

House Leaders Push for Vote on School Bill

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—House leaders are pushing urgently for a vote on President Johnson's school aid bill while the fragile coalition supporting it holds together. Although there is no sign the coalition is cracking, administration strategists are worried about giving opponents too much time to explode the church-state controversy lying quietly in the bill. Protestant and Roman Catholic religious leaders and public school officials, long at odds over the government's role in education, are now backing the bill and veterans of past school bills warms find it hard to believe that this can last.

The urgency displayed by the leadership also reflects pressure from the White House for speedy action on the bill, which Johnson regards as a centerpiece of his legislative program.

The house was convened last Friday to gain one day in the race to get the bill to the floor. Five legislative days must pass after a bill is approved in committee before the rules committee can be asked to clear it for a vote. By meeting for a few minutes Friday—when sessions normally are not held—that request can now be made Tuesday instead of Wednesday.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D., Va., chairman of the rules committee, is no friend of the bill and there is no possibility of a delay of two or three weeks before the rules committee acts. Possibility of the bill's supporters view with apprehension. An unexpectedly bitter fight among committee Democrats over the formula for distributing a billion dollars to elementary and secondary schools prevented final approval Feb. 27.

The formula fight is far from over. Republicans plan to make this the chief issue when the bill reaches the floor, charging it will give "more to the wealthy school districts while Congress has said the aim is to improve education for 'the children of poverty.'"

But that kind of an issue can be met with arguments and, if necessary, compromise. It is the church-state controversy that proponents fear.

Although major church denominations are supporting the bill now, smaller ones and some Jewish groups are opposing it on constitutional grounds. Their spokesmen are making the rounds of congressional offices.

The bill's supporters insist the kinds of help it would give to parochial schools—none in the form of direct grants—is "non-constitutional. They think they have the votes to pass it. But they wish they could hurry and get it over with."

4 Residents Of Area Hurt In Accident

Four Magic Valley residents, two from Twin Falls and two from Buhl, were being treated late Saturday for injuries sustained in a two-car collision west of and one-fourth mile west of Twin Falls about 9:10 p.m. Saturday.

Being treated were Larry W. Muse, 21, route 1, Buhl; Janice Berks, 22, Twin Falls; Merlin E. Sigall, 22, Buhl; and Raymond Kinsinger, 16, 222 Fifth street west, Twin Falls.

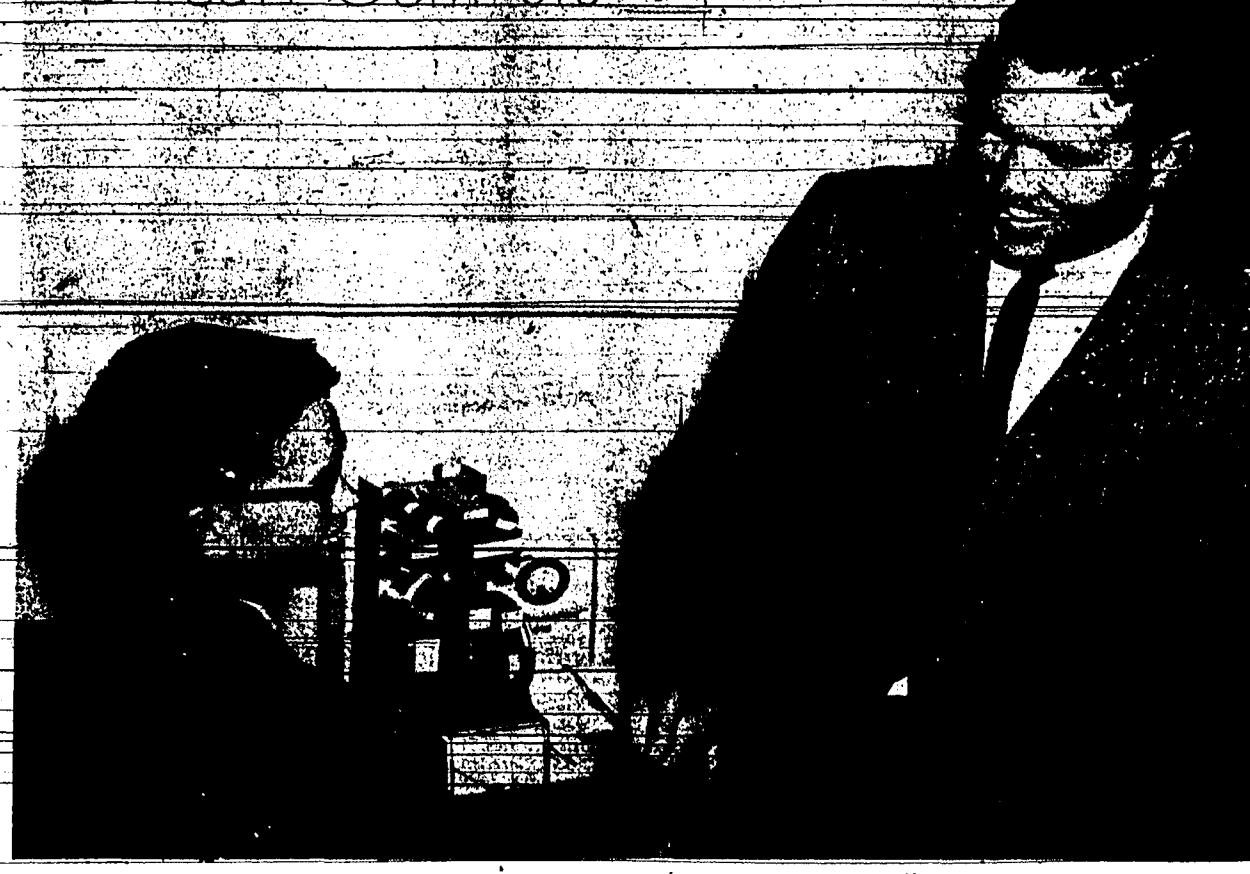

Officers reported that Muse, driving a 1961 Chevrolet, was weaving west on highway 38 and a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Sigall, was headed east. Miss Berks was a passenger in Muse's car and Kinsinger was a passenger with Sigall.

Both cars were traveling in the inner lanes and one of them apparently crossed the center line and struck the other car. County reports said investigation was continuing.

Extent of injuries was not known late Saturday night, but none was believed too serious.

Circuit Controls

An eighth grade student who plans to become an electrical engineer was judged over-all winner of the O'Leary junior high school science fair, Friday.

Young George Carter was awarded first prize ribbon in physics and also a $25 bond as overall winner for his clever electronic circuit controls board. The board was furnished by United Electronics.

The annual junior high school science fair this year featured some 162 exhibits ranging over six categories.

Displays ranged from the ingenious electric display, such as young Carter's, to a rabbit which was injected with a drug to make it sleep, as part of a display on narcotics.

The six categories include geology, astronomy, botany, zoology, chemistry and physics.

Marilyn Olmstead was second-place winner in physics, followed by Robert Eklund and Charles Kennedy.

Kathy Griffith, for a display of bones, was first ribbon winner in the zoology class. She was followed by Frank Harney, Vickie Knight and Kathy Anderson tied for third place ribbon.

In the botany class, Ruth Dehoney was first place winner, followed by Shannon Clemenis, Bonnie Hafner tied with a display furnished by Bob Dotz and Ted Tonplick for third ribbon in the botany class.

For astronomy, Santa Bergadine was first ribbon winner, followed by Bernice Barton and Phil Joslin.

General Howe was first place winner for geology, followed by Joyce Parshel and Mike Hankins.

Pope Paul to Lead Change In Worship

VATICAN CITY, March 6 (AP)—Pope Paul VI, spiritual ruler of the world's half-billion Roman Catholics, will lead his church's clergy Sunday in formal introduction of the biggest changes in Catholic worship in at least four centuries.

The pontiff will go to St. Peter's Basilica in Rome and there, at an altar facing the congregation, celebrate mass in Italian, instead of in Latin.

C. of C. Membership Drive Ready to Start

Kickoff for the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce membership drive will be held at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday at a breakfast meeting at the Depot grill. "We are not begging for membership, but we are asking people to make an investment in Twin Falls," stated Earl Faulkner, chairman of the drive.

During a coffee hour at the Rogerson hotel Friday morning, basic procedures of the drive were explained to the 14 captains selected to head the drive. In setting the goal for 250 new members, Ray Rostron, secretary-manager of the chamber, pointed out that there are 1,010 businesses in Twin Falls and only 31 are members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Captains of five-man teams are Jack Shaw, Armour Anderson, Joseph Salisbury, Lloyd Walker, Paul Bull, Oren Fisher, John Roper, William Koch, Vernon Harmer, Harold (Bud) Miller, Gilbert Carpenter, Howard Allen, Carrol Warwick and Kenneth Roundy.

Both Faulkner and Willard Rees, president of the chamber, thanked the captains for their willingness to accept the responsibilities.

"We believe in Twin Falls and want to make it the best town in Idaho. The only way to do this is through an aggressive and active Chamber of Commerce," Rees stated. He stressed that the drive is for members and not for funds.

A discussion was held on the possibility of having associate memberships, those men who are individual assessment. Faulkner said the qualifications and dues for this type of membership would be set and released at the Tuesday breakfast.

Volcano Found On Alaska Ridge

MOUNTAIN HOME, March 6 (AP)—A crew from Mountain Home air force base has discovered a volcano on a ridge about 15 miles northwest of Mount Blackborn in southeastern Alaska.

Crew members estimated that steam was rising from the crater to about 1,000 feet before being blown away by the wind. A check with the local office of the coast and geodetic survey confirmed that the crew's was the first report of volcanic activity in that area of Alaska.

Crew members included Maj. James I. Bonini, aircraft commander; Capt. Clarence W. Harkness, co-pilot, and Capt. Keith T. Carlson, navigator.

Area Residents Return to T.F. After Hawaiian Tour

Wearing brightly colored Hawaiian muhumuhs and shirts, 18 members of the Times-News Hawaiian tour of 37 people returned to Twin Falls Friday afternoon. Six other members, along with Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Kalker, four guides, remained on the islands, but plan to return Sunday.

The balance of the group stopped off en route home to visit friends and relatives in Portland, Lewiston and Seattle. Those who returned Friday at Joahn field agreed it was "just wonderful." Many commented that they hated to return to the cold weather. One woman, however, said she thought it would have been warmer in Hawaii, even though they were sweaters only in the mornings and evenings.

House Puts Referendum In Limbo

BOISE, March 6 (AP)—The Idaho house of representatives defeated, then revived and put in committee today a referendum revision bill regarded as a key to the probable passage by the senate of a sales tax bill. The action left in doubt when the 1965 Idaho legislature, already in its second day of overtime, will complete the work of its regular session. The vote to kill the senate-approved bill providing for a speeded-up referendum procedure was 58-21. A moment later the action was reconsidered by a vote of 48-31 and the house, by voice vote with some opposition, sent the bill to the revenue and taxation committee.

It was indicated the bill will be kept there as something of a challenge to the senate to do something with the sales tax measure. The latter was passed 40-30 by the house, defeated by the senate 20-24, then revived and put in the senate committee on gubernatorial appointments.

The senate Saturday approved a key measure in Gov. Robert E. Smylie's 1965 legislative program, a bill creating a state water resources agency. The measure implements a constitutional amendment approved by voters in the election last November.

The bill was approved 32-11 over vigorous objections that it would jeopardize further development of water for irrigation purposes.

Sen. Wayne Tibbets, D., Jefferson, who twice undertook a one-man slowdown to demonstrate his opposition to the measure, argued in the senate that the agency would control all unappropriated water in Idaho and thus prevent individuals from acquiring individual water rights.

"This bill," Tibbets said, "has not been assembled so that it is palatable to the irrigators—who built the canals and irrigated. See HOUSE BILLS, Pg. 3, Col. 4."

Condominium Housing Bill Is Approved

BOISE, March 6 (AP)—The house without a dissenting vote completed action today on legislation authorizing construction and operation of condominium type housing projects.

The house vote was 61-0 on a bill previously passed by the senate. A companion measure earlier passed both houses.

A condominium is one in which residents own individually the apartments in which they live, but share with other occupants ownership of service facilities.

Sponsors of the legislation said it was aimed primarily by the Janss corporation which recently purchased the Sun Valley resort. But they emphasized that the legislation would apply throughout the state and could be utilized by anyone.

The proposal, SB209, provides that units designated as condominium apartments are sold to separate owners who have the right of ingress and egress and who may paint, repair, tile, wax, paper or otherwise refinish and decorate the interior of their own apartments as they see fit.

Common areas, such as yards, garage, etc., are owned by unit owners in common, in equal shares, with one for each unit. A spokesman for Sun Valley reported that the owners are very pleased that the condominium bill passed.

HOUSE CONSTRUCTION PLANS TO construct 50 such apartment buildings in the state this summer.

House Offers Another Bill On Colleges

BOISE, March 6 (AP)—The house education committee today introduced another bill to create six junior college districts in the state—less than 24 hours after the house killed a similar measure.

Rep. Frank Hirschl, R., Bear Lake, education committee chairman, said the new proposal contained many provisions similar to the bill that was defeated on a tie 37-37 vote Friday night.

The new bill stipulates that minimum requirements for formation of a junior college district are inclusion of the area or any part thereof, of four school districts and the area or any part thereof, of one or more counties having an aggregate enrollment of not less than 2,000 students in grades nine through 12.

Another minimum requirement would be inclusion of an area having an assessed property valuation of equalized real and personal property of not less than 20 million dollars.

Commanders Are Missing In Viet Nam

SAIGON, March 6 (AP)—Two top-ranking Vietnamese army commanders were missing today in a communist Viet Cong day-night attack on a provincial capital 125 miles northwest of Saigon, U. S. military sources reported.

Other government losses were feared in the assault on Quang Tri, capital of the country's northernmost province of the same name.

Believed killed or captured were a regimental commander and his deputy, who were aboard an armored personnel carrier (APC) which was ambushed by communist troops when it left the capital in a column attempting to stop the Viet Cong attack.

A Vietnamese sector commander also was in the APC but he escaped when the command vehicle was knocked out by rocket fire.

Saigon was hit by coup plotters today when Vietnamese Skyraider planes buzzed the city in a "false alarm." A battalion of government rangers was heading toward the capital at the time and fears were raised another coup was in the works.

Tally Shows Most Bills Still Pending

By ROBIN TIBBETS
Times-News Staff-Writer

BOISE, March 6—It's no wonder the Idaho legislature had to go into overtime, Thursday was the 60th day and the session should have ended then. The blame was laid to the sales tax and referendum proposals, but in view of the number of proposals each house must still consider, there may have been other blocks. During the 60-day session, 313 bills were introduced in the house, 243 in the senate.

Twenty house bills were withdrawn five in the senate.

As of Friday 15 senate bills had been signed by the governor and one passed without his signature. Thirteen house bills have been made into law by Gov. Robert Smylie's official signature.

The governor vetoed one house bill and so far has not vetoed any senate bills. The house has killed 19 of its own bills and three of those introduced by the senate. On the other hand, the senate has killed 20 of its own proposals and two senate bills.

Friday, 90 proposals originating in the house had been sent to, and were still in, the senate and the house had given approval to 25 senate bills. The senate has 83 bills in the house and has given its approval to 12 proposals which originated in the lower legislative body.

That leaves a balance of 201 senate bills and 258 house bills yet to be approved or killed, a total of 459 proposals.

Most of these are in committee, although five house bills and eight senate proposals were down for second reading in the house on Friday; 21 house and 18 senate for third reading in the house.

Rep. Frank Hirschl, R., Bear Lake, education committee chairman, said the new proposal contained many provisions similar to the bill that was defeated on a tie 37-37 vote Friday night.

Water Spills Over Dam Near Rupert

RUPERT, March 6—More water is being turned down the Snake river over Minidoka dam than at any time since 1964, according to Glenn Simmons, chief of river control and storage division.
He estimates that from March 1 of this year 1,200,000 acre feet of water will be spilled over the Minidoka dam spillway, over the present time 15,000 acre feet of water are going over Blanchard Falls located just below Minidoka dam.
Simmons said it is necessary to spill this water downstream because there is not sufficient room in the reservoirs to store the water already present and the water that will come from the snow pack in the watersheds since Oct. 1, 1964, he said, over 1,500,000 acre feet of water has been spilled.
At present, the accumulation of water in Jackson lake is 134 per cent of normal. It was 155 per cent of normal on Feb. 1. The precipitation for February was slightly below normal in the Snake river watershed, Simmons said.

Moscow's reaction to the bombing has been one of nervousness. It suggests that the present Soviet regime is trying to sit tight, watch and wait, and perhaps seize an opportunity to take a hand in Southeast Asia.

World Corners

By PHIL NEWSOM (UPI Foreign News Analyst) The increasing cost in American lives and money of the war in South Viet Nam has led in the United States to a rising chorus of dismay and frustration.

American voices, many of them influential, ask why we are there in the first place. In a war which we seem unable to win and from which we seem unable to disengage ourselves with honor.

Added to the dismay and frustration stemming from the past is uncertainty about the future. The world "escalation" has become a popular one in any discussion of Viet Nam.

It was in 1950, with the advent of the Korean war, that U.S. over-all Asia policy dedicated itself to isolation of Red China.

Increasingly the awesome U.S. economic and military strength became a political weapon. And economic arguments failed to halt Red Chinese encroachment.

Thus today the United States finds itself spending two million dollars a day on a military effort in South Viet Nam which is being hamstrung by South Vietnamese failure to achieve political stability.

American military advisers have increased in number from 400 in 1954 to more than 23,000 in 1965.

At the outset this involvement meant the expenditure of huge sums of American dollars as the United States sought to build up the economies of countries formerly held by the colonial powers and to convince them of the value of democratic institutions and free enterprise. The Japanese still were occupying Viet Nam when the late President Roosevelt urged France the nominal colonial power in Indo-China, to reach agreement with Vietnamese nationalists who were demanding freedom.

The nationalists were led by Ho Chi Minh. The United States pressed the Dutch to surrender Indonesia to Indonesian nationalists led by Sukarno.

The U.S. encouraged Britain to give up Pakistan, India, Burma, Ceylon and Malaya. For each of these the United States assumed a moral obligation.

But U.S. policy has not always been consistent and at times has appeared contradictory especially since 1950. Even within official Washington there have been and remain important differences of opinion as to the extent of U.S. obligations and vital interests.

But U.S. policy has not always been consistent and at times has appeared contradictory especially since 1950. Even within official Washington there have been and remain important differences of opinion as to the extent of U.S. obligations and vital interests.

It was in 1950, with the advent of the Korean war, that U.S. over-all Asia policy dedicated itself to isolation of Red China.

Religion in America

By LOUIS CASSELL (United Press International) Protestantism is heading into the sharpest theological crisis since the fundamentalist-modernist clash of the 1920's. The issue is whether the Christian message today needs to be radically recast to make it plausible to modern man.

Among those calling for drastic overhaul of the conceptual package in which the gospel is presented are theologians Rudolph Bultmann in Germany and Paul Tillich in the United States.

Their views have been given wide circulation by English Bishop John A. T. Robinson in his book "Honest to God" and Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike of California in his book "Time for Christian Cannon."

Robinson contends that many educated people today reject Christianity because they cannot accept certain traditional beliefs which were really the envelope in which the message was sent, rather than the message itself.

Pike agrees. "The most formidable roadblock to understanding and acceptance of Christianity," he says, "has been erected by the church itself in its refusal to abandon concepts, words, images and myths developed in past centuries when men were operating under different

Nam in developing and maintaining a strong, viable state, capable of resisting attempted subversion or aggression. Prior to the Eisenhower decision there had been the French disaster in the siege of Dien-Bien-Phu, the Geneva conference establishing the neutrality of Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam and the organization of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) promising aid to all three in case of communist aggression.

But SEATO provided for no standing military force, such as NATO's and it depended entirely upon the strength of the United States. In 80 years of rule in Indo-China prior to World War II, the French had invested 2 billion dollars, most of it in Viet Nam.

The built nearly 14,000 miles of roads, railroads and canals. Irrigation projects brought 13 million additional acres under cultivation. Health measures reduced infant mortality 30 per cent. The ensuing war cost her twice as much as she had received in Marshall plan aid. From the start until the Geneva conference which partitioned Indo-China in July, 1954, she spent $3 billion.

At home, the political situation declined sharply. Diem refused to make significant reforms and in October, 1961, cracked down on dissident Buddhists, Washington debated whether to continue its support of Diem and two months war gave silent agreement when Diem was overthrown.

Seven governments since Diem have fallen. At home, opinion is divided. Should the U.S. run the risk of continued escalation and risk a major war or should it seek negotiations? Washington's publicly stated position is that there can be no negotiations so long as South Viet Nam remains the target of aggression from the outside.

President Johnson has sided with the active. Our purpose and our motive is clear... to the freedom of a brave people who are under attack that is controlled and that is directed from outside their country. We seek a wider war... our continuing actions will be those that are made necessary by the continuing aggression of others. The actions will be measured and fitting and adequate.

The President's statement underscored the fact that the existence of the Viet Nam escalator is not solely in U.S. hands. It rests to a great extent in the hands of those the President called "others." Thus far the movement has been only up.

T.F. Woman Concerned Over Sentence in Pastor's Article

Editor, Times-News:— I am still deeply concerned over an article in "A Your" which appeared in the January issue of "Our-Savior" written by Eugene J. Tarkenton, pastor of Our-Savior Lutheran church. Everyone lost in the struggle to do a good deed, hopeless and dejected in saving one's self, Jesus came to save from eternal life. To save us from eternal life. Mr. Tarkenton's version of the King James version in St. John, Holy Bible states in chapter 17, verses one and two, Jesus spoke, "Jesus, and these words spoke, Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven and said, 'Father, the hour is; glorify thy son, that thy son also may glorify thee.'"

"As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him."

He didn't state that eternal life would be given to all flesh, but eternal life would be given "to as many as thou hast given him."

At least there were some who would be given eternal life by our Savior, Jesus Christ.

Boise Man Hopes U. S. "Can Outlast Socialistic Trend"

Editor, Times-News:— As a casual reader of a few Idaho newspapers, and also a couple of national publications, I have noticed that the former young senator from Idaho, Johnson, has lost some of his prestige and/or fire since the fight for socialism from the poor agebrush state of Idaho has not been delivering either state or nationally.

I imagine when he was one of the favorite senators of President Kennedy, he had some influence, or claimed to, but since his opening speech at San Francisco in 1960, Mr. Johnson does not like our Senator Church, period.

I would like to see Senator Church go back to semi-private life the same way that Representative Harding retired. Of course they both will end up with some bureaucratic job or a lifetime pension, but it would be less harmful and costly than now.

Church was a "fair dealer," but apparently he does not fit into the new socialistic "Great Society" of our entirely new political Democratic society of President Johnson. Johnson is really working on the image.

If President Johnson can get control of all television besides his Texas (stand up when you say Texas) stations, he may be named also by the Democrats, as a "Great President," regardless of what happens to the U.S. mentally, financially, morally and internationally.

I hope the United States of America can outlast this socialistic trend and its present advocates.

U.S. Plans Inspection of Canal Route

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP) — The United States will send an eight-man mission of military and civilian officials to Panama Sunday to inspect a potential route for a new interoceanic canal at sea level.
 U.S. army engineers said the group will seek first hand information on problems that might arise if a detailed canal study is undertaken.
 Their attention will be focused on the 55.5-mile Sazardi-Mortl route, one of two possible locations for a sea level canal across Panama. It has been estimated construction costs would total 770 million dollars if nuclear explosives are used, and considerably more if conventional methods of excavation are employed.
 Other potential new canal routes in Middle America include one across Nicaragua, involving a small segment of Costa Rica, and another across Colombia.

Demos Set up Service for Legislators

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP) — The Democrats have set up a personalized electronic information service to help their lopsided congressional majority weather the 1966 off-year election.
 Getting special attention are the 71 freshmen members of the house. Most of them are from closely divided or normally Republican districts and they are likely to be the chief targets of the GOP.
 Using a relatively small staff and a few telephones and tape recorders, the Democratic national committee has left the Republicans far behind in political communications.
 The Democrats can get comments from representatives and senators into the hands of radio and television stations in their districts almost simultaneously with the passage of legislation or the announcement of government contracts.
 Recordings of comments by President Johnson and other top administration officials are available daily.
 In contrast, the Republican national committee has just started a weekly five-minute broadcast, available thus far only through state and county GOP chairmen. The GOP has no service at all to compare with the Democratic effort.
 Dictating the Democratic drive is the history of midterm elections.

Appalachia Bill Will Be Signed Soon

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—President Johnson will sign the 11 billion dollar Appalachia aid bill into law on Tuesday, the White House said today.

The measure, which was approved by the house last Wednesday, is the first legislation on Johnson's Great Society agenda to reach the White House.

The President has scheduled an 11 a.m. EST ceremony to sign the bill which will provide assistance to stimulate the economies of the 11-state Appalachia area.

The White House also said Johnson hoped to complete work Sunday on a special message outlining his war on crime proposals. The President hopes to send the message to congress Monday.

Red China's Promise Hit By Stevenson

PARIS, March 6 (AP)—Red China's latest promise to support Hanoi against South Viet Nam appears to be evidence of China's determination to crush the independence of the people of South Viet Nam, Adlai E. Stevenson said today.

America's envoy to the United Nations made the comment on his arrival in Paris for a brief private visit. He represented President Johnson at the state funeral Friday in Vienna of President Adolf Schaer.

A Communist Chinese statement earlier today said Peking would support "counterattacks" by Hanoi to stop U. S. air strikes against North Viet Nam.

"I have not studied the new Chinese statement," Stevenson told a reporter, "but it seems to be part of Red China's determination to crush the independence of the people of South Viet Nam if it can."

Stevenson is here to visit Thomas K. Finletter, U. S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He will fly home Sunday.

Before leaving Vienna, Stevenson told a news conference the only circumstance in which the United States would agree to withdraw from South Viet Nam is a "guarantee for its independence and territorial integrity."

"It would have to be a guarantee in which North Viet Nam, Communist China and the world community participate," he said.

"It would have to be more effective than the present international control commission."

Nampa Negro Gets Letters About Stunt

NAMPA, March 6 (AP)—Letters of approval are flowing in to Paul Belleson, the Negro janitor service operator who tricked his way into Ku Klux Klan membership recently.

Belleson said he has received filled out and mailed an application stating he was white. When Imperial Wizard James Venables, Atlanta, Ga., discovered Belleson was a Negro he revoked Belleson's membership.

Belleson said some of the less favorable letters he received have criticized him for the way he went about the stunt.

"They didn't like my lying on the application I filled out," he said.

David McKay To Be Oldest LDS Leader

SALT LAKE CITY, March 6 (AP)—President David O. McKay on Wednesday will become the oldest president in the history of the LDS church.

President Willford Woodruff lived to be 91 years, six months and one day before he died Sept. 2, 1888. President McKay will equal that record on Tuesday.

President McKay will have been one of the general authorities for 59 years on April 9. He was ordained an apostle on that day by President Joseph P. Smith.

The record for length of service as a general authority, however, is held by President Heber J. Grant. He served for 62 years and seven months.

President McKay holds the record for length of service as a member of the first presidency. He has served more than 30 years.

Rejected

MANILA, March 6 (AP)—Francisco Dorado fought and killed his cousin, Jose Escama, in a bolo-knife duel for the hand of a girl in the village of Tingkapon on Panay Island.

Dorado's marriage proposal, however, was rejected.

Labor Party Scored by Ex-Minister

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Conservative former Prime Minister Sir Alex Douglas Home said today Britain was endangered by having a socialist government in power.

Home charged the Labor party led by Prime Minister Harold Wilson was divided by a "craven core" of left-wing opposition to U. S. policy in Viet Nam. He said the strength of this division within the ranks of the ruling party indicates that it lacks the stamina necessary to stand firm against communism.

He said it also "reveals the danger to Britain of having a socialist government in power at all."

Home, addressing a London meeting of the opposition Conservative party central council, cited the revolt by 50 labor members of parliament in demanding Britain abandon endorsement of U. S. Viet Nam policy.

Two powerful labor unions sided with the dissenting parliament members in attacking Wilson's position over American policy.

Home said British conservative governments had helped to halt the march of communism in Europe and forced Russia to adopt a flexible attitude in its dealings with the West.

"How could we have shown the stamina which has turned the tide of communism back in Europe and brought Russia to her senses if we had had this craven core at the heart of the political party in power," he said.

The special series of services will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily and will be open to the public.

Dr. Forsberg's sermon topic will be "How to Live Beyond Your Means," on Tuesday, Wednesday, "How to Survive Disappointment," Thursday, "A Light That Will Not Go Out," and on Friday, "A Penicillin for Despair."

Supervised nursery and childcare will be provided during the mission series. An informal coffee and conversation time will follow each evening service.

THE REV. DR. C. J. FORSBERG, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist church of Lincoln, Neb., will be guest speaker for the third annual Preaching Mission Tuesday through Friday at the Filer Methodist church. The special series will be open to the public and will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily.

Birth Rate Blamed for Delinquency

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—The government today blamed the post-war baby boom for the highest juvenile delinquency rate in the nation's history.

"We have no indication that it is going to get better," the children's bureau of the health, education and welfare department said in a report.

After a thorough screening of statistics, the bureau said 601,000 youthful crime cases were handled by U. S. juvenile courts during 1963. It is currently working on 1964 statistics.

Mrs. Katherine H. Oettinger, bureau director, said the report was discouraging.

"It has taken us a long time to realize that juvenile delinquency does not spring from one central cause," she said.

"How long will it take us to offer those preventive services such as day care, protective services for neglected or abused children and a full range of child welfare services which can deal effectively with the root causes of juvenile delinquency?"

The report said the total cases represented an eight per cent increase over 1962. All involved children between 10 and 11 years. The population of that age bracket increased only four per cent between 1962 and 1963.

"Juveniles born in the late 1940s when birth rates were high are now swelling the ranks of the 10-year-olds," the bureau said.

"This is a peak age for juvenile delinquency. It coincides with the critical times when compulsory school attendance ends in many states; when many young persons are making the difficult transition from school to work, and when all young persons experience the pressure of trying to bridge the gap between childhood and adulthood."

Commissioners to meet SHOSHONE, March 6—Lincoln county commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Monday at the courthouse.

Dr. Peale Heads N.Y. Cleric Group

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale was elected president of the 1,700-church Protestant Council of the City of New York yesterday, despite some criticism that he has been silent on civil rights issues.

The protest against Dr. Peale, author of "The Power of Positive Thinking," came from a small group of clergymen and laymen.

William Stringfellow, an attorney and Episcopal layman, charged Dr. Peale had been "consistently silent about the racial crisis while so often appealing the complacencies of white Anglo-Saxon Protestants."

In his acceptance speech, Dr. Peale said he hopes the council will "continue to expand its efforts in behalf of the stamping out of racial discrimination in New York City in every form."

Narcotics Kit Incident To Be Probed

BOISE, March 6—Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard said today his office is continuing its investigation into the finding of a hypodermic-narcotics kit in an Idaho high school even though it has been suggested the incident was a hoax.

At the same time he called on Idahoans to "face up to our narcotics problem and urged passage of a bill now before the Idaho legislature providing for regulation of the narcotics traffic he said is present in the state."

Earlier this week, the state health department said the white pills confiscated along with the hypodermic kit at an unnamed high school were not narcotics and "tasted like alum."

"The suggestion has been made," said Shepard, "that the whole incident is a hoax and that the materials were planted by some person."

"I hope with all my heart that this particular incident is a hoax, a hoax cruelly perpetrated by some person with surprising and unholly knowledge of narcotics, addiction and criminal patterns in Idaho."

"But," he continued in a statement, "I can assure the people of this state that the narcotics problem in Idaho is no hoax. Too many officials have spent too many hours, days, weeks and months unappreciably discovering the reality and scope of the drug problem in Idaho."

Shepard said his office has been investigating the problem for 18 months and has "uncovered all too many instances of narcotic users and narcotic sales in the state of Idaho."

He said arrests have been made and convictions obtained in some cases and that trials are pending in others.

FCC to Discuss Ownership Plan

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—The federal communications commission will discuss publicly a possible limitation on network ownership of television programs at its March 15 meeting.

The matter was to have come up Friday, but the session was shelved so the commission could continue work in another field.

Television networks now control about 90 per cent of the programs presented during the prime evening hours.

An FCC spokesman said a rule to limit this to 50 per cent has been discussed.

Shoshone Rotary Holds Election

SHOSHONE, March 6 (AP)—Officers were elected for the Rotary Club for the coming year when members met in regular session Wednesday.

The officers are Harrell Thorne, president; Leon Grivey, vice president; Dr. Arthur White, secretary; Cecil Cope, treasurer, and Marvin Pearson and Vernon Exner, directors.

Francis Bergin is retiring president. The new officers will not take over duties until July.

Hilo Crater

HILO, Hawaii, March 6 (AP)—Even though the eruption in the Makaopuhi crater quit Friday night, scientists would make no forecast as to whether the eruption was over or just playing possum.

The eruption, which died nine and one-half hours after leaping into livid life, is now only a red glow on the side of the crater.

Hawaii Island residents and tourists refused to believe the eruption ended and cars still line the route to the crater.

Only two small lava fountains were reported still functioning, and they were only about 15 feet, compared to 100-foot fountains earlier.

Instruments at the volcano observatory indicated that the eruption was dying.

Dressing to Resemble Titles of Various Songs Can Be Great Challenge to One's Imagination

By NORMA HERZINGER

Have you ever tried dressing to reflect a song title? It isn't the easiest thing to do, members of the Friendship circle of the Women of the Moose discovered.

This is something that challenges the imagination and could date a woman easily if she isn't careful.

All members of the Friendship circle attending the social at the home of Mrs. Lewis Hoffman dressed to represent various song titles. Some put a lot of thought into just what song they should portray like Mrs. Boyd Smith, who won first prize for the best costume.

She was dressed as the "Naughty Lady From Shady Lane," complete with the off-the-shoulder black satin dress, with great emphasis placed on the elaborate garter just above the knee.

Some of the other costumes imaginatively conceived were those worn by Mrs. George McGinnis, representing "Red Wing"; Mrs. Paul Welch, "Alley Cat"; Mrs. Wallie Holmgren, "Old Fashioned Girl"; Mrs. Ted Soper, "Has Anybody Seen My Gal," and Mrs. Paul Carlson, "Red Wing."

During the social, Mrs. Gale Killinger led the Lord's prayer and Mrs. Smith led the flag salute. Mrs. McGinnis was secretary pro tem. Mrs. Hoffman gave a report on the friendship-fellowship dinner and Mrs. Carlson read an article on the Academy of Friendship day observance set for May in Jerome.

Special prizes were awarded to Mrs. George Long and Mrs. Holmgren. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Williams.

The Friendship circle of the Women of the Moose was organized to honor senior regents who were outstanding in their accomplishment in their chapters. The "Academy of Friendship" is composed of co-workers who have proved their worth to the Women of the Moose, according to records on file in the office of the grand recorder.

Wing"; Mrs. Gale Killinger, "Pistol Packin' Mama," and Mrs. Ted Soper, "Has Anybody Seen My Gal." Mrs. Severt represents the song title, "Young at Heart." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Williams. (Times-News photo)

Mrs. W. Grange Is Speaker at Luncheon Meet

Mrs. William Grange was featured speaker at the regular meeting of the Twin Falls Century Club at the home of Mrs. Grange. Mrs. Grange told of her experiences in painting. She calls herself a "Sunday painter" but she could be more accurately described as a "naïf." She used a number of her own paintings, composed mostly of flowers and landscapes, to illustrate her talk.

Mrs. Grange explained that you must paint what you actually see, not what you think it should look like. She related many amusing experiences and closed her talk saying, "If you think you have some problems you just start to paint. You won't get rid of them; perhaps you won't get rid of all your old problems but you will surely have a complete new set of problems introduced by Mrs. Faler.

The head table was centered with a large bowl of red roses and white beauty berries flanked by red tapers. Table arrangements were under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Sheneberger. Members and guests were welcomed by Mrs. Faler, president. Mrs. John Birrell played organ music preceding the luncheon. Mrs. Walter Miller, member, introduced two new members, Mrs. Thomas Wilkins and Mrs. Lawrence Sill. She presented each a corsage.

Mrs. Christine Petersen, ways and means committee chairman, thanked everyone who helped make the benefit card party a success and announced that a rummage sale will be held April 2 and 3 at the former Bennett's Paint store across the street from the old postoffice building. The money from this sale will be added to the president's project fund.

Mrs. Earl Nelissen, nominating committee chairman, presented the slate of officers for next club year.

The slate includes Mrs. C. H. Johnson, president; Mrs. Dean Hendrick, first vice president; Mrs. Earl Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. L. V. Maus, recording secretary; Mrs. Earl Nelissen, financial secretary; Mrs. Ross Bevan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. T. Tugaw, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Sheiby, auditor; Mrs. Faler, Mrs. Wanda Reed, Mrs. Petersen and Mrs. J. W. Embury, members at large; and Mrs. Paul Beck, real estate board.

The group voted to send a boy to Boys' state and a boy to the Youth legislature.

Donations were made to general federation project-congressional medal of honor grove, Idaho Youth ranch. State federated penny art fund, Indian scholarship, Idaho pines fund and hire-the-handicapped committee.

Stop Winter Wrinkles

Use the colder months to give your skin a lovely bloom, but stop wrinkles. Dry winter air causes the skin to contract, preventing protective oils from reaching the surface. Ask your druggist for tropical oil of olay and before you make-up, smooth it over your face, neck and hands. You will be amazed how quickly this moist oil will give the skin a peach-and-cream loveliness, especially on cold days. Your druggist should be able to get you a supply.

Villanova Wins Last Race, Holds IC4A Track Title

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP)—Veteran Villanova, relying on a pick-up mile relay team, overhauled Maryland and scored its fourth straight IC4A indoor team victory tonight, edging the Terrapins by two and one-half points 24-21 1/2. Maryland, paced by jumpers Mike Cole and Frank Costello, leaped to an early 9-0 lead over the board-tested Wildcats from Philadelphia's Main Line and Villanova overtook them only on the last event, the mile relay.

The Wildcats, who trailed 21 1/2-20 going into the final event, needed only a fourth in the field of eight, split into two sections, to win it.

They got second, with Larry Livers anchoring the relay team put together from sprinters and hurdlers who had worked in their specialties earlier in the 44th annual championships in Madison Square garden.

It was the seventh team title in nine years for Villanova, which has ranked as co-favorite with Maryland's Atlantic Coast conference champion in the field of 59 teams.

Harvard finished third with 14 points followed by St. John's of New York, 13, and Navy with 12. Costello is a senior sophomore who was favored in the high jump, put Villanova in a deep hole when he won that event with the first 7-foot leap of his life.

That put the Terrapins in front 21-15, with only two events to go, the two relays. Villanova grabbed second in both.

The two-mile Wildcat relay team, the indoor record holder, was broken up to allow team members Noel Carroll and Tommy Sullivan to compete for individual points.

It worked, Carroll taking the 1,000 from defender Tom Bauer of St. John's in 2:11.5 and Sullivan defending his mile crown in 4:00.2.

Some other individual winners included Morgan State and Manhattan in the mile and two-mile relays, Ed Duchini, Georgetown, in a 1:11.6 600 and Bill Clark, Notre Dame, at 3:52.7 in the two mile.

Sam Perry Fordham, successfully defended his 60 yard title in 8.3 and Columbia Grey, Navy, won the hurdles in 7.4 a five event quarter-finals.

Villanova got more help than expected with two points in the field events, one more than expected by Coach Jumbo Jyn.

Maryland was staked to its early lead by a one-two finish in the broad jump. It was no surprise that Mike Cole made a successful defense of his crown, going 24 feet, 5 inches, but it was a form reversal when his sophomore teammate, Lew Schmetzka, took second.

Big Guy Crossdale was the chief point-maker in the early going for Harvard, taking a second in the shot put and fourth in the weight throw, good for six points.

Carl Wallin of Northeastern won the shot at 47 feet, 11 inches, while defender John Uelses, LaSalle, took the pole vault at 18 even. It was the first 16 feet vault of the season for Uelses, the first man to even clear that height.

Maryland picked up 3 1/2 points there, with Pete Kouzmin taking third at 15 even and Bob Williams tying for fifth.

Alex Schulten of Bowdoin won the weight throw, as expected, at 81 feet, 11 1/2 inches.

Knicks Rally to Defeat Detroit

DETROIT, March 6 (AP)—Rookie Willis Reed scored the last seven points for New York as the Knicks came from behind after blowing a 22-point lead and beat Detroit 99-93 tonight.

Reed's basket with 2:16 left broke a 89-81 tie. Then he scored on a free throw and a basket to put New York four up.

After Detroit came within a point of the tie, Reed meshed two more foul shots with 16 seconds to go and sewed it up.

The Pistons, who were all but eliminated for a chance for the Western division playoffs, spotted the Knicks the game's first 14 points. The Pistons fell behind three times by 22-point margins in the second quarter.

Leafs Rap Hawks From First Spot

TORONTO, March 6 (AP)—Ron Ellis scored one goal and added two assists, sparking the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 4-1 victory over Chicago that toppled the Black Hawks into a first-place tie in the National Hockey League tonight.

While Chicago was losing, Montreal edged New York 2-1 and moved into a tie with the Hawks, each having 71 points. Detroit toppled Boston 5-1, closed to within one point of the leaders. Chicago has eight games remaining in the season. Montreal 10 and Detroit 11.

Red Wings Nip Bruins by 4-3

BOSTON, March 6 (AP)—Norm Ullman and Gordie Howe pulled surfing Detroit to within one point of Chicago's National Hockey League leaders in a 4-3 victory over Boston tonight. It was the Red Wings fourth straight triumph and sixth in their last seven games.

Ullman decided the outcome with his 30th goal of the season and second of the game at 7:30 of the final period on a 12-foot slap shot.

FITTED OUT FOR TRACK, the two Twin Falls junior high schools benefited from over $250 worth of uniforms purchased and obtained this week by the Bruin Booster Club. # Lucky Debonair Has Santa Anita Win

ARCADIA, Calif., March 6 (AP)—The well-regarded Lucky Debonair scored a stunning upset today in the $134,300 Santa Anita Derby as Jacinto supposedly unbeatable and hailed by many as the finest 3-year-old in the nation, ran a well-trounced second.

Racing before a record-derby day crowd of around 62,000 at Santa Anita park, Lucky Debonair, under a tremendous ride by Bill Shoemaker, flashed under the wire four lengths in front of the odds-on favorite, Jacinto.

Charger's Kin was third in the field of eight colts, but as expected, the derby produced a thrilling two-horse struggle between the two Kentucky-bred challengers.

The one and one-half mile test was clocked in 1:47 flat, approaching the track record of 1:46 2-5 set by Bug Brush in 1950.

The victory was worth $80,300 to Lucky Debonair's owner, Mrs. Ada L. Rice, noted, horsewoman from Chicago.

Philately, a speed runner breaking from the No. 3 position took the pace from the start, with Lucky Debonair and Jacinto never far out of it.

Shoemaker, keeping an ever alert eye on his biggest threat, stayed on Philately's heels, and Ycaza was never as much as a length behind Lucky Debonair as they swept down the backstretch and around the far turn.

Coming into the stretch, Johnny Longden and Philately dropped out or, and on came Jacinto to engage Lucky Debonair in a head to head contest.

The excitement of this didn't last too long. Seventy yards from the finish, Shoemaker's horse broke up the game and pulled away.

Charger's Kin was seven lengths back in third, and another longshot, Terry's Secret, was fourth.

Others in the derby were Gunmon, Arkstrom and Nubler.

College Tournery Season Opens With NCAA Regionals Monday

The frenzied whirl of the post-season tournaments which annually cap the college basketball schedule gets under way Monday at three different sites around the country amid the usual carnival atmosphere. All four post-season classics—the NCAA major college championship, the National Invitation tournament, the NIAA small college tournament—begin play this week and the first two run right on through the following week.

Both the NCAA major college competition, with regionals scheduled for Philadelphia and Lubbock, Tex., and the NIAA tournament, a 32-team affair at Kansas City, begin play Monday.

The NCAA small college tournament begins Wednesday through Friday, March 10-12, at Evansville, Ind., while the 14-team NIT opens at New York's Madison Square Garden on Thursday night, March 11.

The NCAA regional at Philadelphia is a tripleheader. Princeton, the Ivy league champion, meets independent Penn State in the first game, followed by a clash between Southern California representative West Virginia and independent Providence, the nation's fourth-ranked team. Third-ranked St. Joseph's, champion of the Middle Atlantic conference, opposes Yankee conference titlist Connecticut in the nightcap. The winners of all three games join the Atlantic Coast conference representative, Duke or North Carolina State, in the Eastern Regionals at College Park, Md., March 12-13.

The doubleheader in Lubbock matches independents Oklahoma City with Colorado State and Notre Dame with Houston. The winner of the OCU-Colorado State game joins Brigham Young, San Francisco and defending champion UCLA at the West regionals at Provo, Utah, March 12-13, and the Notre Dame-Houston winner goes to Manhattan, Kan., for the Midwest regionals along with Wichita, Oklahoma State and the Southwest conference representative.

The third and final NCAA preliminary regional tournament will be held Tuesday night at Bowling Green, Ky., where Eastern Kentucky meets DePaul and Dayton opposes the Mid-America champion, either Ohio or Miami (O.). The two winners join Vanderbilt and the Big Ten champ at the Midwest sectional in Lexington, Ky., March 12-13.

Unbeaten Central Ohio State heads the 16 seeded teams for the NIAA scramble. Central State makes its tournament debut Tuesday night against Jack

Idaho Staters Drop Gonzaga in Season's Finale

POCATELLO, March 6 (UPI)—The Idaho State Bengals closed the 1964-65 basketball season tonight by edging Gonzaga's Bulldogs 101-97 in a Big-Sky conference game. The victory was shadowed by an announcement by Bengal coach Jim Nau that he would resign July 1. Nau's announcement came immediately following the game. The Bengals' victory moved them up a notch in the standings as they tied the 1977 victory of Idaho for fourth in the conference. Both the Bengals and Vandals finished with 4-6 Big Sky records.

Santa Anita Run Went by Pre-Race Plan

ARCADIA, Calif., March 6 (AP)—Jockey Bill Shoemaker's strategy was simple in winning the $134,300 Santa Anita derby today.

His plan was merely to keep in front of the highly favored team of Jacinto and Manuel Ycaza. This he did.

"We broke fast and were on the lead for the first few steps, but John's horse Johnny Longden, on Philately went out in front and I just sat behind him," Shoemaker said.

"I was trying to keep ahead of Jacinto all the way and moved to the front easily. I kept waiting for Jacinto to come to me and he never did."

"This is a real nice horse and ran a big race."

"We have no excuses," said Ycaza. "We got to Lucky Debonair at the 3-16 pole but he just pulled away from us."

"As for his sharpness, I cannot say he was any better today than in the San Felipe—that's up to the trainer. All I know is that he gave me all he had."

Ycaza referred to the San Felipe handicap two weeks ago when Jacinto, carrying 126, won by a neck over Lucky Debonair, who carried 120.

The betting handle of $5,134,843 was a track record and the first time the 5 million dollar mark had been bettered at a California track.

GLADSMAR, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Santa Anita won the feature at Sunshine park today by a length and three-quarters over Far and Sure.

Lucky Debonair was bred on the Danada Farm in Kentucky by Mrs. Rice, the owner of the farm, and was sired by Vertez. This was Lucky Debonair's fourth victory in seven starts, and his second—and most important—stakes victories. Earlier in the meeting he won the San Vicente handicap. Jacinto was seeking his sixth straight triumph, of which four in a row were scored at this meeting. It was only his second defeat in seven starts. He was beaten in his maiden effort last August at Saratoga.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY Naming stadiums for incentive, profit and fun. With the bleachers going up, the new Twin Falls multi-purpose (that means track as well as football) stadium is nearing completion. It no longer seems right to refer to it as the new field north of the stadium. Therefore, with an eye toward something for nothing, some names have been brought up.

It was suggested the field be named for the first coach whose Twin Falls team beats Borah. Really, though, we shouldn't wait that long. For the same reason, named after the scoreboard, one can't follow up there as "Lion stadium," strikes a little too deeply into all-too-rare memories of local fans.

That being out, profit became a motive. Such an idea was sent by mail to local banks (B and T Bank, Fidelity Field, Security Sports Center). No reply came from two and the third was suspect when it was returned "no such address" on the envelope. Subsequent chemical analysis substantiated these suspicions. The ink included two per cent gold and six per cent interest.

Recovering quickly, it was decided to reward Coach Paul Oestyn for six years of dedicated service at the high school. This too died when Oestyn, who is headed for the University of Idaho athletic directorship, said the annual Vandal-Southern Idaho game would remain in Boise.

Completely out of incentive and profit ideas, the switch was made to honorariums for services rendered. In recalling all the work put into Twin Falls athletics through the Bruin Boosters, the name Woodall field popped into mind. But again opposition arose. Some felt Hank Woodall would try to muscle in on this glory while insiders knew it was Mrs. Woodall who spearheaded that trading stamp drive and brought the first section of seats to the field. Also, "Mrs. Woodall Field" is a bit incongruous.

The Woodalls lead us back to several new names in the Bruin Boosters. Now all this started when Clyde Hunter was president. The lights came that year and the trading stamp drive started. Then came Woodall, who we've already handled. After that an apparently, it's Paul Bull (Bull Bowl?)

They could all take part by calling it "Booster stadium" but that conjures up thoughts of Case Kennedy. Bruins Bowl has a nice alliterative ring but is too obvious. Besides, it's not yet a bowl.

Boosters and coaches come and go leaving marks of greater and lesser import. Although treated lightly above, each of the individuals mentioned made tremendous contributions to the realization of what has become the finest high school-owned football and track facility in the state. Any one of them deserves consideration.

Ghee's crumple came when Valley, which trailed almost all night, was working the ball and waiting for that just second shot that could have turned the decision around. McGhee took the ball away as Lawrence Huettig tried to pass off and then outran the Viking to the bucket.

This ended another in the long history over extra-session tournaments in the area A-3 classification. It marked the fourth straight year the meet has gone into an extra night. And Glenns Ferry's closing victory earned a brilliant four-straight-night stint by the Vikings. Valley lost to Glenns Ferry in the semi-finals Wednesday, then ousted Shoshone and came back to nip the Pilots 75-70 last night.

The teams have played five times this year, and the total difference has been three seconds. They split their first four meetings. Unfortunately, only one team goes to state from this district this year.

Although it was McGhee's fourth-quarter scoring that most will remember, it was the ball-hawking and generosity of Ernest Johnson that proved decisive. Johnson stole the ball five times in the final eight minutes and had two miffy assist passes.

Glenns Ferry opened the hot hitting its first five attempts from the field and running into a 10-3 lead. But Valley cooled the Pilots off with a time out and putted back to within one point at the quarter rest. That set the pattern of the game.

Three times the Pilots were primed to blow the game open but Valley never let them get away. Glenns Ferry's first good opportunity came midway through the second quarter when McGhee and Johnson shot them into a five-point lead. Valley then misplayed twice to lose possession and missed a shot but the Pilots couldn't convert on any of these opportunities.

After staying within four points at intermission, the Vikings made another charge early in the third period, cutting the margin to 37-36 on the shooting of Lupe Torres and Cal Olson. Glenns Ferry managed to stay in front and with 4:23 left, the Pilots came up with a McGhee tip and free throws by Slims and Jim Schwager to again post a five-point edge. Again the Pilots had three chances to break away but failed and Valley, getting points from Terry English, Huettig and Torres, flurried into a 48-47 lead at the buzzer.

McGhee almost single-handedly broke the game open in the first minute of the last period. He hit a short jump shot and then tacked on crumples on good feeds from Blair and Johnson. Some 25 seconds later he added a tip-in and the Pilots were on top 55-48—the biggest margin of the game.

Valley, which should have been firing in this its 16th quarter in four nights, then proceeded to take charge again. Olson and Huettig got things going and Valley moved in from 58-57 with 2:52 remaining in the game on two Huettig free throws.

Within eight seconds Johnson countered with two Pilot free throws and play became deliberate. Glenns Ferry, leading 59-58, tried to wait for the good shot, got it and missed with Valley taking the ball with just over a minute left. The Vikings waited and got the break when Jim Blair gambled on a pass interception and lost Terry English wheeled in for the crumple to give Valley the lead for only the third time.

At 18 seconds later McGhee was fouled and calmly dropped a free throw to tie it. Valley then went into its last-shot plan and that set the stage for McGhee's winning steal.

Twin Falls Will Host Southern Portion of Junior Rifle Match

Ushering in a new look, the Idaho state junior gallery rifle championships will be divided into north and south sections this year and Twin Falls junior rifle club will host the southern division March 13 and 14. Always the host of this event, Twin Falls is expecting about 45 to 55 competitors, reports junior supervisor Grant Sanborn. The northern phase, which expects about 60 shooters, will be conducted in Lewiston

Washington State was third and Gonzaga fourth in the team standings.

SENATORS SNAP 45-YEAR TITLE DROUGHT

Gooding Thumps Tigers in First Tourney Victory

JEROME, March 6—After 45 years of waiting, the Gooding high school trophy case had its first gold basketball trophy prominently displayed today. It came on the heels of a 50-41 victory over Jerome's Tigers on the night in the finals of the fourth district A-2 tournament. In addition to the trophy, the Senators also broke a long drought in winning a state tournament berth along with the Tigers. They will go after those honors Thursday when the state meet opens in Twin Falls. No Gooding team has gone to state since 1951-52, when the Senators made it as the third-place team from this district. Gooding placed second in district tournaments in 1920, 1945 and last year.

MURTAUGH KEEPS SIXTH DISTRICT CROWN

IT WAS NO BASKET for Gooding's Ron Silva (25) Friday night, but the two charity shots he dropped in made up for it after he was fouled in the fourth quarter by Jerome's Steve Millard (32). Silva paced the Senators' 50-41 fourth district A-2 tournament victory, with his long jumpers and his steady foul-line accuracy. It was Gooding's first district crown. Looking on, at left, is Jerome's Bob Thackeray while an unidentified Tiger rushes in behind Silva and Millard to assist. (Times-News photo)

Valley Is Not Isolated From World of Engineers

To a great many people an engineer is the man who runs a railroad locomotive. The truth is the term engineer can be applied to many professions. In fact, the term engineer is being applied to many professions in many modern times.

S. L. Stoltz, past president of the National Society of Professional Engineers, once defined an engineer as "a person educated in the principles of mathematics and physical sciences who applies his knowledge to direct and control the materials and forces of nature for the safe, economic use and convenience of man."

In areas where there is considerable activity, such as missile bases, factories and large manufacturing concerns, engineers are rather common.

OVER 14 MILLION DOLLARS will be spent on interstate highway construction on projects outlined by the department of highways. Most of the work in Magic Valley will fall under the direction of James Clayton, Jerome resident engineer. (Times-News photo) removed. In Magic Valley, far removed industrial centers and government projects, one would think engineers would be few and far apart.

It isn't so. There is a local chapter of the National Society of Professional Engineers. It has about two dozen members and about that many associate members.

The majority of the chapter's members are connected with the state highway department. Chapter president is Paul Newton, Twin Falls city engineer. Intermingled with the highway engineers are engineers from the power company and engineers from the world of agriculture.

The largest sum of money which will be spent in southern Idaho by any one unit is the 14 million dollars or more the highway department will dole out for highway construction in Magic Valley.

James Clayton, Jerome resident highway engineer, points out that engineering on a highway project could take many years before the actual construction starts.

Often one project engineer will become involved with other engineers. For example, the construction of a highway could involve the placement of power lines, telephone lines and irrigation structures.

In some cases the railroad is involved. Engineers talking a common language can work these problems out with a minimum of difficulty.

"In a sense the local society chapter gives engineers an opportunity to discuss mutual problems off the record."

Often there are difficult problems which may take considerable work and effort before they are overcome. In the long stretch of interstate highway being constructed south of Jerome one problem was where to get enough gravel to crush for base rock and culling.

This may sound strange, but the rock crusher for the interstate is located in the bottom of Snake river canyon near the mouth of Rock creek.

To open up this spurce, a road was constructed down the north side of Snake river canyon. A small bridge was built across Snake river and a road was cut to the crushing site.

All this seems pretty complicated and involved, but it is the cheapest in the long run. The decision rests squarely with the engineers, who picked the source and calculated the cost.

The orderly growth of any town depends largely on the engineering used in developing a town. City Engineer Paul Newton faces a variety of problems in directing the engineering activity of Magic Valley's largest city.

Rock lying fairly close to the surface is one problem Newton encounters in any large city undertaking. It has long been thought that rock would be a cost multiplying factor in the construction of storm sewers in Twin Falls.

By taking a three dimensional look at the problem, it was decided storm sewers could be constructed in Twin Falls with a minor encountering of rock.

Problems are soon answered by

The substation, the largest of its kind in southern Idaho, will link power transmission lines from the east and west portions of the state and it will facilitate distribution of power. ROAD AND BRIDGE across the bottom of Snake river canyon will be utilized to haul crushed rock to Interstate highway construction near Jerome. ## Modern Jerome Hospital Is Result Of Individual and Group Efforts

By SYLVIA HITE
Times-News Reporter

JEROME, March 6 — "Tackle him" is the cry and a group of boys converge on their playmate and the boy is down. The boys are wild with excitement, another touchdown has been prevented.

But wait, the little boy who is still holding the ball is screaming in anguish that he has hurt his leg.

An urgent call is made to a local physician and a worried parent is told to bring the boy to St. Benedict's hospital where the sisters will be waiting, with instructions for the child's care, until the doctor arrives.

The child is admitted to the hospital where he is examined by his physician and X-rays ordered. Within a very short time, the boy has been placed on the X-ray table and the X-rays completed.

The X-rays reveal a rare pathological fracture due to a bone cyst weakening the bone which has snapped under the strain of boyish games. It will be necessary to graft bone from another part of the body to the leg before it is allowed to heal.

The physician talks to the parents and they give the authorization for surgery.

The necessary laboratory work is ordered and Sister Mary Eleanor, M.T. takes over. A complete blood count is done which includes hemoglobin and hematocrit, a check for anemias.

Also included is a white blood count, the number of white corpuscles in a drop of blood as big as the head of a pin, and a differential, in which a smear of blood is stained and examined microscopically for the different types of white corpuscles and a percentage count is made. Then the size and shapes of the red blood cells are examined more minutely.

An urinalysis is made checking for the presence of sugar to make certain they are not unknowingly dealing with a diabetic which can be very serious when a surgery is performed. Albumen is also checked by means of chemicals to rule out any kidney malfunctions. The urine is then examined microscopically for red blood cells and pus cells. Because this type of surgery might involve loss of blood she will find out the patient's blood type and RH and also find blood which is compatible for the patient. This procedure, called a cross match, sometimes takes an hour's time.

The doctor and nurses again go over all the laboratory and X-ray results and the patient is then scheduled for surgery.

The next morning the surgery is completed and the boy is wheeled back to his room. He is on the road back to health because of the know-how and efficiency of these few people who are dedicated to helping others and who have modern up-to-date facilities in which to practice.

The doctor again talks to the parents assuring them the boy will be fine and they breathe a prayer of relief.

It is a wonderful thing to have adequate hospital facilities when needed and people tend to forget that a modern hospital in Jerome is not something that just simply "occurred."

Jerome residents had talked for many years of the need of adequate hospital facilities but it was not until 1954 that the Jerome Chamber of Commerce, then headed by William Grant, appointed a permanent committee to set up the necessary organization for such a purpose.

The Jerome Hospital Association, Inc. was organized and later that year the former home and acreage of the late R. E. Shapard was purchased as the site for the hospital building.

The Jerome Junior Chamber

Team Mulls Sterilizing Space Craft

LOS ANGELES, March 6 (AP)—The search for life on other planets is rapidly approaching its highest hurdle, one that man may not be able to clear with present-day technology.

That hurdle—how to avoid contaminating other worlds with earth bacteria and viruses—has cropped up frequently this week at the Unmanned Space-Craft meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

So tough is the problem that many scientists and engineers are bypassing it temporarily. They have no choice but to go ahead designing spacecraft that will work and assume meanwhile that someone will find a way to sterilize the vehicles before they land on, or even fly through the atmosphere of, other bodies in our solar system.

It is difficult enough to sterilize the metal spacecraft itself, simply because of the sizes planned in the next few years. Voyager, which the United States is planning to send to Mars by 1971, may be 20 to 30 feet high and weigh up to 26,000 pounds. Building an oven to heat such a vehicle at 300 degrees Fahrenheit for 24 hours—the sterilization standard set by the U.S. space agency—is no simple task.

But it can be done, two General Electric company experts, R. W. Wooten and J. B. Tenney, said in papers prepared for the spacecraft meeting. The vehicles

She recently was transferred to St. Gertrude's academy at Cottonwood and Sister Mary Camille, M.T., is now in charge of the laboratory. Additional honors have been accorded Mannie Shaw, Corral farmer and cattleman, for his interest in fiddling. A giant gold and white trophy was recently presented to him at the first annual public appearance of the fiddlers at the Pioneer school gymnasium where many of their members participated in the program. The gold inscription reads, "Presented to Mannie Shaw for his organization and three years leadership of the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers Association, February 1965." The presentation was made by Allen C. Rice, Boise, this year president of the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers. Rice, whose hobbies include ceramics, designed and made the 26-inch tall trophy. It is a gold and white pedestal topped with a gold cup and is adorned with a large gold fiddle on the front and two small gold fiddles on the sides. Rice made a smaller trophy featuring an angel and a gold cup which he presented to Mrs. Shaw for being a fiddler's widow. The inscription on this trophy reads, "To Lucille Shaw for being such an angel. From the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers Association, 1965." Mrs. Shaw isn't a fiddler but tries to accompany her busy husband as much as possible on his many engagements. Mannie Shaw has done much to create and promote interest

Biologist on Rabbits Tells Of Program

HOLLISTER, March 6 — Paul Hegdal, research biologist at the Jackrabbit research station in Twin Falls, reported on the control program being carried out when he addressed the booster night program at the Hollister Grange this week. He said the purpose of the research station is not to eradicate rabbits, but to experiment with different toxins and methods of keeping them under control in heavily infested years which will be satisfactory to all farmers and cattlemen. They also are concerned to find methods which will not be poisonous to other species of wildlife which depends partially on rabbits for their food, he stated. Migratory patterns are checked and also weather conditions which possibly tend to hold down reproduction of the animals. Hegdal showed colored slides of the research work and explained experiments which have been done at the station. Mrs. Heber Loughmiller, lecturer, introduced the speaker and a men's quartet composed of Leroy Fleener, C. M. Lanting, Homer Roberts and David Chawick, accompanied by Eileen Lanting, pianist. Invocation at the dinner which preceded the meeting was given by Chawick. Mrs. Heber's quartet gave a humorous oration personifying "Granny" of the Beverly Hillbillies. Mrs. Loughmiller announced the Red Cross bloodmobile drawing will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. Monday in the Twin Falls American Legion hall. Grange women are to furnish cookies. Next regular meeting of the Grange will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn J. Nelson.

shooting near the gas tank, I knew I had better get out of there," he noted. He parked the flaming auto about a block from the service station, where firemen extinguished the fire. Alvin Stimpson, fire chief of the West End fire department, said the unestimated damage was confined to the right rear wheel area. The tire was completely destroyed. Stimpson said it was apparently caused by the brake drum freezing. In fiddling and oldtime music. He organized the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers association and it has grown. Each year the group makes many public appearances. At this meeting in Weiser the group accepted an invitation to play at the International Girl Scouts gathering at Sandpoint. The organization or part of their members have scheduled appearances at various events in Magic Valley in the next few months. Their next mid-winter convention will be held in GOODING in 1966. Mannie Shaw has been referred to as a "one man Chamber of Commerce" for his efforts to promote Idaho through the Oldtime Fiddlers. At one time Gov. Robert Smylie awarded him with a certificate as "Promotor of the Week" along with a personal letter of thanks for his tireless activities in behalf of the state. Shaw has collected figurines of fiddlers down through the years and has many unique combinations as animals, insects and such playing fiddles. The new trophies will have places of honor in the Shaw home, as they are both outstanding works of art.

An Idaho Falls traveling salesman made a "flaming entrance" into PAUL last Thursday morning. Dennis Tirrell, salesman for Sussor Wholesale company, was heading towards a service station here when he thought was a mere flat tire. He reportedly heard a "hissing" sound coming from the right rear of his 1963 station wagon so wasn't too concerned by the whistles and shouts coming from people near by. He said he thought they were trying to warn him of the air oozing from the tire. "About the time I looked behind me and saw those flames I knew I was in a bad fix," he said. ## Filer Family Bottle-Fed Colt Much Like Pet Lambs

FILER, March 6 — Orphaned colts can be raised on a bottle, the same as lambs and calves. Proof of this is "Topaze," a 10-month-old Arabian filly colt who is growing strong and healthy on the Reuben Lierman ranch, southwest of Filer. Raising a colt in this way is much more difficult than raising a lamb or calf, however, as a colt must be fed every three or four hours just like a baby, whereas calves and lambs require only several feedings a day. Also, a much richer formula is needed to take the place of a mare's milk, which is very rich and sweet. The Lierman family was faced with this problem last April when "Zir-Kon," an Arabian mare owned by Janet Lierman, their daughter, died after giving birth to a filly colt. Although well-meaning friends assured them it was practically impossible to raise such a tiny colt without a mother, they felt there was no alternative but to try. They consulted their veterinarian, who suggested a formula of equal parts condensed milk and water, to which was added lime water and a large amount of sugar or syrup. This was fed from a bottle with nipple every three hours day and night. Feeding the colt became a family project. Mrs. Lierman fed the colt during the day while her husband, Alvin Lierman, was in the fields, and the two divided the night hours. The formula was mixed and refrigerated as carefully as for an infant, and bottles and nipples were kept equally clean. After the colt started gaining and seemed off to a good start, the feedings were changed to every four hours and the amount of kysup was cut down. The family states they used more than a case of canned milk a week and syrup was bought by the gallon. The lime water, purchased from a drugist, and given as a digestive aid, was left out of the formula after the colt started gaining. When the colt was 10 weeks old, she was started on calf manna. To this was added a tablespoon of vitamin supplement each morning and evening. She was also given hay and rolled grain, besides her milk. From a bottle and nipple, she was eventually weaned to a pail with a nipple, and later to drinking from a pan. The feedings of milk were gradually decreased until she was being fed four times a day, and by the time she was six months old, she was being given milk only in the morning. The milk feedings could have been dropped altogether after the colt was four months old and was well started on the calf manna, the veterinarian said, but the family stated that the colt became such a pet and was so fond of the milk that they kept on with it, mostly just to pamper her. This young colt had a small rupture at birth which kept enlarging so at five months, this had to be removed by the veterinarian. Several weeks ago, with the other horses on the place, the colt received worming treatment for blood worms. Now at 10 months of age, "Topaze" is being fed two pounds of rolled and treated oats each night and morning. To the grain is added two heaping table-spoonfuls of clovite to which has been added calcium and phosphate. She is also fed hay and is on pasture. Raising a colt in this way has been expensive, the Liermans admit, but they state they would not hesitate to do it all over again. The handsome colt is being registered and will probably be shown at horse shows in the future. Although there are other horses on the place, "Topaze" rules. She is the pet of the family and also of the entire neighborhood. Her pasture adjoins the horse yard, and a member of the family has had to step outside and the horse will whinny, and upon being called, will immediately come up to the fence. Her latest trick is reaching up to seize in her teeth the cord which turns on a light in her small stable. The first several times this happened, the family was surprised to go outside after dark and see a light merrily burning in Topaze's barn. Now they expect it. As they say, she's "probably lonesome."

OLD AND NEW FORMS of primitive area transportation are shown here. Light aircraft being handled and fishermen by landing strips, where outfitters and guides meet them by prior arrangement and horses and mules take over. This airfield is Chamberlain basin northeast of McCall, a popular elk hunting area, and the outfitter is C. C. (Slim) Horne, Homedale. Landing strips at strategic places throughout the back country and outfitters and guides are invaluable to the Idaho fish and game department in helping hunters keep big game herds in balance with winter storage. will be of metal, and metal can withstand such heat.
The real problem, they said in an interview, is in sterilizing the plastic electronic parts such as radios, batteries and tape recorders which collect and transmit information necessary before manned landings can be attempted.
Plastics are the best material for such parts because of their light weight and insulative qualities. Plastics are wrecked by light and prolonged heat. They melt, expand and even explode under temperatures the germs they contain can survive.
Why worry about sterilization? First, no one wants to take the chance of infecting forms of life that may exist on other planets. Second, only by complete sterilization can scientists be sure that any microscopic life found on alien soil was not imported from Earth.

Building to House Forest Office Slated

SALMON, March 6 — Bids have been called by the general services administration for a building to house the Salmon national forest supervisor and personnel in Salmon.
The building will be constructed by a private individual for rent to the forest service. Bids are scheduled for opening April 5 and the forest service hopes to move in July 1.
F. E. Powers, forest supervisor, said the building will contain some 4,730 square feet of floor space and would be approximately 50 by 150 feet in size.
The structure will house 32 employees of the forest service now located in three different buildings about the city.
Powers said it is the hope of the forest service that the contractor will construct the building in the general area of a 13-acre site the forest service has acquired at the northern city limits.
He noted that the land was acquired to build a supervisor's office and other headquarters buildings but that plans were changed because "it appears obvious that appropriate funds will not be available to the forest service for a number of years to do the job."
When funds become available the acquired site will be used to construct a warehouse, a shop, heliports and other administrative buildings," he said.

Money Contributed by Non-Residents Is Vital to Idaho Wildlife Program

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho fish-game department
The idea of killing the goose that lays golden eggs to get them all at once is as old as folklore. One popular version is the plan voiced by people in almost every Western state to boost the cost of fishing and hunting to out-riders without proportionate hikes for licenses and tags to residents.
Accompanying such schemes are statements to the effect that huge numbers of non-residents are killing vast herds of big game animals and taking untold numbers of trout, salmon and steelhead that properly belong in the bags and creels of deserving natives.
Let's look at the record.
Dollars and cents generally make an understandable case. Resident hunters and fishermen bought $1,446,677 worth of licenses of all kinds during 1964 compared to $1,312,443 purchased by outsiders during the same year.
Broken down into percentages, this means that residents provided 52 3/5 per cent of all revenue from the sale of all licenses, and non-residents anted up 47 2/5 per cent.
A logical but wrong conclusion could be drawn from these figures, one that is heard often from disgruntled hunters and fishermen.
The fact, however, do not bear out the charges that Idaho's hunting and fishing grounds are being overrun by out-of-staters. Neither is the lion's share of the fish and game being taken by non-residents. Actually, visitors take about 10 per cent of the total harvest of fish and game.
Figures for 1964 show that 229,354 Idaho residents bought hunting, fishing or combination licenses, while non-residents bought 21,666 big game, bird hunting and season fishing licenses. Another 26,267 tourists bought seven-day fishing licenses.
The biggest increase in the number of licenses being sold to non-residents came a few years ago with the changes in the tourist fishing license structure. In those days residents purchased 58 per cent and non-residents 42 per cent.
The main difference resulted from a legislative change that set up a new short-time fishing license in addition to the existing seven-day tourist fishing license and the regular non-resident fishing license classes.
This permits people traveling through the state to fish for $2 the first day and $1 a day for each consecutive day thereafter. The 1964 figures show that 64,037 one-day fishing licenses, plus 33,043 additional day fishing licenses, were sold. The latter, of course, were the same people.

The other part of the argument that outsiders are harvesting more than their share of game and fish and not paying enough for their sport does not square with the facts any better. For example, more than twice as many residents hunt bighorn sheep as out-of-staters do. Resident hunters kill more than twice as many bighorn rams as non-residents.
Hunter success for residents also is slightly higher than it is for non-residents, according to reports from the hunters themselves.
A 1963 questionnaire shows that non-residents paid four times as much for their highly prized bighorn trophies as residents. The highest cost reported by an individual hunter was $1,300 by a non-resident. Three others said they spent $1,000 apiece.
Total expenses included, purchases of hunting licenses, tags and permits, equipment, taxidermy, travel, motel, cafe, groceries, outfitters and guide fees and other items.
The 1964 record shows less than 7,000 non-resident big game hunting licenses were sold compared to 63,202 resident game licenses and 100,291 more resident fishing-hunting licenses combinations.

In summary, all but a small fraction of the Idaho fish and game department's two million dollars a year budget for management of fish and game resources comes from the sale of licenses, permits and tags. Almost half of this revenue is contributed as fees by non-resident sportsmen.
Both groups of hunters and fishermen spend a combined total of about 60 million dollars a year in Idaho while in pursuit of their favorite fish and game.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . .

Dr. Hopper Leaving Hazelton After Practicing Medicine for 55 Years

Hazelton, March 6 — Dr. Simeon Hopper who, for 55 of his 55 years of practicing medicine, has been a faithful and respected part of the Eden and Hazelton communities, has announced his retirement and his plans to move to Port Orchard, Wash., because of failing health.
He was born in Cambridge, Idaho (then called Middle Valley), in 1886, where he spent his childhood and attended school. After three years of high school, he entered the University of St. Louis medical school where he carried his senior year of high school and his first year of medicine at the same time.
In 1900 he married Georgia Anderson, Welter, and after his graduation in 1910, and his working under a preceptor (an elder doctor) for three years, for those days hospitals had no interns, they returned to Cambridge, where he practiced until 1918.
During this time the doctor, after traveling to his patients on foot, horseback, horse and buggy, and sometimes a railroad hand-car, purchased his first automobile, a 1913 Model "T" Ford with lots of brass trim and side curtains.
It had carbide headlights and coast lights for the back which had to be lighted by hand each time.
"At 20 miles an hour I was going fast, and at 25 I was really speeding," chuckles the doctor.
"In 1918 World War I was in progress and I was called into the army. I entered as a first lieutenant and after basic training I was sent to Blackpool, England, as one of the doctors loaned to the British expeditionary forces, who were very short of doctors at that time.
"While stationed at Leeds, the prominent home specialist, Sir Berkeley Monahan, physician to the king and queen at that time, came to the hospital three times each week to lecture us on gunshot and shrapnel wounds.
"I was then shipped across the channel to France and assigned to the 11th British field ambulance where my first duty was a civilian influenza epidemic.
"Later we advanced north to the Belgian border where we were when the mistle was signed. I was sent to Brest and from there back to New York where my wife met me and we spent three days at the Pennsylvania hotel, the largest in the world at that time," the doctor recalls.
He received his discharge as a captain at Princeton, N.J., and they returned to Homedale where he practiced until February, 1929. From there they moved to

DR. SIMEON HOPPER

Hazelton — just ahead of the worst blizzard of the year.
He opened his office in the house across the street from where they lived until a new one was finished in 1930.
His wife died in 1938 and the same year he was injured when a loose horse ran into the left side of his car, rolled over the hood, breaking the windshield. Later he found he had been taken to the Twin Falls hospital with a basal skull fracture, broken clavical, and a broken leg.
One month later he was still unconscious and was transferred to Fort Miles, Calif., for treatment by a brain and nerve specialist. Finally, after several operations, and a total of three months of lying unconscious, he began to recover.
In 1940, he married Agnes Johnstone in Elko, Nev. She became his office nurse and helped with his training.
"She's a better doctor now than I am," he says.
He has been on call night and day throughout his career, and says babies always come at night. He has made his visits to the hospitals at Wendell and Jerome twice daily for many years. He has served on two hospital boards and was one of the most diligent workers in establishing St. Benedict's hospital, Jerome.
"We will miss the valley and the people," he says. "I feel a deep satisfaction in having helped those who needed me but I am looking forward to some rest and a little fishing."
HOSPITALIZED
KING HILL, March 6 — C. L. Atwood has been admitted to the Samaritan hospital, Nampa, for medical treatment.

Machine Will Aid Teacher In Classroom

By DAVID NYDICK
(UPI Education Specialist)
What place do teaching machines have in the educational picture? They will not replace the human teacher. They may well be used to help her do a better job with her students.
Some educators predict that teaching machines will enable more students to receive individualized instruction.
The machines may help to relieve the problems of overcrowded classrooms, dropouts and teacher shortages.
A typical teaching machine presents a student with one or more sentences of subject matter. A question is then asked. The student gives his answer. This procedure is then repeated with slightly more difficult material, etc. The best of information, questions and answers is called a program. The entire procedure is also called programmed learning.
There are machines which are more complex. As an example, if a student chooses a wrong answer, the machine will present special material to help him understand his mistake.
The major problem at this time is that machines are superior to the material which they use. The major effort should now be to develop material which is of superior quality.
Studies are now under way at several major universities which are testing the use of computers to determine a program for individual students to the question. It is possible that teaching machines will free the teacher from routine duties. Students can review material while teachers work with other individuals or groups.
Advanced students can study material which is suited to their needs. There are many possibilities which are yet to be uncovered.
What are some of the problems? There has been some evidence that students lose interest after a period of time. The novelty wears off. The result is a loss of motivation to learn.

When spring comes this year, many millions of dollars will be poured into new construction, new ideas and techniques. Deeply involved in many of these projects will be members of the Magic Valley chapter of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Many of the problems will be intertwined and common to people in the society. The chapter helps in solving these problems.

Degree Work Is Presented At King Hill

KING HILL, March 6—First and second degree work was presented by King Hill Grange members to new candidates of the Grange Wednesday night at the Grange hall with Kenneth Jones and Frank Jones as leaders of the drill teams.

Many City Residents Are Caught in House Squeeze

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—Joe Doakes is about to lose his home to the bulldozers. Home is a sub-standard flat in a tired section of any typical American city getting a new look under urban removal. Joe lives there with his wife and school-age daughter. He should have moved years ago. The unsanitary plumbing alone made it an improper place to live. Then there were the cracked walls, the broken steps, the dark hallways—dozen other things were wrong. Joe didn't stay on because he and his family liked it. They had no place to go. Private housing was just not building homes that Joe could afford. And he was making too much money to get into public housing. Joe and his family were caught in the housing squeeze. Working full-time and with his wife working part-time, the family had an income of $4,300 a year. For public housing they were far too rich. But for private housing, the only living quarters Joe could afford was something like what he was stuck with. If the President's new rent subsidy program is approved by congress and it works—both of which are uncertain—it would allow Joe Doakes and his family to move into a nice place to live. According to government housing experts, the typical home in the typical city for the typical family would be in a project that cost about $12,500 to build. To maintain that $12,500, two-bedroom home, for a three or four-member family, the builder would have to charge $125 a month rent, at current rates of building and mortgage interest. But Joe Doakes couldn't afford to pay $125 a month rent. Figuring on a basis of 20 per cent of his income for living quarters, he could afford only $72 a month, or cheat on other necessities—food and doctor bills, clothing. To get Joe Doakes and his family into that $125 home, the federal government would pay the difference between the rent Joe could afford and what the landlord would have to pay. In this case, it would be $54 a month. But the money wouldn't go directly to Joe Doakes, and he couldn't pick out any home built anywhere. The rent subsidy would go to the landlord and the government would agree to pay it only when Joe Doakes moves into a special type of housing built just for low and moderate income families. Two types of projects would be eligible: Those built by non-profit organizations such as unions, churches or civic groups. Those built by what are called "limited dividend" organizations which agree that under no conditions will they get more than a six per cent return on the capital they invest. Insurance companies would be expected to be likely developers. To those two groups, the government would pledge to pay rent subsidies to see to it that they have full occupancy after the houses are built.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, March 7—Born to day, you are highly intelligent and most capable of producing and enjoying those man-made things and ideas that are the signs of progress. But your main love is for nature, and your main concern is that man should come to know and understand the natural world around him. Furthermore, this concern does not stop merely at the enjoyment of nature; your chief wish is to attain knowledge and to impart scientific knowledge about this world.
One who knows only too well how difficult life can be, you have a great feeling for your fellow man, particularly your fellow man in trouble. Always ready to provide sympathetic ear and a shoulder to cry on, you must take care that you do not allow your sentiments to get the better of your reason. It is one thing to be sympathetic, another to be taken advantage of. Highly emotional, you nevertheless have your emotions under control most of the time. When you do lose your temper or go overboard, it is with force but short duration. There is usually more reason behind it than may appear on the surface, too. Among those born on this date are: Luther Burbank, noted American botanist; Maurice Ravel, French composer; Andre Michaux, famed French botanist, horticulturist. To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Make sure you have the controls firmly in hand before turning them over to someone else!

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Do not slacken your pace or you might forfeit all the ground you've gained in the past few weeks.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Make things easier and keep outside interference at arm's length. Avoid committing yourself to any activity unless you can give it your full support and cooperation.

Alaskan Town Could Claim Unique Title

HYDER, Alaska, March 6 (AP)—When they hand out awards for unique American communities, Hyder, Alaska, will have to be placed near the top of the list. For where else can you find a U.S. town where they use only Canadian money and has the remnants of an ancient Russian fort gracing the main street.

Hyder is situated at the end of the 90-mile Portland canal in the Alaska panhandle where the international border joins another small community—Stewart, B.C. The population of Hyder fluctuates between 25 and 30, all American citizens except one Canadian schoolmarm who married an American.

Although it has been there since the early 1900's, the town's population has never exceeded 100. At one time, it dipped to 14, and only one of the residents imbibed in alcoholic beverages. But Hyder's three bars, fortunately, didn't have to rely on this lone individual, they have always depended on Canadian clientele from nearby Stewart.

The twin communities of Stewart and Hyder were born in 1907 when the Stewart Land Development company of Victoria, B.C., reported the find of a mountain criss-crossed with gold.

A tent city of 7,000 sprung up almost overnight. Because the hotels on the Canadian side had to close at midnight, Hyder's three bars, with their 5 a.m. closing, did a landlubber business, as did the 14 brothels.

Although the goldrush fever subsided the following year and the population rapidly depleted, the community was given another boost a few years later when upper Canada's Sir Donald Mann proposed the Canadian Northwestern railway. Sir Donald Aid envisaged a railroad stretching across northern Canada, linking Stewart, on the Pacific coast, to the port of Chureuil on Hudson Bay.

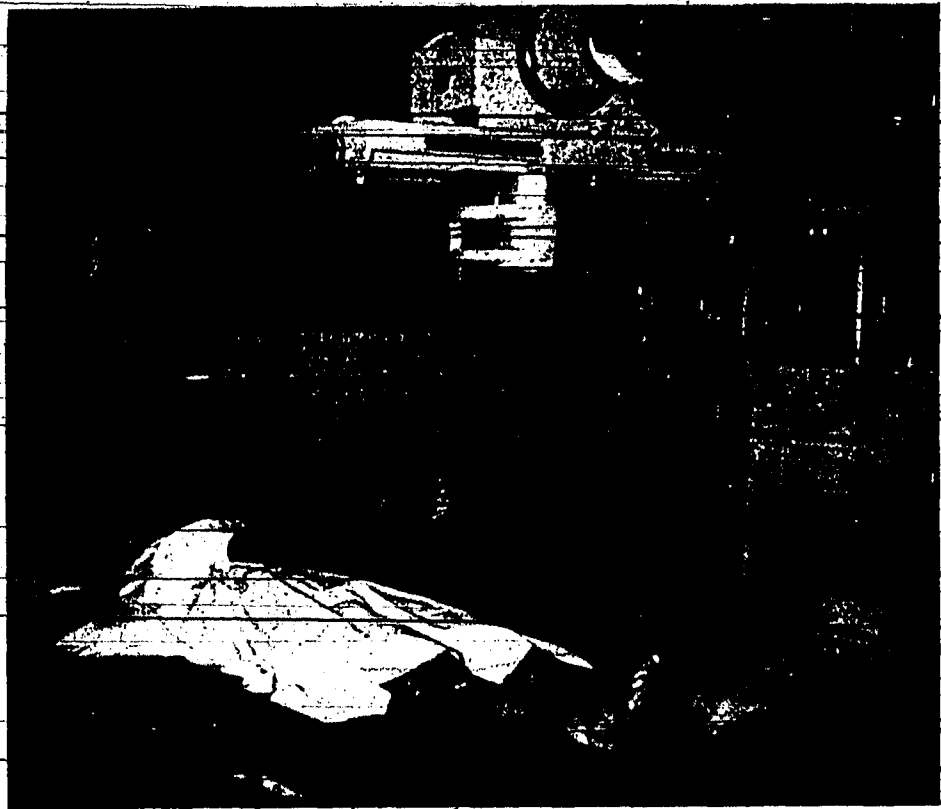

More than 200 men built 14 miles of railway over a three-year period. Construction was interrupted by World War I, and never resumed. Merchants were left with huge stockpiles, and even today you can buy snowshoes for horses.

Following the war, prospectors continued to probe the mountainous regions of the Stewart-Hyder area. The population leveled off at about 2,000. Hyder remained a "swinging place," recalled oldtimer William Orr, 78, who came north in 1911. A 1928 edition of the Portland Canal News, one of two weekly newspapers published during the peak period, supported his claim.

The newspaper's social column noted the women's auxiliary to the hospital would sell refreshments at the upcoming dance. The ladies planned to set up their bar near the "opera house" and it also was reported "there are chances to make big stakes at the roulette wheel, faro, the crap game, crown-and-anchor and the pellé." "Space for a complete description of fun to be had in this camp," added the social note.

Germany Is Prime Target Of Business

FRANKFURT, March 6 (AP)—West Germany, prime European target of American business interests, is increasingly concerned over the volume of U.S. investments.

Businessmen who for years have welcomed American capital as a stimulant to the domestic economy now wonder whether the investments might not be too much to digest.

Estimates vary widely on just how big the American slice of German industry is. But it has reached a point prompting parallel reactions in Washington and West Germany.

In Washington, President Johnson urged industry to curb voluntarily overseas spending to help the U.S. balance of payments.

In West Germany, the debate is on how to check what critics call "uberfinanzung"—foreign saturation—through takeover purchases, mostly by American companies.

Up to now, the government has not followed French President Charles De Gaulle's suit in speaking up against the growth of U.S. business control in Europe.

A lease agreement was executed by the Jerome Hospital association and the Idaho Corporation of Benedictine Sisters in July, 1950.

Final approval of the project was made by the U. S. department of public health and the Idaho department of public health in 1951.

Contracts were awarded to Reynolds and Walker, Inc., and C. H. Elle Construction company for construction of the hospital the same year.

On March 14, 1951, contractors actually started work and a year later the buildings were substantially finished.

Formal ceremonies for laying of the cornerstone of the building were held on March 16, 1952. Len Jordan, then governor of Idaho, was the principal speaker.

The St. Benedict's hospital opened for business March 18, 1952, under the operation of the Idaho Corporation of Benedictine Sisters. St. Valentine's hospital at Wendell closed the same day.

The Rev. Edward J. Kelly, bishop, diocese of Idaho, officiated at the formal dedication of the hospital May 12, 1952.

At long last and only because of the united efforts of the people in Jerome county and Magic Valley the $735,000 40-bed St. Benedict's hospital was a reality.

A special vote of thanks should be given to Sister Martina, superior, who was administrator of St. Benedict's hospital from the time it opened its doors until December, 1954, when she was named a special liaison officer for facilities of the order of Jerome, Cottonwood and any other facilities the order might acquire in Idaho.

Big Kirby

IT IS KIND OF YOU TO CONCERN YOURSELF, BUT THIS IS A PRIVATE FIGHT.

BETTER LET US HAVE THIS BEFORE ONE OF US GETS HURT!

IT'S A SHAME TO RUIN THAT DUMMY, BUT GET DRESSED, RAUL, WE'RE CHECKING OUT.

Easy Kid

YOU'RE STILL IN LOVE WITH HER!

YES, IF YOU WANT TO CALL IT THAT! BUT IT'S NOT REALLY LOVE! IT'S A NEUROTIC ATTACHMENT!

MEANWHILE... LIZ, I WANT TO SEE YOU! I MUST TALK TO YOU!

I DIDN'T THINK YOU'D EVER WANT TO SEE ME AGAIN AFTER LAST NIGHT ERIC, MY DARLING, I'M VERY MUCH IN LOVE WITH YOU! CAN YOU EVER FORGIVE ME?

CAN I FORGIVE YOU? LIZ, YOU MEAN EVERYTHING TO ME!

Gasoline Alley

I see you are about ready for the big sale, Sneeze!

Nina and the PTA ladies have worked like mad to get things sorted out.

One of your maahs, Dr. Fuddle! Wonderful!

However I did bring a toaster and a lamp! The toaster is in slight need of repair!

Just what we need!

I WAS AFRAID YOU WOULDN'T SHOW UP, MIKE!

Mission Family Continues Despite Viet Cong Menace

KHE SAHN, South Viet Nam, March 6 (AP) — An American missionary family living in an area surrounded by Viet Cong terrorists has staked its fate on a belief in God and the guns of a U. S. special forces team.

From their bamboo hut near the border with communist North Viet Nam where they live with their two children, John and Carolyn Miller are trying to force open the door of knowledge for the primitive hill people of the Brou tribe.

Most of the area between here and the coastal lowlands 75 miles away is controlled by the Viet Cong.

Even the "secure" town of Khe Sahn, 20 miles south of the North Viet Nam border and 10 miles east of Laos, is frequently entered by Viet Cong at night. Government troops and members of the special forces camp regularly set up ambushes around the village on strategic Route 9.

If the terror which has haunted this land for 20 years bothers the young couple, they give little outward sign.

John, 34, of Allentown, Pa., has no weapon and there is no trench or bunker at the Miller home in case of Viet Cong attack.

Carolyn, 28, of Houghton, N. Y., says: "Granted this area could be overrun, I think about it sometimes when the flares go off and the machine guns start firing. But I also think this is where the Lord wants us, so I don't worry too much."

John says, "One thing, a lot of people back home are praying for us."

White-brushing the blonde hair of her 2-year-old daughter, Marjorie, Mrs. Miller adds, "Also, we depend on the special forces the district officials and the government troops."

Although a strong force of government troops is in the area, it has not yet proved aggressive in keeping down the Viet Cong. In any critical situation, the Millers would probably have to depend on Capt. Charles A.

Allen, 34, Post-1st Lt. W. Allen's camp is too small. The Millers are surrounded by many friends and neighbors. However, Allen says that the tribesmen "the Viet Cong considered a good friend" as a Viet Cong terrorist.

Miller and his wife are the Wycliffe Bible Institute Summer Institute of Yoga, a nonsectarian organization in Santa Ana, Calif.

I Pray Standing up

BY ELNA W. DANIEL, Pensacola, Fla.

As a small girl I was taken to pay the melancholy but customary "last respects" to a young cousin who was not expected to live. The family lived on a farm remote from hospitals, and medical science was not then what it is now.

I remember that as we walked into the house, somebody shushed me, saying that they were having prayer in the parlor.

My mother and father joined the other grownups who knelt there, and I took the opportunity to slip down the hall and into the kitchen. There I found my great-aunt, the child's grandmother, wringing out cloths in a pan of water.

"Why aren't you praying too, Aunt Sarah?" I asked.

"She looked down at me without stopping her word. 'I always pray standing up,' she said, picking up the tray of wet cloths and hurrying into the sickroom.

My little cousin got well. His illness was never diagnosed, and

I do not pretend to know what saved his life, but I often heard my mother speak of the dogged way Aunt Sarah packed wet cloths around the boy to bring his fever down and dropped liquid into his throat with a medicine dropper hour after hour when the doctor had said there was no use.

Perhaps my cousin would have lived without either the prayers sent up in his behalf from the parlor or the ones from the kitchen. But I always had the feeling that if I needed prayer, I'd rather have Aunt Sarah's kind.

Many times when I feel that prayer is the only thing that can help, I remember Aunt Sarah and take a last look around to see if there's anything I can do while I pray.

When my husband died suddenly of a heart attack, I felt that there was no answer to death. Looking around I saw that there were business affairs to be settled and decisions to be made in regard to my children's future as well as the physical demands of my 2-month-old baby. I didn't know which way to turn.

Then I remembered Aunt Sarah's words. So I set to work and by the time all the decisions were made, my prayers were partially answered. Time itself had dulled some of the agony of grief.

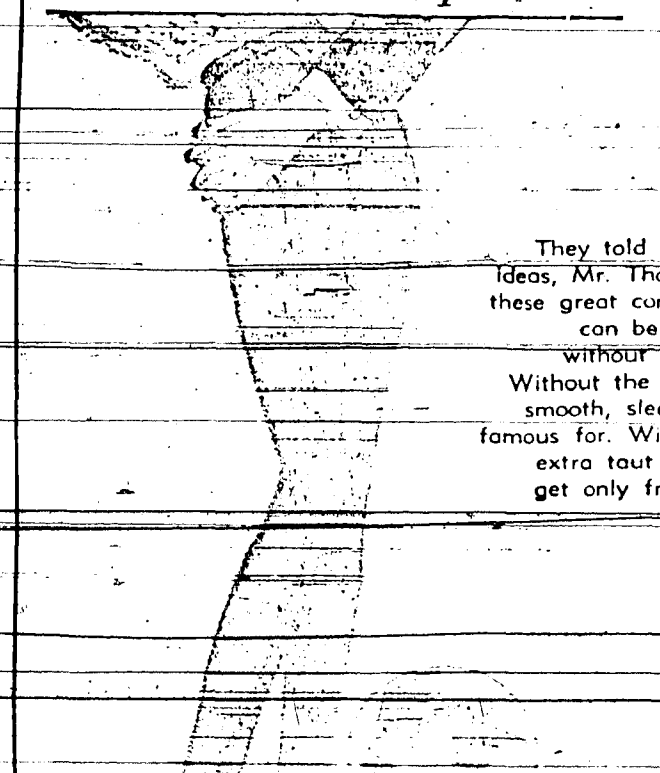

Aunt Sarah's "I always pray standing up" had helped again.

"Mr. Thomson.... please!"

They told me you had great ideas, Mr. Thompson. For example, these great convertible stretch pants can be worn with or without snap-in stirrups. Without the stirrups, they're the smooth, sleek pants you're so famous for. With them they give the extra taut and trim look I get only from marvelous fit.

No wonder I always say "Mr. Thompson, PLEASE!"

Proportioned sizes short-medium, 8-20, medium-tall, 8-20. In deep Pink, Aqua Blue, White or Black.
