Race Developing For Legislature In District 23

A race for the Republican nomination for state senator in District 23, the east end of Twin Falls County, shaped up Saturday between John P. Bertie, Twin Falls, and John Noh, Kimberly, both newcomers to politics. Meanwhile, two candidates announced their intention to run for the two representative posts in District 23. Harold D. Cook, Twin Falls insurance man, another newcomer on the political scene, made his announcement Saturday that he would seek the Republican nomination for state representative. Friday, Ray Lincoln, incumbent Twin Falls County representative, announced he would seek re-election. The other incumbent Twin Falls County representative in District 23, Jack D. Claiborn, had not made an official announcement, but friends said he had decided he would seek re-election.

In District 24, the west end of the county, there also is a contest for the Republican nomination for state senator. Douglas D. Kramer, Twin Falls attorney, and John Barker, Buhl insurance man, both newcomers in politics, have announced they are candidates. Bertie is president and general manager of two family corporations, Bertie Poultry Farms, Inc., and Apple Valley Farms, Inc. Bertie also is president of Idaho Poultry Industry Federation, member of the Agricultural Consulting Council of the University of Idaho. In addition, Bertie has devoted much time to support of Boy Scout activities and presently serves as vice president of the Snake River Area Council.

Free Airlift

WASHINGTON (AP) — A letter bobbled by the Post Office is apt to get a free airmail lift to its proper destination in the future. Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien on Saturday night ordered postmasters to send mis-sent mail to its correct address by the fastest possible means — including airmail, where it would speed delivery. He emphasized, of course, that of the 40 billion pieces of first-class mail, the postal system handles annually, "only a tiny fraction — several hundred thousand — are missing during any particular year."

Cassia Will Elect Two School Aides

DECILO — Two Cassia county school trustees will be elected Tuesday in the Declo and Malta districts and school patrons throughout the county will vote on a five-mill maintenance and operation levy.

Three-Vehicle Crash Injures Hansen Pair

MURTAUGH — A Hansen couple was injured in a three-car mishap about 9 p.m. Friday about halfway between the Hansen overpass and Murtaugh along U. S. 30. The couple is Mr. and Mrs. Luther McGill, both 69. McGill is reported in fairly good condition and Mrs. McGill is listed as fair at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. According to State Patrolman Frank Mogensen, investigating officer, a 1962 Ford truck driven by Melvin Baptie, 20, Kimberly, was pulling over to the side of the highway and a 1963 Ford Falcon stationwagon driven by McGill was following him. McGill, seeing a car approaching from the other direction, slowed down and stopped behind the truck. Robert Marshall, 23, Pocatello, driving a 1965 Chevrolet, was traveling in the same direction as the truck and the McGill auto and was trying to pass the two when he saw the car in the other lane of traffic.

Marshall then attempted to pull back into his lane of traffic and struck the McGill auto, upending it and bouncing it back into the side of the truck. Mogensen said Baptie was cited for driving without an operator's license and a citation is pending against Marshall.

French Troops to Be Tied With NATO

BONN, GERMANY, (AP) — The United States, Britain, and West Germany agreed Saturday that French troops in this country be tied in closely with the forces of the Atlantic alliance despite President Charles de Gaulle's pull-out from NATO. The three nations set up a new body, the first NATO organization with headquarters in the West German capital, and the first without a seat specifically left open for France. This Working Group will be made up of Karl Carstens, No. 2 man in the West German Foreign Office, and the American and British ambassadors in Bonn, George C. McGhee and Sir Frank Roberts.

It was a tangible sign of something that worries many Europeans: an increase of West German influence and a decrease of French influence in the Alliance. The job of the new group will be to exchange ideas on what should happen after July 1, the date De Gaulle has set for withdrawal of his forces in West Germany from the Atlantic command. The French have two divisions and two air squadrons in Germany, most of their strength near the French border. Officially they have 72,000 men, though some estimates put the actual strength considerably below that.

Wave-Ripped Luxury Liner Docks In New York With 3 Dead, 12 Hurt

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's luxury liner Michelangelo, her superstructure ripped open by a 50-foot wave, docked in New York Saturday with three dead and 12 injured after a harrowing battle with the Atlantic's fury. The 49,900-ton, white-painted ship, in service less than a year, arrived two days late from Genoa, her flag at half mast. A bandage-like tarpaulin was draped over broken windows and twisted steel. Capt. Giuseppe Soletti called the storm that rent cabin walls and flooded passageways "the most severe storm I have so far experienced in my 41 years at sea." Passengers said it was a cauldron of shrieking winds, violently pitching seas, and a killer wave that broke over the liner's bow with the force of an explosion. Still, a honeymoon couple recalled they were unaware of the danger, and a housewife told of reading in bed while the rest of the 775 persons on board were in a panic. At the height of the storm Tuesday morning Walter Weiland, a German engineer from Munich coming to the United States to work in Stamford, Conn., said he thought "that this was the end." "My wife Ingrid said she thought the ship was breaking up when the big wave hit. I told her to relax, but then water came flowing into our cabin." Capt. Soletti described the wave to newsmen at a Sunday news conference as about 50 feet high. He said he believed it was responsible for the deaths and injuries. Soletti, nearly bald and sturdy built, said: "This wave was formed by the meeting of the Atlantic and the Gulf Stream currents. It was a very unusual phenomenon. It was a very unusual phenomenon. It was a very unusual phenomenon." See SHIP, Page 2, Col. 2

Library Week Observance Under Way

Sunday through Saturday is the ninth annual observance of National Library Week with "know what you're talking about, read" and "keep growing, read" as the dual themes. The Twin Falls Public Library is observing National Library Week with several displays in the library in the children's department. Mrs. Irene Heninger, children's librarian, has organized a display featuring the works of Beatrix Potter. Mrs. Heninger also will conduct a special story hour at 4 p.m. Thursday for children in fourth, fifth and sixth grades. She pointed out that younger children may attend, but the stories read would be of more interest to the older children.

In stressing the importance of National Library Week, Robert R. Bruce, librarian, points out that the local library always is ready to meet the needs of the community. He said, "The library service is not just books. I believe very strongly that the library is a service organization. In return for tax money the taxpayer can ask for services in other areas such as a central information center." During National Library Week Bruce will address several local service organizations, emphasizing the fact that the library is a necessary part of the community for adults as well as children. Earlier this year President Johnson said "Those who do not read are not much better off than those who cannot read. More than 100 million Americans have inadequate public library services. More than 15 million have none at all." Johnson added, "As the boundaries of learning are pushed back, our needs for storehouse of knowledge grows greater. They (libraries) offer man his link with the past and his vision of the future."

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Rafael Paasio, leader of the left wing Social Democratic party, Saturday was chosen by president Urho Kekkonen to form a new government. Paasio was asked to try to form a coalition government on as broad a base as possible, but without eliminating the possibility of a Social Democratic minority government. He will start to form the new government next week. The Social Democrats won 54 seats in the 200-seat unicameral Parliament in elections last March, thus becoming the nation's largest party. In second place is the Communist party, with 47 seats. The Center-dominated coalition party of former prime minister Dr. Johannes Virhainen formally resigned Thursday although it will remain as caretaker until the new government is formed.

Mother, Son Die En Route to T.F.; Meningitis Feared

A 19-year-old mother and her 13-month-old son died Saturday night while en route from Phoenix to Twin Falls. Mrs. Jose Escobar and her son, Jose Escobar, both Phoenix, were dead on arrival at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital at about 8:30 p.m., states Dr. Luther C. Thompson, Twin Falls County Coroner. Two sons, Alanzo Escobar, 15, and Yolanda Escobar, 11, were reported under observation at the hospital. According to Dr. Thompson, the cause of death has not been determined, pending results of autopsies on both the mother and son, but spinal meningitis is suspected to be the cause of death of the mother.

O.A. (Gus) Kelker Wins Photo Awards

BOISE — O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Times-News feature editor, Saturday was named state winner of both divisions of Idaho newspaper photography at the First Annual Idaho Press Club Awards Banquet at the Owyhee Hotel here. Kelker's photograph of the gigantic underground explosion of the "Pre-Schooner II" project in the Bruneau Desert, taken a split-second after detonation, was named the best news photograph for a daily or weekly newspaper in Idaho. His state award for feature photography was for his photograph of a band of sheep being driven down from the high country to Kelker received trophies for these two photographs, the only photography awards presented at the banquet.

Dr. Thompson said preliminary examination indicated the baby might have died of suffocation, but meningitis had not been ruled out as a possible cause of death. According to Dr. Thompson, Mrs. Escobar was ill when the multi-car caravan passed through Caliente, Nev., early Saturday morning. When the party reached Ely, Mrs. Escobar and the baby were reported vomiting, and the mother had a headache and a slight temperature and was reported disoriented and confused. Here, Dr. Thompson said, she was seen by a doctor who gave her an injection, after which she felt better, and the party continued northward. Dr. Thompson added, when the family reached Contact, Nev., both the mother and baby were vomiting again. Shortly after passing through Contact, Mrs. Escobar climbed into the back seat of the family stationwagon with the baby and apparently went to sleep. When Escobar stopped for gas at Rogerson, he noticed the baby was limp and thought it was dead. Mrs. Escobar seemed mark the onset of winter. There were no other photography awards made to Idaho newspapers. Boise radio newsmen Chuck Casey also won double honors. Casey, KGMF news director, won the best radio news award and the best radio feature award for coverage of the Senior Girl Scout Roundup at Farragut State Park last summer. Associated press writer Jim Adams of the Boise bureau won the best news story by a wire service in Idaho for a story on the 50th anniversary dedication of Arrowrock Dam. United Press International Bureau Manager Richard Charneck of Boise won the best feature award by a wire service in Idaho for his profile of a freshman legislator.

Rusk Explains U.S. Policy Toward China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk packages U. S. policy toward Communist China into a 10-point declaration that offers wider unofficial contacts between the two countries, but makes clear at the outset: The United States will stand firm in the determination to help nations that seek its aid against Peking's aggression. And Washington will continue to oppose U. N. membership for Red China as long as it maintains its present course. In spelling out the 10 points, Rusk told a house Foreign Affairs subcommittee: "I believe they serve the interests, not only of the United States and of the free world as a whole, but of the Chinese people." Since then the State Department has disclosed action on some of the points he mentioned, notably an open-door policy for visits to the United States by Chinese scientists. The 10 points contain reassurances, not only for Asian countries, but for Red China, that "the U. S. does not intend to attack mainland China." "On this point," in a declassified portion of his testimony made public Saturday night, Rusk said: "There are, of course, risks of war with China." He pointed to the Formosa Strait crises of 1955 and 1958 as examples, along with the Communist Chinese drive into Indian territory in 1962 and its role in Viet Nam now. "But we do not want war," he said. "We do not intend to provoke war. There is no fatal inevitability of war with Communist China." Rusk asserted that when it can be done "without jeopardizing other U. S. interests," the United States should continue to enlarge the possibilities for unofficial contact with the Chinese Communists. He added in this connection: "We have gradually expanded the categories of American citizens who may travel to Communist China. American libraries may freely purchase Chinese Communist publications. American citizens may send and receive mail from the mainland. "We have in the past indicated that the Chinese themselves were interested in purchasing grain, we would consider such sales." He declared the United States already had indicated its willingness to let Communist newspapers come to the United States, and "we are prepared to permit American universities to invite Chinese Communist scientists to visit their institutions."

State Plan Is Outlined To Engineers

Plans to deluge a state government bid at non-professionalized appointments of engineers were discussed at a meeting of the Idaho Society of Professional Engineers Saturday at the Idaho Power Auditorium. Robert E. Smith, Boise, state society president, said the state intends to combine all professions into one bureau and transfer the appointing of professionals to a non-professional government body. He said professional men would then be appointed in the same manner as meat inspectors. According to Smith the society has passed a resolution to insure that the government does not adopt legislation which would appoint engineers to become engineers. Smith also noted there is legislation in the bill which would pro-mingle funds. He said the society independently supplies its own money, with no aid from taxes. It was brought out at the meeting that a scholarship committee may be formed which would furnish funds for top students interested in engineering. The committee would pick four students from within the state and send them on to national competition. The society would contribute the money and direct the selection of the student to re-locate a bullet from his chest, they said.

High 60 to 65, low in 30s, except Camas Prairie high in 50s, low 20 to 25, Temperature at 3 p.m. Saturday was 65 at T. F. weather bureau with 26 per cent humidity. Barometer at 3 p.m. Saturday 29.88.

Although high pressure will continue to be the dominating feature over the Intermountain Region, a fairly strong disturbance aloft is moving southward along the Continental Divide from Canada and is causing a more northwesterly flow of winds over the northwestern states.

This northwesterly flow of air is bringing a cooling trend into the valleys of Southern Idaho. Temperatures have already lowered across these valleys will continue particularly in the eastern valleys through Sunday.

With the disturbance from Canada confined to along the Continental Divide, it should have little effect over southwestern Idaho except for some cooling, but there will be some shower activity over Southeastern Idaho through Sunday. Most of this activity should be over the mountains however. Generally fair weather is expected over the western sections through Monday.

Surface winds over the western valleys will be gusty to 25 miles per hour or a little higher at times through Sunday.

Skies over southwestern Idaho have been clear to partly cloudy while partly cloudy to cloudy skies have been the rule over the remainder of Southern Idaho. The only precipitation reported over these valleys during the past 24 hours was traces at Boise, Idaho Falls and Pocatello. was of great force and intensity. It struck the front of the bridge and smashed it, breaking and crushing windows.
Harden hit were the cabins beneath the captain's bridge, where one passenger and a crewman died in a violent wash of sea water.
Alice Silverman of Meadow Brook, Pa., whose stateroom adjoined that of one of the dead men, John Stenbach of Chicago, said "our cabin just disappeared."
There was wide praise for the crew. Dr. Jay Blaskovich of San Pedro, Calif., said they "were just about perfect."
Anthony Agius of Toronto, Canada, called the ship's staff "remarkable, very brave, hard-working fellows."
Both men recalled the day spent tossing in the mid-Atlantic as a trial of terror.
"It was like we weren't going to make it," Agius said. "I was scared to death. It was frightening as hell. You should have seen those waves."

"I've never been in politics in my life," Bertie points out. "However, I've had some contact with the Idaho Legislature in the last few years because of business and education connections and the results haven't been impressive, to say the least."

"I think it's high time for state senators and representatives to represent the people, take a firm stand on issues at hand and fight for whatever is right. Those principles would guide me in any legislative activity."

Bertie points out that even though a sales tax referendum is scheduled in November, the sales tax still will be an issue in election of state legislators.

"I'm wholeheartedly in favor of the sales tax and always have been," he declares. "It's a realistic, sensible means of financing government and it's silly to regard the tax as any sort of a burden. Without the sales tax, Idaho will slip backward instead of progressing," he said.

In announcing his candidacy, Noh, 61, expressed hope that "the bond election for College of Southern Idaho is passed. I feel it is a valuable and necessary asset to this part of Idaho."

Noh, a graduate of the Twin Falls High School, has a B.S. degree from the University of Idaho and is past president of the Idaho Woolgrowers Association. He is currently chairman of the American Lamb Council and serves on the executive committee of the American Sheep Producers Council.

The candidate has been a director of the National Woolgrowers Association, chairman of the Sawtooth National Forest Advisory board and belongs to the Idaho Cattlemen's association and the Idaho State Sheep commission.

He has served on the Murtaugh and Artesian school board. Noh and his wife, Ida, live on their ranch east of Twin Falls on Addison Avenue East.

Cook has never been a candidate for any elective office before. He is a life insurance underwriter for Mutual of New York, having completed 19 years with the company. He has been a resident of Twin Falls since 1950. However, Cook is a native of Magic Valley. He was born June 9, 1911, in Jerome.

Cook was a farmer from 1934 to 1947 in Jerome County. He sold his farm to go into the insurance business.

He was an organizer of the Kiwanis Club at Jerome and transferred his membership to the Twin Falls Club in which he has remained active. Cook has been active in insurance organizations and has held all offices in the Southern Idaho Life Underwriters Association.

In the Idaho Life Underwriters Association, he has served as director and area vice president. Cook also has been active in church and civic work. He has been a deacon and elder in the Church of Christ (Christian) the maximum permissible time, seven years, as a director of the Northwestern Christian Home, the Christian Church's retirement home at Portland.

Cook also has been an active supporter of the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, working chiefly in fund solicitation. Two years ago, he was campaign chairman for the United Fund in Twin Falls. Currently, he is a director of United Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook reside at 872 Mountain View Drive. Their one child is Roger E. Cook, physicist for Systems Development Corporation at Santa Monica, Calif.

T. F. Baseball Player Hurt In Area Game

EDEN — A Twin Falls High School baseball player, Perry Hanchey, was reported in good condition Saturday night at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after he broke his left leg during a Twin Falls-Valley game Friday.

Hanchey collided with a base runner near second base, which the impact caused the break.

According to eyewitness reports, Hanchey took a wide throw from the catcher as a Valley runner was headed for second base. The toss pulled him off base and into the line of travel of the base runner.

Just as Hanchey stopped the Valley player started into his slide, catching Hanchey in the leg and knocking him down.

Hanchey underwent surgery late Friday night, in which a steel plate was inserted into his leg.

to him to be still asleep at that time, but could not be aroused.

Escobar transferred the apparently dead baby into a pick-up truck belonging to a relative and rushed him to Twin Falls, where the baby was reported dead on arrival at the hospital.

When members of the family tried to awaken Mrs. Escobar, after she arrived at the hospital in the stationwagon, she too was discovered to be dead.

Dr. Thompson said immediate inspection of the mother and baby showed no obvious cause of death. The baby, he noted, was reportedly found lying face down beneath the mother in the back seat of the stationwagon in Rogerson, which indicated the baby may have suffocated when the mother lost consciousness or went to sleep.

Preliminary autopsy findings of the mother did not indicate spinal meningitis, but he noted that laboratory tests would not be completed until Sunday.

An autopsy was expected to be performed on the baby early Sunday morning.

Dr. Thompson reported that Alanzo and Yolanda were being closely watched for possible development of meningitis. Both said they had headaches and upset stomachs.

There is no quarantine of other members of the caravan pending results of the medical investigation.

Thompson noted that spinal meningitis is communicable, but only by direct contact with the stricken person. He noted that the disease is not spread through the air.

Bond Issue Supported by Women's Unit

Approval of the upcoming College of Southern Idaho bond issue was urged Saturday by the Twin Falls League of Women Voters after league members unanimously voted to support the measure.

Mrs. Douglas Kramer, chairman of the CSI issue for the local unit, said the league supported the measure for four reasons:

"Adequate college facilities are important to the young people of the district."
"Campus facilities are essential to the existence and continuation of the College of Southern Idaho."
"Accreditation is dependent upon administration, academic (classroom) and library facilities being erected."
"Federal funds now allocated to Idaho in the amount of $1.8 million will be lost to CSI if the bond issue does not pass at this time."

Mrs. Robert Nelson, local league president, urged the support of the measure and educational organizations to join the League of Women Voters in its endorsement.

Chamber Has Hookup With Air Command

KETCHUM — A large crowd attended the regular meeting of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce last week noon at the Sun Bowl to listen on the direct telephone conversation with headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) at Colorado Springs, Colo.

T. A. White, manager of the Ketchum-Sun Valley-Hailey offices of the Mountain States Telephone system, whose conversation with the briefing officer at NORAD was put out over an amplifier, said this group was the fourth in the state to be in direct contact with NORAD headquarters.

Previous to placing the call, White explained some of the defense precautions which are being taken on this continent.

He said they encompass the United States and Canada and are made up of four major military services—the Army, Navy and Air Force of the United States and the Royal Canadian Air Force, who are charged with defending the North American Continent against aerospace attack.

"NORAD means the major key to the survival of the two countries if deterrence fails," headquarters announced. It embraces a 200,000 man fighting force in the two countries, and 800 military installations located over the entire continent."

Working in conjunction with NORAD is DEW (distance early warning) comprised of some 60 radar stations from Alaska to Greenland. White said the DEW line, in which the telephone company participated, was built in 32 months.

Barrier Lines are patrolled by picket ships and radar aircraft from Midway Island to Alaska and from Greenland to the United Kingdom, and would provide first warning of bomber attack.

White said statistics show that at the present time there are 1,050 spacecraft and debris lost from spacecrafts, some as small as a pencil, being tracked.

By this system any vehicle believed to be unfriendly can be detected, the "scramble" button pushed, and our planes are in the air and after them immediately.

"In the past 24 hours the scramble alert has been given twice," White said.

He said the new home for NORAD will be 1,400 feet underground in Cheyenne Mountain, Colo.

During the business meeting Robert Glenn reported for his brother, James Glenn, chairman for the Basque Festival that the festival will not be held this year.

Manager W. G. Pyrah displayed the new brochures for Ketchum and vicinity which the chamber puts out each year.

The meeting adjourned early so members might attend funeral services for John E. Reinsch.

Heyburn to Begin Work On Sewers

HEYBURN — Plans were completed for the new sewer construction at Heyburn during a recent city council meeting.

The construction project located in the Dayley addition and Cox addition will be done by the Tony Russell Construction Co., Othello, Wash., low bidder. Boone Pyle, Heyburn, was hired by the board to serve as construction inspector.

Construction bids were received for the grading of Shoshone Street, which the board plans to open next to the railroad tracks from O Street to J Street.

The board reserved the bid letting until arrangements can be completed with the Union Pacific Co. concerning dirt in the area. Ross Corless was instructed to arrange a meeting with railroad officials fromocatello.

Tom Church, village attorney, is sending letters to residents who currently are housing several wrecked vehicles on their property and are not complying with the wrecking lot ordinance.

The action is being taken in association with the current Cleanup Week being planned by the village and the Chamber of Commerce. Earl Rose, board member, will meet with the chamber next week to make arrangements.

About 280 feet of ditch will be filled in the southwest section of the village.

Fred Dayley, who managed the Little League summer program last year, requested that the board install a protective fence for spectators at the ball park. Corless was instructed to get bids for installation.

The board agreed to hire a man to manage the summer Little League program this year and gave Corless authority to represent them with this action concession operator.

Mrs. Everett Savage, member of the village recreation committee, reported that plans are being made for the annual Arbor Day celebration. Activity is being planned for children and adults starting with a program at the school, tree planting at the park, ball games, races and the annual "Heyburn Stomp", a dance with live music that evening at the school gymnasium.

Several committees will be appointed for arrangements and the entire community is urged to participate. Proceeds from the dance will go towards the village park development.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON—Both the White House and the State Department are kidding themselves in dismissing the anti-American atmosphere of Viet Nam's Buddhist uprising as purely coincidental and probably unimportant. In fact, anti-Americanism is the core of the new "revolution"—as dictated by Communist infiltrators in the Buddhist leadership.

These infiltrators, disguised in the saffron robes of the Buddhist monks, are hammering away at one dominant theme—that no "acceptable" government is possible in Saigon until steps have been taken to expel American troops. They are manipulating the Buddhist demonstrations with the advice and consent of a Buddhist leadership which believes it can use the Viet Cong now and throw them out of the house later.

The only thing new about this campaign is its success. A year ago, I sat in the Saigon office of Barry Zorban, chief of the United States Information Service there, and examined captured Viet Cong documents boasting of Red infiltration in the Buddhist movement, and urging Viet Cong agents to "do everything possible to intensify religious opposition to the Saigon regime." It was the first time any U. S. official had acknowledged such infiltration.

PROOF AVAILABLE—Proof of the weird alliance has been conclusive. In the earlier demonstrations, when the cops were a lot tougher, they arrested 88 so-called "monks" over a period of three days. Thirty-five of these monks didn't know a single Buddhist prayer and couldn't identify themselves.

The two top Buddhist leaders, Thich Tri Quang and Thich Tam Chau, are both men of certain honor. But both are naive and irresponsible. They have refused to believe that their ranks have been poisoned by illiterate, demagogic monks in the ideological and financial pay of the Viet Cong who seek power in a new government. It is these monks who direct the silly teenagers and aimless street fighters in doing the Viet Cong's work.

Meanwhile, the Buddhist leadership is capitalizing on the plain citizen's emotional attitude toward any religious figure—a mixture of reverence, awe and fear. Whether Buddhist, Catholic or Cao Dai, the citizen's piety is authentic. When the monks take to the streets, they are followed by a cluster of faithful who court spiritual benefits by giving the monks limes to suck or Cokes to drink or who rub the monks' legs with liniment.

BUDDHISTS ONLY 20-30 PER CENT—Quang and Chau sound good when they keep harping on the need for a government responsive to the people. But what they mean is a government responsive to the Buddhists, which is not quite the same thing. Buddhist leaders claim to represent 80 per cent of the population, but they arrive at this figure by including the Confucian, Hoa Hao and Cao Dai sects. Objective estimates place Buddhist strength at only 20 to 30 per cent.

Some critics insist that the Buddhist leadership is plumping for a state religion, that it is using chaos to press its demands. If true, this would be a long-range goal. What the Buddhist leaders want now is a government whose policies they can dictate, a setup which would give them far more power than any piece of paper establishing an official church and which would be subject to even more intense Communist manipulation.

A captured Viet Cong document urges that "banners, slogans, leaflets, explosives and grenades be kept ready at all times" for use in demonstrations. The fact that people have been killed by these "explosives and grenades" should be significant even to the professionally innocent minds of men like Thich Tri Quang and Thich Tam Chau.

Views of Others

NOT EVEN A REGRET
The Department of Defense has issued its promised report on the Jan. 7 incident in which a United States Army sergeant shot and killed a young Dominican, Feliciano Matos. The incident took place while United States soldiers, members of the Inter-American Peace Force on the island, were forcing a group of Dominican youths to pick up garbage which had been emptied from garbage cans during a demonstration shortly before. The young Dominican, who had been bending over, raised up slightly—and was shot. The whole sequence was filmed by a Columbia Broadcasting System camera crew and shown to millions of American television viewers.

Immediately afterward, without a formal investigation, Army sources in the Dominican Republic absolved the sergeant—and the Department of Defense in Washington said it saw no reason to investigate. But when CBS showed its film, a storm of protests, including that of Sen. Wayne D. Morse of Oregon, was raised. The department then reluctantly promised to investigate and report back on its findings. It has now done this.

The report differs hardly at all from the first hasty, on-the-spot report and completely exonerates the sergeant who fired the fatal bullet. Moreover, the department says it is satisfied that the young Dominican acted in a threatening manner by picking up an object, which the report does not identify. The report adds that a United States private "was in danger of bodily harm from the decedent and from other rioters standing in a nearby doorway across the sidewalk." The sergeant firing the fatal shot felt "that his man was in danger" and "his intent was to protect his soldier by disabling Matos."

The report will satisfy Americans who saw the television film—and it does not satisfy us. To us, the department's report appears little more than a whitewash of a tragic and preventable incident. In the charged atmosphere of Santo Domingo, many such incidents occur from hasty rather than thoughtful judgment. The North American military force in Santo Domingo is an unwanted and unwanted element—and incidents such as this one only increase Dominican resentment over its presence. The least the Department of Defense could have done in its report would have been to express regret over the incident. It didn't even take that step.

PIONEER STOCK

Dear Potshots:
A woman of our acquaintance takes a good deal of pride in the fact that her ancestors were pioneers. She traces them almost all the way back to the Mayflower and notes that most of her forebears were always living on whatever frontier there was as the nation spread to the west.

One day she was visiting at our place and we offered to drop her off on the way downtown. When we stopped out in the street in front of her house, we inadvertently stopped at a spot where there was a little moisture.

She opened the car door, looked, and asked, "Will you drive up there a little way so I won't get my feet wet?" I wondered how many of her ancestors rolled over in their graves!

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

Religion Today

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
(AP Religion Writer)

Censorship is a diminishing operation today in the religious field. But it still crops up occasionally, both in Protestantism and Roman Catholicism. This spring, a joint publishing venture by scholars of both groups ran into a temporary snag on the West Coast.

Generally, however, the restrictive pressures have lifted in the leadership of the churches. Nowadays, attempted gaps in religious expression come, if at all, mostly from unofficial private groups, rather than church authorities.

The greater latitude, traditionally espoused by Protestantism; also has emerged lately in Roman Catholicism as a result of the "second Vatican Council."

A "new freedom," theologians call it. It places decisive responsibility on individual conscience, and makes room for more open religious encounter.

Expressing it, the Rev. Karl Rahner, noted German Catholic scholar, points out that valid church insights may "originate from among people who are not in authority," even when their views differ or disagree with others.

Signs of the tempered approach are many and varied. Some of Catholicism's leading thinkers, such as the Revs. Yves Congar and Henri de Lubac of France, whose works previously had been suppressed in some cases, now are among the most influential voices in the church. Recently, Catholicism's watchdog on movie morals, the Legion of Decency, changed its name to the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures, signifying its shift away from a negative, repressive approach to a policy of positive evaluation, to encourage mature, thought-provoking films.

The old pledge, "I condemn," was discarded. The Vatican's office for censoring books has been quietly eliminated, with the future status of the Index of Forbidden Books uncertain. A revised approach to the matter was in the making.

Pope Paul VI called a halt to the old system of secret curia scrutiny of books and decreed that no published work could be reprinted without prior hearings, the right of defense by the author, and international consultation with scholars.

Catholic canons, dating back four centuries and requiring advance approval of superiors for publications by clergy, have come under questioning and application, sometimes by-passed.

In a time of transition, however, and with the long process of revising Catholic canons still to be worked out, specific methods remain varied and clouded, and snarls occasionally arise.

One such case developed this month over a newly issued 800-page volume, "Documents of Vatican II," the first complete publication of the 16 documents approved by the Vatican Council, along with commentaries by 30 Catholic, Protestant and Eastern Orthodox scholars. It was put out jointly by Guild Press, a publisher of Roman Catholic books, and Association Press, the publishing arm of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Edited by the Rev. Walter M. Abbott, a New York Jesuit, it carries introductory notes by Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, of Baltimore, chairman of the Catholic Bishops' Ecumenical Commission, and by Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, a Protestant, president of the National Council of Churches.

Father Abbott said that in the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, there were official efforts to keep the book out of the hands of Catholic high school students because it contains material by Protestant and Orthodox scholars.

He cited a letter to that effect sent to principals by the Rev. Donald W. Montrose, superintendent of Catholic high schools and colleges in Los Angeles.

Father Montrose replied with a statement saying the book "was not banned" in the archdiocese, and that his letter was written because of lack of advance information about the book's commentators or their texts.

"Consequently," he says, "we cautioned our principals prior to the printing of the book against the acceptance for school use of a book containing commentaries without knowing the authors or their viewpoints."

In the book's introduction, Bishop Mueller hails it as "a significant demonstration of the new spirit of Christian brotherhood and fellowship that is emerging from the Second Vatican Council."

"Surely, we have entered an era when Christians, long separated from each other, will cooperate increasingly in a wide range of Christian ventures under God. As this happens, we will be enriching each other and benefiting the world as a whole."

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

LOS ANGELES—In the Watts uprising last August one of the 208 buildings destroyed out of the 977 looted and burned housed a large chain grocery. The manager was a Negro, and so were many of the clerks.

The high command of the operation had thought that by giving responsibility to Negroes in a Negro community it was carrying out the goals of integration. Since the burning and looting in Watts was to a degree selective, with Negro establishments in most instances passed by, the chain officials were perplexed by the destruction of their store.

Of all the questions raised in the aftermath of the biggest Negro rebellion in the post-war era, this is the most troubling and complex. It applies not only to Watts but to Negroes in every community in the North. And it leads to an examination of the role of the non-participant in an affluent, free enterprise system and to an even larger issue—whether anything like sufficient measures are being taken to relieve the tensions in the Negro ghettos in light of the cutbacks in federal programs as a consequence of the war in Viet Nam.

In the long post-mortem on Watts, the director of the Los Angeles County Human Relations Commission, John Buggs, met with officials of the grocery chain. He noted that Negroes not only had no ownership in the store but very little claim to owning any of the business.

But, unlike underdeveloped countries a round the globe, these American citizens live next door to affluence. They see at first hand here in Los Angeles the extremes of luxury living. On the television screen every form of subtle persuasion is used to get them to buy the goods of an affluent society. To observers long aware of the stresses and strains inherent in poverty confined on the doorstep of another way of life, Watts came as no surprise.

Unquestionably there has been improvement. The flareup last month was damped down with only two killed and comparatively little property damage. It seems to have been started by wild youths ready for any excuse to go on the rampage.

The hopeful view was expressed recently in a speech by Warren Christopher, vice chairman of a high-level commission headed by John A. McCone that investigated Watts. Noting that new police methods have been introduced to handle Negro complaints and to move in swiftly when trouble breaks out, Christopher concluded:

"Let me emphasize that the road to the improvement of the conditions of the disadvantaged which lies through education and employment is a hard and long road, an expensive and burdensome one, for all segments of society. But there is no shorter route. The avenues of violence and lawlessness, or of handouts and charity, all lead to a dead end. To travel the long and difficult road will require courageous leadership and determined participation by all parts of our community, but no task is more important."

Whether Negroes, and particularly young, deeply affected Negroes, will be patient enough to travel this road, no one can predict. Many civil rights leaders have attacked the McCone report for what they charge is its failure to confront the deprivation of those shut in the ghetto with only a small chance of escaping. Bayard Rustin, one of these leaders, an associate of Martin Luther King, wrote that the commission seemed paralyzed by the "hard facts of Negro deprivation" it had unearthed.

"What is most impractical and incredible of all," he wrote, "is that we may very well continue to teach impoverished, segregated and ignored Negroes that the only way they can get the ear of America is to rise up in violence."

Watts was a costly lesson, and what it taught is still hotly disputed.

PROPER SIGNALS PRODUCE SET
Many players would open the South hand with one heart only. There is a lot of reason for this. If North has the right cards there will be a slam and a four-heart opening will toss that slam out the window.

On the other hand, South has out of their trick-taking cards. If West takes his ace and king of spades he will have no way to get more than one diamond trick and not only will South have taken away the East-West spade game but he will have made a game of his own.

Proper use of signals will allow East and West to save something from the wreck and pick up 50 points for a one-trick set. East must drop his queen of spades under his partner's king.

This play cannot be read as a suit preference call for a diamond shift because if East wants a diamond shift he can get it by just playing a low spade. West is not going to shift to a club in any event.

Actually, the queen of spades play is a specific strength signal and tells West that East is sitting back with the jack of spades in the lead of spades. East gains the lead and plays a diamond through South's king.

State Funds Distributed To T.F. Banks

Twin Falls banks this week received state checks totaling $272,658, according to Marjorie Ruh Moon, state treasurer. Miss Moon reports that $2,000,000 was divided among the 112 banks in Idaho which are eligible to receive shares of the yearly reapportionment of state funds.

Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. received $94,371, bringing the account total for the state to $586,720; First Security Bank of Idaho, Twin Falls, received $91,589, bringing the total to $308,800, and Fidelity National Bank received $86,689, bringing the state total to $463,200.

"We hope to be able to maintain the dormant balances for as long as possible," Miss Moon said in announcing the deposits. "Since such balances play an important part in the economic well-being of an area.

"During 1965, we were fortunate in that we were able to maintain our dormant balances in the banks throughout Idaho without at any time having to draw in funds for the state's operating accounts in Boise."

MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

BOISE (AP)—Democratic aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination increased to six Friday with H. Westerman and Whillock's announcement in Boise.

Whillock said he would hold a news conference Monday afternoon to explain his reasons for running.

He is president and general manager of Boise Valley Broadcasters, which operates KBOI Television and Radio in Boise.

A former mayor of Boise, Whillock has been a member of the State Board of Health since it was created in 1957. He is also assistant state director of selective service.

DISCUSSION SET

BOISE (AP)—An air service study authorized by the third special legislative session will be discussed Saturday, Myran Schlechte, director of the Legislative Council, said Friday.

The last special session, which enacted Idaho's new reapportionment, also approved an appropriation of $16,000 for the air service study.

FUNDS ALLOCATED

BOISE (AP)—Nearly $6.4 million in state funds have been allocated to Idaho's 44 counties for April, Gen. Atty. Gen. Reid said.

Reid said estimated state funds available for the 1965-66 school year totaled $30,474,315, of which $29,782,267 — or 97.7 per cent — have been paid.

For April, Reid said, Ada County received the highest amount at $787,643. The smallest amount, $2,505, went to Clark County.

Nez Perce received $218,923, Twin Falls $376,591, Bannock $553,141, Bonneville $542,640 and Minidoka $202,363.

COINS FOUND

POCATELLO (AP)—Part of a coin collection stolen in last weekend's burglary at a Pocatello pharmacy has been found in the home of Robert Owen McDonnell, police said Friday.

McDonnell was charged with burglary of a grocery store where police said they shot and wounded McDonnell as he attempted to flee from the grocery store. McDonnell was in fair condition at Bannock Memorial Hospital.

Police said the coins found in McDonnell's home were identified by Norall Streepner, operator of the pharmacy. The interior of the store was destroyed by a fire following the burglary.

FIRM SELECTED

BOISE (AP)—Selection of a San Francisco firm to help Idaho plan her economic and industrial future was announced Friday by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Smylie said Booz, Allen and Hamilton will make a six-month study of the state's potential and recommend the direction it should take in future industrial development.

He said it will be financed by a $25,000 federal grant with no state funds required.

HEARING POSTPONED

IDAHO FALLS (AP)—A cause hearing, scheduled Friday morning, in Ninth District Court in Idaho Falls was postponed.

The hearing centers around a complaint filed by the South-east Idaho Building and Construction Trades Council against Wadsworth Construction Co. of Idaho Falls.

The council alleges that Wadsworth violated a contract with the group's 12 member unions by hiring a non-union contractor as a subcontractor.

A hearing date has not been reset by Judge Henry Martin.

ELECT OFFICERS

REXBURG, Idaho (AP)—Students at Ricks College have elected Neil Call of Rigby as student body president for next year.

Announcement of the new student body officers was made at the school's Duchess formal ball Friday evening. The election was Thursday, with 1,450 students voting.

Other officers are: Vice president for activities, Jane Williams of Blackfoot; vice president for support, Barbara Porter of Rigby; vice president for organization, Jerry Harker of Shelley; secretary, Cathie Smith of Idaho Falls.

CHARGES REMOVED

POCATELLO (AP)—Laver Chaffin's attorney, succeeded Friday in removing first-degree murder charges against the Blackfoot man before his trial recessed for the weekend.

R. M. Whittier of Pocatello asked the charges be eliminated. Fifth District Judge Arthur P. Oliver sustained the motion.

Whittier argued the prosecution offered no proof of "an intended criminal act" and based its case on only "conjecture and supposition."

But the attorney's motion for another mistrial was denied. The charge against Chaffin was reduced to second-degree murder.

UNIMPRESSED

BOISE (AP)—E. T. Waters of Boise, Idaho's Democratic chairman, isn't exactly impressed with reports of a plan by Americans for Constitutional Action to defeat Rep. Compton I. White, Idaho.

"The announced plans of the ACA for a massive secret agent invasion of Idaho," he said Friday, "should provide some great comic relief to the 1966 Idaho campaign."

"The secret agents, the secret money and its secret sources, and the secret candidate which the ACA will secretly back against White," Waters added, "should provide a script and characters for an Idaho conspiratorial drama which will make a James Bond thriller look tame."

The ACA is a conservative political group, generally regarded as the counterpart to the liberal Americans for Democratic Action.

RELEASE EXPECTED

IDAHO FALLS (AP)—Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard expects to release in two or three days an opinion dealing with validity of Idaho's election laws.

Shepard told the Idaho League of Women Voters here Friday the Idaho Legislature's third special session acted hastily in changing the laws to implement the state's reapportionment plan.

There is a possibility, he said, that chapters on absentee elections, make up of ballots and conduct of elections have been completely repealed.

The changes were made on the last day of the third special session.

NEED PROTECTION

FRUITLAND, Idaho (AP)—Southwest Idaho fruit growers will need protection on orchards by 5 a.m. Sunday as temperatures dip to a low of 29 degrees, the U. S. Weather Bureau's frost warning service said today.

The service said there will be considerable sunshine today and Sunday but it will be colder Sunday night. The dew point tonight is expected to be near 25 degrees.

Northwesterly winds will make spraying conditions unfavorable both days, the service said.

ASKS RETURN

BOISE (AP)—A 74-year-old Boise woman who claims the Arthur Murray Dance Studio promised to make her an outstanding dancer and didn't is trying to get her money back plus $35,000 punitive damages.

A jury trial on the complaint by Mrs. Carrie Delaphane resumes Monday with the defense scheduled to present its case.

WILL NAME CANDIDATE

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP)—A pro-gambling, independent candidate for Idaho governor will not be announced before the end of this week, a Greater Idaho, Inc., leader said today.

"We want to see who else announces — who we'll have to deal with," said Phillip Jungert, president of the pro-gambling organization.

Jungert earlier had said the candidate will run as an independent.

Democratic candidates for governor in the last two elections favored gambling for Idaho and both lost to Gov. Robert E. Smylie, Republican.

Live, Inc. Sale Starts On Monday

Live, Inc. products will be on sale Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday according to members of the Twin Falls Lions Club.

A non-profit organization, Live, Inc., with headquarters and workshops in Boise, was established in 1949 by the Lions Clubs of Idaho to help the handicapped and blind of the state. Rehabilitation of handicapped men and women so they can become productive members of society is the principal aim of the organization.

Approximately 30 individuals are employed in the program and five to ten are placed in industry each year. There is a long list of people waiting to take part in the Live, Inc. program.

Products manufactured by the employees of Live, Inc. and sold by the Lions Club include brooms, nylon car tow straps, nylon wet mops, brass wind chimes, rubber door mats and woven wool rugs.

Financial support for the work of Live, Inc. comes from the sale of these items and from the sale of wood products to industries. A small amount of funds is received in the form of grants from philanthropic organizations, but the bulk of the program must be supported by the sale of manufactured products.

Members of the Lions Club will call on residents of Twin Falls during the early evening hours while the sale is in progress.

Chicago Scientist Deplores Europe's "Chicken Curtain"

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—First there was the Iron Curtain, then the Bamboo Curtain, but, not so well known, is the Chicken Curtain.

A Chicago scientist Saturday deplored the "chicken barrier" set up by certain European and other countries against the importation of poultry from countries where use of certain arsenic-containing chemicals is permitted in poultry feed to "improve the growth and well-being" of the birds.

The United States is one of those countries. Dr. Douglas V. Frost of Abbott Laboratories said that while the element arsenic is indeed a Jekyll-and-Hyde substance—depending upon how, and in what quantities and configurations, it is used—science should begin to look more to the good face of the element, less to its dark side.

Indeed, he said, while arsenicals have been under suspicion for more than a century by various scientists, as an alleged cause of cancer, all attempts to prove this in the laboratory have so far failed.

Moreover, he added, there's even suggestive evidence to indicate that "research to determine the value of arsenicals to prevent or delay cancer may now be in order."

He made the statements in a report submitted at the close of the convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Declaring arsenic is ubiquitous in nature—with trace amounts found in soil, air, water, plants and animals—Frost said use of arsenicals by man has ranged from the pioneering pesticides—Paris green—to certain uses in medicine, including the "magic bullets" of arsphenamine which provided the world with its first drug treatment for syphilis.

"The beneficial response to arsenicals depends, just as does the toxicity, upon the particular arsenical in question," he said, adding that certain organic arsenicals improve the growth and well-being of poultry and

Third Reading of Ordinance Slated

The third reading of the proposed ordinance prohibiting parking on Addison Avenue West will be held during the Twin Falls City Commissioners meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is an ordinance annexing Shoshone Acres Subdivision No. 3 into the city, the third reading of proposed Ordinance No. 1314, providing for service and delivery permits and for meter hoods for parking commercial motor vehicles in metered parking spaces, and acceptance of subdivision plans for Lake Subdivision of Mur-swine at levels up to 100 parts per million or more of arsenic in the diet, the researcher said. "Some European countries disbar the safe uses of arsenic acids in poultry feeds."

"They also disbar importation of poultry from countries where these uses are permitted. Such regulations now exist in 18 countries of Europe and North Africa, also in Viet Nam and Red China.

Committees Named for County Fair

HOLLISTER — Committee chairmen for the Twin Falls County Fair were named when the Hollister Grange met Wednesday evening.

Master Lyle Schmitker named Glenn Nelson, general work chairman; Heber Loughmiller and Lester McGregor, small grains chairman; Dale Kunkel sheaf chairman; Mrs. Leroy Flenor and Mrs. Lester McGregor, vegetables, and Mrs. Howard Mills and Mrs. C. M. Lanting, fruits.

Mrs. Lyle Schmitker is to be decorating booth chairman.

A. E. Kunkel reported on the cattle hide situation, stating that the export quota now on animal hides tends to hold the leather prices down, and the export limit had been reduced further this year. Genuine leather shoes, however, have not come down in price, he said.

It was decided to draw up a resolution concerning the situation to send to other granges, and all grange members were asked to write individually to their congressmen expressing their views.

David Chadwick, grange youth chairman, reported that all 4-H clubs on the Salmon Tract have expressed a desire to have a community project started to raise enough money to build a cabin at the new 4-H camp, north of Ketchum in memory of Mrs. Heber Loughmiller.

It is estimated each cabin will cost about $3,000 and Chadwick asked if the Grange would furnish the grange hall for future fund raising projects.

All of the youth organizations already have contributed $300 to the camp, and this would be directed to the memorial cabin. It was reported that Twin Falls County Pomona Grange had given $590 as a memorial to Mrs. Loughmiller for the 4-H camp and also the Pomona Grange had given the same amount, $590, as a memorial to the Idaho Youth Ranch, since matching funds are to be made for all donations to the ranch by July 1 of this year.

Mrs. Schmitker, home economics chairman, announced that all women wishing to enter the State Grange sewing contest to report to her by the last of April.

Lecture hour was presented by Mrs. W. J. Lanting, and roll call was an Easter response.

A film "The Earth Is The Lord's" was shown by Mrs. Lanting to emphasize the Soil Stewardship Week which is sponsored by the National Soil Conservation Districts each year in May. This year Stewardship week is May 15-22.

W. J. Lanting, state representative, spoke on a highway safety meeting which he attended recently in Utah. He said Idaho has led the nation for the last three years with a 98 per cent secondary driver education program in the schools.

Lanting mentioned future restrictions which might be put into law for drivers, such as a 65 or 70 year age limitation, a possible periodic training period for all drivers every 10 years, the possibility of more than doubling the state police traffic control, and training for traffic judges.

Annual Grange party for Hollister student graduates is scheduled for May 11. Grange members are asked to bring cookies with the grange furnishing ice cream.

Lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kunkel. Next meeting will be April 27, with Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nelson as hosts.

That's because the Dome cars were built just for that purpose—to see the scenery. May we remind you of some other pleasures of train travel? Yes, train travel is great—a vacation all the way! Let us tell you more. Call us or your favorite travel agent.

Soviet Annals To Orbit Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists plan to send animals into orbit around the moon to test conditions for men. But many experimental launchings are still needed before human moon travel is possible, the president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, Mstislav Keldysh, said today in discussing results of Luna 10, the Soviet Sputnik now orbiting the moon.

Keldysh indicated that the Russians will try the rendezvous and linkup techniques recently developed by U.S. astronauts. The Russians have refused to be drawn into a public statement of their plans for putting a man on the moon.

YOU ARE INVITED

Come See What We're Doing at HELLS CANYON on Sunday, April 24th—10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

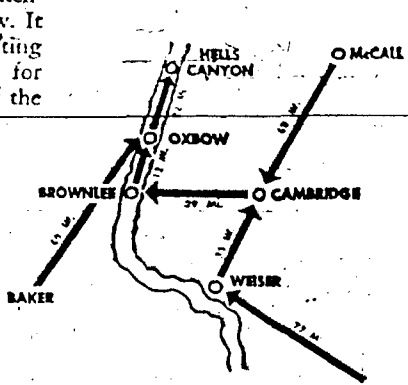

Bring a picnic lunch and make it a family outing. See exciting construction progress at the dam-site where the Snake River has been diverted around its natural channel by an 1,800-foot tunnel—where excavation to bed-rock has been accomplished — and where concrete is being poured for the massive dam and power-house.

It is ordinarily out of the question to admit visitors within the project area—there's too much construction activity in the limited space. On this special occasion (Sunday, the 24th), you can drive on the modern road to within two miles of the dam-site, then hop aboard a shuttle bus for the remaining distance.

After viewing the spectacular project with the assistance of guides, you will return to the parking area by bus and then proceed up-river to recreation and picnic areas — to McCormick Park below Brownlee Dam, to Woodhead Park on the back waters of Brownlee, or to the grounds near the Oxbow bridge — where there is elbow room for picnicking, also drinking water and rest-room facilities. The Boy Scouts and 4-H Girls will be vending hot dogs, cake, pop and coffee from a stand at the Oxbow Village.

Be sure to visit both the Oxbow and Brownlee power plants before you complete your tour, and inspect the salmon and steelhead hatchery below Oxbow. It will be interesting and educational for every member of the family.

The new queen will be announced during the jamboree and will take over reign from this year's queen, Juanita Summers, on the final night of the annual Rodeo, then will reign over next year's activities.

Rex Rasmussen, chairman of the queen contest, will have a committee of experienced horsemen to coach the girls in riding. Practice session will be held at the posse grounds and the girls will compete in the riding contest Sunday afternoon, June 12.

Contest officials noted that a girl must use the same horse throughout the preliminaries and the contest.

The queens will be sponsored by Rupert merchants as in past years.

Mrs. Summers will reign over this year's rodeo, which is scheduled the nights of July 2, 3 and 4, and will officially end her reign on the final night. Horse racing will be held this year at the County Fairgrounds on the afternoon of July 14.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS TINY HEARING AID

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. — A remarkably tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years. This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units, and represents a new and unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing. It was developed especially for those persons who can hear but can't understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear. Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low. The instrument weighs only 1 1/2 oz. It is about the size of a sewing thimble—hardly noticeable yet powerful. Send your name and address on a postcard to TELEX, Dept. D-12, 3054 Excelsior Blvd., Minneapolis, Minn. You will be sent full information without any obligation whatever.

Aviation History Made by Order for Jet Transport

NEW YORK (AP)—Aviation history was made during the week when Pan American World Airways placed an order for the world's biggest jet transport.

The plane — to be known as the 747 — will be capable of carrying 490 passengers. Its cargo version will carry 214,000 pounds of freight, double that of existing planes.

Pan Am's current Boeing 707-320C jets carry 174 passengers. Douglas Aircraft has flight-tested a "stretched" DC8 that carries 251 passengers.

The 747 will reach a speed of 633 miles an hour, 10 per cent faster than current jets; fly at an altitude of 45,100 feet, nearly a mile higher than present transports, and have a range of 6,000 miles.

Juan T. Trippe, Pan Am chairman, said the plane's operating costs would be 35 per cent below those of current models and that lower passenger fares and cargo tariffs could be expected.

The 747, with its capability of hauling many passengers and heavy cargo, was expected to cut into the traffic of ocean shippers and railroads.

Pan American's order also was expected to trigger action by its rivals to begin operation of mammoth planes. Trans World Airlines said it had been considering the 747 and would continue to do so.

After announcement of the order, prices of the common stock of Boeing, Pan Am and United Aircraft, whose Pratt and Whitney Division will produce the 747 engines, rose sharply in the New York Stock Exchange.

There were many high flyers on the stock market during the week, particularly on the American Stock Exchange where some issues posted gains of 20 points.

Trading volume was very heavy. On Thursday, it soared to 6.64 million shares on the American Stock Exchange, exceeded only in two sessions in the historic month of October, 1929. The same day volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 13.01 million shares, the third highest in history.

In an effort to alleviate the tight mortgage money situation, the Federal Housing Administration raised to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 1/4 per cent the top interest rate permitted on mortgages it insures.

The Veterans Administration posted the same change on mortgages it guarantees and the Federal National Mortgage Association cut the price it will pay for existing mortgages.

The maximum rate increases — the second round this year — were intended to prevent lenders from abandoning government-backed private housing loans in favor of conventional mortgages with higher interest rates.

Retail sales rose again in March, topping by 1 per cent the February total. The Department of Commerce reported that March sales totaled $25.64 billion against $25.47 billion in February.

The Federal Reserve Board announced that industrial production, a key factor in measuring business conditions, continued its steady advance during March, reaching 152.9 per cent of the 1957-59 average, up 1 per cent from February and 8.7 per cent from March 1965.

Wholesale prices held steady in March after a sharp rise in February. At 105.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average, the Bureau of Labor Statistics index was unchanged from February but was up 4.1 points from a year earlier.

The construction spending pace in March slowed to an annual rate of $74.98 billion from the record $76.48, 000,000 level in February.

Automobile production spurted to an estimated 210,700 passenger cars during the week, up 4.3 per cent from the previous week when assembly lines operated only for four days because of Good Friday, and up 35.5 per cent from a year earlier, also a four-day week.

Car sales in the first 10 days of April totaled 200,270 units, off 8 per cent from a year earlier.

Steel production for the week dropped to 2,686,000 tons, off 2.1 per cent from 2,744,000 tons a week earlier.

Stock Mart Experiences Turbulence

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market put on a turbulent and irregular rally last week in the heaviest weekly trading in its history.

The week's volume of 53,550,350 shares topped the previous record of 48.9 million shares in the week ended last Dec. 11.

The outstanding feature of the week was a rally by copper stocks linked with the raise by Chile in its export copper price to 62 cents a pound, an increase of 20 cents.

The action of the copper stocks was the most solid performance by a cyclical group in many months. It stole the spotlight from the glamorous color television-electronic-aero-space group which has been dominating trading most of this year.

The coppers began to rise on Wednesday amid advance reports of the Chilean price boost and continued their climb midway through Friday, when they were damped by profit taking.

The week's trading resulted in only slight gains in the averages because the first two sessions brought losses to most indicators.

The Dow Jones Industrial average last week rose 2.01 to 940.77.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 9 to 350.5.

Of 1,520 issues traded, 690 rose and 655 fell.

The public imagination was captured also by Boeing's contract with Pan American World Airways for 25 jumbo model 747 jet airliners at a cost of $325 million. Boeing, down sharply before the news, rebounded on its publication. United Aircraft also rose because it will receive an estimated $100 million contract for supplying the engines.

The aerospace group, however, performed in a rather jumbled way during the week. The same occurred among airlines.

Thursday's 13.01 million shares was the third biggest trading total in the history of the New York Stock Exchange and it was the most active session in which gains outnumbered losses.

Wide swings among volatile issues, both the New York and the American stock exchanges, brought out some precautionary comment.

"Market activity has begun to reach a feverish pitch and we would take a more cautious investment attitude in the current atmosphere," said Bachs & Co.

The bond market continued its downward trend last week in moderate activity.

Tuttle Man Says Sales Tax Is Tax Shift, Not 'Relief'

Editor, Times-News: This letter is prepared to clarify two points raised by the gentleman who answered my "tax" letters. How many readers noticed that his second letter was concerned with "tax relief," not "education" relief? The claim of $26,000,000 in "tax shifts" is accurate as to amount, but you can't show that it is equitably distributed. Most retired couples, wage earners, farmers and businessmen all are paying more state taxes.

In comparison, high-income people break even and the highest income groups make a substantial profit.

Max Yost (Associated Taxpayers) has stated that he personally broke even when he compared his state income tax reduction, and his local property tax reduction against his sales tax expense. The association for which he works is paying much more tax.

Gooding County is populated by farmers, businessmen and

New Moral Code Is "No Morals," Writer Asserts

Editor, Times-News: As a prophet of old spoke, the heart is desperately wicked. The dissatisfaction that lustful nature is has been the hallmark of this age. The new moral code seems to be summed up in these words, "No Morals." The cheap stories told around the water cooler are only appetizers for the lewd material that some smug peddler will gladly sell with the strange ring of 30 pieces of silver.

To the person who's hungry comes the story of the Prodigal in Luke 15:16. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat; and no man gave unto him. Instead of enforcing dog and pet laws, in effect, we had to have a dog leash law.

What a record of failure. The trend seems to be — if you can't enforce a law — make another. Could part of this be the reason for sacrificing 16 years of law enforcement experience?

I personally feel that it is time to organize an association for the protection of private citizens against unjust governing bodies — one which would assess members a reasonable amount yearly to be placed in a fund to retain an attorney for anyone who feels they are not receiving justice by these ridiculous laws and ordinances. The time has come to fight back.

BLANE C. RUSSELL (Twin Falls)

If Law Fails, They Pass New One, T.F. Man Avers

Editor, Times-News: It seems that anytime a governing body fails in an attempt to enforce a law, they must attempt to remove more of the rights and privileges of businessmen and private citizens by passing more laws, ordinances and restrictions upon those who put them in office.

Instead of attacking the problem of accidents on Addison Avenue West at its source, the driver and driver's, our city fathers feel it would be of more effect to deprive businessmen along this street of parking that they pay dearly for through taxes.

A person takes his life in his hands every time he goes by a drive-in along Addison Avenue West. A wider street will not correct cars hurtling out into traffic with utter disregard for their own safety or that of oncoming traffic.

It is time for common sense and law enforcement, not hair-brained schemes such as is proposed for Addison Avenue West.

The abuse of private rights

Kimberly Man Considering Voting for Herman Munster

Editor, Times-News: Like Mr. Walker, I, too, am concerned about that $100,000 bribe, because there is something fishy there.

Remember the Tammany Boys of New York, the Kennedy (Let's give blood to the Viet Cong) clan of Massachusetts, and without a machine, LBJ couldn't be dogcatcher of Johnson City, Tex. And don't forget those Byrds in Virginia. Of course those Jackass Machines may be A-O-K.

Now is Idaho as far backward as we have been told, then we need a good man to lead us out of that Great Utopia that is waiting for us as soon as we get rid of the present administration.

But if this great Utopia to be is anything like LBJ is trying to make us swallow, then I want no part of it and will cast my vote for Herman Munster.

Pornography Action Gets Praise of Twin Falls Man

Editor, Times-News: I want to congratulate Mrs. Kreilkamp and her group of men and women from the various churches in the area bringing public attention to the pornography on our magazine racks. This takes courage. And wisdom was shown in the unemotional, but factual presentation that was made.

Evidence, in the form of several magazines purchased locally was presented. By way of solution, voluntary cooperation between parents and merchants was called for, rather than a plea for new laws.

Congratulations too, to Safeway Stores, who refuse to carry pornographic magazines. How about the rest of you merchants?

To the credit of Mr. Otto, our local magazine distributor, it is true that our local racks are not as bad as some I've seen. But to a drowning victim, it is an academic question whether he drowned in 6 feet or 60 feet of water.

I think Mr. Otto is sincere in believing that kids with a good background are unaffected by pornography, but I am sincere, too, when I disagree with him. At 35 and with a good religious background, I consider myself as well-adjusted and settled as a man can be, but I cannot honestly say I am unaffected by these "sex magazines."

Can we honestly expect a teenager who is in the greatest period of emotional, physical and sexual adjustment in his life to be unaffected by this over-stimulation?

Morals cannot be legislated. Morality is an individual responsibility that we cannot shirk. As parents we must follow through with what has been started.

If your market displays pornography let the manager know you don't approve. No one forces him to keep any magazines on his rack. I am sure he will cooperate when he realizes it is the will of his customers.

Big Gains Are Posted By Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures prices scored big gains on the board of trade last week in trading that grew heavy on rallies. New crop contracts posted new seasonal highs Tuesday and another rally Friday held much of the week's advance.

Corn managed to squeeze out fractional gains for the week but wheat and oats closed mixed and rye ahead, with gains up to more than a cent a bushel.

Wheat finished the week 1/2 cent higher to 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower, May $1.61 3/4; corn 1/2 cent higher, May $1.26 3/4; oats 1/2 cent lower to 1 1/4 higher, May 70 cents; rye 1/4 to 1 1/4 higher, May $1.17 1/2 and soybeans 2 1/4 to 1/2 higher, May $2.93 3/4.

A rally in soybean futures prices that started April 5 continued for five consecutive trading days until prices faltered Wednesday.

History of Involvement in Viet Nam War Is Reviewed

Editor, Times-News: On March 30, four U.S. State Department officials spoke to a community gathering on the U.S. foreign policy.

In their talks and answers to questions it was brought out that we did not intend to win the war on the battlefield, but contain Viet Cong and Hanoi, until our social and political policies are established.

The writer is always leary of policies that we have to defend. We are engaged in hostility with Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam, where our men and boys are being killed and maimed for life, while on the other hand we sell wheat to the Russians and trade with some of the other Communist nations.

Let's take a quick look at how we got into this bloody mess; a brief is all the space allowed.

Secretary of State Dulles urged former President Eisenhower to support the French against the guerrilla forces of Ho Chi Minh. Our assistance was limited to military aid in the form of U.S. equipment. After the French lost their battle on May 8, 1954, at Dien Bien Phu, a Geneva conference partitioned Viet Nam at the 17th parallel.

In September, 1954, SEATO was created, and in October Eisenhower wrote Premier Ngo Dinh Diem that U.S. aid would be given directly to South Viet Nam. Early in 1955, U.S. military advisers began training South Vietnamese armies, and this is the "commitment" that our politicians are shouting from the Capitol Dome was soon sealed in American blood.

In August, 1964, U.S. planes struck at North Viet Nam targets in retaliation for an attack by communist torpedo boats on U.S. Seventh Fleet on Aug. 2 and 4.

From the 400 military advisers in 1960 we have built up our forces to 235,000 troops at the present, and the CIA has a force of 20,000.

Since the military coup and assassination of President Ngo Dinh Diem Nov. 1, 1963, in which the CIA played an important role, there have been nine rulers.

The same Buddhist monks who ignited the 1963 overflow and murder of Diem, are now crying for the ouster of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Why do we go so far away from home to take sides in a three-way fight?

J. R. DOUGLASS (Twin Falls)

Do Question Object of Undeclared War, Man Says

Editor, Times-News: Mrs. Bud Smith's public forum letter was timely and to the point. Mrs. Smith, there is gold in them thar hills and you located an ore structure when you said "Just what are our objects in this undeclared war."

If the public will do a little prospecting like Mrs. Smith has done they too may strike pay dirt.

Has the public forgotten thousands fought and died on both sides in the late wars to establish peace? Has the public forgotten how mean the Germans and the Japs were and how nice they are today? The boys in Viet Nam on both sides are fighting for the same thing that other soldiers fought for in preceding wars.

If the public will do a little digging like Mrs. Smith has been doing they may uncover an international conspiracy to establish a world dictator.

It is impossible for a world government to rule the world until a world currency has been brought into play.

The only way the one-worlders can force the public to accept international currency (slavery) is to bankrupt the leading nations of the world. Wars beget bankruptcy and Mrs. Smith's statement may crack the case wide open.

We have known for years the politicians have been successful in keeping the public misinformed and the end not in sight.

Recently we received the report about a tearing up draft cards and thousands demonstrated in the streets of New York, but the protest went practically unnoticed. If the public will strike the same note that Mrs. Smith struck, "What are our objects in this undeclared war," you will hear from the politicians.

Yes, it will be music to the boys in the jungles, so sing it from the platform, sing it from the pulpit, sing it from the house tops — oh, yes, sing it to the politicians.

Buhl Woman Agrees With Comments of Other Writers

Editor, Times-News: I so much liked what Dr. Kircher of Burley said in last Sunday's paper. I am also with Mrs. Bud Smith of Buhl on her comments of the Viet Nam war.

Another letter I'm re-reading is written by Virginia Ash. She thinks perhaps many readers feel Mr. and Mrs. William Black should have not been out after night and therefore would not have been beaten.

No, I do not think we should feel that way. Many people work night shifts and have to be out. It is a disgrace and a blight on our society when citizens cannot walk the streets and feel safe.

I now want to mention a letter written to the editor of the Sunday Statesman by Martin Covey of Boise. He thinks Mrs. John F. Kennedy is deserving the $30,000 allowance given her by the government — says she needs it to support her office.

I'm sure it is a private office, so why should the public support it. This money is tax money. It comes from our pockets. The common people toil and sweat to earn it.

I should think she would be ashamed to accept it. Those Kennedys are so rich they can hardly keep count of their income. They have millions, perhaps even billions.

Seems when Lincoln was assassinated the congress put through a law to pension such widows. However, the Kennedys were not millionaires. This law should be amended to exclude rich widows. Poor people are kept poor with high taxes. We also pay too much for utilities. Most of this money goes into the pockets of rich stockholders.

They thought they were being real nice when they put through the poor program. Who did they hire? Not the poor! Millionaires were given work in post offices. Remember what happened over in Seattle. So the poor program is really for the rich and well-to-do.

Those who need the jobs most do not get them.

MRS. MATTIE BEARD (Buhl)

Hansen Writer Takes Issue With Reply to Her Letter

Editor, Times-News: I would like to know where the lady from Buhl obtains her information? Where she received the information that the interview and questions of the general were planned beforehand to impress the reader's eye. She maintains she reads everything, but does her own thinking. In my opinion there is plenty of room for improvement along those lines.

My comments in regard to wealthy people included all wealthy people. I drew no lines. As to the personal references in regard to Mr. Thiebert, let me say this: He is indeed a very fine, intelligent person and contrary to the lady's very biased opinion, he is very well informed and he has also served his country in the armed forces.

As to her cruel reference to me — unfortunately I never had a son; but I did have a husband who was blown out of a foxhole by an explosive shell, resulting in severe burns on his chest and abdomen and a multiple skull fracture. He lay in the hospital for months enduring painful skin grafts and he also had a silver plate in his skull.

So lady, don't tell me I know nothing of the suffering of a loved one, and not once did I hear him voice any bitterness or regret having served his country. His injuries ultimately caused his death.

Instead of proclaiming so strongly a pacifistic attitude, she had best use her energy toward fighting a very possible Communist invasion of our country, more than what we already have.

I hope and pray that the Communist hordes that are swarming over Viet Nam can be kept over there.

Hot Lunch Better Than Dry Sandwich, Carey Girl Says

Editor, Times-News: Recently, a letter appeared in the public forum which referred to the fact that a certain eighth grader would prefer sack lunches to hot lunches.

I wish to comment on the hot lunches we have at Carey.

At the beginning of this year we were unfortunate enough to have to eat from paper sacks because our school was still under construction. When the school and lunch room were completed the students at Carey were very happy to relinquish the sack lunches for hot lunches.

Our cooks work very hard to prepare our lunches. Their day begins at 6:30 in the morning. When we have potatoes they are not instant. The cooks peel 60 pounds for one meal for us.

We have "homemade" rolls or bread nearly every day. To have a complete meal nutrition authorities say one must have one-half pint of milk, two ounces of protein (meat, eggs, peanut butter, dairy products, beans,

Vernon Smith, Richard Baun and Alan Baun, who can be forgiven since he's only in the fourth grade, went out fishing at Salmon Dam the other day.

After launching the boat at the dam the trio set off and within 60 yards Smith had a fish on. Within minutes the trio pulled in six fish, all duly placed in a plastic-lined sack.

When that spot cooled off they decided to go to another and Smith gave the 35-horse power engine its head. Within a couple of seconds, though, young Baun suggested the adults look back. There in the wake was the fish sack. By the time they retrieved it all but one had escaped.

"And we didn't find any of those big ones we've been seeing pictures of in the paper, either," Smith ends.

One of the brightest days in Gooding golf occurred in the Blue Lakes Pro-Am. The Gooding team won it. Not since Dr. John Church, now of Reno, won the Blue Lakes Invitational several years ago had anyone from Gooding made a real mark on the Southern Idaho golf scene.

Captain of the group was Gooding-Golf-er Professional Jim Wallace, who supplements his income by teaching school and being football coach. Even the heady smell of golf success couldn't rub out the football coach in him.

He said he was having trouble with the driver, noting "I'm a single winger (formation coach) and I just can't bring myself to use the tee!"

Of course, it's also possible that our first impression of his victory could have been correct. We surmised that now Ron Adamson is graduating, Wallace is casting about for a new source of financial security.

Marshall Everheart, Jerome, vice president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, passes along the word to Magic Valley duck hunters. There currently is a bill introduced in the Senate that would raise the duck stamp fee to $5.

The increase is pegged to the cry of "save our wetlands" with the additional monies being pointed in that direction. Pointed, we say, as we are still convinced that Ducks Unlimited, with only voluntary contribution, is outstripping the mandatory conservation plan of the U.S. Too much coming off the top for administration!

Fishing at Mormon Reservoir, which only lately has opened up due to some flooding, remains slow, but is expected to pick up. Ed Scholes, district supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, notes eight fishermen were checked on the impoundment one day last week with five fish — all in the two-pound class.

Scholes also reminds area anglers that the "narrows" portion of Mormon Reservoir, that area around the big island, is closed to fishing this spring to protect several nesting pairs of Canada geese from intrusion. The closure will be lifted when the hatches have been safely brought off.

Speaking of geese, Leon Litfield, Minidoka Wildlife Refuge manager, reports an aerial survey taken Wednesday indicates the brood population is over last year's count.

"They're not as concentrated as they were last year but we counted more of them," he notes.

The egg count, taken nest-by-nest, will be completed this week.

Dodgers Nip Cubs 4-2 on Ferrara's Hit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Al Ferrara slammed a tie-breaking double in the sixth inning Saturday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2.

Southpaw Claude Osteen, 2-0, and left-hander Bob Hendry of Chicago were locked in a 2-2 tie until a single by Jim Lefebvre, Ferrara's double and a single by Nate Oliver pushed the Dodgers ahead in the sixth.

The Cubs scored their runs in the third inning on a single by Carl Warwick, a double by Glenn Beckert and a two-out error by second baseman, Oliver.

A triple by Wes Parker and a single by Lou Johnson gave the Dodgers a first inning run and they tied the score 2-2 in the fourth when Ron Fairly doubled and romped home on a single by Jeff Torborg.

Osteen yielded eight hits and struck out nine while going the route for the second time in as many starts.

Johnson, Lefebvre, Torborg and Oliver each had two hits for the world champions. Lefebvre, who has hit safely in the first five games, raised his average to .474, with nine hits in 19 at bats.

Montana Angler Lands 29-Pound Brown Trout

THREE FORKS, Mont. (AP) — A 29-pound brown trout, one of the largest ever caught in Montana and perhaps in a south-western Montana mountain lake — and he might be "Old Oscar."

E. H. Peck Bacon of Three Forks caught the fish Wednesday while fishing from a dock at Wade Lake, near the Montana-Idaho border west of West Yellowstone.

The fish measured 35 1/2 inches long and 21 inches in girth. The tail was 10 inches across, and the head was 5 1/2 inches between the eyes.

Biologists figured the fish to be at least 15 years old. A large fish estimated at approximately 25 pounds had been seen cruising beneath the ice on Wade Lake this winter and was nicknamed "Old Oscar."

Met Fans Listless: Can It Be Hope or Chill Air?

NEW YORK (AP) — Can we've got sluggers. I don't say we'll be in first division, but we'll get out of the cellar."

Of course, the fan still gets excited — like when Cleon Jones slugged a home run in the eighth to put the Mets briefly ahead.

The applause was loud, the cheers were long, and William Bauer, pensioner newspaper delivery man, enthusiastically thumped the arm of the strange woman beside him.

"They've got punch. They've got punch," he exuded. His exuberance dimmed slightly when the Braves rallied in the ninth to hand the Mets their fifth straight opening defeat, 3-2, but his optimism never wavered.

"They look very good. They've got the spirit. They've got the fight to win."

Dom D'Angeli, who cut classes at Cooper Union College to make the opener, was more optimistic.

"They'll be about seventh, or better," he said. "I've never seen them play like this."

An usher, who asked not to be identified because he was ducking out of the cold, was positively beaming.

"We've got a decent infield."

Idaho Falls Tops Minico Invitational; Spartans' Schell Has Three Firsts

RUPERT — Idaho Falls, scoring big in the shot put, discus and relays Saturday afternoon, walked off with the windy Minico Invitational track trophy. But the big winner of the day was Minico's Greg Schell, taking wins in the 100-, 220- and 440-yard dashes. These, along with a 6 foot 3/4 inch high jump by Mike Schell, lifted the Spartans into second place, one and one-half points ahead of Twin Falls. The Bruins came close to overtaking the Spartans with first, second and fourth place in the pole vault, the last event completed. Minico's Brower placed third in that event for two points, enough to assure the Spartans of second.

Mota's Triple Drops Cards For Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pinch hitter Manny Mota lashed a two-run, tie-breaking triple in the seventh inning Saturday, sending Pittsburgh to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis in a game played under protest by the Cardinals.

It was the Pirates' first home victory over the Cardinals after 18 straight defeats dating to 1961. The last previous time the Pirates won was May 6 of that year.

The Cardinals announced during the game that they were playing the game under protest because of the possibility of a new rule change of pitchers in the ninth inning.

Mota says after a manager called him to the mound to talk to him, he had time in the ninth to get ready. The pitcher must be ready to bat before the batter is called to the plate.

In this case Washburn had a 1-0 lead, but a strikeout on 3-1 by Mota, Peck Schlemmer, however, had to wait until Sisk walked to have the count bring in the runner.

Scores of the other golfers for Twin Falls were, Gary Hulbert 77, Robert Langdon 81 and Chad Dodds 84.

Larry Hancock had a 76 for Jerome, Rick Scholes came in at 78 and Don Seeley was an 81.

Bruins Split Twin Bill With Tigers

MOUNTAIN HOME — Mountain Home's Kidd slapped a two-run homer in the fourth inning Saturday to break open a 1-1 game and the Tigers went on to topple Twin Falls 5-1 in the first game of a double header.

The Bruins came back in the wind-blown second game on homers by Gary Rasmussen in the fourth and Steve Soran in the fifth for a 16-11 victory.

The winning pitchers in both games aided their own causes with homers, Kidd getting his in the first game and Rasmussen in the second. Kidd also had 10 strikeouts to his credit in the first game.

The high scoring second game saw the Bruins use two pitchers and the Tigers three. Rasmussen came on in the first to relieve Monte Dayley and held the Tigers to nine runs the rest of the way while the Bruins brought in 15.

Kranepool put the Mets ahead in the first inning after Ken Boyer singled with two out against Hank Fischer. Kranepool drove his first homer of the season over the right field fence. Boyer singled home the final run in the eighth.

Connor Quits ISU Post for Job at Boise

POCATELLO — Doran (Bus) Connor, a member of the Idaho State University coaching staff since 1962, announced his resignation and said he has accepted a post as assistant football coach at Boise College beginning next fall.

Connor, an outstanding all-around athlete while attending Idaho State in the early 1950's, has served as ISU's freshman football coach the past four years. He also spent three years as freshman basketball coach and varsity baseball coach.

Athletic Director Milton (Dub) Holt said Connor's resignation will become effective on July 1.

"Bus has been a valuable member of our coaching staff the past four years. Naturally, we hate to lose his services but it is an advancement for him and we wish him well," Holt stated.

Boise College, which has chalked up outstanding athletic records in junior college competition for many years, announced recently that it plans to sponsor a four-year program in intercollegiate athletics, beginning in 1968. Connor will be backfield coach in football under head coach and Athletic Director, Lyle Smith.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson continued the hot pace of Baltimore's Robinson boys Saturday, smacking a three-run homer in the sixth inning that powered the Orioles to a 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

The homer, off loser Al Downing, was the third of the season for Robinson and pulled him even with teammate Frank Robinson in that department.

The Robinsons have knocked in at least one run apiece in each of the four Oriole games. Brooks has eight RBI and Frank collected his fourth Saturday on a seventh-inning double.

Celtics Looking for Eighth NBA Crown

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, bidding for their eighth straight National Basketball Association title, and the Los Angeles Lakers, a four-time bridesmaid to the perennial champs, meet Sunday in the opener of the pro league's World Series. "We want that title," said Boston's Red Auerbach, who will retire from the coaching ranks to devote full time to duties as general manager after the best-of-7 series.

"We're ready for them," said Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus, whose Lakers bowed to the Celtics in five games in last year's finals.

The Celtics, fresh from a 4-1 victory over the tough Philadelphia 76ers in the Eastern Division finals, rule a prohibitive favorite in the championship showdown. Many observers are picking Boston to win in five games.

Plagued by a succession of injuries which began in preseason practice, the Celtics posted a 34-26 regular campaign record, finishing one game behind Philadelphia in losing the Eastern Division crown after a nine-year reign.

Los Angeles won the regular season Western title with a 45-35 record. The Lakers lost seven of 10 meetings with Boston, but ace Elgin Baylor was hobbled by an injury in three of the defeats.

Baylor and Jerry West pack a tremendous 1-2 punch for the Lakers. They combined for 68 points as Los Angeles downed St. Louis 130-121 in their deciding game Friday night.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Front running Gay Brewer shot a two under par 70 for a 54 hole score of 209 Saturday and stretched his lead to five strokes in the $100,000 Tournament of Champions golf classic. The 34-year-old professional from Kentucky, who plays out of Dallas, Tex., turned in his third straight sub-par round as he toured the par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course in 34-36-70 on a day that was hot but windless.

Bruins Strike Early, Down Vikings 4-1

EDEN-HAZELTON — The Twin Falls Bruins B squad piled up four runs on three hits in the first inning and then coasted the rest of the way to a 4-1 victory over Valley Friday afternoon.

Stroud led off for the Bruins with a double and scored when the next batter, Cliff, singled. Wickham, Carr and Kevan walked, forcing in Stroud and Burman singled in two more for the four runs.

The Vikings also scored only in the first inning. It started when Ted Black lived on an error. Art Watkins, the Vikings' third baseman, shortstop and relief pitcher, came up next and tripled Black in with Valley's lone run.

U.S. Open champion Gary Player from South Africa registered his second consecutive 71 for 218.

The final round will be nationally televised by ABC-TV from 4-6 p.m., EST.

Exhibition Boxing Match Set at Filer

Approximately 20 amateur boxers from Utah and Idaho will be on hand April 23 at the Filer High School Gymnasium for an exhibition boxing match, sponsored by the Magic Valley Boxing Club.

W. J. (Bill) Moran, club director, said, "we hope to have at least 10 matches, but there will probably be more. Ten would be about right." Each match will be three rounds, the most allowed under amateur rules.

Ugah Boxers are expected from Salt Lake City, Provo, Orem and possibly Ogden. Boxers from Idaho will be coming from Burley, Gooding, Twin Falls, Filer, Boise, Homedale and Nampa.

Boxers will be matched according to their weights — from 60 to 200 pounds. Some of the best boxers from both states will compete.

Bill Casper, with a 74; Bobby Nichols and Doug Sanders, each with 70, and Don Massongale, 69, were tied at 215.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, who defeated Brewer and Tommy Jacobs in the playoff for the Masters' crown last Monday, continued to improve his golf in this desert event.

Nicklaus had a 76 in the first round, followed with a 71 and Saturday came in with 69 for 216. Tied with him was Lionel Hebert with a 72.

Clay to Defend Title Against Cooper in London on May 21

LONDON (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay will defend his title against Henry Cooper, the only fighter who ever knocked him down, in London May 21, a British promoter said Saturday. Harry Levene, the promoter, said the fight was "signed, sealed and delivered" but a formal announcement would not be made until this week. At Chicago, Clay confirmed he had agreed to the bout because "the offer was so good."

It's a good deal, and this will be a big thing over in London," said Clay. "I like London, the British and everything over there, and I'm giving them a chance at the title. I'd like to go from London to Germany and make this title of mine a real world championship."

This was apparent reference to a title defense against Germany's Karl Mildenberger, fourth ranked heavyweight contender by Ring Magazine. Cooper, the British champion since 1959, was expected to sign his contract later this weekend, and Clay's attorney would fly to London this week with the champion's signed agreement, Levene said.

"It has not been done overnight," Levene said. "I have been working on it more or less constantly since December when I went to New York to start negotiations. On Monday, we are going to start promoting it."

"This will be the greatest thing we have ever had. I have reached the height of my ambition."

Mrs. Eslinger said that the trout never broke surface until it was near enough to land. "If he had started splashing around, I probably would have lost it, but it stayed under."

The couple was fishing from the bank and using cheese as bait.

The fight is expected to be held in the Arsenal Soccer Stadium which seats 30,000 and televised via Early Bird Satellite to the rest of Europe and the United States.

London sources indicated Clay would be guaranteed $250,000, or a percentage of the gross. Cooper could get as much as $112,000, plus expenses and a cut from the ancillary rights.

Clay and Cooper first met June 18, 1963, in an open air bout in London. Although Clay stopped Cooper in the fifth round because of cuts around the Britisher's eye, Cooper had floored Clay with his powerful left hook earlier in the bout.

London sources said he would train in Miami and arrive in England two weeks before the fight.

Cooper, 32, came back into world reckoning this year with quick victories over two American fighters, downing Hubert Hilton in two rounds and knocking out Jefferson Davis in 1:40 of the first round.

Cooper, whose best punch is his left hook, has won 31 of his fights, lost 11 and drawn one.

The 24-year-old Clay is undefeated in 23 professional bouts. He outpointed Canada's George Chuvalo in a 15-round fight last month in Toronto.

The heavyweight champion is currently appealing his 1-A draft status and was known to have wanted another fight before his possible induction into the Army.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, April 17—Born today, you have been gifted with many talents, any one of which is sufficient in degree for you to put to use in the development of a career. But you have also been gifted with one special talent hidden among the many—and to discover which this is will be your first and your main job in life. Once you have found the one ability that, with the proper education and training, can be made to outshine all the rest, you are on your way!

One of your major drawbacks to success, however, is your inclination to become discouraged too easily. Rather than bouncing back from a failure with more determination than ever to be a success, you are somewhat prone to taking a single failure as an excuse for further failure, and thus to lose whatever enthusiasm you had for whatever it is you are doing. You must learn to judge your disappointments carefully; if they are all different in degree, and not to recognize this could be to make a wrong decision.

You have a great deal of energy, but you also expend a great deal of it on little things, things of relatively small importance to your main purpose in life. Learn to conserve your energy for things that matter.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Present difficulties should work themselves out in time, so be wise and don't push for solutions ahead of time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—A slow beginning to this day need not mean a slow finish. Catch up during afternoon and evening hours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Obstacles may slow you down this morning, but afternoon should see quick and safe ways to get things done.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—It may be a Blue Monday as far as morning hours go. Afternoon hours bring the developments you've been waiting for.

Monday, April 18

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Take care of financial matters first. All else can wait until you get the budget back in line. Let others know where you stand.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—An excellent time for making progress if you are interested or involved in a building project. Neither hire nor fire hastily.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Avoid tearing down. This is a day for being constructive both in thought and deed. You can make progress if you concentrate on building.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Any unfinished business should be taken care of immediately. Begin nothing new until everything old has been cleared away!

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Your health may well be more important than anything else right now. Guard it well.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—

New Carey School to Be Scene for PTA Area Meet

CAREY — The new Carey School will be the setting for PTA Fourth District Spring Conference at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Rulon Lewis, Rexburg, State PTA president. Twin Falls, Casta, Mindoka, Jerome, Gooding, Camas, Lincoln and Blaine counties are included in the PTA fourth district and all PTA members are invited.

The convention is the first such major function held in the new school.

The new school building is unique in design. The grade school wing on the south and high school wing on the north are built in the shape of hexagons. The six rooms in each wing are shaped like a wedge of pie.

By shaping the rooms this way, less space is lost with use of halls, officials note. There is only one hall, which runs the full length of the building.

The gymnasium is built next to the hall. In each wing there are two rooms with adjoining doors. These doors may be opened to make one large room. Since the high school enrollment is relatively small, total of 70, it is possible to use these two rooms as an assembly hall.

Each class room has a door to the outside which is very convenient and if a fire should start students can easily vacate the building, officials point out.

In the grade school wing, which houses 103 youngsters, cabinet desks are built by the door of each room into the hall. The desks make it possible for a student to work by himself without the noise of the classroom, if this is necessary.

Each grade school room has its own sink with a fountain and there is a lavatory in the first grade room.

Where extra space is found, such as many corners and empty walls, it is converted into storage rooms. The stage is divided in half and used for two purposes. One side is open to the gymnasium and used for assemblies, programs and such. The other has a wall on front and can be used as a band room.

The science room of the high school is equipped with built-in tables for laboratory use. It also

Denies Plans

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A suburban Las Vegas casino manager denied today that he plans to use women dealers in topless costumes as blackjack dealers. Then he announced new uniforms for his women dealers.

The Silver Nugget Casino manager, Robert Miller, said seven girls had been chosen to wear pink costumes with see-through tops during early morning hours. He said one girl who objected to the costume was switched to another shift.

Miller said the costumes had passed inspection by North Las Vegas police.

Man's Sudden Weight Gain Unexplained

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Something started to happen to Raphael Apodaca in 1957 the year he weighed 290.

"I started to gain," he recalls. "Since he is a comparatively light eater, doctors want to know why he keeps getting bigger."

Today Apodaca says he tips the scales at 600. That is, when such scales can be found. At the Maricopa County General Hospital, officials couldn't find anything on which to weigh Apodaca when he arrived for a check-up Saturday.

No wheelchair or stretcher could move him to his ward. He finally was mounted onto two mattresses and carried to the ward by forklift.

The 61-year-old patient was deposited in two beds welded together especially for him.

A native of Mexico, Apodaca lives in Peoria, Ariz., and worked as a truck driver until his weight began ballooning in 1952. He has seven children, but can't find work now that his bulk permits him to perform.

"I've never been a heavy eater," he said. "But, I'm strictly a meat eater."

Apodaca is unable to walk more than a few feet at a time without stopping for rest. He uses a cane and hasn't been able to fit into an automobile for some time.

His discomfort has become so acute that he knew something must be done. Apodaca said, adding: "Without any warning, in 1952, I started to gain—and I gradually got bigger. I don't think the doctors know why."

Apodaca will undergo tests for a while, a hospital spokesman said, while doctors try to figure out what to do about his weight problem.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Siamese twins weighing 13 pounds were born Wednesday to a 26-year-old woman, at a hospital here, doctors reported Saturday.

The twins were joined at the stomach, and doctors said there was little chance of a surgical separation.

The twins have separate heads, hearts, lungs and limbs but share a stomach. The doctors said they were unable to determine the sex of the babies.

CONSIDERATE

Dear Pot Shots:
Folks in Twin Falls who want to know the time have all sorts of services.

First off, if you happen to be home, you can dial a number and a pleasant voice gives the correct time.

If you happen to be downtown, particularly at the intersection of Main and Shoshone, you have a choice. Merely by raising your head you can take your choice of three different times and two different temperatures! It wouldn't seem possible that the width of a street could make so much difference!

Which brings my question: Which one is right, if any?

TOWN OF Lower Stanley, in Idaho's Stanley Basin country over Galena Summit, would be covered with water if the proposed North American Water and Power Alliance Project becomes a reality. A large area, including most of Sawtooth Valley and Stanley Basin, would be inundated. The project is now being considered by the government. (Times-News photo)

$100 Billion Water Plan Would Flood Sawtooth Valley Section

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

For those Idahoans concerned about designation of the Sawtooth Valley-Stanley Basin area as either a national park or a recreation area, all the arguments, discussions, hearings, and high tempers might be in vain.

It is just possible that this widely known sector of the state might end up a huge water storage reservoir as a part of the greatest public works program in history. The idea is to transfer surplus water from one part of this continent to another and the price tag is estimated at $100 billion.

At the present time this great movement of water is past the dream stage. It is a concept advanced by the Ralph Parsons Co. engineers-constructors, Los Angeles.

A special subcommittee on western water development — designated by officials of the Senate Committee on Public Works — is now at work on a complete survey of the plan and it has advanced even now to the point that this subcommittee has asked President Johnson, by concurrent resolution, to refer the matter of the diversion of "surplus Arctic water to the International Joint Commission with the request that an economic and engineering feasibility study be made and that the respective governments be informed of the results of such study by Dec. 31, 1966." The President was also asked to invite the government of Canada to join in such referral.

Chairman of the new subcommittee is Sen. Frank E. Moss of Utah. It is through the cooperation of Sen. Moss that the full details of the plan are brought up-to-date and made available to the Times-News after a request for such cooperation had been forwarded to him from the newspaper.

Canada, the United States and Mexico would be involved in the great program which would be known as the North American Water and Power Alliance Project.

It would provide for the collection of surplus waters from the Fraser, Yukon, Peace, Athabasca Rivers and other rivers of Alaska, British Columbia, Yukon Territory, and through a system of canals, tunnels and rivers to generate industrial and municipal power as portions of it descend to the seacoast and to redistribute the remainder of it to water-scarce areas of Canada, the Western and Midwestern United States and northern Mexico.

The effect such a project would have on this section of Idaho — Magic Valley, Wood River Valley and the Salmon River area — is most interesting.

There would be several large dams — called lifts — constructed in the Selway section and at least two others which would find one above and one below the town of Salmon. There would be at least three other dams below Salmon and these would be designated as Salmon River lifts one, two and three.

To Canada

In June, Sen. Frank E. Moss, Utah, will go to Canada where he will make a major address on the proposed NAWAPA project.

The Utah senator will express his support of the great proposed undertaking and is also expected to debate with a leader of the opposition from Canada.

Pending the proposed detailed study, no action is contemplated in the Senate at this time, the senator said.

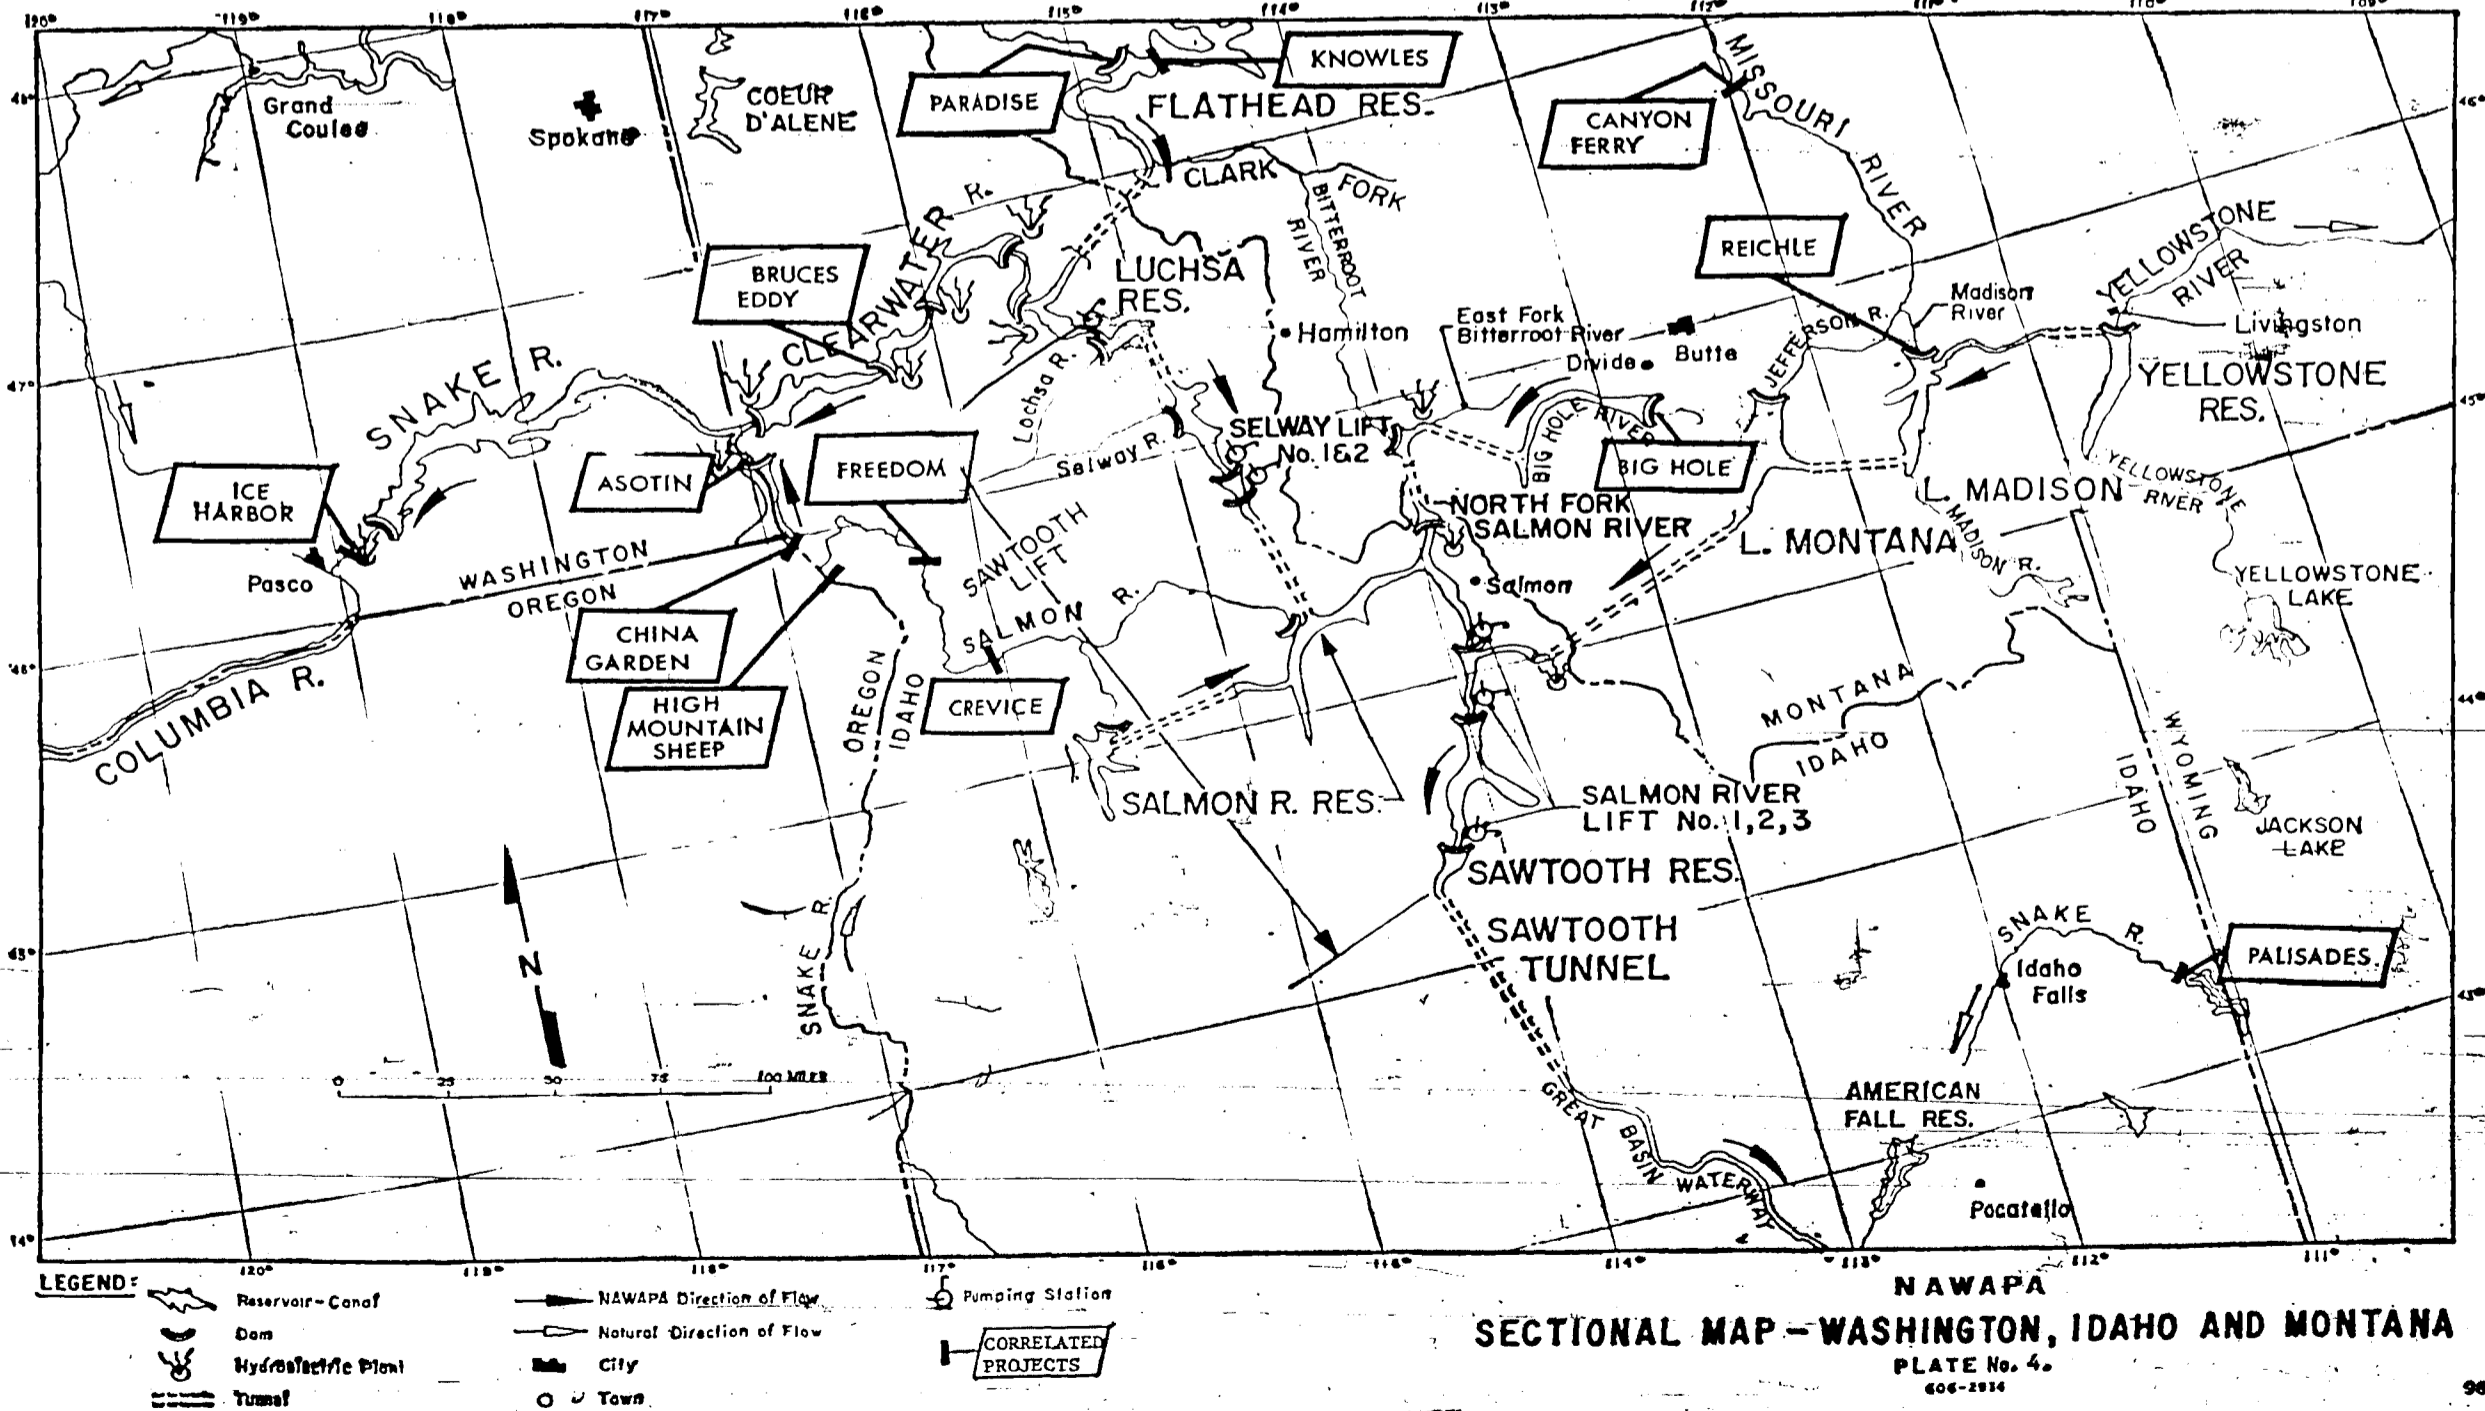

These lifts would flood the Sawtooth Valley and Stanley Basin areas. The water from the Salmon River, heading at the foot of Galena Summit, would be captured behind these lifts and they would be pumped back-upstream from one lift to the other until it ended up in what would be called the Sawtooth Reservoir.

LITTLE REDFISH LAKE would lose its identity and combine with the proposed Sawtooth Reservoir in a water-power plan now under study. The project, bringing water from the far north for use in parts of Canada, the United States and Mexico, would be the greatest public works project in history. It is estimated that it would take 30 years to complete. The Sawtooth Valley-Stanley Basin area is now a favorite of people liking the outdoors. (Times-News photo)

CHANGE IN FACE OF this section of Idaho which would result from a proposed water-power project — largest in the history of the nation — is graphically shown in this map. As is noted, there would be great reservoirs formed by numerous dams and lifts which would be constructed to get the water from Canada through the United States to Mexico. In this area a tunnel would bring the impounded water under Galena Summit, Sun Valley and Ketchum to surface somewhere in the desert northeast of Twin Falls and then continue by means of a man-made river toward the south. Cost of the project is estimated at near $100 billion. It is now under study and has been declared as being feasible.

A craftsman of long years, Anton Humbach, Jerome, displays a table, one of his many pieces of handcraft, made in his home workshop. A native of Austria, Humbach apprenticed himself as a grafter of grapes, fruit trees and roses, but after coming to America at the age of 15 he apprenticed himself as a cabinet maker. He farmed for many years near Jerome, but since retiring two years ago he has returned to his workshop. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

"He was going crazy; he was driving me crazy—and about to wear a hole in the rug, pacing back and forth. So finally I said 'go on! Get down stairs and get to work! He didn't really want to begin, but he did, and now I can't get him stopped!'" Mrs. Anton Humbach's dark eyes dance behind her glasses as she tells this tale, and her husband's blue eyes smile back fondly as this JEROME couple share a joke. All around their home are evidences of Humbach's skillful handiwork, for he has spent many years of his life as a cabinet-maker.

He didn't start out as one. As a young boy in Austria, the country of his birth, he was apprenticed as a grafter of grapes, fruit trees and roses, but when he came to America in 1910, at the age of 15, and settled in Detroit, he apprenticed himself as a cabinet maker. There he met, and three years later married, the gay Hungarian girl who has shared his life ever since. By 1918, the damp northern lake climate of Detroit had begun to affect his health, and they trekked west with their worldly goods and their three children, Roseanne (now Mrs. H. C. Hall) Frank, and Anthony, and high hopes that Humbach's skill would find ample use in the newly developed area around Jerome.

They landed in the middle of the flu epidemic of 1918, and both look back in sorrow at the remembered trials and horrors of that time.

"Neighbors dying all around us!" Mrs. Humbach says with a pitying shake of her head.

Unfortunately, the need for skilled members of the building trade was not as advanced as they had hoped. During their first year, Humbach did all the cabinet work in a house which stands on Third Avenue East, and is now occupied by Mrs. Ardeth Shimmis. He also did the cabinet work and helped with general construction of the Bill Hart house, which stands on the corner of Davis and Fifth Avenue East.

But then the work slackened off, and there just wasn't enough to keep the family going. So they went to farming, first on a place north of Jerome, and later on one to the southwest.

In 1942, however, they gave up the farm and moved to town, and Humbach returned to his first love as an independent carpenter and cabinet-maker. He retired in 1959 at the age of 64, for health reasons, and that is when the pacing began, which finally drove Mrs. Humbach to drive him to his basement workshop and into new fields of endeavor as a craftsman.

The initial impetus came from an advertisement he read in a magazine by Albert Constantine and Son, of New York, importers of wood for over 15 years. It offered, for a nominal price, a selection of four by nine inch samples of 1-25th inch veneers of rare cabinet woods from all over the world.

Because, from the habit of a lifetime, he loves the look and feel of wood as some men love the feel and scent of leather, or the look of an empty canvas and the hues of paints on a palette, or the smell and look of a newly plowed field, he sent for the samples.

He admired them, but they

Take My Yoke Upon You

IVAN O. MONTGOMERY
The Reorganized LDS Church. Jesus was taught and trained in the mosaic law. He was such an able student that we are told that when he sat in the midst of the doctors, and the lawyers at the age of twelve "all who heard him were astonished at his understanding, and answers" (Luke 2:47). Christ said, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me."

The great percentage of the Jews considered themselves more righteous than he. They were strict observers of the law. It was such thinking as theirs which later led the Apostle Paul to say, "Now therefore why tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?" (Acts 15:10). It was no small matter then when Jesus said, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me..." (Matthew 11:29-30).

Jesus' yoke is the kingdom of God. To accept the yoke of the kingdom is to accept the sovereignty of God. He becomes our ruler and our master. We owe our lives, our possessions, our love, our devotion to Him. To accept the yoke of the kingdom means that we give ourselves into the service of God. We are his subjects. We love and serve him with all our hearts and souls.

Some have thought that accepting the yoke of Jesus Christ meant giving up their freedom. This is not really so. We are always servants to that cause for which we live. Paul said, "Know ye not, that to whom you yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness (Romans 6:16).

Jesus was a carpenter. He knew about yokes. Not only did the oxen wear yokes, but men also placed yokes across shoulders to help get the best leverage and the most comfortable means for carrying heavy loads. Good yokes make strong men and beasts. Ill fitting yokes gall the wearer and exhaust him.

The way of the kingdom is learned from Jesus. From Him we learn true brotherhood. His life teaches us the righteous way to live and direct us in the understanding of God's purposes in us. He teaches us how to serve God. In comparison to the yoke of sin, the yoke of self-righteousness, or the yoke of dishonesty, his yoke is easy and light.

The ways of men apart from God leads to bondage. Jesus said to religious leaders of his day, woe unto the lawyers, also! For ye lade men with burdens grievous to be born, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers." (Luke 11:46). For this reason Paul said to the early Galatian saints, "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." (Galatians 5:1). We are called to take the yoke of Jesus Christ upon us. We do not accept the yoke by looking on, but by joyfully placing our lives in his hand and committing our strength to his purposes. The Apostle Paul says to every generation, "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God is." (Romans 12:1-2).

Amendment Favored by Pioneer Unit

PAUL—The Pioneer Grange voted in favor of a constitutional amendment supporting Senate Joint Resolution 103 last week during the Grange meeting.

The resolution concerns whether or not the states will have any future right to decide how state legislators will be appointed. Mrs. Hazel Hollinger, Grange secretary, will send letters to senators and congressmen stating approval to this action.

George Sullivan, master, conducted the meeting. The charter was draped in memory of Carl Linsey, a member who died March 13.

Russell Acock, Grange insurance agent, reported the four categories for special glass breakage rates.

Two permits totaling $3,000 were issued during the same period a year ago.

The 1966 permits include two new resident units, valued at $19,000 and five for alterations, addition and repairs totalling $6,700.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Klamm and Mrs. Lloyd Patterson.

Churchill Coins Supply Is Limited

Surprising as it may seem, every day people are buying Churchill coins, which were a memorial to the late Winston Churchill.

Most officials at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. thought that only collectors would buy them, but all kinds of people of Magic Valley are buying them, according to Harold Hove, a vice president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co.

Hove said there are only about 150 coins left to be sold out of the 1,100 coins they started with. This is the final shipment from the Chicago, New York and San Francisco correspondent banks.

Corsages were presented to the teachers of the high school and grade school by officers of the PTA in appreciation for their assistance during the year.

Room mothers were honored by Kendall Dayley, principal, for their service, and presented corsages.

A panel discussion entitled, "What Type Dress and Habits for the Student?" was under the direction of Horace Coltrin, English teacher. Participating were Mrs. Earl Darrington, Boyd Chugg, Jeanne Darrington, Jolene Kowitz, Berry Redman, Larry Slagel, Ken Saxton and Phillip Chamberlain.

William Darrington, school board member, reminded the group of the mill levy and trustee election April 19.

Refreshments were served by mothers of the freshman and sophomore classes.

For a man of Humbach's years, especially so. In its intricate pattern is reflected the pattern of a lifetime of joy in and devotion to the highest order of craftsmanship.

Mrs. Anna Beeman, HAGERMAN, whose 85th birthday anniversary was noted in last week's column, reports in addition to the 19 grandchildren and 38 great-grandchildren mentioned in the story, she has the distinction of having 15 great-great-grandchildren.

Home Nursing Course Held In Shoshone

SHOSHONE—Students at Shoshone High School are nearing the end of a series of instruction classes in home nursing. The special courses are being taught by Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, public health nurse.

The classes, run in series, are being held at the high school economics room and the Red Cross Nursing Course formula is being followed.

Senior girls have completed a mother-baby care course while sophomore girls are completing the home nursing instruction.

To explain the work, Mrs. Alexander said the students are taught care of patients in the home. There are lectures, demonstrations and also return demonstrations by the students. They feed the patient, see to proper body posture in bed, learn correct way to read thermometers and to aid a patient into and out of bed.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

TOMATOES: This is the No. 1 vegetable in the home garden, barring none. I get more letters about this useful vegetable which was once thought to be poisonous to man. What is the best tasting tomato, the largest, the sweetest, the fleshiest, the one with the thickest or thinnest skin? These are some of the questions we constantly receive.

No one can truthfully say that any one tomato is the best and rates highest in all categories. What's acid for one might be too sour for another gardener. If someone put a gun in my ribs and demanded my answer for the best all-round tomato I'd say Moreton Hybrid, a fine red tomato. There are other many fine hybrids which would grow in your garden. We like Sunray best of the yellow-orange type.

Several readers came to our rescue about the Blue tomato we asked about recently, and sent us seeds. The blue tomato has small fruits and they are said to have the smallest seeds in the world. I also have the name of a firm which handles the Blue tomato seed, and if you're interested, just send me your name on a postal card for your garden. There's also a tomato that's white when ripe. I'm learning something new every day!

PLANTING TREES: Quite often home gardeners want to plant shade trees of medium size (30 to 40 foot high), instead of the tall types our forefathers grew in lawns and streets. The new concept of planting "tailored trees" has caught on slowly but it is a good idea since these trees do not rip up sidewalks and do not grow out of bounds.

Here are a few of them that you might consider in your landscape plantings: English Maple, Ruby Red Horsechestnut, American Yellowwood, American Yellowwood, American Hophornbeam, Amur Corktree, Sargent Cherry, Sawtooth Oak, Silky Sassafras, Littleleaf Linden and Japanese Zelkova.

Your nursery may not handle these, but you might persuade him to order you one or two if he doesn't carry them. Watch out for the fast growing types such as Silver Maples as they are weak-wooded and may split during a storm.

A GOOD TIP: A reader writes: "I use old nylon stockings for storing onions over winter. This allows air to get between each onion and they do not rot. When you store them in cotton bags (like you suggested) onions in the center often rot."

Good Tip: I hope that our "Hamburg" onions in their garden this year. You can buy onion sets cheaply and set them in immediately. Keep them well watered and you'll have onions larger than the store type.

Burgundy and Southport are two red Hamburger onions that do well in this area. The large Sweet Spanish is ideal for the home garden. If onion maggots have been a pest, scatter three level tablespoons of five percent chlordane dust over the seed in a 25 foot row before you close the furrow. Or you can dust it along the rows.

FREE: Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my guide, How To Grow Onions, Leeks and Garlic. It tells you how to grow Multiplier onions, garlic and many more members of the onion family.

A FINE PLANT — If you're looking for an excellent border plant, you'll find none better than Sweet Alyssum, variety Carpet of Snow. As the season advances the plants get larger and larger and by fall or late summer the border will look like a patch of white snow.

Royal Carpet Alyssum is a dark rich purple, whereas Rosie O'Day is a rose pink. Some folks combine these with white alyssum. Both colors are useful in cemetery pots and window boxes. You can sow directly in the ground and transplant the seedlings when about 2 inches high.

APPLE SEEDS: What happens if you plant apple seeds? You'll get apple trees that bear fruit but it will be unlike the parent. Might be good and it might be sour and small. A reader planted seeds in an apple core back in 1937. Today the fruit is edible and from the several trees which came up, none of the fruit is the same.

She makes cider, vinegar and apple butter from the fruit and her 26 grandchildren eat all the apples they want. Does it pay to grow apples from seed? I'd say not to bother, but to buy budded or grafted stock from the nursery. You can get your favorite variety.

However, if you wish to experiment, you can grow fruit such as cherries, peach, plum, plums and apples from seed. Much of it will be "wild" upon maturity, but you can always cut the trees down if the fruit isn't up to par.

AFRICAN VIOLETS: A baby's hair brush is ideal for grooming the leaves of your African Violets. The bristles are soft and do not harm the foliage. Brushing the leaves makes them look better and is good for the plants.

BRIGHT FOLIAGE PLANTS: When it comes to colors, you can't beat Coleus, the most striking of all foliage plants. They are easy to grow from seed. Just be sure to start them in a loose mixture of sand and peatmoss, and give a temperature of 75 to 80 degrees while they are germinating. After that, move them when plants are an inch or so high. Grow in a bright window and they'll grow like a weed. To keep the brilliant color tones, remove flower buds as they form. This item is ideal as a pot plant, in the border, porch or window box, and it makes a good item for hanging baskets.

Colors are rich old-gold, red, green, soft cream, coral pink, blue and combinations of these. The beauty of coleus is that the plants grow in shady and semi-shady spots and still retain their rainbow colors. In bright sun they often tend to lose some of their brilliance.

GOOD PLUMS: Looking for the green juicy plum we used to grow years ago? It's called the Reine Claude or Green Gage, a heavy producing plum. Trees grow moderate size, and start to bear in September. You will get a bigger crop if you plant a "rooster" plum nearby, such as Abundance or Burbank, for cross-pollination.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: S. R. of Kimberly: "I wish you'd straighten me out on something. Recently you mentioned an annual called 'Kiss-Me-Over-the-Garden-Gate' and described it as growing six feet tall. I heard that this is also called 'Love Lies Bleeding' and I'm really confused. Please tell me what is the real difference, if any."

Common names are always confusing, yet it's not always a good idea to give long Latin names for plants. The plant commonly called Kiss-me-over-the-Garden-Gate, Princess Feather and other exotic names is Polygonum orientale Rubra. It is a hardy annual which sows, produce jet black seeds and they have bright pink spikes which droop. It grows six feet tall with broad leaves. While it is a coarse, awkward annual it is admired by oldtimers who remember it growing along the fence, and now there's a renewing effort to get the plant back into circulation.

The plant called "Love Lies Bleeding" is something else. Its real name is Amaranthus, known to many as Joseph's Coat. The improved Joseph's Coat listed as Aurora is a mass of highly colored leaves in yellow, orange, red and bronze-green and is much more desirable than the older type. You can make "Love-Lies-Bleeding" more dwarf by pinching the tips to induce branching. All Amaranthus are troublefree and will grow in any sunny spot.

Early Splendor Joseph's Coat is an amaranthus you'll want to try in your garden this year. Sow the seed directly into the soil. To confuse you, some folks call Love Lies Bleeding the same thing as Kiss-Me-Over-the-Garden-Gate. If you stick to Latin names you can't go wrong.

A. E. Holbrook: "You say that plants are not harmful in rooms at night. They take up oxygen and give off carbon dioxide. At night the process is reversed, but the amount of oxygen a plant uses is so small you couldn't measure it. The nurse taking the plants out of the room uses up more oxygen in the process than the plants would the whole night."

S. R. of Hagerman: "I never have had much luck growing peppers. Why can't we get a good set like we used to?" It's the variety. Try Vinedale a type that bears in 60 days. It's an ideal early red sweet pepper with fruits four inches long. It bears consistently for us regardless of the weather. Fruits are two inches long, two inches in diameter and tapering to a blunt end.

They bear in an upright position while other peppers point downward. Don't bother to plant them close together. There is nothing to the idea. Plants don't have to touch one another. Set them a foot apart and they'll pollinate freely.

LEAPING CHINOOK SALMON is completing last leg of troubled journey from ocean to Bear Valley headwater stream of South Fork of Salmon River to spawn and die. This is Dagger Falls, the last big hurdle in the river system, which now has a fishway to give easier passage around the falls for ocean-going fish.

going fish. A four-pronged attack on major problems threatening future chinook salmon and steelhead trout spawning runs in the Columbia River system is beginning this year in cooperation with federal and tri-state fisheries management agencies.

Idaho Joins Other States in Fight To Keep Salmon, Steelhead Fishing

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish Game Department
BOISE — Idaho accepts the challenge of maintaining sport fishing for chinook salmon and steelhead trout for present and future generations. Its forces are mobilized and joined with those of Oregon and Washington to develop a four-pronged attack on problems that appear overwhelming to cynics throughout the Pacific Northwest. Federal and tri-state fisheries management agencies are pooling more technical knowledge, time and money than ever called before to achieve the goal. They must somehow overcome (1) "losses" of adult upstream fish migrants, (2) downstream migrant mortality, (3) changes in river environment, and (4) reduced production rate of chinook salmon and steelhead trout. Pessimists declare that these are impossible problems to overcome, that the end of the inland salmon-steelhead fishing era is nigh. They say that just 35 years Idaho fishing regulations spanned the days of abundance, when the spearing and clubbing of ocean-going fish was legal to complete closure of all salmon angling last year. "Not so," say knowledgeable people ready to meet the challenge. All three rates of salmon coming to Idaho to spawn three score years ago or more were in a slump for reasons far less apparent than now. Old records show that the escapement of spring and summer chinook salmon into this state in 1938, 1942 and 1944 was somewhat less than last year's long-time low. Very likely slumps such as these led to the Idaho regulatory ban against all spearing and snagging of fish in 1945. Not until 1935, only 31 years ago, was there any apparent concern about the possible future of chinook salmon in Idaho. That was the date when a daily bag limit of two salmon and three in possession was established. The same state legislature, however, allowed seining of salmon in the Snake River from Lewiston to Captain John Creek and the sale of such fish without a permit. The first mention of salmon and steelhead in any Idaho laws was in 1893 when the State Legislature made it illegal to use seines, nets, spears and the like for capturing any fish except salmon, salmon-trout (presumably steelhead and sturgeon).

Families in Indian Desert Pick Male to Carry Water

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.
PHALODI, India (AP) — Here in the great Indian Desert many families select one male to spend his entire life hauling water from the nearest oasis. These men go from childhood to old age riding a camel all one day to a water hole and leading the camel back the second day with the precious cargo in canvas or goatskin bags. During their overnight stay at the oasis, the water carriers also take care of the family's "shopping" — perhaps trading some handloom woolen cloth for a supply of salt, dried chilis or onions. Salt is necessary, of course, and chilis are a big part of the desert dwellers' meager but spicy diets. The onions are vital because of a peculiar desert superstition. These largely uneducated villagers believed a desert snake will crawl onto their beds at night and breathe poison into their nostrils. Onion is supposed to drive away these snakes, so the villagers eat raw onion just before going to bed. And they place onions on the four corners of their beds. One well-dressed government official in Phalodi, a mud-brick oasis city of 25,000, said he didn't believe in the superstition, that a doctor had told him the desert snake was nonpoisonous. He still eats onions the last thing at night "just out of habit."

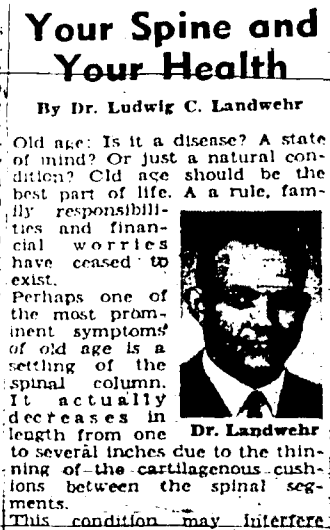

At one edge of Bap is a 20-foot earth dike designed to catch and hold every drop of runoff water from the few rains that do come. No farming is permitted in the catchment basin behind the dike. V. A. Mathur, block development officer at Bap, says the area has had a severe drought for three years and that the tank is less than half normal depth for this time of year. If the drought does not break soon the villagers will be forced to migrate with their sheep and goats to areas where they can find water, he adds. Further out in the desert is the town of Nure-Ki-Burj, virtually deserted as a result of the three-year dry spell. Those who have stayed behind don't have wheat to make chapatis, a pan-cake-like bread and the principal item in their diet. So they make chapatis from bajra, a coarse grain, and even from ground-up watermelon seeds. In another drought-stricken village, Rameri, the government has started a relief project. The village men are paid two rupees or 41 cents a day to dig a community well. The men were down about 10 feet and one official estimated it would take two years to reach the 300 to 400 foot level where water might be found. Nine men and boys were at work, taking turns with two picks, one shovel and two pans for hauling dirt from the hole.

Your Spine and Your Health

By Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr
Old age: Is it a disease? A state of mind? Or just a natural condition? Old age should be the best part of life. A rule, family responsibilities and financial worries have ceased to exist. Perhaps one of the most prominent symptoms of old age is a settling of the spinal column. It actually decreases in length from one to several inches due to the thinning of the cartilaginous cushions between the spinal segments. This condition may interfere with the flow of energy, supplied by the spinal nerve to the various organs and parts, greatly diminishing their efficiency. Spinal manipulation and adjustments as performed by your Chiropractic Physician together with proper nutritional supports and guidance are of great assistance to avoid diseases peculiar to the aged. (One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific Chiropractic, written by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, whose office is located at 717 Main St., Twin Falls, Idaho. Tel. 735-0522.)

Ship Brings Heartache and Disillusionment for Briton

By GEOFFREY MILLER
LONDON (AP) — Some day your ship will come in. When it comes, it may bring you a cargo of disillusionment and heartache. That's the lesson learned by some Britons who have hit the jackpot on the soccer pools and become rich overnight. Take Vivian Nicholson, 29-year-old former movie usherette. Her ship came in four years ago. Her husband Keith, a miner, filled out his pools coupon correctly and won $126,495. Four years of fun, and now the spurge is over. Nicholson is dead, killed in a crash in the $5,600 car he bought out of his winnings. And Mrs. Nicholson — the gay and pretty blonde who announced in 1962 that she was going to "spend, spend, spend" — is trying to find a job. She says her husband's will leaves her broke — at least by the standards she has been used to for the last four years. She says it will give her $25 a week to live on. In four years, the Nicholsons spent $196,000. Before they hit the jackpot, they lived in municipal housing in Leeds at a rent of $5.43 a week. Nicholson earned $56 a week in the pits. They bought a luxury bungalow for $47,000. They had two cars, two television sets. Night after night, they gave expensive parties. Every morning the postman brought a bagful of anonymous letters — letters that turned the Nicholsons' life into a nightmare. There were begging letters, letters of hatred and malice from envious people who had no money of their own. Out of the money that was left when Nicholson died, $107,113 went to the government in death duties. The remainder is invested. Half is being held in trust for the three children and Mrs. Nicholson gets her modest weekly income, millions of Britons fill out the coupons and hope for a fortune. The biggest prizes are won by predicting the tie games in the British soccer program on Saturday afternoons. The pay-outs vary in size according to how much money has been staked and how many bettors get the forecasts right. The biggest ever prize was $964,640 last September — but 43 people shared that one. If only one person has an all-correct forecast, it could mean a prize of $700,000 or more. But most Britons who fill out the coupons each week and wait for a fortune to drop into their laps don't dream of the heartaches that can follow. Esther Bainbridge is a disillusioned pools winner. She and her husband Alan hit the jackpot in 1959. They went to live in a luxury house at Virginia Water, London's picturesque stockbroker belt. But it's all over now. After 33 years of marriage, Bainbridge drove off in his limousine one day and never came back. He left a note. "I'm sorry," was all it said. Bainbridge was a $28 a week clerk before his ship came in. He and his wife used to stop for a cup of tea and a bun at a roadside cafe. They shared a pools investment each week with the other customers — and hit the jackpot. Now the house at Virginia Water has been sold. Mrs. Bainbridge, 58, has gone to live with her sister. She summed up her six years of luxury and disillusionment: "I suppose we made a mistake in going to live at Virginia Water. The neighbors were not our kind of people."

Some pools winners are more cautious and play it quietly. Last month Frank Wall, a 62-year-old bakery worker, won one of dreamland's biggest windfalls — $770,658 — and took it calmly.

Elmore 4-H Talent Show Set April 23

KING HILL — A talent show, sponsored by the Elmore County 4-H Council, was announced by Kenneth Jones, when the King Hill Grange met last week. The show will be held April 23 at the Glenns Ferry School gymnasium with proceeds to go to the 4-H Camp near Ketchum. Women of the Grange are asked to bring six cakes. Jones reported on the Grange proposal to establish a fire district here in King Hill. He said the Glenns Ferry City Council favors helping the King Hill Community form a fire district. Joe Young, who acted as master of ceremonies, requested that Rodney Rubery, master of the Grange, pick a committee to work on the project. Jones also met with the Glenns Ferry school board in regard to the school bell that is left in the vacant school building, and the board said that bids on the bell will have to be let, in order to sell it as it is school property. The King Hill people feel the bell should be left in King Hill as it was a gift to the school in 1910. Jones also reported on the educational program of the community, because of the absence of Mrs. Rodney Rubery, chairman of the program. Arthur Greer gave a report of the resolutions studied. One of the tax structure was rejected by the Grange, one on transportation of grain in Northern Idaho was tabled and the third, relative to brand inspection laws, was approved. Mrs. R. I. Barnes was elected as lady assistant steward and Jack Craig was elected assistant steward because of the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Anderson. Kenneth Jones installed the new officers, assisted by Mr. Cecil Bott and Frank Jones. Joel Young, lecturer, was in charge of an Easter program. The Grange will meet at their first meeting in May at 8:30 p.m., instead of at 8 p.m., as it has been during the winter.

Conclave Set

RUPERT — Fifth district American Legion convention will be held Sunday in the Rupert Legion Hall. Sessions begin at 2 p.m. The auxiliary will meet in the Odd Fellows hall. A banquet will be held in the IOOF hall after the separate business meetings. Department officers for both the Legion and auxiliary are expected to attend.

OVERALL PROPOSED NAWAPA project is shown in this map of Canada, the United States and part of Mexico. The series of dams, tunnels and lifts would form many great reservoirs and this water, planners say, would even be used to maintain level of Lake Superior and others of the Great Lakes. Sen. Frank E. Moss, Utah, is chairman of a special committee investigating feasibility of the project. He has recommended to President Johnson that it be given study.

Proposed $100 Billion Water Plan Would Flood Sawtooth Valley Section

(Continued from page 19) This reservoir would impound water which would lap at the base of the north side of Galena Summit. At this point a huge tunnel would be constructed, going under the summit mountains, under the Sun Valley Ketchum area and surfacing about 50 miles south of those communities and in the present desert area. From this surfacing point the water would travel by what would be known as the Great Basin Waterway to a point somewhere in the vicinity of Raft River where the Snake River would be crossed and the flow would continue south toward portions of Utah and through Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico and into Mexico. The Salmon area, according to maps provided by Sen. Moss and two of which are reproduced in connection with this article, would be "gathering point" for water coming from several directions and sources. Although nothing has been said, a study of the maps indicates that the project, if completed would result in the flooding of Upper and Lower Stanley, the lakes further up the valley including Little Redfish and Redfish, and the summer home and outdoor areas up and down the entire section of the state. Sen. Moss is frank in saying that opposition has been heard but that generally, residents of the United States and Mexico are favorable to such a project. It has been Canada which has cast doubts because the water would come from that area.

However, Sen. Moss said, even Canada is now showing signs of being interested in such a project and some high government officials have come out for such a program. Canada would be paid for the water which rises in that nation. Some backers of the plan point out that even now the Viet Nam war is costing about $10 billion a year and that 10 warless years, with expenditures as they are now going, would more than pay for the contemplated project. Sen. Moss declares that the time has passed "during which this problem (lack of water) can be solved through traditionally local or piecemeal approaches. The solution must be equal in magnitude the problem."

The entire proposal is predicated on the utilization of only that water which now, or in the foreseeable future, is going unused. Total drainage areas involved in the plan represent approximately 1,300,000 square miles with a mean annual precipitation of about 40 inches. Of an average runoff of 663 million acre-feet of water, approximately 110 million acre-feet, or less than 20 percent of the total flows of the basins, are withdrawn by the plan for irrigation, industrial and municipal uses. The long-range plan to collect water and redistribute it to the water-poor areas has as its heart a 500-mile long storage reservoir at an elevation of 3,000 feet in Canada in what is known as the Rocky Mountain Trench. It is claimed the project would generate its own power for the necessary pumping stations and a salable access would be available. At today's competitive prices it is estimated that the system would produce income in excess of $4 billion annually from the sale of power at the bus bar and water at the ditch-side. It would provide a navigable waterway from Vancouver on the Pacific to Lake Superior. It would also deliver irrigation water to the northern plains from Alberta to South Dakota. It also claimed that it would conserve water sufficient to irrigate 85,300 square miles, equal to a 35-mile-wide strip extending 500 miles into the Canadian agricultural belt, traversing the width of the United States and extending 200 miles into Mexico for a total length of 2,500 miles. Benefits claimed for NAWAPA would be many, not the least of which would be financial. Thirty-three states in the United States, seven provinces and one territory in Canada and the three northern states of Mexico would directly benefit. A project of this magnitude, Sen. Morse points out, would materially affect business and labor and the impetus given industry would, both directly and indirectly, accelerate the annual growth of the Gross National Product of all three countries. Tourism would benefit tremendously and money invested in the construction would directly benefit industries such as electrical, construction equipment, copper, cement, aluminum and electronics. "Five years ago," Sen. Moss said, "The Senate Select Committee on National Water Resources, on which I served, warned that this nation must double its supplies by 1980 or we will run out of water. Some people doubted this warning but today some of them, at least, are now convinced that it could happen to them. "We need to find, and quickly, great supplies of clean water. We must manage with far more wisdom than we have thus far shown—the water supplies we now have."

The question of how much the NAWAPA project will cost and who pays for it can only be authorized at this time. Extensive studies of the physical features and of the economic trends of water and power marketing in the different areas are required for reliable estimates. "However," Sen. Moss said, "preliminary estimates are a necessary part of a plan and engineers and economists of the Ralph Parsons Co. have compiled some figures. "Total cost of the North American Water and Power Alliance program would be from $80 billion to $100 billion and would require about 30 years to complete. However, some individual projects could be completed and placed in operation in considerably less time. In connection with the contemplated water project, Sen. Moss has introduced a bill in Congress which would establish the Department of Natural Resources. This department, under Sen. Moss' plan, would transfer into one agency all major natural resource and conservation functions of the federal government. Included in the jurisdiction of the under secretary for Water and Power would be the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation, the civil works functions of the army engineers, the work of the Soil Conservation Service under its watershed program and the water pollution programs of Health, Education and Welfare. Also included in the new department would be the functions of the Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the National Park Service, the Bureau of Interior Recreation, the Bureau of Mines, the Geological Survey and a number of others. "I will recognize the difficulty of combining functions of such diverse departments in one agency," Sen. Moss said. "I feel, however, that major changes must be made in the structure of the executive agencies if we are to properly manage our national resources and particularly our water resources and our public lands." He pointed out that many people agree with him, including Laurance S. Rockefeller, the noted conservationist. Sen. Moss is first to admit that both the NAWAPA project and the proposed new Department of Natural Resources will bring controversy. But all in all the first one—the water project—might someday lead to Idaho being called the "land of lakes" instead of Gem of the Mountains. As a thought, it would mean that boating would be the state's biggest outdoor attraction. It would also mean that a lot of people would have to find a new place to live. You just cannot survive at the bottom of a reservoir, unless you are a fish, that is.

Press Attache Is Favorite Of Morocco Youngsters

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH RABAT, Morocco (AP) — A group of school children squealed with delight at the sight of an American diplomat, "Uncle Awad, Uncle Awad," the kids shouted across the street in Moroccan Arabic. The diplomat smiled and waved. Such acclaim is familiar to Hanna, press attache at the U.S. Embassy in Rabat. For two years, Hanna has conducted a weekly children's program on the state-owned Moroccan television network. This unpaid, voluntary work has made him one of the nation's most popular figures and an effective symbol of American good will in Africa and the Arab world. Hanna has two assets: He has an appealing television personality, and he can speak to Moroccan youngsters in Arabic. He was born near Jerusalem 41 years ago in a well-to-do Arab family reputedly descended from a medieval crusader. He studied at the American University in Beirut, married New Jersey-born Jasmine Moussa in 1945 and became an American citizen in 1949. He worked for the Voice of America in New York, Washington and Cairo and has been assigned to the Rabat Embassy since 1961. The Uncle Awad show was Hanna's idea. He started out giving educational talks on Moroccan television, gradually evolved his own personalized approach to his guidance. Although the country has only 35,000 television sets, his success was startling. An "Uncle Awad's Friends' Club" has nearly 7,000 card-carrying members. Fan mail from children and adults sometimes exceeds 100 letters a day. Thousands of Moroccan children have Uncle Awad's picture pinned over their beds. By public acclaim the show has been expanded from 15 to 30 minutes of prime Saturday evening time. Hanna starts each show with a story, usually containing a moral. Ferdinand the Bull preaches peace. Cinderella pleads for justice. There is no overt propaganda, no politics, virtually no reference to the United States. "I encourage patriotism, love of freedom, respect for the dignity of the individual," Hanna says. "It's a message of peace and good will in the very broadest sense."

The show includes contests, quiz sessions, homemade movies, simple scientific experiments, party games. The winning entries in an art competition are honored by being screened. Part of every program is devoted to answering viewers' letters. In addition to the Uncle Awad show, Hanna gives poetry readings in a late show for adults, using his full name. He reads his Arabic translations of American and British poets and some of his own works. "It's hard work, but it's immensely stimulating and worth while," he says. "The returns have been tremendous." Despite the nonpolitical nature of his television work, Hanna has acquired an influence rare among foreign diplomats. Moroccan officials, editors and broadcasters often call him privately to ask for his guidance on a variety of problems ranging from racial integration to the Viet Nam war. This influence — as much as the programs themselves — infuriates Moroccan leftists.

Townsend Pension Scheme of $200 Dwarfed by Present $3,000 Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Dr. Francis E. Townsend, an obscure California physician, urged the government to give every old person $200 a month he was hailed as a crackpot. Now 33 years later, highly placed experts, including some advisers to President Johnson are willing to listen to another share-the-wealth proposal: that the government guarantee every family of an income of at least $3,000 a year. There are sharp differences, of course, between the Townsend pension scheme and the guaranteed-income idea. But they both stem from dreams of a society in which all people can live decently. And both, in their different ways, are part of a great social revolution that has changed American life with such things as Social Security, Medicare, federal aid to education and other government welfare schemes.

The Townsend plan so frightened politicians that it is credited with hastening the beginnings of the Social Security System in America. So, too, the growing talk of a guaranteed income, if it does nothing more, may spur efforts to create Social Security benefits in the 1960s and 1970s. Higher benefits are constantly being talked, President Johnson said last month that he has asked for a government study of how to make them more adequate. He added: "I want these proposals to be ready to present to the next Congress."

The Townsend plan sprang from the depths of the Great Depression, when poor folks, especially if they were old or sick, really had things bad. Its founder was Francis Everett Townsend, a physician in Long Beach, California. One morning in 1933, while he was shaving, he happened to look out his bathroom window. He saw three haggard, stooped old women out there, ransacking trash barrels. The sight and its implications enraged him. I began to swear. Townsend swore so loudly his wife was afraid the neighbors might hear. The doctor said he didn't care, that many would hear him in time. Many did. By 1936, there were thousands of Townsend Clubs organized to press for pensions for old folks. Townsend claimed millions of followers. The Townsend idea was to finance the pensions with a tax on business transactions. Those old people given the $200 a month would be required to spend it all within 30 days. The theory was that this would circulate money so fast that prosperity would bloom. Townsend's economics were generally considered so weird as to threaten chaos and government bankruptcy. His dream never came true.

Whereas the Townsend plan was born of poverty, the new guaranteed annual income plan, to insure that no family suffers from poverty, springs into prominence at a time of national affluence. Its backers argue that it is shameful that the "haves" in a prosperous society should tolerate poverty for the "have nots," even a comparative few. The chief spokesman for the government-guaranteed income is Robert Theobald, a British economist. He has won considerable backing in this country in the last three years. The chief opposition to the idea, repeated over and over again in letters to congressmen and in the public prints, is based on the feeling that a man should not be paid for not working.

President Johnson sent to Congress in January a report of his Council of Economic Advisors, which said, among other things, that the guaranteed income idea is worthy of further study. "Such a system," the President's economists said, "could be integrated with the existing income tax system. It could be administered on a universal basis for all the poor and would be the most direct approach to reducing poverty." A week later a presidential commission made the guaranteed annual wage one of its recommendations, to replace present welfare programs. The guaranteed proposal could cost up to $20 billion a year, and one commission member, Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers Union, said he fears the report will gather dust in Congress because of the rising costs of the war in Viet Nam. The White House does not appear to be pushing the idea, but does seem glad to have it thrown out for discussion. Steady escalation in scope and cash has been the story of Social Security since the beginning, three decades ago, of the second great American revolution, the social revolution. Up until the Depression, the prevailing opinion, even among some presidents, was that the federal government had no responsibility in the field of public welfare. In 1933, however, under President Franklin D. Roosevelt's leadership, Congress passed the Federal Emergency Relief Act which provided direct grants to states to help relieve unemployment. Two years later Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act on August 14, 1935. In the beginning, old age insurance was limited to about 60 percent of the labor force. Thirty years later, more than 80 percent of all people now working can count on getting benefits. Thirty years ago there was terrific opposition to the whole idea of Social Security, including the argument that Americans were being put on the dole. However, President Roosevelt's triumphant re-election in 1936 when he carried all but two states, helped nail down the political wisdom of at least some degree of Social Security under federal direction. President Johnson sees much to be done in social legislation, defined as working toward protection against insecurity, want and disease. Johnson's goals are embraced in his Great Society concept, which he has defined as the time of "the great American breakthrough toward the victory of peace over war; toward the victory of prosperity over poverty; toward the victory of human rights over human wrongs; toward the victory of enlightened minds over darkness."

Busy Queen Elizabeth Reaches Age When Women Watch Weight, Wrinkles

LONDON (AP) — Next Thursday Queen Elizabeth II reaches the age of 40 — an anniversary on which most women come to terms with their face and figure.

There are indications that the second Elizabeth Regina has already come to terms with hers. She diets and tints her hair, but ignores faint wrinkles creeping into one of the world's best known faces.

She will be so busy on her 40th birthday that there should be little time for intimate reflection.

By coincidence the new Parliament, its House of Commons chosen in the March 31 elections, convenes Thursday — and by law the queen opens Parliament.

She will breakfast with her husband, Prince Philip, put on one of her fanciest dresses, slip into some priceless jewelry, get under a diamond-studded tiara, enter a lavishly decorated carriage and be towed by a team of high-stepping horses to the Houses of Parliament.

Londoners will see the queen smiling and waving from her coach, the mounted bodyguard with its gleaming swords and breastplates and plumed helmets, the outriders in all their gold and crimson finery, while trumpets blare.

From Hyde Park, less than a quarter of a mile from her palace residence, a troop of the Royal Horse Artillery will serenade her with an explosive 41-gun salute.

After the queen opens Parliament — with all the ceremonial trappings at which the British excel — she will return to the palace for a birthday lunch. There likely will be toasts in the queen's favorite light, white wine.

In early afternoon the queen will leave London to keep one of the happiest dates on her yearly calendar — the Badminton horse trials.

The queen will also open a new research center at the Wild Fowl Trust's establishment at Slimbridge, Gloucestershire.

Thus there should not be a great deal of time for the queen to contemplate what it means to be 40.

In terms of the queen what does it mean?

Her diet has paid off in an almost girlish figure with a narrow waist, slim hips and prettily tapered legs.

Some fashion writers criticize her clothes, others complain that her stride is not regal. Her defenders say this is nit-picking — that she dresses exceedingly well, especially for a person who lives in the white light of publicity, and dresses to please people of all ages as well as her husband and family.

She looks best in ball gowns and sport clothes, and not so good in short evening gowns.

Her small face looks strained at times and even tired. She is still shy and during some emotional moments — particularly at royal weddings — her pretty face can look stern and even angry. Those who know her well blame this on nerves. They say she has a delightful sense of humor — in strictly private company.

She is an exceedingly hard worker and one who works for long hours, for there is no trade union for queens.

She spends most weekends 20 miles from London at Windsor Castle, her summers at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. The rest of the time she is generally at Buckingham Palace, where her day begins with breakfast with Prince Philip. Together they spend more than an hour with the youngest of their four children.

Prince Charles, 17, is at school in Australia. Princess Anne, 15, attends a boarding school in nearby County Kent. Those at home are Prince Andrew, 6, and Prince Edward, 2, last month.

After the hour with the children, the queen retires to her study and begins her work day by reading the newspapers. After this she and her secretary, Sir Philip Adeane, discuss the order of the day.

At 11:15 she begins her daily audience with ambassadors, prelates and visiting royalty.

Then come the government boxes — big oblong leather-covered boxes crammed with official documents. The queen spends much time with these, making her one of the world's best informed women on foreign and diplomatic matters.

Her daily lunches are three-course affairs in the palace's gold room on golden dishes and with golden knives, forks and spoons.

Her afternoons and evenings are packed with all sorts of official functions — opening hospitals, dedicating this museum and that art center and snipping ribbons across the portals of new arches and bridges.

Into this crowded life she finds time to shop for birthday and Christmas presents for members of her family and friends.

She attends church every Sunday.

Some Britons say the nation expects too much of the queen, that she should be allowed to slow down. Friends say she would be the last to ever suggest this.

Plant Fund Levy Vote Is Set May 24

RUPERT — Minidoka County school trustees report an election will be held May 24 on a proposed plant facilities fund levy of 10 mills for a period of 5 years, school officials announced Friday.

The proposed levy would allow for such needed improvements as minor remodeling at nearly all of the present school facilities, improved heating plants at Pershing, Heyburn, Pioneer and Acequia schools.

Also planned necessary improvements at the high school in the vocational, science and physical education divisions, building up of playgrounds and parking lots, additional school buses and other equipment, as well as site acquisitions for future buildings.

It was noted the advantage of such a levy is that it involves no interest and would retire at approximately the same time the present bonds retire, for any future buildings.

If the levy is approved it will replace the present two-mill levy and it is possible the present 10 mill levy can be decreased one and one-half mills due to increased evaluation, thereby making an actual increase of six and one half mills in tax levy, officials said.

A summer maintenance program has also been outlined for the schools with an addition to the septic tank at the high school, improvement of the heating plant at Pershing, and possible replacement of lighting for the high school football field.

Officials noted that the light poles have deteriorated so badly that electricians refuse to climb them for servicing. The poles are the old ones which were moved to Minico from the old Rupert High school field. Estimated cost of new poles and lights is about $8,000.

ETHEL KAUTZ has been at the job of teaching for a total of 43 years—all but two of those years being in the Twin Falls school system. During all that time she has taught first grade or junior high school age students. She admits she likes teaching in junior high best, but adds that she has enjoyed both age groups down through the years. (Times-News photo)

WOMEN IN PROFESSIONS . . .

Ethel Kautz Avers Today's Students Read Better Than Their Parents Did

In spite of all the furor generated in recent years that "Johnny can't read," Ethel Kautz firmly believes that the majority of the pupils today are far better readers than those of a generation ago.

Miss Kautz should know what she is talking about, because she could easily be classified as an authority on the subject. She has taught for 43 years—41 of those years in the Twin Falls system—and she has always taught reading.

By conservative estimate, more than 3,850 students have gone through her classes, divided along the line of 3,150 of junior high age and 700 of first grade age.

Her declaration that today's youngsters are better readers does not imply, she points out, that there is nothing more to be accomplished.

"Far from it," she said during an interview in her classroom at the O'Leary Junior High School. "The widespread focus on reading is fine and has brought many improvements and will continue to do so."

As her 43rd year of teaching draws to a close—the local schools will close for summer vacation on Friday, May 27—she can look back over a long time at a job she still loves.

"To me there is nothing to compare with teaching," she related. "To be given the privilege of working with children is highly interesting and challenging. I am sure I have learned as much or more from them than they have learned from me."

Miss Kautz, who admits she has had opportunities to marry but "just never got around to it," was born at Ponca, Neb., a small town on the banks of the Missouri River.

Her father was a farmer. There were three boys and three girls in the family. The other two girls are still living and both were teachers. One, Rena, once taught at the Bickel School in Twin Falls.

Miss Kautz went through the first eight grades at Ponca and then entered high school in Twin Falls when the family moved here. The Ponca school was small, but not a one-room affair. There were teachers for every grade.

The most important thing she remembers about the grade school years is that when Ponca started a library she had card number one.

When the family moved to Twin Falls she entered high school, which, at that time, was in the same building in which she now teaches.

"Seems as though I'm in a rut," she laughed. "After all these years I'm still in the same building."

She was graduated here with the class of 1919, attended two years of college at San Jose State in California and finished up at San Francisco State, getting her degree in education.

Her first teaching job was with a first grade class at the old Bickel School, but her class was located in one of the two old frame buildings which were located behind the school property.

After about five years there she transferred to Washington School first grade and remained there for another 15 years.

After this total of 20 years in first grade teaching she made the jump to junior high classes and has taught all three grades there in special reading. This past year she has taught seventh grade classes exclusively.

During her teaching career she taught one year in Oregon and one in California, "but I just couldn't get Idaho out of my mind and so I came back and have been here ever since."

If she could go back and start all over again, she admits, she would still want to be a teacher.

"Even as a little girl I had that in mind and it seemed that it is just the natural thing to do," she said. "Sure I'd do it again. It is a rewarding profession."

Asked about her activities during the summer vacation, she admitted that she liked fishing best of all.

"And I plan to do something along that line this summer," she said.

During her teaching career she has been active in various educational groups, including the Idaho Educational Association, the National Education Association, the International Reading Association and Alpha Delta Kappa, the national honorary teachers' sorority.

She also is active in PTA work and says that through this organization she many times meets her former students and

Guilty Plea Withdrawn

John Riley Hansen, charged in connection with the rape of two girls last fall, entered District Court Friday and withdrew a plea of guilty which he entered last month.

Hansen, Niel Howard, and Al finds she is now teaching their children.

"Sometimes a former student will come up to me and ask if I remember him. Most times I do not, of course, because there is quite a change between first grade and adult life," she laughs.

All in all she has enjoyed it. She looks forward to another vacation period, but when the bells ring next fall she should be at the same stand.

den Hansen, originally charged with five counts of rape and one count of an infamous crime against nature, entered a plea of guilty to one charge of rape in District Court last month, and the other five charges against the trio were dropped by Judge Theron Ward.

In changing his plea from guilty to not guilty, Hansen also dismissed his attorney, Emil Pike. He said in a letter to the prosecuting attorney that he no longer desired the services of Pike.

At the same time, Pike filed a petition for withdrawal from the case, stating he desired to do so because his client had refused to follow his counsel.

The other two men have allowed their pleas of guilty to stand and are awaiting results of a pre-sentencing investigation.

Hansen is now awaiting trial

Orson Wells Is Portrayed as Man With Three Different Roles in Life

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
LONDON (AP) — British critic Cyril Connolly once said that inside every fat man there is a thin man trying to get out. Inside Orson Wells there are three men trying to get out: an actor, a producer-director and a sophisticated man-of-the-world.

Welles the actor is at present in London playing a villain in the movie "Casino Royale," based on the first of the James Bond novels. The producers hope it will outspool all the spoofs of the 007 legend.

Welles the producer-director is working over his own script for a film of "Treasure Island," in which Wells the actor will play Long John Silver. He is planning to start production later this year in Spain, where he now makes his home.

Welles has now been around for half a century but, he said in an interview, "I don't like looking back. I am not interested in achievement. I just like to work."

All this morning he had worked hard at the part of Le Chiffre, the French Communist leader and villain of the "Casino Royale" movie. Sitting at the green baize of the baccarat table in the casino setting, surrounded by his team of beautiful girls, he looked like a jolly Buddha in a white dinner jacket.

During the lunch hour he took a 55-minute nap. Then he arose and acted through two more takes and, during a break while a new lighting setup was arranged, he settled down to an interview over a roast beef sandwich and a glass of mineral water.

He is a big man, in every way. Dominance comes easily to him — and not only because of his height — 6 feet 3 — or the sheer bulk of the man — he must be more than 280 pounds.

His attitude to what he is and what he does is clearly defined:

300 Youths Attend MIA Blaine Meet

RICHFIELD — About 300 MIA youth and their parents attended the Blaine Stake Standards night at the Richfield Stakehouse last week.

The young people were instructed as to the dress and moral standards of the LDS church by O. G. Stewart, Carey T. Verd Murdock, Carey, the opening prayer, Phyllis Flavel, Richfield, led the theme, and Ralph King, Richfield, was chorister for the opening song with Mrs. Murdock as organist. Penny Sturgeon, Shoshone, sang a solo from the "Sound of Music." Ruth Griggs, Shoshone, was piano accompanist.

Speakers for sectional groups were Dr. Alden Packer, Hailey, Scouts; Robert Carling, Hailey, Explorer Scouts; Mrs. Vernie Byington and daughter, Gannett, and Mrs. Packer, Hailey, Beehive girls; and Mrs. Murdock, Mary Murdock, and Mrs. Richard Sorenson, Shoshone, MIA Maids and Laurels.

FINISHES TRAINING

RUPERT — Pvt. Merdin J. Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Jensen, 1016 2nd St. Rupert, has completed advanced infantry training plus a week of guerrilla warfare training at Ft. Polk, La.

He acts to make money to help him direct and produce and write his own films.

"My problem really is how to raise money for the sort of movies I want to make and still retain creative control," he says. "That sort of money is hard to find. When people start putting up a big bankroll to finance a film they want to be able to pull all the strings."

During the morning one of the gimmicks devised for the movie had failed to come up to expectations. Director Joe McGrath had flung the offending prop into a far corner of the stage and he and Welles improvised their way around it.

He was asked if he often improvised when he was working as an actor.

"Most actors don't get enough opportunity to improvise," he said. "They are not encouraged to improvise. But then the movie they make these days don't call for much improvisation. Improvisation really belongs in comedies, and they don't seem to make many comedies."

At 16, according to Michael MacLiammoir, the Irish actor, Welles "knew that he was precisely what he himself would have chosen to be had God consulted him on the subject at his birth; he fully appreciated and approved what had been bestowed, and realized that he couldn't have done the job better himself."

In 1929, his father died — his mother had died previously — and a few years later Welles left the United States bound for Ireland and the life of a painter. Instead at 16 he had established himself as an actor at Dublin's Gate Theater. Then began some European travels. He returned to the United States in 1933 at the invitation of Katharine Cornell to tour with her as Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet" and Marchbanks in "Candida." Within a year he had appeared on Broadway and married Virginia Nicholson, the first of his three wives. He divorced her in 1940 and married Rita Hayworth who divorced Welles in 1947. In 1955 he married Paoula Mori with whom he now lives in a big house on the northern outskirts of Madrid. He had one daughter by each wife.

In 1937, Welles opened the Mercury Theater in New York with his dynamic, modern-dress version of "Julius Caesar." Triumph set him, as always, to experimenting in another medium. This time he turned to radio, first as an actor in a series called "The Shadow" with Agnes Moorehead, later as producer — director of the Mercury Theater of the Air. In 1938 came the famous "War of the Worlds" broadcast that sent the citizens of New Jersey heading for the hills and the people of New York praying in the streets.

"For a couple of days I was the archvillain of American history," Welles recalled. "But after a couple of days, when the tension had worked off, the public seemed to see the funny side of it and the curse was off me, although I wasn't exactly a hero."

In 1939, having dominated radio, Welles moved on — this time to Hollywood, taking his Mercury players with him. There Welles produced, wrote, directed and acted in his first movie, "Citizen Kane" — one of the most influential films ever to come out of Hollywood.

Over the succeeding years he made a few sensational thrillers and turned up in various screen epics. Then came a new medium for Welles to try his hand at — television. He tried it, but not very successfully.

Plane Crash Keeps War From Ending

DOLA HILL, Zambia (AP) — Some scraps of rusting metal, a few broken, fire-blackened trees, a pile of white rock and thousands of black-and-white butterflies. These mark the site where Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, died in an airplane crash nearly five years ago.

The butterflies, which breed profusely in the quiet woods on Dola Hill, carpet the dusty, pot-holed road which leads to a simple monument. They are rarely disturbed by car or visitor.

The lonely pile of rock perpetuates the memory of a man who died trying to bring about the end of the bloody war which then raged in the Congo.

Weeds and grass grow from the base of the memorial, a simple white stone affair, where the butterflies settle and the odd snake slithers by. Streams of tropical black ants scurry around. No flowers grow on the dusty site and few birds sing.

Hammarskjold's plane crashed September 18, 1961, slashing a path through dense woods before piling up in a mass of twisted metal and flames.

A few miles away at Ndola Airport, Moise Tshombe, fighting to free Katanga Province from the Congo, waited for a meeting of reconciliation with the United Nations chief — a meeting which might have terminated the savage Congo upheaval. Hammarskjold was never to keep the appointment. From the smouldering wreckage his body was taken to the tiny Ndola church. A sad-faced Tshombe tiptoed in to lay a wreath and pay his last respects to a man who was no longer his enemy.

Rumors swept Leopoldville and Ndola that the secretary-general's plane had been shot down by Tshombe's white mercenary air force. They were disproved. A human error had snuffed out the life of a man most likely to bring an end to the Congo conflagration.

The war continued for another three years.

The little pile of white quartz rock, bleached by tropical rains and sunshine, looks small and insignificant. Some of the rare sight-seers have scrawled their names across the tarnished plate which bears the inscription: "Site of Hammarskjold plane crash September 18, 1961."

Just a few miles from Dola Hill lies the Congo, still simmering with tribal and political discontent. Many of its leading actors during the bloody post-independence years are either dead or deposed.

Sometimes the quiet of Dola Hill is shattered by the roar of British jet fighters painting the sky with vapor trails, patrolling Africa's new trouble spots — black-ruled Zambia and Ian Smith's white-dominated Rhodesia.

BY FRANK SCHELL

QUANTITY OF $2 bills picked up at local banks by Frank Schell are shown in this picture. Because these bills bear old dates of issue it indicates, he states, that this bill must be quite common. (Times-News photo)

Two Cent Piece (1864-1873)

THIS COIN, a two-cent piece, was the first to bear the motto "In God We Trust." These coins, even in fine condition, do not command more than $5 each because there were many minted and many have been saved. (Times-News photo)

First question this week comes from A. R. L., Twin Falls, and reads: "I got some $2 bills in change the other day—and one of them is dated 'Series of 1928G' in the left hand lower corner—the other is dated 'Series 1953,' but the date is on the right hand side. Is this a misprint? Is it worth a lot of money? and are $2 bills scarce? I hardly ever see one."

Answer: The 1928G $2.00 bill was the last of the series which carried the date in the left hand corner—beginning with the 1953 series, the date location was changed. I am sorry to disappoint you, but it is not a misprint, and worth little over face value—unless uncirculated

March of Dimes Chapter to Meet

SHOSHONE—Annual meeting for the March of Dimes chapter will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Manhattan Cafe.

Reports of activities of the past year will be given. The nominating committee will report and the executive committee for next year will be elected.

Plans for a county-wide education program on birth defects will be outlined for the coming months. A representative from the state office will be present. Any interested person is invited.

lection of paper money. I myself tried a little experiment on their scarcity. I went to three different banks and bought a quantity of them and out of this group, I found one of each of the dates 1928 C, D, F, G, 1953 and 1953A—in addition to some brand new ones.

Some of these are in poor condition—but they are old dates, and should indicate to you that they must be quite common. (See illustration of bills I got out of circulation.)

An interesting note on $2 bills: A great many of them you find will have a corner torn off—and this is due to an old superstition which once prevailed that they were unlucky, but the bad luck can be overcome by tearing off a corner of the bill and throwing it away. Hence—a great many new bills are spoiled for collecting by this defacement.

While on the subject of paper money: A great many clerks in stores have told me that people are hanging onto the old Silver Certificate, in the belief that it is worth a great deal of money. You are in for a disappointment—unless you are saving brand new, crisp and uncirculated paper, it will never be worth over face value—and even the new ones of the late issues will be many years arriving at a good price—there having been millions of them printed.

Now a question from Mrs. B. P. Burley: "I have a coin which says '2 Cents' and 'United States of America.' It is pretty badly worn on one side—what can you tell me about it?"

Answer: The United States issued a bronze two-cent piece from 1864 until 1872, and some proofs in 1873. They are not hard to obtain in the condition you describe, and are worth somewhere in the neighborhood of fifty cents apiece—depending upon the demand. Even the coins in extremely fine condition do not command much over $5.00 apiece, as a great many of them were minted, and saved.

This coin bears the distinction of being the first one to bear the motto "In God We Trust" (See illustration.) National Coin Week starts this Sunday and continues through next Sunday—try and attend a coin show if you are interested in looking at early coinage.

Scientists Discover Massive Break In Ocean Floor of North Pacific

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Scientists have discovered in the North Pacific a massive break in the ocean floor caused by an undersea upheaval millions of years ago.

The upheaval in the ocean bottom caused a range of mountains over one-half mile high and dropped part of the adjacent bed one-half mile, forming a trough or valley about 15 miles wide. The valley is bordered on one side by the mountain range and on the other by a steep rise of about 1,200 feet. Oceanographers call it a fracture zone.

The discovery is based on work done by the Pioneer, an oceanographic research vessel of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, an agency of the Environmental Sciences Services Administration (ESSA), U. S. Department of Commerce.

The fracture zone lies in the vast area between the Hawaiian Islands and the Aleutians. The 120-mile-long portion of the fracture zone surveyed by the Pioneer begins about 700 miles southwest of Kodiak Island in the Aleutians and there are indications that it continues approximately 800 miles in a northeast direction toward the northern tip of Vancouver Island, British Columbia.

The Pioneer's survey was made over a three-month period during 1963. The ship was then under command of Capt. Edward B. Brown, Now C and GS mid-continent field director at Kansas City, Mo.

Analysis of the data, which required months of intensive study, was made by George Peter and Omar DeWald, research geophysicists of the Institute for Oceanography, the new ESSA component recently formed to conduct a comprehensive research program designed to gain new knowledge of the ocean and its environment. Peter is a native of Budapest, Hungary, and DeWald is from Williamsport, Pa.

Peter and DeWald said the new find is comparable in size to those of other massive breaks in the ocean floor previously discovered. The newly-discovered break is the northernmost of a series of major fracture zones which most likely formed well over 50 million years ago.

They include the Mendocino, Murray and Molokai fracture zones. All are located in the area which extends for about 4,000 miles between the Hawaiian Islands and the Aleutians. The Mendocino fracture zone was the first important discovery of this kind in this area. It was surveyed by the Pioneer and the Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla, Calif., in 1956.

The latest discovery has not yet been named. Peter and DeWald said the mountain range is on the Hawaiian side of the trough, which is located at the edge of a flat rise that extends for miles in the direction of the Aleutians. They added that additional, but much smaller, fractures also found in the area by the Pioneer indicate that the sea bed there is much more broken up than had previously been thought.

The discovery of the new fracture zone is an important result of the Seemap project, an intensive program aimed at mapping the bottom of the seas. Prior to World War II, the bottom of the ocean, which covers 71 per cent of the globe, had been largely a mysterious and unknown realm. It is only since 1945 that the true nature of the ocean bottom, with its hundreds of mountains and mountain ranges, its plateaus and valleys, is becoming known.

The Seemap work is being carried out by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Navy and Coast Guard. The new oceanographic research ships, the Oceanographer and Discoverer, are being added to the C and GS fleet this year and will do much to advance man's knowledge of the ocean bottom, the last cast unexplored area of the earth.

In mapping the ocean floor, oceanographers use highly sophisticated electronic equipment which utilizes sound waves to determine the ocean's depths, the height of mountains, the topography of the sea bed and what lies beneath it, and various other phenomena of the sea.

All Past Presidents of Magic Valley Shrine Clubs Are Honored at Ball

By NORMA HERZINGER

To host a party everyone enjoys is the goal of members of every organization as their big social of the year approaches. Members of the Shrine Clubs throughout Magic Valley, with this thought in mind, put their heads together and came up with a most enjoyable and festive event, the Past Presidents Ball.

All past presidents of the respective clubs, Oasis Shrine Club, Buhl; Twin Falls Shrine Club, Twin Falls, and the Wood River Shrine Club, Jerome, were honored at this joint social sponsored by these clubs.

Shriners and their ladies convened at the Twin Falls American Legion Hall for a cocktail hour and dinner prior to the dance. It was a story of San San who was raised in Communist China and how she along with other classmates, helped with China's agricultural program. The highlight of each year was the Festival of the Eighth Moon, where moon cakes, a delicacy of the Chinese children, were served. San San later escaped to join her parents and two sisters in America.

The author's sketch was given by Mrs. Elden Haskell. Miss Lord is a sister of San San and the family is happily reunited in the United States. Pictures of the family were shown to the group and moon cakes were served.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. A. T. Hull, Mrs. Dorothy Klomp and Mrs. Ila Olsen.

Next month the group will meet with Mrs. Ted Crockett to hear Mrs. LeRoy Arrington review "My Antonia."

Clear Plastic Dresses Make Fashion Scene

PARIS (AP) — A Paris dress designer has come within a whisker of designing himself right out of a job: presenting a line of clear plastic dresses.

"It's a joke," laughs Daniel Hechter, the designer.

"It's a joke," said one of the models.

"Call it what you want," said a male spectator at Hechter's preview show Thursday night. "I think it's terrific."

Hechter, though he insists it's all a joke, plans to sell these dresses for $2 apiece and says he already has some takers.

He has made two concessions to modesty — two horizontal bands of darker colored clear plastic above and below the midriff.

One model had on knee socks. She said they made her feel more covered.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sutton. Eklund, who has worked for the district for 15 years, was presented a friendship gift by Hank Andefberg on behalf of the employees. He is currently employed at Western Seeds Co.

Eight Churches Represented at Board Meeting

Members of the Board of Managers of the United Church Women met at the home of Mrs. Robert Stepanovich for their monthly business meeting. Eight churches were represented.

Mrs. Janice Barton led the group in singing, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Moore. Mrs. George Driver gave the inspirational devotional service "Stand of the Lord," which included the story of the parable "Praying Without Ceasing." Mrs. John Hayes closed the worship period with prayer. Introductions were made and refreshments were served by Mrs. Stepanovich.

Three resolutions that were recommended during the state convention in February were approved. Namely pornography, alcohol for minors and cigarettes for minors.

On pornography, the resolution encourages and supports efforts of local community groups to rid the local newsstands of pornographic and obscene literature that may now be available to children and youth. It urges all parents and organizations to preview and evaluate the movies and television programs which children may watch, and calls on producers of movies, radio and television programs to conform to accepted codes formerly adopted by producers.

On alcohol for minors, the resolution calls upon the state legislators to review and strengthen the laws pertaining to delinquent youth that such laws may be enforced more effectively. It deprecates drinking of beer and cocktails being pictured as the accepted standard and pattern for daily living, and it encourages patrons of publications, television and radio advertising to let their opinions be made known concerning the immoral influence of indiscriminate drinking on children and youth.

On cigarettes and minors, since the state of Idaho has a vending machine law which is accessible to minors, and also that cigarettes are frequently sold to minors, the resolution calls for strict enforcement of the existing law and urges parents to cooperate with the law.

Mrs. Stepanovich reported that the clothing truck will be in Twin Falls between May 16 and 20 and that new and good used clothing should be delivered to the Methodist Church the morning of May 16 by the participating churches.

She related plans for May Fellowship Day set for May 6 at the First Baptist Church. A salad luncheon will be featured at 12:30 p.m.

Officers and committee chairmen were announced. Mrs. James Sharkey is president; Mrs. Fred Moore, vice president; Mrs. Otis Hall, treasurer; and Mrs. Paul F. Mosely Jr., secretary.

Committee chairmen include Mrs. Warren Howell, Christian world missions; Mrs. Stepanovich, Christian social relations; Mrs. Charles Sloan and Mrs. Lincoln Kestner, co-chairmen of migrant projects; Mrs. Richard Barton, Christian world relations; Mrs. Bert Larson, chairman, Myrtle Anderson, Mrs. Otis Hall, Mrs. U. N. Terry, public relations; Mrs. Raymond R. Hatcher, Church Woman magazine; Mrs. Larson, interpreter of fellowship fund; Mrs. Clyde Ewing, welfare; Mrs. Kestner, courtesy, and Marian Turner, resolutions.

Women Travel Rugged Trails To Trap Furs

TORONTO (AP) — Women are usually content to wear fur while men trap it. But there are exceptions — more than 2,000 of them in Ontario.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests says more than 2,000 women travel the rugged snow trails over their trappings in northern forests. They go on foot and canoe, transporting their food and equipment.

Half of the province's 4,000 Indian trappers are accompanied by their wives on the raplines, says J. L. Grew, wild fur management supervisor for the department.

Women trappers excel, however, in the fine: trapping arts—the preparation of the pelts, an important job if top prices are to be obtained during the winter fur auctions.

In 1962, Mrs. June Gilbert of Northwestern Ontario, won the trappers trophy in competition with 2,000 other trappers. She submitted the best bundle of fur, which she trapped and prepared herself. It was the first time the award had gone to a woman.

Mrs. Tempest Benson of Saginaw Lake and Mrs. Lillian Plummer of Gunflint Lake, both over 50, have their winter operations base set up in a cabin on an island wilderness.

April 21 was chosen by the members as a work day. Members will meet at the church to sew clothes for missions.

Installation services were conducted by Mrs. Marjorie Hawes, Twin Falls. The ribbon corsages presented by the outgoing officers to the new officers were made by Mrs. Eschliman.

A report on the startling amount and easy availability of obscene and pornographic literature on the local newsstands, grocery stores and drugstores was given by Mrs. Rudy Ashenbrenner and Mrs. B. L. Kreilkamp, Twin Falls. As a means of combating the influence of this, especially on youth, it was strongly emphasized that the parents should patronize the stores that do not handle it.

Chairmen for the meeting were Mrs. Eschliman, luncheon; Mrs. Florence Baker, table decorations; Mrs. Leo Jankowski and Mrs. Fred Baugh, registration and tickets; Mrs. Joseph Bengoechea, coffee hour; Mrs. George Kimmitt, favors; and Mrs. Joseph Berks, scrapbooks.

Captain EASY

by LESLIE TURNER

ELSIE, YOU SAID EASY WASN'T IN LOVE WITH YOU... ARE YOU IN LOVE WITH HIM?

I'M BEGINNING TO WONDER, PAUL... I ALWAYS THOUGHT LOVE SHOULD BE A MUTUAL SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION!

THAT'S MY PHILOSOPHY, TOO! DO YOU FEEL A TINY SPARK, LOOKING FOR A BONFIRE?

BLAZES! THAT PUMA IS OUT FOR FOOD, TOO...

ELSIE WON'T FORGIVE ME IF I SHOOT THE DEER, RATHER THAN THAT BIG CAT! HMM...

HERE GOES...

THE CRACK OF EASY'S RIFLE SHATTERS THE ICY STILLNESS..

THE DEER GOES DOWN WHILE THE PUMA IS STILL IN MID-AIR....

STARTLED, THE MOUNTAIN LION BOUNDS OFF...

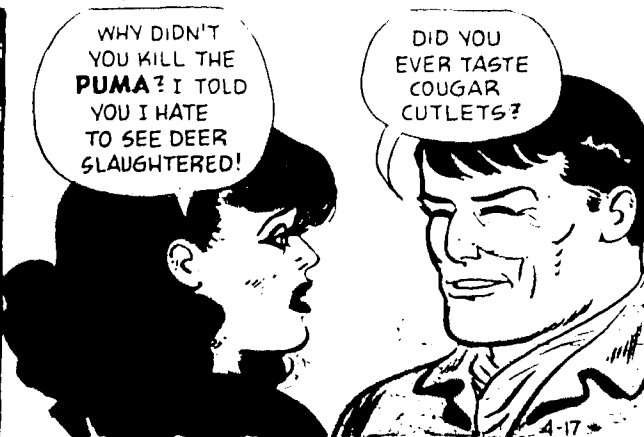

1966 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

AN HOUR LATER

...SO, WE HAVE ENOUGH DEER MEAT TO TIDE US OVER FOR AWHILE! I'LL CUT IT UP IN THE MORNING...

EASY, YOU'RE NOT THE SWEET, GENTLE GUY I THOUGHT YOU WERE!

WHY DIDN'T YOU KILL THE PUMA? I TOLD YOU I HATE TO SEE DEER SLAUGHTERED!

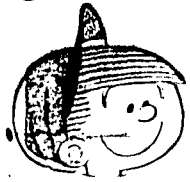

DID YOU EVER TASTE COUGAR CUTLETS?

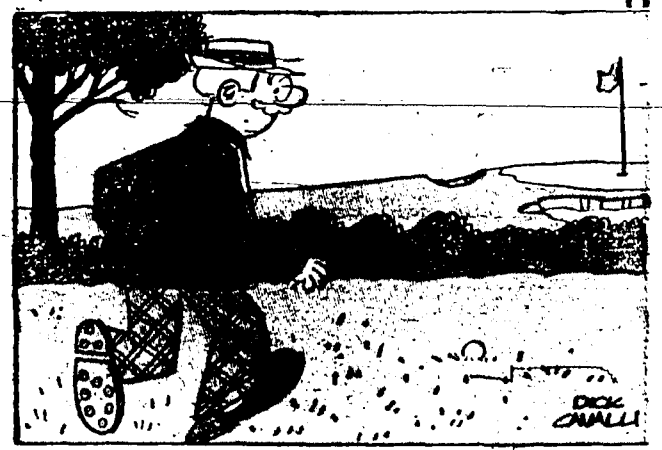

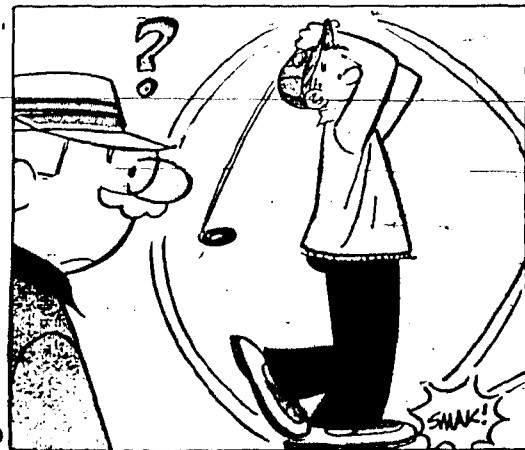

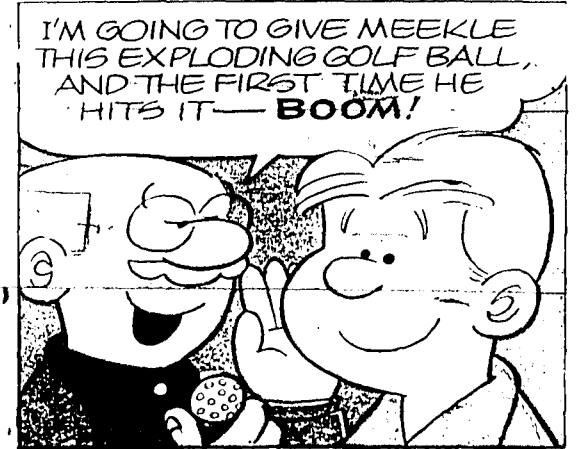

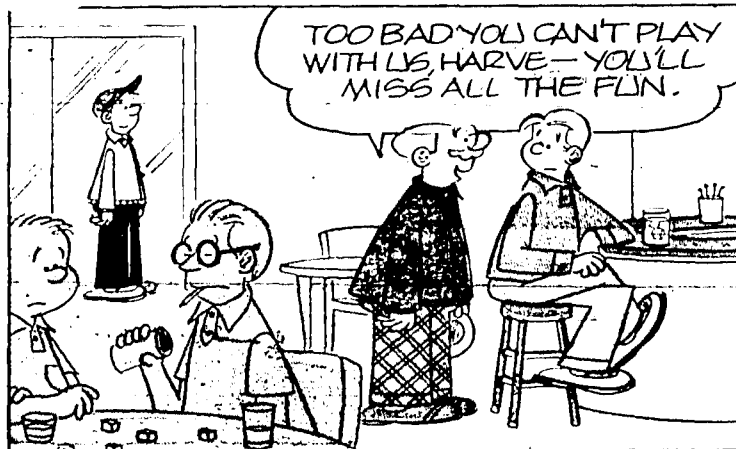

OH! I HATE YOU! I HATE YOU!

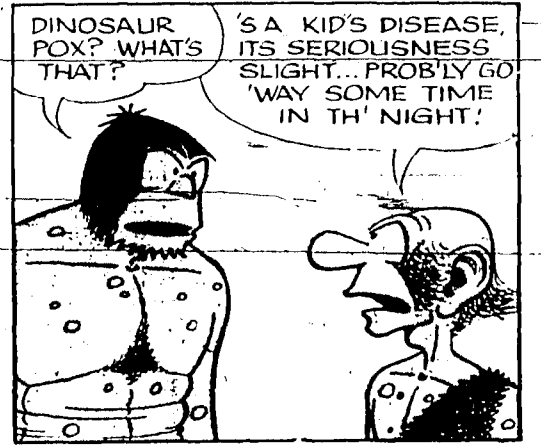

ELSIE, I CAN TELL YOU WHY EASY SHOT THE DEER INSTEAD OF THE PANTHER...

HOW MUCH AM I BID FOR THIS BEAUTIFUL PARROT?
THAT'D BE A GOOD BIRTHDAY PRESENT!! FOR MY BROTHER, I'LL BID TWO DOLLARS.

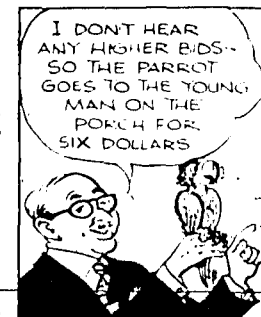

DO I HEAR THREE DOLLARS?
I'LL BID THREE DOLLARS.
I'LL BID FOUR DOLLARS.

DO I HEAR FIVE DOLLARS?
I'LL BID FIVE DOLLARS.

I BID SIX!

I DON'T HEAR ANY HIGHER BIDS-- SO THE PARROT GOES TO THE YOUNG MAN ON THE PORCH FOR SIX DOLLARS.

IT'S A BEAUTIFUL PARROT! TAG WILL BE TICKLED PINK!
GOSH-- BUT I FORGOT TO ASK IF THE PARROT CAN TALK!

SURE I CAN TALK, WHO DO YOU THINK I WAS BIDDING AGAINST YOU?

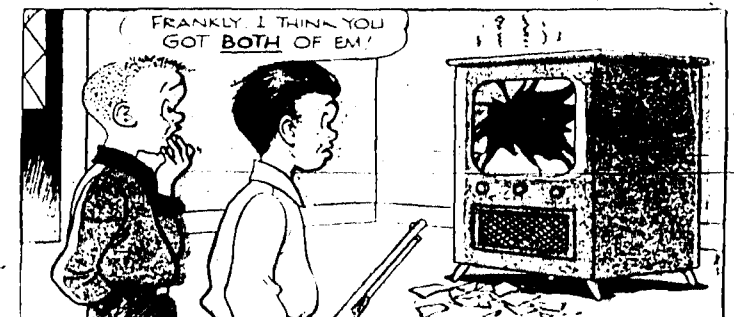

THAT BULLY IS ALWAYS PICKING ON THE LITTLE GUYS!
I CAN'T STAND BULLIES!

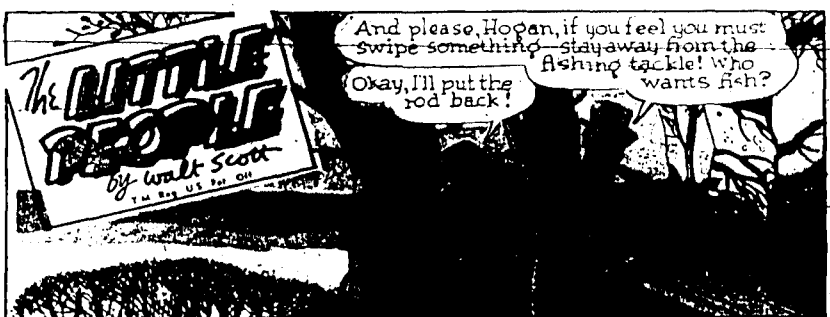

I GOT YOU THAT TIME, YA BIG COWARD!

BANG!

FRANKLY, I THINK YOU GOT BOTH OF EM!

And please, Hopan, if you feel you must swipe something-- stay away from the fishing tackle! Who wants fish?
Okay, I'll put the rod back!

I sure can't figure those town guys! They catch a nice 'big fish' and then they don't want to cook it or eat it!

It's good to get home! How those guys can live in that awful place is beyond me!

Where do you suppose that town pair live?

I feel sorry for them!

What do they find to eat?

How do they keep warm?

Hope that feller next door doesn't find out we've hooked into his outside electric plug!

We'll unplug before he's up! What would like to eat? Soup? Caviar? Canned peaches? You name it-- we have it!
