SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY

High pressure at the surface off the California coast extended eastward into the Intermountain region this morning with partly cloudy to cloudy skies the rule over the valleys of southern Idaho. Precipitation has ended, but winds are moderate to strong in drifting valleys with some local areas, such as Fairfield, reporting drifting snow. Precipitation amounts from the storm yesterday were heaviest in the Boise valley and the northern portion of the southeastern valleys. Bureaus reported the greatest amount with .18 of an inch at Jerome and .11 of an inch at Fairfield. Another area of precipitation is pushing into Washington and Oregon as the warmer moist air moving onto the coast aloft pushes over the colder air still in the Pacific Northwest and the Intermountain region. Precipitation systems will be delayed and held out of the valleys of southern Idaho for the next two or three days, but the overrunning warmer air now causing some precipitation in Washington and Oregon is likely to bring some light snow to these valleys this afternoon and tonight. Precipitation in the form of rain is possible in lower valleys during the afternoon, but most amounts are expected to be quite light. Little change in daytime temperatures is expected for the next few days, with readings continuing in the 20s in the northern portion of the upper Snake valleys to the 30s elsewhere today and Wednesday. Nighttime temperatures will be a little colder in most valleys, with readings ranging in the sub-teens in Camas prairie to the teens and low 20s elsewhere.

Viet Nam

communist-menaced nation. Osmanski escaped injury, but several persons working in the reception room suffered minor cuts. The general ordered the command evacuated for an inspection of the entire installation by bomb squad experts. A crew of Vietnamese electricians had been running wires through the ceiling. Two of them were arrested immediately on suspicion that they might have planted the grenades for the Viet Cong. Advances from Nha Trang said tonight's escape was almost duplicated by another schoolgirl. The second girl also doused herself with gasoline, but was seized and prevented from striking a match. Witnesses reported from Nha Trang that about 4,000 persons has assembled before the waterfront home of the local provincial chief. The girl, a student named Hoang Thi Yen Phui, moved apart from the crowd and, unnoticed by the other demonstrators, poured gasoline over herself. Then she set herself afire and was dead before anyone could extinguish the flames. Buddhist monks reportedly picked up the body and carried it to the head of a huge procession to the local Buddhist pagoda. In 1963, six Buddhist monks and one nun burned themselves to death in protest against the Diem government. There have been no burnings of monks or nuns since, but about 10 Vietnamese have committed suicide by burning since then for non-political reasons.

Spending on Foreign Affairs to Take Dip Next Year Under Proposed Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—U. S. spending on foreign affairs to promote "world peace" will dip slightly next year under President Johnson's new budget.

Johnson estimated the outlay for nonmilitary international affairs and finance during the fiscal year starting next July 1 at just under four billion dollars, a 39 million dollar cut from this year's rate. This includes increases for the state department and the peace corps.

Foreign aid spending of various types, including the bulk of the international finance figure plus 1.1 billion dollars in arms assistance was listed at five billion dollars in the coming year—a 300 million dollar drop. Military aid was down 100 million dollars from this year and economic aid at 3.9 billion dollars, was down 200 million dollars.

The budget allocated about 250 million dollars for international organizations including the United Nations and related agencies. A 30-million dollar boost in the budget for the United Nations was tentative pending the outcome of the fight over U. N. financing.

If the Soviet Union refuses to pay its U. N. dues, administration sources freely predict congress will use its purse-string power to clamp down on the heavy U. S. contribution.

Johnson endorsed continued U. S. "participation in and support for the United Nations" in the brief portion of his budget message dealing with foreign affairs.

Johnson asked for 5.1 billion dollars in new spending authority for international finances in 1966, a drop of 16 billion dollars from this year but 700 million dollars more than in 1964. This figure tends to fluctuate more than spending because outlays from authorizations spread over the years.

The proposed 5.1 billion dollars in added authorization for International Development by a bill passed by the House in 1964, of which 25 million dollars would be spent that year and a 104-million dollar authorization for International Development association easy-term loans abroad, from which 10 million dollars would be spent in 1966.

The agency for International Development would spend 2.1 billion dollars for economic assistance abroad next year, a rise of 50 million dollars.

The food for peace program of aid through sending surplus farm goods abroad is staying at the same level as in recent years, 1.7 billion dollars.

The peace corps was slated to increase the number of its volunteer workers overseas from 14,980 this year to 17,000 in 48 countries by the end of 1966. Proposing a spending rise of 25 million dollars to 105 million dollars next year, Johnson praised the program as an outstanding success and a 14 per cent rise in foreign visitors visas to 1,365,000 for 1965.

Some large figures in the new budget did not show in the spending columns because they are not expected to result in cash outflow.

Among them were Johnson's proposals to raise from 2.5 billion dollars to five billion dollars authority to guarantee private U. S. investments in developing countries against loss from confiscation or war. Since the investors pay premiums, this program so far has made money.

More diplomatic posts will be opened in 1966 including consulates in Russia under the pending U. S.-Soviet consular agreement, he said. He predicted a 10 per cent climb in U. S. passport applications, to 1,200,000 in 1966, and a 14 per cent rise in foreign visitors visas to 1,365,000 for 1965.

Dirty Pool

The suggestion of Sen. Jack Wood, D., Bonneville, to close the state tuberculosis hospital at Gooding comes under the general heading of dirty pool. It's just as irresponsible as the statement that prompted the suggestion, namely, the declaration by Sen. Don G. Fredericksen, D., Gooding, that he would lead an initiative drive against the sales tax if and when it becomes law. There's nothing particularly new about this sort of political practice. It's been used with varying degrees of success all the way from the local to federal level.

But just because it's a common means of bringing pressure against another politician is no reason the tactics should be condoned. Particularly, there should be no involvement in politics for a state institution that's concerned with the health of a segment of the state's population. This is not a matter for playing politics.

There have been proposals in the past to close the state tuberculosis hospital or even move it to a new location where it could be operated more economically. Some of the suggestions have been rooted in politics and others have been based entirely on cost factors. Any decision to curtail, move or close any state institution must be divorced from political considerations.

The first step in determining the future of any state institution is to determine the need and that should be done by a disinterested firm or outside expert. Inasmuch as Senator Wood is neither an outside expert nor a disinterested person, his suggestion disqualifies itself immediately.

Even if everyone disregards the proposal for the tuberculosis hospital, Senator Fredericksen should get the message loud and clear. Everyone would benefit if he were to attempt to achieve a degree of responsibility in his own statements.

IT'S NOT INDICATED

The Idaho State Automobile association is justified in objecting to a plan to require color photographs on drivers' licenses. K. E. Miller, manager of the Idaho association, declares, "Such a photo on the operator's license has absolutely nothing to do with the motorist's ability to drive." He's right and furthermore, there's reason to doubt whether the addition of a photo would help officers in identifying a driver. By necessity, the photos would have to be small and everyone is aware a photograph doesn't always resemble a person.

There's enough reason to doubt that driver identification was the factor that prompted the bill in the first place. It would be far handier as a means of identification for cashing checks or purchasing liquor, to list a couple of reasons for quick identification. The only other benefit that appears obvious would accrue to those firms that manufacture the equipment that would be necessary to snap photographs in color of all license applicants. It would be a nice order.

If Idaho legislators are interested in improving or attaching a little more importance to the state's driver's licenses, they might take a good look at the means through which a license is obtained. The test is a farce. And in event an applicant should happen to fail the test, he gets as many more chances as he needs. No attention is given to anything like physical or mental requirements. Quite clearly, there are more pressing matters to be considered in licensing drivers than to be bothering with photographs.

NOT READY YET

When the Idaho senate voted 23 to 18 against a bill that would have eliminated the death penalty in Idaho, it was just another phase of an effort that will continue until capital punishment is eliminated in Idaho. The vote indicated the state isn't quite ready to take the final step. The 1965 edition of the World Almanac lists 41 other states that, like Idaho, still maintain the death penalty.

The question has been argued for years and the debate will continue. However, humanitarians have made great gains in their efforts to have society abandon capital punishment. Some civilized, progressive countries already have achieved that goal and it appears just a matter of time before more and more of the states will join the drive.

It's a far cry from the "eye for an eye" type of justice, but what Christian can argue that taking a human life will benefit society? Perhaps the next time around more Idahoans will have reached that point in their thinking where they will be willing and ready to urge their lawmakers to ban capital punishment.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
NUI BA DEN CAMP, BLACK VIRGIN MOUNTAIN, VIETNAM, Jan. 26—Outside a but built entirely of sandbags, a Vietnamese mother nurses her child. A turkey gobbler from his perch on a radio antenna. Viet Cong guerrillas lurk as close as 100 yards down the slope of tangled green underbrush.

This is Nui Ba Den Camp, an American-Vietnamese Special Forces outpost perched atop this mountain and surrounded by the enemy.

Black Virgin mountain is 3,500 unfriendly Cambodian border whence supplies pour in for the Viet Cong. Its three acres of huge boulders and stunted shrubbery are a day-by-day way of life for the Americans in their green SF berets and their tiny comrades in arms.

BUILDING NEW PAGODA—Vietnamese troops, some of them with families, live in the sandbag huts. The Americans live in a battered pagoda; they are building the Vietnamese a new pagoda out of lumber air-lifted to the summit by helicopters. At any moment, a strong enough Viet Cong attack presumably could overrun this little island.

Yet American soldiers like Medis Andrew Cianos of Baltimore pursue their job serenely while making themselves as comfortable as possible. That job is to observe the flat countryside around them and to harass the Viet Cong with hit-and-run attacks. Although death lurks next door, their biggest enemy is boredom, and so they contrive what few amenities they can.

"GIVES THE JOINT COLOR"—In the combined kitchen-dining room of the pagoda, there is a small Christmas tree decorated with home-made ornaments. "It gives the joint some color," explains Sgt. LeRoy Carlson of Minneapolis. "So we left it up." An expensive table radio produces jazz from an Australian station.

Homemade wooden bunks almost fill the second room, and in the third are ammunition and medical supplies—four shelves full. Electric lights are provided by two generators, and outside the pagoda serials sprout. "Like it was the Bronx," says Sgt. Jack Reed, Houston, puts it. A small Buddhist altar contains in its alcove a vase of withered flowers, a decorative plant in a pot, two candles and a four-inch statue of Buddha.

GARRISON ROTATED—Naturally, the garrison is rotated periodically lest claustrophobia set in. Yet there is a gay kind of esprit de corps among these professional fighting men with their young, polite faces. They adorn the boudoirs with the names on the current roster in colored paint. They talk about girls and glasses of foaming beer. Their commanding officer, Sgt. W. C. Smith, Fayetteville, N.C., notes with a grin that "I don't have to worry about the boys wandering away." But they are constantly reminded of where they are—by the littered debris of where they flip on the 30-foot pole, and by the grimed roster on the bulletin board which carries orders like "Allow no fights or fires on any position."

Views of Others

USEFULNESS OF WEALTH
Giving away money is itself an art, and in all the world of the intellect no one bears a heavier responsibility than the patron. The benefices of the Ford foundation have now reached the astonishing sum of 2.3 billion dollars, and endlessly diverse investment in scholarship and sculpture, public health and civil rights, and above all on education. The use of this vast philanthropy is to throw attention to those subjects which are transcendently important. The foundation's work in the slums of half a dozen American cities was the precedent for some of the most promising aspects of the federal poverty program. We must hope that, in the same fashion, the foundation's population research will provide a precedent for action among the men who command the great resources of governments, both here and abroad. Mr. Heald, the president of the foundation, opens his new annual report with solemn words.

Since 1954, when the Ford foundation made its first important grant in the field of population, the family of man has increased by 600 million people, the equivalent of the combined populations of the United States, all of South America, and the Soviet Union.

It has been less than 200 years since man tamed nature sufficiently to break the stalemate that had imposed on him an average life span of between 25 and 35 years. It is now necessary to apply the same degree of deliberate human effort to assuring that this victory does not rob mankind of the good life.

The foundation's population program is not very large by Ford standards. But it has been substantially increased within the last year, an accurate gauge of the world's rising concern over the destructive arithmetic of human increase. Washington Post.

WHERE MONEY GOES
Comparative figures on educational expenditures by the states must be confusing to many Oregonians. Annual statistics regularly show Oregon relatively high in expenditures per pupil but relatively low in teacher salaries. How come? Where does the money go?

The latest National Education Association compilation, released this week, give at least a partial answer. Oregon's average expenditure per pupil this year is $369; virtually the same as California's $370, but Oregon teacher salaries average only $6,810 as compared to California's $8,100. A bit of arithmetic, however, reveals that California's public schools employ 100,000 more pupils than Oregon's 100,000.

Oregon hires relatively more teachers, in effect, putting its money into an effort to keep class sizes down. California teachers earn their higher salaries, in part, by larger class loads.

This difference in practice and policy as between the two states is well known among educators. The figures only confirm it on a statewide scale. Some Oregon teachers, lured to California by higher salaries, have returned to Oregon to enjoy the benefits of lower class loads. The Oregonian.

PERHAPS A CAYENNE FILTER?
An associate of ours was interested in this week's announcement in San Francisco of the introduction of a cigarette made from dried lettuce leaves.

He recalled that in his younger days he lived in a boarding house in the Bay City operated by a lady from Honduras. Mrs. Prado when he complained of insomnia, Mrs. Prado had him drink a thick lettuce leaf tea. It worked fine, he said. Something in the lettuce leaves put him right to sleep.

If the same effect can be gained from smoking the leaves, the advertising for those tobacco cigarettes might be indistinguishable from the ads for decaffeinated coffee: "Smoke Peter Rabbits and sleep."

Reports of smokers' reactions to the taste of the lettuce cigarettes were mixed. Some called them aromatic and cool, others acid and sharp. A Utah and Oregon dressing would help. Oregon Journal.

DO YOU TAKE AN INTEREST?
Government business nowadays is everybody's business. The citizen who fails to take an active and intelligent interest in governmental affairs is asking that his wherewithal be dissipated, and far more important, he is asking for the loss of more and more of his beleaguered liberties. EASY WAY
Sir: When I was a youngster in a part of the country where snow fell thick and heavy all winter, every kid had skis. And everyone used skis. As I recall it, anyone who got out of the plowed trails had to have skills to get around.

But there weren't any of the fancy ski clothes and equipment that the rakish beginner sports these days. And there were no ski resorts. No one ever heard of being taken up a hill by some fancy gadget just so you could slide down. If you wanted hill skiing, you struggled to the top, probably carrying your skis, then scooted to the bottom.

They sure use the easy way of skiing these days, but I'll bet they don't appreciate the sport nearly so much as we did.

NOT THAT EASY

Dear Pot Shots: I'm getting fed up with the varied advertisements one sees on television. There's one in particular that grates me no end.

It's all about some goop you are supposed to spray in the oven of your range to make it easy to clean. It works fine in the commercial, but you should see me working my fingers to the bone when I use it! Big deal!

That stuff might work just fine on some oven dirtied up just special for purposes of filming a commercial, but let them try just wiping the inside of an oven after it's been used in an average home for two or three weeks.

Frankly, it just isn't that easy to clean.

KITTENS FOR KIDS DEPT.

Dear Shots: We have a little bobtailed kitten that came to us on New Year's day, almost dead of hunger and shock. We took her in and fed her. There seemed to be no bottom for the first 24 hours. The little motor never stopped running. She grew fat and healthy. Everyone was gratified to see her improvement except one member of the family whose jealousy knows no bounds. It would be a shame to see little Confetti killed by our own cat after we so tenderly nursed her. Would somebody like to take over from here? She's fat and sassy now, so be prepared.

Interpreting the News

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The razzle-dazzle is over, President Johnson is on his own, and now comes the grinding four years of his presidency. All the inaugural balls, parties and parades were like a Mardi Gras on the day before Lent begins.

For more than a year there has been an abnormal condition in the country. And in government, starting with James Marlow's presidential assassination in 1963.

First, the shock and sorrow, which haven't worn off yet, as the steady stream of visitors to his grave in Arlington cemetery shows.

Second, the prolonged scrutiny of Johnson, suddenly thrust into the presidency, and the inevitable comparisons between him and Kennedy.

For Johnson it was a double ordeal for more than half of 1964.

First, the need to get action on the Johnson-Kennedy programs, because there was so much unfinished business.

Second, and this was his problem, to get sufficient public acceptance for him to run for election and a term of his own.

Having achieved this, he had to spend months away from the White House in the strange campaign against Sen. Barry Goldwater.

As soon as he won the election Johnson had to spend the weeks before his inaugural getting his programs and budget ready for his first year on his own.

That he wants this to be a new chapter in his own and American life seemed clear from his inaugural address.

It was pitched on conditions as they are and on the future. There was no mention of Kennedy.

Now the way is clear. Some of his programs already have been sent to congress, others are going up soon.

From now on there can be no excuses like "give the man time" or "after all, he still has to operate in the shadow of Kennedy."

He has revealed enough of himself since he took over so suddenly in 1963 to make some predictions about him seem safe. He will try to pacify both labor and business, no small task. He will work hard for Negroes' civil rights without needlessly irritating the South.

He will push hard for social legislation—like federal aid to education and medical care for the aged through social security. He will try to keep down government spending, which is a good way to impress practically everybody and hush congressional critics of spending.

The less criticism he gets from the house and senate, the easier it will be to work with the men in the capitol to get what he wants.

He will avoid spectacular gestures in dealing with congress—like demanding no less than everything he asks—and often settle for something figuring that's better than nothing and opens the door to more later.

Poor Man's Plato

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Over 800,000 American kids achieved the dream of their lifetime in 1964 — they became teen-agers at last. We now have more than 32 million of them.

Word has just reached us that in Florida it's a jail offense for unmarried girls to parachute on Sundays.

Some 40,000 companies now employ the detector test, particularly in hiring new employees. "Put away that machine, boss. I confess I was 10 minutes late to work the morning Henry VIII, better known for collecting wives, also collected fiddle flutes. A fiddle flute is exactly like a phippie-phippie. They are even pronounced the same.

Quotable notables: "It is a rather pleasant experience to be alone in a bank at night" — Willie Sutton, who now spends his nights in prison and his days, too.

One in five U. S. families at the start of 1965 owed $600 in installment debts and $110,000 mortgages, a 10 per cent over the year before.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union people long ago that if you dunked worm named Oscar into a vase of pure alcohol it would die. The U.S. Public Health Service reports that even more worms die: Heavy human drinking increases the risk of getting cancer.

The first U.S. congress met in New York City. It completed work in two sessions — and the members went back home.

Here's why actors hate to perform in winter: For every 100 people in a theater there are two and one-half coughs a minute. Humane U.S. America is offering $100,000 towards inventors who create new wild animal traps that will catch or kill them without the suffering caused by present traps.

One way to gain fame would be to get hit by a "falling star." It has never happened — at least as far as science can tell. But millions of these fiery, teoric fragments streak through our atmosphere daily, and add 10 million tons to the Earth's weight annually.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADE, M.D.
Q. I have a diaphragmatic hernia which operated on me two years ago. Is it dangerous to drink the operation? What is meant by strangulation?

A. A hernia is protrusion of part of the digestive tract, beyond its normal confines, through a weakness or rupture of the enclosing wall. When a part of the stomach protrudes up to the diaphragm through a weakness in the diaphragm or hiatus hernia. Usually when the victim is standing or sitting, the stomach slides into place.

If for some reason it cannot slide back even in the upright position, you have an incarcerated hernia.

If the rupture or weak place in the diaphragm becomes so constricted as to cut off the blood supply of the incarcerated portion of the stomach, you have a strangulation. This is a serious complication.

Many persons with a hiatus hernia have no symptoms from it and the condition is discovered by accident.

If, however, the hernia causes you to have heartburn, belching, pain in the upper abdomen or persistent hiccoughs, operation is the treatment of choice.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Roosevelt with Lincoln as President of the presidency are defined in the Constitution in one page — the official big-type edition of 1963. Out of that truly tiny space has grown the enormous structure that President Johnson now in his own right begins to govern.

On how a president uses the powers of the great federal structure so much depends. Marquis Childs in the nuclear age is hardly an exaggeration to say that on this use of the knowledge and expertise that turns the life or death of whole nations.

"Long since it has been clear that this President's approach is intensely personal. He has moralize about institutions. But when it comes to getting things done, . . . trying, probing, falling, resting and trying again," institutions play little part in his thinking. As a personal President, he reaches beyond personal presidents in the past.

Looking at the brand this Texan means to put on the years ahead two vitally important questions are yet to be answered. What will be the restraints—self-restraints or otherwise—on his personal use of power? And will he in his intensely personal and demanding temperament be able to draw around him and make essential use of independent expertise?

For however great the political objectives of the man in the chief executive's chair — and no one doubts that Johnson's capacities are of the first order — he cannot govern without a body of trusted experts with relative independence of judgment. That is plain in the debate of the political scientists over the powers of the presidency.

President Johnson's power has been at times dangerously personalized. Prof. Edward S. Corwin of Princeton wrote in a recent study — "The President, Office and Powers" — "and this in two senses: First, that the leadership that it affords was dependent altogether on the accident of personality, against which our haphazard method of selecting presidents offers no guarantee; and, secondly, that there is no governmental body that could be relied on to give the President independent advice and that he was nevertheless bound to consult."

Committees Further Goals Of DAR Units

The National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, function through 24 national and state committees to further its three-fold objectives of historic preservation, promotion of education and patriotic endeavor.

Under the second objective is the committee on American Indians. Mrs. C. J. Sliger explained as she spoke to the members of the Twin Falls chapter at their January meeting.

"The Idaho Daughters of the American Revolution contribute annually to St. Mary's school for Indian girls and to Bacone Indian college, Oklahoma. They voluntarily assist a national scholarship appointee within our state. Belma Truchot, a Bannock-Shoshone Indian girl from the Fort Hall reservation, is preparing herself for an active nursing career among her people on such a scholarship," she said.

Mrs. Sliger then went into the history of the "hunting" Indians of the northwest who were forced onto reservations and had to accept a new, restricted life. "To accept a new, restricted life, they had to live for centuries in the mountains and on the deserts of Idaho," she said.

The luncheon tables were decorated with hand-carved dolls from the Nez Perce tribes.

Mrs. Mahlon J. Neumann, regent, introduced Mrs. Geneva Billington who reported on the constitution is your business," by Mrs. Julian C. Smith, state national defense chairman, Virginia.

MR. AND MRS. DAN TERRY

Burley Miss, Terry Wed in December Rites

BURLEY, Jan. 26 — Marsha Friederich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Friederich, Burley, and Dan Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Terry, Pocatello, were united in marriage Dec. 29 at the First Christian church.

Tall lighted candelabra provided the background setting for the double ring evening ceremony performed by the Rev. Warren H. Sechler.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of banded satin. The fitted bodice was accented with lily pointed lace, between neckline and featured a bustle back. Applique seed pearls adorned the skirt panel and the neckline.

Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a satin band. She carried a cascade arrangement of pink roses, white carnations and ivy adorned with white satin streamers.

The bride's attendants were Carol Palmer, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Susan Friederich, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid. They wore identical pink brocade floor-length gowns and carried an arrangement of white carnations.

Allan Smith, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Stan Zwargart, Pocatello, was an usher.

Darlene Wall played the traditional wedding music.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue wool sheath ensemble. The bridegroom's mother selected a silver sheath dress. Each wore a corsage of pink roses.

The newlyweds greeted guests at a reception held in the church parlor following the ceremony.

The bride's father was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an elaborately decorated wedding cake featuring pink roses. The wedding cake was flanked by pink tapers.

Mrs. Magda Haxby served refreshments. Norma Sowers displayed the gifts around an arrangement of pink carnations.

Guests were registered by Carolyn Smith.

The bride chose a gold-colored knit suit for her traveling ensemble.

The bride is a graduate of Burley high school, attended one year at the University of Idaho and is a sophomore at Idaho State university.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Pocatello high school, attended two years at Idaho State university and is employed by the highway department.

The newlyweds will reside in Pocatello.

Linda Colyer Is Bride of Thomas Sanders

HANSEN, Jan. 26 — Linda Colyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Colyer, Star Valley, Nev., became the bride of Thomas (Bud) Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanders, Hansen, Oct. 10 in a mid-afternoon ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Goodale, Elkton, cousin of the bridegroom.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Theodore Lundberg of the Methodist church. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline. Her shoulder-length bustle veil was accented by a train and hunched with tear drop pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a white and gold necklace a gift from the bridegroom.

Her bridesmaid was dressed in a red brocade and white taffeta dress. Best man was Henry Sunders, brother of the bridegroom.

Kaye Goodale was soloist.

The bride's mother chose a blue brocade dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow and white two-piece linen suit with white accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held at Star Valley Community hall. The bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Bailey, Rogerson, and Heta, Sandova, Coon, Nev., aunt of the bridegroom, were special out-of-town guests.

A reception was held recently in the Hansen Village hotel for relatives and friends in this area.

A three-tiered white cake decorated with pink roses and topped with white marshmallows for good luck centered the reception table.

Mrs. David Wilbourn, cousin of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Margaret Bybee, sister of the bridegroom, served coffee, and Ruth Ann Sanders, sister of the bridegroom, served punch.

Paula Bacon, cousin of the bridegroom, registered the guests. Diana Brookshier accepted the gifts and arranged them.

The couple will reside in the Three Creek area where the bridegroom is employed on a ranch.

Complexion Steaming

To clean and freshen the complexion, ease away crows feet and unwanted expression lines and put more life into your skin, try complexion steaming. With a towel over your head, steam over a basin of hot water in which a teaspoon of lemon juice can be added if available. Beforehand anoint the skin with oil of eucalyptus so when the hot steam clears the pores the oil penetrates. After steaming, tone with a lemon freshener and smooth the skin to youthful beauty with a film of oil.

Stockholders Hold Annual Get-Together

Nearly 1,000 stockholders and guests attended the 21st annual stockholders' meeting of Southern Idaho Production Credit Association in the Burley Elks hall Friday, and in Twin Falls high school Saturday.

Meetings were called to order by George L. Watts, president, association president, William W. Brown, Jr. Jerome, presided as master of ceremonies. In the election of directors, E. A. Campbell, Bellevue, was re-elected for a term of three years, and Manning Peterson, Gooding, was elected to fill the one year unexpired term of Elmer Nielson Roy J. Mink, Gooding, gave the report for the nominating committee.

Featured speaker was S. H. Kemp, manager of Montana Livestock Production Credit Association, Helena, Mont., who outlined the changing trends in agricultural credit. Kemp stated that a cattle operation of 200 stock cows and the range and equipment to run them cost about $100,000 to $150,000 in the early thirties but the same outfit today would cost $150,000. He also emphasized the need for good management and using the services of accountants and legal consultants in today's complex farming and ranching operations.

A. L. Hanks, Burley, association vice president, gave the report for the directors and executive committee. Financial reports were given by John R. Martin in Burley and Earl R. Stansell in Twin Falls.

Association officers re-elected for the coming year are: Watt, president; Hanks, Burley, vice president; Earl R. Stansell, Twin Falls, manager; John R. Martin, Twin Falls, assistant manager; Robert W. Stuart, Gooding, branch manager; Curtis L. Wilkins, Burley, branch manager; Bill E. Sandley, assistant treasurer; Thelma Wright, assistant secretary; Helen Ritchie, assistant treasurer, all in Twin Falls, and Bernice Booth, Burley, assistant secretary.

Southern Idaho PCA serves 2,137 farmer members in eight south-central Idaho counties and has capital and reserves of $3,165,136 supporting a loan volume during 1964 of over 27 1/2 million dollars.

Association officers re-elected for the coming year are: Watt, president; Hanks, Burley, vice president; Earl R. Stansell, Twin Falls, manager; John R. Martin, Twin Falls, assistant manager; Robert W. Stuart, Gooding, branch manager; Curtis L. Wilkins, Burley, branch manager; Bill E. Sandley, assistant treasurer; Thelma Wright, assistant secretary; Helen Ritchie, assistant treasurer, all in Twin Falls, and Bernice Booth, Burley, assistant secretary.

Highways throughout Idaho were snow-covered and icy today with a few exceptions. State police said roadways were dry in the KING Hill area of northwestern Idaho and were free of snow between Lewiston in the north and highways were snow-free from the Snake river corridor south of Boise. At Lookout pass, U. S. 19 and 20 pass on U. S. 12. There were icy spots at Moscow. State 15 was snow covered in the Cascade-McCall area and there were icy spots at Weiser and in the Boise area. U. S. 36 between Boise and Mountain Home were reported icy and very slick. In the southeast ice was reported on roadways in the Pocatello area and on U. S. 81 and 191 south into Utah. There was snow floor at Idaho Falls, on U. S. 26 east into Wyoming; U. S. 93 at Shoshone and Lost Trail pass; U. S. 191 north into Montana and U. S. 91 over Monida pass. Use of chains was advised on the latter two routes.

POCATELLO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Formation of a city-county airport district to expand the Pocatello airport to meet jet age requirements was under consideration today by Pocatello and Bannock county officials. County officials indicated they would be interested in the plan if legislation is approved clearing the way for it.

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—"Every traffic law violator is a potential killer," said state police Superintendent A. E. Perkins yesterday in an appeal to stem the state's increasing traffic slaughter. "No motorist can be too careful," he said. "It is the motorist's duty to take proper care of his vehicle. Every driver should be filled with records of accidents in which lives were lost because someone violated a traffic law."

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—Appointment of Fred Gooding, Wilder, to the state Hop Growers association was announced yesterday by Gov. Robert E. Smylie. He succeeds Ray Obendorf, Parma, whose term has expired.

POCATELLO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Farmers could take lessons from business and industry in making themselves heard in Washington, according to an official of the U. S. agricultural stabilization and conservation service. The advice came from Charles L. Frazier, assistant deputy administrator of the service's state and county operations, who spoke at a service conference here yesterday. More than 300 farmers and employees are attending the conference, to continue in the Hotel Bannock through Wednesday.

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—Creation of a private contractors board was proposed today in the Idaho senate. Introduced was a bill creating the board and requiring that all private contractors be licensed. The construction industry is vital to the economy of the state. It is the public interest to prescribe reasonable qualifications for persons engaging in this industry, to provide for the licensing of such persons and the cancellation or revocation of such license for cause and to impose reasonable safeguards in the public interest.

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—Additional taxes for school support was favored by more than half the 3,000 persons contacted in a telephone survey, an Idaho Education association official announced yesterday. Elmer E. Crowley, the association's executive secretary, said 1,787 persons favored either a moderate or substantial increase in taxes. He said 1,222 believed the money should be raised by a sales tax, 338 preferred an income tax increase and 237 a property tax increase. The remaining 1,213 did not favor an increase for schools. The survey was announced publicly yesterday after being reported Saturday at a meeting of the association's legislative action committee. Crowley said the committee reaffirmed its stand for continued increases in state aid to schools with better trained teachers. The increase has been eliminated by the joint house-senate education committee from a new formula expected to be introduced in the house this week.

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—The social security administration suggested today that self-employed persons who will reach retirement age this year file an extra copy of their federal income tax return. C. Ben Reay, district manager of the Boise social security office, said the extra copy should be marked "for social security purposes" and be filed along with the regular return with the internal revenue service. "The receipt of social security checks will be speeded up for those who follow this procedure," Reay said. "Other proofs needed in addition to the extra copy of the receipted self-employment tax return, are proofs of age, marriage, divorce, death."

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—A Nampa osteopath's trial on charges of mail fraud in the sale of a "magnatron" for curing cancer and other ills enters its second day today in U. S. district court. The osteopath, Dr. Peter Paul, allegedly advertised the "magnatron" could aid curing by inducing a small electrical charge through users' bodies. An electrical official testified yesterday that its output was equivalent to that of a flashlight battery. Other witnesses included purchasers of the device, one of them a federal agent who bought a "magnatron" and tape recorded the transaction. Advertising managers of newspapers in Nampa and Lewiston testified that advertisements for the device were placed in their newspapers.

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—Federal farm commodity programs may be replaced by new programs favoring small farmers, a grain exporter told delegates yesterday at the Idaho Feed and Grain association convention. William E. Pearce, vice president of Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis, predicted the commodity programs will not be renewed in 1966 and said they could be halted this year. Pearce said he believes the programs conflict with President Johnson's objectives of cutting government spending and reducing government dependency. "I don't think a change in commodity programs necessarily means government spending will be less in rural areas," Pearce said. "We probably will see a redirection of the expenditures from commodity programs to more effective treatment of the needs of small farmers." He said the President probably will seek extension of the programs for a year rather than make any "radical alterations" this year.

BOISE, Jan. 26 (AP)—A skier missing for nearly 30 hours in a heavy snowstorm in the Borner basin area was brought off a mountain early today. Crews pushed through high drifts to reach King Hill. The skier, Stuart Anderson, 17, Boise, was spotted from the air just before sundown yesterday. Rescue crews pushing uphill with snowmobiles reached him about 11 p.m. He was taken to St. Alphonsus hospital and appeared to be in good condition, rescuers said. Anderson had been the object of a search by more than 200 sheriff's officers, state patrolmen and volunteers since Sunday afternoon.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill took a calm view of death—as a man who had faced it personally many times—and his funeral arrangements owe part of their splendor to the fact he had no qualms about discussing his own passing. "The world," he said, "does not end with the life of any man."

Since the world was bound to go on even after his departure, he gave some thought in life to the kind of funeral he might expect. A few years ago the army council, reorganizing the forces, disbanded many famous regiments and amalgamated others. One thing worried them—what would Winston say when he learned his old regiment, the fourth Hussars, was going to be merged with the eighth Hussars?

Field Marshal Lord Montgomery was asked to undertake the hazardous mission of explaining to Sir Winston that "The Fighting Fourth" would be no more. To his surprise he found Churchill completely unconcerned about the fate of his regiment, but he was worried about the continuation of military bands and the royal horse artillery.

"Monty," said Sir Winston earnestly, "what sort of funeral should I have without bands and the royal horse artillery?" A remark like this is self-revealing. In the common man it might seem to lack humility but Churchill, though he understood the common man very well, was not one himself.

He was an aristocrat to his fingertips, born into an illustrious family at a time when the chasm that divided the classes was almost unbridgeable. The life that stretched before him was the life of stately homes, of great privilege, of easy relationships with the famous right up to the throne.

Power came naturally to those of his class who wanted it. The rest of the nation could only press its nose to the windows that sealed it off from the fairy-tale world of wealth and luxury denied it by birth. Sometimes, however, there was a chance for the public to play tiny parts in the distant drama, like an army of unidentifiable extras in a movie epic.

One such occasion was the marriage of Churchill to the poor but beautiful Clementine Hozier, kinfolk of the Easils of Arllie, in 1908. A vast throng jammed central London for the ceremonies and newspapers put out special editions. Churchill's birthplace was one of the grandest palaces in the world, Blenheim, the nation's gift to his warrior-ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough. The natal bedroom is now one of Britain's leading tourist magnets. In these democratic times the half-crown (35 cents) admission fee helps maintain the splendid house.

The tourists see a few members of Sir Winston's family, his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, and his mother, Jennie Jerome of New York. Until the very end Churchill worshipped the memory of his lovely mother.

"Sir Winston seemed to me to be a fairly prince," he said. A few months ago he took a visitor into the bedroom of his country home, Chartwell at Westerham, bought with the royalties from his book "The World Crisis," and stood for a moment before a photograph of his mother over his bed.

Service Is Held For Ex-Resident KING HILL, Jan. 26—Funeral services for Mrs. Phyllis Ely, 28, former Glenn Perry and King Hill resident, were conducted Jan. 22 at Hermiston, Ore. Mrs. Ely was killed in an auto accident near The Dalles, Ore. She was with three other persons who also were killed when their car with the driver was crushed through a barricade near the John Day bridge.

Mrs. Ely is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Osborne, former King Hill residents; two daughters and one son, one sister, all Hermiston; one brother, Ft. Hill, Okla., and grandfather, C. E. Bott, King Hill.

FILLS PULPIT SHOSHONE, Jan. 26—The Rev. John Sims, Twin Falls, will fill the pulpit at the local Methodist church until further notice. He is replacing the late Rev. Bert Powell.

Whatever his thoughts," said the visitor later, "his eyes were moist when he turned back to me. He must have loved her very much."

For the first 34 years of his life Churchill was heir to the Marlborough dukedom. As a child he was taken to Ireland where his grandfather, was vicereoy and his earliest recollections are of military pomp centered around the august figure.

His first remembered sentence, raked up once from his earliest memories, was prophetically of war; his grandfather saying "and with withering volley he shattered the enemy's line."

The next few years have since been pointedly held up to their parents by millions of British schoolchildren. Churchill was a poor scholar! Due to his improved as time went on and graduated high in his class.

Then began the incredible period in which he packed more adventure into his life in five years than any other man of his time—1905—he was an observer in the Spanish war in Cuba. Then to India and the Sudan, hand-to-hand fighting and shooting down tribesmen at point-blank range—plus writing accounts of the campaigns that are still military classics.

In 1899 the South African war found him at the age of 24 the highest paid war correspondent of his time—250 pounds—then $1,250—a month, plus expenses. He was captured by the Boers and almost executed, but managed to escape and returned to Britain a national hero.

An international hero, in fact, a Ledoure tour in Britain and the United States earned him 10,000 pounds (then $50,000) and this kept him for the next five years. Members of parliament (to which he was elected in 1900) in those days did not receive salaries.

Sometimes Lady Churchill, returning home, would stand in the entrance hall at Chartwell and bark: "Bow wow."

And from upstairs, the greatest Englishman of his time would bark: "Bow wow."

Cowboy Assets Increased $11,000 in 1964; Berg Is Reelected President

Assets for the Magic Valley baseball club jumped $11,000 to a heady $28,000 total during the 1964 season, president Carl Berg told stockholders at the Cowboy annual reorganization meeting. In other action, Berg, Maurice Roth and Warren Lowery were reelected to three-year terms and James Sinclair was picked for one year. In the board reorganization, Berg was retained as president while

Idaho Begins Plans For Track Season

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Jan. 26—While eyes on the national track scene are turned toward the big indoor meets, at Moscow, Idaho Track Coach Doug MacFarlane is making plans for the coming outdoor season. The sophomore coach has reason for pointing for the coming season—a bright crop of rookies. Gone are three big point getters from last season, quartermiler Nick Carnetta, discus man Max Leetow, and jumper Bob Ruby. Carnetta has graduated, Ruby has run out of eligibility, and Leetow signed a pro-football contract.

However, Big Ray McDonald is on hand to bolster the hurdle and weight events. Joe McCollum, McDonald's prep foe in the hurdles and Ray Miller, Ray's weight adversary in high school competition are both making their maiden cinder appearance.

In the sprints, veterans Joe Chapman, Bill Bryson and Charlie Jenkins are back along with Bob Johnson, who missed last season with an ankle injury. Johnson and Kearney will also be in the quarter along with Rich Korpenen from lower Columbia Junior college.

Outer-Nils Jensen, Rookie Ted Quirk and Korpenen are billed for the 800. Jensen, Quirk and Foster-John Myrnes are slated for the mile. MacFarlane will also use Myrnes, Quirk, and Charles Fleiger in the two-mile.

Gordon Smith is billed for the high hurdles along with McDonald. Ray and McCollum will run the intermediate sticks. The field events read like a Vandal football roster. McDonald, Miller, and Ron Porter are slated for the shot. Tackle Nick Myrnes joins McDonald in the discus. Byron Strickland, Dwayne Turpin and Dave Rambaugh are figured for the high jump. Rambeau, Turpin and Jim Jackson are pole vault candidates. Hoff Pryds and Joe Chapman are figured for the broad jump and Pryds also billed for triple jump and the javelin.

Oilers Seek To Restrain Dallas Player

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 26—K. S. (Bud) Adams, Jr., owner of the Houston Oilers professional football team, filed a federal court suit Monday asking that Oklahoma tackle Ralph Neely be restrained from playing with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Adams contended that Neely had signed a four-year contract with his American league team, Dec. 1 and that Adams had given Neely a bonus check for $25,000. The check was later returned to Adams.

Neely was one of four Oklahoma players who signed pro contracts prior to the Gator bowl game with Florida State and were not permitted to play. Adams contended that the contract he held binding and that a restraining order be issued to prevent Neely from playing with the Cowboys.

Buffalo Back Predicts AFL-NFL World Series

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 26—The championship game between the AFL and NFL is coming—and soon—and I'm sure glad I'm young enough so I'll probably get a crack at it," said Daryl Lamonica.

"They tell me that the first one will be seen on 100 million television sets and that the game will be worth $20,000 a man. I can hardly wait," he said today during a stop on the banquet circuit. Lamonica is the Notre Dame graduate who shared quarterback duties with veteran Jack Kemp for the champion Buffalo Bills of the American Football League last season.

The Old National Football League has been ignoring the verbal overtures of the AFL for a world series between the champions of the two leagues. "It's inevitable," said the 23-year-old Lamonica, who has completed two seasons with the Bills. "The players want it and the NFL owners are not going to pass up that big money for too long." ## Bobcats and Bruins Battle To Deadlock

BURLEY, Jan. 26—The Burley Bobcats and the Twin Falls Bruins battled to a 20-20 deadlock Monday night in wrestling as each team scored five decisions and one pin. The pins came in the first and last bouts of the match.

The results of the match, Burley listed first, are as follows: 115 pounds—Wayne Groesbeck pinned Brent Jacobson, 106 pounds—Lester Osborn decisioned Jim Brant, 115 pounds—Glenn Williams decisioned Mike Ford, 123 pounds—Dan Riley was decisioned by Tony Stockline, 130 pounds—Jerry Anderson decisioned Mike McCurdy, and 136 pounds—Earl Graythorn was decisioned by Mike Greer. 145 pounds—Don Reich decisioned Jim Leichter, 148 pounds—Larry Back decisioned Terry Rughier, 157 pounds—Roy Muff was decisioned by Ed Williams, 168 pounds—Gary Richins was decisioned by Larry Sautterwhite, 183 pounds—Ole Barrett was decisioned by George McAdams, and heavyweight—Glenn Dillworth was pinned by Mike Baird.

Ex-Champ Joins Fight Predictions

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Jan. 26—Barney Ross has joined Joe Chuvilo in picking Canadian-born Louis in picking Canada's George Jones over ex-heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in their Feb. 1 fight.

Ross, former welter and lightweight king, watched Chuvilo's 12-round drill at a resort hotel Monday and predicted the Toronto puncher would stop Patterson within three rounds of the scheduled 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

"Chuvilo has an excellent jab and is very strong," Ross said. "He's got a left side like a man." Louis, who attended the marathon workout, has picked Chuvilo to win by a knockout. "He's in powerful shape," the former heavyweight great said after Chuvilo boxed four rounds each with three sparring partners—middleweight Lucky Little, light heavyweight Jim Christopher and heavyweight Cody Jones.

Louis said he had never sparred more than six rounds in one training session. Chuvilo has won a pre-fight total of 178 rounds. Patterson resumes training today at Marlboro, N. Y., after spending Monday at his new home in Great Neck, N. Y.

Morton to Get Warner Trophy

PALTO ALTO, Calif., Jan. 26—Craig Morton, former California quarterback, receives the Pop Warner trophy Tuesday night in honor of his selection as the Pacific Coast's top collegiate football player last season. Morton, No. 1 draft choice of the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, will be given the award by Ernie Nevers, the Stanford All America back who played under Warner in 1920. The award will be made at the annual Palo Alto banquet.

Celtic Coach Warns of '76er Threat

BOSTON, Jan. 26—Beware the Philadelphia '76ers—in the National Basketball association playoffs. Red Auerbach, pro basketball's empire builder as Boston Celtics coach, issued the warning Monday while taking a verbal poke at Wilt Chamberlain.

Auerbach rates as an expert on the subject of Philadelphia which ended a 16-game Boston victory streak Saturday night. The Celtics, winners of 24 of their last 26, have lost only eight games—three to the '76ers. "Philadelphia has a good chance in the playoff," Auerbach said. "I don't think Cincinnati has enough height. After Wayne Embry and Jerry Lucas, they don't have any height at all. Embry is giving away four inches in height to Chamberlain. Lucas will be playing Johnny Kerr and there's no advantage there. The rest of the Philadelphia forecourt is all bigger."

The '76ers are running third in the Eastern division of the NBA, while Cincinnati is second. As for the '76ers' newest acquisition, the 7-foot, 1-inch Chamberlain, greatest scoring machine in the game's history, Auerbach said: "It's a shame when one guy can dictate to the league what he is going to do. They say Philadelphia has won three in a row since Wilt joined the club. Actually the '76ers are 4-3 because Wilt didn't report right away. The team had won one and lost three between the time he was traded and decided to get to work. Philadelphia can't catch Cincinnati during the regular season. Those three losses suffered while Wilt should have been playing and wasn't might have been the difference."

Cage Series Is Labeled "Ridiculous"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26—"Ridiculous" was Boston Celtics coach Red Auerbach's comment about a proposal to send the Harlem Globetrotters and the Celtics on a cross-country basketball exhibition series.

The series was suggested by the Trotters' owner-coach, Abe Saperstein, Monday at a Los Angeles basketball writers luncheon. Auerbach was contacted in Providence where his team met the Baltimore Bullets Monday night.

Auerbach told the Los Angeles Times that he couldn't even consider such a proposal. "Why don't they (The Trotters) get a reputation first and play some legitimate team before they challenge us?" Auerbach retorted. "Who wouldn't want to play us? Why don't you get the boys club of Los Angeles to challenge us?" Saperstein, however, said he feels a contest in basketball is wanting in the United States, and that a series between the Trotters and the Celtics would be a "kindie hit."

"Ten or 12 years ago we played a series with the Minneapolis Lakers, and there's never been anything like it," he recalled. "Apparently, the Celtics have run out of competition in their league. We could play them to benefit the Olympic basketball fund or any other charity."

Celtics Thump Bullets 142-104

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 26—The Boston Celtics put on a dazzling display of firepower, defeated a good Baltimore team into bewilderment and defeated the Bullets 142-104 Monday night.

The 25th National Basketball association victory in the last 27 starts by the perennial league champs, Boston, followed a three-game winning streak to start. The Boston point total equaled the season's single team high set by the Bullets against San Francisco Jan. 3.

The Celtics were in command 34-23 after one period and by means of a 33-19 bulge in the second half a 67-42 halftime advantage.

Webber Takes 85-80 Victory

BILLINGS, Mont., Jan. 26—Weber State came from behind to score eight points in the last 15 minutes to defeat Eastern Montana college 85-80 in a non-conference basketball game Monday night.

Eastern led 80-77 but had four regulars out on fouls when Weber started the late rally. John Silbernagel scored a pair of free throws and Jerry Trice a field goal and Weber went ahead 81-80 with 1:10 left. Trice scored two more free throws with 15 seconds left and Gene Harland hit a field goal with five seconds left to clinch it.

College Rankings Show Little Change, UCLA Still in Front

By The Associated Press

Examinations and the semester break left the major college basketball rankings virtually unchanged this week with UCLA still way out front in the voting of a panel of sports writers and sportscasters for The Associated Press. UCLA captured 29 of the 36 first place votes while standing pat on its 11-1 record. The defending national champions return to action Friday against Iowa and play Loyola of Chicago Saturday.

The other first place ballots were spread among three teams. Unbeaten Providence got four, Michigan had two and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia got the other one. Voting was based on games through Saturday, Jan. 25.

Michigan boosted its season record to 11-2 by knocking off Purdue 103-84 and strengthened its hold on second place in the standings. They play Michigan State Tuesday and Purdue Saturday.

Third-place St. Joseph's ran its mark to 15-1 by thumping Pennsylvania 82-77. It has Centenary and Xavier of Ohio on its week's schedule.

Providence made Seton Hall its 12th straight victim and moved up two places to No. 4 in the rankings. Rhode Island and St. Bonaventure are next in line on their schedule.

Idle Wichita dropped a peg to fifth at 12-3 with Loyola of Chicago and Louisville in their immediate future. Davidson, also idle, moved up one rung to sixth. East Carolina and Wake Forest are next on the Davidson schedule.

St. John's of Brooklyn beat St. Francis for a 12-2 record with Marquette on the schedule Saturday. San Francisco was idle Thursday. San Francisco and Arizona are next on the Davidson schedule.

State coming up, Indiana fell from fifth to ninth after losing to Iowa 74-68 and is idle until Feb. 4. Duke, 10-2, with its second straight week off coming up, remained 10th.

Eden Becomes Athletic Director, Grid Coach; Farmer Gets Cage Job

Merl Eden, a native of Shoshone, was appointed head football coach and athletic director and Charles Farmer, assistant basketball mentor for the past six years, was elevated to the head position last night by the Twin Falls school board. The appointments completed reorganization of the department which saw all three vacancies open up in December when Paul Ostyn resigned to accept the athletic directorship at the University of Idaho. The appointment of the two assistant coaches broke a long precedent for Twin Falls. Not since Dan Polkins was raised from assistant to head coach in 1953 was a similar move accomplished in basketball. It has been over 20 years since an assistant football coach made the jump.

Grelle Added To Millrose Track List

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Jim Grelle, former Oregon runner who now wears the colors of the Los Angeles Track club, was added Monday to the field for the Wanamaker mile at the Millrose indoor track meet at Madison Square Garden Thursday. Grelle is the fifth under-four-minute miler among the seven scheduled to start and the only one who has beaten 4:00 in only one race.

He withdrew from last Saturday's Los Angeles invitation because of illness. Durol Burleson, another former Oregon star who won at Los Angeles in 4:07.5, may be added to the field.

The others are John Davies of New Zealand, John Whetton of England, Ergas Leps of Canada, Archie San Domani, Jr., of Oregon, Bill Dotson, formerly of Kansas, and Joe Lurch of Georgetown. Leps and Lynch are the only ones who haven't bettered four minutes.

The following year he was elevated to the varsity staff where he served as chief scout and defensive coach.

"We are very pleased with these appointments," said high school principal George Stauder Tuesday morning in making the announcement. "Both have proved themselves both in athletics and in the classroom."

In assuming the athletic directorship, Eden said, "I don't plan any changes at all. The program is well set up and we will continue it, adding to it whenever possible."

He did add, however, that the football team will shift to the split T offense. "Twin Falls certainly can't knock the split wing (Ostyn's system) because it has been very good to us. But I feel the T is easier to run," he smiled.

The appointments become effective next September as Ostyn will complete the current year. Eden also expected to continue as wrestling coach.

Bar-Visiting Cagers May Miss Game

PALO ALTO, Calif., Jan. 26 (AP)—Six members of the Santa Clara basketball team may miss the California game in San Jose Saturday because they visited a bar.

Coach Dick Garibaldi told the Northern California basketball writers Monday that the players stopped at the bar one week ago last Saturday following their defeat by San Francisco.

Garibaldi said none had anything to drink in a very short stop at the San Francisco tavern which is a well-known gathering spot for Santa Clara alumni and rooters.

"The first I knew about it was when I read in Friday in the school paper," Garibaldi said. "I talked to the kids and some of the alumni who were there and I'm sure nothing happened."

"But they knew they're not supposed to go into bars and I have to knock some understanding into their heads," the coach said.

Disciplinary action is up to Garibaldi and he said he's yet to make up his mind about what to do.

Lakers Get Rest On York Trip

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—The bone-weary, unlucky Los Angeles Lakers took a short breather in a rough tow-game road schedule Monday before tackling the sometimes surprising New York Knickerbockers here Tuesday night.

The Lakers, dejected by an enormous 117-99 loss Sunday to the powerful Boston Celtics, met the Knicks, then journeyed home for a meeting with Cincinnati Wednesday night in the Sports arena.

Berra, formerly manager of the New York Yankees, is now a player-coach for the Mets. Spahn said he plans to radically step up his spring training with the emphasis on his first start in an exhibition game.

Outlaw Meet

GOODING, Jan. 26—Four more teams are needed to fill out the 38th annual Gooding outlaw tournament roster according to Harvey Wood and Ira Kistler, chairmen of the meet.

The event, sponsored by the Gooding Lions club, is scheduled for Feb. 3, 4, 5 and 6. There had been 12 teams entered as of Monday night.

Interested teams may contact either Wood or Kistler in Gooding.

The Mountain Home Plainsmen, last year's champions, will not participate in the tourney due to a previous engagement.

Former Lion Coach Joins Redskin Staff

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—George Wilson, former coach of the Detroit Lions, signed with the Washington Redskins Monday as top offensive aide to Coach Bill McPeak.

Wilson, a 28-year veteran of the National Football league, quit in December as Lion coach after front-office pressure forced the dismissal of all his assistants.

McPeak had said nearly a month ago he was trying to hire Wilson. At Detroit, Wilson won an NFL title and finished second in the Western conference three times in eight years as head coach.

Wilson came to terms with the Redskins over the week-end in Miami, Fla., where McPeak is discussing club matters with C. Leo Dorsey, acting Redskin president.

"I plan to use his talents and knowledge of football strictly in the offensive phase of the game," McPeak said in an announcement released here.

McPeak didn't spell it out, but Wilson is expected to have overall directions of the Washington offense.

"I'm very happy to be a Redskin," Wilson declared in Miami, Fla. "When I was playing with the Bears back around 1942, I tried to get into that organization."

"It has taken me quite a few years to succeed. I am especially glad to join the Redskins because of long, personal friendship with George Marshall and Bill McPeak."

Spain to Go All Out to Beat Braves

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 26 (AP)—Warren Spahn, the winningest left-handed pitcher in baseball, said Monday he will be "busting his back" to beat the Milwaukee Braves, the club which sent him to the New York Mets after the 1964 season.

The 42-year-old hurler was in Milwaukee to attend a baseball writers dinner and to wind up his affairs here.

Spahn said he had no qualms about leaving his old club and would do all possible to beat them when the Mets and Braves meet.

"Actually, they are not the same Braves," he added. "If I were leaving the Braves in the late 1950s or early 60s, it would be a different matter. But the club is leaving Milwaukee and there has been a drastic change of personnel."

The Mets have said they would use Spahn as a pitcher-coach during the 1965 season. Spahn said he had a hunch that he and Yogi Berra would be battery mates on opening day when his new club meets the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Berra, formerly manager of the New York Yankees, is now a player-coach for the Mets. Spahn said he plans to radically step up his spring training with the emphasis on his first start in an exhibition game.

Cards Honored At Banquet

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Toaster Joe Garagiola's barbs drew most of the laughs and the world champion Cardinals picked up most of the awards at the annual St. Louis baseball writers' dinner Monday night.

Five members of the Cardinals honored were Ken Boyer and Bill White, who shared the St. Louis baseball man of the year award; Bob Gibson and Tim Lincecum for outstanding achievement in baseball; and Mike Shannon, the city's rookie of the year.

Others honored were Enos Slaughter, who helped the Cardinals to a world series victory in 1946; Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball association; Pat Fischer of the football Cardinals; Princeton university basketball All-American Bill Bradley; and pro bowler Laverne Carter.

Wichita Loses Bowman to Grades, Stallworth to Complete Eligibility

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 26 (AP)—Starting center Nate Bowman of the Wichita State university basketball team, ranked fifth in the nation, was ruled academically ineligible Monday to complete the season's senior year.

"Naturally this eliminates some of our power," Thompson told a news conference. "But I have a lot of confidence in these kids. We are not going to fold."

"We are going to have 12 opponents without Bowman and 10 without Stallworth and Gorman, but I think they are going to know they've been in a game."

The passing of first-semester grades Monday made Bowman's status final. The 6-foot, 10-inch Fort Worth, Tex., native averaged 12.4 points for his last 14 games and was the Shockers' second best rebounder.

Thompson said Bowman will not play in remaining games this semester although technically he is eligible.

"For the best interests of the varsity team," he said, "he is not being permitted to rejoin the squad."

Thompson had dismissed Bowman and Davis last week for what he termed failure to take care of academic obligations.

Davis, he said, "has made arrangements to take care of these obligations."

"The question of Davis' eligibility for second semester competition will be decided when we have had an opportunity to evaluate his grades."

Freshman Coach Ron Heller also lost one of his players, Roger McDowell, a Wichita West high school graduate, for academic reasons.

Wichita is currently leading the Missouri Valley conference with a 5-9 record and has a 12-2 season mark with 12 games—two in this semester—remaining.

"I plan to use his talents and knowledge of football strictly in the offensive phase of the game," McPeak said in an announcement released here.

McPeak didn't spell it out, but Wilson is expected to have overall directions of the Washington offense.

"I'm very happy to be a Redskin," Wilson declared in Miami, Fla. "When I was playing with the Bears back around 1942, I tried to get into that organization."

"It has taken me quite a few years to succeed. I am especially glad to join the Redskins because of long, personal friendship with George Marshall and Bill McPeak."

Spahn said he had no qualms about leaving his old club and would do all possible to beat them when the Mets and Braves meet.

"Actually, they are not the same Braves," he added. "If I were leaving the Braves in the late 1950s or early 60s, it would be a different matter. But the club is leaving Milwaukee and there has been a drastic change of personnel."

The Mets have said they would use Spahn as a pitcher-coach during the 1965 season. Spahn said he had a hunch that he and Yogi Berra would be battery mates on opening day when his new club meets the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Berra, formerly manager of the New York Yankees, is now a player-coach for the Mets. Spahn said he plans to radically step up his spring training with the emphasis on his first start in an exhibition game.

Cards honored were Ken Boyer and Bill White, who shared the St. Louis baseball man of the year award; Bob Gibson and Tim Lincecum for outstanding achievement in baseball; and Mike Shannon, the city's rookie of the year.

Others honored were Enos Slaughter, who helped the Cardinals to a world series victory in 1946; Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball association; Pat Fischer of the football Cardinals; Princeton university basketball All-American Bill Bradley; and pro bowler Laverne Carter.

I didn't think Charlie was that kind of guy...

Normally he's wide ties and wide lapels with belt all the way. But that car—buckets, carpeting, console, big VR.

I don't think he can afford it.

Yes, who does he think he's going to impress?

Hi, Charlie.

It's Dodge Coronet they're talking about. And frankly, Charlie can afford it. So can you. Dodge Coronet.

Coronet 500 sports the following as standard equipment: all vinyl interior, front bucket seats, full carpeting, padded dash, directional signals, backup lights, deluxe wheel covers, center console, 273 cubic inch V8.

Texas Open Purse Increased

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 26 (AP)—The executive committee of the Texas open golf tournament has increased the prize money for the 1965 event from $40,000 to $50,000.

The prize money will be $25,000 to the winner and $25,000 to the runner-up. The tournament will be held April 22-25 at the Oak Hills Country Club.

This is the second straight year that officials have increased the tournament's prize package. Last year it was raised from $30,000 to $40,000.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

by STELLA

TUESDAY, Jan. 26 — Born today, your main characteristic is a love of adventure coupled with great pride of self. It is not your nature to be humble, any more than it is within your power to live a quiet, docile life. This does not mean, however, that you are arrogant or that you are a proverbial rolling stone. It merely means that you have enough self-confidence to overcome many obstacles and an appetite for experiences that will make your life full.

Because you are so self-reliant, you have no real need for marriage and domesticity. You do have a natural need for friends, however, and should one of those friendships blossom into marriage you would be perfectly happy — just as long as it did not keep you tied to one place or the rest of your life.

You have a highly sensitive nature — one which you may not be great lengths to try to cover up. Indeed, you may be so successful in covering up that others may get the mistaken impression that you are cold, calculating and entirely insensitive to the feelings of others. You would make a special effort not to allow your protective coating to become that thick.

Among those born on this date are: Roy Chapman Andrews, American explorer, naturalist, author; Mary Mapes Dodge, children's author; Douglas MacArthur, famed American general.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding graph. Let your birthday be your daily guide.

Wednesday, Jan. 27

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — The Aquarius who maintains dignity should be able to take on comers today and still retain a reputation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Day of particular interest to be eager, robust Pisces. Good faith is of primary importance.

ARIES (March 21-April 20) — Get away the remains of past efforts to complete the present project. Begin again with a better method of operation.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — It is of the utmost importance that Taurus be surrounded by people whose sympathies harmonize with his own. Arguments are out!

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — An emotional day for the Gemini who falls to keep his responses from being immediate. Make an effort to think before you act.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) — Know your own mind. Your opponent's strength in order to win today. The time to trust luck.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23) — Busi-

Minidoka Legislator Saves Money in Committee Work

By ROBIN THIBRETS
Times-News Staff Writer

BOISE, Jan. 26—Most people are inclined to think that legislators love to spend money. That may be true in many instances, but not so in the case of Rep. Dale H. Garner of Minidoka.

Garner, who is chairman of the printing committee, he is in a position to save the taxpayers money in jump sums of $400 each. That's the amount required to print one page of a legislative bill.

When bills are sent to Garner's committee to be printed, his group has the power, which it often uses, to correct the language of the measure before it goes to print.

"We usually do this," Representative Garner says, "in cases in which the wording of the bill is such that it does not accomplish that which is intended."

Sometimes, after a bill has been studied by his committee, it is found that the bill is not worth printing.

"This is due, oftentimes, to the fact that it is wide of the intended mark," Garner explains.

Garner took to the floor of the house and moves that the bill not be printed, giving his reasons and those of the committee.

"Thirty-two dissenting votes are required to override my committee's recommendation," the Ruppert legislator says.

"And every time the house goes along with our recommendation to not print a bill because it isn't worth it, we save the taxpayers $400 for every page not printed."

College Head Lists Speech Engagements

MAGIC VALLEY CHRISTIAN COLLEGE, Albion, Jan. 26—Donald R. Nelson, president of Magic Valley Christian college, is currently on a series of speaking engagements, trying to publicize the college for more supporters and for prospective students.

After returning from Arkansas, where he met with all the other Christian college presidents, he met with the board of directors of the college.

Last week he was the main speaker at the Christian Men's Fellowship dinner at the Christian church in Burley. The Girls' ensemble of Magic Valley Christian college was featured as part of the entertainment of that evening. On Sunday he spoke at the Churches of Christ in Caldwell and Nampa. Monday he spoke in Ontario, Ore., and at Boise.

Today he was the invited guest of Gov. Robert E. Smylie for a prayer breakfast at which many prominent Idahoans were also in attendance. He speaks tonight at Mountain Home.

He returns Wednesday in time for the first day of classes for the spring semester. Anyone who wishes to register at Magic Valley Christian college should contact Dean Gerald R. Black. Registration may be made until Feb. 26.

Ocean Farms Are Grange Meet Topic

SHOSHONE, Jan. 26—A program on ocean farming was given at Magic Grange meeting Friday night. Mrs. D. O. Mitchell was program chairman.

Mrs. Louise Couch announced a cooking school to be sponsored by the county extension agent's office in March for all women of the county. Recipes from local women may be submitted no later than Feb. 26, and they will be printed in preparation for the school by Idaho Power company.

All women of the county will be invited to attend the school. Magic Grange will sponsor a potluck supper for fathers at 7 p.m. Feb. 12. The program will be presented by Shoshone high school FFA chapter.

Pomona Grange will meet Feb. 6 at the District Grange hall. If the road is closed to that hall, the meeting will be held at Magic Grange hall.

Master Oscar Kerner appointed a special legislative committee. Members are Larry Tews, Paul Bancroft and D. G. Mitchell. Legislators from the county requested opinions on the taxation plan for Idaho.

The obligation was given to new members, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hopkins and Beccie Cope. Hopkins is county extension agent and Cope is soil conservationist. Mrs. Paul Bancroft served refreshments.

Rites Honor Mrs. Poole

WENDELL, Jan. 26—Funeral services for Mrs. Helen Sidner Poole were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Hunt ward L.E.G. chapel by Bishop Kael L. Black of the Hunt ward.

Mrs. Cecil Durrant, Jerome, played the prelude and postlude and accompanied the ward choir which sang two songs. Fred Stewart gave the invocation and Cecil Homer, the benediction. Bishop Black read the obituary. Speakers were Glenn Parson and William Butler.

Flowers were arranged by the Hunt Relief society assisted by the members of Mrs. Poole's Sunday school class. Members of her primary class distributed the programs.

Pallbearers were Sylvan Boddy, Delbert Waters, Leon Baldwin, Thomas O'Conner, Clarence Miller and Irvin Carpenter. Honorary pallbearers were William Hansen and Wendell Tarbett.

Concluding rites were held at the Hazelton cemetery. Bishop Black dedicated the grave.

Club Meets

SHOSHONE, Jan. 26—An explanation of workings of the 4-H Builders' program was given to local members by Anne Marie Baum and two 4-H members from Minidoka county at a meeting held at the high school Saturday night.

Kathy Ross, president of the local group, conducted the meeting. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Feb. 11 at the high school home economics room.

Changing of Liquor Laws Is Opposed

BOISE, Jan. 26—Opposition to liquor law changes proposed to the Idaho legislature was voiced today in a statement by leaders of the Methodist church. It was issued by the Rev. Orville A. Coats and the Rev. Charles W. Kestly, Jr., both Boise district superintendents of the Idaho Conference of the church.

"The Methodist church," the statement said, "is unalterably opposed to any attempt to make alcoholic beverages more readily available to the people of Idaho, or any other state."

"We oppose the sale of alcoholic beverages at ski resorts. If the hours during which the sale of both liquor and beer need to be set to coordinate, we propose the opening hour be 10 a.m. for both products."

A bill which has passed the senate would make the opening hour 7 a.m. At present beer may be sold at 7 a.m. but liquor sales cannot begin until 10 a.m.

Long Bill

DENVER, Jan. 26 17th—Colorado legislators have plenty to read these days.

A 283-page bill, the longest in the history of the Colorado legislature, was introduced into the state senate yesterday. It is a revision of Colorado laws regulating commerce.

Daughter Is Born

IANSEN, Jan. 26—Mrs. Minnie Bedow received word of the birth of a daughter to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Bedow, last week at Denver, Colo.

Richardson's Cleaners Have Closed

Lincoln Man Says Voters Oppose Tax Hike

SHOSHONE, Jan. 26—A Lincoln county man claimed today that 95 per cent of 300 persons he has contacted favor less service from the state government and are against any tax increase.

Special Class In Education Is Offered

A special class in physical education organization and administration will get under way at Twin Falls high school at 7 p.m. Wednesday as part of the extension class schedule, it was announced Tuesday.

Instructor for the course will be Paul Ostyn, high school athletic director who takes over as athletic director at the University of Idaho early next summer.

Meeting place will be at the high school library and the three-semester, hours credit course will cost $37.50. Registration will be at the opening session.

Studies will include the organization of staff, or programs, constructing the gymnasium arrangement and care of equipment. Also included will be administration of athletics.

Mathew Abundis Funeral Is Held

Mass of the Angels for John Mathew Abundis was conducted Friday in St. Edward's church by the Rev. Thomas Taylor.

Concluding services were held at Twin Falls cemetery. Arrangements were under the direction of Reynolds funeral chapel.

Floyd Silva, north Shoshone, has had two petitions drawn and has contacted county residents offering them a choice of petitions. The first is against further increase in taxes and notes the signers are willing to settle for less service during the next biennium.

The other petition is just the opposite, stating that signers expect as much or more service during the next biennium and are willing to pay any equitable tax increase to receive such services.

Silva said three others volunteered to assist him in the project. Signatures obtained thus far represent all communities in Lincoln county. Only 10 people have refused to sign either petition.

Silva said existing government employees and school teachers were not solicited.

"The government and state of Idaho have previously granted them an increase in taxes, but they are unable, due to jobs, to sign petitions, and school teachers have already signed a petition favoring a sales tax."

Silva said he has had calls from two other towns asking for copies of the petitions, as they like the idea, too.

Lincoln county legislators have been contacted and are to notify Silva when it will be best to present them to both houses of the legislature. He plans to make the trip to Boise and make the presentation himself.

"One thing I will be able to tell the legislature," Silva said, "is that Lincoln county citizens are not in favor of added taxes, and that if they are passed, they hope to have the opportunity at the next term of legislature to vote on a referendum."

Silva states he appreciates the signatures on both petitions "because this is America—the difference of opinion."

In making visits for signatures, Silva states he has had a good time, and has insisted that those signing are sure of their opinion and would stick to it in future pressure periods in event a "salesman" for the opposite view appears.

He estimates the trip will take around 15 minutes per signature to make the canvass.

Most people make up their minds in a hurry when they want to sign, but they want to discuss the matter a bit afterwards. This is the side benefit of this experience.

If others like this idea of dressing their opinions on the most vital issue in the legislature to them about the program, he urges all to express opinions to legislators at the earliest possible moment.

Turn on a hot new '65 Comet...

It isn't enough for a Comet to be beautiful. We build it lively. Three regular production '65 Comets—like those at your dealer's—blazed a 16,200-mile trail from Cape Horn to Fairbanks. All in 40 days! For spice, try a Cyclone Super 289 V-8. That's Comet!

Mercury Comet

the world's 100,000-mile durability champion

FREE! An exciting 16-page full-color booklet that takes you along on the historic Comet Durability Run through 14 fascinating countries. Ask your Mercury dealer for a copy today!
