Sen. Murphy Hot Political Commodity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George Murphy, always on the "good guy" in movies and on television, has become the hottest political commodity in the Republican fund-raising market.

The 61-year-old California senator, whose silvering hair, blue eyes and ever-ready smile have made him a big color television star, picked up where Barry Goldwater left off as the most wanted speaker at $100-a-plate GOP dinners.

Murphy, who has talked in 15 states from the little more than California in the little more than a month, has been a semi-regular invitation a day. He has had to assign one staff member to the full-time job of saying "yes" or "no" to these.

When he was a student at Yale years ago, Murphy was dubbed by his classmates as "Coast-to-coast Murphy" because of his penchant for hopping from one coast to another during summer vacations.

"I never thought I'd really live up to that name but I seem to be doing it now," he said with a grin.

The Murphy phenomenon appears to be compounded of the past and the present. The voters don't exactly shriek over him but they obviously like him. To their amazement he has pulled off a lot of the plumier job of the four Broadway shows and a few movies.

Murphy makes it clear in a speech that he is supporting the "firm action" in Vietnam but he attacks the "con- sidered pattern of appeasement" he says is being followed in dealings with the Soviets in the United Nations and elsewhere in the world.

NEW $28,000 FIRE TRUCK purchased by the city of Rupert was inspected Thursday by representative of the Idaho Survey and Rating Bureau, Boise. Fire Chief Bill Cowell stands beside the new truck which has a 1000 gallon per minute pumper and carries a 500-gallon hooster tank. Karl Goble, 47, Boise, was injured Thursday while testing the truck on a canal bank north of Rupert. The mishap occurred when a stationary metal hoost apparently flipped, knocking him into the canal. He struck a cement ledge as he fell, crushing three ribs. Goble is in good condition at Minkota Memorial hospital. The truck was inspected by an eager crowd of children also. (Times-News photo)

Watts Area Waiting for Aid

By ANDREW JAFFE (There no longer is a shopping) At the street's only bank, LOS ANGELES (AP) — A let-area in Watts. Customers are manager J. K. Reibennacht, George Fort attitude, regards aid, leaving to shop. These also white, ponder the possi- bility of a "bright covering" the Watts. In this case, George is isolation. "We're concerned about the future of Watts because without these businesses there would be no need for the bank," Reibennacht says. "But the bank can only make loans based on a sound financial statement, which many Negroes here don't have. As for the white storeowners, they are waiting to see if the insurance companies pay off."

The city of Los Angeles has Businessmen along 103rd Street — the community's main commercial center — await outside forces to put them on their feet. They have been told funds are coming to clean up the rubble, finance new buildings, replace looted stock and redevelop the area. So they wait.

San Rutenberg, 65, sits near door the liquor store he owned. "I'm nothing but a few tons of rior's end, the 10-block stretch still looks as if it had just been devastated by a bombing raid. Children planter amidst the cluttered ruins, hunting for scraps of copper to sell for salvage. Fallen marigolds block the sidewalk, forcing pedestrians into the gutter. Unemployed men lounge at street corners with vacant stares.

The street is clogged with traffic — shoppers driving elsewhere and sight-seers. Before the August riot tourists came to Watts to see the towers-100-foot structures of steel and glass. Now they come to see the ruins.

When it was over the riot claimed 36 dead and destroyed an estimated $15 million in property. One of the dead was shot sniping at the Watts police station. For three hours fires raged along the street unchecked. Firemen responded quickly but then had to withdraw in a hail of stones and bottles thrown by an angry mob. When they returned, it was too late: 80 percent of the buildings in the commercial center had been touched by fire, most of them were destroyed by it.

The percentage also reflects the amount of white-owned property there, though some white businesses survived and some Negro shops were burned. The fire, after it started, knew no color.

"The tragedy we face," says one white storeowner, "is that

Junior High Negroes in White Schools

BOSTON (AP) — Negro parents expanded their transfer of their children from allegedly overcrowded neighborhood schools today, moving up to the junior high grades.

Using chartered buses, the parents sent several hundred of their children out to schools with predominantly white enrollments, adding three schools to the five in which they enrolled 242 children last week when school opened for the new term.

The Negro parents said they were taking advantage of the city's open enrollment policy which enables a child to enroll in any school in the system where there is a vacancy.

No incidents were reported. The Negro parents, who have been paying for their buses, meanwhile kept up the pressure to have the city school department take over the transportation cost.

Emmies Given At Annual Award Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dick Van Dyke, the Lamts, Barbara Stanwick and Leonard Bernstein — and an almost two-hour parade of television's technical experts — dominated the 17th annual Emmy award show.

The Television Academy, in an announced drive to streamline the award presentation, dropped categories from 29 to six. Most of the winners, however, were still technicians unknown to the general public.

The show, presented over NBC-TV Sunday night, lasted more than two hours. There were only two major entertainment categories: outstanding program and individual achievements in entertainment.

Four Emmies were awarded for the program achievements. They went to "The Dick Van Dyke Show," "My Name is Barbra," a special with Barbra Streisand; "The Magnificent Yankee," with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, and "What Is WASHINGTON — Every time I run into Liz Carpenter I worry about the future of the male animal, especially in my government. Although I know in my heart that males are much more than females, it makes me nervous to encounter a dame who is so unshakably competent and yet so unshakably a genuine girl.

If Liz is here, I ask myself, can somebody be called "Madam President" for far behind? No First Lady has ever had such a consistently good press as Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, and the reason is no secret. First, Mrs. Johnson is an energetic and intelligent woman who gives the impression she cares about people. Second, Liz Carpenter is her press secretary.

SPECIALIST IN HARD FACTS — In past administrations, the First Lady's back has seldom won any popularity contests among these hard-nosed female reporters who cover the distasteful side of the White House. What little news there was concerned tea parties and new frocks, and the she-press was regarded as a clutch of intrusive meddlers. The air became a trifle blue when some of the girls got talking about Liz Carpenter's predecessors.

But Liz handles Mrs. Johnson as the political figure she is. As an ex-reporter herself, she realizes that politics makes harder news than a passel of females sipping coffee in the Rose Garden, and she tries to relate Lady Bird's many activities to the President's job. Wherever Mrs. Johnson goes and whatever she does, Liz is on hand with background material—facts and figures on the destination in a West Virginia mining town, on urban renewal, on the problems of education.

POLISHING AN IMAGE—Thus Liz has created and polished an image of Mrs. Johnson remarkably accurate as a First Lady who is doing a job of helping her husband pursue his goal of what the White House rather floridly terms the Great Society. The image is accurate because that has been Lady Bird's role all her married life. She is by nature both businesswoman and politician, who cares little for the musing, artificial jargon which is life in Washington's drawing rooms.

It is Lady Bird's premise that her job is to help her husband, and Liz has taken on the chore of making that job as effective as possible. It was Liz who ran Lady Bird's whistle stop campaign last November during which the First Lady made 47 speeches in four days, the first time such an effort was ever attempted by a woman. And Liz sold the trip so well in advance that 225 reporters signed up for it.

BACK TO REPORTING?—Lyndon Johnson, who notices everything, is well aware of Liz Carpenter, and not only because he has been a friend of Liz and her husband, Lee, for more than 20 years. He asks her advice on women applicants for White House appointments, and she is a regular at staff meetings concerned with beating the drums for domestic policies.

These days, Liz is fond of saying that she has gone back to the newspaper dodge when her White House duties get too tight. Some day when all the men folk have gone to the ball game she'll wind up as Secretary of State.

DUSTUP ON THE RIGHT Sen. Thomas Dodd's bill to restrict sale of firearms seems to have bogged down under a storm of opposition. But it has had an amusing result. It has brought some of the far-right communists and propagandists to verbal blows.

Kent Courtney of New Orleans, the rabid segregationist and fearless Communist hunter who has an unwelcome millionaire around presidential candidate Barry Goldwater's neck, accused Sen. Dodd of being a "phony anti-Communist." Courtney, editor of the conservative "Independent American," which appears occasionally, accused Sen. Dodd of seeking to carry out a long-term goal of the Communist conspiracy, namely the disarming of the law-abiding citizens of the United States.

In an equally heated defense of Sen. Dodd, columnist Walter Lewis, an avowed Communist, called Courtney a "self-styled patriot." "Inasmuch as Mr. Courtney buys Mr. Lewis' column, he printed it in 'The Independent American,' accompanied by a long summation of the alleged conspiratorial wounds Lewis' Lewis-called him "ultra-right," an appellation whose origin he gave as the Communist conspiracy.

It may be of help in the matter, we might say that Mr. Lewis is far-right and Mr. Courtney ultra-right, but this would require a decision as to where right begins. As Gov. Rockefeller would put it, both are way out of the "main stream" of American thinking, and practice these days. Anyway, they are some comfort in having the "extremists" fighting among themselves.—The Oregonian.

DOWN THE OLD OX ROAD Those who have visited Italy will remember that one of the most impressive sights is that of the great oxen still so widely used on Italian farms. Their great foreheads tassel with red wavy hair, and their heads are heavy with heavy loads in the fields or causing some ancient stone barn to shake with the slow, ponderous and hardy stamping.

Now, however, they are being challenged by a new and even mightier beast. And while the oxen are being replaced, they have left the ox's historical life, it is rapidly becoming the Italian countryside is of major importance to Italy's agriculture.

In the two short decades since the end of World War II, the number of farm tractors in Italy has grown sevenfold and now comes to nearly 100,000. The tractors are the first of a new wave of the automobile, men and boys who have ago carried an ox-goad, now cross the fields with oil cans on their hands.

This revolution—and no other word adequately tells the story—has had its beneficial effects. Despite the flow of farmers from country to city, the mechanization of agriculture has enabled Italy to raise its production year after year. Like the American who specializes over trains but always travels by air, the Italian farmer may on occasion speak nostalgically about his beautiful hue, but when tractor show. He knows that it means that he is better off than ever before.—Christian Science Monitor.

HOW CAN YOU TELL It's not hard to separate the men from the boys these days. The men are the ones with the crew cuts.—Wichita Eagle.

Q—What is the cause of maple sugar urine disease? My 10-month-old baby has it. Is it serious? What treatment do you advise?

A—This recently discovered disease is being reported in all parts of the country. It is hereditary and is characterized by an inability to break down certain amino acids in the metabolism or utilization of proteins. The blood level of these amino acids is increased. This and other laboratory tests make the diagnosis.

The baby appears to be healthy at first but after two or three days loses his appetite and starts to vomit. He may become stuporous and have convulsions. At the time he is one week old, he will have an odor suggestive of maple syrup or burnt HEGYVES HALOM: Hungary's garrison town facing the Austrian frontier is a check-point out of Iron Curtain Europe.

It is my exit to Vienna, but only in the sense that the Iron Curtain at East Berlin. The system not only bars the satellite people from the west. As we seem hardly to realize, it also separates the people inside each satellite state.

This horrible fence with its death-dead electricities and mine fields branches off between Hungary and Czechoslovakia, Czechoslovakia and East Germany, East Germany and Poland, etc.

For example, along the hundreds of miles of the Czech-East German border which Moscow calls "a frontier of peace" only two points exist where entrance is permitted. And with such twists and turns, and varying controls, this fence runs all the way from Hegyves Halom to Hong Kong.

By mathematical fluke of having been born an American you can pass through the clamp here. But when East German, Polish and other satellite governments reached a crescendo in 1958 Hungarian revolution, 15,000 dead and wounded are the monument to this one country's effort to break the bonds. They could only fight out of Viet Nam had become Mr. War and a daddy in his own right. Maybe even the daddy of World War III.

Most in dispute are these questions: First, did the original promise to aid Viet Nam mean aid with guns or butter—or both? And second, who is most directly responsible for putting young Americans in the field to do the fighting when plans were approved to do it?

It is fairly clear that President Eisenhower offered aid in 1954 and that he may (or may not) have meant guns as well as butter. It is even clearer that there was no U.S. combat force committed to Viet Nam when Ike left office.

The files related that Viet Nam was becoming a big problem for John F. Kennedy in 1961. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson went off to Viet Nam in May, 1961, with a group of experts on a fact-finding mission for JFK.

President Kennedy said that the problem of troops and what the United States would do to help Viet Nam obtain independence was still under consideration. LBJ traveled around the world, including Viet Nam, and said no country had requested U.S. troops and that there was no plan to send armed forces to Asia.

There was a U.S. military advisory group in South Viet Nam in October of 1961 consisting of about 685 men. In addition there were some guerrilla warfare instructors. Thousands of U.S. combat troops are engaged in Viet Nam and the bombers drone overhead. Gen. Lo denon that his original promise to Viet Nam implied military assistance. He supports LBJ's war policies but denies that he is responsible for any such commitment.

Congressional Republicans have begun to tag the unpopular Viet Nam trouble as Mr. Johnson's war. All hands remember how Mr. Truman's Korean War helped the Republicans to win in 1952. LBJ's strategy is to share responsibility with Ike.

HAD GUESSING BEATS SOUTH We can't sing hymns of praise for East's one-spade response to his partner's opening heart bid. Three jacks, a five-card suit and no singleton is the sort of hand with which silence is apt to be golden, but the game was duplicated and East had come to the tournament prepared to bid.

The subsequent bidding was typical of fine competition. West bid both two and three spades and eventually South played at four diamonds. At most other tables South got to play at two or three diamonds only, but it

West opened the ace of diamonds and the king of clubs. Dummy won with the king of spades and West led the king of hearts. South's king with the ace of spades ruffed, led a heart to dummy's queen, ruffed dummy's spade and cashed his ace of king hearts.

Finally South was ready to attack the club suit. As you can see, the king of clubs can pass nicely in the West hand and a simple play of ace of clubs would hold South's club losses to one trick only. South's immediate plan was to lead his one spade and it looked as if he would certainly hold the king of clubs. Therefore, South led a low club from his hand.

West played the five spade suit but batting an eye and South played the nine from dummy. East won with the ten and played the king of clubs. South played low and West made his king of clubs. South was down one.

Q—The bidding has been East-South West 1NT 1NT Pass. You, South, hold: A Q 8 4 3 2 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1. What do you do now? A—Pass. Your partner has doubled for takeout but you have the hand with which to pass.

TODAY'S QUESTION Instead of doubling on heart your partner has doubled. What do you do now? Answer: Pass.

The war in Viet Nam is a pitiable thing, a product of a broken home like so many young delinquents. And in a slum area, the people of Southeast Asia are ill-housed, ill-fed and ill-clothed.

The Viet Nam war is an orphan war. Nobody will claim close kinship, least of all parenthood. Rejected, that's what this war is.

Someone must have fathered the Orphan. But who? Is it Mr. Johnson's Little Orphan War, or Gen. Eisenhower's? Could it be the late Mr. Kennedy's? Or Mr. Truman's? Surely not Mr. Truman's. He had his in Korea.

World Corners

By PHIL NEWSOM

(UPI Foreign News Analyst)

SATCON (UPI) — American blood and sweat are turning the tide of war for the better in South Viet Nam.

That is the good news! The bad news is the mounting cost in American lives and the likelihood that before the job is done American manpower in South Viet Nam may go consistently beyond the 125,000 already promised by President Johnson.

This is a war that never has gone according to plan, not since 1954 when the United States began giving aid to South Viet Nam. It was since 1962 when the United States began realizing the determination of the Communist attack.

It is not going according to plan now. Back in February, when American fighter-bombers began entering the war to North Viet Nam, it was with the thought that such action would make the Communist North more agreeable to the conference table. So far it has not.

But important changes have taken place, both militarily and politically. Militarily, despite initial success, the Viet Cong monsoon offensive has been a failure. They have not mounted a real mental-size attack since mid-August when they overran the district capital of Dak Sut in the central highlands north of Kon Tum, some 200 miles north of Saigon.

Instead they have been under the mounting pressure of attack from United States and South Vietnamese forces.

The change was gradual and outwardly not especially spectacular. But the South Vietnamese no longer talked of defeat. And the Viet Cong, who had boasted confidently of victory in 1965, were forced to reassess their strategy.

The guessing was that the Viet Cong, deprived of any chance to smash South Viet Nam militarily, now would abandon Phase III of their attack and fall back on Phase II.

Phase III had seen them attack in organized units up to three regiments. Phase II would see their return to guerrilla warfare and political infiltration.

Top Americans in South Viet Nam also were reassessing strategy.

delled by an infant and is excreted in the urine. Tests are now available to discover this disease in the first week of life. When the disease is discovered it is essential to feed the baby a diet with no milk, meat or eggs. Fruit and vegetables and a specially prepared protein supplement are given until the child is five or six years old, after which a normal diet can be given.

When the treatment is given normally, but when it is not followed severe mental retardation results. This disease is similar in many respects to maple sugar urine disease but involves a different set of essential amino acids.

Q—If a child is born of a father who had recently had a stroke would she be as healthy as if the father had not had the stroke? A—Yes. A stroke would not affect the father's sperm cells. The child's health would depend on how well the mother was during pregnancy, hereditary factors derived from both parents and the care the baby received after birth.

Tunisia Will Boycott Arab League Work

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, in a memorandum made public today, said his country will boycott all further activities of the Arab League so long as it remains under what he called Egyptian domination. The memorandum, sent to King Hassan II of Morocco, stopped short of actual withdrawal from the league. Bourguiba's announcement caused concern in Casablanca, where the chiefs of most Arab states are assembled for the third summit meeting of the 13-nation league. Bourguiba complained bitterly of the "campaign of lies" launched against him by the Egyptian press and radio following Tunisia's refusal to break relations with West Germany. He said the United Arab Republic (Egypt) tried to intimidate all Arab states to break with Bonn following the establishment of diplomatic relations between West Germany and Israel, even though such a break was against the Arab states' own interests and "did not" do the slightest harm to Israel.

Nixon Is Optimistic Of Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he is optimistic about the war in Viet Nam, but he warns: "We are not out of the woods...." "There is danger of becoming impatient," he said Sunday on the NBC radio television program "Meet the Press." "And remember," he added, "we are looking down the road for two to three more years of intensive activity...." Nixon repeated his general support for the administration stand in Viet Nam, but said the cause is hurt when President Johnson and other administration officials talk about reaching a basis for negotiations. "Remember, Nixon said, "the Communists think differently than we do. The Communists never talk about negotiations unless they are losing." Nixon, the 1960 Republican presidential nominee, has recently returned from a trip to South Viet Nam.

Miss America Tells Plans For Future

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Deborah Bryant, the Kansas beauty who would like to become a pediatrician and do volunteer work in Viet Nam, began her reign Sunday as Miss America 1965. The Overland Park resident said at a news conference Sunday she would like to work with "Project Concern," the volunteer organization in Southeast Asia sponsored by the U.S. Jaycees. "I would like to teach the natives to treat themselves," said Debbie, a 5-7, brown-haired beauty with a 36-23-34 figure. "I hope to do a lot of very worthwhile work." The new Miss America said she became interested in the project after meeting Dr. James Turpin, who originated the idea. "He told me he expected to see me over there as soon as I graduated from medical school," she said. Miss Bryant, 19, who represented the Sunflower state in the nation's oldest beauty contest, was selected Saturday night over 49 other girls. They then competed three days in evening gowns, swim suits and tennies. She was crowned by Vonda Kay Van Dyke of Phoenix, Ariz., last year's queen.

Ike Reveals Health Doubt In New Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower said that after his stroke in 1957 he considered resigning as president because of doubts that he could bear the burden of office, the New York Times said today.

The former president made the disclosure in his new book, "Waging Peace, 1953-1960," the second volume of his presidential memoirs. The White House Years, and expanded on it in an interview at Gettysburg, Pa., with Times reporter Robert H. Phelps.

Rep. Compton I. White and actor Robert Lansing were among the guests. "The test he set for himself was to attend, over the protests of doctors, family and friends, a conference of the North American Treaty Organization in Paris. If he could successfully participate in the strenuous activities he would stay on as president. Otherwise he would resign."

The book describes how the president passed his self-imposed test.

Sox End Loss Streak 4-1 Over Yankees

CHICAGO (AP)—Bill Skowron's three-run double in the eighth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees Sunday and ended their losing streak at five games.

The victory also moved the White Sox into second place ahead of Baltimore but left Chicago nine games behind American League-leading Minnesota.

The Yankees had pulled into a 1-1 tie in the seventh when Tom Tresh hit a homer off White Sox starter Tommy John—the first he had allowed. John allowed only one more hit before he was removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth when the White Sox put the game away against Al Downing.

With one out, Danny Cater reached base on Phil Linz's throwing error. One out later, Floyd Robinson and John Romano drew walks, filling the bases, and Skowron followed with his shot to deep left center.

The victory lifted John's record to 12-7. Downing, who allowed only five hits, hit 12-14.

The White Sox scored in the first inning when Danny Cater, leading off, crossed Downing for a walk. Don Buford singled to left and when Robinson beat out a bunt the bases were loaded. Downing struck out Romano but walked Skowron, Cater scoring.

Phil-Card Game Is Rained Out

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The St. Louis Philadelphia game was rained out Sunday after 1.3 innings with the Cardinals leading 1-0.

The game probably will not be rescheduled since neither team appears likely to be involved in the National League pennant decision.

er to watch the fourth-seeded Santana, long acclaimed the world's best city court player, who has first major grass championship.

Nicklaus, scrambling most of the day, was within a stroke several times but took backcourt bogeys on the 13th and 14th holes as Player shot ahead by three strokes with four holes to play.

Nicklaus, who won the first two World Series but didn't qualify in the third one, which Tony Leva won last year, shot 36-35-71 in the final round for a 142 total. It was good enough for second money of $15,000.

Peter Thomson, the British Open champion, had a 35-36-71 and 144 total, finishing third for $7,500. PGA Champion Dave Marr had a terrible 39-38-77 and 151 total for last place and $5,000.

Player showed no adverse effects from a three-week lay-off. He was amazingly steady although he left the final outcome in doubt when he took a bogey 4 on the 15th hole which dropped his lead to two strokes.

But the black-clad South African put any possibility of a Nicklaus charge on the last two holes out of question when he rammed in a 50-foot birdie putt on the 17th green.

Player had to go to the fifth hole to extend his lead beyond one stroke because of some excellent scrambling by Nicklaus. All four players parred the first hole before displaying some fantastic shots on No. 2—Nicklaus, Player and Thomson bagged birdies while Marr dropped out of contention with a bogey 6 that put him six shots behind the leader.

On the fifth hole, Nicklaus caught a bunker, blasted out and two-putted for a bogey 4. Player picked up his par and was two shots in front.

Player made the turn in 35, holding his two-stroke advantage. Both birdied 10, but Nicklaus picked up a stroke on No. 12.

He covered the 180 yards with a fly iron and pulled within a stroke as he dropped a five-footer for a birdie while Player settled for a par, two putting from 15 feet.

But the South African quickly regained his two-stroke edge when the erratic Nicklaus took a bogey on No. 13.

A TWO-DAY CATCH is displayed by Jay LaJouissance of 125 Borah Ave. W. after catching the seven-pound trout at the day at Salmon Creek Reservoir.

Local Angler Says Trip Worth While

Not many fishermen would consider one fish for six hours of fishing a worth while catch. But, then again, it all depends on the size of the fish.

Take Jay LaJouissance of 125 Borah Ave. W. for example. After six hours of bank fishing at Salmon Creek Reservoir, LaJouissance returned home with a seven pound trout, which he considered well worth the trip.

And just two days before that LaJouissance landed a six pounder and a three pounder at the same place. His fishing partner, Jack Cahill, however, didn't fare quite as well. His rainy and empty handed, although he did lose several big ones.

LaJouissance was using night crawlers for bait and was fishing between Whiskey Slough and the dam on the west side of the reservoir.

Jet Fumbles Let Oilers Win by 27-21

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Houston Oilers turned a weird series of fumbles into 10 quick points midway in the second half Sunday as three touchdowns passes from Don Trull to Willie Frazier paced the Oilers to a 27-21 American Football League victory over the New York Jets.

A 16-yard loss and fumble on a third down center was followed by two more jet fumbles as Houston broke a 14-14 tie on an eight-yard field goal by George Blanda and the third Trull-Frazier touchdown pass.

The 10-point spurge covered just 23 seconds and thrilled a national television audience and a hometown crowd of 52,680—an opening day record for the six-year-old AFL.

Despite the quick change of events that began developing late in the third period, the game was in doubt to the closing minutes. New York quickly capitalized on a Houston fumble with a 23-yard scoring pass from Mike Taliaferro to Don Maynard.

States Don't Want Federal Regulations

PORTLAND (AP)—Fish and game officials from Oregon, Washington and Idaho agree that they don't want the U.S. Department of Interior to regulate Indian hunting and fishing. The officials, members of the Oregon, Washington and Idaho fish and game commissions, met in Portland Thursday and Friday to discuss proposed federal regulations governing Indian hunting and fishing.

Herman P. Meierjürgen, chairman of the Oregon Fish Commission, summed up the attitude of the state officials: "We can't countenance the federal government inserting itself into the picture."

The Interior Department drew up regulations to help the states with the problem of forcing Indians to comply with state laws.

Indians in some cases now insist they have the right to fish and hunt off reservations because of treaty rights.

Indians have the right to fish commercially behind Bonneville Dam outside Fish Commission controls.

The Tribal Council of the Yakima basin fishermen behind Bonneville regulate tribe members but this year it offended commissioners by leaving the river open to Indian fishing after Oregon closed it off to preserve fish runs.

Fish biologists say Indian fishing has been rapidly and soon could pose an even greater threat to depleted salmon runs.

The states maintain they have the responsibility of preserving fish and game resources, but are unable to do the job properly because of the Indian's exemption from state laws. They turned to the Interior Department for a solution to the problem.

The fish and game officials decided to utilize existing court actions and initiate new cases in hopes the courts will back the states instead of the Indians.

Commissioners want a tri-state compact to deal with the problem.

Giants Move Into 2-Game Lead as Cubs Fall Twice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants rocketed to a two-game lead in the National League race Sunday by climbing over the tumbling Chicago Cubs 4-3 and 9-2 and extending their longest win streak this season to 10 games. The doubleheader sweep increased the Giants' lead to two games over Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost 3-2 to Houston, and 2½ games over rain-riddled Cincinnati.

Bob Bolin, first of four San Francisco pitchers, picked up his 10th victory against five losses in the first game as Larry Jackson, 12-10, took the loss.

Veteran Southpaw Warren Spahn gave up two homers to John Boccabella in the nightcap but went on to post his seventh triumph against 16 defeats with a seven-hitter.

The Giants scored all their runs in the opener in the sixth inning as errors by Ernie Banks and Glenn Beckert produced three unearned tallies. Chicago added three more errors in the nightcap.

Willie Mays hit his 46th home run of the season and the 490th of his career in a four-run eighth inning outburst that sealed the second-game victory for the Giants. Jesus Alou, who lashed a two-run double, was aboard.

Mays' blow came off Ted Abernathy, making his 75th appearance of the year, a National League record. Jim Konstanty of Philadelphia and Bob Miller of Los Angeles held the old Mark of 74 that Abernathy tied in the opener.

The Giants scored twice in the second inning of the nightcap when rookie left fielder Byron Browne misjudged a bases-loaded drive by Hal Lanier that following walks to Willie McCovey and Len Garbrielson.

Browne allowed a single by Jim Hart to bounce through his legs for an error in the third inning after loser Bob Buhl had given Alou a single and McCovey a walk. McCovey followed Alou across the plate.

Bank's error in the sixth inning of the first game came before Mays slugged Dick Schfield across with the Giants' first run. Alou came home as Jim Hart hit into a force play at second base, and Mays followed across when Beckert fired wildly to first, trying to complete a double play.

89ers Take PCL Playoff Series

PORTLAND (AP)—The Oklahoma City 89ers, paced by two homers by shortstop Ernie Fazio Monday, won the Pacific Coast League playoff series, four games to one.

The 89ers, champions of the Eastern Division, took a couple of games at Oklahoma City by identical 4-3 scores and won 4-2 in Portland Saturday night. The Beavers, Western Division leaders, won 4-9 in the third game at Oklahoma City for their only victory of the series.

Rookie Sets First, Solons Trim Angels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rookie Brant Aiyen became the first American League player ever to hit a pinch-hit homer on the first pitch to him in the majors when he crashed a three-run shot in the sixth inning of Washington's 7-1 victory over California.

Aiyen, a 21-year-old right-handed swinger, was announced as a pinch hitter Saturday but did not get to bat. He came up in the sixth inning Sunday and tagged the first pitch to him from Rudy May into the Washington bullpen.

The only other player in baseball history to hit a first-pitch, pinch-hit homer in his first at-bat was Ed Morgan of the St. Louis Cardinals, who accomplished the feat in 1936.

Aiyen's homer scored Fred Valentine and Jim French, a rookie catcher who had a perfect day with two singles, two walks, a stolen base and two runs batted in. Aiyen had been with Hawaii and French with York of the Eastern League and Hawaii.
