Filer School Problems Are Eyed at Meet

FILER, Jan. 28—Work of the Citizens committee was described by Duane Ramseyer to Kiwanis club members at their Tuesday luncheon meeting.

Ramseyer, who is chairman of the newly organized committee, explained that the committee works in an advisory capacity and as such is looking for answers to a number of problems which exist in the local schools.

Foremost of these is the question of whether the area needs a new school and the committee will investigate proposed sites.

Keeping in mind future expansion, traffic problems, water supplies, sports fields, sewerage facilities and others.

The school buildings at Hollister also will come under discussion and possible expansion planned if the future needs warrant them. Other projects to be studied include music practice and stage dressing rooms, incinerator facilities for the various schools, establishment of well-fallen use of gymnasium space, agriculture and shop facilities, and the possibilities of adult education.

Ramseyer was introduced by Robert Moldenhauer, chairman of trustees of district 413 school board. Also presented were four members of the committee, Alfred Theener, Clarence Eber, Roger Vincent and Bruce Kuskel.

Arthur Chatterton, president, presented a past president's pin to Robert Moldenhauer, former president.

State Jaycee Head Talks At Banquet

Persons with a history of hepatitis at any time are automatically excluded as a donor.

The interval between donations should be at least eight weeks and blood should not be given more often than five times a year.

Recipients of blood are obligated to recruit donors to repay blood which has been used, Mrs. Snapp said.

A total of 54 children in Minidoka county are receiving regular gamma globulin shots.

According to Mrs. Snapp the gamma globulin is the infection-fighting ingredient of blood plasma. Many children have blood that is deficient or entirely lacking in this blood fraction and the lack of it makes them extra susceptible to infectious disease.

Regular shots are able to counteract the deficiency.

Mrs. Snapp reports the Boise Regional blood program of the American Red Cross is a cooperative effort of the medical societies, health departments, 46 hospitals and 35 Red Cross chapters in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington.

About 20,000 pints a year or 400 pints per week are required for normal blood service.

Purpose of the center is to collect, process, store and distribute blood to participating hospitals and also supply hospitals and physicians with required blood derivatives which include gamma globulin, serum albumin, fibrogen and fresh frozen plasma.

The regional program provides blood donated by volunteer donors for all patients in the participating hospitals without any charge for the blood itself. Patients are charged normal laboratory and blood administration fees by the hospitals, and a portion of the cost of collecting, processing and distributing the blood.

An adequate stock of blood is maintained each hospital for average needs and is replenished with unused blood returned to the center weekly.

According to the local blood center chairman, all blood is collected by specially trained registered nurses and pre-donation histories are performed by local volunteer registered nurses. A physician is in attendance at all blood drawings which is also on a voluntary basis.

Mrs. Snapp emphasized that:

Letter To High School Seniors

Dear Senior:

Are you undecided about your future? Do you know that you can take specialized training in business that will qualify you for employment in as short a time as 9 months for girls, 18 months for fellows?

The demand for well trained stenographers, secretaries, bookkeepers, accountants, and management trainees far exceeds the supply. If you are interested in the field of business, be sure to consider the practical training at Twin Falls Business College. At TFBC you start to specialize in your selected field the first day of school. This means on the job sooner and greater interested on the part of the student.

If you would like to train for one of the better jobs in business where the entire cost of your education can be returned to you in just a few months, come in for a visit or write to Karl L. Black, Business Administrator, Twin Falls Business College, 260 Second Street East, Twin Falls.

"We have been talking about doing this for nearly 104 years," he said, "the time for action is now." A revised constitution could be ready for approval or rejection on the 1968 general ballot, Smylie said. If the present legislature enacted a proposal for a constitutional convention. The McGraws said no harm would be done if their daughter could return to Kellogg high school, where she was a junior, immediately. If not, they asked an order for the district to pay expenses connected with enrolling Nancy at another school. They asked the $20,000 for compensation of damages they said would result if Nancy were not permitted to continue her high school education.

Two Speakers Give History Of Companies

HAILEY, Jan. 29 — Two speakers traced the histories of their respective companies which are contributing most substantially to the economic welfare of the Big Wood river valley, at the ladies night party of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening.

Roy Dondero, heading operations at the Federal Resources mill at Broadford, said his company first started operations at the Hamilton Mine near Moab, Utah, seven years ago during the uranium boom on the Colorado plateau.

It first came to Broadford in 1961 to operate the Silver Star-Queens mine. It completed the building of the 250-ton silver lead zinc flotation mill in 1964.

There are now 90 employees at the mill and in addition to ore from the Silver Star-Queens mine the firm is buying ore from the Buttercup mine out of Fairfield and operated by Russo-Silver Mines company, and the Liberty Gem mine west of Hailey operated by Paul Bovey.

Bailey Hutchins, assistant to manager Joseph Leggett in the operation of Sun Valley, said it has been in the real estate development business since 1900.

He said the other three major business enterprises of the corporation are cattle feeding, business property and real estate sales.

Since the recreation dollar has developed the past seven years the company has taken over development of four resorts — one at Mt. Hiram, one at a central California lake resort and a 10,000-acre operation near Aspen, Colo.

Sun Valley is the only one the company actually operates.

He told of the new ski lift to be built on the Warm Springs side of Bald mountain, year around attractions, and better air service from Los Angeles to Sun Valley via Twin Falls and Hailey.

Mrs. William McKeeber was pianist for the party and there was group singing. President Ira Hoffman was master of ceremonies.

Buhl Budget Is Higher Than in 1964

BUHL, Jan. 29 — The 1965 budget for Buhl for $229,898.41 was adopted and a public hearing was set for 8 p.m. Feb. 16 when the city council met in special session Tuesday night.

Although the proposed budget shows an increase of $9,752.46 over last year's figure of $220,145.95, the mill levy shows a decrease of almost three mills. The mill levy this year is 53.65 compared to last year's figure of 56.45. The mill levy has not been reduced because expenses are lower, city officials pointed out, but because sufficient funds from the sewer bond sinking fund will be utilized.

Smith's Dairy was issued a milk license for 1965 and the treasurer's quarterly report was adopted. Bids on a new fire truck were reviewed but were taken under further advisement until the next regular meeting slated for Feb. 2.

Richard Cook, who has served as assistant cashier, has been advanced to assistant manager and Judson Van Every, formerly chief clerk, has been promoted to assistant cashier.

Cook began working for the bank in 1947 and was promoted to assistant cashier Aug. 18, 1963. He is past president and past secretary of Kiwanis club, a member of Rupert Elks lodge and active in the Jaycees.

Ski Ball Is Planned by Rupert Elks

RUPERT, Jan. 29—A ski ball will be sponsored by the Rupert Elks Saturday evening for the benefit of the Pomerelle Ski School transportation fund.

The ball will be held at the Elks lodge and all funds derived from the dance will be used in providing transportation for the country's ski students to Pomerelle on Saturdays.

Tickets will be sold for $5 per couple but anyone who is unable to attend the dance and wishes to donate to the fund may do so by sending the donation to Ski Ball, Elks lodge.

This is the first year the Elks have solicited aid with the transportation project they began six years ago. According to Frank Urgan, Elks exalted ruler, the project has become too big for one organization to handle alone.

The project was started in 1960 when the lodge purchased a used school bus for $350 and fixed it up for another $300.

The classes have grown each year until the lodge is not only paying its own buses but also leasing an additional four buses from the school district to take the students to classes. Last year the operational costs came to $2,200 including leasing of buses, insurance, gas, upkeep and hiring of drivers.

The Rupert city council voted $300 to assist with the expenses. Robert Adams and Richard Cook, co-chairmen of the project, received the buses to continue running the buses to the Pomerelle area on Saturdays even after the ski school is completed if enough funds are available. All children enrolled in the school as well as those who simply go to ski, are all invited to ride the buses.

Elks who are also ski instructors include Charles Norby, Al Coy, Frank Trevino, William G. Taylor, Adams and Cook.

By BOB REESE

This was a "bloodless battle" between the U.S. Army and one of the strangest Expeditionary Forces ever assembled. The Army won... and there was not a single casualty on either side.

The Army was commanded by a General who was to become more famous years later, General Douglas MacArthur. Under him in that battle were two soldiers who would also claim greater fame in the future.

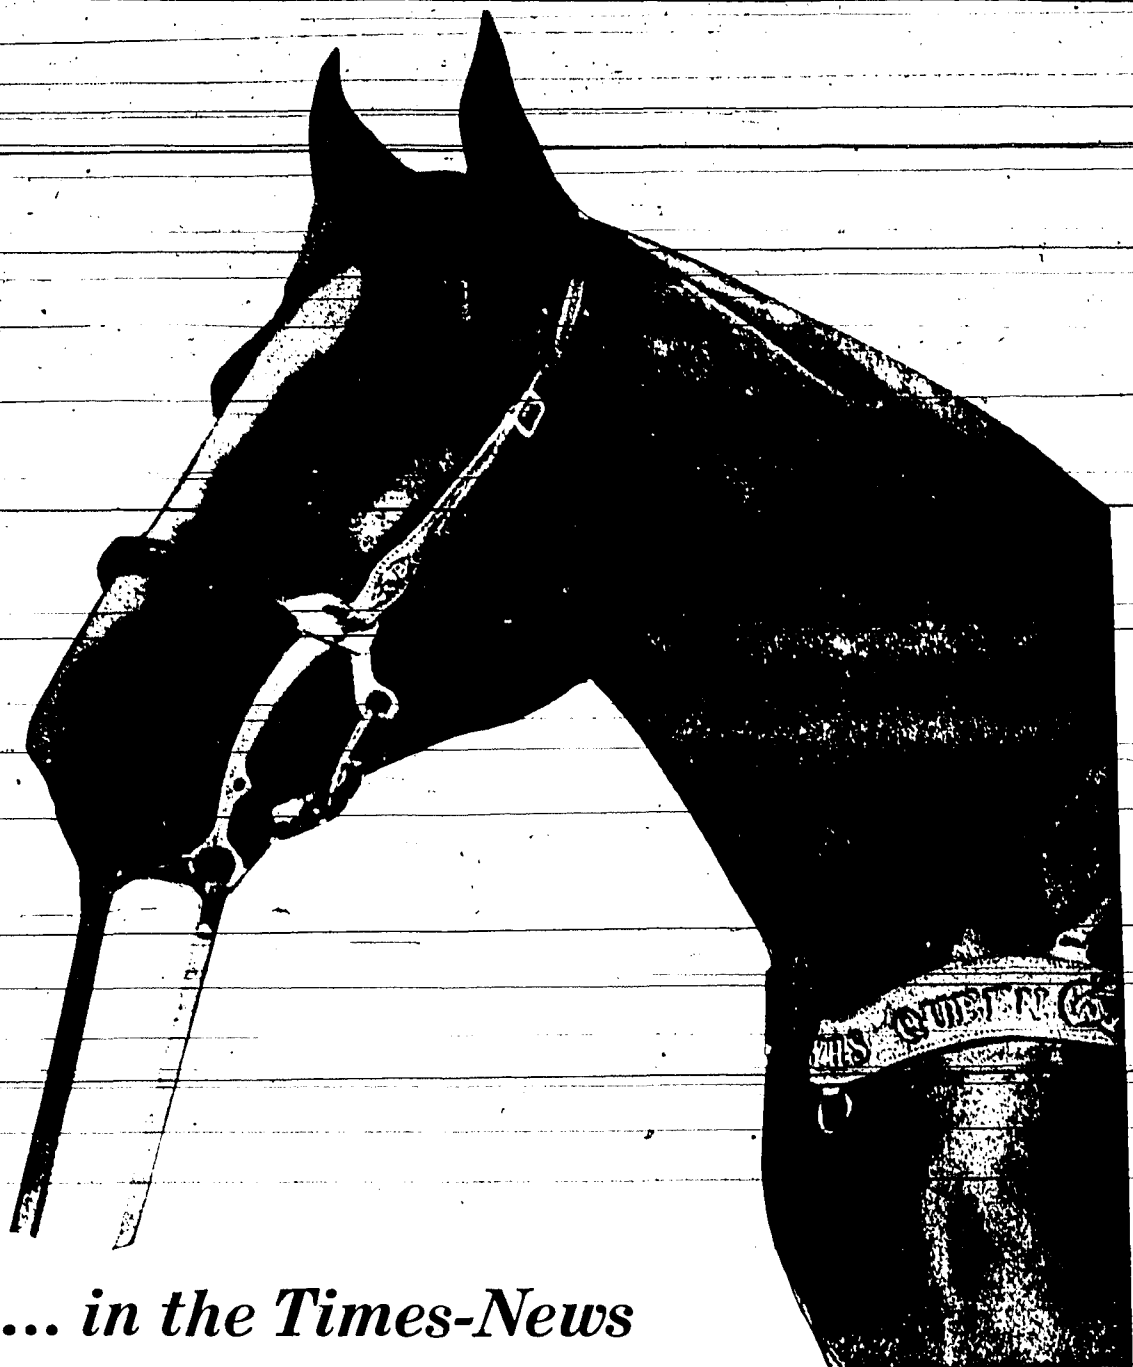

Colonel Dwight D. Eisenhower and Major George Patton.

Remember it now: This was the "battle" which climaxed the famous Bonus March on Washington. A lot of well-meaning people were in that Bonus Army when it arrived on the steps of the Capitol... but when Congress rejected their demand for an immediate bonus, most of the marchers went home.

But some remained... and in the end the Army had to be called out to drive the remnants away. They used tear gas... and not a bullet was fired.

Remember the year? A man who bought a car that year didn't ask for any special "bonus"... but he did bargain for the greatest possible savings he could get... the best car at the best price!

The year was 1932. "The best car at the best price" meant the beautiful new Dodge. And when you buy your Dodge from us, you get not only real saving in trade-in, but the added "bonus" of security in dealing with a reliable, established dealer with the finest service facilities to back up the sale. Harvest of Apples Is Increasing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The agricultural department predicts apple production will show major expansion during the next five years.

The upward trend is expected to be especially noticeable in the major apple producing states of Washington, New York and Michigan, the department said.

As a matter of fact, there has been a small uptrend in apple output since 1953, following two decades of declining production, the agency said.

Last year apple output totaled 140.3 million bushels in 1964, apple production was 139.5 million bushels. The five-year average was 129.2 million.

The department said the prospective gain in production is based on the many young trees planted during the 1950's and the early 1960's. Plantings are expected to continue large during the next several years.

Cattlemen in Gooding Set Meetings

GOODING, Jan. 29 — Two meetings of interest to cattlemen were planned by the Gooding county beef program project committee at the meeting held in the county agent's office Tuesday.

The main areas of discussion for the Union Pacific agricultural improvement car were outlined by Noy Brackett, Ralph Newberry, Roy Mink, Alfred Eandy and Doran Butler.

The committee considered current problems of the industry and planned educational programs and emphasis for the county agent for the current year.

Keen interest was expressed in the various aspects of cross breeding of beef animals. Feed efficiency of cross-breds, as well as gaining ability and selling prices was discussed.

In considering the program for the agriculture improvement car the consensus was for a discussion on meat quality and grading. Also to be included were feeding requirements for various classes including wintering cows and performance testing.

The question of wintering brood cows as cheaply as possible while maintaining good health and productivity arose. Another interest was nutrient requirements for the various age groups. Supplemental feeding when cows are wintered on corn stalks and created wheat were questioned.

Parasite control by the use of ruelene (pour on B2100) has been found very satisfactory by Doran Butler for the past three years. A new product is now available to be fed in salt for fly control, it is reported.

The committee asked for a special public meeting on cattle diseases prevalent in this area, especially calf scours, leptospirosis, Anaplasmosis, etc. Dr. Floyd Frank, veterinarian of the experiment station at Caldwell was requested to be on the program, as well as Virgil Kennedy, University of Idaho extension farm management specialist. His topic is to be "Cost Analysis of Beef Herds."

The committee also recommended a special tour of the Gooding meat packing plant after it is in production for cattle products.

The status of bull grading was asked and it was reported all 5 in 1's associations but one small group are now grading.

Performance testing was considered. Problems involved are weighing and identifying the animals. The possibility of charging a fee for the use of scales was noted. Neck chains are presently believed most satisfactory way of identifying animals.

The difficulty of selecting cows on the basis of calf size, if age is unknown, were pointed out. County agent Ed Koester has been working with some cattle producers on this program and others interested should contact him.

The future possibility of the veal business of large calves of about 550 pounds at weaning was considered.

Cold Storage Is Effective In Preserving Fresh Hay

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 — Cold storage is effective in preserving fresh hay, Robert H. Wilkinson, Dorr and company, Moline, Ill., and C. W. Hall, professor of agricultural engineering at Michigan State university, East Lansing, told the 1964 winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Wilkinson and Hall reported experiments conducted on alfalfa and grass at temperatures ranging from 25 to 80 degrees, and at various stages of crop maturity and moisture content. The hay was stored from three to 30 days, using a respiration chamber constructed and instrumented to control and measure temperature, air flow, condensation and humidity.

A comparison between the losses (of dry matter) of high quality field cured hay and the losses of fresh hay stored under various temperatures reveals the loss of cold stored hay to be reduced as the storage temperature decreased. Wilkinson and Hall reported in a paper entitled, "Respiration Heat of Harvested Forage."

They found that at 60 degrees losses of cold storage hay were about the same as field cured hay after 15 days in storage. At 30 degrees fresh hay could be stored several months before losses would exceed the loss during field curing. At 25 degrees it could be stored indefinitely.

"The continuing search for better methods to maintain quality forage has suggested the use of cold storage to preserve fresh hay," Wilkinson and Hall said.

"The design of cold storage systems requires that the effects of storage temperature and time, crop maturity and moisture content be known."

Wheat Stocks

BOISE, Jan. 29 (AP)—WHEAT STOCKS OF IDAHO TRIMMED and in commercial storage in the state totaled 25,162,000 bushels as of Jan. 1 or nearly 10 million bushels below last October.

However, the agriculture department said, the stocks compared with only 15,245,000 for the same date a year ago and were the highest since 1960.

12,108 Idaho Cooperators Aided by Soil Agency in 54 Districts in 1964

BOISE, Jan. 29 — The U.S. department of agriculture's soil conservation service assisted 12,108 cooperators of Idaho's 54 soil and water conservation districts in planning and carrying out conservation measures on the land in fiscal 1964.

Lee T. Morgan, state conservationist, soil conservation service, said 1,045 new conservation plans were prepared in Idaho during the period. These covered 483,419 acres.

Another 506 plans covering 176,491 acres were revised during the year, Morgan said.

The state's farmers and ranchers built 14 farm ponds and improved irrigation water management on 389,135 acres. More than 12,906 acres of range were seeded, 49 acres of trees planted, and measures to preserve wildlife established on 38,957 acres.

Eleven thousand, nine hundred and twenty-six acres of cropland were converted to other uses as part of farm and ranch conservation plans, Morgan said.

Planning for community-wide benefits from resource conservation and development received increased attention also during fiscal 1964, Morgan said.

Soil mapping was completed on 715,929 acres of land in cooperation with the University of Idaho and other agencies, part of 65.8 million acres mapped nationally. With proper interpretations the maps can guide urban planning.

Soil maps enable engineering interpretations for rural urban use of the areas mapped. They also make possible interpretations for urban development, sewage disposal, recreational development, wildlife habitat and special crops.

The Gem county soil survey report will be published and available for distribution about July or August, 1965. Also, it is anticipated that the Teton county soil survey report and the soil survey of the Kootenai area of Idaho county will be published in 1966.

Thirty land owners or operators made plans for recreation enterprises, part of nearly 13,000 who did so nationally, Morgan said. Five of these plan to convert to recreation as a primary source of income.

The trend is toward multiple purpose development in small watershed projects thereby increasing their effectiveness in the United States department of agriculture rural areas development program. There were seven new projects in the investigation, planning, design or construction stage, Morgan said.

The projects combine flood prevention with such purposes as recreation, fish and wildlife development, agricultural water management and municipal or industrial water supply.

Production Of Soviet Wheat Rises

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Soviet wheat production in 1964 is estimated to be 1.2 billion bushels, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is about one-third above the 1963 output when the Soviet Union had a record crop of 900 million bushels. The 1964 crop was six per cent smaller than the 1963 crop and six per cent below the 1955-59 average.

The world wheat crop in 1964 probably will exceed nine billion bushels for the first time, FAS said.

The world potato crop in 1964 was slightly less than five billion hundredweight, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The 1964 crop was six per cent smaller than the 1963 crop and six per cent below the 1955-59 average.

U. S. potato production was 10 per cent smaller than in 1963. Western European production was 17 per cent off the 1963 output, and Eastern European output was down two per cent from the previous year.

The 1964 Russian crop was nine per cent less than in 1963, but only one per cent below the 1955-59 average.

Poland kept its long-time leadership as the world's largest potato producer in 1964 with 965.6 million hundredweight. West Germany was second with 444.9 million hundredweight, and East Germany third with 266 million hundredweight.

Adequate Water Supply Is Predicted for North Side

GREENWOOD—Involving four separate projects were completed this year.

In an effort to economize, the rehabilitation work the past year was performed primarily with company equipment and personnel. Work presently is being concentrated on the area below the Eden bridge on the main canal, where ponded areas are being diked off with draglines and one fill being trucked in.

Approximately 30 acres of ponded area will be eliminated this winter and there will be 60 to 70 acres remaining, Finkelburg said.

In the maintenance division, some 210 cubic yards of concrete were placed in the main canal below Milner dam, and a notable increase on canal bank building and repair was made with 13,910 cubic yards of rock rip-rap and about 17,000 cubic yards of dirt.

Finkelburg stated that negotiations on the interstate highway from highway 53 east of

U. S. Continues To Purchase Oleo

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Government purchases of oleo margarine this week totaled 4,341,600 pounds valued at $618,000. Prices for the 134 cartons in one-pound cartons ranged from 13.86 to 14.43 cents per pound.

The government began buying margarine Dec. 30 for distribution to needy families and institutions. The agriculture department began the purchase program when it ran out of butter

New Farm Agency Created; Function Is to Consolidate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman announced creation of a new agency to consolidate other agencies of the agriculture department. Freeman told a news conference.

Freeman also announced a restructuring of the department's research work. This will result in closure of 30 small research stations and elimination of complete lines of research at 28 locations.

The secretary said some research activities will be moved to other locations where technical and support facilities are more adequate.

The changes in the research work are expected to effect savings of more than five million dollars annually, he said.

Freeman also said in a review of the past four years of department operations that various actions had saved taxpayers a total of one billion dollars. He mentioned such things as automation, innovations, increased productivity and reduction of surplus commodity supplies.

Freeman said the new consumer marketing service is designed "to give stronger emphasis to consumer services within the department."

Freeman said one of the immediate effects of the reorganization would be to combine meat inspection services now provided by the agricultural research service with poultry inspection now performed by the AMS.

Inspection of warehouse storage commodities, credit cooperation-commodity stocks also will be transferred from the agriculture stabilization and conservation service to the new agency. This activity will be combined with present AMS responsibilities under the U. S. warehouse act.

Freeman said he had advised President Johnson of the proposed changes.

Ability to Produce Food Depends on Soil Knowledge

Over 180 million Americans and a sizable portion of the world's population exist largely upon the continuation of the soil to produce crops—and yet very little is known about the top 12 inches, or for that matter about the soil two and three feet deep.

It hasn't been too long ago since a sizable portion of the United States was dry and blowing. It was called the dust bowl and much of it was in the heart of the American breadbasket—the high-agriculture area of the Midwest.

For the past quarter century man has shown a keen interest in soil and one of the governmental agencies deeply involved in the welfare of the soil is the United States soil conservation service. There is hardly any portion of Idaho that isn't included in a soil conservation district. Generally it can be said, where there is a farmer growing crops there is a soil conservationist nearby.

The service employs unit conservationists and specialists to aid the farmer or landowner in the careful management of his soil. Participation in a soil district is voluntary.

One problem facing the landowner, the farmer and soil service in the Magic Valley area is the lack of information concerning the soil. Slowly and surely information is being gathered and compiled. This work is being done by soil conservationists and soil specialists.

According to Jim Stalnaker, soil conservation service soil specialist, Magic Valley contains a wide variety of soils. For the past few years the soil service has been involved in a soil mapping campaign. This involves more than just simple analysis. The soil is identified as to type, texture and use. Then the needs of the soil can be worked into farm practice. For example, some areas are lacking in certain trace minerals or have too many trace minerals. Adequate phosphate applications in some areas will suffice.

The type and texture of the soil often determines how much water the soil can absorb and hold. Some soils retain water more readily than others. After a thorough soil analysis, irrigation practices can be altered and fitted to soil and crop needs.

According to Stalnaker it is possible to find and discover new soil types. Often this is a combination of known soils but the combination is new. The goal of a soil mapping campaign is to find out enough about the soil in a given area to make recommendations. Not every farm and field is mapped and tested, but sufficient tests are taken so that with the addition of irrigation water its ability to produce crops could be calculated. If other states with second or third-rate land were attempting to divert Idaho irrigation water for use on substandard land then it would be in the best interest of the nation in the long run to hold the water for use on class one land rather than divert it to substandard areas.

This answer and many others could lie in a complete soil work-up of areas where there is no immediate need for irrigation water. With the world bracing for a population explosion and scientific forecasting the world that demands for additional food will increase by leaps and bounds, more knowledge of the soil used in agriculture and the production of food becomes imperative.

Balloon-Type Building Advocated by Engineer

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 — Building that blow up like balloons were advocated for agricultural use by Ira L. Williams, professor of agricultural engineering at Texas Technological college, Lubbock, in a paper given at the 1964 winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Williams said that potential agricultural uses for inflatable or air-supported structures include portable processing plants, temporary storage houses, temporary labor housing, livestock show houses, and crop storage structures which can be ventilated and collapsed on the product alternately, as required for proper conditioning.

"Materials are now being invented to fit the technological need," he said. "Pure research is laying the groundwork for faster creative design, which always leads conventional design. We are in a mixed-materials revolution, where industry is applying vinyl and ceramic coatings to steel, resins, and cementing fiber glass insulation onto plastic sheeting for application."

"Air supported structures may be as soft as jelly or as tight as a basketball. They may be tissue thin or leather thick. They may be of one synthetic product or a combination of two or more. They may be transparent, translucent or opaque. They may be black, white, clear or various colors, most of which are sun-fast," he said.

Coated fabrics, when reinforced with a high-strength, open-weave base such as nylon, are much superior to unsupported plastics in tear resistance and durability, said Williams. Cemented joints, he advised, are superior to those made by sewing. Cement will develop the full strength of the material on most coated fabrics.

School Slated About Weeds At Gooding

GOODING, Jan. 29 — A weed control school will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Wendell Grange hall, according to Edward Koester, Gooding county agent.

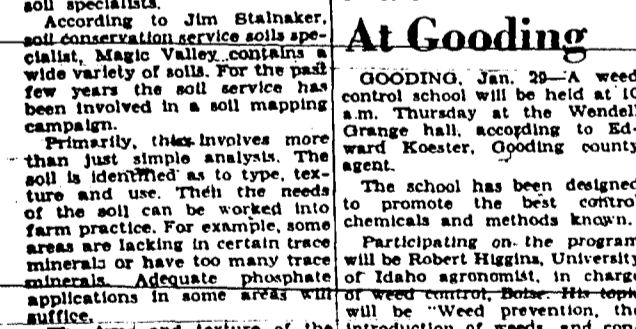

The school has been designed to promote the best control chemicals and methods known. Participating on the program will be Robert Higgins, University of Idaho agronomist, in charge of weed control. His topic will be "Weed prevention, the introduction of weeds, and controlling weeds in winter grain."

John Plant, Gleg Chemicals company, Salt Lake City, also will participate. Dean "Bo" of the U.S. bureau of reclamation, Boise, will speak on the control of water weeds.

A free lunch will be available at noon, sponsored by the Gooding county Weed control department. Films have been secured. A discussion on controlling annual and perennial weeds will also be included.

Since the weed control problem has become progressively more serious all farm operators are urged to attend, Koester said.

New Aerial Method Is Used To Measure Snowpack Water

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 — The amount of water in a snowpack, mass of snow on the ground, can now be measured by electronic instruments from a fast-moving, light aircraft, in a system described by Jaul W. Jordan and Charles C. Bowman, both of Montana State college, Bozeman, at the 1964 Winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Jordan, a research associate in the electronics research laboratory, and Bowman, head of the agricultural engineering department, at Montana State college, said that the measurement of the water equivalent of a snowpack is very important in forecasting the flow of streams from a watershed, and that this information "is of significant benefit to a large facet of industry and general populace."

They said the information obtained by this airborne technique can be more comprehensive and give a truer picture of watershed conditions than present methods, and more data can be obtained for the same amount of money spent.

In the new system nothing is required on the ground except a radiolite, the Montana experts reported. The radiation above the snowpack is detected and measured by electronic instruments in the aircraft passing at a designated height, and is translated into inches of water.

This eliminates the necessity of sending ground parties to check snow tube samples or gamma ray measurements at permanent ground installations.

It also makes possible measurements at higher elevations previously inaccessible and at intermediate and lower elevations which fluctuate rapidly and often are not sampled because of the time factor, "although they may be significant contributors to certain watersheds."

The cobalt which is the radioactive source of the gamma rays that radiate upward through the snow is contained in a lead-filled stainless steel case.

MIKE SAMAC'S WATCH REPAIR
(NEXT TO ORPHEUM THEATRE)

16th Century housewives trusted this mark

This is the mark of a salt processor in 1545. It not only reflected the quality of his merchandise but, as a personal symbol, it meant he stood behind the quality of the goods he sold. Today's manufacturers use a modern symbol: Brand Names. It tells the customer that the manufacturer's reputation is behind the product. He "goes on record" with his advertising. He sets a standard that he must live up to (or his sales will suffer). Because he knows he can deliver what he says he can, he identifies himself with his products. Depend on Brand Names; they are the "mark of 20th century confidence" in things you buy. When you buy Leadership Brands, you know you are getting your money's worth. BRAND NAMES FOUNDATION, INC.

"I have been accused of plotting the demise of Joe Cronin," Allyn told the 26th annual Boston baseball writers dinner. "So this would be a fitting time to say that had I the power to unseat Joe Cronin I'd be the last guy in the American league to do so."

Foyl Slates First Start Since Mishap

HOUSTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—A. J. Ch. Rodriguez, Jr., the national driving champion, said Thursday he expects to return to the track March 28 in a 150-mile race at Phoenix, Ariz. "Doctors tell me I can drive again in about six weeks," Foyl said in an interview at Methodist hospital.

The two-time Indianapolis winner received serious injuries in a Jan. 17 stock car race at Riverside, Calif. He was flown to Houston, his hometown, Sunday. "It was the worst accident I've ever been in," Foyl said. "Doctors in California told me if I had not been in such good physical condition I'd probably have been killed."

Foyl was injured on the 170th lap of a 185-lap race when his brakes went out. "They've found out the self-adjusting brake system became unscrewed," Foyl said. "It was just one of those freak things."

Pioneer Loop Might Grow To Six Teams

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 29 (AP)—The president of the Pioneer League said Thursday it was possible Billings and Great Falls will return to the organization for the 1965 season.

Claude Engberg, president of the circuit entering its second season as a rookie league, said the two Montana cities may return only if the new free agent drafts result in signing of more players, thereby necessitating expansion.

The two Montana cities were forced out of the league in 1964 due to the unavailability of sufficient players to make six clubs in the league.

Engberg said the league will operate again in 1965 in the same cities with the same major league affiliates.

The league consisted of Caldwell, Idaho Falls, Pocatello and Twin Falls last year. Caldwell was affiliated with the Chicago Cubs; Twin Falls with the Los Angeles Angels; Pocatello with the Los Angeles Dodgers and Twin Falls with the San Francisco Giants.

The newspaper said Paterno, mentioned as the heir apparent to the Penn State job when Rip Engle retired, had turned down the Yale offer.

WHY DO MORE PEOPLE BUY At Union Motors WITH FULL CONFIDENCE

IF A MEANINGFUL GUARANTEE is important to you... then Union Motors is the place for you to buy your cars. Too often a guarantee or warranty you receive with the purchase of a used car isn't worth the paper it is written on simply because the dealer has no intention of making it good. We furnish auto buyers with a guarantee that is meaningful and is backed by our good reputation which demands that we stand by it under every circumstance.
