Legislators Determined to Draw Industry to State

BOISE (AP) — Ask the average Easterner what they do in Idaho and he's likely to tell you they raise potatoes, ski, hunt, fish and ride boats down the rapids of "the river of no return."

"They're all fine attributes but the Idaho Legislature appears determined to add industry to the list. The 1965 legislature took at least three steps toward drawing more industry to the state and a group of legislators are looking around for ways the 1967 legislature can do more."

The legislators are members of the Legislative Council's Business Climate Committee. Their job is to prepare recommendations to the next legislature for improving the climate. The committee chairman is State Sen. Cecil Andrus, D-Clearwater, who sees industry as a way to feed Idaho's future growth.

"It is my feeling," he said, "that if the state is going to grow, it must have the lunch bucket. Anything you develop in industry, you increase the payroll." Andrus' committee is well aware Idaho has one of the world's largest construction firms, Morrison-Knudson one of America's leading lumber and paper producers, Boise Cascade, and is getting more industry all the time.

But under every silver lining there is a cloud, and the committee wants to find out what it can do about the cloud. Andrus said his committee's first task will be to try to find out from large firms who can help.

"Hook Runner" Job Said Most Dangerous in Air Force

IN THE SOUTH CHINA SEA (AP) — The next time you brighten the eyes of the younger generation, of bearded beakies tearing up their draft cards and picking the White House, think of kids like Billy Collins.

Airman Apprentice Collins, from Madison, Wis., is 18. His short-cropped blond hair often is matted with sweat and the grease and grime of his profession run down his face in streaky black rivulets.

War to Billy Collins means standing in the dark in the middle of the flight deck, five feet from the foul line, while a 50,000-pound attack bomber thunders toward him at better than 200 miles an hour.

Are You An Exception?

By Dr. Ernest D. Paul, D.C. The average person gets a mental and physical bottleneck these days. From his appearance on earth until three generations ago man's body was a subject to an endless string of forces.

These kids make about $136 a month. I wouldn't take that job for a general's paycheck," said Lt. Cmdr. Jim Bell of Cumberland, Md., a jet pilot who doesn't regard his own job as half so dangerous.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Pope Paul's visit to New York City Oct. 4 will be many wondrous things to many men, but for the United States government it will be a terrible risk.

For most Americans, there will be high drama in the first visit to the shores of the United States by the Roman Catholic Church's pontiff.

For American officials, from the President down to the rawest rookie on the New York police force, it will be a time of strain put into blunt words by a veteran member of the State Department's security division: "If anything should happen to him..."

MANY RISKS AHEAD—That dark day in November, 1963, was a reminder that something terrible can happen even to the President of the United States. And his Holiness, as head of a church which is still a target of the fanaticism of a fanatic fringe, could be in greater danger than any visitor to the United States since Nikita Khrushchev. "If anything should happen to him," the consequences would be world-wide and cruelly damaging to American prestige.

Over the Pope's schedule during his 12-hour stay in New York is almost an invitation to an assassin. First, he will be driven in an open car from Kennedy International Airport to the midtown residence of Francis Cardinal Spellman. After lunch, he will go to the United Nations for an address before the General Assembly and that night he will celebrate Mass in Yankee Stadium.

FBI NOT CALLED IN—The protection of the Pope will be left in the hands of the New York Police Department, perhaps the finest in the world at that job. United Nations Security forces, and the security forces of the State Department. But under the circumstances, it seems a little strange that the U.N., which is his Holiness' official host, has not called upon either the FBI or the Secret Service to assist in this protection.

Both the FBI and the Secret Service, it was learned, will turn over to the U.N. Intelligence Service any information concerning possible suspects—but only if requested to do so. Neither will be a part of the protective force, although the FBI alone has a corps of 875 crack agents in the New York City area, and the Secret Service has decades of experience in guarding presidents.

NO ONE IS SAFE—Pondering the situation, certain security officials here recall President Kennedy's conclusion just before his murder that there was no sure way to prevent an assassin from killing him or any other high official. The route from Kennedy Airport and the canyons of Manhattan offer the potential assassin the chance of sniping at rooftops and windows of windows from which to operate. His capture would be virtually certain; but this has never deterred the kind of mind bent on political murder.

"If anything should happen" to Pope Paul during his visit to the United States, the immediate risk would be to the United States. On Oct. 4, 1963, the world would be told of a "barbaric" America where no man is safe from sudden murder. And it would give the Vatican a second thought about its new policy of permitting travel abroad by the Pontiff. Since the U.S. has been asked to run such a risk to let the pope visit, it would be a sure sign that the pope who was assigned to New York City on Oct. 4.

SAME OLD STORY

The new farm bill under final scrutiny in Congress now appears as the same costly effort which has failed to cope with surpluses in the past.

The bill has passed the House with a compromise on the wheat certificates and the pressure on urban congressmen—but not on the nation's purse strings. Urban congressmen, sensitive to consumer complaints on increased food prices, balked at increasing the price of wheat certificates paid by millers. The millers would pass it on in increased bread and wheat product prices.

They're happy now. Who picks up the tab on the 30-cent increase in the certificates—now projected for $1.25 per bushel?

Uncle Sam, of course. The treasury pays the extra 50 cents and everyone's happy.

The congressmen don't seem to realize that the Treasury's tab on the wheat certificates is still going to be borne by the nation's taxpayers. The only real advantage is that it will be a rationed burden, on all the taxpayers, not just the food buyers.

But this oblique device is a favorite in Congress. The dictum seems to be: "Don't let the taxpayer become aware of any serious or direct tax increase in increasing government burden. Make it as oblique as possible."

We are still paying more for the new farm bill. And the tragedy of it all, it will not really help the farmer.

Some day, some bold and imaginative fellow will find some way to both sell and give the nation's food surpluses to the world, in a meaningful way. This will have to mean the farmer's direct contact with the market place, with the working of supply and demand. And it should also mean a dramatic change in the ability of lesser nations to buy and use our foodstuffs. The Idaho Wheat Commission has made noticeable strides with the Far East. But so much more can be done in a resourceful development of new markets.

Admittedly, this is asking a sweeping upgrading of the "other nations," which cannot be done in substantial amounts. But much can be done in altering the eating habits of people, as this metamorphosis progresses and new technologies tap latent human and material resources over the world.

What is needed mostly, now, in a gradual transition from complete support to a highly selective and low-key one, is a farmer focusing with supply and demand.—Idaho Falls Post-Register.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

A mother writes that every time her 18-month-old son is bitten by a mosquito or a sand fly the bite swells and gets red. It stays that way for about a week. Since some persons are more sensitive to insect bites than others this is not surprising. Even without an increased sensitivity this could occur if the child scratches the top layer of the skin off and gets a mild infection in the bite.

This child should be protected by applying an insect repellent and by having him sleep under a mosquito net. For ant bites that occur in spite of these precautions calamine lotion with 1 per cent phenol would be soothing. The lotion should be dabbed on lightly with absorbent cotton and allowed to dry. An ointment that contains hydrocortisone or an antihistamine will also relieve the itching and promote healing.

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Boasting the minimum wage has been slow business and still is. In the 27 years since 1938 Congress has raised it only 31 cents an hour to its present $1.25.

And now a bill to raise the minimum to $1.75 and extend the coverage of the law to 7.8 million more workers seems dead for this session. About 29 million workers are presently covered.

Even if the House should approve in 1965, the Senate won't have time to act.

Earlier this year President Johnson recommended an additional 4.6 million people be brought under the law's protection but he didn't recommend increasing the minimum wage, saying that was up to Congress.

So Congress undertook to do it, or part of Congress did. The House Education and Labor Committee approved a bill to raise the present $1.25 minimum to $1.40 next July for those now covered, to $1.60 on July 1, 1967, to $1.75 on July 1, 1968.

And coverage would be extended for the first time to farm workers, bringing them in at $1.25 an hour July 1 and at $1.40 an hour July 1, 1968.

The rate for other newly covered workers would start at $1.40 an hour next January and go up in yearly increases to $1.75 by July 1, 1970.

Among those newly covered workers would be employees of small retail businesses, laundries and dry cleaning firms, restaurants, hotels, motels, movie theaters, hospitals, local transit systems, and small telephone exchanges.

But the reason it is unlikely to become law this year is that the bill is caught in a squeeze in Congress; not the first time this bill has happened to this kind of bill. Any hope of pulling it out of the net is slim.

At the age of 32, he accepted an invitation to appear on television and explain why he has avoided regular employment for 15 years.

"I have no conscience at all," he said, "and I'm quite content to live on the taxpayer."

He says he gets $18.34 a week in relief payments when he isn't working, and when the government finds him a job he promptly arranges to get himself fired.

"I don't think I like work of any kind," he remarked.

"When I see men working at some building site, my reaction is 'they're working for their money and I'm not working for mine, and I couldn't care less what people think.'"

At first thought an old-fashioned moralist might be appalled by Albert's sense of the nomics. It flies in the face of Aesop's ancient fable about the shiftness grasshopper and the thrifty ant.

According to Aesop, the grasshopper danced the summer away while the industrious ant stored provisions. When winter came the shivering grasshopper limped to the ant's door and asked for food.

The virtuous ant replied: "Man, while you were kicking life away, I was putting it in the refrigerator. But for me—not you. You can starve as far as I'm concerned."

Well, that was good enough for Aesop, but his fable is out of date. A third fable has entered the scene. It is called the government.

One of modern government's many functions is to take by debt the part of the ant's store to see that the grasshopper doesn't starve. This doesn't do much for the ant, but it does give the government a feeling of social responsibility. It also enables the grasshopper to live to eat his can bunnily hop away next summer.

There may be a kind of justice in operation here. Perhaps the world needs to do much for the government's as well as for the grasshopper's.

When you get right down to it, the ant has to real come in operation here. Perhaps before the child is 3. It may be with him, and he might as well wear leg braces for a while or have an operation to correct the deformity, depending on how covers it is.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

The American scene takes on new proportions after two months abroad. The miracle of Mighty America—incomparable America, with only seven per cent of the world's population—is reborn with fresh force.

The economic revival in Europe is interesting and beneficial. Europe today is producing more than it consumes.

In England, never-endingly, it takes three men to produce a ton of steel, whereas one man can do it in the United States.) But the economic revival abroad is not decisive.

The West German government could hardly be said to have advanced its success was notably evident on the French TV. But even myopic de Gaulle is aware of a problem that a true free market can be a true free market.

I attended President Charles de Gaulle's news conference at the Elysee Palace in Paris. In fact, I put a question to Franco's anti-American policy in Viet Nam — to de Gaulle. He prearranged the questions and prepared his answers in advance. His success was notably evident on the French TV. But even myopic de Gaulle is aware of a problem that a true free market can be a true free market.

He can behave like Chiang Kai-shek, the rooster who came to believe that the sun rose because he crowed at dawn. This is not decisive.

In Europe, intrigue is a way of life centuries old. Most Europeans are cynics by experience and many regard us as fools. The lack of it. Nevertheless, European lives only under the shield of our economic and military power, without the continent could have a dependence whatever from the Soviet Union on the same mass and might well have been occupied by the Russians long ago.

This shield alone allows the free nations to neglect their defenses. Actually, much of the economic recovery is due to the savings made on the military side, to any notion of the billions our taxpayers have supplied. It's sometimes it seems that we're more worried about the Europeans than they are about themselves. But our security remains indivisible from theirs, largely unthanked or not.

Whether this can be sustained uniquely and entirely depends on what happens inside the United States.

The responsibilities we are thrust upon us by the certainty that the Western Alliance is shaky and that the Soviet menace will continue.

Europe alone would be enough, but the responsibility is global. We are already deep in the Southeast Asian war, we are committed to protect the U.S. dollar and (twinned) the British pound in a gold crisis, and we have to prepare against any potential downturn in the U.S. business cycle. Each of these responsibilities is unlimited and we do not have the initiative for the control of a single one of them.

President Johnson must make an immediate inventory of our responsibilities vis-à-vis our capabilities. There is no responsibility beyond home and those that we abroad become unworkable, as Mr. Johnson cannot play the spendings for the Great Society without weighing this balance.

There are no boundaries human needs. The President cannot continue to the only of our needs. He must priorities on his spendings, at once. For if economic or or events conspire against there is no strong country standing by to help the United States return into respect with the world and the torments because our great problem clearly the long-term problem. Failing to be strong we invite world aggression. Failing to main solvent we defeat ourselves.

Organized labor strongly supports the measure. In fact, the AFL-CIO requested the minimum be increased to $2 an hour and that the 40-hour week be dropped to 35.

But the bill has been attacked by nearly every employer group in the country.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt asked for the minimum wage law in 1937. That was the year the Supreme Court, which had previously wrecked one piece of New Deal legislation after another, began a change of heart.

Until then the court had knocked out not only federal but state minimum wage laws, ruling that neither states nor the federal government could pass such laws generally.

And it had previously ruled out a child labor law as unconstitutional on the grounds it exceeded the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce.

But 1937 was a recession year on the heels of a depression. Congress responded to Roosevelt's request, but not without a struggle. The same House Rules Committee tried to strangle the minimum-wage bill that time, too.

The full Congress finally approved in 1938 the Fair Labor Standards Act which imposed a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour, but restrictions on the use of child labor, ordered a 44-hour work week (later 40) for businesses in interstate commerce, and compelled overtime pay for hours worked over the 44-hour limit.

Nevertheless, while millions of workers benefited by this law, other millions weren't protected at all. In 1961 about another 4 million were included in the coverage.

The Supreme Court in 1941 upheld the wage-hour law, so after that it became simply a problem for Congress to increase the minimum and broaden the coverage as changing times demanded.

Just this shield alone allows the free nations to neglect their defenses. Actually, much of the economic recovery is due to the savings made on the military side, to any notion of the billions our taxpayers have supplied. ### Alcoholics Freed From Texas Jail

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—The 150 alcoholics whose suits resulted in a Supreme Court ban on official public prayers in public schools, Sunday, were released from a San Antonio jail.

The 42-year-old woman was released in 1960 on a writ of habeas corpus filed in Dist. Judge Archie Brown's court.

Mrs. Murray was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct stemming from a scuffle with police. Baltimore officials have begun extradition proceedings, which Mrs. Murray said will last for the next two years if it takes that long.

Her 10-year-old son, Garth, also was released. He had been taken to a children's shelter Saturday night.

Judge Brown set an Oct. 15 hearing on the writ, which was filed by Henry Maverick Jr., a prominent Texas attorney in a suit involving individual rights.

Mrs. Murray and her son went to the home of the Rev. William de Wolfe after his arrest. De Wolfe is minister in the San Antonio chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

De Wolfe said Mrs. Murray had no plans to talk to reporters.

Mrs. Murray faces charges of assault and disorderly conduct in Baltimore.

After she won the landmark decision involving prayer in public schools, Mrs. Murray filed a suit to remove the tax exemptions granted churches and religious institutions. The suit is still in an appeals court.

Pope Paul VI Celebrates With Gypsies

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI broke precedent Sunday by observing his 60th birthday at a Gypsy camp south of Rome.

He ignored heavy rain to clap his hands to the rhythmic strains of violins, guitars and brass fiddles.

The pontiff made the 20-mile trip from Vatican City to a Gypsy encampment near Pomezia and the stormy weather forced only one change in his schedule.

Pope Paul celebrated Mass on the steps of a seminary instead of a cathedral in the middle of the settlement. Thousands of Gypsies from throughout Europe are gathered in and around Rome for their first international pilgrimage to the Eternal City.

Mass. Pope Paul kept time with his hands to the tunes of a Gypsy band. The musicians played as the Pope crowned a statue of the Madonna.

The Pope said Mass in Latin while officials translated the proceedings into Italian. He appeared on the second floor of the seminary and heard the Gypsies shout "happy birthday" and "viva il Papa."

Farm Families Said in Favor Of Stamp System

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major distributor of farm stamps reported today that farm families like the stamp system.

The distributor, Sperry and Hutchinson of New York, said it has made a study to show what the farm might be toward the practice of some retailers in giving stamps with purchases.

The stamps may be redeemed in merchandise. Sperry and Hutchinson, distributor of the S & H Green stamps, said in a statement that the latest study showed that 5 per cent of the nation's households save stamps for redemption purposes. It said this percentage has been stable since 1954.

Viet Nam Photos Made Into Film

NEW YORK (AP)—Striking new pictures, taken in Viet Nam by more than a score of photographers, have been made into a motion picture film.

Entitled "Viet Nam," the film will be shown for the first time Oct. 1 at the annual convention of the Associated Press, New York.

The 10-minute production was photographed by Willard Van Dyke, a leading figure in the field of documentary films. Van Dyke employs a technique which makes the characters in still photographs come to life.

Congress Passes One Metal Minting Bill for Small Lead, Zinc Producers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has passed one metal minting bill this session and will be asked to complete action next year on another.

Awaiting the signature of President Johnson is a bill to liberalize and continue for another four years a program giving federal subsidies to small domestic producers of lead and zinc. The bill cleared Congress last week.

Sen. Leo Metcalf, D-Mont., plans to press for senate action early next year on a House-passed "hard rock" mine safety bill. This bill passed the House Sept. 2 but is jammed in the busy Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

Scores of other mining bills were introduced in Congress this year, but no other major measure has reached the Senate or House floor for action.

Among these are bills to establish flexible import barriers against foreign lead and zinc. Barriers that would be raised when metal prices fall and lowered when prices rise. Such a law would give a broad protection to domestic mines.

The subsidy program, started in 1961 to help small producers, will be continued through 1969 if President Johnson signs the extension bill as expected.

The bill would double the present limit of 600 tons of lead and zinc which a company could produce and still qualify for subsidies. While this would bring more mines under the program, congressional committees have reported that the payments will continue to go only to small producers.

Payments are based on the difference between the market price of lead and zinc and the statutory stabilization price of 14 1/2 cents a pound.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said in an Interior Committee report that new or additional appropriations are authorized or contemplated.

"A total of not to exceed $16,250,000 over a four-year period was authorized by the 1961 act," the report said, "but payments to date amount to only $2,132,305."

"Total payments under the extension bill are limited to $2.5 million annually.

The Moss report said many small producers have been helped by the subsidies, but that protection is needed for all domestic mines, such as would be given by the adjustable-import barriers.

The mine safety bill, opposed by major mining companies but supported by labor unions, would set up a federal-state program aimed at improving safety and health conditions in mines.

It would give the Interior Department mine inspection authority.

A similar bill is being sponsored in the Senate by Metcalf, who as a member of the House headed a special mine safety subcommittee which held hearings in the West.

House members from the hard rock mining states were in the forefront of the fight for the safety bill in House debate on the measure.

Economic Problems Top Soviet Agenda

MOSCOW (AP)—Big black cars drove up in front of the Soviet Communist party Central Committee's administrative building today, bringing party leaders to launch a new effort to solve the country's economic problems.

The party newspaper Pravda made an attempt of the meeting but filled half of its front page with an outline of what the Central Committee had to do this year to set the country on a better course.

The editorial did not mention Premier Nikita Khrushchev, blamed for much of the difficulty the country now faces in industry and agriculture.

Clara Bow, Film Star, Dies at 60

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Clara Bow, the sensuous "It Girl" of the silent screen, died Sunday night while watching a late television movie. She was 60.

The celebrated star of the flapper era zoomed to success in the 1920s as the embodiment of sex. But in the decade that followed her light of popularity flickered and the torch was carried on by succeeding screen beauties.

Miss Bow had been in failing health for several years and had recently been under treatment for extreme asthma at a rest home where she maintained an apartment and was free to come and go. Friends said she kept a radio under her pillow at night for the soothing effect of music.

Miss Malone, Maxfield Say Wedding Vows

NUIT—The Buhl-First-Baptist Church was the setting for the Sept. 5 double ring wedding rites uniting in marriage Charlotte Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Malone, and Clifford Maxfield, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Maxfield Sr., all-Buhl.

The afternoon candlelight nuptials were solemnized by Rev. Robert Burchell. Pedestal baskets of coral and white gladioli and branched candelabra with white tapers formed the background decor for the ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Vonley Hopkins, organist. She also accompanied Mrs. Calvin Harper, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, recited vows in an elegantly styled floor-length gown of pure silk peau de sole designed with a sapphire neckline and tiny point sleeves. A tall lace panel accented the fitted bodice. The chapel train held by a Dior rose formed a bustle in the back. A silver and tear-drop pearl necklace complemented her ensemble. Her hand rolled veil of pure silk illusion was secured to a pillbox hat embellished with satin and seed pearls.

The bride carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of coral-colored lily roses encircling two pale green Cymbidium orchids enhanced with green and coral colored shower ribbons cascading from a white lace covered Bible.

Janet Lauda served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids, a and candlelighters were Mrs. Luther Malone and Mrs. Harold Malone, both sisters-in-law of the bride.

Flower girls, Lynn Walden, Kelly Malone and Teresa Smith, carried white wicker baskets and scattered coral-colored rose petals. Denton Maxfield, brother of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

Robert Maxfield, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Luther Malone, Moscow, and Harold Malone, Everett, Wash., brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in the church social hall. The bride's table featured a white slipper satin tablecloth with a white duster flourish, underscored with mint green and caught in scallops around the edge of the table with large coral-colored satin roses with green velvet streamers.

Centering the table was a three-tiered wedding cake with a heart-shaped base encircled with four individual heart-shaped cakes. ### Trial Delay Asked in Slaying Case

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers planned to ask a state court judge today to postpone the separate trials of two white men accused of slaying two civil rights volunteers in this central Alabama county.

Meanwhile, federal court action on the same matter—but for different reasons—loomed as a strong possibility if Flowers did not gain his objective.

Flowers was scheduled to appear before Circuit Court Judge T. Worth Thigpirt to request postponement of the trials of the white men, James J. Coleman, 35, and a Birmingham-area, Kit Klux Klansman, Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21.

Later, a three-judge federal panel in Montgomery was to hear request filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that these two trials, and all others in which defendants face charges of alleged racial discrimination in selecting a jury.

Coleman is scheduled for trial here Tuesday and Wilkins on Wednesday. Defense attorneys for both men said they wanted immediate trials with no delays.

The attorney general originally had intended to ask only for continuance in the trial of Coleman, part-time deputy sheriff and member of a prominent Lowndes County family. Coleman is charged with manslaughter in the slaying of August of Jonathan Daniels, 27, an Episcopal seminary student from Kenne, N.H.

Daniels was gunned down in front of a grocery store here shortly after his release from jail where he served six days for participation in demonstrations at nearby Fort Deposit.

Flowers, angered by failure of the Lowndes County grand jury to return a murder indictment against Coleman, vowed he'd seek a postponement of the trial. This would enable him to ask another grand jury later for a murder indictment.

But in U.S. district court in Montgomery on Friday, the ACLU filed an amended request asking for an injunction which would bar the trials of Coleman and Wilkins and any others whose fate is up to a jury.

The ACLU charged that Negroes are systematically excluded from jury rolls in Lowndes County.

Flowers stated then that he would ask for delays in both trials.

Wilkins, a mechanic from Fairfield, Ala., is one of three Klansmen charged with first-degree murder in the slaying last March on U.S. 80 of Mrs. Viola Luzzo of Detroit. Mrs. Luzzo was shot to death as she drove a Negro youth from Selma to Montgomery.

Wilkins' first trial, last May, ended in a hung jury.

Mother Examined After Deserting Son at Airport

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Detroit mother undergoes psychiatric examination today after telling a judge she left her mentally retarded teen-age son at a Miami airport with three cents in his pocket and no identification.

Mrs. Victor Thorne flew to Miami late Sunday night after a nationwide search was started Wednesday, the day the mute boy was found at the airport.

Mrs. Thorne, wife of a businessman, was ordered admitted to Jackson Memorial Hospital for examination after a one-hour hearing before Dr. Ben Sheppard, chief juvenile court judge for Dade County.

Another hearing was set for today.

Mrs. Thorne told the judge she left her son, Richard, 13, at the airport in the hope that someone would find him and be interested in him. She said she could not find suitable help for the boy in the Detroit area.

Her son is being cared for at a private home under the jurisdiction of Dade County.

Richard has been unable to speak since he suffered brain damage from encephalitis and pneumonia when he was 18 months old.

Frost, Rain Hits Crops Over Nation

By The Associated Press
Freezing temperatures chilled most of the northern border of the nation from Maine to Montana Monday and in some areas frost and rain dealt damaging blows to crops.

Readings in Montana and Michigan were in the low 20s, while snow fell in parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota. Southwestern Montana reported freezing drizzle.

South of the snow area, cold rain swept through the plains and the Mississippi Valley.

Tropical depression Debbie moved slowly northwest in the Gulf of Mexico and early Monday was reported about 500 miles south of New Orleans.

The combination of frost, and rain and unseasonably low temperatures in some states threatened to wipe out certain crops.

Vatican Gets Appeals on Atheism

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council heard appeals today for a new approach in the problem of world atheism, with understanding for those who sincerely believe there is no God.

The plea included a proposal for "a worldwide campaign" to eliminate atheism, not by simply denouncing it, but by coming to grips with its social and economic causes.

"Atheism is not only a philosophical problem but has economic causes," said the Rev. Pedro Arrupe, the new general of the powerful Society of Jesus (Jesuits). "Reform of the social structure is necessary in the fight against atheism."

"The matter is urgent. This is the time for action."

Father Arrupe, Spanish-born prelate who has led and worked nearly 20 years in Japan, and in 1964, as the assembly of Roman Catholic cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops debated a schema on modern world problems.

Other council fathers echoed his appeal, saying it was not enough to denounce atheism and proposing positive action to combat it.

Vote on Right To Work Law Is Doubtful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Whip Russell B. Long has "grave doubts" the Senate will vote this year on President Johnson's controversial bill to nullify the "right to work" laws of 19 states.

The principal cause of Long's doubts is Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., an implacable foe of the measure to repeal Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act. It is this section which authorizes states to enter into "union shop" labor contracts.

Dirksen told United Press International Sunday he still plans to mount in a filibuster against the repeal bill, which is scheduled to come up in the Senate this week.

If the administration wants to try to push a vote, he said, it had better be ready to let other key-bills "just languish" while the extended debate droned on.

Long said he did not believe that supporters of the 14-B repealer could command the vote to curb Dirksen's filibuster.

Skeleton of Hunter Found After 2 Years

MOSCOW (UPI) — The search for Martin A. Woodward, 21, Smeltersville, which began nearly two years ago, ended during the weekend with the finding of a scattered skeleton along a remote high ridge in Clearwater County.

The skeleton was found about 25 feet from the spot where Woodward's rifle and some of his clothing were found earlier this month.

Woodward disappeared in November, 1963, while hunting with his father-in-law, Stewart Olmstead, Hayden Lake. The men separated in the area where Lath, Shoshone and Clearwater counties meet and Woodward failed to keep a rendezvous.

Howard Buchanan, Moscow, director of the Palouse-Clearwater Search and Rescue Unit, said a search party formed the day after Woodward was reported missing, had panned over the area where the skeleton was found.

He said there was no indication that Woodward had been shot and Clearwater County authorities informed him there would be no request.

Detroit Tips Vikings in Last Seconds

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP)—Scrambling Milt Plum, unable to get Detroit's offense moving for two quarters, lofted a desperation 48-yard pass to speedy Amos Marsh for a touchdown with 22 seconds left, bringing the Lions a 31-29 National Football League victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

The Lions, trailing 29-21, got the ball on a punt at their 25 with less than one minute to go. Plum hit on two sideline passes to Jim Gibbons and Terry Barr to move to the Viking 48. On first down from that point, Plum evaded a Minnesota rush, scrambled to the middle toward the end zone and fired a deep for Marsh. Marsh had gotten two steps on Viking linebacker Rip Hawkins, and caught the ball at the goal.

Rams Rally In Fourth to Edge Chicago

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams, mauled and badly beaten for three quarters, came back with three touchdowns in the last quarter and ended a spectacular 80-yard drive for the winning touchdown in the final 30 seconds in defeating the Chicago Bears 30-28 Sunday.

Quarterback Bill Musson eked out the winning march with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Terry Baker as 36,359 National Football League fans went wild. Chicago, humiliated last Sunday by the San Francisco 49ers 52-24, had converted two Ram fumbles and one blocked field goal attempt into three touchdowns.

The Bears also added an 80-yard touchdown play on a pass from Rudy Bukich to Johnny Morris.

The Tigers won the opener 2-0 on a three-hitter by Mickey Lolich. The Tigers had only four hits in the opener, one of them a homer by Gates Brown.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Quarterback John Brodie threw for a touchdown on a 49-yard first quarter play and ran four yards to score in the fourth in helping the San Francisco 49ers to a 27-17 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

On the 49ers' second play of the national football league game, Brodie hit John David Crow with a 20-yard pass and Crow ran in for the first touchdown.

Dodgers Blank Cards For First-Place Tie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers climbed into a tie for the National League lead Sunday with their ninth straight victory, beating St. Louis behind Don Drysdale's pitching and Murry Wilk's base running. Los Angeles' victory, coupled with San Francisco's 3-2 loss to Milwaukee, left the Dodgers and Giants tied for the top with seven games remaining.

Braves Drop Giants Into Tie for First

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves dropped San Francisco into a tie for first place for the National League lead Sunday, whipping the Giants 3-2 on Gene Oliver's sixth-inning homer off 22-game winner Juan Marichal.

San Francisco's loss, coupled with Los Angeles' 1-0 victory over St. Louis, left the Giants and Dodgers in a tie for the top spot with seven games remaining.

Oliver's solo home run proved decisive as Marichal went down to his 13th loss and the Giants were beaten for the fourth time in their last five games. Marichal, the right-handed ace of the Giants' staff, now has failed to win against a first division club since Aug. 10.

Oliver's home run was his 20th and gave the Braves a National League record with six players hitting 20 or more for the season. Ed Matthews, Joe Torre, Hank Aaron, Mack Jones and Felipe Alou also have done it.

Oliver's homer made it 3-0 in favor of the Braves, then the Giants started pecking away. They scored in the sixth when Willie McCovey hit the sixth homer and scored again in the seventh on singles by Jesus Alou and Tom Haller and a sacrifice fly by pinch hitter Bob Burda.

"Born thirty years too soon."

"Most reassuring, Sheez! Slim and Clovia are obviously safe at home by now!"

"The police are due any minute and we can't prove a thing against these people!"

"Not leaving without giving me a chance to get even, are you, Desmond?"

"Accept your defeat graciously, wiggers. You've been roundly trounced."

"I hear you have married."

"I found Mary Ann while I was up north."

"Take it easy, Guz. Oop's all right. He's just been having a nightmare."

"Now whassa idea, Giarin? A ruction like this in the middle of the night!"

"This is the famous medium, Madame Darmah... and her personal manager, Dr. Falconi... they've kindly consented to allow you to stay for the seance, Mike."

"Of course, doctor! Good! I'll make a donation for Mr. Nomady and help Madam set up."

"Well, what do you think, Dr. Darmah? This Mike Nomady is not a plant!"

"Well, go ahead! I know every face on the police department!"

Draft Dodgers Can't Make Way as LDS Missionaries

Red Cross Bloodmobile to Visit Burley Thursday, Quota Is Set at 150 Pints

SEVERAL children in Cassia County are receiving regular gamma globulin shots, which is the infection-fighting ingredient of blood plasma. Blood that has become outdated or is otherwise unsuitable for whole blood transfusion is used for gamma globulin, Mrs. Toews explained.

Blood used by county residents in other areas supporting the Red Cross program may be replaced in Burley. Blood and blood derivatives are furnished without charge by the Red Cross program to the physicians and hospitals and the only cost to the patient is the fee charged by the hospital or doctor in connection with administering.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 50 may donate blood, but unmarried persons under 21 must present a written consent of parent or guardian. The interval between donations should be at least eight weeks and not more often than five times a year.

KELLY DAWN MATTIES

Several children in Cassia County are receiving regular gamma globulin shots, which is the infection-fighting ingredient of blood plasma. Blood that has become outdated or is otherwise unsuitable for whole blood transfusion is used for gamma globulin, Mrs. Toews explained.

Blood used by county residents in other areas supporting the Red Cross program may be replaced in Burley. Blood and blood derivatives are furnished without charge by the Red Cross program to the physicians and hospitals and the only cost to the patient is the fee charged by the hospital or doctor in connection with administering.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 50 may donate blood, but unmarried persons under 21 must present a written consent of parent or guardian. The interval between donations should be at least eight weeks and not more often than five times a year.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Mormon Church has taken steps to make sure its already carefully screened missionary force won't be joined by young men who want to dodge the draft.

The LDS Church is noted for putting the cream of its young men into the missionary field. They serve all over the world, pay their own expenses, and look forward to the job through adolescence.

When they become 19 years old they are eligible to accept a military draft, which they consider a privilege and the only cost to the patient is the fee charged by the hospital or doctor in connection with administering.

The church has about 12,000 missionaries in the field, most of them around the draft age of 19-25. They generally serve from 24 to 30 months, so the turnover is about 5,000-6,000 a year.

These young men usually go to college after their mission is over. Last week the church's top hierarchy, the First Presidency, announced new restrictions limiting a branch or ward to one missionary every six months.

The restrictions were adopted at the request of the Selective Service.

President Hugh B. Brown, first counselor to Church President David O. McKay, said in an interview the church was reacting to a program similar to that employed during the Korean War.

"Our missionary force," he said, "will definitely be reduced, but only time will tell how much."

The director of Selective Service in Utah, Col. Evan P. Clay, told a newsmen the church was adopting "a controlled program which would enable a most successful young man to fulfill his religious desires."

"But it will eliminate," Clay said, "the individual who attempts to use a mission as a shield from military service."

Mayor Verl G. Dixon of Provo and a former ward bishop, said he thought the restrictions were adopted "to head off a large increase of applications for missionary service to avoid the draft."

However Utah County Commissioner G. Marion Hinckley, who is also president of a stake, said "The missionary system is absolutely not used as a draft dodge."

"The church would screen out those who tried that," he said.

The Mormon Church is primarily a laymen's organization. Most of the officers, except a few at the top, carry out their church duties in their free time and without pay.

But of course when a young man goes on a mission it is a full-time affair and he is considered an ordained member of the clergy and hence entitled to draft deferment.

A young Mormon missionary gets his "call" in his ward. He is screened by his ward bishop and stake president before going through a training period, often at church headquarters in Salt Lake City.

Bishop Samuel Oliver of the Salt Lake City suburb of Draper said he thought the new restrictions might tend to improve the quality of missionaries.

"Calls will only be available for young men who have a strong desire and are worthy to serve."

For Bishop Austin Erickson Logan there is a problem. He has 14-15-16-year-old men who want to go on missions during the next few years but his ward will be able to serve only two a year.

But the two-a-year quota is one word can be given to another ward in a stake if it doesn't use it. So some ward leaders think the restrictions won't have a serious effect on the church's overall program.

"In all probability," said one ward leader, "the program will be severely curtailed in the mission program. However, it will have a limited effect."

DANCE IS HELD

HANSEN — The members of the senior class of the High School entertained at a "Record Hop" dance Saturday night. Other classes also invited. The dance featured the freshman class and the senior class. The dance was held in the gymnasium and was a great success.
