Fair Ends After Successful Run, Record Crowds

—The Twin Falls County Fair closed its gates Friday night on another successful run which set new records for daytime attendance and rodeo crowds. Rain, scattered the crowds on the first day, gave way to clearing skies and warm weather for the final three days. Saturday morning events in the 4-H department included a weed identification contest which named a Morrison winner in first year, Grace Rulter, second year, and Jan Rulter, third year. The new Tom Parks Memorial Building was the setting for the afternoon's presentation of special trophies and awards. Many 4-H leaders and members expressed their pleasure in the new building which provides plenty of seating space for spectators and a large stage for the awarding of trophies.

Warren Barry, fair board president, said Saturday night that total attendance for the four days was 54,375, compared to 52,892 last year.

Barry termed the fair a "treasure chest" and declared, "I received a 'tremendous' reception."

In the performance class at the Filer Wranglerettes horse show, there was a three-way tie for first, involving Harold and Sue FAIR, Page 2, Col. 6

Miss Idaho Awarded Sewing

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A 20-year-old Rhonda Preston, won the Miss Idaho award Saturday night as the first Miss American in the state most proficient in sewing and modeling.

Hammond drew mounted on Thursday night as master of ceremonies. She sewed through a display of dozen costumes she sewed and ending with a stunning evening dress.

A crowd of 18,000 cheered in the convention hall as master of ceremonies Bert Parks named Hammond as the winner of the school.

Hammond said she will now go to Utah State University where she is a sophomore.

She said the Miss American title was "fabulous, and it was a wonderful opportunity to be here, but what she wants is to someday be an Idaho housewife."

Provo Man to Head District Kiwanians

The 46th annual convention of the Utah-Idaho District, Kiwanis International, concluded here Saturday afternoon with the election of Denzil A. Brown, Provo, as 1966 district governor and the installation of new lieutenant governors. Brown was chosen as district governor during elections held at 2 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, with approximately 190 Kiwanis delegates casting their ballots. Brown will succeed John Hahn, Twin Falls, as governor beginning Jan. 1. Also elected Saturday afternoon were seven lieutenant governors to head the seven divisions of the Utah-Idaho District. Elected are Jack H. Swenson, Spanish Fork, Utah, Division 1; Leander Park, Salt Lake, Division 2; Alex Patterson, Roy, Utah, Division 3; Garph Ross, Alameda, Division 4; Wayne Lewis, Declo, Division 5; August Slade, Nampa, Division 6; and Arnold Ashurst, Fillmore, Utah, Division 7.

John A. Clawson, Pocatello, was reappointed as district secretary-treasurer by the newly elected officials.

The final day's activities began at 7 a.m. with a Legion of Honor breakfast at the Rogerston Motor Inn. Following the breakfast was a convention session, with Harold Watts, Ogden, district chairman of the Golden Anniversary committee, giving the committee report.

The report of the committee on recommendations for nominations was given by P. M. Mickelsen, chairman, Mickelsen, Seo KIWANIS, Page 2, Col. 8

9 Aquanauts To Get Some Fresh Air

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—Nine aquanauts in Sealab 2 checked out of their "Tilted Hilton" on the ocean floor Sunday for a 205-foot, 36-hour trip back to sunshine and fresh air.

The men have lived and worked below the ocean's surface since Aug. 28. Their ascent marks the end of the first phase of the Navy's most ambitious underwater living project.

While the trip to the surface is expected to take only about 30 minutes, the aquanauts will go directly into a decompression chamber for a slow return to sea-level pressure. This will take about 36 hours, officials said.

Sunday's schedule also calls for the descent of the second group of nine divers to the 125-foot steel capsule.

The aquanauts have nicknamed the capsule the "Tilted Hilton."

Death Toll Rises, Damages Soar in Wake of Hurricane

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The full tragedy of Hurricane Betsy unfolded grimly Saturday as the death toll rose past 50 victims and damages soared into uncounted millions. Some authorities feared 500 to 200 lives may have been lost in New Orleans alone. At President Johnson's command, Army and Navy forces joined weary, weary Louisiana rescue squads in a desperate struggle to find and care for survivors of Betsy's onslaught.

A massive armada of boats worked in the area of gravest concern—along the Mississippi River and in an industrial canal east of New Orleans. A suburb of more than 3,000 homes was ravaged by flood waters from a broken levee.

The on-ship waters were a burial ground for men, women and children who failed to scramble fast enough to safety on roof tops and in trees early Friday when Betsy roared in from the Gulf with 150 mile an hour winds.

Louisiana already counted 28 dead, most of them victims of flooding in New Orleans.

"We'll catch hell on Monday and Tuesday," said Dr. Nicholas Chetta, the Orleans Parish (County) coroner.

"At the rate we're going, the death toll will run between 150 and 200 persons," said Chetta.

The death toll, first believed low, rose rapidly as rescue boats pushed through the flooded areas. Chetta said bodies were spotted but not brought in at once. "The boat operators are mainly worried about the living right now, and rightly so," he said.

He explained that rescue teams in boats cruising the flooded areas can only tie up floating bodies to trees, rooftops and posts for recovery later after the living have been evacuated.

Only now, nearly 48 hours after Betsy swept past, did the magnitude of the disaster begin to emerge.

The mass evacuation of more than 100,000 persons is under way. See HURRICANE, Pg. 2, Col. 4

Wagon Days Draws Crowds in Ketchum

KETCHUM—Sunny skies and a beautiful day were in order for Saturday's Wagon Days activities at Ketchum. According to Ed Stricker, president of Wagon Days, more than 3,500 persons were in attendance for the three-day event, now in its final day. Saturday's events began with a two-mile-long parade at 11 a.m., was led by the late George Venable's black mare, Suzie. Mr. Venable was co-founder of the Wagon Days Celebration and parade marshal for seven years until his recent death. His son, William Venable, led his horse through the parade. Also in the procession were a band of Shoshoni Indians depicted by the Papoose Club of Ketchum and the Twin Falls Boy Scout Order of the Arrow; Jim Hipson dressed as a trapper, Leo Polly as a prospector with a burro, and a prairie schooner with a team.

Ed Williams followed with a pack string of nine mules. Then came a spot car driven by Bob Glenn and a log puller and an old-fashioned wagon dating to 1880. Dale Shelby drove a covered wagon used at the Albion School many years ago.

There also was a stagecoach from the old Ketchum-Salmon River Line. Steve Kronovich drove a dray from Mackay and it was followed by the famous ore wagons of the late Horace C. Lewis.

The ore wagons were once part of his 30-odd outfits used in the Ketchum area in the old mining days.

Also in the parade were a low drag used by Sam Thompson in See CREDIT, Page 2, Col. 8

Kansas Girl Crowned as Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Deborah Bryant, a brown-haired beauty from Kansas, was named Miss America of 1966 Saturday night.

Miss Bryant, a 20-year-old Christian College beauty who will enter Kansas University as a junior for this fall, won a semi-final preliminary in the pageant. She weighs 115 pounds and measures 36-23-36, and is 19 years old.

Deborah, who wants to become a pediatrician because of her love for children, hopes to enter Kansas University Medical School after graduation.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hurley D. Bryant of Overland Park, Kan. In her spare time she writes fiction, swims and water skis.

Miss Kansas received a bouquet of pink roses and a robe was placed on her. Then she burst into tears, but regained her composure and began her stroll down the center aisle.

Runners-up in the contest, in order, were: Miss Mississippi, Patricia Puckett, 20, Columbus; Miss Indiana, Eileen Smith, 18, Indianapolis; Miss Florida, Carol Blum, 21, Miami Beach; Miss Wisconsin, Sharon Singstock, 20, Oshkosh; and Miss Nebraska, Debra DeWitt, 20, Omaha.

As Deborah walked down the aisle she threw a kiss to the television audience.

The large crowd in the hall gave her a standing ovation.

She was joined on the stage by her mother. Her father could not be with her because he is in Viet Nam, working as a civilian engineer.

Asked whether she wanted to say anything to her subjects, Miss America replied, "No, they're not subjects. They're dear friends."

Peruvian Army Hits Guerrillas

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Peruvian Army Rangers moved into a leftist guerrilla stronghold high in the Andes Saturday, destroying stores of explosives, food and other supplies, an Army communique said.

The communique said the drive against the guerrilla redband, known as Mesa Pelada, about 400 miles east of Lima, was going according to plan.

Although Army officials declined to give an estimate of rebel strength, an announcement said five guerrillas were killed in a clash with government troops in the area Thursday night. The Army said no soldiers were lost in the fight but three died of exposure in a mountain blizzard.

Peruvian Army and Air Force units have been preparing for an assault on Mesa Pelada for two weeks, probing guerrilla defenses on the ground and with air surveys.

The communique indicated that the destruction of the stores was not a result of an attack on the main guerrilla force itself.

"Flying Horsemen" Land in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Major elements of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Air Mobile Division landed in South Viet Nam today while U.S. B52s pounded a suspected Viet Cong concentration just north of Saigon. Other American planes struck again in the Red-infested Mekong Delta. The division, employing new concepts of troop mobility, was created less than three months ago in an effort to fight the guerrillas with infantry and paratroopers entirely dependent on helicopters to carry them into the battle zone.

The 20,000 men of the "Flying Horsemen Division" began coming ashore from four aircraft carriers, six troop ships and 10 cargo ships standing off Qui Nhon on the South China Sea, 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

The airborne force was ordered to Viet Nam by President Johnson July 28 as part of the announced U.S. troop buildup here to 125,000 men.

Meanwhile, the Air Force's Guam-based Stratofortresses hit 20 miles north of Saigon. It was the 27th announced raid by the Strategic Air Command bombers of the anti-guerrilla war. The eight-engine planes struck the Ho Bo woods in Binh Duong Province, a target of one of their previous raids this month.

In the Mekong Delta, U.S. planes hit slightly west of targets they pounded Saturday 150 miles south of Saigon, in an effort to destroy a Viet Cong regional headquarters and trap as many as 2,000 guerrillas.

U.S. spokesmen described enemy losses as heavy. They said the planes hit again and again at canals used by the guerrillas and also destroyed several villages. The inhabitants of the area had been warned for weeks of the coming aerial assault, the spokesmen said.

Heavy rains and 30-mile-an-hour winds stalled a South Vietnamese ground effort to move against the guerrilla regiment after the air strikes began Saturday.

Blood Needed

The bloodmobile will be in Twin Falls from 2 to 6 p.m. Monday at the American Legion Hall and residents are asked to donate blood.

Appointments may be made by calling 733-6164 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

According to Jack Swisher, Twin Falls blood program chairman, the quota is 1 1/2 pints. The quota was missed by 44 pints at last drawing.

Gets Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze informed Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover Saturday that he has received a two-year extension of active duty by order of President Johnson.

The extension means Rickover will cover as overseer of the Navy's nuclear submarine developments. Otherwise, the 58-year-old admiral would have been retired early next week. He is now assured of a post until 1968.

Indian Dances Planned for Annual Boy Scout Banquet

The C. Abaret Internationnale Boy Scout Banquet, which will feature Barry C. Gonsky as emcee, also will have an outstanding entertainment program outside the state, Robert E. Ekins, president of the Twin Falls Area Council, announced Saturday.

Reginald Laubin and Gladys Laubin, dancers who portray the ancient dances of the American Indian which has won them international acclaim, will perform on the program Sept. 27 at the Blue Lakes Country Club.

The Laubins are the first to present authentic Indian dancing on a concert stage. They have spent much of their lives with Indians, absorbing the materials which make their dances such a success.

They have found inspiration in their dances mainly in the

They portray dances now forgotten by the Indians themselves, and are the connecting link with the past and the present.

Tickets for this program are available at the Scout Service Center. Master of ceremonies will be Jack Linkletter. The banquet helps support the Scouting program in this area.

Fish Biologist Promoted

SALMON — Don Corley, area fisheries biologist with the Idaho Fish and Game Department, has been promoted to regional fisheries biologist at Salmon.

Corley has served as a project biologist for two years and an area biologist for one and a half years. He has been with the department three and one-half years.

Before coming to Idaho, Corley worked for the Alaska Department of Fish and Game as a protection officer and for the California Department of Fish and Game as a fish culturist.

Corley has been stationed here the past three and one-half years.

Breathing Space

Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who has been working toward an extensive state park system for several years, hadn't had notable success in convincing Idahoans of the need. He is still speaking out in support of park plans and Idahoans should start paying more attention. Admittedly it's difficult to make a point when Idaho has so much unoccupied land and such a small population in relation to it. Quite simply, Idaho residents aren't worried yet about finding standing and breathing room in mountain areas.

But the handwriting is on the wall. Population is growing by leaps and bounds, more and more Americans have more and more leisure time and the big, open, unoccupied spaces are growing every year. In addition, non-residents have been showing a remarkable interest in Idaho income and vacation property in recent years. Californians have purchased extensive holdings and seem to have an endless amount of cash for Idaho purchases.

If anyone has doubts about what is happening to property in leading vacation areas, the area around Sun Valley will provide a good example. Just try purchasing property in or around Teton and you'll discover in a hurry that prices have skyrocketed. Then take a look at all the construction in the general area and you can't miss the fact there's a tremendous interest in the recreational opportunities—both winter and summer—in the vicinity of Sun Valley.

Many real estate men expect the Blaine County land boom is just a forerunner of what's to come. Some anticipate that when possibilities have been exhausted in the Wood River country, the quest for vacation or recreation properties will spill over to other sections of South Idaho. With throngs of outsiders looking for property in Idaho, it wouldn't take long to have buyers for all the available property that is privately owned. Along with the search for land, there would be increasing pressure to open new tracts of public land for construction of vacation homes.

But those who want to purchase property for vacation and/or recreation purposes constitute only a drop in the bucket when compared to the hordes of campers and trailer owners who can be expected to spend a few days or a couple of weeks. These are the tourists who will be demanding park facilities which are inadequate to accommodate even the present volume.

Governor Smylie, speaking at a Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce meeting the other day, put in another plug for his park plan. Specifically, he proposed a park system along the mountain ridge overlooking Boise and emphasized the need to provide park and recreation areas to meet the needs of a growing population. He said by the year 2020, Boise Valley will have as many residents as now reside in the entire state.

So far as the tourist business growth is concerned, Mr. Smylie said it was a $50 million business in 1934 and this year the tourist trade will be valued at around $175 million. Continued growth at that pace would bring enough pressure, but the pace will be increasing.

The governor contends that Idaho must take steps now to prepare for the recreational demands of the near future. He's absolutely right in trying to acquire breathing space while it's still available and before pressures of population grow any more.

IT'S CONTAGIOUS

Some 2,300 Post Office workers in Kansas City have been warned by the president and executive board of Local 67 of the Postal Clerks Union that they are getting a black eye because one per cent loaf and abuse sick leave privileges. In effect, a labor union official is warning the membership it's up to them to eliminate loafing and malingering. All associations of workers could benefit from the example.

It's no secret that loafing is a contagious matter. When one worker in an office or plant gets away with a maximum of loafing and a minimum of work, others are prone to follow the example. For those who want to work hard who are responsible and conscientious, the general result is quite demoralizing. Unfortunately, it's not plants nor offices that are loafing, it's the incentive for employees to police their own ranks. Sometimes everyone except the boss is well aware of the identity of loafers, but the boss may know only that the crew as a unit is not producing as he knows it should.

Although the Kansas City incident points out that everyone in a work force is apt to get a black eye because of a few loafers, it still doesn't come up with a solution for isolating and eliminating the malingers. Or maybe that's expecting too much.

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON—By now the United States has had enough experience with emerging "strong men" say that we should not be surprised by the Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore turns out to be some kind of a nut. He is already making the motions and saying the words.

In short, Lee is following the tried and true pattern in the Far East—the Sukarno and the Castro, which involves kicking Uncle Sam in the teeth in order to show the world he is not afraid of the big bad capitalist wolf. He has attacked the Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department, and the United States Navy. He has announced he will not permit the U.S. to share Singapore's awesome naval base should the British abandon it.

In effect the State Department has admitted the charge that in 1949 Uncle Sam offered Lee $3 million not to reveal that the CIA agent had been caught trying to get information from a Singapore intelligence officer. If those wild days, the CIA under the avuncular Allen Dulles frequently raised the hackles of friendly countries by its free-wheeling operations.

HIGH HUSH MONEY—But Lee's pious indignation over something by his admission that he informed Uncle Sam's representatives he would hush up the incident if the U.S. gave Singapore $30 million for economic development.

In his television discussion of the Singapore business with a clutch of British and American women, Lee also seemed slightly premature. There has been no official suggestion that the Americans want in on the base, although Washington surely is aware that we might be asked to pick up the tab for the operation if the British depart. Lee is satisfied in the position of the girl who rebuffs a proposition before it is made; he should wait until he's asked.

MOVIES TRANSPARENT—Yet Lee's motives are tediously transparent. Living in an area dominated by Communist China and harassed by the saber-rattling of the paranoiac Sukarno, he is constrained to display his aggressive independence of the western Colossus over big in the bondholders where the votes are, and seldom is an obstacle to obtaining a big chunk of foreign aid from the Colossus.

It is Lee's complaint that Americans don't understand Asians. After a press conference in Singapore in February, I was taken up to a teacher to be introduced to him and his comments were determinedly unhelpful. "I like Americans," he said, "they mean well, and they are good-hearted, but they don't know how to deal with Asians. Whenever they give us a dollar, they always want to take charge."

U.S. CHARITY WITHOUT STRINGS—This is a good and lachrymose complaint, and unfortunately a phony one. It is unfortunate because the history of American foreign aid largely is the history of an international charity whose administrators seldom have bothered to regulate its beneficence, let alone try to regulate its independence of the western Colossus. Really, I'm also quite surprised there hasn't been a big general windstorm to roll the beans all the way from the U.S. to the East.

Anyone have any idea why we get that sort of weather after beans have been cut? President Johnson promised the labor leaders to obtain repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor support in his 1964 election campaign. Repeal of 14-B fits well into the pattern of L.B.'s Great Society. That is a pattern of concentration of power in Washington and federal law and aggressive reduction of the power of local authorities, state and or municipal.

Senate Republicans and conservative Democrats will challenge the right-to-work issue of compulsory unionism. Senate Minority Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen promises prolonged educational debate, which is fancy talk for a filibuster. A filibuster can be educational, however, and perhaps Dirksen will be.

The Senate and all Americans, with special emphasis on the Americans who are Democrats and hold high political office, need education in the area of compulsory unionism. This need offers Dirksen and his associates a great opportunity.

Dirksen and his friends should explore the evidence that something has gone very sour in the labor movement. The source of the sourness is well hidden so that only the most delicate nostril can detect the odor. But it is there. The odor is strongest in the states of Georgia and North Carolina and around the U.S. Supreme Court where has taken place some preliminary exploration of what goes on under cover of compulsory unionism.

What goes on, of course, includes a great deal of politicking with money and manpower. The Corrupt Practices Act forbids union spending in connection with elections to federal office but not much attention is paid to that. The Supreme Court has held, however, that a captive member could demand a refund of that part of his dues as may have been spent for a political cause to which he objected.

Some employees of the Southern Railway and associated lines sued in Georgia courts nearly 15 years ago to prevent their union from spending their dues money against their wishes for political projects. There was a similar suit in North Carolina. The Supreme Court held that there must be a refund to the protesters. The process of determining what proportion of union revenue was devoted to politics and how much of a refund each protesting member was entitled to was a long and tedious process. The Supreme Court held that there must be a refund to the protesters. The process of determining what proportion of union revenue was devoted to politics and how much of a refund each protesting member was entitled to was a long and tedious process.

The end result of that was that the unions agreed to release protesting members from compulsory union membership requirements and from any dues liability. In effect, the unions accepted an open shop in preference to telling members and the public what they with the money collected from their membership.

The background and end result of these two landmark developments are little known to the public. Dirksen and his fellow filibusters could do worse than put the whole story on the record, which would be the reason that union officials chose to waive the requirements of compulsory unionism? The end may be an invalidation of compulsory unionism.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—In the lurid light of the spreading war between India and Pakistan the American policy of providing desperately poor countries with modern arms is seen in all its tragic consequences. The policy began with John Foster Dulles as Secretary of State in the wishful '50s.

But in one form or another the policy has continued down to the present. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara recently awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service Medal to the man who in effect the Pentagon's chief arms salesman. He is Henry J. CURS, Jr., deputy assistant secretary for international affairs. McNamara said in his citation:

"As an international negotiator he has assisted in a unique fashion to develop the military export sales program and other significant international logistic efforts."

Dulles labored under the illusion that Pakistan could be a bastion of anti-Communism in Asia and the Middle East. Enrolled in two dubious Dulles pacts, CENTO and SEATO, Pakistan began to get American arms aid that continuing down into 1965 has added up to an estimated $1.5 billion. These are the Patton and Sherman tanks and the F-104 jets being used against India. While the arms were free and even spare parts were furnished without charge, the maintenance of complex weapons in neglected countries is a severe drain on skilled manpower.

One of the first consequences of the Pakistan arms buildup was a shock wave of fear understood. For the Indians, that Pakistan's goal was Kashmir with its 77 per cent Moslem population. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had refused to allow a plebiscite in Kashmir and the frustration of the Pakistanis built up with their army and air force and their

The United States began a massive military aid effort in small arms and logistic material. But this was a betrayal of an ally in SEATO, in behalf of an enemy bent on war and conquest.

In New Delhi last November the Indian shopping list had grown. The Soviet Union was prepared to furnish not only the MiG but a plant to build them on long-term credit. There was talk of buying two submarines from the British and the pressure was growing to make a nuclear device and explode it as a threat that India's nuclear capacity was at least as great as China's.

At that point the Indian defense budget had climbed to $1.4 billion a year. Put alongside the $2 billion of the American defense budget this means a lot. But in a country struggling by democratic means to develop a modern industrial economy, with a food shortage eased only by massive shipment of American grain, it is a fearful drain on the national resources and foreign exchange.

Under the negotiations directed by Cuss, American arms are being sold currently on credit to 21 countries in addition to major sales to NATO powers. Of this total 15 are in the underdeveloped category in Latin America, the Middle East and Africa. Included are Chile, Brazil and Argentina, currently struggling to overcome economic crises. Another 26 countries get much smaller amounts, some mere maps or special equipment. Only the arms in the United States and pay cash on the barrelhead.

Religion In America

By LOUIS CASSELS (United Press International)

America's 45 million Catholics will be strongly represented at the first session of the Vatican Council, which opens in Rome Tuesday.

Most of the 252 American bishops will be on hand for the council's deliberations. They constitute the second largest national group, surpassed in voting power only by the Italian hierarchy.

Two American cardinals—Francis Spellman of New York and Lawrence Shehan of Baltimore—will serve on the council's presidency—a 12-member body which acts as a sort of steering committee.

Archbishop John J. Krol of Philadelphia will occupy a strategic administrative post as assistant secretary general. Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit and Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh are members of the important theological commission, which passes on doctrinal issues.

And 70 of the 430 "periti" (expert consultants), who do much of the actual drafting of council documents, are American scholars.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church, warns that Christian unity can never be achieved on the basis of a "watered-down Gospel."

Dr. Blake's original role of a church union proposal which is now under active discussion by the major Protestant denominations, said that "it is a common misunderstanding of the ecumenical movement to suppose that it would substitute some wishy-washy compromise for the apostolic faith of Jesus Christ."

GOOD PLAY GOT BAD RESULTS

The best players don't get the best results with every hand. Sometimes they make mistakes, because they are human. Other times they slip up on a low contract and a fortunate break of the cards reward over-bidders who have gone higher and sometimes the best play does not pan out in the maximum number of tricks.

Thus in the recent Brooklyn tournament most declarers arrived at four hearts although at a few tables South played at one heart only. The better players made five odd because they all played the hand so as to guarantee the contracts. This safety play consisted of ruffing the first club, cashing one high heart and then ruffing dummy with a second heart. This is the safe heart play. If the ace of spades is held by the right hand, West would win with his queen and either take his ace of diamonds right away or wait until later. That made no difference.

Vatican sources said they overplayed the safety play on several hands, five of them. They made mistakes and then lost West's queen of spades.

So as to forestall argument with many readers we refer to comment on whether or not the South hand is worth ruffing two bid opening. The reality of fact is that on all but one hand, an ace bid or two bid opening with this particular hand.

Decision Is Expected on Rivers Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether Idaho's Salmon and Clearwater rivers will be included in a proposed "Wild Rivers" bill is expected to be decided Monday.

The bill—designed to protect designated rivers in their natural state and prohibit dams, levees and other obstructions on them—will be re-drafted by the Senate Interior Committee, says Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, of the Senate's action on the bill.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, introduced the bill, and said it is making good progress but he did not speculate whether the bill would come before the Senate this session.

Strike Ends At Plant in Wisconsin

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP)—The Auto Workers Local 75 Saturday ratified an agreement ending its 21-day strike at American Motors Corp.

The firm said its production of "Rambler" automobiles will resume Monday.

No details were announced in the agreement, reached in a marathon 25-hour bargaining session that wound up only 2 1/2 hours before the local's scheduled membership meeting Saturday.

U.S. Pushes For Aerial Evacuation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is pushing Pakistan to permit aerial evacuation of about 1,500 American dependents there.

State Department officials said a second and stronger request was delivered Friday after an earlier request from U.S. Ambassador Walter C. McCaughy had brought no results.

U.S. planes to provide the lift were waiting at Tehran, Iran, Bangkok, Thailand and Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

Officials to Teach About Drink Evils

BOISE (AP)—A statewide program designed to impress proper people with the legal dangers of drinking begins Monday—with no preaching on the evils of drink.

The program has nothing to do with moral or physiological aspects of drinking, said Warner Mills, state liquor law enforcement director.

"The purpose," he said, "is to instill an understanding of Idaho's beverage laws and the consequences to the individual that may result from breaking those laws."

No Funeral Slated for Cult Leader

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—There will be no funeral for Father Divine, Negro leader, who died Saturday.

Divine died Friday of a heart ailment at his palatial estate in suburban Gladwyn, which was an international headquarters for his religious movement—Father Divine's "Peoples Temple."

Divine said the body would not be cremated, but the manner of its disposal has not been decided upon.

James Danner Is Selected as 'Realtor of Year' for 1965

James R. Danner, salesman for Lynwood Realty, has been selected as "Realtor of the Year" for Twin Falls by members of the Twin Falls Board of Realtors.

According to George Haney, who was 1963 State Realtor of the Year, Danner was selected because of his outstanding work during the past year. Danner was judged on his realtor spirit, business accomplishments, his work on the local board, the State Board and the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

No-Strike Expected in N.Y. Schools

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be no strike this year by New York's 50,000 public school teachers, who enthusiastically accepted Friday a new two-year contract that will cost the city $66 million.

The settlement was worked out by a city mediation team and quickly approved by leaders of the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers. The federation's membership approved it by a 5-1 margin.

Railroad Is Being Sued In Pocatello

POCATELLO (AP)—A trial and other dates have been set for four suits against the Union Pacific Railroad involving flooding, accident and a former employee's personal injury.

Several Pocatello residents' $300,000 suit against the railroad was tentatively set for trial in January of February by U.S. District Court Judge Raymond McNichols.

The residents say flooding to their property in 1962 and 1963 was caused partly by a railroad track and dike. The railroad said the track and dike had nothing to do with the flooding.

A Dietrich widow's $300,000 suit against the railroad was set for jury trial Dec. 11. Mrs. Lois Dietrich asks damages for the death of her husband in a pick-up truck crash in 1961.

A similar suit by a Blackfoot widow, Mrs. Lillian T. Ellis, was set for Dec. 10. Her husband was killed in a truck-train crash in 1962. She asks $105,000 damages.

A former Union Pacific fireman, A. W. Prescott, is suing the railroad for $25,000 for a back injury he said resulted when he slipped on an oil spot Oct. 3. Jury trial was set for Oct. 11.

U.S. Pushes For Aerial Evacuation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is pushing Pakistan to permit aerial evacuation of about 1,500 American dependents there.

State Department officials said a second and stronger request was delivered Friday after an earlier request from U.S. Ambassador Walter C. McCaughy had brought no results.

U.S. planes to provide the lift were waiting at Tehran, Iran, Bangkok, Thailand and Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

U.S. officials theorized that difficulties in refueling the planes in Pakistan may be one reason for the delayed reply.

Another, they said, might be that Pakistan does not want to give the impression it cannot protect foreigners within its territory while it is battling Indian troops.

About 6,000 Americans are in Pakistan. McCaughy asked permission to evacuate only 900 from the Lahore area in west Pakistan and 600 from Dacca in East Pakistan.

Widespread Vote-Pending on Ore-Ida Merger

LA PORTE CITY, Iowa (AP)—Some of Benjamin Watson's business associates were scattered far and wide two weeks ago when a tornado tore through his farm near here.

He didn't know how far until Friday when he received a letter from Oscar Schaber of Kent, Ill., 130 miles east. Schaber said he found on his farm a $25 savings bond with Watson's name and address on it.

Nazi Party Making Bid In Campaign

HOHN, Germany (AP) — The Nazi and Communist parties are making a bid for their potential followers in the current election campaign.

Neither is given much chance of winning any parliamentary seats in the Sept. 19 balloting.

On the extreme right is the National Democratic party (NPD) — which is promoting a Germany-first policy.

It wants to halt Nazi war crimes trials, "Finally ending the lie of our exclusive war guilt."

The party claims "around 50,000 members" but government sources place their number at below 3,000.

The NPD and the DFU are on the list of all 10 West German states.

Contractors Licensing Act Blamed for Higher Prices

Editor, Times-News: The effects of the new Idaho Contractors Licensing Act have already been felt in our Magic Valley.

In Gooding, the Tuberculosis Hospital asked for bids on a shop to the hospital. Those in charge, who are knowledgeable about costs, prevailing prices, etc., carefully estimated the cost and appropriated $8,000 for the job.

The lowest bid, by Bestway Builders of Gooding, was for $11,000. What accounted for the higher costs? Principally because this licensing law eliminated a good deal of the competition.

Competition among subcontractors also was eliminated. This meant costs for the prime contractor (Bestway Builders) were higher than six months ago. Elimination of competition always results in higher costs.

One contractor quipped, "Emyle should have waited until he had the new penitentiary built before he got this licensing law passed, so he would have a place to put all the 20,000 self-employed contractors in the state who, according to this law, are outlawed on Sept. 15."

T.F. Teen-Ager Is Congratulated On Forum Letter

Editor, Times-News: Congratulations Lynn Sumnerfield. Your letter in last Sunday's Public Forum denoted true intelligence of the maturity of today's teen-agers. Your forthright letter is enlightening and informative and contains some good advice.

We adults have a bad habit of picking out the rotten apple and condemning the whole basket. We forget that for every bad apple there are thousands of good ones.

I feel the Public Forum would be a good place for many of our youth programs to be brought to light to let people like myself—become acquainted with what you are doing.

I am a little tired of hearing only the bad and would like to see more of the good, such as your group.

My personal thanks for your eye opener. With teen-agers like yourself coming up, our country can't be in too bad a shape.

RAY T. CRANDAL (Twin Falls)

ENROLLMENT DOWN
FAIRFIELD.—Carnas County Superintendent Harry Durrall states that the enrollment is down from last year. He states that there are 62 enrolled in the high school and that there were 65 students at the close of school in May. There are 153 enrolled in the grade school and there were 177 students at the close of school in May.

for the buyer—a principal of economics. Bestway Builders is one of the sponsors of this bill. Gooding is not alone; state agencies throughout the state are discovering that their estimates for construction work are lower than the lowest bids offered.

In Pocatello, the Idaho State University appropriated $27,000 for an aptitude mechanics shop (lowest bid), by Mitchell Construction Co., was for over $34,500.

School administrators throughout the state will discover that money they had planned to use for increasing teachers' salaries will have to be placed for higher construction and maintenance costs.

One contractor quipped, "Emyle should have waited until he had the new penitentiary built before he got this licensing law passed, so he would have a place to put all the 20,000 self-employed contractors in the state who, according to this law, are outlawed on Sept. 15."

Jerome Unit To Hear Boyd Lowe

JEROME.—The featured speaker Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the Jerome County Association for Retarded Children is Boyd Lowe, head of the guidance department for the Twin Falls School District. Lowe also does the testing and evaluating for the special education program in the Jerome schools.

This organization provides an Opportunity School for the severely retarded children in their area who are not eligible for the public school program. They have recently hired a new teacher for the present term, Mrs. Cecil Eganant. Jerome. The class consists of a morning session, from 9 to 11:30 a.m., where the students are taught fundamentals of learning, good citizenship, proper dress, hygiene, and handicrafts. The class is conducted this year in the educational annex of the Presbyterian Church.

Association members urge the public to attend this meeting and get first-hand information as to what is offered in the public school program for the retarded child and hear discussed the need for their organization. Mrs. Durrant will report on the first two weeks' work with the Opportunity Class.

Straw Burns on Hill City Farm

FAIRFIELD.—The Carnas County fire truck and a volunteer crew answered a call to Hill City just after noon on Thursday. A stack of old straw was on fire at the Lowell Ruby farm just southeast of Hill City. Quick action by neighbors controlled the fire and prevented it from burning an adjoining stack of alfalfa hay before the firemen arrived, according to Mrs. Ruby. She states that the fire was caused by her small son playing with matches, and dropped a lighted one in the straw.

Grange Hears Report on Medical Meet

EDEN — Ben Davis reported on the Red Cross Medical Self-Help meeting when members of the Eden Grange met Wednesday evening at the grange hall.

Davis said the Red Cross is attempting to hold a series of classes in both the east and west ends of Jerome County if enough interest is shown. They have asked that a committee from every organization in the county attend the meeting Sept. 20 at the courthouse in Jerome to present the proposed program.

Mrs. George Lattimer, C. M. Stone, and Mr. and Mrs. Davis were appointed to attend the meeting to represent the grange.

A report was given on the proceeds from the produce booth displayed at the Jerome County Fair. The total of $85 received included $50 for having a booth and $35 in awards.

Next meeting will be held September 15 for election of officers.

Half-Billion Dollar Water Plan Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A half-billion-dollar water project for Idaho was proposed Saturday by the Democratic members of Idaho's congressional delegation. They called it the largest water development program in the state's history.

"The time for third, piecemeal plans is past," Church and Rep. Compton I. White said they will ask Congress early next year to authorize the Southwest Idaho Water Development Project.

In it would be integrated the presently proposed Mountain Home and Garden Valley divisions of the Snake River Project. It would provide irrigation water for 300,000 acres of arid land and would generate an estimated one-half million kilowatts of electrical power.

The works would reach into seven southwestern Idaho counties.

"Development of Idaho's water for consumptive uses must have the highest priority, particularly because exportation of our surplus to other river basins is rapidly approaching," White said.

"Rather than subscribing to the project-by-project approach, the Southwest Idaho plan assures coordinated construction of the two divisions and acceleration of their planning."

The Bureau of Reclamation estimated at $115-million the cost of the proposed Garden Valley Division and at $153 million the Mountain Home Division.

Construction work, water benefits and land improvement would affect Elmore, Ada, Canyon, Owyhee, Boise, Gem and Payette counties.

The bulk of the land to be brought under irrigation would be desert south and east of Boise and in the Mountain Home area.

The Garden Valley project calls for construction of a dam on the South Fork of the Payette River in the east of Garden Valley, about 50 miles north of Boise. The dam would back water into Garden Valley and form a reservoir of 1.7 million acre feet.

A system of tunnels and canals would divert water from Payette to the Boise watershed.

The Mountain Home Division Lake Lowell, which now gets its water from the Boise River. A feasibility report on the Snake River water would irrigate Mountain Home Division land south and east of Nampa, with water pumped into gate land south and east of Boise. Work on a feasibility report for the Garden Valley Division is about ready to be completed by the bureau.

PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH a Southwest Idaho water development project is outlined by Rep. Compton I. White, right, and Sen. Frank Church, left, to Kenneth Holm, assistant secretary of Interior for water and power. The one-half billion dollar project would irrigate 300,000 acres of land adjacent to the Snake River and tributaries.

Contractors Fight New Idaho Law

BOISE (AP)—A group of small contractors is suing in District Court here to declare the 1965 Contractor Licensing Law void.

The suit was filed by seven contractors who said it also was in behalf of 2,000 contractors they said would be unable to get licenses because of the law's bonding requirements.

They asked the court to declare the law "void, unconstitutional, ineffective and without force."

The contractors were members of the Private Contractors Association of Idaho which has announced its intention to challenge the law to the State Supreme Court if necessary.

The association claims many small contractors cannot post $1,000 bond as required by the law because they have not been bonded before and bonding companies will not accept them.

The suit was filed against the five-member Idaho Private Contractors Board which the 1965 legislature created when it enacted the licensing law.

Board members are touring the state seeking support for the law.

Board member Jess Hatcher said this week "the great majority of legitimate private contractors are in favor of the law."

The bonding requirement is needed, said Hatcher, "for the

Revision Is Ordered on Retardation

POCATELLO (AP)—A steering committee that spent a year preparing recommendations for preventing and treating mental retardation in Idaho has been instructed to go back to work and revise its report.

The report was rejected Friday by the Idaho Council on Mental Retardation on ground that it relies too heavily on the State Health Department and does not provide for constructing treatment facilities.

Council Chairman T. F. Terrell of Boise said it would take the steering committee about 30 days to revise the recommendations.

The report contained 31 proposals including one that the State Health Department have primary responsibility in prevention and treatment of mental retardation.

It proposed the health department have power to secure more adequate services for the mentally retarded from other state agencies.

The report also called for better services by education, public assistance, employment and vocational rehabilitation agencies.

Technicians to Keep Tower up

PISA, Italy (AP)—After years of perplexity, pondering and paperwork, technicians have begun on-site labors aimed at keeping the Leaning Tower from toppling. Soil samples are being taken from test borings in the broad green lawn of the Piazza dei Miracoli—Square of Miracles—to determine whether the water table contributes to instability under the 13th century bell tower.

Principal Is Honored by Heyburn PTA

HEYBURN — Lund Christensen, Heyburn school principal, was given a special tribute Thursday evening during the Heyburn PTA reception for teachers presented by Mrs. Everett Savage, music chairman, the gift was for Christensen's many years service to the community, school and PTA. He has served as PTA piano accompanist for the past 10 years.

Christensen pointed out that he started the first grade at Heyburn in 1923, and after 42 years is still going to school at Heyburn.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Verlon Sutton, program chairman. Teachers were introduced by Christensen, and corsages were pinned on each by Mrs. Christensen, hospitality chairman.

Background music was by Mrs. Q. D. Brown. Anita Wilcox played a piano solo.

The business meeting was conducted by L. M. (Dick) Whitaker, president, and Everett Savage gave the opening prayer.

Elmer Moore's class will receive the PTA book for having the most parents at the meeting.

Whitaker introduced this year's committee chairman for PTA, which included Mrs. Edna McCook, budget and finances; Mrs. E. C. McKim, historian and procedures; Mrs. Christine, hospitality; Mrs. Dale McComb, home room; Mrs. Edna Harrison, legislature; Mrs. Wilford Wilcox, magazine; Mrs. James Southern, membership; Mrs. Denver James, president; Mrs. Leo Paul, publicity; Mrs. Louis Stimpson, county representative; Mrs. Sutton, program; Mrs. Savage, music; Christensen, adviser, and Heintz, parliamentarian.

Birth Control Question Left To Group

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Economic Council's topic on modern world problems, in its latest format, was described Saturday as leaving all contraception questions to a special papal commission on birth control.

Informants said mention of contraceptive methods would be in the council document only if the commission named by Pope Paul VI concludes its work before the council ends.

The council resumes in its fourth and final session, next Tuesday. The topic on modern world problems is the major document remaining for debate and voting. It also is the longest.

The version argued on the council floor last fall noted that Roman Catholic married couples have problems stemming from the need to limit births while also needing the physical union that belongs to marriage. It asked couples to be patient while the Church, which allows only the rhythm method or periodic abstinence, works out the answers.

Informed sources said the revised version now going before the council bishops stresses the right of parents to a responsible procreation.

The positive phrasing contrasts with some past Roman Catholic teaching that birth control, even though the rhythm system, should be practiced only under certain conditions.

The new draft says parents should operate arbitrarily in creating a family and should follow the dictates of their conscience, which in any case must be formed according to the law of God.

In the official view, the law of God forbids mechanical contraception.

The new draft says couples would use "prudent judgment" in deciding how many children to have. It also praises women who, with courage, raise a great number of children.

College of Southern Idaho and Twin Falls High School students and personnel are proving two institutions can be held compatibly in the same facilities if all persons involved strive to overcome minor difficulties which arise.

Administrators of both schools agree that very few problems and certainly no insurmountable ones, have arisen in the nearly two weeks CSI has been utilizing Twin Falls High School facilities.

Dr. James L. Taylor, president of CSI, feels a partial reason for harmony between the two groups is the attitude "that problems can and must be overcome," among those involved. He said administrators of both groups have striven to instill this attitude in students, instructors and other personnel.

Dr. Taylor said some traffic and parking problems have arisen because high school students are leaving classes just as college students are arriving.

Donald Kieth, dean of CSI, agreed with Dr. Taylor that few problems have occurred between the high school and college students so far reports between the two institutions. The physical education department at CSI is offering only individual sports at this time, so no utilization of Twin Falls High School facilities have been used.

Bowling is a sport CSI students are taking to with physical education credits, using local bowling alleys. Dr. Kieth said archery and golf will probably be offered in the near future, both being individual sports and probably not requiring facilities at the high school.

Dr. Taylor said some problems will undoubtedly arise when CSI starts an intramural program. He said this problem was still in the "gray area" as no definite plans have been made for such a program, adding that Ernest Ruppel, superintendent of Twin Falls School District perhaps the biggest problem occurred Thursday afternoon when college students arrived at the high school to begin classes for the day.

It seems as though not only high school students, but faculty and custodial staff took the day off to attend Twin Falls Day at the county fair, and when college students arrived at the high school that afternoon to begin regularly scheduled classes—the doors were locked.

The matter was quickly solved when it was remembered CSI is in possession of a master key for the building. The doors were opened, and college was in session again.

Baum said he was "thrilled" over the compatibility of the two groups, adding praise for the excellent attitude of college students and faculty. He said he had some reservations at first about the capabilities of two schools using the same facilities, but since CSI opened he has noticed no difficulties, minor or otherwise.

CSI students and high school students are using the same library, with each institution having its own librarian. Dr. Taylor said the librarians had encountered no difficulties yet, even though books belonging to both institutions are on library shelves.

All the books in the library are available to both CSI and high school students and Dr. Taylor said he felt both groups were gaining from the greater selection of books.

Dr. Taylor and Dr. Kieth said a vote of gratitude should be given to the custodial staff at the high school who have had to make considerable adjustments in their cleanup schedules, due to classes being held from early morning until late at night.

Dr. Kieth said custodians have been very cooperative in this matter and no problems have arisen. Several college students are working with the regular custodial staff, he said.

Dr. Taylor, illustrating the almost nonexistence of problems between the two schools, said

C. G. Olsen, T.F., Dies of Long Illness

Charles G. Olsen, 60, 162 Taylor St., died Friday afternoon at his home of a long illness. He was born Feb. 11, 1903, at Logan, Utah, and married Ma Nash in June, 1933. The marriage was later solemnized in the Logan LDS Temple. He was a former resident of Hurley, Oregon and Logan, Utah. He was a former employe of Utah Power Co. He has served as an agent on the Treasury Dept., Internal Revenue Service, since 1941. He was a member of the Sixth Ward LDS Church and held the position of Elder.

Surviving besides his widow are a daughter, Barbara K. Olsen, Twin Falls, and three nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in the Sixth Ward LDS Church with Bishop W. P. Pratt officiating. Concluding rites will be at 5 p.m. in the Preston City Cemetery, Preston.

Friends may call at White Mortuary Chapel from 7 p.m. Oct. 9 and Sunday and from 8 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Flattering Coiffures Are Predicted by Stylists

BY NORMA HERZINGER

"It's what's on top that counts," according to Magic Valley hair stylists.

"Most young women will wear flattering, simple hairdos this fall that comb easily and swing naturally." This is what members of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Inc., Magic Valley Hairdressers Affiliate No. 4, heard when they attended a recent workshop at Karl's Styling Salon.

June Torneten, hair styling artist, Idaho Falls, was guest stylist and demonstrated and described new coiffures for the current season.

"The Lively Curl" is the name chosen for these smart hairdos, a fun style that is extremely practical and most of all, positively feminine.

This new look is a complete transition from the high, stacked look and the harsh slick and plastered-down look of past years.

Coiffures will feature soft and airy curls, controlled by individual good taste and elegance, adding the proper feminine recherche to current fashions, making it feminine all the way.

The actual length of the hair depends on personal likes and dislikes. However, a change in the shaping of the hair has been made, giving it a tapered look contrary to the blunt cut.

The off-the-face look for fall will capture the youthful beauty of the high school and college set, who in the past have insisted on shading their faces with various fad hairstyles, unbecoming and far from feminine.

Hairpieces or postiches can be used to add a touch of sophistication to basic styles, along with long bangs and cheek curls to match many moods.

The colors for milady's tresses this season lean toward soft, natural tones, doing away with unnatural shades. Soft browns, auburns and muted reds will be seen in abundance. Professional stylists will be blending.

Teen-Agers to Show Faces in New Hairstyles

By ALICIA HART

This may be the season for teen-agers to show. A famous beautician recently spotted a handsome sheepdog and sadly shook his head (the stylist, not the dog).

He explained his quick, and resigned response to the eight-footed teen-agers with similar shaggy dog hairdos would look in a mirror. I like to see the fresh, young face. So do the men. What are these young women trying to hide?"

He smiled brightly as he happily discussed the prospect of the straight, ironed hair style being in vogue this fall and winter. In its place, he predicts, will be simple hairdos that flatter the young woman. The teen-ager will come out from behind her shaggy "do," with simplicity, based upon a good haircut—will be the key. The high cut, soft bangs but not too long over the brow will be important.

This style is set easily with the bangs combed smoothly over the forehead after shampooing. The rest of the hair is set on large rollers to create buoyancy when the hair is dry. Brush the rollers out.

You may want a more sophisticated look. For this pull the hair back behind the ears. Part your bangs and coax them away from the eyebrows on a slight roll with a rattail comb.

Pin a simple hairpiece to the top of your head for height and to complete the dressy look for school parties or a dance.

MAGIC VALLEY HAIR STYLISTS viewed this elaborate hairdo worn by Mrs. Margo Butterfield at a recent workshop held at Karl's Styling Salon. This style shows a soft rise at the top crown area, increasing as it moves forward. Hair stylists from throughout Magic Valley attended this workshop to view new coiffures for fall and winter. These suggested hair styles for fall and winter from the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. The curls are an essential note of the season's new "Lively Curl Look." These styles show flattering, simple hairdos that comb easily and swing naturally. They are extremely practical coiffures and positively feminine. Hair coloring for fall leans towards soft blonds of tones, soft browns, auburns and muted reds. (NHCA photos)

THREE MODELS for the forthcoming Beta Sigma Phi benefit fashion show are, from left, Jim Kinchelo, Michael Tegan and Nedra Lingnaw. These three will be among others who will appear at the "Fall's Fashion" show at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the American Legion Hall. All fashions will be shown by Shirley Grummit. Proceeds will go to the mentally retarded children's fund. Tickets may be purchased at the Parle, Paris, Jr., Roper's Clothing Store and at the door. Refreshments will be served. (Times-News photo)

Gowns for Autumn Nights Are Described
By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK (NEA)—The catwalk hours, judging from the all 55 New York designer collections, will be ushered in at my length.
There are short dinner suits, theater ensembles and discotheque dresses, ankle-length dresses for dinner and dancing, and ball gowns that will make a sweeping entrance.

Long sleeves (St. Laurent again) turn up on both floor-length and short gowns. When sleeves are concerned, it seems to be all or nothing.
For the strapless gown makes a big comeback, side-by-side with its long-sleeved counterpart. And if you can't decide whether or not sleeves are for you, you can compromise. There are many dresses that bare just one shoulder.
Everything is soft, feminine and pretty. And even if you're weary of that description, you'll love wearing clothes that make you feel every inch a woman.

There are princess gowns, bias-cut crepes with beaded borders, fur-trimmed costumes, all-over flower patterns in sequins and even gowns with swainsdown trim.
For rainy nights, there are rainproof striped silk costumes, coats with their own dresses.
Both long and short evening coats turn up in pouffy velvet and brocade, often with fur accents.
Beige, oyster and black are

Former T. F. Resident Weds In Utah Rites

Former Twin Falls residents, Mr. and Mrs. June B. Thayne, Cheeverly, Md., announce the Sept. 2 marriage of their daughter, Rebecca Michelle, to George Dean Deaper, Utah.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held in Minnery Grove Reception Center.

Attending the bride were her two sisters, Stephanie Thayne and Jennifer Thayne, and Janet Butcher, San Bernardino, Calif.

Dr. Richard Dean, Merced, Calif., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Dr. Wayne Dean, San Diego, Calif., Donald Thornwall and Conrad Featherstone, Salt Lake City. Junior ushers were cousins of the bride, David Hunt and Murray Hunt, former Twin Falls residents.

Flower girls were Rebecca Hunt and Myra Featherstone. Mrs. Mitchell W. Hunt Jr., Menlo Park, Calif., attended the guest book.

Pre-nuptial parties for the bride were given in Maryland, where her parents also honored the couple and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dean, parents of the bridegroom, at an open house.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mitchell W. Hunt, hosted a garden buffet at her home in Salt Lake City. A wedding dinner at the Lamplighter Party House was hosted by the bridegroom's parents.
Guests attending the wedding from Twin Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Salisbury and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stokes.

Marlene Essary Is Bride of Kenneth Bauer

The marriage of Marlene Ann Essary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Essary, of Twin Falls, and Kenneth Bauer, son of Mrs. Florence Overton, Eugene, Ore., was solemnized Aug. 23 in the Bethel Temple Apostolic Church.

Rev. J. L. Tankersley performed the double-ring wedding ceremony. Vows were exchanged under a garden arch of greenery, apricot roses and gladioli. White tapers in spiral candelabra completed the setting.

Roy Beams, uncle of the bride, played the traditional wedding music. He accompanied Mrs. Roy Beams, soloist. Everett Alldritt sang, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Roberts.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white pique with a crown of white crystals of cut crystal released her short bouffant veil of sheer bridal illusion. She carried a crescent arrangement of Tallman roses accented with camellia foliage and French illusion net.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. William Bainbridge, Mountain Home. Bridesmaids were Sharril Williams and Elvera Norris. William Bainbridge, Mountain Home, was best man. Groomsmen were Leo Holzleiman, Mountain Home, and Phillip Roberts, Ushers were Jonathan Alldritt and Richard Foulk, uncle of the bride.

Candlelighters were Pauline Heidemann and Rinne Beams, cousin of the bride. Dana Sue Alldritt and Carey Alldritt were flower girls.

Miniature bride and bridegroom were Deann Stansell and Todd Hinn, who carried the rings on a white satin pillow detailed with lace, streamers and accents of Lilies of the Valley.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests in the church parlor which was decorated in tones of apricot and white.

Background music was played by Mrs. Robert Heidemann. The reception table was covered with lace and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated in white with apricot roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

White tapers in crystal candelabra, greenery and clusters of apricot and white gladioli flanked the wedding cake.

Mrs. M. David and Mrs. Gretta Madron served the cake, assisted by Karen Stansell and Mrs. Richard Foulk, aunt of the bride.

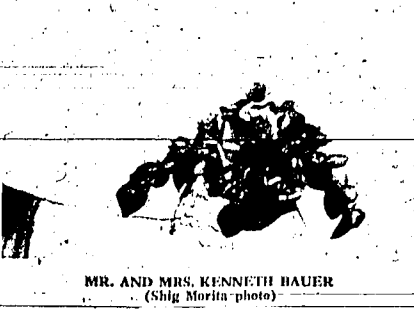

Mrs. Ellenbeth McClain, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. John Williams presided at the punch table.

Floral arrangements, with the exception of the bride's bouquet, were arranged by close friends and relatives of the couple.

Mrs. J. L. Tankersley was in charge of the guest book. Everett Messner and Mark Beams, cousin of the bride, received the gifts and Mrs. Butch Gibson, Cheryl Alldritt and Adelia Alldritt opened and displayed them.

Following their honeymoon trip to Oregon, the couple will reside in Mountain Home, where the bridegroom is stationed with the Air Force.

A pre-nuptial luncheon shower was given for the bride by members of the Better Girls Club. The women of the church helped.

Ruby Sanborn, Chapman Say Wedding Vows

The First Christian Church, Twin Falls, was the setting for the Aug. 22 ceremony uniting in marriage L. Ruby Jo Ann Sanborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Grant Sanborn, Twin Falls, and Sgt. Billy Bruce Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Chapman, Stephenville, Tex.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Donald L. Hoffman before a background of candelabra with tall tapers and baskets of pink and salmon-colored gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white knit suit accented with a blue veil of illusion. She wore a corsage of feathered chrysanthemums and rosebuds. Her only jewelry was a pendant sent to her from Viet Nam by her brother.

Mrs. Barbara Gibbs, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Henry Benson, Salmon, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were registered by Susan Foley, cousin of the bride. Gifts were displayed by Sandra Carr. Mrs. James Clark served the cake and Mrs. Lolita Becker served punch. Henry Benson served champagne.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over blue and centered with a two-tiered wedding cake, flanked by arrangements of pink gladioli.

The bride is a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, stationed at Quantico, Va. Chapman is the former rifle coach at the University of Idaho and left Sept. 6 for Viet Nam. The newlyweds took a honeymoon trip to Virginia.

Magic Valley Favorites

Week's Recipe Winner
DORA H. WHEELER
1230 Oriental Ave., Burley

Good Three Egg Jelly Roll
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon orange or lemon juice
1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup boiling water
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder

Beat egg yolks until lemon colored. Add sugar gradually, then fruit juice and rind. Add hot water, stirring constantly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add gradually to egg mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Preparation Meeting Held

DECLIO — "Burley Primary Olympics" was the theme for the Burley LDS Stake Primary Preparation meeting at the stinkhouse.

Members of the Springdale Primary presidency were hostesses. Mrs. Reed Larsen, president, gave the opening prayer. A recorded message from Tavern Parmlay, general Primary president, was heard by the group. Talks were given by Mrs. Rex West, Mrs. Jerry Bowcut, Mrs. Larry Hansen, Mrs. Jerry Rowling, Mrs. Earl Christensen and Francis Carter.

The "Cultural Champions" performance was presented by the Eighth Ward Lihonia girls, under the direction of Mrs. Dennis Badger and Mrs. Charles Taylor.

When done, roll in slightly damp cloth. When cool, unroll and fill with jelly, ice cream or any desired filling.

A pan 10 1/2 by 15 by 1 inches is just right for this recipe. It needs a flat shallow pan to roll nicely.

(The Times-News will pay $5 each week for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Magic Valley Department, Women's Page editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

PROJECT DELAYED
WENDELL — The ground breaking for the new Presbyterian Church, scheduled for the first part of September, has been postponed until the middle of October. It was announced by Rev. Jack A. Jennings. The delay is due to earlier commitments of the construction foreman.

Past Matrons, Patrons Feted By OES Unit

WENDELL — Past matrons and past patrons of the Order of Eastern Star were honored at the opening-fall meeting of Star of the West Chapter No. 35, OES, at the Masonic Temple.

Introduced and welcomed were 19 past matrons of the Wendell Chapter and two visiting past matrons, Mrs. Mary Frazer, Cosmopolitan Chapter No. 36, Gooding, and Mrs. Mae Eads, High Degree Chapter No. 2, Salmon, and one past and present worthy patron.

A friendship address was given by chapter officers. Gifts were presented to each guest. Mrs. H. J. Burton gave the response.

The official visit of Mrs. Blanche Sent, Martha Chapter No. 34, is set for Nov. 11.

Mrs. Ronald Lancaster, chairman of the home fund project, announced a benefit is set for the Oct. 6 meeting. Mrs. Denton Adams, announced that the September meet of the Past Matrons Club is at the home of Mrs. Owen Bolan.

A practice meeting for officers is set for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 29. Any officer unable to attend this practice, must have a substitute.

Invitations were read from Base Chapter No. 65, for Sept. 25; from Hollister Chapter No. 47, Sept. 25 for its golden anniversary observance, and from Cosmopolitan Chapter No. 36, for Friendship Night Oct. 5, and the official visit of the worthy grand matron set for Nov. 9.

Mrs. R. O. Ward gave a report on the courtesy committee.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. C. Weinberg, Mrs. Dallas Burch, Mrs. Raymond Turner, Mrs. Bill Dunn, Mrs. J. S. Divilvas and Mrs. Corn Frith.

Class Members Have Dinner

An outdoor potluck dinner for members of the First Baptist Church Fideles Class was held at the ranch home of Frank Wells.

The benediction was given by Wells. The film, "The Professors and the Prophets," was shown. Duets were sung by Mary Holderreed and Angela Wells. The devotional service was presented by Mrs. Vernon Grimm.

Committee members in charge of activities included Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Waters, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Grim and Mrs. Ruth Requa.

JEAN ETCHEVERRY

Rupert Miss, Landa Slate October Date

RUPERT — Mr. and Mrs. Jean P. Etcheverry, Rupert, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Eugene Lundin, Salt Lake City.

The bride-elect was graduated from St. Mariae of the Wasatch and attended Stevens Menager Business College, Salt Lake City, and Zwieman's Medical Secretarial College, San Francisco. She is employed at the LDS Hospital, Salt Lake City, as a medical secretary.

An Oct. 9 wedding is set at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, Rupert.

Coiffures for Current Season Are Feminine.

 Several tones of a single shade to enhance the beauty of hair and bleached hair. The natural look will also be featured in make-up this season. The emphasis placed on the eyes, soft and light and in make-up. New ideas for eye make-up are suggestive of the exquisite naturalness of an individual and indicate the trend surrounding them should be just as natural. With a strong emphasis on a flawless complexion, learning the simplicity of cosmetics is of great importance to one's appearance. When in doubt, "less is just you," or the style that "fits just you," or the shades of lipstick, eye make-up, etc., that blends with individual features, professional advice often prove invaluable.

"SURE I CAN SAY SISTER," seems to be the expression on this young man's face as he shows just what kind of a child is needed for Whitthrop in the young man's Magic Valley production, "The Music Man." Timothy Driscoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driscoll, both active in the Dilatante unit, has several teeth missing, and a genuine grin just as any boy trying out for Whitthrop at auditions this Saturday and Sunday should have. ### Auditions for Dilettante's Spring Production Are Set Dilettante of Magic Valley auditions for next spring's production, "The Music Man," are less than a week off, and anyone wanting to participate in the show in any way is urged to attend auditions, which this year, will be open only to auditions. Mrs. Adrich Bowler, manager, director, reports many good character parts are in the show and all kinds of voices are wanted. Phillips, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, will be choreographing the show, and Del Sluiter, Twin Falls, will again be orchestra conductor. Saturday auditions are for sign up for the show.

Cain's Rent Trackside Warehouse

Cain's Furniture and Appliance Store in Twin Falls has rented a trackside warehouse in Twin Falls located at 325 West Street.

The building has 13,000 square feet of storage area with two floors and an elevator and is owned by J. J. Winterholer.

Since Cain's introduced their present merchandising program to Magic Valley over 3 years ago they are now buying direct from the factory carload shipments from many manufacturers including Frigidaire, Kroehler living room furniture, Ward and Stanley Bedroom furniture, Sealy Mattress and Radibers, Metalcraft Dinettes as well as partial car shipments of Athens-Bunk Beds and Maple Furniture, Leonetti living room Mission occasional tables and other lines.

Cain's Merchandising Program of Carload buying at the lowest possible factory prices and fast turnover of inventories at a close margin of profit has made Cain's one of the two largest Furniture and Appliance stores in Idaho. Cain's large Furniture-Vans on a Service Trucks cover every community in Magic Valley on a weekly schedule.

The leasing of this trackside warehouse and expansion program has caused a chain reaction of Cain's.

1. Their present warehouse stock on the main floor of their present warehouse across the street from their main store must all be moved to their new trackside warehouse.
2. This will permit the transfer of all of their reconditioned used & reconditioned merchandise from the 2nd floor of their Main Store to their present warehouse across the street.
3. This will permit the remodeling of the 2nd floor and the transfer of Dinettes, Freezers, and low budget living room and bedroom furniture to the 2nd floor.
4. This will permit Cain's to broaden their lines and displays—displaying Kroehler, Sluyter chairs, and other top quality lines of furniture on their Main Floor.

All of this calls for the movement of hundreds of pieces of merchandise, which cost Cain's greatly. Here is where you come in. This big move must take place Sept. 20th, NEXT MONDAY. Until then, all this week your savings will be substantial if you go into Cain's and purchase any of the merchandise involved in the expansion program—Namely Frigidaire Appliances, Living room and Bedroom furniture, Dinettes, Chairs, Freezers, and all used merchandise. Go in and see if there is something you would like to buy. Have Cain's quote you a figure. You will be pleased at the savings. You won't have to pay any money 'til 1966.

Red Cross Chapter to Mark 10th Anniversary of Drawings in T.F.

If you were seriously injured in an accident 10 years ago and taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, you probably would have found that chances of survival, if a large amount of blood was required, were pretty slim, depending on how successful the hospital was in procuring for "walking donors."

"LOGGING IN" SHIPMENT OF FRESH BLOOD at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital are Wayne Hankins and Art Busacker, lab technicians. Blood taken at local drawings is shipped to the Boise Regional Blood Center, where it is pooled, and fresh whole blood is later sent to the local hospital. Shipments to the hospital vary from two to a dozen plants each time and the shipment being logged above is one of about 300 in a year's time. Ten years ago, however, patients at the hospital were almost solely dependent on efforts to procure blood from "walking donors" who were summoned to the hospital as the need arose. In 1935, only a small supply of whole blood was kept on hand at the hospital. (Times-News photo)

At least 700 would have been the case before Sept. 14, 1935. On that date the hospital signed an agreement with the Twin Falls Chapter of the American Red Cross which gave the Red Cross the responsibility of collecting and processing blood.

When the bloodmobile visits Twin Falls Monday it will mark the 10th anniversary of Red Cross blood drawings in this city.

Mrs. Zita Roache, 733 Ash St., who was executive secretary of the local chapter at the time the agreement was signed, noted recently that being a patient in need of blood at the hospital 10 years ago was "pretty risky business."

"There were times, under the old system, when they couldn't get enough donors and they would have to appeal for donors over the air," she commented.

And Martin Foss, who was first blood drive chairman, remarked that "if donors weren't your type, you were just out of luck."

Before the Red Cross took over the procurement program, blood was drawn "on the spot" at the hospital and often transfusions were made directly from the donor to the patient.

In August, 1935, the hospital requested the local Red Cross chapter to handle the blood program. The request was filed by the hospital board and approved during a special meeting of physicians.

It was noted that the hospital had obtained its blood mostly from relatives and friends of patients requiring transfusions. Under this system it was difficult to maintain an adequate supply of blood. Patients requiring large amounts of blood were, at times, unable to procure enough donors.

This picture, which first appeared Sept. 15, 1955, shows Mrs. Oliver reading the agreement between the local hospital and the Twin Falls chapter and resulted in a change-over in blood procurement for the hospital. Up until then blood was given by "walking donors" at the hospital, but Sept. 14, 1935, marked the first Red Cross drawing. The 10th anniversary blood drawing will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. this Monday at the American Legion Hall. The Red Cross is a United Fund agency. (Times-News photo)

Interdenominational Divine Order Pursues Extra-Sensory Perception

Extra-sensory perception fully occupies the life and thoughts of Mrs. Frances Sande, Twin Falls, who founded the Interdenominational Divine Order, which she commonly abbreviates to "I-Do."

The visible assets of the order include a two-story building at 519 Main Ave. W. with its prominent "I-Do" Research sign, the Star Ranch near the Hansen overpass on U.S. Highway 30 and the leaflet "Truth" of which Mrs. Sande distributes some 5,000 copies every month.

People whose beliefs and regard for extra-sensory perception are similar to those of Mrs. Sande work in the Main Avenue West building and some reside at the Star Ranch, a cluster of three dwellings with a total capacity of 47 residents. There are five apartments in one house, three in another.

Just what is the interdenominational Divine Order? Despite its name, Mrs. Sande says it has no basis in religion and she objects strongly to anyone who refers to it as a cult. In her own words, the order is a group of people who have had unfortunate experiences and have had someone take advantage of them in the past. She says they've banded together to help others and prevent others from having similar unfortunate experiences.

"We help individuals, organizations, clubs, groups and nations and we also believe that the training of one person with extra-sensory perception, so he may use his talent to help humanity, does more than feel-

Springdale Family Includes Beauty With Protection in Fallout Shelter

DECLO — Mr. and Mrs. Max Dayley of Springdale have combined both beauty and practicality in the fallout shelter located behind their country home.

The shelter, which was begun just after the Cuban Crisis, has been attractively decorated with every size and shape of rock and covered with colorful flowers.

Dayley, realizing the need for a shelter, consulted Civil Defense authorities before he and his family began their project.

Using the proper specifications for a shelter, he designed one adequate for his large family. Twelve inches of concrete form the ceiling of the two-story shelter, and another slab of foot-thick concrete tops the ceiling of the lower room. Between these slabs and the concrete blocks Dayley left a dead air space. The structure is reinforced with steel bars.

Covering the concrete is four feet of soil. On top of all of this is a collection of attractively placed rocks.

A tank for butane gas was embedded beneath the structure to provide light and heat.

The Dayleys plan to drill through the concrete of one corner, to where a natural spring flows, to add a well which would supply water. A hand or electric pump could be used to draw the water. The pump will supply water, but will also make an attractive fountain on top of the rock garden.

The Dayleys also have purchased an air distributor and filter which soon will be installed.

Mrs. Dayley reported that the total cost of the shelter has been about $3,500.

The two rooms serve as a storehouse for the family. Staples such as honey, whole grain flour, rice, powdered milk and canned goods are stored there.

The Dayleys believe every family should have a two-year supply of food on hand. Mrs. Dayley pointed out that it is much harder to store food if you do not draw the water. The facilities such as her shelter provides. She noted that potatoes stored there are still in good condition.

When asked how many people the shelter would accommodate, Mrs. Dayley said "our family of nine and two more families of six could be comfortable and well taken care of in it."

She pointed out that the gas could be used only for short intervals because it would use air that must come through the air filter.

The finishing touch, the large lava rock that is on the top of the shelter, had to be hoisted up by the largest hoist that could be found in Burley. The family traveled hundreds of miles to gather this and other rocks that decorate the comely shelter.

All of the family agree that the shelter is well worth the money and time spent. It provides important peace of mind by being available for the event when it would be needed.

ATTRACTIVE FAMILY FALLOUT SHELTER is a welcome addition to the Max Dayley family, Springdale. Here Mrs. Dayley stands in the entrance to the structure. The inner shell of the shelter is made of reinforced concrete and concrete blocks, topped by four feet of dirt. Lava boulders and flowers have been used to provide landscaping. (Times-News photo)

11-Year-Old Adds Bacteriology, Astronomy, German Study to Sports

An 11-year-old boy who plays league baseball, swims and takes part in Cub Scout activities might be an example of an all-American youth but would not be thought unusual. When the same 11-year-old adds to his study of bacteriology, entomology, astronomy, oil painting, German and French, he begins to attract attention.

STANDING BESIDE A HOG'S HEART, microscope and other scientific paraphernalia which are in the study of bacteriology, one of his many avocations, is Tad Roth, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Roth, 1880 Hiller Ave. E. Tad also is interested in biology, homology, entomology, music, painting, swimming, baseball and model ship building, as well as being a student of German and French. (Times-News photo)

Such a boy is Tad Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Roth, 1880 Hiller Ave. E. Tad's varied interests began early. His mother recalls when he was stung by a bee at the age of three. Tad was so interested in examining the insect that he forgot to cry.

Tad once stopped a baseball game by stepping out of the batter's box to collect an insect he saw crawling across home plate, says Mrs. Roth.

Tad is currently more interested in bacteriology than any of his other avocations, and says he hopes to become a research bacteriologist. "One day he explains he first became interested in the subject when he found the local library did not have some books he wanted concerning tests for minerals in water.

The librarian told Tad Jackie Tanner might be able to help him. Miss Tanner, Twin Falls, showed Tad how to make the mineral tests with result that Tad became interested in the minerals in the water.

During a recent visit to the Twin Falls filter plant where a Twin Falls County Health Department bacteriologist helped him in his studies.

Tad contacted several people, among them Darlene Tammy, Salt Lake City, bacteriologist at LDS Hospital at Salt Lake. She invited him to witness bacteriology as practiced by a hospital.

Tad spent a week at the Salt Lake City hospital, working in the laboratory. He said, "I saw some exciting surgery on a very dog's heart. It was fun and very interesting."

At the end of his stay Miss Tanner gave Tad a list of what (Continued on Page 27)

"Like father, like daughter" might be applied in the case of Victor Bowman of Clarendon-Hot Springs resort seven miles from HALLEY, and his daughter, Mrs. Pauline Flora, BURLEY. Both are self-made artists. Mrs. Flora and her four children spend as much of their free time at the Clarendon resort as possible and she often brings one of her latest paintings along for her father to see and comment on. Recently she brought with her an oil canvas and one done in pastels, both of which have been exhibited.

The oil, which she has named "Golden Boy," depicts an Oriental, white her 6-year-old daughter, Margaret Ann, posed for the pastel.

"I am interested in painting all nationalities," Mrs. Flora said. "To me this is most intriguing and a challenge."

While portraits are her favorite work, the canvas of her daughter was done as a study. "I painted it very much in the dark, with a strong highlight directed on the model. The study is more interesting when seen in a semi-dark room," she said. Mrs. Flora enjoys this technique and has among her canvases several others in similar tone. She has not yet decided on a suitable name for the study of her daughter.

Mrs. Flora has exhibited through the Desert Art Guild in the new bank building in Burley. Several of her canvases were displayed in the Burley high school art exhibit. In February her first one-artist showing was held in the Burley library, with 29 canvases exhibited.

"I guess I just inherited my love of art from my father," she laughed, "and like him have never had lessons."

Pauline Bowman was born and raised in BUHL. "While in grade school I dreamed of the time I would enter high school and be able to have lessons, and the year I entered high school art was stricken from the list of studies available. So, I just kept on drawing on my own," she said.

Mrs. Flora traveled for six years and during that time she was able to have lessons, which she has now resumed. She has been able to find some spare time and brought out her canvases and paints.

She has worked in the ready to wear department of the J. C. Penney store in Burley and in July she will be working for KBAR as an antique director.

She was president of the Miller PTA last year. She is a new member of the Burley Toastmistress Club. Her hobbies are swimming and bowing.

STAR RANCH consists of three houses, from which advocates of the Interdenominational Divine Order, commonly known as "I-Do," conduct their activities. Star Ranch is astride a hill overlooking U.S. 30 near Murtaugh, near the center of "high vibrations," which influence extra-sensory perception.

Contrary to popular opinion, Mrs. Sande, "I-Do's" founder, insists that the organization has not built landing facilities for flying saucers. She claims that the I-Do members are not "UFOers" the group that is concerned with unidentified flying objects. (Times-News photo)

MRS. FRANCES SANDE
... Twin Falls, founder of the Interdenominational Divine Order, or "I-Do," conducts researches concerning extra-sensory perception. (Times-News photo)

Extra-Sensory Perception Is Pursued By Interdenominational Divine Order

about talking about her work or her accomplishments, individuals invariably are non-identified.

Mrs. Sande is well-traveled. She says she has helped many people and nations through extra-sensory perception. One of her trips took her to the eastern border of India and Pakistan and Mrs. Sande displays a clipping terming her a "Mystic Miss with a Message of Peace."

She says she talked with Charis India's leader, and played an important role in smoothing some of the difficulties between the two nations.

Mrs. Sande is dedicated wholeheartedly to extra-sensory perception and says her family has a history of being blessed with ESP. An example she cites occurred when she warned while crossing the Atlantic that the next plane had a faulty engine.

When her plane landed at Iceland, she says she stayed behind two days to warn about the faulty engine and then returned to board the plane. It took off, but returned in about 20 minutes after developing trouble in the engine about which she had warned.

She boarded the plane after the engine was repaired.

She says that when asked how she knew the plane's engine was faulty, she answered with, "You are talking to one of these funny people." This is

Mrs. Sande's way of recognizing without quailms that many didn't believe in ESP. "I-Do" or its founder. Always, she insists that everyone is free to believe or disbelieve, as the individual desires.

The stars that mark the location of the Star Ranch have no mystic significance, according to Mrs. Sande. She owns 160 acres of land at the location and is well aware there are all sorts of rumors and misconceptions about it. One common rumor refuted by Mrs. Sande is that the ranch has a landing ramp for flying saucers.

"We are not UFOers, nor do we hold seances; we are not spiritualists or fortune tellers and don't read palms," she declares. "We do not believe in flying saucers from outer space."

"The interior decor of both the Twin Falls house and the Star Ranch would be disappointing to anyone expecting to step into a Hollywood version of a spiritualist's parlor. The simple interior of what was once a doctor's office on Main Avenue West has been retained.

Rooms in the Star Ranch have walls that are almost always a quiet green. The overall effect is one of restful simplicity.

At one time, "I-Do" held instructional classes in ESP in the building on Main Avenue West. But Mrs. Sande says the meetings became the target of some young people who obviously weren't interested in ESP and were only looking for a place to pass time. There was some damage to furnishings and the meetings were discontinued.

However, Mrs. Sande says the sessions could be resumed if there were evidence of genuine interest in ESP.

In the meantime, the work of "I-Do" is so pressing that most of the outside contact with the order has been confined to letters sent to Box W, Twin Falls. "We just don't have the time for anything else," says Mrs. Sande.

Dr. Leslie Dean, Plant Pathologist, Develops Disease-Resistant Beans

Before the new junior college was established in Twin Falls, few people would have guessed that the city already had a professor, even before it had a college. Dr. Leslie L. Dean is in fact a professor—this July he was promoted to the rank of full professor on the faculty of the University of Idaho. He is an extension plant pathologist, working on the development of new bean varieties resistant to virus infections.

Dr. Dean was born in Leslie, V. Dean, was at that time farming on the Salmon Tract. He later worked on construction, building the first road in the Stanley Basin with the Duffy Reed Construction Co., and worked as a railroadman and a janitor for the Hollister School District.

Completing his family tree is Dr. Dean's mother's side of the family which has been settled in the Idaho-Nevada area since Dean's grandfather was born. Dr. Dean started elementary school in Amsterdam and completed it in Hollister, where his mother had been a teacher. He graduated from Hollister High School in 1937.

Following graduation, he attended the College of Idaho for two years, and transferred to the University of Idaho, where he received his B.S. in 1942.

After graduation from college, Dr. Dean went to work with what was then the Idaho Plant Pest Control Commission—virtually the same job he has today—where he worked on developing new bean varieties.

While working he conducted research work toward his M.A. degree. However, before he could complete his degree work, he entered the navy in 1944.

After the war's end, Dr. Dean returned to his now familiar job—working with beans—and completed his work for his Master's degree. In 1947 he left Twin Falls to study at Purdue University, where in 1950 he received his Ph.D. for research in plant genetics and, more specifically, work on the problem of verticillium wilt of pepper.

"I grow so attached to the pepper that I brought a few plants home with me to Twin Falls for sentimental reasons," he said.

To no one's surprise, Dr. Dean returned to Twin Falls to take up the same job he had when he got out of college. There was one small change, however. He now was working for the University of Idaho. "It didn't change the nature of the work," he said. "It was the same job."

In 1954 Dr. Dean passed to marry Doris Hallis of Weatherford, Tex. He now has seven children by this and his first marriage.

He became active in the Episcopal Church, where he now serves as a vestryman. He belongs to the Masonic Lodge at Hollister, where he is past master, and still drives there for meetings. In Twin Falls he is a member of the Royal Arch Masons.

Dr. Dean is an avid rock hound, and is a member of Magic Valley Gem Club. He and his father became interested in rock collecting from an earlier interest in Indian artifacts. They collected "five or six thousand" arrowheads, spears and Indian tools. These have been put in museum through out the state.

But certainly the most persistent interest Dr. Dean has is his research with beans—research that has had results. The special objective of the bean improvement program is to develop beans resistant to Idaho's virus diseases—curly and mosaic viruses. The bean improvement program was initiated in 1925 by Dr. Walter Pierce and Dr. C. W. Hungerford. The work they started is now being carried out under Dr. Dean's direction.

One of the first important contributions to the program was release of Pinto U.I. 111, the standard pinto bean variety used in Idaho, because of its resistance to curly top and one strain of mosaic.

However, the most recent development of the program is a pinto variety designated as Pinto U.I. 114, which is reported resistant to both strains of the mosaic virus. This variety is slated to be released to bean growers within the next year.

"When a breed 'why' he change to return to Twin Falls time after time, Dr. Dean said, "I'm here because I like Idaho. I've never seen any place I'd rather live than Twin Falls."

"I had a chance to stay in other places, but I don't want to leave. I sort of believe that money's not everywhere in Idaho—but sometimes you regret this attitude," he continued, chuckling.

"Here, when Halo Bright is not a problem it's not far from good rock hunting country," he concluded.

Dr. Harold Kade said toxicological examinations showed that a rare medical circumstance resulted after Miss Dandridge fractured a tibia bone in her right foot last Sept. 2.

The actress-singer then slipped on the stairs of a Hollywood gymnasium, causing a almost unhealable fracture of a metatarsal bone.

Dr. Kade said fat-like particles from the bone marrow then entered the blood stream and caused her death, Dr. Kade said.

The pathologist said foreign matter entering the blood stream is a rare occurrence after a fracture and that only 15 or 20 such cases are recorded in the country each year.

Blackbeard's Tower, Night Life Offered by Bahamas

NASSAU (UPI) — Bahamas' fine china and cutlery and other goods at bargain prices compared to home. To get to the shops from the island in the New World was a painful native straw market at the named island San Salvador and these in search of their prizes, never to return.

But if Columbus was disappointed, others who came later were not. The Bahamas became a favorite retreat for pirates like Blackbeard in the early days of the War and for rumrunners during the Prohibition years.

Their proximity to the United States also played a major role in the early days of the war. But, more than anything else, it was the islands in the West Indies. The island of Grand Bahama has only 30 miles east of Palm Beach, Fla. Popular Nassau on the island of New Providence is about 225 miles southeast of Miami and is linked to the U.S. mainland year-round by plane and ship.

Muscular native men and boys, dark skins glistening in the sun, dive from glowing into the clear waters to retrieve the items being carried passengers waiting for the tender to a ferry them ashore. Ships with lesser drafts can tie up at the piers but the larger ones anchor off the lighthouse on Paradise Island, formerly known as Hog Island.

The ride in by tender takes about 15 minutes and provides an excellent view of some of the fashionable hotels and yacht clubs along the waterfront. Passengers disembark at the Prince George Wharf and most head for Bay Street to buy their attire of duty-free liquor—one gallon per person—perfumes, litho limbo dancer, The Deacon.

A good place to start is the 120-foot-high water tower atop a hill which offers a spectacular view for miles around. Highlights include three forts built between 1741 and 1783—Montagu, Fincastle and Charlotte—and the ruins of Blackbeard's tower which legend says the pirate used to spy on attacking treasure ships in the 1690s.

Include a stop at Ardnra Gardens where twice daily a flock of flamingos march, about ten and perform other maneuvers with military precision at the shouted commands of their Bahamian trainer.

And no visit to Nassau could be complete without enjoying a local cocktail at one of the night clubs. The Drumbeat Club, "over the hill" in the native section, provides the wild rhythm of the Goombay drums played by Peanut Traynor and attractive Becky Chipman, in the fire-baller and the litho limbo dancer, The Deacon.

Tad's mother said, "It's wonderful how people will help a child who shows an interest in things." She added that, although Tad had made his inquiries without his parents' aid, he had almost always received courteous assistance.

The walls of Tad's room are lined with books, ranging from such traditional boys' authors as Robert Louis Stevenson to modern level biology and bacteriology texts.

The study of foreign languages is the only area in which Tad has received special schooling, his French coming from a summer course and his German from a tutor who has been instructing Tad for two years.

Tad's oil painting was not prompted by instruction. His information on technique was gleaned from books, as was his study of astronomy. However, father helped out with astronomy by providing two telescopes.

Commenting on his son's wide range of interests his father said, "When Tad was three or four he said that he wanted to learn something about everything. He still seems to want to accomplish that."

Migratory Waterfowl Live Longer Than Residents, but Face More Guns

By JIM HUMBIRD — Fish and Game Department Boise — People who migrate waterfowl at this time of year are wisely yearning to go where the wild geese go, and far as feet waterfowl over the flight of stay-at-home upland birds as wintry winds become bitter.

But many of them do not understand the deeper differences between migratory waterfowl and upland game birds. Ducks and geese see several seasons come and go, while pheasants, partridge and quail, for example, do not live through the four seasons from one spring to the next.

And facts collected over the years from banding studies and other work by federal and state wildlife agencies point to the conclusion that death comes to migratory waterfowl from guns more often than from any other cause after they are old enough to fly.

By following the sun to ideal nesting waters in the fall, and back to good nesting habitat in the spring—How much this easy living has to do with their longevity, if anything, is a moot point.

Pheasants and other upland game bird species, by contrast, are extremely short-lived. They are, in effect, "birds of the year."

Their population turnover is high, that about two-thirds of the birds produced this year will be around next spring, to bring chicks-off-the-nests. This happens every year, whether they are hunted or not. In other words, they have a rapid "turn-over rate" which operates largely on a one-year plan.

It is nature's way of creating living space for the coming generations. Otherwise, good habitat soon would be overrun—and eventually destroyed—by two or three several hundred bird species which inhabit North America.

Controlled shooting on game birds merely substitutes hunter harvest for a portion of this natural loss. Their main nesting habitat in the prairie provinces of Canada is subject to a cyclical "boom and bust" which correlates with the wet and dry weather cycle.

In the wet years the potholes extend for hundreds of miles across the prairie country, with such potholes capable of supporting several broods of ducks.

Also, total hunting pressure on migratory waterfowl exceeds that on the game birds. The ducks and geese from the north count for more from September, in Canada through the fall months to the wintering grounds in the United States as they move back the flyways.

Banding studies conducted by the U.S. Fish and Game Department indicate that migratory waterfowl are now fully capable of surviving in the next year's winter—unless restrictive regulations are applied to hunting.

Huge Lava-Rocks Used to Make Waterfall for Garden

DECLIO — One of the most lush and glorious, as well as beautiful flower and rock gardens in the valley is found in Magic Valley in the home of Orson Magic Valley to gather rocks. The largest was found north of Hazelton and weighs about 1,200 pounds. It had to be lifted by a large tractor-trailer, placed in the yard and set on a perch for the fall.

The highlight of the attractive garden is the water fountain that Ward built himself. It is made of lava rock that has been placed to form an artificial waterfall. The lava rock is placed in front of his terrace, squirrels, small birds and flamingos.

Next year Ward plans to turn the yard to accent another rock formation similar to his fountain.

Americans in Viet Nam Are Treated to Pythons, Bats

BY HUGH A. MULLIGAN
 VINH LONG, South Viet Nam (AP) — American can take pride in the knowledge that her fighting sons in Viet Nam are sacrificing their stomachs to win the minds and hearts of the people.

They are eating dogs and snakes, elephants, monkeys, rats and bats to save face among the Vietnamese and Montagnard troops they have come to help and advise.

"The rule is eat it first, then ask what it is," explained Ronald Griffith, Roosevelt, Ga., a district adviser in a remote Mekong-River delta area where the garrison gourmet, on any given day, is apt to encounter worms, eels, rats, raw fish and pigs. Often it's better not to eat it and it helps a bit not to look at it.

Among Vietnamese troops in particular, lunch in the field is an elaborate ritual. No aluminum mess kits and C rations for them. Invariably, there is a steaming cauldron of congee, "Crawlers" appear as golden specks on leaves.

Primitive Montagnard tribes in the mountain areas are not so picky. In a rare case, their menus, however, are apt to be a trifle more challenging: roast dog, stewed python, fricassee of monkey, all washed down with buckets of rice wine that has been fermenting in bubbling gullies under the grass hut for several months.

Almost everything that grows in Viet Nam can be eaten. The lush land, blessed with abundant rainfall, abounds in coconuts, bananas, mangoes, peanuts and all kinds of leaves and tubers that make excellent instant salads.

Often you see a Vietnamese patrol moving out, in uniform, with one man lugging a shopping bag full of groceries and another a live truck with the handle of a gun so quacking doesn't betray the action.

In the Viet-Cong-infested canals of the delta, a Vietnamese sailor will hop off a River Assault Group boat at low tide to drop a water buffalo, butcher it on the spot and haul it back aboard for deckside barbecue.

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

WASPS AND BEES: These insects often nest in or near buildings and sting people when annoyed. But they do have their good points, eating flies, caterpillars and other harmful pests. If a wasp stings you, don't try to pull the stinger out.

If you do, you force more poison into the flesh. Scrape it from the wound. Bees leave their stingers in the wound, but wasps do not, and can sting repeatedly.

Stings may cause almost no swelling or pain in some, but may cause death with certain people. Where a sting causes only swelling and pain, apply a paste made with water and baking soda.

The best time to tackle a nest is at night. Do not knock nests down with water-hoses. This makes them mad and the insects will stay in an aggressive mood.

We find they have white specks all over them. We were told it was scale insect and wonder what should be done for it.

You do have the Eumonyia scale, a pest when abundant, looks like frost on green leaves and stems of clematis, bitter-sweet and nysa-sandra. Female scales concentrate on stems and are more or less pear-shaped, brownish and about 1/16 inch long. Male scales are white and narrow and congregate in large numbers on the undersides of leaves. In a rare case, "Crawlers" appear as golden specks on leaves.

CONTROL: There are two generations. Spray in the dormant season, before new growth starts, using a dormant oil. Then in May, spray twice, 10 days apart, using malathion, two-thirds cup of wettable powder, or three tablespoonsful of concentrate, in three gallons of water. In mid-July, spray again when cawlers are noticed, using malathion. It may take you two or three years to clear up an infestation, but you can do it with proper timing. Pine trees also have a scale pest in the needles. Spray in dormant season, with lime sulfur, one quart in three gallons of water.

TOMATO HORN WORMS: This pest is about the size of a cigar, yet due to its color, it's difficult to find it on a tomato plant. They have a terrific appetite and can defoliate a plant in a few days.

CONTROL: Handpick and burn or squash them. It's not necessary to spray now that tomatoes are being harvested.

BURNING LEAVES: Leaves will soon be turning and night-burned leaves are choked with white, from backyards burning leaves and clippings. Why pollute the air when you can turn leaves into gold—a ton worth up to $10 in nutrients and humus value.

Instead of burning the leaves, fall after the insects are dead, pile where they can rot into valuable humus, badly needed by grounds or clay soils. Coffee grounds, tea leaves, grass clippings, table scraps, peelings, all make ideal additions to the badly needed compost.

You don't have to fork the pile over and over, as it was believed necessary. Place a black plastic sheet over the pile to hasten decomposition, and it keeps flies and rodents out, while breaking down the material.

SQUASH TIP: A reader writes: "To keep bugs from sucking, try this trick: When you plant squash seed, sow onion seeds around and over the hill, or set out eight or in many cases, just one. The smell of onions will keep away."

RUBBER PLANTS: Leaves turning yellow in yours? It's a sign of poor drainage or too much water. Excess water around the roots causes leaves to turn yellow and develop brown spots on the edges. Report your rubber plant, making sure drainage is sharp.

Pieces of charcoal or cinders in the bottom are helpful. The mixture of one-third sand, one-third leaf and one-third peat moss. Redwood containers, clay flats or pots or something similar works out fine. Avoid plastic and glazed containers as you're apt to overwater with these.

Non-porous pots do not "breathe," hence do not dry out as quickly as clay or wooden tubs. Water once or twice a week, depending upon size and soil. Soil doesn't have to be constantly soggy—a condition rubber plants do not like.

Concern Is Expressed Over Loss of Salmon to Idaho

SALMON — "Despite a lot of noise, nothing seems to be doing to correct what the Salmon Chamber of Commerce called a "wrong situation" in connection with the salmon and steelhead runs.

The chamber in another of a series of resolutions on the loss of the river's fishery because of the decline in the runs noted that parts of the Salmon and Clearwater Rivers in Idaho are proposed to be a part of the Wild Rivers system.

The chamber approved the resolution stating that the local group is "deeply concerned" over the loss of any part of the Salmon River in the so-called Wild River System until such a time as there is assurance that the "wildness" of the stream includes a plentiful supply of fish-wildness of the Salmon River from the Snake River to its mouth with the Snake River.

The chamber went on to urge "thorough investigation, probably through the Congress of the United States to determine if the continuance of commercial fishing in the Salmon River is compatible with the Wild River concept and with the overall recreational concepts already adopted and being further recommended by the present national administration."

The Wild River bill is now before Congress, with Sen. Frank Church of Idaho one of its sponsors.

Sen. Lon B. Jordan informed the chamber in a letter to its efforts, Paul A. Brog, that he will continue to exert all his efforts to see that Idaho is given a better voice in the management of Columbia River anadromous fish runs.

Jordan said that he has "recently expressed my doubt as to the wisdom of immediately including the Salmon and Clearwater Rivers of Idaho in the Wild River System."

School Head Speaks at PTA Meeting

PAUL—Camden Meyer, Minidoka county schools superintendent, was guest speaker Thursday evening during the school PTA meeting.

He spoke on problems concerning the school and how they are to be kept up with the fast world pace.

Richard Erwin, PTA president, was in charge of the business meeting, and Boyd Earl, principal, gave a few remarks.

Program Chairman, Mrs. Leonard Martin introduced school teacher who were presented corsages by Mrs. Walton, school nurse, and Mrs. Guy Meuleman.

Jackie Arstien and Dana Culey presented a musical number. The prayer was offered by the Rev. Edwin Huber.

The annual fund-raising carnival will be held Nov. 10 at the school gymnasium. Proceeds will go towards improvements on the gymnasium.

Couple Plans Farm Bureau Talent Program

CAREY—Mr. and Mrs. Larry Peterson, Carey, have been appointed to the committee to plan the Farm Bureau Talent Program for the state Discussion Meet and Talent Find in conjunction with the State Farm Bureau Convention. It will be held November 14 to 17 in the Danlock Hotel in Pocatello.

Mrs. John Barton, Carey, is one of the first place winners in the senior division of district 3 that will compete in the state Talent Find and an alternate as previously announced, Miss Nina Mulvane, Gannett, is alternate.

Condition 3 includes the counties of Cassia, Minidoka, Twin Falls, Lincoln, Blaine, Jerome, Camas and Gooding.

condition continues its downward trend.

Despite a great dearth of salmon and steelhead trout in the Snake River drainage, the Daily Astorian, a daily newspaper published in Astoria, Ore., at the mouth of the Columbia River, reports in banner headlines in the Aug. 18, 1965, issue, that this year's August gillnet reports in the lower river in the lower river have been averaging 500 pounds of fish per day, although there weren't enough salmon in the Salmon River to even allow the sports fisherman to wet his line.

Although many words are being spoken, yet nothing seems to be occurring to "right" an evidently wrong situation. The chamber's resolution concluded.

Ex-Springdale Man Wins Award

SPRINGDALE — Gale Norton, Twin Falls, former resident of Springdale, has been awarded a "Maggie" statuette for first place in general excellence among association magazines. The award was made at the Florida-Magazine association's annual convention.

Norton is associate editor of the Florida Education Magazine. He was also elected to the board of directors of the magazine association for the coming year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don E. Norton, Burley.

Sign Erected

FAIRFIELD — An attractive wood and stone sign was erected this week in front of the Sawtooth-Ranger station in Fairfield. The Forest Service office is just off the main street and the sign is large enough to be seen by motorists passing through town on the main street. Similar signs have been recently erected at the forest boundaries.

The Money Box

By FRANK SCHELL. HURL—This column will be devoted to the readers who have asked questions about the 1909-S VDB Lincoln cent.

The scarcest coin in the Lincoln Head Series, it is most eagerly sought after, and strangely enough, is found once in a while, in circulation. In 1909, both Philadelphia and San Francisco struck Indian Head Cents, but the Lincoln Head, designed by Victor D. Brenner, was put into circulation in 1909 also, commemorating the hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

As was customary, Victor Brenner included his initials in the design of the coin, and the dies were made to include the initials. These initials (VDB) are found on the reverse (back) of the coin, below the wheat stalks.

1909 VDB shown with original location of designer's initials.

In spite of the fact that this inclusion of initials has always been customary (and still is), for some reason they were not noticed (probably due to their location) and a tremendous clamor was set up to have them removed. Because of political pressure, the dies were re-cut and the initials deleted. Late in 1909, and subsequent coins were struck without the VDB.

Some 27 million plus coins were struck at Philadelphia, and about 484,000 at San Francisco with the initials on them, followed by some 72 million from Philadelphia and 1 million and a half plus from San Francisco without the initials.

Thus we have six coins dated the same year, each different from the others, as follows:

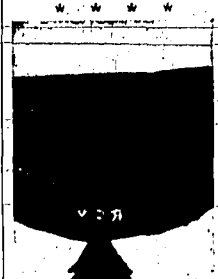

- 1909 (Philadelphia) and 1909-S (San Francisco) Indian Cent.
- 1909 VDB (Philadelphia) and 1909-S (San Francisco) VDB Lincoln Cent.
- 1909 (without VDB) (Philadelphia) and 1909-S (without VDB) (San Francisco).

For purposes of comparison the following prices will show the variance a short mintage can make in coinage:

- Indian Cent, 1909, Philadelphia—about $15.00 new.
- Indian Cent, 1909, San Francisco—about $350.00 new.
- Lincoln Cent, 1909 VDB, Philadelphia—about $6.00 new.
- Lincoln Cent, 1909-S, VDB, San Francisco—about $335.00 new.
- Lincoln Cent, 1909 (without VDB) Philadelphia—about $8.00 new.
- Lincoln Cent, 1909-S (without VDB) San Francisco—about $10.00 new.

The mintages from San Francisco are all low in comparison to those from Philadelphia. The Lincoln Cents were minted from 1909 until 1918 without the designer's initials, but the inclusion of removing the initials was finally apparent, and in 1918, the initials were replaced on the coin and have remained on it since that time. The location, however, was changed and the initials greatly reduced in size.

Indeed, so small are these letters, that many people do not even realize they are on the present coinage, but on a brand new cent, they are readily discernible. If one holds the coin parallel with the eyes to look at it. Under a glass, of course, they show up plainly.

DESIGNER'S INITIALS 1918 and after are shown.

One bit of good did come from the removal of the initials. The other extremely short mintage expensive coin of the Lincoln series is the 1914-D (Denver) Mint Cent. This coin sells for around $700.00, in new condition and many attempts to counterfeit the coin are made—using, for example, the 1944-D, and removing part of the first "4". Here, however, the distance is too great between the "2" and the recut "1". However, the best check on a counterfeit 1914-D is the fact that there will be NO initials on it—and after 1918 the "VDB" appears on the shoulder, as illustrated, so that if the initials are on the coin, it is a fake.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o the Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho.)

Cobbler Errs On Johnson's Cowboy Boots

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—The sales manager of a fancy cowboy boot factory said Friday he gave out the wrong information about making two pairs of boots with the presidential seal on them for President Johnson.

A New Jersey newspaperman raised a question about use of the presidential seal on the boots when he spotted them in a trade journal. Tony Lama Boot Co., at first said the company had made two pair for the President.

But Lama later said that was wrong. What actually happened, he said, was that when the President visited El Paso last fall for the signing of the Chamizal treaty with Mexico, the Lama factory made a pair of boots as a gift from the city of El Paso.

They were handmade of black alligator and had the presidential seal on each boot and the initials "LBJ" on the pulls. Lama said the boots were too small and the White House sent them back for remaking.

Rather than remake the first pair, Lama said, workmen made a second pair of the correct size and sent them to the President.

At the same time, according to Lama, the display of the presidential seal was toned down on the new pair by taking off the words "Seal of the President of the U.S."

It took about 70 hours of handwork to make the boots and if an ordinary person bought them they would cost $250.
