By ROBIN TIBBETS
Times-News Staff Writer

BOISE, Feb. 9.—The Idaho fish and game department has given its endorsement to legislation which would allow game conservation officers to act as peace officers when requested. The legislation, sponsored by the Idaho Peace Officers' association, also has the support of the resources and conservation committee headed by Rep. Vard J. Chatburn.

House Tries New Voting Machine

BOISE, Feb. 9 (UP)—House members tried out their new $63,000 electronic voting machine today and discovered it was trying to lobby them on reapportionment.

With the house in recess, members depressed the "present" buttons on their desks and the clock recorded the roll call. The flashing boards on either side of the house showed 56 persons present but the official card recorded by the machine showed 57.

The house tried again to get a roll call and again the machine added a "member" to the roll call card.

Finally, chief clerk Dryden Hiler called roll orally to keep the record straight.

The voting machine wasn't the only thing out of order, however. Rep. Carl R. Burt, R. Ada, observed that the "tote board" on which lights flash to show the number of members present or the voting on a bill reminded him "too much of a slot machine."

"You're out of order," said Speaker Pete T. Cenarrusa, R. Blaine.

"I hope this bill will really do some good," Chatburn said. "I think it is going to be especially valuable to agricultural areas and especially to the livestock industry of the state."

Atlantic Combed For Debris From Air Crash; 84 Die

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UPI)—An armada of ships and planes combed the shimmering waters of the Atlantic off Long Island today for the remains of 84 passengers and crew who died in the fiery crash of an Eastern Air Lines plane. More than 16 hours after the propeller-driven DC-7B crashed into the Atlantic last night in the third worst single commercial airliner disaster in U.S. aviation history, only eight bodies—none of them intact—had been removed from the frigid waters. They included the two bodies of three women, a little girl, a headless man and three torsos. A few witnesses saw the four-engine plane erupt into a mass of flames at 6:37 p.m. EST yesterday about three miles off shore and only minutes after taking off from Kennedy International airport. Most of those who saw the plane fall agreed that a violent explosion came on impact with the water.

The blast ripped the plane, which was carrying 84 people, into two main sections and scattered debris over a 200 square mile area. The civil aeronautics board (CAB) and the federal aviation agency (FAA) began investigations but had no immediate explanation.

However, an FAA spokesman did say there was "no information which indicates sabotage, a bomb or any such thing."

And a CAB official added: "There is absolutely no evidence at this time of any explosion or of the plane's impact with the ocean."

The plane, Eastern Air Lines Flight 66, originated in Boston, stopped in New York and then took off for a number of southern stops before arriving in Atlanta.

Among the 79 passengers were two prominent young American opera singers, Joan Gavorrian, 26, and Lillian Harbison, 22, both of New York. Also aboard were a former beauty queen and a number of business executives.

The Short Beach coast guard station near the famed Jones Beach bathing resort on the Long Island shore was the central point for the collection of what remained of the plane and its bodies. In solemn parade through the morning search ships arrived, depositing bits of bodies and debris and then returning to the search area.

Investigators believe that the main wreckage of the one million dollar plane rested 65 feet beneath the surface. They held out hope that the plane's wreckage might be recovered.

But, as one officer put it, "company never came."

The 15 F100s flew combat air patrol over the propeller-driven DC-7B, which was being searched by the South Vietnamese air force, which smashed at three places, north of the 17th Parallel boundary.

Four other F100s went along the mission to lay down napalm. The 15 F100s flew combat air patrol over the propeller-driven DC-7B, which was being searched by the South Vietnamese air force, which smashed at three places, north of the 17th Parallel boundary.

As they left Da Nang in a big transport plane, U.S. jet fighters-bombers were roaring off the runway to hit unarmored targets. Two F100 Super Sabres were followed by a pair of F4U Thunderbolts and then a pair of F100s.

The planes were similar to those which blasted communist installations and supply lines in neighboring Laos earlier this year.

The American helicopters shot down today were also on the ground government troops and a helicopter against a North Vietnamese force operating 30 miles east of Saigon.

Smylie Outlines Construction Plan

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie outlined today a seven million dollar construction program and suggested use of tax anticipation notes to make the full amount available immediately. The construction would be authorized for the two-year period which begins July 1, Smylie said that by using tax notes so construction could get under way promptly there would be a saving in building costs. He proposed, too, the creation of a permanent legislative committee to guide purchase of sites for new state buildings. He said he had not bought land adjacent to the capitol for a new office building, as directed by the 1963 session, because he felt it advisable to again ask the lawmakers for guidance.

Smylie included in the program $500,000 for renovation of the third and fourth floors of the state capitol and for land purchases. The 1963 legislature provided $350,000 for planning of the capitol remodeling and for site acquisition.

"The governor said land across State street from the statehouse is available if the legislature believes it is wise to go ahead with the purchase."

"It is possible," Smylie said in a written message given to the legislature, "that there will be presented to this session a proposal to enter into a lease-purchase contract for construction and acquisition of a state office building suitable to the long-term needs of the state."

Such a plan, the governor explained, would provide for private financing of a new building, which then would be leased to the state. Under the proposal the state eventually would become owner of the structure.

The federal government has used that procedure in the past. The governor listed no priorities in the seven million dollar program. The permanent building fund advisory council will determine the order in which the projects may be undertaken.

If his tax anticipation note proposal is accepted, Smylie said all the projects could be undertaken at once.

In addition to the seven million dollar program, Smylie listed additional one million dollars. He suggested that if a sales tax is enacted, that about one million dollars be allocated to the building program.

Present revenue for the program comes from the $10 head tax and from taxes on beer, cigarettes and liquor.

Two inches of new snow fell at Soldier Mountain, north of Fairfield and roads are in good condition. Lifts will operate at the ski area through Wednesday and skiing conditions should be good.

Make mountain, south of Hansen, also received two inches of new snow and good skiing is predicted for Wednesday. The bus leaves at 9 a.m. from Olson's.

About half an inch fell at Hall's and only a skiff was reported at Carey. At Richfield it snowed extremely hard for a short time, dumping about an inch in approximately one-half hour, but the storm then quit, and Tuesday night of the inch of new snow had melted by noon.

Rupert, Burley, Twin Falls and Gooding all reported light snow, just enough to make the streets slick.

Protest

LONDON, Feb. 9 (UPI)—Thousands of angry aircraft workers marched through London today protesting the government's decision to buy American instead of British planes. The march created traffic jams in the center of the city.

The workers marched five and six abreast in a quarter-mile-long column. Some of the marchers carried a black coffin labeled "The body of the British aircraft industry—R.I.P." Others waved banners demanding "Why buy planes that are U.S.?"

"These two letters mean 'unsatisfactory' in British slang," one banner read.

Red China warned that its army is "in battle array" waiting for the United States to invade North Vietnam. It said in a broadcast it would consider such an attack an invasion of the Chinese mainland itself.

Another broadcast said more than one million persons had participated in anti-American demonstrations in China.

The war in Viet Nam also had repercussions in Moscow where a mob of 3,000 Asian and Russian students attacked the U.S. embassy with stones and bottles to protest the American retaliatory attacks on North Vietnamese targets.

As tension mounted, the first 78 American dependents of the 1,819 in Viet Nam left the country. One group of 23 fled from Saigon to Hanoi and another group of 56 flew from Da Nang to Hong Kong.

As they left Da Nang in a big transport plane, U.S. jet fighters-bombers were roaring off the runway to hit unarmored targets. Two F100 Super Sabres were followed by a pair of F4U Thunderbolts and then a pair of F100s.

The planes were similar to those which blasted communist installations and supply lines in neighboring Laos earlier this year.

The American helicopters shot down today were also on the ground government troops and a helicopter against a North Vietnamese force operating 30 miles east of Saigon.

Reds Down 3 Planes; Families Start Home

SAIGON, Feb. 9 (UPI)—Communist gunfire shot down three U.S. army helicopters 30 miles east of Saigon today, killing an American crewman and wounding eight. To the north U.S. jet fighters-bombers roared off the Da Nang airfield, possibly to attack targets in Laos. Communist North Viet Nam claimed in a broadcast that 12 U.S. aircraft were shot down by communist groundfire during bombing raids on North Vietnamese territory Sunday and yesterday. U.S. and South Vietnamese authorities said only two planes were lost.

Red China warned that its army is "in battle array" waiting for the United States to invade North Vietnam. It said in a broadcast it would consider such an attack an invasion of the Chinese mainland itself.

A cold front moved into southwestern Idaho late yesterday and through southeastern Idaho during the night, producing widespread, but mostly light, snowfall over the area. The colder air, which came in behind the front will hold temperatures near or below freezing through most of the valleys and the cold will be accentuated by moderately strong winds mainly out of the west or northwest. This air will be unstable enough for a few snow flurries during the day, particularly in the mountains.

A clearing trend tonight will bring colder temperatures, dropping into the teens. Partly cloudy and more sunshine than today in western parts of the district.

Outlook for Thursday, partly cloudy and warmer in all sections.

Cloudy skies helped to keep temperatures rather cool yesterday. Reported highs ranged from 26 at Rexburg and the atomic energy plant at 42 at Boise and Twin Falls and 45 at Rupert. Precipitation amounted to only a few hundredths of an inch at most valley stations. Fairfield on Camas prairie has 21 inches.

voiced its approval of a proposal to make the person using private land for recreation purposes liable for damages.

Brown said the department has been watching closely the progress on the water resources proposal. "We have an interest in that bill, since it will have some effect on us."

The public relations man said that hunters are to recover most meat is of interest to the department.

For many years the game and fish commission required that hunters using special mountain goat permits bring out the meat in an effort to emphasize the fact that the meat is good to eat. In the past two or three years, however, the requirement has been relaxed because of its conflict with the law.

Senate bill 37 changes only two words in the statute, deleting the words "mountain goat" as being exempt from the requirement to save the meat of big game animals. Only the bear is now exempt from that requirement.

The bill has been approved by both the house and senate.

With regard to the proposal giving game officers local authority, Brown said the department has long felt this to be a necessity, even though sheriffs and state police usually give the game department more help than they receive.

Brown revealed that, heretofore, game conservation officers who were injured or wounded while assisting legally constituted officers of the law did not receive compensation under the proposed regulations, they could be compensated, Brown said.

He said this aspect is especially favorable to the fish and game department.

little hope that much of the craft could be recovered after the terrific explosion which apparently followed the crash.

Skin divers volunteered from as far away as New Jersey to aid in the salvage operation in the shark-infested waters. Boat propellers became mangled in the flotsam and divers were used to keep them clear.

Investigators said the explosion appeared to have been so violent that the rest of the main wreckage would be intact. Most of the human remains found were blasted to unrecognizable bits.

Dawn brought three coast guard helicopters and three sea planes back to the scene where visibility was reported good.

Thirteen coast guard vessels, navy equipment and many volunteer boats began a systematic search of an area covering 700 square miles, just 30 miles from Times square.

By morning wreckage had washed ashore near Lido beach. Some of the flotsam of human flesh had been scooped to air-line seat covers by the searing heat.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP) — The United States moved quickly to inform the Soviets of the air strike against North Viet Nam this week-end but the "hot line" providing swift communication between the white house and the Kremlin was not used. The hot line, installed after the Cuban crisis, has never been used to public knowledge. Officials said that it was not brought into play during the crisis events of the week-end. They did not disclose what diplomatic channels were used to prevent any Soviet misinterpretation of actual escalation of American retaliation against the Viet Cong in North Viet Nam.

The lexology lesson was given by Mrs. Carl Grubert and used words ending with "phobia." Toastmistress for the day, Mrs. George Bever, introduced Mrs. John Burkhardt, who spoke on "Let's Put Father on a Pedestal." Her speech was concerned with the loss of parental control in the family. Mrs. Nielsen gave a speech entitled, "Why I Do Not Wear Them," telling the problems arising when learning to wear contact lenses. An impromptu speech, "Portrait Cavalcade," was given by Mrs. Norman Herzinger, who told some of the interesting sidelights of the life of Winston Churchill. General evaluator for the meeting was Mrs. George Bever. Mrs. Lloyd Stoker was a guest. The next meeting will be Feb. 19.

Savings and Loan Firm Picks Boise Man as New President

Dwain Knigge, assistant vice president and manager of the Twin Falls office, Idaho Savings and Loan association, Monday announced the election of Harold Hogan as president of the association. Hogan, a Boise man who was with the state department of finance since 1962, met with Knigge and Lloyd LeClair, assistant secretary of the Twin Falls office, to discuss records and make plans for the new year. Knigge pointed out that the Twin Falls branch is the home office and was chartered in 1959 as a local Magic Valley corporation. The association originated with the idea and maintains the facilities for loans to home owners and savings at higher earnings.

Soft Whiskey. How do we soften it without lowering the proof?

A lot of people would like to know the answer to that one. Distillers (and we're no exception) have been trying to come up with a Soft Whiskey since the year one. Some thought lowering the proof would do the trick. No good! The result: weaker whiskey. But not Soft Whiskey. And we're not so perfect either. We failed miserably with Soft Whiskey experiments. Finally after over 22,000 of them, Bingo! A way of Softening whiskey without draining its strength. An 86 proof that could do anything any other 86 proof could do. Only do it softer.

Calvert Extra swallows easy. It's gentle going down. It sort of walks softly, but carries a big stick. As for letting you in on how we soften Soft Whiskey, this much is safe to tell. We do things with Calvert Extra that some distillers wouldn't hear of. Like doing some distilling in small batches as opposed to large ones. You really can't expect us to tell you more. Not after all that work. That soft we're not.

Red Herring

That long-winded statement Sunday from Sen. Jack M. Murphy, R., Lincoln, and Sen. George L. Blick, R., Twin Falls, develops into a rather amazing performance. Without quoting so much as a word from the state's constitution, the two gentlemen tried to justify a move to tie a referendum vote to the proposed sales tax. And they blamed it all on peculiarities in the constitution. It should have opened plenty of eyes when the Tax Action for Growth committee blew their whole theory sky-high by quoting a few facts from the constitution and a supreme court decision.

Readers have several alternatives. In view of developments, they can decide for themselves whether (a) Senators Murphy and Blick were deliberately misleading everyone, (b) were sincere but amazingly unaware of what's provided by the state's constitution and laws, (c) trying desperately to justify a last-ditch effort to tie eventual defeat to the sales tax bill, or (d) dragging a red herring across the path.

It wouldn't be polite to accuse the good senators of deliberately misleading everyone. Neither would it be in good taste to suggest they don't know what they're talking about when it comes to the state's constitution and laws, particularly because Mr. Murphy is also listed as an attorney. That leaves the choice between a desperate attempt to defeat the sales tax one way or another or the possibility that all the misleading statements constituted a red herring.

The red herring explanation seems about as good as any because in all their words, the two state senators managed to duck the chief issue, namely, the Times-News assertion that legislation is the specific duty and responsibility of members of the state legislature. The editors of the Times-News don't have to make the trip "from their swivel chairs to the nearest copy of the Idaho constitution" to know about duties and responsibilities of the legislature. Neither do the voters and taxpayers of Idaho. Perhaps Senators Murphy and Blick can profit from their own advice and desperately need to look at the nearest copy of the state constitution.

It's almost unbelievable that two state senators with the length of service and responsible positions of these two could be so wrong about what the constitution provides. It's also crystal clear that the material for the statement must have come from Senator Murphy, the one who's listed as an attorney. Yet this doesn't excuse Mr. Blick, the majority leader, who must have followed along, blind and trusting.

Perhaps Senators Murphy and Blick will have a little more regard now for the pleas from Gov. Robert E. Smylie down through the years about a constitutional convention. The governor has asked repeatedly for changes in the constitution and now two leaders in the senate have demonstrated conclusively they aren't aware of what's in that document. In his message to the present session, the governor said, "Each session indicates more clearly than the last the desirability of pressing forward with the task of complete constitutional revision. The document which has served us well these many years is filled with cobwebs of bigotry and suspicion and restraint that are not useful to the people in the conduct of this, their government."

In view of the amazing statement from Senators Murphy and Blick there are some perfectly legitimate questions that might pop into the minds of many voters. If the situation exists as they tried to paint it, why doesn't the legislature tie a referendum vote provision to every issue that might be objectionable? Why wasn't a referendum tied to the controversial pari-mutuel horse race betting bill two years ago? Why hasn't the legislature ever referred the income tax to the voters for their opinion?

And now Senator Blick comes up with the proposal to have a sales tax effective for only two years so the "people can take a good, long look at it." Senator, why not make all laws effective for only two years? Certainly if there's any benefit from "taking a good long look" at one bill, a similar benefit applies to all other legislation. And it would give you legislators a chance to duck your responsibility on each and every bit of legislation that ever came before you. A perfect out!

Gentlemen, let's get with it, as the saying goes. If there's still any doubt, check the constitution to see what it says about the duties and responsibilities of the legislature, then let's get with it!

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY

SAIGON, Feb. 9.—A ghost outfit operating under the mouth-filling name of the "National Front for the Liberation of South Viet Nam" is making ideological and financial hay out of the chaotic political situation in Saigon.

The NFL is the communist shadow government installed in South Viet Nam by the Peking-Hanoi axis. Its function is to lead an air of legitimacy to the campaign of subversion and aggression being waged by the Viet Cong under the direction of the Hanoi regime. It would be a tasteless joke were it not for the muddle that passes for a government here.

But with Saigon's military, politicians and Buddhist leadership playing a daily game of "Who's on first?" the NFL is gaining in prestige among the country folk. In the last few weeks, the NFL's perennial chairman, an unfringed lawyer named Nguyen-Huu Tho, has stepped up efforts to win popular support.

NAMES STOOGE—Specifically, Tho has appointed a clutch of new district and provincial "chairmen" to broaden the base of the NFL's power structure. The new chairmen are long-time machine communists, but their appointments have been hailed by Tho as evidence of "a new wave of defections" to the shadow regime. They are pictured as "prominent Vietnamese patriots" who have seen the handwriting on the wall and realize the NFL is the country's "only hope."

As an immediate result of this promotion campaign, the NFL has fattened its pocketbook. Viet Cong tax collectors are making in the dozens in those sectors they control. Reports from U.S. sources are that many peasants with no ideological fancies are making voluntary contributions to the cause against the day when the NFL will assume power.

TAKE IS BIG—Nobody knows how much extra money the NFL has picked up in recent weeks. But the party's propaganda claims it has raised "millions of piasters." Intelligence types here say the take has been "considerable."

Meanwhile, word has gone out to the NFL's "missions" in foreign capitals—notably those in the so-called uncommitted countries—to polish the party's image as the only authentic representative of the "aspirations of the Vietnamese people." The missions have stepped up the drive to wheedle financial contributions from communist and "neutral" regimes from Jakarta to Zanzibar.

This new NFL campaign is one of the bitter fruits of the Saigon muddle. It has caused their loyal peasants to wonder anew where their security lies—with communism and its repression or with a free Saigon government which seemingly has no control even of itself. The peasants are the next guy; he is not about to court litigation by the Reds tomorrow by throwing in with Saigon today.

COMMUNIST PUPPETS—And yet the tragedy is that the NFL remains a brutal hoax on the Vietnamese common man. Its claim that it represents "liberation elements" is phony. It was founded by the North Viet Nam Lao Dong (communist) party and its birth announced in a broadcast from Hanoi early in February, 1961. Its primary aim, as proclaimed in a 10-point manifesto, is unification of North and South Viet Nam—communist argot for surrender to Peking.

But the NFL will continue to gain strength and influence so long as the Vietnamese peasant lacks the security of a stable Saigon government. The peasant who voluntarily donates his hard-earned piasters to the commie treasury has lost faith, at least temporarily, in freedom.

Views of Others

WRONG SIDE FOR SYMINGTON—Missouri, and certainly its urban majority, should be shocked and dismayed at Senator Symington joining in sponsorship of a plan to reverse the supreme court's one-person-one-vote order for state legislatures.

The resolution for a constitutional amendment was introduced by Senator Dirksen of Illinois, with the support of 31 of the 48 Republicans in the senate. It is primarily a Republican movement, and Senator Symington is not a Republican. It is also a reactionary move, and it is no great surprise to find a few Democrats joining in it, but we had not thought Senator Symington would choose such company.

But the company he keeps is not the main objection to this proposal. The main objection is that the proposal would be allowing states to maintain one legislative house on a basis other than population, allow the states to perpetuate—and perhaps to worsen—the kind of misrepresentation legislatures most of them now have. The plan would destroy the idea that one citizen's vote should count for representation equally with any other's.

Senator Symington has pledged himself to a congressional effort to withdraw judicial protection from a significant area of political life. He has joined in what Charles L. Black, Jr., of Yale law school earlier described as an attempt at the first diminution, since our history began, of any federal constitutional guarantee of liberty, justice or equality.

Under-represented urban voters, including many of those in St. Louis county where the senator resides, produced the bulk of the remarkable majority by which Mr. Symington was returned to the senate. Now he has sided against their interests and their rights. They did not return him for this. St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WATER FOR CENTURIES—A plan to furnish ample water for the entire continent of North America for centuries has attracted enough attention for the senate public works committee to name a special subcommittee to study its engineering feasibility. It will be under the chairmanship of Sen. Frank E. Moss, Utah Democrat.

As outlined, the plan would collect and utilize the surplus water that falls in Alaska and Northwest Canada and transport it through a system of canals, tunnels and rivers to the arid Southwest and northern Mexico. It would divert only one-fifth of the water that now runs unused to the sea.

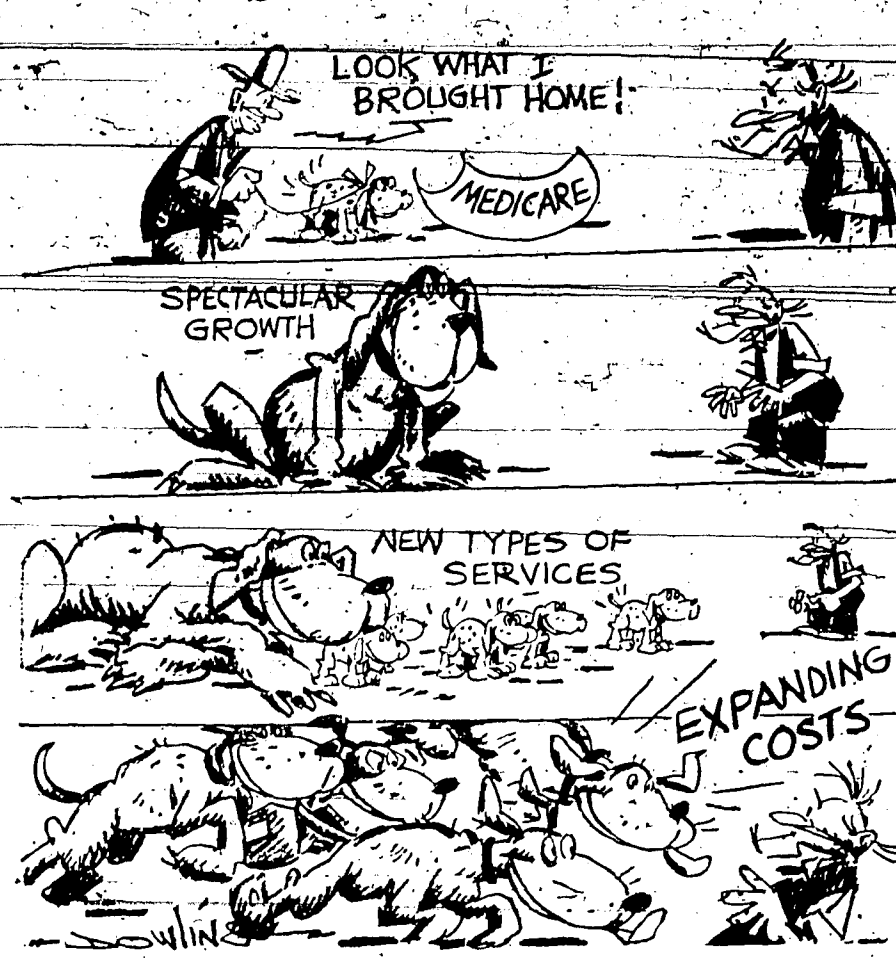

The water would be pumped into the Rocky Mountain Trench in Canada and stored in vast reservoirs. One 500-mile-long tunnel would be connected by a navigable canal with Lake Superior to add a substantial quantity of water to the Great Lakes.

St. Lawrence system. Runoff canals would traverse the Great Basin through Idaho, Utah and Arizona with branches extending to New Mexico, California, Colorado and Mexico.

The cost is estimated at 100 billion dollars over a 30-year period but this could be self-liquidated through the sale of water and power. One of the most attractive features of the plan is that it would provide four million jobs, just about the number of unemployed. Asbury Park (N.J.) Press.

SMOKE LESS?—Have you heard about the Canadian firm, The More or Less Honest Manufacturing Company (so-help-me, which is currently marketing a cigarette called "Less"?) The name lends itself marvelously to slogans and headlines built around the general theme that people who want more from a cigarette should smoke "Less." Franklin (Va.) Tidewater News.

The Doctor Says

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My ECG report said I have left bundle branch block. What is the cause? What are the chances for recovery?

A—When the electrocardiogram (ECG) shows a prolongation of a part of the normal cycle of the heartbeat, a left (or right) bundle branch block is said to be present. This indicates some disturbance of one of the nerve bundles that regulate the heart beat. The most frequent causes are coronary disease and enlargement of one side of the heart.

Q—The block may be an early sign of coronary disease, or it may be an individual variation from the usual pattern of significance.

Even if it is due to early coronary disease, authorities advise against cutting down on your physical activity unless such activity causes shortness of breath or pain in your chest.

Q—You should have a check-in a couple of months. But, above all, remember that your doctor is treating you (the whole person) and not a squiggle on a piece of tracing paper.

Q—What conditions would cause a person who is sober to walk as though he were drunk?

A—A poorly co-ordinated gait resembling that of alcoholic intoxication may be seen in persons with polyneuritis, Friedrich's ataxia, injuries of the cerebellum and other diseases of the nervous system.

Q—The underlying cause of some of these conditions is often hard to discover.

Q—The doctor says my brother has Friedrich's disease. What causes it? Is there any cure?

A—What your brother has is undoubtedly Friedrich's hereditary ataxia. This disease usually starts in childhood with a staggering, unsteady gait.

Although there is no tremor when the limbs are at rest, a tremor develops in the arms and legs when an effort at controlled movement is made. Most victims become slowly worse over the years. No treatment is known.

Q—My brother is being treated for Horton's syndrome. What is the cause? Is it curable?

A—This is a severe headache that throbs with each pulse beat. It usually occurs during the night and awakens the victim. It lasts 15 to 45 minutes, then disappears. It may recur every night, or at irregular intervals.

It is caused by the production of an excess of histamine in the blood. Why this occurs in some persons is not known. Cafegrog tablets or the inhalation of oxygen will give relief. No satisfactory preventive measures are known.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Borrowing from Peter to pay Paul is a dubious system of financial management. But that is what the principal western nations are doing as they try to cope with the fluctuating currents of the pound and the dollar in the world's markets.

There are almost as many prescriptions for curing this situation as there are experts on money and credit. But the financial community is too conservative to accept any of these schemes.

President Johnson is, therefore, planning shortly to attack what is this nation's principal problem in the money field—a continuing drain abroad of gold and dollars reaching the crisis point. He promises strong measures although not so radical as some sources have predicted.

Those with a hand in framing the program speak of the need to face the reality. For too long, they argued in the President's cabinet committee, this country has lived up to certain past commitments that no longer are valid. The five American divisions in Germany—roughly a million Americans supported on the European continent—will almost certainly be reduced.

But, with each separate nation out to find its own remedy, the danger signals are flying. The end result could be a new isolationism.

President de Gaulle of France in his press conference last week called for gold as the international monetary standard. The pound and the dollar would be replaced as the base for international stability. In taking this stand he retreated from a French position of last year at the annual meeting of the international monetary fund. France had proposed a 10-nation currency reserve as a base.

If de Gaulle's real aim is to drive the United States out of Europe he may well be using the best possible means in the money weapon. His action recently in announcing he was going to draw 150 million dollars of the "doubtful" system of financial management. But that is what the principal western nations are doing as they try to cope with the fluctuating currents of the pound and the dollar in the world's markets.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, a former professor of economics at the University of Chicago, proposed a counter threat. He noted that present claims against the dollar have resulted from American purchases made in France in dollars at the rate of about three hundred million dollars a year. For the purpose of providing troops to defend our friends against possibly being overrun by the communists, Douglas pointed to several ways in which the French could ease this burden such as negotiating long-term, low-interest-rate loans providing local currency for military costs.

But if they do not do this, he continued, then the United States should look into the status of the World War I loans. While suspended efforts to collect these loans they have never been formally canceled and France owes 6 billion dollars. If France refuses to cooperate and "uses our very assistance to wreck us," Douglas warned, then we should reinstate the World War I claims.

This is a sample of how deep the divisions can go in an all-out race in the money market. France has a large supply of gold; gold were to become the sole backing, that hoard would greatly increase in value.

In arriving at a way to check the drain of dollars and gold the President has worked closely with the Secretary of the Treasury, C. Douglas Dillon, and William McChesney Martin, Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the federal reserve system. They are both conservatives in the sense that they believe sudden and drastic moves could shake the confidence of the financial community. Eventually—the conservative viewpoint is—a world central bank may evolve out of present divisions. But until that happens the confidence of a gold cover at home and abroad is essential.

Another deep division is over the extent of this cover here at home. Senator Douglas and others who think like him in congress believe that the President's proposal for removing merely one-fourth of the domestic over-banks—does not go far enough. This frees about 37 billion dollars of the U.S. gold reserve. To take the cover off all American currency would free 15 billion to meet international demand.

But, with each separate nation out to find its own remedy, the danger signals are flying. The end result could be a new isolationism.

President de Gaulle of France in his press conference last week called for gold as the international monetary standard. The pound and the dollar would be replaced as the base for international stability. 150 million dollars of the "doubtful" system of financial management. But that is what the principal western nations are doing as they try to cope with the fluctuating currents of the pound and the dollar in the world's markets.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, a former professor of economics at the University of Chicago, proposed a counter threat. He noted that present claims against the dollar have resulted from American purchases made in France in dollars at the rate of about three hundred million dollars a year. For the purpose of providing troops to defend our friends against possibly being overrun by the communists, Douglas pointed to several ways in which the French could ease this burden such as negotiating long-term, low-interest-rate loans providing local currency for military costs.

But if they do not do this, he continued, then the United States should look into the status of the World War I loans. While suspended efforts to collect these loans they have never been formally canceled and France owes 6 billion dollars. If France refuses to cooperate and "uses our very assistance to wreck us," Douglas warned, then we should reinstate the World War I claims.

This is a sample of how deep the divisions can go in an all-out race in the money market. France has a large supply of gold; gold were to become the sole backing, that hoard would greatly increase in value.

In arriving at a way to check the drain of dollars and gold the President has worked closely with the Secretary of the Treasury, C. Douglas Dillon, and William McChesney Martin, Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the federal reserve system. They are both conservatives in the sense that they believe sudden and drastic moves could shake the confidence of the financial community. Eventually—the conservative viewpoint is—a world central bank may evolve out of present divisions. But until that happens the confidence of a gold cover at home and abroad is essential.

Another deep division is over the extent of this cover here at home. Senator Douglas and others who think like him in congress believe that the President's proposal for removing merely one-fourth of the domestic over-banks—does not go far enough. This frees about 37 billion dollars of the U.S. gold reserve. To take the cover off all American currency would free 15 billion to meet international demand.

But, with each separate nation out to find its own remedy, the danger signals are flying. The end result could be a new isolationism.

President de Gaulle of France in his press conference last week called for gold as the international monetary standard. The pound and the dollar would be replaced as the base for international stability. In taking this stand he retreated from a French position of last year at the annual meeting of the international monetary fund. France had proposed a 10-nation currency reserve as a base.

If de Gaulle's real aim is to drive the United States out of Europe he may well be using the best possible means in the money weapon. His action recently in announcing he was going to draw

Snow Surveyors Have Hard, Dangerous Time at Work

RAILRY. Feb. 9. Getting it-ble times to use rivers for transportation, use of barges and log runs.

Bankers and brokers use the forecast to predict economic success or failures as a basis of making loans and investments.

Summer home owners watch the forecasts to determine when they have to ski in-and shovel the snow from cabin roofs, or when the snow is gone and they can enjoy their first visit to seclusion and mountain air.

Managers of fish and game department use them to plan harvests and activities which will help perpetuate the hunting and fishing privileges. Water dependent recreational corporations use forecasts compiled from the surveys to plan and modify their operations. Farmers use forecasts to modify their planting and buying operations. Water pollution control plans can be made ahead of time from snow and water forecasts.

Darius said between 30 and 36 inches of new snow fell on Galena summit between the January and February readings, yet the total snow pack had settled from 110 inches in January to 102 inches in February. Water content in the snow was 31.95 inches against 15.7 inches for a long-time average. The water content in 1964 was 18.7 inches; in 1963, 7.5 inches; in 1962, 14.8 inches; in 1961, 8.9 inches; and in 1960 it was 7.2 inches.

At the Horse creek course watershed, content was 28.8 inches against a long-time average of 13.3 inches. The 1964 reading was 13.5 inches; in 1963 it was 5.16 inches; 1962, 12.6 inches; in 1961, 6.2 inches, and in 1960 it was 5.5 inches.

At Graham ranch, near the North Fork store, the water content was 22.7 inches against the average 10.1 inches. In 1964 it was 10.4 inches; 1963, 3.7 inches; 1962, 8.5 inches, with no records for 1961 and 1960.

At the course on top of Bald mountain, the water content measured 31.25 inches against the average 14.5 inches. The 1964 measurement was 13.8 inches; the 1963, 5.2 inches; 1962, 11.8 inches; 1961, 9.5 inches, and 1960, 6.4 inches.

At Garfield ranger station, up from the Carey valley and Muldoon country, the snow pack had dropped from 62.8 inches to 58.8 inches in a month, although more than 1 foot of new snow had fallen.

Water content here was 17.5 inches against 7.6 inches for the long-time average. In 1964 it was 6.8 inches; for 1963 and 1962 it was 5.7 inches; in 1961 it was 3.3 inches and in 1960, 4.2 inches.

At the Muldoon course there was 12.35 inches of water content in the snow against the average 5.9 inches. In 1964 it was 5.1 inches; 1963 had no record; 1962, 4.4 inches; 1961, 2.9 inches and 1960, 4.9 inches.

Darius said the Big Wood river watershed, holding over 40 per cent water of the long-time average, and Little Wood river, holding 22 per cent, both are retaining water in a flood, he said.

Water is being let out of Magic reservoir to provide storage for the anticipated run-off.

As soon as obstructions in the Little Wood river channel below the dam, which was causing flooding of farmers' fields, are removed, water will be let out.

Water has not yet been released from the Fish creek reservoir, Darius said. The SCS will not know how much water is in the Fish creek watershed until March 1, when readings at Iron mountain and Teffer ranch will be made.

He said the Carey Valley Irrigation and Reservoir company (Fish creek) has requested the SCS to make these surveys in January and February, which has not been done in the past.

Air Crashes With Heavy Death Tolls Listed

BU United Press International. The fatal plunge of an Eastern Airlines DC-7B into Atlantic waters off Long Island last night, killing 84 persons to their deaths, was the fifth worst commercial airline disaster in this country and the second major aviation mishap in the United States within a month.

On Jan. 17, 1965, a fuel-laden air force jet tanker plowed into a quiet residential street in Wichita, Kan., killing 30 people. New York—site of last night's crash—was also scene of the worst disaster in commercial airline history. On Dec. 18, 1960, a Trans World Airlines Super Constellation and a United Air Lines DC-8 collided in flight over New York City, killing 134 people.

The worst single commercial crash in U.S. history also occurred in New York. On March 1, 1962, an American Airlines Boeing 707 jet went down shortly after takeoff from Idlewild international airport, taking 95 lives.

The crash of a Paradise Airlines super constellation with a mountain top near Lake Tahoe claimed 85 lives to rank as the second worst single airline crash in the U.S.

Prior to the 1960 mid-air collision over New York City, the worst crash in U.S. history had been the collision of a TWA super constellation and a United Air Lines DC-7 over the Grand canyon. That disaster killed 128 people.

The world's worst single commercial plane crash occurred June 3, 1962, at Orly airport near Paris, France. A chartered Boeing 707 jet hurled off a runway and into a field. Among the 139 people killed were 121 prominent residents of Atlanta, Ga., who were returning home from an European air tour.

The worst peacetime crash of a military plane was on June 18, 1953, 123 people were killed when an air force C-124 transport plane went down near Tokyo.

On Nov. 10, 1963, a Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8 plunged into a field near Montreal in a snowstorm, killing all 118 people aboard.

It was the worst air crash in Canada's history and the third worst single disaster in aviation history.

The fourth worst air disaster in U.S. history was recorded Dec. 8, 1963, when a Pan-American world airlines Boeing 707 jetliner with 82 people aboard crashed near Elkton, Md., in a rainstorm.

Other major plane crashes and their toll in lives:

- 113 persons perished in June, 1962, when an Air France Boeing 707 went down on the West Indian island of Guadeloupe.
- 111 persons died in the March 4, 1962, crash of a chartered DC-7C near Doula, Cameroon Republic.
- 107 persons were killed on March 16, 1962, when a chartered Flying Tiger airlines constellation disappeared on a flight from Guam to Manila. The passengers included 93 American soldiers bound for South Vietnam.
- 101 persons died in the June, 1962, crash of a military chartered DC-7 in the Gulf of Alaska.
- 99 persons perished on Aug. 14, 1958, when a KLM super constellation plummeted into the ocean west of Ireland.
- 97 persons perished in the Nov. 28, 1962, crash of a Varig airline plane near Lima, Peru.
- 94 persons perished in the July 7, 1962, crash of an Alltalia plane near Bombay, India.
- 84 persons perished in the crash of a U.S. air force C-124 Globemaster near Larson's air force base, Wash., Dec. 30, 1962.
- 83 persons died on Sept. 10, 1961, when a President airlines DC-6 charter plane crashed at Shannon airport, Ireland.
- 83 persons died when a British Eagle airways turboprop Britannia exploded after crashing into a mountain near Innsbruck, Austria, in February, 1963.
- 80 football fans died on March 12, 1950, when an Avro

Legislature Activity

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Idaho State university would be authorized to offer general engineering courses with emphasis on nuclear science, if a bill introduced yesterday in the senate is approved. The bill was introduced by the senate education and educational institutions committee.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Appointment of the state land commissioner would need senate confirmation under a bill introduced yesterday in the Idaho senate. The land commissioner is appointed by the state land board and under present law needs no confirmation.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—A measure providing $150,000 for construction of an employment security agency office in Burley was approved by the house yesterday but was held over after Rep. Larry Mills, R. Ada, served notice he may ask for reconsideration. Rep. Wilbert Cammack, D. Bingham, floor manager for the bill, told house members the funds would be provided by the federal government and that the building would revert to the state after the cost had been paid out in rent.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Adoption of a measure introduced in the Idaho house yesterday would give county commissioners authority to issue ordinances, rules and regulations covering county administration. It would broaden the legislative duties of the commissioners now restricted by statute to adoption of zoning ordinances. The bill also provides for punishment for violations of ordinances enacted under its provisions.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—A bill calling for a study of the feasibility of reclassification of Idaho statutes governing municipal corporations was introduced yesterday in the house of representatives. The measure instructs the legislative committee to undertake the study and to prepare bills implementing a reclassification for introduction in the 1967 legislative session. It also appropriates $10,000 to finance the study.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Bonded debt percentage limitations are made permanent by a bill introduced yesterday in the Idaho senate. Present law provides that on July 1, 1965, limitations will become 10 per cent of their assessed valuation for districts having high schools and six per cent for all others. Until that time the limits are 15 and 10 per cent. The bill introduced by the senate education and educational institutions committee would leave the 15 and 10 per cent figures in effect permanently.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—The senate voted unanimously today to create the Register Rock-Massacre Rock state park and historical monument in Power county. The measure now goes to the house. Sen. Perry Swisher, R.—Thermador—who said he was speaking for Sen. Ward Meadows, R. Power, who is ill, said the park site is "a pretty part of the Snake river" and motorists will stop "for the breathtaking view of the canyon."

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—A bill providing for state assistance to school districts conducting summer sessions was introduced yesterday in the Idaho house of representatives. Under existing laws, a district may conduct summer sessions financed solely through tuition fees charged. The new measure provides, however, that the state would contribute up to 50 per cent of the cost of operating such classes. But it limits the state's share of all summer school programs to $150,000.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Judges and members of two state agencies would get pay raises under provisions of a bill introduced yesterday in the house. Supreme court justice salaries would be boosted from $18,000 to $20,000 and district judges' would be raised from $12,000 to $17,500. Salaries of members of the public utilities commission and the industrial accident board would be increased from $12,000 to $13,500.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—A bill broadening the driver training program to permit enrollment of persons of any age was reported yesterday to the floor of the senate. The transportation and defense committee gave it a favorable recommendation and under normal procedure it will come up for final consideration Wednesday. At present only persons 14 to 18 may enroll in driver training programs in public schools.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—A measure authorizing formation of hospital districts empowered to construct and maintain hospital facilities was introduced yesterday in the Idaho house of representatives. It was offered as a substitute for an earlier bill introduced by the Shoshone county delegation repealing the Dec. 30, 1960, deadline for creation of hospital districts. That bill was passed by the house and senate but was vetoed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie at the request of Rep. William Murphy, D. Shoshone, who pointed out that there were conflicts in it making it ineffective. Murphy said passage of the substitute measure will allow the residents of Wallace to form a hospital district and construct needed hospital facilities.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—An attempt to force the oleomargarine tax repeal out of committee was blocked yesterday by representatives from farm counties. Rep. Don Pieper, D. Bonneville, asked that the bill which would repeal the 10-cent-a-pound tax be brought out of the house agricultural affairs committee for a vote. But Rep. Jack Claiborn, R. Twin Falls, committee chairman, asked that his committee be excused from reporting out the bill and the representatives supported him with a 35-23 standing vote. Claiborn said the bill has been tabled in committee because "there was more support for killing the bill than passing it."

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—The senate completed legislative action yesterday on a bill appropriating $1,000 to help Boise county finance construction of a war memorial. The appropriation is based on a 1919 law which authorized such grants. Sen. J. E. Yensen, R. Boise, said his county and Clark county are the only two in Idaho which have failed to receive such appropriations. He said local organizations must match the state grant. Sen. Walter H. Yarbrough, R. Owyhee, supported the appropriation, saying most counties which have received similar grants have used them to aid in financing construction of community halls.

Building Volume Shows Increase

A 16 per cent building volume increase was noted in December, 1964, over the corresponding month in 1963. The total increase was $38,503,013. The percentage increase was maintained throughout the entire Pacific Northwest, with Washington showing the highest percentage increase, 25 per cent, in November.

In Idaho the December, 1964, total was $2,268,619 as compared to $1,959,201 in December, 1963.

News Around Idaho

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Rep. Compton J. White, Jr., D. Ada, cut short a trip through his home state yesterday to fly back to Washington and cast a vote in favor of funding the food for peace program. He said, "This is the best low cost program of effective foreign assistance we now have." White said he said he plans to return to Idaho Saturday for dedication of the new Payette postoffice.

IDAHO FALLS, Feb. 9 (AP)—George Hansen, R. Ida., introduced a farm bill to the house yesterday which would provide voluntary land retirement and repeal all present legislation authorizing certificates of wheat and acreage allotments of corn. The Idaho congressman termed this "a free enterprise" bill which would go a long way toward getting government out of agriculture. It would also get the farm picture back in focus by granting individual selection and freedom of determination. "This bill," Hansen said, "in addition to returning the costs of the farm program to the taxpayer, would also reduce wheat and feed prices and would increase net income to the farm family. It would also conserve our soil, water, forest and wildlife," he concluded.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Tax collections during January showed slight declines from levels a year earlier. The office of tax collections reported yesterday. General fund tax collections during the month amounted to $2,579,819 compared with $2,639,950 in January last year. Building fund revenue amounted to $113,405 compared with $114,153. Motor fuels tax collections showed an increase, from $992,036 in January, 1964, to $1,043,235. Income tax revenue, which goes into both the general and building funds, amounted to $2,304,221 during the month, compared with $2,378,477 a year earlier.

POCATELLO, Feb. 9 (AP)—BA Poastello contractor challenged Bannock county expenditures and policies in a number of areas yesterday before county commissioners approved a $1,665,371 operating budget. The contractor, Steve Thoada, Jr., was especially critical of use of county equipment in construction of churches, schools and other private projects. He said the county has contracted the equipment for the price of gas, oil and operators time. "I want it stopped," he said. "If necessary, I will take it to court to get it stopped." The discussion continued two hours but when it was over the operating budget was approved.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Immediate approval of a flood control project for Banrock in southern Idaho, was urged yesterday by Gov. Robert E. Smylie. In a letter to Lee T. Morgan, state conservationist for the federal soil conservation service, Smylie said Banrock, a village about 30 miles east of Pocatello, has had extensive flood damage during the past two years. "Watershed improvement," he said, "is urgently needed which would result in a way to control unpredictable runoff and floods and prevent extensive and destructive erosion. This improvement would also relieve flooding conditions downstream and through the city of Pocatello."

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today that military and civil defense authorities have been instructed to keep a close check on all Idaho streams which pose spring flood threats. He said they will confer with local city and civil defense authorities to consider plans which could be put into effect promptly in the event of flooding. He stated specifically communities along the Snake river in southern Idaho, the Big and Little Wood rivers in southwestern Idaho and the Boise and Payette rivers in the southwest. Smylie said reconnaissance flights were being flown over the Lower Boise river and some minor flooding was evident in the Caldwell area. Streamflow of the river was increased to 6,500 cubic feet per second during the week-end to lower the water level in upstream storage reservoirs. That will permit later storing of more water to reduce the flood potential. Smylie said steps were being taken to reinforce levees in the Caldwell area to keep the river within its banks.

POCATELLO, Feb. 9 (AP)—A Pocatello pathologist described the location of four bullet wounds in the body of a 24-year-old woman last May as a jury trial started here today for Miss Bill Liday. Liday is charged with voluntary manslaughter. In the fatal shooting of Sharon Marie Knudsen, 24, during a scuffle at her home last May 24. A jury of eight men and four women was seated yesterday afternoon as the trial started in the court of fifth district Judge Arthur P. Oliver. The pathologist, Dr. E. B. Webb, said one bullet wound was through the woman's throat and was superficial. Another bullet entered the head below the left ear and came out below her right eye. A third bullet entered the left side of her back and came out through her collar bone, and the other wound entered above her left ear and lodged in her head. Dr. Webb said either of the head wounds would have caused death within a short time. He said also he found three lacerations on the woman's head.

POCATELLO, Feb. 9 (AP)—First-degree murder charges have been filed against Alan Richard Tindore, 33, a member of the Fort Hall Indian reservation tribal council, for shooting of his nephew. Tindore was arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace R. Don Bistline. Tindore indicated he will consult with his attorney before deciding whether to ask for a preliminary hearing. The nephew, Michael Dike Burns, 28, was shot in the forehead at a party early Sunday morning. Police quoted Tindore as saying the shooting was accidental and that he had brought the weapon to the party intending to pawn it for drinks.

POCATELLO, Feb. 9 (AP)—Bannock county commission chairman Lawrence Lysrup told the former county shop foreman yesterday he was dismissed in the best interest of the community. Commissioner Emmette Spraker voted disagreed. The commissioners held a hearing yesterday for Allan Edmonds, who was discharged last Tuesday after working as a stock room clerk for the county for 14 years and as a foreman for the county shop for the past three years. Lysrup told Edmonds he was discharged because he was not adequate for the foreman position. "There is no doubt in my mind that you are a good party man, but we felt working relations would be bad if we left you in the shop as a clerk working under a new foreman," Lysrup said. Edmonds said he was not concerned about the foreman's position but felt he was the best qualified to continue as stock room clerk because of his many years of experience. Rupert Sorensen, a former shovel operator, was promoted to the foreman's post two weeks ago.

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—The search through downtown bars to discover who was with Ruth E. Myers Saturday night when she was apparently beaten and left naked in sub-freezing temperatures continued today. Police questioned one man yesterday who gave conflicting stories on his activities. He was cleared by a lie-detector test, said Ada county Sheriff Paul W. Bright. The sheriff said. He said detectives have a number of remaining leads to investigate. The 42-year-old divorcee's body was found Sunday morning by the aide of Pleasant Valley road about three miles south of Boise Municipal airport. She apparently walked more than half a mile from where blood and her clothing were found and then crawled 153 feet on her hands and knees before she died, said Coroner Edgar D. Paris.

Astronauts Named for 2-Man Trip

HOUSTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper, holder of America's space endurance record, and Lieut. Charles Pete Conrad were chosen today by the national space agency as the primary crew for America's most ambitious two-man flight. The national aeronautics and space administration (NASA) said the backup crew for the flight, which will be the longest space flight ever attempted, will be Neil Armstrong and Elliot S. Onizuka. The first civilians, to be picked for a possible spaceflight crew, Cooper is from Shawnee, Okla., and Conrad is from Philadelphia, Pa. Armstrong from Wapakoneta, O., and Onizuka from Dallas, Texas.

Cooper was the only member of the "original seven" astronauts left eligible to be chosen for the flight and got his endurance record MAY 15-16, 1962, in a 34-hour flight orbiting the Earth.

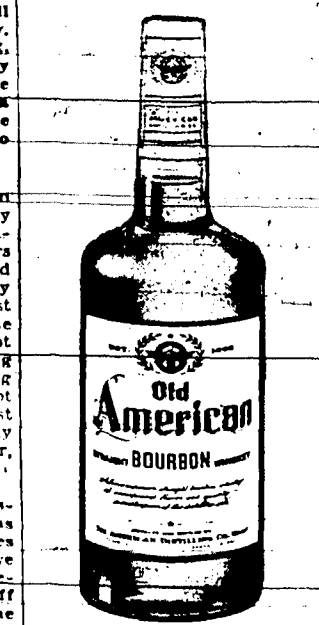

The first manned Gemini flight is scheduled for April this year, the second may be in June or July and the third could follow in September or October. If present plans hold, Cooper and Conrad will go into their orbit in the Gemini two-man space craft and make the first attempt at rendezvous and docking with a section ejected from their spacecraft. To do this, they would have to venture outside the spacecraft and would be the first astronauts to get outside the safety of their ship.

U.S. Postmen to Deliver 600 Million Valentines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Valentine's day, the annual Valentine day, will be celebrated by cupid in the nation's postmen. They will deliver an estimated 600 million Valentines, according to research by the National Geographic Society.

As astonishing as this quantity of valentines is, it shows signs of even greater growth and some day may rival the Christmas card deluge.

The society reports that the valentine market, not to relinquish its lead makers find the valentines more popular than ever, with sales this year greatly increased over a decade ago.

Calculations are that this year, more than three Valentines will be sent for each American, including the senders may not be entirely monotonous, but they really mean it or not, they are following an ancient custom when they salute their hearts with true love day.

The first Valentine was sent at least as early as 1415, according to the Geographic Society. That was when English clergy, Duke of Orleans, wrote his ladylove a tender note after he was imprisoned.

By the 1600's, large paper and colored designs were marketed in Western countries which had adopted the custom.

Up to about 1800, people continued to make their own Valentines, although some were printed for copying.

The society says the poets tried to offer appropriate thoughts for any situation. This example, turned up by a researcher, was found in an 1820 copybook and was intended for a fishmonger's sweetheart.

"You're the gill I take delight in, more than haddock, smelt or whiting. Flat as a flounder I shall be, unless you kindly pity me, — and to my tender heart."

The family prayer was offered by Stanley Penfold. Hanna Akers played the prelude and postlude and accompanied a quartet, composed of Mrs. Neils Anderson, Mrs. Joseph Haycock, Mrs. George Palmer and Mrs. Dee Christensen, who sang two hymns.

Jack Allen gave the invocation and Elder Williams read the obituary. Clifford Tolman was the speaker.

Flowers were arranged by the Hagerman Relief society under the direction of Mrs. R. H. Bendorf.

Palbearers were Willard Woodland, Leon Walton, Kenneth Moyer, Ted Brower, Richard Brower and Clarence Green.

Stanley Penfold gave the benediction. Concluding rites were conducted at Elmwood cemetery. Gooding. Jack Allen dedicated the grave.

"Hullabaloo" (Color, 1:30 p.m., NBC) — Gary Crosby and Frank Sinatra, Jr., co-host tonight's show. Guests will include Judy Collins, a folk singer, and Joe and Eddie.

"NBC White Paper" (News Special, 8 p.m., NBC) — This hour-long documentary will use the Lee Harvey Oswald case as its point of departure for an examination on the workings of criminal justice in the United States.

"The Doctors and the Nurses" (8 p.m., CBS) — Kathleen Widdowes is featured as an amnesia victim who undergoes a startling character change in "Sixteen Hours to Chicago."

"The Fugitive" (9 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., ABC) — Kimble flies solo a backwoods region where gun-totin' moonshiners pose a threat to the sheriff and his deputies who are in pursuit of him.

TUESDAY NIGHT MOVIES
"Rocky Mountain" (1950) Errol Flynn and Laraine Day
(10:30 p.m., KSL) — Opposing forces unite to fight a common enemy, the attacking Indians. You've seen it before, though not with Mr. and Mrs. Flynn.

"Star Spangled Rhythm" (1942) Victor Moore, Betty Hutton and Eddie Bracken (10:15 p.m., KBOI) — Giant variety act in all-star cast is loaded with talent but most of their ammunition is blank. Films plot has little to do with the film. But Moore is good as the Hollywood studio gatekeeper who's supposed to be an executive.

Complaining Crow Gets Wish, Cards Trade Him For 49ers' Woodson

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 8 (AP) — Veteran St. Louis Cardinal football halfback John David Crow, who complained that he didn't get to play enough in 1961, was traded to the San Francisco 49ers Monday for defense specialist Abe Woodson. The Cardinals apparently accepted Crow's demands that he be traded because he didn't get to play "as much as I deserved." Officials of the two National Football League teams said the straight player swap would help both. The Cardinals need Woodson's kickoff return abilities and the 49ers are in desperate need of a top running back.

Pro Rumors Denied By Swimming Champ

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Feb. 9 (AP) — Olympic swimming champion Donna de Varona and her father flatly denied Monday that she plans to turn pro in the near future. "I can't understand how rumors like this got started," said the 18-year-old star following a published report that she would abandon her amateur career in television and advertising.

A black and white cartoon by Gill Fox. A large, balding man in a suit and tie is seen from the back, carrying a large, round, flat object (possibly a pie or a large coin) under his arm. He is walking towards a bar. Behind the bar, a bartender is looking at him. The bar has shelves with bottles and signs that read "WINE", "LIQUOR", and "BEER". A cash register is visible on the bar counter.

"What do you recommend for a celebration that fell through?"

The Football Team
by Dave Coverly

Sorry I'm a little late, Buck!

You're in plenty of time for the kickoff, Wallet! Come in and meet the team!

This is Bart Jones! His son is fullback on the football team!

And Hank Smith! His boy is captain of the basketball team!

What does your boy play, Wallet?

My son is at college! I have a daughter now, high school! He's gonna make a good fullback!

Rip Kirby

I'M SURE MR. KRUBY WOULD HAVE RETURNED IF HE WERE ALL RIGHT. I SHALL TAKE ACTION.

EXOTIC DRESS DOES DO SOMETHING FOR ONE. I FEEL LIKE RUDOLPH VALENTINO ABOUT TO DASH OVER THE BURNING SANDS.

OH, MR. DESMOND! DO BE CAREFUL!

IT WILL INSPIRE ME TO THINK THAT YOU CAN.

THE GOVERNMENT ICEBREAKER IS COMING!!

WHAT MAKES YOU THINK SO?

LISTEN! YOU CAN HEAR IT CRUNCHING THROUGH THE ICE!

THAT'S ME. I'M CHUNKING PEANUT BRITTLE.
