Italy's President Names Moro to Fill Fanfani Post

ROME (AP) — President Giuseppe Saragat today named Premier Aldo Moro to take over the additional portfolio of foreign minister from Amintore Fanfani, who resigned. Saragat acted as demands rose from the opposition for Moro's entry into the center-left coalition to resign over the Fanfani crisis, born of what critics called the foreign minister's amateurish handling of a North Vietnamese peace feeler. Moro had asked Fanfani to withdraw his resignation. Fanfani submitted it after he learned of the first fire in connection with the report from his friend, Prof. Giorgio La Pira, of a peace feeler from Hanoi.

Negroes Progress Rapidly Under King's Leadership

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Months, the federal examiners will march on the ballot boxes by the thousands, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., promised the red brick church in Selma, Ala.

"We will go to jail by the thousands. We want our rights. And we want them now."

It was Saturday night, Jan. 2, 1955, and the Negro minister whose battle against racial inequality had won him world renown was back in Alabama to start a new civil rights campaign destined to surpass all others.

In the weeks that followed, Negroes marched, as King had said. Wearily they plodded through the city streets and along the highways. They walked 50 miles from Selma to Montgomery to dramatize their cause.

The Negroes went to jail by the hundreds, until Sheriff James G. Clark and his deputies in Selma alone made upwards of 3,000 arrests. King spent four days in jail cell himself after his arrest during an attempted street march in Selma.

The campaign spread to other counties in central Alabama. Sometimes it faltered, but all ways it kept on. And, slowly, gradually, it brought results.

The struggle in Alabama, more than anything else, prompted Congress to enact a new voting rights law. And federal examiners were sent quickly into Selma and three other Alabama counties to register Negro voters.

Other federal registrars were assigned later to six more neighboring counties where Negroes complained that the registration procedure under state law was too difficult and too slow.

Almost overnight, the balance of political power began shifting in central Alabama. In 1956.

Range Land To Be Sold On Jan. 19

BOISE (AP)—Four parcels of potential farmland and rock range land in Southcentral Idaho will be auctioned in the Federal Building at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 19, the Bureau of Land Management said today.

Orval G. Hadley, land office manager, said three of the parcels total 450 acres about eight miles northeast of Shoshone in Lincoln County.

Two of the parcels include a total of 43 acres of potential farmland, said Hadley, and the rest is rocky range land. He said gravelled county roads provide access.

A 400-acre tract is appraised at $6,000, Hadley said, and 170 other parcels containing 5 and 35 acres of potential farmland are appraised at $550 each.

In these seven counties—Bullock, Greene, Hale, Lownides, Macon, Perry and Wilcox—Negroes have achieved one goal. They have the votes to elect county officials in next year's election and, in some instances, have thought of forming their own parties.

In Dallas County (Selma) the Negroes are approaching a majority and may reach it before the 1958 elections.

Statewide, the Negro vote has increased in the past year from an estimated 115,000 to approximately 180,000. By next May, when the Democrats hold their primaries, it may exceed 200,000.

White residents outnumber Negroes throughout the state 2-1, so there is little chance of a Negro voting majority in a statewide election. But they can exercise the balance of power any time there is even a reasonably close vote.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON—Lyndon Johnson, who closely guards his political image, has been...
The Democratic Party, characterized by... has vetoed a poverty war approach that would have created a massive political machine designed to further the ambitions of Sargent Shriver.

Shriver, who is the future all-funding anti-poverty projects will be done through the establishment of a new political machine...
The federal government no longer will deal directly with independent groups.

In effect, Johnson's decision is an order to the poverty program to be used as an instrument to build up Shriver's political image. In point of fact, there is no hard evidence that Shriver was not using the program to build up his own political image.

THE SYRACUSE CASE—A situation in Syracuse, N.Y., offered the President his moment of decision. There, a project had been designed to organize a number of projects to fight poverty. During the first year of the program, this bloc got its funds directly from Washington, causing city hall acute distress. Now, orders from Johnson, Shriver and the federal government project must seek financing for its second year of operations through the established political program. It may be a case of a turn-down by city hall.

Shriver meanwhile has indicated that this will be the pattern of the future. His office is now "entering" projects of the "grassroots" program, a number of cities, including Chicago, which have been rejected by the local establishment. But it is most unlikely that Shriver will ever get the projects into the White House as spoken.

POWELL OBJECTS—Naturally, there have been private howls from Shriver's aides over this surrender to the politicians. They say they are not seeking power, as such, for the poverty program, but they do want to maintain a flexibility that will make it possible to support projects designed to test the practicality of different approaches to solving the poverty problem.

Quite properly, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem wheeler-dealer, has suggested that Johnson and Shriver are evading the letter of the law. He has pointed out that amendments to the anti-poverty legislation specifically provide for the direct funding of independent groups to insure the greatest possible participation of the people in the program.

ORDER NEEDED—Aside from the political angle, however, Lyndon Johnson can cite the necessity for preserving order in the mushrooming poverty program becomes a battleground for local political forces and the guerrillas of the "grassroots" program. Johnson has remarked, "has got to be in charge of keeping order."

Even Johnson's political motives have a certain logic. The poverty program consists of a great many dedicated citizens who are working overtime to make it work. But they should not be encouraged to dabble in the art of politics because nobody elected them to run the country.

TO REVIEW THE CIA
Although it is not new, the proposal of Senator McCarthy of Minnesota for a special Senate committee to investigate the Central Intelligence Agency has more urgency than ever.

Mr. McCarthy plans to introduce a resolution next year to establish a nine-member committee to review CIA operations during 1966 and report to Congress. He also has introduced a bill as a formal legislative check on CIA activities. As Mr. McCarthy noted, and so it has been pointed out, the CIA has a long history of criminals to prevent distortions or to dispel rumors.

Mr. McCarthy cited "serious questions" about the CIA's activities in the Bay of Pigs, Cuba and other world tension spots. The criticism is that the CIA goes much farther than merely gathering and evaluating intelligence. It has been accused of being active in all sorts of subversive activities, functioning in a free-wheeling fashion and spending millions of dollars which are not always consistent with U.S. policy.

In a Senate speech six weeks ago Senator Young of Ohio charged that the CIA has been used to "conduct a spy war" against the United States on the character of an "invisible government." He also advocated a monitoring committee. Senators Morse and Jennings have taken similar positions. In 1956, Senator McClellan introduced a bill for a watchdog committee, but it was defeated 59 to 27.

It is interesting, of course, that the CIA should be laying itself open to such Senate charges, but it is perhaps even more disturbing that so many examples of its bungling lack-out—as in the Bay of Pigs, the U-2 incident and the botched attempt in Singapore in 1961 by buy secrets on Communist China, for which Secretary Rusk had to apologize.

The last three administrations have resisted congressional efforts to examine the CIA; previous review by a civilian panel appointed by the President in 1950 was the only one to the public. The elected representatives of the people ought to know more about this secret and powerful agency. The CIA does not need congressional review, of course, but its own suspected or known activities are now such as to make it mandatory that the House and Mr. McCarthy's resolution gets strong support.

WAR'S $340 'SHOT'
Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago invited 2,000 people to lunch to talk about the War on Poverty. The mayor's speech was so long and so full of promises that it was the surprise of the many who had arranged for six speaking organizations. The mayor's intended speech should be of interest to the public. The elected representatives of the people ought to know more about this secret and powerful agency. The CIA does not need congressional review, of course, but its own suspected or known activities are now such as to make it mandatory that the House and Mr. McCarthy's resolution gets strong support.

ALONG THE GULF COAST—
Federal government officials are trying to discourage Cubans from leaving the country.

He issued orders that all those who are leaving the country are to be fired from their jobs. The plan is to strip the plane service from Marquis Childs Florida to Havana and back can handle only a small percentage of those who want out, this meant that thousands would be left to starve while they waited.

What made it worse was that Castro also ordered a slowdown on the processing of those who were officially being allowed to leave. This made the situation critical.

But those left behind elected not to starve. They decided if they could not get out, they would come here by air, they would come by sea.

The procedure was not new. Many had been coming to the United States for a long time. They were given food and coffee and then they were turned over to their friends who took them to the Gulf Coast. Poor Man's Plato
By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—There isn't much trouble in picking up the "Man of the Year" for 1965.

He is our Man in Viet Nam, the nation's No. 1 plump lad. Actually, he isn't just one man. He is a plural figure. He is all of the 175,000 or so U.S. men fighting the war in Viet Nam. And some of them had hardly heard of before they were sent there.

At the start of 1965 our Man in Viet Nam was a rather forlorn figure. He was a far away plump lad, a young man, a member of his countrymen and one in which, it is true to say, most took only a casual interest.

That is all changed while some puzzled as to the nature of the war still exists, few now fail to realize that the conflict is affecting their lives more and more.

Neither they nor any member of their family may be drafted into the war. They may be taxed and the war has grown to be a major economic as well as military and political issue.

To be named "Man of the Year," a fellow should show that he has done something in his own life that is worthy of being remembered.

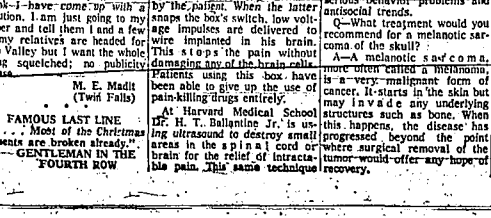

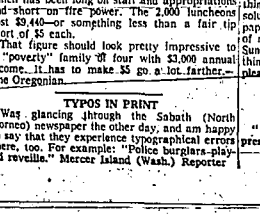

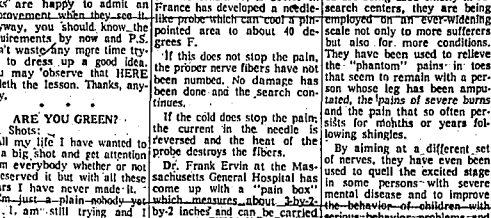

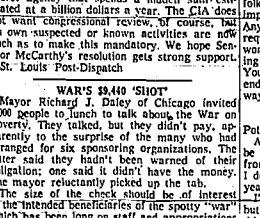

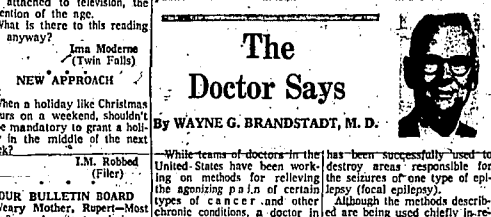

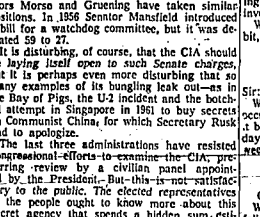

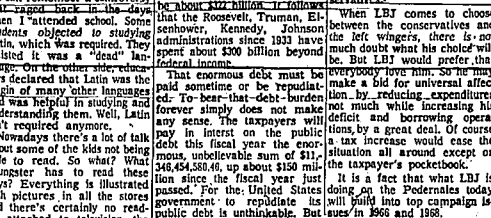

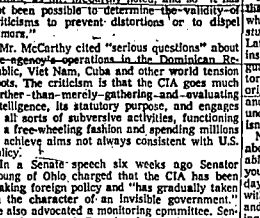

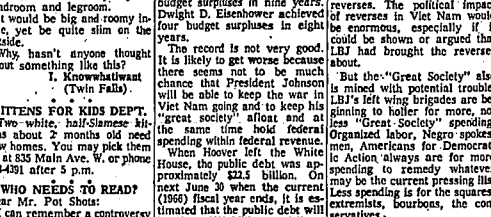

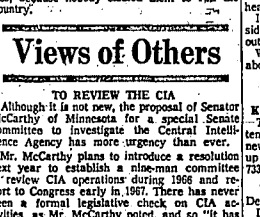

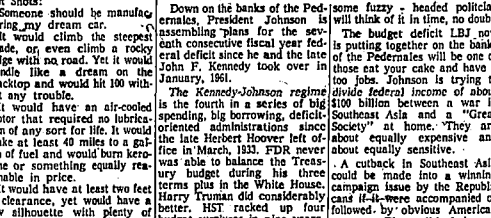

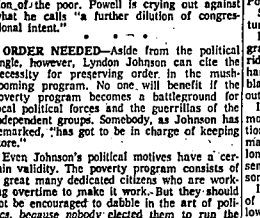

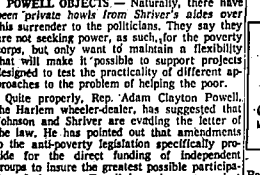

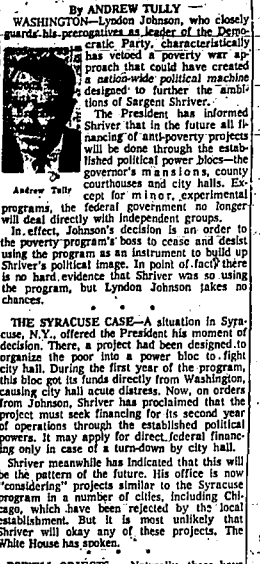

It would have been easy for him to succumb to the indulgence of his own laziness and to forget his manly high.

Future Health Treatment Is Predicted

BIRNBERG, Calif. (AP) — A physicalist today predicted that 10 years from now when you go to a doctor:
He will be a member of a team caring for you.
The stress will be on preventing illness in the first place.
Almost all your medical services will be paid with government or welfare funds.
You may have as many as 20 or more tests run — most of them simple — with automated equipment and a computer analyzing the results initially for you.
But you will get total, comprehensive care with one doctor. Dr. Cutting told the American Medical Association that you will be paid with government or welfare funds.

Equipment Installed
BOISE (UPI) — Installation of a new computer equipment for the State Department of Education started Wednesday.
The equipment is being set up in the basement of the state office building, D. F. Engelsing, superintendent of public instruction, said it eventually will handle much of the department's paper work. One task performed by the equipment will be the processing of reports from school districts.

Health care — New and better means of preventing disease — Predictive care — If or when you do fall victim to disease. But "perhaps much of sick care will be transferred to preventive care," Dr. Cutting declared, "there probably will be three major divisions of medicine."
Dr. Cutting declared that he would be responsible for the primary responsibility of preventing disease and not lay persons.

Storekeepers
Offer Low
Beef Prices

By The Associated Press — Most livestock prices are higher this week but storekeepers still are offering specials on pork, beef and lamb portions all were down in 1965, and retail prices are now higher at some stores.
Shoppers will pay more for canned fruits and vegetables in the months ahead. Stocks of oranges, peaches, apples, pears, peaches, strawberries, corn, snap beans and tomatoes all are lower than last year, but there are more pears.
Three staple vegetables — cabbage, potatoes and onions — are plentiful. Stocks of frozen oranges and peaches are higher than usual and prices are falling.

New Radar
The Twin Falls Police Department will be using a new radar system to operate.
The new radar system is compact. Last summer the department had trouble with the old model and had to return it to the factory for repairs. During that time there were no city radar cars equipped with the new radar system.

Ex-Star Says 'Bama Will Beat Nebraska

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Paul Christian, who played in the Orange Bowl as a highly publicized All-American quarterback 25 years ago, picks screwy Alabama over muscle-heavy Nebraska in the 32nd game here Saturday night. "I think Alabama's quickness will be the determining factor," the former Missouri star said today. "Also, you have to figure that Bear Bryant, the Alabama coach, has an answer for everything."

Christian is almost as lean and fit as when he led Missouri to the Miami game in 1940, losing to Georgia Tech 21, 17. His crew cut hair is now white. The game Saturday night sends the lights out on Bryant over coached against a massive, unbalanced Cornhusker squad with linemen of better than 250 pounds and a stampeding backfield quartet of Fred Duda, Harold Wilson, Ron Kirkland and Frank Solich, who led the country in rushing offense. "I'm afraid Alabama will be too tough for the big boys," the old Missouri signal caller recalled the drastic changes that have been wrought in football by the years and skyrocketing finances. "When we played here in the Orange Bowl only the lower standards—costing about 25,000," he recalled. "I remember every boy on the team got a box with two pair of socks. It was their Christmas present, donated by a local merchant."

St. Joseph's; Temple Slate

Title Game

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eight-ranked St. Joseph's raced to a 26-point halftime lead against a cold-shooting Minnesota team in a 91-56 victory Wednesday night over the Go-pipers and gained a berth in Thursday night's final round of the fifth annual Quaker City Basketball Tournament against unbeatn Temple. Temple defeated La Salle 66-59. Led by Billy Oakes, St. Joseph's romped to leads of 10-2, 17-0 and finally 40-20 at halftime as Minnesota made only six of 41 field goal attempts—44 per cent—in the initial 20 minutes. Oakes scored 16 and Bill Anderson 11 as St. Joseph's topped 19 of 30.

St. Joseph's outbred the Big Ten team only 36-31, but its fast break and pressing defense demoralized Minnesota. Minnesota, which lost its second in nine games, snapped out of it in the second half with 6-0 of Tom Laidley scoring 19 of its 21 points. But it was too late. All five St. Joseph starters wound up in double figures, with Oakes scoring 20 as the Hawks won No. 9 against two deficits.

He intercepted a Wichita pass to insure victory. Fred Oates, trailing most of the way, had rallied from an 11-point deficit in the closing moments to take a one-point lead over Jamie Thompson's two free shots with 13 seconds remaining. However, the Wheelshockers, led by Pete Wezel, fouled Wetzel just eight seconds later and the Gobler senior, who led the team with the winning charity tosses. Pete led Wichita with 23 points. Emerson had 17 for the Wheelshockers. Ted Ware of Virginia Tech tallied 22 points before fouling out late in the game.

Airlines Need Pilots for Coming Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's airlines, in the chips again and flying more passengers than ever, say the thing they need most in 1966 is a few thousand pilots.

The days when airlines had their pick of thousands of eager, ex-military pilots appears to be over.

Newspapers, aviation publications and military journals are full of advertisements for prospective pilots. Some airline executives say the demand is getting critical. Government studies indicate the shortage may get worse.

Virtually the No. 1 problem for every airline in this country is pilots," says W.A. Patterson, chairman and chief executive officer of United Air Lines.

"We never had to go out and recruit pilots before," said an American Airlines spokesman.

The fact is, until recently, there weren't many openings. "Slick, new jets — flying faster, longer and carrying more passengers and cargo — have boosted the need for pilots. So has the growing number of aircraft in the commercial fleet."

United says it plans to hire 1,600 pilots in the next two years. Trans World Airlines says it will hire 725 in 1966. Eastern wants 400 pilots now. American, which has hired 900 pilots since 1963, plans to add 1,500 more through 1969.

The Federal Aviation Agency says a pilot's salary through retirement, disability or promotion will total 1,200 a year until 1980. On top of that, airlines estimate they will need an additional 100 pilots a year between now and 1980 just to meet the demand of growth.

"The commercial airline pilot is in a real seller's market these days," says C. F. Hutchens, a United personnel executive.

Salary is a major lure. After two years United pays pilots $14,000 a month. After five years, $14,400. A captain's rating brings up to $23,000 a year, depending on seniority and type of aircraft flown. At 60, a ranking pilot retires on more than $20,000 a year, says the airline.

But the once steady stream of military pilots to the airlines appears to be drying up, says airline executives. Most of the services training a few pilots but they are hanging on to more of them. What's more, a large number of military pilots turn down careers in civilian flying — a factor that the Federal Aviation Agency says the airlines had better work hard to change.

Weather, Manners Blamed For Record Highway Deaths

By United Press International
Speculation ranged from the weather to the decline in good manners Tuesday as safety experts sought to explain the record highway slaughter during the Christmas weekend.

The nation recorded 721 traffic deaths during the holiday—the highest toll for any holiday on record.

Ohio's Highway Safety Director, Warren C. Nelson, said good driving weather was at least partly responsible for his state's record toll of 50 deaths. "Had the weather been bad, we would have had more minor accidents but not nearly as many fatalities," he said.

Neil Parker Hennessy of the Maine State Police said bad manners among the nation's drivers were partly to blame. "I don't care how good the weather is, it's a short word and quickly said, but it could save a lot of lives," he said.

Supt. Robert A. O'Neal of the Indiana State Police, reviewing causes of the 28 Christmas holiday traffic deaths in his state, blamed recklessness. "It's the same old story—some drove across the center line, others failed to yield the right of way, some hit trans-fell asleep, or drove so fast they couldn't even stay on the road," he said.

Leni Lovern, public safety commissioner for Kentucky, had predicted eight holiday traffic deaths—10 under the actual toll of 18. He said: "I'm continually disturbed that the good people in the community, the community leaders, apparently think little or nothing of disregarding safety laws and regulations. We need to get the motoring public to accept seriously the warnings that have been issued."

O'Neal agreed. "Traffic slaughter has become such a commonplace tragedy that it's only a mild concern to most people," he said. "We beg, we plead, we encourage, we warn. Then we get clobbered."

John D. Lawlor, executive vice president of the National Safety Council, said, "all three components of our transportation system need strengthening. In other words, we need safer cars, safer roads and safer drivers."

GETS WINGS
JEROME—Second Lt. Russell E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Smith, 425 N. Boulevard E., has been awarded U. S. Air Force silver pilot wings after graduating from the pilot training program at Vance Air Force Base, Okla. Lt. Smith is a graduate of Jerome High School and the University of Idaho where he received a degree in architecture.
