Senate Might Act Thursday on Vital Sales Tax Measure

BOISE, March 10 (AP)—The Idaho senate brought the sales tax bill back on its calendar today and arranged for a showdown decision, probably Thursday. But a slowdown in the house, coupled with charges of blackmail, left the effect somewhat in doubt.

The sales tax bill was defeated a week ago but the action was reconsidered immediately. Another vote on the proposal could not be reconsidered, but leaders expressed confidence the measure would carry this time.

Japanese Shell Causes Crisis in U. S.-Philippine Relations

MANILA, March 10 (AP)—The Philippines' anti-American sentiment, which has been steadily increasing since World War II, was further inflamed today by the discovery of a Japanese shell in the Philippines.

Last December one of them, about the size of a beer can, finally "exploded" in a manner beyond the Japanese manufacturer's wildest dreams. It exploded in Manila, still reverberating in Washington and Peking.

The shell was found in the morning of Dec. 17 a few feet from the classroom of Clarkfield, a private school at Clarkfield, a United States base 60 miles north of Manila.

The shell was found by a Filipino guard the name of Victorio Doria, who reported it to the United States military attaché in Manila, Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been reported as a liberating national hero. Uncle Sam was burned in effigy. A handful of youths demonstrators raised the cry "Yankee go home" although, as Finance Secretary Ruffin H. Johnson said, "The demonstrations here tended to be magnified when printed abroad."

That shell and the demonstrations it caused, altered, perhaps forever, what is one longtime American resident called "the easygoing and probably over-complacent friendship of the past."

The change has been 20 years arriving. Responsible Philippine and American officials agree that it surfaced at a critical time with the islands embroiled in a bitter election and beset by financial worries, government corruption and unstable Asian neighbors.

There is no possibility the Philippine government will ask for removal of the American bases—only a handful of the Philippines want that. Both President Diosdado Macapagal and his opponent, senate President Ferdinand Marcos, are aware their country is deeply sympathetic to the United States—and they ask no more than revision of the treaty governing United States bases in the Philippines.

Against this complex background, 21-year-old Almirante Larry Cole borrowed a .22 rifle last Nov. 25 and went bird hunting on the Grow Valley gunnery range of Clark air base. It was late in the afternoon and he was off duty. He said he saw several Filipinos scavenging scrap metal and fired some shots to frighten them. One of those shots killed Rogelio Balagtas, 16.

Late in February Cole was convicted of unpremeditated murder by an American court martial and sentenced to three years at hard labor. During the trial, Cole's counsel described him as "a helpless pawn in an international situation."

A few weeks after the shooting of Balagtas two marine guards at Subic Bay, a U. S. navy base, spotted a small boat edging toward a beach near an ammunition dump. A warning shot fired into the shallow water evidently splintered and a fragment, which ricocheted killed Gonzalo Villedo.

Immediately there were editorial demands that Philippine courts be granted jurisdiction over the two cases—although the Philippine government has never officially asked for it.

To calm the outcry raised by the shootings, U. S. ambassador William McCormick Blair, Jr., a suave, soft-spoken onetime aide to Adlai E. Stevenson, called in eight Philippine newsmen for a private briefing which they were told they could use without citing Blair as the source.

He emphasized the immense security problem at the sprawling bases. Thieves have made off with a mountain of loot ranging from cigarettes to airport runway lights. More dangerous, the devil-may-care robbers value explosives which are used, among other things, for fishing. They frequently have carted off whole 1,000-pound bombs.

Almost casually, Blair recalls, he mentioned also that an investigation was under way at Clark air base. A Filipino guard had reported that two unidentified Filipinos had tossed an unexploded shell over a wire fence into a schoolyard the day before.

Blair has been criticized for not recognizing that his audience at that time, was about as sensitive as one can be. He has been as badly misquoted as Blair himself was. The 58 mm Japanese mortar shell became a "bomb."

Blair was pilloried for picturing Filipinos as a race of mass-murderers of schoolchildren. He was accused of manufacturing the "bomb" story as a hoax to cover up the earlier shootings.

Negotiations are now under way to revise the military bases agreement. Most if not all Philippine desires will be met.

Immediately, a disunited Philippine government could probably win greater economic concessions from the United States.

But such measures, in the private view of many American officials and businessmen, will not get at the root of present difficulties.

Legislature Activity

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—Early approval of an Idaho reapportionment plan during special session is predicted by senate majority leader George Blick, R., Twin Falls. Many legislative observers believe the legislature will choose to take no action on reapportionment and leave it in the hands of the courts. But Blick said yesterday he expects approval of a plan "acceptable to the courts" and soon. The matter is to be taken up in special session immediately after adjournment of the regular session. The state has been sued to reapportion its legislative and congressional districts so that senators and representatives in each will represent the same number of citizens. A federal court has delayed decision on the suit until April to permit reapportionment by the legislature rather than by court action. In predicting that the legislative plan approved would be "acceptable," Blick noted that apportionment adopted in Georgia and other states indicates the courts are giving legislators a degree of leeway.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—The senate approved by voice vote yesterday a memorial, previously adopted by the house, which urges congress to retain at least some silver in the nation's coins. Sen. Arthur Murphy, D., Shoshone, sponsored the memorial on the senate floor.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—An attempt to suspend house rules in order to take immediate action on a bill providing for creation of six junior college areas in the state was stalled yesterday when a lone objection was voiced. Rep. Walter Latta, R., Payette, objected when Speaker Pete T. Cennarra, R., Blaine, asked for unanimous consent to change the order of business to allow the bill to be reported to the floor. "This bill," he said, "will place additional taxes on counties and it should be allowed to run its regular course." Earlier in the day the bill was amended to allow the transfer of surplus funds in the junior college fund to be transferred to the counties to pay current expenses. The bill was introduced last Saturday after another junior college measure was defeated by the house. The revised measure creates six geographical areas but provides for a different method of financing that first proposed. Under the new bill, the outlying counties will pay only for the students it has attending the junior college. Their share has been pegged at $225 per student per semester.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—A bill that would have permitted counties to levy a tax to pay hospital costs for indigent was defeated 29-25 yesterday in the house. Opponents said the bill would take control of welfare programs away from county commissioners and would "let down the bars" for indigent seeking hospital care. But proponents said provision for hospital care of persons who cannot otherwise afford it is long overdue in Idaho.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—A bill calling for creation of a state capitol planning commission to develop plans for construction of state buildings in Boise was approved yesterday by the Idaho house. Rep. Fred Bagley, R., Ada, floor sponsor, said the commission would coordinate the state's building program in Boise, and eliminate some of the confusion that now exists. He said state agencies are presently housed in office buildings throughout Boise, and that one of the commission's primary jobs would be to draft plans for a state complex that would bring them under one roof. Rep. Ferd Koch, R., Ada, announced that he has secured a quarter of a block behind the state capitol as site for such a complex. He said the price of the site has been set at approximately $85,000. The planning commission would be made up of five members, two from the house of representatives, one from the senate, one appointed from among Boise city elective officials, and one appointed by the governor.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—The senate defeated yesterday a bill which would have removed parents of mentally handicapped children in the Nampa state school of the legal responsibility of paying for their care when the children reach age 21. Sen. Perry Swisher, R., Bannock, said the theory behind the legislation, approved earlier by the house, was that parents of normal children are not responsible for them legally after they become 21. Present law requires them to pay if they are financially able to do so. Sen. William Hoden, R., Ada, said the bill represents a "radical departure" from existing theory and practice. He said there is no comparable provision for caring for children who have other types of illness.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—An Ada county representative yesterday led a fight to temporarily defeat a bill which would absolve farmers from certain liabilities only to see the house leadership says the bill measure. Rep. Charles McDevitt, R., Ada, argued against the bill which was passed in the senate and would exempt landowners from liability for injury to persons they permit to use their land or water for recreational purposes. Rep. Jack Claiborn, R., Twin Falls, said he believed the measure would help sportsmen as well as landowners. Rep. Clay W. Sutton, D., Washington, said it offered needed protection for landowners. But McDevitt contended "it violated principles of common law and 'will come back to haunt you. It's bad law.'" On the first vote the bill was defeated 36-37, but Rep. William Lanting, R., Twin Falls, majority leader, won reconsideration on a 45-30 vote. He did so over the objection of Rep. Herman McDevitt, D., Bannock, who said the house was taking orders from the senate.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—The Idaho house completed legislative action yesterday on a bill providing for creation of a personnel commission to administer a personnel merit system for state employees. Rep. Orval Hansen, R., Bonneville, floor manager for the bill, said the commission would develop rules and policies governing state employees including selection, classification, promotion, recruiting and discharge. Cost of administration of the program, Hansen said, would be borne by the employees who would contribute 1 1/2 per cent of their wages to a personnel fund. He estimated the fund would amount to about $210,000 per biennium and predicted resulting savings would be more than double that figure.

News Around Idaho

POCAHELLO, March 10 (UP)—Gibert Punkin, 27, Fort Hall, has pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of voluntary manslaughter in the slaying of his brother-in-law last October. Punkin entered the plea yesterday in U. S. district court. Judge Fred Taylor ordered pre-sentencing investigation. The victim, Frank Montecano, was shot in the head with a .22 caliber bullet in a remote area of the Fort Hall Indian reservation.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—Pilots were urged today not to use the new 50-foot runway section at the Payette municipal airport until completion is complete and new taxi is established. Aircraft can easily land between the gravel section and landing area boundary markers," said State Aeronautics Director Chet Moulton. He said runway construction has been carried out at the airport during the past month to assure better all-weather operational capabilities.

IDAHO FALLS, March 10 (UP)—A Salt Lake City firm, specializing in handling municipal bonds, was appointed fiscal agent for the sale of approximately two million dollars in bonds for construction of a proposed new Idaho Falls high school. The action to appoint the Salt Lake City firm as the agent for the bonds was made at a meeting of the school district board of trustees last night. Five other firms entered bids for the appointment.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—Bids to furnish aggregate surfacing for stockpiles in two areas were opened yesterday by the Idaho highway department. Apparent low bidder for furnishing the material was the Mazerick construction company, Burley, with a bid of $137,378. The W. R. Sutherland company, Wilbur, Wash., bid $31,315 to stockpile the material by U. S. 93 in the vicinity of Coopers and Round Prairie in Boundary county.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—Idaho supreme court and district court judges and members of the public utilities commission and industrial accident board would receive a $2,500 yearly salary increase under a bill passed yesterday by the house. The measure now goes to the governor for signature. The public utilities commission and the industrial accident board were named as district judge under the bill but members salaries are the same as for district judge under the bill passed by the 1963 legislature. Under the bill the salaries of supreme court justices would be increased from $15,000 to $17,500 a year. District court judges and PUC and industrial accident board members would receive increases from $12,000 to $14,500 a year.

BOISE, March 10 (UP)—The Idaho senate defeated by a second party line vote yesterday a measure that would make the public institution superintendent appointive, but revised it and sent it back to committee. The measure, a proposed constitutional amendment that would require a public vote on the superintendent's status change, was defeated 24-13 with two Democrats joining Republicans in favor. Although a majority of the senators voted for the measure, it required a two-thirds senate vote of 30 for passage.

Jordan Seeks Hearings on Park Study

WASHINGTON, March 10 (UP)—Sen. Len B. Jordan, R., Ida, said today he is asking for public hearings in Idaho on the report of a study of the proposed Sawtooth wilderness national park. He made public a letter to the forest service and national park service, noting that the report of the study is expected in the next few months. "Considerable money, time and experience," Jordan said, "have gone into this report and I for one want to let Idahoans have an opportunity to study and comment in public hearings on the proposals of the study, whatever they may be."

Refreshments were served. The group will meet next week at Mrs. Marshall's home.

GENERAL TO RETIRE

TOKYO, March 10 (UP)—Maj. Gen. Chester W. Clark, commander of the U.S. army in Japan, will retire this spring. It was announced yesterday.

Nine Youths Are Stabbed After Game

DETROIT, March 10 (UP)—Nine white youths were stabbed and a 13-year-old Negro girl was cut by flying glass in a riot apparently set off last night by a heavily favored team's defeat in the Michigan high school regional basketball tournament. One policeman said the riot was "definitely racial." Police said all of the assailants were Negroes.

Two Negro youths and a 15-year-old Negro girl were being questioned in the stabbing of James Lucas, 16, a suburban Highland Park high school student. Lucas was stabbed in the heart, doctors said. He was listed in fair condition following surgery.

The melee erupted as a last-second Highland Park basket ended previously unbeaten Detroit Northwestern high's 17-game winning streak.

The youths were stabbed as the crowd of 3,200 fans poured from the gymnasium. "All hell broke loose inside and out," said one policeman. Police said a witness quoted his assailant as saying "this is for beating us out of the state tournament."

Northwestern is an almost all-Negro high school. About 50 per cent of Highland Park's student body are Negroes.

Buick LeSabre with Wildcat power. Its quiet voice delivers a most persuasive message.

LeSabre's policy is "speak softly, but carry a big engine." A 240-hp Wildcat V-8, to be precise. (You can order a 250-hp Wildcat, too, if you'd like to be even more forceful.) LeSabre's ride is soft-spoken, too, in keeping with the Buick tradition. No road chatter gets through to bother you. To drive a LeSabre, to ride in it, to look at its styling, you might find it hard to believe that this is the lowest-priced of the full sized Buicks. But your Buick dealer can convince you. Ask him.

New Crisis Hits College In California

BERKELEY, Calif., March 10 (AP)—The Berkeley campus of the University of California today plunged into a new crisis today following the sudden and unexpected resignation of President Clark Kerr and acting Chancellor Martin Meyerson.

The two men handed out the announcement yesterday to newsmen invited to Kerr's day to newsmen office. Neither president nor acting chancellor gave his reasons for resigning or his plans for the future. Kerr refused further comment.

There was no mention of the free speech movement that rent the campus late last year. But the campus leader Mario Savio said the resignations would be a setback in the struggle to gain the right to free political activity on campus.

Kerr, 53, became president of the nine-campus state university in 1957. The 42-year-old Meyerson was appointed acting chancellor Jan. 2, exactly one month after a student sit-in at the administration building that closed with nearly 800 arrests.

The resignations, effective March 25 at the next meeting of the university board of regents in Berkeley, took some of the surprises by surprise.

But board chairman Edward W. Carter, Los Angeles, refused to add to a prepared statement or to say whether he was surprised.

Kerr and Meyerson took the initiative, Carter said. "We did not fire them. I'd rather not speculate about their reasons."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, also a regent, said he would do "everything within my power" to get Kerr to rescind his resignation.

A special meeting last night of the emergency executive committee of the senate urged both men to stay on their jobs. The campus and its nearly 27,000 students were quiet until last week when a non-student was arrested for carrying a sign on which was printed a four-letter word.

Seven persons were arrested as 1,500 students gathered in campus demonstrations Thursday and Friday, shouting the word over loudspeakers.

The speechless free speech movement died quickly after the faculty refused to support it and Savio declined to take part.

Winners of Essay Contest On Handicapped Reported

Lora Quigley, Buhl, was presented a $20 check and a certificate from Gov. Robert E. Smylie for winning first place in the annual handicapped essay contest at the monthly meeting of the Twin Falls Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Other winners are Alice Perkins, Buhl; Glenda Lattimer, Filer, and Janette Kean, Twin Falls. They received $15, $10 and $5 checks for their respective placings and their essays will be sent off to state competition.

Title for this essay this year was "How the Handicapped Are Overcoming Barriers to Employment in My Community."

The 750-word reports were based on the students' independent surveys of the situation in their communities, according to Bert Lassen, chairman for the contest, which involved Twin Falls, Filer and Buhl high schools.

Purpose of the contest is to create more public interest in and support for the employment of the handicapped.

A film depicting the abilities of the handicapped, narrated by actor Robert Cummings, also was shown during the meeting. Larry Rowe reported placement activity.

Error Found On Cereal Firm's Boxes

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 10 (AP) — The Kellogg Cereal company had its work cut out today to explain to millions of children that Huckleberry Finn did not have an Aunt Sally as reported on 45 million boxes of Sugar Smacks now on the shelves of stores and supermarkets.

Jack Bliss, a Grand Rapids, Mich., radio announcer, discovered the error yesterday while eating his breakfast cereal.

Bliss, who earned a master's degree at the University of Missouri, knew that Finn never had an aunt named Sally as the historical sketch on the cereal box portrayed. He called the cereal firm and suggested that its executives bone up on their American folklore. Bliss has placed historical material and pictures of such folkloric characters as Paul Bunyan, Rip Van Winkle, Johnny Appleseed and Pecos Bill on the backs of its cereal packages for children to cut out and paste in their school notebooks. Embarrassed officials said machinery has been set in motion to rush new plates to the printers to correct the error. Mark Twain, who wrote the adventures of Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer, actually gave Huck a father who was a drunkard and drove his son to flee down the Mississippi river on a raft. Tom Sawyer had an unsympathetic aunt named Polly. But an advertising copy writer for the advertising agency which handles the Kellogg account wrote in the historical sketch that Huck had an aunt named Sally.

LENTEEN GUIDEPOSTS . . .

A Bad Case of Shyness

By JANE WYMAN

Shyness is not a small problem; it can cripple the whole personality. It crippled mine, for years.

As a child my only solution to shyness was to hide. All through grade school I was a well-mannered little shadow who never spoke above a whisper.

In ballet class I haunted the corners of the room, hoping the dancing master would not see me.

The very thought of performing in front of someone made me wilt with fear, quite literally.

The saddest part of it was that I idolized Dad Prinz, the dancing master. He was the most understanding man I had ever met and I longed to tell him so. I never did.

Then my parents left St. Joseph, Mo., and moved to Los Angeles.

When the depression came in California, it seemed to hit older people like my father especially hard. Overnight I was thrust into the world of job hunting.

In all that was bewildering city, I knew only one person who might give me a job: LeRoy Prinz, the famous Hollywood dance coach, Dad Prinz's son. He gave me a tryout and discovered I had a sense of rhythm. "As long as you've got that," he said, "I can teach you the rest."

Under LeRoy Prinz's coaching I began to do chorus parts in the movies. For a girl who had grown up in terror of being looked at, it was agony.

I covered up by becoming the cockiest of all the girls, by talking the loudest, laughing the loudest, and wearing the curliest, most blatantly false eyelashes in Hollywood.

And then one day a fellow chorus girl gave me a piece of advice:

"Jane, you'd improve your looks about a thousand per cent if you'd shed off those trimmings and wash your face."

I was crushed. But the next day, feeling completely bald, I showed up on the set without my disguise. We hadn't been rehearsing half an hour before a comparative stranger stopped and stared at me.

"Gee, Jane," he said, "You look great."

For me it was the heavens parting.

But the insight went only skin deep. I shed the eyelashes, but I wasn't about ready to shed the tough, smart little shell.

But later I began to loathe the braided blonde bit parts they had started to give me. Suddenly I longed to play real people.

No sooner had I set my heart on changing than I was offered two roles about unmistakably real people: first in "Lost Weekend" and then in "The Yearling."

I worked on those parts as if I never worked before. When those films were finished, the studio decided I was ready for the role of the deaf-mute in "Johnny Be Linda." With that part came the Academy Award—and surely, I thought, surely now I will stop hiding. Surely I will feel some kind of self-esteem and confidence.

But the months passed, my Oscar collected dust on a shelf, and I made a dismal discovery. External achievements change nothing—inside I was the same conventionally shy person I always had been.

Then, 10 years ago, I went to England to do a picture. I knew no one outside the cast and I did a lot of walking and thinking.

During my solitary rambles I found myself in Westminster Abbey, first as a sightseer—then over and over again to try to grasp something I felt there. Something that felt like approval. Like acceptance. Like love.

Back in Hollywood I met a kindly old priest with a manner so gentle, so uncritical, that suddenly I found myself talking to him about things I'd never told anyone.

"I thought if I only could succeed at something, then I wouldn't be shy," I told him, "but I have had success, of a kind, and I feel just the same."

The priest smiled at me. "Shyness isn't a matter of doing well, or not doing well, or being MISX Wyman is a little matter of self-centeredness."

"That's all," he continued cheerfully. "Just a little tendency to think of the whole world as terribly interested in oneself. You know, the feeling that every eye in the room is focused on one—whereas actually most of the other people there are pretty much involved with their own problems."

"Fortunately," he went on, "the Bible gives us some very specific instructions for dealing with self-centeredness." He was talking about the Ten Commandments.

"The first four," he said, "deal with our relationship to God. They get our attention out where it belongs—on Him and His word only. And the last six tell us how we ought to conduct ourselves toward other people. They keep our attention out there, away from ourselves and onto our neighbors."

I looked down at the Commandments again. I had read them a hundred times, of course, but something in the old priest's voice filled them with an un-speakable promise.

It was the first of many interviews with this priest who became my spiritual mentor. And I have never forgotten what he told me the first time we met, about the cause of shyness, and its cure. Not that I have succeeded in following all the Commandments in all their fullness, but the act of trying to live worked a big change in my life.

For when I looked away from myself—discovered a whole world full of other people. Fascinating people, people with woes and joys I had never imagined. I didn't have much time left to worry about the impression I was making, once I really began seeing them.

But best of all, out there, I am finding God. Not much of Him, yet. At first it was just a shadow, a glimmering. But getting to know Him better, listening for Him, contemplating Him, loving Him, is a 24-hour-a-day assignment. Why? I just haven't got time.

Thursday—Bruce Larson tells the interesting story of how an alcoholic taught a group of ministers that they should act instead of talk.

Millard pointed out to the group that the camp has yet to be approved by the office of economic development and receive Gov. Robert E. Smylie's approval, and said "We still don't know exactly where we stand as far as our particular area goes."

Site for the proposed camp is in Cassia county on bureau of land management land, adjacent to the foothills.

The ranger outlined requirements for a campsite, including space for buildings, availability of power and communication facilities, sufficient water supply, and it must be reached by a well-all-weather road. The site also should be far enough from communities so that those enrolled in the camp couldn't walk to town.

Millard said the forest service chose the Buckhorn site over two others in the district. The rock creek site, because it was too confined, and the North Cottonwood site, because the water supply was insufficient.

After a sample of the training of those living in the vicinity was taken, to find out whether or not reaction to such a camp was favorable, the forest service sent a report on the chosen site to the office of economic opportunity.

Millard said the office still has the information on the campsite, and the forest service is awaiting its approval before being sent to Governor Smylie for his consent.

If approved, Millard said, Buckhorn camp will consist of about eight bunkhouses, facilities for cooking and serving meals, an administration building, and sanitation facilities. He said a water system also will have to be developed and power will have to be brought into the area.

He said it is planned that camps be initiated for 100 men, but can be expanded to 200 if the need arises.

Those enrolled in the Job Corps camps will be 16-21 years of age, and will be highly screened, Millard emphasized that they must be interested in bettering themselves. He added the boys must have the intelligence and capability of learning skills at the camp, but do not necessarily have to be educated, noting that any youths with at least a fourth-grade education can be admitted.

He explained that the first Job Corps camps will not be utilized for training, particularly those who are drug addicts or sex deviates. He theorized that the reason for this was that, by closely screening enrollees there is apt to be less trouble in the camps than if groups of delinquents were enrolled.

However, he noted it was his personal opinion that a few delinquents, or youths which have delinquent tendencies, might be enrolled in camps after the feasibility of the program is proven.

When asked where the boys would come from, Millard noted that they could either be local youths or could be brought as a group from other areas, such as the Southeast's Appalachia area, now the center of President Johnson's "war on poverty," or from industrial centers and large cities where there is a preponderance of the type of youths that need Job Corps training.

He added that it can be expected that the camp will be integrated, although indications are that not more than 25 percent of the enrollees will be Negro.

Millard went on to explain the supervisory set-up in a Job Corps camp, noting that there would be about 21 persons needed to direct a 100-man camp.

Besides the director, who would be responsible to the district or a state supervisor, they would be three assistant directors, each in charge of a different aspect of camp life. One would handle the work program, another would be in charge of administration of the camp, and the third would direct the education program.

There would also be technical assistants, such as carpenters, electricians, mechanics and other trained personnel, to help with on-the-job training; clerical help, cooks, and technically trained teachers, for classroom work.

In addition to the regular staff, there would be another group of young men similar to the Peace Corps, who would act as counselors. Each would be assigned to a group of about 10-15 enrollees and act as a sort of liaison officer between them and the staff.

These counselors would be with the boys at all times and it is hoped they will become a part of the group to the extent that the boys can confide in them.

Millard added that at least part of the directory staff will be required to be in residence at the camp.

He said the boys would have 33 hours of each week for construction type work, 15 hours of compulsory classroom training, which could vary depending on the educational level of the group, and five hours of vocational type training, which is optional.

Millard said each boy would receive $30 a month and, for satisfactory performance, $2 a month as a bonus, which would be held in trust for them. He added that if the boy stays at home, he could have half of the bonus sent to them, which the government would match, leaving $25 of the bonus still in trust.

He pointed out the campsite had to be located in an area which allows year-round work, and also is close to forest land.

Noting that the forest service had to submit a year-long plan in the new gymnasium annex, with coffee and refreshments for coaches whose teams are competing in the three-day tournament.

Tentative plans were discussed for celebrating the 54th anniversary of the National Exchange club on March 27.

Paul Victor was a guest. The Rev. John N. Garrabrandt, associate pastor of the Twin Falls First Methodist church, will be featured speaker at next week's meeting.

Millard said the Job Corps camps differ from the old civilian conservation corps projects in that if the boys get into trouble in town, local officials can handle the case, whereas army personnel handled the CCC trouble-makers.

Commenting on religious services, Millard said it is hoped that it can be worked out so that churches in nearby communities accept the youths. But if not, services will be arranged at the camp.

Millard said he felt the Job Corps camp will benefit communities in the area, not only by bringing in an estimated $100,000 a year into the area, but by projects which would improve forest service facilities.

During other club business, James Blair reminded members that the club is hosting coaches at the state A-2 basketball tournament Thursday through Saturday at the Twin Falls high school gymnasium. Club members will be at the coaches room.

Drops in ATLANTA, March 10 (AP)—Customers were wincing at their breakfast at Doby's restaurant yesterday when Edmond D. Hughes dropped in. He dropped right through the ceiling, bounced off a milk cooler onto a counter and rolled off on the floor.

Police officers said the 55-year-old former employee had crawled into the attic to go to sleep and the ceiling gave way under his weight.

Gunman Robs Brink's Messenger

HAMMOND, Ind., March 10 (AP)—A gunman disguised as a woman with long black hair intercepted a Brink's Inc. armored car messenger in the hallway of an insurance company headquarters late yesterday and took cash and checks totaling an estimated $80,000 to $90,000.

First estimates placed the amount of the loot at $1,000 cash and $80,000 in checks. This was later revised by authorities to $90,000 and about 90 minutes after the robbery Detective Capt. Ray Johnson said the amount was "undetermined" but the percentage of cash probably would be considerably higher than first thought.

The robbery occurred at 5:23 p.m. EST in a hallway at the Guarantia Reserve Life Insurance company in the heart of Hammond's downtown area.

Food Problem May Endanger Rich Nations

pen, as appears very probable, it will be the most colossal catastrophe in history.

To meet the challenge will take time and international cooperation, both scarce commodities.

"We have the skills and the scientific knowledge," says FAO Director General Binay Ranjan Sen. "What we need is the will."

Most experts agree that more than two billion of the world's 3.3 billion people are hungry.

The U.S. department of agriculture says diet deficit areas are: Asia, except Japan, the Near East, except Israel, most of Central America and the Caribbean, northern and equatorial South America, much of Africa. Oddly, hunger is most prevalent south of the 38th parallel.

A small group of nations with 16 per cent of the population has 70 per cent of the world's wealth.

These are nations grouped around the North Atlantic, along with Japan, and Australia-New Zealand.

Two-thirds of the human race are bare subsists. Most of the hungry are nonwhite. On the average they eat 900 less calories daily than those in the white world.

Developed third of humanity, but calories are meaning less when two out of three have less than nutritional requirements in any event.

India eats 24 per cent less than it needs in nutrition. Americans eat 17 per cent more than they need. In general, people in developed nations eat two to three times more than the poor ones.

North America consumes nearly five times more food per person than is eaten on the Asian mainland.

Americans, only six per cent of the world's people, have 40 per cent of the world income. About 1.4 billion people in about 100 countries have an average income per person of under $100 a year. At these levels, President Johnson says should be the bare minimum for a U.S. married couple.

The FAO says that in the 1963-1964 fiscal year, the world produced less food per person than the year before. Deficits likely will grow.

The U.S. agriculture department says the food problem in poor countries can be the most insoluble problem that humanity faces in the next few decades. Production cannot keep up with rapid population growth without substantial changes in world agricultural policies.

Americans and the developed world now are concerning themselves with the problem. It is a staggering one, laden with ominous political and social connotations. Once the hungry did not know there was hope.

Today, there is swift communication. People know, hopes are aroused. But if ascending hopes clash with bitter disappointment, danger is near.

The southern area for the world, for the most part, are the grip of frustration. The northern areas was richer all the time, their capacity to produce wealth constantly expanding. People in the north—even the poorest—saw a horizon beyond the dreams of the poor in the southern parts.

The mathematics of science is all too clear. There is an invitation in the poor lands to seek overnight solutions to their wretched solutions offered from the sources as the witch doctors of communism. The temptation is to seek the quick, violent answer.

Michigan Named Champs Of Final AP Poll Despite Late Loss; UCLA Second

By The Associated Press

Michigan, the Big Ten champion, emerged Tuesday as the nation's No. 1 major college basketball team in the final Associated Press poll of the 1964-65 season. The Wolverines, despite a 93-85 loss to Ohio State in their final regular season game Monday night, finished first handily in the balloting by a special panel of 44 regional experts.

Study of South Hills Deer Herd Under Way

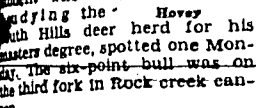

A University of Idaho student, Gary Davis, has opened a year's research project on the South Hills deer herd, members of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association were told at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY

For the past two years, at least since the state began issuing elk permits for a small herd in the South Hills area, hunters have been wondering if there really are any elk left down there. No permit holder, at least to the best of the department's knowledge, has been seen since the late '50s. But they are there, Gary Davis, the University of Idaho student who is studying the herd for his masters degree, spotted one Monday. The six-point bull was on the third fork in Rock creek canyon.

Getting a real feel of the area through his hiking boots, Davis came across only one deer track and he judged it to be a "highway kill." He also noted the deer was feeding largely on ground vegetation and new grass sprouts with very little browse.

While fishermen around this area have been fishing very well at Salmon reservoir, evidenced last week by a pair of five-pound-plus muskies, anglers in the eastern end of the valley are still waiting for a pleasant season until the general season opens.

George Schab, Rupert, pulled a green and one-half pounder from the lake while his wife and catches of three and four pound fish.

The federal fish hatchery at Murtaugh began plantings in the river from the Crystal Springs area on down this week. It is unidentified sportsmen reported spotting six elk—presumably those taken south for the winter from Ketchum—in the flows below Magic dam last week. With the three that were being forded Wood river and being home shortly after the location that leaves about 27 accounted for. The department resumes the bulk of the translocated herd has drifted northward and will be on the same range when the snow falls.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD WINNERS in Sunday's Sawtooth Ski Racing association competition at Magic Mountain were Sue Kaneau, Pomerelle, and Jim Cooke, Magic mountain. The association provided two races for the estimated 100 small fry and plans four events next year.

Sawtooth Racers Finish First Year for Juniors

The Sawtooth Racing association, organized this year to promote junior racing for the small fry in south central Idaho, concluded its first season Sunday with a race at Magic mountain. Jim Olson, co-chairman of the racing program, said an estimated 100 youngsters gained either an introduction to or a tracing of additional experience. Association members represent the ski areas of Magic Mountain, Pomerelle, Soldier mountain and Rotarun. Race courses are all giant, slalom and are set for the inexperienced racer.

Two courses were set Sunday on Pike and Magic mountain. Some 7 and 8-year-old youngsters participated in their first races when they competed on a short Pike mountain course.

Other racers ran a course down the 3,500 foot face run of Magic mountain.

Next year, says Olson, races will be held in each of the four areas. Only Rotarun and Magic mountain held events this year.

Wings Take Lead In Hockey Loop

DETROIT, March 10 (AP)—Alex Delvecchio's goal, with five seconds remaining, gave the Detroit Red Wings a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday and moved them into first place in the National Hockey league.

The goal was Delvecchio's 20th of the season and his second of the night.

He talked early in period and the Red Wings moved ahead 2-1 when Norm Ullman scored at 12:20.

The victory gave Minnesota undisputed second place in the final Big Ten standings with an 11-3 record. Iowa finished 8-6.

Iowa seemingly had a chance to win with a free throw after regulation time had ended with the score tied 79-79.

Hudson was called for charging at the final buzzer, but the timer, ruled the foul was committed after time had run out.

Tebbetts Claims Daley Is Through

TUCSON, Ariz., March 10 (AP)—Cleveland Indiana manager Birdie Tebbetts said Tuesday that southern relief pitcher Bud Daley, only Indian who hasn't signed his 1965 contract, "knows he can't pitch anymore but doesn't want to admit it publicly."

Daley has said he may retire because General Manager Gabe Paul wants to cut his salary.

Tebbetts said he and Paul talked salary with Daley when the Yankees first offered him a partial payment for Pedro Ramos at the end of last season.

"At that time Daley verbally agreed to accept the contract we offered," Tebbetts said. "Now he's going back on his word."

"I think Bud is convinced his arm is still bad and is using this holdout thing as an excuse for holding," Tebbetts said. "Otherwise he wouldn't break his word as he is doing or he is not the same Bud Daley I know."

Congressman Hits Proposed Alaskan Dam

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—Rep. John P. Saylor, R., Pa., today attacked the proposed Rampart dam in Alaska as the "most extravagant and most absurd" electric-generating plant ever proposed.

The project, which would be built on the Yukon river in the heart of the northern state, would cost more than one billion dollars and would create a reservoir larger than Lake Erie.

The Pennsylvania Republican called attention to plans for building a 4.8 million kilowatt steam electric plant at Johnstown, Pa. He suggested it would be more economical to build similar plants in Alaska rather than the huge five million kilowatt hydroelectric dam.

He said six such steam-electric plants could be built for the same cost as the Rampart project.

"These stations would have the added advantage of being built one at a time, when they are needed and where they are needed," he said.

"Expert" Needed

SUSANVILLE, Calif., March 10 (AP)—Insen county officials say they may have to call on an expert safecracker in a state prison to open the county clerk's vault.

Someone closed it yesterday for the first time in 30 years, and nobody knows the combination.

Concert Set Saturday by Minico Band

RUPERT, March 10—Minico's concert band will present a special concert Saturday at the high school under the direction of Keith Farris, band instructor.

The concert will be complete with volleys of cannon fire and peals of church bells. Proceeds from the event, scheduled to provide banners for the music department at Minico.

Farris reports the war of 1812 provided the theme for the concert, called the "1812 Concert" which will feature Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture." The music was written to commemorate the defeat of Napoleon's army by the Russians in the winter of 1812 and was originally written to be played by a full orchestra, brass band, all the church bells in the city and volleys of cannon.

Three army tanks, provided by the local unit of the national guard, will be parked outside the gymnasium and on an electronic signal will begin firing, according to Farris.

Leo Honscheld, acting commander of the local guard will be in charge of tank operations.

Also included on the program will be Mendelssohn's "Piano Concerto in E Minor" with Cheryl Oliver as soloist; a medley of familiar American marches; "American Overture for Band"; "Concerto for Band," a newly released number featuring solo and solo passages; "Harlem Nocturn," a new arrangement of a blues number, and a flute selection.

Approximately 80 people will participate in the special concert, Farris said, and tickets may be purchased from band students.

Funeral Held For British Railway Line

TORRINGTON, England, March 9 (AP) — Two hundred mourners held a funeral service yesterday for the 40-year-old North Devon and Cornwall Junction Light-Railway line. The line, an evergreen, hung on the front of the diesel engine and a caricature of Dr. Richard Beeching, the boss of British railways, on the back. Then they let out a rather sad wail as the last passenger train drove off on a remote 27-mile stretch of Britain's dwindling rail system.

The line, crowded with sentimental passengers, rumbled under a stone bridge and swung toward a wood of firs. It never got up much speed. The line twists precariously around the Devonshire coast and its speed limit always has been 25 miles an hour.

The line has been closed to passenger trains under Beeching's controversial program to rid the government's rail of a system of lines that don't pay. In 1963, the most recent year for which figures are available, passenger service on the North Devon and Cornwall cost $145,000, but the passengers paid in only $2,800.

Last week daily bookings averaged 21. Yesterday, though, a line waited for the last ride.

Engineer Jack A. Parkhouse had the diesel down the line at Chapel's farm and into the old brick building known as "watergate bridge" near the station. The train moved on, past old village, and finally came to the junction, down in Cornwall.

Parkhouse slipped back his pillbox cap — part of a heeding plan to smarten up the waymen — and said with a grin, "7:34, bang on time."

YOUR BIRTHDAY HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, March 10 — including a gift for music, but none are so important as to well-used as the talents you have for expressing your own personality, for getting your ideas across and for building such practical enterprises as would further your own worthy end — that of helping others.

Strong — both intellectually and emotionally — you are not one to go off the deep end in either direction. That is, you will not reason yourself out of responding emotionally to an emotional situation, but on the other hand you will not become so emotionally involved in a situation that you cannot come to reasonable, intelligent conclusions.

Among those born on this date are: Lillian D. Wald, American social worker, founder of the Henry Street Settlement; Dudley Buck, American concert organist, composer.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Thursday, March 11

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Stick to the rules of acceptable behavior. Avoid going out on a limb unless it's a matter of strictest principle.

ARIES (March 21-April 20) — Don't allow difficulty in communication to stand in the way of progress. What you can't get across in words, get across in actions!

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Remove needless complications from present projects. This should be a meat-and-potatoes day.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Conform to rules and regulations, regardless of disposition, and do as they say well.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Times are changing. Avoid panic as the old makes way for the new.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Make sure that you receive your share of consideration. Advancement is in the air.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — You may insist upon observing the niceties of social behavior, but don't be surprised if others don't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) — Stabilize your thinking and don't jump from one thing to another, unless you will need all your wits about you to succeed today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Avoid advocating plans unless you are fully aware of what they are and what consequences they can bring if carried out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — You may have to express yourself differently to various people but you need not stray from the truth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Accuracy and an aptitude for design will see Aquarius through this day with flying colors.

Belt Buckles Presented as Season Ends

PUBLIC March 10 — Belt buckle awards were presented Sunday to winners of the two top places in the Wood River Cutter race association after the final race association Sunday at Jerome. Kenneth Daniels and Hap Gates, Kenneth Daniels took the first and second place buckles.

And Kendall Picabo, recipient of traveling trophy, also a belt buckle. A 50-yard foot race was the winner of the sportsmanship belt buckle after Heber Kelley and Cotton Riley, both tied, tied in votes for the award. Kelly won the race.

Many of the Sunday races were very close with the race between quarter-horse teams of Kenneth Daniels and Bob A. Robinson almost a photo finish. Daniels received his winning award for the season.

William E. Swan won over Dee Webster; Howard H. Haslem over Bud Gates; Heber Kelley over Kendall Picabo; Ernest Stevens; Eldon Richardson over Kenneth Montes; Tony Riley over Ernest Watts; and Webb over Haslem and Daniels and Thompson and Walters over Pat Schannan.

Clint Abercrombie, Gooding, an announcer for the season and Chester Floyd, Gooding, had charge of the starting gate. The "Burr, Dollar" bar and "Ghost Town, both Bills, donated the first and second place buckle awards.

Daniels, Gates, Howard Haslem and Bob A. Robinson will compete in the world's championship races at Pocatello this week-end.

Legislation Causes Trip Cancellation

BOISE, March 10 (AP) — Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today he canceled his planned trip to Washington, D. C., because of the "press of much important public business here."

He had planned to leave yesterday to attend the first meeting of the new Republican national coordinating council.

"My own personal interest in the future of the Republican party," Smylie said, "had to be subordinated to what I deemed to be my duty to the people."

He told a news conference today that he was concerned about the governor's resignation of the Budget Director Don J. Smylie's handling of state finances had nothing to do with the cancellation of the trip, the governor said.

Several important pieces of legislation are coming to a vote in the legislature," Smylie said. "These include the merit plan bill in the house and final disposition of the revenue question."

Asked what specific legislation he was concerned about, the governor replied: "I'm talking about the sales tax. That's the bill that has to get passed."

Smylie noted that the 1965 legislative already is in overtime and he would not want to be absent from the capital to be responsible for any delay in ending up the session.

The minority was kind enough to criticize my attendance at President Johnson's inauguration ceremony," Smylie added, "but I am confident they would criticize my attendance at a party."

Seventh Fleet May Be Used to Halt Red Arms

WASHINGTON, March 10 (U.P.)—U. S. officials are mulling over whether to turn loose the powerful seventh fleet to try and cut off the movement of boats, laden with arms and men, from communist North Viet Nam to guerrilla-controlled points on South Viet Nam's coast.

The pentagon also is in a mood to give the Far Eastern naval force added punch by increasing its present group of three aircraft carriers on station in the South China sea area.

Both actions apparently will depend on recommendations from Adm. U. S. Grant Sharpe, Jr., the top U. S. commander in the vast Pacific theater.

The seventh fleet has 125 warships and 660 planes.

The U. S. navy has not been intercepting communist junks and cargo boats which have been hauling war equipment and men down the Vietnamese coast and landing them in guerrilla-held areas. And South Viet Nam's fleet of 566 armed junks has been unable to cope with the vessels that ply the coastal waters. Over-all, about 72,000 junks operate in the South China sea off North and South Viet Nam.

The state department's white paper of Feb. 27 said a North Vietnamese "maritime infiltration group" is sending men and weapons southward in increasing volume.

The objective is gradually stepping up U. S. military activity has been to "signal" the other side that it had better desist before it is punished heavily by U. S. armed might.

However, reports indicate the communists have not begun to slow down their aggression in South Viet Nam.

If anything, they have increased the intensity of attacks in some areas of South Viet Nam, including the region around the key U. S. — South Vietnamese air and naval base at Da Nang.

It was this increased Red activity that led to the use of U. S. jets against the communists inside South Viet Nam, and to the deployment of a Marine expeditionary force of 3,500 men to protect Da Nang.

The two Marine battalions just sent into South Viet Nam are intended only to furnish added security for La Ngang, not to undertake offensive operations against the Communists.

Whether more U. S. ground combat units will be landed in South Viet Nam will depend on future events. There now are about 27,000 American military men in the country, mostly advisers and logistics specialists. Top U. S. officials still are disposed against the idea of committing major U. S. ground combat forces on the Asian mainland, but this is not entirely ruled out. American authorities have respect for Red China's huge ground armies, numbering more than 2 million men.

Senator Lists Reasons Why He Supports Referendum

Sen. Jack Murphy, R., Lincoln, president pro tem of the Idaho Senate, told the Twin Falls legislative luncheon Tuesday his reasons for supporting a pre-July 1 referendum on the sales tax.

Speaking by telephone from Boise, Murphy said that he thinks a referendum before July will be good because he feels it will pass easier this spring than 18 months from now.

The main reason, he said, is that if the sales tax is going to be defeated by the people the state had better know it before any of the money is spent.

He said he believes that if the vote is held before the sales tax takes effect, the proponents of the tax will get more and better support, they'll have their forces better mobilized, the people will understand it better and the middle-of-the-road elements will probably go for the proposal rather than against it.

Murphy expressed the opinion that the middle-of-the-road group probably will feel kinder toward the sales tax now than they will 18 months from now, after having had to "carry change" around in their pockets to pay the extra revenue.

Rep. Pete Genarossa, R., Blaine, speaker of the house, said the house is working at its peak efficiency and is getting its work done.

Senator Murphy reported that he had made a study of past legislative sessions and reported that the legislature of 30 years ago got out 110 bills in a 60-day session and that last year about 1,160 were processed. He said he feels this year will equal last. He said he feels that 60 days every two years is adequate to do the job that is necessary.
