Richfield Works on Temporary Facilities

RICHFIELD, March 3 — Richfield school officials were working out arrangements Wednesday to set up grade school classes in available churches and community buildings as debris was being salvaged from the grade school building razed by fire Tuesday morning. Firemen planned to knock down a portion of the charred rock walls in an attempt to retrieve the stove and refrigerator in the basement kitchen, but insurance adjusters halted the plan until the investigation is completed. The fire, which razed the 55-year-old building in about two hours, was caused by a hot lunch cook, Mr. Murie Riley. It was reported that materials for the seventh and eighth graders had been saved, but most of the books and other classroom equipment for the lower grades were lost in the fire.

I Learned Forgiveness

By JIMMY DEAN
TV and Recording Star

How can a son despise his own father? In my case, it wasn't hard. To explain, let me go back to the time I was 11; my brother and I were nine years old. We lived in Plainview, Tex. That was a long time ago, but I can still see my mother's face as she tried to explain that our father had left us. Had he left us, I remember the deep hurt in her eyes and the our hearts, as Jimmy Dean told us we all would have to work hard just to eat and stay alive.

she was right; it was hard. We never heard Mama complain about being poor. There was never any doubt that we would outlast it. Hope was in our hearts; deep hope because it was nourished by a deep faith.

Mama got this faith from her father. We called Grandfather Papa. The first time we knew him he was all the Papa we had. He was a short man with tall beliefs who held that in times of distress you depended on your prayers. All that happened was God's will, he would tell us, and if you couldn't see the why of it at the time, it all would be clear later on.

There came the day when the bitterness in me came out and I angrily criticized my father. Grandfather picked up his Bible, he leafed through the pages quickly, and read this:

"It is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's judgment; yea, I judge not mine own self: but he that judgeth Me is the Lord. Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, Who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts."

But I was 16 then, and words from the old black-leather-bound Book didn't help the headache I felt.

After the 11th grade, I enlisted in the air force. A quartet of it who sang at night just for the asked me to come along with my accordion when their fiddler got sick.

By the time I was out of uniform, I was a solo singer and was making a nice living from personal appearances and records. Then I wrote and recorded "Big Bad John," which became a surprising hit. Suddenly, after a silence of 17 years, my father called me one day and asked for money to finance some crazy scheme. I turned him down cold. He called several more times with various requests. The conversations were quick and brief—a flat no. I'm sure he could tell how bitter I was; after a while the calls stopped.

One day I was surprised to receive an invitation to appear at a dedication of a new school in my home town of Plainview. Remembering all the taunts about our bib overalls, I was tempted to say no. But my mother reminded me gently of the fine neighbors we had had. She said we owed them something.

When I walked out on stage, everyone was standing and applauding. I was so moved that I couldn't talk or sing or anything. Looking down in the audience, I saw that Mama was crying. At that moment I felt that all the years of poverty and the humiliation she suffered because of my father were wiped away.

The memory of this experience was still in my mind two years ago when my father called again. "All I want from you this time is your forgiveness, Jimmy. I haven't been much of a father, and I'm sorry. Please, will you forgive me?" There was a pause. "I have cancer. My time is nearly gone now."

The silence was probably no longer than 10 seconds. Yet it was long enough for me to look back and see the senselessness of any man trying to judge another. For a moment I felt set apart from life's struggle; it was almost as though I was given some new insight into the mind of God.

I forgave my father, and I asked to be forgiven, too, for ever trying to judge him. "Thank you for that, Jimmy," he replied. A few days later he was dead.

I'm sure his last phone call to me helped my father leave this world with a peaceful mind. And I feel that it did something for me. For today whenever I read of bad conduct in the newspaper, or see a drunk reeling about the sidewalk, or feel criticism rising inside me toward any human being, I try to stop myself at that very movement. And my memory returns to the words of St. Paul: "Judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, Who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts."

Lesson in Politics? Way last fall it appeared all the preliminaries had been handled in preparation for a job corps camp in the south hills. Since then, various meetings have been held at which plans for the camp have been explained in detail and finally it appeared everyone was pretty well agreed the proposed job corps camp could do a good deal in the way of developing recreational possibilities in the south hills.

About two months ago when the administration released its new budget, the word went out that the Cottonwood radar station in north Idaho would be abandoned, probably by the end of the fiscal year on June 30. On Feb. 22, a meeting was held at Prairie high school in Cottonwood to discuss with local residents the possibility of having a job corps camp at the radar site.

In spite of the fast work on the job corps camp for the Cottonwood radar site, there's still no further word on the south hills camp proposal. It might be pointed out that plans for the south hills camp were publicized months ago, long before it became known publicly that the Cottonwood radar site would be closed.

So what's the big difference? Why the rush on the Cottonwood camp while the south hills proposal lies neglected and apparently forgotten after several months? Well, there's an excellent chance the people of Magic Valley are getting a hard lesson in practical politics.

In the meantime, Harding has reported the Johnson administration will announce a new job for him any day and adds that he is being encouraged to run again for an elective office in Idaho.

Gov. George Romney has proposed a practical solution to the dispute about educational standards observed by the Amish in Camden. He would simply exempt the Amish from the accredited teacher requirement, which has been the sticking point between the Amish and education authorities.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie has asked each recent session of the legislature to take the steps required preliminary to calling a constitutional convention. The necessary bills have been introduced, but somehow they always get lost in the rush.

No one contends that the Idaho constitution, designed for special problems of the horse and buggy days, is coping with modern problems. There were three constitutional changes on the state ballot last November and more will be coming up every election.

Reading Adlai's talks to the United Nations makes us wonder if anyone else was ever able to make hard words sound so soft.

WHIRLIGIG BY ANDREW TULLY ON THE CHINESE BORDER, March 3—There is an ugly atmosphere here where the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong abuts Communist China. It is the aroma of hundreds of pigs. These are communist pigs, and they are imprisoned in a dozen or so cattle pens en route to Hong Kong kitchens via the Kowloon-Canton railway. Their BO permeates the little town of Lo Wu, last stop for the western traveler before he crosses the muddy Shum Chun river and passes into Red China.

NO FORTIFICATIONS—The border is on the far side of the aluminum-roofed bridge. Three Chinese soldiers with carbines hide behind the bridge to avoid being photographed while Chinese bureaucrats examine the papers of Hong Kong Chinese en route to visit relatives in Mao's Marxist paradise. Returning travelers carry meat bags containing "Lon's Head," a Shanghai delicacy of pressed meat.

FLOW OF TRAVELERS—Yet the bridge traffic is considerable. Seventy thousand crossed over from Hong Kong during the Chinese New Year festivities a few weeks ago. These tourists take the train from Kowloon, get off at Lo Wu, walk over the bridge and transfer to a Canton train on the other side.

NO LOSS OF FACE—To be sure, there was that incident recently. The British decided to cover their half of the ridge to shelter tourists waiting in line for document inspection. This annoyed the reds, who saw a loss of face in photos showing travellers on their side huddled under umbrellas against the hot sun.

SPACE RACE CONTINUES President Johnson used his space message to congress to drive home some arguments for passage of the more than $5 billion dollar budgetary request he had made earlier in the week for space research and technology.

Does such a good justify the expenditure of more than $5 billion for space in the next fiscal year? The requested amount is several hundred million dollars in excess of the total appropriation asked for all federal government activities in the two vital fields of health and education taken together.

Russia's First Discount Store Off to Flying Start

MOSCOW, March 3 (U)—"How's business?" The director of what is probably Russia's most unusual store was asked. He smiled. So far sales were running 40 per cent above normal he said.

Moscow's first discount house appeared to be off to a flying start.

Women jostled each other to get goods cut to half price. They fought for attention from sales girls. It looked like any normal sale in the Western world.

But in Moscow the scene reflected a commercial revolution, aimed at solving a Soviet economic problem.

The people continually clamor for more and better consumer goods. By official statistics, however, about 20 per cent of goods produced last year were left unsold.

Shoppers passed up ready-made clothes, rolls of fabric, cameras, radios, footwear, and other goods. Some were old-fashioned or poorly made. Some were good quality goods, over-produced by central plans which ignored demand. Others, under the state pricing system, cost too much.

The problem of unsold goods was important enough to receive the personal attention of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

In his budget speech Dec. 9, Kosygin announced that a series of special stores would be opened to offer unsold goods at cut prices.

Kosygin visited the first discount store Dec. 29 to inspect preparations for the opening, the director, Josef B. Rzhavsky, said.

The store, a half-hour ride by subway and bus from the Kremlin in central Moscow, was first opened in 1963 as department store No. 50. It was converted into a discount house in December and reopened in January.

For the first few days, Rzhavsky said, sales were 40 per cent above the average three-day period under the old system.

Several new sales techniques announcements in newspapers, radio and television, and posters calling attention to the price cuts.

—Self-service counters where, for example, a shopper can open a drawer, pick out buttons, drop the required coins in a box, and leave.

Rzhavsky has the authority to cut prices even further if goods do not sell. But he said he is not allowed to offer gifts, two for the price of one, or other gimmicks to boost sales.

Some prices are still high, despite markdowns of 10 to 70 per cent.

A man's one-button suit of cheap wool, for example, was reduced from $156 to $97.23. The suit is considered out of style but still it costs the bulk of an average monthly salary of $111.

Viola Baggett, Chidester Say Wedding Vows

BUHL, March 3—The scene for the church was the scene for the double ring wedding of Viola Baggett, daughter of Mr. Lee Baggett, and Mrs. Owen E. Baggett, and Vern Darwin Chidester, son of Mrs. Lloyd L. Chidester, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watson solemnized the nuptials. The bride wore a floor-length gown of white luster satin with a "molded" bodice and long sleeves. The bride's hair was styled in a soft, wavy fashion with lace inserts highlighted with sequin and pearl embellishments. The softly gored, full skirt cascaded into a chapel-length train.

A fountain spray of seed pearls and pearls graced her hair and shoulders. Her veil of illusion fabric carried a crescent-shaped and white bouffant with ribbon accents and white nylon streamers. A cultured pearl pendant necklace served as her only jewelry. For tokens of sentiment, the bride wore the traditional blue and white sash, and the groom wore a white sash with a pocket square given to her by the bridegroom's grandmother.

Judy Baggett, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Earl Clark, Mrs. Ben Chavers and Mrs. Doyle Hymas, Twin Falls. They were identical street-length gowns of green spruce peau de soie fashioned with fitted bodices, long necklines, long sleeves and accented with bell-shaped skirts. Each carried a single white chrysanthemum adorned with white streamers.

Florence Kay Bean, as flower girl, wore a white nylon frock. She carried a white basket detailed with flowing satin streamers filled with amilax petals.

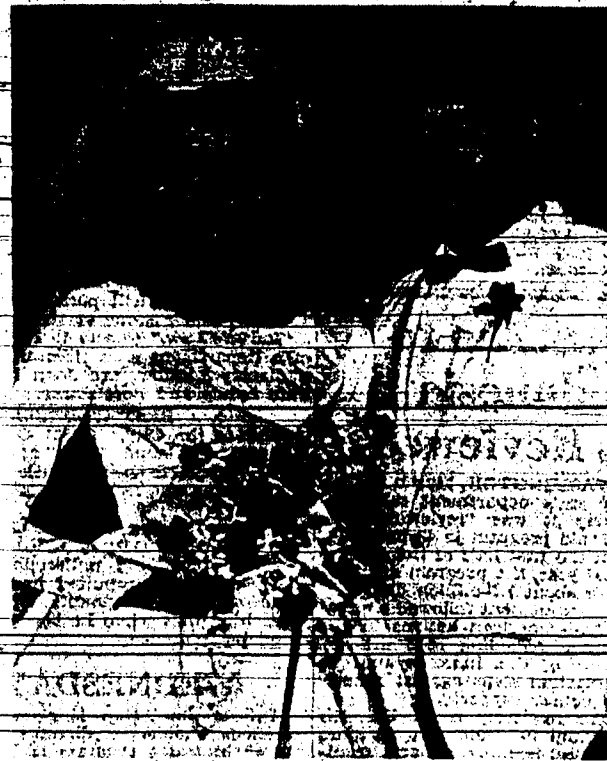

Scott Baggett, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer. Lewis Pond, Buhl, was best man. Others were Larry Baggett, Gene Baggett and Jerry Baggett, all brothers of the bride.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Glade Bean, organist. She also accompanied Tony Baggett, soloist.

The bride's mother was attired in a green and gold brocade sheath dress with gold accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue sheath dress with white accessories. Each wore a corsage of white carnations with gold leaf accents.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in the cultural hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with white satin and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake encircled at the base with amilax. The bride's bridesmaids wore green and white, and it was topped with an array of white wedding bells against a background of tulle and lilies of the valley. Double crystal chandeliers with white tapered flared shades.

Mrs. Gene Baggett cut and served the wedding cake and Mrs. Gary Baggett presided at the punch service. Both are sisters-in-law of the bride. Other reception assistants were Mrs. William Asher, Burley, Deena

Italian Styles For Spring Are Described

By Helen Hennessy
NEW YORK, March 3 (NEA)—You can always count on Italy's talented designers to combine dramatic styling with beautiful color in their semi-annual fashion collections. And the fashion news this spring is no exception.

From beachwear to evening gowns, bright colors abound. There are shrimp pinks and orange sherbets, peach and apricot.

Fabrics are exciting, with unusual textured weaves and riving contrasting threads to create interest. Reversible wools are shown once again.

Fique is big news this time around and appears in every collection.

Milla Schon, a first-timer at the Pitti Palace showings brought forth bravos with a collection of slender coats and suits in linen and reversible wool in delicate colors. For resort wear she showed bush jackets, softened by curly petals.

Texas-born Tiziani featured suit jackets open in the back for both daytime and cocktail wear. His blouse were bi-type pieces of silk or wool inserted into the garments.

Balmain likes a spare geometric line—small shoulders and big, standaway collars.

Princess Gallatine's theme was softness and femininity, all the way from her toga nightgowns to suits and evening gowns.

Tita Rossi showed the suit she designed for Sophia Loren in "Judith" and made it her theme. She repeated its long, man-tailored jacket and pleated skirt in her evening line as well.

And since no Italian collection would be complete without the "palazzo" pajamas and flowing culotte skirts, floweringly executed by Valentino; these were shown, too—with matching turbans.

Illness Sticks With Jerome as Meets Resume

Jerome faces another tournament week-end without its top scorer and Murtaugh came through the week-ends with "a few scars but no real damage" Wednesday. The week-end appears to be the only developments that awaited resuming action Thursday night on four fronts. Those tournaments include A-1 at Rupert, A-2 at Jerome, and A-4 action at Gooding State (fifth district) and at Murtaugh (sixth district).

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY
In the past few years—or as long as Pat Young has coached—Jerome's basketball team has been hit by a series of injuries and illnesses to a greater or lesser degree. It should be no surprise when it finally became the coach's turn. Young sustained two mild heart attacks at the end of the basketball season but has bounced back and again is on the bench during the tournament.
The first came after the second game and the second the following Monday.

"Linda soared me," Young admits. "But I think the thing I feared most was that it would take me completely out of coaching."

Fortunately, the doctor didn't believe it was the coaching per se that brought the attack about. "It seemed to me it was just a whole series of things. Not just the coaching. He felt I could have had one at a show, for instance, or let me go right back to coaching, though, and I feel good about that," Young says. "There are a lot of things I'd rather let go than working with the youngsters."
Since then top scorer Pat Williams has come down with mononucleosis and will miss the tournament.

In the first couple of years Jerome had the depth to overcome such afflictions with height and experience. It no longer is true. One more and the Tigers will be definitely hurt.

Before Skip Stahley moved from the Idaho athletic directorship to a similar post at Portland, that school already had been mentioned as a possible Big Sky conference member. Being from there, current Idaho coach Jim Goddard favors it. So it came as little surprise last Friday when Stahley announced the school would apply for membership. That might be all right but there is considerable digging to be done on the matter before its membership could be approved.

Currently, we are informed, Portland does not give any athletic aid whatsoever. That means the school is well behind the current members in football in particular and track, basketball and baseball to lesser degree. (Maybe not quite so far behind as IU and Idaho is baseball this season however.)
The release that carried Stahley's announcement said an alumni or booster group would go about soliciting sufficient funds to offer 100 athletic grants-in-aid.
Now that hardly seems a solid base for embarking on a well-founded athletic program—even the somewhat small Big Sky league scene. The first year or two may be easy but no one would be kidded by the fact the football team would get some real bumps at the start. And taking wallpings is hardly conducive to open-walled boosters the following spring.
One would have to think the Big Sky had better get some greater assurance than booster funds before admitting Portland.

There also is the feeling, however, Portland has its eye on big things. Goddard, although in close connection with the school might prejudice his feelings. It maintains that Portland will someday soon become bigger than Oregon and Oregon State—due largely to the fact Portland area students can live at home and attend the downtown campus. In fact, Goddard, if anything, is somewhat awed by the potential growth of the already large 7,500 school.
Therefore, it might be allowable to hazard a guess that Portland has selected the Big Sky as its proving ground with an ultimate aim of Pacific Athletic conference affiliation in the future.

In Goddard's estimation, Portland can be 15,000 in 10 to 15 years—if the building funds are kept coming.

Johnson Is Loop Player of Year
SAN FRANCISCO, March 3 (AP)—University of San Francisco center Ollie Johnson Monday was voted West Coast Athletic conference basketball player-of-the-year by Northern California sports writers.
Paul Caldwell, San Francisco state coach, was selected Far West conference coach of the year by the writers at their weekly luncheon.
Johnson, the 6 foot, 7 inch sophomore has been the key three consecutive WCAC championship campaigns for the

DISPLAYING NATIONAL TROPHIES they won in the national Youth Bowling association doubles tournament are Debbie White, a Twin Falls high school senior, and Cliff Hinkle, a sophomore. The two placed 16th in the national competition after taking the Idaho title early in January. Results of the mail-in tournament were announced Tuesday. (Times-News photo)

Surprises Entered in Flamingo

MIAMI, March 3 (AP)—A few surprises turned up at the entry box Tuesday for the 36th running of Hialeah's Flamingo stakes, and four Florida-bred fillies were among the dozen expected to start Wednesday in the East's first major test for derby-age fillies.

Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hall to All was 8-5 choice in the one and one-half-mile feature and Harbor View farm's Sparkling Johnny, also a homebred, was second choice at 3-1.

Others from Florida were Beupay, a 12-1 chance, and Needles, Count, a pair of the 1956 winner, Needles, at 30-1.

Originally envisioned as a two-horse race between Bold Lad and Sadler, the Flamingo now appears an open race with the best still in training going for the big money.

Bold Lad popped a splint and is out until the New Year season. Sadler injured a foot and was retired to stud.

Wednesday's edition drew 75 nominations at $200 each. With 12 starters the race will gross $143,600 and the winner will get $93,340.

Others entered are Dapper Dan, Country Friend, Native Charger, Gelari, Connecticut Hall, Narushus, Flyalong and Eurasian.

Michigan Claims Share of Title

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 3 (AP)—All-America Chazie Russell handed Michigan basketball coach Dave Strack a birthday present Tuesday night—a 98-75 victory over Wisconsin and at least a share of the Big Ten championship.

Russell poured in 24 points and Bill Buntin chipped in 20 points and pulled down 20 rebounds to help Strack celebrate his 42nd birthday.

The No. 1-ranked Wolverines are 12-0 in the conference and 20-2 over-all.

Racey Plates

BALTIMORE, March 3 (AP)—The horses are running at Bowie race course, but there was plenty of action Monday at Pimlico.

Several hundred persons were lined up in front of the betting windows at 9 a.m., ready to plunk down their cash. But instead of placing bets, they were paying $15 or $25 for their automobile license tags.

Joe Nitkey, public relations director for Pimlico, noted that the color of the 1965 tags, black and orange, are the track's colors.

Spectator Killed As Dragster Loses Control

DALLAS, Ga., March 3 (AP)—Stock car racer Richard Petty's supercharged dragster roared off a drag strip Sunday, leaped 20 feet into the air and hurled into a crowd of spectators, killing an 8-year-old boy and injuring at least eight other persons.

The dead youth was identified as Wayne Dye of Austell, whose father was injured. Petty was not hurt.

The wreck happened at the Southeastern International dragway near this town northwest of Atlanta. More than 10,000 persons gathered around the strip to see Petty last year's NASCAR grand national champion, drive his Plymouth dragster.

The Randleman, N. C., driver revved the radically rebuilt car for his second run of the day, took off from the line in a cloud of smoke and broke a tie-rodd.

The car hurtled off the strip and into a ditch, leaped 20 feet in the air and crashed through a chain link fence into the spectators.

SANTA DOMINGO, March 3 (AP)—Unsigned Julian Javier left Wednesday for the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla.

T. F. Duo Is 16th in U. S. Bowling Meet

A Twin Falls sophomore with four years' experience, under his belt and a first-year bowling senior copped 16th in the Youth Bowling association's national doubles tournament.

Word of the placement was received Tuesday. Taking the trophies, presented by junior instructor Dick Harder at the Bowladrome, were Cliff Hinkle and Debbie White. The pair earlier won first place in the Idaho bowl off to become eligible for the national event. A total of 39 states participated.

Hinkle, a sophomore who started bowling as a sixth grader, had games of 154, 191 and 168 which gave him a 560 total with his 79-pig handicaps. Miss White, a senior in her first year of organized competition, chipped in with 126, 132 and 134 to go along with her 222 handicap for a 614 total.

The duo rolled the 1,203 Jan. 30 at the Bowladrome and the results then were mailed to the national headquarters for comparison.

Lakers Rally to Defeat 76ers

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Jerry West and Elgin Baylor, the Los Angeles Lakers' one-two punch, broke over a tight game in the fourth quarter Tuesday night in heating the Philadelphia 76ers, 126-117.

The Lakers and 76ers duelled through eight ties and nine leads changed before West and Baylor went to work in a hurry. They opened up a 10-point bulge, 114-104, with 3:20 left and that was it.

CLEMENTE IS OUT
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Outfielder Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates is hospitalized in Puerto Rico with a fever and probably won't take part in spring drills for three weeks, the club said Tuesday.

Kirk Williams Is Named 'Player Of Year' for South Idaho Loop

Kirk Williams, who made the first team last year on shooting ability alone as a pressure-reliever for top scorer Steve Beer, turned into an all-around performer this year and walked off with "player of the year" honors for the Southern Idaho conference. Williams replaces Beer, who shared the honors with Borah's Ron Imel last season, in the voting by SIC sportswriters and sportscasters who also named Murray Satterfield, Borah, "coach of the year" for the second straight time.

Villanova Is Favorite in IC4A Track

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The track coaches from metropolitan New York colleges made Villanova an overwhelming favorite to win the IC4A indoor track team title, but there were a couple of interesting dissenting votes Monday.

Five of the six coaches attending the weekly luncheon of the New York Track Writers Association picked the Philadelphia Main Line team to repeat as team champions of the 59 team meet in Madison Square Garden Saturday.

The "no" votes came from New York university's Joe Healey and not at all unexpectedly from Villanova's Jumbo Jim Elliott, whose comments were made earlier and read in his absence.

Healey picked Harvard's Heptagonal Games champions and Elliott, whose teams have won three in a row and six of the last eight team titles, chose Maryland.

"Maryland will win, with Harvard second and Villanova, I hope, third," Elliott's statement said.

"If we score in the field events at all, it will be one point," he said.

Healey picked Harvard to win the huge meet "on a guess."

"I think Harvard will forget that its primary objective is the Heptagonal Games, keep itself intact for the IC4A and win it."

Terrell, Machen Take Work Break

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—Ernest Terrell and Eddie Machen took a respite from drills Monday while promoters said they already have $25,000 in the till for Friday's World Boxing association's heavyweight title fight.

Terrell, WBA's No. 1 contender, and veteran ring journeyman Machen, No. 3, will resume training Tuesday.

Machen, however, ended his sparring Sunday and will taper off in light workouts. His trainer, Willie Ketchum, said that Machen, after two months of heavy preparations in California, is being laid off to keep sharp.

TRADE DENIED

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 3 (AP)—The Buffalo Bills, American Football league champions, denied a report Tuesday they had traded guard George Fline to the Denver Broncos for defensive back Tommy Janik.

KIRK WILLIAMS was named player of the year for the Southern Idaho conference in voting by sportswriters - casters Wednesday. The 6-foot, 1-inch Twin Falls senior was second in loop scoring and first in free-throw shooting accuracy. Averaging 18.2 points per game, he will lead the Bruins into the A-1 regional finals against either Burley or Minico in Twin Falls Friday night. (Times-News photo)

Minnesota Edges Hawkeyes 78-70

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 3 (AP)—Minnesota fought off a spirited Iowa rally in the second half and beat the Hawkeyes 78-70 Tuesday night to keep alive the Gophers' hopes of sharing the Big Ten basketball title with Michigan.

The big test will come Saturday when Minnesota, 10-2, invades the lair of the Wolverines, who are with a 12-0 mark. During the first half it appeared that Iowa, now 7-5, would be a pushover as it fell behind at the break 38-23.

McCracken Quits Indiana Position

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 3 (AP)—Branch McCracken, 57, basketball coach at Indiana university for 24 years, resigned Tuesday night effective at the end of the current season.

McCracken told President Elvis J. Slahr he wanted to retire from coaching before his health became affected, but he said he had no immediate health problem.

McCracken has tenure as a faculty member and will revert to a full professorship in the school of health, physical education and recreation.

Suspects in Bomb Plot Are Indicted

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The principal suspects in a bizarre plot to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other U. S. monuments were indicted yesterday in federal court.

In addition to the four persons arrested here Feb. 16, when the plot was uncovered, the indictment named Mitchell Saunter, a 30-year-old Montreal school teacher, who is being held in Canada.

Specifically, the three men and women were accused of conspiring to smuggle dynamite into their country from Canada for the purpose of demolishing the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell. Police said the explosions were planned to take place simultaneously.

The dynamite allegedly was brought into the United States by Michele Duclos, 23, a Montreal television personality and member of the Rassemblement Pour l'Indépendance, a Canadian organization seeking Quebec's secession from the rest of Canada.

She later was arrested in New York along with three members of the Black Liberation Front: Robert Steele Collier, 28, the self-proclaimed leader of the militant Negro group, Walter A. Bowe, 32, and Khaleel Sayyed, 22.

Review of U. S. Foreign Policy Asked

PALO ALTO, Calif., March 3 (AP)—Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho, called last night for a general review of American foreign policy in both Africa and Asia.

A ranking member of the senate foreign relations committee, Church said the United States is "over-involved in the internal affairs of countries on both continents."

Church made the statement in a speech prepared for delivery at Stanford university, which recognized him as the recipient of the school's 1965 distinguished alumnus award.

Church described himself as a "confirmed internationalist." But he said American foreign policy since World War II "has shifted increasingly toward self-appointing relationships in dealings abroad."

"We must concern ourselves less with other peoples' ideologies," he said, "and adopt techniques which are sensitive to, and compatible with, the prevailing sentiment of the people in each great region of the world."

BECCLES, England, March 3 (AP)—A chimney blaze interrupted fireman Arthur Bryant's retirement presentation.

He helped douse the flames then went back to the ceremony to collect a clock marking his 25 years' service.

Six Months Expense Report By U. S. Senators Listed

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Many odd, unrelated and fascinating facts about the senate came to light today with the publication of a six-month report by its secretary, Fulton M. Johnson.

For example:

The senate spent 2.85 million dollars on "miscellaneous" items which is more than the $2,471,000 the members and the vice president drew in pay.

It costs $58,370 to transport members from Washington to their homes twice a session.

Last July the senate bought 272

U. S. Makes Pledge to U. N. Agencies

UNITED NATIONS, March 3 (AP)—The United States yesterday pledged up to $6 million dollars to the two main U. N. aid agencies. It has delayed its pledge nearly four months because of the U. N. financial deadlock.

U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made the pledge to Secretary General Thant for the U. N. special funds and the expanded program of technical assistance.

Most nations made such pledges in November at a pledging conference. But the United States withheld its pledge at that time in what was widely interpreted as a pressure move to force the Soviet Union to pay its U. N. debts.

The United States has been the chief supporter of the two aid programs through the years. Yesterday's pledge as usual was made on condition that the U. S. contribution make up no more than 40 per cent of the total.

The two aid programs are budgeted for about 137 million dollars.

Poor Tuning

THE HAGUE, Holland, March 3 (AP)—A local resident called the fire brigade to investigate an annoying high-pitched whistle he thought was coming from the empty house next door.

Firemen finding nothing, checked the irate caller's house and discovered a badly-tuned transistor radio playing in his wife's shopping bag.

Last Honor Paid To Clyde R. Hull

JEROME, March 3—Funeral services were conducted for Clyde Raymond Hull at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Home funeral chapel by the Rev. Arnie Salee.

Mrs. Earl E. Bird was the soloist and Linda Bird was the accompanist.

Honorary pallbearers were the Rev. Ernest Hayhurst, Harry Moorhead, R. G. Freeman, C. J. Carlson, R. L. Hawley, Tinsley Lamm, R. W. Williamson, Harold Cameron, Russell Winch, C. E. Harder, S. L. Thorpe, Clark Hiss and W. F. Zahn.

Active pallbearers were Monte-tailed Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan.

Senators get $2,400 a year in stationery allowance. What they don't use they can keep. But the internal revenue service has decreed they must pay income taxes on the residue.

In the period covered by Johnson's report, Sen. John Sparkman, D., Ala., apparently was low on stationery and used up $2,206.45 of his allowance.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R., Idaho, seemed to have been well stocked. He drew only $5.83 worth.

Mardi Gras Fete Ends in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 3 (AP)—Ashes replaced greasepaint on the faces of Mardi Gras revelers today as solemnity followed merrymaking in "the city that care forgot."

Many masqueraders—who yesterday lived as kings and queens, devils, dancing girls, and pirates—unmasked and went to church to begin the penitent 40-day Lenten period.

The sober morning that came after what many New Orleanians call "the greatest free show on earth" also brought the world's biggest hangover.

"Greatest" and "biggest" were fitting descriptions this year. Oldtimers said the gigantic crowd may have been the largest ever.

Deputy Police Supt. Al Theriot said a half-million bon vivants packed streets from wall to wall along the six-mile Rex parade. Another half million may have watched the six other parades—some of which rambled through suburbs.

As usual, police had their hands full. They reported over 160 arrests—most of them for disturbing the peace and drunkenness. Hospitals gave emergency treatment to more than 300.

The big blast ended 10 days of parades and 68 costume balls. The balls started Jan. 6, the 12th night after Christmas.

Eyewitness Account of Fighting in Viet Nam Is Related by Photographer

Editor's note—Air strikes are taking major headlines from Viet Nam these days, but the dirty little war goes on around here. It is an eyewitness story by AP photographer John Foss.

By HORST VAAS

XUYEN MOC, South Viet Nam March 3 (AP)—"Let's get out of here," the American captain exhorted the Vietnamese battalion commander squatting in the dark jungle.

The Vietnamese major, 28, shrugged: "My orders from the task force are to stay here for the night."

Within 12 hours those orders cost two dead, 18 wounded and a Vietnamese supply helicopter lost. By the standards of the guerrilla war in Viet Nam it was in many ways, a typical jungle action.

It began in midafternoon Sunday when the sixth battalion of the Vietnamese army's crack airborne brigade emerged into a clearing after two days' jungle marching.

With the force were three American advisers—lanky Capt. Robert Losik, Milwaukee, Wis., a professional soldier, air force Lieut. Buck Rennick, Wichita, Kans., a bachelor who volunteered for the dangerous job of air spotter, and S/Sgt. Erich Dippel, a former German soldier who joined the American army to get U. S. citizenship.

The battalion was one of five seeking a suspected Viet Cong headquarters area 50 miles southeast of Saigon. Another mission was to assess damage caused by jungle-bombing by American B57 jets.

Early in the afternoon a battalion reached a clearing dotted with gaping bomb craters left by the air strikes. The orders came down to stay put and look around.

Radio packs were set up on a deserted road. A triangular defense perimeter was set up in the adjoining jungle.

By nightfall Losik and the Vietnamese major were in a fortified "council of war." After some four hours on the scene they knew Viet Cong must be aware of the outfit. The advisers feared a possible ambush or mortar barrage. So did the Vietnamese commander—but he had his orders.

Losik started massing coordinates for artillery support. He radioed for smoke marking rounds and two came whistling in, reassuring 70 yards from outer foxholes.

With three men, Rennick went to the edge of the road and dug a hole, filling it with firewood and wiring a detonator at the bottom. If the Viet Cong attacked the detonator would light a bonfire so planes could see a marker.

In the darkness Vietnamese soldiers built new camouflage. A few played tiny transistor radios, picking up popular music from Saigon.

Through the night the soldiers slept fitfully. At dawn Losik again spoke to the Vietnamese major. He urged again "Let's get out of here."

The major took a platoon and started to scout the road area—and then it came. The first sound resembled popping champagne corks as the mortars popped up out of their tubes a few hundred yards away in the Viet Cong jungle.

Seconds later the first explosions ripped overhead, shattering branches and raining shrapnel on the command post area.

Losik grabbed the Vietnamese commander's radio and started to support Dippel sitting in a machine-gun position. Mortars came in bursts of two and three, dropping at about 20-second intervals. Sturdy Vietnamese soldiers made hardly a sound when they were hit—only a pained and surprised grunt.

Before long the sound of American choppers filtered through the trees, mingling with the sound of bursting mortars.

Mathematics Rule Is Simpler Than It Looks

By KATIE MUELLER
Written for Associated Press
Let's start this lesson in the "new math" with a very difficult problem.

Is your mind in a mathematical gear? All right, here it is: times equals five.

It wasn't really difficult. But, in just the same way, many people think the new math is difficult and confusing, when in reality, it can be much simpler than the old math.

The above problem is an example of another one of the principles of the new math: the principle of multiplying by one or PM1. We all know, of course, that one times any number produces the same number.

But PM1 really does help in solving some math problems. For instance, when used in the distributive principle of multiplication over addition, it has a big advantage.

I can just imagine what you're thinking now: "If I only knew what the distributive principle of multiplication over addition is, I'd be all set."

Let me try to explain.

Suppose you were given this problem to solve: 14 times 92 plus 14 times eight.

Since mathematicians agree to multiply before adding, you might try it this way: 14 times 92 equals 1,288, and 14 times 8 equals 112, and 1,288 plus 112 equals 1,400.

This is unnecessarily hard, however, if you realize that the distributive principle of multiplication over addition—DPMA—can be used here.

Look at it this way: you have 14 times 92 plus 14 times eight. Combine your 14's and you have 14 times 92 plus eight. This is DPMA. Here's an example: 14 times 92 plus 14 times 8 equals 14 times (92 plus 8) equals 14 times 100 equals 1,400.

By using DPMA, a lot of hard work is eliminated.

If you insist on seeing it in mathematical terms, the DPMA can be stated this way: for each number X, Y, and Z, X times Y plus X times Z equals X times (Y plus Z).

Let's go back for a minute to the principle of multiplying by one—PM1. I said PM1 may be used in DPMA. Here's an example: Nine times eight plus two times eight plus two equals nine times eight plus two—this is PM1—equals 10 times eight plus two—this is DPMA—equals 10 times 8 equals 80.

There are many other principles taught in the modern math in addition to PM1 and DPMA. We had four in the first article of this series, remember? They were:

Commutative principle for multiplication—CPM: for each number X and Y, X times Y equals Y times X.

Associative principle for multiplication—APM: for each number X, Y, and Z, X times (Y times Z) equals (X times Y) times Z.

Here are some other common principles:

Principle of multiplying by 0—PM0: for each number X, X times 0 equals 0.

Principle of adding 0—PA0: for each number X, X plus 0 equals X.

I have tried in these first few articles to explain some of the first things learned by students of the new math. Of course, there are many other things to be learned. One of the most "real" numbers, I'll try to explain that in the next article.

Until then, have fun trying to understand this one!

BOARDING A BULLDOZER, which is his "textbook" in an unusual education project on the north-central plains of Kansas, is Gary Sutton. The North Central Kansas Area Vocational-Technical school, designed for the non-college student or college dropout, is teaching skills that will enable young people to compete with those who have advanced formal education. School in Kansas Starts Unusual Education Project

BELOIT, Kans., March 3 (AP)—Imagine a classroom with only 10 "textbooks"; some are used, some borrowed or rented, and if purchased new they would cost nearly $300,000.

They are titled variously: bulldozers, earth shapers, cranes, draglines, loaders and back-hoes.

These "textbooks" and the classroom instructor, Jim Clawson, are part of an unusual education project started last fall on the north central plains of Kansas for the non-college student or the college dropout.

The north central Kansas area vocational-technical school is supported by a two-mill levy in seven principally rural school districts and eight non-school districts. Beloit voters also approved a $50,000 bond to provide some equipment.

Other courses at the school include auto mechanics, welding, clerical and secretarial training, and agriculture-business.

Ron Wilson, director of the school, said the program is designed to develop skills that will enable young people to compete with those who have advanced formal education.

He said the heavy equipment department is "our most exotic and glamorous." Only two other public schools offer such courses: Texas A and M college and Minnesota.

The six hours a day, five days a week course of nine months duration is almost guaranteed to produce a job for the graduate.

Wilson said "one company even came here and said it

Readiness Is Top Aim in Reserve Plan

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told congress that improved combat readiness is his top aim in proposing the merger of army reserve units into the national guard. He said economy was a secondary factor. Testifying before the senate readiness subcommittee yesterday, McNamara said combat capability would be increased because the guard units would be regarded as high priority and given 100 per cent of their authorized equipment.

Parents Told to Keep Poisons from Children

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Every year, more than 500,000 American children swallow such things as lye, bleach, gasoline, furniture polish and too much aspirin.

Tragedies like these have combined to spur a common effort by private and public agencies to get parents to tighten up on their household practices to keep children from poisoning themselves.

Here are the essential rules stressed by 20-odd organizations which are sponsoring the poison prevention week:

- Keep household products and medicines but of reach and out of sight of children, preferably in a locked cabinet or closet.
- Store internal medicines separately from other household products. It's too easy to make a mistake.
- Keep household products in their original containers. Cups, drinking glasses and soft-drink bottles mean food and drink to a child.
- Be sure that all products are properly labeled. Read the label before using.

Commercial Use of Atomic Battery Set

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The first commercial use of an "atomic battery" will be demonstrated this spring — to power an electronic fog-horn and flashing navigational lights far out in the Gulf of Mexico.

The atomic energy commission said yesterday the venture would mark a cooperative program of the federal government and private industry.

The nuclear generator called "SNAP 7F" will be placed on an unmanned off-shore oil platform of the Phillips Petroleum Company located 40 miles southeast of Cameron, La.

The company, with whom the AEC has executed a no-cost contract, is acting on behalf of the Offshore Operators committee (OCC), an association representing all offshore oil producers in the Gulf of Mexico.

The AEC said the experiment is expected to provide data needed to determine the economic feasibility of routine use of long-lived advanced types of nuclear generators on offshore oil platforms. The AEC presently is developing such advanced types.

REJECTS IDEA

BERN, Switzerland, March 3 (UPI)—The Swiss government yesterday rejected the idea of concluding a trade treaty with the European common market. The federal council said it would be "unrealistic" for Switzerland to conclude such a treaty.

Kansas Phone Operator Is Race Winner

LIBERAL, Kans., March 3 (AP) — A 23-year-old telephone operator today returned the international "pancake race" trophy long distance from Olney, England, to the Kansas plains. Mrs. Grace Riggs, who won the Liberal leg of the 10-year race last year but lost the international title, took all the honors this time around.

Flipping a pancake in her skimmer with the white, Grace breezed with the aid of a 25-mile an hour wind at her back to a one minute, 7.6 second clocking.

That was 4 seconds faster than Jennifer Andrews was able to negotiate the cobblestone course from the Bull Inn to the village church gate in Olney.

It was the closest race since the Olney Vicar, the Rev. Ronald Collins, revived the race in 1947 after a hiatus of 50 years and made it a contest between the women of Liberal and Olney.

The time was not a record. Mrs. Billie Dick, Liberal, ran the race in 1:05.1 in 1955. However, the Liberal win did even the series at eight for each town.

Clad in a green plaid dress—the same one she wore last year—an apron to match and a headscarf, Mrs. Riggs overtook Mrs. Beth Still in the final yards of the Liberal race. Mrs. Still, 20, was near collapse at the finish line but placed second, only a few feet behind the winner.

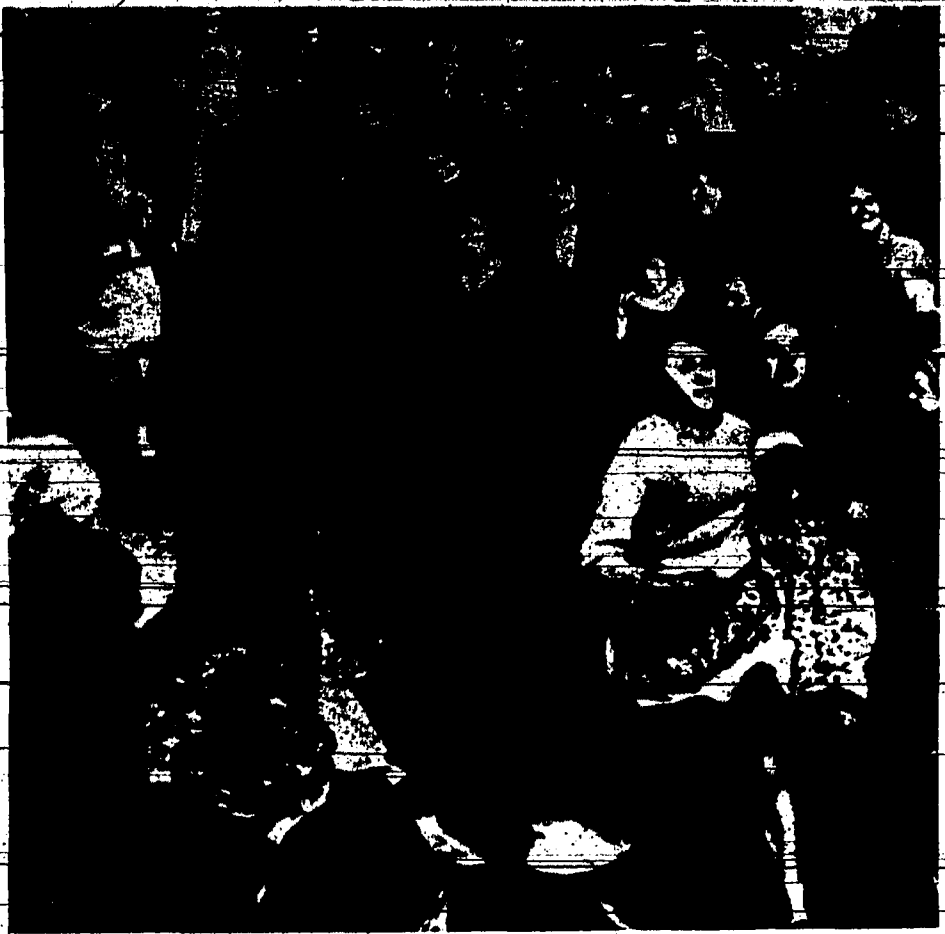

Miss Andrews, an 18-year-old invoice clerk, had an even closer margin of victory over Joan Risby, 18, the sister of the 1963 Olney winner Linda Risby.

"I am thrilled but I'm not tired at all," Miss Andrews said. Mrs. Riggs had a different reaction.

"Oh, my legs hurt," the brown haired five-foot, five-inch winner moaned.

Later, the two congratulated each other by transatlantic telephone. Jennifer asked how it felt to be international champion.

"Oh, just great," Grace said. The international trophy is an inscribed silver skillet with names of past winners. It now comes back to Liberal.

RACING TO THE CHURCH gate to win the traditional Shrove Tuesday pancake race in Olney, England, is Jennifer Andrews. Her reward is a kiss from the vicar, Simon Knight. Her time of one minute, eight seconds was not good enough to beat Mrs. Grace Riggs, Liberal, Kans., for the international title. Mrs. Riggs' time of 1:07.6 won the United States bracket of the annual race and evened the series between Olney and Liberal at eight wins each. During the race girls must flip their pancakes three times. (AP wirephoto by cable from London)

VICTIM OF CANCER
TAIPEI, Formosa, March 3 (AP) — Doctors reported during the weekend that Nationalist Chinese Vice President Chen Cheng is ill from an incurable cancer of the liver. He is heir apparent to President Chiang Kai-Shek. Chen, 67, has been on sick leave for the past five months.

Snow Depths Are Above Last Year

SALMON, March 3 — Four of five snow measuring stations on the North Fork ranger district, Salmon national forest, show snow depths as of March 1 greater than those of a year ago at the same time while all five have more snow now than the 1955-1964 average.

Only at the North Fork ranger station is March 1 snow depth below that of a year ago.

Measurements indicated that the water content of the snow on the Moose creek snow course was 32.4 inches of moisture compared with 18.7 inches last year and a

Last Year's Birth Rate Below 1963

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — An estimated 4,054,000 babies were born in this country in 1964, about one per cent below the 4,081,000 in 1963, the public health service reported today.

But the service added that the decline in the birth rate, which began in 1957, tapered off last year. The provisional birth rate for 1964 was 21.2 per 1,000 population, a reduction of less than 2 per cent from the rate of 21.6 for 1963. This compared with a decline of 3.6 per cent in the rate between 1962 and 1963 and a drop of 4.3 per cent between 1961 and 1962.

The birth rate stood at 25 per 1,000 population in 1957, before the steady decline began.

The lowest birth rate between 1915 and 1963 was 16.6 for 1933 and the highest was 35.8 for 1947.

Luci Accepted at Nursing School

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — President Johnson disclosed yesterday his daughter Luci, 17, has been accepted to the Georgetown university school of nursing.

The President broke the news while addressing a group of high school science students at the White House. "My daughter Luci is very interested in science, not political science, either," he said. "She has just been admitted to Georgetown, to enter the nursing school there."

Luci is a senior at the National Cathedral School for Girls, an Episcopal school. Georgetown also in Washington, is a Roman Catholic institution.

It was recently disclosed that Luci has been taking instructions in the Roman Catholic faith.
