up 43 million dollars.

The reclamation bureau requested $7,262,000 to begin work in the coming fiscal year on these projects: Dixie, Utah; Crooked-river extension, Colorado; Boardman, Colorado; Tehama-Colusa distribution systems of the Central Valley project, California; and Stempel division, Washoe project, Nevada-California.

The reclamation bureau also proposes an enlarged small-project loan program, requesting $14,995,000, compared with the $12,207,000 provided this year.

Other reclamation bureau requests include 49 million dollars for project operation and maintenance and 11.5 million dollars for project investigation.

Largest project construction request is $107,240,000 for the Central Valley project in California. Other larger items include: Pacific Northwest — Pacific Southwest power line Intertie, Arizona-California-Nevada, 26 million dollars; Curent, Colorado project, transmission facilities, $14,616,000; Columbia basin, Washington, $8,800,000; Glen canyon, Arizona-Utah, $5,840,000; and Basin, Utah, $4,129,000.

Johnson Asks 53 Million for Intertie Work

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—President Johnson asked congress Monday for 53 million dollars to continue work on a 700 million dollar electric transmission system to link public and private power systems from Vancouver, B. C., to Los Angeles and Phoenix.

Johnson also called for spending of $114,465,000 by the Bonneville Power Administration (BPA)—the key to the huge new transmission system—during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1965.

The requests were included in the president's 99.7 billion dollar budget for the 1966 fiscal year presented to congress today.

Spending on the Pacific Northwest-Southwest Intertie, the most ambitious electric transmission system ever put together in this country—would total $27,000,000 in Oregon, $9,340,000 in California, $8,700,000 in Nevada and $7,960,000 in Arizona.

When completed, the power intertie will represent a federal investment of about 294 million dollars, with the rest of the cost to be financed by private and public utilities. Benefits flowing from the linking of electric systems in 11 western states are expected to total 2.6 billion dollars over a 50-year period.

The 27 million dollars which the President asked be spent on the intertie in Oregon was included in the over-all budget for the BPA, a federal agency created to market power from dams on the Columbia river and its tributaries.

In his budget message, Johnson also recommended that legislation be enacted to permit the BPA to finance construction and operating costs from revenues. Such revenues of the federal power marketing agency now are deposited in miscellaneous receipts of the U. S. treasury.

The BPA budget request for the 1966 fiscal year called for a $98,450,000 construction program, with $16,015,000 earmarked for operation and maintenance. The request represented an increase for $11,030,000 for construction and $1,035,000 for operation and maintenance.

The new construction would pave the way for the BPA to transmit nearly 45 million kilowatts of new federal and non-federal power by 1969, including:

Increased generation—resulting from water storage in Canada under a treaty for joint development of the Columbia river.

Interior department officials said the 1966 program would include "an unprecedented large volume" of construction work associated with major facilities begun in the 1964 and 1965 fiscal years, particularly a 500,000-volt "backbone" transmission system and the Pacific Northwest-Southwest Intertie.

During the 1966 fiscal year, they said, there would be more than 2,000 miles of transmission lines under construction, of which more than 1,400 miles would be extra-high-voltage lines carrying 500,000 to 750,000 volts.

Unlike the budget for the current fiscal year, the 1966 budget did not ask for money to plan a proposed high voltage transmission line from the BPA system into southern Idaho. However, officials said they would ask for funds to build a federal link into the area if negotiations ordered by congress for the wheeling of power by private utilities did not turn out successfully.

Major construction by the BPA recommended in the budget included:

Idaho — Jackson area service, $76,000; Rupert service, $50,000; and Idaho Falls service, $200,000.

Montana — Industrial services $2,200,000; Hot Springs and Anaconda terminal facilities, $88,000; and Lasalle area service, $100,000.

Wyoming — Jackson area service, $230,000.

Fire Hits Oil Tank Farm In Anchorage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 25 (AP)—A searing fire which swept through a Standard Oil company tank farm caused at least $500,000 damage, authorities said today.

The blaze was touched off Saturday when gasoline leaking from a faulty pump exploded, it destroyed an oil storage tank and damaged another, leveled a 800-foot long warehouse and severely damaged an adjoining office building.

A Standard Oil spokesman in Seattle said the fire had not completed estimating the damage. But fire department officials here said it would run at least half a million dollars.

The fire raged out of control more than three hours. Firemen pumped water into the huge warehouse in 19 degree cold while the structure was racked by exploding drums of oil and gasoline.

A firewall saved the office building from complete destruction.

Between 150 and 200 firemen from nearby military bases sprayed other storage tanks with water. The flames reached within 25 feet of one of the 100,000-gallon tanks before being turned back.

No one was injured in the fire. Firemen worked through the night to extinguish the blaze, and the charred ruins continued to steam today in the near-zero weather.

Atrusa Club Names "Girl Of Month"

Kathleen Gay Sutcliff, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Sutcliff of Twin Falls, has been named "girl of the month" by the Twin Falls Atrusa club, announces Mrs. Frank Depew, president.

The girl of the month program was started recently by members of the Atrusa club to honor Twin Falls high school girls who contribute much to the support of the school. Good academic standing and certain character qualifications must be met before the girl is named.

Faculty members at the high school pick three girls each month which they believe deserve recognition. The club makes its selection from the three girls.

Miss Sutcliff, a sophomore, has been active in Girls league, Pep club and orchestra in addition to a number of community activities. In addition she is an honor student and was chosen as an outstanding female student at O'Leary junior high school.

Miss Sutcliff is the club's selection for November. No selection was made for December as the club held no meeting during that month. Mrs. Depew said the December and January selections will be made next week.

At the conclusion of the school year a "Girl of the year" will be chosen by members of the Atrusa club from the selections made each month.

Other girl of the month honorees to date have been Connie Covington, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fen Covington, a senior, and LeVon June Adfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Adfield, a junior.

Miss Adfield was chosen for October and Miss Covington was chosen for September.

Two Space Savers

1. Flameless electric heat
2. Flameless electric water heating.

SPACE SAVED GAVE US A "HUNTING" CLOSET

"With electric heating cables concealed in the ceilings, we were able to use our furnace space as a closet for guns and hunting equipment. Because the water heater is electric, we were able to put it in a corner of this closet."

Jerry D. Bill, Emmett

Space saving is one of the many benefits of all-electric living. Electric heat eliminates the need for furnace rooms, chimneys and vents, pipe runs and fuel storage space.

Compact quick recovery electric water heaters are small and neat. Because they are flameless, they require no oxygen and no flues. You can install them in a closet, in a corner of the kitchen counter, under a stairway or in any other convenient place. With space at a premium, it's another of the extras of flameless electric living.

Churchill's Life Related

By United Press International

To the end of DEATH Sir Winston Churchill personified the tough English bulldog.

Plane crashes, three strokes, a run-in with a New York taxi cab and the pressures of war twice leading his nation to war and peace had taken their toll. But his indomitable spirit enabled the old warrior to amaze doctors with his remarkable recoveries.

Statesman, soldier, author, painter, Sir Winston was one of the great figures provided by destiny in moments of supreme world crisis.

He was the last of the triad—Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill—which guided the fate of the Allies in World War II. He was a man who sprang to the leadership in Britain in her greatest hour of peril in 1940, and who led her to the victory over Germany in 1945.

A good and old friend said of Churchill on his 85th birthday that he was the greatest man in the world for 500 years. On his 88th birthday, London's national newspaper, The Times, called him "the world's greatest man."

And he went on and on.

For all the last years of his life, few would deny that he was the greatest Englishman.

One of his dreams was an English-speaking union. He loved the United States—his mother was American—and one of his fondest hopes was finally achieved when he was made an honorary citizen by the late President Kennedy in Washington on April 9, 1963.

President Kennedy, in making the presentation to Churchill's son, Randolph, who accepted the honor on behalf of his absent father, said: "He is the most honored and honorable man to walk the stage of human history in the time in which we live."

"By adding his name to our rolls, we mean to honor him—his acceptance honors us far more. For no statement or proclamation can enrich his name now. The name Sir Winston Churchill is already legend."

Randolph read his father's acceptance speech. Sir Winston said the honor was "without parallel" and he accepted "with deep gratitude and affection."

"It is a remarkable comment on our affairs that the former prime minister of a great sovereign state should thus be received as an honorary citizen of another."

In his speech, Sir Winston recalled his American heritage and said, "In this century of storm and tragedy I contemplate with high satisfaction the constant factor of the interwoven and upward progress of our peoples."

"Our comradeship and our brotherhood were unexampled. We stood together, and because of that fact, the free world now stands."

"Mr. President, your action illuminates the theme of unity of the English-speaking peoples, to which I have devoted a large part of my life."

But, in accepting the honor, Churchill let it be known that Britain doesn't take a back seat to the United States or any other country.

"I reject the view that Britain and the Commonwealth should now be relegated to a tame and minor role in the world," he said.

"Our past is the key to our future, which I firmly trust and believe will be no less fertile and glorious. Let no man underestimate our energies, our potentialities and our abiding power for good."

Sir Winston and his wife Clementine—together with millions he fought to liberate in World War II on both sides of the iron curtain—watched on television as Kennedy declared him a U.S. citizen.

Communist Hungary and Czechoslovakia joined five West European countries and Britain in picking up the white House across the Atlantic through space by the U.S. relay satellite.

"We were thrilled," said his "darling Clementine," who had stood by his side during the years of drought and plenty and when he soared to history's heights.

Churchill then had left for a two-week vacation on the French Riviera, where he broke his left thigh on June 29, 1963.

The then 83-year-old doughty statesman spent 54 days in London's Middlesex hospital after he was flown back to England from Monaco.

While his leg was knitting, he suffered an attack of phlebitis—a blood clot in the leg—and a recurrence of the lung trouble that had plagued him since childhood. Either were thought to kill a man of his age.

Throughout his long hospitalization, there were ominous bulletins that his condition was deteriorating.

But his son, Randolph, on the day the crisis was surmounted told newsmen that he found his father "sitting up in bed, smoking a cigar, sipping a glass of brandy and mystifying his doctors."

Churchill mystified his doctors with the way he washed down chicken and strawberries with champagne and brandy.

That he survived at all seemed to many a miracle. When he got out of the hospital, the first glimpse of the ailing, aging statesman was a shock for the crowd that jammed outside the hospital entrance.

His skin was pale and drawn. He looked much thinner than in his last house of commons appearance before he went to the Riviera in 1962. The wave he gave the crowd was not a vigorous salute but an old man's feeble gesture.

Churchill had not looked like the old warrior for at least a decade.

He celebrated his 85th birthday anniversary Nov. 30, 1962, with a 16-pound cake laced with brandy, his favorite drink. The cake was decorated with 106 roses made of red icing. It was a fruit cake which bore three quotations written in blue icing from Sir Winston's own sayings and writings.

We have now at once to promote the cause of united Europe.

"I am not here to preside over the liquidation of the British empire."

"I am myself an English-speaking union."

On Nov. 1, before his birthday anniversary last year, he made his first public appearance after his 1957 illness when he went to a dinner of distinguished drinking and eating friends Churchill co-founded in 1911 as a place to meet outside the "real club"—his beloved house of commons.

On Dec. 6, 1962, he braved a killer smog for a second club meeting, attended by such distinguished members as the Earl of Salisbury, Viscount Chelmsford and the Earl of Roseberry and others.

Until his last years he made regular appearances at his two favorite clubs—the house of commons and "the other club."

"The other club" was a society of distinguished drinking and eating friends Churchill co-founded in 1911 as a place to meet outside the "real club"—parliament.

He was back in France in April of 1963 for a holiday in the sun. When he returned to England, his visits to parliament became less frequent as the last session drew to a close with the general elections of 1964.

Churchill, who always described himself as "a child of parliament," was persuaded by his family and medical advisers not to stand for reelection in the general election of 1964. He thus left the historic legislature in which he had figured for most of 64 years.

He was the oldest living member in years and in length of service. He was the last survivor of those who sat when Victoria was queen-empress.

Churchill's reason for retiring was his inability to move about as a result of the injury to his leg.

He celebrated his 90th birthday anniversary on Nov. 30, 1964, with tens of thousands of messages of good will from people all over the world (with the sour exception of Russian which accused him of starting the cold war). Queen Elizabeth and President Johnson were among the 54 heads of state who paid him tribute.

Sir Winston presided at a family dinner at his town house in Hyde Park gate and tottered to the window to show himself to crowds which packed the narrow streets hour after hour and shouted "happy birthday" and sang "for he's a jolly good fellow."

Sir Winston was described by his physician, Lord Moran, who was among his birthday visitors, as in good health and spirits for his age.

A friend who asked Sir Winston how he felt on reaching 90 reported that the great statesman said: "All I can say for it is that it is a great age."

He found life as an old man boring—especially for one who had always been at the heart of action. He could not hear without a hearing aid or walk without a stick and the help of a nurse. He had more bad days than good ones, though from time to time the old wit would crackle and his opinions on world affairs would command the rapt attention of his friends.

He spent his time reading or chatting with friends who paid him calls in a steady stream to lighten the tedium of the days.

A man who had occasion to visit him at this time said:

"I am sure this is not the way Sir Winston hoped it would end. He would much rather have gone out with the trumpets blaring."

By any measure, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill was a force in the world through some of the most magnificent, most trying and most challenging decades man has ever known.

As the wartime leader of an embattled Britain we won an imperishable place for himself in the annals of history—the man who offered his fellow countrymen only blood, toil, sweat and tears and who guided them to ultimate victory.

As a statesman he failed in his greatest ambition—to end the cold war which followed World War II and to bring about a lasting peace between communism and the free West.

But his breadth of vision, his towering, though often erratic, genius and his unswerving pursuit of close friendship between the two great, English-speaking nations marked him as one of the greatest statesmen of the century and perhaps of all time.

He was also a master of the English language.

Many of his words have become part of the permanent heritage—"Iron curtain," "this was their finest hour" and "never was so much owed to so many by so few."

He authored more than a score of books—some of them massive works like his four-volume "History of the English speaking peoples." His speeches placed him in the ranks of the greatest orators of history.

Crampton Becomes First Foreigner to Win Bing Crosby Golf Tournament

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 25 (AP)—Australian Bruce Crampton conquered the rugged Pebble Beach course with a three-under-par 69 Sunday and won the $84,500 Bing Crosby golf tournament by three strokes with a 72-hole score of 284. The 29-year-old former Aussie open champion carded six birdies, including one with a 55-foot putt, to become the first foreigner to win the Crosby in its 24-year history.

Two Former Champs Tell Bout Picks

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—"Chivalvo, by a knockout," says Joe Louis.

"Patterson, all the way," says Jimmy Braddock.

"Patterson, 8 1/2 to 5," say the odds makers.

The two former world heavyweight champions made their picks after a week-end visit to the snowbound training camps of Floyd Patterson and George Chivalvo, while the odds favoring Patterson in next Monday's fight took a slight dip.

Patterson, former two-time champion attempting still another comeback against Chivalvo, had been a 2 to 1 favorite last week. The Canadian Chivalvo is ranked No. 3 among the world's heavyweight challengers by the World Boxing Association. Patterson is No. 2.

Their bout in Madison Square Garden is regarded as the last stepping stone to a shot at the vacant WBA version of the title. The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds, but Louis said it won't last that long.

"Chivalvo punches too hard for Patterson," said the old Brown Bomber, who held the heavyweight title from 1937 until 1949. "I watched him work out for two days and I never saw him take a backward step. He'll wear Floyd down in seven or eight rounds and then knock him out.

"A lot of men have knocked Patterson down, but he got up to win. When this boy knocks him down, I think he'll stay down. Don't forget he knocked out Doug Jones and nobody ever did that before."

Braddock, who won the title in 1935 and lost it to Louis, disagreed.

"Patterson won the title twice, don't forget, and he must have something to be able to do that," Braddock said Sunday.

"I think he's got too much experience for Chivalvo. He's the fastest heavyweight I ever saw. His speed is in his hands, not his feet. I don't think his punch is enough to knock out George, so I look for the fight to go all the way with Patterson winning."

Crampton rallied from a pair of bogeys and dropped a birdie putt of 5 1/2 feet at the 15th hole and clinched the top money with his 55-footer on the next one.

His 69 was the lowest score posted for Pebble Beach during the tournament and put him three under par for the full distance.

Victory was worth $7,500. British open tilist Tony Lema, the defending champion, won the $4,000 second prize with an even par 73 and even par 287 over-all.

Sunny skies and only light breezes were in marked contrast with Saturday's storms. Nevertheless, Arnold Palmer could do no better than an 80 and finished far down the list at 302.

Jack Nicklaus, who gave Crampton a lesson last Wednesday, shot a 71 for a 288 total for a third place tie with Bill Casper, who carded a 72.

Next in line with 289 were Al Mengert, who had a final 70, and Harold Kneese, 75.

Rocky Thompson, the Wichita Falls, Tex., rookie who led through the third round, slipped to a 78 and 290.

Two teams tied for the top spot in the pro-amateur division with best-ball scores of 260. Shaver, the title-winning amateur partner Morgan Barofsky, a salesman from Walnut Creek, Calif., and George Archer with San Francisco sportswriter Nelson Cullenward.

The Bayer-Barofsky team carded a 67 Sunday, the others 68. Crampton disclosed that Nicklaus gave him a lesson on the practice tee Wednesday.

"I had been playing poorly for the past 18 months and I was practicing when Jack came over and offered to help me," Crampton said.

"I wish you would tell all the people what a wonderful thing it was for him to spend so much time with a nobody like me," Lema was asked what he thought of the Nicklaus gesture to Bruce.

"Serves him right," said the joking Tony.

Crampton opened with birdie putts of about six feet each on the first and second holes and another of 10 at the fourth. He collected his fourth birdie at the sixth with a three-footer.

On the 13th and 14th, he missed short putts and took bogeys but promptly rallied to pull away.

Because the course was wet and trampled due to Saturday's storm, the PGA called for wind-up. Don't forget he knocked out Doug Jones and nobody ever did that before."

Braddock, who won the title in 1935 and lost it to Louis, disagreed.

"Patterson won the title twice, don't forget, and he must have something to be able to do that," Braddock said Sunday.

"I think he's got too much experience for Chivalvo. He's the fastest heavyweight I ever saw. His speed is in his hands, not his feet. I don't think his punch is enough to knock out George, so I look for the fight to go all the way with Patterson winning."

Royals Drop Warriors 16th Straight

CINCINNATI, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals sent San Francisco reeling to its 16th straight defeat in the National Basketball Association with a 124-103 victory over the Warriors Sunday afternoon.

The Warriors' string of defeats erased the previous record of 15 posted by the old Denver team in 1949. Many of San Francisco's losses came when they had 7 foot, 1 inch Wilt Chamberlain in the pivot.

San Francisco had the high point man in Nate Thurmond who scored 31, and McCoy McLemore tied his pro-high at 17. The Royals had four men over 20 points.

The Royals took a 61-56 half-time lead and broke the game open in the third quarter by outscoring the Warriors 33-15. McLemore injured his right ankle late in the third period and had to leave the game.

The Royals forced ahead 109-81 in the fourth period, their biggest margin, and Coach Jack McIlhenny gave his regulars a rest, using rookies and second stringers the last six minutes.

All the Royals figured in the scoring. Oscar Robertson and Jack Twyman had 24 each, Jerry Lucas 23 and Adrain Smith 22.

The Royals shot 51 per cent from the floor.

American Bobsled Failure Is Blamed on Finances, Ocean

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 25 (AP)—Failure of the Americans in the world two-man bobsled championships were summed up today by U. S. team chiefs in five words—finance and the Atlantic ocean. Britain's Olympic gold medal winners Anthony Nash and Robin Dixon won the title Sunday, completing the four runs over two days in a combined time of 5:11.30. Italy's Rinaldo Ruatti and Enrico de Lorenzo were second in 5:14.57 and Canada's Victor Emery and Mike Young third in 5:14.99.

The best of the two American bobs could do was ninth by Charles McDonald of Malone, N. Y., and Charles Pandolph of Saranac Lake, N. Y. Their time was 5:20.61.

The U. S. No. 1 crew of Larry McKillip of Saranac Lake and Charles Hoffer of Tupper Lake, N. Y., withdrew because of an injury suffered by McKillip in a pilot run Saturday.

Bobsledding has no official support in the United States. Despite some public fund raising all members of the American team had to pay their own way to take part in the St. Moritz events.

Nearly all the bob courses are located in Europe and the cost of training for several months a year by U. S. bobsers on equal terms with Europeans is prohibitive.

The only U. S. bob course is at Lake Placid, N. Y. But this is of little benefit to the American bobsers.

Coach Jim Bickford of Saranac Lake explained: "The Lake Placid course is much different from European tracks like the one in St. Moritz. "Ours is faster, and we think more skill is needed because the straights are much wider and the crews have to guide the sleds right down the middle."

"But in Europe bobsers can bounce off the walls of the narrow track and still get down safely. Without European track facilities we are up against a big handicap when we come over here."

Next Friday the International Bob and Tobogganing federation decides on the venue for next year's world championship Lake Placid and Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, are the only contenders.

Stan Benham of Lake Placid, N. Y., former American bob ace and current U. S. representative on the board of the I.B.T., hopes to offset the European voting majority with a tempting offer that is believed to contain strong financial inducement for European bobsers to go to New York next year.

"The selection of Lake Placid would be just the shot in the arm bobbing needs in the States," said team manager Carl Hardy of Albany, N. Y.

"If we could just get the championships once every five years it would make all the difference. At present our bobsers are having to travel to Europe almost every year."

Official training starts today for the four-man world championship event next Saturday and Sunday.

The all-air force U. S. team consists of John Hickey of Lake Placid, Al Hanson of Plattsburgh air base, Ralph Wiles of Saranac Lake and Mike Hollock of Plattsburgh air base.

The other U. S. team consists of four civilians from Lake Placid—Fred Fortune, Tommy Vassar, Joe Wilson and James Lord.

Last-Place Bruins Down Canadiens

BOSTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Last-place Boston defeated Montreal National Hockey league leader 3-0 Sunday night for the first time this season, featuring a shutout by Ed Johnston and Al McDonald's 100th goal.

The triumph ended a five-game losing streak for the home forces and stopped the Canadiens' winning streak at four. It also marked the first time in six games that alternate goalie Gump Worsley had lost in the Montreal nets.

Tommy Williams collected the first of two opening period goals and assisted McDonald, who has been in the Bruins doghouse. Unable to find himself this season and ridden by the fans, McDonald got his fifth score of the season and coveted 100th of his eight-year career in the majors.

Worsley had stopped an Orlando Kurtenbach shot which McDonald stuffed right under the seat of the prone goalie's pants.

Forbes Kennedy collected the most sensational goal of the night at 13:10 of the first period while his team was short-handed. He stole the puck from Dick Duff, bore down on Worsley and faked him out completely and scored.

It was Kennedy's third penalty-killing goal of the five he has registered.
