U.S. Loses Six More Planes in War Operations

SAIGON (AP)—The United States lost six more planes in widening American air operations over North and South Viet Nam, a U.S. spokesman reported today. Two fliers were killed, two captured and two others are missing, he said. In the ground war, about 3,000 U.S. Marines launched two separate operations—Oregon and Texas—against Communist units near Hue and Quang Ngai City on the north coast. Soviets Send Cosmos 113 Into Orbit

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today the launching of an earth satellite but made no immediate comment on foreign reports that it might be attempting a space rendezvous.

The announcement of the launching of Cosmos 113 was worded in the usual form for unmanned satellites. It was reported to be engaged in scientific research.

The Bochum Observatory in West Germany said Cosmos 113 might be trying to rendezvous with 112, launched last week.

The observatory said that it began picking up signals from the new satellite early today. By this afternoon, it said the new satellite's orbit was being synchronized with that of Cosmos 112.

The Soviet Communist party congress opens in Moscow on March 29.

There has been speculation that the Russians were preparing a new space sensation for the occasion. It has been more than a year since the Russians put a man in orbit.

A West Berlin observer expressed the opinion Sunday that the Russians used a new launching site near the Arctic Circle for sending Cosmos 112 into orbit.

Aide Named For Urban Renewal Plan

The Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency has hired a director for the initial survey and planning stage for Twin Falls' first urban renewal project, it was announced Monday.

James Kelsch, a native of Idaho Falls, who is currently directing an urban renewal project in Hoquiem, Wash., will oversee the planning of the proposed renewal of a four-block area in downtown Twin Falls. The planning phase of the project is expected to take about nine months.

Should the project plans be approved, Kelsch will serve as director for final project stages.

A member of the agency said Twin Falls was fortunate to be able to hire Kelsch. "What it boils down to is he wanted to get back to Idaho . . . We're real lucky."

Kelsch was interviewed by members of the urban renewal agency Friday, who then designated him to fill the $10,500 position.

The initial planning phase of the project is being financed by a Federal Government advance of $84,000. Preliminary estimates of the total project cost range upwards of $800,000.

Kelsch and his planning staff will move into a building owned by the city of Twin Falls for the duration of the project. He will begin work about April 15.

Kelsch has completed his B.A. degree and completed his academic requirements for his M.A. degree in municipal planning. He and his wife and two young children will live in Twin Falls.

Committee OK's Wage Hike Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Labor Committee approved today a bill that would raise the minimum wage stages from the present $1.25 an hour to $1.60 and extend coverage to nearly 7 million more workers.

House leaders plan to bring the measure to a vote next month.

Without even taking a record vote, the committee approved the measure in the general form worked out earlier by a subcommittee, but with one significant change.

TAKES VACATION

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Sargent Shriver, head of the U.S. war on poverty program, arrived Sunday for a week vacation in the bush with his son, Robert, and Robert Kennedy Jr., 12-year-old son of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N. Y.

Shortly after the docking maneuver was complete the craft went into violent whirl and the flight had to be terminated. Astronauts End Part of Debriefing

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—With the cause of their wild space ride traced to a short circuit, the Gemini 8 astronauts completed a debriefing period here today and flew home to a reunion with their families. A jet plane carrying Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott left here for Ellington Air Force Base near Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center. They flew to Cape Kennedy Saturday from the Pacific, where they

U.S. Adds Air Power to Asian Bases

HONG KONG (AP)—The United States has added new air power to bases in Thailand from which American war planes can range over North Viet Nam, according to responsible information in Hong Kong.

U.S. officials in Bangkok insist these Thai bases are used only for training purposes, although American airmen on recreational leave from their participation in raids over Viet Nam.

Because of internal political considerations, Thailand—strongly anti-Communist and a stout supporter of U.S. policy in Viet Nam—is sensitive to any publication of the role U.S. air bases there play in the Viet Nam war.

U.S. and other newsmen stationed in Bangkok normally would report on the U.S. air activity there, but they run into a wall of official silence. A recent journalistic visitor said U.S. spokesmen in Bangkok now decline even to give official briefings on U.S. air activity from Thailand, apparently on orders from the Pentagon.

The short circuit apparently occurred in a four-foot piece of wire that feeds electrical energy to the thruster. As a result, two solenoid valves stuck open and fuel and oxidizer poured freely through the opening, spilling into space and spinning Gemini 8 like a top.

British Election Issues Noted

LONDON (AP)—With Britain's general election 10 days away, bread and butter issues are commanding the attention of most voters. But the response to the barnstorming politicians has been generally apathetic.

The public opinion polls put Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party far out front.

The Conservatives, led by Edward Heath, say their soundings tell a different story. They contend that in marginal districts—the evenly balanced areas where the majority in the next House of Commons will be decided—Labor's advantage is far less marked than the polls suggest on a national scale.

No one has any illusions that the outcome will have any great impact on the outside world. The 54 million Britons have come to accept that they no longer are a major world power.

The welfare state, created after World War II is here to stay. This is pegged to one of the most liberal health plans in the world, nationalized coal mines, road, transport, airlines—and electricity.

Both Wilson's socialistic Labor party, which has ruled since October 1964, and the Conservatives, who were in power for 13 years before that, go along with these programs.

High Court Makes Ruling On Obscenity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that publications designed entirely to appeal to "prurient interests" are not protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression.

With this ruling, delivered by Justice William J. Brennan, the court upheld a five-year prison term for Eros magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg under a federal obscenity law.

Brennan said Ginzburg's conviction for mailing Eros and two other publications stand under the court's 9-year-old obscenity standard, known as the Roth ruling.

Brennan wrote the high tribunal's main opinion in the Roth case in 1957. He said at that time that the test for obscenity was "whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to prurient interests."

In another action today, the Supreme Court upheld the conviction of Edward Mishkin of New York, under the state's obscenity statute. But it ruled that the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court had erred in banning the 18th century story of a London prostitute known as "Fanny Hill."

Red China Said Facing Policy Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Red China was pictured today as facing its worst foreign policy crisis with the likelihood that U.S. containment will ultimately force Peking to soften its course.

Associate Prof. Donald S. Zagoria of Columbia University told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that even now "the rumblings of discontent with Mao's policies are plainly audible in China."

He said there are "credible reports that the Chinese leaders are increasingly divided on foreign policy."

Thus, he added, when Communist leader Mao Tse-tung dies "it is quite likely that we will witness as furious a succession struggle in China as we saw in the Soviet Union after the death of Stalin."

A second witness in the committee's continuing "probe of China," Dr. Harold C. Hinton of George Washington University, noted Peking's sharp setbacks in the underdeveloped countries in the past year.

Sunday Sen. J. W. Fulbright said the United States should drop its opposition to Red China's admission to the United Nations and move toward opening communications with Peking.

Johnson Presents Plan to Protect Consumers in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson recommended to Congress today a far-reaching program he said is needed to protect the American consumer in the market place. Specifically, he renewed his request of two years ago for what he described as effective laws on lending and packaging. "We can protect both consumer and the overwhelming majority of businessmen

School Bond Vote Slated at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — Property owners in the Kimberly School District will vote Tuesday on a $340,000 school bond issue which will be used to construct four additional rooms to the grade school building and a new high school building. The polls will be open in the High School Agricultural building at noon and will remain open until 8 p.m. Any elector who is 21 years old or older, resided in the state for the past six months and within the school district for the past 30 days, and is a taxpayer of real property, or the wife or husband of such a taxpayer, is qualified to vote.

The new high school and the addition of the four classrooms to the grade school building will cost approximately $340,000. This will cost the taxpayers from five to seven and one-half mills, depending on how the indebtedness would be paid off, and the levy would decrease as the bonds were paid off. This mill levy will be less than any of the adjoining school districts, school officials state.

The steady increase in school enrollment has necessitated the added facilities. With the new building and the addition to the grade school unit, this will enable the present high school building to be used for three junior high grades, instead of the seventh and eighth grades placed in the school annex as a junior high unit.

The regular PTA meeting for Monday night has been canceled and a special meeting for the purpose of airing the present need for a building program in the Kimberly School District will be held in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday.

All residents are urged to attend this meeting so that they may be better acquainted with the school problem, and so that the qualified voters may be better informed before going to the polls Tuesday.

The last official information said Rear Adm. William S. Guest, the task force commander, planned to move the bomb—called "an unidentified object with an attached parachute"—to a more favorable position before attempting to lift it to the surface.

The proposal for packaging and labeling legislation would require that each package provide simple, direct, accurate information as to the nature and quantity of contents, including ingredients where this is important.

Johnson also recommended other steps to reinforce consumer protection.

One proposal would bring hazardous substances, regardless of their wrapping, under the safeguards of the Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Act and would:

—Ban from commerce household substances that are so hazardous that warning labels are not adequate safeguards.

—Ban the sale of toys and other children's articles containing See JOHNSON, pg. 2, col. 6

200 Expected For Conclave At Gooding

GOODING — The 24th annual convention of the Southern Idaho District Council of the Assemblies of God starts today in Gooding, and continues through Thursday, according to the Rev. Jim Davis, host pastor.

Rev. Davis says about 200 delegates are expected.

Special speaker will be the Rev. Dr. C. C. Burnett, Santa Cruz, Calif. Dr. Burnett is president of the Bethany Bible College in Santa Cruz. He also is secretary of the National Association of Evangelical Churches, an organization representing about 10 million people.

Dr. Burnett is well known and is an outstanding speaker.

Rev. Davis stated that the general public is invited to attend services at the church starting at 7:45 p.m. each evening from Monday through Thursday.

Spring Arrival Accompanied By Special Lilt of Heart

By The Associated Press
Whether you're still knee-deep in snow or warming to the sight of the first crocus, spring is here by a special lilt of the heart.

Spring sauntered in on schedule at 8:53 p.m. Sunday.

Weatherwise, it didn't necessarily mean much. In Nevada the sun was warm but the ski slopes still sported up to 10 feet of snow; word came from Michigan's snow-belted Upper Peninsula that "it's balmy, up to about 45 degrees."

In New York City, large crowds swarmed into parks despite a cloudy and rather chilly Sunday.

In California the swallows swooped back into nests in the old mission at San Juan Capistrano, a reassuring vernal arrival for romantics.

Heavy Seas Impede Bomb Recovery

PALOMARES BEACH, Spain (AP)—Heavy seas interfered today with recovery of the missing American H-bomb from its resting place more than 2,500 feet down in the Mediterranean.

As choppy seas buffeted ships of Task Force 65, some sources expressed fears that the elusive weapon lost from a crashing bomber Jan. 17 may have slid deeper into an undersea crevice, making its recovery more difficult.

The last official information said Rear Adm. William S. Guest, the task force commander, planned to move the bomb—called "an unidentified object with an attached parachute"—to a more favorable position before attempting to lift it to the surface.

Spring Arrives With Snow, Schools Closed

Monday, the first day of spring, was anything but spring in Magic Valley as a blizzard-like storm left roads and schools closed in the Eden-Hazelton area. Most of the snow began to fall sometime after midnight and the wind, with gusts up to 46 miles per hour in some areas, came up during the early morning hours, adding to the middle-of-the-winter look which greeted Magic Valley residents as they arose to the first full day of spring. Areas hardest hit by the storm were the northeast and eastern sections of the valley where several north-south roads were closed by the drifting snow. Eden and Hazelton schools were forced to close Monday.

Power in the rural areas southeast of Burley was out for a short time when high winds snapped a power line.

By noon Monday most of the snow had melted in areas west of Hansen and Kimberly, but the wind was still gusty, although not as badly as before, and the temperature was on the rise everywhere.

Fairfield reported from three to four inches of new snow on the ground and several large drifts in fields, but by noon the sun was shining and the snow had begun to melt.

In the western part of Magic Valley, very little snow fell and Glens Ferry reported some rain until 10 a.m.

Almost all areas of Magic Valley reported high winds from the west during the early hours of the morning, but they had subsided greatly by noon and the sun was shining intermittently.

The California deserts welcomed the new season with carpets of desert primrose and sand verbenas bursting into bloom.

In Oklahoma, the greening wheat fields denoted the burgeoning season.

In Florida, cold snaps hurt the citrus growers and the crop of tourists, but that's in the past now and everyone is looking ahead. The baseball spring training camps are the talk of the tourists as well as the natives.

The nation's East Coast was hit by some bad storms this year, and they still could happen, but thoughts are turning to reconditioning the lawn mower, preparing the garden tools and just sitting outdoors enjoying the balmy air and spring sun.

Cycle Goes Off Grade, Rider Injured

The pond at the base of the Shoshone Falls Grade claimed its third victim in a three-month period at 5:21 p.m. Sunday, according to Twin Falls County Sheriff James Benham.

Benham said Melvin N. Rueb, 25, 718 Third Ave. E., was riding a motorcycle down the grade with other cyclists Sunday afternoon when his motorcycle hit a chuckhole as he started to negotiate the curve above the pond. Benham said after hitting the hole, cycle and rider went about 45 feet along the roadway, then about 40 feet through the air after going over the bank, "miraculously" landing in a spot void of lava rocks, then bounced over 25 feet of lava rock and landed in the pond.

An unidentified friend rushed to the pond and pulled Rueb from the water. According to Benham, an ambulance was then called and Rueb was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. He received severe facial lacerations and a broken wrist and is listed in satisfactory condition.

Increase Cut

NEW YORK (AP)—American Tobacco Co., which set off a wave of price increases in the cigarette industry last week, announced today it would cut its increases in half.

It had been scheduled to raise wholesale prices 40 cents per thousand cigarettes today, but cut it to 20 cents.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., a second major producer, eliminated its scheduled price increase under pressure from the White House.

Youth Held For Child Molestation

Twin Falls police reported Monday morning that a 17-year-old youth is being held in jail after he was arrested Saturday night for child molestation.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said they received a call about 8 p.m. Saturday that there was a girl screaming behind Young's Dairy, near Rock Creek Canyon. He said police saw a man running down the alley when they arrived so they chased and apprehended him.

Earlier in the same day a father brought his 13-year-old daughter to the police station after she had come home and told him a man had molested her. She told police a man had stopped her on the street and tried to get her to go with him.

When she refused and started to walk away the man caught up with her, put his arm around her, pulled an eight-inch knife from a sheath and forced her to walk into Rock Creek Canyon with him, police said. She told police he molested her.

The youth, an escapee from St. Anthony reform school, told police he was sent to St. Anthony for previous molestation of young girls. Police said this is the third time the youth has been sent to the reform school.

Barnett said the youth will be held in jail for five days and then will be tried in District Court as an adult for child molestation.

Buhl Man Dies at 55

BUHL—Wilbur Francis Towns, 55, died at his home west of Buhl Saturday evening of a long illness.

He was born Nov. 13, 1910, at Groveland, Mich. He attended schools in Michigan and later moved to Webster, Mo., where he married Mildred M. Haas on Dec. 24, 1941. They moved to Buhl in 1949 where he was a tile layer. In 1960 he retired because of ill health.

Surviving besides his widow, are three sons, Francis W. Towns and Larry E. Towns, both Buhl, and Donald G. Towns, Rupert, and one sister, Mrs. Gladys Frank, Auburn, Mich.

Funeral services are pending.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY—Clearing tonight and fair Tuesday. Wind subsiding tonight. Colder tonight but little warmer Tuesday. High upper 40s, low 15 to 24, except Camas Prairie high in 30s, low zero to -10. Outlook for Wednesday is partly cloudy and warmer. Temperatures at 8 a.m.: 27 at Jerome, 27 at T.F., weather bureau with 80 per cent humidity, 30 at T.F., entomology laboratory with 80 per cent humidity, 30 at Rupert, 20 at Fairfield, 28 at Buhl, 28 at Castleford, at noon, 31 at T.F., weather bureau with 60 per cent humidity. Barometer: 29.94.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Higher pressure aloft is expected to follow the cold air now moving across the valleys and will be bringing fair and warmer weather into the middle of this week.

Temperatures in the valleys of Southern Idaho Tuesday through Saturday will average from 2 to 6 degrees above normal. A warming trend will begin in midweek and continue into the end of the week. Some normal maximum and minimum temperatures for this period are Gooding, 52 to 28; Twin Falls, 54 to 29, and Burley, 52 to 26.

Some snow showers from this present storm will linger in the southeastern valleys Tuesday morning. Otherwise the next chance for precipitation will be in the form of scattered light rain showers associated with a weak frontal passage around Thursday. Precipitation amounts should be less than .10 of an inch from these light showers.

Sunshine will average 60 per cent or more of possible through Saturday with most cloudiness associated with the cold air the first part of this week. Winds will become lighter in speeds into midweek and continue into the end of the week although there is a chance for some gusty winds associated with the weak storm on Thursday.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY

Cold air and a touch of winter in the form of snow and blowing snow is moving across the valleys early Monday. A low pressure center and its cold front formed at the surface in association with a cold low in the upper air. As this front moved across Southern Idaho snow and blowing snow reduced visibilities at times making driving hazardous in local areas. The cold front is moving into the eastern valleys of Idaho.

Unsettled weather is expected in the valleys into Tuesday morning. An end to the snow is quite abrupt after the frontal passage and skies become partly cloudy at times. But a good supply of colder air aloft will keep cloudiness into our valleys today and in eastern valleys on Tuesday. Occasional snow showers are still possible today and in eastern valleys yet tomorrow morning. Partial clearing is expected in southwestern and southeastern valleys tonight and in southeastern valleys on Tuesday.

The cold air will keep temperatures on the low side today and Tuesday but fair and warmer weather is in the outlook for Wednesday. Maximum temperatures today and Tuesday will range in the mid 30s into the 40s. Minimum temperatures tonight are forecast in the teens to mid 20s.

Maximum temperatures Sunday ranged from 37 at Bear Lake to 53 at Ontario. Minimum temperatures ranged from 2 at Fairfield to 33 degrees at Caldwell. Rupert's .12 of an inch and Fairfield's .17 of an inch of moisture were the greatest 24-hour amounts recorded at 8 a.m. Monday. Other amounts were all less than .10 of an inch.

TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION

Civil Service Jobs Open For Scientists

It was announced Saturday that the Civil Service Commission is searching for qualified scientists in the fields of chemistry, mathematics, metallurgy and physics.

According to R. O. Finney, Twin Falls Post Office, many of these jobs offer opportunities in important research and development projects with some of the nation's foremost scientists. Finney said salaries range from $7,987 to $17,035 per year.

The academic and experience requirements for each of the scientific fields are contained in a new announcement, 392-B, just issued by the commission. Interested applicants should consult the announcement for detailed information and for instructions about the proper filing procedure. Finney said, no written test is required and applications will be accepted until further notice.

Announcements and application forms may be obtained at the post office from Finney or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., 20415.

H. H. Jones, Jerome, Dies At Age of 74

JEROME — Hugo Herbert Jones, 74, died Sunday at his home in Jerome.

He was born at Berryville, Ark., Jan. 1, 1892, and was married to Artie Garner on Jan. 3, 1915, at Berryville. He came to Jerome in 1918 where he engaged in farming in the Pleasant Plains district. He was a member of the Pleasant Plains Grange, a past noble grand of Jerome Lodge No. 129, IOOF.

Surviving, besides his widow, are two daughters, Mrs. G. E. (Gladys) Renner, Palo Alto, Calif., and Mrs. John (Ina) Hadam, Burley; two sons, Merle Jones and Coy Jones, both Jerome; two brothers, A. W. Jones, Berryville, and C. N. Jones, Twin Falls; two sisters, Mrs. Betty Gruen, Seattle, and Mrs. George Porter, Spokane, and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Jerome Methodist Church with Rev. John N. Garbrandt officiating. Jerome Lodge No. 129, IOOF, will conduct final rites at the Jerome Cemetery. Friends may call at Wiley Funeral Chapel Tuesday afternoon and evening and until time of services Wednesday.

Rites Honor L. Drussel

BURLEY — Funeral services for Leonard Drussel were held Friday afternoon in the McCulloch Funeral Home Chapel with Sidney A. Larsen officiating.

Prelude and postlude were chapel organ selections. Invocation was given by Willard McLaws. Benney Sprague was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Uscola. Obituary was read by Robert Ramsey, and Larsen was the speaker. Benediction was given by Carl Heiner Sr.

Pallbearers were Gene Drussel, Harold Drussel, Grant Drussel, Ron Drussel, Dewayne Sandlain and Bernus Jeffs, all nephews.

Flowers were arranged by Lois Drussel, Dorothy Drussel, Ruth Drussel, Joan Drussel, June Sandlain and Beth Jeffs, all nieces.

Military rites were held in the Pleasant View Cemetery. Dedication prayer was given by Robert Ramsey. Walter Smythe was post commander and Frank Haynes was chaplain. Charles Shaddock and Michael Hernandez were color bearers, Ezra Coleman and Robert Kulhanek were color guards. Sam Garrett and Ray Card folded and presented the flag. Alta Halsey placed the flag.

Goals

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Mrs. Augustine M. Bucher who, at the age of 82, received her college degree Saturday night from the University of Minnesota night school in St. Paul, says it is very important for a person to have goals.

During the past 15 years she has been taking one course per semester to complete her final two years of college work and a bachelor of arts degree.

Mrs. Bucher is considering taking a master's degree, saying, "A person without a goal or aim doesn't make much headway."

Rumor

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Princess Margrethe of Denmark denied today that she planned an operation to reduce her height—six feet.

"I love every inch of me," the visiting heiress to the Danish throne told newsmen who asked her about the height-cutting rumors.

Federal Aid On Watershed Plans Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — John A. Baker, assistant secretary of agriculture, said today the federal government should assume its share of costs for land treatment measures on small watershed projects in cases where federal lands are involved.

Baker also told a House Agriculture subcommittee that the lumping of all federal participation in the watershed program into one appropriation item was a desirable move, where more than one federal agency was involved.

Devon R. Jesen, Moore, Idaho, director of the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts, said the outlook for the small watershed program in Idaho is pretty dim if deserving watershed projects are not planned and authorized for construction because they include federal lands.

Jesen said there are 34 million acres of federal land among Idaho's 53 million acres.

Leo P. Harvey, president of the Utah Association of Soil Conservation Districts, said that nearly all Utah projects contain federal lands. He urged that federal funds be provided for treatment of public lands in watershed projects.

Plane Wreckage Found on Peak Of Arctic Island

BARDU Norway (AP) — Wreckage of a U.S. military transport plane was found today on a mountain peak on the Arctic island of Senja, but all seven American airmen aboard were killed, a military spokesman announced.

The C130 Hercules was based at Forbes Air Force Base, in Kansas. It was flying from Evreux Air Base, in France, to the base at Bardu to fly Italian troops back to Italy after a NATO winter exercise in northern Norway.

The big transport slammed into the mountain on a blizzard early Sunday as it made the final approach to land at Bardu.

A Norwegian helicopter found the wreckage. The pilot reported that only the tail section was intact, sticking out of deep snow on the 2,630-foot peak. He said there were no survivors.

Later, ground parties reported they had found three bodies and were searching for the remaining four through deep snow that covered the scattered wreckage of the plane.

Infants Die

BURLEY — Twin infant daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Miller, 835 Conant Ave., Burley, died Sunday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital shortly after birth.

Surviving besides parents, are a brother, Thomas Miller, Burley; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Miller, Ashland, Ohio; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lee, Marysville, Calif.; maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Farris, Twin Falls, and paternal great-grandparents, Col. and Mrs. Harry Burton, Indianapolis, Ind., and maternal great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Eisenhauer, Pine Bluffs, Wyo.

Gravestone services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Sunset Memorial Park under the direction of Reynolds Funeral Chapel.

Former T. F. Resident Dies In Pocatello

Mrs. Martha Ward, 88, former Twin Falls resident, died Sunday at Pocatello of a short illness.

She was born March 5, 1878, at Owatonna, Minn. She was married to William Ward on Oct. 14, 1899, in Owatonna. They moved to Filer in 1910 where they farmed. In 1917 they moved to Twin Falls and in 1949 she moved to Pocatello. He died in 1943 in Twin Falls.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Reese (Wilma) Edwards, Manteca, Calif.; Mrs. Eugene (Viola) Clark, South Pasadena, Calif.; and Mrs. Paul (Juanita) Whittenberg, Pocatello, and 10 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Faith Lutheran Church, Pocatello. Last rites will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Sunset Memorial Park under direction of Downard Funeral Home, Pocatello.

Blaze Hits Hansen Home

HANSEN — An early morning blaze partially destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mont L. Boyer, Third Street East, Hansen, Monday while they were visiting relatives in Salt Lake City.

The fire, which was discovered by Asael Diltworth, a neighbor at 5:40 a.m., is believed to have started in the basement of the home and quickly spread to the floor of the kitchen and a bathroom. Before volunteer firemen arrived, the blaze had gutted the kitchen and most of the bathroom. Other parts of the structure were damaged considerably by smoke and water, according to Fire Chief Leonard Urie.

According to Boyer's father, Mont S. Boyer, he did not know for sure if the house was insured but thought it was. Urie said the blaze probably started with faulty wiring in the basement.

According to Urie, there was some danger of a gas line exploding in the basement but it was shut off outside the house before the flames reached it.

Scouts Have Rocket Derby

BUHL — A rocket derby highlighted the monthly meeting of Cub Scouts Pack 9 Friday evening in the fellowship hall of the First Christian Church.

Winners in speed competition were Robert Ellis, first place, Raymond Strickland, second, and James Tappen, third, all of Den three. Winners in workmanship were Randy Miller, first, and Ryan Johnson, second, both of Den two, and Gary Quigley, third, Den three.

The opening ceremony was by Den one with Richard Scott leading the flag salute and prayer. Scouts receiving awards for selling a book of tickets for the Scout-O-Rama show were Mike Wilson, Robert Ellis, Gary Quigley, Kent Wetstein and Sam Carron. Randy Miller received a wolf badge. Den one won the attendance trophy.

New registration cards were distributed Den two conducted the closing ceremony which featured the living circle and group singing.

Speakers to Address T. F. Legionnaires

A special meeting of the Twin Falls American Legion Post will be held in the Legion Hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday, with two guest speakers from Boise talking about Viet Nam and the GI Bill just signed by President Johnson.

Lou Babb, Boise, department adjutant, will speak in detail about matters concerning the American Legion's position in Viet Nam. According to Donald McClain, Boise, department commander, Babb will tell of events that led up to U.S. presence in Viet Nam, and will explain why the American Legion believes the United States should continue a sufficiently strong effort in the war to bring about a solution satisfactory to enemies of the spread of communism.

The other speaker, Dudley L. Smith, Boise, representative at the Veterans Administration Regional Center, will explain the new GI Bill, and the Medicare law.

McClain said, "We have conducted these meetings in several other localities and they have met with enthusiastic response everywhere." Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

250 Boise Scouts, Leaders To Visit Magic Valley Areas

About 250 Boy Scouts and leaders from Boise will visit several Magic Valley areas April 8 and 9, states Carl Burt, special merit badge promoter for Mountain View Council, Boise.

Burt said the scouts will visit Craters of the Moon National Monument and the Atomic Energy Commission site at Arco prior to coming to Magic Valley. He said some of these scouts have just received their space merit badges and while at Craters of the Moon, will place on display an Apollo Lunar Excursion Mobile "LEM," built by the scouts.

At the AEC site, scouts who have completed requirements for the atomic energy merit badge requirements, will receive the badges from AEC officials.

The scouts and leaders will arrive in Twin Falls about 6 p.m. April 8 and will visit Herrett's planetarium and arts and science center.

After seeing the planetarium and museum and using telescopes, the scouts will sleep in sleeping bags in the back yard of the planetarium. Burt said the arts and science center is one of the finest in the world and that the scouts are very anxious to visit it.

While in Twin Falls, Burt said, some scouts will get information for requirements of three merit badges. They are astronomy, journalism and photography. But said some of the requirements will be met by the scouts while in Twin Falls.

In the morning of April 9, the scouts and leaders will leave Twin Falls and visit the famed Balanced Rock near Castleford.

From Balance Rock, the scouts will visit Snake River Trout Farm at Buhl. There they will have a large fish fry. Burt said the trout farm will donate the fish and that a large pit will be dug in which to cook them.

Ida-Gem Dairymen, Inc., Jerome, will donate milk and ice cream and Idaho Frozen Foods,

Inc., Twin Falls, will donate 100 pounds of cooked french fries for the fish fry, Burt said. After the fish fry, the scouts will load back up in the buses and head back to Boise.

Burt said photographers for "Boys Life" magazine will accompany the scouts on the tour and will feature them in a later issue.

Changing Attitude

Until rather recently, "federal aid" was akin to profanity in this area, but it's rare these days to hear any objection to taking as much federal money as can be obtained. What caused the change is anyone's guess. Perhaps there was no one factor or any principal development. The change in attitude may have evolved gradually because of varying amounts of federal money pumped into the district in a variety of ways. These include farm subsidy checks or any of the various programs touching farmers, the federal payroll which has been growing steadily in and around Twin Falls, Social Security, so-called dividends on veterans' insurance, school hot lunches and the whole host of programs involving federal aid.

Someplace along the line it must have become evident to many persons that refusal to accept appropriated funds had absolutely no bearing on reducing federal expenditures. Once appropriated, money is going to be spent one way or another, in one region or another. It's a fact of life that has been accepted here at long last.

Considerable federal money has been coming into Twin Falls and vicinity in rather recent months and more is anticipated. Millions of dollars—some 92 per cent of total cost—have been involved in construction of the Interstate Highway through Magic Valley. The old Hansen Bridge is being replaced at a cost of about $1.2 million. Recent remodeling at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital involved $76,000 in federal money. Twin Falls schools have obtained upwards of $100,000 in U. S. funds. Some $20,000 of federal aid is involved in a current comprehensive study of Twin Falls and vicinity. The city has applied for $1.3 million in U. S. funds for water system expansion. More than $975,000 has been reserved for urban renewal work. The junior college has applied for $256,000 available in federal money now and is eyeing another $1.8 million allocated to Idaho. Federal aid is in the offing for a municipal library project. Expansion of the municipal airport will involve a considerable amount of federal funds. And there's talk of a big grant of federal aid to the Herrett Planetarium if it can be incorporated in the school system.

These projects, pending and planned, involve upwards of $10 million in federal funds, and that doesn't include the Interstate Highway or any other road construction. Expenditure of that much money on projects in and around Twin Falls will provide a big shot in the arm for the local economy. Moreover, some of the effects of these programs will be felt for years, having a permanent effect on the development and future of the community.

Strangely enough, many of the individuals involved in applying for these funds and spending the money haven't changed their basic attitude toward top-heavy federal spending. One declares without hesitation that all citizens and taxpayers should continue efforts to elect politicians who will dedicate themselves toward reducing the budget. The attitude can't be interpreted as rationalizing, but must be regarded as realistic. Turning away from appropriated funds merely provides another project or another area with a windfall. Funds allocated to Idaho and not used are re-allocated to a place where they'll be spent.

Perhaps it may be impossible to elect a President and a Congress that will work toward honest reduction of the federal budget. But if federal spending isn't reduced through that procedure, it certainly won't be reduced by ignoring allocations of federal money.

UNPOPULAR TAXES

Taxes are unpopular, a fact proved all over again by an Idaho survey of members of the National Federation of Independent Business. The unpopularity of taxes varies in direct ratio to the degree of effect on individuals. For instance, federation members in Idaho voted 92 per cent in favor of reducing or repealing the inventory tax. They voted 70 per cent in favor of reducing the income tax still more. And they gave a whopping 80 per cent vote in favor of keeping the sales tax.

Idahoans presently involved in filing their state income tax returns may discover that the tax isn't biting quite as deep as in past years. The reason is the sales tax, of course, a fact that makes the tax on sales considerably more palatable to many.

In the rest of their survey, the Independent Business Federation might find itself standing alone. Members voted 92 per cent in favor of abolishing trading stamps and 95 per cent in favor of changing the law to make employees pay a portion of the unemployment compensation program.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — It won't happen in these pusillanimous days, but it would be delicious at this point if President Johnson—or even Jack Valenti—explained to the nation the meaning of the word "freedom." The word "freedom" also includes the right to be drafted into the armed forces and the right to be unpopular with the masses.

The precarious relationship between Negroes and whites, always unfortunate, has been aggravated by assorted developments during the past few weeks which indicate that some fighters for freedom desire the attachment of conditional clauses to that freedom. Cassius Clay, a boxer who apparently lays no claim to being fighter, is angry because he was classified I-A, a football player named Jim Brown has charged that a heavyweight championship bout was the victim of harassing racial discrimination, and two Negro youths in Washington robbed a grocery store and killed a K-9 Corps dog and wounded a cop because they couldn't get a job with the Youth Corps.

NOT AN ORIGINAL "WHY ME?" — I'm afraid the logic in these developments escapes me. If Cassius Clay were white, or a black shoe-shine boy, he would have been drafted into the Army long ago. But with typical political cowardice, his case was hushed-up as long as possible lest any attempt to treat him as a plain citizen trigger riots in the streets.

When Clay yelled "Why me?" on hearing of his reclassification, he was not being original. This phrase used by almost every citizen who suddenly finds himself in I-A. Possibly, it was the silent reaction of the baseball star, Ted Williams, who sacrificed several years of his career to fight in both World War II and the Korean fracas, and of Joe Louis, the former great Negro champ, who was similarly hustled off to basic training in World War II.

It is therefore curious to hear Jim Brown blurt that attempts to stage a fight between Clay and somebody else in Chicago were sabotaged by racial bitterness. Brown seems not to understand that even a Negro is capable of making himself generally unattractive to the citizenry.

WAITS WORD FROM ALLAH — Chicago nixed the fight because Clay had delivered himself of remarks which are considered both unpatriotic and in bad taste even in this era of the New Freedom; he had nothing against the Viet Cong, Clay said, and besides as a good Muslim he wouldn't fight anybody unless Allah told him to. This caused some of our more naive citizens, including even a couple of Illinois politicians, to conclude that Clay was not exactly a candidate for the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Perhaps my understanding is incapable of grasping the nuances of the New Freedom. I am sorry for those two youths who robbed the grocery store, but I am also sorry for the cop they wounded and the dog they killed. And I am sorely puzzled by the neighborhood meeting staged to censure the anti-poverty program for not having rescued those boys from crime by finding them employment.

SOCIETY SERVED RIGHT?—Heaven knows our social bureaucracies after move slowly, and yet I reject the suggestion made at that meeting that the robbery served society right. It had occurred to me that law and order should compromise with youths who say, in effect, that if society does not take care of them, they will go out and shoot a cop. If that is, indeed, the sordid case then I have overlooked a weapon against those prejudiced editors who over the years have inundated me with rejection slips.

What has happened, of course, is that the Cassius Clays and the Jim Browns suddenly have discovered the extent of the progress made by the Negro in his battle for his rights. People are now daring to suggest out loud that even citizens with black skins sometimes are imperfect, a development that puts the Negro on equal ground with the white. And now, Mr. Policeman, if the tumbrel is warmed up I'll go quietly.

Are potatoes playing a role in the Sinification of Albania? Do potatoes—usually considered a poor man's vegetable, at least when boiled—have some concealed yet highly significant role as weapons or agents of cultural influence?

Few people are bigger potato eaters than the British and the Irish. Yet the almost national habit of potatoes as an obligatory vegetable on the dinner plate owed something to the Americans in the first place. Potatoes were, in fact, never indigenous to Europe. They first came from South America. But when they crossed the Atlantic for the first time four centuries ago, the saucy Spaniards quickly to have boiled away whatever Americanness they brought with them.

But now America is quietly having its revenge. To a Briton, potato chips are potato crisps. And what a Briton calls chips—as in "fish and chips"—in America are French fries. Britons have already yielded (at least in their cities) to hamburgers and hot dogs. Now the potato, after a four-hundred-year delay, is boring at British English from inside in apparent retaliation for having been initially so ruthlessly Anglicized. Believe it or not, at Stresham in Worcestershire, just outside the lovely old abbey town of Tewkesbury, the new restaurant on the M5 highway serves what the printed menu calls "French fried potatoes."

But what has that to do with the Sinification of Albania? Well, at the beginning of this month, a Chinese freighter almost circumnavigated Asia to bring a cargo to the Albanian port of Durres. "Five thousand working people of all circles" turned out to give it an enthusiastic welcome. The Chinese ambassador was on hand to join in the ceremonies. The "cheers of the crowd thundered" along the Adriatic seashore. So Peking radio reported.

HAD ENOUGH?
Hi Ya, Old Pal:

After several months' residence here in Sunless Southern California I'm convinced firmly that if you take away our smog and freeways all you'd have left is California and its politics.

Now don't shun this off with your sometimes caustic observation that: "No free advertising permitted in this corner."

Were I financially situated and with strength enough to say "come and get it," I'd open some sort of tavern here where guaranteed Pure Idaho Air could be sold over the counter.

Greeting and cordial Hellos to all you non-strangling, free-wheeling free-breathers up there, F. (Jitters) Ojers, 403 So. Garfield Ave., Alhambra, Calif.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

The dangers of giving a child too much vitamin D have long been known, yet cases of vitamin D poisoning continue to occur. One reason for this is that a mother may give cod liver oil to a child who is getting additional vitamin D in enriched milk, breakfast cereal, fruit drinks, baby foods, bread and margarine.

If she does this in the summer, when exposure of the child's skin to direct sunlight allows the body to make its own vitamin D, the cumulative effect is heightened.

In recognition of this danger the Food and Drug Administration has proposed a new regulation which would reduce the amount of vitamin D that may be added to food products. Even if a child does not develop vitamin D poisoning, an intake of this vitamin in excess of his needs will not benefit him. It is hoped that the proposed regulation will be adopted soon.

Q—My baby is very allergic to eggs. Would there be any difference in his reaction to a boiled egg or a raw egg?

A—If your baby is allergic to eggs, he will react to them in any form. The big problem he will have to face as he grows older will be the avoidance of bouillons, consommés and various other soups; breaded chops and such bakery goods as cakes, cookies, doughnuts, glazed rolls and pretzels; waffles, pancakes and dumplings; should be made for the cause.

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the new generations it won't be long before the agony of American labor and the turmoil, often bloody, between labor and industry seems as remote as covered wagons and Wyatt Earp.

Some of the giants of American labor in the 20th century already have passed into history, dying at a time when labor-management relations had become almost serene compared with the past.

Time has taken its toll of others, still alive. Getting too old for the burdens of leadership, they have stepped aside.

John L. Lewis, with brows so bushy they made his eyes look like caverns, could snarl like a cat, roar like a lion, invent the sit-down strike, defy the government, and plague the coalmine owners.

In the end he got along fine with the past.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

As this is written Boston's five daily newspapers are on strike. Federal mediator William A. Rose said the suspension may last as long as the 114-day strike against the New York City newspapers in 1962-63. That tragedy sent the New York Mirror down the drain. And this a s s assassination takes place again and again.

Moreover, you can usually hear the death tick in advance.

For years on end one hard-pressed big-city newspaper after another has opened its books to strike leaders. A strike would be called just the same—and a fine, venerable paper might go out of business.

The issue isn't a question of the right to strike; it's a question of the wisdom of striking. For strikes, like too much of anything, can be a killer.

Many famous newspapers in with them. He recognized the inevitability of labor-saving machinery in the coal mines, and when West Virginia University awarded him an honorary degree of doctor of laws in 1957, he was described as "the foremost labor statesman in the world."

He had headed the United Mine Workers for 40 years, and in between-times—the Congress of Industrial Organizations. But time caught up with him and he began fading from the picture in the 1950s. Now he visits the UMW's headquarters here perhaps once a week. He's 86 now.

And last week another one of the giants, David Dubinsky, announced he will retire April 12 as president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union which he has headed 34 years.

He is 74 and he wiped his eyes with a handkerchief as an assistant read the resignation. When he took over the union in 1932 the garment workers were in a sweatshop industry.

Under him it became a wealthy union with excellent contracts that provided the first garment-industry agreement on a 35-hour week, an employer-contributed pooled fund for workers' vacations, health and welfare funds, retirement funds, and severance pay.

But already gone from the scene were such men as Philip Murray, William Green, Sidney Hillman.

Murray, head of the CIO, died 14 years ago at 66. Green headed the American Federation of Labor from 1924 until he died 14 years ago at 79. Hillman was not only extremely active in the labor movement as head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers but was also active in serving the government during the war. He died 20 years ago at 59 after heading the clothing workers since 1915.

But what the younger generations of Americans are seeing now is a rather placid labor movement with much of the steam out of it as new leaders, well-paid, sit on their hands and fail to organize the unorganized.

But also, labor has made such gains since the 1930s and has such power now to cripple the country, it has lost much of the sympathy it had when it was strictly the underdog and the various managements acted as if the Middle Ages would never end.

Now when labor strikes, particularly in an industry directly affecting the public welfare, like transportation or steel, it has to watch its step lest Congress finally forbid such strikes and replace them with compulsory arbitration.

The playback of this into our national consciousness is not loud or vivid. Most big-city newspapers, if they are hard-pressed, are patiently trying to pick up the stones which are shattering their balance sheets. This profession somehow always seems animated by hope. But the Boston problem exists as a national pattern and any intensification of it is heartbreaking.

Such moves are now more typical than rare in communities like Alexandria, while the great cities see their papers shrinking in number or many of them staggering through the strike-stricken aftermaths of a New York, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, Boston, etc., situation.

It's not the kind of livelihood for which you are likely to get an insurance company to give you cheap cover.

Smylie Raps Johnson's Use Of Television

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Gov. Robert E. Smylie rapped President Johnson Friday night for excessive use of live television and interfering with its news coverage functions.

Smylie spoke at a University of Idaho political science-Journalism forum.

At a news conference before his talk, Smylie decided to declare his political intentions and also would not say when he would announce his plans.

In his prepared remarks, Smylie told the forum President Johnson, since taking office, "has appeared 53 times on live network television."

"This is nine times more than in all the eight Eisenhower years," the governor said, "and 25 times more than President Kennedy used the network in his three years in office."

Smylie said "constant or exclusive use" of such appearances "circumscribe the important task of the media to interpret and thus to interpret news of the government for the people."

At the news conference, Smylie said he still had to ask U. S. District Court to remove its injunction ordering at-large elections.

Asked about various questions, Smylie praised the 38th legislature's record, said Idaho's sales tax would be retained in November and expressed concern that no end appeared to be in sight for federal tax increases. He declined comment on his political plans.

Today, the governor was expected to drive back to his mountain home on the Payette River, about 100 miles north of Boise, where he will spend the weekend.

Christian Scholars Ponder Catholic, Protestant Unity

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A world gathering of Christian scholars today pondered dramatic new possibilities of Roman Catholic and Protestant solidarity.

Among the exploratory questions: Should they join in mutual celebration of the Eucharist, or the Lord's Supper?

The highly sensitive issue, with varying reactions to it, came up at the start of an international, pan-Christian conference on implications of Vatican Council II.

It is being held at the University of Notre Dame, whose president, the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, called it "the greatest theological event in the Western Hemisphere in our times."

About 400 leading intellectuals of Roman Catholicism, Protestantism, Eastern Orthodoxy and Judaism are taking part in the seven-day meeting.

Opening discussions made clear that many of them regard the Vatican Council reforms as harbingers to still further developments.

A Roman Catholic expert on worship, the Rev. Godfrey Diekmann of Collegeville, Minn., said that liturgical changes were restoring the layman to "full citizenship" in the Church, and allow wider diversity.

This has demolished "the image of the monolithic Church," he said, and tended to make for reconciliation with the Protestant reformers.

In a question period afterwards, when asked about the possibility of joint celebration of the Eucharist with Protestants, he said he himself was against it but added: "What the ultimate answer will be, I do not know."

He said that the central act of worship presupposed "unity in faith" and should be maintained as a sign of "unity achieved" within the Church fold. Others, however, said the Eucharist may serve to bring about unity.

The Rev. John Dunne, a Catholic theologian, pointed out that since individuals vary and go through different stages of mental understanding, there is never exact "unity in belief" even among Catholics.

Man Believes Body Build Decides Life

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Albert Damon of Harvard University thinks that with a close enough look he can tell a lot about a man, including his chances of heart disease or of having more sons than daughters.

Damon, an anthropologist, is studying 18,000 men who attended Harvard between 1880 and 1920.

His study includes such Harvard students as Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joseph P. Kennedy.

Detailed measurements of the students' body builds were in their school records. Damon and others spent years finding out what happened to the men.

Using a computer, Damon is checking to see if a man's physical appearance can be used to predict his future.

He has found some relationships that held true for his Harvard group.

"The stockier the men, the more likely they were to have sons," Damon said.

Are bald men more virile? Not in Damon's Harvard group. He checked the 25th reunion reports on 1,008 of the men who married and found there was "no relationship between baldness and either the number or the sex of their 2,775 children."

Damon is checking another theory — that Americans are getting taller.

He is checking the frequent cases where several generations of one family attended Harvard.

He has three generations of Roosevelts and two generations of Kennedys.

A key part of his study, financed by a grant from the American Heart Association, concerns the relationship of body build to the incidence of various diseases.

"Body build has the same association with heart disease as smoking, high blood pressure and the amount of serum cholesterol in one's blood and a greater relationship than the amount of exercise one gets," Damon said.

Mexico Students Protest Policy

TORREON, Mexico (AP) — A group of students protesting President Johnson's policy in southeast Asia, set fire Sunday to the Mexican-North American Cultural Institute.

After a meeting at which speakers condemned U.S. policy in Viet Nam, the students roamed the streets attacking business establishments.

They threw bottles filled with gasoline against the institute building and set it ablaze.

Obesity Is More Common Among Poor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Naging wives and harping husbands have lost perhaps the best weapon in the calorie-counting stand-off because now, psychiatrists say, you can't blame a fat man for being fat.

The old idea that people get fat because they're lazy or nervous or have bad glands are superficial, even if partly true, said Dr. A. Enelow, professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California.

"People get fat for all those reasons, and for a great many more," Enelow said at a symposium on obesity.

He said some other causes are emotional and some are even a matter of social class.

For example, he said, obesity appears to be most common among poorer persons and least common among the wealthy. And, he explained, the reasons are found in two words, carbohydrates and fashion.

The poorer folks, Enelow said, consume more starch than the more fortunate brethren whose diets show greater variety.

More important reason, he said, is the feeling for fashion.

"It is probably only a slight exaggeration to say that what fat in San Marino (a wealthy suburb) would seem only a rather pleasant plumpness in some other parts of the Los Angeles area," he declared.

Enelow said fat persons generally are:

- Markedly sensitive.
- Victims of easily diminished self-esteem.
- Unable to stand much pain, physical or emotional.
- Subject to stronger than normal craving for love and reassurance.
- Subject to strong tendencies to withdraw socially.
- Dependent, sometimes, on their families and physicians who treat them.
- Doctors who use a great amount of supportive psychology while treating obese people are unusually successful, he said, but "the impersonal and detached doctor is unlikely to be successful with these patients."
- Among fat folks, he said, there are three basic types: the anxious ones who eat when they start to worry, the depressed ones, and the "borderline psychotics."

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, MARCH 21 — Born today, you have a kindly and loving personality that should endear you to people wherever you go. A natural-born host or hostess, it is your pleasure to make others feel at home, to make them feel welcome and special in your presence. With your gift for expressing warmth and concern for those around you, whether friend or stranger, you should never lack for admirers.

You have a native humor that never descends to the level of sarcasm, but, rather, bubbles up to the heights of true wit. Nor do you save this humor for "special occasions" — occasions on which you might be able to make a special impression with it. Rather, you spend it freely on all and sundry, for your only object in exercising it is to make others feel happier, not to gain notice for yourself. That others appreciate this in you need not be said.

In spite of your openness, good nature, and overflowing friendliness, you are not one to be taken lightly, for you have a sharp mind and a keen sense for business. Many may overlook this side of you, for you are not one to express your ideas until they have fully matured, and are ready to be put into action. When you finally do reach this point, you surprise more people than you think.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, March 22
ARIES (March 22-April 20) — An excellent "go ahead" day. The door for a new and different sort of work may be opening up; be ready for it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Today could bring you more than moderate success if your line happens to be in the field of inventions or innovations.

GEMINI (May 22-June 23) — Employment matters are highly favored just now. Reserve your energies for some active moves ahead, and some heavy decisions.

CANCER (June 24-July 23) — Artistic and creative work favored at this time. Success may well come through a new professional contract.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Unexpectedly good returns for the Leo who makes a new contact in the professional or social

BEGINS MEETINGS
MALAD, Idaho (AP) — Former Idaho Congressman and Air Force official, Ralph Harding, planned to begin a series of consultations with Democratic leaders in Malad today to firm up his political plans.

Harding — who has not denied reports he will challenge incumbent Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, in elections this year — said he will meet with political leaders in Rupert, Tuesday.

He said he plans similar meetings in Shoshone, Benewah and Latah counties in North Idaho later in the week.

"I am not ready to announce my candidacy for any political office," Harding said. "Until I have thoroughly consulted many citizens of Idaho."

DIES IN FIRE
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A Milwaukee Road section hand died Saturday night when his company-furnished cabin along-side railroad tracks here burned to the ground.

He was identified as Tom Smooda by Shoshone County sheriff's officers, who added they had not been able to confirm the spelling of the victim's last name.

Smooda was in his late 50s. Officers said Smooda was alone in the frame cabin when the fire, of unknown origin, broke out.

SHORTAGE PREDICTED
BOISE (AP) — Labor shortages in several Idaho industries this summer are predicted by the State Department of Employment with unemployment during the slack winter season the lowest in nearly 20 years.

The department said 14,700 Idaho workers were unemployed in February.

As highway construction, new industrial plant expansion and construction activity on three major dams in creases this spring, the department said, labor shortages are likely to develop by summer.

In mining, the department predicted shortage.

BABY SUFLOCATES
BOISE (AP) — Suffocation was blamed Monday for the death of a Boise infant. Officers said the child was found dead in his bed during the night.

Professor To Discuss Money, Rates

Dr. Erwin Graue, professor of economics emeritus at University of Idaho, will speak Thursday at the Idaho Power Co. auditorium on "Money, Rate of Interest and Business Conditions."

This talk is part of the university's Adventures of Learning Lecture series, now under way in Magic Valley.

Dr. Graue will talk on the money climate since 1961 in relation to plant capacity, physical volume of output and employment. He also will discuss re-discount rate, prime and loan rate and the law of the bond market, and the gross national product.

Dr. Graue received his bachelor and doctorate degrees from Cornell University. He came to University of Idaho in 1928 as assistant professor and rose rapidly to professor. He was awarded a Fulbright grant to lecture at the University of Ankara, Turkey, in 1951-52.

He was acting dean of the College of Business Administration from 1956 to 1957. Many articles by Dr. Graue have been published in national economics and business journals.

Last year the Interfraternity Council presented him its most outstanding teacher award. He is a member of the American Economic Association, American Arbitration Association and is listed in the Directory of American Scholars and Directory of American Men of Science.

He retired from the University of Idaho faculty in 1965. Tickets for the lecture can be obtained at the Idaho Power auditorium between 7 and 8 p.m. Thursday.

Mama and My $9 Violin

By SAM LEVENSON
Star of TV

At a party my wife Esther and I attended recently, a woman remarked of a successful author, "He certainly had a privileged childhood."

"So did I," I added quickly. The others laughed, knowing I grew up in the slums of New York.

But I was serious, for I was privileged. I had wise parents who loved me and told me so.

Our poverty may have kept me from most luxuries as a boy, but Mama and Papa always found money for the essentials. Just what the essentials were was not always clear to me, but Mama knew. One seemingly important purchase she made fascinated me to this day. It was a used violin — a $9 violin.

To realize what an outlay this was, one must know how poor we were.

In a sweatshop I was the eighth child of eight children, seven boys, and one girl, born to Hyman and Rebecca Levenson, immigrants to America from White Russia.

Papa worked as a tailor in a sweatshop when he worked — which was about seven months out of 12. We lived in a four-room tenement apartment where three in a bed was private, four in a bed semi-private.

When Papa was out of work, we were lucky to have anything to eat.

But somehow Mama managed and didn't complain.

My older brothers helped with the family finances. By the time I was old enough to remember, Joe, the oldest, was through medical school and had begun to practice the same was true of Jack, who was a dentist.

Always Worked
How did they find money enough to go to school? They worked, selling papers, running errands, anything.

The same kind of ingenuity that got them through school figured in the violin episode.

I was 8 when Mama decided it was time for me to begin music lessons. She chose the violin because there was already one in the family. The fact that it was full-sized never entered her mind.

When I went for my first lesson to the settlement house on 105th Street, the teacher just shook his head.

I was a sight: from my oversize shoes to my ill-fitting hand-me-down pants to my home-scissors-cut hair-cut. However, the real problem centered around my arms; they didn't reach the end of the violin.

Toured Pawn Shops
I trudged home and sadly reported the news.

"Aiy," my mother responded. (That's Jewish for "Oh my") "But blessed are they who have arms — long or short." She always had a verse — real or imagined — from the Bible.

For the next three months, she concentrated all her energy on finding me a junior-size violin. She toured the pawn shops, watched the advertisements in the papers, put music teachers on the trail of an instrument we could afford (which would have been free). Finally she located one for $9.

Conferences were held in whispers as Mama and Papa inventoried the family finances. When brothers Joe and Jack visited, Mother talked in hushed tones with them. (I'm sure they contributed to the cause.)

Nickel Here, Dime There
Though I yearned for a violin with all my heart, I couldn't imagine how she could even consider paying that much money for one when we had been eating off the same soup bone for a week.

Actually there were many weeks when Papa didn't earn $9, but that didn't discourage Mama. By saying a nickel here, a dime there, the sugar bowl bank grew.

Then one day when I came home from school, Mama and Papa put on a little ceremony as they made the presentation. Mama's round face was one big smile. When she saw my excitement, tears of pride came to her pretty blue eyes. Papa blew his nose.

"Make a joyful tune unto God all ye blessed," Mama said, quoting one of those Psalms I've never been able to find. But that wasn't the end of this gift.

Violin lessons cost money: 25 cents a week. Somehow Mama always was able to put her hands on a quarter for violin lessons. I know she went without food herself.

Now I didn't play very well, but I played in earnest. Whenever there was a special occasion I was invited to play the violin — at home, at school, at synagogue.

Every teacher I had told me, with fingers in their ears, "Sammy, the violin is not for you."

Eventually, after I had become established as a comedian, I put aside my violin. But you can't put aside a memory as rich as this. It warms me now as I tell you about it.

Staggering Responsibility
Though world conditions have changed a great deal since I was a boy, the responsibility of parenthood is still the same: staggering.

Kahlil Gibran knew what he was saying when he wrote, "You (parents) are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth."

Mama and Papa never read Gibran, but their bows were true — full of love and encouragement. No parent can give a child more. That's why I can picture a small boy cradling the world's most valuable violin and say, "I was a privileged child."

Contention
In the wake of the influenza epidemic that hit a large percentage of the population, Robert Gould, star of 20th Century-Fox, Television's "Blue Light" said that it proved what he had always contended: "People who cough never go to a doctor, they go to movies and concerts."

Women Honored For 50-Year Memberships

Mrs. A. J. Peavey and Mrs. Cecil C. Jones, 50-year members of Delta Gamma, were honored at the unit's Founder's Day banquet.

Delta Gamma is a national fraternity and its project is to give aid to the blind. The girls on a campus do this by reading to the blind students. The alumni in Twin Falls have been helping several students at the Idaho State Deaf and Blind School, Gooding.

At Christmas the unit provides toys or equipment for the primary department in the school. The money is raised through the annual rummage sale in the fall.

A coffee hour is hosted during the Christmas holidays for the pledges and their mothers. In May the unit hosts a party for the junior and senior members of the Idaho State Deaf and Blind School, with special recognition to the graduating class.

Social Events

DAV Auxiliary will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Anthony Federico, west of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital on Highway 30. Members are asked to bring a covered dish and their own table service. Members will work on bazaar items.

Hobbycrafters Club will meet at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Harry Barry Park Recreation building to observe Birthday Week. Members are asked to bring new hobby ideas to this special meeting. Visitors are welcome.

The Senior Social Group of the Twin Falls Methodist Church will meet at noon Wednesday for a no-host luncheon and program. The unit is invited to spend a social day with the Rupert Senior Social Group March 30.

The Mary Davis Art Club will meet at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Delbert Craig, 284 Madison St.

Joint Program Is Presented

The Loyal Order of Moose and Women of the Moose held a joint meeting for a program presented by the Moosehaven committee, with Mrs. Ross McMurlin as chairman.

Mrs. Paul Welch introduced the dancers from the Donna Mauldin School of Dance. Lynette Welch and Kim Heinz presented a dance, "Cane Jazz." Kelly Mauldin and Linda Billado, a dance, "Walking My Baby Back Home," and Julia Waters and Debbie Mendola, a dance, "Hawaiian War Chant."

The Women of the Moose held their regular formal meeting, with Mrs. Robert Williams, senior regent, presiding.

Pro tem officer was Mrs. Paul McCollum, junior regent. A prize was won by Mrs. Robert Kirsch.

Refreshments were served by the members of the Moosehaven committee.

4 Events Have New Leaders in City Bowl Meet

KIMBERLY—Four handicap events leads changed hands Sunday to wind up the second weekend of the Twin Falls Men's Bowling Association's City Tournament while two scratch leads fell. The Sundowners No. 1 took over the team handicap lead, George Kerr and Cliff Bradley the doubles, Glenn Wells singles and George Kerr the handicap all events. The Sundowners No. 1 rolled a big 3,087 for the team handicap lead while the Villa Lounge rolled a total of 2,810 pins for the scratch lead.

76ers Edge Bullets for Eastern Title

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Philadelphia 76ers beat Baltimore 108-104 Sunday and won the Eastern Division championship of the National Basketball Association, ending Boston's nine-year reign as divisional champion.

The 76ers trailed at the half 64-53, but roared back to outscore the Bullets 38-16 in the third period behind Hal Greer and Wilt Chamberlain. They went on to withstand a Baltimore comeback in the final period.

The victory, in their final game of the regular season, was the 11th straight for the 76ers.

The last team to win the regular season title of the Eastern Division other than the Celtics was the old Philadelphia Warriors, in 1955-56.

The Celtics also won their final game of the regular season Sunday, beating Cincinnati 121-104. But they finished one game behind the 76ers. Boston's final season record was 54-26 and Philadelphia's 55-25.

Chamberlain and Greer led the 76ers with 24 points each. Greer hit 7 of 10 field goal attempts in the 76ers' third-period drive.

The Celtics, who have won the NBA championship seven consecutive years behind Coach Red Auerbach, meet third-place Cincinnati in the Eastern semifinals, with the first game at Boston Wednesday.

MVP

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers, the National Basketball Association's record scorer, was named the MVP's Most Valuable Player for the second time Sunday.

The Philadelphia star outdistanced Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers in a vote of league players. Chamberlain drew 181 points on a basis of three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third.

West collected 101 points.

The singles event saw nine new names on the top ten list, three in a tie for tenth at 663. Taking over second was Ken Hill with a 708 series; third was Todd Drake at 700; fifth, Earl Molyneux, 686; sixth, Wayne Myers, 684; ninth James Gerke, 672; and 10th Ivan Molyneux, George Kerr and George Blackburn.

Low in the money in the team event is 2,976. In the doubles event it is 1,205 and singles is 615.

The top ten leaders in each event after Sunday's action are as follows:

Teams

Sundowners No. 1, 3,087; Jensen's Jewelers, 3,073; Vickers' Saddlery, 3,060; Henry's Farm Sales, 3,034; Methodist No. 3, 3,033; Villa Lounge, 3,027; Person's IGA, 3,023; Bell Wholesale, 3,012; Christian Church, 3,011; and IML Freight Lines, 3,008. Scratch leader is Villa Lounge, 2,810.

Doubles

George Kerr and Cliff Bradley, 1,352; Dr. J. C. Rushton and Lloyd Miller, 1,330; George Hancy and Jim Dadds, 1,280; Bob McCracken and Willis Glans, 1,277; Don Whitehead and Bart Henson, 1,275; Ken Greene and Paul Gerhart, 1,263; Dr. Robert Packard and Ken Nealon, 1,262; Les Hestbeck and Ed Chappell, 1,246; Jim Brennan and Tom Roberts, 1,242; and George Wallace and Wes Williams, 2,241. Scratch leaders the team of Rushton and Miller with 1,234.

Astroturf May Prove Big Advantage For Houston During Home Contests

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Astros' man-made infield, first offspring of the eighth wonder of the world, has the potential to be a more decisive weapon in major league baseball than the home-court advantage in basketball.

That became apparent during the weekend as the Astros and the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers tested the wash-and-wear rug of synthetic nylon that is laid in 14-foot strips in the Houston infield and held together by zippers.

Put down where grass failed to grow under the Astrodome last year — even the eighth wonder of the world had some defects — the pool-table green substance cost $2 per square foot and may cost opposing teams several ball games because it can be manipulated to suit the Astros.

"We can adjust the field anyway we want it," said Judge Roy Hofheinz, the Astros' owner. "Who knows? We might live this little button down in the dugout that could change the infield depending on the opposing club."

The last part was Hofheinz' little joke, but the fact is the infield can be manipulated — made faster or slower — by changing the consistency of the dirt layer underneath the three-quarters of an inch of nylon carpeting.

"We're going to leave the infield up to Grady (Manager Grady Hatton)," said Hofheinz. "Why shouldn't it be the way he wants it? The Dodgers roll their infield to make it hard, and the Giants have been known to water their infield to make it soft."

What about the rules? National League President Warren Giles, on hand as Astroturf made its debut, said there was nothing in the rules that dictates "in anyway the resiliency of the field or its composition." But he did caution that the infield "would have to remain the same for all nine opponents."

That, of course, still would give Hatton the option of having a fast or slow infield, and with the speed on the Astros he's likely to leave it lightning fast as it is now. And that could present numerous problems as it did during the two exhibition games.

In Saturday night's 8-3 Dodgers victory, the Astros won the battle of the infield by making only one error on grounders to two for the Dodgers, but there were at least one-half dozen additional grounders that obviously gave the infielders trouble.

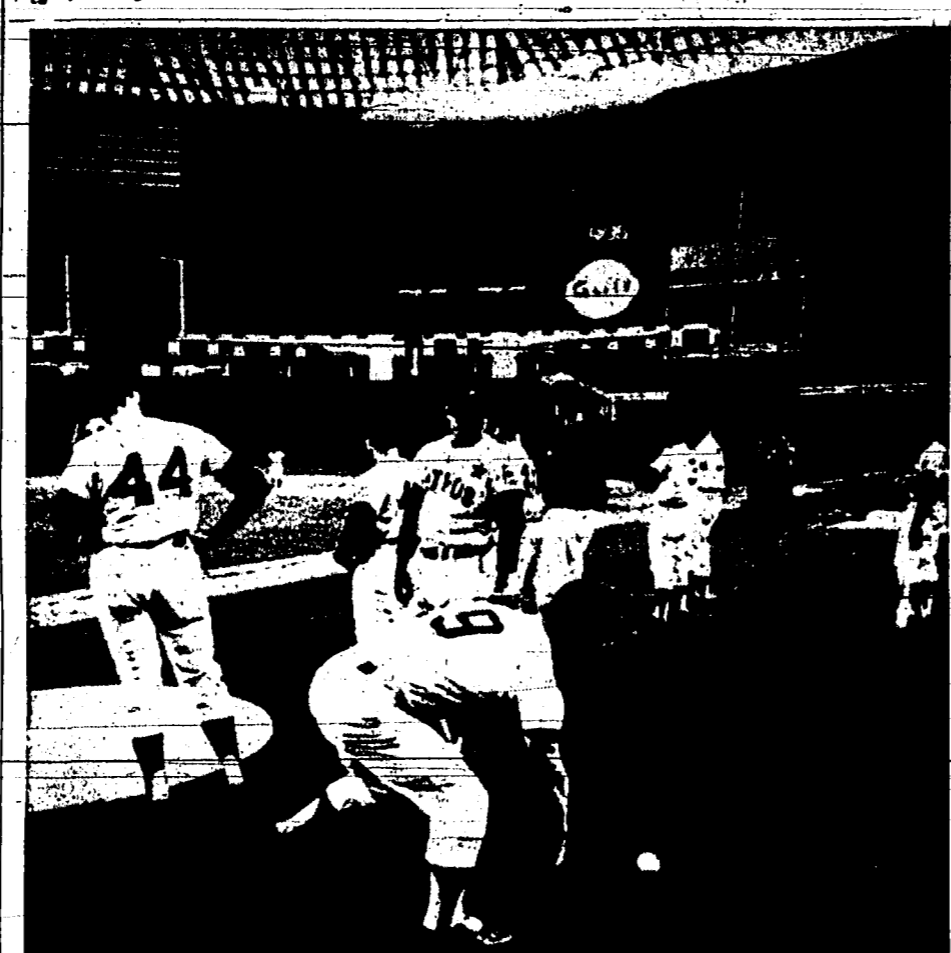

"Let's face it — it's different than grass," said Dodger first baseman Wes Parker, who made one error and had another grounder bounce away from him for a bad-hop single. "For something that isn't grass, it's a good substitute. But it's going to take getting used to."

"The difficult thing is the ball bounces one way on the grass and one way on the dirt part of the infield. It almost gathers speed. You have to either play in to get the ball before it hits the dirt, or way back to get it after it bounces a couple of times on the dirt."

"I got caught in between twice."

Dodger third baseman Jim Lefebvre explained the problem much the same way.

SPORTS

HOUSTON ASTRO catcher Ron Brand bounces a baseball like a basketball to see how much bounce there is to the new synthetic nylon infield as other players watch the reaction of a batted bouncer. The new pool table green substance covers the infield and the foul lines. The infielders said that the synthetic infield was fast. (AP wirephoto)

Hebert Overtakes Dickinson For Citrus Open Golf Victory

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., charged from two strokes behind Sunday and won the $110,000 Florida Citrus Open Golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 279, five under par. The 38-year-old pro fired a final round two-under-par 35-34-69 to overcome the two-stroke lead held by Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Dothan, Ala., leader of the second and third rounds. Hebert picked up $21,000 prize money for the inaugural playing of this event.

Buckpasser Has Hoof Injury

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Buckpasser remained a question mark Sunday for the Florida Derby, April 2.

Trainer Eddie Neely inspected the 2-year-old champion colt's injury on the inside of the right front hoof, and called for Bill Bane, a California horse-shoer who invented the bane patch.

While Parker and Lefebvre were reserved in their opinions, Bart Shirley, who played shortstop in the absence of Maury Wills, was highly outspoken and critical of the infield.

"I don't think you can adjust to it properly," Shirley said. "You'll hurt yourself in other parks if you try to do that."

Shirley also said a player could hurt himself physically on the new surface.

"On one grounder I set my foot for a throw," Shirley explained, "and I felt that stuff give under me, and my foot moved."

"Someone's going to break an ankle before they're through."

Alcindor Puts UCLA in Favored Spot to Win 1967 NCAA Crown

By The Associated Press

Texas Western will have back five of the seven players who upset Kentucky 72-65 for the national collegiate basketball championship Saturday night, but it's doubtful if the Miners will be favored to retain the NCAA title in 1967. Most basketball followers expect UCLA to regain the national title it won in 1964 and 1965. The reason is simple. Lew Alcindor, the highly touted 7-foot wonder, and the other members of UCLA's unbeaten freshman team will move up to the varsity.

UCLA coach Johnny Wooden admits to a feeling of "cautious optimism" as he contemplated the 1967 season. Alcindor, a native New Yorker, was eagerly sought by colleges all over the country before he decided to enter UCLA.

He was a success in his first game as a freshman, leading the team to a victory over the varsity in their annual preseason game last November. At the time the UCLA varsity was ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Texas Western didn't make the preseason Top Ten, but Coach Don Haskins' team reeled off 23 straight victories before losing to Seattle 74-72, and besting top-ranked Kentucky for the school's first national title. The Miners finished with a 28-1 record.

Returning next year for the Miners will be Bobby Joe Hill, David Lattin, Willie Cager, Willie Worsley and Nevil Shed, a prospect that should put Texas Western high up in the rankings.

Kentucky, which also won 23 in a row before losing to Tennessee and which beat second-ranked Duke in the NCAA semifinals, must be reckoned with again next year.

The Wildcats will have back All-America Louie Dampier, Pat Riley, Thad Jaracz, Bob Tallent, Cliff Berger and Gary Gamble. Only Larry Conley and Tommy Kron from the starting team will graduate in June.

Duke, which won third place in the NCAA tourney by edging Utah 79-77, again figures to be a contender for national honors next season. The Blue Devils have back Bob Verga and Mike Lewis.

In fact the 1966-67 season shapes up as a good one, with many teams due for continued success or improvement.

Q. I have \$1,000 I would like to invest for approximately 18 months, at which time my son will be entering college and the money will be needed. I have checked several mutual funds but they charge commissions of $7\frac{1}{2}$ to $8\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of the amount invested. I believe that for such a short-term investment the commission would take most of the profit.

A: You would save that 7½% to 1½ per cent, because shares of 1/2-load funds are sold at net asset value—without commission. But, for such a short period of time, on money you very definitely will need, I advise you to steer clear of all mutual funds, stocks or anything else.
