Les Outz, Hailey Native, Is New Mountain Manager at Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY — Les Outz, formerly one of the assistant heads of the Sun Valley Ski School, is now the Mountains Manager at the Idaho resort. Outz was born only 12 miles away and was skiing straight down the surrounding hills on the old long skis when Sun Valley was still an alfalfa field. He was not more than 11 years old when he first learned controlled skiing at Sun Valley and became a junior racer. —the closest relationship with what is his new domain was in 1943 when he worked as a trail crew of one under the well-known skier, Fred Iselin. Iselin, like Les and horns out whenever they ran into the little staging monsters while cutting brush — a frequent occurrence — he used to say, "Let us flee" and flee they did. In retrospect Outz thinks they did more fleeing than cutting.

Coronet Peak. —This summer he has coordinated the development program on the Warm Springs or northern side of Baldy mountain that includes the construction of two new lifts, the cutting of the now "Flying Squirrel run," and the widening and improving of the old Warm Springs run to make it worthy of the name, "Warm Springs International," the locale selected by Bob Beattie and Bill Janss for the International Five-Nation "Team Meet" to be held here March 25-26.

4,500 Are Stranded by Snowstorm

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP) — An early snowstorm which slashed across north-central Wyoming stranded an estimated 4,500 travelers in the city of Rawlins early today.

Chamber of Commerce President Quinn Johnson and officers of the Salvation Army started working late Thursday afternoon to place travelers in private homes after the city's hotel and motel rooms were filled.

The Chamber of Commerce had a hotel capacity of about 1,000. Some 600 persons had been placed in private homes before midnight, and chamber and welfare officials said they anticipated about 200 more.

The U.S. Weather Bureau issued hazardous driving warnings and heavy snow predictions for the southwestern area Thursday night, and predicted an additional two to four inches of snow.

Many of the travelers were stranded when the Highway Department closed Interstate 80 from Rawlins east to Laramie, Wyoming, and U.S. 30 north to Casper were reported extremely slick and hazardous.

Painting of Chief Joseph Is Unveiled

BOISE (AP) — While two braves who claim to have ridden with Chief Joseph during the Nez Perce Wars of the 1870s watched, a painting depicting the surrender of their chief was unveiled Thursday at the Idaho Statehouse.

Among the Nez Perce tribesmen garbed in the traditional feathered headdresses and buckskins were Albert Moore and Josiah Redwolf who say they were with Joseph at Bear Paw Mountain at the time of the surrender.

Both men claim to be near 100 and would have been about 12 years of age at the time of the surrender in 1877.

The 11-by-7-foot painting is the work of Mrs. Eva Rockwell Little of Arkleton, Wash. It will be on display in the Statehouse for several months and eventually will hang in the headquarters of the new Nez Perce National Historical Park recently created by Congress. It embraces a scene scattered over a 10-mile stretch north-central Idaho which has significance in the Nez Perce's early history.

The painting shows Joseph and his Nez Perce lieutenants at the moment of their surrender, following their retreat from Oregon, across Idaho and into Montana. Above Joseph are the words of his surrender speech: "From where the sun now stands Joseph will fight no more forever."

Bill on Closing of Bases Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed Thursday a bill which closes down military bases that are no longer needed.

The bill authorizes the secretary of Defense to close military bases if he determines that they are no longer needed for national security.

In the first, it forbids closing of any military base until 120 days after reports of planned closing were supplied to Congress.

Johnson vetoed the bill in Congress, but it was reauthorized in only 30 days' notice.

The authorization is for fiscal year 1966 and the fiscal year that began July 1.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, Sept. 17—Born today, you have a highly developed memory, and nothing excites you more than exercising it. One of your chief pleasures in the storing of knowledge and dispensing it is just the right thing to gain you substantial benefit. In your zeal for knowledge, however, take care not to become one of those "eternal students," forever taking courses with no particular objective in mind.

The establishment of an objective toward which to work and into which to pour your energies and talents, is the most important key to your success. It is also the most difficult key to obtain, for you are not by nature one who willingly travels straight toward a single goal, but you prefer to wander with the wind and generally allow external forces to move you as they will.

A basically sympathetic person, you could easily be persuaded to commit yourself to acts of generosity which you can ill afford. You will have to guard against giving in to your emotionally responsive in this way, for you may not only hurt yourself but also hurt those whom you must inevitably disappoint.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, Sept. 18—Born today, you are optimistic by nature and always hope for the best, regardless of how futile a situation may seem. Then you are inclined to look at the world through rose-colored glasses—an inclination which cannot possibly change any situation; an inclination, therefore, which could lead to disillusionment and disappointment.

Although not readily influenced by mere acquaintances, you are rather easily persuaded by close friends or members of your family into taking a particular stand on any given question. This is not, however, to say that you have no mind of your own; rather, it indicates that you are likely to choose friends and select your mate (therefore, your family) from among those who think and act as you do.

If you are wise, you will cultivate your innate sense of humor to the point where you can face reality with genuine smiles rather than a wry one. You will then be able to remove your tinted glasses and look at life for what it is, at the same time not taking it all so seriously as to be depressed by it.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

West End Richfield farmers have reported the highest wheat production acreage for the season. Sid Lozamlz has the highest yield per acre with one field going 122 bushels an acre. Lozamlz also reports the hardest hit by the root rot. Production was cut from 53 to 57 bushels to the acre, where badly affected.

John Baptio is cutting his third cutting of alfalfa at their ranch southwest of King Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Trail report they have finished cutting the second cutting of hay at their ranch at Hill City, which they say is quite unusual for Camas County, but due to rains and nice weather a new crop was harvested. Mr. and Mrs. Trail also own a ranch in Pasadena Valley south of King Hill.

Bob Maxwell, Bliss, has purchased a halifer calf, Gem Hill 322253, from Suesz Bros., Gooding, Idaho.

Ray Thompson is cutting his corn at their ranch south of King Hill and also cutting his clover seed crop.

Fall plowing is in progress at the Charles-Kast 101 ranch, east of King Hill.

Albert (Bob) Lawson is cutting 23 acres of clover seed at the Arthur Greer ranch south of King Hill. Greer says that Lawson is having difficulty in cutting the seed because of new growth.

Maverick, a 5-year old Appaloosa horse, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hougland, Hagerman, placed first in cutting at the Twin Falls County Fair, putting him in first place as the top Appaloosa cutting horse in the Idaho Cutting Association. The first place trophy was a huckle donated by the Y-Inn, Bliss, and made by Sundance Cravat.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Harding, who farm southwest of Buhl, have sold their ranch to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thornborrow, Orange County, Calif. The Thornborrows will take possession Nov. 15. The Hardings, who have farmed in that area for the past 20 years, plan to retire and will make their home in Buhl.

Ell and Jim Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wright, all Twin Falls, are combining their beans and getting a good yield.

Bob A. Robinson, Tuttle, brought two horses, Tiger's Music and Balu Bambino, back from Pullman, Wash., where they underwent surgery for broken leg bones at the Veterinary College. The horses were at the college 21 days and were given deep therapy to help the bones heal well. Both of the horses have been trained for racing but the Robinsons do not plan to run Tiger's Music again but will use him only for breeding purposes. It will depend on Balu Bambino's condition whether he will be raced again. Both horses were injured in racing this summer. Tiger's Music is owned jointly by Bob Robinson and Marvin Robinson, both Tuttle ranchers, and for the most part have been trained by them.

Officers of the Elba Cattlemen's Association, Arden Wickel, president, Elba; Richard Jones, vice president, Almo, and Elmo Elkon, secretary, Malta, rode with Forest Ranger Merlyn Stocks, Burley, to make a survey of the forest pastures in the hills west of Elba.

George Croft has moved his combine from his home place in Emmerton to his ranch in Elba where he is cutting grain. After he finishes his grain he plans on cutting for several other ranches in the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hench and family, Burley, have purchased the Floyd Bell farm in Malta and have moved there to make their home. The Bells have moved to Burley where he is a member of the Burley school system.

William Arbaugh is chopping hay and corn at the W. W. Knox ranch north of King Hill. The corn is being put into pits for silage for winter feeding of stock.

One of the heaviest crops of second cutting alfalfa hay on Camas Prairie is on the Charles Foster farm just west of Corral. The place is being farmed by Carl Anderson. Because of the unusual wet weather, many farmers got a second cutting of hay which is unusual unless the land is under irrigation. Farmers report that due to the winter kill of alfalfa this year, that the yield of the combined cuttings was about the same as the single-cutting last year, from the same fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloe Smith and family have moved to Wendell after being on the prairie for many years. He was employed at the Hazard Wilson farm west of Hill City.

Wet weather has hindered Camas Prairie farmers from getting their grain harvested. Most of the winter wheat is harvested but much of the spring grain remains to be cut.

Milk Production

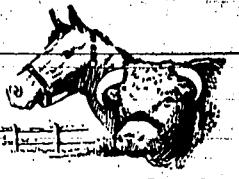

BOISE—The USDA-Crop-Reporting Service estimated total production of milk in Idaho at 138 million pounds during July, compared with 142 million pounds a year earlier and the 151 million pounds 1959-63 average for July. Production declined three per cent this year from June to July compared with the five-year average seasonal decrease of five per cent for the same period.

Heavy Frost Damage Reduces Yields Of Idaho Potato and Bean Crops

BOISE (AP)—Late summer frost cut Idaho's probable potato production, according to the Department of Agriculture. The agency said indications point to better quality tubers with a larger than usual proportion of No. 1 potatoes. This could increase the price to the farmer.

Based on Sept. 1 conditions, the department said total potato production in Idaho this fall is likely to be 58,805,000 hundredweight. This compares with the small-1964 crop of 34.1 million hundredweight and exceeds the previous record of 57,734,000 produced in 1961.

The below-freezing temperatures the final three days of August and first two days of September killed many potato vines, particularly in Eastern Idaho.

The cold failed to damage the crop in southwestern Idaho, however, and favorable growing weather during August increased the estimated production for that area from 8,010,000 hundredweight to 9,405,000. The expected per acre yield was boosted from 270 sacks to 285.

In the remainder of the state the crop was estimated at 49,400,000 hundredweight compared with an Aug. 1 estimate of 50,835,000. The expected yield dropped from 205 to 200 sacks per acre.

Except for the southwest, frosts were general the mornings of Aug. 29 through Sept. 2, forecast now is for a crop of 2,202,000 bags, down 13 per cent from the prediction a month earlier.

Production of dry peas was forecast at 1,505,000 bags, 15 per cent less than in 1964.

Production of hops was forecast at 7.4 million pounds, larger than the 5,863,000-pound crop produced in 1964 and the average of 6,991,000 in the preceding five years.

Freeze Damage To Cost Millions

Agriculture in Magic Valley faces a suddenly bleak outlook and freeze and snow damage will cost farmers from $1 to $5 million.

A valley-wide survey conducted by the Times-News Thursday night—with freezing conditions forecast—brought out the dark predictions from experts in the field.

The freeze means that there will be a considerable drop in potato tonnage and that the entire crop of third cutting alfalfa would be lost.

Beans were hit with a premature frost about three weeks ago and in cases where plants were defoliated and the pods exposed, any more freezing conditions would mean at least a 30 per cent crop loss.

Freezing, the experts agreed, would ruin the picking (grain) corn and canning corn would be a loss with possible exception of use for silage.

With the temperature hovering just above freezing while the survey was being made, the farm experts were worried.

"This is no good," one of them said, while another added that "the killing frost this early in the growing season has robbed plants of two or more weeks in which to continue growth."

with about one-fourth of the onions pulled by Sept. 1.

In the U.S., late summer onion production at 20.53 million cwt. is 15 per cent above last year and 11 per cent above average.

Onion Crop Increases In Gem State

BOISE—Onion production in Idaho and Eastern Oregon is expected to total 3.20 million cwt. this year, according to the USDA Crop Reporting Service.

This is 21 per cent more than the 1964 production and 43 per cent more than the 1959-63 average. The prospective yield, of 480 cwt. per acre, compares with 457 last year and the 5-year average of 459.

Onions in the area have generally sized well. Rain in late August caused some mildew, the service said. Pink root and purple blotch seem to be at a minimum, however. The proportion of seed stems in many fields is unusually high this year. Harvest is well under way

First Synthetic Grain Ever Produced Outyields Wheat, Has High Protein

WASHINGTON—Triticale—the first synthetic grain ever created by man may soon create a feed belt pushing far north as spring wheats can be grown, according to the USDA.

This new crop is a cross between wheat and rye, with some of the hardness found in rye, with its ability to produce in cold climates and on poor soils, and some of the quality of wheat.

It produces as much as 50 per cent more grain in each head than wheat and each grain is usually twice the size of a plump wheat kernel which it closely resembles.

Liquid Manure Handling Gaining Increased Support

CINCINNATI—Liquid manure handling has been gaining favor as the method of manure disposal, according to the Farm Quarterly. The supporters of this system claim it to be the best answer to date. The skeptics claim it adds problems instead of solving them.

The desired handling system would store the manure, retain all of its nutrients and then move the material to the field with a minimum of time and expense. Liquid manure systems, as reported in the fall issue of the magazine, are pointed in this direction.

There are two basic types of liquid systems. The first uses under-the-floor storage. The manure is dropped through a slotted floor into the storage tank below and remains there until it is pumped into an applicator tank trailer. The second type is an underground tank at the end of a building or feedlot. Manure is bladed, washed or dragged by conveyor into this tank.

One of two transfer systems can be used to put the liquid manure into a spreader ready for application on the fields. The first has a vacuum pump mounted right on the spreader. A hose is dropped into the manure, the pump then creates a partial vacuum.

Another design incorporates a pump located right down in the storage tank for transferring manure into the spreader. The pump is usually a recirculation design that sucks liquid in one port and expels it from another using this pressure stream of liquid to break up the solids and mix the contents of the tank.

After agitation, the flow is diverted to the applicator tank for filling. This method seems to work best when the storage tank is unusually large or when the manure is heavy with solids and straw.

Out of 100 trips hauling liquid manure onto a field, water content may represent 60 of those trips. Whether the savings of nutrients out-weigh hauling more water than with a solids system depends upon labor costs and distances to the fields.

Liquid manure handling will normally preserve more nutrients than a solids system. In-tank storage is far cleaner than other methods presently known. Odor is drastically curtailed. Manure is kept out of ground surface water supplies, and kept from running all over the farmstead.

Chicken Farmers Cut Back Layers, Increase Broilers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chicken farmers have cut potential egg production for the remainder of 1963 and the early part of 1964, but have expanded broiler output substantially for the same period.

In a review of the poultry and egg situation, the Agriculture Department said egg production during the first seven months of 1963 was the same as during the same period a year earlier.

But egg volume during the rest of the year and into early 1964 probably will be shrinking because program for egg flock replacement ceases in the 32 million in 1964. This would be the smallest number on record.

The department said the country's egg-laying flock will not decline by seven per cent, because when lower replacements are raised, farmers generally keep their older layers in production longer.

Egg prices to farmers during the first quarter of 1963 averaged 30.7 cents per dozen, 5.5 cents below a year earlier and the lowest for the period since World War II. Since then, egg prices have gone up a little, hovering a little under the 1964 average.

The department said the prices are likely to advance during most of the remaining months of 1963, and average higher than a year earlier.

Farm broiler prices in January-August averaged 15.0 cents per pound, compared with 14.2 cents in the same period last year. Higher prices for broilers this year stemmed from sharp price reductions for sharp prices for red meats as well as from a continued increase in population and in customers' income.

Broiler demand is expected to remain stronger than in 1964, but with continued large production, prices probably will weaken over the next few months and average under a year earlier.

Experimental Insurance Set for Utah

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Crop Insurance Corp. plans an experimental crop insurance program for the 1968 Utah sugar beet crop.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, made the announcement. He had asked that certain Utah crops be included in experimental programs for possible insurance against weather and other disasters.

Moss said the agency's manager, John Luft, replied, "We have been studying the insuring problems and needs in Utah and hope that in 1968 we can make a start from which the insuring experience will permit an expanding service to your farmers."

The extent of the Utah experimental program will depend on federal appropriations, Moss said.

Much of the research work done on Triticale has been carried out by Dr. B. Charles Jenkins, research professor of agronomy at the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg, Canada.

He has been able to accelerate the development of Triticale by harvesting two crops a year, one in Canada and one in Mexico. This is being done under a grant provided by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Though this new grain is being thought of as a feed crop, it could vary well be developed into a food grain to produce wheat-like flour. As a food grain, this high-yielding crop may help ease the world's food shortage.

Freeman Praises New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman claims the Senate's new farm bill is a "significant step forward" in national policy.

By a unanimous vote Wednesday Freeman said, "We now have the mechanisms which will provide this nation with the flexibility to adjust its food and fiber production to changes at home and abroad."

The Senate passed an omnibus farm bill earlier this week, including new programs for wheat, cotton, feed grains, dairy products, rice, and crop-land retirement.

One of the key features of the bill was the provision expanding use of direct government support payments to another major crop, cotton.

Freeman noted that differences between the Senate bill and a similar bill passed by the House must still be settled by a conference. But he said the outline of the new legislation was clear.

The secretary said the bill would allow rural America "to focus more of its creative resources on the social and economic problems which it faces today."

"If It Wasn't For the Land Bank, the sky could be the limit!"

"For nearly fifty years the Land Bank has helped the farmer by always keeping loan interest rates at rock bottom. It would be anybody's guess what interest rates might be if the Land Bank wasn't setting the pace.

"Fortunately, the Land Bank will go right on doing the pace-setting. How come? Because the Land Bank system is owned and managed by farmers and ranchers—and there are a lot of us.

"When you become a member-borrower of your local Land Bank Association, you also become a part-owner with all kinds of benefits. Your loan can be for nearly anything, your name and for up to forty years. You vote on which local people will serve as directors. You're never penalized for late payments. You share in the earnings.

"Best of all, you deal only with heads-up local people who genuinely care about your success."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Incentive debt repayment report of farmers may be due partly of $2.6 billion in 1964 and $3.1 billion in 1965 have aroused some concern among Agriculture Department economists.

Total farm debt Jan. 1 was $37.5 billion. This compares with a total debt of $34.9 billion a year earlier, and $31.8 billion in 1963.

The current farm debt consists of $18.9 billion in mortgages on real estate and $18.6 billion in non-real estate debts. The farm mortgage debt itself was up $2.1 billion from a year earlier.

Writing in the 1965 balance sheet of agriculture, the economists said:

"Concern about the farm debt situation has continued to grow. The increasing size of farm debt relative to farm income has caused many people to wonder whether farmers have been using credit as a substitute for income and whether the debt structure can be supported without gains in farm income."

Officials of major farm credit institutions frequently express anxiety about the intense competition among lenders that has been a factor in the continuously higher mortgage loans made per acre of farmland.

Total farm debt in 1950 was $12.4 billion. The current total represents an increase in total debt of 201.7 per cent in 15 years.

The department said the rapid growth of farm debt after World War II apparently resulted mainly from the enlargement and improvement of farms and from the increased investments necessary to stock, equip, and operate them.

The agency added that it may be presumed that the increase in farm debt after 1950—about 45 per cent—stemmed chiefly from the use of credit by farmers to enlarge their land holdings.

Steamed Flaked Grains Boost Feed Efficiency

CINCINNATI — The newest wrinkle in increasing efficiency and gains in beef feeding is through the use of flaked grains.

To the big feeders this is old hat as some of them have been at it for as long as 20 years. But USDA experiment stations have recently taken a look at the process and now have the figures to confirm that the feeders have been on the right track all along. . . . that steaming grains before running them through a roller significantly increases their value.

Corn, barley and milo which have been processed in this manner—cooked, as some of the feeders call it—become flat cakes and make a palatable feed apparently more easily digested than grain which has been put through an ordinary grinding, rolling or cracking process. According to USDA reports, it is generally agreed that the process increases feed efficiency 10 per cent.

The next step may be pressure cooking. Several Arizona and California feedlots have recently tried this, but no figures are available yet to demonstrate just how good this departure is because these feeders are reluctant to reveal the details.

It would appear that the chief benefit to be derived from the addition of pressure is a saving of time. But some feeders and research people feel there are other advantages.

The one most frequently mentioned in a gelatinization of starch in the grain, a process of rearranging the starch molecules of the grain in such a way that the enzymes in the digesta can break them down that the enzymes in the digesta more rapidly.

Storm Damage Reported to Midwest Corn

CHICAGO—Storms during the last two weeks have damaged a large area of the best corn in the nation, according to Dallas Western, director of grain development for the Quaker Oats Company.

Western said that storms had cut a swath up to 200 miles wide through Iowa, Illinois and Indiana — areas which previously had the best corn prospects in the nation.

The soil in the storm-struck areas was already wet and loose from rains, and the ears were heavy. Because of this, the 90-mile-per-hour winds and heavy rains brought by the storms flattened nearly every acre of corn in the area. What was not flattened was left tangled.

According to Western, the maturing and drying out process will be greatly retarded. In addition, regular mechanical pickers may not be able to harvest the downed corn. In many areas, the corn can be used only by turning in livestock.

ures—undoubtedly would be much higher if the increase in debt had grown out of the use of credit generally to finance borrowers' operating deficits," the economists said.

How to make good corn silage even better

livestock feed

Harvest at around 50% moisture... process it through a HARVESTORE® system... get more feed power in every ton

Harvesting silage tells you when you have to put your corn up, and what feed power you'll harvest. If you store corn at less than 70% moisture, you run the risk of high silage. So you have to cut it early at high moisture... even though it's not as good a feed as it could be.

The HARVESTORE combination of "oxygen-free" storage... bottom unloading gives you much wider flexibility. So you can store high moisture corn silage or low moisture silage or both... whichever works out best for you.

Harvest as high-moisture silage... You'll get excellent feed... and time for an extra-heavy schedule of late-season jobs.

Harvest later as mature, low moisture Cornlage. You'll get less water and hundreds of pounds more dry matter, grain, and feed per (TDN) from every acre.

Harvest both ways. Cut part of your acres early. Follow with one or more later cuttings—right on top of the first one.

This HARVESTORE flexibility can work for you with every crop, every day of the year... to help you make your farm more profitable. Read how HARVESTORE owners are successfully feeding Cornlage. Just mail in the coupon below.

Plans Proceed for 23rd Conservation Convention

SALMON—Plans for handling the 23rd annual convention of the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts here at Salmon this fall are moving ahead, according to Paul Pattee, chairman of the Lemhi Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors.

Pattee is a member of the convention committee for the state-wide meeting and will be in charge of local arrangements. Convention headquarters will be at the Herndon Hotel. The new Salmon Elks Club will be used for all the full convention sessions as well as for the convention banquet and luncheon.

Although the first regular session of the convention will start at 9 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 18, delegates will start arriving about noon the day before since the directors of the association plan a pre-convention meeting the afternoon of Nov. 17 along with members of the State Soil Conservation Commission.

Considerable local participation in both the planning and the execution of the convention is being provided by organization and individuals as well as the board of supervisors and alternate supervisors of the Lemhi Soil Conservation District and the Women's Auxiliary of the district, Pattee said.

The Salmon Chamber of Commerce through its president, Paul Brog, and the chairman of its convention committee, Joe Prokash, have assisted with the planning for the use of local facilities, provisions for delegation housing, assistance with registration and other details.

The Chamber of Commerce convention committee plans to furnish assistance on pre-convention publicity to district supervisors statewide on housing and facilities.

The Salmon Jaycees plan to actively assist with several jobs during the convention.

Lumber Co. will furnish its bus for transportation of delegates between downtown and the Elks Club as well as for tours. Intermountain also has invited delegates to tour its beam plant north of town. Numerous local individuals have consented to serve on publicity and luncheon programs, participate in panel discussions.

Local participation also is planned for the convention banquet and luncheon. Local businessmen will be invited to attend the supervisors luncheon at noon Thursday, Nov. 18, Lemhi County farmers, ranchers, district-supervisors and wives will be invited to attend the convention banquet Friday night, Nov. 19.

An extensive entertainment program for delegates' wives and statewide membership of the Women's Auxiliary has been planned by the Lemhi SCD Women's Auxiliary under the leadership of Mary Pattee, Lemhi auxiliary president.

Since mink farming is an extremely interesting industry in this area, the women have planned their activities around it. Heading the list of mink activities will be a tour of the Larry and Jon Billie Mink Ranch on Carmen Creek, Pattee said.

Interest in the convention seems quite good among supervisors over the state if motel and hotel reservations are a guide. Some were made last February and March and are coming in regularly, Pattee said.

Safety Programs Attract More A-H Members

CHICAGO—The National 4-H Service Committee announced that more than 825,000 boys and girls in 4-H are expected to receive some safety training this year.

Of this number, 575,000 club members will carry out specific assignments as part of the national safety program.

Programs this year call special attention to safe driving, safe highways, and safety check of motor vehicles, the committee announced. In addition, in 1966, projects will center around water safety. Last year drug and chemical safety headed the list.

The committee continued that interest in safety among the youngsters is on the upswing. Last year 27,800 more members took part in the safety program than the preceding year.

Weed-Killer Chemical Is Demonstrated

WILFORD, Idaho (AP).—Experimental work was presented Tuesday on the effectiveness of a new weed killer against some noxious weeds previously resistant to chemicals.

The killer compound is a derivative of picolinic acid.

The persistent perennial weeds were all of the so-called broad leaf type, including Canada Thistle and field bindweed (wild morning glory).

This type of weed can invade and persist in fields of such crops as wheat, oats and barley, and put the field out of use or diminish the yield.

Dr. J. F. Kagy, head of the Dow Chemical Co. laboratory that discovered and developed the new weed compound bearing the trade name Tordon, said it attacks the broad leaf weed both on the surface and underground at the roots.

Dr. Kagy said tests show the compound has low toxicity in birds, mammals and fish, and is therefore safe if used in the proper amounts.

Paul Ritty, head of the new product's program for Dow, said four versions have been approved for use by the Federal Drug Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He said they can be used not for crops but for such purposes as eliminating weeds and brush along road and power lines.

But he said clearance was expected soon for use in small grains such as wheat.

The new weed killer cannot be used in flower gardens because it would kill the weeds, belong to the same plant category.

The same would be true of such crops as potatoes and matos.

Per Capita Consumption of Eggs Decreasing Rapidly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans aren't eating as many eggs as they did a few years ago. The Agriculture Dept. indicates there is no reversal of this trend in sight.

For capita consumption of eggs in 1951 was 293. In 1964, it was 314. In 1965, it is expected to be about 307.

The department said this downward trend in consumption since the early 1950s occurred despite a 27 per cent decline in the retail price of grade A large eggs, a 53 per cent increase in per capita disposable income, and a 12 per cent rise in retail food prices in general.

The department said most of the decline in egg consumption between 1951 and 1964 was in eggs used in shell form. Consumption of processed eggs showed some increase during the period. Much of this gain probably came from government purchases.

The department said that the morning coffee break has completely replaced breakfast for many adult Americans.

Fewer persons now are engaged in hard labor and in general do not feel the need or are unwilling to take the time for large breakfasts—the kind calling for large use of eggs. Others eschew large breakfasts in an attempt to lower their food intake, or to catch the bus on time.

More wives now are working outside the home, which probably has encouraged greater use of highly advertised breakfast cereals and less home cooking.

Amount Spent On Machinery Sets Record

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 1965 balance sheet of agriculture shows that farmers spent an estimated record $4.7 billion for tractors, trucks, and motor vehicles in 1965, the USDA reports.

This total expenditure included farm machinery and equipment other than tractors, $1.9 billion; farmers' automobiles, $1.4 billion; tractors, about $800 million; and trucks, about $480 million. All categories showed increases over 1964.

The Agriculture Dept. estimated the value of all motor vehicles and machinery on the farms at the beginning of 1965 at $23.2 billion, up from $21.1 billion a year earlier.

The department said the increase in value was modest and reflected the high rate of calculated depreciation during the life of automobiles, tractors and equipment. The agency said that much of the investment in new machinery is relatively new.

The department said the number of tractors, grain combines and other harvesters on farms increased during 1964, while the number of motor trucks, pickup trucks and field forage harvesters increased. The pickup harvesters and field forage harvesters are relatively new and as yet few have been discarded or become worn out or obsolete.

FAIR STAR AND FRIENDS appeared at the Twin Falls County Fair on its tour of the Idaho State Fair circuit this year. Wired for sound and pictures, the beef tells the story of his life from an Idaho ranch to the packing plant. The exhibit was assembled by the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, department of animal science. At left is university Academic Vice President H. Walter Steffens, and John Baker, assistant professor of animal science.

New Commission to Make Long-Term Review of Nation's Food Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson is ready to announce the creation of a new commission to make an exhaustive long-range review of the nation's food and fiber policies.

Informed sources said Thursday that the chief executive may name Dr. Sherwood Borg, head of the Department of Conservation District to Hold Election November 9

Glenn Nelson, chairman of the board of supervisors of Twin Falls Soil Conservation District, announces the election of three members of the district will be held on Nov. 9 between the hours of 11 noon and 5 p.m. at the County Agent's Office. The office is located at 634

Condition of West's Range Above Normal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Reporting Board said the range conditions in the western range area on Sept. 11 were above normal. The board said a seasonal decline of one point in range feed conditions occurred from a month earlier. This compares with the three-year average decline of two points.

No Dollar Gain Expected From Low-Fat Milk

WASHINGTON—No financial gain to dairy farmers was seen in moves to encourage low-fat milk consumption, researchers at the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported recently.

Low-fat milk, containing about two per cent butterfat, would help bolster fluid milk sales by partially offsetting the decline in per capita use of whole milk.

Calves are in good conditions and have gained well on the abundant summer feed. Sheep and lambs generally have made good gains.

The board reported livestock well fleshed preparatory to going into the fall and winter months.

U.S. Ice Cream Production Is Lower for Year

WASHINGTON — The USDA estimates the production of ice cream in the United States in July was estimated at 80.30 million gallons—one per cent less than in July 1964, but six per cent more than the 1959-63 average for the month.

Output increased eight per cent seasonally from June, compared with nine per cent at this time a year ago and four per cent on the average in the 1959-63 period. The milkfat content of ice cream manufactured in the United States averaged 11.0 per cent in July 1965, the same as in January 1965 and also July 1964.

Compared with July last year, changes in ice cream production were mixed. Decreases in the leading producing States were two per cent in New York, six per cent in Pennsylvania, and five per cent in California.

July manufacture of sherbet in the United States was placed at 5.75 million gallons—seven per cent smaller than in July

Gasoline Tax Refunds Must Be Claimed Soon

Farmers who claim refund of federal tax on gasoline used in farm operations are reminded to file statements by Sept. 30, according to Donald T. Yount, extension Agricultural Agent, and Calvin E. Wright, Boise, Idaho district director of the Internal Revenue Service. The refund is available for gas in non-highway use.

All gas purchases must be consolidated in one claim, the Internal Revenue director said. This is true regardless of how many farms an individual, partnership or corporation operates, and regardless of the number of gas suppliers. Additional or amended claims cannot be paid.

Claims are to cover the period July 1, 1964, to June 30, 1965. Pre-addressed claim forms are mailed to all farmers who filed for refunds last year. Blank forms are available for new claimants at the county agent's office or Internal Revenue office. Wright said oil dealers who help farmers prepare their claims are urged to advise them that purchases from other oil companies and for other farms must be lumped in one claim. Otherwise, Wright said, the farmer will lose some of his refund.

Buhl Slates Study Class For Sunday

BUHL. — The lesson entitled "The Holy Spirit in Life Today" will be the subject for the second of a series of study lessons being conducted by the Buhl Church in Buhl, Idaho, this Sunday at 7:45 p. m. Sunday in the Buhl Church. "If there is a possibility of new power in my life? In the presence of the Holy Spirit?" This question will be the subject of the study. Discussion by the study class will be held at 7:45 p. m. Sunday in the Buhl Church. Mrs. Shirley Wasko, Mrs. Elva Mason and Mrs. Martin Miller.

It is noted Rev. Paul L. Rue, pastor, uses the Book of Acts for his sermon Sunday mornings and the evening meetings and study lessons coincide with the sermon. More than 40 persons from the two churches attended the first meeting for the introduction to the church wide mission study, "Acts: Then and Now" by Harvey L. Potho. Rev. Mr. L. Rue gave the opening worship and introduction. Highlight of the evening was a dramatic presentation, "Bridges—At Bixton." Participants were Miss Hutton, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. L. Rue, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. G. G. Griggs, Mrs. Everett, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. A. Karaloff. Persons who were unable to attend the introductory lesson can easily get into the study by attending this second lesson, the church official said. All are invited to go to the Buhl and Castleford churches and their friends are invited. It is suggested the booklet, "To All Nations" or Acts from the Bible, be read this week prior to Sunday.

Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed lower today but with losses in a late rally. Trading was active. Gains of 2 points or so by such stocks as SCM Corp., Raytheon and General Dynamics put a bid speculative flavor in the declining market. The list absorbed its worst losses by early afternoon and then began to climb out of its hole. In late dealings Union Carbide and Du Pont were still down a point or so and General Motors was off a fraction. But Boeing had converted a loss to a gain of more than a point. U. S. Steel shucked off a loss and ended the day with a gain of 6.3 million shares compared with 7.42 million Thursday.

Here was the picture toward the close: A mass of key stocks stretched from fractions to well over a point. Preweekend profit-taking after a prolonged rise, international tensions and the virtual blackout of financial news in New York City due to a newspaper strike were cited as factors in the decline. The trend was lower among steels, motors, airlines, office equipments and nonferrous metals. Tobacco, oil, chemicals, electrical and rubbers were mixed. Raytheon, up more than a point, looked like the volume leader. Richfield Oil, also ahead more than a point, was heavily traded on news of its planned merger with Atlantic Refining, which would close to a point.

Stocks were unchanged to fractionally lower after an early rise. Big Three auto, down from the start, showed fractional losses.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat mustered a strong rally—today's opening in brisk early afternoon transactions on the Board of Trade, but all other commodities remained under a fair to weak range. Advances ran to more than a cent a bushel in wheat. Forecasts of a drier, if not warmer, weather were believed to have induced a good deal of buying pressure in a weak range. Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 0, corn 1 1/2, oats 3, rye 1, barley 6 and soybeans none.
