

Councilman For Wendell Is Appointed

WENDELL—Earl Nielson, of C. R. Eaton and Sons Inc., has been appointed city councilman to fill out the term of Evan Willard, who moved to California.

The appointment was made by Mayor Carl Geissler at the Friday evening meeting at city hall.

Action was taken to put a new floor in the office of the city hall and to change oil heat to natural gas in the fire station.

A discussion was held on installing a new pump in the rural water truck and on the payment of salary for the mayor and councilmen in the future. It was voted to replace water meters where needed.

Mrs. M. E. Scheel and Mrs. Roy Mason were appointed members of the library board. They will fill the vacancies created by the resignation of Mrs. Fred Wolford and Mrs. Neal Ambrose.

Los Angeles Faces Dilemma Of Erasing Riot Memories

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Six days after the simmering cauldron called Watts finally let go, a National Guard Jeep crunched through the broken and burnt souvenirs of ghetto fury which littered the silent streets.

"What's gonna happen when you cats leave?" jeered a Negro from a fire-blackened doorway at the Jeep's sullen driver.

What indeed? What does Los Angeles do now to put together its convulsed community after the worst racial eruption in the nation's recent memory? How does a city official or civil rights leader, or anybody, reach the youth who raged through the night crying, "Burn, baby, burn," and now sits frowning in "the white man's jail"? How does he reach them? And how is his mother reached, who was widowed by a white policeman's bullet? How can such deep seated tension and bitterness be put to rest, and by whom?

The dilemma is not Los Angeles' alone. What happened here merely brought into the open once again, though at greater cost than last summer's disorders, many of the problems which bubble beneath the hot asphalt of Northern cities across the land.

"Plainly put," said Herbert Carter, a consultant to Los Angeles' Human Relations Commission, "the problem has been a refusal to accept the reality of racial discrimination outside the South."

"We often hear the old song about 'they're better off here than any place else,' as if that were an answer. It's simply begging the question. The fact is the civil rights movement in Northern and Western states has been for the benefit of middle class Negroes; the poor have been let drop through the cracks."

"Look, when seven or eight people sit in a dilapidated four-room home and watch the Great Society unfold on TV and realize they're not a part of it, not even a little part, it doesn't help their situation to tell them others have it worse."

Until 1962, Carter said, even his commission's main efforts were focused on opening suburbs to Negroes, hoping they could work their way up from the ghetto.

For 15 years Negroes have been arriving, mostly from the Deep South, at the rate of 2,000 a month—though Los Angeles still has the lowest percentage of Negroes of the nation's 10 largest cities. Many, like Watts barber Overton Washington, were lured by exaggerated reports of a racial Utopia.

Grange Election Is Scheduled

WENDELL—Election of officers for Wendell Grange No. 82 will be held at a regular meeting Sept. 7.

Raymond Ruby, Master, reported that the Wendell Grange received first place on its booth exhibit at the Gooding county fair the past week, it was reported.

Demos Might Choose Walters

BOISE (AP)—The man who directed the Idaho Democratic party's most successful campaign in two decades may be asked to do the job again.

John G. Walters of Boise was state chairman in 1958 when Democrats swept all elective state offices except that of governor and also won both houses of the state legislature.

That was the first time since the 1941 session that the Democrats had won majorities in both chambers. They haven't done it since and they haven't had a governor since 1946.

The story going the rounds is that Walters has been asked to accept the chairmanship if the present chairman, Lloyd Walker of Twin Falls, resigns this fall to become a candidate for governor or United States senator.

Walters said he'd take the job if assured there would be no intra-party fight. Whether it works out that way remains to be seen.

Walker has refused to confirm—but he also has not denied—reports that he is almost certain to be a candidate, most likely for governor.

Young Democrats attending their convention in Coeur d'Alene last weekend returned home with glowing accounts of the leadership they said Walker displayed at that session. One said Walker skipped the rough and tumble tactics often associated with the job of state chairman. He described Walker's address to the regional session as "scholarly."

So far there are three announced Democratic candidates for governor—State Sens. William J. Dee of Grangeville and Cecil Andrus of Orofino and former Atty. Gen. Frank L. Benson of Boise.

Johnson Names Department Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson Friday named Dr. Ralph K. Huit, a University of Wisconsin professor, as assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Huit will be in charge of the department's legislative preparation and congressional liaison. In announcing the appointment, the President said he had approved Huit for the post on new Secretary John W. Gardner's recommendation.

Plans for T.F. County Fair Outlined By Officials at Annual Press Dinner

Improvements in the fair-ground facilities, top rodeo stock and a lot of added color promise to make the 1965 Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo one of the best, members of the Magic Valley news media were told at the annual fair board-sponsored press dinner held Friday night at the Rogerson Hotel Desert Room. About 25 people attended the dinner, including fair board members, Fair Manager Tom Shouse, county commissioners and representatives of area newspapers, television and radio stations. Plans for the fair and rodeo were outlined by Harold Hove, acting chairman of the board in Warren Barry's absence. Hove introduced Cotton Rosser, who flew to Twin Falls to attend the meeting. Rosser is producer for this year's rodeo and produces many of the top rodeos in the nation.

This year he and his Flying U rodeo company have contracted 42 shows. Rosser promised the gathering a good fast show with lots of specialty acts, including a wild buffalo stampede, world famous horse trainer Glenn Randall and his black and white horse act and two bucking mules, Castro and Khrushchev. Shouse, selected for the position from a field of about 100 applicants, reported to members of the press some of the improvements which have been made during the last year at the fairgrounds at Filer. New bucking chutes have been constructed, many new fences put in and this year rodeo spectators will see cowboys' names, numbers, stock and score on an electric scoreboard above the announcer's stand. The Tom Parks pavilion has been finished which will be used for 4-H showings and the antique building has been renovated to gain fullest advantage of space. Fair and rodeo dates are Sept. 8-11, with Wednesday East End Day; Thursday, Twin Falls Day; Friday, West End Day; and Saturday, Filer will act as host for everyone. Two of the top rodeo clowns in the business will entertain rodeo crowds as well as take care of their all-important business of fighting bulls. Wilbur Plaugher, a top barrel man, and Joaquin Sanchez, who has studied bull fighting in Mexico, will be on hand all four nights of the rodeo. National and local beauties will appear to add still more color to the fair and rodeo. Miss Rodeo America 1965, Pat Koren, from South Dakota; Miss Rodeo America 1962, Karen Lavens James, Filer; Miss Rodeo Idaho 1964, Bonnie Bruning Woolverton, Twin Falls, and Miss Rodeo

Idaho 1965, Harriet Sharp, Nampa, all will be appearing during rodeo performances. Also appearing various nights will be East End queen, Terry Quesnell; Twin Falls queen, Jeanno Light; West End queen, Nedra Morrison, and Filer queen, Janet Lierman. Also in attendance will be Miss Indian America, Michele Ann Portwood, Riverton, Wyo. It was reported Friday night entries for fair exhibits are nearly full. Exhibits will include produce, livestock, antiques, cars, painting, merchant, food stuffs, as well as all kinds of 4-H projects. On the midway, Siebrand Brother's carnival again will be on hand to entertain old and young alike. Other entertainment is planned on the midway

Party Held by 2 Cub Scout Dens

EDEX-HAZELTON — "A little rain never hurt anyone" seemed to be the attitude of 12 Cub Scouts and their guests at Nat-Soo-Pah Friday afternoon. Although skies were overcast and heavy showers occurred most of the day, the scouts from dens three and six of Pack No. 82 held their annual wiener roast and swimming party—and thoroughly enjoyed it—while apprehensive mothers sat alongside the pool and slithered. The group was accompanied by Phillip Cochran, Troop No. 82 scoutmaster; and den mothers, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. D. L. Louder, Mrs. Robert Sellers and Mrs. Ray Ernst.

Retired Naval Officer Lies Dying At Home of Atomic Radiation Dose

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A retired American naval officer, one of the few Americans ever to suffer an overdose of atomic radiation, lies dying at his home in Norfolk. He is broke, heavily in debt and his sacrifice in line of duty is unrecognized by fame or medals.
 He is Cmdr. William W. Mitchell, USN (Ret.). He is 65, but he looks 85, for he has suffered much since 5:35 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time on July 24, 1946.

That was the hour at which the United States exploded an atomic bomb underwater at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific. The underwater explosion was one of a series of postwar atomic tests.

Some 75 warships and 12 smaller craft took part in the tests. Mitchell was engineer officer aboard the observation ship USS Wharton.
 Half an hour after the atomic explosion sent a column of water half a mile wide at the base a mile into the air, the Wharton cruised into ground zero, checking radioactivity and making other scientific measurements.

In 1946 no one knew much about the hazards of radiation and Mitchell's action by 1946 standards were perfectly logical.
 By the time the officers and crew of the Wharton were checked with a Geiger counter in Bremerton, Wash., several weeks later, Mitchell's body made the counter buzz like a rattlesnake.
 They checked his blood count but it was still normal. They released him with the suggestion that he have a blood count taken periodically. Then they sent him and his ship to China. The next year, while he was on duty at Pearl Harbor, he learned his blood count was dropping. By this time medical science had a much better idea of what an overdose of radiation meant. Mitchell was ordered to San Francisco for treatment.

There he began to suffer severe hemorrhaging. He died from every opening in his body and through the pores of his skin.
 They couldn't X-ray him. His body was so hot that the X-ray film came out black. It would be four years before he would "cool" enough to be X-rayed successfully.

Fellowship Camp Slated

WENDELL—The Magic Valley Methodist men will hold their sixth annual fellowship camp over the Labor Day weekend.

Saturday's ceremonies were in sharp contrast to registration day in September when Miss Monteith and two Negro men, who still are in school there, enrolled under federal court order.

North and south winners were first, Mrs. O. H. Weinrich and Mrs. Faye Jensen; and tied for second and third, Mrs. Sturgeon McCoy and Mrs. R. S. Tofflemire, and Mrs. W. J. King and Mrs. H. E. Light, and fourth, Mrs. G. A. Olson and Mrs. A. D. McMahon.

prior to receiving her premedical degree.

"I like the way things turned out," she said. "Nothing sticks in my mind as a bad experience."

At the university, Miss Monteith was a member of the Newman Club, a Catholic student group, and sang in the university choir.

Miss Monteith starts teaching fifth grade next month in the Columbia school system where her mother had been a teacher for a number of years.

Later, she hopes to attend medical school at the University of Michigan. She wants to be a doctor, as is her uncle, Dr. Henry D. Monteith.

Gas Pipeline Blast Kills One

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — A natural gas pipeline exploded as a freight train rumbled by today, killing one girl and injuring at least eight others.

Fire fed by gas from the line raged two hours after the blast in a rural area nine miles south of here.

At least 100 acres of trees and farm crops were devastated, witnesses said.

Killed was Nancy Anna May Rigdon, 9, who was asleep with her family in their home about 300 yards from the blast.

Sheriff's deputies said motorists on U.S. 30 reported seeing a fireball from the blast as far as 40 miles away.

The blast was heard at the Ohio Highway Patrol post in Findlay, about 60 miles away, and in Decatur, Ind.

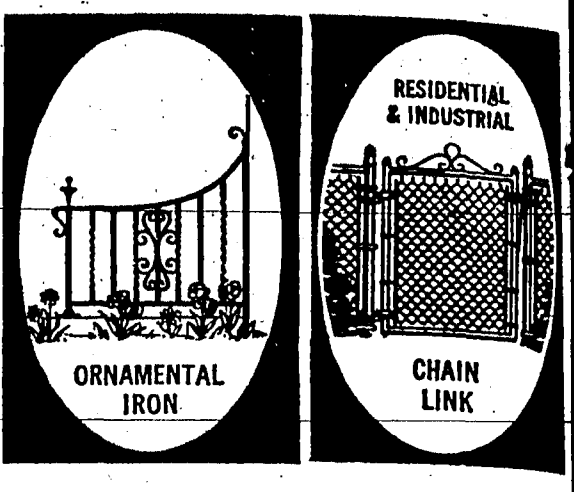

The eastbound freight train of the Erie & Lackawanna line was damaged, and about one-half mile of railroad ties were reported afire. Four fire departments were reported at the scene, a sparsely populated farm area.

Widower, 60 Studies for Priesthood

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — A 60-year-old widower begins studies next month for the Roman Catholic priesthood, joining his two sons who are monks at St. Benedict's Abbey. In applying to study for the priesthood, John Paul Habiger is carrying out an agreement made with his wife, the former Mildred Ludes of Salina, before she died Dec. 3, 1963, of lung cancer.

"We agreed that if one died, the other would seek to enter the religious life," Habiger said. He had 34 years of married life and a career in which he was a school principal, sales manager, statistical analyst, oil promoter and producer, and land appraiser.

Habiger, formerly of Lawrence and Wichita, Kan., completed the year of novitiate training Aug. 14 at the abbey. He is now known as Frater Ignatius.

One son, Benedict John, 27, will be in his third-year theology studies in September. The other son, Matthew Henry, 23, will be in his second year.

The Habigers' third child, Paula Therese, 26, is Mrs. Luis Andrade of Wichita.

Habiger, born at Brookville, Kan., was graduated from St. Benedict's College in Atchison in 1927 with a bachelor's degree in economics.

He entered the abbey last year after resigning as a negotiator and land appraiser in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Earlier as an independent oil promoter and producer, he drilled 25 wells and leased more than 200,000 acres of oil land.

He attributes to his wife a strong influence that led him and his sons into the religious vocation.

Too Friendly

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Henry Orlando petitioned a federal judge Friday to dismiss the 8-16 year prison term he is serving for burglary on grounds that police officials were too friendly.

Orlando was temporarily released from custody to see his wife, who had just given birth, and to take pictures of his new born child.

This cuddling, he said, put him in such good spirits that he confessed to a string of 49 burglaries.

The judge denied the petition.

Auditor Says Smylie Has Ignored Law

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Auditor Joe Williams says Gov. Robert E. Smylie has ignored a state law that requires him to have State Liquor Dispensary's books checked annually by the auditor's office.

Williams said he has informed Fred Charlton, superintendent of the Liquor Dispensary, he is ready to make the audit but has not been permitted access to the books.

The auditor made his charges in a letter to the governor and made the letter public Friday. He said Smylie has now answered the letter.

Smylie and Williams have argued in the past over their jurisdictions in financial matters but Williams said Smylie's responsibility on the liquor audit is clearly spelled out in the statutes.

He quoted one: "The governor shall cause the financial condition and transactions of the dispensary and of all offices, departments, stores, warehouses, depots and distribution stations thereof, to be examined and audited at least once each year by the state auditor."

The two state officials' differences over authority began shortly after Williams became auditor when Smylie began handling the Bureau of Public Accounts. It had before been handled by the auditor.

The State Supreme Court ended a dispute between the two on who is responsible for the bureau with a ruling that state law makes the governor its administrator.

Smylie Hits Southwest's Water Call

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie has labeled a Southwest call for diversion of water to the Colorado River by 1980 a "plan to pirate water in stark simplicity."

"It is the final and bitter fruit," said Smylie, "of all of the semi-secret plotting that has been going on in Arizona and Southern California for many months."

Representatives of the seven states in the Colorado River Basin issued a joint statement in Washington Friday saying diversion of 2.5 million acre-feet of water to the Colorado is essential.

They said pending legislation on the Central Arizona Project should authorize the interior secretary to construction facilities for importing the water as soon as his plans are approved by the President.

Smylie said the Southwest statement is not a cooperative attempt to solve the water problems of the West and was not made with agreement among all states affected.

"I am confident," he said, "the Northwest will work in unity to prevent this kind of piracy."

"The Idaho Water Resource Board's opposition to the Central Arizona Project is sound," he said, "and we will have to intensify our fight because it is a fight for Idaho's future."

Deputy Sheriff Held for Slaying of Student

Sunday, Aug. 22, 1965
Twin Falls Times-News 9

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A part-time deputy sheriff described by friends as "an easy-going, good fellow," was held today on murder charges in the slaying of a white theology student. The student and a Catholic priest, both here for summer civil rights work, were shot down with an automatic shotgun Friday on a gravel lane outside a weatherbeaten grocery store. The priest was hospitalized in "very critical" condition.

Reunion Planned

Twin Falls High School class of 1946 is planning a reunion for the summer of 1966.

Any person who is a member of the class, or anyone who has knowledge of any member of the class is asked to contact one of the following: Valene Crockett, 733-6351; Mary Russel, 733-9188; Inga Van Ausdela Mabre, 733-9565; Dorothy Rowe, 733-1929, or Mary Haag, 733-0577.

Police said Tom Coleman, about 55, a grandfather and the father of a highway patrolman, turned himself in a short time later and admitted the slaying.

He was charged with first-degree murder and jailed without bond. A county official said a grand jury probably would consider the charge in September. The two clergymen were shot a few minutes after they were released from the Lowndes County jail. They were arrested last week during a civil rights demonstration at Fort Deposit, a nearby community.

The dead man was Jonathan Daniels, 27, who had completed two years of a three-year course at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, Mass. Critically wounded was Father Richard Marrisroe, 26, as-

Early Pioneer Theme Used at Women's Social

BY ROBERTA DANIEL

FAIRFIELD — "Our Pioneering Grandfathers, Tonight we laud you! You who broke the trail to Camas Prairie." These are the beginning lines of "Oh Pioneers," written by Mrs. Glenn Miller, especially for a Fairfield pioneer social.

Relics of the past, including wagon wheels, iron kettles, churns, coal scuttles, jugs, tea kettles, pots and even a weathered cow's skull and sagebrush formed the background for the evening dinner meeting of the Town and Country Christian Women's Club.

Since July is unproclaimed "pioneer" month in Idaho, the pioneer theme was used throughout the evening, complete with old-fashioned costumes. A horsehide carriage robe and an antique patchwork quilt, belonging to Mrs. Carl Anderson, were displayed. Kerosene lamps and lanterns burned in various positions in the American Legion Hall. Miniature prairie schooners were individual favors and large schooners were centerpieces on each table.

Decorations and favors were planned and made by Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Edward Krahn, Mrs. Keith Strom, Mrs. Violet Lasswell, Mrs. Rozell Ashmead and Mrs. Harland Wilson. Mrs. Miller also made corsages for those at the head table.

An old-fashioned pioneer dinner was catered by Frontier Cafe. Table hostesses were Mrs. Everett Trader, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Harold Brooks, Mrs. Lesley Bartholomew and Mrs. Claude Ballard.

Mrs. J. Woodson Creed, Twin Falls, presented "The Bronte Family," a prepared talk on the famous Bronte sisters who wrote "Jane Eyre," and "Wuthering Heights." Mrs. Creed used varied biographies in compiling information on these interesting characters in English literary history.

Background music was played by Mrs. Leo Senften, pianist. Mrs. William A. Simon presented the musical program. It included appropriate songs by Arthur Reagan and Mary Taylor. Gregory Anderson sang and played his guitar. Norman Rice sang and accompanied himself on a ukulele.

Mrs. W. James Post talked on the work of Village Missions. Prizes for the most appropriate and appealing pioneer costumes were won by Mrs. William D. Leek. She wore an authentic black costume that had been handed down in the family. Mrs. Gwinn Rice won second prize and Mrs. Tom Gill, third. Both wore white dresses of the early days that were family heirlooms. Others who wore pioneers clothing included Mrs. Keith Strom, as an Indian maiden; Mrs. Everett Trader, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Allen Bauscher, Mrs. Melvin Brooks, Mrs. Harold Brooks, Edna Peck, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Lee Daniel, Mrs. Walter Pearson, Mrs. Claude Ballard and Norma Rice.

Mrs. Clyde Koontz, Twin Falls, presenting the devotional part of the program, spoke on "Christ Came to Give Life." Mrs. Koontz is a former chairman of the Christian Business and Professional Women's Council, Kansas City, Mo.

Repeat Vows

Rebecca Jo Melton, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ralph Taylor, son and Mrs. Billy Taylor, were united in matrimony on the First Baptist church, Buhl.

A single ring ceremony was formed by Rev. Frank Weissing, Filer, before an archway of candles decorated with pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums. Large baskets of pink gladioli and chrysanthemums and spiral-candelabra completed the setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of lace over peau de soie, styled with a scooped neckline, fitted bodice and lily point sleeves. The dress was made by the bride's mother.

The bride's shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a cluster of small white flowers and she carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and pink elfe roses with satin streamers.

Mrs. Odell Fraley, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Fields, cousin of the bride, and Mary Werner.

Surette Brown was flower girl and Richard Melton, brother of the bride, was ringbearer. Candelighters were Charlotte Melton, sister of the bride, and Jeannie Holloway, cousin of the bride.

Walter Taylor, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Eddie Dean and John Travlos, Olympia, Wash. Ushers were William Rawlings and Gilbert Kellogg. Donna Farmer, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Loren Farmer, soloist.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Stanley Melton was in charge of the guest book. The table, holding the guest book, was covered with a cloth made by the bride's great-grandmother.

Gifts were carried by Vicki Nelsen and Joan Patterson and displayed by Mrs. Dean Brown and Paulette Patterson.

The bride's table was covered with a white nylon flounce topped with pink taffeta. The cloth was caught by corsages of pink and white roses tied with pink and white ribbons. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses and topped with pink bells. The base of the cake was encircled with fern and flowers and flanked by cupid epergnes holding elfe roses and elegance carnations.

Mrs. Price Holloway and Mrs. Eston Abshire, Boise, aunts of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. Edward Harper, Buhl, served the punch.

School Clothes Trends Noted By Writer

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK (NEA) — The school bell will soon be heard again and so it's time for the ever-recurring questions on fashion: What's new, what's important in girls' and teens' coats and sportswear?

Wilbur Daniels, executive secretary of the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry, reports there are two factors affecting youthful fashions—the influence of European imports and Mrs. Maurice Carrington, Buhl, poured coffee. Delores Butts played background music during the reception.

Reception assistants were Mrs. Edward Andrews, Mrs. Keith Petersen, Mrs. Elza Prough and Mrs. Clarence Edwards.

The bride was honored with a pre-nuptial shower at the First Baptist Church, Filer, with Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Paul Patterson, Paulette Patterson, Joan Patterson and Mrs. James Corbett as hostesses. A miscellaneous shower was given by Mary Werner at the home of Mrs. Joyce Werner. The bride's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at their home.

Guests attended the wedding from Buhl, Filer, Jerome, Twin Falls, Paul, Hagerman, Weiser, Eugene, Ore., and Olympia, Wash.

and the continued growth of suburban living. As a result, casual and spectator-type coats are big on the scene, all neat and well-tailored.

Sports and casual suburban habits have created a need for bench warmers, duffle and scooter coats. And weather has had much to do with transitional sportswear. In fact, pile fabric and fake furs are less important on the outside, but much more so on the inside. Contrasting linings are favorites, too, especially when they are detachable.

Ski insignia are often sewn at the neckline of linings evidencing the European influence.

Important buttons — many of coin or brass — toggles, fabric loops, braid or leather bindings are other details in the import vein.

Fashion factors naturally determine the choice of coat fabrics. Smoother textures prevail, particularly in tweeds. Diagonals, checks and plaids are excellent, as are meltons, gabardines, stretch fabrics, bonded synthetics and knits, suedes, corduroys and camel's hair.

For indoor school wear there are beautiful fabric and color co-ordinated groups of skirts, jumpers and blouses. Especially notable in teen sizes are long-sleeved, high-waisted British Mod styles.

Colors are richer and deeper than in previous years, especially in plaids where combinations of wine or deep blue with brown or dark green are new.

Joyce Arthur, Mong Exchange Nuptial Promise

PAUL — Joyce Mae Arthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reed Arthur, Paul, exchanged wedding vows with Alvin Carl Mong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burdett Mong, Rupert, in a ceremony June 27 at the Rupert Methodist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. M. Thomas before an altar decorated with two large floral baskets containing pink gladioli and white mums tied with pink bows.

White candles in white candelabra and altar candles were lighted by candlelighter, Chris Goode, Rupert, cousin of the bride, and Garv Mong, brother of the bridegroom.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. C. H. Lehman, organist, who accompanied Claud Bowman, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length gown of organza decorated with sequins and Chantilly lace which formed an apron at the low pointed waist. Lace decorated the hem of a full skirt and edged a chapel train which fell from a circle of lace roses in the back of the dress. Chantilly lace was used to form a bodice and scalloped neckline.

The gown was accented with long pointed sleeves of organza. A shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a flower with pearl and sequin petals matching those in the dress. She carried an orchid bouquet surrounded by pink rosebuds and white stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Berna Deen Lee, Boise. Bridesmaids were Sandy Iverson, Caldwell; Cheryl Holmgren, Lewiston; Kay Hansen, Salt Lake City, and Rae Hansen, Rupert, all sorority sisters of the bride.

Salt Lake City Temple Rites, Unite Couple

Camille Bastian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlon L. Bastian, and James S. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ver Cox, all Twin Falls, were united in marriage July 8 at the Salt Lake City LDS Temple by Apostle Harold B. Lee.

Among members of the families accompanying the couple to the temple were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Reese J. Davis, and the grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Arrington, and Mrs. Cox. Parents of the bridegroom feted the newlyweds and bridal party at a wedding breakfast at Hotel Temple Square.

Following a short trip to Bear Lake, the couple was greeted by friends and relatives at a wedding reception at the Seventh Ward Cultural Hall, Twin Falls. The front foyer was decorated with baskets of gladioli. Guests were registered by Candy Babel.

Ushers were Lewis Bastian, Tom Embree, Reese J. Bastian, Bruce Bastian and Richard Cox. They were assisted by nieces of the bride, Laura Bastian, Barbara Bastian and Christian Embree.

The reception line formed under a decorated arch of greenery and peach roses flanked by gladioli bouquets on pillars. Green ivy and roses twined around white pillars decorated the hall similar to an Italian garden.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie made by her mother. It was fashioned with a high neckline and pointed sleeves accented with applied embroidery. The fitted bodice and deep pleated skirt were accented with embroidered roses from Switzerland. She wore a three-tiered veil of illusion net held by a crown of white hand-made roses from Switzerland. She carried a bouquet of peach rosebuds tied with a string of pearls. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls with matching earrings.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Connie Embree, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Charlotte Cox, sister of the bridegroom; Becky Dutton, Pam Stevens and Edith Rydahl, cousins of the bride; and Marieta Bastian, sister of the bride.

Best man was Gary Babel.

The serving table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with white frosting and peach roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. A silver bowl held peach frappe. Silver candleholders at each end of the table held peach tapers.

To aid in smoothing out those tiny lines and wrinkle dryness around the eyes, regular vitalizing night creaming is recommended by skin care consultants. Gently coax the cream into the dry lines to soften and smooth the complexion, then press the cream along the deeper expression lines seven times with the finger tips. Complete the beautifying task by firming the Olay vitalizing night cream over the face and neck to give the complexion a look of soft loveliness.

Efficiency Takes Boredom From Housework

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEW YORK—A lot of housewives develop backache because they do a lot of heavy lifting and don't know how to do it properly, claims a British orthopedic surgeon.

"But," he adds, "I'm inclined to think that frustration is the major factor because most women find housework boring."

It looks, then, as though housewives need to be taught a couple of things—how to lift, bend and stoop properly so as not to put too much strain on their backs. And how to take some of the frustration and boredom out of housework.

The first could be taught as a part of physical fitness programs in the schools and later in women's exercise classes.

The second each housewife has to figure out for herself, but any housewife can do it if she puts her mind to it.

Taking the frustration and boredom out of housework is mainly a question of learning how to handle the job more efficiently.

That starts with getting the cooperation of husband and children in helping keep the home neat and orderly. Any housewife is bound to get frustrated if she has to run around continually picking up after every member of the family; if their carelessness makes work for her faster than she can keep up with it and if she can't count on different members of the family being responsible for certain chores.

Good home management also necessitates good working conditions, having everything as convenient as possible. A house of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. She will receive her masters degree in 1966.

Richards is a senior at BYU. An Aug. 28 wedding is planned at Midway City, Calif.

WEEK'S RECIPE WINNER
MRS. J. R. DURK
Route 1, Kimberly

Chicken Loaf
Sauce:
4 teaspoons butter
½ cup flour

1 cup chicken broth
½ cup milk
Cook:
1 teaspoon chopped onion
2 teaspoons chopped green pepper
In ½ tablespoon fat
Make white sauce of first four ingredients. Add all the above to three cups soft bread crumbs and four cups cooked chicken. Salt to taste. Bake one to one and a half hours in 350 degree oven.

she has to care for herself ought to challenge a woman's ingenuity to make it as easy to care for as possible. Easy care should be kept in mind when she is buying furnishings, rearranging furniture, deciding what to store where and figuring out how best to invest money in labor-saving devices.

One other way for a housewife to cut down on the frustrations that get so many down is to set working hours for herself. Great-grandmother consoled herself with the idea that a woman's work is never done. But an intelligent housewife today knows better.

A woman's work can be done in a certain number of hours a day if she sets some time limits for herself, works hard when she is working and does as she pleases with the time off she has allotted herself.

Writer Gives Pointers for Good Skin Care

BY ALICIA HART
NEW YORK — The young man who said "I like to see a woman's skin glow" was a spokesman without portfolio for his less articulate buddies. However, how many young women will take a cue from his comment? Will you?

Clean skin does have a charm all its own. And clean skin also means a greater possibility of clear skin. City grime or country dust mixed with heavy make-up that isn't properly removed each day block the oil glands. When this happens, there is bound to be trouble. Blackheads, for example, or other irritations.

Women off to college will want their complexions in sparkling shape. Before classes begin this fall, start a complexion routine. One you can follow despite your busy campus schedule. You'll find it rewarding to see soft, supple and clear skin peering back from your mirror each morning.

In addition to daily skin care, try to avoid the helter-skelter campus diet. This is made up of two parts skipped meals and one part goopy midnight snacks.

For your complexion care select one of the hypo-allergenic soaps that also contain a moisturizer. Beauty specialists point out, though, that washing your face and throat properly is also half the battle. They suggest: Splash your face and throat with warm water. Don't shock your skin with water that is too hot or too cold.

Gently apply rich lather with a clean sponge or wash cloth and massage entire face area with upward and outward rotating motions.

Massage at the base of your throat with upward sweeping motions. This massage, most overlooked in home facials, helps keep your throat firm, smooth and youthful looking.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meyers all Jerome. Miss Searle is a 1955 graduate of Jerome High School. She is attending Twin Falls Business College.

Meyers attended Jerome schools and is employed at Kato's Spuds, potato company. The couple plans an October wedding.

Grain Market Closes Weak At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Business in the grain futures market was somewhat almost entirely by postulated last week and with a few bullishish prices of most of them bearish prices closed generally weak.

Crop prospects continued far too promising to create any confidence in corn and soybean prices. Speculators concluded prices would hold around the government support level until well after the harvest, at least, as commodities were under pressure until they reached that range.

Losses in soybeans ranged to well over 3 cents a bushel and a corn to about a cent, although cash buyers held the tough cash buyers held the September delivery about steady.

Rainfall during the week washed out any lingering doubt that yields would be record highs. Advisers indicated both corn and soybeans in most of the major producing area already had sufficient moisture to maintain excellent prospects to maturity.

Failure of export business to materialize as expected contributed to rather steady liquidation of wheat, after a rather prolonged period of firmness.

One report stated that Australia's long drought still had not been relieved and that prospects were too dismal for commitments just now of any sizable shipments abroad.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1 to 2 1/2 cents a bushel lower, September $1.51 1/2-52; corn higher to 1 1/2 lower, September $1.21-22; soybeans 1/2-1 1/2 lower, September $2.48-47 1/2. The August delivery expired at $2.80-83 1/2, up 1/2-3/4 cents.

Livestock Mart Trading Is Uneven

By United Press International

Trading in all major classes of slaughter livestock was uneven during the week at Midwest markets. However, closing prices generally were steady to lower for slaughter steers and heifers as well as hogs, while slaughter lambs were steady to higher.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold mainly at steady to 75 cents lower prices. However, choice steer prices at St. Paul were steady to 25 cents higher, while heifers closed fully steady at both St. Paul, Minn., and Sioux Falls, S.D. Both cows and steers steady to 1.00 lower.

Vendors closed steady and feeder cattle steady to 50 cents lower.

At major terminals, trading was very erratic. Choice and prime steers weighing over 1,100 lbs and heifers over 850 lbs. were in fair demand, but at some points even these were under downward pressure. Lighter weight and lower grading cattle were hard to move. The average weight of steers continued to drop, particularly at Chicago, where the weekly's steer average of 1,119 lbs. proved the lightest since October 1962.

In wholesale carlot trading, steer and heifer beef was steady to 1 cent a pound lower, with the most decline on steer carcasses 700 pounds and lighter and heifer carcasses under 600 pounds. Cow beef was mainly steady, although a weak to 1/2 cent lower trend was reported at Philadelphia.

Receipts of some 192,000 cattle at 12 markets showed a modest decrease from both last week and the corresponding week a year ago.

Hog receipts at 12 markets plus direct marketings in interior Iowa and southern Minnesota totaled nearly 484,000 compared with about 420,000 last week and some 86,000 a year ago.

In carlot selling, pork loins advanced 1/4 cent a pound. Boston butts were 1-2 1/2 cents a pound lower except at New York, where gains of 1-1 1/2 cents were reported. Fresh hams sold steady to 1 cent lower.

In the week's closing session, most U.S. No. 1-3 grade hogs weighing 190-260 lbs. brought $24.50-25.50. No. 1-2 grade hogs averaging 200-230 lbs. mainly mixed at $25.50 and less.

Spring slaughter lambs finished the week selling steady to 50 cents higher, except for 50-100 lb. lower trend at St. Louis. Slaughter ewes were steady to 25 cents higher and feeder lambs steady to 25 cents lower.

Twelve market receipts of about 59,000 sheep and lambs were nearly 20 per cent larger than last week, but more than 10 per cent smaller than a year ago.

Idaho Falls Man Cited After Two-Car Wreck

SUN VALLEY — A 50-year-old Idaho Falls man was cited for driving on the wrong side of the highway after a two-car crash about 5:30 p.m. Friday on highway 93 near the Blaine and Custer county lines.

According to State Patrolman Larry Plot, Truman D. Hebbon, 50, had been driving his 1962 stationwagon north on highway 93 and had just crossed a bridge when his vehicle veered across the center line and side-swiped a 1955 Chevrolet pickup truck driven south on the highway by Glenn Mueller, 33, Pocatello.

Mueller had slowed down north of the bridge to let the approaching Hebbon vehicle cross it but apparently Hebbon had been watching the water and his vehicle veered across the line, it was reported.

No injuries were reported.

Losses, Gains Reported for Stock Market

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP) — The summer rally wore itself out last week — for the time being, anyway — and the stock market was a jumble of gains and losses.

By Wednesday the market had run up a string of 16 straight sessions in which more stocks had advanced than declined. Two market averages managed to advance slightly on Wednesday despite many losses by key stocks, but a fourth index was a little lower.

By Thursday the market was over-ripe for some normal profit-taking. There came reports of the economic downturn in Great Britain due to austerity measures aimed at protecting the pound sterling.

The market headed definitely lower, its first clear cut reversal in weeks. Analysts commented that any excuse would have served for a decline. The tendency to sell continued mildly on Friday.

The Dow Jones Industrial average last week produced a small gain of 1.10 at 889.92. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined, 1 to 330.

Among the 1,545 issues traded last week on the New York Stock Exchange, 698 advanced and 668 declined — not a decisive margin at all.

It was a fairly active week, with considerable evidence of speculative interest among the public as well as investment moves by some of the big financial institutions.

Volume for the week totaled 24,815,169 shares compared with 24,853,230 the previous week.

The general background of business news was encouraging. The rise in July of industrial production to another record helped provide a feeling of optimism. A decline in housing starts in July, however, was reported.

U.S. Treasury and corporate bond prices eroded during the past week. Municipal bond prices generally held about the same. It was the fourth consecutive week that Treasury bond yields declined, bringing their yields up to a five-year high.

Corporate bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $42.53 billion.

DR. ERNEST W. HARTUNG will visit the six University of Idaho research stations throughout the state Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dr. Hartung, who took office as president Aug. 1, will get his first look at Idaho's geography during the tour.

Iowa Fair Is Quiet Despite Riot Rumors

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa State Fair, protected by about 500 National Guardsmen and 350 peace officers because of rumored threats of disorders, went off peacefully Friday with more than 50,000 persons having a good time on opening day.

Gov. Harold Hughes had called up the National Guard, Thursday night after accumulated reports hinted that unknown persons would try to start "everything from civil demonstrations to riots" during the 10-day fair.

Des Moines Police Chief Vear Douglas said he believes that the possibility of trouble is now remote.

The troops, however, remained.

New Head of University To Visit Here

Ernest W. Hartung, new president of the University of Idaho, will inspect the university's agriculture experiment station here Tuesday as part of a two-day familiarization tour of off-campus research centers.

Academic Vice President H. Walter Steffens, Financial Vice President Kenneth A. Dick and Dean of the College of Agriculture James E. Kraus will accompany Dr. Hartung on the six-stop airplane trip, which will begin at Caldwell on Tuesday.

"The purpose of the trip is to acquaint the new president with the university's system of experiment stations, provide him with a chance to meet station personnel and view some of the geography of the state," said Dean Kraus.

Vice President Dick said the tour would leave by plane from Lewiston Tuesday morning, making stops at the Caldwell, Parma and Twin Falls stations that day, and then would fly on to Aberdeen, Tetonia and Dubois, before returning to Moscow Thursday.

Dr. Hartung, who became the university's 12th president on Aug. 1, was formerly vice president of the University of Rhode Island and this will be his first opportunity to see Idaho from the air.

Vocal Group To Sing at Convention

EDEN-HAZELTON — The Codas, well-known vocal group from Eden and Hazelton, left Friday evening for Portland, Ore., where they will represent the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Idaho, at the national convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary.

The group will enter competition in the music contest, to be held Sunday at the Hilton Hotel ballroom.

The group began singing nine years ago as a church choir for the Eden-Hazelton Presbyterian church and has sung for many Maglo Valley organizations over the years, earning the right to compete in the national convention by competing in the state convention music contest held in Burley last month.

A last-minute emergency almost resulted in cancellation of the Portland trip when Mrs. Eugene Baisch, soprano, was hospitalized following an automobile accident, but Mrs. Roger Collinson filled in for her.

A trio, the Codettes, will also compete in Portland. Singing in this group will be Mrs. Irving McDonald, Mrs. Wes Harman and Mrs. Rex McClain.

Members of the sextet are Mrs. Irving McDonald, Mrs. Wes Harman, Mrs. Dexter Watkins, Mrs. Marion McClain, Mrs. Rex McClain and Mrs. Roger Collinson. The accompanist is Mrs. Don Atkinson.

"Getting seven mothers ready to go and arranging for families while they are gone is no small matter," commented Mrs. McDonald, director of the group.

"Some of us also work outside our homes, which include 19 children."

Watkins and Mrs. Atkinson are teachers in the Eden-Hazelton school system. Mrs. Harman is Justice of the Peace for Jerome County, and all the women are active in church and community service organizations.

"We sing for recreation," said Mrs. Rex McClain, "and we enjoy it, but it is hard work. Most people do not realize the effort and time involved in singing, even for small groups. We have never considered ourselves professional and can usually relax and enjoy our singing if the audience seems to like us."

The Codas will sing "The Twenty-Third Psalm," by Alfred Newman, and "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes."

The Codettes will sing "Let There Be Peace" and "Shoheen Cradle Song."

U.S. Swimmers Take Six Medals In Universiade

BUDAPEST (AP)—United States swimmers harvested six medals — two gold — in the World University Games Saturday but experienced bitter disappointment over one failure in a series of exciting and sometimes controversial races. Olympic champion Dick Roth of Atherton, Calif., and teammate Carl Robie of Drexel Hill, Pa., finished one-two in the men's 400-meter medley. Gary Dilley of Huntington, Ind., barely beat out Russia's Viktor Mazanov in the 200-meter backstroke with Thompson Mann of Chesapeake, Va., getting third place in a race he thought he had won.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY
One of the more sentimental stories on the sports page this year has been the decline of Warren Spahn as the prized left-hander of the National League into a "have glove, will travel" 50-50 pitcher.

Now toiling for the San Francisco Giants, Spahn's election to the hall of fame appears to be only a matter of waiting — at least five years is mandatory. In the meantime, he is probably looking for that one last big payday before hanging it up. For him, and for those who have admired his moundwork for many years, the last month or two have been somewhat similar to Chinese water torture.

When one wants to find out how a superstar feels in the twilight of his career, the best man to ask is a superstar. We were fortunate in having one such in the Jaycee Park pressbox the other night—Carl Hubbell, hall of famer and now the farm director for the Giants. "Spahn is struggling," Hubbell answered a question. "He won one the other night but you can see it just isn't there any more . . . that old snap, resilience in the arm or whatever you call it. "And it's struggling. You have to pitch to spots. If you're off more than this (he held up his hand, thumb and index finger spread about two inches apart) it's another line drive and you're another run behind. Pitching like that is tough. I know," he said with a grin. "I tried it a couple of years myself."

"I'm like the rest of the ball fans. I like to see a guy get out when he's on top. Like DIMAGGIO, Williams, Stan Musial. They were all tough-outs when they quit. I knew when to quit. But the war was on and they (the management) wanted me to stick around and try it. It wasn't there," he said.

Hubbell refuted statements that often an athlete is among the last to know as he disappears over the horizon. "I think you're the first to know. For a while you might think you're just tired and the arm isn't getting rested. But a pitcher can tell when the ball loses that extra bit of zip. And if he doesn't know himself, those hitters are pretty good batters. When you give them your own pitch right where you want it and they bounced it on a line off the wall, it gets through to you pretty quick," he said.

"Mostly you feel it here," he said, looking at his left arm. "I can't even straighten it out. I can't lift it much higher than my shoulder, any more. It isn't much good."

But one could tell Hubbell didn't begrudge his arm a single twist. It carried him to great heights. His "out pitch" was the screwball. He had a couple of shots at the big time and didn't make it before he began experimenting and finally perfecting that pitch.

If you want to discover why Hubbell's arm and hand tend to turn out rather than the normal in, pantomime a screwball. It goes just opposite of a curve, which is hard enough on an elbow. The screwball motion is down and out. The shoulder, elbow and finally the wrist are all turned out and snapped hard enough in that direction to impart enough spin on the ball to cause it to move.

Hubbell uses his arm as a reason why youngsters shouldn't fool around with anything but a fast ball until their 14th or 15th birthday—and preferably later.

"All this happened to my arm after I was an adult," he says. "If I had tried the same stuff as a kid when the bones and the joints were still soft and growing, I don't know what it would be."

Buffalo Coasts To Win Over Jets

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (UPI)—Buffalo jumped off to a 27-0 half time advantage Saturday and then coasted to a 30-14 victory over the New York Jets in an American Football League exhibition game before 16,000 at Rutgers Stadium.

With Daryle Lamonica quarterbacking the defending champions, Buffalo controlled the ball almost throughout the first two quarters, gaining 176 yards and holding the Jets to 17.

Lamonica threw two touchdown passes to Charlie Ferguson and his aerials helped set up two field goals by Pete Gogolak.

T.F. Faces Grid Year With Five Veterans

There are only five returning lettermen — only two on the starting offensive unit. The size and speed is found almost entirely in the junior class. A new formation, the "Twin Falls T" which will include eight difference sets, must be learned. And there is a new coach in Merl Eden. All in all, it sums up to a rebuilding year for the Twin Falls Bruins.

Coach Eden, a Shoshone native and five-year assistant here, takes over the reins from Paul Oslyn with the school at a five-year low, on paper at least. But there is a saving grace. "This is a scrappy bunch of kids. I guess you'd have to call them workhorses. They plug along all the way and they'll make any team run over them. They won't lay down," says coach Eden. "You can go back and check out this senior class has always won. I don't know how. On paper they've never been big or fast, but they've never quit. Attitude and spirit the first two days has been great. And they're all coachable."

In his "blue" or first practice unit, which right now would be the starting team, coach Eden has five juniors, three of them in the backfield. He hopes some of the juniors, coming off last year's once-beaten sophomore squad, can hold those positions as it will allow him to use some of the seniors on defense.

The lettermen include quarterbacks Gary Rasmussen and Terry Ruhter, who probably will go strictly defense. Terry McCandless, 5-10 and 188 pounds, returns at fullback but his ability to back the line defensively has coach Eden hoping junior Ken Johnson, 6-1, 170, can keep him out of the offensive backfield. The lone returning halfback is 5-7, 172-pound Don Dunn.

Wally Hedrick, a 6-1, 195-pound senior, appears the cream of the team and will probably go both ways, guard offensively and linebacker on defense.

Currently, the first unit runs halfback Dick Johnson, 5-10, 155, and John Warner, 5-8, 151, both juniors; Ken Johnson at fullback and Rasmussen at quarterback.

Then ends are senior Russ Sheen, 5-10, 147, and Scott Swope, 6-0, 176, a junior with a lot of promise. Dave Spencer, slated as a starter until a shoulder injury put him out for the entire season last year, returns at tackle at 6-1 and 190 pounds while junior Chris Thompson, 6-1, 200 pounds, fills the other spot. Guards are Hedrick and Ken Louder, 5-10, 166, both seniors. Bruce Sterneke, a 5-10, 154-pound senior, holds down the center spot.

The second unit backfield also is dominated by juniors with Dave Turner, 145, and Doug Flint, 157, at halfbacks, and Dave McCollum, 176, at quarterback. McCandless is listed as the fullback.

In the line are ends, Gary Stimpson, 175, and Grant Simmonds, 150, tackles, Mike Heinrich, 175, and junior Flint Carpenter, 188, guards, Mike Wilding, 165, and Ken Haught, 161, and center, Bill Van Engelen, 177.

In all, coach Eden and his staff suited up 100 boys, including 31 seniors, 27 juniors and 42 sophomores.

The change for fans will be the T formation, which coach Eden calls the "Twin Falls T" because it has everything in it but the "I". And we might try that, just to give the other teams a chance to see them all.

"Defense is the key to the year," he continued. "If we can hold the other teams respectably, we might show up pretty well."

"Paperwise, I can honestly say that we should be battling Pocatello for the bottom spot," he said, looking at the Southern Idaho conference. "But overall, I feel this will be the weakest the SIC has been since I came to Twin Falls. I feel good about the spirit and hustle and scrappiness of the boys. If they hold it all year, our juniors will get more experience and we could surprise somebody in the second half of the schedule."

Rookie Pro Grabs Midpoint Lead of Carling Tourney

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Homero Blancas, a 27-year-old rookie pro tourist from Houston, stormed into a one-stroke lead with a four-under-par 67 and a 133 total Saturday at the halfway mark of the $200,000 Carling World Golf Tournament. The former University of Houston star, who insists he never has taken a lesson from a golf pro, took over from the first place as Mike Souchak, the opening day leader with a 63, settled for a 71 and dropped into a tie for second with Jim Ferree and Joe Campbell, the cigar-smoking comeback player.

U.S. Swimmers Break Record In Dual Meet

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — American swimmers staged a mass attack on world swimming records as the climax of a two-day dual meet against Great Britain Saturday and succeeded in each of three attempts.

At the close of the two-day meet, in which the United States drubbed the British 166-84, the American successfully staged three special attempts to break world records. One other world record was broken in regular competition earlier Saturday and one fell Friday in a special event, giving the Americans five in all.

Mary Ellen Olcese, a 14-year-old Philadelphia girl, started Saturday when she won the women's 440-yard individual medley in 5:25.1.

That broke the world record of 5:30.0 set by Donna deVarona of Santa Clara, Calif., at Redding, Calif., in 1962.

On Friday, Patty Caretto, another 14-year-old, broke the 1,650-yard freestyle record with 18:51.1 in a special event.

Then at the end of the official competition came the big splash that set a capacity crowd of 2,500 wild.

A U.S. men's team went after the 440-yard freestyle record and broke it with a time of 3:41.7. Before the spectators regained their breath, Claudia Kolb, 15, of Santa Clara, Calif., broke the women's record for the 220-yard individual medley with 2:33.9. Finally Sue Pitt, 17, of Highland Park, N.J., went after the women's 220-yard butterfly record and took it with 2:31.9.

With the help of a 95-foot putt Ferree added a 70 to his 69 the 13th green, which he managed to get on after driving into trees and then hitting his second shot into the rough.

"It was the longest putt I've ever made — ever — have seen or even heard of," he said. "I couldn't even see the hole."

Sam Snead, the 53-year-old veteran, posted a 68, the day's second lowest score and moved into a four-way tie for fifth place.

Deadlocked at 140 with Snead were U.S. Open champion Gary Player of South Africa, Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., and Miller Barber of Pecan Valley, Tex.

Arnold Palmer, one stroke off the lead after the first lead, slumped to a 73 and a 142 total as he three-putted three greens.

Jack Nicklaus, the 1965 top money winner, had a 73, one stroke better than his first round.

Idaho Duck Cutback Is Less Than Other Flyways

BOISE (AP)—Duck hunters will be shooting less this year on a nationwide gamble that they'll be enjoying the hunting more later.

Bag limits have been dropped around the country by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in an attempt to build up more duck production on the Canadian prairies that supply the hunters.

The duck production around Saskatchewan and Alberta has been on bad times, said James Johnson of the Federal Wildlife Service in Boise. The water supply there decreased and duck production dropped.

This year there is plenty of water in Canada, Johnson said, but the duck broods are too low to take advantage of it.

The continent-wide plan, he said, is to get more ducks back to Canada next spring after their migration to Mexico so they can cover the abundant water and compound their production in future years.

Johnson believes the hunting will be good again by next year.

The price for the plan—the Idaho duck hunter at least—will be a reduction of two ducks a day in his bag.

"We're very fortunate on the Pacific Flyway compared to some of the others," said Glenn Stanger of Idaho Falls, chairman of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission. "Our bag limits aren't much lower than they were before."

Stanger's commission set the bag limits for the state at a meeting in Boise Friday.

Idaho has 25,000 to 30,000 duck hunters judging from the stamps sold, said Johnson, and at least two major hunting areas on the Pacific flyway.

One is near American Falls in the Southeast and another on Lake Lowell, southwest of Boise, where the ducks stop on their way to Mexico.

Johnson said the Pacific flight is down this year, but only slightly.

The hunters cannot be unanimously happy about any cut in their bag limits but most were expected to take the cut in stride.

"Some seasons are up and some seasons are down," said one, who would not be quoted by name. "What's the problem?"

Angels Salvage Series Finale Against Cowboys; Cubs Move in Tonight

Lefty Don Gafford stymied the Magic Valley Cowboys on two hits and fanned 14 Saturday night as Idaho Falls salvaged the finale of a four-game Pioneer League series. The Cowboys now host the Treasure Valley Cubs in a four-game set beginning at 8 p.m. Sunday to conclude the home season. Gafford gave up a line drive single to leadoff man Don De Sousa and then quieted the Cowboys easily until Jim Vincent bounced a grounder up the middle in the eighth. An error gave the Cowboys their only run in the first inning, but they couldn't score again—not even when the Angels made three errors in the fifth inning.

Cassia-Doka Feature Is Won by Sigmuss

BURLEY — Sigmuss, bottled by Avery and owned by Dale Shelby, won the Cassia-Doka Quarterhorse Futurity and the $645 purse that went with it as the Cassia County pari-mutuel racing session wound up its four-day run Saturday. Sigmuss covered the 220 yards in 12:81 and teamed up with Mr. Nothing Bar, ridden by McClintock and saddled by Harvey Wight, for a $15.00 quinella. For the four-day session the crowd was about 5,000 and the total handle approximately $55,000. Both figures were off last year but much of this was due to the rain that marred Wednesday's opening.

Patrick, Vincent Lead Cowboy Data

Billy Patrick and Gene Vincent hold Pioneer League statistical leads with three weeks to go, according to data released today by league statistician William J. Weiss. Patrick is the earned-run-average leader with a 2.38 mark. Four other men are ahead of him but have not completed the minimum of 48 innings to qualify. One of them is Cowboy Jerry Jackson, who has a 1.76 for 41 innings. Vincent, the Cowboys' one-man gang, is tied with Gary Cortopassi, Treasure Valley, in runs batted in with 36—and the five also is well in front with 24 stolen bases. Jack Hedrick tops the circuit in gopher balls, having given up 12 home runs. The leading hitter on the club, based on games through last Monday, is Noel Finley at .338. Vincent has .291, Ron Crossmiller .290 and Chris Arnold .286.

Twins Stop Angel Rally For 4-2 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tony Oliva knocked in two runs and reliever Al Worthington choked off a bases-loaded threat in the eighth inning as American League-leading Minnesota defeated the Los Angeles Angels 4-2 Saturday night. Oliva, with a single and a run-scoring fly, and Zoilo Versalles, with two singles, combined to wreck Angel right-hander Fred Newman, 11-11, who suffered his fourth straight loss. The Twins broke a scoreless tie after Versalles and Sandy Valdespino opened the sixth inning with singles to start a three-run rally. Oliva and Earl Battey each knocked in a run with singles and another run scored on second baseman Bobby Knoop's throwing error. Minnesota added an insurance run against Jim Coates in the eighth when Versalles singled, stole second and eventually scored on Oliva's sacrifice fly. Leadoff singles by Albie Pearson and Jim Fregosi drove Jim Merritt, 3-1, from the mound in the eighth with the Twins leading, 4-1. Worthington walked Joe Adcock to load the bases, but Jose Cardenal and Knoop both popped up and pinch hitter Willie Smith struck out.

Changed Management Announced

Magic Valley Cowboys management announced today that a family night, whereby the entire clan gets in for one dollar, will be used Wednesday to mark the end of the home Pioneer League season. Previously the day has been declared a free night with no admission charge. Officials said the change was necessary due to a rainout Wednesday that prevented the Casper, Wyo., drill team from performing. The team, currently performing in Portland, will march Wednesday while returning to their home from the contest.

Chicago Nips A's 7-6 in 11th Inning

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Al Weis' two-out, run-scoring single in the 11th inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 7-6 victory over Kansas City and their eighth straight triumph Saturday night. Don Buford singled off Lew Krausse with one out in the 11th and moved to third as Tom McCraw singled one out later. Weis then drilled a single to left for the winning run. The Athletics erupted for three runs and a 6-8 tie in the ninth inning. There was only one hit in the inning, but there also were two hit batsmen, two wild pitches, a walk and a passed ball.

Mets Score 6-2 Victory Over Cards

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets rushed in three first inning runs, then rallied behind Jack Fisher and held off the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2 Saturday. The victory snapped a four-game losing string for the 10th place Mets, who are their second in 13 starts against St. Louis, and only their third in 18 games. It also allowed them to escape, for the moment, another dismal record. They are tied with the 1938-41 Phillies for the most losses over a four-year period, 425. One more loss and the record is theirs alone. Fisher, the Mets' top winner at 8-16, spaced eight hits about as well as he could, and staked to the three-run burst in the first,

Pitching Lets Dodgers Tip Caldwell 3-0

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP) — The Pocatello Dodgers scored three runs in the second inning on a hit, a bunt and an error Saturday night to shut out the Pioneer League leading Treasure Valley Cubs 3-0. The Dodgers' Jim Strickland held the Cubs to two hits with no Cub getting past second base. Strickland struck out 10 batters and walked one. John Wyatt drove in one Dodger run with a double. Strickland squeezed in one with a bunt and the third scored on an error by second baseman Bob Rossi.

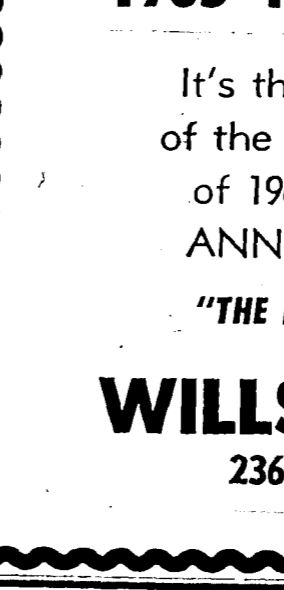

All three runs were off losing pitcher Craig Glasco. Ray Newman relieved Glasco in the fourth and kept the Dodgers away from the plate for the rest of the game.

Robert Hurl Astros Over Chicago 9-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Robin Roberts' shutout string came to an end Saturday and the rejuvenated 38-year-old right-hander had enough to pitch the Houston Astros to a 9-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Roberts, who blanked Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in his other two starts since returning to the National League this month, ran his string of scoreless innings to 24 before the Cubs scored two runs in the seventh. # Waterfowl Season, Limit Reduced; Six-Week Pheasant Hunt Approved

BOISE (AP) — Game bird hunting seasons, bag limits and special regulations were set by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission Friday in a day-long session. The commission also removed fox from the furbearing animal category and set seasons and regulations for trapping of furbearing animals. Idaho duck and goose seasons will be shorter this year due to a continuing scarcity of most species and more inflexible regulations, the commission said.

New Bonding Law Defeats Its Own Purpose, Writer Says

Editor, Times-News:
A new law, the Idaho Private Contractors License Act, was passed by the legislature this year and went into effect Aug. 15, 1965. This law requires the licensing and bonding of all contractors in Idaho.

This may be a good idea, but the law is written in such a way that bonding companies will issue very few bonds. A cash bond of $1,000 can be put up, but how many average people can do this?

It has been stated that this law will eliminate 40 per cent of small contractors. Many people are prone to take the complacent attitude, "This doesn't affect me. Why should I worry?"

But stop and think about what will happen if hundreds, or possibly thousands of people are put out of work.

A Governor Smylie stated that the law could be revised by a special session of the legislature which is to be called sometime after Oct. 12. But what are families of contractors going to do until then if their husbands can't work? Who will pay our bills and buy our food and medicine?

The new law itself states that the construction industry is vital to the economy of the state. But what will happen to the economy of the state if all the contractors cannot work at their own professions and are unable to find other jobs. In reality, hasn't this particular law defeated its own purpose?

Slower Vehicles Not Entire Cause of Mishaps, Man Says

Editor, Times-News:
In reply to the comment made in the public forum about slow-moving vehicles and farm machinery.

True, a fatality did occur in which a car and a hay chopper were involved. The car and implement were traveling in the same direction, away from the sun, therefore, visibility would be at its best.

The car struck the hay chopper and broke a six-inch axle. This would infer that the car wasn't exactly parked.

As far as flagging combines and other slow moving vehicles—they are required by Idaho state law. Also, restrictions are applied to the hours of travel. If motorists can't see farm implements, may I ask how are they going to see a red flag?

I might point out to Mr. Quale that this is a farming community. Persons involved in such work as to require the use of slow-moving implements pay more road tax and gas tax than the city slickers that seem to think that these vehicles are slowing them down.

I agree that something should be done. But why make more restrictions on individuals who are trying to make a living with these slow-moving implements.

I think that the asinine individuals driving automobiles at a high rate of speed should look ahead and sudden stops and accidents would be avoided.

Drive to Fight, Change New License Law Is Urged

Editor, Times-News:
It seems the people of Idaho know the private contractors are fighting the state, but don't understand the cause or eventual results that will come.

The legislature passed a bill this year, effective on Aug. 15, that all Idaho contractors must purchase a license and thus you must be bonded. Punishment (first offense) is $300 and/or six months in jail for working without such.

We do not object to the license but the bond must be within reason. Few of us have $1,000 cash to use or the $10,000 to $15,000 backing needed to get such a bond.

Who is to say the cost of both won't be higher next year?

This, therefore, will put several thousand men out of work and everyone shall suffer. Where is our right-to-work law?

There are few enough jobs in the winter without this raise in unemployment.

The retail merchants, insurance companies, realtors, bankers, not to mention the others whose services we use each day will lose business. Families will have to cut to the barest essentials.

Who is to feed and clothe our children? Surely the welfare and such doesn't want this job. Also, how many people will leave Idaho to seek jobs?

This new law will affect each and every one of us, contractor or not. Our lawyers lead us to believe we have every chance to change this law.

Therefore let's get out and fight this thing together. Now is the time.

MRS. JOHN J. HECK
(Twin Falls)

Economy Threatened by New Bonding Law, Woman Avers

Editor, Times-News:
I am writing regarding the new private contractors licensing and bonding law that went into effect on Aug. 15. It is not that the fellows object to being licensed, it's just that they want a law they can work with.

On this one, the way it is written, 95 per cent of them cannot obtain the bond the state requires, due to the way it is written. If it is allowed to stand, 40 per cent to 80 per cent of the small contractors will be eliminated.

When you stop to think that there are approximately 10,000 small contractors in the state and about 500 in the Magic Valley alone, the repercussions hit everyone.

First of all, throw approximately 450 men out of work, in our valley alone, and what happens? First to feel it besides the men and their families, will be the entertainment field, fund drives and restaurants.

As money gets shorter, following will be newspaper subscription cancellations, telephone turnoffs, insurance dropage, real estate sales, retail buying in the form of autos, furniture, clothes, gas and groceries, non-payment of doctor and druggist bills and numerous other fields besides the men involved.

The Magic Valley is an area where one depends on the other to survive. Can we allow all this to happen? Will you, the public, support our families and pay our bills? Of course not, and we don't expect you to.

I am the wife of one of these men. You tell me, what do we do now?

Almost any small contractor has a copy of this bill if one cares to read it.

Negro Riots Planned by Communists, Writer Avers

Editor, Times-News:
The growing unrest among the Civil Rights Movement, properly called the Negro Revolution Movement, is mounting rapidly and on schedule. The growing agitation and riots and bitterness and insidious steps has the appearance of a civil war. This is not the case at all.

The movement has not been infiltrated by the Communists as the attempts are made to have you believe. The Communists have deliberately and wholly created this, stage by stage with careful planning.

Anyone that will take time out of their complacency and lethargic attitude and read the history of Communism. They have not hidden one intent or failed to carry out every promise to dominate the world. They have many formulas promulgated to carry forward their intent. The one used today is called the "legal-illegality formula." They are fully capable of paralyzing a whole area within hours.

A communist publication copyrighted in 1928 explains fully their purpose and intent. Quote: "The struggle against white oppression of the Negro masses is a part of the proletarian revolution in America against capitalism."

The language could not be simpler. Any means justifies the ends.

The riots in Los Angeles and Chicago are mild examples of what is to come. The Communists have California as a prime target for the first Soviet State in America. This statement comes from a counter-spy who spent 26 years inside the Communist party; who also says he has shook the hand of comrade Walter Reuther as a comrade. Karl Prussion's testimony is available in volume three of his hearing before a Congressional committee.

Another note worthy of not overlooking is Martin Luther King's trip to North Viet Nam to talk with Ho Chi Minh. American Civil Rights has migrated to Viet Nam? Hardly. Also, King's trip to Los Angeles in a few days? For what purpose? Possibly to re-ignite the riots. What else?

Man Compares Negro Rioting To Cannibalism

Editor, Times-News:
Well, we really have something gigantic this time. The gigantic spectacle of the hand (the city) that feeds them, being not only bit, but destroyed — Los Angeles.

Doesn't this prove to us that this welfare mollycoddling is, as Paul Harvey said, just cannibalism.

There in Los Angeles were, and still are, thousands living off those that will not earn their living and we see in the destruction of over $175 million worth of property that they very definitely can earn their way and jobs are crying to be filled that they won't take. They should starve if they won't work. The same all over the world.

Success of New College Assured Even Before Initial Classes Start

Few, indeed, are the dreams of man which are assured of success even before they start, but the College of Southern Idaho is an outstanding exception to this general rule.

With opening only a few days away, an initial student body of between 350 and 400 students is assured and records show that scores of the nation's largest halls of learning started their life with far less than this number.

Outstanding, too, is the faculty of the academic division of the institution. Not one faculty member has less than a master's degree and four hold their doctorates. Degree-wise, it is the best-staffed school in the state and if Dr. James L. Taylor, president, has anything to say about it, it will stay that way during the years ahead.

Of special interest to many is the vocational school which, without a doubt, will develop into one of the best of its kind in Idaho. Here technical-vocational education is designed to provide the individual with the skills needed to become employable in a technical field or to improve the proficiencies of those already employed.

Until the new college gains a campus of its own, the academic classes will be held in the Twin Falls High School with sessions starting at 3:30 p.m. and continuing until 10:30 p.m. on a five-day week basis.

Vocational classes will be housed in a modern structure at 1300 Kimberly Road which was acquired by the college. An adequate parking lot adjoins this building.

Courses there will include automotive body repair, automotive mechanics, distributive education which includes merchandising, marketing and management; radio and television technology and welding technology. Most of these courses will be for two years, although some may be completed in one year. Theoretical and practical instruction will be taught concurrently. For a brand new two-year school the academic courses available to students are considered very outstanding.

The catalog, for instance, lists available fields of study which include letters and science, education, pre-professional business, office administration, secretarial, pre-nursing, pre-dental, pre-nursing, general agriculture, forestry, pre-law, earth science—to name a few.

Provision is even made for special students, like persons of mature age who wish to study in a certain field but who do not care to receive credits for that study or to necessarily graduate.

Dr. Taylor points out that the College of Southern Idaho represents years of effort by the citizens of Twin Falls county and the Magic Valley to provide higher education opportunities for all those who can profit by it.

The 1965 state legislature created six college districts in Idaho. The College of Southern Idaho. Continued on Page 38

DR. JAMES L. TAYLOR, president of the College of Southern Idaho, steals a moment from a busy schedule to dream of the first graduate and someday a school campus. The energetic and dynamic college head is optimistic concerning the future of the school. Academic classes will be taught late afternoons and evenings at the high school to start, but Dr. Taylor is convinced that this situation will only be temporary because of the acceptance of the project. A vocational branch of the college will be conducted in a modern building on Kimberly Road. (Times-News montage by O. A. (Gus) Kelker)

Population Explosion Overflows Elba During Ottley Clan Reunion

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

ELBA — For an iron-bound Presbyterian who never knew his first cousin it was a revelation and really something of a shock.

Here, in a town which is listed as having five residents on official state automobile maps, there were more than 400 people, and 365 were relatives.

Cause of the population explosion was the annual reunion of the Ottley family. They were there from near and far and in all sizes, shapes and ages.

There were so many of them that some were asking just which relatives were which. Some had never seen each other, so it was a natural question to ask.

But the strange thing was that many of the 400 took this writer for a relative of sorts, and wanted to know just what branch of the family he came from.

It all goes to prove that people are people and all pretty much alike even if they are not relatives.

Mormon family reunions are really nothing new, but they still are unique because there are probably more people in this country who hide from relatives than who invite them.

This gathering also was unique for a couple of more reasons. One was that it celebrated the centennial anniversary of Frederick Hugh Ottley, who settled in the Elba area about 80 years ago. Another was that Mr. Ottley and his wife were the parents of nine children — all born in Elba — and all of them were present for the reunion.

There was another unique feature, too! These nine children were hosts for the anniversary meeting and picked up the tab. As one of them said, "Sure it put a crimp in our pocketbook, but then it happens only once every hundred years."

The food consumption was on the order of an army which travels on its stomach. Taking "care" of the food were 390 for the luncheon session the first day of the reunion, 250 for the breakfast and 150 for lunch on Sunday.

Just to make it interesting, about 500 individuals, all told, were served punch and cookies.

Want to know what that many relatives can consume? Here is the way it went:

There were 420 eggs, scrambled; 30 pounds of butter were consumed and there were eight gallons of pancake batter and four gallons of syrup. Milk came to a whopping 15 gallons and link sausage tipped the scales at 45 pounds.

There were 15 loaves of sandwich bread and 30 dozen rolls, in addition to five gallons of pickles, four gallons of olives, four bottles of catsup, 64 pies, one large birthday cake, about five normal-sized

FINAL CONSTRUCTION of the backstop at Victory school in Filer is accomplished by Dick Shelton, left, assisted by Charles Crawford Jr., as Mrs. J. C. Steelsmith, Jay-C-Ette member, offers encouragement. The project is a joint effort of the Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes. They used money raised from operating a concession stand at ballgames and with a great deal of the material and all the labor donated, have completed the backstop which would have cost more than $200 if purchased. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A backstop at the ball diamond in the Victory School yard at FILER had been a longfelt need. Balls from Little League and other ballgames were being lost, and there was always the possibility of one hitting a house or breaking a window of a house neighboring the school. Passers-by and spectators at the games were not safe from the danger of being hit by a ball. So the Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes, two community-minded organizations, recently decided to do something about the need. With money received from operating a concession stand at the ball games, and with a great deal of the material and all of the labor donated, they have installed a backstop at the school which would have cost more than $200 if purchased outright.

The pipe used in construction of the backstop was donated by the Acme Machine Works, and cement and lumber by the Sheridan Building Supply. Charles Crawford Jr. is chairman of the building project. He is also membership chairman of the Jaycees. Mrs. Gilbert Chandler is Jay-C-Ette president.

The two groups work closely with the Summer Recreation Organization which directs the baseball and softball games as well as other summer sports. Many of their members belong to both organizations. Dick Shelton, Jaycee treasurer, is vice chairman of the Summer Recreation Organization, and Mrs. J. C. Steelsmith, state director of Jay-C-Ettes, is secretary-treasurer.

All of the Little League and T-League baseball games are played on this diamond as well as the softball games for both boys and girls. Local merchants sponsor the teams and games are played every evening with practices taking place during the daytime.

A concession stand is operated at the school by members of the Jay-C-Ettes. Last year's proceeds went toward the backstop and those of this year will go toward another community project.

If you drive past the country home of Mrs. Fanny Tanner, DEULO, and see a large bird roosting on the high lines of a power pole, don't think you are seeing things, because chances are it is just one of her 14 peacocks.

fullest during mating season, will lose most of its feathers and brilliance during the summer months, but as sure as springtime follows winter, the grand peacock will be strutting and displaying his charms to the watching females.

Collection of sales tax and resulting receipts has caused a number of changes in all stores, but few have the unusual reminder made by Mrs. John Lemmon of Lemmon's Hardware, RICHFIELD.

Needing for a holder of the receipts, she rummaged around in the store basement where stock has been kept since the store was founded in 1908 by her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lemmon of Richfield. She came up with five unsold white dust pans.

One was painted and labeled appropriately enough to attract attention and cause much comment. The other dust pans were placed on display.

Idaho's austere state auditor lost his reserve recently while in the store to give instruction on proper handling of collected sales tax. Acting as though he might not be welcome the official unexpectedly observed the tax receipt container and let out a loud guffaw.

Mrs. Lemmon has received several requests to purchase the dust pans but is getting too much fun out of them.

"Indifference Breeds Disappointment"

KEITH R. MAXWELL, Pastor First United Brethren in Christ Church

It is said of the philosopher, Immanuel Kant, that because he believed so strongly in his "categorical imperative" he would pass by and let a child drown if he had promised to meet someone at a certain time. If his rescuing the child would make him late for his appointment, he would walk indifferently by, unaffected that he could prevent such a Rev. K. R. Maxwell death. Although such a philosophy might be an idealistic pattern governing one's actions, there is little doubt in my mind but that Mr. Kant would have found himself experiencing regret and disappointment if such a situation would have ever arisen in his life and that through his indifference a life was lost.

Yet, seemingly, people go through life today with a very similar approach to life. Not long ago a woman drowned in Dayton, Ohio, because individuals did not want to get involved. The race problem in America has developed to its present proportions of riot and bloodshed, because American whites have tried to remain indifferent to it and unaffected by the injustices being done to those of another skin color.

Indifference breeds disappointment and tragedy. To live, furthermore, with no concern for spiritual matters will ultimately reap its fruit in tragedy for eternity. The experiences of life and Scripture illustrate the ways in which indifference or apathy end in regret.

Notice that the first way is by procrastination, for putting off is merely a way by which men express indifference.

How many homes have experienced family arguments because a father or husband continually put off fixing something that needed repair? Or how many couples have ended their lives together in divorce because a wife continually procrastinated in cleaning up the home? Men begin to look around when the home isn't a pleasant place to spend an evening, psychologists and marriage counselors insist.

Men also too often procrastinate doing anything about their relationship with God. The apostle Paul warned the Corinthian Christians and all men everywhere: "Behold, now is the acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation."

Christian they know has failed in being the Christian that he should have been. The logic fails, however, when the rest of their lives are examined. Although such an individual will boycott Christ because of an insincere or misinformed Christian, he will continually take his car to a station that advertises that a mechanic is on duty—and he knows very well that the attendant is not a trained mechanic! To which you can both worship

"boycott" Christ, regardless of the situation, is to invite judgment upon oneself, for each one is responsible before God and no one will answer for another. Paul warned the world and every individual that "we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each one may receive good or evil, according to what he has done in the body." (II Cor. 5:10). To procrastinate, neglect, or "boycott" Christ is to reap the fruit of tragedy and disappointment in eternity. Why not pre-empt such an end to your life by even now making a decision for Him and by finding a church to which you can both worship

God and the Lord Jesus Christ and serve them and the Church in days or years to come?

GEORGE ABRAHAM

PHLOX TROUBLES: Now's the time for that grayish-white pest to appear on leaves of phlox. This kills the foliage, causing it to turn brown and dry up.

Is there a control? Yes, remove and burn all tops in fall. Then the disease first appears, dust the plants with dusting sulfur, or use karathane (mildex). There are several strains of phlox which are mildew-resistant (not immune) and you can resort to these. Don't expect them to be completely free of the powdery mildew, because to date, is 100 per cent immune.

CLEMATIS AGAIN: Home owners who have planted this handsome vine tell us that it doesn't make fast growth. Why don't they grow faster? Hot dry weather will cause the vines to remain static, but if they are green, that's a good sign because it takes a couple years for them to become established. Keep the vine watered and mulched with peat to a depth of two inches or so to keep the roots cool. Clematis likes water in hot, dry weather. If you keep yours watered you'll get more flowers next year.

Keep the plant supported, otherwise it will not thrive. You can set new plants in fall or spring, but if winters are rough, wait until spring. In planting, set the clematis with the crown (point where the roots branch) about two inches below soil level.

SCORCHED LEAVES: Various ornamental trees are now exhibiting scorched foliage, and some are even falling early. This is called leaf scorch and is due to strong sunshine, high temperatures, drying winds. The scorched leaves will wilt, turn common chickweed, mouse-ear ed chickweed, thyme-leaved speedwell, ground ivy or gill-over-the-ground, all of these have small leaves and are not easily killed.

Dandelions and plantain will be no problem if 2-4D type of weedkiller is used. If you have lots of chickweed, use a material commonly called silvex, found in all garden centers. For creeping buttercup and ground ivy and thyme-leaved speedwell, it's doubtful if there is any weedkiller that is really effective.

The best control for these is the hardest—handpulling. Now's a good time (if there is such a time) to pull out these weeds before they seed. Grass will tend to fill in the bare spot left by the weed. One gardener tells me she cut the legs off a three-legged stool and sits on it while weeding a lawn or garden. It's a lot easier to sit and weed than it is to kneel over and do the job.

MELON TRICK: A reader writes: "If you place a piece of plastic under each melon (or other fruits that touch the ground) prevents a yellow space on the skin. Works fine on squash, cucumber, tomatoes and other vegetables." Another writes: "A plastic bag placed over Brussels sprouts plant outdoors saved lots of good sprouts for spring."

INDOOR PLANTERS: When you set out items such as philodendrons, snake plants, Chinese Evergreens, Boxwood and other foliage plants, should you remove them from the flower pots, or set in pots and all? The trend today is to leave them in their pots and plant pot and all. The object is to keep plants alive and in good condition, and yet avoid fast growth.

A good way to do this is to plant the pot and all in your planter. Place one-half inch of gravel or pieces of broken pots on the bottom of a decorative container, then place the potted plant inside this. Leave about one-half inch space between the pots you set inside, and pack the space between with peatmoss. To water, all you do is moisten the peatmoss to keep it from becoming dry and dusty. Apply liquid plant food three or four times a year. Another trick is to set a pot of foliage plant on top of an empty inverted clay pot to vary the height of your plants. Peat moss will cover the empty pot.

WATCH OUT FOR SUCKERS: Notice tall, vigorous shoots growing from the base of your towering crabs, almonds and other fruits or ornamentals? These are called "suckers" and should be cut out. If you don't, they'll soon crowd out the plant you want to bear and soon you'll have a wild bush. Sucker growth is common on all budded and grafted stock and you shouldn't have any trouble spotting it. Leaves are different in size and texture, canes are tall, ungainly, and often thorny, often growing up through the middle of the plant.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: G. L. of Mountain Home: "For the past five years we've had trouble getting tomatoes to set. This year we took your suggestion and applied chemical blossom set. It worked great, caused tomatoes to ripen three weeks earlier and the fruits have very little seed. But the tomatoes were very acid and I'm wondering if it was due to the chemical used to cause the blossoms to set. Some day you should have an article on why tomatoes fail to set fruit."

The chemical hormone spray you applied had nothing to do with the sourness (acidity) of the tomatoes. It was probably the variety. Some are more sour than others and it's likely you grew a sour type. The chemical you used has the ability to set tomatoes when night temperatures are below 59 degrees. Low night temperature has a great effect on tomato fruit set, probably by preventing the pollen from functioning or forming.

Lack of female flowers (or male) is not a problem with tomatoes, since each flower has both elements. Tomatoes are self-pollinating and do not rely heavily on insects for doing the job. With cucumbers it's different. These produce male

By FRANK SCHELL

The silver dollar has always been a coin which was saved by collectors and non-collectors alike. Something about the feel of the big, honest cartwheel caused the average person to keep a few around, if only to jingle in the pocket. When the present shortage of dollars developed, everyone kept a few back, just in case. Consequently, they have all now ceased to circulate, and there is very little chance that they will ever again be a medium of exchange.

The only possibility was buried when Congress decided that the mint should not strike the silver dollars authorized under President Kennedy's administration. Shortage of silver bullion, which has caused the change in our coinage to the cupro-nickel we will soon be getting, precludes the possibility of the mint again striking the dollar, although legally, there has been no attempt by congress to change the metal content.

If you have a small hoard of silver dollars, and are waiting for them to become very valuable, there are a few things to take into consideration—that is, the factors which govern the value of any coin.

First importance is the condition. The only dollars (except the very scarce mintages) which are commanding very much of a premium, are those termed in the collecting fraternity as "Brilliant Uncirculated," a term denoting a brand new coin which has never been in circulation. The only way this condition can be determined is by the use of a magnifying glass. Many coins look new until they are viewed under a glass, when wear on the high points of the coin become very apparent.

The feathers on the breast of the eagle show the first signs of wear on a Morgan dollar—issued between 1878 and 1921.

These dollars (called Morgan after the designer's name) and the "Peace" dollars, issued from 1921 to 1935, comprise the bulk of the coins familiar to most of the public. No silver dollars have been struck since 1935.

Quoting from current selling prices (buyers' prices not available) we can roughly lump the coinage into the following groups:

Rare coins—meaning only a few specimens — which include the dates 1878-CC, 1889-CC, 1892-S, 1893-CC, 1893-S, 1894-P, 1895-O, 1895-S, 1903-S, 1904-S, 1928-P, and the 1934-S. (The letter following the date designates the mint mark, stamped at the mint of origin. CC — Carson City, Nev., S — San Francisco, Calif., O — New Orleans, La., and P — Philadelphia, although the letter "P" does not appear as Philadelphia has never used a letter of designation.)

All of the above coins are selling at a hundred dollars apiece, or over, in brilliant uncirculated condition. The rarest of the above being the 1893-S, which brings close to a thousand dollars a copy.

One other dollar deserves mention here. It is the 1895 Morgan dollar, struck in Philadelphia (no mint mark) and made only in proof (not for general circulation) and it commands about three thousand dollars—so if you have one, rush out to the nearest dealer.

Since space does not permit printing all dates and values, specific coins you might be interested in you can list and upon receipt of such a list, we will be glad to give you as much information as we can on your coins.

Suffice it to say that a great many of the Morgan and Peace varieties are selling at from two to four dollars, and the chances are great that the ones you are saving are in that category. Scarcity only, makes high prices, and a great many of the coins are minted in excess of 10 million pieces.

Since very few of them have been retired, there are still a great many of the common dates around. The great fear, of course, of the coin collecting groups, is that the government of the United States will cease to peg the price of silver. If this should happen, the silver content of the dollar will be worth more than face value of the coin, and the silver hoarders who have accumulated millions of dollars worth of the big coin, will melt them down and sell them for bullion, since there is not, at present, any law which makes it illegal to do so.

Next week we'll go into the shortage of quarters and 50-cent pieces and explain the reasons. (All inquiries on coins or currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho.)

FEW ONE-ROOM SCHOOLS
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — There will be five one-room schools in Georgia this fall compared with 3,422 in 1930. All five are in remote areas and state officials say there are no plans to eliminate them.

Chance for Cancer Cure Vastly Better Than 25 Years Ago; New Progress Slow

NEW YORK (AP) — If cancer should strike, just what are the chances of being cured? The answer is that the chances are vastly better than 25 years ago, but not much better than ten years ago, for most cases of cancer, a frank look at the cure rates shows.

And most authorities expect the improvement until more effective drugs are found, or the progress is made in detecting cancers early, or preventing them in the first place.

"Cure" means a person is living with no signs of disease five years or longer after it had first been treated.

In 1940, one in five patients was cured.

Now, one in three is cured, the American Cancer Society estimates.

But that rate has been holding fairly steady.

Earlier detection usually costs chances of cure, for then cancer is more likely to be localized, more likely to be totally removed, or destroyed by surgery, radiation, or drugs.

Your chances depend also on the type of cancer, where it is located, whether it is slow or fast-growing.

Hard and fast figures on average chances for cure are hard to come by. The main reason is that in more than half of the states, doctors and hospitals don't report the fact that a patient has cancer and is being treated for it or report the results.

The main figures by which to measure cure rates come from a few states which for years have had cancer registries. All new cases of cancer are reported, as well as treatments, and what happens to these patients one to many years later.

One such yardstick comes from combined figures from three state registries, plus a number of hospitals across the United States.

In order to indicate the most recent trends — rather than waiting five years of time — this analysis uses three-year survival rates from the time treatment started.

For cancer of almost every site, says this analysis by the National Cancer Institute, the three-year survival rate was higher for people getting cancer in 1955-59 than during 1940-49.

The greatest improvement occurred in the years up to 1955, but since then, except for cancer of a few sites, there seems to have been relatively little percentage:

Cancer type	1940-44	1950-54	1955-59
Stomach	9	15	15
Colon (men)	24	44	49
Colon (women)	31	48	53
Bladder	46	57	58
Lung (men)	3	7	9
Lung (women)	7	13	12
Skin (men)	90	92	91
except melanoma or black cancer
Breast (women)	63	68	68
Pancreas	3	3	3
Cervix (invasive)	49	64	63

Of all major cancers, other figures show, the greatest gain has come in preventing deaths from cancer of the cervix and of the uterus — with death rates down by about half since 25 years ago.

This is credited mainly to early detection, through "pap" smears and examinations, and improved treatments. But here also the rate of life-saving has not been increasing lately. It is estimated that only half of the women in the United States have ever had the smear test that determines, simply and painlessly, whether any cancer cells are being sloughed off from the uterus.

For reasons totally unknown, cancer of the stomach is not so common now as 20 years ago. The cure rate, when this cancer does occur, is up slightly in the last 20 years.

Acute leukemia still is fatal, but now 80 per cent of the victims win remissions or temporary reprieves with drugs.

These last for months and in some cases for two or three years. A very few youngsters have gone far longer.

For cancer of the breast, little progress has been made in 10 years in boosting chances of cure.

Skin cancer is most highly curable — your chances being four out of five for cure — and one reason is you can begin to suspect pretty early that something is wrong and have it treated.

What all the figures, from various yardsticks, say is this: Excluding skin cancer, your over-all chances of whipping cancer are about one in three.

This is a general average. Some cancers with good prospects of cure, such as cancer of the cervix, rectum and colon, are fairly common. And some cancers with poor prospect of cure, such as cancer of the stomach or pancreas, are not very frequent.

Lung cancer is alarmingly on the rise, and the chances of cure are pretty grim so far.

Grim, also, are figures showing that more Americans, in total numbers, are dying from cancers than 25 or even 10 years ago.

A principal reason is that there are millions more of us now than a generation or so ago. And more Americans are living to middle age or beyond, the years in which people become more susceptible to cancers in various sites.

In 1964, the cancer death toll was 290,000. More men are dying each year now from cancer than women.

This year, it is estimated 550,000 Americans will be diagnosed as having cancer. Thousands will join the ranks of the 1,300,000 who have won their battles in the past and are still alive.

The American Cancer Society says half of these victims could be saved or cured, if their cancers were detected early enough and if they received the best available treatments.

These are large "ifs."

There are no easy tests yet to spot most small, early cancers hidden inside the body, in the stomach, lungs, pancreas, liver or other sites.

Population Explosion Overflows Elba During Reunion of Ottley Relatives

Other food consumed included 300 pounds of beef, 200 pounds of punch, 120 dozen cookies, 20 gallons of ice cream, 20 dozen ears of corn, 40 heads of lettuce, four lugs of tomatoes, two lugs of cucumbers, 30 bunches of radishes and a dozen green peppers.

Just in case you are still not convinced that the relatives came hungry, you can add 10 bunches of celery, lots of salad dressing, five large bowls of salad, three gallons of baked beans and five pounds of cheese.

Oh, yes, there were also six heads of red cabbage, and 40 packages of jello went into the making of the salads.

Just to be sure people who have never attended family reunions do not get the idea that all people do is eat, this writer hastens to add a few more facts picked up during his stay there.

The first day started with a parade which featured horse-drawn vehicles, the likes of which many of the youngsters — and some grownups too — had never seen in their lifetime.

Many of the visitors and relatives were in costume for this event, which ended with buggy rides being given to those seeking them.

Registration preceded the parade, of course, and before that was over there were 360 relatives who had inked their names on the official records of the Ottley record book and at least another 40 or 50 people who could be termed as visitors.

After the lunch a "pee-wee rodeo" was staged, with the children whooping it up while both verticle — before they climbed aboard the calves — and horizontal after their ride was completed.

A program followed, and after some more food the "camp" in the Elba park consisting of 48 campers and tents and 89 cars became quiet for the night.

The second day, after breakfast, the church service started.

Toward late afternoon the usually sparsely-traveled highway was crowded with people heading back home.

Where was back home? Well, that included such places as Idaho, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Illinois, Alaska, Switzerland, Pakistan and South Viet Nam — to name a few.

Fred H. Ottley and his wife, Abigail Lewis, are buried in the cemetery which is located on a rise near the town. They were married Nov. 8, 1893. He was born March 24, 1865 in Essex, England, and arrived in Salt Lake City on Oct. 6, 1877. He first saw the Elba country in April, 1885.

At the end of 1885 he estimated his property to be worth $315, which was a gain of $13 over the previous year. In 1889 he bought his first land near Elba, and it cost him $1,000 for 120 acres with a good water right. He worked for $20 a month to pay for it.

His wife died on May 22, 1952, and he died Sept. 1, 1957. The nine children born to

SCORES OF RELATIVES crowd toward the registration tables as the Ottley family reunion gets under way at Elba. The normally sleepy pioneer community was a bustling community as more than 400 people arrived for the reunion. Registration was conducted by Mrs. Lawrence (Thurza) Brunson, Missouri, Mont., a former resident of Twin Falls. The reunion sessions were spread over a two-day period. (Times-News photo)

the union—all still living and all present at the centennial anniversary for their parents, are Mrs. Teggie Krause, Portland; Mrs. Oliver Haroldson, Idaho Falls; Lewis Ottley and Ewart Ottley, both Elba; Mrs. Ira K. Hall, Mackay; Fred E. Ottley, Clearfield, Utah; Mrs. William F. Hall, Twin Falls; Henry Ottley, Oakley, and Mrs. Alfred Shaw, Pakistan.

The list of "helpers" for the event is a long, involved one. One thing is sure and that is that Ewart Ottley was one of the powers behind the reunion and Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, Oakley, cooked the beef.

If anyone wonders why there were not clouds and clouds of dust in town because of the activities of that many people, lose no sleep by worrying.

Jim Wood, Burley, and the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. took care of the dust. Wood drove the water wagon which the sugar company provided and the dust was settled long before the parade started.

Today the hustle and bustle of Elba has returned to the more normal role of a somewhat sleepy village with past history a yard long.

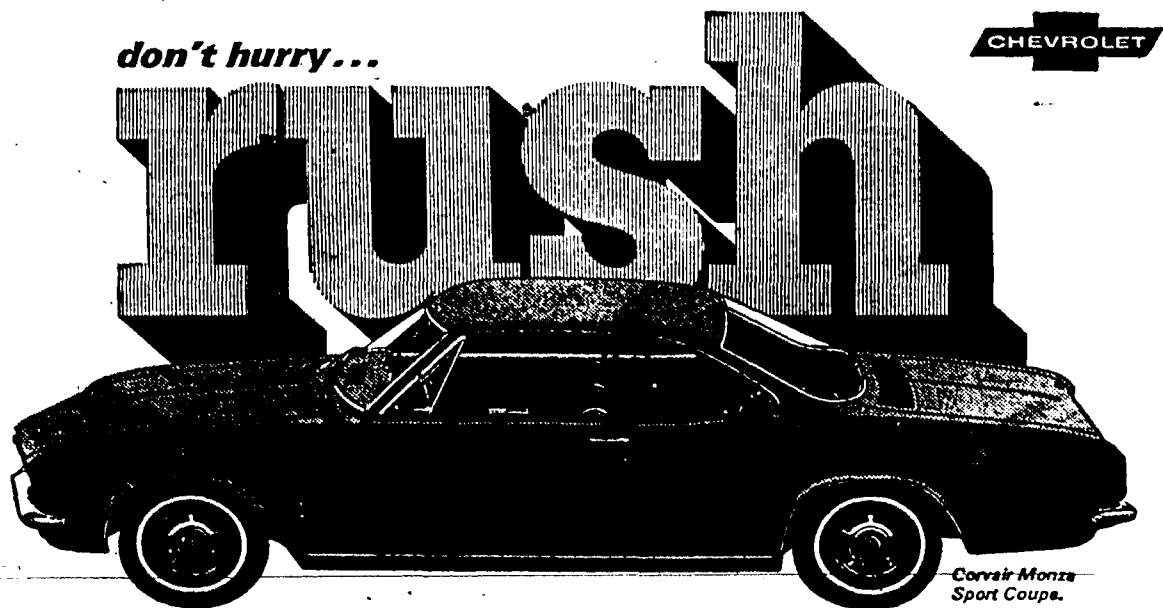

The nearly 400 Ottleys are back home and out of the community. There are still three of the Fred H. Ottley offspring residing here. They were among the nine born here and they say they will stay here—forever!

Anybody with a diagnosis of heart disorder should consult his doctor before going afield. All types of hunting are hard physical activity and pre-season conditioning, in addition to being a good safety factor, makes the trip more enjoyable. Gyp, the dog at left, is the color of liver rather than black, and both are are Shorthairs. Tac is on the right. ## MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . . High School Athletic Director Cites Contact Sports as Benefit to Living

One of the biggest things in life is to learn how to get up after you have been knocked down.

That's the opinion of Merl E. Eden, new athletic director of Twin Falls High School.

For this reason, Eden is convinced that football—and other body contact sports—are worth their weight in gold and give the participants training which will carry them through an active adult life.

MERL E. EDEN

He came to the Twin Falls school system in 1960 to teach U.S. history and coach sophomore football. Since 1931 he has been assistant varsity football and track coach and has been head wrestling coach. He succeeds Paul Ostyn as athletic director and will also step into the job as head football coach.

Concerning the need for body contact sports, the new director declared that when the student gets out into adult life he finds much of the early protection he received is gone. As a result he is on his own and must take the hard knocks as they come.

"If you live long enough you will get all the knocks," Eden laughed, "and you had better know how to get up when you are knocked over. Athletics shows the student that getting up and starting out again can really be an accomplishment which comes as sort of a second nature."

At the local high school varsity sports run the entire school year with intramural sports being confined mostly to the winter season and centering on basketball.

Eden will be directing athletics practically in his backyard. He was born in Gooding on Sept. 3, 1933, the youngest of five children. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Eden, still reside there. His father is a retired farmer. His two sisters are Mrs. Ruth Ricks, Shoshone, and Mrs. Beth Cooper, Boise. His brother Dale lives in Hailey and Jack is in Montana.

Eden takes over the athletic directorship at the high school with what amounts to a new setup. The new stadium behind the high school complex is completed and the football field and track oval enclosed in it are ready for use.

Also in use for the first time this fall are enlarged dressing room facilities and a new wrestling room.

"We have top facilities and we have boys who want to play on top teams," the athletic manager said. "I think we will be able to give a yes answer to both, and right now we are anxious to get going."

Eden was then located northwest of Shoshone. He completed grade school in Gooding and then switched to the Shoshone schools, where he graduated from high school in 1952.

In high school he was student body president and a delegate to Idaho Boys' State. He played varsity basketball, baseball and football.

He was honored by being named in "Who's Who in United States High School Athletics." He was honored again by being granted the coveted American Legion Citizenship Award on graduation.

Following high school he went to Boise Junior College, where he played first string defensive back and quarterback on the football team. In his second year of competition he was named to the first all-conference team.

Following graduation at Boise he served for two years in the U.S. Army at Ft. Ord, Calif. He received an honorable discharge with the rank of sergeant in February, 1956.

Following army service he enrolled at Idaho State College (now Idaho State University) and played football at that school. He was graduated with a B.A. degree in physical education and history.

He is married to the former Marsha Adkins, also a graduate of the Pocatello university. They have four children — Amy, 6; Peggy, 5; Julie, 3, and Mark, 1. The family home is at 386 Borah Ave. W.

Eden and his family are active members of the First Baptist Church. His wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Adkins, reside at Shoshone.

During the summer months between 1956 and 1964 he worked with the Bureau of Land Management at Shoshone as a supervisor of fire crews.

"Throughout my adult life I have enjoyed working with young people," Eden said. "I am very happy of the opportunity to continue an even closer association with them as athletic director at the local high school."

"It not only gives me the opportunity to share my knowledge with them but it also enables me to learn from them. And, sometimes you learn plenty."

Blisters, Sprains, Bruises Will Dog Idaho Fishermen, Hunters This Fall

BOISE—This fall upwards of 60,000 hunters will take to the hills, woods, fields and mountains in pursuit of a cornucopia supply of upland game birds, migratory waterfowl and trophy animals of many species.

Other thousands of fishermen will be on the state's 35,000 miles of rivers and streams, and many of the 2,000 lakes in the high country, until the close of the general trout season Oct. 11.

All of them will have fun, but many will find their joys diluted by blisters, bruises and assorted sprains and contusions.

Today's mechanized society has people of much of the physical labors which keep muscles and body coordination in good condition.

The sudden switch from every desk and farm routines to the chase is bound to result in some discomfort.

A small amount of conditioning adds measurably to the pleasures of field and stream, of rod and gun.

Dove shooting starts Sept. 1, the earliest hunting in the state except for cottontail rabbit beginning on the same date. These are not rated as man-killing sports, although good hand-eye coordination is essential for success, especially when the quarry is an unguided missile called dove.

Four days later, on Sept. 4, the earliest hunts on mountain goats and bighorn sheep begin. Unless nimrods have strong hearts, good wind and are overflowing with stamina, success may elude them on the tortuous crags.

Dr. Lowell Bakes, Boise dentist, usually hunts the massive curls of the bighorns, and the ebony, rapier sharp, curved horns of mountain goat even though residual damage from a dislocated knee gives his quarry a sharp edge in the competition.

What most of his friends do not know is the disciplined rigors Dr. Bakes undergoes for several weeks in late summer before venturing out for even a chukar partridge hunt.

Otherwise, he climbs and descends backwards over precipitous places. He is stocked with suggestions for limbering and toughening muscles that bear the brunt of a day's hunt.

Hunting exercise mostly is walking. Dr. Bakes, therefore, recommends getting oxygen on the hoof above all other pre-hunt conditioning activities.

His idea is two or three miles daily for at least two weeks before safari time, increasing the distance to at least four miles a day toward the end of the stint. Walking—without a purpose can be a bore.

Dr. Bakes advises substituting shank's mare for short trips which usually are made in the family car—to the store, to and from work, and on the many small errands required by routine living.

Chukar hunting can be as hard on man and beast as going for big game. Rover, the same as all kennel dogs, gets soft from easy living, too. Dr. Bakes says he takes his two shorthairs out for hardening exercise and refresher training about three times a week the month before he puts them before the gun.

This prevents their feet from blistering and the pads from becoming raw when they go to work. He also trims their claws (or has it done by a veterinarian) to keep them from cracking and splitting on the rocky outcroppings of Owyhee County and other rugged chukar terrain.

Dogs also are good company and help relieve their master's boredom on his walks. Dr. Bakes suggests that the hiker begin in easy stages and add gradually to the distance and speed. He should be clipping off three or four miles without strain within two or three weeks, with head high and arms swinging.

Walking is one of the most healthful yet least strenuous of exercises. It can hardly be overdone unless the countryside is folded steeply by hills and ravines.

Another item for consideration during hunting "warm up" exercises is wearing regular field boot or shoes the last week of conditioning the extra weight helps toughen muscle tone. It also shows up poor fits, creases or other weaknesses in the foot gear that can spoil a trip.

All this is doubly important, of course, for the man who invests in a new pair of boots. They must be worn regularly ahead of time to allow for gradual breaking in and later comfort.

A few flights of stairs daily will bring muscles into play that are seldom used. Such climbing removes the surprise element from the first hill encountered later on a hunt. Hills don't get steeper every year, as hunters often maintain. Muscles merely get softer as time slips away.

As with walking, begin climbing gradually—a leisurely flight of steps or two a day. Then add steps and speed of climbing until five or six flights no longer bring on porpoise-like blowing.

For overweight individuals, slack off on the groceries. Shedding even a few pounds will add noticeably to endurance in the field. The combination of reduced poundage and increased vigor may achieve prime condition for the first time in years, thus multiplying the pleasures of hunting which can be taken easily in stride.

Certain refinements to walking and climbing condition a man or woman in less time. Exercises involving the motions of Russian Cossack dancers are not difficult when broken down into separate parts, yet highly effective for toughening heavy upper leg muscles that ordinarily do not get much workout.

Dr. Bakes describes these as "squat and jump" routines. He goes down on his haunches with one leg extended, with knee locked and foot off the floor. The supporting leg slowly raises his body, then lowers it into position for a shift of position with the extended leg taking over and doing the work. There are several variations of this exercise, all of them good.

The following suggestions, prepared by the Idaho Heart Association, are valuable tips for all hunters with or without cardiac symptoms:

—Dress for the climate both day and night. Clothing should

- be light but warm.
- Now simple first aid rules.
- Be moderate in eating, drinking and physical exertion.
- Drive safely, taking turns at the wheel with other members of the party.
- Drinking does not mix with driving or hunting. At high altitudes, the effects of alcohol are more apparent than usual.
- The following is most important for hunters with heart conditions:
- Tell at least one member of the party about the condition, medicine used, etc.
- Plan to get some rest (preferably a night's sleep) before hunting.
- Don't hunt alone.
- Use time and energy efficiently by planning hunting strategy before starting out.
- Consider the return trip to camp before going too far afield.
- To save energy, take a stand near camp and wait for game. Let others flush. The man who stays close to camp is just as important in the hunting party as the roving members.
- Bringing game back to camp after killing it is hard work. Sensible hunters share the burden. Heart patients should arrange for someone else to bring in the carcass.

Not everyone is in good enough physical condition to tolerate the exertion of hunting, especially at high altitudes. With a doctor's approval and by following common-sense rules by the cardiac and other party members, trouble can be avoided and hunting can be one of the great pleasures in life. Without proper care, it can be disastrous.

In Idaho, as in most other states, more hunting deaths and casualties are caused by heart attacks than by gunshot wounds.

Organoleptic Analyst Is Whisky Key LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Dan Knopf leaned over the sink, wiggled his mouth—and let fly with about one ounce of bourbon and water.

After all, Knopf is one of the best organoleptic analysts in the business. And he knows that $200,000 worth of bourbon is riding on that spit.

Other than those restrictions, a chemist-taster can do almost anything: chew gum, wear perfume or after shave lotion, smoke—preferably only in the afternoon— or eat, but not highly seasoned foods.

Knopf said it takes two years to learn the "chamber of horrors" which can crop up in whisky.

In addition to tuitions and fees, the college is supported by revenue from the Junior College District, the State of Idaho and the federal government. The college is advised and directed by a five-member board of trustees which is comprised of area residents.

credits will be recognized by any institution in or out of the state. The subject structure will be at the same standard as that taught in the first two years of any other state institution. The college will maintain loan funds available under the National Defense Education Act for loans to students of superior promise and demonstrated financial need.

All full-time students of the school are automatically participants in the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Health Care Plan providing coverage from the beginning to the end of each semester. An in-service workshop for faculty will be held on Monday and pre-registration counseling will be at the administration building, at the rear of the old hospital building, Thursday and Friday. Freshman orientation will be at 8 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 30, at the high school. Registration is Tuesday, Aug. 31, and classes start at 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The second semester classes will start on Jan. 17, 1966, with registration prior to that date and summer classes will get under way on Tuesday, May 31, 1966.

"With such a good start the college cannot help but develop into an outstanding junior college and when the day comes that we have a campus of our own, with on-campus living facilities and all that goes to make-up college-life, it will be a red-letter day for Magic Valley," Dr. Taylor said.

Captain EASY

by LESLIE TRUBER

DUNBAR, ALL OF US GET A TRIFLE GREEDY FOR MONEY AT TIMES, BUT YOU'VE GONE OVERBOARD!

FRANK, YOU MUST SURRENDER TO THE POLICE!

AND SPEND THE REST OF MY LIFE IN PRISON?

I COULD RETURN THE BANK'S MONEY, BUT I'D STILL HAVE TO FACE A MORE SERIOUS CHARGE!

EASY AND LINDA HAVE FOUND EX-BANKER FRANK DUNBAR, ON A TINY ISLAND A MILE OFFSHORE FROM POINT CEDAR...

FRANK, HAVE YOU NO SENTIMENT? YOU PROPOSED TO ME HERE, A YEAR AGO!

OUR ENGAGEMENT LASTED ONLY AS LONG AS A FOAMY WAVE ON THE BEACH!

THAT'S BECAUSE LINDA DISCOVERED YOU WERE AN INCURABLE GAMBLER!

SENTIMENT HAS NO PLACE IN MY PLANS, NOW...

I STOLE $74,000 FROM MY BANK TO PAY OFF A GAMBLING DEBT... THEN, I DECIDED TO KEEP THE MONEY AND DISPOSE OF THE GAMBLER...

I BURIED HIM BACK THERE, JUST A FEW MINUTES AGO!

THE POLICE THINK I WAS INSIDE THAT DEAD WHALE THE COAST GUARD BLEW UP...

NEITHER OF YOU WILL EVER TELL THEM DIFFERENTLY!

AT THIS INSTANT, EASY HEARS THE DRONE OF A MOTOR CRAFT AND DECIDES ON A DESPERATE BLUFF...

YOU DON'T THINK WE CAME HERE WITHOUT NOTIFYING THE POLICE, DO YOU?

THEY'RE COMING, NOW!

DUNBAR SENSES A RUSE, BUT CAN'T RESIST GLANCING OVER HIS SHOULDER

YOU'RE BLUFFING! THAT'S ONLY A FISHING B—

EASY THROWS A FLYING BLOCK...

CONTINUED.

HEY! THEY SURE DO HAVE A LOT OF STUFF FOR SALE!

AND I'LL BET YOUR MOTHER TRIES TO BUY MOST OF IT!

WE'LL PUT ALL THESE THINGS IN THE TRUNK, WILLIS!
