The Wasp set out immediately to make the pick up. The frogmen are Lt. Marvin Every, Ft. Worth, Tex., A. N. Dow, Princeton, Mo., and B. M. Owl, Norfolk, Va. (AP wire-photo)

McDivitt, White Return Safely to Earth From Four-Day Orbital Flight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II plunged back to earth from their four-day space flight today and at 1:09 p.m. EST were safely aboard the USS Wasp recovery ship. Mission Control Center received word from the Wasp that the astronauts were in great spirits and they looked great

Astronauts Show No Ill Effects

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Gemini-4 flight surgeon said astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White showed absolutely no ill effects from their space flight on the basis of initial observations. He said the weightlessness caused no problems. Dr. Charles Berry told newsmen "they experienced no symptoms whatsoever in coming in from orbit and an being in the spacecraft on the water. "We're just terrifically happy with the data that we have right now." "The flight will knock down a lot of talk about ill effects of weightlessness," Berry said. "The astronauts had no dizziness or difficulty walking on landing, despite four cramped days flying in a weightless state, Berry said.

Wives Are Jubilant Over Safe Landing

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—"I'm thrilled to death. I couldn't be happier for both of them." This was the first reaction today from Mrs. Pat White when she heard the Gemini 4 spacecraft carrying her husband, Ed, was floating safely in the Atlantic Ocean. "I am speechless," laughed Mrs. Pat McDivitt. Her husband, Jim, was command pilot on the flight. Both women, with their children, had followed the final minutes of the record-breaking four-day space flight by watching television at their homes near the space center. Mrs. White had begun her day by washing a few clothes. Mrs. McDivitt attended early mass. Four days of nervous strain were nearing the end. Ever since the astronauts were launched from Cape Kennedy last Thursday, the wives faced the world with calm and confidence. They chatted lightly with their men admonishing them to drink water and be good—and Mrs. McDivitt even enjoyed a fling at water skiing. But the secret worries and fears surely were there, even though carefully disguised. The Jim McDivitts and Ed Whites live about four miles apart in neighborhoods inhabited mostly by astronaut families and personnel from the Manned Spacecraft Center. Even when a space flight is not on, the streets are often busy on Sundays with tourists who want to see how astronauts live. While the men were in space, their families attempted to continue the routine of suburban living, despite the newsmen, photographers, guards, and just plain spectators outside their attractive, contemporary-style homes. Pat McDivitt, a vivacious brunette, attended church every day of the flight, but this was not unusual since she goes to church every day. Pat White stayed somewhat more secluded, but her son, Eddie, 11, made news by playing Little League baseball on the day of the launch, as did Mike McDivitt. Neither woman spoke directly to the newsmen gathered outside their homes. Their reactions and comments were supplied mainly by space agency spokesmen.

The session, sponsored by the Associated Taxpayers and Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, will start at 9 a.m. Additional workshops will also be held June 25, in Pocatello and June 23 in Boise. "A team of administrative experts, after brief statements covering major aspects of the new law, will concentrate on answering questions dealing with administration and collection of the sales and use tax," Yost said. He emphasized that the clinics are open to any interested person.

Unit Okays Southeast Asia Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's request for $89 million to launch an expanded program of economic aid in south Viet Nam, Thailand and Laos was approved 13-4 today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The action gave committee backing to include the request as an amendment to the two-year, $3,352-billion-a-year foreign aid bill just prior to resumption of debate on that measure on the Senate floor. Debate in the Senate is likely to center on what form aid should take in the future. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee including a two-year cut-off of the program in sending the foreign aid authorization bill to the floor earlier and provided for a special 12-member commission to study the problem.

Wood River Washes Out Gulch Bridge

HAILEY — The Colorado Bridge crossing Colorado Gulch in the Broadford area has been washed out by the Big Wood River, according to reports Monday morning. It is assumed that a log jam struck the middle section of the bridge, knocking it out. The bridge was used by workers at several mines in the area. The Hailey-Broadford road was closed Sunday because the abutment at the west end of the bridge has fallen in and there was a crack across the road, which was continuing to enlarge. Jack Reinsch, Blaine County commissioner, said a large culvert had been washed out west of Hailey and a sheep truck had fallen in the water. County crews were helping remove the truck Monday morning. The Bellevue city party was reported under water Monday. It was noted the park is below the town near the river bed. The road at the foot of the grade on the Bellevue-Broadford road was under approximately eight inches of water. The water has made a small lake between the highway and Duke Martin's house. The house next to the Martin residence, owned by Mrs. Clyde Higgins, is surrounded by water.

8 States to Get Grants For Libraries

WASHINGTON (AP) Grants for more than $12.5 million for 185 public library construction projects in eight states including Idaho were announced today by the U. S. Office of Education. The government allocated $125,230 for five Idaho projects which will have a total cost of $216,557. Funds for the new library construction, additions, renovations and site acquisitions are being granted under the expanded library services and construction act passed by Congress last year. The money is allocated to the states in proportion to their population and matched by states in proportion to their per capita income.

Ku Klux Klan Stages Rallies In 3 States

By The Associated Press Robbed and hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan staged rallies in Georgia, North Carolina and Alabama over the weekend. Speakers attacked the National Council of Churches, civil rights workers, desegregation organizations and President Johnson. Several women and children in Klan regalia took part in Sunday's march through downtown Atlanta to a park. Police estimated 500 Klansmen and followers in the line of march and about 1,000 persons at Hurt Park. No incidents were reported. Several hundred spectators watched silently as Klansmen placed a black wreath at the entrance to the main federal building. Matt Murphy, a Klan attorney from Birmingham, Ala., told the cheering crowd at the park that the Rev. James Reeb, a white Boston minister slain in Selma, Ala., was sent there by civil rights organizations to be a martyr. He said President Johnson achieved power with the aid of Negroes but "would turn around and destroy them."

Reason for Sea Landings Is Explained

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The flight plan for space pilots James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II called for a watery landing for a simple reason: The manned spacecraft lack the capability to come back to land. Soviet spaceships make their landings on terra firma, and practically everybody in the space-flight business agrees that it is much more desirable to splash down in the sea. Not much is being done in this country about it. Astronauts in the scheduled U.S. Gemini and Apollo flights will come down for water landings. The United States is developing a bargain-basement system consisting of a maneuverable parachute in combination with retrorockets that would fire close to the ground to ease the spacecraft to a soft landing. The system, long a step-child financially compared to some other space projects, is the brainchild of a few Manned Spacecraft Center engineers who came up with the idea and then attached it used to perfection by the Russians.

Other invited guests are the members of the board of directors of the National Federation of Republican Women, hosts at the reception, local club presidents, national committee women and others.

S. Strength in Viet Nam Listed

SAIGON (AP)—The U. S. military authorities disclosed today the strength of American military personnel in South Viet Nam now has passed the 50,000 mark. They said as of June 3 the total figure was approximately 51,000. That total, a spokesman said, about 21,500 are U. S. Army, 16,500 U.S. Marine Corps, 10,000 U.S. Air Force and 3,500 Navy.

Estes' Swindling Conviction Reversed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, splitting 5-4, threw out today the swindling conviction of promoter Billie Sol Estes in a Texas state court because the trial was televised. The majority opinion by Justice Tom C. Clark declared that the television of criminal trials denies to defendants their constitutional right of due process of law. "To the extent that television shapes that public sentiment it can strip the accused of a fair trial," Clark said. "They (these) observations are real enough to have convinced the Judicial Conference of the United States, this court and the Congress that television should be barred in federal trials by federal rules of criminal procedure; in addition they have persuaded all but two of our states to prohibit television in the courtroom." However, Justice John M. Harlan, who concurred with the majority, said in a separate opinion that this was a case of great notoriety. He intimated that he might have a different view of the issue in other circumstances. Today's decision concerned only Estes' trial on swindling charges in Tyler, Tex. The Tyler court sentenced him to eight years' imprisonment. Previously, Estes was convicted in federal court in El Paso, Tex., on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy resulting from his get-rich-quick schemes. His federal sentence was 15 years' imprisonment and he is now serving that term in Leavenworth Prison in Kansas.

Kansas Farm Boy Sought in Manhunt for Bank Robbery

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — A young Kansas farm boy, fresh out of college and reportedly looking for a job, is sought in a wide manhunt today on a federal charge of robbing a Nebraska bank in which three persons were shot and killed and a fourth was wounded. Duane Pope, 22, whose parents live on a farm 30 miles southeast of here near Roxbury, Kan., is named in an FBI warrant charging robbery of the Farmers State Bank of Big Springs, Neb., and wounding Franklin Kjeldgaard, 25, an assistant cashier. Kjeldgaard is in serious condition at a hospital in Denver. Killed in the holdup which netted the gunman about $1,500 last Friday were Andreas Kjeldgaard, 77, president of the bank and uncle of the wounded man; cashier Glenn Hendrickson, 59, and Lois Ann Hothan, 35, the bookkeeper. There is no federal statute covering a fatal shooting. R. E. Richards, Duell County, Neb., attorney, said he would file charges of first-degree murder and bank robbery against Pope today.

Withdraws Ad

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — International Business Machines today withdrew from several U.S. newspapers a two-page advertisement promoting the million-dollar IBM computer system on the Gemini-4 space capsule. The withdrawal order was made after the bread box size computer failed Sunday night. "Until the situation of the airborne computer is clarified, we felt it best to withhold the ad," an IBM spokesman said.

Flood Repair Legislation Is Vetoed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was reported today to be vetoing a bill to authorize a $111.8 million emergency program to help five Pacific Northwest states including Idaho ravaged by floods last December and January. The President reportedly objected, as an invasion of executive responsibility, a requirement that the spending of $3,875,000, authorized for river bank protection along the Eel River in California be held up until plans for the project are approved by the Senate and House Public Works committees. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. and Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif. disclosed plans to introduce immediately a new bill stripped of the provision to which the President objected. They planned to push for prompt congressional action to prevent loss of time in road reconstruction work. States eligible for the assistance under the bill would be California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Idaho. Major expenditure would be $70 million to repair and rebuild highways, roads and trails that were washed out by the flood.

Power and Phone Difficulties Caused by Storm

FILER — Electrical service was disrupted for about two hours and telephone service east of Filer had not yet been restored by noon Monday following Sunday's storm when lightning hit a power line and the line dropped on the telephone wires below. C. M. Cunningham, manager, Filer Mutual Telephone Co., reported repair men are busy repairing cable so telephone service can be resumed as soon as possible. The lightning, which struck about 3 p.m. Sunday, burned an entire section of telephone cable from the Johnson Service Station on the east corner of the city, past the Asgrow Co., east of Filer. Some ground equipment and equipment in the office also was lost due to the fire, Cunningham stated.

Red Military Radio Station Is Destroyed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese planes destroyed a military radio station in North Viet Nam today and hit a radar site, a supply depot, military barracks and three boats, a military spokesman announced. Pilots reported destroying 10 weapons positions around a radar site on Hon Nieu Island and destroying or damaging 19 buildings at the Chap Le army barracks complex five miles north of the border. Eight U.S. F105 jets hit the radio station and communications center and pilots reported both were destroyed, the spokesman said. The location was not given. The pilots also reported they sank a vessel near Route 1 and left two others sinking after the crews opened up on them with heavy automatic weapons.

Certain Key Bridges Have Been Put Back Into Use After U. S. Bombings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam has been able to get certain key bridges back into use only weeks after they were blasted by U.S. bombers, the Defense Department disclosed today. Working both day and night, the Reds have thrown temporary wooden sections across gaps torn in steel and concrete bridges by tons of high explosives. These repairs, sources said, enable the Communists to resume limited movements of men and supplies across some critical bridges which the Pentagon previously had declared impassable. "The bridges were reattacked to remove any possibility of river. The destruction of one span does destroy the capability of a bridge to perform its functions," the Pentagon said. In its explanation to the AP, the Defense Department said "very few bridges have been repaired" and that the Communists generally bypass the river by either ferries or fording. "Only in the case of critical bridges have they attempted major repair," the Pentagon said. It declined to go into specifics on how long it has taken to repair individual bridges but it said "in general depending on the type of bridge, it may be capable of limited use within weeks."

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURE
A weak upper air disturbance and its associate surface cool front are continuing to move through Southern Idaho at the present time but a large high pressure system situated in the Eastern Pacific Ocean will continue to be the controlling feature of the weather over the Northern Intermountain Region during the next few days.

The cool front has had very little effect on the weather over Southern Idaho, but scattered showers and thundershowers were reported over parts of Magic Valley and Southeastern Idaho Sunday afternoon and night.

A few late afternoon and evening showers or thundershowers are expected in Southeastern Idaho again Monday otherwise generally fair weather will be the rule over all of Southern Idaho through Tuesday and probably Wednesday also.

Some cooling will take place Monday and Tuesday with high temperatures in the 70s to the mid 80s Monday dropping to in the mid 60s through the 70s on Tuesday. Minimum temperatures tonight will be mostly in the 40s.

FIVE DAY FORECAST
During the five day period of Tuesday through Saturday, high pressure centered in the Eastern Pacific Ocean will continue to extend inland over the Northern Intermountain Region. Under this pattern generally fair weather will remain over the valleys of Southern Idaho and little or no precipitation is expected through the period.

Temperatures will average a little above normal over the lower Malheur and Southwestern Idaho valleys to near normal over the remainder of Southern Idaho. Some slight warming will begin on Wednesday after the cooling trend of Monday and Tuesday, otherwise little day to day change in temperatures is expected during the five day period. Some normal maximum and minimum temperatures for this period are Gooding 75-85, Twin Falls 70-80, Burley 74-83.

Winds during the period will be mostly less than 10 miles per hour during the morning but may increase at times during the afternoons to in excess of 15 miles per hour.

Little in the way of cloudiness other than for some high clouds is expected and sunshine should be about 80 per cent of possible. There should be little or no interruption of farm work due to weather and conditions will continue to be favorable for crop and pasture growth. Irrigation needs will be high during the period however particularly in the southwestern valleys.

TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION
Weather at 6 a. m. CST: Highest temperature Sunday, lowest temperature last 12 hours, precipitation for 24 hours ending at 6 a. m. CST.

Passage of Pay Raise Bill Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, "without any reservation whatsoever," urged Congress today to approve a controversial $446,586,000 pay increase bill which he called "fair to our military personnel and fair to our taxpayers."

McNamara opened the administration's fight for the bill in testimony before the House Armed Services Committee whose chairman already has denounced it as "disgracefully inadequate." The defense secretary contended that the administration measure "will provide a significant increase in pay for our career military personnel, compensate enlisted personnel with less than two years of service for the increase in the cost of living, (and) contribute to the retention of skilled personnel in short supply."

The administration proposal calls for an across-the-board 4.5 per cent increase in basic pay for officers and enlisted men with more than two years of service, and a 2.7 per cent increase in pay for enlisted men with less than two years in uniform.

Ohioan Sniffs Roses at His Own Funeral

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Gerald McKinney sniffed the roses at his funeral, just the way he wanted to. A couple of oldtimers agreed that his service Sunday was a lot fancier than the early funeral of his great-grandfather here 69 years ago which had given him the idea.

McKinney, 42, a Springfield factory worker, staged the funeral because he said he wanted friends to "give me the roses while I live." Roses he had — a big spray of them atop the coffin which sat to one side while a preacher sermonized and musicians played.

After the rite, McKinney sniffed a rose from the spray — then plucked blossoms to give to female vocalists who took part in the service. It was a lot bigger affair than the funeral his great-grandfather, Lorenzo Dow McKinney, had preached in 1896, eight years before his death, said two men who saw both services.

In 1896, said Joe McKinney, 88, of Portsmouth, "they didn't have any singing." Smith Center, 79, of near Lucasville, agreed: "The preacher just got up and told how good a man he was."

Woman, 22, Is Youngest Sheriff in U.S.

LA CROSSE, Kan. (AP)—The ex-convict on parole walked into the Rush County courthouse to report his presence, as the law requires, and his intention to seek a job in La Crosse. He asked for the sheriff.

A pretty, brown-haired girl of 22, garbed in shorts and tennis shoes, greeted him.

"I'm the sheriff," she said pleasantly.

The 5-foot-6 Sharon Mendenhall didn't look like a sheriff to him and she doesn't to anyone else, but she is.

How did she get to be the sheriff? By running for the office on the Republican ticket last year, winning by some 750 votes in this sparsely settled county of 7,000 inhabitants.

The sheriff last term was her husband, Jack Mendenhall, and by Kansas law at the time he could not succeed himself. So his wife ran for the office. The Mendenhalls contend she is the youngest sheriff in the United States by 11 days.

Mrs. Mendenhall's deputy? Her husband of course, and there hasn't been much difference in the way the office is run since she took the top job.

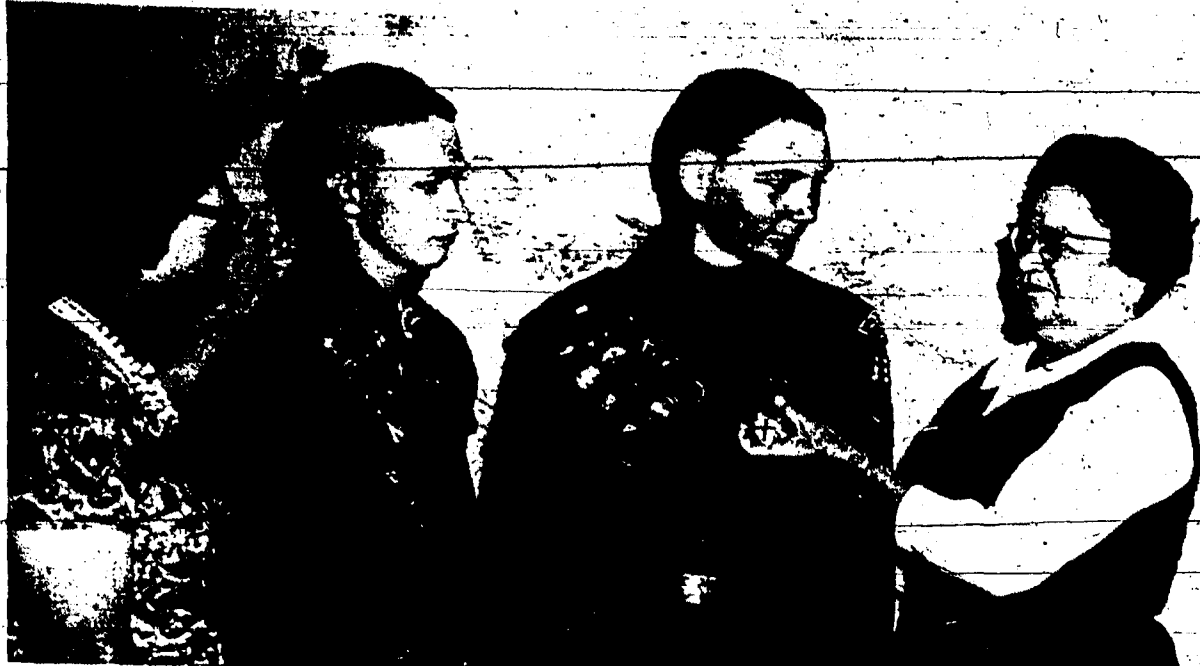

"We like the job, and this is the only way we could do it," explained the lady sheriff. The state legislature has repealed the law limiting the sheriff's right to succeed himself since the last election. Mendenhall plans to run for the office again.

The sheriff and her husband have a combined salary of about $800 a month. Violent crime is a rarity in this area about 280 miles west of Kansas City.

When there is criminal investigation, traffic accidents and other duties of that nature, Deputy Jack goes forth to take care of them.

The sheriff takes care of the family quarters in the courthouse, cooks for her family, including a 3-year-old daughter, Cheryl Lee, runs the radio communications and performs those duties which by law are entrusted only to the sheriff.

Everything runs smoothly, she says. But when law enforcement men from other areas drive through the county and hear things like this on the radio, it shakes them up a bit: "Ten-six (stand by in police radio code). The sheriff is ironing a blouse."

Hearings Slated on Silver Shortage, Coinage Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—Silver shortage and coinage problems will be aired at congressional hearings this week.

The House Interior mining subcommittee holds hearings today and tomorrow. A Senate Banking and Currency Committee takes up later a proposal to eliminate silver from small coins which faces opposition from some Western senators.

The House group, comprised mainly of members from Western mining states, will seek information on present silver mining, usage, maximum potential production, and defense needs.

Witnesses will include Spokesman for the Bureau of Mines, the Treasury Department, Office of Emergency Planning and the mining industry.

The Senate committee hearing will be on an administration bill which would, among other things:

- Eliminate the use of silver in minting new dimes and quarters, reduce the silver content of half dollars, and continue a ban on the making of silver dollars.
- Establish a commission to study coinage problems.
- Authorize the purchase of domestically mined silver at $1.25 an ounce.
- Authorize controls over the melting and export of coins to ease shortages pending the arrival of the new coins.

The chairman of the Senate committee, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., has predicted prompt passage by Congress of the coinage legislation requested last week by President Johnson. Robertson introduced the bill.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, ranking minority member of the committee and cosponsor of the bill, called it "an excellent solution for a short-range problem."

"It provides a ceiling and a floor on the price of silver... and a stockpile for the protection of our defense needs for silver," Bennett said.

Many other Westerners in Congress disagreed with Bennett, and indicated they will oppose the administration proposal in committee and on the Senate and House floors.

Still smarting from a recent administration order halting the minting of silver dollars—which had been authorized by Congress—the Westerners indicated they would fight to have some silver retained in dimes and quarters as well as in half dollars.

They are contending, among other things, that:

- Speculators and hoarders will snap up silver coins and make the present shortage more acute before the new coins can be minted.
- The proposed $1.25-per-ounce purchase price is too low to stimulate increased silver production, which is needed to ease the shortage.
- Congress should approve pending bills to authorize the minting of coins with decreased silver content and to prevent hoarding, speculating, exporting and melting of coins.

The no-silver coins would debase the U. S. coinage system and damage confidence in its monetary system.

A silver stockpile should be built for strategic and defense use, and present silver reserves should be reserved for coinage instead of being made available for industrial use.

"Space Baby" To Be Born In Russia

MOSCOW (UPI)—Another Soviet "space baby" will be born this summer.

Cosmonaut Gherman Titov, who orbited the earth 17 times in August, 1961, told this correspondent that his wife is pregnant and that the happy event will probably occur in a few weeks.

The new Titov addition will be the fourth time the stork has visited the growing family of Soviet cosmonauts.

None of the American astronauts has become a father since being placed in orbit although most have children.

The other Soviet "space" babies are Titov's daughter, Tatiana, born on Sept. 24, 1963; a daughter born to cosmonette Valentina Tereshkova and cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev last year, and a son born to the wife of cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky last April.

All of the Russian children are reported to be normal, both physically and mentally.

Author of Peter Rabbit Dies at 91

HAMPDEN, Mass. (AP)—Thornton W. Burgess, who time after time saved Peter Rabbit from the jaws of Reddy Fox in his stories about the Old Briar Patch, died Saturday night.

Until not long before his death at the age of 91, he worked in a converted barn by a meadow, spinning tales about Jimmy Skunk, Old Man Coyote, Danny Meadowmouse and other inhabitants of Laughing Brook and the Briar Patch.

Burgess was a lover of nature and children.

He combined the two interests in 15,000 short stories for newspaper syndication, 100 books and scores of magazine articles.

Last month, Little Brown & Co. published his most recent collection, "The Burgess Book of Nature Lore," 26 stories written within the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. Snapper are among the important characters in this collection.

Parents for generations found his stories an ideal way for a child to end his day.

"I can't let anything happen to Peter or Danny Meadowmouse—I'll need them to start my stories," Burgess once said, adding, "Tragedy comes into real life too soon."

Burgess began telling bedtime stories to his own son, Thornton W. Burgess Jr., about what he had seen in meadows and woods. When the boy visited a cousin in Chicago and missed the stories, his father sent him one each day.

Eventually the stories came to the attention of Little Brown, which published 14 of them in 1910 under the title of "Old Mother West Wind." Eight volumes followed, an average of one a year until 1918.

Other works included, "The Old Briar Patch," "Along Laughing Brook," "Baby Animal Stories," "At Paddy Beaver's Pond," and "Aunt Sally's Friends in Fur." His first published work was "The Bride's Primer," in 1905, a humorous collection of stories about young brides.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — Despite Bobby Kennedy's criticism of United States intervention in the Dominican Republic, President Johnson is not going to be drawn into any public brawl with the junior senator from New York.

Queried by visitors, the President's face turns solemn, but he insists he has no hard feelings toward Bobby, either as a result of Kennedy's Dominican barbs or as a hangover from the bitter convention fight in 1960. He feels the convention fight left no serious wounds, but he won't venture a guess as to how Bobby feels toward him. The President tells visitors they'll have to ask Kennedy about that.

RESULTS COUNT, NOT CHARM — Some friends and callers, however, get the impression Johnson is a mite fed up with all the post-humous talk about the Kennedy "style" and "grace." The President disavows any such qualities in his own makeup; he tries to do the best he can and feels it is the results that count, not whatever charm might go into achieving them.

Similarly, the President shows no inclination to bicker with French President Charles de Gaulle, whose anti-American antics have caused great pain among our diplomats. Johnson is content merely to step aside when de Gaulle tries to tackle him or throws beanbags at him. And he is grateful that de Gaulle so often comes through with the chips are down—as in the Cuban missile crisis of a few years ago. Besides, de Gaulle is getting old—he won't be around too much longer.

PERPLEXED BY CRITICS — But the President remains perplexed and acerbic about his critics on the Viet Nam war. He feels he has done everything they asked him to do by offering to enter unconditional negotiations and by imposing a six-day ban on the bombings of North Viet Nam, and still his critics are not satisfied. What he'd like to hear is some of those critics asking that the Communist Viet Cong stop killing Americans instead of always demanding that the Americans stop fighting back.

Johnson also can't understand why so few critics give the United States credit for its peaceful accomplishment in South Viet Nam. He feels there should be an occasional footnote mentioning that under American aid South Vietnamese rice production has been doubled, more children are going to school, and the man in the street and in the fields is much better off economically. Johnson does not see that record as the record of a greedy imperialistic nation seeking to take over Southeast Asia as one big colony.

An avid reader who likes to quote history's personalities, the President has hung a framed quotation from the Roman consul, Lucius Aemilius Paulus, on the wall of his office. He points to it as reflecting some of his thoughts about the ignorance of his critics.

PAULUS ANSWERS CRITICS — Paulus noted that "commanders should be counseled, chiefly by persons of known talent; by those who have made the art of war their particular study, and whose knowledge is derived from experience; from those who are present at the scene of action, who see the country, who see the enemy; who see the advantages that occasions offer, and who, like people embarked on the same ship, are sharers of the danger..."

The President has a supply of Paulus' remarks, attractively printed on antique paper, and hands them out to visitors with the comment that they are suitable for framing. He believes that if his critics read them every day it would be good for their souls.

Views of Others

STUDYING COLLEGES

This is the period when tens of thousands of young people wait breathlessly for that all-important word from the college of their choice. Many receive it. Others, unhappily, do not. And the more famous and "desirable" the college, the greater the number of young folks who are likely to be disappointed.

James K. Hitt, president of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers, has just announced that the job of getting into college this year was even more difficult than anticipated. The assumption is that this difficulty will be still greater in the years ahead.

Clearly, college-bound youth faces a crisis. Yet, this should be looked upon more as a challenge than as a tragedy. For the problem is not insurmountable. It seems to us that there are at least three steps which can be taken to help the crowded college situation and to bring it into better perspective. These are:

An expansion of facilities. There are at many college numerous "frills," which, while pleasant, are by no means absolutely necessary. If such frills were cut down or out, not considerable sums of money would be available for the education of those who need it and could benefit from it. Personally, we should applaud a college which reduced a spectator sports program and devoted the money to more classrooms and professors.

A program to publicize still further the many excellent but largely unknown institutions of higher learning in the United States. Far too many students and parents think in terms of the Ivy League, when a boy or a girl would get just as sound an education elsewhere, and be just as happy.

A revision of high school curricula to provide whatever extra education is needed for students who should not or need not go to college. This should be accompanied by a realization on the part of employers that in many types of jobs there are things better than a college degree. In many cases an extra year of specialized high school work could prepare a young man or a young woman for certain types of work better than could four years in college.

The wish for more and higher education is one of the strengths upon which America builds. But the time has clearly come to give thought to how this wish can be more fruitfully channeled.—Christian Science Monitor.

DEEPTHINK, DOUBLETHINK

Space activity is indeed a world apart. So were more amused than annoyed to learn that a piece of auxiliary equipment in a spacecraft is called "redundant," for example, and a satellite drawing closer to the earth is said to be in "decaying orbit." A "public dehydrating" might even be as interesting as a press conference.

What did cause to achieve maximum deceleration the other day was an advertisement in which an aerospace company was telling "wild bird" engineers of its constant emphasis on "blue sky, visionary deepthink involving moon hardware, biosciences and technological leapfrogging..." Sometimes we mourn for the music of the spheres.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Undoubtedly growing families are important in these days of high living costs. It costs more and more to raise a family and sometimes a young fellow with a rather limited income has a real tough time making both ends meet.

It gets to be real tough when you support a wife, three or four children and a new automobile. Not to mention two or three drive-ins!

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Although more and more communities are outlawing the sale of fireworks, bootleg stands beyond the city limits can still be found. These have a great appeal for youngsters but the dangers that caused fireworks to be outlawed in the first place still exist. These include burns, penetrating wounds, injuries to the eyes and ruptured eardrums. Play it safe and obey the spirit as well as the letter of the law.

In some states the sale of non-explosive fireworks is still legal. Since it is impossible to police all fireworks stands to insure that no explosive fireworks are being sold, this opens the door to an illicit traffic.

Furthermore such items as the supposedly harmless sparklers burn at a temperature of 1,650 degrees F.—hot enough to burn your child's clothing. In fact, out of 721 reported injuries caused by fireworks in one state 90 were the result of careless handling of sparklers.

Many ingenious children today have learned through friends or home chemistry sets that the basic ingredients of explosives can be readily purchased at the corner drugstore. Homemade explosives are homemade booby traps. Don't permit your child to flirt with danger in this way.

A popular and allegedly safe substitute for conventional fireworks is the highway or railroad flare. It gives a red light that lasts about 10 minutes and generates a heat of 2,500 degrees F. Even after it seems to have burned out it can cause a severe burn or ignite clothing.

The Fourth of July is set aside to celebrate our independence as a nation. Our problem now is to get away from a dependence on fireworks as a fitting means of celebration.

Q—What is Erb-Duchesse palsy? Can it be cured?

A—This is a paralysis of one arm caused by stretching certain nerves in a baby while it is being delivered. The severity of the injury varies. Some babies although they cannot move the arm at the shoulder are able to open and close their hands. The ability to move the arm usually returns in anywhere from a few days to six months. If it has not returned in six months it must be assumed that the nerves were completely severed and an operation to bring the ends together must be performed.

In the early stages, even through a spontaneous recovery may be expected, the arm should be placed in a splint in an elevated (Statue of Liberty) position to prevent contracture. The splint should be removed once or twice a day and the arm carried through its full range of motion.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

"Racism in any form by any body," said U. N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson in protesting the Stanleyville massacres, "is an affront to the conscience of mankind."

Yet cowardise abounds here at home among many churchmen, educators, stars of the performing arts and others prominent in civil-rights affairs who fail to protest, repudiate and castigate the tragic racism of numerous Negro leaders.

Conscience, they felt, called upon them to dramatize the course of justice by their highly publicized participations on TV, in demonstrations and marches, and from the pulpit and in statements in the press. But conscience is neither an illusion nor a convenience and justice involves principles which cannot honorably be tucked into the home freezer.

Where is their conscience, and why are they quiet, when absent Cong. Adam Clayton Powell, who has made a lifetime—and very profitable—career of racism, proclaims in Chicago on May 28, as he has so often, that "the black revolution can only come by black people seeking power—audacious power?"

Such racists call the white man "Mr. Charlie," a calculated insult as "unpardonable as white racists' derisive use of 'nigger.'" Said Powell: "Mr. Charlie is out. Black organizations should be black-led and black-financed. Negroes must reject the white community's ceremonial Negro leaders. Black ministers, politicians and businessmen must come back to the Negroes. They must not cuddle up to Mr. Charlie."

Yet heading into New York's last senatorial campaign even such a persistent speaker of idealism as Robert F. Kennedy said, "I have no complaint against Cong. Adam Clayton Powell." Mr. Kennedy's conscience seemed to vanish like a pricked balloon.

I cite this Powell Chicago harangue not because it is unusual but because it is tragically standard among so many NAACP leaders and other advocates like James Farmer of CORE, Theodore E. Brown of the Negro American Labor Council, etc., and even, at times, Dr. Martin Luther King.

The silence of many white politicians is obvious political venality, especially galling when they at the same time pronounce themselves racial statesmen. While Negroes represent less than 10 per cent of the voting population, everyone knows such self-servers eye the Negro population concentrations in key areas like Detroit, 28.9 per cent; St. Louis, 28.6 per cent; Cleveland, the same; Philadelphia, 26.4 per cent; Chicago, 22.9 per cent, etc.

But how can the conscience of many bishops and similar white dignitaries, university professors, famous authors and true believers in democracy also permit themselves to behave like German Gen. von Moltke, who was once described as remaining silent in seven languages?

The mother of Endicott Peabody, former governor of Massachusetts, and countless younger products of first families in numerous states, including some Yale divines, sprang to national notice in freedom marches and met public praise for idealism. If a single one has risen to publicly denounce with equivalent initiative even demagogue Cassius Clay I am not aware of it.

The great goal of civil rights is to lower the wall that separates man and man. The basic situation of life is that we live it together, and the problem of fairness to minorities and equal fairness to the majority goes on forever. A prayerful America hopes that our fabulous tradition as a melting pot can work its magic in this hour with ever-improving confidence, like the beneficent current of a big-muscled river.

This is the task these white spokesmen volunteered to champion. Their contribution is no contribution if they fear, or for any reason fail, to carry forward the purpose of their civil-rights participation and merely drop their idealism when black racism sabotages every good intent.

Duty likewise calls on author James Baldwin, entertainers Harry Belafonte, Sammy Davis Jr. and every other Negro of national prominence to stand up and be counted on this point, along with all who abhor the Powell-like fracticide that slays the American ideal.

To quote again Ambassador Stevenson, "Racial hatred, racial strife, has cursed the world for too long. I make no defense of the sins of the white race. But the antidote for white racism is not black racism."

Any coward about this should be without honor here in his own home.

ing of religion only by our sad childhood experiences in Sunday school?"

Finally, there is "the biggest and strongest" source of disbelief—the ancient problem of evil. If a loving and almighty God is in charge of this universe, why does He permit wars, earthquakes, floods, deformed babies, and cancer?

Dr. Hedley acknowledges that believers have no easy answer to this question.

"Not to deny a difficult world, not to think to explain it, but to live courageously and faithfully within it, is the part which the believer chooses for himself. He can't prove that he's right in his deep conviction that behind all of the baffling and contradictory phenomena of life there is infinite love and mercy. But 'it happens that the nonbeliever can't manage any absolute proving either.'"

Poor Man's Plato

By HAL BOYLE

A RICE PADDY IN VIETNAM (AP) — It is said that in wartime there is no higher glory or greater reward than being commander of a company of troops.

For a company is large enough to be important in battle but a kingdom small enough for the commander to know all his men personally.

That is the way Capt. Pat Collins, leader of recon Company D of the 3rd U.S. Marines, feels about his post.

He wouldn't trade it right now for any other job on earth.

He talked of it as he lay stretched out under a tent in a dried up rice paddy, loud with insect song.

The heat came down in an endless hammer of glare. Red and gold butterflies shimmered and skittered past and it was hard to think the enemy was only a couple of hills away.

Chewing on a stem of grass, Pat remarked:

"Once you put the average Marine out in the field his overall outlook on life generally improves. He has a sense of achievement. He feels he is doing what he ought to be doing."

"You don't join the Marines if you are looking for a soft, cushy life."

Pat has put in 13 years. After serving as a corporal in Korea, he quit to get a degree in industrial management from Bowling Green (Ohio) State University.

But he returned to the corps in 1953. Since then he has attended nine Marine, Army and Navy schools. He has won two medals for bravery, served in Cuba, made 100 parachute jumps and qualified as a demolition expert.

"I'm lucky in the men I have," he said. "They like the excitement of running around the countryside and shooting up the enemy."

"They're young and eager. They figure the government sent them here to do a job, and they will get it done."

Collins, who can put 20 shots a minute from his M14 rifle into a target 500 yards away, has both respect and disdain for the enemy.

"He knows the countryside, and is very deceptive and elusive," Pat said. "He is a master at concealment. He has a kind of circular foxhole in which the cover serves as his hat. He stands up, fires, then stoops and is hidden again."

"But they are lousy shots, real lousy. No guy could shoot that bad and stay in the Marines."

At 32, the captain is completely happy in a Spartan existence under which the meaning of his life is wrapped up by two words—dedication and duty.

"I don't sit around and dream of retiring to a chicken ranch," he said. "I think some people back home make themselves unhappy by being materialistic and selfish."

"I'm happy trying to do a job. It isn't really hard on us out here. I like it. The ones it is hard on are the wives."

Pat thinks often of his own wife, Mary, and their two small children, who live with her parents in the Bronx, New York City.

"We are saving up to buy furniture," said Pat. "and this is a great place for thrift. There is nothing to spend it on in a rice paddy. But I guess when I get home Mary will want to buy out Buckingham Palace."

Bridge by Jacoby

CONTRACT FIRST, OVERTRICKS NEXT

This week's articles will be devoted to the American Bridge Teachers Association and some typical teachers' lesson hands.

The ideal hand for a bridge teacher should show logical bidding and logical play so we see that South has a very normal one-no-trump opening and that North with 13 high card points and no four-card major has even more normal raise to three-no-trump.

Sixteen points opposite 13 should produce nine tricks without any trouble but after South can see that if East holds the king of clubs and gets in the lead with it he can return a heart and give his partner four heart tricks assuming that the three of hearts was fourth best of five.

Is there an absolutely safe way to play the hand? Yes! South can count eight tricks in top cards and can go after the ninth in diamonds in such a way that he can keep East out of the lead.

The play is to get that ninth trick by means of a diamond finesse against East. You don't care if this finesse loses or not because West can't hurt you if he gets in the lead.

Therefore you enter dummy with a spade at trick two and take that diamond finesse by leading the three spot and finessing your ten. This gives you three diamonds in addition to your four spades, one heart and one club.

Q—The bidding has been:

3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass

You, South, hold:

What do you do?
A—Bid five spades. You want to show that you have the king of spades and a sound hand. Your partner may need to know this for a grand slam. Naturally this hand is not going to play in spades.

Two Charged With Circus Clown Killing

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Sunday charged a young man and young woman, who admit using narcotics, with slaying circus star Paul Jung during a $40 robbery.

But police were silent as to how the arrests of the Harlem couple came about. They are Negro and Jung was white, but there was no indication of a racial motive.

The pajama-clad, trussed body of Jung, 64, chief clown of the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, was found in his mid-Manhattan hotel room April 21. His skull had been caved in.

A police affidavit submitted at a court arraignment identified a fire hose nozzle as the death weapon. Arraigned on homicide charges were Allen Jones, 24, a laborer, and Mariann De Berry, 21, who have the same Harlem address. Picked up in that neighborhood Saturday, they told police at their booking that they were narcotics users. Police said they had 40-a-day habits.

Police refused to give details of the slaying, except for mentioning the robbery and the beating. Their reticence is based on recent court rulings holding that the rights of defendants had been violated by pre-trial publicity.

Police and court officials also kept secret whether the arrested pair had criminal records.

Both were held without bail. They said through court-appointed attorneys that they had made statements to police "under threat of fear and force," that the statements are false, and that they were being illegally detained and their constitutional rights violated.

The police affidavit said Jung was robbed of $40 and a typewriter. This apparently is inconsistent with an earlier police statement that they found $226 in cash in Jung's trouser pockets, plus a watch and a ring, and that they had all but discounted robbery as a motive.

Judy Holiday, Actress, Dies At Age of 41

NEW YORK (AP)—Judy Holiday, who won an Oscar and a niche in theatrical history for her performance as the junk dealer's squeaky-voiced babe in "Born Yesterday," died today. She was 41 and had been ill for months.

She played Billie Dawn both in Broadway and movie productions of "Born Yesterday." It was her first major stage role.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awarded her the Oscar in 1951 as top actress.

During the run of her biggest hit, she was married to David Oppenheim, a musician, on Jan. 4, 1948. In 1957 they obtained a Mexican divorce. They had one child, Jonathan.

At the time of her divorce she was playing in "Bole-Are Ringing," another success both on Broadway and in the movies.

Astronauts' Comments Related

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — From the moment astronaut James A. McDivitt cried, "Beautiful! Beautiful!" a few seconds after launch, the Gemini 4 mission has produced more quotable comments than any previous space flight.

To Americans accustomed to more laconic fare, the voluble chatter of McDivitt and his space twin Edward H. White II has been fascinating as well as informative and often amusing.

Here, from the transcript of the recorded mission commentary, are some of the more memorable exchanges.

Completing the first orbit: McDivitt: "We just got a beautiful view of the whole State of Florida as we are passing over it now."

Communicator: "You got Florida in sight, huh?" McDivitt: "I'm from the top to the bottom."

During White's walk in space: McDivitt: "One thing about it, when Ed gets out there and starts wiggling around it sure makes the spacecraft tough to control."

White: "I'm very thankful of having the experience to be first. The sun in space is not blinding but it's quite nice. I can sit out here and see the whole California coast."

McDivitt: "Hey, Ed, smile. Let me take a close-up picture of you. You smeared my windshield, you dirty dog. You see how it's all smeared up?"

Communicator: "Gemini 4, get back in." McDivitt: "They want you to come back in now?"

White: "This is fun." McDivitt: "Well, back in, come on, Ed, come on in here."

White: "All right." McDivitt: "Come on. Let's get back in here before it gets dark."

White: "It's the saddest moment of my life." During the 14th orbit, communicator Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom gave White some news for McDivitt, who was sleeping:

Grissom: "The Hawks won their Pee-Wee League 3-2. They beat the Falcons." (McDivitt's son plays for the Hawks.)

White: "Roger. Understand. The Hawks won 3-2." During the 17th orbit the astronauts talked with their wives:

Mrs. McDivitt: "Are you being good?" McDivitt: "I don't have much space. About all I can do is look out the window."

White: "Roger. Standing by for a drink of water. You sound pretty good to me. A big improvement over Gus, I'll tell you that."

Mrs. McDivitt: "Be a good boy, now, kid." The wives surprised the astronauts during a later pass over America by coming on the radio unexpectedly instead of the regular communicator:

Mrs. White: "Gemini 4, this is Houston Cap-Com. Do you read?" White: "Hello! This is Gemini 4."

Mrs. White: "Now have a drink of water..."

McDivitt: "I sure did." Mrs. McDivitt: "You gonna drink some water?"

McDivitt: "Yes, I will." Late in the mission, the pair traded friendly insults:

McDivitt: "I'm sure tired of looking at his ugly face." White: "I'm getting tired of hearing that silly voice, too, McDivitt."

McDivitt: "Pardon?" Mrs. McDivitt: "No static on that. Jim, disconnect your headset communications at the neck ring from now on at the start of your sleep period. No static on that. Did you get the message on disconnect your headset?"

Astronauts Are Blessed by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI gave his blessing Sunday to Gemini astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II.

During his usual Sunday noon blessing of the crowd in St. Peter's Square from the windows of the papal apartment, the pontiff said: "We ask that this benediction rise also to the heavens for those who are exploring the new ways to the stars."

INDIANA, Pa. (AP) — It's easy to forget to take along small things on a trip—but a hippopotamus?

The Sells & Gray Circus folded its tents in this western Pennsylvania town Wednesday night and moved on to Wimber, 40 miles away, leaving behind a 6,833-pound hippo.

The animal was found unattended in a trailer truck. Clearly marked on the outside was "hippopotamus."

The circus retrieved the lonely hippo Friday after paying a $10 fine for cruelty to an animal.

Spines Do More Than Stomachs

By Dr. Ernest D. Paul, D.C. Perhaps your spine should be in front, where the stomach is. Perhaps that it would be given the necessary attention and consideration.

We are somewhat like ostriches. Because we can't see our spine we think there is no danger there.

Our stomachs get all the attention and consideration while in reality it is our spine and spinal cord which enable the body organs to function and coordinate.

Every day our back does more for us behind our back than our stomach does in front.

Give your spine the attention it deserves by better posture, deep breathing, corrective chiropractic adjustments and your spine will take better care of you.

BOARD MAKES RULING
IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board has ruled that pickets who virtually stopped work at an Idaho Falls construction company's project last November were guilty of unfair practices.

The ruling was against the Southeast Idaho Building and Construction Trades Council.

The council contended picketing on a Loveland Construction Co. project at Soda Springs was only to inform the public the company has using non-union labor.

Other union workers on the project refused to cross picket lines and work was virtually stopped. Loveland contended the picketing was intended to force it to sign a union contract.

The NLRB ordered the council not to picket any Loveland projects to force signing of a contract. The board also said Loveland was paying union scale to its carpenters and laborers.

SMYLLIE SPEAKS
POCATELLO (AP) — While America's two astronauts whiled overhead Sunday, Gov. Robert E. Smyllie told Idaho State University's 750 graduating seniors their greatest space-age challenges remain on Earth.

One of the challenges, said Smyllie in a commencement address, "is the increasing lack of space on our own small planet."

"We must find ways to feed, warm, transport, educate and comfort an exploding population," said Smyllie, "and at the same time keep our crowded planet sanitary."

Smyllie told the ISU graduates those challenges weigh on their generation and there are more.

"We need to plan the growth of human communities," he said. "We need to study and revise the processes of representative government to keep it workable in a fast changing world."

GIRL'S BODY RECOVERED
SALMON, Idaho (AP) — The body of a 16-year-old girl whose drowning led to three other deaths two weeks ago has been recovered from the Salmon River.

Linda Lindskog's body was spotted Sunday floating 50 river miles downstream from where she drowned May 22 after her car skidded off U. S. Highway 85 and into the river.

The body was recovered by Lemhi County Coroner Del Jones who was boating near where it was spotted.

Miss Lindskog drowned after slipping away from a thrown rope that saved her passenger, Joanne Jenkins, 13.

But Miss Jenkins' mother — Mrs. Lou Jenkins, 41, — and two men drowned when a cable car they were riding over the river to search for Miss Lindskog overturned.

The bodies of Mrs. Jenkins and Dale Tate, 40, were recovered the next week. But sheriff's deputies are still searching for the body of Beecher Black, 17.

Three other persons in the cable car managed to swim ashore.

UNCHANGED
BOISE (UPI) — Attendants at St. Luke's Hospital said Monday Idaho Secretary of State Arnold Williams, under treatment for a heart ailment, remained in unchanged condition.

A spokesman listed the condition of the 67-year-old state official as fair and reported he spent a good night. Williams was admitted to the hospital Tuesday after becoming ill in his office.

ARM AMPUTATED
IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A six-year-old girl whose arm was amputated after being mangled by an Alaskan Grey Husky wolf Sunday was recovering today in Sacred Heart Hospital.

She is Stephanie Daniels, the second small girl to be attacked by the two wolves at Tautphaus Park Zoo.

Police said Stephanie reached into the wolves' cage and one of the wolves pinned her arm against the cage bars while the other chewed it.

They said Hyrum Mickelson, 45, of Idaho Falls, pulled the wolf away and freed the girl. He was bitten on the hand.

Police said the wolves had been moved to a new cage surrounded by a safety fence after the first attack. The first victim required stitches.

Upper division courses were authorized at the college by the 1965 Legislature. The first third year courses are to be offered this year and fourth year courses will be added in 1966.

Dr. A. H. Chatburn, dean of faculty, said the summer session third year classes will be geared primarily for teachers working to complete their degree requirements.

There also will be courses for students who want to get a head start on upper division work, Chatburn said.

He said enough liberal arts, science and business courses will be available for a student to complete 75 per cent of a regular semester's work during the 10-week summer session.

'Open Arms' Program Under Way for Viet Cong Defectors

SATGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The Saigon government is finding out it's cheaper to buy a Viet Cong than to kill one. So is Uncle Sam.

With the firm backing of the United States, a determined effort is under way here to switch Viet Cong defectors to a new life.

It is still too early to assess the success of the program — known as the Open Arms project. But reliable sources say perhaps 18,000 Communists have been welcomed back with "open arms" by the government since late 1963.

This year about $1.5 million has been budgeted to carry out the program — almost as much as is spent each day for the way effort.

"The aim of our Open Arms program is not only to get returnees, but to prepare right now a way out for the people under the North Viet Nam Communist regime," explains Tran Van An, the Open Arms minister.

"They are looking forward to the free world for their rescue and escape," he adds. "We have the duty to open our arms to admit them and give to the patriotic an opportunity to join our young revolution."

U.S. sources acknowledge that a large gap exists between the ideal and what has been accomplished. For instance, of 44 Open Arms centers planned — one for each of the provinces — more than a third are either inadequately staffed or still under construction.

The instability of the government, the war in the provinces and a less than enthusiastic attitude toward the project by the military has slowed progress.

"The only good Viet Cong is a dead Viet Cong," some military leaders say quite frankly.

At odds with this view, the government is pushing ahead its program in the belief that pacification and open arms are one, that fighting alone is not enough to win the Vietnamese conflict.

The showpiece of the program is the Chieu Hoi center in Saigon's neighboring Chinese sister city of Cholon. At this center the "elite" of the Viet Cong defectors undergo a one-month indoctrination course and then pledge to become good citizens upon returning to their villages.

The director of the school, Le Quang Dien, is a former Viet Minh officer who served the Communist cause for nine years before switching sides.

All trainees go through what school officials call a thorough screening, including fingerprinting, before they are admitted. This is to weed out Viet Cong considered to have criminal backgrounds, as well as a precaution against avowed Communists who might try to infiltrate the center as spies.

Condition of Buhl Man Fair After Accident

BUHL — Arnold Ringenberg, 19, Buhl, was listed in fairly good condition at Magic Valley Memorial hospital Monday morning following a one-car accident early Sunday morning. He was being treated for body lacerations and a possible hip injury he incurred when his car left the road one and one-fourth miles north of Buhl in the Mellon Valley area.

Ringenberg's 1940 Chevrolet ran off the wrong side of the road over a 20-foot embankment, rolled over and landed on its wheels in a shallow ditch of water. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Further investigation is pending, according to Richard Burns, state patrolman, and Curtis Pryor, deputy sheriff.

Ringenberg was alone in the car, according to the officers.

Girl Escapes

Injury in Auto Blast

BOUNTIFUL, Utah (AP)—A 14-year-old girl narrowly escaped injury Sunday night when an explosion believed caused by dynamite destroyed an automobile and parts of a garage and house in Bountiful.

The girl, Susan Williams, was asleep in bed when the explosion struck through her father's cramped car just before midnight outside the family's house.

Police said a canopy over her bed shielded the girl from flying glass from a broken bedroom window.

The girl's father, Harry Williams, and his wife were asleep in the house. They were uninjured.

Police said the FBI was expected to investigate the wrecked automobile.

Williams told police windows in his house were shot out last week.

Officers said explosives were thrown under Williams' company-owned car in his driveway.

They said the explosion blew a hole completely through the automobile, dug a 12-inch hole in the pavement beneath the car, blew off Williams' garage door and knocked windows out of his house.

Officers said they found the car's windshield on the garage roof.

They said a neighbor said the explosion was accompanied by a blue-white flame. They said the explosion was probably caused by several sticks of dynamite.

Bountiful Police Chief Dean O. Anderson said fragments of paper were found under the car. He said they might have been part of the explosive.

He said the fragments will be analyzed to determine the type of explosive used.

Utah Youth Is Critical After Fall

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A Salt Lake City youth was reported in critical condition today after rescuers raced a rainstorm to carry him from where he plunged down the face of Storm Mountain.

The youth, Dale Willis, 17, fell down the mountainside in Big Cottonwood Canyon southeast of Salt Lake City late Sunday while hiking with a friend.

He was taken to Salt Lake County Hospital, where attendants said he had a broken leg and arm and facial and head injuries.

The friend, Joe Keate, 17, of Salt Lake City, said he and Willis climbed the jagged north side of the mountain, reached a ridge and turned around.

Deputy Sheriff Bruce Millet said Willis lost a handhold, plunged 60 feet down the near-vertical mountainside and rolled 15 feet to a small ledge.

Keate ran to a nearby picnic area to get help. Several picnickers climbed the mountainside to find Willis too seriously hurt to be moved without proper equipment.

Keate returned and led Deputies Millet and Les Howard, Fish and Game Official Larry Haddock, Jeep Patrolman Gerald Glenn and ambulance driver William Thompson up the mountain.

They lowered the youth another 25 feet down the face of the

DENNIS CURTIS, right, DeLo, is presented a trophy as first place winner in the adult division of the Hereford judging contest at the annual field day Friday of the Idaho Junior Hereford Association. The field day and judging contest was held at the Pine Creek Hereford Ranch, Salmon. Making the presentation is Florin Beller, Salmon, award sponsor.

Young Cattle Raisers Told They Must Learn Task Early

SALMON (Special) — Young Idaho Hereford raisers were told here Friday they must learn early if they are to stay in the beef cattle industry.

Marshall Sellman, Watrous, N.M., president of the American Hereford Association, told some 300 persons, including members of the Idaho Junior Hereford Association attending a field day at the Pine Creek Hereford Ranch east of Salmon that the youth who plan to stay on the farms and ranches will have to be "sharp."

He said only half as many persons are raising food and fiber today as there were 20 years ago.

Sellman said that the beef cattle people have weathered their own storms and have kept their industry as free as possible. The American people, he noted are eating more beef than ever before, and that the population is increasing at a fast rate. The prospects for the beef cattle industry are "real good," he said.

The speaker told the youths that it was important that they learn the fundamentals of beef raising at home then avail themselves of the scientific knowledge from the Extension Service and the universities.

A tetonia youth, Phit Stevens, placed highest in a Hereford judging contest, a feature event of the day-long field day. Stevens, 16 was awarded a Hereford heifer by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Reese, Pine Creek Hereford ranch owners and hosts to the group.

Julana Mulkey, Route 1, Salmon, won first place as a non-member of the junior association, in the judging contest. Dennis Curtis, DeLo, won first in the adult division. Top Future Farmer of America team was from Arco; top 4-H team from Carmen.

Linda Shaw, Caldwell, was elected president of the association. She presided over the day's program. Billie Roth, Idaho Falls, was named first vice president; Margaret Pattee, Tendoy, secretary; David Latham, Tetonia, treasurer; and Gary Pratt, Blackfoot, director.

Grange to Have Father's Day Potluck Dinner

BUHI. — A 7:30 p.m. potluck dinner in observance of Father's Day will highlight the June 18 meeting, it was announced when Lucerne Grange met in regular session Friday night.

In a Hereford weight contest, Lee Cook, Carey, placed first in the junior division, and Otto Wagner, Nampa, was first in the adult division.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Erban Keyser and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brown.

Briarcliff College, N.Y., has been an active teacher and practitioner of Christian Science in San Antonio for several years.

In reports to the meeting by the managers of various church departments, it was disclosed that the number of Christian Science branch churches had reached the 3,300 mark with recent additions in Argentina, The Netherlands, New Zealand, and, for the first time, in Guatemala and Korea.

From the church's earliest beginnings, said the directors, it has been deeply involved in "the search for the real source of unity."

The message was presented before several thousand members at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

"On the basis of its spirituality Christian Science has much in common with other denominations," the message noted.

"To every honest adherent of any God-centered faith sincerely working to uplift and unify the human race, we offer our fellowship and support . . ."

The annual election of a new church president by the Directors was also announced at the meeting. Mrs. Frances S. Wells, C.S.B., San Antonio, Tex., took over as presiding officer from the retiring president, Edward Froderman, Chicago.

Flooding on Salmon River Is Predicted

By The Associated Press
Minor flooding on the Salmon River by Wednesday is predicted by the U.S. Weather Bureau. The Big Wood River and Henrys Fork of the Snake River are expected to continue rising slowly.

The Salmon is expected to reach 75 feet — one half foot above flood stage. Salmon city officials say a dike protects the city but there may be lowland flooding north and south.

The Salmon is expected to reach 31.1 feet by Wednesday at Whitebird, where flood stage is 32 feet.

Slow rising of the Big Wood River near Sun Valley is not predicted to put it above flood stage. But the river already is flowing around one low bridge near Hailey and is backed up by occasional log jams.

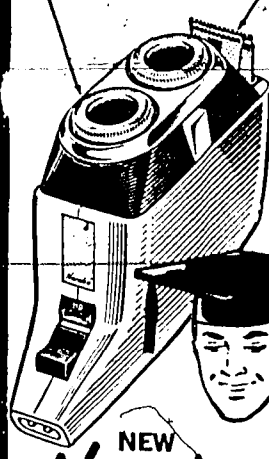

Oldtimers say the flood danger is over when no snow is left on Sun Valley's Baldy Mountain. The upper ski runs on the mountain still are snow-covered.

Henrys Fork near Rexburg also is predicted to continue rising but not above flood stage in the next few days.

The Weather Bureau expects the Portneuf near Pocatello to continue falling. It predicts no change in the Payette near Emmett.

Church Urges Unity With Other Groups

BOSTON (Special)—The Christian Science Board of Directors Monday urged its church members to find the "areas of agreement" which exist with other denominations—"rather than think of ourselves as entirely different or exclusive."

The message was presented before several thousand members at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Blaze Destroys Seafood Firm

COOS BAY, Ore. (UPI)—Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed the Coos Bay Seafood Co. on the waterfront here last night.

All available units of the Coos Bay Fire Department, the Coast Guard Cutter Modoc and a 52-foot lifeboat with fire fighting equipment battled the blaze for more than three hours before bringing it completely under control.

The plant employed about 150 persons on a round-the-clock basis. No one was inside when the fire began and there were no injuries.

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. Can you please tell me the difference between open-end mutual funds and closed-end mutual funds? Besides the difference in commission charges, what are the advantages in either type of mutual fund? I have $5,000 to invest in an outright purchase of mutual fund shares.

A. We had better get one thing straight right off the bat. There is no such thing as a closed-end mutual fund. A mutual fund is an investment company—an open-end investment company. This is one of the two major types of investment companies now in operation.

The other major type is the closed-end investment company. But a closed-end investment company is not a mutual fund. Mutual fund means open-end investment company—not closed-end investment company. There's a great deal of confusion on this point, especially since some of the closed-enders have the word "fund" in their corporate names. Nonetheless, they are not mutual funds.

Both the closed-end and the open-end investment companies have one big thing in common. They raise money by selling their shares to the investing public. Then they invest that money in different securities. The basic idea behind this is that it provides diversification through professional management.

An open-end investment company (mutual fund) stands ready on any normal business day to redeem its shares. An investor who owns mutual fund shares can turn them back to the fund for cash—the redemption price per share. That is what makes a mutual fund "open-end." Most mutual funds also continuously offer new shares for sale.

A closed-end investment company, on the other hand, has a "fixed-capitalization"—number of shares that never changes.

Degree Is Presented To Bob Hope

WEST LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI)—Comedian Bob Hope received an honorary degree from Monmouth College during the weekend for entertaining U.S. fighting men through the years.

"It's a wonderful age we're entering," Hope told 3,000 guests. "You know your children may grow up to graduate on the moon."

He praised the Gemini space flight and said he was particularly impressed with the "space walk."

"That should be a lesson for De Gaulle, who's still trying to walk on the water," he quipped. It was Hope's fourth such degree. The others came from Quincy College, Georgetown University and the University of Wyoming.

He was honored for his frequent trips overseas to entertain service men.

Hope told a news conference before the exercise he probably will return to Viet Nam next Christmas. He said he doubted U.S. forces would be withdrawn from there in the near future.

"Pull out of Viet Nam," he said, "and there will be 15 more Viet Nams in two more years."

Mrs. Johnson Ends Island Vacation

CANEEL BAY PLANTATION, V.I. (UPI)—A tanned and relaxed Lady Bird Johnson said goodbye to this tropical paradise today, ending a five-day vacation in which she learned how to cope with the deadly barracuda.

The brush with the sharp-toothed fish came Sunday while the First Lady was swimming in the blue waters of the Caribbean Sea off Turtle Beach on St. John Island with snorkel equipment.

Mrs. Johnson didn't recognize the killer and the barracuda was apparently equally unimpressed. It swam away without bothering either Mrs. Johnson or her guide, Noble Samuel—a life-guard for the National Park Service.

"He won't bother you if you don't bother him," Noble warned. Mrs. Johnson took the advice, admitting that the barracuda was "ferocious looking." Its size was magnified by the glass of the diving mask Mrs. Johnson was using to get a close-up look at the underwater flora and fauna.

A Secret Service agent also was in the water. Mrs. Johnson has been taken with the sport of snorkeling and she planned to final dip today before boarding a commercial airliner at 3:15 p.m. EDT for the flight back to Washington.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, June 7—Born today, you may experience many times in your life when you have bitten off more than you can chew, for you are impulsive, and quite likely to enter into new projects before you have completed old ones and without realizing the labor and responsibilities involved. Even so, you are not one to drop projects when you discover that you are in over your head. You will remain until the end, doing your best, even should total failure be the final result.

Obviously, you need to learn to judge your own abilities and capacities to a point finer than nature has given you the instinct for. This is not an easy task for one who is naturally enthusiastic about almost anything that presents a challenge large or small. It is, however, a task you must undertake and accomplish if you ever want to realize your full potential along any single line of work.

Your emotions are very near the surface, and it would be a very dull person indeed who was unable to spot your true feelings on any given subject. Since you make no attempt to hide your feelings, however, it makes little difference to you whether they are known or not. Such an attitude may make you an occasional enemy or two—but it also makes you an easy person to live with and understand.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, June 8 GEMINI (May 21-June 21)—Seek the seclusion you need for settling personal problems.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Avoid the confusion that may result from mixing physical and mental activities this morning.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—This may be a trying day for partnerships of every variety, from business to domestic.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Don't be unerved by the pressure of competitors. You can hold your own—or even take the lead—if you keep your wits about you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—You will do better handling affairs that do not involve contact with others today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—This can be an active business day for the Scorpio who schedules his activities to meet the public demands.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—A day in which you will be judged more for productivity than for effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Pay heed to your hunches. This is not the day for going over everything with a fine-toothed intellectual comb!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Make an effort to rectify recent errors. You may have placed your friendship with another in jeopardy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)—Should you be involved in a money transaction with another, take care that you are not over-generous.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)—Put your personal house in order before you begin to try to solve the problems of others.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Winds should be blowing favorably in Taurus' direction today. Take advantage of whatever opportunity is offered.

4-Day Flight Has Yielded Wealth of Information

By HOWARD BENEDICT AP Aerospace Writer HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The marathon flight of the Gemini 4 has provided a wealth of encouraging information that one space official said "certainly should shorten the road to the moon."

It already is being used to plan future Gemini launches and Apollo missions to the moon and beyond.

Among the outstanding things learned are that man can operate effectively outside an orbiting spacecraft; that radar and other aids are needed for rendezvous activity; that man can remain alert after long periods in weightlessness, and that over extended periods humidity does not build up inside a capsule as was feared.

The primary medical data still must be obtained. It was gathered in extensive examination of astronaut James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II over the next several weeks.

"It is this medical data which will tell us whether we can move on to 7-day and then 14-day missions," said Dr. Charles A. Berry, the medical operations director for Gemini 4.

"This post-flight medical information is going to be extremely important," Berry said. "We're really going to give them a thorough going over."

Berry said that throughout the flight the astronauts had shown no physical or mental deterioration and they had remained remarkably alert.

"This is about what we expected as long as they were in space," Berry said. "What we're concerned about is when they return to earth and their body systems have to readjust to a gravity environment. Body systems adjust very well to the leisure of weightlessness, but our earlier flights have shown some disquieting symptoms after reentry."

Both American and Soviet spacemen have experienced temporary troubles, primarily in their heart and blood vessel systems, after long exposure to the space environment.

The flight of McDivitt and White has nearly tripled the total weightless time logged by eight previous U.S. astronauts and should provide valuable guidelines for the future.

Mission director Chris Kraft said he was pleased that over the long trip the astronauts "have shown no irritability in their cramped quarters. They're still in good humor and after an initial adjustment period had no trouble eating, sleeping and working."

Kraft termed the 20-minute space walk by White during the third orbit the major achievement. Using a jet-gun propulsion unit, White maneuvered in the emptiness of space, attached to the Gemini 4 by a 25-foot lifeline.

Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the world's only previous space stroller, had no propulsion unit. Leonov reported some problem with disorientation, but White did not.

Dr. Joseph Shea, director of the Apollo man-to-the-moon program, said the success of White's step into space was especially important to the lunar program.

"With this knowledge," he said, "we can now plan emergency procedures which involve men leaving the moonship to make repairs or to transfer from one segment of the ship to another, if connecting tunnels are blocked."

YMCA-Sponsored Hike Scheduled For Saturday

A YMCA-sponsored hike in the Twin Hills will be held Saturday, according to Lee Talkington, Twin Falls Police Department. All hikers should meet at the Twin Falls YMCA-SWC at 8:30 a.m. for transportation to the starting point of the hike.

Hikers should bring their own lunch and drinking water and must be 14 years of age unless accompanied by an adult. Talkington said the hike will take about five hours. There are no fees for the event but registrations should be made before the day of the hike by calling the "Y."

Tresh Powers Yankees Past Sox Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Tresh smashed three consecutive homers and a single, driving in five runs as the New York Yankees wrapped up a double-header sweep with a 12-0 triumph over the Chicago White Sox behind the three-hit pitching of Al Downing Sunday.

Tresh delivered a single and a double and scored two runs in the Yankees' 6-1 first game victory as Whitey Ford pitched a strong seven innings.

Indians Use Tiger Errors For 10-1 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jack Kralick and Gary Bell collaborated on a five-hitter and the Cleveland Indians made the most of Detroit mistakes for a 10-1 victory over the Tigers Sunday.

Kralick, bringing his record to 2-4, tired in the humid 82-degree weather and was replaced by Bell in the eighth. Bell finished up with two innings of one-hit relief. Detroit starter Joe Sparna also suffered in the heat and was treated for heat exhaustion at a medical center.

The only Detroit run came on Willie Horton's homer in the seventh inning, his 11th of the season. Max Alvis hit his seventh homer for the Indians, a two-run shot in a five-run eighth inning uprising.

Four singles, an error by outfielder George Thomas and Kralick's sacrifice fly produced three Cleveland runs in the fourth inning. They added two more in the seventh when reliever Fred Gladding hit one batter and uncorked two wild pitches.

Campbell Eyes British Golf Crowns

PORHTCAWL, Wales (UPI)—Bill Campbell, U. S. Amateur champion, Monday set his sight on two new goals—the British Amateur golf championship and the British Open crown.

There are two former British Amateur champions among the 34-man American contingent in the 1965 tournament. Bib Sweeney of Lake Park, Fla., won the title in 1937 and Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla., captured the crown in 1954 on this same Royal Porthcawl course.

Nineteen Yanks tee off in the opening round, 14 drew byes into the second, and one other American, John B. Thornton of Rochester, N. Y., already has reached the third round by reason of a bye and a second round withdrawal by Perry L. Byard. Campbell, who will tee off in the first round against Richard Langridge of South Africa, would like nothing more than duplicating the feat that Bobby Jones accomplished in 1930.

Gonzales Wins Tennis Tourney

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Pancho Gonzales, looking like the Pancho of old, pounded out his famous serve Sunday in defeating Rod Laver of Australia 6-4, 6-3 to win the $10,000 Seafirst-Greater Seattle Professional Tennis Tournament singles title.

Gonzales, owner of the most powerful serve in the business, demonstrated driving accuracy and power, virtually back-pedaling Laver during the entire match. Laver, taking second place behind Gonzales, seemed tired from his work in two long matches Saturday night.

AFL Opens Meet With Expansion As Main Topic

OCEANPORT, N. J. (UPI)—The American Football League owners open a two-day meeting Monday that is expected to bring Atlanta the franchise it narrowly missed obtaining in 1960. Atlanta and Philadelphia are two prominent cities mentioned in the AFL expansion plans for a 10-team circuit in 1966. But a League spokesman cautioned that it's not always the expected that comes true. Five years ago, Atlanta was reported to be a shoo-in for the eighth franchise. But at the last moment, it was decided to bring in Oakland as a natural rival for San Diego and give the West Coast two entries in the circuit.

The eight-man executive committee will meet with commissioner Joe Foss in a building situated on the grounds of Monmouth Race Park to hear an expansion study report.

Expansion, however, will not kick off the agenda. First order of business will be the question of participation in All-Star games by drafted college stars.

New York Jets owner Sonny Werblin has stated he would not allow Joe Mamath, his $400,000 bonus baby, or John Huarte, who cost the Jets another $200,000, to play in either the American Football Coaches Association All-Star game at Buffalo, June 26, or the college clash with the Cleveland Browns at Chicago Aug. 6.

Werblin is on record he would rather be fined than to allow his valuable property to be damaged. Commissioner Foss feels the AFL clubs are obligated to provide talent for those games.

On expansion, there will not be a widespread presentation on potential franchises since the League already has the information on file from some 59 groups.

A three-man committee consisting of Werblin, Bud Adams of Houston and Lamar Hunt of Kansas City, will present their recommendations at the closed door meeting.

Atlanta is the plum in the expansion race with the rival National Football League, which has announced plans to add two more teams for the 1967 season.

A new $18 million dollar stadium was built in Atlanta for occupancy by the Braves after they leave Milwaukee and it gives professional football a lucrative field in the Southlands.

The Cox Broadcasting Corp. practically insures Atlanta receiving an AFL franchise over an NFL berth because of its affiliation with the National Broadcasting Company that has contracted to televise AFL games.

They take American friendship with them ... everywhere they go!

They're not the kind of men who often make news. But they carry American friendship—and ideas—into some of the most out-of-the-way places on earth. They are Standard Oil geologists, engineers, technicians.

They explore primitive jungles, deserts, tundras, bayous, even the ocean bottoms, for oil.

When they find oil in far-off places, many other benefits follow. The local country gains a new source of energy, new jobs, new revenues, improved living standards. American cooperation makes stronger friendly nations.

Standard Oil men are more than oil-hunters. They are goodwill ambassadors. They take American friendship with them... everywhere they go!

Baseball Bosses Meet to Iron Out Draft Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and the general managers and farm directors of 20 major league clubs are scheduled to meet Monday to iron out the details of baseball's first free agent draft, which begins Tuesday morning. One question to be settled is how long each club will have to choose a player when its turn comes around. The plan is so new that no one knows how it will work out in the long run, or even how the first draft will work out.

Ellis Blanks Giants 6-0 For Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sammy Ellis won his ninth game, pitching a five-hitter as Cincinnati whipped San Francisco 6-0 Sunday.

Ellis, who has lost twice, allowed only two hits after the Giants loaded the bases on three singles in the first inning. Ellis ended that early threat by retiring Jesus Alou on a pop foul.

The only other hits off Ellis came in the sixth inning, Willie McCovey leading off with a single and advancing on Jim Hart's one-out single. Alou again became an inning-ending victim, rapping into a double play.

The Reds scored the only run they needed in the first inning on singles by Pete Rose and Gordy Coleman sandwiched around a walk to Vada Pinson by Bill Hands, making his first major league start.

May, Angels Shut Out Orioles 3-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rookie left-hander Rudy May pitched a seven-hitter Sunday as the Los Angeles Angels shut out Baltimore 3-0.

May, now 3-5, walked none, struck out two and allowed only two Orioles to advance as far as second base. The 20-year-old pitcher gained his first victory since May 6.

The Angels pinned the loss on Oriole rookie Jim Palmer, who allowed runs in the first and second innings without giving up a hit.

The Angels scored in the first after Jose Cardenal reached base on catcher Dick Brown's interference. A walk to Albie Pearson, a throwing error by Palmer on a pickoff play and an infield out by Willie Smith combined to score Cardenal.

Miss Whitworth Wins Golf Meet

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth, playing the second nine in a driving rainstorm, shot a two over par 74 Sunday for a 54-hole total of 213 and the Bluegrass Invitational golf tournament championship.

The leading money winner on the Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour this year, Miss Whitworth pocketed a first place check of $1,350. She became the tour's only triple winner of 1965, posting earlier victories in the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Open and the Shreveport (La.) Invitation.

Clifford Ann Creed, Alexandria, Va., finished second four strokes behind with 217 after carding a 75.

Mickey Wright and Sybil Griffin tied for third at 219. Miss Wright had an even par 72 and Miss Griffin carded a one-under 71.

Ashe Gives U.S. Sweep Over Canada

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Arthur Ashe gave the United States a complete sweep of its five matches with Canada Sunday when he outclassed Harry Fauquier 6-4, 6-0, 6-4 in the final Davis Cup meeting here.

In an earlier singles match Sunday, American Gene Scott scored a 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 win over Keith Carpenter.

Ashe and Scott won singles matches Friday and Chuck McKinley and Marty Riessen took the doubles Saturday to clinch a U.S. victory in the best-of-5 series.

Against Fauquier, Ashe played well in the first set and superbly in the second. But his concentration seemed to flag in the third.

The turning point in the opening set was Ashe's service break in the fifth game. Two well-placed forehand shots and a double fault by the Canadian made the difference.

Ashe, the nation's No. 3 ranked amateur, closed out the set with a pair of service aces, his fourth and fifth of the day.

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny Callison smashed three home runs in a five-homer Philadelphia barrage as the Phillies edged the Chicago Cubs 10-9 in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday after taking the opener 2-1 behind Ray Culp's five-hit pitching.

Callison's third homer, a two-run blast off Ernie Broglio in the ninth inning, turned out to be the winning blow after the Cubs rallied for three runs in their half of the inning, the last two on Billy Williams' second homer of the day.

Callison triggered a five-run first inning with his 10th homer of the season off starter Larry Jackson, now 3-7. Cookie Rojas closed the outburst with a three-run homer.
